ENCYCLOPEDIA

First published in 1915, THE INTERNATIONAL STANDARD BIBLE ENCYCLOPEDIA has long been considered a standard among biblical reference works. There are now more than 600,000 ISBE volumes in print.

The full revised edition of this highly acclaimed encyclopedia is the result of a thorough reworking of the classic 1929 edition.

Revised under the editorial direction of Geoffrey W. Bromiley, this latest edition of ISBE contains mostly new material, and the articles retained from the original edition have been either completely updated or wholly rewritten to take into account recent discoveries in archeology and important advances in other areas of biblical scholarship.

Representing the meticulous research of hundreds of contributors from many specialized fields of biblical studies, this edition of ISBE features scholarly excellence along with superior design and typography, making it the ideal reference work for scholars, pastors, Bible students, and all educated Christians.

“ISBE’s quality scholarship, easy readability, excellent photographic

前言

《国际标准圣经百科全书》是一本以《圣经》为基础的研经类百科全书，书中依次阐述了《圣经》中的所有人名和地名，另外还对《圣经》中教义给予了全面深入的解释。这本百科全书收录词条之多，阐述之深刻，研究之广泛，实乃罕见！

然而，如此卓越之作国内尚无人翻译，那些渴望深入了解圣经知识的人们迫于语言上的障碍，只能望洋兴叹。诚然，这样的鸿篇巨著需要耗费大量的人力和物力，而且短期内难以完成，在这样一个注重经济效益的世俗社会，这本百科全书成了无人问津之作，实在可惜！

我们的翻译团队一方面深感任务之艰巨，另一方面为肩负起这样荣神益人的事工而感到万分荣幸。我们深知人的智慧的局限性，也自知翻译团队经验和学识尚浅，尽管如此，在翻译过程中我们竭尽心力，对于原文研精覃思，字雕句琢，尽全力传达原文的精髓，让研经者能体会原书的深意。蒙神的眷顾和祝福，我们的翻译水平日益精进，译文质量逐步提高，我们译完这本百科全书的信心和决心也与日俱增，所有荣耀都归于神！

PREFACE

The International Standard Bible Encyclopedia, popularly known as ISBE, has served the Church well over the past generations. Even in its revised form, however, it has naturally become dated as new work has been done in the text of Scripture and new light has been shed by continuing, and in some cases exciting, archeological discoveries. If not without some trepidation, then, the decision has been made to issue a fresh and more drastic revision of the venerable and still by no means valueless encyclopedia.

The situation in which the new edition has been prepared resembles that of the preparation of the first edition of 1915. The original preface speaks of a plethora of biblical dictionaries at that time, called forth by the remarkable advances and changes in biblical studies. The new ISBE comes on the scene when dictionaries again abound, and one can only repeat the words of our predecessors when they say that "it is in no spirit of rivalry ... that the present Encyclopaedia is produced" but to fulfil what is seen to be the distinctive purpose of serving both the more advanced student and yet also "the average pastor and Bible student."

Friends of the project, and many contributors to it, will realize that this new edition has been in the making for an unusually protracted period. There are two main reasons for the delay. The first relates to the editorial team. All three of the original Associate Editors were lost to us at a formative stage in the work: Professor N. B. Stonehouse of Westminster Theological Seminary, Philadelphia, through death; Professor J.

这本书籍的爱好者以及参与者应该意识到新修订版百科全书的出版延迟了很久。延迟的原因有两点。首先，与编辑团队有关。原来的三位副主编在本书成书阶段离开了团队：费城威斯敏斯特神学院的斯通豪斯教授（N. B. Stonehouse）离世了；匹兹堡神学院凯尔所教授（J. L. Kelso）因病退出；格拉斯哥的汤姆森教授（J. G. S. S. Thomson）迫于其他职责的压力退出了团队。帕萨纳迪城的福乐神学院哈里

L. Kelso of Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, through sickness; and Professor J. G. S. Thomson of Glasgow, through the pressure of other duties. Their places have been ably filled by Professors E. F. Harrison and W. S. LaSor of Fuller Theological Seminary, Pasadena, and Professor R. K. Harrison of Wycliffe College, Toronto, but not without some unavoidable dislocation. On the managerial side, too, the death of Calvin Bulthuis, who played so large a role in the initial planning, proved to be another serious blow, and his immediate successor, John DeHoog, was able to stay with the project for only a relatively brief span. Fortunately the third project editor, Dr. E. W. Smith, has remained long enough to see the revision through to publication. The progress even at this rate would have been impossible without the diligent and intelligent contributions of Editorial Associate Allen C. Myers; Editorial Assistants Nola J. Opperwall and Dr. Ralph W. Vunderink; Illustration, Design, and Production Coordinator Joel D. Beversluis; and Typographer-Typesetter Donald M. Prus.

Changes in the scope of the revision provided the second main reason for the delay of publication. In view of the high esteem in which ISBE has been held, it was felt at first that the bulk of the existing material should be retained in its original format. A good deal of work was done on that premise. Increasingly it became obvious that with the pace and magnitude of biblical and archeological changes, along with the rapid shifts in the political, geographical, and social life of the Near East, more would have to be done, so that a call went out for more articles and contributors. Eventually the editors and publishers were forced to acknowledge, however reluctantly, that a thorough updating of both matter and format constituted the only logical course, so that now, although some of the most durable of the original material remains, the revision has become to all intents and purposes a new, or at least a completely reconstructed, encyclopedia. In this regard the delay has finally been an advantage, for if the work had been rapidly completed according to the original plan, much of it would already be in need of a new updating and all of it would have a decidedly old-fashioned look.

森教授 (E. F. Harrison) 和拉索 (W. S. LaSor) 以及多伦多市威克利夫学院的哈里森教授 (R. K. Harrison) 正好填补了这些空位, 但仍不可避免若干位置上的变换。就管理层来说, 加尔文·波太士在初期管理和规划中占有重要地位, 他的离世再一次给我们带来了沉重的打击, 他的继任者约翰德霍格仅能在短时间内肩负起这个项目的职责。幸运的是, 第三位项目编辑史密斯博士 (E. W. Smith) 从修订到出版一直陪伴着我们。虽然项目进展如此缓慢, 但是如果没有副主编艾伦·C·迈尔斯 (Allen C. Myers)、编辑助理诺拉·J·奥普沃 (Nola J. Opperwall) 和拉尔夫·W·范德比尔特博士 (Ralph W. Vunderink)、插图设计和制作协调员约尔·D·贝弗利 (Joel D. Beversluis)、印刷工兼排版工唐诺德·M·普鲁斯 (Donald M. Prus) 的辛勤和智慧的付出, 连这样的进度都无法保证。

It should be emphasized that, in spite of the necessary changes, ISBE has by no means lost its identity. Many important features have in fact been carefully retained. To begin with, the new ISBE has aimed to be as consciously international as the old. If all the editors reside in North America, the General Editor and one of the Associate Editors come from Britain, and articles have been sought from scholars in many lands. As in the original ISBE, interdenominationalism has been practiced as well as internationalism. Coincidentally, the General Editor and three Associate Editors consist of two Anglicans and two Presbyterians, but contributors from a wide variety of churches combine to make this new edition a truly ecumenical enterprise. Along these lines, separate articles have again been included to represent different views on such matters as church polity and baptism.

Furthermore, great care has been taken to maintain what the preface of the first edition described as the attitude of “a reasonable conservatism.” Freedom has naturally been allowed to individual contributors to express their views on debatable matters. At some points divergent approaches may thus be found. A hearing is also given to hypotheses and theories which cannot finally be adopted. Nevertheless, the general “attitude of mind and heart” is still one “which reverently accepts a true revelation of God in the history of Israel and in Christ.” Indeed, while the high level of biblical scholarship has been retained, some of the unnecessarily mediating views of the first contributors have been eliminated, so that the new edition is, we believe, at once more scholarly and more conservative than its predecessor. This demonstrates the change from an earlier period of sharp confrontation between “criticism” and “faith” to one when the possibility grasped by the original editors has been more fully realized and “reverent criticism” is making a constructive contribution to faith.

材料被保留了下来，但新修订版旨在为大家提供一本新的，至少是全新结构的百科全书。因此，延迟出版最终变成了一件好事，因为，如果按照原计划仓促完成了修订，那么大多数词条都将需要再次更新，书中的所有内容必将呈现出过时的样子。

值得强调的是，尽管《国际标准百科全书》必须进行修订，但完全修订版和原版决不是两本完全不同的书。实际上，许多重要的特征被谨慎地保留下来。起初，我们曾故意仿效旧版百科全书，试图将新版百科全书编辑成国际版。如果所有的编辑者都来自北美，主编和其中的一个副主编来自英国，并搜集来自不同国家的学者编写的词条。就像原版《国际标准百科全书》一样，国际宗派主义和国际主义已经盛行。碰巧的是，主编和三个副主编是由两个英国国教徒和两个长老会教徒组成的，但来自于很多教会的撰述者使这个修订版百科全书真正成为全基督教共同努力的事业。因此，本书再次收录了一些分词条，从而呈现了人们对教会体制和洗礼等问题的不同观点。

As the first ISBE aimed at comprehensiveness, its successor has done the same. In this respect the original articles have served as a useful guide in both selection and execution. Some of them have, of course, been changed in length. Usually, although not uniformly, the change has taken the form of shortening to make way for the new material provided by more recent discoveries and developments. All the same, the principle has not changed. The editors have again sought the “ample and minute” treatment of “History ..., Ethnology, Geography, Topography, Biography, Arts and Crafts, Manners and Customs,” etc. which their predecessors claimed. If there has been one main innovation, it lies in the field of dogmatic history. Accounts of the main developments of thought on such central matters as Christology, election, and inspiration have been added. If more is offered here than a biblical encyclopedia strictly demands, we believe that this added feature should be of help and value to many readers.

It might be noted that, in order to maintain continuity with the past, many articles have been preserved in emended form and a few particularly significant ones have been preserved virtually unchanged. To the latter group belong especially the article on the Bible by James Orr, General Editor of the first edition, and that on inspiration by B. B. Warfield. If in Orr's article the section on the literary origin and growth of the Old and New Testaments needs revision, readers may be referred to the entries under the individual books and still profit from Orr's article, as from that of Warfield, as an evangelical statement of the early 20th century. That Orr and Warfield differed in the nuances of biblical understanding, yet did not see in this a reason for breaking evangelical unity, gives additional value to their representative articles.

Having spoken of the general continuity between the editions, we may speak more briefly of the detailed discontinuity. In one way the greatest single change is the elimination of most of the indexes. Indexes are obviously useful, but in alphabetically arranged dictionaries and encyclopedias they are obviously not essential. Their retention would have added disproportionately to the expense and price of the series. It is mainly for this reason that they have been deleted.

值得注意的是, 为了保持和旧版书的连贯性, 许多词条经修订后保留了下来, 一些特别重要的词条实际上只字未改。第一版《国际标准百科全书》总主编詹姆斯奥尔 (James Orr) 撰写的关于圣经的文章, 以及沃菲尔德 (B. B. Warfield) 撰写的关于默示的文章尤其属于后一种情况。如果奥尔的文章中关于文学起源和两约发展部分需要修订的话, 读者们可以参考各分册中的词条, 并且仍然可以从奥尔的文章中受益, 他的文章是 20 世纪初福音派信徒的声明, 读者们也可以从沃菲尔德的文章中受益。奥尔和沃菲尔德在关于圣经理解上存在细微的差别, 但不能因此说这是破坏福音派信徒团结的一个原因, 这些细微差别赋予他们各自的文章更多的价值。

Of a different order, but possibly even more significant in its own way, is the adoption of the RSV instead of the ASV as the approved English rendering of the Bible. Naturally, an iron rule has not been imposed here. Variants are provided where useful and appropriate. Words from the AV or ASV which have been dropped from the RSV are still listed. It seems, however, that the RSV has now sufficiently established itself, especially in the scholarly world, to justify its general adoption.

Mention need hardly be made of the wholesale replacement of the older maps and illustrations. Even a cursory glance at the earlier editions will show the need for the radical updating which has been done.

Lesser but not unimportant changes have been made in such matters as abbreviations, pronunciations, and schemes of transliteration. The changes here are not just for the sake of change but to bring ISBE into line with generally accepted, although not, of course, definitively established practice in these areas. Details of the adopted schemes will be found in the pages that follow.

Superficially the old ISBE might seem to have been changed beyond recognition by these alterations and datings. Readers will quickly see, however, that this is not so, for the material continuity, represented by the listings, far outweighs the formal discontinuity. The same fulness, authority, and accessibility have been sought in the new ISBE as in the old. Every effort has again been made to produce an encyclopedia that can meet

本修订版采用不同的编排顺序，可能更为值得关注的是，本书使用《修订标准译本》而不是《美国标准译本》中的经文，并将前者作为《圣经》的权威英语译本。这个版本中自然没有遵循一条铁律。本书在需要和恰当的地方会引用不同的经文。本书中仍然给出了《修订标准译本》中删除的《钦定版圣经》或《美国标准译本》中的词汇。然而，《修订标准译本》在学术界似乎已得到充分地肯定并被广泛使用。

大量的旧地图和插图都被替换了，这几乎不值一提。只要读者粗略浏览一下旧版本，就会发现新版本必须彻底更新这些旧地图和插图。

比较重要的改变还包括缩写、发音和音译法。这些不是为了改变而改变，而是为了让新书符合在这些领域中得到普遍认可（虽然尚未确定）的惯例。后文将介绍已采纳方案的细节。

the “exacting requirements” of teachers, students, pastors, and “all others who desire to be familiar with the Holy Scriptures.” We trust that the new ISBE will have the same enduring value and engender the same enduring affection as the old. Above all, however, we trust that it may contribute to a better knowledge, understanding, and love of holy Scripture and thereby bring glory to God and edification to His people, thus fulfilling, in some measure at least, the service which it is our Christian privilege to render.

全书一样，具有经久不衰的价值，并且可以受到读者的青睐。不过，最重要的是，我们相信新版百科全书可以让读者更好地学习和理解《圣经》，并让他们更加喜爱《圣经》，从而荣耀上帝，启迪祂的子民，因此，至少可以完成基督徒独有的事工。

INTRODUCTION

I. Purpose and Scope.-The purpose of this encyclopedia is to define, identify, and explain terms and topics that are of interest for those who study the Bible. Thus it is like the 1915 ISBE in combining the defining function of a dictionary with the encyclopedia's presentation of more comprehensive information, summarizing the state of knowledge about each of its topics and leading the reader to further sources of information and insight.

The entries are of several types. Every name of a person or place mentioned in the Bible has an entry here. Often a person is mentioned only once in the Bible, and the little that can be said about him or her will take only a few lines. Yet it may be helpful simply to know that a passage in question has the only mention of this person, or that the same name in another part of the Bible does refer to a different person. Other persons, however, are more frequently mentioned and have more importance in the biblical story of salvation. In such cases the articles about them are much longer, and may have to gather information from widely scattered parts of the Bible (or even from sources outside the Bible) and summarize the story of that person's life and meaning.

The same is generally true of the names of places. Some remain unidentified, while others have long been known and have been studied by archeological investigation. Some are of little importance, while others played significant roles in the story of God's redemption of His people. Generally, the length of the article reflects the relative

I. 创作的目的和范围。这本百科全书旨在定义、确定和解释那些令圣经学者感兴趣的词语和主题。因此它像1915年的《国际圣经百科全书》那样，将词典的定义功能和百科全书的全面信息展示结合在一起，总结每个主题知识的动态，引导读者追溯信息的来源，并加深他们的了解。

这本书的词条分为几大类。《圣经》中提到的每一个人或地名在本书中都有一个词条。对于那些《圣经》中只提到过一次且与之相关的信息非常少的人名，本书常常只用几行文字进行介绍。读者可能只需要知道有争议的经文段落中提到了这个人，或在其他的经文中这个人表示另一个人。而其他的人物则经常在《圣经》中被提及，他们是圣经救赎故事中更为重要的人物。因此关于这些人的词条解释则长一些，而且可能必须从《圣经》中各个章节（甚至从《圣经》以外的资料中）收集信息，然后总结出这个人的生平和价值。

importance. But sometimes a site receives little space because little is (yet) known about it, while a site of lesser importance may receive longer discussion because of division of scholarly opinion about it, or because archeological study of it gives us information about other sites or about passages in the Bible which do not even mention it. The article on Debir, for example, is longer than its relative importance in the Bible might warrant, because this article includes the several sides of a scholarly debate about its location and identification.

The reader will also find articles on all other terms in the Bible that have theological or ethical meaning, and on expressions that would be puzzling or unclear to the average reader. Thus ISBE is an exegetical tool, providing brief discussion of problem texts under the English keywords and guiding the exegete to further information in other scholarly resources.

The scope of this work also includes articles on the Bible itself, and on the transmission (e.g., text and versions), study (e.g., concordances, commentaries, Bible dictionaries), and interpretation (e.g., biblical theology) of the Bible. The sources of our knowledge about the background of the Bible have seen a steady increase as the result both of systematic pursuit of information, as in archeology, and of accidental discoveries, as of the Dead Sea Scrolls; that increase is reflected here in new articles and longer articles on the subjects that deal with the background of the Bible. This encyclopedia also goes further than others in tracing the development of some of the doctrines (e.g., about the Holy Spirit) and practices (e.g., baptism) that are based on biblical teachings.

读者还可以在本书中找到关于《圣经》中具有神学意义或道德意义的其他词语的词条，还可以找到关于那些令普通读者困惑或难以理解的表述的词条。因此《国际标准圣经百科全书》作为一种解经工具，简明扼要地讨论了以英语关键词为依据的有争议的经文，并引导解经者用其他的学术资料补充信息。

这部作品的范围还包括关于《圣经》的词条，以及关于《圣经》传播（如，抄本和译本）、研究（如，用语索引、注释和圣经词典）和解释（如，圣经神学）的词条。由于知识的系统研究（如，考古）和意外的发现（如，死海古卷），我们关于《圣经》背景知识的来源稳步增多；本书中关于讨论圣经背景主题的新词条和较长词条体现出了这种增长。这本百科全书依据圣经教义，比其他作品更为深入地探索了某些教义（如，关于圣灵的教义）和习俗（如，洗礼）的发展历程。

The treatment of significant names and terms includes those from the writings of the Apocrypha. Even for those who do not accept these writings as canonical, they form an important part of the background of the New Testament, illustrating the development of some Old Testament themes and the introduction of some new ones during the intertestamental period.

Although the titles of articles on biblical terms normally follow the readings of the RSV, the distinctive readings of the AV and the NEB are included, usually as cross-reference entries to the articles that use the RSV forms. This makes the encyclopedia more readily accessible to a wider range of readers.

II. Arrangement.-Articles are arranged alphabetically, according to the following rules: In titles that have several words, the first word receives primary consideration, so that, e.g., BAPTISM OF FIRE precedes BAPTISMAL REGENERATION and BIRTH, VIRGIN precedes BIRTHDAY. All the words of the title, including articles, are alphabetized, so that ACTS OF SOLOMON precedes ACTS OF THE APOSTLES. A hyphenated word is alphabetized as a single word, so that the sequence would be BENAMMI then BENCH then BEN-DEKER, and BITTER WATER before BITTER-APPLES. Apostrophes and commas are not considered, so that BIRDS OF PREY precedes BIRDS, UNCLEAR, CITY, GOLDEN precedes CITY OF CHAOS, and AARONITES precedes

尽管关于圣经词语的词条名通常使用《修订标准译本》中的译法，但是也给出了《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》中的不同翻译，这些不同翻译通常作为《修订标准译本》中对应词条的互参词条。这使更多的读者更乐意使用这本百科全书。

II. 编排顺序。本书中的词条是按照字母顺序排列的，且遵循以下规则：当一个标题中有好几个单词时，主要根据第一个单词进行排序，如：BAPTISM OF FIRE（火的洗礼）在BAPTISMAL REGENERATION（洗礼重生）前面，BIRTH VIRGIN（童贞女之子）在BIRTHDAY（生日）前面。标题中的每一个单词（包括冠词）也都是按照字母顺序排列的，所以ACTS OF SOLOMON（所罗门行传）在ACTS OF THE APOSTLES（使徒行传）前面。带连字符的词被视为一个单词，也按照字母顺序排列，所以排列的顺序为BENAMMI（便亚米）、BENCH（坐板），然后是BEN-DEKER（便底甲），BITTER WATER（苦水）在BITTER-APPLES（野瓜）前面。省略号和逗号没有考虑在内，所以BIRDS OF PREY（鸚鸟）在

AARON'S ROD.

In a few cases, however, sensible presentation of material calls for exceptions to these rules. These will occur most often in the cases of articles on subjects from Old Testament perspective that precede articles on the same subject from the New Testament perspective. Thus CANON OF THE OT precedes CANON OF THE NT.

If a proper name is used for more than one person or place, the article for that name is divided accordingly, with a boldface number denoting each subject.

Example:

AGAG ā'gag [Heb. ^agag].

1. The name or title of an Amalekite king mentioned by Balaam (Num. 24:7).
2. Another Amalekite king defeated by Saul but spared

If the same word is used for both a person and a place, usually the two subjects are treated in separate articles, the article on the person preceding that on the place (or object).

III. Format and Features.-The basic format has been devised to provide a maximum amount of information in compact form. Different subjects sometimes require different forms of

BIRDS, UNCLEAN (不洁净的鸟) 前面, CITY, GOLDEN (强暴的) 在 CITY OF CHAOS (荒凉的城) 前面, 而 AARONITES (亚伦家的、亚伦的子孙) 在 AARON'S ROD (亚伦的杖) 前面。

可是, 在少数情况下, 资料的合理呈现可以不遵循这些规则。最为常见的一个例子是, 以旧约视角阐述的词条位于以新约视角阐述的词条的前面。因此 CANON OF THE OT (旧约正典) 在 CANON OF THE NT (新约正典) 前面。

如果一个专有名词不仅仅表示一个人或一个地方, 我们会根据情况将这个专有名字词条进行分解, 每个黑体字表示一个主题。

如:

AGAG 亚甲 音译: ā'gag 【希伯来语: ^agag】。

- 1、巴兰提到的一位亚玛力王的的名字或头衔 (民 24:7)。
- 2、扫罗击败的另一位亚玛力王, 但是他怜惜……

如果同一个词即表示人名又表示地名, 通常会将两个主题分成两个词条, 人名的词条置于地名 (或物品) 的词条之前。

III. 本书的格式和特点。本书所设计的基本格式以紧凑的形式提供了最多的信息。不同的主题有时需要不同的信息呈现方式。因此, 不是所有词条都采用相同的格式或含有下列所有要 presentation of information about them. Thus, not all of the articles have the same pattern or all of the following elements. Most of them, however, have a heading which, after the title, includes pronunciation, etymology, and variant renderings.

Sample article openings:

素。但是，大多数词条在后面会有一个题头，这个题头包括该词条的发音、语源和异文。

词条题头的例子如下：

ABADDON 亚巴顿 音译：ə-bad'ən 【希伯来语：^a*baddōn*——“灭亡（之地）”；希腊语：Abaddōn】；《新英文译本》还将其译为 DESTRUCTION（“毁灭”）。在《旧约》中，它指代冥府，其中有三处经文……

A. 标题。词条的标题（通常以《修订标准译本》中的翻译作为标题）被印成粗体大写字母形式。有时一个词条讨论几个相关的词语。即使开头没有都提到这些词，但是因为它们是粗体大写字母，所以很容易找到它们。在 first line, they can be easily identified by the boldface capital letters. In the second example above, the article discusses three related terms that the RSV translates as “alabaster,” “alabaster jar,” and “flask.”

B. Pronunciation. All proper names and many uncommon English words have been provided with pronunciations. As can be seen in the first example above, the pronunciation follows the title without intervening punctuation. The reader will find the key to pronunciations inside the back cover of each volume.

It is impossible to say what is “correct” pronunciation of many biblical terms, especially of names from the Old Testament, for the forms in which they have come to us in English are the results of passage through several languages with their own distinctive patterns of pronunciation. Some of these words are used so often that certain pronunciations have become well established and familiar. In such cases, those pronunciations are given here. Often, however, uncertainty is indicated by the several forms of pronunciations that have been provided by self-pronouncing Bibles, concordances, and other dictionaries and encyclopedias. In these cases one or two of the pronunciations that seem best established have been used, with some preference given to a pronunciation that more closely resembles that of the original language. Every pronunciation provided here has been judged as acceptable by the four editors. Thus it can be used with confidence even though a definitely “correct” pronunciation may not exist.

C. Original Term. In brackets, the 上面的第二个例子中，该词条讨论了三个相关的词语，《修订标准译本》中分别译为“alabaster”（“玉石”）、“alabaster jar”（“玉瓶”）和“flask”（“瓶”）。

B. 读音。所有专有名词和许多不常见的英文单词都标注了读音。从上面第一个例子可以看出，标题和后面的读音之间没有标点。读者可以在每册书的封底内找到发音表。

我们无法确定许多圣经词汇的发音是否“正确”，尤其是《旧约》中的名字，因为这些英语单词是根据多种拥有不同读音规则的语言翻译过来的。这些词语由于应用非常广泛，所以它们的读音已经确定下来且为人们所熟知。在这种情况下，本书会给出这些词的发音。而且，不同的读音形式通常表明这个词的发音尚不确定，这些读音形式是由字上有发音标示的《圣经》、用语索引以及其他词条和百科全书提供的。在这种情况下，本书采用一两个似乎最为确定的读音，并且倾向于采用那些更为接近于原语言的读音。每个读音必须得到四位编辑的共同认可才能使用。因此，虽然某个词的“准确”读音尚不能完全确定，却可以放心地使用这个词的读音。

C. 原文词汇。本书根据每册封底中的

original Hebrew, Aramaic, or Greek terms are given in transliterated form, according to the scheme printed inside the back cover of each volume. Although the transliterations may be slightly inconvenient to the scholar, they have been used so that those who do not know the original languages of the Bible may yet have the words in some form that they can pronounce to themselves and recognize in further discussion in the article.

Cognate terms from other languages are included if they are considered helpful in understanding the meaning of the term used in the original language. A Greek term added here for a word that occurs only in the Old Testament indicates the Septuagint (LXX) translation of the Hebrew (or Aramaic) term.

The literal English meaning of a name, in single quotation marks, following a dash, is given when it is known and of interest. Thus, in the first example above, the meaning of Hebrew “baddôn” is “[place of] destruction.”

The Hebrew or Greek words listed in this section do not, of course, always have the same meaning as the word(s) of the article title, but are the words that are translated by these English words in certain passages. This fact is sometimes, but not always, indicated by the translation in single quotation marks.

D. Variant Renderings. Variant renderings from other English versions—especially the AV and NEB—follow the citations of original words. These renderings are usually given in lightface capital letters, but lowercase letters in

音译表，在方括号内直接列出了原来的希伯来语、亚兰语或希腊语的音译形式。尽管音译可能给学者带来些许不便，但他们还是采用了音译，所以那些不了解《圣经》原文的人可以根据原文中词汇的某种形式读出这些词语，并能够在后续的词条论述中认出这些词。

如果其他语种的同根词对理解原文词汇有帮助，那么这些同根词就会被收录进来。本书只为在《旧约》中出现的词汇增加了一个希腊语拼写形式，这个希腊语是旧约圣经希腊语译本（《七十士译本》）对希伯来语（或亚兰语）的翻译。

如果知晓一个英语名字的含义且这个英语名字非常重要，就会在破折号后面的单引号中给出这个词的字面意思。因此，在上面的第一个例子中，希伯来语 “baddôn” 的意思是 “灭亡（之地）”。

当然，在这部分列出的希伯来语或希腊语并不是始终与这个（些）词条标题的意思相同，它们只是某些经文段落中相应英语单词的翻译。单引号中的翻译有时表明了这一事实，但并非始终如此。

D. 异文。 本书直接引用其他英文译本中的异文——尤其是《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》中的翻译。这些翻译通常用细铅体大写字母标明，但是如果这个翻译更侧重于解释说明或以原文经文或词汇的不同理解为依据， double quotation marks are used if the rendering is more interpretative or based on a different understanding of the term or text in the original language. Thus the reader can see some of the other translations that have been given to a particular term.

In the first example, “NEB also DESTRUCTION” means that the terms translated “Abaddon” in the RSV are sometimes translated “destruction” and sometimes “Abaddon” in the NEB.

The second example shows that the Hebrew term šēš in Cant. 5:15 is translated “marble” by both the AV and the NEB.

E. Biblical References. Unless the number of them makes it impractical, all uses of a word in the RSV are cited, either in the heading (following either the original-language term or one of the variant renderings) or in the body of the article. Even when uses of a word in the RSV are too frequent for a complete listing, every use that is likely to puzzle a Bible reader is mentioned in the article.

Variants in the chapter and verse numbering of the Hebrew Bible according to the Masoretic text are indicated by the use of “MT” in parentheses following the reference according to the English Bible. In the third example above, the bracketed notation “MT 8, 22” means that the passages mentioning Ebiasaph are 1 Ch. 6:8 and 1 Ch. 6:22 in the Hebrew Bible.

F. Definition. The preceding material is 则在双引号内用小写字体标明。因此读者可以看到某个特殊的词语会有好几种不同的翻译。

在第一个例子中的“《新英文译本》还译为 DESTRUCTION（“毁灭”）”这句话意味着，在《修订标准译本》中译为“Abaddon”的这个词在《新英文译本》中译为“destruction”，有时译为“Abaddon”（汉译均为“毁灭”）。

第二个例子表明，希伯来语 šēš 一词在《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》《雅歌》5:15 中被译为“marble”（“大理石”）。

E. 圣经参考。 除非某个词被引用的次数过多，无法一一列举，否则这个词在《修订标准译本》中的所有用法会在标题中（原文词汇之后或某个异文之后）或词条正文中列举出来。即使这个词在《修订标准译本》中被过于频繁地使用，无法一一列举，该词条会提到这个词的每个可能令圣经读者感到困惑的用法。

根据《马所拉文本》修订的希伯来语《圣经》章节中的异文，会按照英语《圣经》在引文后的括号中用“MT”标明。在上面的第三个例子中，括号内“MT 8, 22”表示，提到亚比亚撒的这段经文来自于希伯来语《圣经》的《历代志上》6:8 和《历代志上》6:22。

F. 定义。 除非读者普遍理解英语标题

closed with a period, and is usually followed by a definition or identification unless the title word is commonly understood in English.

G. Abbreviations. As is evident from the sample headings above, the name of a book of the Bible is usually abbreviated (unless the reference is to a whole book rather than a specific passage). In order to provide information in compact form, these and many other abbreviations are used in the headings, bodies of the articles, and bibliographies. The meanings of these abbreviations are found in four groups on pages xix–xxv: General; Publications; Ancient Authors and Documents; Biblical and Extrabiblical Literature. Whenever the meaning of an abbreviation is a technical term, a cross reference to a pertinent article in this encyclopedia has been added. Thus the abbreviation J is explained as a symbol for Yahwist, and a cross reference to subsection II.D.4 of the CRITICISM article has been added. In the case of the abbreviation MT, the meaning has a cross reference to the article TEXT AND MSS OF THE OT. (The form for cross references is discussed below in section I.)

H. Outline. For convenience of reference, every major article has been subdivided, with divisions numbered according to the sequence I., A., I., a. Every article of more than two thousand words has a complete outline at or near its beginning. A few articles, e.g., BAPTISM, have major divisions that are indicated by centered titles in capitals and small capitals. As mentioned above in II. Arrangement, proper names that refer to more than one person or place are

G. 缩略语。如上面的例子所示，《圣经》中某卷书的名字通常为缩略语（除非指的是整卷书，而不是某个段落）。为了让信息更紧凑，这些词以及许多其他的缩略语被应用于词条的标题、正文和书目中。在本书 xix–xxv 页的四个部分中可以看到这些缩略语的含义：一般缩略语、书籍与期刊、古代作者与文献和圣经和经外文献。当一个缩略语表示专业术语时，本百科全书会添加与该缩略语相关的互参词条。因此缩略语 J 被理解为代表耶典，并且在词条 CRITICISM（批判、考证）的 II.D.4 部分添加了一个互参词条。而对于缩略语 MT（《马所拉文本》），词条 TEXT AND MSS OF THE OT（旧约译本和抄本）是它的互参词条（互参词条会在下面的 I 部分进行讨论）。

H. 大纲。为了便于参照，会根据 I., A., 1., a. 的顺序细分每个主词条的内容。所有超过两千字的词条都会在开头或接近开头部分列出一个完整的大纲。少部分词条（如 BAPTISM [洗礼]）用大写或小体大写字母的居中标题来划分它的主要部分。正如上文“II. 排列”中所提到的，指代多个人名或地名的专有名词分别用粗体阿拉伯字母标明。 designated separately by boldface arabic numbers.

I. Cross References. These have been used throughout this encyclopedia in order to lead the reader to other articles in which a particular subject, or material related to it, is discussed. A cross reference to an article is indicated by the use of capitals and small capitals for its title, often following italicized “see” or “see also.”

One common kind of cross reference is in the form of a short entry whose subject is entirely subsumed under another article. This form is used especially for distinctive words of the AV or NEB that are treated under the RSV form of that word. It is also used to refer to a more comprehensive article that treats similar subjects together. Examples:

AALAR ā'a-lär. See IMMER 3.

The material following the boldface number 3 in the IMMER article will show that Aalar is the AV form of a name used in 1 Esd. 5:36 for a person who has now been identified with the Immer of Ezra 2:59 and Neh. 7:61.

BELT. See GARMENTS.

This is an example of a reference to a more comprehensive article that includes several similar subjects under one title.

The other kind of cross reference occurs within or at the end of an article, to indicate that more information on a subject may be found in another article. The cross reference usually follows the

I. 互参词条。这本百科全书应用了互参词条，这是为了让读者参考其他词条对与之相关的特殊主题或材料的论述。互参词条的标题用大写字母或小体大写字母标明，通常置于斜体的“see”（“见”）或“see also”（另见）的后面。

一般在短词条中常见互参词条，这个短词条的主题完全被归纳在另一个词条中。互参词条尤其用来表示《钦定版圣经》或《新英文译本》中不同于《修订标准译本》中翻译（词条名）的特殊词语。互参词条还可以用来表示那些论述了类似主题的更为全面的词条。例如：

AALAR 音麦 音译：ā'a-lär。见 Immer 3（音麦3）。

在 IMMER（音麦）词条中的粗体数字 3 内的信息表明，Aalar（音麦）是《钦定版圣经》《以斯得拉一书》5:36 中出现的一个人名，现在这个名字被认为是《以斯拉记》2:59 和《尼希米记》7:6 中的 Immer（音麦）。

其他的互参词条出现在词条正文中或结尾，表明在另一个词条中可以看到关于这个主题的更多的信息。互参词条的后面通常是一个与另一篇文章（或一部分）相关的词语、句子、段 term, sentence, paragraph, section, or whole article for which the other article (or part of it) is pertinent. Example:

pending on the location. The barley harvest was a well-marked season of the year (see AGRICULTURE III. A; HARVEST), and the barleycorn was a familiar measure of

This example, from the BARLEY article, shows a reference to section III. A of the AGRICULTURE article and to the HARVEST article.

ABDEEL ab'də-ed [Heb. 'abd^e'ēl—'servant of God']. The father of SHELEMIAH (Jer. 36:26).

This example shows how a cross reference may be indicated by capitals and small capitals alone, without interrupting the flow of thought by use of see or see also.

The use of capitals and small capitals in this encyclopedia almost always indicates a cross reference. (The only exceptions are the titles of major divisions of a few articles, as described above in section H. Outline.) Of course, all biblical names and most other biblical terms are treated in this encyclopedia, but the printing of a term in capitals and small capitals indicates that the article thus designated contains information that will help the understanding of the article in which the reference is found.

J. Bibliography. Wherever it is useful, a bibliography has been provided to enable the reader to continue research beyond

……由于地域不同。大麦的收获季节是一年中固定的季节（见 AGRICULTURE III.A[农业 III.A]；HARVEST[收割]），大麦粒是一种常用的计量……

ABDEEL 亚伯叠 音译：ab'də-el 【希伯来语：'abd^e'ēl——“上帝的仆人”】。示利米雅之父（见 SHELEMIAH[示利米雅]）（耶 36:26）。

这个例子说明在不用 see（见）或 see also（另见）打断行文思路的前提下，本书是如何只用大写字母和小体大写字母来表示互参词条的。

这本百科全书通常用大写字母和小体大写字母表示互参词条。（只有几个词条主题部分的标题除外，如上文 H. 大纲。）当然，这本百科全书探讨了《圣经》中的所有名字和其他大部分圣经词语，但大写字母和小体大写字母表明，这个词条所包含了有助于理解这个词条的信息，在这个词条中可以看到互参词条。

J. 参考书目。 参考书目一定是有用的，它可以帮助读者根据本百科全书之外的书籍继续进行研究。《国际标

this encyclopedia. ISBE bibliographies do not aim to be exhaustive but rather to include the best and most accessible works on a given subject. The order followed in the bibliographies is usually alphabetical, but may be chronological, according to subject matter, or from the more general to the more specific. For longer bibliographies, outlines (corresponding to the outlines of their articles whenever possible) are used. A reference to a single work is indicated by the word “See” in regular type at the end of the article.

K. Authorship. Unless it has fewer than one hundred words, or is merely a compilation of information without results of scholarly research or opinion, an article has the initials and last name of its contributor(s) at the end. The full names and identifications of the contributors are found in the list on pages xi–xviii. Short articles written by the General Editor, an Associate Editor, or a member of the publisher’s editorial staff are signed only with initials.

When an article from the 1915 ISBE has been used, in whole or in part, in this revision, the original author’s name is included. In the list of contributors, an asterisk after the name indicates a contributor to the 1915 ISBE.

Some articles, especially those containing material from the 1915 ISBE, have names of two (rarely three) contributors. Where these persons made approximately equal contributions to the article, the names are on the same line, while a lesser contribution is indicated by a name placed beneath another; but the name of a

K. 作者。除非一个词条不到一百字，或这个词条是未经学术研究编纂而成的，否则该词条会在结尾写上词条作者的缩写或姓氏。本书 xi–xviii 页给出了撰述人的全名和身份。由主编、副主编或出版社的编辑人员写的短词条，只给出了词条作者的名字缩写。

当本修订版百科全书使用 1915 年《国际圣经百科全书》的词条时，无论是全部信息，还是部分信息，原作者名也会被收录进来。在撰述人列表中，名字后面带星号的表示此人是 1915 年《国际标准圣经百科全书》的撰述人。

contributor to the 1915 ISBE always appears first, regardless of the proportion of his or her material used in the revision of the article.

Sometimes (e.g., in CONVERSION) the name of an author will follow the specific section for which he or she was responsible, in order to distinguish that contribution from the rest of the article. The very rare editorial addition of more than several lines is enclosed in brackets, with the editor's initials at the end (e.g., in J. Orr's BIBLE article, IV. B. 1. a).

IV. Illustrative Material. Since illustrations are so valuable as aids to understanding, a substantial amount of space in this encyclopedia has been devoted to them. Over 275 photographs and drawings have been used in the first volume alone. It was necessary to use museum photographs, perhaps familiar to some readers, for certain objects that ought to be illustrated in any work of this kind. The emphasis, however, has been on obtaining new photographs, many of them taken by scholars whose research is related to the subjects of the photographs. Each volume also has a section of color photographs, to which references are made (e.g., see Plate 4) in appropriate articles.

A map section is included in the first volume, inserted between pages 518 and 519. From the many maps available for the different periods and areas of the biblical world, these were selected as most fitting for a biblical reference work that is very comprehensive yet unable to present the detail that is found in a Bible atlas. After careful consideration of several possibilities, these were chosen

IV. 说明性材料。由于插图对理解大有帮助，所以本百科全书为插图留出了大量的空间。第一册书中就使用了超过 275 张图片和图画。为了阐明同类作品中的某个物体，有必要使用博物馆的图片，部分读者可能非常熟悉这些图片。然而，这里要重点强调一下新获得的图片，许多图片被学者们应用到与他们的研究相关的领域中。每册书还有一些彩色插图，某些词条中提到了这些彩图（如：见彩图 4）。

because they combine accuracy and awareness of current biblical scholarship with attractive and clear presentation of the topographical features.

Many outline maps accompany articles on cities or areas. These have been done very simply, with a minimum of geographical features. Their purpose is to give the reader a general idea of the location of a site or area so that better use can be made of the color map section, with its topographical details and later geographical contexts.

THE PUBLISHERS

关于城市或地区的词条还附了一些草图。这些地图是根据基本地貌特征简单绘制而成的。这些草图旨在让读者大概了解一个地方或地区，以便他们更好地利用那些带有地形细节和后期地理背景的彩色地图。

凡例

想要翻译《国际标准圣经百科全书》这样的鸿篇巨著，如果不事先制定统一的标准，实在难以保证翻译风格上的一致性和译稿版式上的一致性，因此我们首先制定了统一的翻译标准、格式标准和勘误标准。

一、翻译标准

(一) 专有名词翻译标准

我们在翻译《国际标准圣经百科全书》时，遇到了大量的专有名词，专有名词翻译的准确性直接决定了译稿的质量，因此，我们花费了很大的气力来统一专有名词的翻译标准。

1、人名的翻译标准：

(1) 圣经人名的翻译

我们在翻译《圣经》中的人名时，严格参照汉语《圣经》译本中的翻译，但目前流通中的汉语《圣经》译本种类繁多，质量上也参差不齐，幸运的是，国内教会已经有比较认可的汉语《圣经》译本，中国基督教三自爱国运动委员会和中国基督教协会出版的和合本《圣经》（2009年版）得到了国内教会的普遍认可，因此，我们在翻译圣经人名时，以2009年版和合本为准（下文所提到和合本皆表示2009年版和合本），

如，BEELIADA 译为比利雅大（撒下 5:16；代上 3:8）。

注：如果一个圣经人名，在和合本圣经中有多个不同的翻译，在词条名中要一一列出这些人名，以便读者区分这些人，

（2）次经人名的翻译

次经人名在这本百科全书中占有很重的分量，虽然《次经》并非正典，但它是非常重要的基督教文献，我们在翻译次经人名时，并没有照搬中国天主教主教团发行的《圣经》中的人名（天主教将部分《次经》纳入正典），而是参照了赵沛林等人翻译的、由时代文艺出版社出版的《圣经次经》中的人名，这本书中的对次经人名、地名的翻译仿照了和合本《圣经》中人名、地名的翻译方法，表述上也符合基督教用语习惯，因此，我们参照了其中的次经人名翻译，

如，AZAEL 译为亚泽尔（拉一 9:34）。

注：如果一个人名在《圣经》和《次经》中都出现过，则以和合本《圣经》中的翻译为准，

如，Bukki 译为布基（民 34:22；拉二 8:2）。

（3）著名人物的翻译

《国际标准圣经百科全书》中提到的著名人物，在翻译时要充分查询相关书籍，虽然网上有很多现成的翻译，但是我们更为相信纸质书籍的严谨性，并且充分比照圣经词典、其他圣经百科全书和基督教文献中的翻译，选择比较权威，且被大家普遍认可的翻译，

（4）其他人名的翻译

其他我们在纸质书籍上找不到的人名，我们在翻译时会参照网上比较常见的翻译，同时在后面的括号内保留英语原名，以便读者参考，

注：根据其他圣经辞典和圣经百科全书的惯例，并根据 2005 年中国标准化出版社出版的《文后参考文献著录规则》，词条作者名和参考书目中人名不翻译。

（5）生僻人名的翻译

较为生僻的人名，书籍和网上查询不到，我们采用音译的办法，但要根据《世界人名翻译大辞典》（中国出版集团&中国对外翻译出版公司，新华通讯社译名室主编）中的音译表进行翻译，后面括号内附上原名，以供读者参考，

如，安赫·奥尔（Ankh-Hor）。

（1）圣经地名的翻译

圣经中地名同样严格遵照和合本《圣经》中的翻译，但很多圣经古地名历经岁月变迁，这个地名仍然保留了下来，这时我们同时给出这个地名的现用名，从而便于读者了解该地名的历史，

如，ASHDOD 亚实突、阿什杜德。

（2）次经地名的翻译

在翻译次经地名时，依然参照前文所提到的《圣经次经》中的地名，但要将该地名在《次经》中的所有翻译都一一列出，

如，BETOMESTHAIM 贝托麦斯、伯托麦赛姆（滴 15:4； 4:6）。

注：如果一个地名在《圣经》和《次经》中皆出现过，以《圣经》中翻译为准，

如，BETH-ZUR 伯夙（书 15:58； 马一 4:29）。

（3）其他地名的翻译

译员在翻译其他地名时，遇到圣经和次经之外的地名，要查询多

本参考资料，采用被普遍接受的翻译，

如，Qarqar 译为夸夸（参：《基督教圣经与神学词典》《圣经新辞典》《圣经百科全书》）。

（4）生僻地名翻译

在翻译生僻地名时，要查询网络，同时参照《外语地名汉字译写导则》，译名后括号内标注该地名的原拼写形式

如，el-Hajrâ 译为赫伊拉（el-Hajrâ）。

3、圣经和次经卷名翻译

在翻译圣经卷名时要严格遵照和合本《圣经》中的翻译，我们在翻译次经卷名时参照了大量的文献（如，《基督教大辞典》《基督教圣经与神学词典》《圣经新辞典》《圣经百科辞典》《圣经百科全书》《圣经次经》等），最终选择了被多部作品普遍接受的翻译，如果原文中圣经或次经卷名在括号内，可以使用缩略形式，

如，（1S.1:1）译为（撒上 1:1）；1 Esd. 5:31（拉一 5:31）。

4、圣经译本、古卷和抄本的翻译

在翻译圣经译本、古卷和抄本时，我们充分查询了书籍，借鉴了权威的翻译或被普遍接受的翻译，而不是简单地借鉴网络上的翻译，

如，Dead Sea Scrolls 译为《死海古卷》；NEB 译为《新英文译本》；B 译为《梵蒂冈抄本》（参：《基督教大辞典》《基督教圣经与神学词典》《圣经新辞典》《圣经百科全书》）。

5、其他著作名的翻译

按照其他圣经辞典或圣经百科全书的翻译惯例，其他著作名一般不翻译，以示尊重原版版权，在翻译时将作品放在括号内，

如，“约瑟夫斯的著作中可能也提到这个地名（Ant. xii.11.1）”。

（二）摘抄其他作品语句的翻译

果该作品有出版的中文译本，则参照该中文译本中的翻译，

如，“All those to whom the office of teaching was enjoined they called “presbyters.” In each city these chose one of their number to whom they specially gave the title “bishop” in order that dissensions might not arise (as commonly happens) from equality of rank. Still, the bishop was not so much higher in honor and dignity as to have lordship over his colleagues. But the same functions that the consul has in the senate—to report on business, to request opinions, to preside over others in counseling, admonishing, and exhorting, to govern the whole action by his authority, and to carry out what was decreed by common decision—the bishop carried out in the assembly of presbyters” (Inst. iv.4.2)译为“一切担任教导职分的人都被称为‘长老’。在每一座城市里，从众长老中特选一位做‘监督’，好避免因为有许多同等地位的人，就彼此纷争。然而，监督的地位并非高到能吩咐其他的长老。他所担任的就如立法院中主席的职分——报告重要的事项，请其他长老提出建议、警戒、劝勉，以自己的权威主持大会，并执行长老共同的决定，监督在长老当中也同样担任这职分”(Inst. iv.4.2)（参：加尔文，《基督教要义》）。

我们在翻译《国际标准圣经百科全书》的缩略语时，参照了其他圣经辞典、圣经百科全书和书籍，采用被普遍接受的缩略语，

如，Gk 译为希腊语（参：《基督教大辞典》《基督教圣经与神学词典》《圣经新辞典》《圣经百科全书》）。

（四）其他词语的翻译

我们在翻译其他词语时力求符合基督教文献用语的表述习惯，积极咨询主内弟兄和牧师的意见，并坚持以事实为原则，

如，所有指代圣父、圣子和圣灵的“He”、“Him”或“His”都译为“祂”。

二、格式标准

（一）版式标准

在充分尊重原书排版格式的前提下，原文和译稿采用一一对应的排版方式，从而方便懂英语的主内弟兄姊妹比对阅读，

如，

A See ALEPH; WRITING.	A 见 ALEPH（阿尔法）；WRITING（书写）。
---------------------------------	---------------------------------------

AALAR ā'a-lär. See IMMER 3. AARON âr'ən [Heb. 'ah^arôn—meaning uncertain; Gk. Aarōn]. Moses' older brother, the first high priest. ---	---

(二) 字体标准

在充分尊重原书字体的前提下, 考虑到计算机识别和字体的美观性, 词条标题采用 Calibri (西文正文) 字体, 小四, 粗体; 正文采用 Times New Roman (新罗马字体), 小四, 斜体粗体保持与原书一致, 具体见上面的版式样例。

(三) 标点标准

根据中华人民共和国国家标准《标点符号用法》和其他权威出版物中标点符号的用法惯例,

1、原文用[], 译文中用【】, 如果原文中是()里面再套[], 那么译文中也是()里用[];

2、除外文书籍内部标点为英文标点外, 全部使用中文标点, 书名要加书名号, 如, (Ex. 6:16–20; 1 Ch. 6:1–3)译为(出 6:16-20; 代上 6:1-3)。

3、书目中的标点遵照中英混排时标点符号的用法规则和 2005 年中国标准化出版社出版的《文后参考文献著录规则》, 如,

Bibliography.—M. F. Berry, Language Disorders of Children (1969); M. Black, Aramaic Approach to the Gospels and Acts (3rd ed. 1967); G. Dalman, Words of Jesus (1902); J. (四) 大写字母和小体大写字母的格式

原书中的大写字母和小体大写字母分别表示《圣经》译本中的翻译和互参词条，为了方便不懂英文的读者理解这些词的含义，我们保留了原来的英文单词，然后在后面的括号内给出了翻译，

如，“《新英文译本》还译为 SPURN (“厌弃”) (利 26) ……”；“见 ABIJAH (亚比雅)”。

(五) 插图和地图的版式

一般情况下，我们排版地图时仍然采用左右对照的版式，但有些地图使用的比例尺比较小，如果采用左右对照，读者实在难以看清地图中的地名和信息，因此，在这种情况下，我们采用上下对照的方式，呈现给读者一张清晰准确的地图，如，

三、勘误标准

尽管将《国际标准圣经百科全书》编纂成书耗费了编辑和撰述人大量的心血，他们孜孜以求的治学态度和严谨客观的学术精神也非常值得我们学习，但书中依然存在这样或那样的错误。我们本着尊重著作权同时对读者负责的态度，在勘误时查询了大量的资料，以充分的证据证明了原书中的错误。

(一) 引述错误

原书撰述人有时在引用《圣经》中的章节时标注错了具体的章节，如，在词条 CHANCE(偶然、机会、门路)中，“NEB also HAPPEN (Lk. 9:11), WAY OPEN (He. 12:17), etc.”，我们查询了《新英文译本》(NEB)《路加福音》9:11，其中并没有提到“HAPPEN”一词，结合上下文并经过大量查询，我们发现作者给出的章节数有误，最终在《新英文译本》的《路加福音》10:31 中找到了“HAPPEN”一词，并据此进行了勘误，具体见勘误表。

(二) 拼写错误

（三）标点错误

如，在词条 ARCHEOLOGY OF MESOPOTAMIA（美索不达米亚考古）中，“Tell Harmel (1943–1945) and Eridu 1946–1949”，根据英语标点符号的使用规则，并结合上下文，我们认为这部分使用的标点有误，应为 Tell Harmel (1943–1945) and Eridu (1946–1949)，具体见勘误表。

（四）其他错误

âr'ən [Heb. 'ah^arôn—meaning uncertain; Gk. Aarōn]. Moses' older brother, the first high priest. According to the genealogical lists he was third in descent from Levi (Ex. 6:16–20; 1 Ch. 6:1–3). However, the genealogy may be incomplete, since in Ruth 4:18–20 the Judah list has six names. He was probably a descendant rather than the immediate son of Amram and Jochebed, since Amram and his three brothers had numerous descendants within a year of the Exodus (Nu. 3:27f.). Aaron's sister Miriam was several years older, since she was set to watch the bulrush boat of the infant Moses, at whose birth Aaron was three years old (Ex. 7:7).

When Moses fled from Egypt, Aaron remained to share the hardships of his people, and possibly to render them some service; for we are told that Moses pleaded inability and God sent Aaron to aid in his mission to Pharaoh and to Israel, and that Aaron went out to meet his returning brother, as the time of deliverance drew near (Ex. 4:27). While Moses, whose great gifts lay along other lines, was slow of speech (4:10), Aaron was a ready spokesman, and became his brother's representative, being called his "mouth" (4:16) and his "prophet" (7:1). After their meeting in the wilderness the two brothers returned together to Egypt on the hazardous mission to which the Lord had called them (4:27-31). At first they appealed to their own nation, recalling the ancient promises and declaring the imminent deliverance, Aaron being the spokesman. But the heart of the people, hopeless by reason of the hard bondage and heavy with the care of material things, did not incline to them. The two brothers then at God's command made appeal directly to Pharaoh himself, Aaron still speaking for his brother (6:10-13). He also performed, at Moses' direction, the miracles commanded by God unto Moses (7:9f.). With Hur he held up Moses' hands, in order that the "rod of God might be lifted up," during the fight with Amalek (17:10, 12).

音译: âr'ən 【希伯来语: 'ah^arôn——含义不确定; 希腊语: Aarōn】。摩西的兄长, 首位大祭司。根据家谱, 他是利未的第三代后裔 (出 6:16-20; 代上 6:1-3)。但家谱有可能不完整, 因为《路得记》4:18-20 的犹大家谱中仅有六位后裔。那么亚伦或许不是暗兰和约基别所生的儿子, 而是他们众多晚辈中的一位, 因为暗兰和他的三个兄弟在出埃及后的第一年内就生子众多 (民 3:27-28)。姐姐米利暗要比亚伦年长好几岁, 因为当父母把摩西放在蒲草箱里顺水漂走时, 米利暗不放心弟弟, 在后面跟随着, 而摩西出生时, 亚伦才只有三岁 (出 7:7) 。

Aaron next comes into prominence when, at Sinai, he is one of the elders and representatives of his tribe to approach nearer to the mount than the people in general were allowed to do, and to see the manifested glory of God (Ex. 24:1, 9f.). A few days later, when Moses, attended by his "minister" Joshua, went up into the mountain, Aaron exercised some kind of headship over the people in his absence. Despairing of seeing again their leader, who had disappeared into the mystery of communion with the invisible God, they appealed to Aaron to prepare them more tangible gods, and to lead them back to Egypt (Ex. 32). Aaron never appears as the strong, heroic character his brother was; and here at Sinai he revealed his weaker nature, yielding to the demands of the people and permitting them to make the golden bullock. That he must have yielded reluctantly is evident from the eagerness of his tribesmen, whose leader he was, to stay and avenge the apostasy by rushing to arms at the call of Moses and slaying the idolaters (32:26–28).

Since Aaron and his sons were chosen for the official priesthood, elaborate and symbolical vestments were prepared for them (Ex. 28); and after the erection and dedication of the tabernacle, he and his sons were formally inducted into the sacred office (Lev. 8). It appears that Aaron alone was anointed with the holy oil (8:12), but his sons shared with him the duty of caring for sacrificial rites and utensils. They served in receiving and presenting the various offerings, and could enter and serve in the first chamber of the tabernacle; but Aaron alone, the high priest, the mediator of the old covenant, could enter into the holy of holies, and that only once a year, on the great Day of Atonement (16:12–14).

After Israel departed from Sinai, Aaron joined his sister Miriam in a protest against the authority of Moses (Nu. 12), which they claimed was self-assumed. For this rebellion Miriam was smitten with leprosy, but was made whole again, when, at the pleading of Aaron, Moses interceded with God for her. The sacred office of Aaron, requiring physical, moral, and ceremonial cleanness of the strictest order, seems to have made him immune from this form of punishment. Somewhat later (Nu. 16) Aaron himself, along with Moses, became the object of a revolt of his own tribe in conspiracy with leaders of Dan and Reuben. This rebellion was subdued and the authority of Moses and Aaron vindicated by the miraculous overthrow of the rebels. As they were being destroyed by the plague, Aaron, at Moses' command, rushed into their midst with the lighted censer, and the destruction was stayed. The divine will in choosing Aaron and his family to the priesthood was then fully attested by the miraculous budding of his rod, when, along with rods representing the other tribes, it was left overnight in the sanctuary (Nu. 17). See AARON'S ROD.

上帝拣选亚伦和他的儿子们承接圣职，便令摩西为他们精心制作圣衣（出 28）。在立起会幕，开始供奉后，亚伦和他的儿子们就正式开始履行圣职（利 8）。根据圣经的描述，似乎只有亚伦受到了膏立（利 8:12），但他的儿子们与他一起执行祭祀仪式，照管器物。他们负责接收并敬献各种供物，能够进入圣所供职，而亚伦作为大祭司，是旧约的中保，只有在赎罪日那天可以进至圣所一次（利 16:12-14）。

After this event Aaron does not come prominently into view until the time of his death, near the close of the wilderness period. Because of the impatience, or unbelief, of Moses and Aaron at Meribah (Nu. 20:12), the two brothers are prohibited from entering Canaan; and shortly after the last camp at Kadesh was broken, as the people journeyed eastward to the plains of Moab, Aaron died on Mt. Hor. This event is recorded in three passages: the detailed account in Nu. 20, a second incidental record in the list of stations of the wanderings in the wilderness (Nu. 33:38f.), and a third casual reference (Dt. 10:6) in an address of Moses. These are not in the least contradictory or inharmonious. The dramatic scene is fully presented in Nu. 20: Moses, Aaron, and Eleazar go up to Mt. Hor in the people's sight; Aaron is divested of his robes of office, which are formally put upon his eldest son; Aaron dies before the Lord on the mount at the age of 123, and is given burial by his two mourning relatives, who then return to the camp; when the people understand that Aaron is no more, they show both grief and love by thirty days of mourning. The passage in Nu. 33 records the event of his death just after the list of stations in the general vicinity of Mt. Hor; while Dt. 10 states from which of these stations, viz., Moserah, that remarkable funeral procession made its way to Mt. Hor.

Aaron married Elisheba, daughter of Amminadab and sister of Nahshon, prince of the tribe of Judah; and she bore him four sons: Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. The sacrilegious act and consequent judicial death of Nadab and Abihu are recorded in Lev. 10. Eleazar and Ithamar were more pious and reverent; and from them descended the long line of priests to whom was committed the ceremonial law of Israel, the succession changing from one branch to the other with certain crises in the nation. At his death Aaron was succeeded by his oldest living son, Eleazar (Nu. 20:28; Dt. 10:6).

âr'ən-īts [Heb. l'ah^arôn—'belonging to Aaron']. A word used in the AV only, to translate the proper name Aaron in two instances where it denotes a family and not merely a person (1 Ch. 12:27; 27:17). It is equivalent to the phrases "sons of Aaron," "house of Aaron," frequently used in the OT. According to Joshua and Chronicles the "sons of Aaron" were distinguished from the other Levites from the time of Joshua (e.g., Josh. 21:4, 10, 13; 1 Ch. 6:54).

AARON'S ROD

(Nu. 17; He. 9:4). The rebellion led by Korah against the priestly authority of Aaron made it necessary for Aaron's supremacy to be stressed. Moses was

亚伦娶亚米拿达的女儿，拿顺（犹大支派的王子）的妹妹以利沙巴为妻，她给他生了四个儿子，拿答、亚比户、以利亚撒和以他玛。《利未记》10章中记载了拿答和亚比户因亵渎神而致死的事。以利亚撒和以他玛较为虔诚恭顺，他们的众多后裔成为了遵行以色列礼仪律法的祭司，而祭司继承权在这两个分支之间的更迭在国内造成了一定的危机。亚伦死时，由他当时健在的最年长的儿子以利亚撒接替作祭司（民 20:28；申 10:6）。

AARONITES 亚伦家的、亚伦子孙

音译：âr'ən-īts【希伯来语：l'ah^arôn——“属亚伦的”】。在《钦定版圣经》中仅出现两次，当 Aaron 这个名字所指代的是亚伦家而非仅指代亚伦本人时，译为 Aaronites（代上 12:27；27:17）。该词相当于“亚伦的子孙”，“亚伦家”，常出现在《旧约》中。根据《约书亚记》和《历代志》中的描述，“亚伦的子孙”与约书亚时期的其他利未人是有分别的（例如：书 21:4，10，13；代上 6:54）。

AARON'S ROD 亚伦的杖

（民 17；来 9:4）。可拉和大坍率众反对亚伦的祭司权，因此要让民众们认识到亚伦圣职神授这件事显得尤为紧迫。因此，摩西按耶和華的命令，向 instructed to take one almond rod for each tribe and one for Aaron, duly inscribed. When placed in the tabernacle, Aaron's rod was the only one to bud, blossom, and bear almonds. Thereafter it was preserved as a token of God's will (Nu. 17:10). According to the writer of Hebrews the rod was kept in the holy of holies inside the ark (He. 9:4; cf. 1 K. 8:9).

亚伦和其他各支派首领取杖，每支派一根，共十二根杖，令各支派的领袖将自己的名字写在杖上，把这些杖放在会幕里的约柜前。第二日当摩西进入会幕时，发现只有亚伦的杖发了芽，开了花，结了熟杏。因此这支杖作为神旨意的标志被保存起来（民 17:10）。根据《希伯来书》作者的描述，亚伦的杖被放置在圣所内的“约柜里”（来 9:4；参：王上 8:9）。

ab, ôb [Heb. and Aram. 'āb, 'ab—'father'].

AB 父亲、祖宗、父、埃波月

音译：ab, ôb 【希伯来语和亚兰语：'āb, 'ab——“父亲”】。

1. (a) Used of the male ancestor of a family. In a patriarchal society his authority was unquestioned (cf. 2 K. 3:27). The law commanded his children to honor him (Ex. 20:12; Dt. 5:16), and the penalty for abusing him was death (Ex. 21:15-17). He was responsible for the material and spiritual welfare of the family (Dt. 1:31; Prov. 1:8), and his offspring provided him with a sense of immortality.

1. (a) 指一个家族的男性祖先。在父系社会中，父亲的权利是毋庸置疑的（参：王下 3:27）。律法规定儿女要崇敬父（出 20:12；申 5:16），虐待侮辱父亲者其罪当诛（出 21:15-17）。父亲有责任抚养儿女，为他们谋求物质和属灵的福祉（申 1:31；箴 1:8），而他的子孙视他为不朽的。

(b) Ab often refers to a more distant ancestor such as a grandfather, and commonly to forefathers of the Israelite community (cf. Gen. 17:4). In Mk. 11:10, David was referred to in this manner (cf. Lk. 3:8; Rom. 4:1; Jas. 2:21).

(b) Ab 通常指一位年代更为久远的祖先，例如祖父（始祖），并且一般指以色列会众的祖先（参：创 17:4）。《马可福音》11:10 中就这样称呼大卫（参：路 3:8；罗 4:1；雅 2:21）。

(c) "Father" also described the progenitor of a class or the originator of some group, Jabal (Gen. 4:20), Jubal (4:21), Rechab (Jer. 35:6), Abraham (Rom. 4:11, 16f.) and Phinehas (1 Macc. 2:54) being thus designated. See BEN-.

(c) “父”同样用以指一族人或某些群体的始祖或鼻祖，例如雅八（创 4:20）、犹八（创 4:21）、利甲（耶 35:6）、亚伯拉罕（罗 4:11, 16, 17）和非尼哈（马一 2:54）都被称为父。见 BEN-（之子）。

(d) Ab is also a name for God, and occurred commonly as an element in personal names. By contrast, the devil also could be described as “father” (Jn. 8:44). See GOD, NAMES OF; ABBA; ABI.

(d) Ab 也是对上帝称呼，并且经常作为人名中的一个成分出现。相反，魔鬼也可以被称作“父”（约 8:44）。见 GOD, NAMES OF（神的称谓）；ABBA（阿爸）；ABI（父）。

2. The postexilic name of the fifth month of the Hebrew calendar (July/Aug.), when olives were harvested. See CALENDAR.

2. 埃波月是被掳巴比伦后希伯来历五月的名字（七月或八月），此时是橄榄丰收的时节。见 CALENDAR（历法）。

ə-bad'ən [Heb. ^a*baddôn*—“(place of) destruction”; Gk. Abaddôn]; NEB also DESTRUCTION. In the OT, a place name for the realm of the dead. In three instances Abaddon is paralleled with Sheol (Job 26:6; Prov. 15:11; 27:20), while in Job 28:22 it parallels Death, and in Ps. 88:11 the grave. In Job 31:12 it is part of a metaphor of destruction.

音译：ə-bad'ən 【希伯来语：^a*baddôn*—“灭亡（之地）”；希腊语：Abaddôn】；《新英文译本》还将其译为 DESTRUCTION（“毁灭”）。在《旧约》中，它指代冥府，其中有三处经文将其与阴间相提并论（伯 26:6；箴 15:11；27:20）。在《约伯记》28:22 中亚巴顿表示的是死亡，在《诗篇》88:11 中表示“墓穴”，在《约伯记》31:12 中亚巴顿用来比喻灭亡。

Abaddon belongs to the realm of the mysterious. Only God understands it (Job 26:6; Prov. 15:11). It is the world of the dead in its utterly dismal, destructive, dreadful aspects, not in those more cheerful aspects which include the concept of activities. In Abaddon there are no declarations of God's lovingkindness (Ps. 88:11).

灭亡之地神秘莫测。只有神才了解它（伯 26:6；箴 15:11）。死者的世界呈现出一片凄凉，破败，恐怖的景象，毫无生机可言。灭亡之地彰显不出神的慈爱（诗 88:11）。

In a slight degree the OT presentations personalize Abaddon. It is a synonym for insatiableness (Prov. 27:20). It has possibilities of information mediate between those of “all living” and those of God (Job 28:22).

In the NT the word occurs once (Rev. 9:11), the personalization becoming sharp. Abaddon is here not the world of the dead, but the angel who reigns over it. The Greek equivalent of his name is given as APOLLYON.

ə-bag'thə [Heb. ^abag'tā'—perhaps 'fortunate one']. One of the seven eunuchs, or “chamberlains,” of Xerxes mentioned in Est. 1:10. The name is probably of Middle Iranian origin, and is one of the many Persian marks in Esther.

ab'ə-nə [Heb. ^abānā; Gk., Lat., Abana] (2 K. 5:12). A river mentioned along with the PHARPAR as one of the principal rivers of Damascus. The RV mg. reading “Amana” is based on the qere (Heb. ^amānā; cf. Pesh., Tg.), which may reflect an alternative in actual use, inasmuch as the interchange of b and m is not without parallel (cf.

箴 27:20)。它可能风闻所有活人和神之间的事（伯 28:22）。

该词在《新约》中出现过一次（启 9:11），在此处拟人的特征更加突出。在这里，亚巴顿（Abaddon）不是指死亡之地，而是统治死亡之地的天使，希腊同义词译作“亚玻伦”（见 APOLLYON[亚玻伦]）。

The Abana is identified with the Chrysorroas (“golden stream”) of the Greeks, the modern Nahr Baradā (the “cold”), which rises in the Anti-Lebanon, one of its sources, the ‘Ain Baradā, being near the village of Zebedani, and flows S and then SE toward Damascus. A few miles SE of ancient Abila (see ABILENE) the volume of the stream is more than doubled by a torrent of clear, cold water from the beautifully situated spring ‘Ain Fijeh, after which it flows through a picturesque gorge till it reaches Damascus, whose many fountains and gardens it supplies liberally with water. In the neighborhood of Damascus a number of streams branch off from the parent river, and spread out like an opening fan on the surrounding plain. The Barada, along with the streams which it feeds, loses itself in the marshes of the Meadow Lakes about 18 mi. (29 km.) E of the city.

音译：ab'-ə-rim【希伯来语：‘bārîm—“边缘地带”】；《钦定版圣经》译为“the passages”（“亚巴琳”）（耶 22:20）。死海北部以东的一片山区。

designated the mountain country they saw there as “the Beyond mountains.” They continued to use these geographical terms when they came out of Egypt (Nu. 27:12; 33:45–48; Dt. 32:49). We have no means of knowing the extent of the region to which they applied the name. The passages speak of the mountain country of Abarim where Moses died, including Nebo, as situated back from the river Jordan in its lowest reaches; and of the Mounds of the Abarim (see IYE-ABARIM) as farther SE so that the Israelites passed them when making their detour around the agricultural parts of Edom, before they crossed the Arnon. Whether the name Abarim should be applied to the parts of the eastern hill country farther N is a question on which we lack evidence.

The name Abarim occurs without the article in Jer. 22:20, where it seems to be the name of a region, on the same footing with the names Lebanon and Bashan, doubtless the region referred to in Numbers and Deuteronomy. The NEB emends Ezk. 39:11 to read this name, instead of RSV “travelers.”

些地理名称（民 27:12；33:45-48；申 32:49）。我们尚不知晓这个地名涵盖的地理范围。这几段经文中提到了摩西去世的地点——亚巴琳山区，其中包括尼波山，亚巴琳山区距约旦河最下游有一段距离；而以耶亚巴琳（见 IYE-ABARIM[以耶亚巴琳]），位于东南方向的更远处，因此以色列人穿越亚嫩河之前，在绕道以东的农业区时经过了这里。至于亚巴琳一词是否能够用以指更北边的东部山地，目前尚无证据可以证明。

a'bə [Gk. abbá, a transliterated loanword from Aram. 'abbā', which represents two homonyms in Jewish Palestinian Aramaic that are identical orthographically and phonetically, but distinct morphologically; one homonym may be translated as 'the father' or 'my father,' the other as 'dada,' 'daddy.']. The common, but incorrect, morphological analysis of the Aram 'abbā' transliterated into Greek in Mk. 14:36; Rom. 8:15; Gal. 4:6, is that it is the emphatic state of the noun 'ab ("father"). While the emphatic or determinative ending -ā' is a virtual Aramaic equivalent of the definite article in Hebrew, it sometimes had the force of a possessive pronoun in Jewish Palestinian Aramaic (Stevenson, § 8); consequently the context alone would determine whether 'abbā' should be translated "the father," or "my father." Furthermore, by the time of Jesus the Aram 'ab with the first person singular pronominal suffix -ī (^abī, "my father"; cf. its use in Dnl. 5:13) had become virtually obsolete and was replaced by 'abbā' (Dalman, pp. 19–21f.).

In contrast with the foregoing morphological analysis, however, comparative linguistics indicates that the Aram 'abbā' used by Jesus (see below) was formed in an entirely different manner. That which appears to be the Aramaic emphatic ending -ā' (with compensatory doubling of the final radical b) is in reality the reduplication of the initial syllable 'ab in the final syllable

音译: a'bə 【希腊语: abbá, 是一个从亚兰语 *abbā'*音译过来的外来词, 在巴勒斯坦犹太亚兰语中代表两个同形同音异义词, 虽写法和发音相同, 但语态不同。其中一个同音异义词可以翻译成“圣父”或“我父”, 另外一个可翻译成“爸爸”, 或口语里的“爸爸”】。对希腊语中的这个亚兰语音译词 'abbā' 最普遍的形态学分析 (尽管并不正确) 是将其视作名词 'ab (“父”) 的强调式, 例如《马可福音》14:36, 《罗马书》8:15, 和《加拉太书》4:6 中的情况。而用于强调或限定的亚兰语词尾 -ā' 实际上等同于希伯来语中的定冠词, 在巴勒斯坦犹太亚兰语中该词尾有时具有物主代词的功能 (Stevenson, 第 8 段); 因此, 只有结合语境才能判断应将 'abbā' 翻译成“圣父”, 还是“我父”。此外, 到了耶稣时代, 亚兰语 'ab 带有第一人称单数代词后缀 -ī 的形式 (^abī, “我父”; 参: 该词在《但以理书》5:13 中的用法) 早已过时, 已被 'abbā' 取代 (Dalman, 19-22 页)。

相较于前面的形态学分析, 比较语言学表明耶稣所使用的亚兰语 'abbā', 其构成方式是截然不同的 (详见下文)。看似亚兰语强调后缀的 -ā' (用于加强 b 音) 实际上是声母 'ab 在韵母 bā' 中的重复, 带有“婴儿言语” (Lallwörter) 的特征。这种重复是儿童语言习得过程中的一种普遍现象 (Berry, 162 页起), 英语中的“dada/daddy”、“momma/mommy”

-bā' characteristic of Lallwörter ("nursery words"). Such reduplication is a universal phenomenon in the development of the speech of children (Berry, pp. 162ff.), for which the English forms "dada/daddy," "momma/mommy" are excellent examples. The homonym 'abbā' originated in the babbling of infants and small children in Aramaic-speaking families, and gradually achieved wider currency (cf. Jeremias, p. 58). In the colloquial speech of Jesus' time, 'abbā' was primarily used as a term of informal intimacy and respect by children of their fathers (Jeremias, p. 60). Like the analogous Aram 'immā' ("momma") derived from the Aram 'ēm ("mother"), abbā' is a static form in Palestinian Jewish Aramaic, taking neither suffix nor inflection.

In the NT, abbā occurs only three times, always in the form of the compound address abbā ho patēr ("abba, father"): Mk. 14:36; Rom. 8:15; Gal. 4:6. The transliteration, rather than translation, of the term abbā indicates that it had become a fixed liturgical expression within early Christianity, undoubtedly under the influence of Jesus' usage. Evidence from the four Gospels indicates that Jesus customarily addressed God as "Father" in all of His prayers; the sixteen examples (twenty-one including parallels) are found in every stratum of the Gospel tradition: Mark (1 time); Q (3); Luke (2); Matthew (1); John (9). (The only exception is Mk. 15:34 par. Mt. 27:46, where Jesus cries out from the cross "My God, my God" in the words of Ps. 22:1.) In Greek there are three ways in which Jesus addresses God as "Father" in prayer contexts: (1) páter ("father"), the Greek

abbā 在《新约》中仅出现三次，且都以复合形式 abbā ho patēr（“阿爸，父”）出现：《马可福音》14:36，《罗马书》8:15，《加拉太书》4:6。更准确地说，对 abbā 一词的音译（而非翻译），表明了该词是早期基督教的固定礼拜用语，这无疑受到耶稣对该词使用的影响。四福音书已经证明，耶稣在祈祷时习惯尊称上帝为“父”；这一福音传统从十六个例子（如果包含平行经文则共有二十一处）中体现出来：《马可福音》一次，Q 字原材料三次，《路加福音》两次，《马太福音》一次，《约翰福音》九次。（唯一例外的是在《马可福音》15:34 和《马太福音》27:46 中，耶稣在十字架上大声呼喊“我的神，我的神”，《诗篇》22:1 当中也是这样说的。）在希腊语中，耶稣在祈祷时称呼上帝为父的方式有三种：（1）páter（“父”），希腊语呼格（太 11:25，同路 10:21a；路 11:2；

vocative (Mt. 11:25 par. Lk. 10:21a; Lk. 11:2; 22:42; 23:34, 46; Jn. 11:41; 12:27f.; 17:1, 5, 11, 21, 24f.); (2) ho patēr (“the father”), the articular nominative used as a vocative (Mk. 14:36 [abbá ho patēr; cf. Rom. 8:15; Gal. 4:6]—correct Greek form, since the second member of a compound address is always in the nominative [Robertson, p. 461]; Mt. 11:26 par. Lk. 10:21b—incorrect Greek usage, and therefore in all probability a Semitism, since the articular nominative constitutes the vocative in both Hebrew and Aramaic [Turner, p. 34]); (3) páter mou (“my father”), Greek vocative with first person singular possessive pronoun (Mt. 26:39, 42). This variation in expression makes it probable that the Aram 'abbā' was the original form of address used in each of these prayers, since the term could legitimately be translated in all of these ways (Black, p. 283).

While the OT does use the image “Father” for Yahweh, it is a comparatively marginal conception, occurring only fourteen times and usually in the sense of an absolute and irrevocable authority (TDOT, I, 17–19). The Judaism of the Greco-Roman era continues the reluctance to apply this image to Yahweh. However, beginning with the end of the 1st cent. A.D., the image becomes increasingly common in rabbinic literature (Dalman, pp. 186–89; SB, I, 394ff.; II, 49f.). According to Jeremias (p. 29), there is no evidence in the literature of ancient Palestinian Judaism that 'abbā' was used as a personal address to God in prayer (cf. TDNT, I, 5). However, this argument from silence is so heavily qualified by

22:42; 23:34, 46; 约 11:41; 12:27-28; 17:1, 5, 11, 21, 24-25); (2) ho patēr (“圣父”), 这一冠词主格形式用作呼格(可 14:36[abbá ho patēr; 参: 罗 8:15; 加 4:6], 是正确的希腊语形式, 因为复合称谓的第二个成分都要使用主格形式[Robertson, 461 页]; 《马太福音》11:26 和平行经文《路加福音》10:21b 中错误地使用了这个希腊词语, 因此很可能体现出了闪族语的特征, 因为其中的冠词主格在希伯来语和亚兰语中都能构成呼格[Turner, 34 页]; (3) páter mou (“我父”), 希腊语呼格第一人称单数所有格形式(太 26:39, 42)。这种表达方式的变化证明在这些祷告中, 亚兰语 *'abbā'*有可能是最初对神的称谓, 因为该词可以合理地翻译成以上几种形式(Black, 283 页)。

Jeremias (cf. pp. 15–29) that it cannot bear the full weight he gives it (cf. Sandmel, p. 202). Nonetheless, it may be observed that 'abbā' as a form of address to God is extremely uncommon in Jewish literature of the Greco-Roman period, doubtless because it would have appeared irreverent to address God with this familiar term. Jesus' frequent use of this term in prayer is an indirect attestation of His extraordinary claim to intimacy with God. In further contrast with the reluctance of first-century Palestinian Judaism to apply the image of "father" to God, the four Gospels preserve more than 125 instances in which Jesus refers to God as "Father" in contexts other than prayer; in all probability the Aram. 'abbā' stands behind each of these occurrences.

1. A Levite, father of Kishi and grandfather of King David’s singer Ethan (1 Ch. 6:44 [MT 29]; cf. 15:17). This makes Abdi a contemporary of Saul the king.

2. A Levite, father of the Kish who was in service at the beginning of the reign of Hezekiah (2 Ch. 29:12). Some mistakenly identify this Abdi with 1.

ABDEEL 亚伯叠

音译：ab’dī 【希伯来语：‘abdi—可能为“耶和华的仆人”的缩写】。

1. 利未人亚伯底，基示之父，大卫的歌唱者以探的祖父（代上 6:44[《马所拉文本》29]；参：代上 15:17）。这证明亚伯底是扫罗王时期的人。

2. 利未人亚伯底，基士之父，在希西家王登基之初在耶和华的殿内侍奉（代下 29:12）。有人将这个亚伯底与 1 中的亚伯底混淆了。

3. 押底，在以斯拉时期一个犯异族通婚罪的人（拉 10:26）。他不是利未人，而是“以拦的子孙”。

ab'don [Heb. 'abdôn—perhaps 'service,' 'worship'].

ABDON 押顿、亚伯顿、亚比顿

音译: ab'don 【希伯来语: 'abdôn—可能意为“侍奉”或“崇拜”】。

1. A JUDGE of Israel for eight years (Jgs. 12:13-15). He was the son of Hillel the Pirathonite, and was buried in Pirathon in the territory of Ephraim (probably to be identified with Far'âtā, about 6 mi. [10 km.] WSW of Shechem).

1. 押顿, 作以色列八年士师(见 JUDGE[士师、审判官])(士 12:13-15)。押顿是比拉顿人希列之子, 死后葬在以法莲的比拉顿(可能被认为是弗尔阿塔(Far'âtā)一地, 在示剑西南偏西方向约 6 英里[10 公里]处)。

Abdon's numerous offspring (forty sons and thirty grandsons) indicate that he had extensive family relationships, and his possession of seventy asses points to his being a man of wealth and standing.

押顿的子孙众多(他有四十个儿子, 三十个孙子), 这表明他拥有一个大家族, 而且还拥有七十匹驴驹, 这说明他是一个富有且有地位的人。

Abdon is the last judge in the continuous account of Jgs. 2:6-13:1. After his judgeship Israel was delivered into the hands of the Philistines for a period of forty years; then follow the stories of Samson, Micah and his Levite, the Benjaminite civil war, and the childhood of Samuel. The national history is resumed in 1 S. 4:18. Upon the death of Abdon the Philistines asserted themselves as overlords of Israel. Their policy of suppressing Israel's national consciousness resulted in their abolishing the office of judge and transferring the priesthood to Eli's house, but Eli assumed some of the judge's duties. As soon as Israel regained her independence, the office of judgeship was reestablished with Samuel as judge (1 S. 7:6; 2:27f.).

《士师记》2:6-13:1 对士师的连续记载中, 押顿是最后一位。他的士师之职结束后, 耶和华将以色列人交在非利士人手中四十年; 接下来《圣经》记述的是参孙、米迦和他的利未人祭司、以色列讨伐便雅悯和撒母耳童年的故事。《撒母耳记上》4:18 中又将话题转移回国家历史上。押顿死后, 非利士人宣称他们统治了以色列。他们对以色列的压迫导致士师职分被废除, 这一神职转移至以利家, 然而以利只承担起了部分士师的职责。以色列重获独立后, 立即恢复了士师职分, 并让撒母耳作士师(撒上 7:6; 2:27-28)。

2. The son of Jehiel and his wife Maachah (1 Ch. 8:30; 9:36). Jehiel is depicted as the “father of Gibeon,” perhaps the founder of the Israelite community there. This Abdon is also referred to as the brother of Ner the grandfather of King Saul.

3. One of the messengers sent by King Josiah to Huldah the prophetess (2 Ch. 34:20). In the parallel passage 2 K. 22:12 he is called ACHBOR.

4. One of the multitude of the Benjaminites who lived in Jerusalem (1 Ch. 8:23), possibly under Nehemiah's governorship, though the date is uncertain.

5. A city of the Levites in the tribe of Asher about 8 or 9 mi. (13 or 14 km.) NNE of Accho (Josh. 21:30; 1 Ch. 6:74), probably the present ruin of ‘Abdeh’.

2. 亚伯顿是耶利和妻子玛迦的儿子（代上 8:30； 9:36）。耶利被称作“基遍的父亲”，可能是以色列聚居区的建立者。这个亚伯顿是尼珥的兄弟，扫罗王的祖父。

3. 亚比顿是约书亚王派去见女先知户勒大的使者之一（代下 34:20）。在平行经文《列王纪下》22:12 中被称作亚革波（见 ACHBOR [亚革波]）。

4. 《历代志上》8:23 中提到的住在耶路撒冷的便雅悯人之一，尽管不能确定他在世的时间，但他很可能是尼希米统治时期的人。

5. 押顿，亚设支派地业中分给利未人的一座城邑，在亚柯东北偏北约 8 至 9 英里（13 或 14 公里）处（书 21:30；代上 6:74），很可能是现在的“阿布代”遗址。

ə-bed'nə-gō [Heb. and Aram. “bēd nēgō, once Aram. “bēd nēgō’ (Dnl. 3:29)]. The name given in the court of Nebuchadnezzar to Azariah, one of Daniel's three companions (Dnl. 1:6f.). The name is unknown in Neo-Babylonian texts. According to many, nego is an intentional corruption of Nebo, the Babylonian god of wisdom, arising from the desire of the Hebrew scribes to avoid giving a heathen name to a hero of their faith. The name, according to this view, would mean “servant of Nebo.” Others take it as a translation of some Babylonian name beginning with Arad, “servant.” Attempts have been made to relate the second element to the Babylonian word for “morning star,” a name given to the goddess Ishtar.

After he refused, along with his friends, to eat the provisions of the king’s table, Abed-nego was fed and flourished upon vegetables and water. Having successfully passed his examinations and escaped the death with which the wise men of Babylon were threatened, at the request of Daniel he was appointed along with his companions over the affairs of the province of Babylon (Dnl. 2). But because he refused to bow down to the image which Nebuchadnezzar had set up, he was cast into the burning fiery furnace; and after his triumphant delivery he was caused by the king to prosper in the province of Babylon (Dnl. 3). The three friends are referred to by name in 1 Macc. 2:59, and by implication in He. 11:33f.

ā'bəl [Heb. hābel; Gk. Abel]. The second son of Adam and Eve (Gen. 4:1–9). His name may be derived from Akk. aplu, “son,” and is perhaps generic in nature.

A herdsman, Abel presented to God a more acceptable sacrifice than his brother Cain, and was subsequently killed by the latter in a fit of jealousy. Why Abel’s

字来称呼他们信仰的英雄。据此推论，该名字意为“尼波的仆人”。还有人将其理解为某些以“亚拉得”（“仆人”）开头的巴比伦名字的翻译。有人试图将这个名字的第二部分与巴比伦语中的“晨星”联系起来，“晨星”是女神伊师塔的名字。

亚撒利雅和他的同伴拒绝吃国王桌子上的食物之后，靠吃素菜、喝白水依然长得俊美肥胖。他顺利通过了巴比伦的智者都难应付的考验，在但以理的请求下，王同意派他和他的同伴管理巴比伦省的事务（但 2）。但由于亚伯尼歌拒绝向尼布甲尼撒铸造的金像跪拜，王下令将他扔进火窑，而他却安然无恙，因此王在巴比伦省高升了亚伯尼歌（但 3）。《马加比一书》2:59 中提到了但以理的这三位同伴，而且《希伯来书》11:33-34 中也有所暗示。

ABEL 亚伯

音译：ā'bəl 【希伯来语：hābel；希腊语：Abel】。亚伯是亚当和夏娃的次子（创 4:1-9）。他的名字可能来自于阿卡德语 aplu，意为“儿子”，可能是个通用名。

offering was more suitable is unknown, and there is no evidence that at this period animal sacrifices were deemed superior to cereal offerings. The LXX diélēs of Gen. 4:7 suggests that Cain's real offense was a ritual one, the offering apparently not having been presented in a proper manner. Even so, strict ceremonial regulations applied only to animal sacrifices (cf. Ex. 29:17; Lev. 8:20; Jgs. 19:29). He. 11:4, however, implies improper spiritual motivation as the real reason why the offering was rejected. Well-doing consisted not in the outward offering (Gen. 4:7) but in the right state of heart and mind.

Abel ranks as the first martyr (Mt. 23:35), whose blood cried for vengeance (Gen. 4:10; cf. Rev. 6:9f.) and produced despair, whereas that of Jesus appeals to God for man's forgiveness and brings cleansing from sin (1 Jn. 1:7). Abel's death is a prototype of Christ's death (He. 12:24).

ā'bəl [Heb. 'ābēl—'meadow']. A word used in several compound names of places. It appears by itself as the name of a city concerned in the rebellion of Sheba (2 S. 20:18), though it is there probably an abridgment of the name ABEL-BETH-MAACAH (cf. vv. 14f.). In 1 S. 6:18, where the Hebrew has "the great meadows," and the Greek "the great stone" (so RSV, NEB), the AV translates "the great stone of Abel."

祭，也没有任何证据表明燔祭优于素祭。《七十士译本》《创世纪》4:7 中 diélēs 一词暗示该隐在宗教仪式上触犯了神，他显然没有以正确的方式献祭。虽然如此，只有在献燔祭时才有严格的礼仪规定（参：出 29:17；利 8:20；士 19:29）。但《希伯来书》11:4 指出该隐的献祭不被悦纳的真正原因在于他的动机不良。行得好不在于外在的祭物（创 4:7），而是在于正确的心态和思想。

亚伯是第一位殉道者（太 23:35），他的血有声音从地里向神哀告（创 4:10；参：启 6:9-10），而耶稣的流血是为了在神面前替世人代求，令神宽恕世人，并洗净他们的罪（约壹 1:7）。亚伯之死是耶稣受难的原型（来 12:24）。

ABEL 亚比拉

音译：ā'bəl 【希伯来语：'ābēl——“牧场”】。该词多用于地名合成词中。《撒母耳记下》20:14 中的亚比拉是士巴反叛中所涉及到的城市之一（撒下 20:18），但该词在其中可能为“亚伯伯玛迦”（见 ABEL-BETH-MAACAH [亚伯伯玛迦]）的缩写形式（参：撒下 20:14-15）。在希伯来文的《撒母耳记上》6:18 中作“大牧场”，而希腊文中作“大磐石”（《修订标准译本》，《新英文译本》同），《钦定版圣经》中将其翻译为“亚比拉的大磐石”。

ā'bəl-beth-mā'ə-kə [Heb. 'āḇēl bêt-ma^{akā}—'meadow of the house of Maacah' (1 K. 15:20; 2 K. 15:29), also 'āḇēlā bêt hamma^{akā} (2 S. 20:15), 'āḇēlā ūbêt ma^{akā} (v. 14)] also ABEL OF BETH-MAACAH (2 S. 20:14f.); AV ABEL-BETH-MAACHAH (or "of Beth-maachah"), also "Abel, and (to) Beth-maachah" (2 S. 20:14). In 2 S. 20, the city, far to the north, where Joab besieged Sheba son of Bichri; in 2 K. 15, along with Ijon and other places, a city in Naphtali captured by Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria (733 B.C.). The capture appears also in the records of Tiglath-pileser, where the city is called Abilakka. In 1 K. 15 it is mentioned with Ijon and Dan and "all the land Naphtali" as being smitten by Ben-hadad of Damascus in the time of Baasha. In the parallel account in 2 Chronicles 16:4 the cities mentioned are Ijon, Dan, and Abel-maim. Abel-maim is either another name for Abel-beth-maacah, or the name of another place in the same vicinity.

The prevailing identification of Abel-beth-maacah is with Abil, a few miles W of Dan, on a height overlooking the Jordan near its sources. The adjacent region is rich agriculturally, and the scenery and the water supply are especially fine. Abel-maim, "meadow of water," is an apt designation for it.

ABEL-BETH-MAACAH 亚伯伯玛迦

音译：ā'bəl-beth-mā'ə-kə 【希伯来语：'āḇēl bêt-ma^{akā}——“玛迦家的牧场”（王上 15:20；王下 15:29），亦作 'āḇēlā bêt hamma^{akā}（撒下 20:15），'āḇēlā ūbêt ma^{akā}（撒下 14）】在《撒母耳记下》20:14-15 中作 ABEL OF BETH-MAACAH（“伯玛迦的亚比拉”）；《钦定版圣经》中作 ABEL-BETH-MAACHAH（或“of Beth-maachah”），或“Abel, and (to) Beth-maachah”（撒下 20:14）。根据《撒母耳记下》20 中的记载，亚伯伯玛迦在更远的北方，约押曾在那里围困比基利之子示巴。《列王纪下》15 中提到过该城，它在拿弗他利境内，与以云等城邑一同被亚述王提革拉毗列色夺取（公元前 733 年）。亚述王提革拉毗列色也曾记载过占领亚伯伯玛迦，该城在亚述记录中被称为阿比拉卡。《列王纪上》15 中记载道巴沙在位时，大马士革的便哈达攻击了亚伯伯玛迦与以云、但和拿弗他利全境。平行经文《历代志下》16:4 中提到了以云、但和亚伯玛音。亚伯玛音或许是亚伯伯玛迦城的别名，或是这片区域内另外一座城市的名称。

人们通常认为亚伯伯玛迦也就是今天的阿比尔丘，它位于但城以西几英里处，接近约旦河源头的上游。其附近的区域农业较为发达，风光旖旎，水源充足。亚伯玛音的含义是“水边的平原”，这是一个很贴切的名字。

11:33 along with Aroer, Minnith, and “twenty cities,” in summarizing Jephthah’s campaign against the Ammonites. Eusebius and Jerome speak of it as in their time a village about 7 Roman mi. from Rabbath-ammon (mod. Amman); and the site may be identified with Khirbet es-Suq, 5 mi. (8 km.) S of Amman. GAB suggests Na’ûr, NE of Nebo.

ABEL-MAIM ā’bəl-mā’əm [Heb. ’āḇēl mayim—‘meadow of water’]. See ABEL-BETH-MAACAH.

ā’bəl-mə-hō’la [Heb. ’āḇēl mēhōlā—‘meadow of dancing’]. The residence of Elisha the prophet (1 K. 19:16). When Gideon and his three hundred broke their pitchers in the camp of Midian, the Midianites in their first panic fled down the valley of Jezreel and the Jordan “toward Zererah” (Jgs. 7:22). Zererah (Zeredah) is Zarethan (2 Ch. 4:17; cf. 1 K. 7:46), separated from Succoth by the clay ground where Solomon made castings for the temple. The wing of the Midianites whom Gideon pursued crossed the Jordan at Succoth (Jgs. 8:4ff.). This would indicate that Abel-meholah was thought of as a tract of country with a “border,” W of the Jordan, some miles S of Beth-shean, in the territory either of Issachar or west Manasseh.

Abel-meholah is also mentioned in connection with the jurisdiction of Baana, one of Solomon’s twelve commissary of the vineyards” (“葡萄园的草原”)。《士师记》11:33 在总结耶弗他与亚扪人的战争时提到了该地，还同时提到亚罗珥、米匿和其他二十座城。优西比乌和耶柔米称在他们那个时代，亚备勒基拉明是距拉巴亚扪七罗马里的一个小村庄（今安曼）；这一地点大概可以认定为今天安曼以南 5 英里（8 公里）处的苏克废丘（Khirbet es-Suq）。《圣经地图集》（GAB）中认为该地是尼波山东北的鲁亚（Na’ûr）。

ABEL-MAIM 亚伯玛音

音译：ā’bəl-mā’əm 【希伯来语：’āḇēl mayim——“水边的草原”】。见 ABEL-BETH-MAACAH（亚伯伯玛迦）。

ABEL-MEHOLAH 亚伯米何拉

音译：ā’bəl-mə-hō’la 【希伯来语：’āḇēl mēhōlā——“舞蹈之草场”】。先知以利沙的家乡（王上 19:16）。基甸和他的三百将士在米甸的营中打破手中的瓶子，米甸人就惊恐万分，四散奔逃，沿着耶斯列山谷和约旦河“逃向了西利拉”（士 7:22）。西利拉（洗利达）也就是《历代志下》4:17 中的撒利但（参：王上 7:46），所罗门为圣殿铸造设备时在疏割和撒利但之间以胶泥铸模。基甸追赶米甸人，越过约旦河到达疏割（士 8:4-35）。这表明当时人们认为亚伯米何拉是约旦河以西，伯善以南几里的一个地区，可能在以萨迦境内，或西玛拿西境内。

《列王纪上》4:12 中提到亚伯米何拉在耶斯列下边，与伯善和撒拉他拿一同归巴拿管辖，巴拿是所罗门的十二

officers (1 K. 4:12) as below Jezreel, with Beth-shean and Zarethan in the same list.

Jerome and Eusebius speak of Abelmeholah as a tract of country and a town in the Jordan Valley, about 10 Roman mi. S of Beth-shean. At just that point the name seems to be perpetuated in that of the Wādī Mâlih, and Abelmeholah is commonly located near where that wadi, or the neighboring Wādī Helweh, comes down into the Jordan Valley. WHAB locates it at Tell el-Maqlûb, GAB at Tell Abû Sifri, both in this same general vicinity.

Presumably Adriel the Meholathite (1 S. 18:19; 2 S. 21:8) was a resident of Abelmeholah.

'ēbel, "mourning") there over Jacob (Gen. 50:11). The reference to Atad being "beyond Jordan" may imply that the narrative standpoint was that of Transjordan; otherwise a circuitous route would have been necessary.

ā'bəl-shit'im [Heb. 'āḇēl haššittîm—'watercourse of the acacias']. This form appears in Nu. 33:49 only, the name Shittim being used elsewhere (Nu. 25:1; Josh. 2:1; 3:1; Mic. 6:5). The valley of Joel 3:18 [MT 4:18] is apparently a

个官吏之一。

耶柔米和优西比乌都认为亚伯米何拉地域广阔，是位于伯善以南约十罗马里处的耶斯列山谷中的一个城镇。据此可以判断，亚伯米何拉因玛利赫（Mâlih）河谷而存留至今，并且人们通常认为它位于该河谷附近或与之相邻的赫勒韦河谷之中，赫勒韦河谷直接注入约旦峡谷。《威斯敏斯特圣经历史地图集》（WHAB）将其定位在今天的迈格卢卜丘（Tell el-Maqlûb），《圣经地图集》（GAB）将其定位在今阿布西夫里丘（Tell Abû Sifri），这两地都在同一片区域内。

音译：ā'bəl-miz'rə-im 【希伯来语：'āḇēl miṣrayim——“埃及之哀悼”】。亚达的别名，位于约旦河以东，死海以北。该地因约瑟带领着埃及的一行人在此地为逝去的雅各哀哭而得名（参：'ēbel，“哀悼”）（创 50:11）。《圣经》中说亚达在约旦河那边，从作者的叙事立场来看，约旦河那边可能指的是约旦河西；否则送葬的队伍就需要绕道而行。

One of these, Abgar, a son of Uchomo, the seventeenth (14th?) of twenty kings, according to legend (see Eusebius HE i.13) sent a letter to Jesus, professing belief in His messiahship and asking Him to come and heal him from an incurable disease (leprosy?), inviting Him at the same time to take refuge from His enemies in his city, "which is enough for us both." Jesus answering the letter blessed him, because he had believed on Him without having seen Him, and promised to send one of His disciples after He had risen from the dead. The apostle Thomas sent Judas Thaddeus, one of the Seventy, who healed him.

ā'bī [Heb. ^abī]. The name of the mother of King Hezekiah, as given in 2 K. 18:2. It is no doubt a contraction of Abijah, found in the parallel passage 2 Ch. 29:1. The spelling in the oldest version seems to indicate that ^abī is not a copyist's error, but a genuine contracted form. She was the daughter of Zechariah, and the wife of Ahaz.

ABI 亚比

音译：ā'bī【希伯来语：^abī】。希西家王母亲的名字，见《列王纪下》18:2。这个名字无疑是平行经文《历代志下》29:1 中亚比雅的缩写形式。最古老的《圣经》版本中的拼写似乎表明 ^abī 不是抄写员的笔误，确实是一个简称。亚比是撒迦利亚的女儿，亚哈斯之妻。

ā'bī [Heb. ^abī—‘father’]. The first element of several Hebrew names. The Heb. ^ab, “father,” and ^ah, “brother,” are used in forming names, both at the beginning and at the end of words, e.g., Abram (“exalted one”), Joah (“Jehovah is brother”), Ahab (“father's brother”). At the beginning of a word, however, the modified forms ^abī and ^ahī are the ones commonly used, e.g., Ahimelech (“king's brother”) and Abimelech (“king's father”).

音译：ā'bī【希伯来语：^abī——“父”】。它是许多希伯来名字的第一部分。希伯来语 ^ab, “父亲”，和 ^ah, “兄弟”，都用在人名中，可位于名字的开头和结尾，例如：“亚伯兰” (“尊贵的父亲”)，约亚 (“耶和华是兄弟”)，亚哈 (“叔父”，“父亲的兄弟”)。但在作前缀时，经常使用 ^abī 和 ^ahī 的变形形式，例如：亚希米勒 Ahimelech (“王的兄弟”) 和亚比米勒 Abimelech (“王的父亲”)。

Certain characteristics of these forms complicate the question of their use in proper names. The Heb. ^abī may be a nominative with an archaic ending (“father”), or in the construct state (“father-of”), or the form with the suffix

这些变型的特点使其在姓名中的用法变得更为复杂。希伯来语 ^abī 可能是带有古体词尾的主格形式 (“父亲”)，或者用在合成词中 (“……的父亲”)，抑或是带后缀的形式 (“我的父亲”)。因此通过它构成

("my father"). Hence a proper name constructed with it may conceivably be either a phrase or a sentence; if it is a sentence, either of the two words may be either subject or predicate. That is to say, the name Abimelech may conceivably mean either "father of a king," or a "a king is father," or "a father is a king," or "my father is King," or "a king is my father." Moreover, the phrase "father of a king" may have as many variations of meaning as there are varieties of the grammatical genitive. Further still, it is claimed that "father" or "king" may, in a name, be a designation of a deity. Thus the intended meaning may be any one of a large number of conceivable meanings.

Earlier scholarship regarded all these names as construct phrases. For example, Abidan is "father of a judge." It explained different instances as being different varieties of the genitive construction; e.g., Abihail, "father of might," means "mighty father." The woman's name Abigail, "father of exultation," denotes one whose father is exultant. Abishai, "father of Jesse," denotes one to whom Jesse is father, and so with Abihud, "father of Judah," Abiel, "father of God," Abijah, "father of Yahweh." See the cases in detail in Gesenius' Hebrew and Chaldee Lexicon (1952).

More recent scholarship regards most or all of the instances as sentences. In some cases it regards the second element in a name as a verb or adjective instead of a noun; but in Hebrew the genitive construction might persist, even with the verb or adjective. In the five instances last given, the explanation "my father is exultation," "is Jesse," "is Judah," "is

早期的学者认为这些名字是合成的词组。比如，亚比但意为“官长之父”。在属格构成不同的情况下，该名字的解释也不同。例如，亚比亥，“力量之父”，意为“大能的父亲”。女名亚比该，“喜乐之父”，意指其父是喜乐的。亚比筛，“我父是耶西”，指其父是耶西，同样，亚比忽，“赞美之父”，亚别，“父亲是上帝”，亚比雅，“父亲是耶和华”。此类情况详见格塞纽的著作 Hebrew and Chaldee Lexicon (1952)。

近代学者认为大多数名字或所有名字都是句子。有时名字中的第二部分被视作动词或形容词而非名词。但在希伯来语中，属格结构甚至可以作动词或形容词。但在上文的后五个例子给出的含义中，“我父是喜乐”、“是耶西”、“是赞美”、“是上帝”、“是耶和华”所表达的含义自然要比将其解释为合成词组更加自然。

God,” “is Yahweh,” certainly gives the meaning in a more natural way than by explaining these names as construct expressions.

There is sharp conflict over the question whether we ought to regard the suffix pronoun as present in these names—whether the five instances should not rather be translated “Yahweh is father,” “God is father,” etc. The question is raised whether the same rule prevails when the second word is a name or a designation of deity as prevails in other cases. Should we explain one instance as meaning “my father is Jesse,” and another as “God is father”? For most persons the safe method is to remember that the final decision is not yet reached, and to consider each name by itself, counting the explanation of it an open question. See also NAMES, PROPER.

The investigations concerning Semitic proper names, both in and out of the Bible, have interesting theological bearings. It has always been recognized that words for father and brother, when combined in proper names with Yah, Yahu, El, Baal, or other proper names of a deity, indicated some relation of the person named, or of his tribe, with the deity. It is now held, though with many differences of opinion, that in forming proper names many other words, e.g., the words for king, lord, strength, beauty, are also used as designations of deity or of some particular deity; and that the words father, brother, and the like may have the same use. To a certain extent the proper names are so many propositions in theology. It is technically possible to go very far in inferring that the people who

闪族人的姓名，无论是否出自《圣经》，其研究都包含着有趣的神学关联。人们普遍认为，意为“父亲”和“兄弟”的词在名字中与 Yah, Yahu, El, Baal 或其他神的名字相结合时，表明拥有此名字的人，或其支派与这一神明存在着关联。虽然人们的意见尚且不统一，但人们目前认为在姓名构成中，有许多其他词汇，例如表示王、主、力量、美等含义的词汇都用来指代上帝或某些特定的神；并且，父亲、兄弟这类的词也可能有同样的用法。从一定的意义上说，这些名字都是许多神学命题。严格来说，甚至可以推测创造这些名字的人将上帝或某些特定的神视为支派或个人的父亲、亲族、统治者、得胜者、力量或荣耀。尤其是人们可以推测当时很多地方普遍存在上帝是父的教义。无需赘言，现在人们在进行这一

In particular one might infer the existence of a widely diffused doctrine of the fatherhood of God. It is doubtless superfluous to add that at present one ought to be very cautious in drawing or accepting inferences in this part of the field of human study.

ə-bī'ə-thār, ab-i-ā'thār [Heb. 'ebyātār—'the father is preeminent']. The son of Ahimelech son of Ahitub, priest of Nob. He escaped (1 S. 22:20) Saul's slaughter of the priests there after Doeg the Edomite (21:7 [MT 8]) informed against Ahimelech (v. 2) for having given food to the fugitive David.

In 1 S. 21:2 Ahimelech is the priest par excellence of Nob (cf. 21:1; 22:11). The only mention of Abiathar in these two chapters is in 22:20, where he is the survivor who fled after David. David, feeling indirectly responsible for bringing the priests of Nob under Saul's wrath (cf. 22:22), became Abiathar's protector. Abiathar repaid this with loyal service to David throughout the latter's life.

Abiathar brought from Nob the ephod by means of which the divine will was ascertained for David (1 S. 23:2, 9f.). After David had become king and brought the ark to Jerusalem and reigned over all Israel, Zadok the son of Ahitub and Ahimelech the son of Abiathar (2 S. 8:17) are mentioned as his priests. But in eight further references (2 S. 15:24, 27, 29, 35f.; 17:15; 19:11 [MT 12]; 20:25) Zadok and Abiathar are cited as David's priests. ABIATHAR 亚比亚他

音译: ə-bī'ə-thār, ab-i-ā'thār 【希伯来语: 'ebyātār——“卓越之父”】。亚比亚他是挪伯大祭司亚希米勒之子，亚希突的孙子。以东人多益（撒上 21:7 [《马所拉文本》 8]）向扫罗王举报大祭司亚希米勒（撒上 21:2）为逃亡中的大卫提供食物，导致挪伯的祭司遭到屠杀，只有亚比亚他幸免于难（撒上 22:20）。

根据《撒母耳记下》21:2 中的描述，亚希米勒是位卓越的大祭司（参：撒上 21:1; 22:11）。这两章中唯一提到亚比亚他之处是在《撒母耳记上》22:20 当中，他逃到大卫那里。由于大卫认为挪伯的祭司因为他的缘故死在扫罗的怒气之下（参：撒上 22:22），因此他庇护了亚比亚他，亚比亚他以一生效忠大卫回报他的恩惠。

亚比亚他拿着以弗得逃到大卫那里，藉着以弗得得知神属意于大卫（撒上 23:2, 9-10）。大卫称王后，将约柜运回耶路撒冷，成为全以色列的王，《撒母耳记下》8:17 中记载亚希突之子撒督和亚比亚他之子亚希米勒作祭司长。但在《圣经》的其他八处记载中（撒下 15:24, 27, 29, 35-36; 17:15; 19:11 [《马所拉文本》 12]; 20:25），撒督和亚比亚他被称作大卫的祭司；这两位祭司和他们的儿子，即撒督之子亚希玛斯和亚比亚他之子约拿单，在押沙龙反叛期间都忠于大

Zadok and Jonathan the son of Abiathar, during Absalom's revolt. 卫。

In 1 K. 1:7, 19, 25, 42; 2:22, 26f., 35, Abiathar is reported to have championed Adonijah rather than Solomon for the throne in succession to David. He was subsequently dismissed by Solomon. In 1 K. 2:27 this is said to fulfil the word of Yahweh concerning Eli, Abiathar's ancestor in Shiloh. 1 K. 2:35 says that Solomon put Zadok the priest in the place of Abiathar, showing that Abiathar had been the senior priest. 1 K. 4:4, speaking of Solomon's priests, still mentions Abiathar, but after Zadok.

Despite 2 S. 8:17, there is no reason to doubt that Ahimelech had been the priest at Nob and that Abiathar, the sole survivor, was David's priest according to the books of Samuel and Kings. In any case 2 S. 8:17 (Pesh.) reads "Abiathar the son of Ahimelech." Further, Ps. 52 (title) reads "... A Psalm of David, when Doeg the Edomite came and told Saul and said unto him, David is come to the house of Ahimelech" (cf. 1 S. 22:9f.).

In 1 Ch. 15:11 Zadok and Abiathar are David's priests, but in 1 Ch. 18:16, following 2 S. 8:17, Zadok the son of Ahitub and Abimelech the son of Abiathar are his priests. Also in 1 Ch. 24:6 Zadok the priest and Ahimelech the son of Abiathar are mentioned. Abimelech and Ahimelech are one and the same (cf., e.g., the Gk. MSS A and B in 1 S. 22:16, 20; 23:6, the former reading Ahimelech, the latter Abimelech). In 1 Ch. 27:17 Zadok is mentioned as head of the Aaronite priests but Abiathar (1 Ch.

《列王纪上》1:7, 19, 25, 42; 2:22, 26-27 和 35 节中称亚比亚他拥护亚多尼雅, 不拥护所罗门继承大卫的王位, 因此被所罗门免去祭司之职。《列王纪上》2:27 中说这应验了耶和华在细罗论以利家所说的话。《列王纪上》2:35 中说所罗门令祭司撒督代替亚比亚他, 说明亚比亚他曾为祭司中的长老。《列王纪上》4:4 中谈及所罗门王的祭司时, 仍提到亚比亚他, 但是他的名字在撒督之后。

既然《撒母耳记下》8:17 中已有记载, 因此我们没有理由怀疑亚比亚他的儿子亚希米勒是挪伯的祭司长, 根据《撒母耳记》和《列王纪》的记载, 唯一的幸存者亚比亚他是大卫的祭司长。无论如何, 《撒母耳记下》8:17 (《别西大译本》) 中说“亚比亚他是亚希米勒之子”, 此外《诗篇》52 (标题) 中也说“以东人多益告诉扫罗说: ‘大卫到了亚希米勒家。’ 那时, 大卫作这训诲诗……” (参: 撒上 22:9-10)。

《历代志上》15:11 中说撒督和亚比亚他是大卫的祭司, 但《历代志上》18:16 遵循《撒母耳记下》8:17 中的说法, 称亚希突之子撒督和亚比亚他之子亚希米勒作大卫的祭司长。并且《历代志上》24:6 中也提到了祭司撒督和亚比亚他的儿子亚希米勒。Abimelech 和 Ahimelech 虽拼写有差别, 但指的是同一个人 (参: 例如希腊语抄本中的《亚历山太抄本》和《梵蒂冈抄本》, 《撒母耳记上》22:16, 20; 23:6 中, 前者写作 Ahimelech, 后者写作 Abimelech)。

27:34) is mentioned only as one of David's advisers. However, even in two cases in 1 Chronicles Abiathar is a colleague and contemporary of Zadok.

The problem is made more difficult in that Jesus said to the Pharisees (Mk. 2:25f.): "Have you never read what David did, when he was in need and was hungry, he and those who were with him: how he entered the house of God, when Abiathar was high priest, and ate the bread of the Presence, which it is not lawful for any but the priests to eat, and also gave it to those who were with him?" To maintain the historical accuracy of this statement one might argue that Abiathar and Ab/himelech are different names for the same person, and that father and son both had the same name. But this is not very convincing. It is more likely that the reference is simply a general one, i.e., that the Abiathar who became high priest had a hand in giving the bread of the Presence to David and his men.

The following suggestion also deserves consideration. There was a long rivalry between the Abiatharite priests, descended through Eli from Aaron's younger son Ithamar, and the Zadokites, descended from his elder son Eleazar. 2 S. 8:17, if it is not a mistaken reading, removes Abiathar from being a colleague of Zadok in Jerusalem and makes him priest of another holy place—a sin in later OT times; cf. Ezk. 44:15, where only the Levitical priests, the sons of Zadok, are to serve God at the altar. The Abiatharites of Anathoth (cf. 1 K. 2:26) were not Zadokites, and were long denied all

下面的观点同样值得斟酌。据说亚比亚他一脉的祭司之间竞争激烈，他们是出自亚伦的小儿子以他玛一脉的利未部族，是以利家的人。而撒督的子孙，是以他玛的兄长以利亚撒的后裔。如果《撒母耳记下》8:17 中的记载无误，那么亚比亚他由于在旧约时代末期所犯的罪被革职，不再是耶路撒冷撒督的同工，而成为另外一座神殿的祭司；参：《以西结书》44:15，利未祭司中只有撒督的子孙侍立在耶和华的殿中。亚拿突（参：王上 2:26）的亚比亚他子孙不是撒督人，早就被排除在耶路撒冷的朝廷之外。受到驱逐后，亚比亚他子孙在第二神殿 association with Jerusalem. After the Exile they were allowed one-third of the priestly courses in the second temple—more than Ezekiel would have granted.

Against this background the words of Jesus cut deep. He does not merely justify plucking ears of corn on the sabbath (Mk. 2:23). By citing the case of David, He refers to a house of God other than that at Jerusalem, which was all that the Pharisees, though anti-Sadducee, would accept. Nob had been the house of God, and the priest who served there was also high priest—something the Zadokites and Sadducees would find hard to swallow—even prior to his demotion by Solomon (cf. the precedence given to Zadok from his appearance in 2 S. 8:17).

At the same time Jesus opposed both the hyperlegalism of the Pharisees and the particularism of the Sadducees. By giving the bread of the Presence to David, Abiathar had been guilty of a serious breach of the ritual law, which was the concern of the Pharisees. But his action was right; and so, too, was that of the disciples. For the law, and with it the sabbath, was made for man; and if kept in the spirit, the details could be broken in cases of necessity. Again, Abiathar had been a true priest even at Nob, and a valid high priest at Jerusalem (which his father had not been). This carries the twofold lesson that God is not worshiped in Jerusalem alone, and that the priesthood is not confined to those of Zadokite descent. In other words, Jesus uses the incident in the manner of Haggadic midrash, i.e., with the aim of illustrating His message rather than recounting history. For this purpose it is more apt that Abiathar, the priest at Nob and later high priest at Jerusalem, should be the central figure in the story rather than his father Ahimelech; and it is imperative that he be styled high priest in spite of the mistaken, or deliberately altered, reading at 2 S. 8:17 and the derivative 1 Ch. 18:16; 24:6.

在这个背景下，耶稣的话语是发人深省的。他不仅仅是为门徒们在安息日掐麦穗的行为辩护（可 2:23）。而是通过引证大卫的例子，提到了耶路撒冷之外的一座神殿，尽管法利赛人反对撒都该主义，他们也同意这一说法。神的殿曾在挪伯，在那里供职的祭司也是大祭司，甚至在所罗门对亚比亚他降职之前就是如此，但是撒督的子孙和撒都该人难以接受这个观点（参：《撒母耳记下》8:17 中优先提及撒督）。

Abib is not properly a name of a month, but part of a descriptive phrase, “the month of young ears of grain.” This may indicate the Israelite way of determining the new year (Ex. 12:2), the year beginning with the new moon nearest or next preceding this stage of the growth of the barley. The year thus indicated practically corresponded with the old Babylonian year, and presumably came in with Abraham. The pentateuchal laws do not introduce it, though they define it, perhaps to distinguish it from the Egyptian wandering year. See CALENDAR.

音译: ā'bib 【希伯来语: 'ābīb——清嫩大麦或其他作物的谷穗; 参: 出 9:31; 利 2:14】。犹太纪元当中的第一个月, 在《尼希米记》2:1 和《以斯帖记》3:7 中称作尼散月, 《出埃及记》13:4, 23:15, 34:18 和《申命记》16:1 中为亚笔月。亚笔月不一定是一个月份名称, 而是一个描述性词语的一部分, “谷物萌芽的月份”。这可能指明了以色列人确定年首的方式 (出 12:2), 新年开始于距大麦萌芽的那个新月或下一个新月。事实上, 这种纪年方法与古巴比伦纪年相同, 并且推测起来是从亚伯拉罕时期开始出现的。《摩西五经》中虽规定了这种纪年方式, 但并未对其进行介绍, 可能是为了将这种纪年方式与以色列人在埃及时的纪年方式区分开来。见 CALENDAR (历法)。

ə-bī'dən [Heb. ^a*bîdān* — ‘father is judge’]. The son of Gideoni, and a leader (Heb. nāsî') of the tribe of Benjamin (Nu. 2:22; 10:24). He was chosen to represent his tribe at the census in the wilderness of Sinai (Nu. 1:11). At the erection, anointing, and sanctification of the tabernacle, Abidan made his offering on the ninth day (Nu. 7:60, 65).

音译：ə-bī'dən【希伯来语：^a*bîdān*——“父亲已经审判”】。基多尼之子，便雅悯人的领袖（希伯来语：nāsî'）（民 2:22；10:24）。以色列人在西奈的旷野统计人口时，亚比但代表他的支派帮助统计人口（民 1:11）。摩西立帐幕，要把帐幕用膏抹了，使它成圣，以色列各支派的首领来行献供的礼，亚比但在第九日献供物（民 7:60，7:65）。

ABIDE

In the AV, “abide” is sometimes used in its now archaic sense “endure,” e.g., Mal. 3:2 (Heb. kûl); Nah. 1:6 (qûm); Eccl. 1:4 (āmaq), or “await,” Acts 20:23 (Gk. ménō).

《钦定版圣经》中有时采用“abide”表示“忍受，存留”的含义，例如，《玛拉基书》3:2 (kûl)、《那鸿书》1:6 (qûm) 和《传道书》1:4 (āmaq)，或表示“等待”的含义，如《使徒行传》20:23（希腊语：ménō），现该词不再表示这两个含义。

A descendant of Joseph the son of Jacob, and head of one of the families of Manasseh that settled W of the Jordan (Nu. 26:30; Josh. 17:1–6; 1 Ch. 7:14–19). As he was great-uncle to Zelophehad's daughters, who brought a case before Moses (Nu. 36), he must have been an old man at the time of the conquest. He was the son of Gilead the son of Machir in the sense of being a more remote descendant, for Machir had sons before the death of Joseph (Gen. 50:23). The Machir that possessed Gilead and Bashan because he was "a man of war" was the Manassite family of Machir, with Jair as its great general (Josh. 17:1; 13:30f.; Nu. 32:39–41; Dt. 3:12–15). To Abiezer and other sons of Gilead, territory was assigned W of the Jordan.

In later generations the name survived as that of the family to which Gideon belonged, and perhaps also of the region they occupied (Jgs. 6:34; 8:2). They are also called Abiezrites (Jgs. 6:11, 24; 8:32). The region was W of Shechem, with Ophrah as its principal city.

这个名字在后世是基甸的家族名，也可能是基甸所占领之地的名字(士 6:34, 8:2)。他们又被称作亚比以谢族人(士 6:11, 6:24; 士 8:32)。该地区在示剑以西，俄弗拉为其主城。

1. The wife of Nabal, a rich shepherd of southern Judea, whose home was Maon (1 S. 25:2f.). Shortly after Nabal's death she became the wife of David.

Nabal grazed his flocks in or along the Wilderness of Paran (or Maon?), where David and his men protected them from marauding tribes, so that not a sheep was lost. When Nabal was sheepshearing and feasting at Carmel (in Judea), David sent messengers requesting provisions for himself and his men. But Nabal, who was a churlish fellow, answered the messengers insultingly and sent them away empty-handed. David, angered by such mean ingratitude, gathered his four hundred warriors and set out to destroy Nabal and all he had (1 S. 25:22).

Meanwhile Abigail, a woman "of good understanding, and of a beautiful countenance" (v. 3), heard of the rebuff given the men of David by her husband; and fearing what vengeance David in his wrath might work, she gathered a considerable present of food (v. 18), and hurried to meet the approaching soldiers. Her beautiful and prudent words, as also her fair face, so won David that he desisted from his vengeful purpose and accepted her gift (vv. 32–35). When Abigail told Nabal of his narrow escape, he was stricken with fear, and died ten days afterward. Shortly after this David took Abigail to be his wife, although about the same time, probably a little before, he had also taken Ahinoam (v. 43); and these two were with him in Gath (1 S. 27:3). After David became king in Hebron, Abigail bore him his second son, Chileab (2 S. 3:3), or Daniel as he is called in 1 Ch. 3:1.

1、犹大南部富裕牧羊人拿八的妻子，他们住在玛云（撒 上 25:2-3）；拿八死后不久，亚比该嫁大卫为妻。

拿八在巴兰（或玛云，不确定）的旷野附近牧羊，大卫和他的仆人保护他们免受其他宗族的劫掠，所以他们的羊群毫发无损。拿八在迦密剪羊毛并设宴之时，大卫打发仆人前去问安，求拿八赐点粮食给他们。但拿八是个性情凶暴之人，他辱骂了来使，令他们空手而归。大卫被拿八忘恩负义的行为激怒，集结 400 多勇士要去杀灭拿八一家（撒 上 25:22）。

2. Also ABIGAL (2 S. 17:25). The sister of David and mother of Amasa, who at one time commanded David's army (1 Ch. 2:16f.; 2 S. 17:25). In the first passage she is called David's sister, along with Zeruah; in the second she is called the "daughter of Nahash." Several explanations of this connection with Nahash have been suggested, any one of which would be sufficient to remove contradiction: (1) that Nahash was another name of Jesse, as in Isa. 14:29; (2) that Nahash was the wife of Jesse and by him mother of Abigail, which is least probable; (3) that Nahash, the father of Abigail and Zeruah, having died, his widow became the wife of Jesse, and bore sons to him; (4) that the text of 2 S. 17:25 has been corrupted, "daughter of Nahash" having crept into the text. At all events she was the sister of David by the same mother.

2、亦作 ABIGAL（“亚比该”）（撒下 17:25）。大卫的姐妹，亚玛撒之母，亚玛撒曾做过大卫的元帅（代上 2:16-17；撒下 17:25）。在以上第一处经文中亚比该与洗鲁雅一样，是大卫的姐妹，在第二处经文中她被称作“拿辖的女儿”。亚比该与拿辖的关系存在几种解释，任意一种解释都足以排除争议：（1）在《以赛亚书》14:29 中，拿辖是耶西的别名；（2）拿辖是耶西之妻，因此是亚比该之母，但这种说法最不可信；（3）拿辖是亚比该和洗鲁雅的父亲，他死后，他的妻子嫁给了耶西，并为耶西生子；（4）《撒母耳记下》17:25 的经文经过了改动，有人将“拿辖的女儿”擅自添加到其中。但不管怎样，亚比该都是大卫同母所生的姐妹。

3. One of the heads of the tribe of Gad, who dwelt in Gilead of Bashan (1 Ch. 5:14).

4. Either a wife of Rehoboam king of Judah, or mother of his wife Mahalath, according to the interpretation of the text (2 Ch. 11:18). Probably the latter view is correct, since there is no conjunction in the text, and since the following verse (19) implies only one wife. If this is true, she was the wife of Jerimoth son of David, and daughter of Eliab, David's eldest brother. It is interesting to note this frequent intermarriage in the Davidic house.

4、根据对《历代志下》11:18 经文的解读，亚比孩可能是犹大王罗波安的一个妻子，或其妻玛哈拉之母。后一种观点有可能是正确的，因为经文中没有连接词，而下一节经文 (代下 11:19) 中暗示罗波安只有一位妻子。如果这种推测是正确的，亚比孩应该是大卫之子耶利摩之妻，大卫的长兄以利押之女。我们注意到大卫的家中频繁出现近亲联姻的现象。

ABIJAH 亚比雅、亚比亚

音译：ə-bī'jə 【希伯来语：^a*bîyâ*, ^a*bîyāhû*（代下 13:20-21）——“我父是耶和华”或“耶和华乃我父”；希腊语：Abia】；《钦定版圣经》，《新约》中译为 ABIA（“亚比雅”）（太 1:7；路 1:5）。

1、《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》中译为 ABIAH（“亚比雅”）。便雅悯之子比结的第七子（代上 7:8）。

2、《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》中译作 ABIAH（“亚比亚”）。撒母耳先知的第二个儿子（撒上 8:2；代上 6:28[《马所拉文本》13]）。撒母耳任命亚比亚和他的兄弟在别士巴作士师，但二人都收受贿赂，为以色列的长老们所厌弃。

3、亚伦的一个后人，亚比雅。通过掣签，大卫将进入耶和华殿内侍奉的亚伦子孙分成班次，亚比雅属第八班次（代上 24:10）。公元前 6 世纪的大灾

Ch. 24:10). The disasters of the 6th cent. B.C. decimated the priesthood and reduced the number of divisions to four (Ezr. 2:36–39), but it is highly probable that after the restoration twenty-four fresh priestly divisions were instituted under the old names. Zacharias the father of John the Baptist was of the division of Abijah (Lk. 1:5); it is unlikely that this refers to the Abijah of Neh. 12:4.

4. A son of Jeroboam I of Israel (1 K. 14:1–18). The narrative describes his sickness and his mother's visit to the prophet Ahijah. He is spoken of as the one member of the house of Jeroboam in whom there was "found some good thing toward Yahweh." With his death the hope of the dynasty perished.

5. AV, NEB, also ABIA (1 Ch. 3:10). The son and successor of Rehoboam king of Judah (1 Ch. 3:10; 2 Ch. 11:20–14:1). See the variant name ABIJAM in 1 K. 14:31; 15:1, 7f.

The statements concerning Abijah's mother are confusing. She is said to have been Micaiah the daughter of Uriel of Gibeah in 2 Ch. 13:2; in all other passages she is said to be Maacah the daughter of Absalom (1 K. 15:2, etc.). Maacah, however, is also said to be the mother of Asa, Abijah's son and successor (1 K. 15:10, 13; 2 Ch. 15:16). According to 2 S. 14:27 Absalom had but one daughter, Tamar. But these difficulties can be resolved by supposing that "daughter" of Absalom here means granddaughter. This fits the chronology better, in any case, for more than fifty years elapsed between the adolescence of

4、以色列王耶罗波安一世之子（王上 14:1-18）。这段经文描述了亚比雅得病，他的母亲去向先知亚希雅求问。据说亚比雅是耶罗波安家中唯一“向耶和華显出善行”的人。他死后该王朝的希望随即泯灭。

5、在《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》中亦作 ABIA（“亚比雅”）（代上 3:10）。犹大王罗波安的儿子和继承者（代上 3:10；代下 11:20-14:1）。见该名字的变体 ABIJAM（亚比央），（王上 14:31；15:1, 7-8）。

《圣经》中关于亚比雅的母亲叙述较为混乱。《历代志下》13:2 中说她是基比亚人乌列的女儿米该亚，而其他几处经文则称她是押沙龙之女玛迦（王上 15:2 等处）。然而据说玛吉是亚撒的母亲，亚撒是亚比雅的儿子和继承人（王上 15:10, 13；代下 15:16）。根据《撒母耳记上》14:27，押沙龙仅有一个女儿，名叫他玛。有一个办法可以解决以上所有困惑，那就是假设这里所说的押沙龙的“女儿”为押沙龙的孙女。这样从年代推算上更加合理，无论如何，鉴于押沙龙青少年时期与罗波安继位之时在时间上相差 50 年，而罗波安的妻子是玛迦。米该亚这个名字有可能是玛迦名

Absalom and the accession of Rehoboam, whose wife Maacah was. The name Micaiah may be a variant of Maacah, but since it occurs in only the one verse it is probably a textual error. It is likely, then, that Absalom's daughter Tamar married Uriel of Gibeah, and their daughter Maacah was Rehoboam's wife and Abijah's mother. Abijah's reign was brief, and Maacah extended her influence into the reign of his son Asa, still acting as queen mother, until he deposed her because of her idolatry; it is in this sense that she is called Asa's mother. Wellhausen's conjecture that Asa was Abijah's brother, not his son, deserves consideration; the word "son" was sometimes used merely to denote a successor.

Abijah reigned ca. 915–913 B.C. He continued the hostilities against Israel, and the account in Chronicles deals mainly with a decisive victory gained by Abijah, in which he had 400,000 men and Jeroboam 800,000, of whom 500,000 were slain. It seems clear that these numbers are artificial, and were so intended, whatever may be the key to their meaning. At any rate, this victory enabled Abijah to occupy Bethel and the surrounding area (2 Ch. 13:19). Undoubtedly his position was strengthened by his alliance with the king of Damascus (1 K. 15:19).

His reign is condemned by the book of Kings, and Chronicles tells how he multiplied wives; yet his speech before the battle (2 Ch. 13:4–12) exhibits clear religious orthodoxy. Even if the words are those of the writer, we need not doubt that the sentiments are those of Abijah. If he was tolerant toward pagan practices, he nonetheless certainly considered himself Yahweh's appointed king (cf. v. 5).

亚比雅在位期间大约介于公元前 915-913 年间。他继续与以色列争战，《历代志》中主要记载了亚比雅的一场决定性的胜利，他在这次战争中率领四十万勇士，对抗耶罗波安的八十万勇士，并杀灭其中五十万精兵。无论出于何种目的，显然这些数字是刻意伪造的。并且这场战争的胜利令亚比雅得以占领伯特利和属伯特利的镇市（代下 13:19）。他还与大马士革的王立约，这无疑巩固了他的地位（王上 15:19）。

《列王纪》中对亚比雅的统治予以批判，并且《历代志》中也记载了他如何骄奢淫逸，妻妾成群；但在《历代志下》13:4-12 中记载他在战前演说中毅然表明了正统的宗教信仰。尽管这里是经文作者代为转述，但无可怀疑这字里行间所表达的情感是属于亚比

6. The head of a priestly family in the time of Zerubbabel (Neh. 12:4, 17). An individual of the same name signed the covenant in Nehemiah's time, three-quarters of a century later (Neh. 10:7). But since the majority of the names in the list of Neh. 10:1-8 also occur in the list of Neh. 12:1-7, it is probable that clan names rather than personal names were recorded when Nehemiah's covenant was sealed.

7. (1 Ch. 2:24, RV); AV BIAH; RSV "his father"; NEB omits. In the AV and RV, the wife of Judah's grandson Hezron, to whom was traced the origin of Tekoa. It is possible, however, that the name should be revocalized to give Heb. 'ābîhu, "his father," in apposition to Hezron, as in the RSV. Further textual emendation of this verse makes Ephrathah the name of Hezron's wife.

certain problems since the spelling varies in the MSS, with the MT of Chronicles designating him Abijah (1 Ch. 3:10; 2 Ch. 11:20–14:1). The divergence may result from a confusion in the ancient script between h and final m; from the removal of a pagan Canaanite element yām (the sea-deity) and the substitution of a Hebrew theophoric element (yah); or perhaps because he was given a throne-name (Abijah) on his accession. Mt. 1:7 presupposes Abijah as the OT reading.

a-bā-lē'nē [Gk. Abilēnē]. The tetrarchy of Lysanias at the time when John the Baptist began his ministry (Lk. 3:1). The district derived its name from Abila, its chief town, which was situated, according to the Itinerarium Antonini, 16.5 mi. (26.5 km.) from Damascus on the way to Heliopolis (Baalbek). This places it in the neighborhood of the village of Suk Wādī Baradā (Abana), near which there are considerable ancient remains, with an inscription in Greek stating that a “freedman of Lysanias the tetrarch” made a wall and built a temple, and another in Latin recording the repair of the road “at the expense of the Abilenians.” The memory of the ancient name probably survives in the Moslem legend which places the tomb of Abel in a neighboring height where there are ruins of a temple. Josephus calls this Abila hē Lysaniou, “the Abila of Lysanias,” thus ə-bim'ə-el [Heb. “bīmelek—‘father of a king’ or ‘my father is king’].

1. A king of Philistia and contemporary of Abraham. It is quite possible that Abimelech was the royal title rather than the personal name, since in the title of Ps. 34 we find it applied to the king of Gath, elsewhere known by his personal name Achish (1 S. 27:2f.).

Shortly after the destruction of Sodom, Abraham journeyed with his herds and flocks into the extreme southwestern country of Palestine (Gen. 20). While sojourning at Gerar, the city of Abimelech king of Philistia, he pretended that Sarah was his sister (v. 2); and Abimelech took her, intending to make her one of his wives. But God rebuked him in a dream, besides sending barrenness on the women of his household (vv. 3, 17). After Abimelech had reproved Abraham most justly for the deception, he dealt generously with him, loading him with presents and granting him the liberty of the land (vv. 14f.). When contention arose between the two men over a well that Abimelech's servants had seized, the two men made a covenant at the well, which took its name, Beer-sheba, from this covenant-making (Gen. 21:31f.). See ABRAHAM II, V.

2. A king of the Philistines mentioned in relation with Isaac (Gen. 26). In a time of grievous famine Isaac went down from his home, probably at Hebron, to Gerar. Fearing for his life because of his beautiful wife Rebekah, he called her his sister, just as Abraham had done with

音译: ə-bim'ə-el 【希伯来语: “bīmelek—“王者之父”或“我父是王”】。

1、与亚伯拉罕同时期的一位非利士国王。“亚希米勒”很可能是国王的王号而非人名，因为在《诗篇》34 篇的标题中曾以此名称呼迦特王，在其余经文中均用迦特王的本名亚吉（撒上 27:2-3）。

所多玛毁灭后不久，亚伯拉罕赶着他的牧群迁徙到巴勒斯坦的西南边界（创 20）。他曾寄居在基拉耳，那里是非利士王亚米比勒的城邑，亚伯拉罕当时谎称撒拉是他的妹子（创 20:2），亚米比勒便将撒拉接了去，想纳她作妾。但神在梦中指责亚比米勒，并令他家的妇人都不能生育（创 20:3，创 20:17）。亚比米勒极为恰当地谴责了亚伯拉罕的欺骗后，就厚待他，赐他礼物，并准他在自己的土地上随意居住（创 20:14-15）。这二人的仆人因井水起争执后，二人便在井前盟誓，该地便因此得名“别是巴”（创 21:31-32）。见 ABRAHAM II, V（亚伯拉罕 II, V）。

2、《创世纪》26 中提到的一位非利士国王，也叫亚希米勒，他与以撒有关联。当时以撒遭遇了饥荒，就离开家乡（可能为希伯仑），来到基拉耳。唯恐因他妻子利百加的美貌而招致灾祸，就谎称利百加是自己的妹子，这与亚伯拉罕谎称撒拉是自己妹子的做

Sarah. Neither Abimelech nor any of his people took Rebekah to wife—a variation from the Abrahamic incident; but when the falsehood was detected, he upbraided Isaac for what might have happened, continuing nevertheless to treat him most graciously.

Isaac continued to dwell in the vicinity of Gerar, until contention between his herdsmen and those of Abimelech became too violent; then he moved away by stages, reopening the wells digged by his father (26:18–22). Finally, a covenant was made between Abimelech and Isaac at Beer-sheba, just as had been made between Abraham and the first Abimelech nearly a century earlier (Gen. 26:26–33). The two kings of Philistia were probably father and son.

3. The title of Ps. 34 mentions another Abimelech, who in all probability is the same as Achish king of Gath (1 S. 21:10–22:1), with whom David sought refuge when fleeing from Saul, and with whom he was dwelling at the time of the Philistine invasion of Israel, which cost Saul his kingdom and his life (1 S. 27). It appears from this that Abimelech was the royal title, and not the personal name of the Philistine kings.

4. A son of Gideon (Jgs. 9) who aspired to be king after the death of his father, and did rule three years (v. 22). He first won support of the members of his mother's family and their recommendation of himself to all Israel (vv. 3f.). He then murdered the seventy sons of his father at Ophrah, the family home in the tribe of Manasseh, Jotham the youngest son alone escaping (v. 5).

以撒继续居住在基拉耳附近，直到他的仆人和亚比米勒的仆人之间的争端激化；他便逐渐迁移，他父亲从前挖的井塞住了，他就重新挖掘（创 26:18-22）。最后，亚比米勒与以撒在别是巴立约，这与亚伯拉罕和第一位亚比米勒在一世纪前所立的约一样（创 26:26-33）。这两位非利士国王很可能是一对父子。

3、《诗篇》34 篇的标题提到了另外一位亚米比勒，很可能与迦特王亚吉是同一个人（撒上 21:10-22:1）；大卫逃离扫罗处，曾向亚吉寻求庇护，在非利士侵犯以色列期间，大卫寄居在非利士，扫罗死于这场战争，他的国也因此而毁灭（撒上 27）。这样看来，亚比米勒是一个王室头衔，而不是这几位非利士王的名字。

4、基甸的众子之一（士 9），名叫亚比米勒，基甸死后，以色列人希望立亚比米勒作王，后来亚比米勒确实管理以色列三年（士 9:22）。亚比米勒的众母舅都很支持他，把他推荐给以色列人（士 9:3-4）。随后亚比米勒回到俄弗拉他父亲的家（玛拿西支派的家），把自己的兄弟共七十人全部都杀害了，只有他最小的兄弟约坦幸免于难。（士 9:5）。此后示剑人聚集起

After this Abimelech was made ruler by an assembly of the people at Shechem. 来，立亚比米勒为王。

An insurrection broke out in Shechem, however, led by Gaal son of Ebed. Abimelech succeeded in capturing that city, and then Thebez; but while he was storming the citadel of Thebez, into which the defeated rebels had retreated, he was felled by a millstone, which a woman dropped on him from the wall (vv. 50–53). Realizing that he was mortally wounded and in order to avoid the shame of death at a woman’s hand, he had his armor-bearer kill him with his sword (v. 54). His cruel treatment of the Shechemites (vv. 46–49), when they took refuge from him in their strong tower, was a just judgment for their acquiescence in his crimes (vv. 20, 57); while his own miserable death was retribution for his bloody deeds (v. 56). His shameful death is mentioned in 2 S. 11:21.

然而以别的儿子迦勒在示剑造反，亚比米勒成功夺取示剑，追击叛军到提备斯，攻取了该城，但他在攻打提备斯一座坚固的城楼时，一个妇人从城楼上抛下一块磨石将他砸倒（士 9:50-53）。他当时见自己受了致命的伤，为避免遭受被妇人所杀的耻辱，便命令手下的将士用剑杀死他（士 9:54）。亚比米勒残忍的烧死了躲在卫所的示剑人（士 9:46-49），这是示剑人支持亚比米勒的恶行所应得的报应（士 9:20，士 9:57）。而亚比米勒的惨死是他所行的一切罪恶杀戮的报应（士 9:56）。《撒母耳记下》11:21 中提到了他的耻辱之死。

His house was either in Gibeah of Benjamin or “in the hill” (1 S. 7:1; 2 S. 6:3f.; note that Heb. gib'á means “hill” and that the place name Gibeah ordinarily has the definite article). 1、非利士人将约柜送还后，基列耶琳人就将其存放在亚比拿达家中，他的家可能在便雅悯的基比亚，或在“冈上”（撒上 7:1；撒下 6:3-4；值得说明的是希伯来语 gib'á 意为“山”，而地名基比亚前通常有定冠词）。因此将亚比拿达视为基列耶琳人是很自然的，尽管《圣经》并没有这样明确的 think that Abinadab was himself a man of Kiriath-jearim, though the account does not explicitly say so. The record is that the men of Kiriath-jearim were summoned to take charge of the ark at a time when no one else dared to have it (1 S. 6:20f.); and the implication seems to be that they had no option to refuse. Possibly this was due to their being Gibeonites, and hereditary “bondmen” of “the house of my God” (Josh. 9:17, 23). However this may be, they “sanctified” Abinadab’s son Eleazar to have charge of the ark. According to the Hebrew and some of the Greek copies, the ark was in Gibeah in the middle of the reign of King Saul (1 S. 14:18).

About a century later, according to the biblical dating, David went with great pomp to Kiriath-jearim, otherwise known as Baalah or Baale-judah, to bring the ark from Kiriath-jearim, out of the house of Abinadab in the hill (or, in Gibeah), and place it in Jerusalem (1 Ch. 13; 2 S. 6). The new cart was driven by two descendants of Abinadab. There may or may not have been another Abinadab then living, the head of the house.

2. The second of the eight sons of Jesse, one of the three who were in Saul’s army when Goliath gave his challenge (1 S. 16:8; 17:13; 1 Ch. 2:13).

3. One of the sons of King Saul (1 Ch. 8:33; 9:39; 10:2; 1 S. 31:2). He died in the battle of Gilboa, along with his fathers and brothers.

说明。据记载，当时没有任何人敢去接回约柜，只有基列耶琳人受到召唤前去完成了这个使命（撒上 6:20-21）。而其中也暗指他们无法拒绝这个使命。这也许是因为他们是基遍人，世代都是神殿中的奴仆（书 9:17, 书 9:23）。无论如何，这件事使得亚比拿达之子以利亚撒获得尊荣，得以看守神的约柜。根据希伯来文《圣经》和一些希腊文的抄本，在扫罗王统治中期，约柜被存放在基比亚（撒上 14:18）。

2、耶西的八子中的第二子，歌利亚向扫罗讨战时，亚比拿达和他的另外一位兄弟随扫罗王出战（撒上 16:8；17:13；代上 2:13）。

Joshua on the man who should rebuild Jericho was of a piece with the other details, Jericho being treated exceptionally, as a city placed under the ban. The language of Joshua's curse is capable of being translated: "Cursed be the man before the Lord who shall ... build ... Jericho; (who) shall lay its foundation at the cost of his firstborn, and set up its gates at the cost of his youngest." According to this interpretation the death of the builder's eldest and youngest sons is spoken of not as the penalty involved in the curse, but as an existing horrible custom, mentioned in order to give solemnity to the diction of the curse. The writer in Kings cites the language of the curse by Joshua. The context in which he mentions the affair suggests that he regards Hiel's conduct as exceptionally flagrant in its wickedness. Hiel, in defiance of the Lord, not only built the city, but in building it revived the horrible old Canaanite custom, making his firstborn son a foundation sacrifice, and his youngest son a sacrifice at the completion of the work.

Abishag was a very beautiful virgin whose duty it was to “cherish” the king, i.e., to be his nurse, and to “lie in his bosom.” This is sometimes construed as a test of the king’s capacity for sexual intercourse (1 K. 1:4) as a condition for retaining the royal office, but the implication may simply be that she was keeping David warm. Either way, he appeared to receive new vigor in his last days.

After David’s death Abishag was involved in the intrigues of succession, when Adonijah, the oldest living son of David, asked for her hand. This was tantamount to asking for the kingdom, for it was a rule in the ancient East that the whole of a king’s harem became the personal property of his successor; though Adonijah may genuinely have loved her as well. Solomon not only refused his request, but also had Adonijah put to death, thus removing another rival to the throne.

He first appears with David, who was in the Wilderness of Ziph to escape Saul. When David called for a volunteer to go down into Saul's camp by night, Abishai responded, and counseled the killing of Saul when they came upon the sleeping king (1 S. 26:6-9). In the skirmish between the men of Ishbosheth and the men of David at Gibeon, in which Asahel was killed by Abner, Abishai was present (2 S. 2:18, 24). He aided Joab in the cruel and indefensible murder of Abner, in revenge for their brother Asahel (3:30). In David's campaign against the allied Ammonites and Syrians, Abishai led the attack upon the Ammonites, while Joab met the Syrians; the battle was a great victory for Israel (10:10-14).

Abishai was always faithful to David, and remained with him as he fled from Absalom. When Shimei, of the house of Saul, cursed the fleeing king, Abishai characteristically wished to kill him at once (16:8f.); and when the king returned victorious, Abishai advised the rejection of Shimei's penitence and his immediate execution (19:21). In the battle with Absalom's army at Mahanaim, Abishai led one division of David's army, Joab and Ittai commanding the other two (18:2). With Joab he put down the revolt against David by Sheba, a man of Benjamin (20:6, 10), at which Joab treacherously slew Amasa his cousin and rival, as he had likewise murdered Abner, Abishai no doubt again being party to the crime. In a battle with the Philistines late in his life, David was faint, being now an old man, and was in danger of death at the hands of the Philistine giant Ishbibenob, when Abishai came to his rescue and killed the giant (21:17).

亚比筛始终效忠于大卫，大卫躲避押沙龙时，他追随大卫，不离不弃。当扫罗的族人示每咒骂逃难的大卫王时，亚比筛当即想杀死示每（撒下 16:8-9）；大卫胜利返回耶路撒冷时，亚比筛谏言驳回示每的请罪，将其立即处死（撒下 19:21）。在马哈念与押沙龙的军队作战时，亚比筛率领大卫的一队军兵，约押和以太率领另外两队（撒下 18:2）。便雅悯人示巴反叛大卫，亚比筛与约押一同将其镇压（撒下 20:6, 10），约押用杀押尼珥的手法狡猾地杀死了他的堂兄弟和对手亚玛撒，亚比筛也是同谋。大卫晚年时，在与非利士人的一次争战中，因年事已高，在巨人以实比诺的攻击下感到疲乏，命悬一线之际时亚比筛解救了他，将巨人杀死（撒下 21:17）。

In the list of David's heroes (2 S. 23) Abishai's right to leadership of the "second three" is based upon his overthrowing three hundred men with his spear (v. 18). He does not appear in the struggle of Adonijah against Solomon, in which Joab was the leader, and therefore is supposed to have died before that time.

He was an impetuous, courageous man, but less cunning than his more famous brother Joab, though just as cruel and relentless toward rival or foe. David understood and feared their hardness and cruelty. Abishai's best trait was his unswerving loyalty to his kinsman David.

在大卫的勇士中（撒下 23），亚比筛被尊为后三个勇士的首领，是因为他举枪杀了三百人（撒下 23:18）。约押阴谋策划，支持亚多尼雅与所罗门争夺王位，亚比筛未参与其中，因此推测在此之前他已经去世。

亚比筛是一个鲁莽、勇猛的人，但不像他的兄弟约押那样狡猾，虽然他对对手和敌人也同样的残酷无情。大卫了解这一点，也因他们的冷酷残暴而倍感担忧。亚比筛对大卫王坚定不移的忠诚是他最优秀的品质。

ABLE

The Gk. dýnamai, “have power,” may refer to inherent strength, or to the absence of external obstacles, or to what may be allowable or permitted. The Gk. ischýō, as in Lk. 13:24; Jn. 21:6, always refers to the first of these meanings. The rendering of Gk. hikanóō in 2 Cor. 3:6, AV, is misleading, and has been properly changed in the RSV, “has qualified us as ministers”; cf. the AV and NEB. See also POWER.

See TDNT, II, s.v. δύναμαι κτλ. (Grundmann).

ABLUTION

Ceremonial washing for religious purification.

I. Biblical Terms.—The term occurs twice in the RSV (He. 6:2; 9:10), in both instances translating the Gk. baptismós (lit. “dipping”). It is derived from the Latin verb abluere, “wash off,” and, as commonly used in a religious sense, it denotes a washing that is intended to yield ritual or ceremonial purity. As a religious rite or obligation it thus has nothing to do with washing for hygienic cleanness (see BATHE; WASH), but with the removal of ritual defilement contracted from such sources as contact with the dead (Nu. 19), bloodshed (Lev. 17), leprosy and other diseases or maladies (Lev. 13f.), childbirth (Lev. 12), copulation (Lev. 18;), and menstruating women (Lev. 15).

The requisite ablutions for removing these various kinds of uncleanness are elaborated particularly in the instructions

希腊语: dýnamai, “有能力”, 可指与生俱来的力量, 或不存在外界阻力, 也可能指受到允许或授权的事。《路加福音》13:24 和《约翰福音》21:6 中的希腊语 ischýō 通常取以上第一种含义。《钦定版圣经》, 《哥林多后书》3:6 中的希腊语 hikanóō 的翻译容易让人误解, 因此在《修订标准译本》中作出适当修改——“能承担这新约的执事”; 参: 《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》。另见 POWER (力量)。

一种宗教上的洁净仪式。

I. 圣经术语。该词在《修订标准译本》中出现过两次(来 6:2; 9:10), 两次均为希腊语 baptismós (字面意思: “浸、蘸”)的翻译。该词源自拉丁语动词 abluere, 意为“洗去”, 通常用于表达宗教含义。行这种洗濯礼, 意在达到宗教仪式或礼节上的洁净。因此, 作为一种宗教仪式或惯例, 这种洁净仪式不是为了保持卫生清洁(见 BATHE[洗澡], WASH[洗]), 而是为了去除仪式上的污秽, 如与尸体接触过的人(民 19), 行杀戮者(利 17), 大麻风等疾病的患者(利 13-14), 以及经历生育(利 12), 性交(利 18), 和月经(利 15)的人都要行相应的洁净仪式。 regarding ceremonial impurity in Lev. 15–17 and Nu. 19. There the Hebrew term usually is rāḥaṣ, “rinse” (translated “bathe/bathing” or “wash/washing,” but never “ablution”), with respect to the ceremonial cleansing of one’s own person. A different term, kāḥas (lit. “tread, pound”), is used there for the washing of one’s garments.

《圣经》中详细说明了去除以上各种污秽的洗濯礼, 尤其是《利未记》15-17 和《民数记》19 中, 制定了各种污

II. Usage in the OT and in Rabbinic Judaism.-A. Ceremonial Importance.

Thus ablutions for ritual purity were of primary importance in the ceremonial life of Israel, especially and increasingly so in the era of rabbinic Judaism. Ablution was considered a prerequisite to approaching God, whether by means of sacrifice or prayer or merely by entering a holy place (Ex. 19:10; cf. 1 S. 16:5; Josephus Ant. xiv. 11.5); and thus priests and Levites were known to have washed their hands, feet, clothes, and/or entire bodies in preparation for ceremonial actions (Lev. 8:6; Ex. 30:19–21; Nu. 8:21; etc.; see also LAVER). Cf. Ps. 26:6; Koran 5:6: “O believers, when you stand up to pray wash your faces, and your hands up to the elbows, and wipe your heads, and your feet up to the ankles” (A. J. Arberry, Koran Interpreted [1955], pp. 128f.); and the Ugaritic epic, Keret A.ii. 62–77 (ANET, p. 143): “Wash from hand to elbow/From [thy] fīng [ers] up to the shoulder... /Lift up thy hands to heaven, /Sacrifice to Bull, thy father El.”

By the 1st cent. A.D. the washing of the hands before a meal had become a requirement throughout Judaism (cf. Mt. 15:2; Mk. 7:3; Lk. 11:38; Berakoth 53b; and Sotah 4b: “R. ‘Awira: ‘Whoever eats bread without previously washing his

穉应受洗濯礼的条例。希伯来语 rāḥaṣ, “冲洗”（译为“洗澡/用水洗”或“洗/水洗”，但从不译为“洗礼”），指在仪式上对自身所做的清洗。另外一个术语，kāḥas（字面意思：“踏，捣”），用来指洗自己的衣服。

II. 在《旧约》和拉比犹太教当中的用法。

A. 仪式上的重要性。在以色列的仪式生活中，洗濯礼的洁净作用是最重要的，尤其是在拉比犹太教时期，这种仪式变得越来越重要。无论是在献祭还是祷告时，洁净仪式都被视为与神亲近的先决条件，即使仅是进入圣殿，在此之前也必须接受洗礼（出 19:10；参：撒上 16:5；Josephus Ant. xiv. 11.5）；因此祭司和利未人都知道，在领受圣职之前都要洗手、洗脚、洗衣服并且（或者）要沐浴（利 8:6；出 30:19-21；民 8:21 等；另见 LAVER[洗濯盆]。参：诗 26:6；《古兰经》5:6：“信道的人们啊！当你们起身去礼拜的时候，你们当洗脸和手，洗至于两肘，当摩头，当洗脚，洗至于两踝”（A. J. Arberry, Koran Interpreted [1955], 128-129 页）；以及乌加里特人的史诗 Keret A.ii. 62–77 页（ANET, 143 页）：“从手洗到眼眉/从[你的]手指洗到肩膀……/举起你的手/向你的父安拉献公牛祭。” hands is as though he had intercourse with a harlot....' R. Zerika: 'Whoever makes light of washing the hands [before and after a meal] will be uprooted from the world' " [Soncino tr. of Babylonian Talmud by A. Cohen (1936)]. By this time also public baths were gaining increasing acceptance through the influence of Hellenistic and Roman culture (1 Macc. 1:14; Josephus Ant. xvii.6.5; xviii.2.3). Herod's temple even provided a special room equipped for the ablutions and bathing of priests (Yoma iii.2).

B. Symbolism of Running Water. Ablutions to rectify ceremonial defilement were performed in running water (Lev. 15:13), springs (Jth. 12:7-9), rivers (2 K. 5:10-13), garden pools (2 S. 11:2-4), and in many instances required full bodily cleansing (e.g., Naaman in the Jordan [2 K. 5:10ff.], Aaron and his sons [Lev. 8:6], Bathsheba [2 S. 11:2ff.], the leprous [Lev. 14:8f.]). The symbolic character of running water made this an eminently desirable commodity for ceremonial ablutions (see Rowley, pp. 224f.), for it was understood that both the miasma of disease and the invisible stain of ritual defilement "ran off" the body with the running water. It is significant that great importance was attached to running water in early Christian baptism also.

C. Ritual vs. Ethical Purity. Ritual purity alone is the goal of these ablutions and washings (including Jewish proselyte baptism; see BAPTISM); they do not mediate forgiveness or ethical purity. Rabbinic Judaism envisions only purification from cultic uncleanness as 人将被世人所厌弃' " [《巴比伦他勒目》，A. Cohen (1936)，Soncino译]。在此期间，因受到希腊和罗马文化的影响，公共浴场受到更广泛的接受（马一 1:14；Josephus Ant. xvii.6.5；xviii.2.3）。希律王的神殿甚至专门为祭司提供了洗礼和洗澡的场所。

*B. 活水的象征意义。*在仪式上为去除污秽所行的洗礼用的是活水（利 15:13）、泉水（滴 12:7-9）、河流（王下 5:10-13）和花园池塘（撒下 11:2-4）里的水，还有众多事例表明在某些情况下要求全身清洁（例如：乃幔在约旦河中沐浴[王下 5:10 起]，亚伦和他的儿子们的沐浴[利 8:6]，拔示巴[撒下 11:2 起]和长大麻风的人[利 14:8-9] 的沐浴）。活水的象征意义使其最适合用于洗礼（见 Rowley, 224-225 页），因为人们认为人身上的污浊之气和看不见的仪式上的污秽都被活水洗净了。值得注意的是，早期基督教的洗礼也非常重视活水的作用。

their product (cf. Lev. 14:8; 15:5ff., 11; Nu. 31:23; and Mish Mikwaoth; see also TDNT, I, 535f.). That a symbolical association with repentance was developing in late Judaism may be seen in several examples from the Pseudepigrapha: Sib. Or. 4:165ff. (Lanchester, APOT, II, 396), and the Life of Adam and Eve 6:1f (Wells, APOT, II, 135). Jesus' response (Mt. 15:1-20 par. Mk. 7:1-23) to the inquiry of the scribes and Pharisees, "Why do your disciples not live according to the tradition of the elders, but eat with hands defiled?" (Mk. 7:5), inculcates a higher (ethical) purity that is to be sought more than ceremonial purity; for "not what goes into the mouth defiles a man, but what comes out of the mouth, this defiles a man" (Mt. 15:11).

III. NT References.- The two NT occurrences of "ablution(s)" (He. 6:2; 9:10) translate the Greek term baptismós, "the act of dipping or immersing" (in contrast to the specific NT term for "baptism," báptisma, used only for Christian baptism; see TDNT, I, 545). The baptismoí of the letter to the Hebrews represent the Levitical ablutions of the Judaic tradition (in late Judaism both the Gk. baptízō, "dip, immerse," and its Semitic counterpart, ṭābal/ṭēbal, "dip," were already technical terms for ablutions for cleansing from ritual impurity; cf. Jth. 12:7-9; Sir. 34:25). He. 9:10 is a somewhat disdainful reference to the "various ablutions" (among other things) with which the Levitical code has to do, but which are now for the writer of Hebrews to be classed among those external rituals that have been superseded. In He. 6:2 the writer exhorts the reader to get beyond elementary

拿》的《论礼仪浴》；另见 TDNT, I, 535-536)。从《伪经》中的多个例子可见，到了犹太教后期，洗礼成为了悔改的象征，例如《西卜神谕篇》4:165 起 (Lanchester, APOT, II, 396 页)，《亚当和夏娃的生平》6:1-2 (Wells, APOT, II, 135 页)。在《马太福音》15:1-20 (及其平行经文《马可福音》7:1-23) 中，文士和法利赛人指责耶稣说：“你的门徒为什么不照古人的遗传，用俗手吃饭呢？” (可 7:5)，耶稣通过对这些人的回应来教导人们，要拥有更高 (道德上) 的洁净，而非仅遵守礼仪上的洁净；因为“入口的不能污秽人，出口的乃能污秽人” (太 15:11)。

III. 《新约》参考文献。“ablution(s)”一词在《新约》中出现过两次 (来 6:2; 9:10)，都是对希腊语 baptismós (“洗”，“浸”) 的英语翻译，意思是“浸蘸或浸泡” (与 báptisma 形成对照，báptisma 是《新约》中用于表示“洗礼”的术语，专门指基督教的洗礼；见 TDNT, I, 545 页)。《希伯来书》中的 baptismoí (“各种洗濯的规矩”) 代表利未人遵照犹太传统而进行的各种洁净之礼 (在犹太教后期，希腊语 baptízō [意为“蘸，浸”] 和闪族语中与之同意的词语 ṭābal 或 ṭēbal [“浸”] 都已经被用作洁净仪式的术语；参：滴 12:7-9；便 34:25)。《希伯来书》9:10 中提到“各种洗濯的规矩”时，包含一种轻蔑的意思，这曾经是被利未族严格执行的典章律条，但现在《希伯来书》的作者将其归为属肉体的条例，都是要废除的。在《希伯来书》6:2 中，作者劝告读者不要拘泥于基本的教义，包括各种洗礼 (《修订标准译本》“instruction doctrines, which include baptismōn didachē (RSV “instruction about ablutions”; NEB “instruction about cleansing rites”; AV “doctrine of baptisms”)—i.e., teaching on the difference between Jewish (and perhaps pagan) ablutions and Christian baptism. The term baptismós occurs one other time in the NT—Mk. 7:4. This is a parenthetical comment that among the traditions observed by the Pharisees was that of the “washing” of cups, vessels, etc.

IV. Usage in Qumrân.—Information from such ancient historians as Josephus indicates that the Essene sect was quite meticulous about ablutions. If, as general consensus now holds, the Qumrân covenanters and the ESSENES are to be equated, the striking testimony of the numerous miqwā'ōt at Khirbet Qumrân is confirmatory. Even though most of the pools excavated there were likely to have been reservoirs, certain of the smaller ones by their very size and formation point to usage in various public ceremonies involving ablutions or ritual cleansing (see Black, pp. 95f.; Cross, pp. 67f., 85, 234; Rowley, pp. 254f.).

According to Josephus the Essene was obligated to bathe every day and to perform ablutions on various other occasions (BJ ii.8.5, 7, 9f.). These rites of purification by water are also mentioned in the Qumrân documents themselves. A chapter of the Damascus Document (CD 12) is devoted to the subject of purification by water. The ritual obligation of the Sons of Light to purify themselves with water after battle is mentioned in the War Scroll (1QM 14).

about ablutions” [“各种洗礼的教训”]; 《新英文译本》“instruction about cleansing rites” [“各种洁净礼的教训”]; 《钦定版圣经》“doctrine of baptisms” [“各种洗礼的教义”]——即关于犹太洁净礼（可能还包括异教徒）和基督教洗礼区别的教诲。baptismós 一词还出现在《新约》《马可福音》7:4 中。这一处出现在括号内的评注里，对法利赛人所拘守的诸多古人的传统，包括“洗”杯、罐、铜器等习俗加以说明。

IV. 在《死海古卷》中的用法。从约瑟夫斯等古代历史学家的作品中可知，爱色尼派曾一丝不苟地遵行各种洁净礼。如果像学者们普遍认为的那样，昆兰团体等同于爱色尼教派（见 ESSENES[爱色尼教派]），那么在昆兰遗址中发现的众多池塘显然是为了施坚信礼。虽然那里发掘出的一部分水池可能被用作水库，但某些尺寸和外观较小的池塘用在洗濯礼或洁净礼等公共仪式中（见 Black, 95-96 页；Cross, 67-68, 85, 234 页；Rowley, 254-255 页）。

据约瑟夫斯记载，爱色尼派教徒每天要沐浴，并且在其他各种场合下，还会行各种洗濯礼（BJ ii.8.5, 7, 9-10）。《死海古卷》当中也提到了这些用水进行的洁净礼。《大马士革文献》中有一章（12 章）专门对以水进行的洁净礼进行了介绍。《战卷》中提到了光明之子在战争过后要以水自洁（《战卷》14）。但正如所料，鉴于《会规手册》囊括了会众生活方面的条例，因此对洁净礼作出了最多的介绍。据《会规手册》6:16-17 介绍，

But, as might be expected, it is the Manual of Discipline (1QS) for the community life that yields the most information. After a year's probation the novice was examined and then allowed to participate in (lit. "touch") the "purification of the Many" (1QS 6:16f.). This daily rite was conceived as foreshadowing God's own great and final lustration of the elect (1QS 4:20-22); see Vermes, pp. 45, 71ff.; Dupont-Sommer, pp. 49, 68ff.

There is also a warning against a wholly materialistic or magical conception of the ablution rites (1QS 2:25-3:9)—the covenanter had to surrender himself to the community and his will to God, lest the purificatory rites have no effect on him. While the flesh is cleansed by water, the heart is purified by the Holy Spirit (1QS 3:7-9); see Dupont-Sommer, p. 77.

It is a possibility that in combination with the daily ritual ablutions there was also a particular initiatory washing at Qumrân associated with the ceremony of entry into the "new covenant" of the community (cf. 1QS 5:8ff., esp. 13f.; and Cross, p. 234; Rowley, pp. 263f.). But this reference may indicate only the daily purificatory ablutions mentioned above.

《会规手册》2:25-3:9 还警示信众对待洗濯礼，不可包含功利主义或邪术的思想，即受洗的信徒必须服从教会和神的旨意，否则洁净礼将对他无效。肉身得到水的清洁的同时，心灵也被圣灵洁净（《会规手册》3:7-9）；见 Dupont-Sommer 作品，77 页。

Abner was to Saul what Joab was to David. Despite the many wars waged by Saul, we hear little of Abner during Saul’s lifetime. Not even in the account of the battle of Gilboa is he mentioned. Yet both his high office and his kinship to the king must have brought the two men in close contact. On festive occasions it was the custom of Abner to sit at table by the king’s side (1 S. 20:25). It was Abner who introduced the young David fresh from his triumph over Goliath to the king’s court (so according to the account in 17:57). We find Abner accompanying the king in his pursuit of David (26:5ff.). Abner is rebuked by David for his negligence in keeping watch over his master (ch. 15).

Upon the death of Saul, Abner took up the cause of the young heir to the throne, Ishbosheth, whom he forthwith removed from the neighborhood of David to

音译: ab'nər 【希伯来语: 'abnēr, 在《撒母耳记上》14:50 中出现过一次 ^ahînēr, 意为“圣父是光明”或“我父是尼珥”】。扫罗和伊施波设（亦写作 Eshbaal）统领下的以色列军队的将军。他是扫罗的堂兄弟（撒上 14:50-51）或叔父（代上 8:33; 9:39）。根据《历代志上》27:21, 押尼珥有一个人儿子, 名叫雅西业。

押尼珥与保罗的关系等同于约押与大卫的关系。尽管除了在扫罗所经历的战争之外, 我们很少听到押尼珥这个名字。甚至在基利波战役中, 都没有提到他的名字。但他身居要职, 与王有亲属关系, 因此押尼珥与扫罗之间必然联系紧密。在节庆的场合, 押尼珥按惯例要坐在扫罗王旁边（撒上 20:25）。根据《撒母耳记上》17:57 的记载, 押尼珥将刚刚战胜歌利亚的大卫引荐给扫罗王。扫罗追击大卫时, 押尼珥随行（撒上 26:5 起）。大卫斥责押尼珥没有保护好他的主扫罗王（撒上 26:15）。

扫罗死后, 押尼珥拥立扫罗王唯一幸存的小儿子伊施波设作王, 他立即带伊施波设离开大卫的地域, 来到约旦河以东的玛哈念, 在那里押尼珥立伊

Mahanaim in the east Jordan country. There he proclaimed him king over all Israel. By the pool of Gibeon he and his men met Joab and the servants of David. Twelve men on each side engaged in combat, which ended disastrously for Abner, who fled. He was pursued by Asahel, Joab's brother, whom Abner slew. Though Joab and his brother Abishai sought to avenge their brother's death on the spot, a truce was effected; Abner was permitted to go his way after 360 of his men had fallen.

Joab naturally awaited his opportunity. Abner and his master soon had a quarrel over Saul's concubine Rizpah, with whom Abner was intimate. It was certainly an act of treason which Ishbosheth was bound to resent. The disgruntled general made overtures to David; he won over the tribe of Benjamin. With twenty Benjaminites he came to Hebron and arranged with the king of Judah that he would bring over to his side all Israel. He was scarcely gone when Joab learned of the affair; without the knowledge of David he recalled him to Hebron where he slew him, "for the blood of Asahel his brother."

David mourned sincerely the death of Abner. "Do you not know," he addressed his servants, "that a prince and a great man has fallen this day in Israel?" He followed the bier in person. Of the royal lament over Abner a fragment is quoted (see 2 S. 3:6-38):

"Should Abner die as a fool dieth?
Thy hands were not bound, nor thy feet put into fetters:
As a man falleth before the children of 施波设为以色列王。押尼珥和他的仆人在基遍池边与约押和大卫的仆人相遇。双方各出十二个人搏斗，结果押尼珥一方惨败，他便逃跑了。约押的兄弟亚撒黑追赶押尼珥，被押尼珥杀死。尽管当时约押和其兄弟亚比筛想要报仇，但双方最终还是决定停战。押尼珥一方死了三百六十人后，约押同意放押尼珥走。

约押自然一直在等待时机杀死押尼珥。不久后，押尼珥和他主伊施波设为扫罗的一个妃子利斯巴起了争执，因为押尼珥与利斯巴关系亲密，伊施波设当然憎恨这种背叛行为。押尼珥便发怒，主动投奔大卫；他说服了便雅悯支派的人。然后带着二十位便雅悯人来到希伯仑，与大卫立约，要让以色列人都归服于大卫。但押尼珥走后不久约押便听闻此事，他在大卫不知情的情况下将押尼珥带回希伯仑，并在那里将押尼珥杀死，“这是报杀他兄弟亚撒黑的仇”。

大卫为押尼珥之死诚心哀悼。他曾说：“你们岂不知今日以色列人中，死了一个作元帅的大丈夫吗？”大卫亲自跟在棺后。王为押尼珥举哀说（见撒下 3:6-38）：

“押尼珥何竟像愚顽人死呢？你手未曾捆绑，脚未曾锁住；你死如人死在罪孽之辈手下一样”（《钦定版圣经》）。

iniquity, so didst thou fall” (AV).

The death of Abner, while it can in no way be laid at the door of David, nevertheless served his purposes well. The backbone of the opposition to David was broken, and he was soon proclaimed king by all Israel.

In Hos. 2:18, “break” (AV, NEB) is a literal rendering of the image; RSV “abolish” is the intent. In the NT, Gk. katalýō in Mt. 5:17 has the meaning “repeal, annul,” and is contrasted with plērōō, “fulfil.”

By His death, Christ did away with the racial separation based on ancient ordinances and ceremonial laws (e.g., circumcision); through the cross He wrought the reconciliation, and secured that common access to the Father by which the union is maintained (Eph.

在《何西阿书》2:18（《钦定版圣经》，《新英文译本》）中，“break”是对这一意象的直译；《修订标准译本》当中的“abolish”（“废除”）一词表明了目的。《新约》《马太福音》5:17 中的希腊语 katalýō 意思是“废除，废弃”，与 plērōō（“成全”）一词的含义形成对比。

“Our Savior Christ Jesus ... abolished death” (2 Tim. 1:10). Men still die, “it is appointed unto men” (He. 9:27), but the fear of death as having power to terminate or affect our personal existence and our union with God, as a dreadful stepping out into the unknown and unknowable (into Sheol of the impenetrable gloom), and as introducing us to a final and irreversible judgment, has been removed. Christ has taken its sting from it (1 Cor. 15:55f.) and all its hurtful power (He. 2:14), has shown it to be under His control (Rev. 1:18), brought to light the incorruptible life beyond, and declared the ultimate destruction of death (1 Cor. 15:26; cf. ABOMINATION 可憎恶的、可憎之物

Albright (p. 176) suggests that the word tô'ēbâ (Gk. bdélygma) probably derives from a root w'b which originally denoted the concept of inviolability or untouchability. This root, experiencing polar developments in the Semitic languages, came to denote either “holiness” or “abomination.” The close relation between the ideas of tabu and holiness was shown in classical form by Robertson Smith (pp. 446–454). Whereas in Egyptian w'b means “cleanse, purify, be clean” (Erman and Grapow, I, 280), in Hebrew the derived noun means “negative tabu, abomination.” The original sense of the root may be preserved partly in Arab. wa'aba, “keep intact.” If the verbal root is w'b, then the Hebrew verbal form t'b must be considered a denominative secondarily derived from the noun tô'ēbâ.

In usage tô'ēbâ denotes those persons, things, or practices that offend another's sensibilities. Hence, that which is “abominable” is relative to the character, values, or culture of an individual. One displays his own character or values by that which repulses him. Accordingly, the sage opines: “to turn away from evil is an abomination to fools” (Prov. 13:19); again: “an unjust man is an abomination to the righteous, but he whose way is straight is an abomination to the wicked” (29:27). When the narrator says, “The Egyptians might not eat bread with the Hebrews, for that is an abomination to the Egyptians” (Gen. 43:32), and again, “for every shepherd is an abomination to the Egyptians” (46:34), the reader may infer that the Egyptians' sensibilities have been tô'ēbâ 用来表示冒犯其他人的人、事物或习俗。因此, 如果说一个人是 “可憎恶的”, 必与其秉性、价值观和文化修养有关。这个人表现出让人憎恶的品行或价值观。因此, 智者以为: “远离恶事, 为愚昧人所憎恶” (箴 13:19); 同理, “为非作歹的, 被义人憎嫌” (箴 29:27)。当《创世记》作者说: “埃及人不可和希伯来人一同吃饭; 那原是埃及人所厌恶的” (创 43:32), “因为凡牧羊的, 都被埃及人所厌恶” (创 46:34), 读者可能会推断出埃及人的厌恶之情是由他们的文化决定的。埃及人认为自己受到神特别的眷顾, 是特殊的选民, 因此他们称自己为不同于外邦人的 “神的子民” (见 Wilson 作品, 112 页; Herodotus ii.41; Kyle, 26 页起; 出 8:26)。 conditioned by their culture. In their feeling of special election and special providence the Egyptians call themselves “the people” in contrast to foreigners (see Wilson, p. 112; Herodotus ii.41; Kyle, pp. 26ff.; Ex. 8:26).

In most cases tô‘ēbā has reference to that which is repugnant to Yahweh. By considering the objects and practices that repel Him one can learn much about God’s character. Objects and persons that offend His sensibilities include: heathen deities such as Milcom, the “abomination of the Ammonites” (2 K. 23:13); images (Dt. 27:15) and the gold and silver belonging to them (7:25); the wages of prostitution (23:18); a false balance (Prov. 11:1); those with a perverse mind (11:20); lying lips (12:22); the sacrifice of the wicked (15:8); an arrogant man (16:5); the prayer of a lawbreaker (28:9); incense offered without regard to ethical conduct (Isa. 1:13); etc. In like manner practices associated with the pagan deity and conduct opposed to His standards repulse Him; e.g., the practice of witchcraft and kindred arts (Dt. 18:12); homosexuality and other sexual perversions (Lev. 18:22; 20:13); remarriage after divorce (Dt. 24:4); and all the “abominations” of the Canaanites (Lev. 18:26; often in Ezekiel).

In at least two passages the root šqš (also Gk. bdélygma) appears to be exactly synonymous with tô‘ēbā. In Dt. 14:3 tô‘ēbā is used to designate “unclean” animals, but in Lev. 11 šeqeš is used in the same connection; in 1 K. 11:5, Milcom is called the šeqeš of the Ammonites, but in 2 K. 23:13 he is called the tô‘ēbā of the Ammonites. On the other hand, the fact that both words occur together in Ezk. 5:11; 11:18, 21 suggests there is a distinction between them. The words are synonymous in that both designate that which is repugnant; but whereas tô'ēbā denotes that which offends a person's sensibility, the root šqš is a more technical term denoting that which violates the practices of Yahweh's cult. Thus tô'ēbā is used frequently in construction with an indirect, personal object; e.g., Israel's sacrifice is repugnant to the Egyptians (Ex. 8:26 [MT 22]); the Psalmist complains that God had made him repulsive to his acquaintances (Ps. 88:9 [MT 8]); the practice of burning children is an abomination to Yahweh "which He hates" (Dt. 12:31; etc.). Probably for this reason, BDB lists Dt. 14:3 under those actions which are an abomination "to God and His people." The root šqš, on the other hand, as a technical term is used to denote animals and other things that render the Israelite "unclean." The noun šeqeš is used exclusively to designate proscribed animals (Lev. 7:21; 11:10ff.; Isa. 66:17; Ezk. 8:10). The verb šiqqêš means "contaminate" or "abominate" as Lisowsky (p. 1497) suggests. So the Israelites were not to contaminate themselves with any creeping things (Lev. 11:43), and the psalmist gives praise that God did not deprecate his affliction as uncleanness (Ps. 22:24 [MT 25]). Likewise šiqqûš designates that which is unclean and detestable according to Yahweh's religion: unclean food (Zec. 9:7), and most frequently idols and the practices associated with them (Isa. 66:17; Jer. 7:30; 13:27; etc.). Here too belongs the "abomination causing desolation" in Dnl. 11:31; 12:11, 可憎恶的神米勒公”。其次，两个词同时出现在《以西结书》5:11，11:18和21章中，表明这两个词是有区别的。在表示可憎的事物时，这两个词同义；但 tô'ēbā 指触犯人忌讳的事物，而词根 šqš 是一个更专业的术语，指违反耶和華宗教习俗的事物。因此 tô'ēbā 常用于构成间接人称代词作宾语，例如，埃及人认为以色列人的祭物是可憎的（出 8:26[《马所拉文本》22]）；诗篇作者抱怨说耶和華将他与他认识的人隔绝开来，使他为他们所憎恶（诗 88:9[《马所拉文本》8]）；以儿女献燔祭的习俗在耶和華眼中是“可恨恶的”（申 12:31 等）。可能正是因为这个原因，BDB 将《申命记》14:3 中所说的不可吃可憎之物列在“神和神的子民”所憎恶的行为之后。而词根 šqš 作为一个术语，指以色列人眼中“不洁”的牲畜和其他可憎之物。名词 šeqeš 专门用来指不可吃的牲畜（利 7:21; 11:10 起; 赛 66:17; 结 8:10）。李所斯基 (Lisowsky) 的著作 (1497 页) 中提出动词 šiqqêš 意为“污染”或“憎恨”。因此以色列人不可沾染爬物，使自己不洁净，成为可憎的（利 11:43），诗篇作者还赞美神没有因为他的不洁而蔑视和憎恶他（诗 22:24[《马所拉文本》25]）。šiqqûš 也同样指与耶和華的教训相违背的不洁与可憎之物：不洁的食物（亚 9:7），和最常见偶像以及与之相关的习俗（赛 66:17；耶 7:30；13:27 等）。此外，《但以理书》11:31 和 12:11 中提到，除掉耶和華神殿里常献的祭，设立异教的祭坛并敬奉偶像，都属于“行毁坏可憎的”范畴。

referring to the institution of a pagan altar and sacrifice in Yahweh's temple.

Piggûl is a technical term for stale flesh which has not been eaten within the prescribed time (Lev. 7:18; 19:7; Ezk. 4:14 [RSV "foul flesh"]; Isa. 65:4). Accordingly Driver would everywhere render it specifically "refuse meat" (cf. lehem m'gō'al, "loathsome bread," from gā'al, to "loathe," Mal. 1:7). Zimmâ means "to plan, purpose" but is almost always used in a bad sense of "evil device," especially of unchastity.

The twenty birds listed in Lev. 11:13–19 (NEB "vermin").

I. Their Identification.—G. R. Driver, in consultation with D. L. Lack, Director of the Grey Ornithological Institute (Oxford), has provided the best study on the identification of these birds. His study presumably constituted the basis for the translation of this passage in the NEB. He established their identity by four factors: (1) a philological study of the Hebrew radicals, (2) the translations of these words in the ancient versions, (3) the Piggûl 是一个术语，专门指代在规定时间内没有吃完的腐肉（利 7:18；19:7；结 4:14[《修订标准译本》中译作“foul flesh”，意为“腐肉”或“秽肉”]）；赛 65:4）。因此德里弗（Driver）称其为“refuse meat”，“弃肉”（参：lehem m'gō'al，意为“可憎的食物”，源于 gā'al 一词，意为“厌恶”，玛 1:7）。Zimmâ 的意思是“计划，打算”，但基本用作贬义的，指“邪恶的计谋”、“奸计”，尤指淫行。

在《利未记》11:13–19 中列出的二十种鸟（《新英文译本》译为“vermin”[“可憎的鸟”]）。

I. 识别可憎的鸟。德赖弗（G. R. Driver）在与灰色鸟类研究院（牛津大学）的院长拉克（D. L. Lack）协商后，提出了识别这些鸟的最佳研究方案。他的研究可能为《新英文译本》对这一节的翻译提供了基础。他通过四个因素识别了这些鸟的身份：（1）希伯来语词根的语言学研究，（2）古代版本对于这些单词的翻译，（3）文献中对于每个鸟栖息地和生活习性的描述，（4）“不洁净”的概念。值得 description of each bird's habitat and habits in the literature, (4) the idea of "uncleanness." Significantly he also noted that they are arranged in a roughly descending scale of sizes by natural families. The chart presents his conclusions regarding the twenty birds listed in Lev. 11:13-19.

The list can be divided into three parts: (1) fifteen land birds, (2) three water birds, (3) two miscellaneous creatures. The land birds are subdivided into families in a descending scale of sizes, beginning with large birds of prey, followed by the crow tribe, the larger owls, the smaller birds of prey, and finally the smaller owls. In the second part of the list the osprey is followed by lake and river birds.

Driver suggested that few large birds of prey are named while so many owls are specified because the large ones, soaring at immense heights or swooping with sudden speed on the prey, are not easily identified, whereas the owls, flying slowly and hooting as they go, are readily noted and distinguished. Consequently generic names like nešer and nēš serve well enough for most of the great birds. "According to its kind" is added after four names. The 'ōrēb (6) and nēš (10) are generic terms for whole classes of birds, and 'nāpā (18) is possibly a general term for any number of small birds of prey hunting fish in river, lake, or sea. Why it is added after 'ayyā (5) is not clear. This lack of completeness should be borne in mind in connection with the twenty-one varieties listed in the parallel passage, Dt. 14:11-18.

列表可以分为三个部分：（1）十五种陆鸟，（2）三种水鸟，（3）两种杂种生物。陆鸟根据体型又被细分为不同的科，首先是大型鸷鸟，然后是乌鸦，体型稍大的猫头鹰，中等体型的鸷鸟，最后是体型较小的鸷鸟。在列表的第二个部分中秃雕位于湖鸟与河鸟之后。

德赖弗（Driver）指出被命名的大型鸷鸟极少而小型猫头鹰却很多，原因是大型鸷鸟常翱翔于高空或迅速俯冲捕食，不易识别，而那些飞得低并鸣叫的猫头鹰易被注意和区分。因此像 nešer 和 nēš 这样通用的属名更适用于表示绝大多数大鸟。他将“根据它的种类”的字样加在了四个名字之后。'ōrēb (6) 和 nēš (10) 表示整个鸟类的总称，而'nāpā (18) 很可能是所有在江河湖海中捕鱼的鸷鸟的总称。但尚不清楚为何要将其放在'ayyā (5) 的后边。根据《申命记》14:11-18 平行经文段落中列出的 21 种生物，要牢记这些记录缺乏完整性。

II. Reason for Their Proscription.- The designation of these birds as an “abomination” (Heb. šiqqēš) shows that these birds are cultically obnoxious and not necessarily obnoxious to one’s sensibilities. At least three reasons have been proposed for their exclusion from the cult. Martin Noth has contended that these animals and birds were “cultically unclean” because they played a part in certain foreign cults of the surrounding world as “holy animals” (Leviticus [1965], p. 92). But advocates of this thesis have not demonstrated that all creatures associated with foreign cults were rejected by the Israelites (e.g., the bull) or that all the proscribed animals were associated with foreign cults. More probable is G. R. Driver’s view that these animals and birds were rejected because they ate blood or had contact with a corpse, both of which were cultically unacceptable (cf. Lev. 7:26; 17:13f.; 21:1–4, 11; 22:4; Nu. 5:2f; 6:6–11). All of these birds, with the exception of the last two, are birds of prey whose food consists almost entirely of carrion or flesh and which eat blood. The hoopoe and bat, which do not eat flesh in any form, are probably included because of their obnoxious habits. The hoopoe probes in filth for insects and worms, and the bat, a flying mammal, has the habit of spattering the walls of houses with ordure as it flies, has an overpowering mousey odor in its home, and is inedible.

II. 禁止它们的原因——认定这些鸟是“可憎恶的”（希伯来语：šiqqēš）表明这些鸟在宗教仪式上是可憎的但对于个人而言，它们未必是可憎的。至少提出了三个把它们排除在祭仪之外的理由。马丁诺斯（Martin Noth）主张这些动物和鸟都是“仪式上不洁净的”，因为它们在周围世界的某些外邦偶像崇拜中是“圣洁的动物”（Leviticus [1965]，92页）。但是这些论点的提倡者并没有证明所有与外邦偶像崇拜相关的动物都被以色列人所排斥（例如，公牛），或者所有被禁止的动物都与外邦偶像崇拜有关。德赖弗的观点更有可能成立，禁止这些动物和鸟是由于它们吃血或者跟尸体有接触，而这两种行为在宗教仪式上是不被接受的（参：利 7:26；17:13-14；21:1-4，11；22:4；民 5:2-3；6:6-11）。除了最后两类，其他所有鸟类都是鸷鸟，它们吃血并且以肉或腐肉为食。戴鹳和蝙蝠不吃任何形式肉体却也被认为是不洁净的动物，这很可能是因为它们可憎的生活习性。戴鹳在污秽中寻觅昆虫和蠕虫，而蝙蝠这种飞行哺乳动物有在飞行中向房屋墙壁排泄的习惯，其巢穴有着像老鼠巢穴一样难以忍受的刺鼻气味，并且它不能被人食用。

A third view reasons that creatures which eat carrion or flesh with blood run the risk of contagion. R. K. Harrison notes: "This categorizing is also important in view of the fact that it is unique in the annals of Near Eastern literature because its emphasis is not so much upon the avoidance of magical practices associated with certain animal species as upon the positive delineation of dietary principles intended to insure the physical well-being of the individual and the nation alike through a consistent prophylactic approach" (Intro. to the OT [1969], p. 603). Although the Creator undoubtedly had in mind the physical well-being of His people, this legislation emphasizes the cultic, ceremonial cleanness of the people.

ABOUND; ABUNDANCE; ABUNDANT; ABUNDANTLY.

These words are used frequently by the RSV to translate a variety of Hebrew and Greek terms. In the OT they most often represent the Hebrew noun rōḇ, “multitude, great quantity” (e.g., Dt. 28:47; Neh. 9:25; Ps. 37:11), the adjective raḇ, “numerous, much, plentiful” (e.g., Ps. 31:19; Prov. 28:20), or the hiphil of the verb rāḇâ, “multiply, increase” (e.g., Isa. 55:7; Ezk. 36:29f). These cognate terms are sometimes used of Yahweh, to describe His unlimited love and covenant faithfulness. The OT authors confess that their God is “abounding in STEADFAST LOVE” (raḇ-ḥesed, Ex. 34:6; Nu. 14:18; Neh. 9:17; Ps. 86:5, 15; 103:8; 145:8; Joel 2:13; Jonah 4:2; cf. rōḇ ḥesed, “abundance of steadfast love,” in Ps. 5:7; 69:13; 106:7, 45; Isa. 63:7; Lam. 3:32). Deutero-Isaiah (55:7) calls upon the people of Israel to repent of their wickedness and return to Yahweh, “for he will abundantly pardon” (yarbeh lislô(a)ḥ, lit. “multiply to pardon”).

Among the other OT terms are: hāmôn, “riches” (Ps. 37:16; Ezk. 7:11); śāḇaʿ, “be satiated, have enough to eat” (Ps. 37:19); yitrâ, “riches, savings” (Isa. 15:7); hiphil of yātar, “make abundant” (Dt. 30:9); ḥōsen, “treasure” (Isa. 33:6); dešen, “fatness” (Jer. 31:14). In Isa. 35:2

《修订标准译本》通常用这些词来翻译大量的希伯来语和希腊语。在《旧约》中它们大多代表希伯来语的名词 rōḇ, “众多, 大量” (例如: 申 28:47; 尼 9:25; 诗 37:11), 形容词 raḇ, “许多的, 大量的, 丰富的” (例如: 诗 31:19; 箴 28:20), 或者动词 rāḇâ 的使役主动干, “使增加, 使增多” (例如: 赛 55:7; 结 36:29-30)。耶和华常用这些同源词语描述祂无限的爱和圣约的真实性。《旧约》的作者坦白地说他们的主有“丰富的慈爱” (见 STEADFAST LOVE [丰富的慈爱]) (raḇ-ḥesed, 出 34:6; 民 14:18; 尼 9:17; 诗 86:5, 15; 103:8; 145:8; 珥 2:13; 拿 4:2; 参: rōḇ ḥesed, “丰富的慈爱” 诗 5:7; 69:13; 106:7, 45; 赛 63:7; 哀 3:32)。第二以赛亚 (赛 55:7) 号召以色列的民众为他们的邪恶忏悔并回到耶和华的身边, “因为神必广行赦免 (yarbeh lislô(a)ḥ, 字面意思“加大赦免”)。

the RSV renders “it shall blossom abundantly” for the infinitive absolute construction (pārō[a]ḥ tiprah) of pārah, “blossom.” In Isa. 66:11 “the abundance of her glory” is the RSV translation of the difficult zîz k^êbôdâ. Some scholars, however, suggest “her full breast” as a better reading by relating Heb. zîz to Ug. zd (td) and Akk. zîzu (J. Muilenburg, IB, V, 767; KoB, p. 254; CHAL, p. 88; cf. translations in AB, NEB). In Jer. 33:6 the RSV reading “abundance” is a conjectural reading for “teret, a hapax legomenon.

In the NT those words usually translate Gk. perisseuō, “be extremely rich, overflow” or “make extremely rich, cause to overflow,” or one of its cognate or compound forms: hyperperisseuō, “be present in greater abundance” (Rom. 5:20); perisseuma, “fulness” (Mt. 12:34; Lk. 6:45; 2 Cor. 8:14); perisseia, “surplus” (Rom. 5:17; 2 Cor. 8:2); perissós, “profuse” (Jn. 10:10); hyperekperissou, “infinitely more than” (Eph. 3:20); perissotérōs, “especially” (2 Cor. 2:4). Other terms are pleonázō, “grow, increase, multiply” (Rom. 6:1; 2 Thess. 1:3), and hyperbolé, “extraordinary number or quality” (2 Cor. 12:7).

The Scriptures repeatedly warn against putting one’s trust in the abundance of material things. The psalmist advises against envy of the prosperous wicked, for they with their wealth will be destroyed, but the Lord will preserve those who put their trust in Him (Ps. 37); thus, the little that the righteous has is better than the abundance of the wicked (v. 16; cf. 4:7). Yahweh promised—and gave—to Israel an abundance of material blessings (Dt. 28:11); but He also warned that if this prosperity did not lead to service of Him it would be taken away (vv. 47ff.). This is in fact what happened to Israel, as prophesied by Ezekiel (7:11) and recounted by Ezra (Neh. 9:25ff.). Yet, Israel was promised that after she had repented of her disobedience, her fortunes would be restored and she would experience a prosperity greater than she had known before (Dt. 30:9; Isa. 66:10ff.; Jer. 31:12–14; 33:6–9; Ezk. 36:29f.).

脂” (耶 31:14)。《修订标准译本》中《以赛亚书》35:2 用“必开花繁盛”来翻译 pārah “开花”的不定式结构 (pārō[a]ḥ tiprah)。《以赛亚书》66:11 中的“她丰盛的荣耀”是《修订标准译本》对较难理解的词语 zîz k^êbôdâ 的翻译。然而一些学者将希伯来语 zîz 与乌加里特语 zd (td) 和阿拉德语 zîzu 联系起来建议“她丰满的乳房”才是更适当的翻译 (J. Muilenburg, IB, V, 767; KoB, 254 页; CHAL, 88 页; 参: AB 和《新英文译本》中的翻译)。《修订标准译本》中《耶利米书》33:6 的“abundance” (“丰盛”) 由 “teret, 这个罕见用语” 推测而来。

在《新约》中那些词常用于翻译希腊语 perisseuō, “极为丰富, 充溢” “使得极为丰富, 充满” 或者它的同源词或复合形式: hyperperisseuō, “显多” (罗 5:20); perisseuma, “充满” (太 12:34; 路 6:45; 林后 8:14); perisseia, “丰富的” (罗 5:17; 林后 8:2); perissós, “丰富的” (约 10:10); hyperekperissou, “充充足足地” (弗 3:20); perissotérōs, “格外的” (林后 2:4)。其他表达方式是 pleonázō, “增长, 增多, 增加” (罗 6:1; 帖后 1:3) 和 hyperbolé, “过多或过好” (林后 12:7)。

In the NT, abundance is a characteristic of the new age of salvation begun by Jesus Christ (cf. Jn. 10:10). The Gk. perisseúō usually occurs in passages that speak of the fulness that is achieved in the age of salvation to a degree previously unknown, and of the growth toward a new level of maturity that is possible as this fulness is appropriated. The fulness of salvation is not manifested in the realm of material blessings but in the grace that through Jesus Christ is lavished upon the Church in the form of spiritual gifts (Rom. 5:15, 17, 20; cf. Eph. 1:3–8). Thus the Christian community is empowered to do far more than it would dare to imagine (Eph. 3:20), and the apostle Paul's constant exhortation and prayer for all the churches is that they be always advancing toward full maturity: that they grow in hope through the power of the Holy Spirit (Rom. 15:13), and in their mutual love (1 Thess. 3:12); that their love will grow increasingly in knowledge (Phil. 1:9); that they will always excel in the work of the Lord (1 Cor. 15:58) and in thanksgiving (Col.

28:11)；但是祂也警告以色列人若在富有的时候不侍奉祂，那么这些财富将被夺走（申 28:47 起）。正如以西结（结 7:11）和以斯拉（尼 9:25 起）所预言的，这实际上是发生在以色列人身上的事。但是，神应允以色列，如果她为她的悖逆忏悔，她将重新拥有财富并且将得到从未有过的财富（申 30:9；赛 66:10 起；耶 31:12-14；33:6-9；结 36:29）。

在《新约》中，富足是耶稣基督救赎新时代的一个特点（参：约 10:10）。希腊语 perisseúō 通常出现在论及丰盛和成长的段落中，这种丰盛以前我们并不知晓，直到耶稣救赎时代才得以完全，得着这种丰盛有可能使我们更加成熟。救赎的充实不体现在物质财富方面，而是体现在恩典上，这恩典是藉着耶稣基督以属灵的恩赐的形式赏给教会的（罗 5:15, 17, 20；参：弗 1:3-8）。因此神使基督徒能够成就一切超过他们所求所想的事（弗 3:20），使徒保罗一直在训诫所有教会，并为他们祈祷，愿教会始终向着完全的成熟努力：他们借着圣灵的能力有盼望地成长（罗 15:13），彼此相爱（帖前 3:12）；有爱心、在知识和各样见识上，多而又多（腓 1:9）；常常竭力多作主工（林前 15:58）并满有感谢的心（西 2:7）。

While the NT does not denounce material abundance, it stresses its limited value and its dangers. Jesus warned that “a man’s life does not consist in the abundance of his possessions” (Lk. 12:15; cf. vv. 16ff.). Paul testified that he had learned to face both material abundance and deprivation with equanimity (Phil. 4:12). The value of material abundance lies in the opportunity it gives for generosity (2 Cor. 8:14); and to those who give generously there is the promise that “God is able to provide you with every blessing in abundance, so that you may always have enough of everything and may provide in abundance for every good work” (2 Cor. 9:8).

然而《新约》并不谴责物质上富足，只是强调丰富物质的有限性和危险性。基督警告道“人的生命，不在乎家道丰富”（路 12:15；参：路 12:16 起）。保罗表示他已经学会了怎样处卑贱，也学会了怎样处丰富（腓 4:12）。物质丰富的价值体现在它可以弥补他人的不足（林后 8:14）；慷慨奉献的人有希望了“神能将各样的恩惠多多地加给你们，使你们凡事常常充足，能多行各样的善事”（林后 9:8）。

VI. Religious Significance

I. Name.-The shorter form Abram occurs only in Gen. 11:26–17:4, while the longer one is found elsewhere in the OT except for 1 Ch. 1:27 and Neh. 9:7. The etymology of Abram is obscure, but perhaps means “the father is exalted.” It is a variant of such West Semitic names as A-ba-ra-ma, occurring in cuneiform texts from the 19th and 18th cents B.C. The longer form, Abraham, is most probably a dialectical expansion of Abram, reflecting the cuneiform A-ba-am-ra-ma and A-ba-am-ra-am. In Gen. 17:5 the longer form was understood to mean “father of multitudes,” and though no root rhm meaning “multitude” exists in Hebrew, there is a corresponding Arabic term (ruhām). However, the etymology of both names is far from certain.

II. Career.-Abraham was a descendant of Shem and the son of Terah, and became the ancestor of the Hebrews and other peoples (Gen. 17:5). His personal history is recorded in Gen. 11:27b–25:12, and appears to comprise one of eleven Mesopotamian tablet sources underlying the book of Genesis. This section was probably entitled “Abram, Nahor, and Haran” (11:27b), and the narrative concluded with a typical Mesopotamian colophon, indicated by the phrase “these are the family histories [AV “generations”] of” in 25:12. The colophon seems to include a characteristic scribal attempt at dating in the reference to the time when Isaac lived at Beer-lahai-roi (25:11), and also appears to indicate that these family

I. 名字。亚伯兰的简称只用于《创世记》11:26-17:4 中，而全称则出现在《旧约》除《历代志上》1:27 和《尼希米记》9:7 外的其他章节中。亚伯兰的词源尚不清楚，其含义可能是“父亲是尊贵的”。它是西闪族人名 A-ba-ra-ma 的变形，这个名字出现在公元前 19 世纪至公元前 18 世纪的楔形文字文本中。亚伯拉罕的全称 Abraham 最有可能是 Abram（“亚伯兰”）的方言扩展形式，楔形文字中拼写为 A-ba-am-ra-ma 和 A-ba-am-ra-am。在《创世记》17:5 中全称被理解为“father of multitudes”（“万国的父”），虽然希伯来语的词根 rhm 并没有“万国”这个含义，但阿拉伯语的对应词语（ruhām）有这层含义。然而这两个名字的词源都未被确定。

II. 生平。亚伯拉罕是闪的后裔，他拉之子并成为希伯来和其他民族的祖先（创 17:5）。他的历史被记录在《创世记》11:27b-25:12 中，并且似乎记录在一篇美索不达米亚碑文中（总计十一篇美索不达米亚碑文），这十一篇碑文构成了《创世记》的基础。这篇的标题可能是“亚伯兰、拿鹤、哈兰”（创 11:27b），在创 25:12 中的叙述是以典型的美索不达米亚式版本记录结尾，“这就是某家族的历史[《钦定版圣经》译为“generations”（“后代”）]”。这一版本记录似乎试图用以撒在庇耳拉海莱居住的时间来记录抄写日期（创 25:11），似乎还表明以撒的弟弟以实玛利有段时间曾拥有过这些家族记录。这些信息都总结在《使徒行传》7:2-8 中，里面记载了亚伯兰出生于迦勒底的吾珥，并与父 records had been at some time in the possession of Ishmael, the brother of Isaac. This material, summarized in Acts 7:2–8, stated that Abram was born in Ur of the Chaldees, where he lived with his parents and brothers, and subsequently with his wife Sarai.

After his brother Haran died, Abram moved with his wife, father, and nephew Lot to Harran, a city about 20 mi. SE of Edessa in the Balikh Valley, where Terah later died (11:26–32). Hearing God’s call, Abram moved with Sarai and Lot from Harran to Shechem and Bethel before going down to Egypt to escape from a famine in Canaan. While there the pharaoh wanted to incorporate Sarai into his harem under the impression that she was Abram’s sister (12:13). While Abram’s statement to this effect was technically correct (cf. 20:12), and might further have reflected the Horite (Hurrian) wife-sister adoption relationship, it did not represent the whole truth.

Leaving Egypt, he returned to Bethel and subsequently parted from Lot, who chose to pasture his flocks in the fertile Jordan Valley (13:1–14). After receiving a promise from God that he would possess all the land S of the Euphrates, Abram went on to Mamre. A Mesopotamian coalition under Chedorlaomer sacked Sodom and other cities of the plain, but the attackers were themselves pursued by Abram and his Amorite allies, and defeated near Damascus (14:1–16).

Although the childless Abram had adopted his home-born slave Eliezer as his heir, he was assured in a theophany

亚伯兰在弟弟哈兰死后与妻子，父亲和侄子罗得迁移到哈兰，是位于巴利克谷的埃德萨东南约 20 英里处的一座城市，他拉后来死在这里（创 11:26-32）。亚伯兰听了神的呼唤，与撒莱和罗得从哈兰迁移到示剑和伯特利，之后为逃避迦南的饥荒下到埃及。而那里的法老以为撒莱是亚伯兰的妹妹，想把她带进宫中（创 12:13）。亚伯兰说撒莱是他的妹妹实际上没什么不对（参：创 20:12），可能还进一步反映出了何利人（胡里安人）亦妻亦妹的关系，但是他这样说没有表达出全部实情。

亚伯兰离开埃及回到了伯特利，随后与选择在约旦河放牧的罗得分开（创 13:1-14）。在神的应允下，亚伯兰拥有了幼发拉底河南岸所有的土地，亚伯兰继续朝着幔利前进。基大老玛带领的美索不达米亚联盟洗劫了所多玛和平原上的其他城市，但是被亚伯兰和他的亚摩利联盟追击，并在大马士革被击败（创 14:1-16）。

that he would have natural offspring by the elderly Sarai, this being confirmed by a covenant (Gen. 15). In the meantime Abram had a son by Sarai's handmaid Hagar in conformity with local custom, and tensions within the household led to the latter being banished to the wilderness, only to be delivered miraculously (ch. 16). Thirteen years later God renewed His covenant promises, establishing circumcision as a sign and changing the names of Abram and Sarai to Abraham and Sarah (ch. 17). This was confirmed at Mamre by another theophany (ch. 18), despite Sarah's incredulity; and subsequently Sodom and Gomorrah were destroyed. From Mamre Abraham went through southern Canaan, staying for a time near Gerar. When Abraham planned to make a treaty to secure land rights in Beersheba, the Philistine king Abimelech desired Sarah just as the Egyptian ruler had earlier. Again Abraham pleaded the wife-sister relationship with much the same results (ch. 20). When Abraham was 100 years old Isaac was born to Sarah, and renewed tensions in the household led her to banish Hagar and Ishmael her son. This act was contrary to local custom in those days, and required a further theophany to justify the action (ch. 21).

A dramatic interlude which tested the faith of Abraham involved the near-sacrifice of Isaac (Gen. 22:1-14), after which the covenantal promises were reaffirmed. Sarah died some time later, and was buried in the cave of Machpelah, which Abraham had first to purchase from Ephron (ch. 23). In old age Abraham married Keturah, who gave birth to the ancestors of the Dedanites and

神让亚伯拉罕拿以撒献祭，这一戏剧性插曲是神对亚伯拉罕忠诚的考验（创 22:1-14），在这之后神再一次重申圣约中的应允。过了一段时间，撒拉去世了，她被埋葬在了麦比拉洞，这个洞是亚伯拉罕从以弗仑手中买下的（参：创 23）。亚伯拉罕晚年娶了基土拉，她生下了底坦和米甸人的祖先。他还确信儿子以撒会与族人通婚，结果以撒娶了亚伯拉罕的侄孙女

Midianites. He also made certain that the son Isaac would marry within the family, the result being that Isaac later took Abraham's great-niece Rebekah as his wife (ch. 24). At an advanced age he gave gifts to the sons of his concubines and sent them home to the east, leaving Isaac as his sole heir in possession of the property. Finally Abraham died, aged 175, and was buried with Sarah in the cave of Machpelah.

利百加为妻（参：创 24）。年事已高的他把财产分给他庶出的众子并打发他们去东方，留下以撒成为自己唯一的财产继承人。最后亚伯拉罕死了，享年 175 岁，与撒拉共葬在麦比拉洞。

III. Archeology and the Period of Abraham.-Much of the contemporary cultural background has been illumined by archeological discoveries relating to the Middle Bronze period (ca. 1950-1550 B.C.) in which Abraham lived. He was apparently born at Ur somewhat after the close of the magnificent 3rd Dynasty (ca. 2070-1960 B.C.), and migrated early in the 19th cent. B.C. when northern Mesopotamia was under strong Amorite influence. In the Balikh Valley S of Harran sites such as Peleg, Serug, and Terah preserved the names of certain patriarchs, while Nahor occurred in the Mari texts as Nakhur, the location of some Ḫabiru.

III.考古和亚伯拉罕时期。亚伯拉罕所生活的青铜器时代中期（约公元前 1950-1550 年）的考古发现阐明了同时期的文化背景。亚伯拉罕出生在吾珥时，伟大的吾珥第三王朝已经结束（约公元前 2070-1960 年），并在公元前 19 世纪初期美索不达米亚北部深受亚摩利人影响时，迁出了吾珥。巴里克谷哈兰遗址南部地区，如法勒、

Another contemporary Mesopotamian culture of importance for the period of Abraham was that of the Hurrians, whose capital was at Nuzi or Nuzu (Yorgan Tepe). While Nuzu texts are mostly from the 15th cent. B.C., they furnish a great deal of information about 2nd millennium B.C. Assyrian society and illumine some of the social customs underlying the Abraham narratives. Adoption was frequently represented in the Nuzu texts as a means of transferring property, although genuine adoptions by childless couples were also common (cf. Gen. 15:2). The person adopted was expected to discharge certain filial duties, and when the adopting parents died he received the estate. But if a natural son was subsequently born to the adopting parents, the adopted son had to relinquish his position as the real heir. The firstborn in the family received preferential status, including a double portion of the estate. But at Nuzu, Alalakh, and elsewhere, the father could disregard the law of primogeniture and choose a “firstborn” son from among other children in the family. The primary purpose of marriage was the procreation of children, and the marriage contracts generally obliged a wife subsequently found to be sterile to provide her husband with a concubine through whom an heir could be obtained (cf. 16:2). At Nuzu it was mandatory for the concubine and her offspring to remain as members of the household, and any attempt to expel them was treated very seriously indeed (cf. 21:11).

The places in Canaan which Abraham visited were located in a zone where annual rainfall is between 10 and 20 in., which is well suited to the requirements of the flocks of sheep which he owned. Sites such as Kadesh and Gerar seem to have been inhabited in the Middle Bronze Age, though the extent of the occupation is uncertain. Excavations at Gerar have indicated that it was most probably a fortified Egyptian outpost in the time of Abraham, while the Early Bronze period of Megiddo throws important light on the nature of contemporary Canaanite religious practices.

Hittite law has clarified some details of the sale of the Machpelah cave by Ephron, who was probably a native Canaanite rather than a Hittite as such (see HITTITES). Under ancient Hittite law the purchaser of an entire piece of property was legally bound to render certain feudal services of an obscure nature to the vendor. Abraham did not wish to be bound in this way, hence his concern to purchase only part of the property and thereby to avoid the prescribed feudal obligations. The mention of trees (Gen. 23:17) was in accord with the Hittite practice of listing the exact number of trees growing on property at the time of sale. References to the Philistines in the Abraham narratives are not anachronistic, as was once thought. A long series of migrations from Caphtor (Crete) to Palestine commenced in the 19th cent. B.C. Minoan and other

赫人法典阐明了以弗仑卖麦比拉洞的细节，以弗仑有可能是迦南人而非赫人（见 HITTITES[赫人]）。在古代赫人法典中，所有财产的购买方必须向卖方履行某种领地义务。亚伯拉罕不想受这种约束，所以他只购买财产的一部分来避免承担这些规定的领地义务。《创世记》23:17 中提到的树符合赫人的习惯，他们在卖出土地时，要数清这块土地上的树木的数量。亚伯拉罕故事中提到了非利士人，这并不存在时代错误，而以前则认为其中存在时代错误。从公元前 19 世纪开始大批的人从斐托（克里特）迁移至巴勒斯坦，公元前 18 世纪的马里铭文中提到了克里特岛人和爱琴海的民族，而考古人员在乌加里特港、夏琐等地发现了克里特中部陶器的样本。非利士人显然是这些爱琴海移民的全称，而这些移民则以他们自己的名字为新家命名。

Aegean peoples were mentioned in an eighteenth-century B.C. Mari tablet, while specimens of Middle Minoan pottery have been recovered from the seaport of Ugarit, from Hazor, and elsewhere. The term Philistine is obviously a comprehensive designation for these Aegean immigrants who in turn gave their name to their new home.

From the archeological evidence it is apparent that Abraham was the product of an advanced culture, and was typical of the upper-class patriarch of his day. His actions are set against a well-authenticated background of non-biblical material, making him who bore the same name and traversed the same general territory, as well as living in the same towns as his contemporaries. He is in every sense a genuine Middle Bronze Age person, and not a retrojection of later Israelite historical thought, as used to be imagined. Consequently it is now possible to reject the “mythical theory” of Nöldeke, which saw Abraham as an ancient tribal deity; the “saga theory” of Gunkel, which envisaged Abraham as the product of cycles of sagas; and the “personification theory” of Meyer, where Abraham was thought of as personifying a tribe.

IV. Chronology. -Archeological discoveries seem to place Abraham quite readily in the early 2nd millennium B.C. The evidence for the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah furnishes incidental proof for Abraham’s sojourn in Palestine at that period. The catastrophic destruction can be correlated with the ceramic evidence from Bâb edh-Dhrâ‘, a festival site located about 5 mi. SE of el-

IV. 年代。考古发现似乎证明了亚伯拉罕很有可能生活于公元前 2000 年。所多玛和蛾摩拉城的毁灭为亚伯拉罕曾存在于那一时期提供了证据。这灾难性的毁灭与来自巴俄达拉（Bâb edh-Dhrâ‘）的陶器证据密切相关，这个地方是距离艾尔半岛（el-Lisan）东南 5 英里的一个节庆遗址，公元前 2300 到 1900 年平原上的居民会定期去这里。这种“朝圣活动”似乎随着约公元前

Lisan, which was apparently visited periodically by the inhabitants of the cities of the plain between 2300 and 1900 B.C. Such “pilgrimages” seem to have ended with the destruction of Sodom, ca. 1900 B.C., showing coincidentally that Abraham was living in Palestine at this period. Attempts by H. H. Rowley and C. H. Gordon to place Abraham in the Amarna Age (15th and 14th cents B.C.) rest upon a misunderstanding of the genealogical tables of Genesis.

V. Character.- Abraham was clearly monotheistic as contrasted with the polytheism of his precursors (cf. Josh. 24:2). He believed God to be Lord of the cosmos (Gen. 14:22; 24:3), supreme judge of mankind (15:14; 18:25), controller of nature (18:14; 19:24; 20:17), highly exalted (14:22) and eternal (21:33). Whenever God spoke to him he obeyed immediately in faith and trust (11:31; 12:1, 4; 15:7). Although from a sedentary background, he accepted the pilgrim life of the seminomad, going wherever he was guided (cf. He. 11:8f.). His faith was tested most acutely in the command to sacrifice his only son, which if implemented would have precluded the fulfillment of God’s promises regarding future offspring. Abraham clearly trusted God’s ability to restore the dead to life (Gen. 22:12, 18; cf. He. 11:19) should circumstances warrant it. His solicitude toward strangers (18:2-8; 21:8) was matched by his ability to regulate his household along lines of morality and godliness (18:19). His love for his kin enabled him to fight successfully against numerically superior opposition (14:15), and in all he emerges from the Genesis narratives as a considerate and humane person who behaved in an especially commendable manner toward the embittered, frustrated, and childless Sarah. The deception of pharaoh and Abimelech of Gerar (12:11–13; 20:2–11) have been held to constitute flaws in Abraham’s character, and while this may be true, it is also possible that the incidents have been misconstrued owing to inadequate information about the contemporary scene.

1900 年所多玛的毁灭结束了，这恰巧说明亚拉伯罕在此时期居住在巴勒斯坦。罗利 (H. H. Rowley) 和戈登 (C. H. Gordon) 企图将亚伯拉罕定在亚玛拿时期 (公元前 15 到 14 世纪)，这是由于他们对《创世记》宗谱的误解。

V. 身份。亚伯拉罕无疑是独一神论者，与前人的多神论形成对比 (参：书 24:2)。他相信神是宇宙的神 (创 14:22; 24:3)，是人类至高的审判者 (创 15:14; 18:25)，是自然的掌控者 (创 18:14; 19:24; 20:17)，是至高无上的 (创 14:22) 不朽的 (创 21:33)。无论何时神指示于他，他都会立刻忠诚并信任地服从 (创 11:31; 12:1, 4; 15:7)。虽然有着定居背景，他接受半游牧民朝圣的生活习惯，去往任何神指引的地方 (参：来 11:8 起)。亚伯拉罕用以撒献祭最能证明他对神的忠心，倘若以撒真作了祭物，神就无法兑现使亚伯拉罕生养众多的允诺。亚伯拉罕显然相信神在一定的条件下会使死者复活 (创 22:12,18; 参：来 11:19)。他对陌生人的关怀 (创 18:2-8; 21:8) 与他用道德和信仰来管理家族的能力相符 (创 18:19)。他对族人的爱使他能够抵抗数目众多强敌 (创 14:15)，在圣经故事中，亚伯拉罕是一个体贴仁慈的人，他以极其值得赞扬的方式对待痛苦受挫且无子的撒拉。学者们一直认为亚伯拉罕对法老和基拉珥王亚比米勒的欺瞒 (创 12:11-13; 20:2-11) 体现了他性格中的缺点，虽然事实可能如此，但学者们也有可能因为对当时的背景了解不足而错误地理解了这些

VI. Religious Significance.—Abraham was the progenitor of the Israelites who described themselves as the “seed of Abraham,” and who were visible evidence of God’s certain promises (Isa. 51:2; Ezk. 33:24). The “God of Abraham” was a designation of the Lord from the time of Isaac to the latest biblical period. Through faith in God, Abraham lived as a monotheist in a polytheistic society (Josh. 24:3), was chosen (Neh. 9:7), redeemed (Isa. 29:22), and blessed (Mic. 7:20). In the NT Abraham was the ancestor not merely of Israel (Acts 13:26) but of the Levitical priesthood (He. 7:5), the Messiah (Mt. 1:1), and the body of believers in Jesus Christ (Gal. 3:16, 29) as well. The oath (Lk. 1:73), divine mercy (1:54), covenant (Acts 3:25), the promise (Rom. 4:13), and the blessing (Gal. 3:14) given by free grace to Abraham are also the inheritance of his spiritual children. His faith in God’s early promises became the type of faith leading to justification (Rom. 4:3), making him the “father” of Christians as believers (4:11). Abraham demonstrated his worthiness by an attitude that evidenced his righteousness (Jas. 2:21; cf. Jn. 8:39). For the author of Hebrews, Abraham’s entire life under God was an outstanding illustration of faith in action (He. 11:8–19; cf. Sir. 44:19–21). As the progenitor of later Arab tribes, Abraham was also of great importance in Moslem tradition. He was one of the prophets sent by God, and apart from Moses is mentioned more frequently than anyone else in the Koran, being for Moslem as well as Jew the recipient of the divine covenant.

VI. 宗教含义。亚伯拉罕是以色列人的祖先，以色列人称自己为“亚伯拉罕的子孙”，是神的某些允诺的见证（赛 51:2；结 33:24）。“亚伯拉罕的神”从以撒时期一直到最新的圣经时期都是神的名称。尽管信奉神，亚伯拉罕却作为一名独一神论者生活在一个多神崇拜的社会（书 24:3），被神拣选出来（尼 9:7），被神救赎（赛 29:22）和赐福（弥 7:20）。在《新约》中，亚伯拉罕不仅仅是以色列人的祖先（徒 13:26），还是利未祭司（来 7:5）、救世主（太 1:1），和所有信仰耶稣基督的人的祖先（加 3:16, 29）。亚伯拉罕的属灵的子孙可以继承耶和华白白许给亚伯拉罕的诺言（路 1:73）、对他的怜悯（罗 1:54）和祝福的恩典。亚伯拉罕对神早期允诺的信心成为因信称义的典范（罗 4:3），也使他成为基督教信徒之“父”（罗 4:11）。亚伯拉罕通过显明他的公义的态度来证明自己的价值（雅 2:21；参：约 8:39）。对于《希伯来书》的作者来说，神庇护下亚伯拉罕的一生充分地体现出信心的作用（来 11:8-9；参：便 44:19-21）。作为后来的阿拉伯部落的祖先，亚伯拉罕在伊斯兰教的传统中也是一个重要的人物。他也是被神选立的先知之一，除了摩西，他是在《古兰经》中最常被提及的人，对于穆斯林信徒和

ABRAHAM'S BOSOM 亚伯拉罕的怀里

guest at a feast reclining on the breast of his neighbor. Thus John leaned on the breast of Jesus at supper (Jn. 21:20).

The rabbis divided the state after death (SHEOL) into a place for the righteous and a place for the wicked; but it is doubtful whether the figure of Jesus quite corresponds with this idea. "Abraham's bosom" is not spoken of as in "Hades," but rather as distinguished from it (Lk. 16:23)—a place of blessedness by itself. There Abraham receives, as at a feast, the truly faithful, and admits them to closest intimacy. It may be regarded as the equivalent to the "Paradise" of Lk. 23:43.

See also HADES; PARADISE.

See TDNT, III, s.v. χόλπος (Meyer).

里”这个词是取材于宴会时的情景，当时一个宾客斜靠在他邻座的胸膛上，好像在邻座的怀抱里。因此在晚饭的时候约翰也靠着耶稣的胸膛（约 21:20）。

ā'brek [Heb. 'abrēk; Gk. kéryx] (Gen. 41:43, RSV mg); AV, RSV, "bow the knee"; AV mg. "tender father"; NEB "make way." A salutation of uncertain meaning which the Egyptians proclaimed before Joseph, when as grand vizier, second to Pharaoh, he appeared in his official chariot.

音译：ā'brek 【希伯来语：'abrēk；希腊语：kéryx】（创 41:43，《修订标准译本》旁注）；《钦定版圣经》和《修订标准译本》译为“bow the knee”（“下跪”）；《修订标准译本》旁注译为“tender father”（“温柔的父”）；《新英文译本》译为“make way”（“让路”）。当约瑟作为仅次于法老的大臣坐在副车上时，埃及人用这种含义不明确的称谓呼叫他。

Explanations based on Hebrew etymology are unsatisfactory. “Bow the knee” or “kneel down,” from an alleged hiphil imperative (hābrēk would be expected), are grammatically unsound. Others, including AV mg. “tender father” and Tg. “father of a king,” are forced.

The surmises of Egyptologists are almost without number, and none is conclusive. BDB lists several (pp. 7f.), including Coptic a-bor-k, “prostrate thyself!”; āprek, “head bowed!”; ab-rek, “rejoice thou!”

The most satisfying parallel is Assy. abarakku, “grand vizier” or “friend of a king,” as suggested by F. Delitzsch; for Babylonian laws and customs were dominant in western Asia, and the Hyksos, through whom such titles would have been carried, were ruling then (M. G. Kyle, Moses and the Monuments [1919], p. 29).

ABROAD.

In the AV, “abroad” often has the archaic sense “outside,” e.g., Gen. 15:5; 19:17; Ex. 12:46 (Heb. hūṣ). In the AV of Mk. 4:22; 6:14; Lk. 8:17 it means “manifest” (Gk. phanerós).

ABRON

ab'rən [Gk. Abrōna, & Chebrōn; Vulg. Mambre] (Jth. 2:24); AV ARBONAI. A

依据希伯来词源得出的解释都不太令人满意。根据所谓使役主动干祈使语气动词（有可能是 hābrēk）翻译的“跪下”或“下跪”是无语法根据的。其它翻译，包括《钦定版圣经》旁注中的“tender father”（“温柔的父”）和《他尔根》的“father of a king”（“王之父”）都翻译的很牵强。

埃及古物学者给出的推测几乎数不过来，但没有一种推测具有说服力。BDB 列举了几个解释（7-8 页），包括埃及古语 a-bor-k，意为“prostrate thyself!”（“俯卧”）；āprek，意为“head bowed!”（“低头”），ab-rek，意为“rejoice thou!”（“欢喜”）。

德利奇（F. Delitzsch）认为，亚述语 abarakku（意为“大臣”和“王的朋友”）最适合翻译这个词，因为巴比伦律法和习俗在西亚地区占优势地位，而希克索斯王朝当时占统治地位，该王朝的人曾被授予过这种头衔（M. G. Kyle, Moses and the Monuments [1919], 29 页）。

ABROAD. 外面

在《钦定版圣经》中，“abroad”常常是古意“外面”的意思，如《创世记》15:5；19:17；《出埃及记》12:46（希伯来语：hūṣ）。在《钦定版圣经》的《马可福音》4:22；6:14；《路加福音》8:17 中意为“显明”（希腊语：phanerós）。

ə-brō'nə [Heb. 'abrōnā]; AV, NEB, EBRONAH. One of the stations of Israel in the wilderness on the march from Sinai to Kadesh—the station next before that at Ezion-geber on the eastern arm of the Red Sea (Nu. 33:34f.).

ab'sə-lom, ab'sə-ləm.

1. [Heb. 'abšālôm—‘father is (or ‘of’) peace’]; also ABISHALOM ə-bish'ə-ləm [Heb. 'bīšālôm] (1 K. 15:2, 10). David's third son by Maacah daughter of Talmi king of Geshur (a small country between Hermon and Bashan). Absalom was born at Hebron (2 S. 3:3), and moved at an early age, with the transfer of the capital, to Jerusalem, where he spent most of his life. He was a great favorite of his father and of the people as well. His charming manners, his personal beauty, his ingratiating ways, together with his love of pomp and royal pretensions, captivated the hearts of the people from the beginning. He lived in great style and drove in a magnificent chariot with fifty men running before him. Such magnificence produced the desired effect upon the hearts of the young aristocrats of the royal city (15:1ff.).

Mambre】(滴 2:24)；《钦定版圣经》译为“ARBONAI”（“亚伯伦河”）。叙利亚的一条溪流（《修订标准译本》译作“brook”[“小溪”]，《新英文译本》译作“river”[“河流”]）。根据何乐弗尼进军路线的描述，亚伯伦河可能位于幼发拉底河河湾和地中海之间，在基利家境内或离基利家不远的地方。

ABRONAH 阿博拿

音译：ə-brō'nə【希伯来语：'abrōnā】；《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》中译为“EBRONAH”（“阿博拿”）。从西奈去往加低斯途经以色列旷野时的一个驿站——红海东部的以旬迦别的前一站（民 33:34-35）。

音译：ab'sə-lom, ab'sə-ləm.

1、【希伯来语：'abšālôm——“父亲是和平”】；也作 ABISHALOM（“押沙龙”）音译：ə-bish'ə-ləm【希伯来语：'bīšālôm】（王上 15:2, 10）。大卫的第三个儿子，基述（黑门山和巴珊之间的小国）王达买的女儿玛迦所生。押沙龙生于希伯仑（撒下 3:3），他很小随着都城的迁移搬到了耶路撒冷，且他人生大部分时光都是在那儿度过的。他深受他父亲的宠爱和人民的爱戴。他举止迷人，相貌堂堂，讨人喜爱，爱慕皇室的浮华和虚荣，因此从小就受百姓爱戴。他生活奢靡，为自己预备华丽的车马，并派 50 人在前面奔跑。这种奢华方式勾起了皇室都城年轻贵族们的欲望（撒下 15:1 起）。

I. His Exile.-When Amnon his half-brother ravished his sister Tamar, and David shut his eyes to the grave crime and neglected to administer proper punishment, Absalom became justly enraged, yet quietly nourished his anger. After a lapse of two years he carried out a successful plan to avenge the rape of Tamar. He made a great feast for the king's sons at Baal-hazor, to which, among others, Amnon came, only to meet his death at the hands of Absalom's servants (2 S. 13:1ff.). To avoid punishment Absalom fled to the court of his maternal grandfather in Geshur, where he remained until David had relented and condoned the murderous act of his impetuous, plotting son. At the end of three years (13:38) Joab finally secured Absalom's recall to Jerusalem. It was two years later, however, before he was admitted to the royal presence (14:28).

II. Rebellion Against His Father.-Absalom, reinstated, lost no opportunity to regain lost prestige; and having made up his mind to succeed his father upon the throne, sacrificed family loyalty to political ambition. Overtly gracious and rich in promises, especially to the disgruntled and disenchanting, he found it easy enough to attract a following. His purpose was clear, namely, to alienate as many as possible from the king, and thus neutralize David's influence in the selection of a successor. Absalom fully realized that the court party, under the influence of Bathsheba, was intent upon having Solomon as the next ruler. By much flattery Absalom stole the hearts of many men in Israel (15:6).

I. 押沙龙流亡。当押沙龙同父异母的兄长暗嫩玷污了他的妹妹她玛，大卫对此严重的罪行视而不见，忽略而不施行正当惩罚，押沙龙非常愤怒，但是他暗暗的将愤怒埋在了心里。两年后，他成功实施了一个为她玛复仇的计划。他在巴力夏琐宴请王的众子，王的众子中，暗嫩也来了，却不料死在了押沙龙仆人的手中（撒下 13:1起）。为了躲避惩罚，押沙龙逃到基述的外祖父那里，并一直待在那边，直到大卫怜悯并宽恕了他冲动密谋杀人的行为。3年后（撒下 13:38），约押最后求情把押沙龙带回了耶路撒冷，然而他2年后才被获准进入王宫（撒下 14:28）。

II. 押沙龙背叛父亲。押沙龙复职后，利用一切机会重获威望；并决定为了他的政治野心放弃对家族的忠诚，篡夺他父亲的王位。他外表和蔼，且许下很多诺言，尤其是对那些心有不满和已经大失所望的人，所以很容易便吸引了大量追随者。他的目的显而易见，即尽量让更多的人疏远国王，从而削减大卫在选择继承人上的权力。押沙龙完全意识到拔士巴影响下的朝廷有意让所罗门作下一届统治者。押沙龙通过阿谀奉承收拢了很多以色列人的心（撒下 15:6）。

How long a period elapsed between his return from Geshur and his open rebellion against his father David is uncertain. Most authorities regard the “forty years” of 2 S. 15:7 as an error and, following the Syriac and some editions of the LXX, suggest four as the correct reading. Whether forty or four, he obtained permission from the king to visit Hebron, the ancient capital, on pretense of fulfilling a vow he had made while at Geshur regarding his safe return to Jerusalem. With two hundred men he went to Hebron. Prior to the feast, spies had been sent throughout all the tribes of Israel to stir up the discontented and to assemble them under Absalom’s flag at Hebron. Very large numbers obeyed the call, among them Ahithophel, one of David’s shrewdest counselors (15:7ff.).

III. David’s Flight.-Reports of the conspiracy at Hebron soon reached David, who became thoroughly frightened and lost no time in leaving Jerusalem. Under the protection of his most loyal bodyguard he fled to Gilead beyond Jordan. David was kindly received at Mahanaim, where he remained till after the death of his disloyal son. Zadok and Abiathar, two leading priests, were intent upon sharing David’s fortunes and went so far as to carry the ark of the covenant with them out of Jerusalem (2 S. 15:24). David, however, forced the priests and Levites to take it back to its place in the city and remain there as its guardians. This was a prudent stroke, for these two great priests in Jerusalem acted as intermediaries, and through their sons and some influential women kept up constant communications with David’s army in Gilead (15:24ff.).

尚无法确定押沙龙从基述回到反叛他父亲大卫中间相隔多久。许多权威认为《撒母耳记下》15:7 提到的“40 年”是错误的，而《七十士译本》叙利亚语和其他一些译本中提到的 4 年是正确的时间。不管是 40 年还是 4 年，他假装要兑现在基述许下的安全回到耶路撒冷的誓言，从而使国王允许他前往古城希伯仑。他带了 200 人同他去希伯仑。举行宴会之前，就已派间谍去往以色列各部落煽动不满情绪，并将他们招揽至希伯仑押沙龙的旗下。很多人都响应了此号召，其中包括大卫的一个精明的谋士亚希多弗（撒下 15:7 起）。

III. 大卫出逃。希伯仑的阴谋很快传到大卫那里，大卫非常害怕，立刻离开了耶路撒冷。在他最忠诚护卫的保护下逃到了约旦河对岸的基列。大卫在玛哈念受到亲切的接待，一直到他不忠的儿子死后他才离开那里。大卫的两位祭司撒督和亚比亚他图谋大卫的财产，竟将约柜抬到耶路撒冷城外（撒下 15:24）。然而大卫迫使祭司和利未人将约柜抬了回来，放在城内作为守护者。这是一个明智之举，因为这两位祭司在耶路撒冷是作调解的，并通过他们的儿子或有影响的妇人经常与基列的大卫军互通书信（撒下 15:24 起）。户筛也被送回耶路撒冷。他假装效忠当时回到都城取得政权的押沙龙（撒下 15:32 起）。祭司户筛和几个不太著名的人都各尽其职。亚希多弗提出的趁着国王军队混乱即刻追击的提议遭到了反对（撒下 17:1 起）。此外，探子不断将押沙龙的计划通知大卫的大本营（撒下 17:15

Hushai, too, was sent back to Jerusalem. He feigned allegiance to Absalom, who by this time had entered the royal city and had assumed control of the government (15:32ff.). Hushai, the priests, and a few less conspicuous people performed their part well; Ahithophel's counsel, to take immediate action and advance upon the king's forces in the midst of the turmoil, was thwarted (17:1ff.). Moreover, spies constantly informed David's headquarters of Absalom's plans (17:15ff.). The delay was fatal to the rebel son. Had Absalom acted upon the shrewd counsel of Ahithophel, David's army might have been conquered at the outset.

IV. Death and Burial.-When at length Absalom's forces under the generalship of Amasa (2 S. 17:25) reached Gilead, ample time had been given to David to organize his army. There were three divisions under the efficient command of three veteran generals: Joab, Abishai, and Ittai (18:1ff.). A great battle was fought in the forests of Ephraim, where the rebel army was utterly routed. No fewer than twenty thousand were killed outright, and a still greater number, becoming entangled in the thick forest, perished that day (18:7f.). Among the latter was Absalom himself; when he fled upon his mule, his head was caught in the boughs of a great oak or terebinth, probably in a forked branch. "He was taken up between heaven and earth; and the mule that was under him went on" (18:9). Thus he was found by a soldier who at once ran to inform Joab. Without a moment's hesitation, and notwithstanding David's definite orders, Joab thrust three darts into Absalom's heart. Encouraged by the action of their general, ten of Joab's

IV. 死亡和葬礼。押沙龙的军队在亚玛撒元帅（撒下 17:25）带领下最后抵达了基列，这给大卫提供了充足的时间来组织军队。他将军队分为三队，由约押，亚比筛和迦特三位经验丰富的将军作指挥（撒下 18:1 起）。一场大战在以法莲森林展开，叛军溃不成军。超过二万人阵亡，死于茂密森林的比死于刀剑的更多（撒下 18:7-8）。押沙龙就被困在林中，他骑骡出逃，头发被一个大橡树或松脂树的树枝挂住，可能是一个树丫状的树枝。“他就悬挂起来，所骑的骡子便离他而去”（撒下 18:9）。因此当士兵发现他后，立即跑去通知了约押。尽管大卫明确指示，约押还是毫不犹豫用三杆短枪刺进押沙龙的心脏。约押手下十名少年人受到将军的鼓励，“围绕押沙龙，将他杀死”（撒下 18:15）。他被埋入被杀地附近的一个大坑中。尸体上头堆起了一大堆石头（撒下 18:17），这符合当地羞辱反叛者和罪犯的习俗（约 7:26, 8:29）。

young men “compassed about and smote Absalom, and slew him” (18:15). He was buried in a great pit, close to the spot where he was killed. A great pile of stones was heaped over his body (18:17), in accordance with the custom of dishonoring rebels and great criminals (Josh. 7:26; 8:29).

V. David's Lament.-The death of Absalom was a source of great grief to his fond and aged father. David's lament at the gate of Mahanaim, though very brief, is a classic, and expresses in tender language the feelings of parents for wayward children in all ages of the world (2 S. 18:33).

Little is known of Absalom's family life, but we read in 14:27 that he had three sons and one daughter. From the language of 18:18, it is inferred that the sons died at an early age.

VI. Absalom's Tomb.-As Absalom had no son to perpetuate his memory “he reared up for himself a pillar” or a monument, in the King's Dale, which according to Josephus was two furlongs from Jerusalem (Ant. vii.10.3). Nothing is known with certainty about this monument. One of the several tombs on the east side of Kidron traditionally has been called Absalom's tomb; but this fine piece of masonry with its graceful cupola and Ionic pillars is probably not earlier than the Roman period.

2. [Gk. Apsalōmos]. The father of Mattathias, a captain of the Jewish army (1 Macc. 11:70; Josephus Ant. xiii.5.7),

V. 大卫恸哭。押沙龙之死使他温柔年迈的父亲极度悲痛，大卫在玛哈念城门恸哭，《撒母耳记下》18:33 中的描述虽简洁却非常经典，这节经文以温和的语言表达了历代父母对叛逆之子的感情。

关于押沙龙的家族虽然信息不多，但我们可从《撒母耳记下》14:27 得知他有三个儿子和一个女儿。通过《撒母耳记下》18:18 推测他的儿子英年早逝。

VI. 押沙龙的墓穴。押沙龙没有儿子来为他留名，“他就在王谷为自己立了一根石柱”或为自己立了一座纪念碑，根据约瑟夫斯的描述，该地距离耶路撒冷二弗隆 (Ant. vii.10.3)。尚不知晓关于这座纪念碑的确切信息。汲沦溪东边的一座墓穴传统上被称为押沙龙墓；但这座精美的石造建筑、优雅的圆柱和爱奥尼亚式的柱子可能是罗马时期之后才出现的。

ABSOLUTION.

An ecclesiastical term, not found in the Bible, used to designate the official act described in Mt. 16:19: "Whatever you loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven," and Mt. 18:18: "Whatever you loose," etc., and interpreted by Jn. 20:23: "If you forgive the sins of any, they are forgiven" (see KEYS, POWER OF THER). The Roman Catholic Church regards this as the act of a properly ordained priest, by which, in the sacrament of penance, he frees from sin one who has confessed and made promise of satisfaction.

Protestants regard the promise as given not to any order within the church, but to the congregation of believers, exercising its prerogative through the Christian ministry, as its ordinary executive. They differ as to whether the act be only declarative or collative. Luther regarded it as both declarative and collative, since the Word always brings that which it offers. The absolution differs from the general promise of the gospel by individualizing the promise. What the gospel, as read and preached, declares in general, the absolution applies personally.

3、【希腊语：Abessalōm】；《钦定版圣经》译为“ABSALON”（“押沙龙”）。吕西亚给犹太民族的一封信中提到他是犹太两位使者之一（马二 11:17）。

ABSALON 押沙龙

音译：ab'sə-lon。见 ABSALOM 3（押沙龙 3）。

ABSOLUTION. 赦免、释放

用于表示正式行为的一个教会术语，在《圣经》中找不到这个术语，《马太福音》16:19 中描述道“凡你在地上所释放的，在天上也要释放”，《马太福音》18:18 中描述为“凡你们在地上所释放的”等，《约翰福音》20:23 中解释为“你们赦免谁的罪，谁的罪就赦免了”（见 KEYS, POWER OF THER[天国的钥匙]）。罗马天主教将赦免视为一个正常任职祭司的行为，祭司通过这种行为，在忏悔的圣礼中赎去了已忏悔者或承诺悔改者的罪。 deliberate, self-imposed refusal to indulge in a specific act or acts. In prebiblical, biblical, and postbiblical periods abstinence was practiced in various ways and for a variety of purposes. Its origins cannot be determined, most theories being questionable at best, but its development as a religious practice can be traced by noting how and why it was observed by individuals and groups in different times and places. The ancient terms, as the translators show, were not always used in a strictly religious context (e.g., Mk. 8:3).

新教徒认为这个应许不是赐给教会内的任何一个阶层的，而是赐给全体信徒的，作为这种特权的普通执行者，教会通过基督徒的侍奉行使这种特权。有的新教徒认为这是一种声明，有的则认为这是一种授予行为。路德认为它既是一种声明，也是一种授予，赦免不同于福音中一般的允诺，而是一种因人而异的允诺。我们阅读和传讲的福音是面向大众的，而赦免则应用于个体。

I. 简介。 斋戒是为了避免自己沉迷于

II. Fasting.-A. In the OT. The most common form of abstinence and the one most often referred to in the OT was fasting. The refusal to eat sometimes included or was accompanied by the refusal to drink either wine or water or both. Proscriptions regarding foods were made by law, by the decree of a religious or national leader, or by the individual. They could include all food or only certain types for periods lasting from part of a day to several weeks. In the Pentateuch only the Day of Atonement was specified as a fast binding upon all members of the community (Lev. 16:29ff.; cf. Mish. Yoma), although the Nazirite vow (Nu. 6:1ff.) included abstinence from wine and grapes (cf. Jer. 35). It could be taken by either a man or a woman, but a daughter or a wife could have any vow revoked by her father or husband (Nu. 30). Other community-wide fasts observed annually were added later to commemorate times of national misfortune: Nebuchadnezzar's siege of Jerusalem, its capture, its destruction, and Gedaliah's murder. These are referred to in Zec. 8:19. But they were already losing their significance during the period of the Exile. Isa. 58:3–9 complains in true prophetic fashion that the observances were often insincere, devoid of genuine repentance and the desire to do justice (cf. Joel 2:12f.). Even the external forms of all but the major fast were later abandoned.

II. 禁食。A. 《旧约》中的禁食。斋戒最普通的方式和在《旧约》中常提及的斋戒形式就是禁食。不吃东西，有时包括不喝酒或水。禁食是由律法，宗教法规，国家首领或是个人制定的。禁食规定可能包含在一天或数周的时间内禁止吃任何食物或只禁止吃某些特定的东西。《摩西五经》只规定在赎罪日所有会众们禁食。（利 16:29 起；参：《米示拿》的《论圣日》），然而拿细耳人的愿（民 6:1 起）包括戒除酒和葡萄（参：耶 35）。男人或女人都可以实行禁食，但是女儿或是妻子的愿可由其父亲或丈夫作废（民 30）。《撒迦利亚书》8:19 提到，为了纪念民族苦难时期，后来增加了一年一度的其他团体禁食：如尼布甲尼撒围攻耶路撒冷，耶路撒冷沦陷和毁灭以及基大利被杀。但是它们在被掳时期失去了重要的意义。《以赛亚书》58:3-9 中以预言的形式控诉百姓没有真正的禁食，缺乏真正的悔改之意和行义的欲望（参：珥 2:12-13）。除了主要的禁食，其他所有禁食的外在形式后来都被抛弃了。

Not all community fasts occurred annually. Frequently they were called by leaders. Fasting was often accompanied by other forms of behavior, e.g., abstaining from work (Lev. 16:29), not using a razor or touching a dead person (Nu. 6:1ff.), assembling (Nu. 29:7; Neh. 9:1), pulling the hair (Ezr. 9:3), weeping (Jgs. 20:26), mourning (2 S. 1:12), presenting various offerings (Lev. 23:27; Jgs. 20:26; Jer. 14:12), pouring water (1 S. 7:6), rending one's clothes (2 S. 1:11), putting on sackcloth (1 K. 21:27), covering oneself with ashes (Dnl. 9:3; cf. 1 Macc. 3:47f.), lying or sitting on the ground (2 S. 12:16; Est. 4:3), refusing to communicate with others (possibly 2 S. 12:16f.; cf. Mish. Nedarim iv–v) or to anoint oneself (2 S. 12:7), and abstaining from other pleasures (Dnl. 6:18) or sounding the shofar (Mish. Taanith ii). According to the book of Jonah (3:7), the king of Nineveh decreed that beasts as well as his citizens were to abstain from food and water. Later rabbinic interpretations of the Day of Atonement prohibited washing, anointing, putting on sandals, and marital intercourse, along with fasting (Mish. Yoma viii. 1).

The old term “humbling oneself” (Lev. 23:27–29) is usually regarded as a synonym for fasting, although it may have included other acts, such as not washing or changing clothes. Later the phrase was used in poetic parallel with fasting, but may have been a separate act (cf. Ps. 35:13; 69:10; Isa. 58:3).

不是所有会众都需每年禁食一次。禁食通常是由首领发起的。禁食常伴有其他行为举止，如：不作工（利 16:29），不用剃刀或挨近死人（民 6:1 起），聚集（民 29:7；尼 9:1），拔掉头发（拉 9:3），哭号（士 20:26），哀悼（撒下 1:12），献各样燔祭（利 23:27；士 20:26；耶 14:12），浇水（撒上 7:6），撕裂衣服（撒下 1:11），披上麻布（王上 21:27），蒙灰（但 9:3；参：马一 3:47-48），躺在或坐在地上（撒下 12:16；斯 4:3），不与他人交流（可能是撒下 12:16-17；参：《米示拿》的《论许愿》iv–v）或膏抹（撒下 12:7），停止所有娱乐活动（但 6:18）或吹响羊角号（《米示拿》的《论斋戒》ii）。根据《约拿书》3:7 的描述，尼尼微的国王下令所有的牲畜和人都不可吃食物，也不可喝水。后期拉比解释说，在赎罪日禁食的同时也要禁止洗衣，膏抹，穿拖鞋，同房（《米示拿》，《论圣日》viii. 1）。

These self-imposed acts would last for various lengths of time. David once vowed not to eat until sundown (2 S. 3:35), and later he fasted alone for seven days in sackcloth and on the ground, until his child died (2 S. 12:16–20). Others fasted for a week following a death (1 S. 31:13). Moses and Jesus fasted forty days and nights (Ex. 34:28; Mt. 4:2). The duration of the Nazirite vow was set by the individual (Nu. 6:5), usually thirty days (Mish. Nazir i.3).

B. In the NT. Acts 27:9 shows that Paul and the early Christians took note of the Day of Atonement. Although we may assume that they actually observed this fast, because they observed certain Jewish feasts, there is no clear evidence for this. In the Didache (8:1) Christians were instructed not to fast on Mondays and Thursdays, when Jews customarily fasted, but on Wednesdays and Fridays.

Although Jesus Himself fasted in His ministry, He refused to give His disciples specific instructions on fasting, as both the Pharisees and John the Baptist had done (Mt. 9:14–17; Lk. 5:33–35). Like the prophets before Him, He condemned the external appearances that were designed to impress men but lacked the genuine piety that would please God (Mt. 6:16–18). But in explaining why His disciples were not to fast “while the bridegroom was with them,” Jesus implied that such fasting would be appropriate later on. Thus early

这种自愿禁食的行为持续的时间有所不同。大卫有一次起誓禁食到日落（撒下 3:35），后来他身披麻布躺在地上独自禁食七日，直到他的孩子死了（撒下 12:16-20）。还有人为死人禁食一周（撒上 31:13）。摩西同耶和華禁食四十昼夜（出 34:28；太 4:2）。拿细耳人许愿离俗的日子是由个人决定的（民 6:5），通常为三十天（《米示拿》，《论拿细耳人》i.3）。

B. 《新约》中的禁食。《使徒行传》27:9 表明保罗和早期的基督徒们注意到了赎罪日。尽管我们可以假定他们遵守斋戒是因为他们需守某些犹太节期，但是并没有证据能证明这个假设。在《十二使徒遗训》8:1 中，基督徒被要求不可像犹太人那样习惯于在周一和周四禁食，而应在周三和周五禁食。

尽管耶稣在传道过程中禁食，但是祂没有要求祂的门徒们禁食，而法利赛人和施洗约翰的门徒都禁食（太 9:14-17；路 5:33-35）。耶稣和祂之前的先知都谴责那些假装禁食但缺乏真正虔诚之心的人，他们不会蒙上帝的悦纳（太 6:16-18）。但是耶稣解释了不让祂的门徒们禁食的原因，“当新郎与陪伴之人同在的时候”，耶稣暗示出这样的禁食后来被认为是适当的。因此，早期基督徒们认为他们的禁食得到了耶稣的认可，尽管他们的禁食期与犹太人的禁食期不同。

Christians believed they had Jesus' approval for fasting, although they did not observe the same fasts as the Jews.

Paul also insisted that whatever one's individual decision might be, whether to eat or not to eat, there should be no touch of self-righteousness involved, for either act was to be done in honor of the Lord (Rom. 14:3, 6). It was never to be a source of "boasting." The other apostles also fasted (Acts 13:2). At times the Church had to warn against certain false teachers who imposed abstinence from foods "which God created to be received with thanksgiving" (1 Tim. 4:3).

III. Celibacy.-Abstinence was not limited to food and drink among either Jews or Christians. The refusal to engage in sexual intercourse was an accepted practice in times of unusual circumstance. Uriah voluntarily refused such relations with his wife because he was still in military service (2 S. 11); and intercourse was forbidden on the Day of Atonement (Mish. Yoma viii.1). Lifelong CELIBACY, however, was not an accepted form of piety in normative Judaism. Marriage and having children were expected as a way of fulfilling the command to "be fruitful and multiply" (Gen. 1:28). Rather than strict abstinence, OT and rabbinic teachings generally encouraged the enjoyment of all God's gifts, but with temperance and moderation. Even the Nazirite's highly regarded abstinence was interpreted as necessitating a sin offering to cover the refusal to accept the divine gifts (Talm. Nedarim 10a).

Jesus' life as an unmarried person, coupled with some of His teachings about

保罗也坚持无论一个人作出怎样的决定，不论这个人吃或不吃食物，都不可自以为义，因为他的每个行为都是为了荣耀神（罗 14:3, 6）。永远不可成为“自夸”的原因。其他使徒们也禁食（徒 13:2）。有时教会必须提醒会众提防某些假先知强加的禁食，“就是神所造要存感谢的心领受的”（提上 4:3）。

III. 禁欲、独身。对犹太人或基督徒来说斋戒不局限于食物和酒。在特殊情况时拒绝行房事是公认的习俗。乌利亚因自己在军队服役，自愿拒绝与妻子同房（撒下 11）；赎罪日禁止行房事（《米示拿》，《论圣日》 viii.1）。然而标准的犹太教教义并没有把终身禁欲（见 CELIBACY[独身、独身制度、禁欲]）视为敬虔方式。结婚和生子被认为是在遵守神“要生养众多”的命令（创 1:28）。《旧约》和拉比的教导通常都鼓励人们有节制和适度地享受神的赏赐，而不是严格禁欲。甚至连拿细耳人都强烈认为应该将斋戒作为一种必需的赎罪祭，从而赎去人们拒绝领受上帝赏赐的罪（《他勒目》，《论许愿》 10a）。

耶稣一生未婚，祂还在教导中提到了天国的紧迫性和优先权（太 19:10-12；

the urgency and overriding priority of the Kingdom (Mt. 19:10–12; Mk. 8:34–38) and about the future world (Mk. 12:25), has been taken by some to mean that He preferred that His followers not marry. But His overall enjoyment of life (Mt. 11:19), His presence at the wedding in Cana (Jn. 2:1–11), and His emphasis on maintaining the marriage vow (Mt. 5:31f.) put the former notion into a broader and balanced perspective.

Paul's views were influenced both by his expectation of Christ's imminent return and by the particular circumstances of those to whom he wrote. Specific statements on abstinence must be understood in terms of these two factors. He adhered to traditional Jewish ethics in condemning adultery, fornication, and relationships between homosexuals, but he went beyond Judaism in advocating that, because of the urgency of the times, Christians would do well to consider refraining from marriage. A husband and a wife were not to refuse each other, except by mutual consent, and then only for a short time (1 Cor. 7:5, 26f.), and in all cases there should be mutual respect and consideration (1 Cor. 7:2; cf. 1 Thess. 4:3). The writer of 1 Timothy warned against false teachers who "forbid marriage" (4:3), but did say that church officials were to be "married only once" (3:2; cf. Tit. 1:6). The author of the Apocalypse (Rev. 14:4) placed celibates in an honored position.

IV. Second-Century Developments.- From the Apostolic Fathers we see the development of abstinence during the second century. The "Teaching of the Apostles" turns Paul's liberal view toward meat sacrificed to idols (1 Cor. 8:1–13) into a legalism to be rigidly enforced (Did. 6). This writing also specifies that fasting was to be observed by both the person to be baptized and the baptizer (7:4). Celibacy among men and women began to be highly regarded as a Christian life-style in the Apostolic age. It was increasingly revered by Christians in the next two centuries (Ign. Polyc. 5:2; 2Clem. 12).

可 8:34-38) 以及未来的世界 (可 12:25), 一些人认为祂愿意让祂的信徒也不结婚。但祂享受全部的生活 (太 11:19), 并参加了迦拿地娶亲的筵席 (约 2:1-11), 强调坚守婚姻的誓言 (太 5:11-12), 所以要用宽容和不偏不倚的态度对待嫁娶。

保罗对基督复临的盼望和去信时的特殊环境影响了他的观念。必须依照这两种因素来理解关于斋戒的具体陈述。他坚持传统的犹太道德标准, 谴责行淫, 乱伦和同性恋关系, 但是他的主张超过了犹太教的教义, 他认为由于时间紧迫, 基督徒最好不要结婚。夫妻不可彼此亏负, 除非两相情愿, 暂时分房 (林前 7:2; 参: 帖前 4:3)。《提摩太前书》的作者提醒基督徒要提防假先知, 因为他们“禁止嫁娶” (提前 4:3), 但是确实提到教会作监督的“只作一个人的丈夫” (提前 3:2; 参: 多 1:6)。《启示录》的作者 (启 14:4) 把独身视为荣耀。

IV. 斋戒在二世纪的发展。我们可以从使徒教父的作品中看出斋戒在二世纪的发展。“使徒教训”把保罗关于向祭偶像祭物的自由主义观念 (林前 8:1-13) 转变成了需严格遵守的律法

The Jewish sect at Qumrân and the Gnostic Christian community at Nag Hammadi considered abstinence in one form or another quite proper, if not essential. Josephus described the Essenes as viewing pleasures as a vice and disdaining marriage (BJ ii.8.2). Although he and other ancient writers mention celibacy as a major teaching of the Essenes, the Qumrân community, at least at some stages, did include women and children. Both literary references and archeological evidence show that women were not forbidden there, as they were later in the monasteries.

The Gnostic Gospel of Thomas (6, 14, 27) reveals the tendency away from the traditional Jewish customs which had been embraced by most early Christians, especially prayer, fasting, almsgiving, and circumcision (cf. also Diogn. 3, 4). The Gospel of Philip shows even less awareness of or dependence on a Jewish undergirding for the essence of the Christian life.

V. Fasting, Prayer, and Almsgiving.- Fasting, prayer, and almsgiving were three highly regarded acts of piety within Judaism which Christians quickly

昆兰的犹太教和拿·戈玛的诺斯底基督徒会众认为虽然某种形式的斋戒不一定是必要的,却是非常符合习俗的。约瑟夫斯描述爱色尼派信徒将享乐视为一种恶习,并且认为婚姻是可鄙的(BJ ii.8.2)。虽然约瑟夫斯和其他古代作家认为在某些阶段独身是爱色尼派信徒和昆兰社团的一个主要教义,包括妇女和儿童也要独身。但是文学参考文献和考古学的证据表明,妇女没有像后期修道院中的修女那样被要求保持独身。

诺斯底派的《多马福音》(6, 14, 27)显示出摆脱犹太传统的倾向,大多数早期基督徒遵守这些传统,尤其是祷告、禁食、周济和割礼的传统(另参:Diogn. 3, 4)。《腓力福音》显示出基督徒的生活实质更加不受犹太传统的束缚。

V. 禁食, 祷告和周济。禁食, 祷告和周济是犹太教极为推崇的三种表达虔诚的方式, 基督徒很快便接受了这些表达虔诚的方式, 但进行了改良。尽 adopted as their own, but with modification. Although extolled separately, they were often mentioned in combination; e.g., prayer and fasting (Jgs. 20:26f; Neh. 1:4; Lk. 5:33; Gospel of Thomas 6); fasting and almsgiving (Isa. 58:6f; Zec. 7:3-9; Lk. 18:12), almsgiving and prayer (Tob. 12:8f; Acts 10:31). Whenever one act stood alone in a document, scribes were prone to add one or another. This propensity accounts for several variant readings in the ancient MSS (Mt. 17:21; Mk. 9:29; cf. Peshitta, which puts fasting before prayer here). Inevitably efforts were made to put one ahead of another. 2 Clement says, "Fasting is better than prayer, but the giving of alms is better than both" (16:4). In the Didache a nondominical saying about fasting precedes the word of Jesus on prayer (8:1f.).

VI. Function.-A full appreciation of these many forms requires consideration of their functions within the given community. Although there may have been quite pragmatic reasons for their origins, they usually came into religious tradition and then into sacred writings only after they had been justified on theological grounds (but cf. 1 K. 21:9; Dnl. 6:18). The Nazirite vow to abstain from wine and grape seems to have been related to an early protest against a life tied to the soil where vines had to be tended. Such a life-style was contrary to that of the wandering shepherd. The lure of the desert, where God's people could be most faithful, continued within Israel for centuries. (Cf. the description of the Rechabites, Jer. 35:1-14 and Hos. 2:14f.)

Other reasons why various forms of

VI. 斋戒的作用。要想全面理解斋戒的多种形式，必须考虑这些斋戒形式在某些会众中的作用。尽管斋戒产生的原因是非常实际的，但是通常情况下只有当这些斋戒形式得到神学理论的证明后，才会融入宗教传统中，进而被记录在《圣经》之中(只参：王上 21:9; 但 6:18)。拿细耳人许愿不喝酒和葡萄汁，这似乎与早期反对靠栽种葡萄树维持生计的生活方式有关，这种生活方式与流浪的牧羊人生活方式截然相反。数个世纪以来，以色列人始终向往旷野生活，这些上帝的子民在那里最忠于上帝。(参：利甲人的描述，耶 35:1-14，何 2:14-15)

abstinence were practiced in the OT were: to mark one's dedication or "separation" to the Lord (Nu. 6:1ff.), as a way of seeking the Lord, in national calamity (e.g., drought, Jer. 14:12; cf. Mish. Taanith i-iii; and locusts, Joel 1:14), for personal petition (1 S. 1:7), in preparation for judgment (1 S. 7:6) or divine revelation (Dnl. 9:3), or to express grief (1 Ch. 10:12), repentance (1 K. 21:27-29), fear (2 Ch. 20:3), mourning for others' sins (Ezr. 9:5; 10:6), to obtain God's favor in a plan (Est. 4:15), and on behalf of others' illness (Ps. 35:13). Some rabbis considered abstinence meritorious and desirable as a means of self-discipline. Under the eschatological spirit of the postexilic age, some believed that fasting, as part of a strict observance of the law, would move God to act dramatically in history.

Jesus' fasting was part of His temptation (Lk. 4:2), but He stressed that all religious acts were to be done only for the glory of God, not to please men (Mt. 6:16-18). According to a questionable text (cf. var. Mt. 17:21; also var. Mk. 9:29) fasting was a way of dealing with difficult demons. Abstinence in any form was justified only when observed "for the sake of the kingdom" (Mt. 19:10-12; Mk. 10:29). The early Church practiced fasting prior to appointing its officials (Acts 13:2f.; 14:23); Paul insisted that all such acts be done "in honor of the Lord" (Rom. 14:3, 6), to prevent pride and consequent dissension. The Didache urged fasting for one's persecutors (1:3; cf. Ps. 35:13). An emphasis on chastity may have developed in part to counteract charges of promiscuity against those who practiced a "love feast."

原因包括：使侍奉耶和华或“离俗”归于耶和华（民 6:1 起）成为以色列人在民族灾难时寻求耶和华庇护的一种方法（如：干旱，耶 14:12；参：《米示拿》，《论斋戒》i-iii；蝗虫，珥 1:14），个体向耶和华恳求（撒上 1:7），审判前的准备（撒上 7:6）或领受神的启示（但 9:3），或表示悲伤（代上 10:12）、悔改（王上 21:27-29）、惧怕（代上 20:3）和为他人的罪悲伤（拉 9:5；10:6），在一件事上得到神的支持（斯 4:15），为了他人的疾病（诗 35:13）。有些拉比认为作为律己的一个方法，禁食是有价值的，也是可取的。有些人受到被掳回归时期末世论的影响，认为禁食是严格遵守律法的一种体现，也将促进上帝在历史中大行奇事。

耶稣禁食是祂受试探故事中的一部分（路 4:2），然而祂强调所有虔诚的行为都是为了荣耀神，而不是为了取悦人（太 6:16-18）。根据有争议的经文（参：异文，太 17:21；另参异文，可 9:29），禁食是和难对付的魔鬼斗争的一种方法。只有“为天国的缘故”守某种形式的斋戒，这种斋戒才是合理的（太 19:10-12；可 10:29）。早期教会在任命事工之前要禁食（徒 13:2-3；14:23）；保罗认为所有的斋戒行为都是为了“感谢神”（罗 14:3, 6），以免人骄傲就生出事端。《十二使徒遗训》中主张为受迫害的人禁食（《十二使徒遗训》1:3；参：诗 35:13）。后来禁食可能演变成注重贞洁，这在一定程度上是为了撤销对参加“爱席”之人行淫的指控。

It is out of a theological context which rejected a doctrine of retribution but allowed for God's own system of rewards that specific NT statements regarding abstinence can best be appreciated. But for all of the hows and whys, Christians were constantly called to view their lives in the light of Jesus' call to self-denial (Mt. 16:24), Paul's injunction to put to death all earthly, self-oriented passions (Col. 3:5), and similar Johannine cautions (1 Jn. 2:15-17). Jesus' passion served as the final call to a life that by its essence requires sacrifice, at times, through self-imposed abstinence.

The why of abstinence, along with the how, developed among many religious groups as they sought, through centuries of varied circumstances, to give a religious dimension to their individual and community life. Most of them gave enough reflection to the matter to see the folly of relying on mere ceremony to establish a right relationship with God (Joel 2:12f.; Mt. 6:16-18). The best also saw that such outward forms functioned properly only when they led the abstainers to be more responsive to God's will and more charitable to their neighbors (Am. 8:4ff.; Zec. 7:9; Tob. 12:8f.; Talm. Abodah Zarah 20b; Lk. 18:9-14; Shep. Herm Sim. 5:1; Ign. Polyc 5).

斋戒的原因和方法随着宗教团体在诸世纪不同环境下的探究而发展，在宗教方面形成他们个人和团体生活。大多数宗教团体充分反思禁食的问题，并意识到仅仅依靠仪式建立与神的关系是多么的荒唐（珥 2:12-13；太 6:16-18）。最好的团体还会发现，只有当他们更多地用斋戒响应神的旨意和周济邻舍时，这种外在形式才会正确地发挥作用（摩 8:4 起；亚 7:9；比 12:8-9；《他勒目》，《论偶像崇拜》20b；路 18:9-14；Shep. Herm Sim.5:1；Ign. Polyc 5）。

In Proverbs the one who “corrects a scoffer” will only get himself insulted,

since the scoffer is not able to profit from reproof. Abuse can come from mockery or evil speaking being directed against someone (2 Tim. 3:2); this was part of the expected experience of the early Christian community (1 Pet. 3:16; 4:4). Abusive words sometimes turn into “spiteful treatment” (Lk. 6:28), and the taunts and scorns into public spectacles of insults and persecutions (He. 10:33). The writer of Hebrews speaks of Moses’ “abuse suffered for the Christ” whereby Moses identified himself with Israel’s suffering and encountered the same disgrace and reproach as did Christ (He. 11:26). This “abuse of Christ” is what all Christians are called upon to suffer (He. 13:13), and has been described as “to be ill-treated to the end, and to the last breath” (Chrysostom).

The old sense of “abuse” as “to ravish” or “to defile” is retained in the story of the Levite’s concubine (Jgs. 19:25).

the earth” (Ex. 20:4; Dt. 5:8). According to Job 41:32 t'hôm is the home of Leviathan, in which he plows his hoary path of foam. The LXX uses abyssos as a rendering of Heb. t'hôm, but never of š'ôl (=Sheol=Hades); and probably t'hôm never meant the “abode of the dead,” which was the ordinary meaning of Sheol. In Ps. 71:20 t'hôm is used figuratively, and denotes “many and sore troubles” through which the psalmist has passed (cf. Jonah 2:5).

In the NT, however, abyssos means the “abode of demons.” In Lk. 8:31 the demons possessing the Gerasene demoniac beg not to be sent to their place of punishment before their destined time. Mark simply says “out of the country” (5:10). In Rom. 10:7 the word is equivalent to Hades, the abode of the dead. In Revelation abyssos denotes the abode of evil spirits, but not the place of final punishment; it is therefore to be distinguished from the “lake of fire and brimstone” where the beast and the false prophet are, and into which the devil is finally to be cast (19:20; 20:10).

(创 1:2; 申 8:7; 诗 24:2; 136:6)。这地下海洋有时被描述成“地底下的水” (出 20:4; 申 5:8)。根据《约伯记》41:32 的记载, t'hôm 是鳄鱼的家, 在那里它使自己行的路发出白光。《七十士译本》中用 abyssos 翻译希伯来语 t'hôm, 却不用这个词翻译 š'ôl (=阴间=地狱); t'hôm 可能从来不代表“死亡的处所”, 即常说的地狱。《诗篇》71:20 中 t'hôm 用来比喻和表示大卫王经历的“许多苦难”(参: 拿 2:5)。

然而在《新约》中, abyssos 的意思是“魔鬼的处所”。《路加福音》8:31 中记载道魔鬼附在格拉森人身上, 并央求耶稣, 在他们死前不要吩咐他们到无底坑去。《马可福音》5:10 简单地描述为“离开那地方”。在《罗马书》10:7 中这个词等同于阴间, 地狱。在《启示录》中 abyssos 表示魔鬼幽灵之地, 但不是最终审判之地; 因此要把阴间和“烧着硫磺的火湖”区分开, “烧着硫磺的火湖”是兽和假先知所在的地方, 魔鬼在那里被最终制服 (启 19:20; 20:10)。

Where Shittim is used as a place name (Nu. 25:1; 33:49; Josh. 2:1; 3:1; Mic. 6:5), it probably indicates areas in which the acacias flourished. A. seyal and A. tortilis grow in the Arabian deserts. Though commonly found as shrubs, they can attain a height of 25 ft. (7.5 m.) in favorable locations. The orange-brown wood is very durable and admirably suited for the construction of tabernacle furnishings and the ark of the covenant. A. seyal and A. arabica yield gum arabic, used in pharmacy, confectionery, and making adhesives.

当什亭过去被用作地名 (民 25:1; 33:49; 书 2:1; 3:1; 弥 6:5) 时, 可能指什亭木生长茂密的地区。塞伊尔相思树和旋扭金合欢长在阿拉伯沙漠地区。虽然它们是常见的灌木丛, 但是在地理位置优越的地方它们可以长到 25 英尺高 (7.5 米)。这种黄褐色木头非常耐用, 极其适合制造房屋的家具和约柜。塞伊尔相思树和旋扭金合欢出产阿拉伯树胶, 这种树胶可用来制药、糕点和粘合剂。

The normal word for speech is used in this passage to refer to peculiarities in Peter's speech that showed him to be Galilean. These marks of Galilean speech caused the servant girl to question Peter's denial that he was Jesus' disciple.

The majority of scholars still believe that Peter was speaking the Galilean form of the Aramaic language. However, recent research has shown increasing evidence for the use of the Greek language by all classes of people in the Palestine of Jesus' day.

“悦纳”经常用来表示特殊的宗教意义,尤其是在《旧约》中(rāṣôn, rāṣâ)。这里通常是指神悦纳或拒绝献给祂的祭物。当神接受为祂所献的祭时,那么献祭的人得到了神的悦纳。以色列人背叛神,那么他们献的祭就 offering in effect finds favor with Him. When the people of Israel became apostate, however, their sacrifices were no longer pleasing to God (Jer. 6:20). Only when the people repent and the gentile nations join themselves to the Lord will sacrifices again be accepted by Yahweh (Isa. 56:7).

The move away from the strict cultic usage and to a more spiritualized sense is evidenced first in the Wisdom literature, where not only material sacrifices but also the thoughts (Ps. 19:14), deeds (Prov. 21:3), and prayers (Job 42:9) of the righteous man are acceptable. This sense is carried into the NT and extended to include the work and service of the Christian community (Gk. dektós, Phil. 4:18; 1 Pet. 2:5).

To announce the arrival of the “acceptable year of the Lord” (Lk. 4:19; cf. Isa. 61:2) and the “acceptable time” (2 Cor. 6:2) is to proclaim that the messianic era has been initiated through the ministry and work of Christ. The acceptable time is the time of fulfillment chosen by Yahweh, the time to manifest Himself incarnate. It is a time of deliverance and salvation, as in Isa. 49:8, “In a time of favor [rāṣôn] I have answered you, in a day of salvation I have helped you.”

智慧文学首次证明了，这个词抛弃了严格的宗教用法，具有了更多的属灵意义，在智慧文学中不仅义人的祭物可以蒙神悦纳，而且他们的思想（诗 19:14）、行为（箴 21:3）和祷告（伯 42:9）都可以蒙神悦纳。这层含义蕴含在《新约》中，还包括基督徒会众的作工和服侍（希腊语：dektós，腓 4:18；彼前 2:5）。

报告“神悦纳人的禧年”（路 4:19；参：赛 61:2）和“悦纳的时候”到来（林后 6:2），就是在宣告通过基督的传道和事工，弥赛亚的时代开始了。悦纳的时候就是耶和華成全拣选的时候和祂道成肉身的时候。也是救助和拯救的日子，就如《以赛亚书》49:8 所记载的“在悦纳的日子【rāṣôn】，我应允了你，在拯救的日子，我救助了你”。

《修订标准版译本》的《撒迦利亚书》3:7 用“right of access”（“自由出入”）来翻译希伯来语 hālak 的使义

“right to come and go.” The reference is to a vision of Zechariah in which Joshua the high priest is promised access to the court of the Lord if he will obey Him.

The Gk. prosaōgē is used in the NT to indicate the acceptable way of approach to God and of admission to His favor. Jesus said, “I am the way” (Jn. 14:6). His blood is the “new and living way” (He. 10:20). Only through Him have we “access to this grace in which we stand” (Rom. 5:2); “through him we both have access in one Spirit to the Father” (Eph. 2:18); “in whom we have boldness and confidence of access through our faith in him” (3:12).

The goal of redemption is life in God, “unto the Father.” The means of redemption is the cross of Christ, in whom “we have redemption through his blood” (Eph. 1:7). The agent in redemption is the Holy Spirit, “by one Spirit,” “sealed with the promised Holy Spirit” (1:13). The human instrumentality is faith. The whole process of approach to God and abiding fellowship with Him is summed up in this brief sentence: access to the Father, through Christ, by the Spirit, by faith.

ACCESSORIES

主动干（意思是“走、来往”）；《钦定版圣经》译为“places to walk”（“自由出入”），《新英文译本》译为“right to come and go”（“来往”）。这里指的是《撒迦利亚书》中的一个异象，神应允最高祭司约书亚，若他谨守祂的命令，便可自由出入祂的院宇。

在《新约》中，希腊语 prosaōgē 用于表示通往神的道路和得神悦纳的方式。耶稣说：“我就是道路”（约 14:6）。祂的血是“又新又活的路”（来 10:20）。只有通过祂我们才能“进入所站的恩典中”（罗 5:2）；“我们两个藉着祂被一个圣灵所感，得以进入父面前”（弗 2:18）；“因信耶稣，就在祂里面放胆无惧，笃信不疑的来到 神面前”（弗 3:12）。

救赎的目标是在神里面活，“到父那里去”。救赎的方法是基督的十字架，“我们藉这爱子的血得蒙救赎”（弗 1:7）。救赎的媒介是圣灵，“通过圣灵”，“应许的圣灵为印记”（弗 1:13）。人的媒介是信心。走近神的全部过程和与祂建立的永久关系可以归纳成一句简单的话：通过基督，藉着圣灵和信心才能到父那里去。

KD suggest “the plugs and tools.” The term ‘bôdâ is likewise very general, literally meaning “service” (cf. RSV “service” in 3:36). The reference is probably to instruments and tools used in the maintenance of the tabernacle.

【‘bôdâ】（民 4:32）；《钦定版圣经》译为 SERVICE；《新英文译本》译为 MAINTENANCE，汉译均为“所使用的器具”。希伯来语：kelî 是一个笼统的表示各类器具的术语，如装食物和酒水的容器，打猎、作战和宗教活动用途的工具等。在《民数记》3:36中，这个词指的是与支起和放下帐幕（见 TABERNACLE [帐幕；会幕]）有关的器具。凯尔和德利奇（Keil 和 Delitzsch）认为是“插头和工具”。‘bôdâ 同样含义非常笼统，字面意思是“所使用的器具”（参：《修订标准版译本》，民 3:36 “service” [“所使用的器具”]）。这里指的可能是用来维修帐幕的工具。 struggles for its possession. It fell within the bounds assigned to the Israelites, particularly to the tribe of Asher; but they were never able to take it (Josh. 19:24–31; Jgs. 1:31). It was, like Tyre and Sidon, too strong for them to attack; and it became indeed a fortress of unusual strength, so that it withstood many a siege, often baffling its assailants. In the period of the Crusades it was the most famous stronghold on the coast.

In very early times it was a place of importance, and appears in the Amarna Tablets as a possession of the Egyptian kings. Its governor wrote to his suzerain professing loyalty when the northern towns were falling away (Am. Tab. 88; 234). The Egyptian suzerainty over the coast, which was established by Thutmose III ca 1480 B.C., was apparently lost in the 14th cent., as is indicated in the Amarna Tablets, but was regained under Seti I and his more famous son Ramses II in the 13th, to be lost again in the 12th when the Phoenician towns seem to have established their independence. Sidon, however, surpassed her sisters in power and exercised a sort of hegemony over the Phoenician towns, at least in the south; and Acco was included in it. But when Assyria came upon the scene Acco had to submit to this power, although it revolted whenever Assyria became weak, as appears from the mention of its subjugation by Sennacherib and by Ashurbanipal. The latter “quieted” it by a wholesale massacre and then carried into captivity the remaining inhabitants. Upon the downfall of Assyria Acco passed, together with other Phoenician towns, under the dominion of Babylon and then of Persia. We have no records of its annals during that period; but it followed the fortunes of the more important cities, Tyre and Sidon.

In the Seleucid period (312–65 B.C.) the town became of importance in the contests between the Seleucids and the Ptolemies. The latter occupied it during the struggles that succeeded the death of Alexander and made it their stronghold on the coast, changing the name to PTOLEMAIS, by which it was known in the Greco-Roman period, as we see in the accounts of the Greek and Roman writers and in Josephus, as well as in the NT (1 Macc. 5:22; 10:39; 12:48; Acts 21:7). The old name still continued locally and reasserted itself in later times. The Ptolemies held undisputed possession of Ptolemais for about 70 years; but it was wrested from them by Antiochus III of Syria in 219 B.C., and went into the permanent possession of the Seleucids after the decisive victory of Antiochus over Scopas in that year, the result of which was the expulsion of the Ptolemies from Syria, Palestine, and Phoenicia (Josephus Ant. xii.3.3). In the dynastic struggles of the Seleucids it fell into the hands of Alexander Bala, who there received the hand of Cleopatra, the daughter of Ptolemy Philometor, as a pledge of alliance between them (Ant. xiii.4.1). Tigranes king of Armenia besieged it on his invasion of Syria, but was obliged to relinquish it on the approach of the Romans toward his own dominions (BJ i.5.3). Under the Romans Ptolemais became a colony and a metropolis, as is known from its coins; and its importance is attested by Strabo (Geog. xvi.2.25).

在塞琉古王朝时期（公元前 312-65 年），这个城成了塞琉古王朝和多利买王朝的战争重地。在征战过程中，多利买王朝在亚历山大死后成功占领了亚柯，把它建成海岸线的要塞，并改名为多利买（见 PTOLEMAIS[多利买]），这个名字在希腊罗马时期被人们熟知，我们可以从希腊和罗马作家的描述和约瑟夫斯的作品中，以及《新约》中了解到这点（马一 5:22；10:39；12:48；徒 21:7）。当地人仍然使用该城的古名，后来又恢复使用亚柯这个名字。多利买王朝完全控制多利买约 70 年；但是在公元前 219 年叙利亚的安提阿三世从多利买王朝的手中夺走了亚柯，同年安提阿在斯柯帕斯的决定性战役中大胜后，塞琉古王朝永久侵占了亚柯，从而导致多利买王朝的势力被驱逐出叙利亚、巴勒斯坦和腓尼基（Josephus Ant. xii.3.3）。在塞琉古王朝更迭之时，亚柯落入亚历山大巴拉手中，他与多利买十二世的女儿克丽奥帕特拉结成联盟，联手控制亚柯（Ant. xiii.4.1）。亚美尼亚国王提格兰在侵略叙利亚时围攻亚柯，然而当罗马人侵略他们的领土时，他被迫放弃了亚柯（BJ i.5.3）。从当地钱币上可以看出，在罗马统治时期，多利买（亚柯）成为罗马的殖民地和大都市；斯特拉博的作品中证明了它的重要性（Geog. xvi.2.25）。

The events that followed the conquests of the Saracens, leading to the Crusades, brought the city into great prominence. It was captured by the Crusaders A.D. 1110, and remained in their hands until 1187, when it was taken from them by Saladin and its fortifications so strengthened as to render it almost impregnable. The importance of this fortress as a key to the Holy Land was considered so great by the Crusaders that they put forth every effort during two years to recapture it, but all in vain until the arrival of Richard Coeur de Lion and Philip Augustus with reinforcements; and it was only after the most strenuous efforts on their part that the place fell into their hands. It cost them 100,000 men. The fortifications were repaired, and it was afterward committed to the charge of the knights of St. John, by whom it was held for a hundred years and renamed St. Jeand'Acre. It was finally taken by the Saracens in 1291, being the last place held by the Crusaders in Palestine.

It declined after this and fell into the hands of the Ottomans under Selim I in 1516. It remained mostly in ruins until the 18th cent., when it came into the possession of Jezzar Pasha, who usurped the authority over it and the neighboring district and became practically independent of the Sultan, defying his authority. In 1799 it was attacked by Napoleon, but was bravely and successfully defended by the Turks with the help of the English fleet. Napoleon had to abandon the siege after he had spent two months before it and gained a victory over the Turkish army at Tabor. It enjoyed a considerable degree of

这之后亚柯走向衰落，1516 年落入赛利姆一世统治下的土耳其人之手。亚柯几乎成了废墟，直到 18 世纪帕夏（Jezzar Pasha）占领了该地，帕夏篡夺了亚柯和它附近地区的政权，他反叛苏丹王，实际上获得了独立。1799 年，亚柯受到拿破仑的袭击，但是英勇的土耳其人在英国舰队的援助下成功地抵御了拿破仑的进攻。拿破仑围攻亚柯两个月之后，不得不选择放弃，并在塔博尔打败了土耳其军队。这之后亚柯一直非常繁荣，直到 1831 年，埃及的易卜拉欣·帕夏仅围攻亚柯五个月之后，便占领了该地，在围攻期间亚柯的城墙遭到了破坏，很多建筑被摧毁。亚柯一直由埃及人控制

It continued in the hands of the Egyptians until 1840, when it was restored to the Ottomans by the English, whose fleet nearly reduced it to ruins in the bombardment. ACCOMMODATION

(1) The use or application of a Scripture reference in a sense other than the obvious and literal one intended by the author; (2) the view that a passage or verse may have more than one meaning or application; (3) the principle that God adapts His self-revelation to man.

The subject of accommodation is important because it involves the whole problem of a correct hermeneutics or mode of interpreting Scripture, because it introduces the problem of a correct balancing of the divine and human elements in Scripture, and because it involves the doctrine of the Incarnation and its purpose and nature. In all these spheres there can be a false as well as a true doctrine of accommodation, though the true doctrine is certainly not to be abandoned or neglected because of the possibility of the false.

(1) 《圣经》中俯就或调试显然不是作者所表达的字面意思；(2) 调试一段经文或一节经文使其具有多个意思或用法；(3) 上帝俯就向人类启示的原则。

俯就的对象很重要，因为它涉及《圣经》的正确诠释或正确解释《圣经》的方式的整体问题，因为它提出了正确平衡《圣经》中关于神的要素和关于人的要素的问题，也因为其中包含了道成肉身的教义和道成肉身的目的和本质。在所有的这些范围内，可能有或假或真的俯就教义，但是不能因为俯就教义中可能存在错误的俯就教义而抛弃或忽视真的俯就教义。

I. 《圣经》章节中调整的应用。对任何书面文献的正确理解是一门科学。但模糊解释或随意解释不属于科学。准确解译的首要 and 显著原则就是依据作者或演讲者所说的话进行客观解释，而不是引入与作者不同的观点。优先采用普通含义，字面含义和原始

speaker in terms of what he has to say and not of alien or imported considerations or concerns. The plain, literal, and original meaning always has the right-of-way. All wresting of the passage, reinterpretation in terms of a different outlook, application to a clearly divergent matter, or reading-in of meanings that are not merely new but intrinsically improbable in the light of the context is unscientific and misleading.

There are, however, two legitimate forms of accommodation in the field of exposition. First, a general truth or principle may have a valid application wider than to the localized issue of the original context. Thus, when Paul speaks of consideration for a weaker brother, we are not to take it that this applies only to the issue of idol-meats in which it is specifically enunciated. Second, a passage may well have a much wider context than the immediate one in which we initially set it, e.g., the context of the whole book, or the Testament, or ultimately the whole Bible as a unity (see also INTERPRETATION; QUOTATIONS IN THE NT).

II. Double Reference in Scripture.-The second point naturally leads us to the question of accommodation in the sense not merely of wider reference but of twofold meaning and application. We are not to infer from this that the Bible is full of cryptic utterances that are intrinsically ambiguous like the Delphic oracles, which may hold or acquire any meaning that we or circumstances give them. On the other hand, we are not to deny that in the light of the literary form and the larger historical and documentary context many passages may properly be given more than a single application.

然而，释经领域有两种合理的调整方式。第一，普遍真理或原理除了可以应用于原始语境的局部问题上，可能还有更合理广泛的应用范围。因此当保罗关心一位软弱的弟兄时，我们不要认为这仅仅具体指代为偶像献祭的问题。第二，一段经文的语境可能远超我们最初设定的直接语境，如整本书的语境，或圣约的语境、亦或从基本上讲《圣经》全书的语境（另见 INTERPRETATION [解释、翻译]；QUOTATIONS IN THE NT[新约中的引文]）。

II. 圣经中的双重引文。第二点自然将我们引入到调整的问题，从某种意义上说，经文不仅广泛涉及调整，而且还有调整的双重含义和应用。我们不能因此推断《圣经》从本质上说全是含义模糊的表述，如同德尔斐神谕一般，根据个人理解的不同或环境的不同，德尔斐神谕的含义也可能不同。另一方面，我们不可否定按照文学体裁和更多历史以及文献的语境，许多经文段落可能有多种用途。

A. Parable and Allegory. Thus at many points, e.g., in the story of the bramble king in Jgs. 9:7–15, or the symbolical actions of the prophets, or the parables of Our Lord, we have records in which double meaning is of the essence of the literary expression. In other words, we have descriptions of processes or events that are real and plain enough in themselves but which carry a meaning that is different and less obvious. It is true, of course, that these are not allegories in the strict sense. Nor are we to seek for hidden meanings merely because we perceive a symbolical or metaphorical form of speech. On the other hand, even the use of symbol or metaphor means that the sense transcends the literal statement; and when this is extended in a parable or in parabolic action we are brought into the sphere of an immediate but not particularly important significance, accompanied by a less immediate and often concealed meaning that demands inward perception if it is to be grasped.

B. Hidden Truths. A further point is that there is development in the unfolding and therefore in the understanding of Scripture. As the history of God's work proceeds, each part gains added significance. Similarly, as the reader considers each part in the light of all the others, and finally of the whole, implications and interconnections that could not be perceived or appreciated in isolation are brought to light.

(1) As may happen in the secular sphere,

A. 比喻和寓言。因此从许多方面说，如《士师记》9:7-15 中荆棘王的故事，或先知的象征性行为，亦或主耶稣的预言，我们有很多记录可以证明双重含义是文学表达必不可少的部分。换句话说，过程或事件的描述本身非常真实清晰，但其中却蕴含着不同或不太直白的含义。诚然，从严格意义上讲，它们不属于寓言。我们并不仅仅因为感知到了这是象征或比喻表达，才试图找出其中隐藏的含义。另一方面，实际上象征和比喻的应用意味着超出了字面表述的意义；当象征或比喻应用到寓言或寓言性行为中时，我们会读到一个直接但是未必重要的意义，但其中蕴含着不太直接的意义，通常是隐藏意义，我们只有通过内部感知才能理解这层含义。

B. 隐藏的真理。另外，对《圣经》的解释不断向前发展，因此对《圣经》的理解也在不断加深。随着上帝工作的历史不断向前发展，上帝每个工作有了更多的意义。同样，当读者根据上帝其他的工作，最终根据祂全部的工作来理解祂的每个工作时，那些无法孤立理解的暗示和相互联系就可以显露出来。

authors are sometimes seen to have spoken more wisely than perhaps they themselves knew in the isolated situation of their own time. Speaking to a specific hour in the divine history, they also speak with reference to history as a whole and to the fulness of its meaning.

(2) There is also development in the understanding and exposition of later ages. The writers speak of a history that is at every point inexhaustible in range and depth and meaning, because it is the history of God. Hence the householder may constantly bring forth from his treasure things that are new—new facets or interconnections or profundities—as well as those that are old.

(3) In view of the interrelatedness of the divine work, and therefore of its biblical attestation, each passage has a larger context as well as a narrower. The ways in which different passages fit into the wider context may vary. Nevertheless, it is only as seen in this context that their full meaning may be perceived.

C. Prophecy and Its Fulfillment. This leads us to the important truth that between the OT and the NT there is a relationship of prophecy and fulfillment, so that the OT is in fact obscure and fragmentary if taken in isolation, but finds the full sweep of its meaning when seen in the light of its NT consummation and supremely of Jesus Christ as the theme of the NT. Reference may be made to four specific points of interconnection between prophetic anticipation and historical realization in the person, life, and work of Jesus Christ.

(2) 对后来时代的理解和解释也在向前发展。作者在谈论任意一段历史时，无论是在宽度、深度，还是在意义上，他们都无法穷尽阐述，因为这是上帝的历史。因此家主始终可以从他的财富中找到旧事物和新事物——新的侧面、新的关联或新的深度。

(3) 基于上帝工作的相互关联性和《圣经》中的证据，每一段经文都有广义语境和狭义语境。不同章节应用更广义语境的方式可能会变化。不过，只有在这个语境中才能感知他们完整的意思。

C. 预言和应验预言。 这让我们知道了一个重要的真理，就是《旧约》和《新约》之间存在一个预言和应验预言的关系，所以如果孤立地来看，《旧约》实际上是晦涩难懂的、支离破碎的，但是根据《新约》中预言的应验和《新约》的主题至高无上的耶稣基督，就能明白《旧约》的完整含义。关于预言与预言在耶稣本人、祂的生活和工作中的历史实现的相互关系，可能需要提到四个具体的方面。

(1) The promise made to Abraham (Gen. 12:1-3; cf. 13:14-18; 15:1-6, etc.) and later renewed to Israel (cf. Ex. 6:7; 2 S. 7; 1 Ch. 17, etc.) is seen to refer to a distant future and to find fulfillment in Jesus Christ (cf. Gal. 3, esp. v. 14).

(2) The OT sacrificial system, though not without intrinsic significance, is seen to be typical, symbolical, and predictive, fulfilled in the once-for-all offering of Jesus Christ for sin (He. 10, etc.).

(3) The Davidic kingdom is seen to be only a partial and temporary fulfillment which serves as a prophetic locum tenens for the true kingdom inaugurated and to be consummated in Jesus Christ the messianic King (Pss. 2, 16, 22, 110, etc.; cf. Lk. 1:69).

(4) The servant concept of the prophet (Isa. 42:1f., etc.; cf. Acts 8:32-35), while not perhaps without some local historical reference, is seen to be an anticipatory description of the character and work of Jesus Christ centered upon His vicarious death for sin (cf. esp. Isa. 53 and its use in the NT).

It is alleged by many scholars that here we have illegitimate accommodation. Three main arguments are used: that we hereby attribute to the authors a sense they neither did nor could intend to give; that in so doing we weaken their real message; and that artificial importation of this kind destroys the objectivity of true interpretation.

Against these objections, the following points are to be considered: (1) It need not be denied that an immediate and

(1) 神对亚伯拉罕的应许（创 12:1-3；参：创 13:14-18；15:1-6 等）和以色列在未来的复兴（参：出 6:7；撒下 7；代上 17 等）可以视为一个遥远未来的预言，要在耶稣基督身上应验（参：加 3，尤见加 3:14）。

(2) 《旧约》的献祭制度虽然具有实质意义，却被视为一种预表、象征和预言，耶稣基督只一次献上自己来担当所有罪成就了这预言（来 10，等）。

(3) 大卫家的王国被认为是预言的部分和短暂应验，它其实是真正王国开始的预兆，最终在救世主耶稣基督里得以完全实现（诗 2，16，22，110 等；参：路 1:69）。

(4) 先知作仆人的观念（赛 42:1-2 等；参：徒 8:32-35），虽然这有可能指某段历史时期的先知，但也被视为耶稣基督代世人赎罪的本质和工作的预表（参：尤其是《以赛亚书》53 和它在《新约》中的应用）。

important significance does attach to each passage in its local context. (2) There is, however, a larger whole, both of the acts of God and of the record of these acts, to which the individual passages or incidents are all related. (3) If the NT message is true, Jesus Christ is the fulfillment of this work of God (He. 1:1) and therefore the unifying center of the whole history and record. (4) This is the Bible's understanding of itself when taken as the totality as we have it, and therefore a true objectivity demands that we take this factor into account in our exposition of it.

Thus there is a real promise to Abraham, which finds partial fulfillment in his own life and that of his descendants through Isaac. There is a real meaning in the sacrificial system, and this serves a useful purpose in the religious life of Israel as the people of Yahweh. There is a real Davidic kingdom realized in large measure in David himself and especially in Solomon, and continuing with varying fortunes to the tragedy of the Exile. There is a real fulfillment of sacrificial service in figures like Jeremiah or even Jeconiah, or in the righteous remnant of Israel, or even in some sense in Israel as a whole.

Yet these are neither abstract concepts nor isolated phenomena. They belong to a history. Nor is this history merely that of Israel. It is that of God's dealings with Israel and in and through Israel. This history moves to a climax or consummation in which there is a concentration of all the themes upon the single figure of Jesus Christ, the true Son of Abraham and David, the true offering for sin, the true Sin-bearer who need not suffer for Himself but who willingly and obediently suffers for others. Here the whole history, and therefore each part of it, reaches its goal and thus acquires its fulness of meaning. The theme of the Bible as a whole is finally the history of Jesus Christ in its preparation, enactment, significance, and consequences. Objectivity requires rather than rejects this form of accommodation.

III. Accommodation in Revelation.-The problem answered by the divine self-revelation in Jesus Christ is threefold. First, how is man to know God at all? Second, what form will this knowledge take? Third, how can it be achieved and secured in face of the sin and the consequent spiritual ignorance and darkness of man?

A. The Problem of Revelation. As regards the first question, all human knowledge of God obviously depends upon the gracious purpose of God that there should be knowledge of Himself, and therefore upon the condescension of the divine self-revelation. This is true even in the case (now hypothetical) of unfallen man created in the divine image. As such, man might have enjoyed natural knowledge of God. But this would still be dependent upon the prior will of God to create man as he is and to give to him the knowledge appropriate to him. In other words, God is known at all only as in gracious condescension He makes Himself an object of knowledge, and not as man avails himself of a capacity and right of knowledge intrinsic to his creation. We must beware of arguing in circles at this point, for God in His grace did in fact make man a fit recipient of His natural

III. 启示中的俯就。神在耶稣基督里的自我启示回答了三个问题。第一，人类如何完全认识神？第二，这种认识采用何种形式？第三，面对着罪和罪带来的无知愚昧，如何才能保证人认识神？

*A. 启示中的难题。*关于第一个问题，人类对神的所有认识显然都依赖于神的美意，祂愿意让人类认识祂，因此俯就人类，进行自我启示。神按照自己形象创造堕落人类的例子甚至也体现出这一点（现为假设）。同样，人类可能天生就能得到神的知识。但这仍然依赖于神预先按照自己的模样创造人类的旨意和赐予适合他们知识的旨意。换言之，只有当神以祂的恩典俯就人，让自己成为被认识的对象时，世人才能认识神，世人不能依靠自己的能力和被创造时固有的知识权柄认识神。我们千万不能在这个问题上争论不休，因为慈爱的神实际上已经使世人可以领受祂的自然启示。另一方面，我们不要以为神必须这样做，好像祂不得不让祂的受造物认识祂。不论在何种情况下，神的知识必须包含奇迹、谦卑和感恩，实际上，神主动选择让世人认识和了解祂。 revelation. On the other hand, we do well to avoid thrusting a necessity on God, as though He were under a prior obligation to His creature to make him thus. In all circumstances, knowledge of God must involve wonder, humility, and gratitude that God has in fact chosen to make Himself knowable and known.

The formal endowment of man, willed and planned by God Himself, naturally requires the gracious adaptation of divine self-revelation. Here again we are not to think in terms of a necessity imposed on God and therefore of a problem with which He had to wrestle until He found the right solution. God Himself made man as he is in his unfallen nature, and therefore it is self-consistent with His own gracious will and purpose to meet him as he is. On the other hand, He might equally well have determined to leave man in ignorance, or to create in him a different capacity of knowledge, so far as His formal freedom is concerned. In fact, God does reveal Himself to man in accordance with the creaturely capacities with which He has endowed him. The gracious condescension of self-revelation thus fulfils itself in gracious adaptation to the limited potentialities of human knowledge. It is here that grace takes the form of accommodation.

Accommodation would have been a feature of revelation quite apart from the fall of man. Creaturely man does not have the equipment to know God with the immediacy and fulness with which God knows Himself. Many modes of apprehension, categories of thought, and forms of expression are restrictive. This does not mean that God cannot reveal

Himself to man, or that any knowledge of man will necessarily be imperfect or inadequate or even distorted. It means that there is a divinely ordained limitation, and therefore that God reveals Himself in adapted or accommodated form. To take a human analogy, the teacher adapts himself and his program to the more limited capabilities of the students. Such knowledge as he imparts is correct, even though it is not all that could be given. There is accommodation to the limits of the recipients.

A new complication has arisen, however, with the fall of man, for this has brought with it the additional factor of human ignorance and error, more especially in relation to the knowledge of God. Even though God accommodates Himself, e.g., by displaying His power and wisdom in the works of His hands, sinful man fails to recognize God and substitutes a creaturely idol (Rom. 1:19ff.). Indeed, fallen man cannot have true knowledge even of himself and the creaturely world around him. It might be argued with some degree of plausibility that his very categories of thought and forms of self-expression, or at least the use he makes of them, bear marks of the distorting or damaging effects of sin. Certainly, his capacity for receiving communication is impaired. Hence a simple accommodation to the creaturely being of man is no longer enough for divine self-revelation. In consistency with His original and unabandoned purpose of grace, God's condescension must now take the form of an accommodation—not merely to the creaturely being of man but also to his sinful being.

In practice the divine self-revelation as we now have it in Holy Scripture is naturally to man as both creature and sinner. We thus have a twofold accommodation, in keeping with the twofold nature of the problem—or rather, of the divine solution to the problem. This fact gives rise to the most serious questions and difficulties in the correct understanding of the doctrine of accommodation. For example, how are we to distinguish between accommodation to man's finite nature and accommodation to his fallible and sinful nature? Is there still any possibility of the adequacy of the former alone at least for a preparatory work? Can there be the latter without an involvement of revelation itself in fallibility or sinfulness? If there is such involvement in the formal sense, e.g., in the employment of sinful and fallible men, does this necessarily imply material fallibility and sinfulness? Is not this a possibility that must be excluded from the very outset if we are truly dealing with the revelation of God?

B. Accommodation in Revelation. Although the distinction is artificial in view of the real situation of man, the adaptation to human finitude may be formally distinguished without difficulty. It simply means the divine self-expression in terms of the phenomena apprehensible to man. Thus the power and wisdom of God are declared in the material creation, and His righteousness in the human sense of right and wrong. When we come to God's special revelation, this element of accommodation continues. God is self-revealed in His acts among men. He uses the spoken or written utterances of men to declare His acts, making use of the familiar categories of human apprehension. Thus God Himself is largely described in anthropomorphic expressions. The story of His work, whether in creation or salvation, is recounted in a form that makes it generally intelligible. Where there are historical, geographical, literary, or scientific allusions, these are in a form suitable to popular presentation rather than the academic dissertation adapted only to scholars.

B. 启示中的俯就。尽管鉴于人类的真实情况这种差异是虚假的，我们可以毫无困难地从形式上区分神对人类有限性的俯就。这仅仅意味着神以世人能理解的现象进行自我启示。因此，神在受造物中彰显了祂的权柄和智慧，在判断人的对与错中显出公义。当我们说到神的特殊启示，就要继续提及俯就的要素。神用自己的行为向人类进行自我启示。祂采用人类口头或书面的表达方式，并利用人熟悉的理解方式揭示祂的行为。因此在很大程度上可以采用神人同形同性论的词语来描述神。神工作的情况，无论是祂的创世故事或救赎故事都以一种可

In itself, however, this does not give understanding; it is merely the prerequisite of understanding. The divine self-expression in terms of apprehensible objects can give rise to idolatry rather than knowledge in the case of sinners. The recounting of God's acts in historical terms can cause them either to be accepted merely as history or dismissed as legendary. For finite man is also sinful man. Hence, even in terms appropriate to finite man, the divine self-revelation must also take a form, both as act and record, that is adapted to man's inability to perceive God in general revelation. A special activity of the reconciling and revealing grace of God is needed within the sinful world. This is an activity that must be accomplished in, among, and through men who are themselves sinful. It must take such a form that the distorting veil that covers even the adapted self-expression of God is removed. In other words, God's revelation is accommodated to the situation created by the sin and fall of man.

This obviously entails a formal

然而，本质上，这不是理解，它只是理解的先决条件。神以世人可以理解的方式进行自我表达可能会引起偶像崇拜，而不是让罪人崇尚知识。神以历史术语重新解释祂的行为可能会让世人以为这仅仅是历史，或者误以为这是传说而抛弃它。因为有限的人类也是罪人。所以，即使神的自我启示明确适合有限的人，祂必须以自己的行为 and 记录显明祂的自我启示，从而让无法理解上帝一般启示的人理解祂的自我启示。在罪的世界需要调解和揭示神恩惠的特殊活动。这个活动必须在有罪的人里面、在罪人中、并藉着罪人来完成。必须采用这种形式，才能揭开遮盖在神适合的自我启示之上的扭曲面纱。换言之，神的启示必须进行调整，以适合罪人和堕落之人所营造的环境。

involvement of revelation in human fallibility and sinfulness. The divine activity takes place in the nexus of a fallen humanity. It is carried through by men who do not escape the sin and errancy of the race. Their utterances are couched in thought forms that are fashioned by and adapted to hearers whose theological and spiritual thinking is not merely incomplete but erroneous. These men themselves might make mistakes when not acting or speaking under the special direction of the Spirit of God, as Peter presumably did at Antioch. If God's history takes place within that of Israel, then the history of Israel has its place in the history of the nations. If the record of God's history is in the Bible, then the Bible can also be brought into comparison with other literary and religious documents.

This formal involvement in the human situation necessarily carries with it a material restriction. The divine history is not a history of purely supernatural action, which might astonish but could hardly redeem or reveal. The divine record does not consist in a celestial theology or science, which might impress but could hardly instruct or clarify. Israel as the chosen people is implicated in the politics of the day with all the moral dilemmas imposed by its being the politics of a fall-en race. The account of God's work takes the form of a narration that even the least scientific or the most ignorant or errant of men can understand, not aiming at pedantic precision but stating things as they may be perceived by man as he is. The poetic imagery of the Bible does not derive from celestial sources, or even from an ideal humanity, but from the common heritage of observation, experience, and culture. To a large degree, we have here adaptation to man's finitude. On the other hand, an action and the record of an action of God among unfallen man would surely have differed so widely from what takes place within our fallen humanity that they would be virtually unintelligible. The special revelation of God is within a fallen as well as a finite situation.

From this formal involvement, however, we are not forced to deduce a material involvement, as many scholars contend. Limitation does not in itself mean sin or error, even when it is limitation in adaptation to a situation in which there is sin and error. Thus, in given circumstances an action may not be ideal, but it may still be right. Again, that a given narrative is put in terms that even the simplest of errant men may understand does not mean that it cannot be factually correct. A simple account may not solve all the problems of a scholar, but it may still be a true record of fact. An abbreviated story may not furnish every detail for the inquisitive, but it is not on this account to be dismissed as untrustworthy. Imagery may even reflect mythological conceptions without itself being mythological or sharing associated crudities of thought and expression. In other words, God may use forms of action and utterance accommodated to the sinful situation of man without Himself being implicated in sinfulness or error. The accommodation of revelation is not of such a nature that God contradicts His own being and therefore ceases to reveal Himself in the attempt to make communication possible.

Accommodation is not abdication.

C. The Incarnation as Accommodation. This point is brought out with full clarity when we consider the climax of the divine work of reconciliation and revelation, and therefore of accommodation, in the incarnation of Jesus Christ. The divine history finally becomes the history of the incarnate Word within human history. The divine declaration of this history finally becomes the teaching of Jesus Christ and the spoken and written testimony of the apostles and their immediate associates. Again, there is here an adaptation to the finitude of the fallen creature, which entails fallibility and sin. Again, there is adaptation, which means acceptance of the form of fallibility and sin (Rom. 8:3). Again, however, we cannot say that there is material error or sinfulness either in the Word Himself or in the authentic declaration of the Word in His own teaching or the testimony raised up by Him. Jesus Christ enters the situation of sin and error. He acts and speaks within it. But He reveals in this situation the perfect righteousness of God and speaks the words of truth. He accepts the restrictions imposed by prevailing sin and ignorance, yet not in such a way as to be guilty Himself of sin and ignorance. This does not imply any diminution of His humanity; indeed, it is only in Him that we see what true humanity is. Nor does it entail any weakening of His self-identification with fallible and sinful humanity; no one goes further than Jesus either in meeting the common temptations of man or in bearing the burden of human guilt. It is the whole point of His self-identification, however,

C. 道成肉身是俯就的方式。当我们考虑上帝和解和启示工作的最高潮，就可以完全明白这一点，上帝俯就的最高潮就是耶稣基督道成肉身。神的历史最后变成了道在人类历史中化为肉身的历史。这段历史的神圣宣告最后变成了耶稣基督的教导和门徒与门徒的跟随者口头和书面的见证。另外，还俯就堕落之人的局限性，而这局限性中包含着错误和罪。此外，俯就还意味着接受错误和犯罪（罗 3:3）。然而，我们不能说神的道或祂真实的宣告或祂的见证有错误或有罪。耶稣基督将自己置于罪和过失的环境里。祂的行为和言语也出自罪和过失的环境里。但是祂揭示神的完美和公正，并传讲真理的道。祂接受普遍的罪和无知所带来的限制，不过祂并没有罪，也不无知。这丝毫不会减少基督的人性，实际上，只有在祂里面，我们才能看见真正的人性。这样做不会降低祂对犯错和有罪的人性的自我鉴定；没人像耶稣一样可以坦然面对人类的普遍诱惑或承受人类之罪的重担。然而，这就是祂全部的自我鉴定，公义的耶稣为不公义的人受难，无罪的祂承担了罪，拥有完备知识的祂被抛弃，从而使不公正和有罪的称义，无知的可能在祂里面得享神的启示。 that He is the Just suffering for the unjust, the Sinless who is made sin, the One of perfect knowledge who suffers dereliction, that the unjust and sinful might be made the righteousness of God, and the ignorant might enjoy the revelation of God, in Him.

A final observation is demanded. We misunderstand the nature and purpose of accommodation if we think of it, or of the associated work of God, purely in pedagogical terms. God does not descend, or condescend, simply to make the recognition of truth easier. There is an element of truth here. Unless God acts and speaks in intelligible terms, there can be no revelation—although we should perhaps not forget that God is in fact able to raise up stones to Abraham and to give power of apprehension even where it is not obviously possible. In any case, however, we do not have here the whole truth. For God is now dealing with sinful man. This means that His revelation is at the same time reconciliation. The divine activity takes place in the human sphere, not merely that man might thereby perceive God, but that God might do for sinful man what he cannot do for himself, and that He might be revealed in this way and as this God.

Thus the accommodation of the Bible is soteriological and not merely educative. It is revelation as reconciliation and reconciliation as revelation. Again, the problem of divine knowledge is no longer just a problem of restriction. It is a problem of blindness, or of distorted and distorting vision. If accommodation to human forms is a prerequisite of the solution of this problem, it is not the solution per se. Indeed, it may carry with it a more extensive veiling. Enacted in history, God's actions are not necessarily perceived in history or accepted as history. Spoken in human categories, God's words may also be classified as human poetry or even mythology. Incarnate in the world, the Son of God can appear, to some at least, as no more than a prophet at best and an impostor at worst. The parables are not just illustrations that bring immediate clarification. The gospel can be a savor of death as well as of life. Sinful eyes can see without perceiving and sinful ears can hear without comprehending.

This hardly means that the gracious accommodation of God is useless, or that the same melancholy result is achieved as depicted in Rom. 1. For one thing the work of salvation is in fact accomplished. Furthermore, the Word of God now preached does carry light and illumination within itself. Also God Himself is present in its proclamation through the Holy Spirit poured out for the purpose. In the wisdom of God and the power of the Spirit, the accommodation of God now serves the end for which it is designed, i.e., the sifting of hearts involved in genuine relationship to God. Operating as it does on the human plane, the gospel is an intelligible declaration to all, yet not a declaration that can simply be received as an item of information to be added to the store of human knowledge. It calls for faith. Where there is no faith, there is no true understanding and the very perspicuity of the message argues for condemnation. But faith is not an impossibility. For the Holy Spirit kindles faith. Where faith is thus kindled by the Spirit, there is the fulfillment of revelation to salvation, and the graciousness of the divine condescension is seen in all its glory.

This has two important practical consequences. First, the Christian in his theological study cannot come to think of the divine accommodation merely as an educative simplification that enables him to master all mysteries apart from the Holy Spirit. Second, the Christian in his work of witness and proclamation, which is itself a kind of continued accommodation, cannot conceive of his task simply as one of making easy and persuasive, as though sinners could be won to genuine faith and knowledge by pedagogic or rhetorical or psychological techniques irrespective of the Holy Spirit. The mystery of iniquity remains. But so, too, does the mystery of the Spirit. Hence even where there is faith and knowledge, and especially where this is so, the divine revelation and the graciousness of its accommodation always demand our wonder and humility, our constant looking to God and confidence in Him, our prayer and praise.

The two Hebrew words used most frequently are kālā and ‘āsā, which have as primary meanings “be complete, at an end, finished” and “do, make,” respectively. The term “accomplish” is used frequently with reference to the word of the Lord as it is spoken through the prophets (2 Ch. 36:22; Ezr. 1:1; Isa. 37:32; 46:10; 55:11; Jer. 23:20; 30:24; 39:16; 12:7). 最经常使用的两个希伯来词是 kālā 和 ‘āsā，它们的原意分别为“实现，完成，成就”和“行，作”。“应验”一词经常用来指耶和华应验借先知所说的话（代下 36:22；拉 1:1；赛 37:32；46:10；55:11；耶 23:20；30:24；39:16；12:7）。希腊语 teleiōō 和 syntelēō, plērōō 和 plērophorēō 最能突出完成和应验的意思。

ACCORD; ACCORDANCE; ACCORDING

These terms come from a common Latin root (ad-, “to” + cord, “heart”), and basically denote agreement, conformity, harmony. They are used in a number of expressions:

(1) “With one accord” translates Heb. peh’ehād (lit. “one mouth,” Josh. 9:2; 1 K. 22:13; 2 Ch. 18:12), lēb yahdāw (“heart together,” Ps. 83:5), š^ekem’ehād (“shoulder to shoulder,” Zeph. 3:9); Gk. homothymadón (“with one mind or purpose,” Acts 1:14; 8:6). The phrase is always used to describe unanimous participation in a particular action.

(2) “Of one’s own accord” translates Heb. millibbī (“from my heart,” Nu. 16:28); Gk. aph’ heautoú (“from himself,” Jn. 5:19; 7:28; 8:42; 10:18; 11:51; 18:34), authairetos (2 Cor. 8:17). This phrase

(1) “同心合意”用来翻译希伯来语 peh’ehād (“异口同声”，书 9:2；王上 22:13；代下 18:12)，lēb yahdāw (“同心商议”，诗 83:5)，š^ekem’ehād (“同心合意”，番 3:9)；希腊语 homothymadón (“同心合意”，徒 1:14；8:6)。这个短语常用来形容同心合意参与一个特别的行动。

(2) “凭自己的心意”翻译希伯来语 millibbī (“凭自己的心意”，民 16:28)；希腊语 aph’ heautoú (“靠自己”，约 5:19；7:28；8:42；10:18；11:51；18:34)，authairetos (林后

ACCOUNTABILITY

I. Scriptural Principles.-The general teaching of Scripture on this subject is summarized in Rom. 14:12: "so then each one of us shall give account of himself to God." But this implies, on the one hand, the existence of a Moral Ruler of the universe, whose will is revealed, and, on the other, the possession by the creature of knowledge and free will. In Rom. 4:15 it is expressly laid down that, "where no law is, neither is there transgression"; but, lest this might seem to exclude from accountability those to whom the law of Moses was not given, it is shown that even heathen had the law to some extent

ACCOUNTABILITY 责任、职责

I. 《圣经》中的原则。《罗马书》14:12 概括了《圣经》中关于这个主题的一般教导: "这样看来, 我们各自必要将自己的事在神面前说明"。而这一方面意味着宇宙道德主宰者的存在, 且祂的旨意已显明, 另一方面意味着人类拥有知识和自由意志。在《罗马书》4:15 清楚地记载道 "哪里没有律法, 哪里就没有过犯", 但是为了避免那些没被赐予摩西律法的人推卸自己的责任, 《圣经》中表明甚至异教徒都凭着良心遵守律法, 这样他们就 "无可推诿" 了 (罗 1:20)。

revealed in conscience; so that they are “without excuse” (1:20). “For as many as have sinned without the law shall also perish without the law: and as many as have sinned under the law shall be judged by the law” (2:12). So says Paul in a passage which is one of the profoundest discussions on the subject of accountability, and with this sentiment agrees exactly the word of Our Lord on the same subject, in Lk. 12:47f.: “And that servant who knew his master’s will, but did not make ready or act according to his will, shall receive a severe beating. But he who did not know, and did what deserved a beating, shall receive a light beating. Every one to whom much is given, of him will much be required; and of him to whom men commit much they will demand the more.”

There is a gradual development of accountability accompanying the growth of a human being from infancy to maturity; and there is a similar development in the race, as knowledge grows from less to more. In the full light of the gospel, human beings are far more responsible than they were in earlier stages of intellectual and spiritual development; and the doom to which they will be exposed on the day of account will be heavy in proportion to their privileges.

This may seem to put too great a premium on ignorance; and a real difficulty arises when we say that the more of moral sensitiveness there is, the greater is the guilt; because, as is well known, moral sensitiveness can be lost through persistent disregard of conscience; from which it might seem to follow that the way to diminish guilt is to silence the voice of conscience. There must, however, be a difference between the responsibility of a conscience that has never been enlightened and that of one which, having once been enlightened, has lost, through neglect or recklessness, the goodness once possessed. In the practice of the law, for example, it is often claimed that a crime committed under the influence of intoxication should be condoned; yet everyone must feel how different this is from innocence, and that, before a higher tribunal, the culprit will be held to be twice guilty—first of the sin of drunkenness and then of the crime.

II. Relation to Immortality.—Wherever civilization is so advanced that there exists a code of public law, with punishments attached to transgression, there goes on a constant education in the sense of accountability; and even the heathen mind, in classical times, had advanced so far as to believe in a judgment beyond the veil, when the shades had to appear before the tribunal of Rhadamanthus, Minos, and Eacus, to have their station and degree in the underworld decided according to the deeds done in the body. How early the Hebrews had made as much progress has to be discussed in connection with the doctrine of immortality; but it is certain that, before the OT canon closed, they believed not only in a judgment after death but in resurrection, by which the sense of accountability was fastened far more firmly on the popular mind.

Long before, however, there was awakened by the sacred literature the sense of a judgment of God going on

而失去了良心的责任感是有差异的。例如，在律法实例中，律法通常规定醉酒状态下犯罪可被宽恕；然而每个人必须明白这与无罪完全是两码事，并且，在更高的法庭面前，醉酒罪犯将担负两种罪——第一个是醉酒之罪，第二个是罪行。

II. 责任与永生的关系。每个拥有先进文化的地区都存在一部公共的法典，法典规定所有违背法典的人要受到惩罚，并且始终在教导人们要有责任感；在古希腊罗马时期，甚至连异教徒都相信死后的审判，阴魂走到拉达曼提斯、迈诺斯和艾亚哥斯的面前，接受他们的审判，根据每个人的行为决定他们在阴间的位置和等次。必须结合永生的教义来讨论希伯来人最早在何时取得了这么大的进步；但是可以确定的是，在旧约正典形成之前，他们不仅相信死后有审判，而且相信死后可以复活，因此在普通百姓的头脑中形成了牢固的责任感。

during the present life and expressing itself in everyone's condition. The history of the world was the judgment of the world; prosperity attended the steps of the good man, but retribution sooner or later struck down the wicked. It was from the difficulty of reconciling with this belief the facts of life that the skepticism of Hebrew thought arose; but by the same constraint the pious mind was pushed forward in the direction of the full doctrine of immortality.

This full doctrine came with the advent of Him who brought life and immortality to light by His gospel (2 Tim. 1:10). In the mind of Jesus not only were resurrection, judgment, and immortality unquestionable postulates, but He was brought into a special connection with accountability through His consciousness of being the Judge of mankind. In his numerous references to the Last Judgment, He developed the principles upon which the conscience will then be tried, and by which accordingly it ought now to try itself. In this connection the parable of the talents is of special significance; but it is by the grandiose picture of the scene itself, which follows in the same chapter of the First Gospel, that the mind of Christendom has been most powerfully influenced.

Reference has already been made to the discussions at the commencement of the Epistle to the Romans in which our subject finds a place. By some the apostle John has been supposed to revert to the OT notion of a judgment proceeding now in place of coming at the Last Day; but J. Weiss (Der johanneische Lehrbegriff, II, 9) has proved that this is a mistake.

这个完整的教义随着基督降临而产生，基督藉着福音，将不能坏的生命彰显出来（提后 1:10）。在耶稣看来，复活、审判和永生不仅是无可争议的真理，而且通过祂的审判意识确立了祂与责任的特殊关系。耶稣曾多次提及最后的审判，祂提出了一个检验良心的原则，于是现在良心必须接受这一原则的检验。因此，智者的比喻具有特殊的意义；但是基督徒深受这宏伟蓝图的影响，《马太福音》在同一章中也描述了这个宏大的场景。

我们讨论的主题在《罗马书》的开头有所论述。有些人认为使徒约翰还原了末日审判这一旧约观念；即现在审判，而不是到末日审判；但维斯（J. Weiss）（Der johanneische Lehrbegriff, II, 9）已经证明这是错误的。

III. Joint and Corporate Responsibility.-

Up to this point we have spoken of individual accountability; but the subject becomes more complicated when we think of the joint responsibility of several or many persons. From the first the human mind has been haunted by what is called the guilt of Adam's first sin. There is a solidarity in the human race, and the inheritance of evil is too obvious to be denied even by the most optimistic. There is far from being agreement of opinion, however, as to the relation of the individual to this evil legacy; some contend fiercely against the idea that the individual can have any personal responsibility for a sin hidden in a past so distant and shadowy, while others maintain that the misery which has certainly been inherited by all can only be justified in a world governed by a God of justice if the guilt of all precedes the misery. The question enters deeply into the Pauline scheme, although at the most critical point it is much disputed what the apostle's real position is.

While joint responsibility burdens the individual conscience, it may, at the same time, be said to lighten it. Thus, in Ezk. 18 one of the most weighty ethical discussions to be found in Holy Writ is introduced with the popular proverb, "The fathers have eaten sour grapes, and the children's teeth are set on edge," which proves to be a way of saying that the responsibility of children is lightened, if not abolished, through their connection with their parents. In the same way, in our day, the sense of responsibility has diminished for many because of the control over character and destiny ascribed to heredity and environment. Even criminality is excused on the ground that many have never had a chance of virtue, and it is contended that to know everything is to forgive everything.

III. 连带责任。到目前为止我们说的都是个人的责任；但是当我们考虑几个或许多人的连带责任时，这一主题会变得更难理解。从一开始人的思想就被亚当的原罪所困扰。人类是一个整体，显然，即使连乐观的人也无法否定罪的遗传。然而，关于每个人与这种罪恶遗产的关系，人们尚未达成共识；有的人激烈反对个人有责任承担隐藏在遥远而模糊的过去里的罪，而其他的人认为，如果所有人的罪先于苦难而存在，那么只有在公义上帝统治的世界才能证明这是他们应受的苦难。保罗深刻地阐述了这个问题，但保罗在关键问题上到底持有怎样的立场，人们存在很大的争议。

There can be no doubt that, as the agents of trusts and partnerships, men will allow themselves to do what they would never have thought of in private business; and in a crowd the individual sustains psychological modifications by which he is made to act very differently from his ordinary self. In the actions of nations, such as war, there is a vast and solemn responsibility somewhere; but it is often extremely difficult to locate it—whether in the leaders, the institutions, or the people. So interesting and perplexing are such problems that a morality for groups of people, as distinguished from individuals, is felt by many to be the great desideratum of ethics today.

J. STALKER

毫无疑问，由于信任和合作的关系，人们会去做些他们自己从不会去做的事；在人群中，个人的心理发生变化，所以他的行为与平时表现的很不一样。在国家的活动中，如战争，常常很难指派重大而庄严的责任——是给领袖、给机构、还是给百姓。这些问题即有趣又复杂，集体道德观有别于个人道德观，许多人觉得集体道德观是现今迫切需要的。

ACCURSED 被咒诅的、受咒诅的

【希伯来语：ḥērem】（申 7:26）；《钦定版圣经》译为 CURSED（“受咒诅的”）；《新英文译本》译为 BAN（“受咒诅”）；【q^elālā】（申 21:23）；《新英文译本》译为 OFFENSIVE（“受咒诅的”）；【qālal】（赛 65:20）；《新英文译本》译为 DESPISED（“被咒诅的”）；【'ārar】（诗 119:21）；《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》均译为 CURSED（“受咒诅的”）；

【zā'am】（弥 6:10）；《钦定版圣经》译为 ABOMINABLE（“可憎的”）；【希腊语：epáratos】（约 7:49）；《钦定版圣经》译为 CURSED（“被咒诅的”）；《新英文译本》译为 CURSE（“可咒诅”）；【anáthema】（罗 9:3；林前 16:22；加 1:8-9）；《钦定版圣经》译为 ANATHEMA（“可诅可咒”）（林前 16:22）；《新英文译本》译为 OUTCAST（“受咒诅的”）；【katára】（彼后 2:14）；《钦定版圣经》译为 DAMNATION（“受咒诅的”）；《新英文译本》译为 CURSE（“可咒诅”）；【katáthema】（启 22:3）；《钦定版圣经》译为 CURSE（“咒诅”）。

Canaanite idols and those who brought them into their houses were “accursed” (Dt. 7:26). This is the only verse where the RSV translates hērem as “accursed,” though the AV often renders it “accursed” or “accursed thing” elsewhere, e.g., Josh. 6:17. The term hērem refers to things “devoted” (the usual RSV translation) to special use or set apart from common use. Often this means, as in Dt. 7:26, “devote to destruction”; the idols were to be burned with fire (v 25). But sometimes hērem meant devoted to the Lord and therefore excluded from private (profane) use (Lev. 27:21, 28).

The root qll is twice rendered “accursed.” In Dt. 21:23 the one who is hanged is under a curse of God, and in Isa. 65:20 the curse of God on the sinner results in death. In Mic. 6:10 the evils of a short bushel are denounced (zā'am). The most common root for curse, 'rr, is once translated “accursed” in Ps. 119:21 where it refers to the insolent and disobedient.

In the Greek the terms ará, “prayer,” and aráomai, “pray,” are used as early as Homer to denote prayer for evil; thus the idea of a curse or imprecation logically follows. Such is the case with epáratos in Jn. 7:49, where the Pharisees consider the common people accursed for ignorance of the law. The same is true of katára in 2 Pet. 2:14 for those whose numerous sins have put them under a curse. The term anáthema originally denoted something dedicated to the deity or dedicated to destruction. It is therefore the linguistic equivalent of the Heb. hērem, which it often translates in the LXX (Dt. 7:26). Four times Paul’s use of it is translated in the negative sense of accursed (Rom. 9:3, hypothetically of himself; 1 Cor. 16:22 of those who do not love the Lord; Gal. 1:8f. of those who preach a heretical gospel). Equivalent to anáthema is katáthema in Rev. 22:3 (nothing will be accursed in the New Jerusalem).

荷马就曾用希腊语 ará（“祷告”）和 aráomai（“祈祷”）表示为罪祷告；因此从逻辑上讲，有诅咒或咒诅的意思。《约翰福音》7:49 中的 epáratos 也有这层意思，法利赛人认为不明白律法的人都受到了咒诅。《彼得后书》2:14 中的 katára 同样可以表示“咒诅的”含义，那些止不住犯罪的正是被咒诅的种类。Anáthema 一词最初表示可憎的物或当毁灭的物。因此它的同义词是希伯来语 hērem，《七十士译本》中常用这个词来翻译这个希伯来词（申 7:26）。保罗使用这个词时，曾有四次被译为“咒诅的”这一消极含义（罗 9:3，自己被咒诅；林前 16:22，不爱主之人；加 1:8-9，传假福音的人）。在《启示录》22:3 中，katáthema 与 anáthema 是同义词（在新耶路撒冷再没有咒诅）。

【希伯来语：šāpaṭ（加重语气分词；见 BDB，1048 页）】（伯 9:15）；《钦定版圣经》译为 JUDGE（“审判”）；【希伯来语：šāṭan——‘为敌’】（诗 71:13；109:6，20，29）；《钦定版圣经》译为 SATAN（“撒但”），ADVERSARY（“为敌”）；《新英文译本》还译为 TRADUCER（“控告”）；【希腊语：katégoros】（徒 23:30，35；24:8；25:16，18；启 12:10）；【希腊

In rabbinic teaching Satan was regarded as hostile to God and men, and it was a part of his work to accuse men of disloyalty and sin before God's tribunal. The classic biblical example is the book of Job (cf. 1:6ff.). See also SATAN.

The psalmist in Ps. 109 asked for God's intervention against his enemies who falsely accuse him. McCullough (IB) thinks the accusers may be fellow Hebrews; Calvin (inloc.) had a more universal view (see also Psalms VI).

In Mt. 5:25f. actual litigation is in view. The NEB "come to terms with him promptly" is better than the RSV, "make friends quickly."

The Gk. katēgoros is used for accusers at Paul's hearing before Felix; their spokesman was Tertullus. The same word is used in Rev. 12:10 for Satan: "for the accuser of our brethren has been thrown down, who accuses them day and night before our God."

语: antidikos—‘对头’】(太 5:25; 路 12:58); 《钦定版圣经》译为 ADVERSARY (“对头”)《新英文译本》译为 OPPONENT (“对头”), “someone (who) sues” (“控告你的[人]”)。这些词都有律法根据, 无论是字面或书面上的对头(太 5:25; 徒 23-35), 比喻上的对头(诗 109), 还是圣灵的对头(伯 9:15; 启 12:10; 参: 亚 3:1-2); 每种情况指的都是法庭上的对头。

在《马太福音》5:25-26 中可以看到一个真实的控诉。《新英文译本》译为 “come to terms with his promptly” (“赶快和解”), 《修订标准译本》译为 “make friends quickly” (“赶紧和息”), 前一种译法更好一些。

希腊语 katēgoros 用于控告在腓利士面前被审的保罗; 他们的辩士是帖士罗。《启示录》12:10 中用同一个词表示撒但 “因那昼夜在我们神面前控诉我们的, 已经被摔下来了。”

ä-kī-men-ē'ənz. Persian kings from Cyrus II (559–530 B.C.) onward call themselves “Achaemenid” in their inscriptions, claiming descent from Achaemenes [Pers. Hakhāmanish—‘having friendly nature’] and his son, or more distant descendant, Teispes. While these two are known only as ancestral names, Cyrus I, a son of Teispes, appears in the records of Ashurbanipal as a king tributary to Assyria ca. 640 B.C. His brother Ariaramnes ruled the land around Parsagadae while he held territory to the west. Cyrus’ grandson, the “Great” Cyrus (II), ended this divided state, making Ariaramnes’ grandson Hystaspes his governor.

Many folktales obscure the history of Cyrus’ rise to power, but there is little reason to doubt the strong tradition that his mother was a Median princess. It was Media that became the first conquest of Cyrus’ road to empire. The organization of the Persian empire as well as many aspects of Persian culture can be traced to Median sources, and the phrase “Medes and Persians” illustrates the close association of the two states. Persian ability to assimilate alien habits and to accommodate to the customs of other races is exemplified in Cyrus’ career. Thus he was prepared to return the gods of subject peoples to their shrines, upon the capture of Babylon (Cyrus Cylinder, ANET, p. 316; DOTT, p. 93), and the Jewish treasures to Jerusalem (Ezr. 1). In imperial government distant provinces were left in the charge of native rulers, who were to a large extent autonomous. The multitude of races and cultures mingled their skills in ornamenting the king's palaces or filling his treasury. Achaemenian art, monumental sculptures, gold and silver plate, and jewelry, exhibit well the vast and varied resources of the empire.

It was upon the foundation of respect laid by Cyrus (said to have been known to the Persians as "Father") that Darius I, who succeeded Cyrus' son Cambyses, consolidated the Persian power. Darius, a descendant of Ariaramnes through Hystaspes, pacified the area from Indus to Ionia, crushing incipient rebellions, and established road systems with fast courier services between capital cities.

During the eight reigns of Darius' successors the empire suffered little diminution, although its power gradually waned, several of the rulers being men with little interest in affairs of state. Darius III, the last Achaemenian, died fleeing before Alexander in 331 B.C.

音译：ə-kā'yə【希腊语：Achaia】。伯罗奔尼撒半岛中最小的地区，位于科林斯海湾的南岸，阿卡狄亚的北部和伊利斯的东部。

The original inhabitants were Ionians; but these were crowded out later by the Achaeans, who came from the east. According to Herodotus, the Ionians founded twelve cities, many of which retain their original names to this day. These cities were on the coast and formed a confederation of smaller communities, which in the last century of the independent history of Greece attained to great importance (Achaean League). In Roman times the term Achaia (or Achaea) was used to include the whole of Greece, exclusive of Thessaly.

The old Achaean League was renewed in 280 B.C., but became more important in 251, when Aratus of Sicyon was chosen commander-in-chief. This great man increased the power of the League and gave it an excellent constitution, which Alexander Hamilton and James Madison consulted, adopting many of its prominent devices, when they set about framing the Constitution of the United States. In 146 B.C. Corinth was destroyed and the League broken up (see 1 Macc. 15:23); and the whole of Greece, under the name of Achaia, was transformed into a Roman province; this was divided into two separate provinces, Macedonia and Achaia, in 27 B.C.

ə-kā'ə-kəs [Gk. Akaikos—‘belonging to Achaia’]. One of the leaders of the Corinthian church (to be inferred from 1 Cor. 16:15ff.) who, visiting Paul at Ephesus with Stephanas and Fortunatus, greatly relieved the apostle’s anxiety for the Corinthian church (cf. 1 Cor. 5:1ff.). 希伯来语中除了亚干这个名字之外， except in this name. The stem ‘ākar has sufficient use to define it. It denotes trouble of the most serious kind—Jacob’s trouble when his sons had brought him into blood feud with his Canaanite neighbors, or Jephthah’s trouble when his vow required him to sacrifice his daughter (Gen. 34:30; Jgs. 11:35). In Prov. 11:17, 29; 15:6, 27 the word is used with intensity to describe the results of cruelty, disloyalty, greed, wickedness. The record speaks especially of Achan’s conduct as the troubling of Israel (1 Ch. 2:7; Josh. 6:18; 7:24). In an outburst of temper Jonathan speaks of Saul as having troubled the land (1 S. 14:29). Elijah and Ahab accuse each other of being the troubler of Israel (1 K. 18:17f.). Achan’s crime was the violation of the ḥērem or ban placed on Jericho, and was particularly serious because one man’s guilt threatened the security of all. His execution occurred in the Valley of Achor (“trouble”).

其它词语都不使用 ‘ākan 这个词干，词干 ‘ākar 充分地界定了这个词的含义。它用来表示最严重的忧虑——当雅各的儿子使他与迦南人结仇时雅各的忧虑，或当耶弗他许愿献上他的女儿时耶弗他的忧虑（创 34:30；士 11:35）。在《箴言书》11:17, 29; 15:6, 27 中这个词被用来描述残忍、不忠、贪婪、邪恶的严重后果。有节经文尤其提到亚干的行为连累了以色列（代上 2:7；书 6:18；7:24）。约拿单怒斥扫罗连累了这地（撒下 14:29）。以利亚和哈亚互相指责对方使得以色列遭灾（王上 18:17-18）。亚干的罪行是受到咒诅的（ḥērem）或是耶利哥的禁忌，这种罪行是非常严重的，因为他一人的罪威胁到了所有以色列人的安全。他在亚割谷被处死（亚割就是“连累”的意思）。

It may be presumed that this Achbor is also the man mentioned in Jer. 26:22; 36:12 as the father of Elnathan, who went to Egypt for King Jehoiakim in order to procure the extradition of Uriah the prophet, and who protested the burning of Baruch's roll.

Afterward he became a proselyte and was circumcised, and he joined Israel (Jth. 14).

ā'kish [Heb. 'ākīš]. King of the city of Gath in the days of David. His father's name is given as Maoch (1 S. 27:2) and Maacah (1 K. 2:39).

David sought the protection of Achish when he first fled from Saul, and just after his visit to Nob (1 S. 21:10–15). Fearing rough treatment or betrayal by Achish, he feigned madness. But this made him unwelcome, whereupon he fled to the Cave of Adullam (22:1). Later in his fugitive period David returned to Gath to be hospitably received by Achish (27:1ff.), who gave him the town of Ziklag for his home. A year later, when the Philistines invaded the land of Israel, in the campaign which ended so disastrously for Saul (ch. 31), Achish wished David to participate (28:1f.); but the lords of the Philistines objected so strenuously, when they found him and his men with the forces of Achish, that Achish was compelled to send them back. Achish must have been a young man at this time, for he was still ruling forty years later at the beginning of Solomon's reign (1 K. 2:39). He is mentioned as Abimelech in the title of Ps. 34 (see Abimelech 3).

大卫起初躲避扫罗时，刚见到挪伯之后，向亚吉寻求保护（撒上 21:10-15）。大卫害怕亚吉虐待或背叛他，所以装疯。但这使亚吉不欢迎他，于是他又逃到了亚杜兰洞（撒上 22:1）。后来大卫在逃亡时期，又回到了迦特并受到了亚吉的热情接待（撒上 27:1 起），还赐予他洗革拉城作为他的家。一年后，当非利士人入侵以色列，扫罗在此次争战中受到重创（撒上 31），亚吉希望大卫随他出战（撒上 28:1-2）；但是非利士人的首领强烈反对，所以当他们的军队要加入亚吉的军队时，亚吉不得不把他们打发回去。亚吉当时一定非常年轻，因为多年以后，在所罗门统治初期，他又统治了四十年（王上 2:39）。他在《诗篇》34 的标题中被称为亚比米勒（见 Abimelech 3[亚比米勒 3]）。

The location of Achor was on a higher level than the camp of Israel in the Jordan Valley, and lower than Debir, generally N of Beth-arabah and S of Debir (Josh. 7:24; 15:7).

Formerly it was identified with Wādī Qelt, but since the discovery of the Dead Sea Scrolls it is identified with el-Buqei'ah, a plain about 4 mi. (6.5 km.) N-S on the Wādī Qumrân, above (i.e., W of) the caves of the Scrolls. Achor is mentioned in 3QInv (3Q15). In the Crusader period a walled city, known as Casal Imbert, was built on the site, serving as one of the outer fortifications of Acre (Acco). ACRE [Heb. šemed]. This word occurs only twice in the Bible, 1 S. 14:14 and Isa. 5:10. The Hebrew word denotes a yoke of animals in the sense of a team, a span, a pair—not the literal yoke by which the team is coupled together. The phrase “ten yokes of vineyard” in Isa. 5:10, RV (AV, RSV, NEB, “acre”; Vulg. iugerum; LXX “yoke of oxen”) seems to designate a land area that could be plowed by a team of oxen in ten days. In 1 S. 14:14 the area in which twenty Philistines were slain by Jonathan was about one-half as large as could be plowed by a team of oxen in one day.

【希伯来语: šemed】。这个词在《圣经》中只出现了两次, 分别在《撒母耳记上》14:14 和《以赛亚书》5:10 中。这个希伯来语表示的意思是一对牛在一定时间内可耕之地的面积——不是字面意思上的动物所负的轭。《修订译本》的《以赛亚书》5:10 用到了一个短语“十公顷葡萄园”(《钦定版圣经》, 《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》中译为“arce”[“公顷”]; 《武加大译本》译为 iugerum, 《七十士译本》译为“yoke of oxen”[“牛的扼”]), 这个词似乎指的是一组牛在十天内所耕的土地面积。在《撒母耳记上》14:14 中, 约拿单人杀死的二十个腓利士人都是在一亩地的半犁沟之内。

In English the word “acre” originally denoted a field that could be plowed by an ox team in one day. A maximum acre of this kind measured 160 sq. rods. This size became the fixed standard.

在英语中“acre”这个词的原意是表示一个耕牛队在一天内所耕的土地面积。按照这种计算方式, 最大耕犁面积是 160 平方公顷。这个面积成了固定的标准。

音译: a-kros'tik。每句话开头的几个字母有特定意义的一种诗。在《旧约》中有许多字母离合诗。在《诗篇》25, 34 和 145 以及《箴言书》31:10-31 中, 第一节经文以希伯来语第一个字

verse begins with aleph, the second with beth, and so on through the Hebrew alphabet. This is also the case in Pss. 111 and 112, though here the poetical lines do not consist of two cola or clauses, so that it is the cola themselves, not the lines, that begin with successive letters of the alphabet.

In Ps. 37 and Lam. 4 not one but two lines are assigned to each letter (the first line begins with aleph, the third with beth, the fifth with gimel, etc.); in Lam. 1, 2, and 3 it is three lines per letter; in Ps. 119 it is eight. In Lam. 3 all three lines assigned to a letter begin with that letter, and in Ps. 119 all eight lines do. In some acrostic poems there are irregularities of alphabetical arrangement.

Concerning the question how far Pss. 9 and 10, Nah. 1, and Sir. 51:13–30 form alphabetical poems, refer to commentaries on these books. Pss. 33 and 38 and Lam. 5 have exactly the same number of poetical lines as there are alphabetical letters. It would seem that this is not accidental.

母开头，第二节经文以希伯来语第二个字母开头，然后按照希伯来语的字母顺序以此类推。《诗篇》111 和 112 也是一样的情况，但这里诗行不是由两个格律群诗节或子句组成的，所以格律的一节而不是诗行以连续的字母作为开始。

在《诗篇》37 和《耶利米哀歌》4 中，两行诗而不是一行诗被分配了一个字母（第一行以希伯来语第一个字母开头，第三行以希伯来语第二个字母开头，第五行以希伯来语第三个字母开头，以此类推）；在《耶利米哀歌》1, 2 和 3 中每三行分配一个字母；在《诗篇》119 中则是每六行一个字母。在《耶利米哀歌》3 中三行分配一个字母，在《诗篇》119 中八行分配一个字母。有些离合诗不以字母顺序分配字母。

关于《诗篇》9 和 10，《那鸿书》1 和《便西拉智训》51:13-30 中几行诗分配一个字母，请参考这些经卷的注释。在《诗篇》33 和 38 以及《耶利米哀歌》5 中，相同数量的诗行分配一个字母。这肯定不是偶然。

Psalm 111, an alphabetic acrostic. The cola begin with successive letters of the Hebrew alphabet.

Some authors suggest that in the OT there are also a few acrostics of another type. They point, for instance, to Ps. 4, in which the initial letters of the lines (including the heading) form, when read from bottom to top, the statement “unto a lamp for Zerubbabel.”

The acrostic is an old form. In ANET, pp. 439f., is the translation of an Akkadian acrostic, the preserved exemplar of which dates from the 7th cent. B.C., but which arose in (much) earlier times.

In using the alphabetical scheme the poet perhaps provided an aid to the memory of the learner, but he also worked for a

有些学者表示在《旧约》中还有其他几种类型的离合诗。他们指出，当从下往上读《诗篇》4 中每一行的首字母（包括标题）时，就会发现这些字母表示的是“给所罗巴伯的灯”。

离合诗是一种古老的诗体。在 ANET, 439-440 页出现了阿卡德语离合诗的译文，这是从公元前 7 世纪保留下来的离合诗范本，但是很久以前就已经出现了离合诗。

definite effect upon the listener, whose ear was trained to distinguish such linguistic niceties. Though it is more difficult to appreciate such skills today, one certainly must not underrate the alphabetical Psalms. J. Muilenburg is quite right: "What is notable about this ancient poetry is that such an artificial contrivance does not stand in the way of producing literature of a high order, in which the emotions find full expression and the language bodies forth the intensity and passion of the poet" ("A study in Hebrew rhetoric: repetition and style," in SVT, 1 [1953], 103). To presume that Hebrew poets let the alphabetical scheme dictate the whole course and flow of their poems is to underestimate considerably their ability. In the alphabetical poems one finds development of thought and careful construction of essential and living—not merely formal—units.

练，可以区分这种语言上的细小差异。虽然现今更难欣赏这种表达技巧，但是人们绝对不能低估《诗篇》中的字母离合诗。米伦伯格的说法相当正确，他说“关于这种古老的诗歌值得注意的是，这种人为的创造并未妨碍产生高质量的文学作品，而且这种诗歌完全表达了诗人的情感，诗歌的语言也体现出了诗人的热情和激情”（“A study in Hebrew rhetoric: repetition and style” in SVT, 1 [1953], 103）。如果人们认为希伯来诗人用字母决定整首诗的方向和连贯性那么就大大低估了他们的能力。在字母诗中，人们可以观察到字母诗思想的发展和基本而又生动的词汇的谨慎组合，而不仅仅只是采用正式的用语。

I. Title.—The original title of Acts may have been “Luke to Theophilus: Book II.” The title “(The) Acts of (the) Apostles” was given to it after its original close connection with the Gospel of Luke was broken, and probably at the time when it received recognition as a canonical book. The earliest occurrence of the canonical title (Gk. Práxeis Apostólōn) is in the anti-Marcionite prologue to Luke (ca. A.D. 180). A little later the Muratorian Canon, in anti-Marcionite exaggeration, titled it “The Acts of all the Apostles” (acta ... omnium apostolorum). In the MSS the title appears in various forms, e.g., “Acts,” Práxeis (ⲛ in the inscription); “Acts of Apostles,” Práxeis Apostólōn (B D ⲛ in subscription); “Acts

I. 标题。《使徒行传》最初的名字可能是“Luke to Theophilus: Book II”。它与《路加福音》最初的紧密关系被推翻以后，才被命名成“《使徒行传》”，而且在当时可能就被视为正典。这个权威的标题（希腊语：Práxeis Apostólōn）最早出现在反马吉安路加福音序言中（约公元 180 年）。不久之后《穆拉多利经目》在反马吉安的背景下，夸张的将它命名为“The Acts of all the Apostles”（“[全部]使徒行传”）（acta ... omnium apostolorum）。在原稿中，这个标题以多种形式出现，如：“Acts” Práxeis（《西奈抄本》的铭文）；“Acts of Apostles” Práxeis Apostólōn（《梵蒂冈抄本》，《伯撒抄本》和《西奈抄本》）；“Acts of the of the Apostles,” Práxeis tón Apostólōn (many cursives); “Acts of the Holy Apostles,” Práxeis tón Hagíōn Apostólōn (A E H L in subscription); “Luke the Evangelist’s Acts of the Holy Apostles,” Louka euangelístou Práxeis tón Hagíōn Apostólōn(33 in inscription).

II. Text.-The Byzantine text of the 4th cent. and later is represented in Acts by the uncials H L P S and by the majority of the minuscules.

The text of Westcott and Hort (1881) represents what they called by the question-begging name of “Neutral” text, because, in their view, it contains none of the aberrations characteristic of the other types of text. It is, however, better to call it the Alexandrian text (after the place in which it was current) or the beta (β) text, after the usual symbol for its most important representative, Codex Vaticanus (B). B and κ preserve this text in a very pure form, and so also, for Acts, do A and the minuscules 81 and 1175.

The main criticism of the Westcott and Hort text as a reproduction of the β text is that it follows B even where the weight of other β authorities is against B. Even so, it is near enough to the original β text to make little difference. But this is not to say whether it is as near to the text of the original NT autographs. Westcott and Hort themselves believed that it was; in their view the β text was an excellent representative of the original.

There is, however, another candidate for the honor of representing more accurately the original text. This other candidate is

II. 内容。公元 4 世纪和后期的拜占庭风格文本在《使徒行传》中以 H L P S 安色尔字体和大多数草写小字呈现出来。

韦斯特科特和霍特 (1881) 的文本代表着“中性”文本, 因为, 在他们看来, 中性文本不包含其他经文类型的偏差特征。然而, 最好称它为《亚历山太抄本》(因在这个地方抄写而得名) 或 β 抄本, 以最重要代表《梵蒂冈抄本》的常见符号来命名。《梵蒂冈抄本》和《西奈抄本》完整地保留了《使徒行传》的内容, 《亚历山太抄本》与小草体抄本 81 和 1175 也完整地抄写了《使徒行传》的内容。

作为 β 抄本的复制品, 韦斯特科特和霍特文本遭到的主要批评是, 这个文本遵照《梵蒂冈抄本》, 即使其他 β 权威抄本与《梵蒂冈抄本》截然相反。虽然如此, 它几乎与原来的 β 抄本完全相同。但这并不等于说它非常接近原来的新约手稿。韦斯特科特和霍特却认为它与原来的新约手稿非常相似; 在他们看来 β 抄本是原经文的杰出代表。

usually known as the Western text, because it is represented mainly by the Greco-Latin Codex Bezae (D), by the African Latin version—represented in Acts by the sixth-century MS Floriacensis (h)—and by quotations in Tertullian, Cyprian, the Latin translation of Irenaeus, and Augustine. A similar text, however, is found in the East, represented in Acts by quotations in Ephrem’s commentary on that book and in an Armenian catena on Acts based mainly on Ephrem and Chrysostom, and by notes on variant readings in the Harclean Syriac version.

The text of Acts on which Ephrem’s commentary (extant in Syrian and Armenian) and the Armenian catena are based is probably the otherwise lost Old Syriac version of Acts. The Harclean Syriac is a revision made in 616 by Thomas of Harkel (Heraclea) of the Philoxenian version of 508 (cf. G. Zuntz, Ancestry of the Harklean NT [1945]). Thomas’ revision consisted mainly in bringing the Philoxenian into line with the prevalent Byzantine text, but in Acts he also gives a large number of Western readings, for the most part in marginal notes, but also in some ninety-five asterisked additions in the body of his text, with the result that, next to D, the Harclean Syriac is our most important authority for the Western text of Acts. He carried out his revision in the library of the Enaton near Alexandria, using as his standards “accurate and approved” Greek MSS, presumably of a Byzantine character, although the sources of his variant readings are not easily determined. Some of them he may have taken from earlier Syriac versions, but others he probably found in a Greek MS of a Western type. The latter is made all the more likely because most of his variant readings are cast in the same slavishly literal translation-Syriac as he used for his text. The Western MS that he probably used seems to have been similar in character to a papyrus fragment, No. 1571 in the Michigan collection (p^{38}), containing parts of Acts 18 and 19—a fragment that belongs to the 4th cent., if not, as H. A. Sanders thinks, to the 3rd, and whose text is decidedly Western. Two other papyrus fragments of Acts may be mentioned because of their Western character: p^{48} (Società Italiana 1165), containing 23:11–16, 24–29, belonging apparently to the 3rd cent. and p^{29} (Oxyrhynchus 1597), containing part of 26:7f., 20, belonging to the 3rd or 4th century. The presence of the Western text in Egypt in the 3rd and 4th cents, before the date of the great uncials, is very important.

As we have called the Alexandrian text the β text after B, so we may call the Western text the delta (δ) text, after its principal representative, Codex Bezae (D). The δ text has marked peculiarities in the Gospels (especially Luke) and in Acts. In the main it is distinguished from the β text by additions, some of which can be accounted for as scribal or editorial amplifications, while others are not so easily explained, and seem to have some primitive authority behind them.

The claims of the δ text to be regarded as the best representative of the original cannot be dismissed lightly. It has very ancient attestation, and can be traced in versions as independent of each other as the Old Latin and the Old Syriac, both of 似于收藏于密歇根的 1571 号莎草纸残篇 (p^{38})，其中包含《使徒行传》第 18 章和第 19 章的部分内容，桑德斯 (H. A. Sanders) 认为，这个残篇如果不是在公元 4 世纪创作的，就是在公元 3 世纪创作的，这份残篇显然属于西方的作品。可能需要提到其他两个关于《使徒行传》莎草纸残篇，因为它们具有西方抄本的特点：其中一个残篇 p^{48} (Società Italiana 1165)，其中包括《使徒行传》23:11–16, 24–29 章的内容，显然属于公元 3 世纪的作品，另一个残篇 p^{29} (Oxyrhynchus 1597)，其中包括《使徒行传》26:7-8, 20 章的内容，属于公元 3 或 4 世纪的作品。在伟大的安色尔字体出现之前，公元 3 世纪和 4 世纪出现在西方抄本非常重要。

δ 抄本的主张被认为是原作最好的代表，不能有一丝的删减。它有非常古老的证据，可分别追溯到公元 2 世纪后半期相互独立的古拉丁和古叙利亚版本中。它比 β 抄本更早出现在教父引用中。然而从内容上讲， δ 抄本证据

which go back to the second half of the 2nd century. It appears in patristic citations earlier than the β text does. Internally, however, the evidence for regarding it as superior to the β text is less convincing. A longer text should not invariably be regarded as later than a shorter text, but many of the δ readings that are longer than the corresponding β readings are definitely secondary in character. The many amplifications of Our Lord's name are plainly later and pious expansions; so also are phrases like "in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ" when these are absent from the β text, and references to the Spirit over and above those found in the β text. Similar, too, is the frequent harmonization of OT quotations to the LXX form. Some of the longer δ readings are of the nature of glosses. Other modifications have the effect of making difficult passages in the β text read more smoothly.

Agora at Ephesus, with gateway (left) built in honor of Caesar Augustus. Paul taught in the city for an extended period. (B. K. Condit)

In the δ text of the apostolic decree in 15:20, 29 an ethical precept is added, the negative Golden Rule, which is generally admitted to be an interpolation even by those who defend the priority of the δ text; but even if it is removed, the decree in the δ text remains purely ethical, while in the β text it is mainly concerned with food regulations. Here we have neither expansion nor abridgment, but alteration; and if we ask in which direction the alteration was likely to take place, we must remember that after A.D. 70 the relation between Jews and Gentiles in the Church was no longer the burning question that it had previously been, and the tendency would be to replace by purely ethical precepts those primitive food regulations that had been laid down to facilitate social intercourse between Jewish and gentile Christians.

Some of the δ additions are attractive, and might be accepted with greater confidence if they did not keep such questionable company. Such are: Simon the sorcerer's copious tears in 8:24; Cornelius' dispatch of a servant to meet Peter in 10:25; Peter's missionary activity on the way back from Caesarea to Jerusalem (11:2; to be taken along with the δ version of Paul's journey from Caesarea to Jerusalem in 21:17); the seven steps of 12:10; the jailer's securing the other prisoners before attending to Paul and Silas (16:30); Paul's inserting the name of Jesus in the Scripture lessons in the Corinthian synagogue (18:4); his haste to keep the feast (Passover) at Jerusalem (18:21); the hours during

在 δ 抄本的《使徒行传》15:20, 29 的使徒诫命中加入了一个道德诫命，甚至连为 δ 抄本优先权辩护的人都普遍认为这是一个不可更改的负面黄金法则；但即使删除了这条诫命， δ 抄本中的诫命仍然是完全的道德诫命，而 β 抄本中这条诫命主要是关于食物的诫命。我们在这里既没有增加，也没有删减，但是进行了修改；如果要问可能进行怎样的修改，我们必须牢记公元 70 年以后，犹太人和外邦人在教会的关系不再像从前那样剑拔弩张，这时就会趋向于用完全的道德诫命去代替原来的食物诫命，从而促进了犹太人和外邦基督徒的交往。

δ 抄本中添加的部分是很吸引人的，如果它们没有带来疑问，就可能被更自信地接受。这些疑问包括：《使徒行传》8:24 中行邪术的西门的哭诉；《使徒行传》10:25 中仆人哥尼流被派去见彼得；《使徒行传》11:2 中彼得从凯撒回耶路撒冷途中的传教活动（被认为是 δ 译本《使徒行传》21:17 中保罗从凯撒回耶路撒冷的行程）；《使徒行传》12:10 中的七步；《使徒行传》16:30 中狱卒在看管保罗和西拉之前保护其他囚犯的安全；《使徒行传》18:4 保罗在哥林多会堂辩论时在圣经教导中添加了耶稣的名；《使徒行传》18:21 保罗匆忙赶往耶路撒冷参加（逾越节的）宴席；《使徒行传》19:9 中保罗在以弗所宣教的时间；《使徒行传》19:28 中以弗所民众跑到 which he lectured at Ephesus (19:9); the Ephesian populace running into the square (19:28); the handing over of Paul to the stratopedarch (28:16). Some of these added details give the impression of local knowledge, though others have been deduced from the narrative, or even invented by the expander (though it is often difficult to see why). In 20:4 a strong case can be made out for preferring “Gaius of Doberus” (δ) to “Gaius of Derbe” (β). But the general impression is that the δ text is secondary, though its priority has been ably championed, notably by A. C. Clark. The best, most convincing work in favor of the priority of the β over the δ text is Ropes, Text of Acts. F. G. Kenyon (Western Text in the Gospels and Acts [1939]) gives his verdict against the priority of the δ text, while admitting that several of its readings contain “instances of local knowledge which give the impression of authenticity” (p. 26); and he concludes that in Acts “the editor of the ‘delta’ text (if we do not accept it as original) must have had access to material of good quality, such as an alternative draft by Luke, or a copy made by one of Paul’s companions who felt himself at liberty to amplify the narrative from his own knowledge” (p. 31). This would explain the presence in the δ text of apparently authentic details, while leaving us free to regard as secondary the majority of the expansions in which it abounds.

Ropes suggests with some diffidence that the δ text represents a revised recension made very early in the 2nd cent., perhaps in connection with an early stage in the formation of the NT canon: “The reviser's aim was to improve the text, not to restore it, and he lived not far from the time when the New Testament canon in its nucleus was first definitely assembled. It is tempting to suggest that the 'Western' text was made when Christian books valued for their antiquity and worth were gathered and disseminated in a collection which afterwards became the New Testament, and that the two processes were parts of the same great event, perhaps at Antioch—in other words, that the 'Western' text was the original 'canonical' text (if the anachronism can be pardoned) which was later supplanted by a 'pre-canonical' text of superior age and merit" (p. ccxlv). The principal difficulty in the way of accepting this suggestion is that the δ text is more deeply tinged with Aramaisms than the β text of Acts; this fact involves a problem on which the last word has not yet been spoken (cf. Black, pp. 244ff.).

The view expressed by F. Blass and supported by T. Zahn that Luke made two editions of Acts, the δ text being the first and the β text the second, breaks down under close examination.

Even if the β text is superior to the δ text, it does not follow that the β text is equivalent to the original text. The Chester Beatty papyrus of the Gospels and Acts (p^{45}) has shown that a century before our best witnesses for the β text there existed in Egypt a text of the Gospels—or at least of Mark—similar to that which was previously known as the Caesarean text, generally resembling the β text but with some affinities to the δ text. We must take account of the possibility that there was a "Caesarean" text of Acts as well and that it may represent the original text even better than the β text. R.V.G. Tasker (JTS, 38 [1937], 383ff.) finds “that the text of p ⁴⁵, the oldest Egyptian fragments of Acts preserved, is a distinctive ‘non-Western’ text, probably older than the texts of the great uncials and of D, and presenting the same kind of characteristics as that known as the Caesarean text of the Gospels, and that possibly it is the text used by Origen.”

即使 β 抄本优于 δ 抄本，这也并不能说 β 抄本就是原经文。福音书和《使徒行传》的《贝蒂蒲草纸抄本集》表明在我们发现 β 抄本的前一个世纪，埃及就已经出现福音书抄本——或至少已有《马可福音》抄本——这种抄本类似于凯撒利亚抄本，与 β 抄本很像，但与 δ 抄本也存在密切联系。我们必须承认《使徒行传》“凯撒利亚”抄本确实存在，而且它可能比 β 抄本更接近于原经文。塔斯克（R.V.G. Tasker）（JTS, 38 [1937], 383 起）发现 “ p^{45} ” 抄本是已保存下来的《使徒

III. Author.-The traditional ascription of the authorship of Acts to Luke the physician can be traced back to the 2nd century. The earliest extant explicit statement to this effect comes in the anti-Marcionite prologue to the Third Gospel. This prologue begins by saying, “Luke, a physician by profession, belonged to Antioch in Syria,” and after giving an account of him as author of the Third Gospel, goes on: “And afterwards the same Luke wrote the Acts of the Apostles.” The Muratorian Canon ascribes the authorship of both documents to “Luke the physician.” Irenaeus, Tertullian, and Clement of Alexandria toward the end of the 2nd cent., Origen in the 3rd cent., Eusebius and Jerome in the 4th cent., and other early writers add their consentient testimony.

The tradition that the author of Acts was a native of Syrian Antioch probably goes back to a still earlier date in the 2nd cent., to the time when the Western recension of the text of Acts took shape, for the Western text of Acts 11:28 opens with the words “And when we were gathered together ...”—the scene being the church in Antioch. Possibly the same

III. 作者。传统上认为《使徒行传》的作者是路加医生，这个说法可以追溯到公元 2 世纪。最早明确提出路加是《使徒行传》作者的著作就是反马吉安路加福音序言。这篇序言的开篇提到：“路加是一位医生，生于叙利亚的安提阿”，他在阐明《路加福音》的作者后，又接着写到：“后来路加又写了《使徒行传》”。《穆拉多利经目》认为这两卷书的作者都是“路加医生”。公元 2 世纪的爱任纽、特士良和亚历山大的革利免、3 世纪的俄利根、4 世纪的优西比乌和耶柔米，以及其他早期的作家都赞成这种说法。

《使徒行传》的作者是叙利亚安提阿人这一传说可以追溯到公元 2 世纪早期，此时《使徒行传》西方修订版已经成书，因为西方抄本的《使徒行传》11:28 以“当我们聚集的时候……”开头——这件事发生在安提阿。可能相同的修订版——或其他早期作品——实际上在《使徒行传》20:13 中提到了路加这个名字，即把

recension—or else another early one—appears actually to have named Luke in 20:13, replacing “we” by the phrase “I Luke and those who were with me” (so Ephrem, comm. In loc.).

This leads one to pay more careful attention to those parts of Acts in which the narrative is related in the 1st person. There are three points at which the narrative changes from the 3rd person to the 1st person plural, and the unobtrusive way in which this transition is made suggests most naturally that this is the author’s way of indicating that he himself was present at the events following. The three “we” sections of Acts (so called because they are characterized by the use of that pronoun) are 16:10–17; 20:5–21; 27:1–28:16. The view that this usage indicates that the author himself was present at the events described is supported by the fact that these passages are integral to the whole narrative of Acts and exhibit the same traits of style and language as the rest of the book. A writer who used the travel diary of someone else would either have indicated the source of such important eyewitness information more plainly, or, if he worked over the language of the diary in order to assimilate it to his own style, would hardly have left the first-person forms intact.

If this is correct, the author of Acts was a traveling companion of Paul. Several of these companions are named in the extant Epistles; and of these persons Luke is one of the few not excluded for various reasons from consideration as the possible author of Acts. We have to exclude, for example, all those companions of Paul who are named in the 3rd person in the “we” passages. The narrator accompanied Paul to Rome, and in the period following their arrival there “Luke, the beloved physician” (Col. 4:14) is mentioned by Paul as one of his companions—if (as seems most probable) it was from Rome that Paul wrote to the Colossians. This does not prove that Luke was the narrator, but it is consonant with the unanimous tradition since the 2nd cent. about the authorship of Acts. Luke plays such an inconspicuous part by name in the NT that it is unlikely that the tradition of his being the author of Acts (and of the Third Gospel) would have arisen without some real foundation in fact.

这促使人们更加关注《使徒行传》中以第一人称进行叙述的部分。有三处经文将第三人称改成了第一人称复数，这种不太唐突的人称转换最能说明作者本人参与了下面要叙述的事件。《使徒行传》中有三处可以称之为“我们”的章节（因为其中使用了“我们”这个人称代词，所以才这样命名这些章节），这些章节分别是《使徒行传》16:10-17；20:5-20；27:10-28:26。这些段落是《使徒行传》所有故事中不可分割的一部分，而且与本书其他部分在语言和风格上完全相同，这证明作者本人参与了本书中描述的事件。一个作者使用别人的旅行日记，要么是为了更清晰地阐述见证信息的来源，要么，即使他将别人的日记转化成自己的风格，都无法以第一人称的形式叙述。

The element of medical diction in the vocabulary of Acts cannot in itself be held to establish the claim that the author was a physician. W. K. Hobart’s thesis is offset by H. J. Cadbury’s criticisms in Style and Literary Method of Luke. But if we can conclude on independent grounds that the author was Luke the physician, the medical diction certainly illustrates, and perhaps even supports, that conclusion.

There is no direct statement in the critically established text of Acts to support the tradition that Luke was a native of Syrian Antioch. He does, however, show a great interest in Antioch. Apart from the account of the beginnings of the church in Antioch (chs. 11, 13), it may be of some significance that, of the seven deacons of the Jerusalem church whose names are given in 6:5, the only one whose home town is mentioned is “Nicolaus a proselyte of

《使徒行传》的批判性经文中的间接描述不能证明路加是叙利亚安提阿人。然而他确实对安提阿很感兴趣。除了关于早期安提阿教会的描述（11 章和 13 章），还有一个描述可能非常重要，在《使徒行传》6:5 中提到的耶路撒冷教会的七个执事中，只提到了“进犹太教的安提阿人尼哥拉”的家乡。如果路加确实是安提阿人，我们可以认为路加是安提阿城中接受塞浦路斯人和古利奈人所传福音的希腊人之一，这些福音传道者因为司提反的

Antioch.” If Luke was indeed an Antiochian, we may regard him as one of the Greeks of that city evangelized by the men of Cyprus and Cyrene who went there because of the persecution that followed Stephen’s death (11:20). That he was a Greek, in common with Epaphras and Demas, seems plain from Col. 4:10–14, where Paul’s Jewish-Christian companions at the time of writing (Aristarchus, Mark, and Jesus Justus) are mentioned separately from the others. Luke appears, in fact, to be the only gentile writer in the NT, and indeed in the whole Bible.

IV. The Book.-Luke (hereinafter designating the author by this name) sets out his purpose for writing his twofold history in the prologue that introduces the Third Gospel (Lk. 1:1–4); this should be read as his prologue not to that Gospel only but to the whole work of which the Gospel forms Book One.

It appears from the prologue that the writer himself could not claim to be an eyewitness of the events narrated in his history from the beginning, although he had access to the information such eyewitnesses could supply. He was not the first to draw up an account based on information of this kind, but he claims for his account that it rests upon thorough and accurate inquiry, and that it is arranged in a proper sequence.

The title “most excellent” (Gk. krátistos) by which Theophilus is addressed may mean that Theophilus was a member of the Roman equestrian order, or it may be used more loosely as a title of honor. The title is omitted when Theophilus is again

死而遭到迫害，然后来到了安提阿（徒 11:20）。《歌罗西书》4:10-14 似乎明确提到路加与以巴弗和底马同是希腊人，保罗在写作过程中分别介绍了犹太基督徒同工（亚里达古、马可和又称为犹太士都的耶数）和其他同工。在《新约》中，乃至整本《圣经》中路加实际上是唯一一位外邦作家。

IV. 《使徒行传》。路加（以下这个名字均表示作者）在介绍《路加福音》的序言中表明他定意要写两部历史记录（路 1:1-4）；不应该仅仅将这个序言视为《路加福音》的序言，而应该将它视为所有路加作品的序言，《路加福音》只是其中的一本书。

addressed at the beginning of Acts (1:1), but no certain inference can be drawn from this. All that we can gather with complete certainty is that Theophilus had already received some information about the rise and progress of the Christian movement—not necessarily as a catechumen—and that Luke was concerned to see that his information was as trustworthy as possible.

Luke traces the history of Christian beginnings from the events immediately preceding the birth of Christ (7 B.C.?) down to the end of Paul's two years' detention in Rome (A.D. 60–62). He does this in two volumes, the first carrying the story as far as the appearance of the risen Christ to His disciples in Jerusalem, the second taking up the story at that point and telling how, in accordance with the commission given to the disciples by the Lord at that time, the good news was carried stage by stage from Jerusalem to Rome. These two volumes are the longest books of the NT, the Gospel being somewhat longer than Acts. It looks as if the author in both volumes recorded as much as could be contained in a papyrus roll of normal length.

It has been suggested (e.g., by W. M. Ramsay and T. Zahn) that Luke projected a third volume, but there is no adequate evidence for this. Ramsay argued that the opening words of Acts, where the Third Gospel is referred to as the prōtos λόγος (lit. “first volume”), imply that a third volume was projected. This argument might have had some substance had Luke been writing in the classical Greek of an earlier date, but it is not conclusive for the Hellenistic idiom, in which prōtos can mean “former” as readily as “first.” Whether Ramsay is right in saying that “no one can accept the ending of Acts as the conclusion of a rationally conceived history” (SPT, pp. 351f.) is perhaps one of those questions of taste about which dispute is idle; but in point of fact many readers can and do so accept it. Luke has brought Paul to Rome, and leaves him preaching the kingdom of God in the heart of the empire, “none forbidding him.” He has in fact carried out his program; and over against Ramsay’s opinion we may set the note at the end of Acts in J. A. Bengel’s Gnomon (Eng. tr., 7th ed. 1877): “The victory of the word of God: Paul at Rome, the climax of the Gospel, the end of Acts ... It began at Jerusalem; it ends at Rome. Here, O Church, thou hast thy ground-plan; it is thine to preserve it and to guard thy deposit.”

About the beginning of the 2nd cent.—quite soon, in fact, after the publication of the Fourth Gospel—the Gospel records of Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John were gathered into one collection and began to circulate as a fourfold Gospel. One consequence of this was that the first volume of Luke’s history was detached from the second and attached to the other three Gospels. Possibly a minor textual adjustment was made at the end of Luke and the beginning of Acts at this time, the words “and was carried up into heaven” being added to Lk. 24:51, and “he was received up” added in Acts 1:2. But a more important result was the special place that Acts had henceforth to occupy in the NT canon.

About the time the four Gospels were

约公元 2 世纪初, 事实上就是第四福音书出版后不久, 《马太福音》《马可福音》《路加福音》和《约翰福音》被收录成一本福音集, 并开始以四福音书合集的形式向四处传播。这就使路加的第一部作品与他的第二部作品分离开来, 却与其它三福音书关联在了一起。因此人们当时可能对《路加福音》的开头和《使徒行传》的结尾内容作了稍微的调整, 比如将“被接到天上去”这句放在《路加福音》24:51 中, 而将“祂被接上升”添到《使徒行传》1:2 中。但最重要的结果是, 自此以后《使徒行传》成为新约正典中非常特殊的一卷书。 brought together to form one collection, another collection was also taking shape—the collection of the Epistles of Paul. These two collections—“The Gospel” and “The Apostle,” as they were called—make up the greater part of the NT. But there would be a hiatus between the two collections if it were not for Luke’s second volume, which played an important part in relating the two to each other. Luke’s second volume provides a general sequel to the fourfold Gospel, since it was from the beginning the proper sequel to the Third Gospel. Besides, it provides the historical background against which a great part of the Pauline corpus can be more readily understood, and—more important still—it provides clear and convincing evidence for the validity of the apostolic claims Paul makes for himself in his letters.

But the importance of Luke’s second volume was further underlined as a result of the debate that was stirred up by Marcion (ca. A.D. 140). Marcion regarded Christ as the revealer of a completely new religion and maintained that Paul was the only apostle of Christ who preserved that religion in its purity. He drew up what he believed to be the true canon of divine scripture for this new age. Marcion’s canon comprised two parts—“The Gospel” (a suitably edited recension of the Third Gospel) and “The Apostle” (a similarly edited recension of the first ten Pauline Epistles). The publication of Marcion’s canon was a challenge and stimulus to the Roman church and the other churches that shared the catholic faith that Marcion rejected. They now defined with greater precision what they accepted as the canon of holy scripture.

而且由马吉安（约公元 140 年）发起的辩论进一步强调了《使徒行传》的重要性。马吉安认为耶稣基督是全新宗教的启示者，而保罗是基督使徒中唯一保留纯正信仰的使徒。马吉安按照他的想法为全新的时代编纂了一本圣经正典。马吉安的圣经正典包含两个部分——“福音书”（《路加福音》的合理修订版）和“使徒书信”（保罗前十封书信的类似修订版）。马吉安正典向罗马教会和其他坚持天主教信仰（马吉安反对这种信仰）的教会发起了挑战，并刺激了他们。这些教会现在更加准确地定义了圣经正典。在他们看来，新约正典不能取代旧约正典，而是完全应验了《旧约》，所以二者同等重要。在他们看来“福音书”不只是一本书，而是四本书，而这四本书包含了马吉安篡改的圣经正典中的一卷书的原稿。在他们看来“使徒书信”也不是十封信，而是包

For them the NT canon did not supersede that of the OT but stood alongside it as its proper fulfillment. For them “The Gospel” comprised not one document only but four, and these four included the true form of the one that Marcion had published in a garbled edition. For them “The Apostle” comprised not ten but thirteen Pauline Epistles, and letters of other apostles as well. Linking “The Gospel” and “The Apostle” together, the second volume of Luke’s history had greater importance than was ever before attached to it, for not only did it present irrefragable proof of Paul’s apostleship but it presented evidence of the apostleship of the other apostles too—those whom Marcion had repudiated as false apostles and corrupters of the truth. Its “pivotal” place in the Christian canon (to use Harnack’s epithet) was appreciated now as it could not have been before, and this appreciation was expressed by its being given the position between “The Gospel” and “The Apostle” which it has occupied since then. It is from this time, too, as we have said, that we find this document called the Acts of the Apostles.

This account of the origin of Acts and its role in the definition of the NT canon has not, however, been unanimously accepted. A notable challenge to it has been presented by J. Knox in Marcion and the NT. He argues that Marcion’s Gospel was not adapted from the Third Gospel, but from an earlier Gospel writing from which the present Third Gospel also was derived; and that Marcion’s Gospel resembles this earlier form more closely than the Third Gospel does. The Third Gospel as we know it, in fact, is an anti-Marcionite revision and expansion of the work that underlay Marcion's Gospel. Similarly, Knox maintains, Acts in its canonical form is an anti-Marcionite work of the 2nd century. In view of Marcion's appeal to the unique authority of Paul, it was necessary for catholic Christians not only to claim Paul for themselves in a more complete form than Marcion recognized, but to defend their recognition of the other apostles. This they did not only by acknowledging as canonical certain writings ascribed to apostles other than Paul, but in particular by appealing to a work that established their authority. The authority of Peter and John and their fellow apostles was unquestioned in the catholic Church; if Paul (as Marcion averred) really repudiated them as false apostles, then the catholic Church must repudiate Paul. If, on the other hand, Paul was not to be repudiated, it must be shown, more conclusively than Paul's letters could be made to do, that Paul had acknowledged the authority of the Twelve. There was need for an authoritative document that, without disparaging Paul's apostleship, subordinated him to the Twelve. And, says Knox, just such a book became suddenly available ca. A.D. 150—a book “of which there is not a single clear trace before this time” (p. 119).

Linguistically, Knox would bracket Acts along with most of the peculiarly “Lukan” parts of the Third Gospel as dating from this time; the unknown author, who has impressed his style on the whole twofold work, took the original document underlying Marcion's Gospel and worked it over in the catholic interest, and added the “second treatise,” the book of Acts, which “serves the double purpose of exalting and idealizing Paul and at the same time definitely subordinating him to the leaders at Jerusalem” (p. 120).

V. Date.-One weighty argument against the view that Luke-Acts is a mid-second-century work is that the historical, geographical, and political atmosphere of Luke-Acts as a whole, and of Acts in particular, belongs to the 1st cent. and not to the 2nd. The investigations of W. M. Ramsay and A. Harnack, carried out along quite independent lines, set the first-century date on a firm foundation.

When Ramsay began his career of archeological research in Asia Minor in 1880, he did so as one who was “quite convinced” by the “ingenuity and apparent completeness of the Tübingen theory.” But as he found himself increasingly brought in contact with Acts “as an authority for the topography, antiquities, and society of Asia Minor,” he “gradually came to find it a useful ally in some obscure and difficult investigations” relating to the 1st century. He has left on record the impression that was made on him when he recognized that the reference to Lystra and Derbe as “cities of Lycaonia” in Acts 14:6, with the corollary that Iconium was a city of Galatian Phrygia, was (contrary to his previous belief) historically and geographically justified. He came to realize more and more that the most serious objections against accepting it in its entirety as a first-century work were the result of mistaken presuppositions (cf. The Bearing of Recent Discovery on the Trustworthiness of the NT [1915], pp.

V. 日期。关于《路加福音》和《使徒行传》是 2 世纪中期作品的这一观点有个非常大的争议，即《路加福音》和《使徒行传》（尤其是《使徒行传》）中描述的历史背景、地理环境和政治制度都属于 1 世纪，而不属于 2 世纪。拉姆塞 (W. M. Ramsay) 和哈纳克 (A. Harnack) 经过独立的调查研究，找到了这两本书成书于公元 1 世纪的明确证据。

当拉姆塞 (Ramsay) 于 1880 年在小亚西亚开始进行考古研究时，他“完全相信了杜平根 (Tübingen) 理论的独特性和表面完整性”。但是随着他逐渐研究《使徒行传》，他越来越认为这部作品是研究“小亚细亚地理学、古代历史和社会的权威之作”，他“逐渐发现这部作品是调查 (1 世纪) 某些晦涩难懂方面的有用工具”。如当他发现《使徒行传》14:6 中路司得和特庇指的是“吕高尼的城”，并发现以哥念就是加拉太弗吕家的推断 (与他之前的观点相反) 符合历史学和地理学依据时，他把这些想法记录下来。他越来越发现，由于人们错误的推论，所以他们坚决驳斥《使徒行传》完全是 1 世纪的作品 (参: The Bearing of Recent Discovery on the Trustworthiness of the NT [1915], 16-17 页, 35 起, et passim)。我们必须十分注重这些历史学和考古学证据; 事实上, 没有人期望能够在一部 2 世纪中期的作品中看到《使徒行传》中所反映出的关于 1 世纪中期的人物和情况的信息。

16f., 35ff., et passim). This form of historical and archeological evidence must be allowed full weight; in fact, Acts displays an acquaintance with the persons and situations of the middle years of the 1st cent. that one would not expect in a tendentious work written in the middle of the 2nd century.

As for external evidence, there are few indubitable references to Acts in the first half of the 2nd century. After that time there is no lack of evidence. The succession of apocryphal books of “Acts” (the “Acts of John,” the “Acts of Paul,” etc.) appearing from ca. A.D. 150 on implies not only the existence of Acts as a model, but also its established recognition as authoritative. Justin Martyr (ca. A.D. 150) makes a fairly clear allusion to the opening paragraph of Acts (Apol. i.50). Earlier still, the reference in Polycarp’s Epistle to the Philippians (1:2), written ca. A.D. 120, to Christ as the one “whom God raised up, having loosed the pangs of Hades,” may be regarded with some confidence as a quotation of Acts 2:24. The account of the death of Judas Iscariot given by Polycarp’s contemporary Papias has been thought (by E. J. Goodspeed and others) to be based upon the account in Acts 1:18f., but this is uncertain.

The evidence for assigning an early second-century date to the formation of the fourfold Gospel, with its implications for the first-century dating of all four documents that it incorporated, has an inevitable bearing on the date not only of Luke but of Acts. And if Goodspeed was right (as he very well may have been) in thinking that the beginning of the collection of Paul's letters toward the end of the 1st cent. was stimulated by the publication of Acts, there is a further indication in favor of a first-century date.

But even if the first-century date of Acts appears to be established, we have to consider further in which decade of the 1st cent.—i.e., in which of the last four decades of that century—the composition of the book is to be placed.

There is much in Luke-Acts, and especially in Acts, suggesting that the work was written quite soon after the last event recorded in the twofold history, the termination of Paul's two years of custody in Rome (Acts 28:30f.), the two years in question being probably A.D. 60 and 61. This at any rate provides a fixed terminus a quo. "From this," says Jerome, "we understand that the book was written in the same city" (De viris illustribus 7)—probably implying that it was completed at the end of these two years.

The following considerations may be urged in support of such an early dating:

(1) Luke shows no sign of dependence on Paul's Epistles. Yet these are so obviously a primary source of information about Paul that anyone writing an account of his career after they had begun to circulate generally among the churches could hardly have avoided making use of them. But Luke is so far from using them as a source that it becomes at times considerably difficult to reconcile his accounts of Paul's movements with theirs. E. J. Goodspeed has suggested that it was the publication of Acts that first revived an interest in

但是即使《使徒行传》似乎是公元1世纪成书的,那么我们也必须考虑到到底是公元1世纪哪个年代成书的——也就说这卷书是在公元1世纪最后四十年中的哪一年写成的。

《路加福音》和《使徒行传》(尤其是《使徒行传》)中有很多证据表明,以两部分历史记录的最后事件发生之后不久、保罗结束在罗马的两年监禁之后(徒28:30-31)不久,《使徒行传》就已经成书,保罗有可能是在公元60年和61年被囚于罗马。这至少提供了一个固定的“起始年代”。耶柔米说:“由此可知,这卷书也写于这座城市”(De viris illustribus 7)——这可能暗指《使徒行传》是在保罗两年狱期结束时完成的。

(1)《路加福音》没有征引保罗的书信。不过,保罗书信显然是研究保罗的主要参考资料,保罗的这些书信在教会内被普遍传读之后,任何想要撰写保罗生平的人都不可能不参考这些书信。但路加根本没有将它们当作原始资料,有时他对保罗活动的描述也与其他人的描述严重不符。古德斯皮德(E. J. Goodspeed)认为《使徒行传》的出版率先点燃了教会研究了保罗的兴趣(正说上文所说),并刺激了人们收集保罗书信(这本书在成书之后没有马上被广泛“发行”)。另一方面,诺克斯(Knox)认为由于缺

Paul among the churches and (as has been noted) stimulated the collection of his Epistles. (The wider “publication” of the book did not necessarily follow immediately upon its composition.) Knox, on the other hand, aware of the difficulty presented to a second-century dating of Acts by the lack of reference to Paul’s Epistles, offers a suggestion in line with his main position: that the Epistles of Paul were “under a cloud” in catholic circles because of Marcion’s use of them, and “Acts undertakes to bring Paul, but not necessarily his epistles, into the light again.... Paul’s only connection with church letters in the Acts of the Apostles is as the bearer of a letter written by the Twelve” (pp. 134f.). But there is no evidence at all that Marcion’s use of Paul’s Epistles reduced their prestige in the eyes of anti-Marcionites. Knox further urges that the apparent lack of knowledge of Paul’s Epistles in Acts is a difficulty for any dating of Acts. But the difficulty becomes less the earlier we date Acts, and it is reduced to a minimum if we date it in the sixties of the 1st century.

(2) Luke gives no hint that Paul had died by the time he wrote his history—not even in Paul’s words to the Ephesian elders in Acts 20:25 (“I know that all you ... will see my face no more”). Paul’s intention at this time was not to return to the Aegean area after his visit to Jerusalem but to evangelize Spain (cf. Rom. 15:23ff.), and that sufficiently accounts for his language here. Had Luke written after Paul’s death—which may be dated in A.D. 64 or a year or two later—his knowledge of the circumstances of Paul’s death would perhaps have given a definite color to some of his writing and

(2) 路加并没有暗示出他在书写保罗的人生记录时保罗已经去世，甚至在《使徒行传》20:25中保罗对以弗所长老所说的话（“如今我晓得……你们以后都不得再见我的面了”）也没有暗示出保罗将死。保罗当时并不打算在访问耶路撒冷之后回到爱琴海地区，而是打算去西班牙传道（参：罗15:23起），他的话已经很充分说明了这一点。如果路加是在保罗去世后才开始写作——可能是在公元64年或之后一两年，那么路加的作品可能会明确地体现出他知道保罗去世时的情况，《使徒行传》也就几乎不会以如此自信的记录收尾。

Acts would hardly have finished on such a confident note.

(3) This last point applies not only to Paul's death but to the whole Neronian persecution in which Paul's death was traditionally an incident. The attitude to the Roman power throughout Acts makes it difficult to believe that this persecution had actually begun, or was now a matter of history. The impartiality with which the representatives of the imperial power treat the Christian missionaries in Acts reflects a situation that had completely disappeared by the end of the century. Yet it was Paul's experience of this impartial dealing that encouraged him to expect a favorable hearing before the supreme tribunal in Rome. A work written after A.D. 64 would scarcely have given its readers such an optimistic impression of the situation in Rome two or three years before that date.

(4) Another event that would have left its mark on Acts if it had already taken place was the Jewish revolt of A.D. 66 and the consequent destruction of the city and temple of Jerusalem four years later. This crisis was so epochal for both Judaism and Christianity that a clear difference in outlook can be noted between literature reflecting the period preceding it and that reflecting the subsequent period. Brandon (pp. 208ff.) argues that the Lukan writings reflect a later phase than Mark does of the new situation that arose after A.D. 70. Furthermore, Brandon holds that Acts represents a further stage than Mark does in the process of rehabilitating Paul, and also contains "a covert polemic" against the Christianity of Alexandria, which he believes had succeeded

(3) 这最后一点不仅适于描述保罗之死，而且适于描述尼禄迫害基督徒整个件事，传统上认为保罗之死是发生在尼禄迫害期间的一件事。《使徒行传》通篇对罗马政权的态度使人很难相信这场迫害实际上已经开始，或当时已经成为历史。《使徒行传》中罗马政权代表对基督徒的公平态度反映出了在那个世纪末就已经完全消失的历史形势。而保罗被公平对待的经历促使他希望在罗马最高法庭面前得到有利于他的审讯。公元 64 年之后的作品几乎不会在此前两三年就让读者对罗马形势产生乐观的印象。

Jerusalem “as the citadel of Jewish Christianity and of opposition to Pauline teaching.” But Luke, who emphasizes Jewish opposition to the gospel throughout the cities and provinces of the empire, nowhere suggests that the “crooked generation” had met with the judgment from which Peter on the day of Pentecost urged his hearers to save themselves (Acts 2:40). In this matter, of course, the evidence of the Third Gospel must be considered as well as that of Acts, and it is in the former that many expositors have found the plainest references to the destruction of Jerusalem as having already taken place. If it were established that the canonical Gospel of Luke does in fact presuppose the events of A.D. 66–70, one might consider whether the “former treatise” to which Acts originally formed the sequel might not have been some form of “Proto-Luke” (cf. C.S.C. Williams, Expos.T., 64 [1952/53], 283f.). As it is, however, the language in the Third Gospel that has been widely taken to reflect the conditions of the siege and fall of Jerusalem may well be accounted for quite differently (cf. C. H. Dodd, Journal of Roman Studies, 37 [1947], 47ff.).

(5) The subjects that are accorded prominent importance in Acts, and the theological outlook of the book, also tend very much to suggest a period before A.D. 70. The issue so earnestly disputed before and during the Council of Jerusalem (Acts 15) became progressively less urgent after the 60’s and 70’s of the 1st century. The “primitiveness” that seems to mark the theology of Acts both in substance and in expression is a less certain criterion of date, although it does confirm Luke's fidelity to his sources of information (cf. W. L. Knox, Acts of the Apostles, pp. 69ff.).

(6) The manner in which Acts ends is best explained if Luke stopped at that point because there was no more to relate at the time, i.e., if he wrote at the end of Paul's two years' confinement in Rome. To be sure, there is rhetorical fitness in the climactic note on which he concludes: Paul is left preaching the gospel at Rome without hindrance. But even so we should have expected some more explicit account of how the trial went (if indeed Paul's case ever came to trial), and of what happened to Paul. Even if a third volume was projected—and of this there is no evidence—we should have expected this “second treatise” to be rounded off rather differently. On the other hand the concluding note is sufficiently impressive to make us reject such a suggestion as that Acts was left unfinished because of the writer's death. All in all, no explanation of the manner of the ending seems so satisfying as that which makes Luke carry his story to the actual time of writing.

Against this argument for the early date of Acts, however, there are others that are believed to demand a date later in the century. In addition to the argument that Luke-Acts presupposes the fall of Jerusalem, E. J. Goodspeed enumerates several other reasons, but none of them seems necessarily to point to a later date than the early 60's. In any case, Goodspeed regards Paul's companion Luke as the author of Luke-Acts, and allows that much of his material was gathered earlier. Agreement on the author is more important than agreement on the date at which he completed his work. But a date toward A.D. 90 is not inevitably indicated by the points listed by Goodspeed—the literary form and features of Luke-Acts, its infancy and resurrection interest, its doctrine of the Holy Spirit, its interest in punitive miracle, the passing of the Jewish controversy, the interest in Christian hymnody, the church organization reflected, the amplified picture of glossolalia in Acts 2, the fact (as Goodspeed sees it) that Paul is dead and has attained heroic stature, “the situation presupposed by the conception of such a work—the wide success achieved by the Greek mission” (Intro. to the NT [1937], pp. 191ff.).

As for the last point mentioned, the Greek mission had already achieved wide success by the year 60. It is not obvious that Acts presumes that Paul is dead; and a man may very well be a hero to his friends even in his lifetime. The various interests noted by Goodspeed had adequate time for their development in the thirty years following the death and resurrection of Jesus—and the miraculous element is no exception. For, quite apart from the question whether these miracles really happened or not, that they are recorded is no argument against an early date. With regard to the “Jewish controversy,” the narrative of Acts 21 indicates that one aspect of this controversy was still live enough in the author’s mind; those who, following in the wake of the Tübingen scholars, view Acts as a reconciliation document, accommodating the Pauline and Petrine positions to each other, largely fail to realize that “the figure of Judaizing St. Peter is a figment of the Tübingen critics with no basis in history” (K. Lake, Earlier Epistles of St. Paul [1911], p. 116).

There remains one argument, which is of great weight in the opinion of some: namely, that Luke in both volumes of his history shows dependence on the Antiquities of Josephus, published in A.D. 93. If this were so, then Luke-Acts could not be dated earlier than that year, unless we suppose that Luke and Josephus had some contact with each other while they were compiling their respective histories.

Curiously enough, among all the points of contact between Luke’s history and Josephus’, the only ones where Luke is believed to have been dependent on Josephus are points in which he appears to contradict him. The alleged points of dependence in Acts are the references to Theudas (5:36) and to another insurgent of Egyptian provenance (21:38); the detailed differences between the two authors, however, make any such dependence most improbable. Another interesting point of contact between the two writers concerns the death of Herod Agrippa I (cf. Acts 12:20ff.), and in this case both writers give independently authoritative accounts. The arguments for Luke’s linguistic dependence on Josephus prove on examination to lack substance. The matter may be summed up in the words of E. Schürer: “Either Luke had not read Josephus, or else he forgot all that he had read” (Zeitschrift für wissenschaftliche Theologie, 19 [1876], 582).

奇怪的是，在路加和约瑟夫斯相互借鉴的所有要点中，那些被认为是路加借鉴约瑟夫斯作品的地方似乎都与约瑟夫斯的表述不一致。《使徒行传》中的所谓借鉴之处就是其中提到了丢大（徒 5:36）和另一个作乱的埃及人（徒 21:38）；然而，两位作者在具体细节上的描述差异证明他们不太可能相互借鉴。这两位作者的另一个有趣的关联之处在于他们都提到了希律亚基帕一世的死亡（参：徒 12:20 起），两位作者分别对这件事作了权威描述。路加借鉴约瑟夫斯作品的论点缺乏证据。勒尔（E. Schürer）对此作出了总结：“要么路加没有读约瑟夫斯的作品，要么是他读完之后全部忘记了”（Zeitschrift für wissenschaftliche Theologie, 19 [1876], 582）。

VI. Sources.-If Luke's alleged dependence on Josephus cannot be maintained, we may consider other possible sources of information that were at his disposal.

For part of the narrative of Acts, of course (that covered by the "we" sections), he required no source of information beyond his personal observation. Whether he kept a travel diary at the time, which he subsequently incorporated in his general narrative, or simply changed from the 3rd person to the 1st in the course of his writing to indicate that for certain periods he himself was present at the events described, is not certain.

Again, so close a companion of Paul as Luke appears to have been for considerable periods might be expected to have learned a good deal about Paul's life and experiences from Paul's own lips. It is difficult, however, to determine how much of the narrative can be regarded as based on Paul himself. A comparison with the autobiographical passages in Paul's Epistles (e.g., Gal. 1:15-2:14; 2 Cor. 11:32f.) makes it plain that they were not available to Luke as sources of information. But in the course of his travels with Paul, Luke met a number of people who were in a position to give him the information he sought as he "traced the course of all things accurately from the first"—people "who from the beginning were eyewitnesses and ministers of the word" (Lk. 1:2f.). If he was indeed a native of Antioch, he may have learned much from the founders of the church of that city; he would certainly meet Barnabas there, and possibly also

VI. 资源。如果路加引用约瑟夫斯的作品说法不成立，我们可以认为他使用了其他的信息资料。

当然，对于《使徒行传》中的部分叙述（那些以“我们”叙述的内容），除了路加的亲自见证，没有任何可以参考的资料。尚无法确定的是，路加那时是否写了旅行日记，随后将笔记中的内容融入到了他的作品中；还是在他的写作过程中简单地把第三人称换成第一人称，以此表明在某个阶段他亲自参与了自己描述的事件。

另外，路加似乎在很长的时间里都是保罗亲密的同工，因此他应该从保罗的口中了解了大量关于保罗生平和经历的信息。然而很难分辨路加的哪些叙述源于保罗。与保罗书信中的那些自传式的段落一比较，就会发现路加不可能引用保罗书信中的内容。但是在路加与保罗同行的过程中，遇到了许多人，他们给了路加一直在寻找的消息，而且这些信息路加“从起头都详细考察了”——这些人“从起初就亲眼看见又传道”（路 1:2-3）。如果路加是安提阿本地人，那么他可能从安提阿教会的创始人那里了解到许多信息；路加肯定在安提阿见了巴拿巴，可能还见了彼得（参：加 2:11）。安提阿教会早期的一个领袖是与希律王安提帕同养的兄弟马念（徒 13:1）；路加的两部作品特别关注希律家族，所以人们有理由猜测，路加有可能是从马念那里了解的这些信息。不久以后（约公元 57 年）路加与保罗来到巴勒斯坦，并在耶路撒冷和凯撒利亚见到了许多潜在的信息提供者。

Peter (cf. Gal. 2:11). One of the early leaders in that church was Manaen, foster brother of Herod Antipas (Acts 13:1); and when one considers the special interest that both parts of his history show in the Herod family, it is a reasonable supposition that he obtained some of his special knowledge about them from Manaen. At a later time (a.d. 57) Luke accompanied Paul to Palestine and met many potential informants at Jerusalem and Caesarea. He emphasizes that the man with whom he lodged at Jerusalem, Mnason by name, was “an early disciple” (Acts 21:16), or rather “an original disciple”; Mnason, a Cypriote, was probably one of the original Hellenistic members of the Jerusalem church. On one occasion at least he met James the brother of Jesus along with his fellow elders in Jerusalem.

路加强调与他同住耶路撒冷的拿孙是一个“久为门徒”（徒 21:16），更确切地说是“老门徒”；塞浦路斯的拿孙可能是耶路撒冷教会最初的希腊信徒之一。至少有一次在耶路撒冷他和其他长老见到了耶稣的兄弟雅各。

Before this visit to Jerusalem Luke spent several days at Caesarea with Paul and his other companions, and in that connection special mention is made of Philip the evangelist, who resided in that city along with his four prophesying daughters. From Papias and other second-century writers we infer that some of these daughters were noted in their old age as authorities for persons and incidents in the early days of Christian history. It is extremely probable that Luke, at this earlier date, was indebted to them and their father for important information. Acts 6–8 in particular has on good grounds been regarded as based on Philip's knowledge.

After Paul's arrest at Jerusalem and dispatch for safe custody to Caesarea, where he remained for two years, Luke seems to have stayed near him. Even if he did not spend the whole of the two years in Caesarea itself, he does not appear to have left Palestine until he accompanied Paul on his voyage to Rome. It is, again, reasonable to suppose that during that time he gathered further information and possibly began to arrange it in written form, though we cannot go all the way with C. C. Torrey and believe that in those years he made "a collection of Semitic documents relating to the life and work of Jesus, arranged them very skilfully, and then rendered the whole into the Greek which is our Third Gospel" (Our Translated Gospels [1936], p. ix). But a preliminary draft of his first volume may certainly have been made during that period, based on information derived from various sources together with a digest of the teaching of Jesus, which also underlies the Gospel of Matthew.

After these two years Luke went to Rome with Paul, and there he was in Paul's company along with Mark and others about the year 60 (Col. 4:10, 14; Philem. 24). This contact with Mark has not only an important bearing on the relation between the Second and Third Gospels, but may also throw some light on a possible source of information for some of the events recorded in the earlier chapters of Acts. Whether or not Mark, having concluded his Gospel-writing at Mk. 16:8, planned a “second treatise” beginning with the resurrection appearances, as some have thought, is a matter of complete doubt; but in one way or another Mark may well have provided Luke with information about the early days of the Jerusalem church. It is noteworthy that the clearest evidence of an Aramaic substratum beneath Luke’s Greek appears in the first five chapters of Acts, together with the sections recording the “Acts of Peter” (9:31–11:18; 12:1–17) and part of ch. 15. We need not suppose that all the material bearing traces of an Aramaic substratum has been derived from a single source; it is precarious, on the other hand, to use the criterion of duplicate narratives to divide the early chapters of Acts between two parallel Jerusalem sources, as Harnack did, followed by Jackson and Lake (BC).

两年后路加与保罗去了罗马，约公元60年他与马可和其他使徒在罗马同为保罗的同工（西 4:10, 14; 门 24）。路加与马可的关系不仅对《马可福音》和《路加福音》之间的联系产生了重要的影响，而且可能有助于阐明《使徒行传》开头几章记录的事件的信息来源。是否如有些人所想的那样，《马可福音》在16章8节结篇，

Unless the sources of a writer have survived independently, or can be reconstructed to some extent by a comparison of various works that drew upon them in common, source criticism is inevitably a very speculative discipline. In Acts, therefore, the most that can be done is to point out what sources of information were probably or possibly available to Luke, and suggest that these sources did indeed bring him into touch with the course of events as he claims in his prologue. Evidently, too, he used this information in a masterly fashion as he made it serve the purpose he had in view in compiling his history of Christian beginnings.

VII. Speeches.—One feature of the tradition of Greek historical writing—a tradition that Luke seems in several respects to have inherited—was the composition of occasional speeches for appropriate occasions. Thucydides (History of the Peloponnesian War i.22) explains that, instead of trying to remember word by word what the various speakers had said, even when he himself had heard them, he makes them say the sort of thing that he felt the occasion demanded of them, “of course adhering as closely as possible to the general sense of what they really said.” There is little doubt that Thucydides did conscientiously adhere as closely as he could to the general sense of what was really said, however much he might embellish his speeches with the tricks of contemporary rhetoric. But later historians were inclined to imitate his freedom without his historical conscience. They composed speeches freely and put them into the mouths of their characters, not with any consideration of historical probability, but as dramatic or rhetorical exercises in which they tried to show their skill in polished literary composition.

But when we look at the speeches in Acts, we are struck by the difference between them and the speeches in the works of later writers such as Josephus. Luke obviously does not attempt to reach the summit of rhetorical perfection in the speeches he reports. Some of the most un-Greek idiom in Acts appears in these speeches; and yet Luke was capable of writing excellent literary Hellenistic, as the first four verses of his Gospel prove.

VII. 话语。希腊历史作品传统的一大特点就是编写合适场合的临时话语，路加似乎在很多方面继承了这个传统。修西狄第（Thucydides）（History of the Peloponnesian War i.22）解释说，与其记住不同说话者说的每一句话（即使是他亲耳听到的话语），还不如让说话者说出符合场合的话语，“当然要尽可能准确地记录说话者想要表达的大致含义”。毫无疑问，无论修西狄第采用当代修辞方法对他的话语进行了怎样的修饰，他确实忠实地记录了说话者想要表达的大致含义。但是后来的历史学家往往只模仿了他自由的表达方式，却没有学习他的“历史的良知”。他们随意地编写历史人物的话语，并将这些话语放在他们的人物的口中，根本不考虑历史可能性，他们想要在经过润色的文学作品中以戏剧而又夸张的手法炫耀他们的技巧。

That Luke did not invent the speeches recorded in his history is suggested by a comparison between the speeches in his Gospel and parallel passages in the other Synoptic Gospels, from which it must be concluded that Luke has preserved with great fidelity the source or sources from which he derived the sayings of Jesus and others. The alterations that appear in the sayings affect style and order rather than content. If this is so in reports of speeches where Luke's faithfulness to his sources can be checked, one need not suppose without good reason that he was less faithful where his sources are no longer available for comparison.

Many of the speeches reported in Acts are summaries of the primitive apostolic preaching. The outline of the gospel story that can be recovered from them is in all essentials the same outline that can be recovered from occasional references in the Pauline and other Epistles, and the same outline that appears to underlie the Gospels, particularly Mark. This suggests that these speeches—whether Peter's at Jerusalem on the day of Pentecost and at Caesarea in the house of Cornelius, or Paul's in the synagogue of Pisidian Antioch—are not mere inventions of the author but are genuine statements of the original message proclaimed both by Peter and Paul and by the other apostles as well. “When we further observe that most of the forms of the kerygma in Acts show in their language a strong Aramaic colouring, we may recognize the high probability that in these passages we are in fairly direct touch with the primitive tradition of the Jesus of history” (C. H. Dodd, History and the Gospel [1938], p. 73).

《使徒行传》中记录的许多话语都是起初使徒传道时所说话语的汇总。从本质上讲，通过使徒传道还原的福音故事的概要与通过保罗书信和其他书信中的零星话语还原的概要是完全相同的，与似乎构成福音书（尤其是《马可福音》）基础的概要也是完全的。这说明这些话语——不论是彼得五旬节在耶路撒冷时讲的话，还是彼得在凯撒利亚的哥尼流家讲的话，抑或保罗在彼西底安提阿会堂讲的话——都不是作者捏造的，而是彼得、保罗还有其他使徒最初传讲福音的真实转述。“当我们深入观察到《使徒行传》中的大多数福音信息的形式在语言上留下了很浓的亚兰语痕迹时，我们会意识到，这些经文段落很可能非常直白地呈现了历史中耶稣的原始传统”（C. H. Dodd, History and the Gospel [1938], 73 页）。

When we recognize the existence of this common outline of the primitive Christian message, we do away with any ground for suspecting that Luke has either made his Petrine speeches too Pauline, or his Pauline speeches too Petrine. In point of fact, Paul himself insists that, with regard to the outline of basic evangelic events, he is at one with Peter and James and the other eyewitnesses of the resurrection (1 Cor. 15:11).

The frequent use made in these speeches of quotations from the OT forms a contrast to Luke's own practice. These quotations, of course, would appeal only to audiences composed of Jews or "God-fearers"—Gentiles who attached themselves to the synagogue services. In preaching the gospel to pagans a different approach was made. The general revelation of God in creation and providence was invoked as common ground between speakers and hearers instead of the special revelation made in the election and history of Israel, and quotations from classical poets might be introduced rather than quotations from the OT. But the gospel message was the same for Jew and Gentile, whatever differences might appear in the respective methods of approach. For speeches to pagan audiences reference should be made to the expostulation of Paul and Barnabas with the indigenous population of Lystra (Acts 14:15–17) and the address of Paul to the Athenian Areopagus (17:22–31).

It is not only in evangelistic speeches that the approach is adapted to the audience.

当我们意识到存在一个原始基督教福音的共同概要时，我们就没有理由怀疑路加要么把彼得的话语描述的太像保罗的话语，要么把保罗的话语描述的太像彼得的话语。实际上，关于基本福音事件的概述，保罗认为他同彼得、雅各以及其他的门徒一起见证了主的复活（林前 15:11）。

这些话语中频繁地引用《旧约》中的内容，这与路加的做法形成了对比。当然，这些引语只会引起犹太听众或在犹太会堂中侍奉的“敬畏神”的外邦人的关注。传福音给外邦人时，会采用不同的方法。向异教徒传道时，上帝在创世和旨意中的普遍启示构成了讲道者和听众之间的共同依据，代替了拣选和以色列历史中的特殊启示，讲道者在传道时会引用古典诗人的作品，而不是引用《旧约》中的内容。但是，无论传道方法上存在怎样的差异，传给犹太人和外邦人的福音是相同的。关于向外邦人传道时所说的话语，则应该提及保罗与巴拿巴对路司得本地居民的劝告（徒 14:15-17 和保罗在雅典亚略巴古所说的话（徒 17:22-31））。

这种方法不仅适用于向听众传播福音。审慎、护教和劝勉的演讲也适于

The same is true of the deliberative, apologetic, and hortatory speeches reported. For example, Paul narrates his conversion in two different contexts in Acts (22:3–21; 26:2–23), and it is instructive to mark the varying emphases according to whether he is addressing a furious Jerusalem mob or a distinguished audience in the governor's residence at Caesarea. Only one of Paul's speeches reported in Acts is delivered to a Christian audience—the address at Miletus to the elders of the Ephesian church (20:18–35); it is not surprising that this report contains more parallels with the Pauline Epistles than the rest of Acts put together.

We need not suppose that the speeches in Acts are verbatim reports in the sense that they record every word spoken on the occasions referred to. Paul, we gather, was given to long sermons, but any one of the speeches attributed to him in Acts could be delivered in its reported form in a few minutes. There is good reason, however, to hold that the speeches in Acts are at least faithful epitomes, giving the gist of the argument used by Paul and other preachers of the first Christian generation. Even in summarizing the speeches, the historian would naturally introduce more or less of his own style, but there is actually very little of Luke's own style in these reports. Taken all in all, each speech suits the speaker, the audience, and the general situation. The evidence suggests that, far from being mere inventions of the historian, the speeches in Acts are valuable and independent sources for the history and theology of primitive Christianity.

采用这种方法。例如：在《使徒行传》中，保罗在两个不同的段落中讲述了他的悔改（徒 22:3-21；徒 26:2-23），根据他是讲给一个狂躁的耶路撒冷暴徒听，还是讲给凯撒利亚总督府的一个贵族听，他演讲的侧重点应发生变化。《使徒行传》中仅有一处保罗的演讲是讲给基督徒听的——就是他在米利都对以弗所教会长老所说的话（徒 20:18-35）；这个记录在保罗书信中的平行记录要比其他行传中的记录加在一起还多，这不足为奇。

我们不必认为《使徒行传》中逐字地记录了这些话语，也就是说，它们记录了该场合的每一句话，按照我们的整合，保罗喜欢长篇大论，但《使徒行传》中任何一段保罗的话语几分钟内就能讲完。然而，我们有充足的理由认为《使徒行传》中的话语至少是忠实的摘要，提供了保罗和其他最初一代基督徒传教士论证的主旨。甚至在历史学者总结话语时，都会或多或少自然地采用他自己的风格，而实际上路加很少根据自己的风格去记录这些话语。总之，每个话语都与说者、听者和一般情况相符。证据显示，《使徒行传》的话语完全不同于历史学者的纯粹捏造，《使徒行传》中的话语是研究最初基督教神学和历史的宝贵独立资料。

VIII. Relation of the Acts to the Epistles.-The agreement depicted in Acts between Paul on the one hand and Peter and James on the other regarding the basic principles of the gospel was seen by the Tübingen school of critics of the 19th cent. as a sure mark of the late and unhistorical character of the book. Reading the four Pauline Epistles whose genuineness they admitted (Galatians, Romans, 1 and 2 Corinthians) in the light of the Hegelian dialectical interpretation of history, with its pattern of thesis, antithesis, and synthesis, they recognized in Acts the synthesis, the latest stage, belonging to the latter half of the 2nd century. The thesis and antithesis were represented by Peter and Paul, who violently opposed one another, Paul advocating complete liberty from the Jewish law, Peter insisting on its continued observance by gentile believers as well as Jews.

Obviously, if this interpretation of history were true, Acts must be unhistorical; but in truth the picture of events in these four Pauline Epistles must be equally unhistorical. While in Gal. 1:1, 11ff. Paul insists that he received the gospel and his commission to preach it direct from the Lord, through no human mediation, in 1 Cor. 15:11 he insists that the gospel he preached had essentially the same basis as that preached by the original apostles. This is implied even in Galatians, the Epistle that seemed to those critics to lend most color to their theory. When Peter, John, and James gave Paul and Barnabas the right hand of fellowship (Gal. 2:9), there was no hint of any difference in the substance of the preaching; the only difference in question related to the respective constituencies that each group was to serve. Paul pronounces a solemn and repeated anathema on any who should preach a different gospel from that which he preached (Gal. 1:8f.), but he says nothing to imply that the Jerusalem apostles were liable to his anathema. 使徒。

VIII. 《使徒行传》和使徒书信的关系。杜平根评论学派认为,《使徒行传》中保罗同彼得和雅各关于福音基本原则的一致性显然证明了该书成书较晚和不具有史实性的特征。他们根据黑格尔对辩证历史的解释并结合正题、反题和合题的形式来阅读保罗的四封书信(《加拉太书》,《罗马书》,《哥林多前书》和《哥林多后书》),他们承认这四封书信的真实性,并在《使徒行传》中找到了合题,最后阶段合题处于2世纪后半叶。彼得和保罗分别给出了正题和反题,他们都严厉地驳斥对方,保罗提倡完全从犹太律法中解脱出来,彼得则主张外邦人和犹太人都继续守犹太律法。

The picture of Peter in Galatians accords well with the one we find in Acts. According to Gal. 2:11ff., Peter's personal conviction, like Paul's, was that no distinction should be made, even socially, between Jewish and gentile believers. In Antioch, "before certain people came from James, he ate with the Gentiles; but when they came, he withdrew and separated himself"—not because he had changed his convictions, but "fearing those of the circumcision." But what had happened previously to convince Peter, the orthodox Jew, that there was nothing wrong in eating with Gentiles? We find the explanation in Acts 10, where we read how he had learned not to call common what God had cleansed. Peter's action at Antioch was a lapse, and it is evident that Paul's rebuke had its effect, for we find him maintaining true Christian liberty in Acts 15.

Besides maintaining that the writer of Acts made Peter too Pauline, the Tübingen school also insisted that he made Paul too Petrine in an attempt to reconcile the irreconcilable. The Paul who in Acts accepts the decisions of the Council of Jerusalem, circumcises Timothy, and undertakes a purificatory rite in the temple to calm those who were alarmed at rumors of his rejection of all ritual obligations—this Paul was, to them, far removed from the uncompromising controversialist of Galatians. Is the Paul of Acts really the Paul of the Epistles? In Galatians, it should be remembered, Paul was dealing in white-hot urgency with a situation that threatened the very foundations of the gospel. For the Paul of the Epistles, outward acts in themselves were neither good nor bad, except as the intention made them so.

《加拉太书》中彼得的形象与我们在《使徒行传》中发现的彼得的形象完全相符。根据《加拉太书》2:11起，保罗和彼得都认为不应该区分犹太信徒和外邦信徒，甚至在社交上都不该做这种区分。在安提阿，“从雅各那里来的人未到以先，他和外邦人一同吃饭；及至他们来到，他就离开”——不是因为他改变了自己的信念，而是“怕奉割礼的人”。但是之前到底发生了什么事使正教犹太人彼得确信与外邦人一起吃饭算不得什么呢？我们在《使徒行传》10章中找到了关于这个问题的解释，通过阅读这章我们发现彼得已晓得凡神所洁净的，不可当作俗物。彼得在安提阿的行为是一个失误，保罗的指责显然产生了影响，因为我们发现在《使徒行传》15章中他仍然坚持真正的基督徒自由。

The truly emancipated man is not in bondage to his liberty. If he wishes for certain proper purposes to perform a ritual act not sinful in itself he will do so, not as under an obligation, but freely. If meat offered to idols is set before him, and there is no risk of causing offense to others by eating it, he will eat it and give God thanks; to him an idol is nothing in the world. If expediency demands that a half-Jew be circumcised for his greater usefulness in the gospel, Paul will have him be circumcised; in such a case circumcision is simply a minor surgical operation performed for a practical purpose. But the more narrow type of mind will never grasp the difference between doing such things freely and doing them as religious obligations with a view to securing divine favor. To this type of person, Paul's behavior appears to be rank inconsistency. So it appeared to his Judaizing and other opponents in his own day; so it has appeared to many biblical critics in more recent times, who have dubbed Acts unhistorical on the ground that an apostle must not be inconsistent.

But the consistency that some expect from Paul is the "foolish consistency" that Emerson called "the hobgoblin of little minds, adored by little statesmen and philosophers and divines”; for such a consistency little minds will search the life of Paul in vain, for his was preeminently a great mind. On the great basic principles of Christianity he was uncompromising; where these were not affected he was the most adaptable of men. He circumcised Timothy, but solemnly warned the Galatian Christians against the practice. Why? Because they were being taught to regard it as necessary to complete their salvation, and such an attitude would bring them into bondage to rites and ceremonies, away from the liberty with which Christ had made them free. But even to them he insists that circumcision in itself is immaterial (Gal. 5:6); only when performed as a religious obligation does it carry with it the duty of obedience to all the rest of the Jewish law.

Again, one who ate meat that had been offered to an idol, and was very much aware of this fact while eating it, might violate his conscience in so doing; let him therefore refrain. But one to whom the meat was just a piece of meat like any other, and to whom the idol meant nothing at all, might eat freely, though the grace of Christ would lead him to refrain if another’s conscience might be injured by his eating. Paul himself endeavored to be in Jerusalem for various festivals, and associated himself with purificatory rites; but he challenges the Galatians: “You observe days, and months, and seasons, and years” (Gal. 4:10). The difference lay in the intention; they were acting in such a way as to lose the very liberty of which Paul availed himself. Paul’s real attitude to such matters is given in Rom. 14:5f.

此外，一个人吃了祭偶像的肉，而且吃的时候明明知道是祭偶像的肉，那么他这么做可能就违背了他的良心；因此要让他节制。但是当一个人以为吃的不过是普通的一块肉，并认为偶像算不得什么，那么可以随意吃，但如果另一个良心因他吃祭偶像的肉而受损，那么基督的恩典就会指引那人节制。保罗努力融入耶路撒冷各样节日中，并参与洁净的仪式；但是他质疑加拉太人：“你们谨守日子、月份、节期、年份”（加 4:10）。目的不同导致了这种差异；他们这样行失去了在保罗看来有益处的自由。《罗马书》14:5-6 中给出了保罗对这类问题的真实态度。

In his attitude to the Jews, the Paul of Acts is also the Paul of the Epistles. The Paul who repeats in Romans “to the Jew first, and also to the Greek” is the Paul who in Acts visits the synagogues first, in city after city, and who in Pisidian Antioch declares to the Jews: “It was necessary that the word of God should first be spoken to you.” The Paul who suffers so much from Jewish hostility in Acts is the Paul who can speak of the Jews in 1 Thess. 2:15f. as those “who both killed the Lord Jesus and the prophets, and drove out us, and please not God, and are contrary to all men, forbidding us to speak to the Gentiles that they may be saved.” The Paul who in Acts refuses to stop offering the gospel to his Jewish brethren in spite of his bitter experiences at their hands is the Paul who in Rom. 9:2f. tells of his great sorrow and unceasing anguish of heart at their refusal to receive the gospel, and is willing himself to be accursed, if only his heart’s desire and prayer to God for their salvation be accomplished.

The Paul who in Acts works with his hands in Corinth and Ephesus, and bids the Ephesian elders learn a lesson from him in this respect, is the Paul who in the Epistles shows the same example and teaches the same lesson to the Thessalonians and Corinthians. The Paul who in Acts can adapt himself so readily to Jew and Gentile, learned and unlearned, Areopagus and Sanhedrin, synagogue audience and city mob, Roman governor and King Agrippa, is the Paul who claims in 1 Cor. 9:19ff. that he has “become all things to all men, that by all means I might save some.” The Paul who in Acts is Christ's "chosen vessel" to bear His name before the Gentiles claims in the Epistles to have been divinely set apart, even from birth, for this very purpose (Acts 9:15; Gal. 1:15f.; Rom. 1:1ff.).

Despite Luke's evident lack of knowledge of Paul's Epistles, Acts and the Epistles throw considerable light on each other. We can read several of the Epistles with greater understanding because Acts gives us some account of the founding and progress of the churches to which they were written. The references to Apollos in 1 Corinthians are better understood because of the introduction to him in Acts. A fuller picture of the gentile collection for the Jerusalem believers is available by combining the information of Acts and the Epistles.

When comparing the historical information that can be gathered from the Epistles with the narrative of Acts, we meet several difficulties—not, however, insuperable ones. If we compare the account of Paul's conversion and its sequel in Acts 9:1–30 with Paul's own narrative in Gal. 1:13–24, we find that Luke gives in greater detail what Paul passes over briefly (the actual conversion), whereas the events of the following three years and the first Jerusalem visit are given much more explicitly by Paul. Luke mentions no visit to Arabia, nor does he explain that the only apostles whom Paul saw in Jerusalem were Peter and James the Lord's brother. These details were important for Paul's argument in Galatians; Luke passes over them in general terms. The escape in the basket is related by Paul in 2 Cor. 11:32f., where he represents the danger as coming from the ethnarch of Aretas; Luke says it came from the Jews. Judging from later experiences, we need not be surprised if Paul's Jewish opponents enlisted the cooperation of non-Jews against him. Paul might well wish to draw a veil over the participation of his fellow countrymen in this hostile act.

The correspondence of Paul's Jerusalem visits in Acts and Galatians is a vexed question. That the visit of Gal. 1:18 is identical with that of Acts 9:26 is clear enough. As for the visit of Gal. 2:1, the most probable view is that it is the famine-relief visit of Acts 11:30. This purpose of the visit is hinted at in Gal. 2:10; Paul's statement (Gal. 2:2) that he went up by revelation is explained by the prophecy of Agabus in Acts 11:28. The third visit (Acts 15) is not mentioned in Galatians, and this can best be explained if this visit had not yet been paid when Galatians was written. Otherwise, it is amazing that Paul should make no mention of the apostolic decree, which would have afforded the most convincing support to his argument. It follows that Galatians must have been addressed to the south Galatian churches whose planting is recorded in Acts 13-14; in that case it would be the earliest of Paul's extant Epistles.

For the movements of Paul and his companions during the second missionary journey, there is some firsthand information in 1 Thess. 3:1-6. These data agree substantially with what we find in Acts 17:14-18:5; such differences as are

《使徒行传》和《加拉太书》中提到的保罗访问耶路撒冷的对应关系是一个存有争议的问题。《加拉太书》1:18中提到的访问显然就是《使徒行传》9:26中提到的那次访问。而《加拉太书》2:1中提到的访问最可能是《使徒行传》11:30中提到的饥荒救济访问。

《加拉太书》2:10中暗示了此次访问的目的；《使徒行传》11:28中亚迦布的预言解释了保罗“奉启示上去”的表述（加 2:2）。《加拉太书》中没有提到保罗的第三次访问（徒 15），这充分说明在《加拉太书》成书之前，保罗还没有开始第三次访问。否则，保罗不提及使徒法令这件事就非常令人诧异，因为使徒法令最有助于证明他的论点。由此判断，《加拉太书》一定寄到了南加拉太教会，《使徒行传》13-14中记载了南加拉太教会建立的事；因此，《加拉太书》是保罗现存书信中最早的书信。

《提摩太前书》3:1-6中提供了一些关于保罗和他的同工二次传道期间活动的第一手资料。这些资料大体上与我们在《使徒行传》17:14-18:5中发现的资料一致；由于两位作者删除或添加了不同的细节才产生了这些差异。

there arise from the omission and addition of different details by the two authors.

From the Corinthian Epistles we can derive much information (though not so much as we should like) about the period Acts 18:18–20:3, which is passed over rapidly by Luke. It is clear from these Epistles that Paul's relations with the church at Corinth during his stay at Ephesus were marred by troubles of various kinds, of which Acts gives no hint. Timothy's visit to Macedonia in Acts 19:22 is possibly referred to in 1 Cor. 4:17; 16:10; but it probably belongs to a somewhat later period. Paul expresses his intention of following him in 1 Cor. 16:5f. His intention of wintering in Corinth may have been fulfilled in his three months' stay there (Acts 20:3). But we gather from 2 Cor. 12:14; 13:1f. that the visit of Acts 20:2f. was at least Paul's third visit to Corinth. He must therefore have paid a second visit some time previously in the course of his Ephesian ministry, probably after the writing of 1 Corinthians, the sorrowful visit implied in 2 Cor. 2:1.

There are various indications in the Corinthian Epistles that Paul's life was in peculiar danger at times during his residence in Ephesus (cf. 1 Cor. 15:30–32; 2 Cor. 1:8ff.). The only hint of danger given by Luke is the story of the riot in the theater (Acts 19:23ff.), but Paul's words seem to imply greater peril than was apparently involved in the riot. Some scholars (notably A. Deissmann, W. Michaelis, and G. S. Duncan) have argued for an Ephesian imprisonment (or more than one), during which the

从《哥林多书》中我们可以获取许多关于《使徒行传》18:18-20:3 所记录时期的信息（尽管不像我们想的那么多），而路加将这部分信息则一笔带过。根据《哥林多书》的描述，保罗呆在以弗所期间他与哥林多教会的关系显然因各种麻烦而受到损毁，而《使徒行传》中完全没有提及这部分信息。《哥林多前书》4:17; 16:10 中提及了《使徒行传》19:22 中提摩太访问马其顿的事；但这次访问可能发生在稍晚时期。保罗在《哥林多前书》16:5-6 中表达了跟随他的目的。他在哥林多停留的三个月实现了他在哥林多过冬的目的（徒 20:3）。但是我们从《哥林多后书》12:14; 13:1-2 中得知，《使徒行传》20:2-3 提到的访问至少是保罗第三次访问哥林多。因此他一定在以弗所传道之前的某段时间第二次访问过哥林多，可能是在写完《哥林多前书》之后，《哥林多后书》2:1 暗示了这次忧伤的访问。

《哥林多书》的多处经文表明保罗在以弗所时他的生命安全受到了特殊的威胁（参：林前 15:30-32；林后 1:8 起）。路加只在戏园骚乱的故事中给出了危险的暗示（徒 19:23 起），但是保罗显然指的是比骚乱更大的危险。一些学者（尤其是戴斯曼，米凯利斯 [W. Michaelis] 和童跟福 [G. S. Duncan]）认为保罗曾被监禁在以弗所（可能不止一次），他可能在此期间写成了“狱中书信”。《腓立比书》有可能写于这个时期；如果是那样，那么《腓立比书》2:19 肯定与《使徒

“Captivity Epistles” may have been written. It is not unlikely that Philippians was written at this time; in that case Phil. 2:19 must be linked with Acts 19:22; Phil. 2:24 with Acts 20:1. (Colossians, Philemon, and Ephesians are more probably to be assigned to the Roman captivity.)

Paul’s statement in Acts 24:17 that he came to bring alms and offerings to his nation is illuminated by the references to the gentile collection for the Jerusalem believers (1 Cor. 16:1ff.; 2 Cor. 8:1-9:15; Rom. 15:25ff.). These references also explain why so many representatives of gentile churches accompanied Paul on his last visit to Jerusalem (cf. Acts 20:4f.); we may reasonably infer that they went as delegates bearing the contributions of their respective churches. In this, as in several other respects, the Epistles and Acts supplement and explain each other.

In short, after such a comparative survey our verdict on Acts may be pronounced in the words of F. C. Burkitt: “But when we come to test it by the Letters of Paul we find it to be historical, not fabulous: it is a real guide to us, even for the earliest period” (Christian Beginnings [1924], p. 144).

IX. Chronology of Acts.-The narrative of Acts covers a period of approximately thirty years. Within this period shorter time periods of approximately five years each are marked off by summary notices reporting the advance of the Christian mission (6:7; 9:31; 12:24; 16:5; 19:20; cf. C. J. Cadoux, JTS, 19 [1918], 333ff.). But it is not easy on the basis of information

保罗在《使徒行传》24:17 中说道，他带着周济本国的捐项和供献的物上去，外邦人为耶路撒冷信徒募捐的救济物品证明了保罗的这句话（林前 16:1 起；林后 8:1-9:15；罗 15:25 起）。这些参考经文还解释了为什么很多外邦教会的代表们在保罗最后一次访问耶路撒冷时都跟随他（参：20:4-5）；我们可以合理地推断他们可能是各自教会的委派代表，带来了所在教会的供奉。在这里，以及其它方面，这些书信和《使徒行传》互相补充和互相解释。

简言之，经过这样对比调查后，我们可以用伯基特的话对《使徒行传》做出总结：“然而当我们用保罗的书信检验《使徒行传》时，我们会发现《使徒行传》是符合史实的，而不是荒诞的作品：它对我们来说是真正的指引，甚至可以作为最早时期的指引”（Christian Beginnings [1924 年]，144 页）。

IX. 《使徒行传》的年代表。《使徒行传》中叙述的故事涵盖了约三十年的时间。关于基督教传教使命发展的评论将这一时期分成了几个平均约为五年的更短时期（徒 6:7；9:31；12:24；16:5；19:20；参：C. J. Cadoux, JTS, 19 [1918 年]，333 起）。但是根据作者提供的信息不容易确定更长时期内事件的年代表。叙 supplied by the author himself to fix the chronology of events within the wider periods. Notes of time are not altogether absent from the narrative. Especially in the “we” sections it is observable how a day-to-day record of journeys, particularly journeys by sea, is reproduced (cf. 16:10–13; 20:6–21:27; 27:1–28:17); but such notes give little assistance in the broader issues.

The ascension of Christ is dated forty days after His resurrection (1:3), and the day of Pentecost would have fallen some ten days later (2:1)—“not many days hence” (1:5). But there are no further time indications of any precision until the beginnings of the mission in Antioch, where, after Barnabas has fetched Paul from Tarsus to be his colleague, “for a whole year they were gathered together with the church” (11:26). Paul’s residence at Corinth is given as “a year and six months” (18:11); his residence at Ephesus lasted for “three months” plus “the space of two years” (19:8, 10)—a total period later estimated as lasting for “the space of three years” (20:31). His custody in Caesarea lasted for the “two years” of 24:27 (there is no good reason for taking this time note to refer to the duration of Felix’ governorship); and after his voyage to Italy, which included an enforced stay of three months in Malta (28:11), he was detained in Rome for a further period of two years.

To a small extent the chronology of Acts can be supplemented from time notes elsewhere in the NT. The reference in Lk. 3:1f. to the inauguration of John the Baptist’s ministry “in the fifteenth year of Tiberius Caesar” (i.e., in A.D. 27/28, according to the reckoning current in the territories of the former Seleucid empire) enables us to date the incidents with which Acts commences ca A.D. 30. The “three years” of Gal. 1:18 indicate the interval between Paul’s conversion and his visit to Jerusalem in Acts 9:26 more precisely than do the “many days” of Acts 9:23, and the duration of that visit is stated more definitely in Gal. 1:18 (“fifteen days”) than in Acts 9:26–30. The “fourteen years” of Gal. 2:1 do not help so much, because of the uncertainty about the relationship of the Jerusalem visit mentioned there to the narrative of Acts, and also because of the uncertainty whether the fourteen years are to be reckoned from Paul’s conversion (like the three years of Gal. 1:18) or from the previous Jerusalem visit.

基督在祂复活四十天后升天（徒 1:3），而十天后就是五旬节（徒 2:1）——“因为时日不多”（徒 1:5）。然而直到安提阿传道开始才再一次出现比较明确的时间标志，巴拿巴从大数叫保罗来做他的同工后之后，“他们足有一年的工夫和教会一同聚集”（徒 11:26）。保罗在哥林多呆了“一年零六个月”（徒 18:11）；他在以弗所呆了“三个月”，加在一起有“两年之久”（徒 19:8, 10）——加上后来的停留时间，他共呆了“三年之久”（徒 20:31）。《使徒行传》24:27 记载保罗在凯撒利亚被监禁了“两年”（没有充足理由证明这段时间是腓力斯任职的时期）；他乘船去意大利后，期间被迫在马耳他呆了三个月（徒 28:11），在罗马又被监禁了两年之久。

《新约》其他卷中的时间记录在很小程度上补充了《使徒行传》中的年代表。《路加福音》3:1-2 中提到“凯撒提庇留在位第十五年”，施洗约翰开始传道（根据从前塞琉古帝国通用的年代计算方法，也就是公元 27/28

Occasionally a historical allusion in the Epistles shows that there is a gap in the record of Acts; thus we have no account in Acts of the phase of Paul’s missionary campaign that brought him at least to the frontier of Illyricum, if not indeed into the province (Rom. 15:19). This must be placed in the interval between Paul’s departure from Ephesus and three months’ residence in Greece (Acts 20:1–3)—an interval that must have been considerably longer than the narrative of Acts would seem to suggest at first sight.

But the narrative of Acts is full of references to persons and events mentioned in extrabiblical records, which give material help in fixing chronological details. The famine that affected the Roman world, and more particularly Palestine, under Claudius (Acts 11:28) is assigned by Josephus (Ant. xx.5.2) to the

年), 这使我们可以根据这个事件计算出《使徒行传》中第一个事件发生在约公元 30 年。《加拉太书》1:18 中的“三年”表明了从保罗悔改到《使徒行传》9:26 中记载的保罗访问耶路撒冷的时间间隔, 这个时间间隔要比《使徒行传》9:23 中“好些日子”更准确, 而《加拉太书》1:18 中给出的这次访问的持续时间(“十五天”)要比《使徒行传》9:26-30 中给出的时间更准确。《加拉太书》2:1 中记载的“十四年”对年代的推算帮助不大, 因为无法确定这里提到的访问耶路撒冷与在《使徒行传》中的叙述的关系, 还因为无法确定这十四年是从保罗悔改(如:《加拉太书》1:18 中记载的“三年”)开始算起, 还是从他上一次访问耶路撒冷开始算起。

保罗书信中的历史典故有时表明《使徒行传》中记录的时间存在时间间隔; 因此, 我们在《使徒行传》中找不到关于保罗传道时期的描述, 即使保罗实际上没有进入以利哩古传道, 但他至少传道时到达了该行省的边界(罗 15:19)。这个时间应该介于保罗离开以弗所至他住在希腊那三个月之间(徒 20:1-3)——乍一看, 这个时间间隔似乎要比《使徒行传》中叙述的时间长很多。

然而《使徒行传》中的叙述经常提及经外文献中记录的人和事, 经外文献为确定年代细节提供了重要的帮助。革老丢(徒 11:28)统治时期, 罗马世界尤其是巴勒斯坦地区遭受了饥荒, 约瑟夫斯认为这次饥荒发生在犹太总督提庇留(Tiberius Julius Alexander)执政时期, 也就是公元 45 年至公元 48

Judean procuratorship of Tiberius Julius Alexander, i.e., between A.D. 45 and 48. “Herod the king” of Acts 12:1 was the elder Herod Agrippa, who received the royal title from the Emperor Gaius in A.D. 37 and had Judea added to his kingdom by Claudius in A.D. 41; he died in A.D. 44 (Josephus Ant. xix.8.2; BJ ii.11.6). The implication of Acts 12 is that his death took place not long after Peter’s imprisonment and escape. The famine-relief visit of Barnabas and Paul from Antioch to Jerusalem (Acts 11:30; 12:25) is probably to be dated some little time after Herod Agrippa’s death.

The edict of Claudius banishing Jews from Rome (Acts 18:2) cannot be dated precisely, but there are good reasons for believing Orosius to be right (even if he was right by accident) in placing it in A.D. 49. This agrees very well with a firmer piece of evidence that indicates that Paul’s eighteen months in Corinth (Acts 18:11) fell between A.D. 50 and 52. According to Acts 18:12, Gallio became proconsul of Achaia during Paul’s residence in Corinth. A Delphian inscription (W. Dittenberger, Sylloge Inscriptionum Graecarum, II [4th ed. 1960], no. 801) recording a proclamation of Claudius between January and August, A.D. 52, indicates that he entered on his proconsulship in July, A.D. 51 (or possibly, but much less probably, July, A.D. 52).

For Paul’s Ephesian ministry we have no pointer of comparable precision; the most likely explanation, however, of the strange plural “there are proconsuls” in Acts 19:38 is that it reflects the interregnum in the governorship of the province of Asia which followed the assassination of Junius Silanus late in A.D. 54 (Tacitus Ann. xiii.2).

年之间。《使徒行传》12:1 中的“希律王”指的是年长的希律王亚基帕，公元 37 年凯撒大帝封他为王，公元 41 年革老丢又把犹太地区赐给希律王国；希律王死于公元 44 年 (Josephus Ant. xix.8.2; BJ ii.11.6)。《使徒行传》12 章暗示出，他在彼得监禁和逃亡之后不久就去世了。巴拿巴和保罗可能是在希律王亚基帕死后不久从安提阿到耶路撒冷开始救济访问 (徒 11:30; 12:25)。

尚无法准确地确定革老丢下令将犹太人驱逐出罗马的时间 (徒 18:2)，奥罗修斯认为这件事发生在公元 49 年，我们有充分的理由相信他的观点是正确的 (即使他无意中猜对了这个时间)。这与保罗在公元 50 年至公元 52 年间在哥林多呆了 18 个月的确凿证据完全相符。根据《使徒行传》18:12 的记载，保罗在哥林多期间，迦流作了亚该亚的方伯。一个特尔斐铭文 (W. Dittenberger, Sylloge Inscriptionum Graecarum, II [1960 年第 4 版], 801) 记录了革老丢在公元 52 年的一月至八月间下达的命令，这篇铭文表明迦流在公元 51 年七月被任命为方伯 (也可能在公元 52 年七月，但这个说法不太可能成立)。

The authorities for the Judean procuratorships of Felix and Festus are unfortunately not so informative on points of chronology as could be wished. However, a change of coinage in the province of Judea in A.D. 59 strongly suggests a change of procurators in that year, and this change could only be the replacement of Felix by Festus (cf. Cadbury, Book of Acts in History, p. 10). On other grounds also A.D. 59 is a likely date for this change of procuratorship. Paul's voyage to Rome would therefore have begun in August or September of that year. The "fast" that according to Acts 27:9 was already past when the ship arrived at Fair Havens in Crete, was the Day of Atonement, which in A.D. 59 fell unusually late, on Oct. 5, when navigation would soon cease for the winter in the Mediterranean. After the winter in Malta, Paul and his party would reach Rome early in A.D. 60, and his two years' custody in Rome would run to the end of A.D. 61 or the beginning of A.D. 62.

An approximate chronology for the principal events of Acts before Paul's departure for Rome, in the light of the time indications mentioned above, can now be drawn up as follows:

遗憾的是，关于犹太巡抚腓力斯和非斯都的权威引文并不如我们所希望的那样，可以为断代提供大量信息。然而，公元 59 年犹太省货币的改变强有力地证明了那一年是巡抚换任年，而这一变化只可能是非斯都接替腓力斯作巡抚（参：Cadbury, Book of Acts in History, 10 页）。还可根据其他的证据推断公元 59 年是巡抚换任年。因此保罗在当年的八月或九月开始乘船去的罗马。根据《使徒行传》27:9 的记载，当船抵达革哩底的佳港时，“禁食”的节期已过，这次禁食正值赎罪日，公元 59 年的赎罪日非常晚（10 月 5 日），地中海地区的船只很快就要因入冬停运。保罗和他的同工在马耳他过冬之后，在公元 60 年年初到达了罗马，而保罗在罗马的两年监禁于公元 61 年年末或公元 62 年年初结束。

根据上文给出的时间，现在可以确定保罗动身去罗马前《使徒行传》中的主要事件的大致年代，如图：

X. Historical Value.—Unlike the other NT writers. Luke takes pains to place his story in the framework of contemporary world history. He is, for example, the only NT writer to mention a Roman emperor by name. His writing, especially in Acts, is full of references to imperial officials, provincial governors, client kings, etc. A writer who fills his pages with historical references of this kind must do it carefully to avoid inaccuracy. That Luke's casual references to first-century personages are marked by a high degree of accuracy is a further indication that he was contemporary with the events he records.

Luke does in certain obvious ways follow the example set by the great writers of history before his time. For example, Thucydides begins the second book of his History of the Peloponnesian War with an elaborate synchronism, in which the incident that starts his narrative proper is dated by reference to a number of dignitaries who held office at the time in the Greek world. Similarly Luke, after treating his prolegomena—the Nativity narratives—in the first two chapters of the Third Gospel, begins ch. 3 with a synchronistic note in the approved style.

X. 历史价值。路加不同于新约其他的作者。他努力将他的故事置于同时代世界历史的框架中。例如，他是新约作者中唯一一个提到过罗马皇帝名字的作者。他的作品（尤其在《使徒行传》中）中经常提到帝国官员、省长和藩属王等。一个根据这类历史参照创作自身作品的作者，一定会很谨慎地避免出现不准确的信息。路加偶尔提到的 1 世纪的人物都非常地准确，这进一步说明他与他记录的事件处于同一时代。

路加显然效仿了之前的伟大历史学家。例如，修西狄第的第二本历史著作（his History of the Peloponnesian War）以一个详尽的对照性历史年谱开篇，他通过参照同时期希腊世界的许多在位高官确定了开篇事件的年代。同样，路加在写完序言，又在《路加福音》前两章记录完耶稣诞生的故事后，在第三章一开始就记录了被认可的对照性历史年谱。每一位基督徒都知道，约翰的传道标志着福音传道的开始；而路加希望确定这个信息的历史背景。路加的这种做法表明，他希望他的读者开篇便知这是一部很严肃

The preaching of John, as every Christian knew, marked the beginning of the kerygma proper; and Luke wished to fix it in its historical setting. Luke's doing this suggests that he wishes his readers to understand at the outset that this is a serious historical work.

One feature of Luke's reference to contemporary personages that has frequently excited comment is the confident ease with which he regularly gives them their proper titles. Amid the multiplicity of changing official designations in the Roman empire at that time Luke moves with sure familiarity, not so simple a matter as it would be today with ready access to convenient works of reference. Luke knew that at the time with which he deals Cyprus, Achaia, and Asia were senatorial provinces governed by proconsuls (Acts 13:7; 18:12; 19:38); that Philippi, as a Roman colony, was administered by collegiate praetors, who were attended by lictors (16:20ff., 35ff.); that Thessalonica, like other cities of Macedonia, called its chief magistrates politarchs (17:6, 8). He was acquainted with the Areopagus at Athens (17:19, 22, 34); he knew that the leading men of the cities of Asia were called Asiarchs (19:31), that Ephesus enjoyed the honorary title of Neōkóros ("temple warden") of Artemis (19:35) and that the town clerk (grammateús) occupied an important and responsible place in its municipal administration (19:35ff.). He knew that the chief official in Malta was called the first man (28:7).

The accuracy that Luke displays in such details as these extends also to the more general sphere of local color and

路加提及的同时代的人物一个特点是他通常从容自信地给这些人物添加合适的头衔，这经常遭受人们的批评。路加非常自信地变换使用当时罗马帝国的众多官职名，这并非易事，不像今天人们很容易得到实用的参考文献。路加熟知那时他记录的塞浦路斯、亚该亚和亚细亚是由方伯管辖的元老省（徒 13:7; 18:12; 19:38）；而腓立比作为罗马的殖民地由官长管理，官长下有差役（徒 16:20 起；16:35 起）；帖撒罗尼迦像马其顿的其他城市一样，称呼主长官为地方官（徒 17:6, 8）。路加在雅典了解了亚略八古这个地方（徒 17:19, 22, 34）；他知道亚细亚各城市的首领都被称为亚细亚首领（徒 19:31），而以弗所人喜欢用亚底米的 Neōkóros（“看守庙的人”）（徒 19:35）这个荣誉称号，并且以弗所的书记（grammateús）在市政管理上占据着重要位置，负责市政管理（徒 19:35 起）。他知道马耳他的主要首领被称为岛长（徒 28:7）。

路加还细致准确地展现了更宽泛的领域，如乡土特色和乡土环境。路加记录的住着一群易怒和偏执的犹太人的

atmosphere. Luke's Jerusalem, with its excitable and intolerant crowds of Jews, is in marked contrast to the busy emporium of Syrian Antioch, the former Seleucid capital, where men of different creeds and nationalities rub shoulders and have their rough corners worn away, so that we are not surprised to find the first gentile church established there, with Jews and non-Jews meeting in brotherly forbearance and fellowship. His Philippi is a Roman colony with its self-important magistrates and its citizens so proud of being Romans, so much superior to the surrounding Greeks, not to mention wandering Jews like Paul and Silas, who presumed to come among them with their outlandish teaching and stir up trouble. His Athens, with its endless disputations in the marketplace and its thirst for the latest news, is still the same Athens portrayed by classical authors, even if she has come down a little in the world since those earlier days. Stoics and Epicureans have taken the place of Socrates and Plato and Aristotle, but the chief end of man and the supreme good in life are as popular subjects for discussion as ever. Quite different is Luke's picture of Ephesus, with its temple of Artemis, one of the seven wonders of the ancient world, and so many of the citizens making their living one way or another from the cult of the great goddess; with its reputation for superstition and magic, which was so widespread in antiquity that "Ephesian writings" was a common name for magic scrolls inscribed with charms and spells. The description of the voyage to Italy in ch. 27 is so accurate in its vivid detail that it was justly described by H. J. Holtzmann as "one of the most instructive documents for our knowledge of ancient seamanship” (Hand-Commentar zum NT [1889], p. 421).

Luke reveals unmistakably the natural accuracy of his observant mind to such an extent that even where his statements appear to conflict with evidence from other quarters one would require very conclusive proof before deciding that Luke is wrong. In other words, judged by the standards applied to ancient narrators in general, Luke establishes his right to be regarded as a good and independent witness.

A writer may indeed have an accurate habit of mind and yet produce a work that is not uniformly accurate, because of the inequality of his sources or because he is more familiar with one field of which he treats than with another. But even in those sections of Acts where Luke relies on information received from others (dealing, e.g., with Palestinian matters), he suffers no disadvantage when compared with such an author as Josephus.

Yet, accuracy alone does not make a man a historian. An accurate narrator might be a mere chronicler, faithfully recording facts as they occurred and cramming his record with detail, without showing any appreciation of the dominating themes of his subject matter or any grasp of the chain of cause and effect in the events related. But Luke knows what he wants to do; the progress of the gospel along the road that leads to Rome is his chief theme, and the arrangement of his material is subordinated to his main purpose. The first five chapters contain scenes from the life of the infant church in Jerusalem, excellently chosen so as to give us a picture of its ups and downs, leading on to the increasing prominence of its Hellenist members, the career and martyrdom of Stephen, the consequent persecution and dispersal, the conversion of Paul, and the evangelization of the Gentiles. Thus the way is prepared for the Pauline mission, to which most of the second half of Acts is devoted.

In both his volumes, as noted, Luke confines himself within the limits of a papyrus roll of normal length. These material conditions imposed the necessity for selecting what to include and what to omit. Luke makes his selection in such a way as to promote his prime purpose; but in view of the limited space at his disposal, his repetitions are the more striking. When he gives a threefold account of Paul's conversion (chs. 9, 22, and 26), when he uses so much repetition in the story of Peter's preaching to Cornelius (ch. 10; 11:1-17; 15:7ff.), when he quotes the terms of the apostolic decree three times (15:20, 29; 21:25), it is immediately obvious that these are matters to which he attaches special importance.

Ramsay's verdict on Luke's title to be called a true historian, over and above his characteristic accuracy, is unqualified in its appreciation. Luke, he maintained, "should be placed along with the very greatest of historians" (Bearing of Recent Discovery on the Trustworthiness of the NT [1915], p. 222). A more modest appraisal of Luke's achievement is made by W. L. Knox: "There is no reason to doubt Luke's veracity within the limits which he sets himself; he is not a great historian or biographer by modern standards; but by the standards of his age he has given a fresh and interesting account of the vital part of Paul's missionary career, which has preserved on the whole an accurate account of the development of Christianity" (p. 61).

如前所述，路加在他的两部书中，利用正常蒲草纸书卷有限的空间记录了他要写的内容。这些素材的状况要求路加有所选择、有所删减。路加只选择那些可以满足他主要目的的素材；但由于作品空间有限，路加重复描述的内容更加引人注目。路加三次提及了保罗悔改（徒 9, 22 和 26），还重复记录了彼得向哥尼流传道（徒 10; 11:1-17; 15:7 起），另外他还三次引用了使徒法令中的规定（徒 15:20, 29; 21:25），显而易见，这些都是路加非常重视的问题。

It is in any case unreasonable to judge an ancient author by modern standards. Knox emphasizes this himself: "It is only within the limits of what he set out to do," he says, "that Luke can fairly be criticized" (p. 56); therefore, for instance, "it is unfair to blame him for failing to mention matters about which we need information when we try to write commentaries on the Epistles to the Corinthians" (p. 61); and though we today should have liked to be told something about the progress of Christianity at Rome before Paul's arrival there, "Luke would see no point in mentioning what many of his readers knew already, while the rest could easily find out if they were curious" (p. 58).

We should certainly have been glad if Luke had given us more detailed chronological information. In the earlier part of Acts we miss such information particularly; thus commentators vary from one year to six years in their estimate of the interval that separates the ascension of Christ from the conversion of Paul. In the latter part, time notes are more frequent, and this suggests that their absence from the earlier part is due to their absence in Luke's sources of information. All ancient historians present us with chronological problems, largely because of the lack of a fixed system of reckoning dates; and this lack constitutes a limitation from the modern reader's point of view. Among other limitations mentioned by W. L. Knox is Luke's method of fitting his sources together (this, however, causes more trouble to the modern source critic than to the first-century reader for whom Luke wrote). But, while Knox disagrees with Ramsay in the matter of appraising Luke's right to be called a serious historian, he is in general agreement with him regarding Luke's honesty, trustworthiness, and success in achieving his aim in writing.

But in the opinion of certain others all this is beside the point, because Luke includes miraculous incidents in his narrative, and records them not simply (as Herodotus did) because they are good stories and worth repeating for their own sake, but because he plainly believes that they really happened. If a reader believes that miracles do not happen, then all other arguments in favor of Luke's trustworthiness must be discounted. Even if an exception must be made in favor of the miracles that he ascribes to Jesus in the first volume of his work, why should such an exception be extended to the miracles ascribed to the apostles in the second volume?

It is not enough to say that in that age all people who thought about such matters (not to mention the masses who took them for granted) believed in miracles, apart from Epicureans and Skeptics. After all, Thucydides carefully excluded miracles from his history over four hundred years before Luke, though he admitted that their absence would detract from the popularity of his work. If

只是说，那个时代除了以彼古罗和斯多亚派之外，所有思考这些问题的人（更不要提将其视为理所当然的大众）都相信神迹，但这远远不够。要知道修西得底斯早在路加之前四百年就很谨慎地将神迹从他的历史著作中删除了，虽然他承认少了神迹的部分将会降低他作品的受欢迎程度。如果修西得底斯将神迹从作品中删除了，为什么路加没有这么做呢？难道路加

Thucydides did so, why not Luke? Did Luke imagine that the inclusion of miracles would promote the apologetic purpose of his work in the intelligent reading circles of Rome?

The fact is that miracles did take place in those early Christian circles. When Paul appeals to the mighty works that had been wrought among his Galatian converts (Gal. 3:5), he knows that the Galatians cannot reply that such things have never taken place. When he tells the Roman Christians that his apostolic office is confirmed by the things that Christ has accomplished through him “for the obedience of the Gentiles ... in the power of signs and wonders” (Rom. 15:18f.), he is certainly not making a claim that he knows any eyewitness could disprove.

Furthermore, Luke is no mere swallower of the miraculous. The miracles he narrates are not miracles and nothing more: they are “signs” as well as “wonders”; they are “mighty works” giving evidence of the arrival of the new age; they are manifestations of the power of God at work among men, and an integral element in the gospel message. When the kingdom of God drew near to men in Christ, its advent was signaled by extraordinary happenings of the very kind that the prophets had foretold in that connection (cf. Lk. 7:22; 11:20). The miracle stories of Acts have the same character as those of the Gospels. Jesus is still the agent; before His departure He acted on earth, and now He acts from Heaven. It is in His name that the mighty works recorded in Acts are performed. We need think no less of Luke’s historical faithfulness because he records such signs as these.

事实上神迹确实在早期基督徒当中发生过。保罗提到上帝在加拉太人中间行的异能时（加 3:5），他知道加拉太人不会说这类事情从来没有发生过。当保罗告诉罗马基督徒，基督“用神迹奇事的能力……使外邦人顺服”（罗 15:18-19），基督藉着他成就的事证明了他的使徒职分，他当然不会说一句所有见证神迹的人都会反对的话。

此外，路加不仅仅是神迹的记录者。他描述的奇迹不只是奇迹而已：它们是“神迹”和“奇事”；它们是证明新时代来临的“异能”；它们彰显了神运行在人类中间的大能，是福音消息不可分割的要素。神的国在基督里靠近人类时，先知预言的奇异征兆是神国降临的信号（参：路 7:22；11:20）。《使徒行传》中的神迹故事与福音书中的神迹故事是一样的。耶稣仍是中保；祂在升天前在地上行神迹，而现在祂在天上行神迹。《使徒行传》中记载的神迹都是以基督的名行的。我们不能因为路加记录了这些神迹而低估他的历史忠实度。

XI. Purpose.—The purpose Luke had in view is stated in the prologue to his twofold work from which we have already learned that his main concern was that Theophilus, who had already received some information about Christianity, should have a thoroughly reliable account of the relevant facts.

An examination of Luke's actual work may tell us something more about his purpose in writing. One of the most striking features that emerge from such an examination is the marked apologetic element. Luke is concerned to defend Christianity in general—and, it would appear, Paul in particular—against the accusations urged by various opponents. This he does largely by showing how responsible authorities throughout the Roman world agree that Christianity does not contravene imperial law and that those who proclaim it are innocent of any criminal action or intention. As in the “former treatise” Pontius Pilate, Roman procurator of Judea, and Herod Antipas, tetrarch of Galilee, find no substance in the charges preferred against Jesus by the Sanhedrin, so in Acts a variety of officials, gentile and Jewish, show good will toward the Christian missionaries, or admit that there is no basis for the accusations brought against them by their opponents. At Philippi the praetors have to apologize to Paul and Silas for subjecting them to illegal beating and imprisonment (Acts 16:37ff.). At Corinth the proconsul of Achaia, Gallio, decrees that the offenses with which the local Jewish community charge Paul and his companions relate to internal Jewish concerns and not to matters of which Roman law need take cognizance (18:12ff.). In Ephesus the Asiarchs, leading citizens of the province of Asia, are Paul's friends, and the town clerk declares his innocence (19:31, 37f.). In Palestine the procurators Felix and Festus find no ground for the Sanhedrin's accusation of Paul, and the Jewish client-king Herod Agrippa II and his sister Bernice agree that he has done nothing deserving imprisonment or death (24:1–26:32). In fact, the Sanhedrin is the accuser both of Jesus and of Paul (supported in Paul's case by a number of Jewish communities of the Dispersion); but the representatives of Roman law make favorable pronouncements in both cases.

XI. 目的。路加两部书的序言记载了他写书的目的，我们从这个序言中获悉，路加主要关心的是，已知晓基督教部分信息的提阿非罗应该得到关于相关事实的全面可靠的描述。

When we look for an appropriate life-setting for a work that strikes the apologetic note in just this way, we might think of a time when the Sanhedrin, the chief accuser of Christianity, had discredited itself finally as it did with the outbreak of the Jewish revolt of A.D. 66. A Christian apologist at this time might well seize the opportunity to dissociate Christianity from Judaism in the public mind (cf. T. W. Manson, p. 62). The difficulty about that is that the position of Christianity in the Roman empire had already taken a turn for the worse with the events at Rome itself in A.D. 64, and the precedent established by Nero's persecution. To relate decisions of imperial officials before 64 might well appear irrelevant when everybody knew the complete reversal of those decisions that had taken place in that year. It is just possible that Luke wished to trace the course of Christianity up to the eve of the

Neronian persecution to show that it was not such a shamefully criminal movement as was popularly believed. As late as 112, as well informed a Roman citizen as Tacitus could write of primitive Christianity: "The Christians got their name from one Christus, who was executed by the sentence of the procurator Pontius Pilate when Tiberius was emperor; and the pernicious superstition was checked for a short time, only to break out afresh—not only in Judaea, the home of the plague, but in Rome itself, where all the horrible and shameful things in the world collect and find a home" (Ann. xv.44).

Luke is not replying directly to Tacitus; but Tacitus was obviously not the first Roman to cherish this illusion about Christian beginnings. It is quite reasonable to suppose that Luke's intention was to provide intelligent Roman readers, like Theophilus, with a reliable account of the progress of Christianity before A.D. 64, to counteract the caricature that was widely held to be the truth of the matter.

If we are right in thinking that Luke wrote his history before the Neronian persecution began in 64, then we are faced with an attractive life-setting for the work. Paul, the outstanding Christian leader in the Roman world, had come to Rome early in A.D. 60, having appealed to the emperor from a provincial court. A number of people in influential quarters at Rome would know about him and his impending trial. It was important that they should be accurately informed. We need not go so far as those who have concluded that Luke's history (or at least book two) was written to supply the information required for Paul's defense before the imperial tribunal—written, in fact, to brief Theophilus, who was to act as counsel for the defense. There is too much in Acts that would be irrelevant for such a purpose, though either the book itself, or some of the notes used in its composition, may have been put in as one of the documents in the case. It is more likely that Luke seized the opportunity afforded by the circumstances of his visit to Rome to provide the intelligent reading public (or listening public) of the imperial city with an account that rebutted the common objections to Christianity by insisting on its complete and admitted innocence in the eyes of Roman law.

But Theophilus and other members of the intelligent reading public at Rome might say: Granted that Paul and other Christian messengers have been frequently not guilty of offenses against Roman law; how is it that they have been accused of such offenses so often, and how is it that there has been so much trouble and rioting wherever they have gone? On a few occasions, Luke pointed out, trouble had arisen because Christianity was felt to endanger certain financial interests, whether on a smaller scale, as with the fortune-telling slave girl's owners at Philippi (Acts 16:19), or on a larger scale, as with the guild of silversmiths at Ephesus (19:24ff.). But the chief cause of the trouble that dogged the footsteps of Paul and his companions was the opposition of the Jewish communities. This opposition is one of the secondary motifs of Acts; while the book records the progress of the gospel along the road from Jerusalem to Rome and its acceptance by pagans, it records at the same time the rejection of the gospel by the bulk of the Jewish communities of the Dispersion, until at last in Rome Paul assures the Jews of that city, in words such as he had already used in other cities, “This salvation is sent unto the Gentiles: they will also hear” (Acts 28:28).

One of the features in Acts that would have been irrelevant for exclusively apologetic purposes is Luke’s interest in the Holy Spirit’s activity in the Church. When he describes his “former treatise” as “concerning all that Jesus began both to do and to teach, until the day in which he was received up” (Acts 1:1f.), he probably does not use the verb “began” as a redundant auxiliary (in accordance with Aramaic idiom), but rather lays some stress on it, implying that the second volume will relate what Jesus continued to do and teach after His ascension—by His Spirit in the apostles. The second volume might therefore be entitled “The Acts of the Ascended Lord” or “The Acts of the Holy Spirit.”

At the beginning of the volume the promise of the Spirit is given by Jesus (1:4, 8), and this promise is fulfilled in ch. 2 for the people of Israel and in ch.10 for the Gentiles. The apostles proclaim their message in the power of the Spirit, a power that is manifested by supernatural signs; the converts’ acceptance of the message is similarly attended by visible and audible manifestations of the Spirit’s activity. The Holy Spirit controls the whole expansion of Christianity narrated in Acts; He guides the messengers, such as Philip (8:29, 39) and Peter (10:19); He directs the Antiochian church to set Barnabas and Paul apart for the service to which He has called them (13:2); He directs them from place to place, forbidding them to preach in Asia or enter Bithynia, but giving them clear indication that they must cross the Aegean to Europe (16:6ff.); He receives prior mention as authority for the letter sent by the Jerusalem council to the churches of Syria and Cilicia (15:28, "it seemed good to the Holy Spirit, and to us"). He speaks through prophets, foretelling for example the famine in the reign of Claudius and Paul's imprisonment at Jerusalem (11:28; 21:11), just as He spoke through the prophets of OT days (1:16; 28:25). It is He primarily who appoints the elders of a church to be its superintendents (20:28). He can be lied to (5:3), tempted (5:9), and resisted (7:51). He bears witness to the truth of the gospel (5:32). The whole progress of the gospel from Jerusalem to Rome is guided by the Holy Spirit; in all the book there is nothing that is unrelated to His direction.

Luke, as we might expect, is greatly interested in the evangelization of Gentiles. This may be why, in spite of his limited space, he lays such repetitive emphasis on the story of Cornelius' conversion. The widening of the circle of those who receive the good news is marked in successive stages: while the followers of Jesus to begin with consist almost entirely of "Hebrews" (Palestine-born and Aramaic-speaking Jews), the events of the day of Pentecost bring a large accession of Hellenists (Greek-speaking Jews of the Dispersion), and these play an increasingly prominent part in the Church. It is one of these

传道或禁止他们进入庇推尼讲道，但也明确指引他们必须穿过爱琴海到欧洲（徒 16:6 起）；《使徒行传》15:28 首先提到了圣灵的权柄，是圣灵让耶路撒冷公会给叙利亚和基利家教会取信（“因为圣灵和我们定意”）。正如祂在旧约时期藉着先知说活一样（徒 1:16; 28:25），祂藉先知预言革老丢统治时期将会有饥荒以及保罗要在耶路撒冷被监禁（徒 11:28; 21:11）。也是圣灵让最初立教会的长老做教会的监督（徒 20:28）。圣灵可以被欺哄（徒 5:3），被试探（徒 5:9），被抗拒（徒 7:51）。圣灵见证福音的真相（徒 5:32）。从耶路撒冷至罗马，福音传播的全过程都受圣灵的指引；这本书中的所有内容都与圣灵的指引有关。

如我们所认为的那样，路加对向外邦人传道很感兴趣。这也是为什么尽管空间有限，但是他着重强调了哥尼流悔改的故事。在后期阶段越来越多的人接受了福音信息：尽管耶稣的早期的信徒几乎完全是由“希伯来人”组成（生于巴勒斯坦，讲亚兰语的犹太人），五旬节当天的事件促使很多希腊化犹太人归主（说希腊语的离散犹太人），这些人在教会中的作用越来越突出。希腊化的犹太人中有一位名叫腓利，他主动传福音给分裂出来的撒玛利亚人，后来又给一个埃塞俄比亚人施洗。彼得向巴勒斯坦沿海的“半外邦”地区传福音之后不久，在传福音的过程中，他被呼召要打破惯

Hellenists—Philip—who takes the initiative in carrying the gospel to the schismatic Samaritans, and who later baptizes an Ethiopian. Soon afterward Peter evangelizes the semi-gentile localities of the western Palestinian coastland, and while engaged in this activity he is called to make the decisive breach with tradition and take the Christian message to the house of the gentile Cornelius at Caesarea. Not long after, a gentile mission on a wider scale is inaugurated at Antioch by Hellenistic Christians who left Jerusalem through the persecution that followed Stephen's martyrdom. The result is that the church of Antioch—the second Christian church whose inception Luke relates—is predominantly gentile from the start. And from that point onward it is mainly on the evangelization of Gentiles that Luke concentrates.

But this evangelization of Gentiles carried with it the problem of Christian liberty, in which also Luke naturally finds great interest. Were Gentiles who believed in Christ to be accepted as full members of the believing community on that ground alone, or should they be required to submit to circumcision and generally conform to the Jewish ceremonial law? It is Luke's interest in this question, and his appreciation of its importance for the expansion of Christianity, that leads him to give the Council of Jerusalem the central place that it occupies in Acts.

Luke cannot disguise that Paul is his hero. He may not have written Acts for the special purpose of establishing the reality of Paul's apostleship, but Acts does serve this purpose admirably. Yet Luke makes it plain that Paul was not the only effective apostle; in particular, a list of quite striking parallels can be drawn up between the “Acts of Peter” and the “Acts of Paul” in Luke’s second volume. The parallel incidents, however, were not invented by Luke; they were selected by him, in accordance with his aim, from the mass of information at his disposal.

例，将福音传到凯撒利亚的哥尼流家中。不久之后，由于耶路撒冷的教会大遭迫害和随后的司提反殉道，希腊化的犹太人被迫离开耶路撒冷，开始广泛地向外邦人传道。结果安提阿教会——第二个基督教教会（路加讲述了这个教会初期的情况）从一开始就主要由外邦人组成。并且从那时起，路加主要关注的是向外邦人传道。

路加视保罗为他的英雄。他写《使徒行传》可能不是为实现确立保罗使徒地位的真实性这一特殊目的，却极好地实现了这一目的。而路加明确表示

There is less tendency nowadays to suppose that this parallelism is a mark of the author’s plan to reconcile the originally hostile Petrine and Pauline parties within the Church. It is more likely that Luke’s purpose in arranging his material thus was to demonstrate either that Peter was as much an apostle as Paul or that Paul was as much an apostle as Peter. If John Knox is right in viewing Acts as a product of the anti-Marcionite reaction, then we might prefer the former of these two alternatives. But, apart from our grounds for regarding Acts as a first-century work, with the consequent implications for this question we are considering, the much greater weight that Luke lays on the “Acts of Paul” than on the “Acts of Peter” does suggest that he is more concerned with Paul’s apostolic claims than with Peter’s—which no Christian doubted before the time of Marcion. And even after Marcion’s time, Acts was valued more for its establishment of Paul’s apostleship than of Peter’s, as we may see from Tertullian’s remark about those heretics (presumably the Marcionites in particular) who rejected Acts and yet appealed so regularly and confidently to the authority of Paul: “You must first of all show us who this Paul was—what he was before he became an apostle, and how he became an apostle” (De praescr. haer 23)—and this, of course, they found difficulty in doing without reference to Acts.

ADADAH

ə-dā'də [Heb. 'ad'ādā]; NEB ARARAH. A town in the southern part of Judah near the border of Edom (Josh. 15:22). In the LXX the passage reads (Gk.) Arouēl, and many scholars emend the MT to read (Heb.) 'ar'ārā, identifying the site as in the NEB, or as Aroer (cf. 1 S. 30:28), about 12 mi. (19 km.) SE of Beer-sheba. (Confusion of daleth and resh is often found in the OT due to the similarity of the letters, both in the old orthography and in the later "Aramaic" writing.)

IN THE OT AND APOCRYPHA

《旧约》和《次经》中的亚当

I. Usage.—The Hebrew word occurs some 560 times in the OT with the meaning “man,” “mankind.” Outside Gen. 1–5 the only case where it is unquestionably a proper name is 1 Ch. 1:1. Ambiguous are Dt. 32:8; Job 31:33; Hos. 6:7. In Gen. 1 the term occurs only twice (vv. 26f.). In Gen. 2–4 it is found 26 times, and it also occurs in 5:1, 3–5. In the last four cases, and also in 4:25, it is obviously intended as a proper name; but the versions show much uncertainty in the other instances. Some exegetes alter the Masoretic pointing at 2:20; 3:17, 21, thus introducing a definite article and reading uniformly “the man” up to 4:25, where the absence of the article indicates the identity of “the man” with the Adam at the head of the genealogy in 5:1. Several conjectures have been put forth as to the

I. 用法。这个希伯来语在《旧约》中约出现过 560 次, 意思是“人”、“人类”。除《创世记》1-5 章之外, 只有在《历代志上》1:1 中, 这个词无疑是专有名词。《申命记》32:8、《约伯记》31:33 和《何西阿书》6:7 中这个词的意思含糊不清。在《创世记》1 章这个词出现了两次(创 1:26-27)。在《创世记》2-4 章中出现了 26 次, 并且还出现在《创世记》5:1, 3-5 中, 在最后四种情况和《创世记》4:25 中, 这个词显然用作专有名词; 但是在其他情况中很难确定这个词的含义。一些释经者更改《马所拉文本》《创世记》2:20; 3:17, 21 中的元音标点, 从而加入了一个定冠词, 并一致读作“the man”(“那人”), 直到《创世记》4:25, 而《创世记》4:25 中的这个词前没有定冠词, 这说明“the man”(“那人”)就是《创世记》 root meaning of the word (“creature,” “earthborn,” “ruddy one,” “pleasant,” etc.), but some of these are highly improbable and there can be no final certainty in the matter.

II. In Genesis Stories.—The only occurrences in Gen. 1, as noted, are in vv. 26f.; and here the question has arisen whether the reference is to the creation of man, the human species, or to the creation specifically of the first man and the first woman, Adam and Eve. In favor of the first view, all the similar previous references—to the stars, plants, fish, and animals—are general. On the other hand, this proves a little too much, for they are so general that there is no mention of species. To some the mention of “male and female” would also seem to indicate the first couple, for there is no reference to a similar distinction in the case of animals, and the generic man could cover both sexes if this were merely a general reference.

In Gen. 2–3 there is perhaps some confusion between “man” and “Adam” as suitable renderings at individual points, but the narratives as a whole leave little room for doubt that the reference is always to a single man (“the man” or “Adam”), and later to a single woman. In these stories a little more light is shed on the creation of man, on his relation to the world over which he was to have dominion, and on his transgression and fall. Man is created from the dust of the earth and becomes a living creature by the breath of God. Placed in the garden to keep it, he gives names to the animals (over whom he has dominion, according to 1:27); and woman is formed from him to be his counterpart and helper. At woman's behest he eats with her of the forbidden fruit, and they are driven from the garden and condemned to toil and sorrow and eventual inevitable death. Adam becomes the father of Cain and Abel, and of Seth after the murder of Abel.

II. 创世故事中的亚当。如上所述，这个词只在《创世记》1:26-27 中出现过；那么问题出现了，这个词是表示人、人类，还是专门表示第一个男人（亚当）和第一个女人（夏娃）。根据第一种观点，之前所有类似的指代——星星、植物、鱼和动物——都是泛指。换言之，这证明了太多，因为它们过于泛泛，以至于不能表示任何物种。对有些人来说，“男人和女人”似乎也表示人类的第一对夫妻，因为动物没有类似的区分，如果仅仅是泛指，那么人类既表示男人也表示女人。

After Gen. 5 there are almost no plain references to Adam until the Apocrypha (cf. 2 Esd. 3:4-7, 10, 21, 26; 4:30; 6:54-56; 7:11, 46-48; Tob. 8:6; Wisd. 2:23f.; 9:2f.; 10:1f.; Sir. 15:14; 17:1-4; 25:24; 40:1; 49:16). Sir. 40:1 refers to the heavy yoke upon the sons of Adam, though it is by no means clear that this refers to the weight of original sin incurred by Adam's fall. The Wisdom of Solomon speaks more explicitly of death coming on men through Adam's sin, while 2 Esdras has a developed doctrine of original sin. In 4:30 we read that "a grain of evil seed was sown in Adam's heart from the beginning," and 7:48 carries the indictment: "O Adam, what have you done? for though it was you who sinned, the fall was not yours alone, but ours also who are your descendants."

III. Genre of Stories.-The meaning of the term "Adam" is closely linked with the interpretation of the Genesis stories. If it is assumed that the word bears a generic sense, one suggestion is that this is not a literal history but a very general account of the early development of the race. This may be in the form of a myth in which man and woman are personified as Adam and Eve, and general truths concerning man's origin, nature, and destiny are conveyed. Or it may be in the form of a poetic narrative of events that really

《创世记》第 5 章之后，几乎再没有清楚地提及亚当，直到《次经》（参：拉二 3:4-7, 10, 21, 26; 4:30; 6:54-56; 7:11, 46-48; 比 8:6; 智 2:23-24; 9:2-3; 10:1-2; 便 15:14; 17:1-4; 25:24; 40:1; 49:16）。《便西拉智训》40:1 提到亚当的子孙身上担负着沉重的担子，不过这里并没有说明这是人类因亚当堕落所要背负的原罪。《所罗门智训》中更明确地说明了死亡临到人类是由于亚当犯了罪，而《以斯拉二书》中提出了关于原罪的成熟教义。我们可以在《以斯拉二书》4:30 中读到，“在创世之初，一粒邪恶的种子被种进了亚当的心里”，《以斯拉二书》7:48 中则控诉道“哦！亚当，你做的什么事呢？虽然是你犯了罪，败坏却不只临到你，而是临到你的所有子孙。”

III. 故事的类型。“亚当”这个词的意思与创世故事的解释紧密相关。如果假定这个词具有类属意义，那么就必须认为这不是文学记录，而是早期人类发展的概述。这可能以神话的形式讲述出来，男人和女人被比喻成了亚当和夏娃，并传达了有关人类起源、本性和命运的普遍真理。或者可以采用诗歌的形式叙述真正发生过的事，但并没有采用这种特殊的形式（the Sage of Barth）。为了支持这种解释，必须指出伊甸园不是一个可辨认的地理位置，尽管与之相关的河流 happened, but not in this specific form (the Sage of Barth). In support of such interpretations it is pointed out that Eden is not an identifiable geographical locality even though known rivers are associated with it. In other words, an obviously imaginative element is combined with a certain factuality. The alternative is to treat the narratives as literal history in the strict sense, though here, too, a question arises as to the degree of literalness. For example, does the serpent actually use a human language and utter sounds which can be heard with the ears and which are identifiable as human speech? Or again, is there literally a tree whose fruit conveys the knowledge of good and evil? One thing that can be asserted quite firmly is that the stories are hardly intended as myth. But the nature of the factuality will always give rise to discussion.

IV. Nature of Adam.-Another problem that arises is that of the nature of Adam (or man) as first created. The general consensus has been that he is perfect man in full possession of all human faculties, in perfect harmony of body and soul, and in a right relation to God, to woman, to himself, and to the natural world around him. This seems to be clearly enough suggested by the stories themselves, especially Gen. 2. In the Middle Ages, however, another view established itself. This makes of Adam a superman endowed not only with natural faculties but also with supernatural graces that secure his natural perfection. At the fall these graces are forfeited and the natural qualities, though they remain, are impaired in their operation.

IV. 亚当的本性。另一个问题是首先被创造的人亚当（人类）的本性问题。人们普遍认为亚当最初是一个完美的人，拥有人类所有的才能，身心完美，与上帝、女人、他自己和他周围的环境关系良好。创世故事中（尤其是《创世记》2章中）清楚地记录了这一点。然而，在中世纪出现了另一种观点。这种观点赋予了亚当超凡的能力，他不仅拥有天生的能力，而且拥有奇异的恩典，奇异恩典是天生能力的保证。亚当堕落后，这些能力被收回，尽管天生的能力还在，却被削弱了。

More recently the philosophy of progress and an evolutionary understanding of the world have introduced a wholly different line of interpretation. At the first, Adam (or man) is at a very primitive level, hardly different from the brutes. The fall is virtually a fall upward. It is the step to self-awareness, to historical life, to ethical freedom and responsibility. In other words, the fall is the beginning of real humanity, of historical life in the true sense as compared with the prior period of hardly more than natural or animal life. It involves serious hazards, for man may obviously abuse his new power. But it is still to be regarded as a progressive step. To know good and evil carries the risk of doing evil. But it is better than to do good without knowledge. The story of the race is the story of movement from childlike or animal innocence to responsible choice, and finally, by a long process of advance, to choice of the good.

When we survey the various possibilities, it is easily seen that both the idea of supernatural endowment and that of an upward fall are fanciful, finding no real support in the narratives themselves. Conditions in Eden are idyllic, but there seems to be no suggestion that man needs an additional factor for this to be possible. On the other hand, the idea that man is virtually no more than subhuman is quite alien to the account of his creation; and the fall comes under the severest possible condemnation, not as the abuse of an upward movement, and certainly not as a Promethean attack upon God, but as a very real violation of the divine order. If the Bible can finally regard the fault as a happy one, it is only because God Himself redeems the situation by His own mighty intervention, not because it opens up a world of new possibilities for man.

V. Adam and the Race.-It may be noted that the OT does not develop any doctrine of a universal fall or of original sin. On the other hand, the very fact that Adam is a general as well as a personal name makes it impossible to dismiss the story merely as an individual or even typical account. Moreover, the condemnation is passed not just on Adam and Eve but on their successors as well. All subsequent men are involved here. This is recognized in the OT itself, for the story of one man's sin quickly becomes the story of all men's sin. Indeed, all the interpretations accept this. The deprivation of supernatural graces applies to all men, except insofar as these graces are supposedly restored in baptism. The upward step to historical awareness or ethical responsibility is one that has not been and cannot be reversed, except in a few who do not have full possession of what are now universally acknowledged to be the characteristic human capacities. The perfection of humanity has been lost, not by Adam alone, but by all his descendants, Jesus Christ apart. Even Pelagianism cannot fly wholly in the face of the fact that all men do sin, and that they do so from a very early stage. It is thus forced into the despairing hypothesis of a series of individual repetitions of Adam's sin. This means that in its own way it postulates the solidarity of Adam with the race and of the race with Adam.

The truth of the solidarity of Adam and the race is what is brought out with such force in the NT when Paul compares and

V. 亚当和全人类。需要指出的是，一方面，《旧约》中尚未形成任何关于普世堕落或原罪的教义。另一方面，亚当既是通用名，又是人名的事实不可能说明这个故事仅仅是个人故事或典型故事。此外，不仅亚当和夏娃被定罪，而且他们的子孙也被定罪。所有后来人都因此陷入罪里。《旧约》中认可这一点，因为那人犯罪的故事很快变成了所有人犯罪的故事。实际上，所有的解释都接受这种说法。所有人都丧失了奇异的恩典，只有通过受洗才可能恢复这些恩典。除了那些尚没有完全掌握公认的人类能力的人，其他人向着历史觉醒或道德责任迈出的一步已经无法撤回，也不能撤回。人类并不单单因为亚当，而且因为除耶稣之外的所有后代失去了他们的完美。甚至连伯拉纠派都不能完全否认人类犯罪，而且在很早以前人类就犯了这罪的事实。因此不得不作出一代代的人重复亚当之罪的绝望假设。这意味着，伯拉纠派以自己的方式提出了亚当与人类、人类与亚当的关联。 contrasts the new solidarity of the race in the second Adam with the old solidarity of sin and guilt in the first (Rom. 5:12-21).

当保罗将人类与第二个亚当的新联合和人类与第一个亚当旧的罪的联合进行比较和对照时，《新约》强有力地

IN THE NT

The name Adam occurs nine times (in five different passages) in the NT, though several of these are purely incidental.

I. Gospels.-In Lk. 3:38 the ancestry of Jesus Christ is traced back to "Adam, the son of God," thereby testifying to the acceptance of the OT genealogies of Genesis. This is the only place in the Gospels where Adam is actually named, though there is an allusion to him in Mt. 19:4-6 (=Mk. 10:6-8), referring to Gen. 1:27 and 2:24.

II. Epistles.-In Rom. 5:12-21 Adam is designated by Paul as the founder of the race and the cause of the introduction of sin, in order to point the comparison and contrast with Christ as the head of the new race and the cause of righteousness. The passage is the logical center of the Epistle, the central point to which everything that precedes has converged, and out of which everything that follows will flow. The great ideas of sin, death, and judgment are here shown to be involved in the connection of the human race with Adam. But over against this there is the blessed fact of union with Christ, and in this union righteousness and life.

Mankind is ranged under two heads, Adam and Christ. There are two men, two acts, and two results. In this teaching we

亚当这个名字在《新约》中（在不同的段落中）出现了 9 次，不过有几次是偶然出现的。

I. 福音书。《路加福音》3:38 中耶稣的家谱被追溯到“神的儿子亚当”，从而该书认可《旧约》《创世记》中的家谱。这是福音书中唯一一处确切提到亚当的章节，不过《马太福音》19:4-6（平行经文，可 10:6-8）暗指了亚当，参考了《创世记》1:27 和 2:24。

II. 书信。在《罗马书》5:12-21 中，保罗认为亚当是人类的始祖，并将罪带给后人，旨在与作新人类的头并使他们称义的基督进行比较和对照。这段经文是《罗马书》的逻辑中心，前面的所有内容在这里做了总结，后面的所有内容都由此而出。罪、死亡和审判的伟大思想在这里融入到人类与亚当的关系中。与之相对的是与基督联合的神圣事实，和在这种联合中得到的公义和生命。

have the spiritual and theological illustration of the great modern principle of solidarity. There is a solidarity of evil and a solidarity of good, but the latter far surpasses the former in the quality of the obedience of Christ as compared with Adam, and in the fact of the work of Christ for justification and life. The passage is thus no mere episode or illustration, but gives organic life to the entire Epistle. Although sin and death are ours in Adam, righteousness and life are ours in Christ, and these latter two are infinitely the greater (v. 11); whatever we have lost in Adam we have more than gained in Christ. As all the evils of the race sprang from one man, so all the blessings of redemption come from one Person, and there is such a connection between the Person and the race that all men can possess what the One has done.

In vv. 12–19 Paul makes a series of comparisons and contrasts between Adam and Christ; the two persons, the two works, and the two consequences. The fulness of the apostle's meaning must be carefully observed. Not only does he teach that what we have derived from the first Adam is met by what is derived from Christ, but the transcendence of the work of the latter is regarded as almost infinite in extent. "The full meaning of Paul, however, is not grasped until we perceive that the benefits received from Christ, the Second Adam, are in inverse ratio to the disaster entailed by the first Adam. It is the surplusage of this grace that in Paul's presentation is commonly overlooked" (H. C. Mabie, Divine Reason of the Cross [1911], p. 116).

代联合原则的属灵例证和神学例证。一个是与恶的联合，另一个是与善的联合，但是后一种联合远远胜过前一种联合，因为与善联合的人顺服基督，而与罪联合的人顺从亚当，也因为基督的工作使人称义得生命。因此这段不仅仅是段插叙或说明，是整封书信不可分割的一部分。虽然罪和死因亚当临到我们，但是公义和生命因耶稣也临到我们，公义和生命比罪和死更显多（罗 5:11）；我们因亚当失去的，藉着耶稣重新获得，并且比我们原有的更多。因为罪因一人入了世，所以也要因一人而得救赎，人类与这个人存在这种关联，就能够领受祂所成就的一切。

在《罗马书》5:12-19 中，保罗将亚当和耶稣作了一系列的比较和对照；有两种人、两种工作和两种结局。只有仔细观察才能体会到这位使徒所表达的丰富内涵。他不但教导说，我们从基督那里领受的赏赐平衡了我们从第一个亚当那里得来的罪，而且从基督那里领受的赏赐是无限的，比罪更显多。“然而，只有当我们察觉从耶稣（第二个亚当）那里获得的果效与从一个亚当那里遭受的灾难成反比才能领会保罗的完整意思，人们通常忽略了保罗所描述的这种恩典的富余”（H. C. Mabie, Divine Reason of the Cross [1911], 116 页）。

《哥林多前书》15:22 中的对比指的是

15:22 between Adam and Christ refers to death and life, but great difficulty turns on the interpretation of the two “alls”—“As in Adam all die, so also in Christ shall all be made alive.” Dods interprets it of Adam as the source of physical life that ends in death, and of Christ as the source of spiritual life that never dies: “All who are by physical derivation truly united to Adam incur the death, which by sinning he introduced into human experience; and similarly, all who by spiritual affinity are in Christ enjoy the new life which triumphs over death, and which he won” (Expos B, p. 366). So also T. C. Edwards, who does not consider that there is any real unfairness in interpreting the former “all” as more extensive than the latter, “if we bear in mind that the conditions of entrance into the one class and the other are totally different... We have them in Rom. 5:5–11, where the apostle seems as if he anticipated this objection to the analogy which he instituted between Adam and Christ. Both alike are heads of humanity, but they are unlike in this (as also in other things, Rom. 5:15), that men are in Adam by nature, in Christ by faith” (comm. on 1 Corinthians [1897], p. 412). Godet considers that “perhaps this interpretation is really that which corresponds best to the apostle’s view,” and he shows that Gk. zōopoieísthai, “be made alive,” is a more limited idea than egeíresthai, “be raised,” the limitation of the subject thus naturally proceeding from the special meaning of the verb itself. “The two pántes (all) embrace those only to whom each of the two powers extends.” But Godet favors the view of Meyer and Ellicott that “all” is to be given the same interpretation in each clause, and that the reference is to all who are to rise, whether for life or condemnation, and that this is to be “in Christ”: “Christ will quicken all; all will hear His voice and will come forth from the grave, but not all to the true ‘resurrection of life’: see Jn. 5:29” (C. J. Ellicott, comm. on 1 Corinthians [1889], p. 301). Godet argues that “there is nothing to prevent the word ‘quicken,’ taken alone, from being used to denote restoration to the fulness of spiritual and bodily existence, with a view either to perdition or salvation” (comm. on 1 Corinthians [1889], p. 335). There are two serious difficulties to the latter interpretation: (1) the invariable meaning of “in Christ” as spiritual union; (2) the question whether the resurrection of the wicked really finds any place in the apostle’s argument in the entire chapter.

In 1 Cor. 15:45 Paul says: “The first man Adam became a living soul. The last Adam became a life-giving spirit.” The reference to Adam is from Gen. 2:7; the reference to Christ is due to what he had done and was doing in His manifestation as divine Redeemer. From results the apostle proceeds to nature. Adam was simply a living being, Christ a life-giving Being. Thus Christ is called Adam to express His headship of a race. In this verse He is called the last Adam; in v. 47 the second Adam. In the former verse the apostle deals not so much with Christ’s relation to the first Adam as to the part He takes in relation to humanity, and His work on its behalf. When precisely Christ became life-giving is a matter of debate. Rom. 1:4 associates power with the resurrection as the time when Christ was constituted Son of God for the purpose of bestowing the force of divine grace. This gift of power was made available for His Church only through the ascension and the gift of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost. It is possible that the word “life-giving” may also include a reference to the resurrection of the body hereafter.

Paul uses the creation of man and woman in his argument for the subordination of woman (1 Tim. 2:13f.; cf. Gen. 2:7-25). This is no mere Jewish reasoning, but an inspired statement of the typical meaning of the passage in Genesis. The argument is a very similar one to that in 1 Cor. 11:8f. When the apostle states that “Adam was not beguiled,” we must apparently understand it as simply based on the text in Genesis to which he refers (3:13), in which Eve, not Adam, says, “The serpent beguiled me.” In Gal. 3:16 he reasons similarly from “seed” in the singular number, just as He. 7 reasons from the silence of Gen. 14 in regard to the parentage of Melchizedek. Paul does not deny that Adam was deceived, but is saying only that he was not directly deceived. His point is that Eve’s facility in yielding warrants the rule as to women keeping silence.

III. Conclusions.-Reviewing the use of “Adam” in the NT, one cannot fail to observe how Paul assumes that Adam was a historical personality, and that the record in Genesis was a record of facts, that sin and death were introduced into the world and affected the entire race as the penalty for the disobedience of one ancestor. Paul evidently takes it for granted that Adam knew and was responsible for what he was doing. Again, sin and death are regarded as connected; death obtains its moral quality from sin. Paul clearly believed that physical dissolution was due to sin, and that there is some causal connection between Adam and the human race in regard to physical death. While the reference in Rom. 5 to death as coming through sin is primarily to physical death, yet physical death is the expression and sign of the deeper idea of spiritual death. The clause "for that all sinned" (v. 12) establishes a causal connection between the sin of Adam and the death of all. The need of redemption is thus made by the apostle to rest on facts. We are bound to Adam by birth, and it is open to us to become bound to Christ by faith. Thus redemption is grounded on the teaching of Scripture, and confirmed by the uncontradicted facts of history and experience. Whether, therefore, the references to Adam in the NT are purely incidental, or elaborated in theological discussion, everything is evidently based on the record in Genesis.

保罗用男人和女人被造的顺序来论证女人的从属关系（提前 2:13-14；参：创 2:7-25）。这不只是犹太人的论证方式，也是受《创世记》中经文预表意义的启发所作的陈述。这个论据与《哥林多前书》11:8-9 中的论据非常类似。当使徒保罗说“不是亚当被引诱”，我们一定明白这是根据《创世记》的内容说的（创 3:13），夏娃而不是亚当说：“那蛇引诱我”。同样，在《加拉太书》3:16 中，保罗根据单数形式的“seed”（“子孙”）作了推论，正如《希伯来书》7 章根据《创世记》14 章没有提到麦基洗德的出身作了推论。保罗没有否定亚当被引诱，只是说他没有被直接引诱。他认为夏娃不禁诱惑的事实确立了女人顺从于她丈夫的原则。

III. 结论。如果人们回顾《新约》中“亚当”的用法，就不难发现保罗认为亚当是一个历史人物，而且《创世记》中的记载是事实，因着一位祖先的悖逆所有人都遭受了惩罚，使罪和死亡临到了世上。保罗显然认为亚当知道他做了什么，并且要为自己做的事负责。此外，罪和死亡被认为是相关联的；死亡是从罪而来。保罗显然相信肉体的死亡是因为罪，而亚当和人类之间在肉体的死亡上存在一定的因果联系。《罗马书》5 章提到的从罪

IV. Historicity of Adam.-The viewpoint that regards the account of Adam and his fall in Gen. 2f. as mythical and not historical, as story but not history (cf. Emil Brunner, Christian Doctrine of Creation and Redemption [Dogmatics, II, Eng. tr. 1952], pp. 46-74), or according to which Adam stands for all men, so that we are all Adam and Gen. 2f. is not history but saga (cf. Barth, CD, IV/1. pp. 504-513; Christ and Adam [Eng. tr. 1956]), is not complete with the NT teaching. The following data show how the historicity of Adam and of his fall as recorded in these chapters is assumed and interwoven with the doctrine that Our Lord and His apostles enunciate.

而来的死亡主要指的是肉体的死亡，而肉体死亡是更深层灵魂死亡观念的表达和标志。“因为众人都犯了罪”（罗 5:12）这个子句在亚当的罪和众人的死亡之间建立了因果联系。因此，使徒保罗认为救赎的需要依赖于事实。我们生来就与亚当连在一起，我们也可以通过信心与基督联合。因此救赎以《圣经》的教导为依据，并通过不容置疑的历史事实和经历来证实。因此，《新约》中提到的亚当是纯属偶然，还是在神学讨论中的详细阐述，每一件事显然都根据《创世记》的记载。

IV. 亚当的史实。有一种观点认为《创世记》2-3章关于亚当和亚当堕落的记载是虚构的故事，不是史实（参：Emil Brunner, Christian Doctrine of Creation and Redemption [Dogmatics, II, 1952年英译本], 46-74页），按照这种观点，亚当代表着全人类，所以我们都是亚当，《创世记》2-3章不是历史，而是传说（参：Barth, CD, IV/1. 504-513页 Christ and Adam [1956年英译本]），但是新约教义并没有表达这种观点。下面的数据说明了这些章节中记录的亚当和亚当堕落的史实性是如何与我们的主和祂的使徒宣讲的教义

In Mt. 19:4f.; Mk. 10:6-8 Jesus alludes to and quotes from Gen. 1:27;2:24. The appeal to these passages in order to contrast the Mosaic permission of divorce with the original ordinance, and thereby to enforce the high ethic of marriage, would have had no practical relevance if the passages in question did not concern and presuppose human relationships analogous to those existing in the situation with which Jesus was dealing.

In 1 Cor. 15:45, 47 Adam is spoken of as the first man and is contrasted with Christ as the second man. The parallelism and contrast demand for Adam as the first man a historical identity comparable to that of Christ Himself. Otherwise the basis of comparison and contrast is lost. Adam and Christ sustain unique relations to the human race, but in order to sustain these relations there must be to both such historical character as will make those relations possible and relevant. Lk. 3:38 draws strikingly to our attention something correlative with Adam's being the first man and standing in a unique relation to the human race. The genealogy goes back no further than Adam, and while all others are said to be the son of the forefather in each case, Adam is said to be the son of God; he did not come by human generation. Furthermore, the allusion to Gen. 2:7 in 1 Cor. 15:45, 47 is unmistakable; and Lk. 3:38 is explained by Gen. 2:7.

1 Tim. 2:13 alludes to Gen. 2:7, 20-23 and assumes the temporal sequence there indicated, a sequence that

在《马太福音》19:4-5；《马可福音》10:6-8中，耶稣提到并且引用了《创世记》1:27；2:24。耶稣引用这些经文是为了将摩西允许休妻与起初的规定进行对比，进而提倡崇高的婚姻道德，如果这些经文与基督当时教导的人类关系无关，且不以此为前提，那么这段引文就没有实际相关性。

《哥林多前书》15:45，47中称亚当为第一个人，与第二个人耶稣形成了对比。这种相似性和差异要求第一人亚当具有可与基督进行比较的历史身份。否则，就没了比较和对比的基础。亚当和基督都与人类维持着独特的关系，但是为了维系这些关系，这两位历史人物都必须使这些关系变得可能或有关联。《路加福音》3:38显然让我们注意到了一些使亚当成为第一个人并与人类建立独特关系的相关之物。耶稣的家谱到亚当为止，其他人都是这位人类祖先的子孙，而亚当被称为神的儿子；他不是从人来的。而且《哥林多前书》15:45，47引用的《创世记》2:7的内容是没有错误的；而《创世记》2:7解释了《路加福音》3:38的内容。

《提摩太前书》2:13暗指了《创世记》2:7，20-23，并接受了后两节经文中暗示出的时间顺序，一个以之前和

presupposes historicity both before and after. The reference in 1 Tim. 2:14 to Gen. 3:1–6, 13 demonstrates the acceptance of that narrative on Paul's part.

In Rom. 5:12–19 and 1 Cor. 15:22 the reign of sin, condemnation, and death is traced to the sin of Adam, and the reign of righteousness, justification, and life to the obedience of Christ. There is both parallelism and contrast. The sin of Adam is called the transgression, trespass, and disobedience of the one man. There can be no doubt as to the identity of the trespass in Paul's view; it is that of Gen. 3:19 (cf. 2:17). And the obedience of Christ is that unto death, even the death of the cross (Phil. 2:8). The latter was discharged in time, in the arena of history. To view the parallel and contrasted disobedience of the one Adam in nonhistorical terms is to wreck the structure of Paul's thought and therefore the doctrine set forth in these passages. The consequences for the plan of redemption are apparent.

All these considerations converge to show that the conception by which Adam and the narratives of Gen. 2f. are construed as mythical or legendary and therefore not historical is wholly alien to the NT.

在《罗马书》5:12-19 和《哥林多前书》15:22 中记载的罪的统治、审判和死亡都是源于亚当的罪，而公义的统治、称义和生命都是源于对耶稣基督的顺服。两者之间既有相似性也有差异。亚当的罪被称为那人的悖逆、过犯和不顺从。保罗显然认为众人因一人的过犯都被定了罪。《创世记》3:19 中也体现出这一点（参：创 2:17）。耶稣基督存心顺服，以至于死，且死在十字架上（腓 2:8）。耶稣基督在历史的舞台上完成了祂的顺服使命。如果从非史实的角度看待亚当的相似而又不同的不顺服，就破坏了保罗思想的结构，进而破坏了保罗在这几段经文中提出的教义。救赎计划的结局是显而易见的。

这些考虑因素集中体现出《新约》中根本没有这种思想，根据这种思想，《创世记》2-3 章中的亚当和故事都被视为神话或传说，因此被认为是不符合事实的。

Books pretending to give the life and deeds of Adam and other OT worthies existed in abundance among the Jews and the early Christians. The Talmud speaks of a Book of Adam, which is now lost, but which probably furnished some material that appears in early Christian writings.

The AV, following Greek texts, reads Adami and Nekeb as separate sites; and J. Simons (GTTOT, § 334) follows this reading, citing the reference to ngb in the great city-list of Thutmose III. The Hebrew, however, seems to require a single location, and the Vulgate supports this by translating Adami quae est Neceb, “Adami which is Neceb.”

Adami-nekeb is probably to be located at Khirbet Dâmiyeh, about 6 mi. (10 km.) NE of Mt. Tabor, on a trail leading from Kefr Kama to Harûs (in the direction of

ADDRESS; ADDRESSING

Often “addressing” is used in a compound verb phrase, following such combinations as “lifting up his voice,” and “turning to him.”

ADDRESS; ADDRESSING 话语、说话

【希腊语: laléō】(弗 5:19; 参: 林前 3:1); 《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》译为 SPEAKING (“说话”); 【希伯来语: 'āmar (拉 10:2; 诗 45:1); 希腊语: légō (来 7:21; 启 7:13), dialégomai (来 12:5), apokrinomai (徒 3:12), prosphonéō (路 23:20; 徒 22:2), apophthéngomai (徒 2:14)】; 《钦定版圣经》译为 SAY (“说”), ANSWER (“回答”); 《新英文译本》还译为 “meet with words” (“说话”)。所有 “addressing” (“说话”) 的例子都描绘了某个人自觉地与某个人或团体说某种话 (主要是口语, 而《诗篇》45:1; 《哥林多前书》3:1 是书面语)。“addressing” (“说话”) 常被用在复合动词词组中, 类似组合还有 “lifting up his voice” (“提高他的声音”) 和 “turning to him” (“对他说”)。

The single use of “addressing” (Eph. 5:19) parallels several other instances of laléō with the dative in contexts where the expression is further defined. Laléō denotes expressing oneself to someone (in contrast to remaining silent) in some form: e.g., in 1 Cor. 13:11, “expressing oneself like a child”; Rev.

“addressing” 的单独用法 (弗 5:19) 与具体语境中 laléō 加间接受格的其它用法类似。 Laléō 以某种形式表示对某人说话 (而不是保持沉默): 如, 《哥林多前书》13:11 中的 “expressing oneself like a child” (“话语像孩子”); 《启示录》13:11 中的 “speaking in a dragon-like manner”

13:11, “speaking in a dragon-like manner”; John 8:44, “expressing himself in a way which befits his demonic nature.” Similarly the “psalms and hymns and spiritual songs” in Eph. 5:19 describe the manner in which the members of the Ephesian church were to express themselves to each other.

Paul’s suggestion here about communicating with each other through music emerges from his concern that Christian exuberance be expressed in fitting ways. Instead of superficial camaraderie and aimless chatter, Paul points to the controlling Spirit as the genuine source of emotion, which results in expressions “with the heart”—not just the lips. While not ruling out spontaneous sharing (undoubtedly “spiritual songs” refer to expressions arising naturally from the Spirit), Paul recommends established psalms and hymns as well.

The breadth of the context (suggestions for practical Christianity) implies that the musical self-expressions of Eph. 5:19 are not being recommended simply as a liturgical practice. Moreover, the generality of laléō (no verb for “expression” is more frequently used in the NT), in contrast to the more specific “teaching and admonishing” of the parallel Col. 3:16, would indicate that Paul is advising this practice for all the types of circumstances that involved the Ephesian believers. Paul encourages Christians to express their spiritual feelings (especially victory and thanksgiving) to each other, one person singing to God in the presence of the others. (Cf. Tertullian Apol. 39.)

（“说话好像龙”）；《约翰福音》8:44 中的 “expressing himself in a way which befits his demonic nature”（“他说谎是出于自己”）。同样《以弗所书》5:19 中的“诗章、颂词、灵歌”描述了以弗所教会中众信徒对彼此说话的方式。

保罗希望基督徒以合宜的方式感情洋溢地进行表达，所以他建议基督徒用音乐彼此对说。保罗指出掌控的灵是情感的真实源泉，从而致使基督徒“用心”沟通，而不是只用嘴表达肤浅的弟兄情谊以及漫无目的唠叨。虽然不排除自发的共享（“灵歌”无疑指的是从灵里来的表达），但是保罗建议用诗章和颂词彼此沟通。

语境的范围（对实践的基督教的建议）暗示出《以弗所书》5:19 中音乐般的自我表达不仅仅被推荐为一种礼拜仪式习俗。此外，laléō 的普遍性（《新约》中最经常使用这个动词表示“说话”）表明，保罗建议以弗所的信徒在各种场合都要遵守这种习俗，这与平行经文《歌罗西书》3:16 中更为具体的“教导和劝戒”形成了对照。保罗鼓励基督徒向彼此表达属灵的情感（尤其是胜利和感谢），一个人要在另一个人面前称颂上帝（参：Tertullian Apol. 39）。

sons of Adin” (Ezr. 2:15; 8:6; Neh. 7:20; 10:16; 1 Esd. 5:14; 8:32), mentioned among the exiles who left Babylonia under Zerubbabel and Ezra to return to Jerusalem.

ADINA

ad'ə-nə, ə-dī'nə [Heb. “dinā’]. One of David’s “mighty men,” the son of Shiza the Reubenite (1 Ch. 11:42). This is in that part of the list of David’s mighty men in which the Chronicler supplements the list given in 2 Samuel.

ad'ə-nō, ə-dī'nō [Heb. “adinō”]; RSV and NEB omit. In the AV, the senior of David’s “mighty men.” “Joshebbasshebeth a Tachmonite, chief of the captains; the same was Adino the Eznite, against eight hundred slain at one time” (2 S. 23:8). This very exact rendering makes it evident even to an English reader that the text is imperfect. Ginsburg (New Massoretico-Critical Text of the Hebrew Bible [1896]) offers a corrected form taken substantially from the parallel passage in 1 Ch. 11:11: “Jashobeam a son of a Hachmonite, chief of the captains; he lifted up his spear.” This is plausible, and is very generally accepted (cf. RSV, NEB); and it eliminates the names Adino and Eznite, which do not occur elsewhere in the Bible. Some of the facts are against this. The LXX has the names Adino and Eznite. The Latin finds no proper names in the passage, but so translates the words as to presuppose the Hebrew text as we have it.

ADINUS (“亚丁”，拉一 5:14)。某家族的名字，“亚丁的子孙”（拉 2:25；8:6；尼 7:20；10:16；拉一 5:14；8:32），在所罗巴伯和以斯拉的带领下从巴比伦归回耶路撒冷的一个家族。

音译：ad'ə-nə, ə-dī'nə【希伯来语：“dinā’】。大卫的“勇士”之一，流便人示撒的儿子（代上 11:42）。这个名字出现在大卫的勇士名单中，《历代志》补充了《撒母耳记下》中给出的勇士名单。

ADINO 亚底挪

音译：ad'ə-nō, ə-dī'nō【希伯来语：“adinō”】；《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》中省略了这个词。在《钦定版圣经》中，亚底挪是大卫“勇士”中的长者，“他革门人约设巴设，又称伊斯尼人亚底挪，他是军长的统领，一时击杀了八百人”（撒下 23:8）。甚至对于英语读者来说，这个准确的翻译显然说明这个文本是不完美的。金斯伯格（New Massoretico-Critical Text of the Hebrew Bible [1896]）根据平行经文《历代志上》11:11 提供了一个正确的翻译：“哈革摩尼的儿子雅朔班，他是军长的统领，一时举枪”。这段描述貌似合理，并被普遍接受（参：《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》）；而且删除了伊斯尼人（Eznite）和亚底挪（Adino）这两个名字，而这两个名字在《圣经》其他章节没有出现过。《七十士译本》中出现了伊斯尼人和亚底挪这两个名字。拉丁语译本中找不到这两个专有名词，而是依照我们手头的希伯来语文本翻译了这两个词。

The texts concerning David’s mighty men are fragmentary both in Samuel and in Chronicles. If they were more complete they would perhaps make it clear that the three seniors were comrades of David at Pas-dammim (Ephesdammim) (1 Ch. 11:13; 1 S. 17:1), and that we have in them additional details concerning that battle. The record says that on the death of Goliath the Philistines fled and the Israelites pursued (1 S. 17:52ff.); but it is not improbable that during the retreat, portions of the Philistine force rallied, so that there was strenuous fighting.

ADMIN 亚当民

音译：ad'min 【希腊语：Admin】（《修订标准译本》，路 3:33）；《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》省略了这个名字。耶稣的一个祖先，一些抄本删除了这个词（如：《亚历山太抄本》《伯撒抄本》《纪土宾》Δ Ψ），但是在几部早期的抄本中可找到这个名字（如：p⁴《西奈抄本》《梵蒂冈抄本》）。

ADMINISTRATORS 治理事的、管理人的

【希腊语：kybérnēsis——“掌舵的”】（林前 12:28）；《钦定版圣经》译为 GOVERNMENTS（“治理事的”）；《新英文译本》译为 “those who have ... power to guide (others)”（“管理人的”）。

(see TDNT, III, s.v. κυβέρνησις[Beyer]). In the LXX it translates Heb. taḥbulōt (Prov. 1:5; 11:14; 24:6), and is variously rendered: “counsel” or “wise counsel” by the AV; “skill” or “guidance” by the RSV; “skill” or “skilful strategy” by the NEB.

ADMIRATION

ADMONISH

[Heb. ’ūd; Gk. nouthetéō]; AV also PROTEST (1 K. 2:42), TESTIFY (Ps. 81:8), WARN; NEB also “give solemn warning” (1 K. 2:42), “give a solemn charge” (Ps. 81:8), COUNSEL (Acts 20:31), “bring to reason” (1 Cor. 4:14), etc.; ADMONISHING [Gk. nouthesia] (Tit. 3:10); AV ADMONITION; NEB WARN; ADMONITION [Heb. tōkaḥat] (Prov. 15:5, 31f.); AV, NEB, REPROOF [mō’ēšōt] (Prov. 22:20); AV COUNSEL; NEB WISE ADVICE. The biblical usage is that of warning or guidance given to persons through a reminder of certain principles by which they should be living (Ps. 81:8; Prov. 15:5, 31). If such counsel is heeded it will bring prosperity (cf. 1 K. 3:14), since the instruction is directed to a positive end (1 Cor. 4:14; 10:11) for the edification of the hearer. Admonition is not condemnation, and when it adduces the biblical principles for Christian living it forms a valuable element in spiritual discipline.

Kybernēsis 可能指“管理”会众的天赋，或拥有这种天赋的人（见 TDNT, III, 见词条 κυβέρνησις[Beyer]）。《七十士译本》中用这个希腊词语翻译希伯来语 taḥbulōt（箴 1:5；11:14；24:6），这个词有许多不同的翻译：《钦定版圣经》译为“counsel”（“出主意的”）或“wise counsel”（“智谋”）；《修订标准译本》译为“skill”（“智谋”）或“guidance”（“智谋”）；《新英文译本》译为“skill”（“智谋”）或“skilful strategy”（“智谋”）。

ADMIRATION 赞叹、赞美

见 MARVEL（诧异、奇妙、稀奇）。

ADMONISH 警戒、劝戒、警告、警醒

【希伯来语：’ūd；希腊语：nouthetéō】；《钦定版圣经》还译为 PROTEST（“警戒”）（王上 2:42），TESTIFY（“劝戒”）（诗 81:8），WARN（“劝告”）；《新英文译本》还以为“give solemn warning”（“警告”），“give a solemn charge”（“劝戒”）（诗 81:8），COUNSEL（“警醒”）（徒 20:31），“bring to reason”（“警戒”）（林前 4:14）等；ADMONISHING（“劝戒”）【希腊语：nouthesia】（多 3:10）；《钦定版圣经》译为 ADMONITION（“警戒”）；《新英文译本》译为 WARN（“警告”）；ADMONITION（“告戒”）【希伯来语：tōkaḥat】（箴 15:5，31-32）；《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》译为 REPROOF（“责备”）【mō’ēšōt】（箴 22:20）；《钦定版圣经》译为 COUNSEL（“谋略”）；《新英文译本》译为 WISE ADVICE（“智谋”）。《圣经》中用这些词表示通过提醒人们遵守某些行为准则来劝戒人或管教人（诗 81:8；

箴 15:5, 31)。如果接受这样的劝戒，将会带来富足（参：王上 3:14），因为这些教导会使听者受到启发，并为他们带来益处（林前 4:14；10:11）。警告不是定罪，当以《圣经》中基督徒的生活原则为例发出警告时，这种警告就构成了属灵管教的重要组成部分。

ə-dō-nī-be'zek [Heb. 'adōnībezeq—'lord of Bezek']. The chief of a town, Bezek, in southern Palestine, whom the tribes of Judah and Simeon overthrew. 1. The fourth son of David, born in Hebron, who attempted to become king (2 S. 3:4; 1 Ch. 3:2; 1 K. 1-2).

Aside from Chileab, Adonijah was the oldest living son in David's last days. During this period Adonijah built up an entourage (1 K. 1:5) and solicited the support of Abiathar the priest and Joab the army commander (1 K. 1:7; 2:22). Just before David died Adonijah made a feast for his supporters at En-rogel, doubtless expecting to conclude it with a coronation ceremony. However, Nathan and Bathsheba secured the succession for Solomon, who was promptly anointed by Zadok the priest at Gihon, near En-rogel. Adonijah and his followers heard the noise and fled from the festal assembly,

ə-dō'nis. A Syro-Phoenician vegetation deity who had a cultic center at Byblos beside the river Adonis (Nahr Ibrahim). The name occurs in Isa. 17:10 in the ERV mg. ("plantings of Adonis") and in the NEB ("gardens in honor of Adonis"). The AV, RV, and RSV have "pleasant plants."

A connection of this passage with the cult of Adonis was seen by, among others, Snijders (Oudtestamentische Studiën, 10 [1954], 46), who compares Heb. na "manim with Ugar. n'mn (see 2 Aqhat 6:45); in both cases the meaning is "the desirable one," which then is regarded as a reference to Adonis. See also KoB, p. 622, and references.

ADONI-ZEDEK

ə-dō-nī-zē'dek [Heb. ādōnīšedeq—"my Lord is righteousness (or 'Zedek')"]. The king of Jerusalem at the time of the conquest of Canaan (Josh. 10:1).

When he heard of the fall of Ai and the submission of the Gibeonites, he entered into a league with four other kings to resist Joshua and Israel, and to punish Gibeon (Josh. 10:3f.), but was overthrown by Joshua in a memorable battle (vv. 12–14). Adoni-zedek and his four allies were shut up in a cave, while the battle lasted, and afterward were taken out by Joshua's order, put to death, and hanged on trees (Josh. 10:22–27).

ADOPTION; SONSHIP

ADONIS 阿多尼斯

斯尼德斯（Snijders）等人看到了这节经文与阿多尼斯崇拜的联系（Oudtestamentische Studiën, 10 [1954], 46），斯尼德斯还将希伯来语 na "manim 与乌加里特语 n'mn 进行了对比（见 2 Aqhat 6:45）；这两个词都有“佳美的树秧子”的含义，后来被认为指的是阿多尼斯。另见 KoB, 622 页和参考文献。

ADONI-ZEDEK 亚多尼洗德

音译：ə-dō-nī-zē'dek 【希伯来语：ādōnīšedeq——“我主是正义（或“洗德”）”】。征服迦南时期耶路撒冷的国王（书 10:1）。

当他听说艾城沦陷和基遍人投降时，他与其他四位王联合抵抗约书亚和以色列，并攻打基遍（书 10:3-4），但是他们在这场值得纪念的战争中被约书亚打败（书 10:12-14）。战争持续期间，亚多尼洗德和四王藏匿在一个山洞中，后来被约书亚下令搜获处死，悬尸于树（书 10:22-27）。

in the Bible only in Paul's Epistles (Rom. 8:15, 23; 9:4; Gal. 4:5; Eph. 1:5); for extrabiblical usage see MM, pp. 648f. The AV and RV have "adoption" throughout. The RSV has "adoption" in Rom. 8:23; Gal. 4:5, and "sonship" in Rom. 8:15; 9:4; in Eph. 1:5 the RSV reads "to be his sons." The NEB in each instance uses a phrase such as "to make us sons" or "to attain the status of sons."

只有保罗书信中用到了这个词（罗 8:15, 23; 9:4; 加 4:5; 弗 1:5）；关于这个词在《圣经》之外的用法，见默尔顿和米利根（Moulton 和 Milligan, The Vocabulary of the Greek New Testament），648-649 页。《钦定版圣经》和《修订译本》自始至终都将这个希腊词译为“adoption”（“嗣子”）。《修订标准译本》在《罗马书》8:23 和《加拉太书》4:5 中将这个词译为“adoption”（“后嗣”）；在《罗马书》8:15；9:4 中译为“sonship”（“儿子的名分”）；在《以弗所书》1:5 中译为“to be his sons”（“作祂的儿子”）。《新英文译本》在上述情况下则译成短语“to make us sons”（“作儿子”）或“to attain the status of sons”（“得儿子的名分”）。

A. 在《旧约》中的用法。《旧约》中

mentioned: of Moses (Ex. 2:10), Genubath (1 K. 11:20), and Esther (Est. 2:7, 15); but it is remarkable that they all occur outside of Palestine—in Egypt and Persia, where the practice of adoption prevailed. Likewise the idea appears in the NT only in the Epistles of Paul, which were addressed to churches outside Palestine.

The motive and initiative of adoption always lay with the adoptive father, who thus supplied his lack of natural offspring and satisfied the claims of affection and religion, and the desire to exercise paternal authority or to perpetuate his family. The process and conditions of adoption varied with different peoples. Among oriental nations it was extended to slaves (as Moses), who thereby gained their freedom; but in Greece and Rome it was, with rare exceptions, limited to citizens.

B. Greek. In Greece a man might during his lifetime, or by will, to take effect after his death, adopt any male citizen into the privileges of his son, but with the invariable condition that the adopted son accepted the legal obligations and religious duties of a real son.

C. Roman. In Rome the unique nature of paternal authority (patria potestas), by which a son was held in his father's power, almost as a slave was owned by his master, gave a peculiar character to the process of adoption. For the adoption of a person free from paternal authority (sui juris), the process and effect were practically the same in Rome as in Greece (adrogatio). In a more specific sense, adoption proper (adoptio) was the 提到了三个关于收养儿子的例子：收养摩西（出 2:10），收养基努拔（王上 11:20），和收养伊斯帖（斯 2:7, 15）；但是值得注意的是，这些事都发生在巴勒斯坦境外，发生在收养习俗盛行的埃及和波斯地区。同样地，在《新约》中，似乎只有保罗写给巴勒斯坦境外教会的书信中提到了这种习俗。 process by which a person was transferred from his natural father's power into that of his adoptive father; and it consisted in a fictitious sale of the son, and his surrender by the natural to the adoptive father.

收养的动机首先源于养父，养父没有自己的子嗣，所以选择收养，收养满足了养父的情感和宗教需求，养父渴望行使父亲的权利或延续家族的生命。不同民族的收养程序和条件有所不同。在东方列国中，甚至可以收养奴隶（如：摩西），从而使收养人得自由；但是在希腊和罗马，只限于收养城中的民众（除了极少数的例外情况）。

*B. 希腊人的习俗。*在希腊，一个人可以在他活着时或通过遗嘱收养任何一位城中的男子作他的儿子，但是嗣子要承担亲生儿子的责任和宗教职责，这是始终不变的收养条件。

*C. 罗马人的习俗。*在罗马，父权（patria potestas）的独特性使父亲有权掌控儿子，差不多就像主人拥有奴隶那样；父亲权力的独特性赋予了收养过程一种独特的性质。对于使一个人失去父权（sui juris）的收养，收养的过程和影响在罗马和希腊实际上是一样的（adrogatio）。具体地说，收养（adoptio）就是将一个人从他的亲生父亲的权柄下转移到他养父的权柄下；收养是一种虚构的卖子交易，亲

II. Paul's Doctrine.-As a Roman citizen the apostle would naturally know of the Roman custom; but in the cosmopolitan city of Tarsus, and again on his travels, he would become equally familiar with the corresponding customs of other nations. He employed the idea metaphorically much in the manner of Christ's parables; and, as in their case, there is danger of pressing the analogy too far in its details. It is not clear that he had any specific form of adoption in mind when illustrating his teaching by the general idea. Under this Figure he teaches that God, by the manifestation of His grace in Christ, brings men into the relation of sons to Himself, and communicates to them the experience of sonship.

A. Liberty (Galatians). In Galatians Paul emphasizes especially the liberty enjoyed by those who live by faith, in contrast to the bondage under which men are held who guide their lives by legal ceremonies and ordinances, as the Galatians were prone to do (5:1). The contrast between law and faith is first set forth on the field of history, as a contrast between both the pre-Christian and the Christian economies (3:23f.), although in another passage he carries the idea of adoption back into the covenant relation of God with Israel (Rom. 9:4). But here the historical antithesis is reproduced in the contrast between men who now choose to live under law and those who live by faith.

II. 保罗的教义。作为罗马市民，使徒保罗自然了解罗马的习俗；但是保罗生在大数这样的大都会中，且后来四处传道，他一定也非常熟悉其他的民族的收养习俗。他效法基督，也用比喻表达了这一概念；耶稣和保罗都认为不应将比喻说得太详细。当保罗用收养的普通概念阐述他的教义时，他心中显然没有任何具体的收养形式。他用比喻教导说，上帝藉着耶稣基督显明祂的恩典，使人得祂儿子的名分，并向他们传达儿子名分的经历。

A. 自由（《加拉太书》）。在《加拉太书》中，保罗特别强调了那些存着信心生活的人所享有的自由，这种自由与那些依照律法礼节和条例而生活的人所受到的挟制形成了对比，加拉太人有受律法礼节和条例挟制的倾向（加 5:1）。律法和信心的对比首先在历史领域被提了出来，正如基督未来以前的道和基督来到后的道的对比也首先在历史领域被提了出来（加 3:23-24），但是，在另一节经文中，保罗用儿子的名分表达了上帝与以色列之间的圣约关系（罗 9:4）。而这里通过对比现在依律法生活的人和靠信心生活的人再现了这种历史对照。

Here three figures seem to commingle in the description of man's condition under legal bondage—that of a slave, that of a minor under guardians appointed by his father's will, and that of a Roman son under the patria potestas (Gal. 4:1–3). The process of liberation is first of all one of redemption or buying out (Gk. exagorásē) (4:5). This term in itself applies equally well to the slave who is redeemed from bondage, and the Roman son whose adoptive father buys him out of the authority of his natural father. But in the latter case the condition of the son is not materially altered by the process: he only exchanges one paternal authority for another. If Paul for a moment thought of the process in terms of ordinary Roman adoption, the resulting condition of the son he conceives in terms of the more free and gracious Greek or Jewish family life. Or he may have thought of the rarer case of adoption from conditions of slavery into the status of sonship. The redemption is only a precondition of adoption, which follows upon faith, and is accompanied by the sending of “the Spirit of his Son into our hearts, crying, Abba, Father,” and then all bondage is done away (4:5–7).

B. Deliverance from Debt (Romans). In Rom. 8:12–17 the idea of obligation or debt is coupled with that of liberty. Man is thought of as at one time under the authority and power of the flesh (8:5), but when the Spirit of Christ comes to dwell in him, he is a debtor no longer to the flesh but to the Spirit (vv. 12f.), and debt or obligation to the Spirit is itself liberty. As in Galatians, man thus passes from a state of bondage into a state of sonship which is also a state of liberty. "For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, these [and these only] are sons of God" (v. 14). The spirit of adoption or sonship stands in diametrical opposition to the spirit of bondage (v. 15). And the Spirit to which we are debtors and by which we are led, at once awakens and confirms the experience of sonship within us (v. 16). In both places, Paul conveys under this figure the idea of man as passing from a state of alienation from God and of bondage under law and sin, into that relation with God of mutual confidence and love, of unity of thought and will, which should characterize the ideal family, and in which all restraint, compulsion, and fear have passed away.

B. 从债中解放出来（《罗马书》）。 在《罗马书》8:12-17 中，债或罪的理念与自由的理念相结合。人曾经一度受肉体的掌控（罗 8:5），但是当耶稣基督的圣灵住进他里面，他就不再欠肉体的债，而是欠圣灵的债（罗 8:12-13），而欠圣灵的债或对圣灵的责任本身就是一种自由。就像《加拉太书》中描述的那样，因此人从奴仆变

III. The Christian Experience.-As a fact of Christian experience, the adoption is the recognition and affirmation by man of his sonship toward God. It follows upon faith in Christ, by which man becomes so united with Christ that His filial spirit enters into him, and takes possession of his consciousness, so that he knows and greets God as Christ does (cf. Mk. 14:36).

A. In Relation to Justification. It is an aspect of the same experience that Paul describes elsewhere, under another legal metaphor, as justification by faith. According to the latter, God declares the sinner righteous and treats him as such, admits him to the experience of forgiveness, reconciliation, and peace (Rom. 5:1). In all this the relation of father and son is undoubtedly involved, but in adoption it is emphatically expressed. It is not only that the prodigal son is welcomed home, glad to confess that he is not worthy to be called a son, and willing to be made as one of the hired servants, but he is embraced and restored to be a son as before. The point of each metaphor is, that justification is the act of a merciful judge setting the prisoner free, but adoption is the act of a generous father, taking a son to his bosom and endowing him with liberty, favor, and a heritage.

成了儿子，也就是获得了自由。“因此凡被神的灵引导的，都是神的儿子”（罗 8:14）。儿子的心与奴仆的心截然不同（罗 8:15）。我们都欠圣灵的债，并受圣灵的引导，圣灵突然唤醒我们，与我们的内心同证我们是神的儿女（罗 8:16）。在两处经文中，保罗通过儿子的名分传达这样一种观念，人摆脱了疏远神和受律法和罪奴役的状态，确立了与神互信互爱的关系，在心思和意念上与神联合，这也是理想家庭的特征，并且因此摆脱了所有的束缚、冲动和恐惧。

III. 基督徒的宗教经历。儿子的名分作为基督徒经历的一种现实，是对上帝儿子身份的认可和肯定。即得了儿子的名分，就信靠基督，并在基督里成为一体，圣子的心进入人里面，掌控人的意识，人就有了祂的意识，因此人如基督一样认识神并呼唤神（参：可 14:36）。

B. In Relation to Sanctification. Besides, justification is the beginning of a process which needs for its completion a progressive course of sanctification by the aid of the Holy Spirit, but adoption is coextensive with sanctification. The sons of God are those led by the Spirit of God (Rom. 8:14), and the same Spirit of God gives the experience of sonship. Sanctification describes the process of general cleansing and growth as an abstract process, but adoption includes it as a concrete relation to God, as loyalty, obedience, and fellowship with an ever loving Father.

C. In Relation to Regeneration. Some have identified adoption with regeneration, and therefore many Fathers and Roman Catholic theologians have identified it with baptismal regeneration, thereby excluding the essential fact of conscious sonship. The new birth and adoption are certainly aspects of the same totality of experience; but they belong to different systems of thought, and to identify them is to invite confusion. The new birth defines especially the origin and moral quality of the Christian experience as an abstract fact, but

B. 与成圣的关系。此外，称义是一个人在圣灵的指引下逐渐成圣的开始，而儿子的名分与成圣共存。神的儿子受神的灵的引导（罗 8:14），神的灵同样给他们儿子名分的体验。成圣将一般洁净和成长的过程描述成抽象的过程，儿子的名分则包含了儿子们与父神的具体关系，如对永远的慈父的忠诚、顺服和与祂相交。

C. 与重生的关系。有人认为得儿子的名分就是重生，因此许多教父和罗马天主教神学家认为得儿子的名分就是洗礼重生，从而排除了有意识儿子名分的基本事实。新生和儿子的名分必定是相同经历的组成部分；但是他们属于不同的思想体系，等同视之将会使人产生困惑。尤其是，新生将基督徒经历的起源和道德品质定义为一种抽象的事实，但是儿子的名分表达的是世人与上帝之间的具体关系。保罗在这里并没有提出人类天生身份和原始身份的问题。如果从关于儿子名分的教义中推断出世人生来就是上帝的 adoption expresses a concrete relation of man to God. Nor does Paul here raise the question of man's natural and original condition. It is pressing the analogy too far to infer from this doctrine of adoption that man is by nature not God's son. It would contradict Paul's teaching elsewhere (e.g., Acts 17:28), and he should not be convicted of inconsistency on the application of a metaphor. He conceives man outside Christ as morally an alien and a stranger from God, and the change wrought by faith in Christ makes him morally a son and conscious of his sonship; but naturally he is always a potential son because God is always a real father.

IV. As God's Act. Adoption as God's act is an eternal process of His gracious love, for He "foreordained us unto adoption as sons through Jesus Christ unto himself, according to the good pleasure of his will" (Eph. 1:5).

A. Divine Fatherhood. The motive and impulse of Fatherhood which result in adoption were eternally real and active in God. In some sense He had bestowed the adoption upon Israel (Rom. 9:4). "Israel is my son, my first-born" (Ex. 4:22; cf. Dt. 14:1; 32:6; Jer. 31:9; Hos. 11:1). God could not reveal Himself at all without revealing something of His Fatherhood, but the whole revelation was as yet partial and prophetic. When "God sent forth his Son" to "redeem them that were under the law," it became possible for men to receive the adoption; for to those who are willing to receive it, He sent the Spirit of the eternal Son to testify in their hearts that they are sons of God, and to give them confidence and

IV. 上帝的作为。因上帝的作为和祂的仁慈之爱，我们被祂收为永恒的嗣子，因为祂“按着自己的意旨所喜悦的，预定我们藉着耶稣基督的儿子的名分”（弗 1:5）。

*A. 神圣的父权。*上帝永远愿意作一名父亲，这个动机和冲动促使祂将我们收为嗣子。从某种意义上说，祂赐予以色列儿子的名分（罗 9:4）。“以色列是我的儿子，我的长子”（出 4:22；参：申 14:1；32:6；耶 31:9；何 11:1）。上帝不显明祂作父亲的身份就不能完全显示祂自己，但是到目前为止，上帝仍然向部分人并以预言的方式完全显明祂自己。当“神差遣祂的儿子”去“赎回在律法以下的人”时，人类就有可能得着儿子的名分；而对于那些愿意接受这名分的人，上帝派永恒圣子的灵与他们的心同证他们是神的儿女，并赐他们信心，从而使他们称呼祂为父（加 4:5-6；罗 8:15）。 utterance to enable them to call God their Father (Gal. 4:5f.; Rom. 8:15).

B. Its Cosmic Range. But this experience also is incomplete, and looks forward to a fuller adoption in the response, not only of man's spirit, but of the whole creation, including man's body, to the Fatherhood of God (Rom. 8:23). Every filial spirit now groans, because it finds itself imprisoned in a body subjected to vanity, but it awaits a redemption of the body, perhaps in the resurrection, or in some final consummation, when the whole material creation shall be transformed into a fitting environment for the sons of God, the creation itself delivered from the bondage of corruption into the liberty of the glory of the children of God (Rom. 8:21). Then will adoption be complete, when man's whole personality shall be in harmony with the spirit of sonship, and the whole universe favorable to its perseverance in a state of blessedness.

B. 儿子名分的宇宙范围。但是这个经历也是不完整的，人类以及所有的受造物（包括人的肉体）盼望在回应上帝的父亲身份时得着更完全的儿子名分（罗 8:23）。所有儿女现在都在叹息，因为他们发现自己的肉体服在虚空之下，却在等候身体被赎出，可能发生在复活时，或最终圆满之时，那时所有受造之物将被更新，适于作神的儿女，将脱离败坏的辖制，得享神儿女的荣耀（罗 8:21）。那时儿子的名分就完全了，人的所有品行将与儿子名分的心和谐一致，全宇宙在福音里永恒延续。

ADORATION

[<Lat. adorare—(1) ‘speak to,’ (2) ‘entreat,’ (3) ‘do homage, worship’ < os (oris)—‘mouth’ (from Roman practice of kissing the hand as a token of homage?)].

ADORATION 崇拜、崇敬

【源自拉丁语：adorare——（1）“说”，（2）“恳求”，（3）“尊敬、敬拜”，源自 os (oris)—“嘴”（按照罗马人的习俗，亲吻别人的手可能表现出对别人的敬意）】。

I. Meaning.—Adoration is intense admiration culminating in reverence and worship, together with the outward acts and attitudes which accompany such reverence. It thus includes both the subjective sentiments, or feelings of the soul, in the presence of some superior

I. 含义。崇敬是一种强烈的赞美，是敬畏和崇拜的最高表达方式，并伴随着外在的行为和态度。因此，崇敬既包括面对崇拜对象和人物时的主观情绪或情感，又包括崇拜之情或敬畏之心的外在肢体表达。从广义上讲，崇敬不仅包括对上帝的敬畏，也包括对 object or person, and the appropriate physical expressions of such sentiments in outward acts of homage or of worship. In its widest sense it includes reverence to beings other than God, especially to monarchs, who in oriental countries were regarded with feelings of awe. But it finds its highest expression in religion.

Adoration is perhaps the highest type of worship, involving the reverent and rapt contemplation of the divine perfections and prerogatives, the acknowledgment of them in words of praise, together with the visible symbols and postures that express the adoring attitude of the creature in the presence of his Creator. It is the expression of the soul's mystical realization of God's presence in His transcendent greatness, holiness, and lovingkindness. As a form of prayer, adoration is to be distinguished from other forms, such as petition, thanksgiving, confession, and intercession.

II. Outward Postures.-In the OT and NT, these are similar to those which prevailed in all oriental countries, as amply illustrated by the monuments of Egypt and Assyria, and by the customs still in use among the nations of the East. The chief attitudes referred to in the Bible are the following:

A. Prostration. Among the Orientals, especially Persians, prostration (i.e., falling upon the knees, then gradually inclining the body, until the forehead touched the ground) was common as an expression of profound reverence and humility before a superior or a benefactor. It was practiced in the

崇拜可能是敬拜的最高形式，既包括对神圣至美之物和特权的虔诚而又专注的默祷，也包括以赞美之言所表达的感谢，还包括在造物主面前表达崇拜之情时看得见的符号和姿势。崇敬是神奇地领悟到上帝的大能、圣洁和慈爱时的表达。崇拜作为祷告的一种形式，不同于其他的祷告形式（如，祈求、感恩、认罪和代祷）。

II. 外在的敬拜姿势。《旧约》和《新约》中的敬拜的姿势类似于东方列国流行的敬拜姿势，埃及和亚述的纪念碑以及东方列国延续的习俗充分展现了这些外在的敬拜姿势。《圣经》中提到的主要敬拜姿势如下：

A. 俯伏于地。东方人，尤其是波斯人通常以俯伏于地（也就是双膝跪下，然后身体慢慢前倾，直到头碰到地）来表示对上级或恩主深深的崇拜和谦卑。在敬拜耶和华（创 17:3；民 16:45；太 26:30，耶稣在客西马尼；启 1:17）和偶像（王下 5:18；但 3:5-7）时要俯伏于地，但是这绝不仅仅是一

worship of Yahweh (Gen. 17:3; Nu. 16:45; Mt. 26:30, Jesus in Gethsemane; Rev. 1:17), and of idols (2 K. 5:18; Dnl. 3:5f.), but was by no means confined to religious exercises. It was the formal method of supplicating or doing obeisance to a superior (e.g., 1 S. 25:23f.; 2 K. 4:37; Est. 8:3; Mk. 5:22; Jn. 11:32).

B. Kneeling. A substitution for prostration was kneeling, a common attitude in worship, frequently mentioned in the OT and NT (e.g., 1 K. 8:54; Ezr. 9:5; Ps. 95:6; Isa. 45:23; Lk. 22:41, Jesus in Gethsemane; Acts 7:60; Eph. 3:14). The same attitude was sometimes adopted in paying homage to a fellow creature, as in 2 K. 1:13. "Sitting" as an attitude of prayer (only 2 S. 7:18; 1 Ch. 17:16) was probably a form of kneeling, as in Moslem worship.

C. Standing. This was the usual posture in prayer, like that of modern Jews in public worship. Abraham "stood before the Lord" when he interceded for Sodom (Gen. 18:22). Cf. 1 S. 1:26. The Pharisee in the parable "stood and prayed" (Lk. 18:11), and the hypocrites are said to "pray standing in the synagogues, and in the corners of the streets" (Mt. 6:5).

D. The Hands. These postures were accompanied by various attitudes of the hands, which were either lifted up toward heaven (Ps. 63:4; 1 Tim. 2:8) or outspread (Ex. 9:29; Ezr. 9:5; Isa. 1:15), or both (1 K. 8:54).

E. Kiss of Adoration. The heathen practice of kissing hands to the heavenly bodies as a sign of adoration is referred to

种宗教习俗。俯伏于地是一种向上级发出恳求或表达敬意的正式方式（如，撒上 23:23-24；王下 4:37；斯 8:3；可 5:22；约 11:32）。

B. 跪拜。跪拜可替代俯伏于地，也是敬拜的一种常见姿势，在《旧约》和《新约》中常常被提及（如，王上 8:54；拉 9:5；诗 95:6；赛 45:23；路 22:41，耶稣在客西马尼；徒 7:60；弗 3:14）。正如《列王纪下》1:13 中所记载的，有时也可以通过向另一个人跪拜来表达对这个人的敬意。“坐”作为一种祷告的姿势（仅在撒下 7:18；代上 17:16），可能是跪拜的一种形式，穆斯林就采用这种祷告姿势。

C. 站立。这是一种常见的祷告姿势，现代犹太人在公开敬拜时都用站立的姿势。亚伯拉罕为所多玛代求时“站在耶和华面前”（创 18:22）。参《撒母耳记上》1:26。比喻中的法利赛人“站着祷告”（路 18:11），而假冒为善的人据说“站在会堂里和十字路口上祷告”（太 6:5）。

D. 手势。这些祷告姿势可能还伴随着各种手势，要么将手举起朝向天空（诗 63:4；提前 2:8），要么张开双手（出 9:29；拉 9:5；赛 1:15），要么向天举起张开的双手（王上 8:54）。

E. 亲吻敬拜。《约伯记》31:27 中提到了崇拜天体时亲手这种异教习俗，《列王纪上》19:18 和《何西阿书》

in Job 31:27, and of kissing the idol in 1 K. 19:18; Hos. 13:2. The kiss of homage is mentioned in Ps. 2:12, if the text there is correct. Kissing hands to the object of adoration was customary among the Romans (Pliny Nat. hist. xxviii.5 [25]). The NT word for “worship” (Gk. proskynéō) means literally “kiss before.” See also POSTURES.

III. Objects of Adoration.—The only adequate object of adoration is the Supreme Being. He only who is the sum of all perfections can fully satisfy man’s instincts of reverence, and elicit the complete homage of his soul.

A. Fellow Creatures. Yet, as already suggested, the crude beginnings of religious adoration are to be found in the respect paid to created beings regarded as possessing superior claims and powers, especially to kings and rulers. As examples we may mention the woman of Tekoa falling on her face to do obeisance to King David (2 S. 14:4), and the king’s servants bowing down to do reverence to Haman (Est. 3:2). Cf. Ruth 2:10; 1 S. 20:41; 2 S. 1:2; 14:22.

13:2 中提到了与偶像亲嘴。如果文本记载无误,《诗篇》2:12 中提到了致敬之吻。亲手表示崇拜是罗马人的一种习俗 (Pliny Nat. hist. xxviii.5 [25])。《新约》中表示“敬拜”的词(希腊语: proskynéō)的字面意思是“亲吻”。另见 POSTURES (姿势)。

III. 崇拜的对象。唯一配受崇拜的对象就是上帝。祂是唯一的尽善尽美者,能完全满足人敬拜的天性,值得人类给予祂最高的敬意。

*A. 人类。*然而,正如之前提到的那样,人类在宗教崇拜的原始阶段崇拜受造物,尤其是崇拜国王或统治者,并认为他们拥有出众的权柄和能力。例如,提哥亚妇人到王面前叩拜(撒下 14:4),在朝门的一切臣仆都跪拜哈曼(斯 3:2)。参《路得记》2:10;《撒母耳记上》20:41;《撒母耳记下》1:2; 14:22。

B. Material Objects. On a higher plane, as involving some recognition of divinity, is the homage paid to august and mysterious objects in nature or to phenomena in the physical world which were supposed to have some divine significance. To give reverence to material objects themselves is condemned throughout the OT as idolatry. Such is the case, e.g., with the worship of “the host of heaven” (the heavenly bodies) sometimes practiced by the Hebrews (2 K. 17:16; 21:3, 5). So Job protests that he never proved false to God by kissing hands to the sun and moon in token of adoration (Job 31:26–38). The OT refers to acts of homage paid to an idol or an image, such as falling down before it (Isa.

B. 实物。从更高层面上讲，人们还崇拜自然界那些令人敬畏的神秘事物或物质世界那些具有一定神圣意义的现象，并承认这些事物或现象具有神性。整部《旧约》都将崇拜实物视为拜偶像。例如：有时希伯来人敬拜“侍奉天上的万象”（天体）（王下 17:16; 21:3, 5）。所以约伯辩驳说他从未因“见太阳发光，月亮行在空中，心就暗暗被引诱，口便亲手”，进而背弃神（伯 31:26-38）。《旧约》提到了敬拜偶像或雕刻的像的行为，如跪拜（赛 44:15, 17, 19; 但 3:7）或亲吻偶像（王上 19:18; 何 13:2）。《旧约》严厉谴责这种行为。然而，当实物不是因其自身而是因为它们所代表的显明的神被人们崇拜时，它们就被认为是敬拜神的正当媒介；如，

44:15, 17, 19; Dnl. 3:7), or kissing it (1 K. 19:18; Hos. 13:2). All such practices are condemned in uncompromising terms. When, however, material things produce a reverential attitude, not to themselves, but to the deity whose presence they symbolize, then they are regarded as legitimate aids to devotion; e.g., fire as a manifestation of the divine presence is described as causing the spectator to perform acts of reverence (e.g., Ex. 3:2, 5; Lev. 9:24; 1 K. 18:38f.). In these instances, it was Yahweh Himself that was worshiped, not the fire which revealed Him. The sacred writers are moved to religious adoration by the contemplation of the glories of nature. To them, "the heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament showeth his handiwork." (Cf. especially the "nature Psalms," 8, 19, 29, 104.)

C. Angels. On a still higher plane is the adoration practiced in the presence of supernatural agents of the divine will. When an angel of God appeared, men fell instinctively before him in reverence and awe (e.g., Gen. 18:2; 19:1; Nu. 22:31; Jgs. 13:20; Lk. 24:4f.). This was not to worship the creature instead of the Creator, for the angel was regarded not as a distinct individual having an existence and character of his own, but as a theophany, a self-manifestation of God.

D. The Deity. The highest form of adoration is that which is directed immediately to God Himself, His kingly attributes and spiritual excellencies being so apprehended by the soul that it is filled with rapture and praise, and is moved to do Him reverence. A classical instance is the vision that initiated Isaiah into the prophetic office, when he was so possessed with the sovereignty and sublimity of God that he was filled with wonder and self-abasement (Isa. 6:1-5). In the OT, the literature of adoration reaches its high point in the Psalms (cf. esp. the group Pss. 95-100), where the ineffable majesty, power, and holiness of God are set forth in lofty strains. In the NT, adoration of the deity finds its most rapturous expression in Revelation, where the vision of God calls forth a chorus of praise addressed to the thrice-holy God (4:8-11; 7:11f.), with whom is associated the Redeemer-Lamb.

象征着神显现的火致使观者对神产生敬畏（如，出 3:2, 5；利 9:24；王上 18:38-39）。在这些经文中，人们敬拜的是耶和华，而不是显明神的火。圣经作者因凝视自然中的壮观景象而被感动，进而产生虔诚的崇敬之情。对他们来说，“天堂显明了神的荣耀；而天空显明了祂的作为”（尤参：“自然《诗篇》” 8, 19, 20, 104）。

C. 天使。仍然从更高层面上讲，当神的意志的神奇代理显现时，人们也会顶礼膜拜。当神的天使显现时，人由于崇拜和敬畏，本能地跪在天使的面前。（如，创 18:2；19:1；民 22:31；士 13:20；路 24:4-5）。这并不是在敬拜这种受造之物，而是在敬拜造物主；因为神的天使不是具有存在形式和自身特征的独特个体，而是自我显现的神。

D. 上帝。崇拜的最高形式就是崇拜上帝，人深切地体会到上帝高贵的品质和祂的心灵之美，因此内心充满了喜悦和赞美之情，因被感动而敬拜祂。经典的一个例子是，当以赛亚被上帝的主权和威严感动，他满怀惊奇和谦卑，上帝在异象中差遣以赛亚作先知（赛 6:1-5）。在《旧约》中，《诗

E. Jesus Christ. How far is Jesus regarded in the NT as an object of adoration, seeing that adoration is befitting only to God? During Our Lord's lifetime He was often the object of worship (Mt. 2:11; 8:2; 9:18; 14:33; 15:25; 20:20; 28:9, 17; Mk. 5:6; Jn. 9:38). Some ambiguity, however, belongs to the Gk. proskynein, for while it is the usual word for "worshipping" God (e.g., Jn. 4:24), in some contexts it means no more than paying homage to a person of superior rank by kneeling or prostration, just as the unmerciful servant is said to have "fallen down and worshiped" his master the king (Mt. 18:26), and as Josephus speaks of the Jewish high priests as proskynoúmenoi (BJ iv.5.2). On the other hand it certainly implies a consciousness by those who paid this respect to Jesus, and by Jesus Himself, of a very exceptional superiority in His person; for the same homage was refused by Peter, when it was offered to him by Cornelius, on the ground that he himself also was a man (Acts 10:25f.), and even by the angel before whom John prostrated himself, on the ground that God alone was to be “worshiped” (Rev. 22:8f.). Yet Jesus never repudiated such tokens of respect.

E. 耶稣基督。既然只有上帝才值得世人崇拜，《新约》在多大程度上将耶稣视为崇拜对象呢？主耶稣在世的时候常常被视为崇拜的对象（太 2:11; 8:2; 9:18; 14:33; 15:25; 20:20; 28:9, 17; 可 5:6; 约 9:38）。然而希腊语 proskynein 的意思有些含糊不清，因此虽然这个词通常用来表示“敬拜”上帝（如，约 4:24），但在某些语境下，这个词仅仅表示通过跪拜或俯伏于地向地位高贵之人表达敬意，比如，无怜悯心仆人俯伏拜他的主君王（太 18:26），再比如，约瑟夫斯称犹太的大祭司为 proskynoúmenoi (BJ iv.5.2)。此外，这个词还暗示出敬拜耶稣之人和耶稣自己意识到了祂的极大优越性；当哥尼流俯伏在地拜彼得时，彼得拒绝让他这样做，因为彼得也是人（徒 10:25-26），甚至当约翰俯伏天使脚前拜天使时，天使也表示了拒绝，因为只能“敬拜”神（启 22:8-9）。但是耶稣从来没有拒绝别人敬拜祂。

But whatever the case during the “days of His flesh,” there is no doubt that after His ascension Christ became to the Church the object of adoration as divine, and the homage paid to Him was indistinguishable in character from that paid to God. This is proved not only by isolated passages, but still more by the whole tone of the Acts and Epistles in relation to Him. This adoration reaches its highest expression in Rev. 5:9–14, where the Redeemer-Lamb who shares the throne of God is the subject of an outburst of adoring praise by the angelic hosts. In 4:8–11 the hymn of adoration is addressed to the Lord God Almighty, the Creator; here it is addressed to the Lamb on the ground of His redeeming work. In Revelation the adoration of Him “who sitteth on the throne” and that of “the Lamb” flow together into one stream of ecstatic praise (cf. 7:9–11).

ADORN; ADORNMENT

[Heb. ’ādā (Isa. 61:10; Jer. 31:4), yāṭab (2 K. 9:30), ṣāpā (2 Ch. 3:6), hēn (Prov. 3:22), pā’ar (Ps. 149:4); Gk. kósmos (1 Pet. 3:3), kosméō—‘order’]; AV also BEAUTIFY, GARNISH, GRACE, TIRE; NEB also DRESS, ORNAMENT, CROWN, DECK, EMBELLISH, “add lustre to.”

然而无论“耶稣在世的日子”情况如何，在耶稣升天之后，教会毫无疑问地把祂当作神来敬拜，教会对耶稣的敬意与教会对神的敬意别无二致。这不仅在一节经文中得到了证明，而且《使徒行传》和使徒书信中关于基督的完整基调也证明了这一点。这种崇敬在《启示录》5:9-14中达到了顶峰，在这几节经文中，众天使向那同享上帝宝座的救世羔羊表达了崇拜并发出了赞美。在《启示录》4:8-11中，用赞美诗表达了对全能上帝（造物主）的崇拜；并因神的羔羊的救赎工作向祂发出了赞美。在《启示录》中，对“坐在宝座上的”神的崇敬与对“羔羊”的崇敬汇聚成了一条喜乐的赞美之溪（参：启7:9-11）。

ADORN; ADORNMENT 装饰、装扮； 妆饰

【希伯来语：’ādā（赛61:10；耶31:4），yāṭab（王下9:30），ṣāpā（代下3:6），hēn（箴3:22），pā’ar（诗149:4）；希腊语：kósmos（彼前3:3），kosméō——“妆饰”】；《钦定版圣经》还译为 BEAUTIFY（“修饰”），GARNISH（“冠冕”），GRACE（“装扮”），TIRE（“头饰”）；《新英文译本》还译为 DRESS（“装扮”），ORNAMENT（“装饰”），CROWN（“冠

冕”），DECK（“打扮”），EMBELLISH（“妆饰”），“add lustre to”（“给……妆饰”）。

In 2 Ch. 3:6 the Heb. šāpā means “overlay” or “plate”; the temple was overlaid or studded with precious stones for beauty. Here the LXX has Gk. kosméō, which is used also in Lk. 21:5 of the adornment of the temple, “with noble stones and offerings,” in Mt. 23:29 of the adornment by the scribes and Pharisees of the “monuments of the righteous,” and in Rev. 21:14 of the adornment with jewels of the foundations of the walls of the holy city.

The Heb. pā’ar in Ps. 149:4 is used for the adornment of the meek. The figurative use of kosméō is found in Tit. 2:10, where faithful, submissive slaves are said to “adorn the doctrine of God our Savior.”

The remaining references are to adornment of the body, especially of women. On the specific forms of adornment see GARMENTS; JEWEL; ORNAMENT; STONES, PRECIOUS.

Both Paul and Peter give advice on how women should adorn themselves, for this was considered a vital question in the early Church. In 1 Tim. 2:9 Paul says that “women should adorn themselves modestly and sensibly in seemly apparel, not with braided hair or gold or pearls or costly attire.” And Peter says, “Let not yours be the outward adornment with braiding of hair, decoration of gold, and wearing of robes” (1 Pet. 3:3).

在《历代志下》3:6中，希伯来语 šāpā 的意思是“覆盖”或“镀”；为了美观在殿里装饰或镶嵌了宝石。

《七十士译本》中使用了希腊语 kosméō，在《路加福音》21:5中还用这个词表示圣殿的装饰物（“用美石和供物装饰的”），在《马太福音》23:29中用这个词表示文士和法利赛人修饰“义人的墓”，在《启示录》21:14中用这个词表示用宝石装饰圣城城墙的根基。

《诗篇》149:4中用希伯来语 pā’ar 表示谦卑人的装饰。《提多书》2:10中用到了 kosméō 的比喻用法，忠诚、顺服的仆人被说成是“凡事尊容我们救主神的道”。

在其他地方指的是身体的装饰，尤其是女人的装饰。关于装饰的具体形式，见 GARMENTS（“衣裳、衣服”）；JEWEL（“珠宝”）；ORNAMENT（“妆饰”）；STONES, PRECIOUS（“宝石”）。

ə-dram'ə-lek [Heb. 'adrammelek—'Ader is king' (in Assy. usage 'Adar is prince')]. A son of Sennacherib king of Assyria—one of the two sons who slew him and escaped, indirectly leading to the accession of Esarhaddon (2 K. 19:37; Isa. 37:38). Mention of the incident is found in the Babylonian Chronicle, and traces of the name appear in the writings of Abydenus and Polyhistorus.

ADRAMMELECH AND ANAMMELECH

ə-nam'əl-ek [Heb. 'adrammelek (see above) and 'anammelek—'Anu is king' (in Assy. usage 'Anu is prince')]. The names given by the Israelite narrator to the god or gods imported into the Samaritan land by the men of Sepharvaim whom the king of Assyria had settled there (2 K. 17:31). In the Babylonian pantheon Anu, the god of heaven, is one of the three chief gods, and Adar, otherwise known as Ninib, is a solar god.

There are some unsolved difficulties in this passage (see ANAMMELECH), but at least a portion of the alleged difficulties have arisen from failure to regard the point of view of the Israelite narrator. He is writing from a time considerably later than the establishment of the institutions of which he speaks—late enough to render the phrase “unto this day” suitable (2 K. 17:34), late enough so that words and usages may have undergone modification. He is describing a mixture of religions which he evidently regards as deserving of contempt and ridicule, even apart from the falsity of the religions

音译: ə-dram'ə-lek 【希伯来语: 'adrammelek——“亚得是王”（亚述语用法中意为“亚得是君王”）】。亚述王西拿基立的儿子——与其兄弟弑父后逃跑,间接地导致以撒哈顿作王(王下 19:37; 赛 37:38)。在《巴比伦年代志》中提到了这个事件,阿比德纳斯和波利希斯特罗斯(Polyhistorus)的作品中提到了这个名字的出处。

ADRAMMELECH AND ANAMMELECH 亚得米勒和亚拿米勒

音译: ə-nam'əl-ek 【希伯来语: 'adrammelek (见上文) 和 'anammelek——“阿奴是王”（亚述语用法中意为“阿奴是君王”）】。以色列作者提到了这些由西法瓦音人安置在撒玛利亚地区的神明的名字,是亚述王将西法瓦音人迁移至撒玛利亚(王下 17:31)。在巴比伦的万神庙中,天神阿奴是三位主神之一,亚达是太阳神,也被称为尼尼波。

included in it. This mixture he describes as containing ingredients of three kinds—first, the imported religions of the imported peoples; second, the local high-place religions (e.g., v. 32); and third, the Yahweh religion of northern Israel (not that of Jerusalem). It is not likely that he thought they practiced any cult in its purity. They contaminated the religion of Yahweh by introducing Canaanite usages into it, and they are likely to have done the same with the ancestral religions which they brought with them.

The proper names may be correct as representing Palestinian usage, even if they differ somewhat from the proper Babylonian usage. The writer says that they “burnt their children in the fire to Adrammelech,” but this does not necessarily prove that he thought that they brought this practice from Babylonia; his idea may be that they corrupted even their own false cult by introducing into it this horrible Canaanite rite. In considering the bearings of the evidence of the monuments on the case, considerations of this kind should not be neglected.

当表示巴勒斯坦人的用法时，这些专有名词可能是正确的，即使它们与巴比伦人的用法略有不同。作者说他们“用火焚烧儿女，献给亚得米勒”，但是这并不能证明作者认为他们从巴比伦带来了这个习俗；他可能认为通过引入可怕的迦南习俗，他们甚至败坏了他们自己的虚假祭仪。在考虑碑文证据的关系时，不应该忽视这类因素。

ADRAMYTTIUM 亚大米田

音译：ad-rə-mit'-əm 【希腊语：Adramyttion】。罗马亚细亚省西北海岸上的一座重要的海港城市，在亚米大田海湾的最前头，正对着莱斯博斯海岛。

Julius, are said to have embarked on the first stage of their voyage from Caesarea to Rome in a ship from that city (Gk. ploiō Adramyttēnō). This vessel was probably one of the many small trading ships that traveled back and forth along the coast of Asia Minor. On this particular occasion it was on the homeward journey.

The plausible suggestion has been made by J. Rendel Harris that Adramyttium was one of a number of colonies founded throughout the Mediterranean world by traders and navigators of Hadramaut, the spice-bearing area of south Arabia. The reading of the name with a rough breathing in the Vulgate (navem Hadrumetinam) points in this direction.

The present-day inland town of Edremit preserves the name, although the ancient location of the city is some distance away.

ā'dri-ə [Gk. Adrias]. A body of water mentioned in the account of Paul's voyage to Rome: "as we were drifting across the sea of Adria" (Acts 27:27). Strabo, the first-century geographer, identifies the Adriatic as the Gulf of Adria and explains that the name is derived from the old Etruscan city of Atria (Geog. v.1.8), which was located at the mouth of the Po River. After the Syracusan colonies were developed along

哈理斯（J. Rendel Harris）提出了一个貌似合理的建议，他认为亚米大田是哈德拉毛（Hadramaut）的航海家和贸易商在地中海沿岸建立的若干殖民地之一，哈德拉毛是南阿拉伯出产香料的地区。因为在《武加大译本》中，读这个名字时要送气。

ADRIA 亚得里亚

音译：ā'dri-ə【希腊语：Adrias】。在描述保罗乘船去罗马时提到了这片海域：“船在亚得里亚还飘来飘去”（徒 27:27）。一世纪的地理学家斯特拉博认为亚得里亚海就是亚得里亚湾，并解释说这个名字是源于古伊特鲁里亚人城市亚特里亚（Geog. 1.8 节），亚特里亚位于波河的河口。叙拉古人的殖民地意大利和伊利里亚海岸发展起来之后，亚得里亚覆盖的地区越来越广，最终甚至包括爱奥尼

the coasts of Italy and Illyrica, the name gradually covered more and more, until at length it included the Ionian Sea, the Gulf of Tarentum (Servius Aeneid xi.540), and the Sicilian Sea (Pausanias v.25). Procopius, the Byzantine historian, located Malta on the western end of the Adriatic (Wars iii.14.16); and Ptolemy, a second-century geographer, stated that Crete was bounded on the west by the Adriatic, and Sicily by the same sea on the east (Geog. iii.4, 15). Consequently, in NT times “the Adria” designated that portion of the Mediterranean which extends from Malta to Crete.

Such a definition of the limits of that sea favors the customary identification of Malta as the island upon which Paul was shipwrecked. This broad extension of the term “Adria” finds support in Josephus’ report of his experience of shipwreck, for he declares that his ship “sank in the midst of the sea of Adria” and that he was rescued subsequently by a ship from Cyrene headed for Puteoli (Vita 3). In medieval times, as W. M. Ramsay points out, sailors were accustomed to use the name “Adriatic” for the entire eastern portion of the Mediterranean except the Aegean Sea (SPT, p. 334). In modern terminology the name is restricted in application to that arm of the Mediterranean which extends about 500 mi. (800 km.) along the northeast coast of Italy.

这片海域的狭隘定义证实了保罗在马耳他岛发生船难的传统说法。约瑟夫斯关于他遇到船难的记载证实了“亚得里亚”的广泛定义，因为约瑟夫斯声称他的船“在亚得里亚海中央沉没”，随后一艘从古利奈去往普特奥利的船救了他 (Vita 3)。正如拉姆塞所说，在中世纪时期，航海家习惯用“亚得里亚海”表示除爱琴海之外的整个地中海东部地区 (SPT, 334 页)。在现代用词中，“亚得里亚”仅用来表示向意大利西北海岸延伸约 500 英里 (800 公里) 的狭长地中海海域。 cities in a district of the Shephelah assigned to Judah (Josh. 15:33-36). It was one of the defense cities established by Rehoboam in Judah, possibly in anticipation of an Egyptian attack (2 Ch. 11:5-12). Along with other cities in Micah's home territory, Adullam is included in his lament (Mic. 1:10-16). Those who returned from the Exile settled in Adullam, as well as other sites in the Shephelah (Neh. 11:25-30). Judas Maccabeus withdrew to Adullam after putting the army of Gorgias to the rout (2 Macc. 12:38). Some scholars, following the suggestion of Clermont-Ganneau, believe the ancient name is preserved in the modern `Id-el-Mâ or `Idelmiyeh, a site with extensive ruins in Wâdī eš-Šûr at the foot of Tell esh-Sheikh Madhkûr, 7.5 mi. (12 km.) ENE of Beit-Jibrîn and about 12.5 mi. (20 km.) WSW of Bethlehem.

2. The cave of Adullam where David made his headquarters during part of the time when he was a fugitive from Saul's kingdom (1 S. 22:1; 2 S. 23:13; 1 Ch. 11:15). In the general area are numerous limestone caves, one of which may have served as David's refuge, while his followers, about four hundred in number, may have occupied other caves in the vicinity. This does not force the language of the biblical text, and it is unnecessary to look for a cave large enough to accommodate the entire number.

Because of the distance from Bethlehem, there has been some objection to the identification of the cave of Adullam with the site proposed in 1 above. Three of David's "thirty" broke through the Philistine lines to get him water from his beloved well at Bethlehem (2 S. 23:13–17; 1 Ch. 11:15–19)—which would have necessitated a round trip of about 25 miles. (It would be possible to read the text somewhat differently: David had previously expressed his desire for water from the well; the three leaders had, in the course of battle, approached Bethlehem, hence they undertook to fulfil his request—which would require a trip of something over 12 mi., certainly not unreasonable.) Accordingly, St. Chariton’s cave, a few miles SE of Bethlehem, has traditionally been pointed out as the cave of Adullam. To complicate the discussion further, Josephus (Ant. vii.12.4) identified the “stronghold” of 2 S. 23:14=1 Ch. 11:16 as Jerusalem. There seems to be no compelling reason, however, to dissociate the location of the cave of Adullam from the location of the city of Adullam.

15:33-36)。它是犹大罗波安建造的防御城邑之一，罗波安可能预料到了埃及人的进攻（代下 11:5-12）。亚杜兰与其它的城邑都是弥迦的故乡城市，他的挽歌中提到了亚杜兰（弥 1:10-16）。那些被掳归回的人定居于亚杜兰和高原的其它地区（尼 11:25-30）。犹大马加比打败高吉亚的军队后，撤回到了亚杜兰（马二 12:38）。一些学者接受加诺（Clermont-Ganneau）的建议，认为现代的伊代勒玛（`Id-el-Mâ 或 `Idelmiyeh）延用了亚杜兰的古名，伊代勒玛是苏尔干谷中的一个遗址，位于锡克玛德库废丘（Tell esh-Sheikh Madhkûr）山脚下，在伯益布连（Beit-Jibrîn）东北偏东 7.5 英里（12 公里）处，伯利恒西南偏西 12.5 英里（10 公里）处。

2、大卫逃避扫罗王时在亚杜兰洞设立总部（撒上 22:1；撒下 23:13；代上 11:15）。通常在这个地区有很多石灰岩洞，其中一个可能就是大卫的避难所，而他的四百名追随者可能占用了附近的其他洞穴。这不是对经文语言的曲解，也没有必要寻找一个可以容纳大卫和追随者的洞穴。

Bibliography.—GP, II, 239, 311; GTTOT, §§ 697f. and for a discussion of the “stronghold,” §§ 757f. In § 1538 Simons tends to reject the reading Adullam in Mic. 1:15 in favor of Heb. ‘ad-’ôlām, “forever”; but this violates the poetic and literary structure of the passage.

ADULLAMITE

来回约 25 英里。（这段经文可能有略微不同的解读：大卫之前表达了他想喝井里的水；正在争战的三位首领进入了伯利恒，试图满足大卫的要求——而这次行程大约有 12 英里当然是很合理的）。因此，伯利恒东南几英里外的圣查里顿（St. Chariton）山洞传统上被认为是亚杜兰洞。约瑟夫斯（Ant. vii.12.4）认为《撒母耳记下》23:14 和《历代志上》11:16 中“山寨”就是耶路撒冷，这种说法使这个讨论变得更加复杂。然而，似乎没有足够令人信服的理由能将亚杜兰洞的位置与亚杜兰城的位置分开。

书目——GP, II, 239, 311; GTTOT, 697-698 段，关于“山寨”的讨论，见 757-758 段。在 1538 段。西门反对《弥迦书》1:15 中“亚杜兰”这个译法，认为原词应该是希伯来语 ’ad-’ôlām，意为“永远”；但是这就破坏了整段经文的诗意和文学结构。

ADULLAMITE 亚杜兰人

【希伯来语：’adullāmî】。亚杜兰（见 ADULLAM 1 [亚杜兰 1]）人，只在提及犹大的朋友希拉时提到了这个名字（创 38:1, 12, 20）。

ADULTERY 通奸、行淫、奸淫

在《圣经》中，行淫指的是已婚男子与妻子以外的女子交合，或已婚女子与丈夫以外的男子交合。它不同于私通，私通指的是非法与未婚的人交

fornication, which is illicit sexual intercourse by an unmarried person. 合。

I. Unlawful and Condemned.-Because adultery is a violation of the original divinely instituted marriage bond (Gen. 2:23f.), it is unlawful and therefore prohibited (Ex. 20:14; Lev. 18:20; 20:10; Dt. 5:18). Since the law of God is the expression of His nature, there can be no greater condemnation.

Adultery involves more than physical promiscuity. It also violates the integrity of the person, as is indicated by use of the expressions “knew his wife” and “have her” in Gen. 4:25; Mt. 14:4. The righteous in OT times viewed adultery with abhorrence. “This is an heinous crime,” says Job. The stealthy way of the adulterer is marked (Job 31:11; 24:15). A warning is sounded against the flattering and beguiling ways of the adulteress (Prov. 2:16-19; ch. 7). When adultery prevails in a land so that even prophets and priests know no restraint, that land becomes like Sodom and Gomorrah (Jer. 23:10-15; 29:23).

The penalty for adultery in the OT is death (Lev. 20:10); when the method of this penalty is mentioned, it is by stoning (Dt. 22:23f.). In Ezk. 16:38-40 adultery is coupled with shedding of blood, but this does not exclude the stoning from applying to adultery itself (cf. Ezk. 23:45). The Jews in Jesus’ time interpreted the law in this way (Jn. 8:5). No partiality is shown the man: both parties in the act are equally guilty.

II. Innocent or Guilty.-Where evidence of adultery was lacking and the husband

I. 不合乎律法并受到谴责。由于行淫违背了神最初设立的关于婚姻的约定（创 2:23-24），所以是不合乎律法的且被禁止的（出 20:14；利 18:20；20:10；申 5:18）。由于神的律法是神的本性的体现，所以没有比律法更大的谴责了。

行淫不只包括身体上的乱交。行淫同样破坏了这个人的完整性，如《创世记》4:25 和《马太福音》14:4 中分别用了“与妻子同房”和“娶了她”。旧约时代的义人痛恨行淫。约伯说：“这是大罪”。《约伯记》中记载了秘密行淫的方式（伯 31:11；24:15）。警告人防备淫妇的奉承和谄媚（箴 2:16-19；7）。当地上到处都有人行淫，甚至连先知和祭司都不知道克制自己时，那么那地就成了所多玛和蛾摩拉（耶 23:10-15；29:23）。

在《旧约》中，对行淫者的惩罚是将其治死（利 20:10）；通常用石头打死行淫的人（申 22:23-24）。在《以西结书》16:38-40 中，行淫和流人血一同被提及，但这并不排除行淫之人会受到石刑的处罚（参：结 23:45）。耶稣在世时的犹太人这样解释律法（约 8:5）。行淫的男人不会受到偏袒：双方的行为都是有罪的。

II. 无罪还是有罪。当行淫的证据不足，且丈夫又强烈怀疑妻子行淫时， was strongly suspicious, a well-defined procedure was open to him (Nu. 5:11-30). The language used in this passage gives a solemn and serious tone to the whole matter, indicating that this was not a procedure dealing with a mere whim of the husband. He was bringing his case before God. Yet the law was so concerned lest an injustice be done to the accused wife that she was given the benefit of a test. She was presented before the Lord with the waving and burning of an offering of barley, after which she was given bitter water to drink from the holy basin. This water, which caused the curse, was mingled with dust from the floor of the sanctuary and with washed-off ink of the writing containing the oath. If the woman was guilty, her belly would swell, her thigh would rot (RSV "fall away"), and she would become a "curse" and an "oath" among her people.

Trial by ordeal was practiced in the ancient Near East. In the Code of Hammurabi there is a parallel to the biblical account: "If a seignior's wife was accused by her husband, but she was not caught while lying with another man, she shall make affirmation by the god and return to her house. If the finger was pointed at the wife of a seignior because of another man, but she has not been caught while lying with the other man, she shall throw herself into the river for the sake of her husband" (ANET, p. 171, nos. 131f.). The following differences should be noted between the two accounts. In Hammurabi's Code the guilty might escape and the innocent suffer death. The outcome was all a matter of blind chance. And the river itself, which is characterized as a god, is the judge (ANET, p. 171, note 102). But the biblical record is solemn and religiously significant. The procedure was dictated by the Almighty (v. 11). There was no possible escape from the consequences of guilt, but exoneration for the innocent was certain.

III. Inward Intent.-The prohibition against marital unfaithfulness applies not only to the external act that the law alone can recognize; it also takes note of the desire of the heart. Mere external observance of the law is not the mark of OT religion. It probes deeper. From inward purity of heart proceeds the truly moral life (cf. Job 31:1, 4, 7; Prov. 6:25). This is the emphasis Jesus enunciates in Mt. 5:27f. As distinct from a mere external cleanness, to look and to lust is adultery of the heart.

IV. Change in Penalty.-As already observed, death was the penalty for adultery in the OT. This, of course, obviates the need to make any provision for divorce. However, in the teaching of Christ a man may put away his wife for reasons of adultery (Mt. 5:31f.), and so according to the NT a husband has recourse to a legitimate divorce in the case of an adulterous wife. There is here a significant change. While in the Sermon on the Mount Jesus interprets the law according to its original intent and meaning, He here indicates that as Lord He has authority to introduce a new provision. Nevertheless, it does not follow that the evil of adultery is thereby minimized. Jesus tells us that divorce never received divine sanction, and that it is, therefore, an evil. This lays upon adultery the weight of divine abhorrence and displeasure. The principle that God requires sexual fidelity in the marriage relation receives from Christ its highest vindication in the words, "I say to you: whoever divorces his wife, except for unchastity, and marries another, commits adultery" (Mt. 19:9).

III. 内心的审查。律法不仅禁止外在行为上对婚姻的不忠，还禁止思想上的不忠。仅遵守外在的律法不是真正地坚持《旧约》宗教信仰。还必须有更高的追求。首先必须内心纯洁，进而才能过上真正道德的生活（参：伯 31:1, 4, 7; 箴 6:25）。这是《马太福音》5:27-28 中耶稣强调的重点。凡看见妇女就动淫念的，心中就犯了奸淫了，这与仅仅外在的洁净不同。

IV. 处罚的变化。正如看到的那样，在《旧约》中行淫的要被处死。当然，丈夫不能因妻子行淫就休妻。然而，耶稣却教导说，男人若是因妻子行淫可以休了她（太 5:31-32），同样根据《新约》的描述，丈夫可以休了行淫的妻子。这里有一个很大的改变。耶稣在登山宝训中根据律法最初的目的和含义解释了律法，祂指出，作为我们的主，祂有权做出新的规定。然而，这并不是说行淫的人因此可以被轻判。耶稣教导我们说，上帝从来没有认可离婚是祂悦纳的事，因此离婚就是犯罪。耶稣教导中强调的是，行淫是上帝所痛恨和不喜悦的事。耶稣的话语最能证明上帝要求人们坚持忠于婚姻的原则，“告诉你们：凡休妻另娶的，若不是为淫乱的缘故，就是犯奸淫了”（太 10:9）。

ə-dum'im, ASCENT OF [Heb. ma^alēh^adummîm]. One of the landmarks defining the northern boundary of Judah westward from the mouth of the Jordan to Jerusalem, and the southern boundary of Benjamin eastward from Jerusalem to the mouth of the Jordan (Josh. 15:7; 18:7). The location is identified with the modern Tal'at ed-Damm ("ascent of blood"), where the ground is marked by red ochre, about 9 mi. (14.5 km.) ENE of Jerusalem.

According to Eusebius, there was a fortress at Maledomni (cf. Heb. ma^alēh^adummîm), halfway between Jericho and Jerusalem. Tradition has set the scene of the parable of the Good Samaritan (Lk. 10:30) at this place, where the road enters a narrow gorge; and the "Inn of the Good Samaritan" is shown to tourists, even though the NT never represents the story as more than a parable and does not specify any location other than "going down from Jerusalem to Jericho."

In the AV, an archaic word for “risk,” “venture” (Dt. 28:56; Jgs. 9:17; Eccl. 5:14, RV; Acts 19:31).

ADVENTURESS

[Heb. nokriyâ—‘foreign woman’] (Prov. 2:16; 5:20; 6:24; 7:5; 23:27); AV STRANGER, STRANGE WOMAN; NEB LOOSE WOMAN. A woman who seeks social advancement or wealth by immoral seduction or other unscrupulous means. The word carried a sinister connotation in the OT because it was such women who had introduced immorality or the worship of alien deities into Israel (1 K. 11:1, 8). Hence the prudent were well advised to avoid all contact with such sources of temptation and moral ruin (Prov. 2:16, etc.).

ADVOCATE 中保、保惠师

【希腊语：paráklētos】（约壹 2:1）；《新英文译本》译为 “one to plead our cause”（“中保”）。耶稣基督的称号。

The Greek word has several shades of meaning: (1) a legal advocate; (2) an intercessor; (3) a helper generally. In this passage the first and second meanings are included. Christ in heaven intercedes for Christians who sin upon earth. The next verse declares that He is the “propitiation for our sins,” and it is His propitiatory work which lies at the basis of His intercession.

这个希腊词语有多种含义：（1）合法的传道者；（2）代求者；（3）通常表示帮手。这节经文中使用了第一和第二个意思。耶稣在天上代替地上犯罪的基督徒向天父祈求。下一节经文中称祂为我们的罪作了“挽回祭”，耶稣的赎罪工作构成了祂代求的基础。

The same Greek word occurs also in the Gospel of John (14:16, 26; 15:26; 16:7), referring not to Christ but to the Holy Spirit, to whom Christ refers as “another paraclete” whom He will send from the Father. Here the NEB translates “Advocate,” whereas the RSV has “Counselor” and the AV “Comforter.”

这个希腊词语还出现在《约翰福音》中（约 14:16, 26; 15:16; 16:7），指的不是耶稣基督，而是圣灵，耶稣基督称圣灵是父赐给我们的“另一位保惠师”。《新英文译本》中译为 “Advocate”，《修订标准译本》中译为 “Counselor”，而《钦定版圣经》中译为 “Comforter”，汉译均为 “保惠师”。

ad'ə-təm [Lat. < Gk. ádyton, adj. ádytos—'not to be entered']. A term applied to the innermost sanctuary or chambers in ancient temples, and to secret places which were open only to priests: hence also to the holy of holies in the Jewish temple. See TEMPLE.

ā-ə-dī'əs [Gk. Aēdeias] (1 Esd. 9:27); RSV ELIJAH. In the AV and NEB, one of those who agreed to divorce their alien wives. The RSV takes it as a corruption of Gk. Hēlia, there being no Hebrew equivalent for it, and since in the parallel Ezr. 10:26 the name occurs as Elijah.

AELIA CAPITOLINA

ē'lē-ə kap-ə-tō-lē'nə. The name of the new city erected by Hadrian on the site of Jerusalem, named for his (the Aelian) clan. After the second revolt, led by Simon Bar-Cochba (A.D. 132-135), Hadrian had the portions of Jerusalem that had survived the destruction by Titus in A.D. 70 razed to the ground (much of the rubble being used to fill the Tyropoeon Valley), and Jews were forbidden under penalty of death to come within sight of the new city. Aelia Capitolina occupied approximately the site of the "Old City" (the walled city) of present-day Jerusalem.

See Ptolemy Geography § 15.

ADYTUM 内殿、内室

音译: ad'ə-təm 【拉丁语, 源于希腊语: ádyton, 形容词: ádytos——“不许进入”】。一个表示古时圣殿最里面的圣所或内殿的词语, 只有祭司才可以进入的秘密场所: 因此也可以表示犹太人神殿中的至圣所。见 TEMPLE (神庙、神殿)。

AEDIAS 以利雅

音译: ā-ə-dī'əs 【希腊语: Aēdeias】 (拉一 9:27); 《修订标准译本》译为“ELIJAH” (“以利亚”)。在《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》中, 以利雅是同意休掉外邦妻子的人之一。《修订标准译本》将这个词视为希腊语 Hēlia 的错误拼写形式, 在希伯来语中没有对应的词语, 而在平行经文《以斯拉记》10:26 中, 这个名字被译为“Elijah” (“以利亚”)。

AELIA CAPITOLINA 爱利亚加多比连

音译: ē'lē-ə kap-ə-tō-lē'nə。哈德良在耶路撒冷兴建的新城的名字, 以他的部族 (爱利亚) 命名了这个城邑。哈德良平定西门巴可巴 (公元 132-135 年) 掀起的第二次叛乱之后, 占领了耶路撒冷的部分地区, 这部分城区没有在公元 70 年提图斯皇帝的破坏中被夷为平地 (大部分碎石被用来填冲推罗皮翁山谷), 犹太人被禁止入城, 若是他们入城被发现, 就要被处死。爱利亚加多比连的面积几乎相当于现代耶路撒冷“旧城” (城墙内的城区) 的面积。

ə-nē'əs [Gk. Aineas]. A paralytic at Lydda, who, after he “had been bedridden for eight years,” was miraculously healed by Peter (Acts 9:33f.).

ē'non [Gk. Ainōn]. A place where John was baptizing “because there was much water there” (Jn. 3:23). It was on the west side of the Jordan, John having earlier baptized on the east side (1:28; 3:26; 10:40). We may be sure it was not in Samaritan territory. Eusebius (Onom.) locates it 8 Roman mi. (11.8 km.) S of Scythopolis (Bethshan), for this stretch of land on the west of the Jordan was then not under Samaria but under Scythopolis. Its position is defined by nearness to Salim. Various identifications have been suggested, the most probable being the springs near Umm el-‘Amdân, which exactly suit the position indicated by Eusebius.

AENEAS 以尼雅

音译: ə-nē'əs 【希腊语: Aineas】。吕大城中一个瘫痪的人，他“已经躺卧八年”，彼得奇迹般地将他治愈了（徒 9:33-34）。

AENON 哀嫩

音译: ē'non 【希腊语: Ainōn】。约翰施洗的地方，“因为那里水多”，所以才在那里施洗（约 3:23）。哀嫩位于约旦河西岸，约翰从前在约旦河东岸施洗（约 1:28; 3:26; 10:40）。我们可以确定哀嫩不在撒玛利亚地区。优西比乌（Onom.）认为哀嫩位于西古提坡（伯善）以南 8 罗马里（11.8 公里）处，因为约旦西岸这部分地区不属于撒玛利亚，而是属于西古提坡。哀嫩靠近撒冷。关于哀嫩的位置有很多种说法，但最有可能是阿姆丹（Umm el-‘Amdân）附近的清泉，这恰好与优西比乌指出的位置相符。

AESORA 亚苏拉

音译: ē'so-rə 【希腊语: Aisōra】；《钦定版圣经》译为 ESORA（“亚苏拉”）。撒玛利亚边境的一个城镇，与伯和仑和耶利哥同时被提及的一座城（滴 4:4），因此亚苏拉显然位于撒玛利亚的东部。

AFFECT. 影响、待

《钦定版圣经》《加拉太书》4:17-18 中希腊语 zēlóō（“热心待你，等”，《修订译本》译为“zealously seek”；

much of”; NEB “are envious of”) and of Gk. kakóō in Acts 14:2, AV (“made their minds evil affected against”; RSV and NEB “poisoned their minds against”). The AV also uses “affect” in translating Heb. ‘ālal in Lam. 3:51, “Mine eye affecteth mine heart”; the RSV renders, “my eyes cause me grief”; the NEB emends the text.

《修订标准译本》译为“make much of”；《新英文译本》译为“are envious of”；汉译均为“热心待……”）和《使徒行传》14:2 中的希腊语 kakóō（“恼恨”；《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》中译为“poisoned their minds against” [“恼恨”]）的古语形式。《钦定版圣经》在《耶利米哀歌》3:51 中还用“affect”翻译希伯来语 ‘ālal, “Mine eye affecteth mine heart”（“我的眼使我的心伤痛”）；《修订标准译本》中译为“my eyes cause me grief”（“我的眼使我的心伤痛”）；《新英文译本》修订了这个文本。

AFFECTION

[Heb. daddayim—“breasts”] (Prov. 5:19); AV “breasts”; NEB LOVE; [Gk. splánchna—“bowels”] (2 Cor. 6:12; Phil. 1:8; 2:1); AV “bowels”; NEB “(your)self,” “deep yearning,” “warmth of affection”; [Gk. philóstorgos] (Rom. 12:10); AV “kindly affectioned”; [Gk. homeíromai] (1 Thess. 2:8); AV, RSV, “affectionately desirous”; NEB “with yearning love”; [Gk. philadelphía] (2 Pet. 1:7); RSV “brotherly affection”; AV, NEB, “brotherly kindness.” The Greek terms indicate the warm inner love that bound the early Christian brotherhood (in 2 Cor. 6:12 it is the possible lack of this love that is in view), and also the missionary love that Paul had for those to whom he brought the gospel (1 Thess. 2:8).

AFFECTION 胸怀、心肠

【希伯来语：daddayim——“胸怀”】（箴 5:19）；《钦定版圣经》译为“breasts”（“胸怀”）；《新英文译本》译为 LOVE（“爱”）；【希腊语：splánchna——“心肠”】（林后 6:12；腓 1:8；2:1）；《钦定版圣经》译为“bowels”（“心肠”）；《新英文译本》译为“（your）self”（“你自己”），“deep yearning”（“爱心”），“warmth of affection”（“热心”）；【希腊语：philóstorgos】（罗 12:10）；《钦定版圣经》译为“kindly affectioned”（“亲热的”）；【希腊语：homeíromai】（帖前 2:8）；《钦定版圣经》和《修订标准译本》译为“affectionately desirous”（“热切渴望的”）；《新英文译本》译为“with yearning love”（“疼爱”）；【希腊语：philadelphía】（彼后 1:7）；《修订标准译本》译为“brotherly affection”；《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》译为“brotherly kindness”，汉译均为“爱弟兄的心”。这个词既可以表示早期基督徒弟兄间的温暖爱心（《哥林多后书》6:12 中可能认为

人们缺乏这种爱心)，也可以表示保罗对传福音对象的爱心（帖前 2:8）

In the AV, certain archaic usages of this word occur. In Rom. 1:26; Col. 3:5 (Gk. páthos); and Gal. 5:24 (páthēma) it means “passions”; and in Col. 3:2, “set your affection on” (phronéō) means “think about,” “set your mind on.”

In Rom. 1:31, AV and NEB “without natural affection” (ástorgos) is rendered in the RSV “heartless”; in 2 Tim. 3:3 the RSV has “inhuman” for the same word.

《钦定版圣经》中还出现了这个词的古语用法。在《罗马书》1:26；《歌罗西书》3:5（希腊语：páthos）和《加拉太书》5:24（páthēma）中，这个词的意思是“情欲”；在《歌罗西书》3:2中，“set your affection on”的意思是“考虑”和“思念”。

《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》《罗马书》1:31中的“without natural affection”（ástorgos）在《修订标准译本》中被译为“heartless”，汉译均为“无亲情的”；在《提摩太后书》3:3中，《修订标准译本》用“inhuman”（“残忍的”）来翻译这个词。

AFFIRMATIVES

Hebrew does not use affirmative particles, but gives a positive reply either by repeating the word in question or by substituting the 1st person in the reply for the 2nd person in the question, or employing the formula: “You have said” or “You have rightly said.” Jesus used this idiom (Gk. sy eipas) when answering Judas and Caiaphas (Mt. 26:25, 64).

AFFIRMATIVES 肯定词、肯定语

希伯来人不用肯定分词，他们要么通过重复问题中的一个词或在回答时用第二人称代替问题中的第一人称，要么使用短语“你说的是”或“你所说的是”来给出肯定的回答。耶稣在回答犹大和该亚法时使用了这个习语（希腊语：sy eipas）（太 26:25，64）。

A peculiar elegance occasionally attaches to the interpretation of the Scriptures because of their use of an affirmative and negative together, rendering the sense more emphatic. Sometimes the negative occurs first, as in Ps. 118:17: “I shall not die, but live”; sometimes the affirmative precedes, as in Isa. 38:1: “You shall die, and not live.” Jn. 1:20 is made peculiarly emphatic because of the negative placed between two affirmatives: “He confessed, he did not deny, but confessed, I am not the Christ.”

由于有些经文同时使用肯定句和否定句来加重语气，所以这些经文解释显得特别文雅。有时否定句在前，如《诗篇》118:17中的“我必不至死，仍要活着”；有时肯定句在前，如《以赛亚书》38:1中的“你必死不能

In the OT affliction is both individual (sickness, poverty, oppression by the strong and rich, perverted justice) and national. A great place is given in the OT to affliction as a national experience, due to calamities such as war, invasion, conquest by foreign peoples, exile. These form the background of much of the prophetic writings, and largely determine their tone and character.

在《旧约》中, 苦难即指个人的苦难 (疾病, 贫穷, 被强大而富足的人压迫, 屈枉正义), 也指国家的苦难。《旧约》尤为强调苦难, 并将苦难视为一个民族的经历, 如因战争、侵略、被外邦人征服和被流放而遭难。这些苦难构成了预言的大部分背景, 并很大程度上决定了这些预言的风格和性质。

In the NT the chief form of affliction is that due to the fierce antagonism manifested to the religion of Jesus, resulting in persecution.

因为信靠耶稣基督而遭到强烈反对并导致被迫害是《新约》中主要的苦难形式。

I. Sources of Affliction.-A. God. The Hebrew mind did not dwell on secondary causes, but attributed everything, even afflictions, directly to the great First Cause and Author of all things: “Does evil befall a city, unless the Lord has done it?” (Am. 3:6); “I form light and create darkness, I make weal and create woe [i.e., calamity], I am the Lord, who do all these things” (Isa. 45:7). Thus all things, including calamity, were referred to the divine operation. The Hebrew when afflicted did not doubt the universal sovereignty of God; yet, while assuming this sovereignty, he was sometimes tempted to accuse Him of indifference, neglect, or forgetfulness. Cf. Job passim; Isa. 40:27; 49:14; Ezk. 8:12; 9:9.

I. 苦难的来源。A. 上帝。 希伯来人不考虑次要的原因, 而是认为所有事情, 甚至包括困难都直接源于上帝和造物主: “灾祸若临到一城, 岂非耶和華所降的吗?” (摩 3:6); “我造光, 又造暗; 我施平安, 又降灾祸; 造作这一切的是我耶和華” (赛 45:7)。因此, 所有事情 (包括灾祸) 都是出自神的旨意。希伯来人在遭灾时并没有怀疑上帝至高的主权; 虽然他们认可这种主权, 但是他们有时也禁不住责备上帝对他们漠不关心, 忽视或忽略他们。参: 《约伯记》passim; 《以赛亚书》40:27; 49:14; 结 8:12; 9:9。

B. Evil Agents. Yet there are traces of a dualism which assigns a certain vague

B. 邪灵的代表们。 然后隐约出现了一种模糊上帝绝对主权的二元论思想, limit to God's absolute sovereignty, by referring affliction to an evil agency acting in quasi-independence of God. There could, however, never be more than a tendency in this direction, for a strict dualism was incompatible with the standpoint of Jewish monotheism.

Thus Saul's mental affliction is attributed to an "evil spirit," which is yet said to be "from the Lord" (1 S. 16:14; 18:10; 19:9); and the fall of Ahab is said by Micaiah to be due to the "lying spirit" which enticed him to his doom, in obedience to God's command (1 K. 22:20-22). In the prologue of Job, Job's calamities are ascribed to Satan; but even he receives his word of command from God, and is responsible to Him, like the other "sons of God" who surround the heavenly throne. He is thus "included in the Divine will and in the circle of Divine providence" (Schultz). After the prologue, Satan is left out of account, and Job's misfortunes are attributed directly to the divine causality. In later Judaism, the tendency to trace the origin of evil, physical and moral, to wicked spirits became more marked, probably because of the influence of Persian dualism.

In NT times, physical and mental maladies were thought to be due to the agency of evil spirits called demons, whose prince was Beelzebub or Satan (Mk. 1:23ff.; 3:22f.; 5:2ff.; Mt. 9:32f., etc.). Christ gave His assent to this belief (cf. the woman under infirmity, "whom Satan hath bound," Lk. 13:16). Paul attributed his bodily affliction to an evil angel sent by Satan (2 Cor. 12:7), though he recognized that the evil agent was subordinate to God's purpose of grace, and was the means of moral discipline (vv. 7, 9). Thus, while the evil spirits were regarded as malicious authors of physical maladies, they were not, in a strictly dualistic fashion, thought to act in complete independence; rather, they had a certain place assigned to them in the divine providence.

因此扫罗内心的苦难被说成是源于“从耶和华来”的“恶魔”（撒下 16:14; 18:10; 19:9）；而米该雅说，亚哈由于受到那位遵守上帝命令的“谎言的灵”的引诱，最终阵亡（王上 22:20-22）。《约伯记》的序言中，约伯的苦难被归因于撒但；但撒但也要遵守上帝的命令，并对上帝负责，就像其他在天国宝座周围“上帝的儿子们”一样。因此撒但“包括在神的旨意中和神的深谋远虑中”（Schultz）。序言之后，经文中再没有提及撒但，而约伯的灾祸被直接归因于上帝。在后期的犹太教中，人们更加明显地倾向于将肉体 and 道德的罪恶归因于邪灵，这可能是由于受到了波斯二元论的影响。

在《新约》时代，肉体和精神上的疾病被归因于邪灵的代表，也就是恶魔，这些恶魔分别由别西卜和撒但所控制（可 1:23 起；3:22-23；5:2 起；太 9:32-33 等）。耶稣同意这种说法（参：“被撒但捆绑”的妇女遭受疾病困扰，路 13:16）。保罗将他肉体上的痛苦归于撒但派来的恶魔（林后 12:7），尽管他知道这个恶魔也要遵从上帝恩典的旨意，是道德管教的一种方式（林后 12:7, 9）。因此，邪灵虽被视为身体疾病的恶源，但根据严格

II. Meaning and Purpose of Affliction.-

Why did God afflict men? How is suffering to be explained consistently with the goodness and justice of God? This was an acute problem which weighed heavily upon the Hebrew mind, especially in the later, more reflective, period. We can only briefly indicate the chief factors which the Scriptures contribute to the solution of the problem.

A. Punitive or Retributive. A common view in early Hebrew theology was that afflictions were the result of the divine law of retribution, by which sin was invariably followed by adequate punishment. Every misfortune was a proof of the sufferer's sinfulness. Thus Job's "friends" sought to convince him that his great sufferings were due to his sinfulness. This is generally the standpoint of the historians of Israel, who regarded national calamities as a mark of divine displeasure on account of the people's sins.

But this naive belief, though it contains an important element of truth, could not pass uncontested. The logic of facts would suffice to prove that it was inadequate to cover all cases; e.g., Jeremiah's sufferings were due not to sin, but to his faithfulness to his prophetic vocation. So the Suffering Servant in

II. 苦难的意义和目的。为什么上帝要人类遭受痛苦呢？如何解释苦难与上帝的良善和公义的一致性呢？希伯来人认为这是一个很尖锐的问题，尤其是在后期他们更多地反思这个问题。我们只能简单地指出几个有助于解决这个问题的主要因素。

*A. 刑罚或惩罚。*早期的希伯来神学普遍认为苦难是上帝惩罚律法的结果，依照上帝的惩罚律法，罪总要受到适当的惩罚。每一个苦难都是遭难者犯罪的证据。因此约伯的“朋友们”竭力让他相信他的苦难是因为他犯了罪。这通常是以色列的史学家们坚持的观点，他们认为一个民族的苦难显示出上帝对这个民族所犯罪恶的不满。

然而这种质朴的观点虽然包含了一个重要的真理，却不是无可争议的。事实证明这种观点不能一概而论；例如，耶利米的苦难就不是因为罪，而是由于他忠诚地实现了他的先知职分。同样《以赛亚书》中“遭受苦难的仆人”也不因为罪而受苦。约伯虽然有许多仇敌，但他仍然坚持自己正

Isaiah. Job, too, in spite of his many woes, was firm in the conviction of his own integrity. To prove the inadequacy of the penal view is a main purpose of the book of Job.

A common modification of the traditional view was that the sorrows of the pious and the prosperity of the wicked were only of brief duration; in the course of time, things would adjust themselves aright (e.g., Job 20:5ff.; Ps. 73:3-20). But even granting time for the law of retribution to work itself out, experience contradicts the view that a man's fortune or misfortune is an infallible proof of his moral quality.

B. Probational. The thought is often expressed that afflictions are meant to test the character or faith of the sufferer. This idea is especially prominent in Job. God allowed Satan to test the reality of Job's piety by overwhelming him with disease and misfortunes (ch. 2). Throughout the poem Job maintains that he has stood the test (e.g., 23:10-12). Cf. Dt. 8:2, 16; Ps. 66:10f.; 17:3; Isa. 48:10; Jer. 9:7; Prov. 17:3.

C. Disciplinary and Purificatory. For those who are able to stand the test, suffering has a purificatory or disciplinary value. (1) The thought of affliction as a discipline or form of divine teaching is found in Job, especially in the speeches of Elihu, who insists that tribulation is intended as a method of instruction to save man from the pride and presumption that issue in destruction (Job 33:14-30; 36:8-10, 15). The same conception is found in Ps. 94:12; 119:67, 71.

传统观点的一种常见修正是敬虔之人的苦难和败坏之人的富足都只是暂时的；最终，一切都将回到正轨（如，伯 20:5 起；诗 73:3-20）。然而即使同意惩罚的律法按个人的行为报应人，但经验否定了人的财富或遭难是这个人道德品行的绝对证据这种观点。

B. 试验。通常人们认为，苦难是为了试验遭难者的品质和信心。《约伯记》中尤为强调这一点。上帝允许撒但用疾病和苦难击倒约伯，以此来试探约伯的虔诚之心（伯 2）。纵观整首诗，约伯始终认为他经受住了考验（如，伯 23:10-12）。参：申 8:2, 16；诗 66:10-11；17:3；赛 48:10；耶 9:7；箴 17:3。

C. 管教和涤罪。对那些能够经受住考验的人来说，苦难有涤罪或管教的价値。（1）苦难是一种管教或上帝教导的一种形式，从《约伯记》（尤其是从以利户的话语）中可以看到这种观点，以利户认为苦难是上帝教导人的一种方式，旨在拯救世人脱离骄傲和傲慢，以免他们走向毁灭（伯 33:14-30；36:8-10, 15）。在《诗篇》94:12；119:67, 71 中也可以看到这种观点。

(2) The purificatory function of trials is taught in such passages as Isa. 1:25; Zec. 13:9; Mal. 3:2f., where the process of refining metals in fire and smelting out the dross is the metaphor used.

D. Vicarious and Redemptive. The above are not fully adequate to explain the mystery of the afflictions of the godly. The profoundest contribution in the OT to a solution of the problem is the idea of the vicarious and redemptive significance of pain and sorrow. The author of Job did not touch this rich vein of thought in dealing with the afflictions of his hero. This was done by the author of the latter part of Isaiah.

The classical passage is Isa. 52:13–53:12, which deals with the woes of the oppressed and afflicted Servant of the Lord with profound spiritual insight. It makes no difference to the meaning of the afflictions whether we understand by the servant the whole Hebrew nation, or the pious section of it, or an individual member of it, and whether the speakers in ch. 53 are the Jewish nation or the heathen. The significant point here is the value and meaning ascribed to the servant's sufferings. The speakers had once believed (in accordance with the traditional view) that the servant suffered because God was angry with him and had stricken him. Now they confess that his sorrows were due, not to his own sin but to theirs (vv. 4–6, 8). His sufferings were not only vicarious (the punishment of their sin falling upon him), but redemptive in their effect (peace and health coming to them as a result of his chastisement). Moreover, it was not only redemptive, but expiatory (“his soul guilt-offering,” v. 10)—a remarkable adumbration of the Christian doctrine of atonement.

(2) 《以赛亚书》1:25；《撒迦利亚书》13:9 和《玛拉基书》3:2-3 中谈论了试验的涤罪功能，这些章节将试验比喻成火中炼金并熔炼出渣滓的过程。

D. 代赎和赎回。以上这些描述都不足以解释上帝给予的苦难的神秘之处。痛苦和悲伤的代赎和赎回意义是《旧约》对于解决这一问题的最大贡献。《约伯记》的作者谈论他的英雄所遭受的苦难时并没有触及这么深奥的思想。《以赛亚书》后半部分的作者提及了这个内容。

《以赛亚书》52:13-53:12 是一个经典的段落，这段经文以深厚的属灵智慧剖析了受压迫者和上帝的受苦仆人所遭受的痛苦。这与苦难的意义毫无差别，无论我们将这里的“仆人”理解成整个希伯来民族，还是希伯来民族中的虔诚之人，亦或是希伯来民族中的某个人，无论《以赛亚书》53 章中的说话者是犹太人还是外邦人。重点在于这位仆人所受苦难的价值和意义。说话者曾认为这位仆人因上帝的烈怒和击打而遭受苦难（符合传统观点）。现在他们承认这位仆人不是因为祂自己的罪，而是因为他们的罪而遭受苦难（赛 53:4-6, 8）。祂的苦难不仅背负了他们的痛苦（他们的罪罚落到了祂的身上），而且救赎了他们（祂一人受罚给他们带来了平安和健康）。此外，这位仆人不只是赎回了他们，而且赎了他们的罪（“祂献本身为赎罪祭”赛 53:10）——这是基督教赎罪教义的一个非凡预示。

E. The NT. The NT makes no new contribution to the solution of the problem, but repeats and greatly deepens the points of view already found in the OT. (1) There is a recognition throughout the NT of the law of retribution (Gal. 6:7). Yet Jesus repudiates the popular view of the invariable connection between misfortune and moral evil (Jn. 9:2f.). It is clear that He had risen above the conception of God’s relation to man as merely retributive (Mt. 5:45, sunshine and rain for evil men as well as for the good). His followers would suffer tribulation even more than unbelievers, owing to the hostile reaction of the evil world, similar to that which afflicted Christ Himself (Mt. 5:10f.; 10:16–25; Jn. 15:18–20; 16:33). Similarly the Acts and the Epistles frequently refer to the sufferings of Christians (e.g., Acts 14:22; 2 Cor. 4:8–11; Col. 1:24; He. 10:32; 1 Pet. 4:13; Rev. 7:14). Hence afflictions must have some other than a merely punitive end.

(2) They are probational, affording a test by which the spurious may be separated from the genuine members of the Christian Church (Jas. 1:3, 12; 1 Pet. 1:7; 4:17), and (3) a means of discipline, calculated to purify and train the character (Rom. 5:3; 2 Cor. 12:7, 9; Jas. 1:3).

(4) The idea of vicarious and redemptive suffering has a far deeper significance in the NT than in the OT, and finds concrete

E. 《新约》。《新约》没有对这个问题的解决做出新的贡献，只是重复并深化了《旧约》中的观点。(1) 整部《新约》都承认因果报应的律法(加 6:7)。而耶稣否认了苦难和道德败坏永远联系在一起的普遍观点(约 9:2-3)。但是，耶稣显然超越了上帝与世人不过是惩罚者和受罚者关系的观念(太 5:45，阳光和雨露给歹人，也给义人)。祂的跟随者因为遭受恶世的敌对，要比非信徒遭受更多的苦难，他们所遭受的苦难类似于基督所遭受的苦难(太 5:10-11； 10:16-25； 约 15:18-20； 16:33)。同样《使徒行传》和使徒书信常常提及基督徒的苦难(如，徒 14:22； 林后 4:8-11； 西 1:24； 来 10:32； 彼前 4:13； 启 7:14)。因此苦难一定不仅仅以惩罚为目的。

(2) 苦难是一种试验，通过这种试验可以将教会中假的基督徒从真的基督徒中区分出来(雅 1:3， 12； 彼前 1:7； 4:17)，而且(3)也是上帝管教的一种方式，净化并锤炼了世人的品质(罗 5:3； 林后 12:7， 9； 雅 1:3)。

(4) 替代和赎回苦难的理念在《新约》中比《旧约》中有更深的意义，并且藉着耶稣基督这位历史人物得以

realization in a historical person, Jesus Christ. That which is foreshadowed in Isa. 52f. becomes in the NT a central, pervasive and creative thought. A unique place in the divine purpose is given to the passion of Christ. Yet in a sense, His followers partake of His vicarious sufferings, and “fill up ... that which is lacking of the afflictions of Christ” (Col. 1:24; cf. Phil. 3:10; 1 Pet. 4:13). Here, surely, is a profound thought which may throw a flood of light on the deep mystery of human affliction. The cross of Christ furnishes the key to the meaning of sorrow as the greatest redemptive force in the universe.

III. Endurance of Affliction.-The Scriptures abound in words of consolation and exhortation adapted to encourage the afflicted. Two main considerations may be mentioned. (1) The thought of the beneficent sovereignty of God. “The Lord reigneth; let the earth rejoice,” even though “clouds and darkness are round about him” (Ps. 97:1f.); “All things work together for good to them that love God” (Rom. 8:28, AV). Since love is on the throne of the universe, we may rest assured that all things are meant for our good. (2) The thought that tribulation is of brief duration, in comparison with the joy that shall follow (Ps. 30:5; Isa. 54:7f.; Jn. 16:22); a thought which culminates in the hope of eternal life. This hope is in the OT only beginning to dawn, and gives but a faint and flickering light, except in moments of rare exaltation and insight, when the thought of a perfect future blessedness seemed to offer a solution to the enigmas of life (Job 19:25-27; Pss. 37, 49, 73). But in the NT it is a postulate

具体实现。《以赛亚书》52-53 章中的预示贯穿《新约》始终，并成为《新约》中的一种主要的、创造性的思想。耶稣受难在上帝的旨意中占据着特殊的位置。而从某种意义上说，祂的跟随者参与了祂的患难，并且“补满……基督患难的缺欠”（西 1:24；参：腓 3:10；彼前 4:13）。当然，这么深刻的思想可能为人们理解人类苦难的奥秘带来极大的启发。耶稣基督的十字架是苦难意义的最重要的部分，是宇宙中最伟大的救赎力量。

III. 苦难中的忍耐。《圣经》充满了安慰和劝勉之言，这些话语适于鼓励受苦之人。这里可能需要提及两点。

(1) 仁慈上帝的至高主权。“耶和華作王，愿地快乐”，尽管“密云和黑暗在祂的周围”（诗 97:1-2）；“万事都互相效力，叫爱神的人得益处”（《钦定版圣经》，罗 8:28）。因为坐在天堂宝座上的那位满有爱心，我们可以坚信一切都是为了我们好。

of faith, and by it the Christian is able to fortify himself in affliction, remembering that his affliction is light and momentary compared with the “far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory” which is to issue out of it (2 Cor. 4:17, AV; cf. Mt. 5:12; Rom. 8:18). Akin to this is the comfort derived from the thought of the near approach of Christ’s second coming (Jas. 5:7f.).

In view of such truths as these, the Bible encourages the pious person in trouble to show the spirit of patience (Ps. 37:7; Lk. 21:19; Rom. 12:12; Jas. 1:3f.; 5:7–11; 1 Pet. 2:20), and even the spirit of positive joy in tribulation (Mt. 5:11f.; Rom. 5:3; 2 Cor. 12:10; Jas. 1:2, 12; 1 Pet. 4:13). In the NT emphasis is laid on the example of Jesus in patient endurance of suffering (Jn. 16:33; Jas. 5:7–11; 1 Pet. 2:19–23; 3:17f.). Above all, the Scriptures recommend the afflicted to take refuge in the supreme blessedness of fellowship with God, and of trust in His love, by which they may enter into a deep peace that is undisturbed by the trials and problems of life (Ps. 73, esp. vv. 23–28; Isa. 26:3f.; Jn. 14:1, 27; Phil. 4:7; etc.).

鉴于这些事实，《圣经》鼓励虔诚的人在患难中要忍耐（诗 37:7；路 21:19；罗 12:12；雅 1:3-4；5:7-11；彼前 2:20），而且在患难中仍然要欢喜快乐（太 5:11-12；罗 5:3；林后 12:10；雅 1:2, 12；彼前 4:13）。《新约》重点强调了耶稣在患难中忍耐的例子（约 16:33；雅 5:7-11；彼前 2:19-23；3:17-18）。总之，《圣经》劝告苦难中的人要靠着与神相交并相信祂的爱，在最大的祝福中寻求庇护，他们可以靠着神的怜爱得享平安，泰然自若地面对生活中的试探和问题（诗 73，尤见，诗 73:23-29；赛 26:3-4；约 14:1, 27；腓 4:7 等）。

In He. 6:6, the AV rendering of the prefix ana—in Gk. anastauróō, “they crucify ... afresh.” The RSV and NEB have simply “crucify,” just as in classical Greek anastauróō has always the simple sense “crucify” (i.e., “raise up on a cross,” ana- meaning merely “up”). Against this it is argued (1) that the classical writers had no occasion for the idea of crucifying anew; (2) that in many compounds ana- signifies both “up” and “again,” as in anablépō, which means “recover sight” as well as “look up”; (3) that the rendering “crucify afresh” suits the context; (4) that the Greek expositors (e.g., Chrysostom) take it so without questioning (so also Bleek, Lünemann, Alford, Westcott, Bauer; cf. Vulg. rursum crucifigentes).

《钦定版圣经》《希伯来书》6:6 用这个词翻译前缀 ana——希腊语为 anastauróō 重钉……十字架。《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》中简单地译为“crucify”（“钉在十字架上”），正如在古典希腊语中，anastauróō 总是表示“钉在十字架上”的简单含义（如“raise up on a cross” [“在十字架上被高举”]，*ana-*仅表示“向上”的含义）。相反的观点认为（1）古典作者没有理由提出重钉十字架的概念；（2）在许多复合词里，*ana-*既可以表示“向上”，也可以表示“再次”，如 anablépō，既可以表示“恢复视力”，也可以表示“向上看”；（3）“重钉十字架”符合本段经文的语境；（4）毋庸置疑，希腊释经者（如，屈棱多模）都这样认为（另见，Bleek, Lünemann, Alford, Westcott, Bauer；参：《武加大译本》rursum crucifigentes）。

AFRICA.

The continent that forms the southern portion of the Europe-Asia-Africa land mass. It is not named in the Bible. Because North Africa is separated from the rest of the continent by the desert and the mountains of Abyssinia, except for the Nile Valley and the swampy coastlands of West Africa, very little was known of Africa in antiquity. Indeed, North Africa was part of the Mediterranean world, in many ways, and is so treated in the few biblical references. Greek and Latin writers referred to Africa as “Libya.”

AFRICA. 非洲

非洲位于欧亚非大陆的南部。《圣经》中没有出现这个名字。因为北非与非洲的其他地区被沙漠和阿比西尼亚（埃塞俄比亚）山脉分隔开了，所以除了尼罗河谷和西非的沼泽沿海岸，人们对于古代非洲知之甚少。实际上，从很多方面讲，北非属于地中海的一部分，个别圣经经卷也将北非视为地中海的一部分。希腊和拉丁语作者称非洲为“利比亚”。

I. The People.-In the Table of Nations (Gen. 10) the “sons of Ham” are named: Cush, Egypt (or Mizraim), Put, and Canaan (10:7). Except for Canaan, whose descendants (10:15-19) occupied the eastern coastlands of the Mediterranean, these are generally located in Africa. Scholars are not in agreement concerning the location of Cush, since the Cushites in Gen. 10:7-12 are concerned with regions in Mesopotamia and in the Arabian peninsula. Cush formerly was identified as Ethiopia, due to the confusion of Ethiopia and Nubia by the Greeks; but this identification must be made with care.

I. 民族。在列邦列国的名单中（创10）“含的后代”有：古实、埃及（或麦西）、弗和迦南（创10:7）。除了迦南的后代（创10:15-19）居住在地中海东部沿海地区外，其他后代基本上都住在非洲。学者们尚未就古实的位置达成共识，因为《创世记》10:7-12 中的古实人住在美索不达米亚和阿拉伯半岛地区。由于希腊人将埃塞俄比亚和努比亚混淆，古实原来被认为是埃塞俄比亚；但是必须谨慎地确定古实的位置。

Naphtuhim, Pathrusim, Casluhim, and Caphtorim (Gen. 10:13f.). All of these names are plural in form, and refer to peoples rather than individuals. The Casluhim are connected with the Philistines, and the Caphtorim are usually identified with Crete. The Lehabim are generally taken to be Libyans; and “Ludim” is sometimes amended to “Lubim,” hence also Libyans. There is no agreement in attempts to identify the other “descendants” of Mizraim or Egypt.

Put is sometimes identified with the Putaya of the region adjacent to the Nile Delta; no descendants of Put are named.

It is evident that all of the peoples who can be identified as “African” are Caucasoid. There are no nations mentioned that can be identified anthropologically as Negroid. The Nubians, and for that matter the Ethiopians, while black-skinned, do not fit the anthropological description of the Negroes. (It might be mentioned at the same time that the Table of Nations does not include any peoples that can be identified in any way with the Mongolian race.) We can only conclude that the Bible limits its references to the peoples of the Eastern Mediterranean and adjacent areas; and so far as Africa is concerned, this means North Africa and the Nile Valley to Nubia.

人、迦斯路希人和迦斐托人的祖先（创 10:13-14）。所有这些名字都是复数形式，表示的是整个民族而非个人。迦斯路希人与非利士人有关，而且迦斯路希人通常被认为是革哩底人。利哈比人通常被视为利比亚人；而“路底人”（Ludim）有时被写成“路比人”（Lubim），因此也是利比亚人。尚无法确定麦西或埃及的其他“后代”。

显然，所有被认为是“非洲人”的民族都是白种人。从人类学上讲，这段经文中提及的任何一个民族都不能被认为是黑人。就此而言，努比亚人和埃萨俄比亚人虽然都是黑皮肤，却不符合人类学对黑人的描述。（与此同时被提及的是，列邦列国中可能不包括蒙古人）因此，我们只能推断《圣经》中只记录了地中海东部和毗邻地区的民族；所谓的“非洲”指的是北非和尼罗河谷至努比亚地区。

The Bible clearly states that God created all men from a common ancestor (cf. Acts 17:26). Racial characteristics, pigmentation, etc., must therefore be results of other factors, among which are probably climate, soil, food, and degrees of inbreeding. There is no biblical basis for the theory that the Negro originated because of the curse on Ham—after all, the curse, to be exact, was on Ham’s son Canaan, and the Canaanites were always Caucasoid (see Gen. 9:25).

II. 语言。当我们提及非洲的语言时,我们发现类似的问题。受《圣经》的影响,在早期语言对比研究中某些非洲语言也被称为“含族语”。大多数闪的后代所使用的语言常常被称为“闪族语”;雅弗的后代所使用的语言几乎从来不被称为“雅弗语”, easily be applied to the languages of most of the descendants of Shem; but the term “Japhetic” could scarcely be applied to the languages of the descendants of Japheth, and “Indo-European” became (except for most German linguistic scholars) the accepted term. It would be grossly erroneous, however, to suppose that these three terms exhaust the field of linguistic studies, and particularly to suppose that all African languages can be classified as “Hamitic.” In fact, the Hamitic languages are limited to the northern part of Africa, chiefly along the Mediterranean coastal regions. We must be careful, however, not to confuse the linguistic description and the gentile, for ancient Egyptian was partly Hamitic and partly Semitic, and the known Canaanite languages are all Semitic.

Moses married a “Cushite woman” (AV “Ethiopian,” Nu. 12:1), the term probably implying a dark-skinned Egyptian, descendant of the Nubians, who were often included in and for a time ruled over Egypt (the 25th Dynasty). The Ethiopian eunuch, to whom the Spirit directed Philip the evangelist (Acts 8:26–39), was an official of the kingdom of “Ethiopia”—actually the Meroitic or Nubian kingdom, which had existed since ca. 750 B.C. in the Nile Valley between Aswan and Khartûm. “印欧语”成了被公认的术语（大多数德语学者除外）。然而，如果认为语言学研究领域只限于这三个语族，尤其是认为所有非洲语言都属于“含族语”，就大错特错了。事实上，只有住在非洲北部（主要是地中海沿岸）的人使用含族语。然而，我们必须很谨慎才不至于混淆语言描述和种族，因为，古埃及语部分属于含族语，部分属于闪族语，众所周知的迦南语都属于闪族语。

ag'ə-bəs [Gk. Agabos]. A Christian prophet of Jerusalem, twice mentioned in Acts.

In Acts 11:27f., he is at Antioch foretelling “a great famine over all the world,” “which,” adds the historian, “came to pass in the days of Claudius.” The visit of Agabus to Antioch took place in the winter of A.D. 43–44, and was the means of urging the Antiochian Christians to send relief to the brethren in Judea by the hands of Barnabas and Saul.

Two points should be noted. (1) The gift of prophecy here takes the form of prediction. The prophet's chief function was to reveal moral and spiritual truth, to “forth-tell” rather than to “foretell”; but the interpretation of God's message sometimes took the form of predicting events. (2) The phrase “over all the world” (practically synonymous with the Roman empire) must be regarded as a rhetorical exaggeration if strictly interpreted as pointing to a general and simultaneous famine. But there is ample evidence of severe periodic famines in various localities in the reign of Claudius (e.g., Suetonius Claudius 18; Tacitus Ann. xii.43), and of a great dearth in Judea under the procurators Cuspius Fadus and Tiberius Alexander, A.D. 44–48 (Ant. xx.2.6;5.2), which probably reached its climax ca. A.D. 46.

In Acts 21:10f. we find Agabus at Caesarea warning Paul, by a vivid symbolic action (after the manner of OT prophets; cf. Jer. 13:1ff.; Ezk. 3f.), of the imprisonment and suffering he would

AGABUS 亚迦布

音译：ag'ə-bəs【希腊语：Agabos】。耶路撒冷的一位基督徒先知，《使徒行传》两次提到这个名字。

在《使徒行传》11:27-28中，亚迦布在安提阿预言“天下将有大大饥荒”，“这事在革老丢年间果然有了”。亚迦布是在公元43-44年冬天来到安提阿，目的是敦促安提阿教会把捐项托巴拿巴和扫罗送到犹太的同胞手里。

需要注意两点。（1）预言的赏赐以预告的形式出现。这位先知的主要作用是揭示道德和属灵真理，是“预告”，而不是“预示”；上帝信息的解释有时以预测事件的形式呈现出来。（2）如果严格地解释成各地普遍同时发生饥荒，那么短语“天下”（实际上指的就是罗马帝国）一定是一种夸张的手法。但是大量证据表明在革老丢统治期间很多地方周期性地发生了严重的饥荒（如，Suetonius Claudius 18; Tacitus Ann. xii.43），公元44-48年，在库斯皮乌总督和提庇留·亚历山大总督管理犹太时期，犹太地区爆发了大大饥荒（Ant. xx.2.6; 5.2），可能约公元46年的饥荒最严重。

在《使徒行传》21:10-11中，我们发现亚迦布在凯撒利亚通过一个具有象征意义的动作提醒保罗（旧约先知就使用这种语言方式；参：耶13:1起；西3-4），如果他下到耶路撒冷将遭受监

a-gä'dā [Akk. a-ga-dé]; biblical ACCAD a'kad [Heb. 'akkad]; elsewhere AKKAD. A principal city of Babylonia (Gen. 10:10). It was founded by Sargon of Agade (Sargon I) as his capital when he defeated Lugal-zaggesi king of Uruk, ended the Sumerian domination, and established a Semite dynasty, ultimately combining Mesopotamia and portions of Syria and Asia Minor under his rule. Prior to the discoveries at Mari, his reign (and hence the founding of Agade) was dated as early as 3800 B.C.; but now Sargon's reign must be placed within the period from ca. 2370 to ca. 2150 B.C., probably (following P. van der Meer) 2242–2186.

音译：a-gä'dā 【阿卡德语：a-ga-dé】；《圣经》中拼写为 ACCAD（“亚甲”）a'kad 【希伯来语：'akkad】；其他地方拼写为 AKKAD（“亚甲”）。巴比伦的主城（创 10:10）。亚甲的撒珥根（撒珥根一世）在打败了乌鲁克的卢伽尔（Lugal-zaggesi）王，结束了苏美尔人的统治，建立了闪族王朝，最终将美索不达米亚和叙利亚与小亚细亚的部分地区归入自己的统治之下时，定都亚甲。人们在马里有所发现之前，撒珥根的统治时期（也就是亚甲的建立时间）被追溯至公元前 3800 年，但是撒珥根的统治时期一定介于约公元前 2370 年至 2150 年之间，（根据 P. van der Meer 的说法）可能介于公元前 2242 至 2186 年之间。

The name Agade is found in Sargon's bilingual inscriptions, written in Sumerian as ag-gi-dé^{ki} (the ^{ki} merely indicates that the word is a place name) and in Akkadian as a-ga-dé^{ki}, the latter, it would seem, having been taken over from the Sumerian form of writing, since the word appears in Akkadian frequently as ak-ka-du-ú (with case-endings -i and -a). In Old Akkadian the form a-ki-dí-e (= akide, gen of akidû or akidi'u) is closer to the Sumerian. Probably with the extension of kingship from the city alone to the surrounding area, the name Accad was extended in meaning to include all of northern Sumer, and was so used by

Naram-Sin (2159–2123 B.C.) and Šar-kali-šarri (2122–2098 B.C.), the last kings of the dynasty of Agade.

Use of the expression “king of Sumer and Accad” (lugal Ki-en-gi Ki-uri-gè [Ki-uri, uri-gè, and just uri also occur]) is found in inscriptions of Ur-Nammu (2044–2027 B.C.), and often thereafter, even though the city Agade was destroyed by the Guti in the days of Šar-kali-šarri, and possibly never rebuilt. In the Code of Lipit-Ishtar (1864–1854 B.C.), e.g., “Sumer and Accad” (Ki-en-gi Ki-uri) occurs several times in the prologue, while Hammurabi (1724–1682) refers to “spacious Accad” (A.GA.DÉ^{KI}) and “the land of Sumer and Accad” (su-me-ri-im u ak-ka-di-im), using both the classical and the syllabic forms of writing the name, in the prologue to his Law Code.

The location of Agade is not positively identified, several sites in the vicinity of Babylon (notably Tell Der), and even Babylon itself, having been suggested as possibilities. The term “Accad” is applied to northern Babylonia, and Sumer to southern Babylonia, but the line of demarcation is uncertain.

“苏美尔和亚甲王”这种表达 (lugal Ki-en-gi Ki-uri-gè [Ki-uri, uri-gè, 有时只使用了 uri]) 出现在乌尔纳姆 (Ur-Nammu, 公元前 2044-2027 年) 的碑文上, 自那以后的碑文中经常提及这种表达, 虽然亚甲在撒卡利萨里时期被古提人摧毁, 而且可能自那以后一直没被重建。例如, 在里辟伊士他法典中, “苏美尔和亚甲” (Ki-en-gi Ki-uri) 在序言中出现过几次, 而汉谟拉比 (公元前 1724-1682 年) 在他的法典的序言中以古典形式和音节拼写形式提到了 “宽阔的亚甲” (A.GA.DÉ^K) 和 “苏美尔和亚甲地区” (su-me-ri-im u ak-ka-di-im)。

亚甲的位置尚未被确定, 人们认为巴比伦附近的几个地方 (特别是 Tell Der), 甚至巴比伦都有可能是亚甲。“亚甲”指的是巴比伦北部, 而苏美尔指的是巴比伦南部, 但是两地之间没有明确的分界线。

ā'gag [Heb. ^agāg].

1. The name or title of an Amalekite king mentioned by Balaam (Nu. 24:7).

2. Another Amalekite king defeated by Saul but spared, along with the choicest spoil, in contravention of the divine command (1 S. 15:8f.). After rebuking Saul, Samuel himself killed Agag for all the Amalekite atrocities.

ā'gag-īt [Heb. ^agāgî—'member of the house of Agag']. An opprobrious adjective applied to Haman (Est. 3:1, 10; 8:3, 5; 9:24). Jewish tradition has always credited the adversaries of the nation with membership in the house of Amalek, the hereditary foe of Israel. The LXX has Bougaíos in Est. 3:1 and Makedōn (Macedonian) in 9:24, to signify "enemy." See BOUGAEAN.

AGAIN

In the AV, "bring again" may mean "bring back," as in Gen. 24:5 (Heb. šûb). Cf. "carry again" in Gen. 43:12; 2 Ch. 24:11, AV (šûb), "turn again" (Ex. 4:7), etc.

On the expression "born again" (AV, Jn. 3:3, 7; 1 Pet. 1:3, 23) see ANEW; REGENERATION.

1、巴兰提到的亚玛力王的名字或头衔 (民 24:7)。

2、表示另一位亚玛力王, 扫罗将其打败后, 将他与上好的美物都留了下来, 这违反了神的旨意 (撒上 15:8-9)。撒母耳责备了扫罗, 之后将亚甲杀死以惩治亚玛力人的暴行。

AGAGITE 亚甲族

音译: ā'gag-īt 【希伯来语: ^agāgî——“属于亚甲”】。一个用在哈曼身上的贬义形容词 (斯 3:1, 10; 8:3, 5; 9:24)。按照犹太人的传统, 亚玛力人始终被认为是犹太人的仇敌, 是以色列的世仇。《七十士译本》在《以斯帖记》3:1 中译为 "Bougaíos", 在《以斯帖记》9:24 中译为 "Makedōn" (马其顿人), 表示 "敌人" 的意思。见 BOUGAEAN (波加伊族)。

AGAIN 再、又、重

在《钦定版圣经》中, "bring again" 可以表示 "带回" 的含义, 如《创世记》24:5 (希伯来语: šûb)。参: 《钦定版圣经》《创世记》43:12 中的 "carry again" ("归还"); 《历代志下》24:11 (šûb), "turn again" ("与……一样") (出 4:7) 等。

the early Church.

I. In the NT.—Although the word agape was used constantly in the sense of love-feast in the postcanonical literature from the time of Ignatius onward, it is found in the NT only in Jude 12 (AV “feasts of charity”; RSV, NEB, “love-feasts”), and in 2 Pet. 2:13 according to a very doubtful reading (cf. AV “deceivings”; NEB “deceptions”; RSV “dissipation”). For the existence of the Christian common meal, however, we have abundant NT evidence.

The “breaking of bread” practiced by the primitive community in Jerusalem according to Acts 2:42, 46 must certainly be interpreted in the light of Pauline usage (1 Cor. 10:16; 11:24) as referring to the ceremonial act of the Lord’s Supper. But the added clause in v. 46, “they took their food with gladness and singleness of heart,” implies that a social meal was connected in some way with this ceremonial act. Paul’s references to the abuses that had sprung up in the Corinthian church at the meetings for the observance of the Lord’s Supper (1 Cor. 11:20–22, 33f.) make it evident that in Corinth as in Jerusalem the celebration of the rite was associated with participation in a meal of a more general character. And in one of the “we” sections of Acts (20:11) where Luke is giving personal testimony as to the manner in which the Lord’s Supper was observed by Paul in a church of his own founding, we find the breaking of bread associated with and yet

I. 在《旧约》中。尽管自伊格那丢时期开始正典之后的文献中经常用“agape”这个词表示“爱宴”，但是，按照一个非常值得怀疑的理解，在《新约》中，只有《犹大书》1:12（《钦定版圣经》译为“feasts of charity”[“爱席”]；《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》译为“love-feasts”[“爱筵”]）和《彼得后书》2:13中提到了这个名词（参：《钦定版圣经》译为“deceivings”[“诡诈”]；《新英文译本》译为“deceptions”[“诡诈”]；《修订标准译本》译为“dissipation”[“浪费”]）。然而，在《新约》中，我们有大量关于基督徒共享聚餐的证据。 distinguished from an eating of food, in a manner which makes it natural to conclude that in Troas, as in Jerusalem and Corinth, Christians when they met together on the first day of the week were accustomed to partake of a common meal. That the word agape or love-feast used in Jude 12 is found early in the 2nd cent., and often afterward, as a technical expression for the religious common meals of the Church puts the meaning of Jude's reference beyond doubt.

根据《使徒行传》2:42, 46中的记载，应当按照保罗的用法（林前10:16; 11:24），将“掰饼”理解成主的晚餐中的一种仪式。但是在《使徒行传》2:46中增加了一个子句“他们存着欢喜诚实的心用饭”，这表明社交晚餐与掰饼仪式存在一定的联系。保罗提到哥林多教会在主的晚餐仪式上胡作非为（林前11:20-22, 33-34），这显然表明，在哥林多和耶路撒冷，庆祝这种仪式与参加更为普通的筵席有关。路加在《使徒行传》的一个“我们”的段落中（徒20:11）亲自见证了保罗在他建立的教会中守主的晚餐的方式，我们发现掰饼与吃东西有关，但是两者又有区别，因此，我们自然地推断出在特罗亚、耶路撒冷和哥林多地区，基督徒在一周聚会的第一天习惯于聚餐。《犹大书》1:12中使用的“爱宴”或爱席一词最早出现在公元2世纪，但是，后来这个词经常用作表示教会内聚餐的术语，从而证明《犹大书》准确地使用了这个词的含义。

II. Origin.—In the Jerusalem community, the common meal appears to have sprung out of the koinōnia or communion that characterized the first days of the Christian Church (cf. Acts 1:14; 2:1; etc.). The religious meals familiar to Jews—the Passover being the great type—would make it natural in Jerusalem to give expression to the sense of brotherhood by means of table fellowship; and the community of goods practiced by the infant Church (2:44; 4:32) would readily take the particular form of a common table at which the wants of the poor were supplied out of the abundance of the rich (6:1ff.). The presence of the agape in the Greek church of Corinth was no doubt due to the initiative of Paul, who would hand on the observances associated with the Lord's Supper just as he had received them from the earlier disciples; but participation in a social meal would commend itself very easily to men familiar with the common meals that formed a regular part of the procedure at meetings of those religious clubs and associations which were so numerous at that time throughout the Greco-Roman

III. Relation to the Eucharist.-In the opinion of the great majority of scholars the agape was a meal at which not only bread and wine but all kinds of viands were used, a meal which had the double purpose of satisfying hunger and thirst and giving expression to the sense of Christian brotherhood. At the end of this feast, bread and wine were taken according to the Lord's command, and after thanksgiving to God were eaten and drunk in remembrance of Christ and as a special means of communion with the Lord Himself and through Him with one another. The agape was thus related to the eucharist as Christ's last Passover to the Christian rite which He grafted upon it. It preceded and led up to the eucharist, and was quite distinct from it.

In opposition to this view it has been strongly urged by some modern critical scholars that in the apostolic age the Lord's supper was not distinguished from the agape, but that the agape itself from beginning to end was the Lord's Supper which was held in memory of Jesus. It seems fatal to such an idea, however, that while Paul makes it quite evident that bread and wine were the only elements of the memorial rite instituted by Jesus (1 Cor. 11:23-29), the abuses which had come to prevail at the social gatherings of the Corinthian church would have been impossible in the case of a meal consisting only of bread and wine (cf. vv. 21, 33f.). Moreover, unless the eucharist in the apostolic age had been discriminated from the common meal, it would be difficult to explain how at a later period the two could be found

III. 与圣餐的关系。大多数学者认为爱席不只有饼和酒，而且有各种食物，爱席不仅解决饥饿和口渴的问题，而且基督徒借此表达了他们之间的弟兄情谊。基督徒在宴会结束时按照主的命令领取饼和葡萄酒，并在感谢完上帝后，吃饼喝酒来纪念耶稣，他们以这种特殊的方式与主相交，并藉着基督与其他的弟兄相交。因此，爱席与圣餐有关，正如基督的最后一个逾越节也与这种基督教仪式有关，因为基督将它们连接在了一起。爱席早于圣餐，并逐渐过渡到圣餐，但两者相差悬殊。

diverging from each other so completely.

IV. Separation from the Eucharist.-In the Didache (ca. A.D. 100) there is no sign as yet of any separation. The direction that the second eucharistic prayer should be offered “after being filled” (10:1) appears to imply that a regular meal had immediately preceded the observance of the sacrament. In the Ignatian epistles (ca. A.D. 110) the Lord’s Supper and the agape are still found in combination (Smyrn. 8:2). It has sometimes been assumed that Pliny’s letter to Trajan (ca. A.D. 112) proves that the separation had already taken place, for he speaks of two meetings of the Christians in Bithynia, one before the dawn at which they bound themselves by a “sacramentum” or oath to do no kind of crime, and another at a later hour when they partook of food of an ordinary and harmless character (Ep. x.96). But as the word “sacramentum” cannot be taken here as necessarily or even probably referring to the Lord’s Supper, the evidence of this passage is of little weight.

When we come to Justin Martyr (ca. A.D. 150) we find that in his account of church worship he does not mention the agape at all, but speaks of the eucharist as following a service which consisted of the reading of Scripture, prayers, and exhortation (Apol. i.67); so by his time the separation must have taken place. Tertullian (ca. A.D. 200) testifies to the continued existence of the agape (Apol. 39), but shows clearly that in the church of the West the eucharist was no longer associated with it (De Corona 3). In the East the connection

IV. 从圣餐中分离。在《十二使徒遗训》中（约公元 100 年）看不出爱席与圣餐分离的迹象。《十二使徒遗训》10:1 中提到，要在“吃饱后”献上第二次圣餐祷告，这个命令似乎暗示出在守圣餐前不久存在着定期聚餐的习俗。在《伊格那丢书信》（约公元 110 年）中，主的晚餐和爱席仍然结合在一起（Smyrn. 8:2）。人们有时认为普林尼给图拉真的书信（约公元 112 年）证明爱席与主的晚餐已经分开。因为他提到基督徒两次在庇推尼聚会，一次在黎明之前，他们在筵席中用“圣餐”或誓言约束自己不可犯罪，另一次是在黎明之后一小时，他们享用无害的普通食物（Ep. x.96）。但是这里的“圣餐”不一定甚至不可能表示主的晚餐，因此这段描述提供了不太充分的证据。

appears to have been longer maintained, but by and by the severance became universal; and though the agape continued for long to maintain itself as a social function of the Church, it gradually passed out of existence or was preserved only as a feast of charity for the poor. 举办的慈善筵席。

Various influences appear to have cooperated in this direction. Trajan's enforcement of the old law against clubs may have had something to do with it (cf. Pliny, loc. cit.), but a stronger influence probably came from the rise of a popular suspicion that the evening meals of the Church were scenes of licentious revelry and even of crime. The actual abuses which already are attested in the apostolic age (1 Cor. 11:20ff.; Jude 12), and which would tend to multiply as the Church grew in numbers and came into closer contact with the heathen world, might suggest the advisability of separating the two observances.

The strongest influence of all, however, would come from the growth of the ceremonial and sacerdotal spirit by which Christ's simple institution was slowly turned into a mysterious priestly sacrifice. To Christ Himself it had seemed natural and fitting to institute the supper at the close of a social meal. But when this memorial supper had been transformed into a repetition of the sacrifice of Calvary by the action of the ministering priest, the ascetic idea became natural that the eucharist ought to be received fasting, and that it would be sacrilegious to link it on to the observances of an ordinary social meal.

然而，最重要的影响可能来自于仪式感和祭司制度的发展，基督的简单习俗因此慢慢变成了神秘的祭司献祭仪式。对耶稣基督来说，社交筵席结束时开始晚餐是自然合宜的。但是，当这种纪念晚餐因侍奉祭司的行为变成了耶稣受难的一种重复，禁欲思想自然认为禁食者应当接受圣餐，将圣餐与普通社交筵席中的仪式联系在一起是亵渎神的。

AGE

[Heb. 'ólām; Gk. aiōn]. Indefinitely long duration, whether backward in time, forward in time, or both.

AGE 更古

【希伯来语: 'ólām; 希腊语: aiōn】。之前、之后或前后无限长的时间。

1. God is God “from age to age” (Ps. 90:2, Heb. mē'ólām 'ad 'ólām; LXX, Gk. apó tou aiōnos hēōs tou aiōnos), i.e., everlasting in both directions. His existence had no beginning and will have no end. The idea of eternality can be emphasized by the use of the plural 'ólāmîm or aiōnes, or by compound expressions such as l'ólām wā'ed (e.g., Ex. 15:18, Heb. 'ed ['ad] being a synonym of 'ólām), “for ever and ever.” In the NT Gk. eis tón aiōna (lit. “to the age,” but which itself can mean “forever” in appropriate contexts, such as Jn. 6:51) can be made more emphatic by the use of such forms as eis tous aiōnas (lit. “to the ages,” e.g., Rom. 1:25), eis pántas tous aiōnas (lit. “to all the ages,” Jude 25), eis tous aiōnas tón

1、上帝是“从更古到永远”的神(诗 90:2, 希伯来语: mē'ólām 'ad 'ólām; 《七十士译本》, 希腊语: apó tou aiōnos hēōs tou aiōnos), 即, 前后无限的时间。上帝是自有永有的。通过使用 'ólāmîm 或 aiōnes 的复数形式, 或用复合词 l'ólām wā'ed (如, 出 15:18, 希伯来语: 'ed ['ad], 'ólām 的同义词) 强调了永恒的概念, “永永远远”。在《新约》中, 希腊语 eis tón aiōna (字面意思是“更古”, 但是在适当的语境中 [如, 约 6:51] 表示“永远”) 因使用了以下几种形式, 所以可以表达更加明确的含义, 这几种形式分别是 eis pántas tous aiōnas (字面意思是“万古” 犹 1:25)、eis tous aiōnas tón aiōnōn (字面意思是“永永远远”, 如: 加 1:5) 或 eis pásas tás geneás tou aiōnos tón aiōnōn

aiōnōn (lit. “to the ages of the ages,” e.g., Gal. 1:5), or even eis pásas tás geneás tou aiōnos tōn aiōnōn (lit. “to all the generations of the age of the ages,” Eph. 3:21). God is “the king of the ages” (1 Tim. 1:17; Rev. 15:3), i.e., the eternal King.

The context alone can determine whether such expressions have the connotation of absolute eternity or simply of very long duration. The hills are “everlasting” (Heb. gib’ôl’ôlām, lit. “hills of age,” Dt. 33:15; Hab. 3:6), and Mt. Zion “abideth for ever” (Heb. l’ôlām, Ps. 125:1); but these had a beginning and will have an end. God was there before them and will continue after them (Ps. 90:2; 102:25–27). The city gates of Jerusalem are apostrophized as “everlasting doors” or rather “ancient doors” in Ps. 24:7, 9 (pithê’ôlām cf. RV mg.). The “ancient high places” of Ezk. 36:2 are bāmôl’ôlām (lit. “high places of age”). Similarly “the years of ancient times” (Ps. 77:5[MT 6]) are literally “the years of ages” š’nôl’ôlāmim). In the NT the prophets are said to have prophesied ap’ aiōnos, which simply means “from of old” (Lk. 1:70; Acts 3:21). A remoter antiquity is denoted by pró tōn aiōnōn, “before the ages” (1 Cor. 2:7).

2. Toward the end of the pre-Christian era the division of the course of time into more definitely demarcated “ages” is encountered. In Zoroastrian eschatology, which exercised some influence on Jewish ideas of time in the closing centuries B.C., the world’s duration of twelve thousand years was divided into four ages of three thousand years each.

单依靠语境就能确定这些词组是表示绝对永恒的概念，还是仅仅表示很长的时间。山岭是永恒的（希伯来语：gib’ôl’ôlām，字面意思是“永世之岭”，申 33:15；哈 3:6），锡安山“永不动摇”（希伯来语：l’ôlām，诗 125:1）；但是，山岭和锡安山都有始有终。上帝在它们之前就已存在，在它们灭没之后仍然长存（诗 90:2；102:25-27）。在《诗篇》24:7, 9 中，耶路撒冷的众城门被称为“永久的门户”，或者被称为“古老的门户”（pithê’ôlām，参《修订译本》旁注）。《以西结书》36:2 中“永久的山冈”是 bāmôl’ôlām（字面意思是“悠久的山冈”）。类似的用法还有“上古之年”（诗 77:5[《马所拉文本》6]字面意思是“久远的年代”，š’nôl’ôlāmim）。在《新约》中，先知从创世以来就说预言，ap’ aiōnos 仅表示“自古以来”（路 1:70；徒 3:21）。pró tōn aiōnōn 表示遥远的年代，“万古以前”（林前 2:7）。

2、基督诞生以前的年代即将结束时，出现了更明确的时间分界线——“时代”。琐罗亚斯德的末世论在公元前世纪末对犹太人的时间观念产生了一定的影响，他们将 12,000 年的宇宙时长分为四个世代，每个世代 3,000 年。在《以斯拉二书》6:7 起（接近公元一世纪末），以撒（或以扫）代表着一个世代的结束；今世从约伯到最后的

In 2 Esd. 6:7ff. (toward the end of the 1st cent. A.D.) one age is said to have come to an end with Isaac (or Esau); the present age runs from Jacob to the last judgment; the resurrection age follows. The last four hundred years of the present age are the days of the Messiah; at the end of them he dies, together with all mankind, and primeval silence pervades the world for seven days; then comes the resurrection.

The Qumrân community (ca. 130 B.C.–A.D. 70) believed itself to be living in the closing phase of the “epoch of Belial”; a new age, marked by the fulfillment of all that the prophets had foretold, would be inaugurated by the appearance of the prophet of Dt. 18:15ff. together with “the Messiahs of Aaron and Israel.”

The distinction between the present age and the age to come is commonly made in the NT, but with a peculiarly Christian modification. The present age is evil (Gal. 1:4); in the age to come, which follows the resurrection and judgment, righteousness will reign (cf. 2 Pet. 3:13). Jesus differentiates between the conditions of life experienced now by “the sons of this age” (cf. Lk. 16:8), who “marry and are given in marriage,” and those proper to such as “are accounted worthy to attain to that age, and the resurrection from the dead,” in which marriage is unknown (Lk. 20:34–36). He speaks of “an eternal sin,” which is never forgiven—“neither in this age, nor in that which is to come” (Mk. 3:29; Mt. 12:32). He tells His disciples that those who make sacrifices for His sake here and now will even in this life receive a recompense, “and in the age to come eternal life” (Mk. 10:30 par.). While “eternal life” (zōē aiōnios) etymologically might mean simply life of indefinite or perpetual duration, it appears from its NT usage to mean more precisely “the life of the age to come,” i.e., resurrection life.

昆兰社团（约公元前 130 年至公元 70 年）认为他们生活在“彼列时代”末期；《申命记》18:15 起中的先知以及“亚伦和以色列的弥赛亚”的降临揭开了新时代的序幕，先知们预言的完全应验是新时代的标志。

《新约》通常对今世和来世作了区分，但专门按照基督教义进行了修正。现在是罪恶的时代（加 1:4）；复活和审判之后是将来的时代，那时将有义居在其中（参：彼后 3:13）。耶稣区分了“有嫁有娶的这世界的人”的当下生活状况（参：路 16:8）与那些不嫁也不娶的“配得那世界和从死里复活的人”的生活状况（路 20:34–36）。祂提到“永远的罪”不得赦免——“今世来世”都不得赦免（可 3:29；太 12:32）。耶稣告诉祂的门徒那些因祂的缘故牺牲的人甚至在今世都会得奖赏，“在来世必得永生”（可 10:30 平行经文）。而“永生”（zōē aiōnios）从词源学上讲可能仅仅表示无限的生命或永恒的生命，《新约》中的“永生”似乎表示更为具体的“来世的生命”，即复活的生命。

In the Epistles the “present evil age” (Gal. 1:4) is dominated by “the god of this age,” who blinds the minds of unbelievers (2 Cor. 4:4). The “rulers of this age” (1 Cor. 2:6, 8) are the archontes, the principalities and powers, who through ignorance of God’s hidden wisdom plotted the crucifixion of “the Lord of glory” and thus encompassed their own downfall (cf. Col. 2:15). From them “the wisdom of this age” derives its character (1 Cor. 2:6; cf. 3:18; 1:20). The riches of this age are perishable and transient (1 Tim. 6:17); it was through love for “this present age” that Demas forsook the company of Paul (2 Tim. 4:10). Believers are urged not to be “conformed to this age” (Rom. 12:2) but to live sober, righteous, and godly lives in “this present age” (Tit. 2:12). To do this means resisting the prevalent trend, but such resistance is possible for them because they have already come to experience “the powers of the age to come” (He. 6:5).

Here is the distinctive feature in NT teaching about the two ages. The age to come is the age of the kingdom of God. The kingdom of God has already arrived with the ministry of Jesus and has taken the field against the power of evil (Lk. 11:20; Mt. 12:28); yet Jesus bids His disciples pray for its arrival (Lk. 11:2; Mt. 6:10). In other words, through the ministry of Jesus the age to come has broken into the present age; the dead already hear the voice of the Son of God and live (Jn. 5:25); the judgment has already taken place (Jn. 3:18; 12:31); believers in Jesus receive here and now eternal life—the life of the age to come (Jn. 3:36). As participants with Christ in His death, burial, resurrection, and exaltation (Rom. 6:3ff.; Col. 2:12, 20; 3:1; Eph. 2:5f.), they belong spiritually to that age while they continue to live temporally in this age. Hence the tension to which they are constantly subject during the overlapping period between the times—the “last days” or “last hour,” as this period is called in the NT. This period, in which the age to come has arrived while the present age has not yet passed away, stretches from the first advent of Christ to His parousia.

在使徒书信中“这世界的神”主宰着“这罪恶的世代”（加 1:4），并弄瞎了不信之人的心眼（林后 4:4）。Archontes 表示这“世上有权的”（林前 2:6, 8），即“一切执政的掌权的”，他们因不知上帝隐藏的智慧而将“荣耀的主”钉在了十字架上，并因此致使他们自己走向灭亡（参：西 2:15）。“这世上的智慧”的特质源于这些权势之人（林前 2:6；参：林前 3:18；1:20）。今世的富足终将消失并且很短暂（提前 6:17）；底马正是因为贪爱“现今的世界”才放弃与保罗同行（提后 4:10）。保罗劝告信徒不要“效法这个世界”（罗 12:2），而是要“在今世”自守、公义、敬虔度日（多 2:12）。这就意味着要抵抗住恶世的诱惑，而他们能够抵挡住诱惑，因为他们是觉悟“来世全能的人”（来 6:5）。

The present age will pass away finally at the synteleia tou aiōnos (“the consummation of the age”)—a phrase peculiar to Matthew. Then the last judgment (Mt. 13:39f., 49) and the parousia of Christ (Mt. 24:3) take place; until then the risen Christ promises His presence to His disciples on earth (Mt. 28:20). A similar phrase, synteleia tōn aiōnōn (“consummation of the ages”), appears in He. 9:26, where, however, it denotes the first inbreaking of the coming age into the present age: Christ was manifested “once at the end of the ages ... to put away sin.” So too Paul in 1 Cor. 10:11 speaks of himself and his readers as those on whom the “ends of the ages” (télē tōn aiōnōn) have come. These expressions point to the appearance of Christ as the turning point of world history (cf. Gal. 4:4).

5:25)；审判已经开始（约 3:18；12:31）；信耶稣的人进入神国，得永生——来世的永生（约 3:36）。因为他们与耶稣一同受死、一同埋葬、一同复活并且一同升天（罗 6:3 起；西 2:12, 20；3:1；弗 2:5-6），所以他们在灵里已经属于天国，但是他们仍要暂居于这个世代。因此他们仍要面临两个时代交替时期的压力——《新约》中称这段时期为“最后的日子”或“最后的时候”。来世在这一时期已经来临，而今世尚未结束，这一时期从基督降临一直延续至基督复临。

今世将在“这世代的末了”（synteleia tou aiōnos）结束——只有《马太福音》中使用了这个短语。之后便是最后的审判（太 13:39-40, 49）和基督再临（太 24:3）；耶稣基督应许祂的门徒祂会在那时在地上向他们显现（太 28:20）。《希伯来书》9:26 中使用了类似的短语 synteleia tōn aiōnōn（“末世”），这个短语表示的是今世进入来世的开始阶段：耶稣基督在“末世显现一次……好除掉罪”。保罗在《哥林多前书》10:11 中提到了处在“末世”（télē tōn aiōnōn）的自己和他的读者。这些词语表明基督降临是世界历史的转折点（参：加 4:4）。

3. Occasionally aiōn, in the singular or plural, is used of the created world, as in He. 1:2; 11:3 (pl. in both places). There are antecedents for this use in the LXX, e.g., Ex. 15:18, where the Lord is described as “reigning over the world for ever and ever” (basileuōn tōn aiōna; cf. Wisd. 13:9; 14:6; 18:4; etc.).

4. The Gnostic use of aiōnes to denote an order of spiritual beings is not found in biblical Greek. When Paul in Col. 1:26 and Eph. 3:9 speaks of the mystery of God which has been concealed “from the ages” (apó tōn aiōnōn), he means nothing more than that it has been concealed from the beginning of time until its present revelation.

ā'gē [Heb. 'āgē]. A Hararite, father of Shammah, one of David's three heroes (2 S. 23:11). The MT here is supported by 4QSam^a, making suggested emendations unwarranted.

3、有时用 aiōn 的单数或复数形式表示被造的世界，如在《希伯来书》1:2; 11:3（这两处都使用了这个词的复数形式）中。《七十士译本》中有这种用法的先例，如《出埃及记》15:18 中说，耶和华“必作王，直到永永远远”（basileuōn tōn aiōna；参：智 13:9; 14:6; 18:4；等）。

4、诺斯底派用 aiōnes 表示对属灵生命的安排，而希腊语《圣经》中没有发现这种用法。当保罗在《歌罗西书》1:26 和《以弗所书》3:9 中提到“历历代”所隐藏的神的奥秘（apó tōn aiōnōn）时，他不过想说，这奥秘从创世开始到今世的启示一直被隐藏着。

ā'gē-ə [Gk. Augia] (1 Esd. 5:38); AV, NEB, AUGIA. The wife of Jaddus, whose sons were removed from the priesthood because their ancestors had usurped priestly functions. The name is omitted in Ezr. 2 and Neh. 7.

AGITATOR

[Gk. kinóunta stáseis] (Acts 24:5); AV “mover of sedition”; NEB “fomentor of discord.” Both Greek words connote disquiet: stásis can mean “sedition,” “riot,” or “discord,” and kinéō means “move” or “stir.” Thus the combination indicates considerable agitation.

TERTULLUS, an orator hired to present the high priest's case against Paul, refers to him as “a pestilent fellow,” “an agitator,” “a ringleader.” From the perspective of the established leaders in Jerusalem, Paul was a threat to the unity of Judaism and to the political status of Jews internationally. It is interesting to note that the Roman government saw the picture quite differently (cf. Acts 18:14f.; 25:18f.; 26:31).

AGGEUS 哈该

音译: a-gē'əs (《钦定版圣经》, 拉一 6:1; 7:3; 拉二 1:40)。见 HAGGAI (哈该)。

AGIA 亚吉亚

音译: ā'gē-ə 【希腊语: Augia】 (拉一 5:38); 《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》译为 AUGIA (亚吉亚)。亚达斯的妻子, 亚达斯的子孙因为他们的祖先篡改祭司的职能而被免除祭司的职分。这个名字在《以斯拉记》2 章和《尼希米记》7 章中被删除了。

AGITATOR 煽动者、鼓动者

【希腊语: kinóunta stáseis】 (徒 24:5); 《钦定版圣经》译为 “mover of sedition” (“鼓动生乱的”); 《新英文译本》译为 “fomentor of discord” (“煽动纷争的”)。有两个希腊词语可以表示“使不安”的含义: stásis 意为“生乱”、“骚乱”或“纷争”, 而 kinéō 意为“鼓动”或“煽动”。因此, 这两个词结合在一起可以表示极大的骚乱。

辩士帖士罗 (见 TERTULLUS) 代表大祭司控诉保罗, 并称保罗如同“瘟疫一般”, 是“鼓动者”和“头目”。对于耶路撒冷的首领来说, 保罗对众犹太人的团结和犹太人在国际上的政治地位造成了威胁。有趣的是, 罗马政府对此有相当不同的看法 (参: 徒 18:14-15; 25:18-19; 26:31)。

AGLOW

[Gk. zéō] (Rom. 12:11); AV FERVENT; NEB ARDOUR. The primary meaning of the underlying Greek verb is “boil, bubble up” with an extended meaning for solids of “fiery hot.” It also, as today, functioned with a metaphorical sense, for example, “boil with rage” or “bubble with joy.” Thus in Rom. 12:11 “be aglow with the Spirit” means that one’s life should demonstrate the dynamic presence of the Holy Spirit like water boiling over a fire or metal fired to the glowing point.

AGONE

(1 S. 30:13, AV). An old past participle of the verb “go,” which today has the form “ago.”

AGONY

[Gk. agōnía; Vulg. agonia] (Lk. 22:44); NEB “anguish of spirit.” In the NT, the word used to describe the climax of the mysterious soul-conflict and unspeakable suffering of Our Lord in the garden at Gethsemane.

The term is derived from Gk. agōn, “contest,” and this in turn from ágō, “to drive or lead,” as in a chariot race. Its root idea is the struggle and pain of the severest athletic contest or conflict. The wrestling of the athlete has its counterpart in the wrestling of the suffering soul of

AGLOW 火热

【希腊语: zéō】(罗 12:11); 《钦定版圣经》译为 FERVENT (“火热”); 《新英文译本》译为 ARDOUR (“热情”)。这个希腊语动词的原意是“煮沸, 沸腾”, 后来引申出“火热”固体的含义。现今, 这个词也有了比喻义, 例如, “怒火”或“兴高采烈”。因此在《罗马书》12:11 中, “be aglow with the Spirit” (“心里火热”)意味着一个人要心如同沸腾的水或熔化的金属般火热地见证圣灵的显现。

另见 FERVENT (火热) (徒 18:25)。

AGONE 以前

(《钦定版圣经》, 撒上 30:13)。动词 “go” (“走”) 的过时过去分词, 现在拼写形式为 “ago” (“从前的、过去的”)。

AGONY 极其伤痛

【希腊语: agōnía; 《武加大译本》agonia】(路 22:44); 《新英文译本》译为 “anguish of spirit” (“痛苦”)。在《新约》中, 这个词用来表示主耶稣在客西马尼园中难以言明的心理冲突和无法形容的痛苦的顶点。

这个词源于希腊语 agōn, 意为“竞赛”, 而 agōn 源于 ágō, 意为“驱动或驾驶”, 如在战车竞赛中“驾驶战车”。这个词的词根表示残酷田径比赛或竞赛中的挣扎和痛苦。救主耶稣在园中内心的痛苦挣扎如同运动员摔跤一般。在挣扎的开始, 耶稣说祂心

the Savior in the garden. At the beginning of this struggle He speaks of His soul being exceedingly sorrowful even unto death, and this tumult of emotion culminated in the agony. All that can be suggested by the exhausting struggles and sufferings of charioteers, runners, wrestlers, and gladiators, in Grecian and Roman amphitheaters, is summed up in the pain and death-struggle of this solitary word “agony.” The word was rendered by Wyclif (1382) “maad in agonye”; Tyndale (1534) and following translators use “an agony.”

The record of Jesus’ suffering in Gethsemane, in the Synoptic Gospels (Mt. 26:36–46; Mk. 14:32–42; Lk. 22:39–46; and also in He. 5:7f.) indicates that it was threefold:

(1) Physical. The agony of His soul wrought its pain on His body, until “his sweat became as it were great drops of blood falling down upon the ground” (Lk. 22:44). He offered His prayers and supplications “with strong crying and tears” (He. 5:7). The intensity of His struggle so distressed and weakened Him that Luke says “there appeared unto him an angel from heaven, strengthening him.” The threefold record of the evangelists conveys the idea of the most intense physical pain.

(2) Mental. The crisis of Jesus’ career as Messiah and Redeemer came in Gethsemane. The moral issue of His atoning work was intelligently and voluntarily met here. The Gospels exhaust language in attempting to portray the stress and struggle of this conflict. “My soul is exceeding sorrowful even

对观福音书中对耶稣在客西马尼的痛苦记载（太 26:36-46；可 14:32-42；路 22:39-46；还有来 5:7-8）表明这种痛苦有三个方面：

（1）身体的痛苦。耶稣心灵的痛苦导致了祂身体上的痛苦，直到“汗珠如大血点，滴在地上”（路 22:44）。祂“大声哀哭和流泪”祷告和祈求（来 5:7）。痛苦和挣扎如此强烈以至于祂变得软弱，因此路加说：“有一位天使从天上显现，加添祂的力量”。福音传道者的三重记载表明耶稣在身体上忍受了极大的痛苦。

（2）精神上的痛苦。耶稣作为弥赛亚和救世主的工作在客西马尼遇到了危机。这里主动且智慧地解决了基督救赎工作的道德问题。福音书用尽一切词汇来描述这种冲突的紧张和挣扎。“我心里甚是忧伤，几乎要死”。“因着心里甚是忧伤，耶稣祷告更加诚恳，祂说道：父啊，倘若可行，求 unto death.” “Being in an agony he prayed more earnestly, saying, Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass away from me.” The mental clearness of Christ’s vision of humanity’s moral guilt, and the energy of will necessary to meet the issue and take “this cup” of being the world’s sin-bearer, indicate the awful sorrow and anguish of His supernatural conflict.

It is divinely significant that the word agōnía appears but once in all the NT. This solitary word records a solitary experience. Only One ever compassed the whole range of the world’s sorrow and pain, anguish and agony. The shame of criminal arrest in the garden and of subsequent condemnation and death as a malefactor had to His innocent soul the horror of humanity’s entire and ageless guilt. The mental and moral anguish of Jesus in Gethsemane interprets the meaning of Paul’s description of the atonement, “Him who knew no sin he made to be sin on our behalf” (2 Cor. 5:21).

(3) Spiritual. The agony of Jesus was supremely within the realm of His spirit. The effect of sin in separating the human soul from God was fathomed by the suffering Savior in the fathomless mystery of His supernatural sorrow. Undoubtedly the anguish of Gethsemane surpassed the physical torture of Calvary. The whole conflict was wrought out here. Jesus’ filial spirit, under the burden of the world’s guilt, felt isolated from the Father. This awful, momentary seclusion from His Father’s face constituted the “cup” which He prayed might pass from Him, and the “agony” of soul, experienced again on the cross, when He felt that God had forsaken Him.

尤为值得注意的是，agōnía 这个词在《新约》全书中只出现了一次。这个独立的词记录了一段孤独的经历。只有一人体验了世间一切的悲苦。耶稣被以罪犯的身份逮捕、定罪和处死，无辜的耶稣因这种羞辱而为人类全部、永恒的罪恶感到震惊。耶稣在客西马尼经历的精神和道德上的痛苦解释了保罗笔下赎罪的含义“神使无罪的，替我们成为罪”（林后 5:21）。

(3) 心灵上的痛苦。耶稣所承受的痛苦已经达到了祂的精神极限。救主耶稣在极度悲苦的无尽奥秘中洞悉了将人类灵魂与上帝分隔开的罪的果效。毋庸置疑，耶稣在客西马尼所受的痛苦超过了祂在十字架上所受的肉体之痛。所有的矛盾冲突在这里宣泄出来。圣子耶稣背负了这世界的罪，因此感到与天父隔绝了。这短暂而又可怕的与父隔绝被认为是耶稣祷告并恳求天父撤去的“苦杯”和心灵的“剧痛”，耶稣在十字架上再次感到“极其伤痛”，那时祂感觉父抛弃了祂。

No theory of the atonement can do justice to the threefold anguish of Jesus in Gethsemane and on Calvary, or to the entire trend of Scripture, that does not include the substitutionary element in His voluntary sacrifice, as stated by the prophet: “The Lord hath laid on him the iniquity of us all” (Isa. 53:6), and by His apostles: “who was delivered up for our trespasses” (Rom. 4:25), “who his own self bare our sins” (1 Pet. 2:24).

The authenticity of Lk. 22:43f. lacks full certainty inasmuch as some important ancient authorities omit it (e.g., p^{75} κ^a A B T W, Boh., Sah., Syr.^s, Marcion, Clement, Origen).

In the OT, the RSV uses “agony” to translate Heb. tah^alu’im (2 Ch. 21:19, AV “diseases”), hebel (Isa. 13:8, AV “sorrows”), and hul (Ezk. 30:16, AV “pain”).

The AV has “agony” in 2 Macc. 3:14, 16, 21 for Gk. agōnia and agōniōō, where the RSV has “distress” and “anguish,” and the NEB has “distress,” “anguish,” and “agony.”

任何赎罪理论都无法公正地评价耶稣在客西马尼和十字架上所经历的重痛苦，或者说，都无法公正地评价《圣经》的完整脉络，这些赎罪理论都没有将代为赎罪归入耶稣的自愿献祭中，正如先知所说：“耶和華使我們眾人的罪孽都歸在祂身上”（賽 53:6），也如使徒所說：“耶穌被交給人，是為了我們的過犯”（羅 4:25），“親身擔當了我們的罪”（彼前 2:24）。

《路加福音》22:43-44 的真实性不足，因为一些重要的古代权威作家和抄本删除了这两节经文（如， p^{75} κ^a 《亚历山太抄本》《梵蒂冈抄本》《博尔亚纳斯抄本》《费瑞抄本》，《波海利语译本》，《沙希地语译本》，《叙利亚与译本》，马吉安，革利免，俄利根）。

在《旧约》中，《修订标准译本》用“agony”（“痛苦”）翻译希伯来语 tah^alu’im（代下 21:19，《钦定版圣经》译为“diseases”[“病重”]），hebel（赛 13:8，《钦定版圣经》译为“sorrows”[“愁苦”]）和 hul（结 30:16，《钦定版圣经》译为“pain”[“痛苦”]）。

《钦定版圣经》在《马加比二书》3:14, 16, 21 中用“agony”（“痛苦”）翻译希腊语 agōnia 和 agōniōō，《修订标准译本》中用“distress”（“悲痛”）和“anguish”（“愁苦”）来翻译这两个词；而《新英文译本》译为“distress”（“悲痛”）、“anguish”（“愁苦”）和“agony”（“痛苦”）。

I. History of Research.—The first comprehensive study of the agrapha was by Alfred Resch in his monumental Agrapha. Resch collected 361 agrapha, and believed that some of these were fragments of an “original gospel.” His work was criticized by J. H. Ropes in Die Sprüche Jesu. The latter suggested that Resch’s collection contained only fourteen valuable and thirteen possibly valuable agrapha.

Between 1897 and 1907 B. P. Grenfell and A. S. Hunt discovered at Oxyrhynchus (Behnesa) in Egypt papyri from the 2nd to the 4th cents A.D. containing purported sayings of Jesus. In 1945 eleven Coptic codices, one tractate,

I. 耶稣语录的研究史。雷希 (Alfred Resch) 在他的不朽作品 (Agrapha) 中率先对耶稣语录进行了全面的研究。雷希收集了 361 条耶稣语录, 并认为有一些语录是“原福音书”中的内容。罗普斯 (J. H. Ropes) 在他的作品 (Die Sprüche Jesu) 中批判雷希的作品。罗普斯认为雷希的收录集只包含了 14 条有价值的和 13 条可能有价值的耶稣语录。 and fragments of a lost codex were discovered by accident near Nag Hammadi in upper Egypt. Among the treatises was a Gospel of Thomas, which contains 114 logia or sayings of Jesus, some of which are parallel to those found in the Oxyrhynchus papyri (Oxy. P. 1 = Thomas, logia 26–28, 30–33, 77; Oxy. P. 654 = Thomas, logia 1–6; Oxy. P. 655 = Thomas, logia 36–37, 39). It is possible that these papyri represent the Greek original of the Coptic Gospel of Thomas. The logia of Thomas, about half of which were unknown, constitute the most important collection of agrapha to be discovered.

The most important recent study of the agrapha is J. Jeremias, Unknown Sayings of Jesus. He selects eighteen sayings (including 1 Thess. 4:15ff.) which he considers “perfectly compatible with synoptic traditions, whose authenticity admits of serious consideration” (p. 42).

II. Sources.-A. The NT. There are in the NT apart from the Gospels a number of sayings attributed to Christ: Acts 1:4ff.; 11:16; 20:35; 1 Thess. 4:15ff. (cf. Mt. 24:30f.); and 1 Cor. 7:10 (cf. Mk. 10:11).

B. Variant Readings of the NT. Codex Bezae adds a saying on the Sabbath breaker before Lk. 6:5 (see IV. A below), and at Mt. 20:28 inserts, “But seek to increase from that which is small, and from the greater to become less” (cf. Lk. 14:8–10). It is possible to consider as agrapha later incorporated into the TR both the pericope of the woman caught in adultery (Jn. 7:53–8:11) and the 近代最重要的耶稣语录研究者是耶利米 (J. Jeremias)，他著有 Unknown Sayings of Jesus。他选择了 18 条耶稣语录（包括帖前 4:15 起），他认为“这些语录完全符合对观福音书中的传统，其真实性经得起仔细的推敲”（42 页）。

II. 耶稣语录的来源。A. 《新约》。在《新约》中，除了福音书外，还有很多书卷记录了耶稣的话语：《使徒行传》1:4 起；11:16；20:35；《帖撒罗尼迦前书》4:15 起。（参：太 24:30–31）和《哥林多前书》7:10（参：可 10:11）。

B. 《新约》的不同文本。《伯撒抄本》在《路加福音》6:5（见下面的 IV. A）关于安息日掰饼的描述前添加了一句耶稣的话语，并在《马太福音》20:28 中插入了“要让为小的加增力量，使为大的日益缺乏”（参：路 14:8–10）。这句话可能被认为是耶稣语录，因而后来被收录在《公认经文》中，关于妇人行淫被捉（约 7:53–8:11）的章节和《马可福音》的长版结 longer endings of Mark (16:9–20).

C. Apocryphal Gospels. The various APOCRYPHAL GOSPELS such as the Gospels of Mary, of Peter, of the Hebrews, of the Egyptians, etc. contain numerous sayings attributed to Jesus. The overwhelming mass of materials such as those in the Protevangelium of James, the Gospel of Nicodemus, etc. are legendary and worthless. It is conceivable that a few of the logia of the Gospel of Thomas (logia 8, 77, 82) are authentic, though most of the sayings in this work betray an Encratite or Gnostic slant.

D. Church Fathers. The earliest attempt to collect the extracanonical sayings of Jesus was by Papias of Hierapolis in Phrygia. His work in five books, An Exposition of the Oracles of the Lord (ca. A.D. 130), is no longer extant, but is cited by Eusebius (HE iii.39). The latter recognized that Papias was quite uncritical; e.g., a saying that he attributed to Christ speaks of vines multiplying with 10,000 shoots, each having 10,000 branches, with each branch having 10,000 tendrils, etc. Other church fathers such as Justin Martyr (d. 165), Tertullian (d. after 220), and Clement of Alexandria (d. 214) have preserved possibly genuine sayings of Christ. Cf. also 2 Clem 5:2–4.

E. Jewish Sources. The Talmud preserves but a few allusions to Jesus and his sayings. The anti-Christian polemic was later elaborated (post 9th cent. A.D.) in the Toledoth Jeshu narratives, which seek to justify Jesus' condemnation.

F. Islamic Sources. The Koran (61:6) claims that Jesus said, "I am the 尾(太 16:9–20)中都收录了这句话。

C. 次经福音书。不同的次经福音书(见 APOCRYPHAL GOSPELS[次经福音书])(如,《马利亚福音》《彼得福音》《希伯来福音》和《埃及人福音》等)中收录了许多耶稣语录。大量的资料(如,《雅各原始福音》,《尼哥底母福音》等作品中的资料)都是传说,没有任何价值。《多马福音》(耶稣语录 8, 77, 82)中的一些耶稣语录可能是真实的,尽管这本书中大部分的话语都违背了禁戒派或诺斯替派的观点。

D. 教父。最早收集典外耶稣话语的教会教父是弗吕家的帕皮亚。他的作品(An Exposition of the Oracles of the Lord, 约公元 130 年)共 5 册,现今已经失传,但是优西比乌(HE iii.39)引用了这部作品的内容。优西比乌认为帕皮亚是很没有判断力的;如,他记录耶稣说过葡萄藤上有 1,000 个藤枝,每个藤枝上有 1,000 个枝杈,每个枝杈上有 1,000 藤蔓等。其他的教父,如,殉道士游斯丁(卒于公元 165 年)、特士良(卒于公元 220 年后)和亚历山太的革利免(卒于公元 214 年)可能保存了耶稣真实的话语。另参《革利免二书》5:2–4。

E. 犹太教的资源。《他勒目》只收录了几句耶稣的引喻和话语。反基督教的辩论家后来(公元 9 世纪)在托利多的耶稣故事中详细地记录了耶稣的话语,这是为了寻找耶稣定罪的证据。

F. 伊斯兰教的资源。《古兰经》61:6 中称耶稣说:“我确是真主派来教化 messenger of Allah unto you ... bringing good tidings of a messenger who cometh after me, whose name is the Praised One [Arab Aḥmad, a name cognate with Muhammad].” Islamic scholars associate this name with the Gk. periklytós “renowned,” which they read in place of paráklētos in Jn. 14:26, etc. Numerous sayings are attributed to Jesus in the traditions collected by such authors as al-Ghazzali (A.D. 1058–1111). Perhaps the most noteworthy Islamic example is an Arabic inscription on a building erected by Akbar in A.D. 1601 at Fathpur-Sikri in northern India: “Jesus, on whom be peace, has said: ‘This world is a bridge. Pass over it, but build not your dwelling there’” (tr. Jeremias, p. 112).

III. Development of Agrapha.—Most agrapha have been created for tendentious purposes, in some cases by the modification of canonical passages. Logion 100 of the Gospel of Thomas reads: “Give the things of Caesar to Caesar, give the things of God to God and give Me what is Mine” (tr. Guillaumont, p. 51; cf. Mk. 12:17). The infancy Gospels attempt to magnify the child Jesus by having him rebuke his teacher for ignorance. (See APOCRYPHAL GOSPELS II.) the purported correspondence with King Abgar of Edessa is an attempt to trace the origins of the Syrian church to the times of Jesus. To lessen the severity of the original declaration the Gospel of Peter has modified Jesus’ cry from the cross to, “My power, my power, thou hast forsaken me.” In order to support an ascetic denigration of marriage the Gospel of the Egyptians has the Savior saying, “I am come to undo the works of the female” (tr. H-S, I, 166–67).

III. 耶稣语录的发展。大多数耶稣的话语是为了某种目的而创造出来的，有时是通过修改正典经文的内容，将其变成耶稣的话语。《多马福音》中的第 100 条耶稣语录写到：“凯撒的物当归给凯撒，神的物当归给神，我的物当归给我”（Guillaumont 译本，51 页；参：可 12:17）。初期的福音书记载了耶稣责备祂的老师无知，以此夸大幼时耶稣的能力。（见 Apocryphal Gospels II [次经福音书 II]。）传说中埃德萨阿伯加王的书信旨在将叙利亚教会的建立时间追溯到耶稣时代。《彼得福音》为了削弱最初宣告的严肃性将耶稣在十字架上的哭喊改为“我的神，我的神，为什么离弃我”。为了支持禁欲主义对婚姻的诋毁，《埃及福音》中救主说：“我来是要取消女人的工作”（H-S 译本，I, 166–67）。

IV. Possibly Authentic Agrapha.-A. From Variant Readings. Codex D at Lk. 6:5 inserts: “On the same day he saw a man performing a work on the Sabbath. Then said he unto him: ‘Man! If thou knowest what thou doest, thou art blessed. But if thou knowest not, thou art cursed and a transgressor of the Law’ ” (tr. Jeremias, p. 61). In other words, Jesus warned against the thoughtless transgression of the Sabbath injunction.

B. From Church Fathers. (1) Tertullian in De baptismo 20 quotes Christ as saying, “No man can obtain the kingdom of heaven who has not gone through temptation” (tr. H-S, I, 89).

(2) In Dial. 35 Justin Martyr records that Jesus warned, “There shall be divisions and heresies” (or “dissensions and squabbles”; Gk. schismata kai hairéseis).

(3) Clement of Alexandria in Misc. i.24.158 records that Jesus said, “Ask for the great things, and God will add to you what is small” (tr. H-S, I, 89; cf. Mt. 6:33).

(4) Theodotus, a disciple of the Gnostic Valentinus, claimed that Christ had admonished, “Save thyself and thy soul” (tr. H-S, I, 88).

(5) The Liber graduum, a Syriac work which stresses asceticism as the means of attaining spiritual perfection, records the saying, “As you are found so will you be led away hence” (tr. Jeremias, p. 83).

IV. 可能真实的耶稣语录。 A. 不同文本中的耶稣语录。《伯撒抄本》在《路加福音》6:5 中插入了下面一段话：“祂见一个人在安息日还劳作。然后祂对他说：‘人啊，若你晓得你所做的，当被祝福。但若你不知晓就要受咒诅，并成了犯律法的’”（耶利米译文，61 页）。换言之，耶稣在警告那些因粗心犯安息日禁令的人。

B. 教父作品中的耶稣语录。（1）特士良在 De baptismo 中引用了 20 句耶稣的话语“没有经受住试探的人不能进天国”（H-S 译本，I, 89）。

（2）在《救主对话录》35 中，殉道士游斯丁记载了耶稣警告道：“将会分门结党”（或“dissensions and squabbles” [“纷争和争吵”]，希腊语：schismata kai hairéseis）。

（3）亚历山太的革利免在 Misc. i.24.158 中记载道，耶稣说：“你们要先求祂的国和祂的义，这些东西都要加给你们了”（H-S 译本，I, 89；参：太 6:33）。

（4）诺斯替华伦提努派的门徒狄奥多士（Theodotus）说耶稣曾告诫“拯救你的肉体 and 灵魂”（H-S 译本，I, 88）。

（5）叙利亚语作品 Liber graduum 强调苦行主义是获得灵性完美的方式，并记载了“你即已被认出，就必被接走”（Jeremias 译本，83 页）。

(6) A popular statement, quoted or alluded to over fifty times in the church fathers, is “Be approved money changers [Gk. trapezítēs].” The idea is that we should be like the money changers who can detect counterfeit coins among the genuine (cf. 1 Thess. 5:21). Philo De specialibus legibus iv.77 conveys the same sense though with a different word: “And let the man who undertakes the duty of a judge, like a skillful money-changer [Gk. arguramoibós agathós], divide and distinguish between the natures of things, in order that confusion may not be caused by the mixing together of what is good and what is spurious.” Because of this parallel, Wright believes that the saying is derivative.

C. From the Papyri. (1) Oxy. P. 840, discovered in 1905, is an amulet text in which Jesus confronts a self-righteous high priest and rebukes him as follows: “Woe to you blind that see not. Thou hast bathed thyself in water that is poured out, in which dogs and swine lie night and day and thou hast washed thyself and hast chafed thine outer skin, which prostitutes also and flute-girls anoint, bathe, chafe and rouge, in order to arouse desire in men, but within they are full of scorpions and of badness of every kind. But I and my disciples of whom thou sayest, that we have not immersed ourselves, have been immersed in the living ... water ...” (tr. Jeremias, p. 49).

(2) The same papyrus draws a lesson from a cunning criminal: “First, before he does wrong [?], he thinks out everything that is crafty. But be on your guard that the same thing may not happen to you as does to them. For not only among the living do evildoers receive retribution from men, but they must also endure punishment and great torment” (tr. Jeremias, pp. 104f.). The disciples are warned that they must not be like a criminal whose cleverness deludes him about his ultimate fate.

(6) “成为合格兑换银钱的人[希腊语: trapezítēs]”这句谚语在教父的作品中被引用或提到至少五十次之多。这句话的意思是我们应该像兑换银钱的人一样,能从真币中辨认出假币(参:帖前 5:21)。斐洛在 De specialibus legibus iv.77 中虽然用了不同的词语,却表达了相同的含义:“愿承担审判职责的人如兑换银钱的人一样[希腊语: arguramoibós agathós],能区分和辨别事情的真伪,而不至于将真伪混为一谈”。赖特根据这个类比,赖特认为这个语录是派生出来的。

C. 蒲草纸中的耶稣语录。(1) 1905年发现的俄西林古蒲草纸 840 是一个护身符文本,在这中耶稣遇到一个自以为是的大祭司,并责备他说:“你们这些瞎眼的有祸了。你们在涌出的水中洗澡,而狗和猪日夜浸在其中,你们在这样的水中洁净自己,擦洗皮肤,妓女和吹笛的女子也在这里抹膏油、洗澡、擦脂抹粉,为要吸引男子的注意,但是其中充满了蝎子和各种败坏之物。而我和我的门徒在活水中洗净自己,你却说我们还没有洗净自己”(Jeremias 译本, 49 页)。

(2) 同一蒲草纸上还吸取了从狡猾的罪犯中得来的教训:“首先,在他犯罪以前[不确定],他用诡诈计划一切事。但是你要警醒,同样的事不会发生在你的身上。因为恶者不仅受到人

(3) In Oxy. P. 655 an admonition not to be anxious adds the promise, “He himself will give you your raiment” (tr. Jeremias, p. 97; cf. Mt. 6:25–34).

(4) In the badly damaged Oxy. P. 1224 is the following amplification of Mt. 5:44 and of Lk. 9:50: “And pray for [your] enemies, for he who is not against [you] is for you. [He that] stands far off [today] will tomorrow be [near you]” (tr. Jeremias, p. 96).

D. From Apocryphal Gospels and Acts.

(1) The apocryphal Acts of Peter (Actus Vercellenses), ch. 10, has Peter recalling that the Lord said, “They that are with me have not understood me” (tr. Jeremias, p. 91).

(2) The Gospel of the Nazarenes, cited by Jerome Adv. Pelag. iii.2, has the following amplification of the conversation about forgiving one’s brother (Mt. 18:21f.) with the Lord saying to Peter, “Yea, I say unto thee, until seventy times seven. For in the prophets also, after they were anointed by the Holy Spirit, the sinful word was found” (tr. Jeremias, p. 94). The point is that if even the holy prophets were not faultless, one should be willing to forbear a fault in a brother.

(3) Origen cites the same Gospel of the 的惩罚，而且他们还必须要忍受刑法和极大的折磨”（耶利米译本，104-105 页）。耶稣劝告门徒们不要像罪犯一样，用聪明欺哄自己。

（3）在俄西林古蒲草纸 655 中，神的应许中增加了一条不要忧虑的警告“祂会为你提供衣衫”（耶利米译本，97 页；参：太 6:25-34）。

（4）在严重损坏的俄西林古蒲草纸 1224 中详细地记载了《马太福音》5:44 和《路加福音》9:50 的内容：“当为你的仇敌祈祷，因为他不是在逼迫你，而是在帮助你。那今日离你遥远的神，明日必来到你的面前”（耶利米译本，96 页）。

D. 次经福音书和行传中的耶稣语录

（1）《次经》《彼得行传》（Actus Vercellenses）第 10 章记录了彼得回想起的耶稣的话语：“他们跟随我，却不明白我的话”（耶利米译文，91 页）。

（2）《拿撒勒福音》耶利米在 Adv. Pelag. iii.2 中引用了这本书中的内容，他详细地阐述了关于宽恕兄弟的谈话（太 18:21-22），并援引了主耶稣对彼得说的话，“我对你说，乃是到七十个七次。因为先知同样记载道，他们被圣灵膏抹之后，还是会说出有罪的话”（耶利米译文，94 页）。问题的关键是，倘若连神圣的先知都不是完美的，人该乐意去原谅一个弟兄的过犯。

（3）俄利根在他的《马太福音》

Nazarenes in his commentary on Matthew 19:16–22, the story of the rich young man: “But the rich man then began to scratch his head and it pleased him not. And the Lord said to him: ‘How canst thou say, “I have fulfilled the law and the prophets?” For it stands written in the law: Love thy neighbor as thyself; and behold, many of thy brethren, sons of Abraham, are begrimed with dirt and die of hunger—and thy house is full of many good things and nothing at all comes forth from it to them!’” (tr. H-S, I, 149; cf. Jas. 2:15f.; 1 Jn. 3:17). Jeremias argues that it may be an independent version, but others maintain that this is a novelistic expansion.

(4) Jerome in his commentary on Ephesians 5:4 cites a beautiful saying from the Gospel of the Hebrews: “And never be joyful save when ye look upon your brother in love” (tr. Jeremias, p. 92).

(5) The Gospel of Thomas, logion 8, has a parable which may be compared with that of the hidden treasure (Mt. 13:44) and that of the pearl of great price (Mt. 13:45f.): “And He said, ‘The man is like a wise fisherman who cast his net into the sea, he drew it up from the sea full of small fish; among them he found a large (and) good fish; that wise fisherman, he threw all the small fish down into the sea; he chose the large fish without regret’” (tr. Guillaumont, pp. 5, 7).

(6) The Gospel of Thomas, logion 82, contains a saying which is also known from Origen: “He who is near me is near the fire; he who is far from me is far from the kingdom!” (tr. Bruce, p. 144). Jeremias believes that a possible early

19:16–22 的注释中也引用了《拿撒勒福音》中关于青年财主的故事：“但是青年财主挠头且并不喜乐。耶稣对他说：‘你如何说：“我已完善了律法和先知？”因为律法书上记着：爱邻如己；看哪！你的许多弟兄（亚伯拉罕的子孙）满身污垢且因饥饿而死——而你的家中全是珍宝，却没有拿出一样来给他们’”（H-S 译文，I，149；参：雅 2:15–16；约壹 3:17）。耶利米说这可能是一个独立的译本，但是其他的学者认为这是一个小说体扩展版。

(4) 耶柔米在《以弗所书》5:4 的注释中引用了《希伯来人福音》中的佳句：“只有当你满有爱心地对待你的弟兄的时候才能感到喜乐”（耶利米译文，92 页）。

(5) 《多马福音》耶稣语录 8 的比喻与藏宝（太 13:44）和重价寻珠（太 13:45–46）的比喻形成了对比：“耶稣说：‘人好比聪明的渔夫，将网洒在海里，捞上来许多小鱼；其中有一条又大有好的；聪明的渔夫会毫不后悔地选择那条大鱼，而将所有的小鱼都扔回海里’”（Guillaumont 译文，5，7 页）。

(6) 《多马福音》耶稣语录 82 中有一句话，从俄利根的作品中同样可知晓这句话：“亲近我的，就有战火，远离我的，就远离天国”（布鲁斯译本，144 页）。耶利米认为伊格那丢可能在早期引用了这句话，他说他“靠 allusion to this saying may be found in Ignatius' statement that he was "near to the sword, near to God" (Smyrn. 4:2).

V. Other Agrapha. -(1) An interesting but ambiguous statement is preserved both in the Gospel of Thomas, logion 77, and in Oxy. P. 1. It reads, "Lift up the stone, and there thou wilt find me; cleave the wood and I am there" (tr. Jeremias, p. 106). Jeremias believes that this is originally derived from Eccl. 10:9, "He who quarries stones is hurt by them, and he who splits logs is endangered by them," and takes this as the Lord's promise that He will be with those who are engaged in strenuous work. Doresse (L'Évangile selon Thomas [1959], p. 189) interprets the wood as an allusion to the cross and the stone as an allusion to the tomb. Gärtner (Theology of the Gospel According to Thomas [1961], pp. 144-46) and others interpret the logion as a typically Gnostic sentiment of a pantheistic Christ.

(2) The Gospel of Thomas, logion 2, reads: "Jesus said, 'Let him who seeks, not cease seeking until he finds, and when he finds, he will be troubled, and when he has been troubled, he will marvel and he will reign over the All'" (tr. Guillaumont, p. 3). The same saying is cited from the Gospel of the Hebrews by Clement of Alexandria, Misc. ii.9.45, and is contained in Oxy. P.654.

(3) The Gospel of Thomas, logion 3, paralleled in Oxy. P. 654, reads: "Jesus has said: If those who lead you say to you: See, the kingdom is in heaven, then the birds will fly into the heaven in front of you. If they say to you: It is in the sea,

V. 其他的耶稣语录。 (1) 《多马福音》耶稣语录 77 和俄西林古蒲草纸 1 中记录了一条既引人关注又表述模糊的话语。即：“我在石头下；我在木头中”（耶利米译文，106 页）。耶利米认为这句出自《传道书》10:9 “凿开石头的，必受损伤；劈开木头的，必遭危险”，并认为这是耶稣的应许，祂将与那些做苦工的人同在。多雷斯 (L'Évangile selon Thomas [1959], 189 页) 认为木头暗指十字架，而石头暗指坟墓。加特纳 (Gärtner, Theology of the Gospel According to Thomas [1961], 144-146 页) 和其他的学者认为这句耶稣语录体现了典型的诺斯替派泛神论基督的观点。

(2) 《多马福音》耶稣语录 2 写道：“耶稣说：‘让那寻要找的，就找到，找到后要惶恐，惶恐后会惊讶，然后他要统治万物’” (Guillaumont 译文，3 页)。亚历山太的革利免 Misc. ii.9.45 以及 俄西林古蒲草纸 654 中也记录了这句引自《希伯来人福音》的话语。

(3) 《多马福音》耶稣语录 3 中的内容与俄西林古蒲草纸 654 中的内容一致，其中记载道：“耶稣说：倘若带领你的人对你说：看哪，天国在天上，那么鸟将比你先进天国。倘若他们对你说：天国在海里，那么鱼要比

then will the fish go before you. But the kingdom is in your inner part and it is in your outward part” (tr. H-S, I, 101; cf. Lk. 17:21).

(4) The Gospel of Thomas, logion 114, betrays a Gnostic prejudice against women: “Simon Peter said to them, ‘Let Mary go out from among us, because women are not worthy of the Life.’ Jesus said, ‘See, I shall lead her, so that I will make her male, that she too may become a living spirit, resembling you males. For every woman who makes herself male will enter the Kingdom of Heaven’ ” (tr. Guillaumont, p. 57). The Gnostics regarded the separation into sexes as the source of evil.

VI. Significance.—The study of the agrapha, particularly in the apocryphal Gospels, reveals the relative poverty and inferiority of the mass of the extracanonical literature, and by contrast highlights the precious value of the canonical Gospels. As Jeremias concludes, “... the extracanonical literature, taken as a whole, manifests a surprising poverty. The bulk of it is legendary, and bears the clear mark of forgery. Only here and there, amid a mass of worthless rubbish, do we come across a priceless jewel” (P. 120).

VI. 耶稣语录的意义。耶稣语录研究，尤其是次经福音书中耶稣语录的研究揭示出大多数经外文献的相对匮乏和低劣，相比之下，突出了正典福音书的宝贵价值。正如耶利米所总结的：“……所有典外文献的质量都非常低劣。大多数典外文献都是传说，都有伪造的迹象。我们只能偶然在大量毫无价值的文献中找到一件无价珍宝”（20 页）。

AGRARIAN LAWS.

Laws related to landed property and cultivated land, including all laws concerning the preservation of soil, regulation of irrigation, and protection of rights concerning landed property. The only laws in the OT that can be assigned to this class are those relating to the fallow in the sabbath year and jubilee and certain laws of negligence.

The agrarian laws in the OT form a very important part of biblical institutions. In spite of the opinion that these institutions and the agrarian laws are of a late date, their antiquity must be upheld. They are linked in biblical sources to the oldest parts of legal jurisprudence.

I. Origin.—There is difference of opinion among scholars as to how earliest agriculture developed. One opinion is that agriculture was started in open fields. According to Braidwood and others, agriculture was a natural development where the need was felt. Others (e.g., Childe) see it as a revolution. Another group of scholars takes the more probable view that agricultural settlements were started near river valleys where irrigation was possible. This standpoint, advocated by Albright, has as evidence in its favor the fact that the main cultures of the

有关土地所有权和耕地的律法，其中包括所有有关土地保护、灌溉管理和土地所有权保护的律法。《旧约》中唯一可归为“土地法”的律法就是那些关于在安息年和千禧年休耕的律法和一些关于过失侵权的律法。

《旧约》中的土地法是圣经体制的重要组成部分。尽管有人认为这些体制和土地法是后期出现的，但它们一定拥有悠久的历史。它们与《圣经》中古老的律法体系有关。

I. 土地法的起源。学者们对最早期农业是如何发展的有着不同的看法。有人认为农业是从空旷之地发展起来的。布雷伍德 (Braidwood) 和其他的学者认为农业是自然发展的必然产物。其他人 (如, 查尔德 [Childe]) 将之视为一场革命。另一些学者的观点更有可能成立, 他们认为有水灌溉的河谷附近首先出现了农业定居点。奥尔布莱特 (Albright) 支持这个观点, 而这个观点证明了古近东主流文化就是在河谷中发展起来的。例如, 巴勒斯坦的最古老文化就是在苏丹废丘 (Tell es-Sultân, 耶利哥) 发展起来 ancient Near East developed in river valleys. The oldest culture in Palestine, for example, grew up around Tell es-Sultân (Jericho).

If one accepts Albright's explanation, the origin of agrarian laws is to be sought in the regulation of water. The need for various other stipulations developed as agriculture progressed. Thus a need was felt to protect cultivated land against negligence, such as the careless use of fire. Again, after a few years of use the ground becomes unfertile; to counteract this the fallow came into being. It must be granted that the idea of rest or leisure has a cultic value; but in the case of cultivated land, the idea of the fallow originated from practical reasons. In the OT it is, however, closely linked with religion, as will be seen below.

To grasp the background of the agrarian laws one must turn to the Egyptian and Mesopotamian cultures, because almost all evidence from early times comes from the monuments and tablets of these two cultures. No literary material is preserved of the old culture of Jericho or of any other cultures of ancient Palestine. In Egypt all of life was concentrated around the Nile and irrigation; even the calendar of the so-called Sothic year was worked out according to the annual inundation.

In Mesopotamia certain legal codices are preserved that give us a clear understanding of the legal position in a developed community. In the Code of Hammurabi there are agrarian laws concerning negligence by the owner or tenant (cf. §§ 42-44, 53, 55f.), and laws of irrigation (cf. §§ 55f.). These laws, and certain other groups of law such as those of the Hittites, form part of the background of some OT laws.

要想了解土地法的背景，就必须要了解埃及人和美索不达米亚人的文明，因为几乎所有关于早期土地法的证据都是源于这两大文明的古迹和纪念碑。耶利哥的古老文明或古巴勒斯坦的其他文明没有以文献的形式保存下来。在埃及，所有的生活都集中在尼罗河和灌溉地周围；甚至所谓天狼年的历法都是根据每年洪水泛滥的时间制定出来的。

美索不达米亚保存下来的某些律例让我们更加了解发达地区律法的地位。《汉谟拉比法典》中记载了关于地主和佃户疏于土地管理的律法（参：42-44 段，53 段，55-56 段）和灌溉法（参：55-56 段）。这些律法和某些其他群体的律法（如赫人的律法）构成了部分旧约律法的背景。

Nevertheless, it must be borne in mind that much of the legal material in the OT originated in the Israelite community, and is thus to be regarded as native to the Hebrews. In the OT legal material is closely linked with religion and with Yahweh. The idea of rest, which is not alien to the ancient Near East, forms a very important part of the religion of the OT.

II. Laws Concerning Damage to Immovable Property.-In the earliest laws of the OT punishments are prescribed for damage done to cultivated land. Ex. 22:5f. considers examples of damage to a field or vineyard, with the penalty in each case being full restitution. This kind of problem was probably encountered often in the ancient Near East, since reference to it is present in various ancient codices. The law was made to restore the financial balance.

Laws concerning damage and restitution have a broad background and can be applied to various situations. The agrarian laws of damage are thus one aspect of a general legal principle. In the OT these laws are placed under the sanction of Yahweh. From a religious standpoint they are used to create a feeling of responsibility toward a neighbor's possessions. They thus confirm the law of love for one's neighbor.

III. Sabbath Year and Jubilee.-Every seventh year, according to Ex. 23:10ff., the land was to lie fallow (cf. Lev. 25:2-

然而，须知《旧约》中大部分律法资料都源于以色列会众，并因此这些律法被认为来自于希伯来人。在《旧约》中，律法资料与宗教和耶和华有着紧密的联系。休耕的理念构成了旧约宗教的重要组成部分，古近东地区的人对这一理念并不陌生。

II. 关于不动产破坏的律法。《旧约》最早的律法中规定破坏耕地要受罚。《出埃及记》22:5-6 记载了破坏田地或葡萄园以及全额赔偿的例子。可能在古近东地区常遇到这类问题，因为各种古代律例中都提到了这个问题。制定这个律法是为了恢复财产均衡。

关于破坏和赔偿的律法有很广的背景，并适用于各种不同的情况。因此关于土地破坏的律法只是普通律法的一个方面。在《旧约》中，这些律法得到了耶和华的认可。从宗教的观点来看，这些律法是为了对邻居的财产负责。因而巩固了爱邻居的律法。

III. 安息年和禧年。根据《出埃及记》23:10 起的记载，每七年要休耕一次（参：利 25:2-7）。土地安息并不意

7). The sabbath of the land does not mean that its natural, uncultivated increase is to be eaten by the Israelite poor; rather, the probable principle underlying this institution is that the poor must benefit from the blessed harvest of the sixth year. In spite of its close connection with religion, there is a humanitarian undertone observable in this law.

The sabbath year was primarily intended for the relief of the poor (cf. Ex. 23:11; Lev. 25:6). It is interesting to note in this connection that the widow and orphan are not mentioned. This fact led Weber to the conclusion that the poor referred to must be the propertyless able-bodied poor (cf. R. North, Sociology of the Biblical Jubilee [1954], p. 112).

After seven sabbath years had passed, a trumpet was to be blown throughout the land on the tenth day of the seventh month (the Day of Atonement), and the fiftieth year was to be hallowed and celebrated as a jubilee. In the passage describing this, Lev. 25:10ff., vv. 18–22 are especially problematic. In v. 21 there is an allusion to a three-year crop, but at the same time it is mentioned that they must plant and sow in the eighth year and that they should eat of the three-year crop of the sixth year until the ninth year. Some scholars have concluded from this that there should be a fallow for two years: the forty-ninth or sabbath year was followed by the fiftieth or jubilee. This is an acceptable interpretation.

IV. The Meaning of These Laws.- Various views of the meaning of these laws have been suggested. Some commentators emphasize the 味着自然出产的食物都给以色列的穷人吃；更确切地说，这个律法可能暗含的原则是穷人必从第六年的蒙福收获中受益。尽管该律法与宗教有关，却蕴含着明显的人道主义寓意。

安息年主要是为了救济穷人（参：出 23:11；利 25:6）。值得注意的是，这里没有提及救济寡妇和孤儿。因此，韦伯（Weber）认为这里的穷人指的一定是没有财产但有劳动能力的穷人（参：R. North, Sociology of the Biblical Jubilee [1954], 112 页）。

七个安息年过去后，要在七月的第十天（赎罪日）在地里吹号角；而第五十年被视为神圣且值得庆祝的禧年。在描述安息年的章节中，《利未记》25:21 暗示出每三年一收获，但是同时又提出第八年要耕种，并要吃那六年中三年的土产，直到第九年。有些学者据此认为应该有两年的休耕期：第四十九年或安息年之后是第五十年或禧年。这是一个可被接受的解释。

IV. 这些律法的意义。关于这些律法的意义有很多不同的观点。一些释经者强调律法的人道主义风格。在古代，禧年是为了剪除降临到穷人身上 humanitarian vein of this legislation. The jubilee was intended to meet the economic evils that befell the poor in ancient societies. The economic climate, with frequent times of war and unfavorable seasons, was not ideal for farming, and a farmer was compelled to borrow. With the high interest he had to pay, he was soon unable to make ends meet and had to go into servitude. With the laws of the jubilee concerning restoration of land and the fallow, the danger of an overall slavery was averted. Other scholars regard the fallow in the light of the primitive Semitic conception of land. The fallow is prescribed because the land is weary, and the owner lets it rest like a beast of burden or a slave. The former view would seem to be preferable.

V. The Execution of Agrarian Laws.- Were these laws executed? Certain scholars maintain that the execution of the fallow as prescribed is impossible from an economic standpoint. Some have tried to connect it with a rotating fallow. Others seek to interpret it by appealing to another meaning of the Heb. verb 'āsap, viz., “to gather to oneself.” On this explanation, it was not harvesting that was forbidden, but only storing up in bins (cf. Lev. 25:20).

In spite of these problems the biblical tradition leaves no doubt that the fallow was universally prescribed. The biblical sources, however, are mute as to whether these institutions were ever carried out. The only reference to the execution of the fallow is made in 2 Ch. 36:21, but this is rather vague. In the post-OT period there is a reference to the fallow in 1 Macc. 6:49, 53.

V. 土地法的执行。这些律法被执行了吗？某些学者认为从经济学观点来看，不可能执行休耕的律法。有些学者将其解释成轮流休耕。其他的学者用希伯来语 'āsap 的另一个含义，也就是“自给自足”来解释休耕。根据这种解释，休耕并没有禁止收割，而仅仅禁止收藏土产（参：利 25:20）。

尽管有这些问题的存在，圣经传统无疑表明休耕是被普遍接受的律法。然而，圣经资料并没有提及这些规定是否曾经付诸实践。《历代志下》36:21 是唯一提到执行休耕的章节，但是这节经文的记载非常含糊。在后旧约时期，《马加比一书》6:49, 53 中提到了休耕。

AGREE; AGREEMENT

Especially noteworthy occurrences of these words include the following:

In Job 22:21, the RSV uses “agree” in translating the difficult Heb. sākan: “Agree with God, and be at peace.” The AV reads, “Acquaint now thyself with him, and be at peace,” which is supported by KoB (p. 658). The NEB renders, “Come to terms with God and you will prosper.” BDB (p. 698) suggests that the meaning here is “show harmony with,” which is close to the RSV understanding and compatible with the NEB. The normal root meaning of the word is “be of benefit, service, or profit”; but from the context here it would seem that reconciliation is the intended idea, as in the RSV and NEB.

AGREE; AGREEMENT 一致、相符；结盟、和谐

尤为值得关注的出现这些词的章节如下：

在《约伯记》22:21 中，《修订标准译本》用 “agree” 来翻译难理解的希伯来语 sākan: “Agree with God, and be at peace” (“你与神一致，就得平安”)。《钦定版圣经》译为 “Acquaint now thyself with him, and be at peace” (“你要认识神，就得平安”)，KoB (658 页) 支持了这个翻译。《新英文译本》译为 “Come to terms with God and you will prosper” (“你与神和好，就得平安”)。BDB (698 页) 认为这里这个词的意思是 “与……和谐” 与《修订标准译本》中的翻译相近，与《新英文译本》中的翻译一致。这个词的正常词根含义是 “有益处、有帮助”，但是根据此处上下文的语境，这里似乎有 “和好” 的含义，这与《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》中的翻译一致。

The “agreement” (NEB “pact”) with Sheol mentioned in Isa. 28:15, 18 is of 《以赛亚书》28:15, 18 提到的与阴间 “结盟” (《新英文译本》译为

some difficulty because Heb. ḥōzeh (v. 15) and ḥāzûṭ normally mean “seer” and “vision” respectively. The English versions follow the LXX, Vulgate, and Targum. BDB (p. 302) tries to connect the two ideas, suggesting a vision with Sheol via necromancy whereby the people are made secure, and also notes that the prophetic advice of seers was sought when treaties were made. KoB (p. 285), on the other hand, citing L. Köhler (ZAW, 48 [1930], 227f.), suggests emending to ḥesed and ḥasḏ^lkem, which indicate inherent mutuality (i.e., in contrast to the acquired mutuality of the b^erîṭ); but it is questionable whether such a strong word would have been used here.

In Mt. 18:19 the word is Gk. symphonéō, which connotes a harmonious blending (cf. Eng. symphony). This agreement therefore is complete. Three persons are introduced: two human beings and the Father. They are in perfect agreement on the subject of purpose under consideration. It is therefore an inward unity produced by the Holy Spirit, leading the two into such an agreement with the Father. There will follow then, as a matter of course, what is promised in vv. 19f.

In Mk. 14:56 the word is isos and has the thought not only that their words did not agree, but also that the testimony was not in agreement with or equal to what the law required in such a case. The idea of equality is also present at 1 Jn. 5:8 (Gk. eis tó hén eisin).

Other NT terms include Gk. tó autó phronéō (“be of one mind.” 2 Cor.

《马太福音》18:19 中使用了希腊语 symphonéō，意思是同心合意 (参：英语 symphony [“一致、和谐”])。因此神成全了这个同心合意的祷告。这里提到了三个人：两个人和天父。他们同心合意地求什么事。因此，圣灵使他们内部团结，并引导二人与天父合一。接下来当然会出现《马太福音》18:19-20 中所应许之事。

《马可福音》14:56 中使用了 isos 一词，这个词不仅表示他们的见证各不相同，而且表示他们的见证不符合相关的律法规定。《约翰一书》5:8 也指出了平等的概念 (希腊语：eis tó hén eisin)。

其他《新约》词语包括希腊语 tó autó phronéō (林后 13:11, “be of one

13:11; Phil. 4:2) and synkatáthesis (2 Cor. 6:16).

I. Development.—Biblically the record of agricultural pursuits begins with the mandate given in the garden of Eden to “till it and keep it” (Gen. 2:15). The immediate post-Edenic situation featured both the agricultural and the pastoral way of life as represented by Cain and Abel, suggesting to some that the period represents that era known to anthropologists as the “New Stone Age Revolution” in farming and horticulture (see E. K. V. Pearce, Who Was Adam? [1970]). Secularly this period is best represented by the beginnings of farming in the lower Jordan valley around Jericho in the mid-8th millennium B.C. in a culture practicing irrigation-farming in a manner closely resembling that of major Mesopotamian centers. Also dating to this period or earlier are the rudimentary agricultural tools of the Natufian man of the Carmel caves, whose flint sickle and hoe blades bespeak a possibly settled farming pattern.

I. 农业的发展。《圣经》中记载的农业活动始于让那人“修理看守”伊甸园(创 2:15)的命令。一进入伊甸园之后,以该隐和亚伯为代表的人类就过上了农业和游牧生活,有些人说,人类学家认为这一时期在农业和园艺领域发生了“新石器时代革命”(见 E. K. V. Pearce, Who Was Adam? [1970])。从世俗的角度看,这一时期的最典型的特点是公元前第八个千禧年中期在约旦河河谷下游附近的耶利哥开始出现农业,这个文明的农业灌溉方式与主要美索不达米亚文明中心的农业灌溉方式非常相似。迦密洞穴中发现的纳图夫人的原始农业工具也属于这一时期或更早时期,他们的石镰刀和锄头刀片体现出他们可能确立了稳定的耕作形式。

From Cain to the Conquest, the biblical account gives little indication that farming was important to the chosen line of Seth. Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob were herdsmen, though Lot seems to have preferred the settled life of a Jordan valley farmer (Gen. 13:10). The Israelite invasion seems to have repeated the age-old pattern of nomadic or semi-nomadic shepherders moving into the arable land surrounding the Mediterranean littoral and taking up agricultural occupations. Apart from an occasional protest-movement (e.g., the Rechabites) the subsequent societal pattern in Israel reflected that of the stationary farming communities among whom they were settled.

It is most significant, however, that from earliest times the pattern of Israel's religious observances (cf. Ex. 23:14-16; Lev. 23) is based on an agricultural rather than a nomadic and pastoral calendar (see CALENDAR). The basis of society was clearly dependent on the cultivation of crops, and every major success or failure—religious, military, or economic—was tied up in some way with this fact.

II. Climatic Conditions and Fertility.—Climate varied greatly from region to region, with rainfall diminishing from a high of 45 to 60 in. (115 to 150 cm.) on the slopes in southern Lebanon to a low of less than 5 in. (13 cm.) annually in the Dead Sea rift and the Negeb below Beersheba. Elevation also influenced the onset and departure of the growing season, as did quality of soils. Where there was no irrigation, crops could be grown only in the season of rains,

从该隐时期到征服迦南时期，《圣经》中描述基本没有透露出农业对于被神拣选的塞特的后裔非常重要。亚伯拉罕、以撒和雅各是牧人，而罗得似乎定居在约旦河河谷，并以务农为生（创 13:10）。以色列入侵迦南后似乎沿袭着古老的游牧或半游牧的牧羊人生活，他们迁徙到地中海沿岸可耕种的地区，并以耕种为生。除了偶尔的反抗运动（如，利甲族的反抗），后来以色列人的生活以定居的务农生活为主。

然而更重要的是，从最早时期开始，以色列的宗教仪式（参：出 23:14-16；利 23）就以农业历法为基础，而不是以游牧和田园历法（见 CALENDAR[历法]）为基础。社会基础显然依赖于农作物的耕种，而且每一宗教、军事或经济上的重大成功或失败，在某种程度上都与农业有关。

II. 气候条件和土壤肥力。不同地区的气候差异很大，在黎巴嫩南部斜坡，年降雨量高达 45 到 60 英寸（115 至 150 厘米），而在死海裂缝和别士巴下的南地，年降雨量低至 5 英寸（13 厘米）。海拔和土壤的肥力都影响着耕种季节的开始和结束。在那些没有灌溉的地区，只能在雨季种植农作物，从十月下旬和十一月的“初雨期”开始，一直到冬季的大雨期，最后至三月和四月农作物最需要的“晚雨期”结束。到了六月中旬，大部分土地暴

露在日头的曝晒之下，夏季的游客可能非常熟悉这一场景，无水则寸草不生，但是夏末宝贵的露水也为农作物补充了一些水分。

Dry farming and IRRIGATION have been used successfully in many parts of Palestine from earliest times. use for distributing waters of the Wādī Qelt in the Jericho region.

III. Agricultural Pursuits.-What knowledge we have of the subject is drawn from biblical references to methods bearing a close similarity to those of the present day, from artifacts uncovered in Palestine and surrounding countries, and from the few drawings of farming scenes on Egyptian and Mesopotamian monuments.

Four branches of agriculture were more prominent than others: the growing of grain, the care of vineyards, the orcharding of olives, and the raising of flocks. Most households owned fields and vineyards, and the richer added to these a wealth of flocks. The description of Job's wealth (Job 1) shows that he was engaged in all these pursuits. Hezekiah's riches as enumerated in 2 Ch. 32:27f. also suggest activity in each of these branches.

A. Grain. 1. Plowing and Sowing. On the plains little or no preparation for plowing was needed (see PLOW), but in the hilly regions the larger stones, which the tilling of the previous season had loosened and the winter's rains had washed bare, were picked out and piled into heaps on a ledge or thrown into the path, which thus became elevated above the FIELD it traversed. If grain was to be planted, the seed was scattered broadcast by the sower, either from an improvised pouch in his garment or from a jar or basket as pictured on Egyptian monuments. As soon as the seed was scattered it was plowed in, before the ever-present crows and ravens could gather it up. The path of the plow in the fields of the hilly regions was a tortuous one because of the boulders jutting out here and there and because of the ledges which frequently lay hidden just beneath the surface (the rocky places of Christ's parable). Unplowed portions of the field (such as an occasional footpath or a border) left exposed seed for the birds to eat. An additional operation, possibly to be identified with harrowing (see HARROW), is suggested by Isa. 28:24f.

III. 农事。我们从《圣经》中提到的与今天极为相似的农业方法、从巴勒斯坦和周边地区发现的史前古器物上和埃及与美索不达米亚纪念碑上几幅描绘农耕场景的图画中了解了关于农事的知识。

有四个农业分支比其他的分支更重要，它们分别是：种植谷物、管理葡萄园、栽培橄榄树和牧养羊群。大多数家庭都拥有田地和葡萄园，较富有的家庭会牧养大量的羊群。《约伯记》1章关于约伯财产的记载表明约伯从事上述所有农业活动。《历代志下》32:27-28列举了希西家的财富，也表明希西家从事这四种农业活动。

*A. 谷物。1、耕地和播种。*在平原上耕种时需要做的准备很少或不需要准备（见 PLOW[耕地]），但是在丘陵地区，大石头经上一季的耕种已经变得疏松，并且受到了冬天雨水的冲刷，要将它们捡起并堆成一堆或扔到了过道，因此这些石堆比田地（见 FIELD）要高。播种时，就像埃及古迹上描述的那样，播种人要从他的衣服上临时准备的袋子里、罐子里或篮子中取出谷物播撒在地里。撒完种子后要在乌鸦吃掉前耕犁。山上的田地耕犁的路径是弯曲的，因为到处有岩石，而这些岩石常常隐藏在地下（耶稣比喻中的多岩石地区）。田地未耕犁的部分（如临时的小径或过道）留下的种子供鸟吃掉。《以赛亚书》28:24-25中记载了另外一个农事操作，可能指的是

2. Reaping. After the plowing was over, the fields were left until after the winter rains, unless an unusually severe storm of rain and hail had destroyed the young shoots (cf. Ex. 9:25), in which case a second sowing was made. In April, if the hot east winds had not scorched the grain (see BLAST; BLASTING) the barley began to ripen. The wheat followed from a week to six weeks later, depending upon the altitude. Toward the end of May or in the first week in June, which marked the beginning of the dry season, reaping began, a task which occupied all members of the family and often meant living in the fields until harvest was over. A handful of grain was gathered by means of a sickle held in the right hand. The stalks thus gathered were then grasped by the left hand and cut off a few inches above the ground, leaving stubble. The handfuls were then laid behind the reapers and were gathered up by the helpers, usually the children, and made into piles for transporting to the threshing-floor. (See also GLEANING.)

3. Threshing. The threshing-floors were constructed in the fields, preferably in an exposed position in order to get the full benefit of the winds. If there was danger of marauders, they were clustered together close to the village. The floor was a level, circular area 25 to 40 ft. (7^{1/2} to 12 m.) in diameter, prepared by first picking out the stones and then tamping or coating it with marly clay. A border of stones kept in the grain. The normal method of threshing seems to have been by the trampling effect of oxen or donkey hoofs as these animals were driven round the floor (Dt. 25:4), or by the use of a drag, the bottom of which was studded (2 S. 24:22). The supply of unthreshed grain was kept in the center of the floor and fed into the path of the animals. Constant turning of the partly threshed grain hastened the process of breaking all the stalks into short pieces and tearing off the husks. The mixture of chaff and grain was then winnowed by tossing it into the air so that the wind could blow away the chaff. When the chaff was gone, the grain was tossed in a wooden tray to separate from it the stones and lumps of soil which clung to the roots when the grain was reaped. The difference in weight between the stones and grain made separation by this process possible. The grain was then stored in the common store jar, usually for home use.

耙地（见 HARROW[耙地]）。

2、收割。耕犁完后，直到冬季降雨前都不用管理田地，除非有异乎寻常的暴雨和冰雹摧毁了幼苗（参：出 9:25），如果是这样，就要进行二次播种。到了四月，倘若炎热的东风没有吹枯谷物（见 BLAST [声、气]；BLASTING[旱风]），大麦便开始成熟。一周至六周后，小麦也开始成熟，根据海拔高度的不同，成熟的时间有所差异。到了五月末或六月的第一周，便进入旱季，全家人开始一起收割，并常常要住在田里直到收割结束。他们右手拿镰刀，左手抓住茎秆，在离地几英寸处割断一把谷物，剩下的茬留在地里。收割者将割下的一把谷物放在身后，由帮助收割的人（通常是孩子）收起，堆成堆运往打谷场。（另见 GLEANING[拾麦穗]。）

3、打谷。在田里建打谷场，通常选空旷的地方较好，这样很好的借助风力。倘若面临被掠夺的风险，他们就聚集在村子附近打谷。打谷场通常是

直径为 25 至 40 英尺 (7.5 至 12 米) 的圆形平地, 准备打谷场前要先将石头捡出去, 然后用石灰粘土将地面夯实或铺平。石头要扔在谷物的外面。传统的打谷方法似乎是把牛或驴赶到打谷场上绕圈, 用牛或驴的蹄子踩谷物 (申 25:4), 或在牛或驴的后面拴一个满是钉子的打谷器具 (撒下 24:22)。将要打的谷物放在打谷场中央以及动物能踩到的地方。不断翻动部分未打的谷物可以加快谷物从茎秆上脱落和脱壳的过程。然后将混合的谷壳和谷物扬起, 让风将谷壳吹走。去完谷壳后, 将谷物放在一个木盘中, 将收割时挂在根部的石头和土块筛出。石头和谷粒的重量不同, 因此可以区分出石头和谷粒。谷粒被收在普通的储藏罐中, 通常留作家用。

B. Vineyards. A clear picture of VINE culture is given in Isa. 5:1–6. The season, which began in July and extended for at least three months, provided fresh grapes for the table of rich and poor alike. Most of the harvest, however, was made into WINE. Care of the vineyards fitted well into the farmer's routine, as most of the attention required could be given when the other crops demanded no time.

B. 葡萄园。在《以赛亚书》5:1-6 中清晰地记载了葡萄（见 VINE[葡萄树]）文化。葡萄季始于七月，至少会持续三个月，富人和穷人在此期间都可吃到新鲜的葡萄。然而，大多数葡萄被制成葡萄酒（见 WINE）。管理葡萄园是农民的日常工作，当其他作物不需要花时间照料时，他们就投入大量的精力来管理葡萄园。

C. Olive Trees. The OLIVE TREE, a plant

C. 橄榄树。橄榄树（见 OLIVE TREE）

perfectly suited to the climate of Palestine with its shallow soil, sunny summer months, and heavy dews, provided the chief source of cooking oil. Although the olive required much care in the growing and pruning stage, the harvest period was long and could be made to fit the farmer's schedule. From September to December the fruit could be picked or gathered from the ground. It was then taken to the ubiquitous oil press and converted into the oil so widely used for cooking, illumination, and anointing. As with the grapes, some olives were always kept for eating, after treatment either with salt or brine.

D. Flocks. The leaders of ancient Israel reckoned their flocks as a necessary part of their wealth. When a man's flocks were his sole possession, he often lived with them and led them in search of pasturage (Ps. 23; Mt. 18:12), but a man with other interests delegated this task to his sons (1 S. 16:11) or to hired help (Jn. 10:12) (see SHEEP). The flock furnished both food and raiment. The milk of camels, sheep, and goats was used fresh or made into curdled milk, butter, or cheese. More rarely the flesh of these animals was eaten. The peasant's outer coat is still made of a tawed sheepskin or woven of goats' hair or wool.

D. 羊群。 古以色列首领认为羊群是他们财富的必要组成部分。当一个人只有羊群时，他常与它们同住，并领着羊群寻找牧场（诗 23；太 18:12），但是一个人如若有其他产业，可将羊群交给他的儿子管理（撒上 16:11）或雇人帮他管理（约 10:12）（见 SHEEP[羊]）。羊群既可为牧者提供食物又可提供衣服。骆驼、绵羊和山羊的奶可供新鲜食用或作成凝乳、黄油或奶酪。牧者很少吃这些动物的肉。农民的外套用鞣制的羊皮制成或用羊毛或羊绒编制而成。

AHAB 亚哈

“天父是我的兄弟”，也就是“上帝是至亲”】。

1. The seventh king of Israel (ca. 874–852 B.C.), and son of Omri. Ahab followed a wise policy in defense, entering into alliance with Phoenicia, Judah, and even his erstwhile enemies the Arameans. On the other hand, he fell under the influence of his fanatical pagan queen Jezebel, who led him to worship Baal as Yahweh's peer, and consequently to introduce such horrors as tyranny (1 K. 21), religious persecution (18:4), and human sacrifice (16:34).

1、以色列的第七代王（约公元前 874-852 年），暗利的儿子。亚哈在防御中有智谋，与腓尼基人、犹太人、甚至和他从前的敌人亚兰人结成联盟。然而他因受到狂热拜偶像的耶洗别的影响，敬拜巴力，并视巴力与耶和华同等地位的神，因此施行恐怖的暴政（王上 21）、宗教迫害（王上 18:4）和活人献祭（王上 16:34）。

I. Ahab's Wars and Alliances.-Ahab wisely continued the alliance with the Phoenicians that his father entered into, cementing it by his own marriage with Jezebel the daughter of Ethbaal, the priest-king of Tyre. A precedent for international marriages, valuable for trade and defense, was established by King Solomon, who had married, in addition to Pharaoh's daughter, princesses of Moab, Ammon, Edom, Sidon (or Phoenicia), and the Hittites (1 K. 11:1). Ahab also arranged a marriage between the princess Athaliah and Joram, the crown prince of Judah, thus allying the two kingdoms for the first time after many years of senseless fratricidal wars. This alliance was beneficial both commercially and militarily.

I. 亚哈的战争和同盟。亚哈明智地继续保持其父与腓尼基人建立的同盟关系，并为巩固同盟，与推罗的祭司谒巴力的女儿耶洗别结婚。所罗门王曾建立了与外邦人结婚的先例，所罗门除了娶了法老的女儿，还娶了摩押人、亚扪人、以东人、西顿人（或腓尼基人）和赫人（王上 11:1）的公主，这种婚姻对于商业和防御具有重要的价值。亚哈还安排公主亚他利雅和犹太的王子约兰结婚，因此两大王国经过数年不理智的同族残杀，首次结成了联盟。这种同盟为经济和军事带来了益处。

There is a record of at least one effort at overseas trade undertaken jointly by Judah and Israel: a fleet was built at Ezion-geber (2 Ch. 20:35–37; 1 K. 22:48). An example of the political value of the alliance is seen in the joint military expedition to recover Ramoth-gilead

经文中至少记载了一次犹太和以色列联合进行对外贸易的尝试：两国在以旬迦别建立了一个舰队（代下 20:35-37；王上 22:48）。犹太和以色列为了从亚兰人手中夺回基列的拉末联合发动了远征，这是结盟具有政治价值的一个例子。

Israelite wall at Samaria, part of Ahab's extensive building activity. These strong fortifications withstood one attack, and the city fell to the Assyrians only after a three-year siege (2 K. 17:9). (B. Van Elderen)

For some three years before this war of reconquest, Ahab's capital had been besieged by Ben-hadad of Damascus and his thirty-two vassals (1 K. 20:1ff.). Ahab tried to buy release by rich gifts of silver and gold, but this did not satisfy Ben-hadad, who demanded the right to search the households of the king and his ministers and carry away everything dear and precious: wives and children as well as goods and chattels (20:5ff.). This would mean for Ahab handing over the city and all that was in it to the enemy. The king and his counselors, "the elders of the land," rejected Ben-hadad's demand and the city was attacked. But a well-timed sortie, led by the young guards attached to the military governors of the provinces, routed the enemy while 撒玛利亚的以色列城墙，亚哈所造城墙的一部分。这些坚固的防御工事抵挡住了一次进攻，而亚述人仅用三年的围攻就夺取了该城（王下 17:9）。（B. Van Elderen）

这次夺回之战开始约三年前，亚哈的都城遭到了大马士革的便哈达和他的三十二位藩王的联合围攻（王上 20:1起）。亚哈试图用金银财宝换来自由，但是这并没有让便哈达满意，便哈达要搜查亚哈和他的仆人的家，并要拿走一切宝贵和值钱的东西：妻子、儿女和全部财产（王上 20:5起）。这意味着亚哈要将他的城和一切所有都交到了敌人的手中。以色列王亚哈和他的谋士（“国中的长老”）反对便哈达的要求，便哈达便攻击以色列城。但是，当便哈达和他的藩王痛饮时，省长的少年人及时地发起了进攻，最终彻底击溃了敌军。

Ben-hadad and his vassals were engaged in a drinking bout, and inflicted a crushing defeat.

The Arameans were again defeated the following year at Aphek, E of the Jordan, when Ben-hadad himself was taken (1 K. 20:26–34). Ahab not only spared his life but made a treaty of alliance with him. Ben-hadad promised to restore the captured Israelite cities and to set up Israelite markets in his capital of Damascus. Ahab's leniency, as subsequent history proved, cost the nation dearly. However, while this alliance lasted it produced some benefit. A coalition consisting of Damascus, Hamath, and Israel together with other smaller powers fought Shalmaneser III at Qarqar on the Orontes, putting a stop for a time to Assyrian aggression. The joint military expedition of Israel and Judah referred to above took place some three years after the truce with Ben-hadad. Struck by a stray arrow while in his chariot, Ahab died during the battle as he sat facing the enemy.

II. Ahab's Apostasy and Clash with the Prophets.—The prophets championed the causes of freedom and justice. They upheld the nomadic ideal of freedom and only reluctantly relinquished tribal sovereignty for the peace and unity that a central government under a king made possible. With their stress on the justice demanded by God, they could not but oppose a tyrant who killed and robbed people at will. Ahab's clash with Elijah concerned the king's treatment of Naboth. Ahab coveted this man's vineyard, which adjoined the palace, and Naboth refused to part with it. Jezebel,

II. 亚哈悖逆并与先知发生冲突。先知们拥护公义和自由的事业。他们主张自由的游牧生活，为了获得国王统治下的中央政权所带来的和平和统一，他们只好很不情愿地放弃了部落的主权。由于他们看重上帝所要求的公义，他们不得不反对肆意残杀和剥夺百姓自由的暴君。因为亚哈王杀害拿伯的事，亚哈与以利亚发生了冲突。亚哈垂涎与王宫毗邻的拿伯的葡萄园，而拿伯拒绝将葡萄园给亚哈。耶洗别决心为亚哈夺得这个葡萄园，所以教唆两个流氓说拿伯诅咒上帝和以色列王。然后拿伯被拉到城外，并被石头打死，而以色列王亚哈夺取了他 determined to get the vineyard for Ahab, suborned two rogues to say that Naboth had cursed God and the king. Naboth was taken out and stoned, and the king took possession of his vineyard. Elijah met him with these words from Yahweh:

“‘Have you killed and also taken possession?...’ Thus saith the Lord: ‘In the place where dogs licked up the blood of Naboth, shall dogs lick up your own blood!’” (1 K. 21:19).

Ahab is said to have been worse than all who preceded him. Solomon had tolerated and even patronized the worship of strange gods by his foreign wives. Jeroboam had set up two golden calves for political reasons. Ahab, however, went further: he worshiped Baal and set him up as Yahweh’s peer (1 K. 16:31–33); Yahweh’s prophets were massacred at Jezebel’s orders, while the prophets of Baal and Asherah had all the privileges of royal pensioners and courtiers (18:4, 19). According to his own confession Ahab hated such prophets of Yahweh as Micaiah the son of Imlah (22:8). He considered the prophet Elijah to be a “troubler of Israel” (18:17). Ahab repented, it is true, when the enormity of his crime in the killing of Naboth was pointed out to him; but neither this nor the discomfiture of Baal’s prophets on Mt. Carmel changed the general situation.

III. Ahab and Archeology.-Ahab is mentioned in the Monolith Inscription of Shalmaneser III (858–824 B.C.), which tells the story of the great battle Shalmaneser fought at Qarqar in 854 against an Aramean-Israelite coalition of which Hadadezer (i.e., Ben-hadad of

“‘你杀了人，又得他的产业吗？……’耶和華如此说：‘狗在何处舔拿伯的血，也必在何处舔你的血’”（王上 21:19）。

据说亚哈所行的比他之前的诸王更糟糕。所罗门因他的外邦妻子容忍甚至支持拜外邦偶像。耶罗波安为了政治目的建了两座金牛犊。而亚哈所行的更甚：他敬拜巴力并将之视为与耶和華齐名（王上 16:31-33）；耶洗别命令杀害耶和華的先知，巴力的先知和亚舍拉拥有所有皇家侍卫和侍臣的特权（王上 18:4, 19）。亚哈承认他恨耶和華的先知（如，音拉的儿子米该雅，王上 22:8）。他认为以利亚先知使“以色列遭灾”（王上 18:17）。当以利亚指出亚哈杀害拿伯的罪恶行为时，他确实后悔了；但是无论是亚哈的忏悔还是巴力的先知在迦密山的挫败都改变不了大体局势。

III. 亚哈和考古学。撒幔以色列三世（公元前 858-824 年）的碑文上提到了亚哈，这块碑文记载了撒幔以色列于公元前 854 年在夸夸与亚兰和以色列联军展开的一场重大战役，哈大底谢（也就是大马士革的便哈达）、哈马的 Irhuleni 和以色列的亚哈是联军的领

音译：ă'hə-zī, ə-hā'zī（《钦定版圣经》，尼 11:13）。见 AHZAI（亚哈赛）。

AHASBAI 亚哈拜

音译：ə-has'bī【希伯来语：^ahasbay—“盛开”】。以利法列的父亲，玛迦人，大卫军中的勇士（撒下 23:34）。他可能是亚伯伯玛迦本地人（撒下 20:14），更可能是叙利亚的玛迦人（撒下 10:6）。《历代志上》11:35-36 的名单中给出了完全不同的名字，这表明文本有误。

AHASUERUS 亚哈随鲁、西亚扎罗

音译：ə-hazh-ōō-er'əs【希伯来语：^ahaswērōš；希腊语：Assouēros】。

1、亚哈随鲁：波斯王（khshayarsha），娶了以斯帖为妻（斯 2:17）。《七十士译本》全文将“亚哈随鲁”译为“亚达薛西”，因此有人认为亚哈随鲁就是亚达薛西二世（公元前 404-359 年）。然而，他更可能是波斯薛西斯一世（公元前 485-465 年，大流士大帝的儿子）。这个亚哈随鲁就是《以斯拉记》4:6 中记载的亚哈随鲁。

2、亚哈随鲁：在《但以理书》9:1 中，亚哈随鲁是玛代人大流士的父亲。

3、西亚扎罗：【希腊语：Asyēros】（托 14:15）；《钦定版圣经》译为 ASSUERUS（“亚哈随鲁”）。西亚扎罗与尼布甲尼撒一起摧毁了尼尼微。但实际上是西拉克拉里斯

(Cyaxares) 帮助尼布甲尼撒摧毁了尼尼微。

ə-hā'və [Heb. 'ah^awā']. A river in Babylonia on the banks of which Ezra and his party encamped for three days in preparation for the journey to Jerusalem (Ezr. 8:15ff.). From here Ezra sent to Casiphia for temple servants, since no Levites were present in the assembled group. His appeal was successful. Then after Ezra had proclaimed a fast to seek of God "a straight way," the company "departed from the river Ahava," and journeyed in safety to Jerusalem.

This river or canal remains unidentified, though many conjectures have been made. Most probably it was one of the numerous canals that intersected Babylonia, flowing from the Euphrates apparently toward some town or district named Ahava (Ezr. 8:15). If so, identification is impossible.

ā'haz [Heb. 'āhāz'—'he has grasped'; cf. the Assyrian records of Tiglath-pileser III, "Yauhazi of Judah," perhaps indicating that Ahaz is an abbreviated form of Jehoahaz]. The twelfth king of Judah, and son of Jotham. The biblical account of his reign is given in 2 K. 16; 2 Ch. 28; and Isa. 7.

AHAVA 亚哈瓦

音译: ə-hā'və 【希伯来语: 'ah^awā'】。巴比伦的一条河,以斯拉和他的同党在亚哈瓦河岸边扎营三天,为去耶路撒冷的行程做准备(拉 8:15 起)。由于百姓中没有利未人,以斯拉从亚哈瓦打发人到迦西斐雅做神殿中的仆人。他的恳求获得了应允。然后以斯拉宣布禁食祈求神赐“通达的道路”,使同行的人“离开亚哈瓦河”,并在去往耶路撒冷的途中一路平安。

尽管有许多的推测,但是尚未确定这条河或运河的具体位置。它最可能是横穿巴比伦的众多运河之一,这条运河显然是从幼发拉底河流经名为亚哈瓦的某个镇或地区(拉 8:15)。若果真如此,那么不太可能确定这条河的位置。

AHAZ 亚哈斯

音译: ā'haz 【希伯来语: 'āhāz'——“耶和华已经握住”;参:提革拉毗列色三世的亚述语记录,“犹大的约哈斯”,可能表明 Ahaz (“亚哈斯”)是 Jehoahaz (“约哈斯”)的缩写形式】。犹大的第十二位国王,约坦的儿子。《圣经》《列王纪下》16 章;《历代志下》28 章和《以赛亚书》7 章记载了有关他统治时期的事

情。

Ahaz began his reign in 735 B.C. as co-regent with his father, who died in 732. With the support of the pro-Assyrian party he very likely assumed active leadership of Judah immediately. International problems plagued Ahaz during most of his reign, as Assyria extended its control into Palestine. Religiously, Ahaz reversed the policy of Uzziah his grandfather. He erected molten images to Baal in the Hinnom Valley, burned his son in the fire, and generally conformed to heathen practices (2 Ch. 28:1-4). Although Isaiah was active throughout the time of Ahaz, this idolatrous tide was not reversed until Hezekiah's reign.

In 734 Tiglath-pileser III marched his armies down into the maritime plain. This may have been in response to an appeal by Ahaz for relief from the Philistines, who were raiding extensively in the outlying districts of Judah. After the Assyrians withdrew, Ahaz faced serious problems with Israel and Syria.

Pekah and Rezin, kings of Israel and Syria respectively, championed an anti-Assyrian policy with the purpose of terminating the extension of Assyrian control in Palestine. To make sure they would not be endangered by a neutral or potentially hostile nation behind them, they declared war on Ahaz, hoping to force Judah into their alliance. Their intention was to place the Aramean ben Tabeel (Isa. 7:6) on the Davidic throne instead of Ahaz.

When the news of the Syro-Ephraimitic

亚哈斯于公元前 735 年与他的父亲共同参政，自此开始了他的统治时期，亚哈斯的父亲于公元前 732 年去世。亚哈斯在支持亚述同派的拥护下，直接被立为犹大国王。亚哈斯在他统治的大部分时间里备受国际问题的困扰（如，亚述的控制范围扩至巴勒斯坦）。在宗教方面，亚哈斯颠覆了他父亲乌西雅的政策。他在欣嫩谷建了巴力的铸像，用火烧他的儿子，并普遍遵循外邦人的习俗（代下 28:1-4）。尽管先知以赛亚在亚哈斯统治时期积极传道，但是直到希西家统治时期，这种盲目崇拜的浪潮才消退。

在公元前 734 年，提革拉毗列色三世带领他的军队进军沿海平原。这可能是应亚哈斯的请求，解除非利士人对犹大边境的全面入侵。亚述人撤军后，亚哈斯面临着来自以色列和亚兰的严峻挑战。

以色列王比加和亚兰王利汛支持反亚述政策，并以终结亚述在巴勒斯坦的扩张为目标。为了确保他们不被中立国或潜在的敌国所灭，他们宣布与亚哈斯开战，希望以此迫使犹大国与他们联盟。他们企图罢黜亚哈斯，立他比勒（赛 7:6）为大卫家的王。

declaration of war reached Jerusalem, the people were thrown into consternation (Isa. 7:1f.). At this crucial moment when Ahaz was on his way out of Jerusalem to inspect his defenses, the prophet Isaiah was sent to advise the king to put his trust in God. Ahaz, however, defied the prophet's advice and sent an enormous gift to Tiglath-pileser III, who responded in due time.

Meanwhile the Syro-Ephraimitic invaders besieged Jerusalem and took thousands of captives up to Samaria and Damascus (2 Ch. 28:5-15). The Judean captives taken to Samaria were released in accordance with the advice given by a prophet named Oded. Simultaneously Ahaz lost his control over the Edomites. The Syrians dislodged the Judean troops from Elath (Ezion-geber), so that Edomites were enabled to reoccupy this important seaport city.

The Assyrian pressure in response to the appeal for help by Ahaz brought temporary relief to Judah. Tiglath-pileser III marched his armies into Palestine, capturing numerous cities (2 K. 15:29). By 732 both Rezin and Pekah were killed; Damascus was occupied by the Assyrians and Samaria was ruled by Hoshea, who pledged tributary allegiance to the Assyrian king.

Isaiah had boldly assured Ahaz and the Judean citizens that the two kings from the north were but a temporary threat (Isa. 7:4-9). Like smoking firebrands they would last but a short time. Within a few years the predictions of Isaiah were fulfilled. Although the Assyrian advance provided temporary relief, it had

耶路撒冷时，百姓感到非常惊慌（赛 7:1-2）。在亚哈斯离开耶路撒冷视察防御工事的关键时刻，先知以赛亚被派去告诉亚哈斯要信靠神。然而，亚哈斯违背了先知的建议，并向提革拉毗列色三世献上了厚礼请求其支援，提革拉毗列色三世在适当时机支援了他。

亚述人应亚哈斯的支援请求暂时解除了犹大的困境。提革拉毗列色三世率领他的军队进军巴勒斯坦，攻占了許多城市（王下 15:29）。公元前 732 年，利汛和比加被杀；亚述人占领了大马士革，何细亚统治了撒玛利亚，他宣誓效忠亚述王并向后者纳贡。

foreboding implications. Isaiah explicitly warned that God would use the king of Assyria as a razor to shave Judah from head to toe (Isa. 7:20). Equally clear is the prophet's warning that God would cause Assyria to extend like a river into Palestine submerging Judah to its neck (Isa. 8:5-8). Significantly, however, the prophet did not predict the termination of Judah's national existence—a fate foretold regarding Ephraim and Syria—under the Assyrian advance southward in the Fertile Crescent. Under Hezekiah the Assyrian aggression became a realistic threat to Judah.

Significant indeed was the Damascus meeting of Ahaz and Tiglath-pileser III in 732 B.C. With the capitulation of Rezin, the kingdom of Syria ended, so that it was no longer a buffer state between Judah and Assyria. Ahaz met the Assyrian king as a servant, having sent him a heavy tribute of silver and gold which depleted both the royal and temple treasuries. Politically Ahaz became a vassal, not an ally, of Assyria (2 Ch. 28:16-21).

毛（赛 7:20）。以赛亚同样明确地警告道，上帝将使亚述如河水一样蔓延到巴勒斯坦地区，直到犹大的颈项（赛 8:5-8）。然而值得注意的是，先知没有预先告知亚述军南下肥沃月湾时犹大国的最终命运——预言了以法莲和亚兰的命运。在希西家统治时期，亚述的侵略成了犹大的现实威胁。

公元前 732 年，亚哈斯在大马士革面见提革拉毗列色是一个值得关注的事件。随着利汛被抓，亚兰王国灭亡，从此不再是犹大和亚述之间的缓冲国。亚哈斯面见提革拉毗列色时像一个仆人一样，他向亚述王献上大量金银珠宝，因此耗尽了皇室和圣殿的资财。从政治角度来说，亚哈斯是亚述的诸侯，而不是盟友（代下 28:16-21）。

In their religious practice the citizens of Judah were made keenly aware of the visit of their king to Damascus. In accordance with specific instructions the priest Urijah constructed a model of an altar that Ahaz had seen in Damascus. This altar, erected in the temple court for the king, placed idol worship in juxtaposition with the altar where daily sacrifice was made in their worship of God (2 K. 16:10–16). Numerous other changes were made in Judah’s religion because of the king of Assyria (vv. 17f.). At the same time Ahaz wanted to inquire personally at the brazen altar.

犹太的市民从他们的宗教活动中强烈感知到他们的王要访问大马士革。乌利亚照着亚哈在大马士革见过的祭坛的具体样式建了一个祭坛。这座坛被置于圣殿的院子里供亚哈王敬拜偶像，且位于敬拜耶和华的坛的旁边（王下 16:10-16）。因亚述王的缘故，犹太的宗教形式还发生了其他许多变化（王下 16:17-18）。不过亚哈斯想要亲自在铜坛上求问耶和華。

Other religious innovations charged to Ahaz are summarized in 2 Ch. 28:22–25.

《历代志下》28:22-25 概述了亚哈斯所作的其他宗教改革。他封锁了耶和華

The doors of the temple porch were shut, the golden candlestick was not lit, the offering of incense was not made, and other solemnities were suspended. It is likely that Ahaz also erected the horses dedicated to the sun that are mentioned in 2 K. 23:11. Verse 12 of this chapter indicates that altars had been erected on the roof of the chambers of Ahaz that were destroyed in the reformation under Josiah. The leadership of Ahaz in religious matters consequently sanctioned idolatry and seemed to be diametrically opposed to the influence of Isaiah.

Little is known about the rest of the reign of Ahaz. In all likelihood he pacified the Assyrian kings with sufficient tribute so that Judah continued without serious international intervention during the period of the fall of Samaria in 722.

Ahaz died in 716 B.C., leaving the throne to Hezekiah. He was buried in Jerusalem with his fathers but not in the sepulchre of the kings of Judah (cf. 2 K. 16:20; 2 Ch. 28:27). Isaiah records a prophecy concerning Philistia in the year of Ahaz' death (Isa. 14:28-32). Ahaz is mentioned in the royal genealogies in 1 Ch. 3:13 and Mt. 1:9.

殿的门，吹灭金灯台的灯火，不再烧香，其他的庄严仪式也都暂停了。

《列王纪下》23:11 中提到了亚哈可能还建了向日头所献的马。《列王纪下》23:12 表明约西亚王宗教改革期间拆毁了在亚哈斯楼顶上所筑的祭坛。因此，亚哈在管理宗教事务时承认了偶像崇拜，并且似乎坚决反对以赛亚的影响。

我们对亚哈斯统治期间的其余事件知之甚少。他很可能用充足的贡品安抚了亚述王，所以公元前 722 年在撒玛利亚沦陷期间犹大没有受到外界的严重干涉。

亚哈斯卒于公元前 716 年，希西家接续他作王。亚哈斯被葬在耶路撒冷与他列祖同睡，而不是被葬在犹大列王的墓中（参：王下 16:20；代下 28:27）。《以赛亚书》记载了亚哈斯王崩的那年一个关于非利士全地的预言（赛 14:28-32）。《历代志上》3:13 和《马太福音》1:9 的王室谱系中提到了亚哈斯。

音译：ā-hə-zī'ə 【希伯来语：^ahazyā, ^ahazyāyū——“耶和华已经（永久）握住”】。

1. King of Israel (ca. 853–852 B.C.), and son of Ahab and Jezebel (1 K. 22:51–2 K. 1:18). Ahaziah succeeded his father as king in the seventeenth year of Jehoshaphat of Judah and reigned two years (for the chronological problem involved in a comparison of 1 K. 16:29; 22:41, 51; 2 K. 1:17, see CHRONOLOGY OF THE OT V.B). He was a Baal worshiper like his parents, and according to 2 K. 1:2ff. seems to have been particularly attracted to the Baal that was the deity of the Philistine city of Ekron.

The accession of Ahaziah encouraged Moab to rebel against Israel (cf. 2 K. 3:5); this revolt is the subject of the Hebraic stele of the Moabite King Mesha, known as the Moabite Stone. S. R. Driver, however (Notes on the Hebrew Text of the Books of Samuel [2nd ed. 1913], p. lxxxviii), thinks this revolt began in the reign of Ahab.

According to 2 Ch. 20:35–37, Ahaziah had an alliance with Jehoshaphat of Judah to revive the ancient maritime trade with Tarshish, but the fleet was broken up at Eziongeber. 1 K. 22:48f. seems to imply that Ahaziah's attempt to form an alliance failed after Jehoshaphat had tried on his own to trade with Ophir. J. Skinner (Century Bible) thinks the Chronicles account probable, "since Jehoshaphat was no doubt still a vassal of Israel" (cf. H. L. Ellison, NBC on 1 K. 22:48f.).

As a result of his fall from an upper window, Ahaziah consulted Baal-zebul, the god of Ekron. His messengers were sent back by Elijah with the brusque

1、以色列王（约公元前 853-852 年），亚哈和耶洗别的儿子（王上 22:51-王下 1:18）。亚哈谢在犹大约沙法第十七年继承了他父亲的王位并统治了两年（关于对照《列王纪上》16:29; 22:41, 51; 《列王纪下》1:17 产生的年代问题，见 CHRONOLOGY OF THE OT V.B [旧约年代学 V.B]）。亚哈谢像他的父母一样是个敬拜巴力的人。根据《列王纪下》1:2 起的记载，亚哈谢似乎特别崇拜非利士人城市以革伦的神——巴力。

亚哈谢继位致使摩押背叛以色列（参：王下 3:5）；这次背叛记录在摩押王米沙的希伯来语石碑上，这个石碑被称为摩押石碑。然而德赖弗（S. R. Driver, Notes on the Hebrew Text of the Books of Samuel [1913 第 2 版], lxxxviii 页）认为这次背叛在亚哈统治时期已经开始。

由于亚哈谢从楼上的窗户上跌落，便求助以革伦的神巴力西卜。亚哈谢的使者被以利亚遣回，以利亚直言提醒亚哈谢，以色列的神是耶和华。亚哈

reminder that Yahweh was the God of Israel. Three attempts to capture the prophet failed, and the message of judgment on Ahaziah's apostasy was speedily followed by his death.

2. King of Judah (842 B.C.), youngest son of Jehoram and Athaliah, and grandson of Ahab and Jezebel (2 K. 8:25-29; 9:16-29; 2 Ch. 22:1-9). His name is given as Jehoahaz in 2 Ch. 21:17; 25:23 (a transposition of the component parts of "Ahaziah") and as Azariah in 2 Ch. 22:6 (AV), an error corrected in fifteen Hebrew MSS and all the versions.

He came to the throne in the twelfth year of Jehoram of Israel, though 2 K. 9:29 states that it was Jehoram's eleventh year, a discrepancy variously explained as an editorial correction or as the result of the difference in the Hebrew and Greek methods of computation (cf. Thiele, MNHK, pp. 35, 68f.). The reason Ahaziah, the youngest son, succeeded to the throne was that his elder brothers had been slain by a band of invading Arabians (2 Ch. 22:1; cf. Josephus Ant. ix.5.3). In view of Athaliah's actions after his death, it may be significant that he was made king by "the inhabitants of Jerusalem." He was, however, under the domination of his mother (2 Ch. 22:3), even though it is recorded that he consecrated gifts to the temple of Yahweh (2 K. 12:18).

He joined his uncle, Jehoram of Israel, in an expedition against Hazael of Syria in which Ramoth-gilead was captured (2 K. 8:28f.; 9:14f.). Jehoram was wounded

谢曾三次试图抓捕先知以利亚，均告失败，亚哈谢的死迅速应验了他因背叛神将受审判的预言。

2、犹大王（公元前 842 年），约兰和亚他利雅最小的儿子，亚哈和耶洗别的孙子（王下 8:25-29；9:16-29；代下 22:1-9）。在《历代志下》21:17；25:23 中这个名字被拼写为“Jehoahaz”（“约哈斯”，调换了“Ahaziah”[“亚哈谢”]部分字母的顺序），而在《历代志下》22:6（《钦定版圣经》）中被拼写为“Azariah”（“亚哈谢”），十五部希伯来原稿和所有译本中修正了这个错误的拼写形式。

亚哈谢在以色列约兰第十二年继承王位，然而《列王纪下》9:29 记载他在约兰第十一年登基，对于这一矛盾之处有多种解释，有人认为是编辑修正造成的，有人认为是希伯来人和希腊人计算方法不同造成的（参：Thiele, MNHK, 35 页, 68-69 页）。因为一伙阿拉伯侵略者杀死了亚哈谢的众兄长，所以约兰最小的儿子亚哈谢继承了王位（代下 22:1；参：Josephus Ant. ix.5.3）。从亚他利雅在亚哈谢死后的行为判断，“耶路撒冷的民众”可能是将亚哈谢推上王位的重要因素。然而，亚哈谢的母亲给他主谋（代下 22:3），尽管《列王纪下》12:18 记载亚哈谢向耶和华的殿献上了圣物（王下 12:18）。

亚哈谢与他的叔叔以色列的亚兰一起反对亚兰的哈薛，并占领了基列的拉末（王下 8:28-29；9:14-15）。约兰受伤返回到了耶斯列，后来亚哈谢到那

and returned to Jezreel, and later Ahaziah came to visit him there. He thus became involved in the coup d'état in which Jehu slew Jehoram and Jezebel and other members of the royal family, and Ahaziah was himself killed. According to 2 K. 9:27f. he was mortally wounded as he fled in his chariot near Ibleam; he made his way to the fortress of Megiddo and died there. His body was conveyed to Jerusalem and there buried. Later his kinsmen were slain (2 K. 10:12-14). In 2 Ch. 22:7-9, his kinsmen are reported to have been killed first, and Ahaziah himself brought out of hiding in Samaria and executed. This may reflect a different tradition followed by the Chronicler, or it may be "a case of major textual disorder" (NBC, in loc.).

AHIKAR 亚希卡

音译：ə-hī'kär 【希腊语：Achiacharos, Acheicharos】；《钦定版圣经》译为 ACHIACHARUS（“亚希卡”）。托比的侄子（托比的兄弟安尼尔的儿子），亚述王朝的重要大臣（托 1:21-22）。由于亚希卡位高权重，所以他才能成功地为托比求情，使托比返回了尼尼微，当托比因善待

vengeance upon his charitable acts on behalf of the exiled Jews. Ahikar later assumed care of the blinded Tobit (2:10) and joined in the wedding celebration of his cousin Tobias (11:18).

Cupbearer to the king and bearing responsibilities for the royal seal and all royal administrative accounts, Ahikar apparently was given his position by Sennacherib and reappointed by Esarhaddon (1:22, RSV mg., NEB RSV“appointed second to himself”; cf. APOT, I, 205 n.).

Depicting him as a legendary figure, Ahikar's story is known in several versions including the writings of Democritus (preserved by Clement of Alexandria), Aesop, and the Arabian Nights. Discovery of fragments of the story among the fifth-century B.C. Aramaic papyri from Elephantine suggests a time of origin of at least 600 B.C., thus a possible influence for the allusions in Tobit.

The story appears in numerous variations, in which Ahikar is generally portrayed as prestigious and wealthy, a sage and politician. Although he had sixty wives, he was childless and was instructed to raise as his heir Nadan (RSV NADAB; AV Nasbas), his sister's son. When Ahikar threatened to supplant the unresponsive and belligerent youth with his brother Nebuzardan, Nadan betrayed him to the king with forged diplomatic correspondence proposing the betrayal of Assyrian forces to Egypt and Persia. Condemned to death for treason, Ahikar was hidden by his appointed executioner in gratitude for a previous

流放的犹太人逃离亚述王的追杀时，他的财产被没收了。亚希卡后来照料失明的托比（托 2:10）并参加了他堂兄弟托比雅的婚礼（托 11:18）。

显然西拿基立王曾任命亚希卡作酒监、司库、司帐，以撒哈顿再次任命他担任此职（托 1:22，《修订标准译本》旁注，《新英文译本》和《修订标准译本》译为“appointed second to himself”（“二次任命他”；参：APOT, I, 205））。

亚希卡是个传奇人物，德谟克利特的作品（[由亚历山太的革利免保存下来）、伊索的作品和《一千零一夜》都记录了亚希卡的故事。公元前五世纪的象岛亚兰语蒲草纸中发现了这个故事的残篇，这表明这个故事至少可以追溯至公元前 6000 年，因此《托比传》可能引用了这个故事。

favor, and a condemned criminal was killed in his place. Subsequently the Egyptian pharaoh posed for Sennacherib the option of paying or receiving tribute, depending on the Assyrian's ability to help devise a palace to be built midway between heaven and earth. The king bemoaned the loss of Ahikar, who might have accomplished such an impossible feat, whereupon the servant confessed his substitution and produced Ahikar. Ahikar then sought to fulfil the pharaoh's demands by sending aloft two boys, carried by eagles, who demanded building supplies for the project, which the Egyptians were unable to provide. After solving various other puzzles, Ahikar received the Egyptian tribute. Sennacherib then restored him to high position and permitted his severe punishment of Nadan.

Reference to the respective rewards of Ahikar and Nadan in Tob. 14:10 indicates the author's reliance on older material apparently well known to his readers. The occurrence of many similar proverbs in Tobit reinforces the probability of literary dependency on the Ahikar story.

亚希卡和拿答各自的下场记录在《托比传》14:10中，这表明作者依赖他的读者熟知的古老资料。《托比传》中出现的许多类似的箴言进一步证明了这部作品依赖于亚希卡的故事。

AHIKAR, BOOK OF 《亚希卡书》

根据亚希卡的故事撰写的具有教育意义的民间故事，并用箴言和寓言润饰了亚希卡对养子的教导。

这本书的中心人物是亚希卡，他是亚述王朝中身居高位的哲士，收养了他

Assyrian court who adopts as heir his nephew Nadan (RSV NADAB). The unappreciative youth falsely accuses his benefactor of treason, whereupon Ahikar escapes death only through the intervention of an executioner whom he himself had once spared. When the Egyptian pharaoh confronts Sennacherib with a conundrum bearing political consequences, the king laments the alleged demise of Ahikar, who is then brought forth from hiding. The sage masters the Egyptian demands, for which he is restored to favor, while the villainous nephew is punished.

Several versions of the story exist, including Syriac, Arabic, Slavonic, and Armenian accounts. The earliest extant is found in fragments of the fifth-century B.C. Aramaic papyri from Elephantine. Parallels are found in Democritus, Aesop, Strabo, Shahrastani, the Koran, and the Arabian Nights. The second-century B.C. apocryphal book of Tobit is quite familiar with the story and represents Ahikar as Tobit's nephew (Tob. 1:21). Other parallels occur in the OT wisdom literature, the Apocrypha, and the NT parables and epistles (see APOT, II, 718f.). Of particular interest are similarities between the Ahikar story and the book of Daniel, especially the difficulty of interpreting Nebuchadrezzar's dreams (Dnl. 2:2, 11, 27), the king's offer of reward for their explanation (5:7, 16), and the beastlike appearance of the afflicted monarch (4:33 [MT 34]). The death of Nadan resembles that of Judas (Mt. 27:5; Acts 1:18f.).

An Assyrian origin for the story is quite

的侄子拿答（《修订标准译本》译为 NADAB[“拿答”]）作嗣子。这个不知感恩的青年人控诉他的恩人叛国，而亚希卡因曾救过死刑犯执行人的命而幸免于难。埃及向西拿基立提出了一个带有政治影响的难题，亚述王这才悔恨处死了亚希卡，于是，隐藏起来的亚希卡被带出来了。这位哲士满足了埃及人的需求，因此恢复了自己的地位，而他卑劣的侄子受到了惩罚。

这个故事有好几个版本，包括叙利亚语版、阿拉伯语版、斯拉夫语版和亚美尼亚语版。公元前五世纪象岛亚兰语蒲草纸中的关于亚希卡故事的残篇是现存最古老的版本。德谟克利特、伊索、斯特拉波和沙拉坦尼的作品，以及《古兰经》和《一千零一夜》中都记载了亚希卡的故事。公元前二世纪的《次经》《托比传》非常熟悉这个故事，并称亚希卡是托比的侄子（托 1:21）。旧约智慧文学、《次经》以及新约比喻和书信中记载了其他类似的版本（见 APOT, II, 718-719）。尤为让人感兴趣的是亚希卡的故事和《但以理书》之间的相似之处，尤其是为尼布甲尼撒解梦的困难（但 2:2, 11, 27），王对解梦之人的奖赏（但 5:7, 16）和这位受苦国王的野兽般的长相（但 4:33 《马所拉文本》34]）。拿答的死与犹大的死很相似（太 27:5；徒 1:18-19）。

这个故事很有可能源于亚述。蒙亚希

possible. The name of the servant who spares Ahikar, Nabû-šum-iškun, occurs in Akkadian historical documents (ANET, p. 272), and Ahikar and Nadan (cf. AHIMELECH ə-him'ə-lek [Heb. hîmelek—'brother of a king' or 'my brother is king'].

1. The son of Ahitub of the house of Eli, and father of Abiathar (1 S. 21:2f., 8; 22:9–20; 30:7). Ahijah (1 S. 14:3, 18) may be the same person or Ahimelech's brother.

Ahimelech was high priest at Nob, the site of which is not known exactly though it was probably near Jerusalem (Isa. 10:29–32). It was here that the tabernacle had been transferred after the desolation of Shiloh. The priestly establishment at Nob existed on a fairly large scale, for eighty-five priests (LXX 305, Josephus 385) perished in the massacre (1 S. 22:18). The priests had families residing at Nob (v. 19). Among the votive offerings deposited at Nob was Goliath's sword, which was later taken back by David (21:9). The priests at Nob had authority to detain people, such as Doeg the Edomite, for religious purification or as punishment for some crime (21:7). It was customary to inquire of Yahweh there (22:10, 15), and the custom of the showbread or bread of the

音译：ə-him'ə-lek 【希伯来语：hîmelek——“国王的兄弟”或“我的兄弟是王”】。

1、以利家亚希突的儿子，亚比亚他的父亲（撒上 21:2-3，8；22:9-20；30:7）。亚希雅（撒上 14:3，18）可能与亚希米勒是同一个人或是亚希米勒的兄弟。

亚希米勒是挪伯的大祭司，尽管挪伯的位置没有完全确定，不过挪伯可能在耶路撒冷的附近（赛 10:29-32）。示罗被毁后，会幕被转移至此地。挪伯的祭司队伍很大，因为在大屠杀中（撒上 22:18）有八十五名祭司被杀（《七十士译本》中认为有 305 名祭司，约瑟夫斯认为有 385 名祭司）。祭司们的家眷住在挪伯（撒上 22:19）。存放在挪伯的供物包括杀死哥利亚的刀，后来大卫将刀拿走了（撒上 21:9）。挪伯的祭司为了保持宗教纯正或惩罚罪犯有权扣押人（如，以东的多益）。祭司习惯在挪伯求问耶和华（撒上 22:10，15），并且挪伯保留了供奉陈设饼或圣饼的习俗（撒上 21:6）。据此可知挪伯在当时是重要的宗教中心。

Presence was maintained (21:6). In the light of all this it is clear that Nob was an important religious center of the time.

David fled from Saul to Nob, and Ahimelech expressed surprise at his arrival and was in great fear. Anxious to preserve his own life and that of his men, David resorted to deception and pretended that he was on a royal commission from Saul: "The king hath commanded me a business" (21:2). Whether he believed him or not, Ahimelech cooperated with David by giving him the shewbread and Goliath's sword. This service was to have disastrous consequences, for Doeg, a royal servant, had witnessed the transaction and later told it to Saul, who interpreted it as treason on the part of Ahimelech. Despite Ahimelech's noble defense of David, he was ordered to be slain along with the rest of the priests. This command by Saul shows how completely deranged his mind was. The shocking nature of Saul's order is reflected in that even his own guard refused to lift a hand. He found a willing executioner in Doeg, however, perhaps because as an Edomite he did not share this reverence for the priesthood. Certainly the cruelty he showed is paralleled in others of his race. By killing the priests Saul cut all ties with the old amphictyonic order and drove its priesthood into the arms of his rival David. Abiathar, Ahimelech's son, was the only escapee (22:20). Ps. 52 was written in memory of this dastardly act.

2. A son of Abiathar and grandson of the above (1 Ch. 24:3, 6, 21). In a list of the heads of departments under David, this

2、亚比亚他的儿子，上面提到的亚希米勒的孙子（代上 24:3, 6, 21）。大卫手下军长的名单中提到大卫的朋友

Ahimelech, the son of David's friend Abiathar, is mentioned as sharing with Zadok a high position in the priesthood. In this capacity he later shared with David and Zadok in the apportionment of the priests into twenty-four ancestral classes, sixteen of the house of Eleazar and eight of the house of Ithamar. No doubt his father Abiathar was too old for such administrative duty. It was quite common for a grandson to be named after his grandfather (cf. 1 Ch. 24:31).

In 2 S. 8:17 the phrase "Ahimelech the son of Abiathar" is most probably a copyist's inversion; this interpretation is supported by the Syriac and Arabic versions and by the history of the period. It must be remembered that this verse gives the list of David's chief officers. The parallel verse in 1 Ch. 18:16 is likewise an inversion, though here the name reads Abimelech, a copyist's error (corrected in the RSV and NEB).

在《撒母耳记下》8:17 中，短语“亚比亚他的儿子亚希米勒”很有可能是抄写员颠倒了两个名字；叙利亚和阿拉伯译本以及当时的历史文献证明了这种翻译。需牢记这节经文列出了大卫的主要官长的名单。平行章节《历代志上》18:16 同样也颠倒了两个名字的位置，不过这里的亚希米勒被拼写成 Abimelech，这是抄写错误。（《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》中作了修正）。

2、耶斯列来的女子，扫罗将米甲另嫁他人后，大卫娶亚希暖为妻。大卫统治希伯伦前只有两个妻子，即亚希暖和拿八的遗孀亚比该。经文中首先提到大卫娶亚比该为妻，并给出了许多细节，紧接着用过去完成时描述了大卫先娶了亚希暖为妻（撒上 25:39-44）。经文中三次一起提到亚希暖和亚比该，亚希暖总是排在前面（撒上 27:3; 30:5; 撒下 2:2）；亚希暖是大卫的长子暗嫩的母亲，而亚比该是大卫次子的母亲（撒下 3:2; 代上 3:1）。

AHIO 亚希约

音译：ə-hī'ō 【希伯来语：^ahyō——“弟弟”】。

1、比利亚的众子之一，比利亚是以利巴力的儿子，以利巴力是沙哈连和户伸的儿子，他们都是便雅悯人（代上 8:14）。比利亚和示玛被称为“亚雅仑居民的族长，是驱逐迦特人的”。

2. A descendant of Jeiel (“the father of Gibeon”) and his wife Maacah (1 Ch. 8:31; 9:37). King Saul apparently came from the same family (8:30, 33; 9:39).

AHIRA

ə-hī'rə [Heb. ^ahīra]. A leader of Naphtali contemporary with Moses, who assisted in the census (Nu. 1:15).

AHIRAM

ə-hī'rə [Heb. ^ahīrām—‘exalted brother’ or ‘my brother is exalted’]. A son of Benjamin, mentioned third of the five in Nu. 26:38f. In 1 Ch. 8:1 five sons are likewise mentioned, explicitly numbered; the third name, Aharah (^ahrah), is conjectured to be either a corruption of Ahiram or a different name for the same person. In 1 Ch. 7:6ff. is a fuller list of Benjamite names, but it is fragmentary and not clear. In it occurs Aher (^ahēr), which may be either Ahiram or Aharah with the end of the word lost. In Gen. 46:21 ten sons of Benjamin are mentioned, some being there counted as sons who, in the other lists, are spoken of as more remote descendants. In this list Ehi (^ahī) is perhaps Ahiram apocopated. See AHARAH; AHER.

AHIRAMITE

音译：ə-hī'rə【希伯来语：^ahīrām——“我的兄弟受高举”或“我的兄弟是崇高的”】。便雅悯的儿子，亚希兰族在《民数记》26:38-39 的便雅悯诸族中位列第三。《历代志上》8:1 中明确提到了便雅悯的五个儿子；第三位是亚哈拉（^ahrah），据推测这个名字要么是亚希兰（Ahiram）的错误拼写形式，要么是同一个人的不同名字。《历代志上》7:6 起给出了更多便雅悯人的名字，但是仍不完全也不清楚。这里提到的亚黑（^ahēr）可能是亚希兰或亚哈拉，只是丢失了词尾。《创世记》46:21 中提到了便雅悯的十个儿子，其中一些人在这里被认为是便雅悯的儿子，而在其他的名单中被认为是便雅悯的子孙。在这个名单中 Ehi（^ahī）可能是词尾脱落的 Ahiram（“亚希拉”）。见 AHARAH（亚哈拉）；AHER（亚黑）。

He is described as “the king’s counselor,” in a context connected with events some of which are dated in the fortieth year of David (1 Ch. 27:33f.; cf. 26:31). His wisdom was such that his words were taken prophetically as a divine oracle (2 S. 16:23). A full account of his part in the rebellion is found in 2 S. 15:12ff. He joined Absalom’s entourage after the coronation ceremony, and when Jerusalem was occupied he suggested that Absalom take token possession of the kingdom (2 S. 16:20–22). were not driven out (Jgs. 1:31), formerly identified with Gush Halab (Gischala) in Galilee. In the related text, Josh. 19:29, the name Meheleb is found by some scholars (the MT as pointed reads “from Heleb”), and they suggest that Ahlab and Helbah in Jgs. 1:31 are misreadings from Meheleb (RSV Mahalab). On this basis Ahlab is identified with Khirbet el-Mahâlib, about 5 mi. (8 km.) NNE of Tyre. Mahâlib was captured by Tiglath-pileser III in 734 B.C. and later by Sennacherib (cf. Iraq, 18 [1956], 129).

Aerial view of Ai (et-Tell) and Wâdī el-Jaya (center), which leads eastward to the Jordan valley just N of Jericho. The wadi is thought to be the ravine mentioned in the account of Joshua's capture of the city (Josh. 8:11). (J.A. Callaway)

Ai is prominent in the conquest narratives, where it is described as being adjacent to Beth-aven (Josh. 7:2). It was the next location to be reduced after Jericho, but despite its smallness its defenders routed an Israelite attack. This setback was attributed to the sin of Achan in appropriating material from the devoted spoil of Jericho, and after confession and expiation a second attack on Ai was successful. As the result of a stratagem the city was taken, the defensive area was demolished, and the site left a ruined heap. The king and his people were killed, and only the cattle were kept as spoil by the Israelites (Josh. 8:27). When the book of Joshua was being written the area was still in ruins (Josh. 8:28). The fall of Ai enabled the Israelites to penetrate deep into the interior of Canaan, where they quickly established themselves. Ai was rebuilt at a later period, being mentioned in Isa. 10:28 in connection with the approach of the Assyrian armies. Its location N of Michmash corresponds with the identification given above. This city was mentioned in postexilic times in Ezr.

艾城在征服故事中占据着十分突出的位置, 而故事中提到艾城靠近伯亚文 (书 7:2)。艾城是继耶利哥后, 以色列人攻克的另一座城市, 但是尽管艾城面积很小, 但艾城守城者击退了以色列人的进攻。这次失利是由于亚干贪恋耶利哥当灭的物, 在认罪和赎罪后, 以色列人第二次成功攻取了艾城。以色列人设计攻占了艾城, 艾城的防御区被毁, 艾城变成了一片废墟。以色列人杀了艾城王和他的子民, 唯独保留城中的牲畜作为掠物 (书 8:27)。在著《约书亚记》时, 艾城仍然是一片废墟 (书 8:28)。艾城的沦陷使以色列人进入迦南腹地, 他们迅速在迦南站稳了脚跟。后来艾城被重建, 《以赛亚书》10:28 中提到了亚述军来到艾城 (亚叶)。如上文提到的, 它位于密抹北部。在《以斯拉记》2:28 和《尼希米记》7:32; 11:31 中, 被掳回归时期提到了这个城市, 而且每次艾城都与其附近的伯特利一同被提及。

2:28 and Neh. 7:32; 11:31, being associated in each case with nearby Bethel.

The site of the Late Bronze Age Ai seems best identified, for topographical and philological reasons, with the modern et-Tell, about 2 mi. (3km.) SE of Bethel (Tell Beitîn). The town mentioned by Ezra and Nehemiah may be identified with Khirbet Haiyân, 1 mi. (1.6 km.) SE of et-Tell, the occupation of which was restricted to the Iron Age. Mme. Judith Marquet-Krause excavated et-Tell in 1933–1935, followed by Samuel Yeivin in 1936. They showed that a flourishing city had existed there in the 3rd millennium B.C., protected by an elaborate defense system of three walls. From the ruins of a temple were recovered numerous vessels of stone, alabaster, and ivory, the latter two varieties having doubtless been imported from Egypt.

The city arose ca. 3000 B.C., and seems to have been destroyed a millennium later, perhaps by Amorite invaders. In the Early Iron Age, after 1200 B.C., a new and smaller settlement arose which lasted for a century or so, and which made use of the earlier ruins. From the archeological evidence it would appear that the site was actually uninhabited at the time of the thirteenth-century B.C. Israelite conquest. Those who accept the identification of Ai with et-Tell have made various attempts to explain the discrepancy. For some the narrative is an example of the way all Israelite conquests over several centuries were referred to the time of Joshua, with Ai falling in the Early Iron Age. Others have regarded the Joshua narrative as an etiological legend, attempting to explain how the site received the name of “ruin” in antiquity. Still others have propounded the more probable suggestion that Ai was fortified hurriedly in the 13th cent. B.C. by the neighboring peoples as a temporary stronghold which it was hoped would stem the Israelite advance. Some have thought in consequence that the Joshua narrative referred to the destruction of nearby Bethel rather than Ai (see BETHEL). Since there is no clear distinction in the narratives between the soldiers of the two cities (Josh. 8:17), it may be that Ai was actually being used as a fortified outpost on the edge of Bethel. This procedure would be justified by the strategic role Ai had played prior to 2300 B.C. and would help to account for the mention of Ai in a narrative dealing with the conquest of Bethel.

的要塞。因此，有人认为约书亚的故事提及了附近伯特利（见 BETHEL）的毁灭，而不是艾城的毁灭。因为在故事中两城的士兵没有明显的分别（书 8:17），艾城实际上可能是伯特利周边的一个防御前哨。艾城在公元前 2300 年之前发挥的重要作用证明了这一进程，这一进程也有助于解释故事中提到的艾城与伯特利的关系。

Excavated area at et-Tell, including the Early Bronze et-Tell 的挖掘面积，包括青铜器时代早期的圣殿和

Age temple and citadel (lower center) and the Iron Age village (upper center) (J. A. Callaway)

The account of the battle for Ai describes, however, a firm defensive stand by the enemy at that location, which indicates an inhabited or at the very least an occupied site with its own ruler. If Ai was little more than a defensive strongpoint protecting the environs of Bethel, the ruler would be more of a military commander than a “king.” That Ai was in fact a fortified outpost is implied by the narrative of its capture, which exhibits clear military purpose and tactical planning by Joshua and his forces. A careful examination of the topography of the area shows that the Israelites maneuvered their forces so as to take maximum advantage of the terrain in launching an ambush. The Israelite base camp was situated N of Bethel and Ai in “dead ground” beyond the valley, which contained seasonal wadis (Josh. 8:11, 13). The problem facing Joshua was how best to attack the ruin and its strong enemy force without exposing his flank and rear, and without losing the element of surprise. He solved the difficulty by appearing to repeat his earlier tactical mistake (Josh. 8:14f.), but in actuality moving secretly a large ambush of thirty thousand men into position W of the ruin some thirty-six hours before the main attack began. The smaller ambush of about five thousand men needed to be assigned to their positions only on the eve of battle (Josh. 8:12). When all preparations were complete, Joshua encamped in the valley N of Ai. When the reserve troops of Bethel hurriedly pursued the supposedly fleeing Israelites (Josh. 8:15ff.), the thirty-thousand men rose up and attacked the enemy in the rear while the smaller force sacked and burned Bethel (Josh. 8:19f.).

城堡（中下）以及铁器时代的村庄（中上）（J. A. Callaway）。

然而，争夺艾城的故事中描述了一个敌人坚固把守的防御之地，这表明艾城有人居住或至少是有自己统治者的地方。如果艾城仅仅是保护伯特利周边的防御工事，那么该城的统治者可能是军队的领袖，而不是“王”。攻克艾城的故事表明艾城实际是一个防御前哨，也展现出了约书亚和以色列军队的明确军事目的和战术计划。如果仔细地勘察一下这里的地形，就会发现以色列人调遣军队是为了在发起伏击时占有最有利的地形。以色列在伯特利和艾城北边的谷外“幽暗之地”安营，这里有一条季节性的河流（书 8:11, 13）。约书亚面临的问题是如何攻打艾城和它里面的强敌，同时又不暴露在侧方和后方埋伏的军队，以达到突袭的目的。约书亚假装重复之前的战术错误，因而解决了这个难题（书 8:14-15），实际上，约书亚在发起主攻前约三十六小时偷偷在艾城西边埋伏了三万人。而那五千人左右的小伏击队只需在开战前夕待在指定位置（书 8:12）。当一切准备就绪，约书亚在艾城北边的谷中安营。当伯特利的守军匆忙地追赶假装逃跑的以色列军队时（书 8:15 起），事先埋伏的三万军兵起来攻打敌人后方，而另外五千士兵洗劫并烧毁了伯特利（书 8:19-20）。

This account of events notes that “the city” and “the ruin” are apparently used interchangeably in the Hebrew text; and since the words differ only by one character (*h’y*r, “the city”; h’y, “the ruin”), there is an understandable element of confusion in their precise application to Bethel as the city and Ai as the ruin. In Josh. 8:12 “Beth-aven” should be read for “Bethel,” following the consonantal form of the Eastern text and the Lagarde LXX edition (cf. Josh. 7:2).

A joint expedition to Ai was directed by J. A. Calloway between 1964 and 1972; supplementary expeditions followed which cast serious doubts on Albright’s identification of Ai with et-Tell (cf. J. A. Calloway, in M. Avi-Yonah, ed, Encyclopedia of Archaeological Excavations in the Holy Land, I [1975], 36–52). No completely satisfactory solution to the problems presented by the excavation of Ai has yet been advanced, and it may be that the archeological evidence is inconclusive because of the erosion of Late Bronze Age strata at the site, as at Jericho. It is also possible that Ai has been incorrectly identified with et-Tell, and that Mme. Marquet-Krause did not actually excavate the Ai of Joshua’s time. Further exploration of the area is clearly necessary before the archeological picture can be clarified fully.

2. [Heb. ‘ay]. An Ammonite city in Moab of uncertain location (Jer. 49:3). The text may be a corruption of Heb. ‘ar or hā’ir, “the city.”

1964年至1972年，卡拉伟（J. A. Calloway）率领一支联合科考队发掘了艾城，后来又进行了几次探究，并严重质疑了奥尔布赖特认为艾城就是埃切废丘的说法（参：J. A. Callaway, in M. Avi-Yonah 编，Encyclopedia of Archaeological Excavations in the Holy Land, I [1975], 36–52）。对于艾城发掘所提出的问题，目前尚未找到令人完全满意的答案，考古证据是非决定性的，因为艾城像耶利哥一样，青铜时代晚期的考古地层也受到了侵蚀。艾城是埃切废丘的说法可能是不正确的，而马奎克雷斯女士实际上并没有发掘到约书亚时期的艾城。在勾勒出艾城考古的完整画面之前，还必须深入地研究该遗址。

2、【希伯来语：‘ay】。摩押地的亚打城，位置不详（耶 49:3）。这个希伯来语可能是希伯来语‘ar 或 hā’ir 的讹误形式，意为“那城”。

It is mentioned in the Amarna Letters by the name Aialuna. It has been identified with the modern Yâlō, 14 mi. (23 km.) NW of Jerusalem. Excavations at Tell el-Qoqa' near the village have yielded traces of occupation as early as 2000 B.C.

The Danites failed to take it from the Amorites (Jgs. 1:35), although the men of Ephraim held it in vassalage. Here Saul and Jonathan won a great victory over the Philistines (1 S. 14:31). At one time it was held by the tribe of Benjamin (1 Ch. 8:13); Rehoboam fortified it against the kingdom of Israel (2 Ch. 11:10). 但支派没能从亚摩利人手中夺得该镇(士 1:35)，而以法莲人仅把它作为隶属地区。在这里扫罗和约拿单从非利士人手中大获全胜(撒上 14:31)。亚雅仑曾经被便雅悯支派所掌控(代上 8:13)。罗波安加固了该镇以抵御以色列王国(代下 11:10)。亚哈斯王时期，非利士人侵占了该镇(代下 28:18)。

This word is a translation of a number of words in the Pauline correspondence, all of which have to do with the Christian life. It is used to describe the strivings of Christians toward some end or goal. “The setting of a goal is a feature shared with OT and Rabbinic piety and Hellenistic moralism, but there is here a religious foundation and in consequence a greater intensity and depth” (TDNT, II, 230). 本词是保罗书信中许多词的翻译，这些词都与基督徒生活有关。本词被用来描述基督徒为某个目的或目标而努力。“订立目标是旧约和拉比虔诚及希腊化教训共有的特征，但是因这其中有宗教基础，所以更为强烈和深刻”（TDNT, II, 230）。在《提摩太前书》6:11 和《提摩太后书》2:22 中，短语“应当追求”重复出现，其后出现的是包括公义、信心、爱心在内的一系列美德。美德中最

Tim. 6:11 and 2 Tim. 2:22 the sequence “shun ... aim at” is repeated, followed by a catalogue of virtues including righteousness, faith, and love. The greatest of the virtues, love (1 Cor. 13:13), is what is to be pursued and “prosecut[ed] to its goal” (dióko, Expos.G.T., II, on 1 Cor. 14:1), and it is also the true end or final goal of all the exhortations to Timothy.

It was Paul’s ambition in life (philotiméomai)—whether at home in or away from the body—to please God (2 Cor. 5:9) by “taking thought for” or “having regard for” (pronoéō) what is honorable in God’s sight and in man’s (2 Cor. 8:21). This purpose (próthesis) and chief aim in life issue in Christian virtues that Timothy is exhorted to continue (2 Tim. 3:10, 14).

The strivings of the Christian life are directed toward this outcome in character so that Paul did not run “aimlessly,” i.e., not as one who has no fixed goal (ádēlōs), but pressed on toward that goal for the ‘prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus’ (Phil. 3:14).

伟大的爱心是应追求的并应被“贯彻到底的”(dióko, Expos.G.T., II, 林前 14:1 注释), 这也是提摩太所有劝告的真正目的和最终目标。

保罗一生的志向 (philotiméomai)——无论是住在身内, 离开身外——要得主喜悦 (林后 5:9), 就要“留心”或“重视”在神前和人前行在神眼中看为喜悦的事 (林后 8:21)。这个生活的目的 (próthesis) 和主要目标就是提摩太劝诫人们要持有的基督徒的美德 (提后 3:10, 14)。

基督徒生活上努力朝这个目标奋斗, 所以保罗并非是“漫无目的”行事, 即, 并不是没有固定目标的人 (ádēlōs), 而是为了“得神在基督耶稣里从上面召我来得的奖赏”这一目标努力前进 (腓 3:14)。

The passage in Joshua is the earlier of the two and has support in Codex Alexandrinus. That Ain is several times named in immediate connection with Rimmon has lent plausibility to the view that we have here a compound word that should be read En-rimmon (Heb. ‘ênrimmôn, cf. In the OT, “air” most commonly signifies the region through which the birds fly. In Ps. 50:11 the RSV has emended harîm (“mountains”) to read šāmayim, in accordance with the LXX, Syriac, and Targum texts. The Gk. aēr is distinguished from the aithēr, which is the rarified air of higher altitudes.

Aēr is the term employed in the phrase rendered “speaking into the air” (1 Cor. 14:9), meaning “waste words,” “talk to the wind,” “talk in a vain and empty manner” (cf. Bauer, p. 19). The phrase “smiting the air” (also aēr, 1 Cor. 9:26) is parallel to Vergil’s vires inventum effudit (Aen. v.446) and refers to a gladiator who misses a stroke.

The much disputed “prince of the power of the air” (aēr, Eph. 2:2) probably refers to demonic activity in the region inhabited by man, i.e., the air or atmosphere in which man himself moves. In other words, Satan is active in the region where man is active.

在《旧约》中，本词最常用来表示鸟飞翔的区域。在《诗篇》50:11中，《修订标准译本》将 harîm (“山”) 修订为 šāmayim，与《七十士译本》《古叙利亚语译本》和《他尔根》一致。希腊语 aēr 不同于 aithēr，aithēr 表示高海拔地区的稀薄空气。

Aēr 这个词用在短语“对空气说话”中（林前 14:9），意为“浪费言语”、“白说”、“徒费口舌”（参：Bauer，19 页）。短语“击打空气”（也用 aēr，林前 9:26）与维吉尔的 vires inventum effudit（“力量打空”，Aen. 446 节）意思一致，指决斗者攻击落空。

Therefore that field has been called the Field of Blood to this day.” Doubtless it was a supposed connection between this potter’s field and the potter’s house (Jer. 18:2) and the valley of the son of Hinnom (19:2) that influenced the selection of the present site, which, like the Aram. hqldm’ (Dalman), is today known as haqq ed-dumm, “price of blood.”

Tradition, which appears to go back to the 14th cent., points to a level platform on, and some distance up, the southern slope of the Wādī er-Rabâbeh (Valley of Hinnom) just before it joins the Kidron Valley. Upon this spot there is a very remarkable ruin (78 by 57 ft., 24 by 17 m.) which for many centuries was used as a charnel house. So great was its reputation that vast quantities of it are said to have been transported in A.D. 1215 to the Campo Santo at Pisa. AKELDAMA 亚革大马

音译: ə-kel'də-mə【希腊语: Akeldamach（《梵蒂冈抄本》），其他抄本 Akeldama（《以法莲抄本》，柯因内语）等】；《钦定版圣经》译为 ACELDAMA（“亚革大马”）。在《使徒行传》1:19 中提到，犹大用“三十块银钱”买了一片田地。根据《马太福音》27:6-10 中的描述，祭司拾起犹大丢在殿里的钱，“用那银钱买了窑户的一块田，为要埋葬外乡人。所以那块田直到今日还被叫作‘血田’”。毫无疑问，窑户的田地，窑匠的家（耶 18:2）和欣嫩子谷（珥 19:2）有关联，这影响了对该地的定位，如亚兰语的 hqldm’（达曼）今天被称为 haqq ed-dumm，“血田”。

传统上认为亚革大马在距欣嫩子谷（Wādī er-Rabâbeh）南坡不远处，即欣嫩子谷和汲沦谷交汇处，这种传统似乎可以追溯至公元 14 世纪。在这里，有一片非常著名的废墟（78 英尺 x 57 英尺，24x17 米），很多个世纪以来，该地都被当做藏骸所。这片土地因能够迅速分解尸体而著名。该地声名远扬，甚至有传说，在公元 1215 年，这里的土曾经被运往比萨公墓。这所建筑还完整时，从屋顶的 5 个开窗把尸体扔进去，然后等待尸体分解碎裂，所以很多年前，地面上遍布着骸骨，但是现在已经被移走。这片废墟东南方不远处是一座希腊修道院，这座修道院矗立在当代大片洞穴墓遗迹之上，如今，“亚革大马”的骸骨大多都埋葬于此。 ə-la'moθ [Heb. “lāmôṭ”]; NEB omits. A musical term of uncertain meaning. A group of musicians in David’s court “were to play harps according to [al] Alamoṭh” (1 Ch. 15:20). The term occurs also in the MT heading of Ps. 46 (“According to Alamoṭh”).

Several possible interpretations have been suggested. Wellhausen read “with Elamite instruments” (cf. BH mg. ‘al-‘ēlamîṭ). BDB and others translate as if from ‘almâ, “in the manner of young women,” i.e., soprano (possibly falsetto boys). (BDB also reads this notation, by emendation, in the headings of Pss. 9 and 49.) See MUSIC III.B.

Most Gk. MSS transliterate in 1 Ch. 15:20; the reading peri tōn kryphîōn in L. assumes Heb. (ta) ‘alumôṭ, as does hypér tōn kryphîon at Ps. 45:1, LXX (=MT 46:1). Even if this correctly reflected the original, its significance would be uncertain.

人们提出了几种可能的解释。维尔豪森解读为“用埃兰乐器”(参: BH 旁注 ‘al-‘ēlamîṭ)。其他学者和《旧约希伯来语英语辞典》(BDB) 的编纂者似乎译自 ‘almâ, “用年轻女人的方式”, 即女高音 (可能是用假声唱歌的男童)。(《旧约希伯来语英语辞典》[BDB]修正, 在《诗篇》9 和 49 的标题中也标注使用这个调。) 见 MUSIC III.B (音乐 III.B)。

大多数希腊语抄本在《历代志上》15:20 中直译了这个希伯来语词汇; 拉丁语译本中译为 peri tōn kryphîōn, 认为原来希伯来语是 hypér tōn kryphîon, 《七十士译本》的《诗篇》45:1 译为 hypér tōn kryphîon (参照了《马所拉文本》46:1)。即使这些抄本正确地体现了原文, 但仍无法确定其含义。

Ezk. 19:4 has been translated by the RSV as “the nations sounded an alarm against him.” The RSV has followed the suggestion in the textual apparatus of BH in changing the MT qal form of šāma‘ to its hiphil vocalization. This suggestion lacks textual support from any ancient versions, and is therefore very dubious. The RSV is followed in this by the NEB with “the nations shouted at him,” although the NEB has the AV reading in a footnote.

al'si-mus [Heb. 'elyāqûm—‘God will rise’; Gk. Alkimos—‘valiant’]. A high priest for three years, 163–161 B.C., the record of whose career may be found in 1 Macc. 7:4–50; 9:1–57; 2 Macc. 14; see also Josephus Ant. xii. 9–11; xx. 10 (sometimes “Iacimus”).

Alcimus was a descendant of Aaron, but not in the high-priestly line (1 Macc. 7:14); and being ambitious for the office of high priest, he hastened to Antioch to secure the favor and help of the new king, Demetrius, who had just overthrown Antiochus Eupator. Alcimus was of the hellenizing party, and therefore bitterly opposed by the Maccabees. Demetrius sent a strong army under Bacchides to establish him in the high-priesthood at Jerusalem. The favor with which Alcimus was received by the Jews at Jerusalem on account of his Aaronic descent was soon turned to hate by his cruelties. When Bacchides and his army returned to Antioch, Simon Maccabeus attacked and overcame Alcimus, and drove him also to Syria. There he secured from Demetrius another army, led by Nicanor, who, failing to secure Simon by treachery, joined battle with him, but was defeated and killed. A third and greater army, under Bacchides again, was dispatched to save the falling fortunes of Alcimus. Now Simon was overwhelmed and slain, Alcimus established as high priest and a strong force left in Jerusalem to uphold him. al’ə-mə [Gk. Alemois]. A city in Hellenistic Gilead, mentioned once (1 Macc. 5:26), where Jews had been imprisoned by the gentile inhabitants. Judas Maccabeus, when he relieved other of the Gileadite cities, also probably aided Alema, though it is not mentioned. The site is unknown, but a suggested identification is the modern ‘Alma, 8.5 mi. (13.5 km.) SW of Buṣr el-Ḥarîrî (Bosor).

音译: al-əg-zan'dər【希腊语: Alexandros——“人类守护者”】。《新约》的五段经文中提到了这个名字(可 15:21; 徒 4:6; 19:33; 提前 1:19-20; 提后 4:14)。无法确定在第三、四、五段经文中本词是否指同一个人。

1、背过耶稣的十字架的古利奈人西门的儿子(可 15:21)。因此, 亚历山大可能出生于北非。三本对观福音书中都有

North African by birth. All three Synoptic Gospels record, with varying detail, that Simon happened to be passing at the time when Christ was being led out of the city to be crucified. Mark alone tells that Simon was the father of Alexander and Rufus. From this statement of the Evangelist it is apparent that at the time the Second Gospel was written Alexander and Rufus were Christians, and were well known in the Christian community. Mark takes it for granted that the first readers of his Gospel will at once understand whom he means.

There is no other mention of this Alexander in the NT, but it is usually thought that his brother Rufus is the person mentioned by Paul in Rom. 16:13, "Greet Rufus, eminent in the Lord, also his mother and mine." See RUFUS.

2. A relative of Annas the Jewish high priest (Acts 4:6). He is mentioned by Luke as having been present as a member of the Sanhedrin, before which Peter and John were brought to be examined for what they had done in the cure of the lame man at the gate of the temple. Nothing more is known of this Alexander than is here given in Acts. It has been conjectured that he may have been the Alexander who was a brother of Philo, and who was also the alabarch or magistrate of the city of Alexandria. But this conjecture is unsupported by any evidence at all.

3. A Jew mentioned in Acts 19:33 in connection with the riot at Ephesus: "Some of the crowd prompted Alexander, whom the Jews had put forward. And Alexander motioned with his hand, wishing to make a defense to the people."

此记载，但细节不同，耶稣被带离城邑，在骷髅地被钉死在十字架上时，西门恰好路过。只有《马可福音》提到西门是亚历山大和鲁孚的父亲。从这位福音传道者的陈述中可知，在第二福音书成文时，亚历山大和鲁孚都是基督徒，而且是非常有名的基督徒。马可想当然地认为他的福音书的第一批读者开卷便知亚历山大到底指谁。

其他新约经卷没有再提及这个亚历山大，但是，保罗在《罗马书》16:13中提到的“鲁孚”通常被认为是亚历山大的兄弟鲁孚，“问主蒙拣选的鲁孚和他的母亲安，他的母亲就是我的母亲。”见 See RUFUS（鲁孚）。

2、犹太大祭司亚那的一个亲戚（徒4:6）。路加提到彼得和约翰在圣殿前因治愈一个残疾人而受到公会问询时，亚历山大是公会的会员之一。除了《使徒行传》之外，再没有关于亚历山大的描述。据推测，亚历山大可能是斐罗的兄弟，是亚历山大市首席行政官或地方法官。但这种说法尚没有得到任何证据的证明。

3、《使徒行传》19:33 在描述以弗所人骚乱这件事时提到的一个犹太人：“有人把亚历山大从众人中带出来，犹太人推他往前。亚历山大就摆手，要向百姓分诉。”但是当百姓认出他是犹太人之后，就骚动起来阻止他说话。

Recognizing that he was a Jew, the crowd raised a commotion that prevented him from speaking.

The riot was entirely the responsibility of Demetrius the silversmith. In his anger against the Christians generally, but especially against Paul, because of his successful preaching of the gospel, he had called together a meeting of the craftsmen; the trade of the manufacture of idols was in jeopardy. From this meeting there arose the riot, in which the whole city was in commotion. The Jews were wholly innocent in the matter: they had done nothing to cause any disturbance. Instantly recognizing that the fury of the Ephesian people might expend itself in violence and bloodshed, and that in that fury they would be the sufferers, the Jews “put forward” Alexander, so that by his skill as a speaker he might clear them, either of having instigated the riot, or of being in complicity with Paul. Cf. Ramsay, SPT, p. 279.

4. One of two heretical teachers at Ephesus—the other being HYMENAEUS—against whom Paul warns Timothy in 1 Tim. 1:19f. The teaching of Hymenaeus and Alexander was to the effect that Christian morality was not required—antinomianism. They put away faith and a good conscience; they wilfully abandoned the great central facts regarding Christ, and so they made shipwreck of the faith.

In 2 Tim. 2:17 Hymenaeus is associated with Philetus, and further details are there given regarding their false teaching. Their heresy consisted in saying that the resurrection was past already, and they had been so far successful as to overthrow the faith of some. The doctrine of these three heretical teachers, Hymenaeus, Alexander, and Philetus, was accordingly one of the early forms of Gnosticism. It held that matter was originally and essentially evil; that for this reason the body was not an essential part of human nature; that the only resurrection was that of each man as he awoke from the death of sin to a righteous life; that thus in the case of everyone who had repented of sin, “the resurrection is past already”; and that the body did not participate in the blessedness of the future life, but salvation consisted in the soul’s complete deliverance from all contact with a material world and a material body.

4、以弗所的两个异端邪说者之一——另一个是许米乃（见 HYMENAEUS[许米乃]）——《提摩太前书》1:19-20 中保罗警示提摩太小心这二人。许米乃和亚历山大教训说，基督徒不需要守道德——即唯信仰论。他们背弃了信仰和良心，故意背离了关于基督的伟大中心事实，所以他们放弃了信仰。

在《提摩太后书》2:17 中提到许米乃与腓理徒有关，还有更多细节显示了他们的错误言论。他们坚持说复活的事已过，骗得好些人失去了信心。因此，这三个异端师傅——许米乃、亚历山大和腓理徒的教义是诺斯替主义的早期形

So pernicious were these teachings of incipient Gnosticism in the Christian Church that they quickly spread, eating “like gangrene” (2 Tim. 2:17). The denial of the future resurrection of the body involved also the denial of the bodily resurrection of Christ, and even the fact of the incarnation. In dealing with those who taught such deadly error, Paul resorted to the same extreme measures as he had employed in the case of the immoral person at Corinth; he delivered Hymenaeus and Alexander “to Satan that they may learn not to blaspheme” (1 Tim. 1:20; cf. 1 Cor. 5:5); i.e., he excluded them from the Church, in the hope that this strong treatment might drive them back to the truth.

5. Alexander the coppersmith, mentioned in 2 Tim. 4:14f.: “Alexander the coppersmith did me great harm; the Lord will requite him for his deeds. Beware of him yourself, for he strongly opposed our message.” It is quite uncertain whether this Alexander should be identified with 4, and even with 3. All three of these Alexanders were resident in Ephesus; and the fourth and fifth of that name resided there at much the same time; the interval between Paul's references to these two was not more than a year or two, as not more than that time elapsed between his writing 1 and 2 Timothy. It is therefore quite possible that 4 and 5 are the same person.

式之一。该教义认为物质原本是邪恶的；因此，身体并不是人性的必要组成部分；只有当每个人从罪的死亡中苏醒，过上公义的生活，他们才能复活；因此，如果每个人都忏悔，那么“便已经复活了”，肉身不能得享未来的幸福生活，但当灵魂完全从世俗世界和肉身中解放出来，便得到了救赎。

初期诺斯替主义的教训在基督教教会内产生了非常有害的影响，以至于这些教训“如同毒疮”般迅速地传播（提后 2:17）。否定了肉身将要复活，也就否定了耶稣身体的复活，甚至也否定了道成肉身这一事实。因此，使徒也采取同样极端的措施来惩罚这些传播致命错误言论的人，正如他曾以极端措施应对哥林多的无德之人；他将许米乃和亚历山大“交给撒但，使他们受责罚，就不再谤讟了”（提前 1:20；参：林前 5:5）；即他们将他们驱逐出教会，希望这种严厉的惩罚让他们回归到真理中。

5. 铜匠亚历山大，《提摩太后书》4:14-15 中提到了这个人：“铜匠亚历山大大地害我，主必照他所行的报应他，你也要防备他，因为他极力敌挡了我们的话。”无法确定这里提到的亚历山大是否和 4 或 3 中的亚历山大是同一个人。

In any case, it is said of this last Alexander that he had shown the evil which was in him by doing many evil deeds to the apostle, evidently on the occasion of a recent visit paid by Paul to Ephesus. These evil deeds had taken the form of personally opposing the apostle's preaching. As Timothy was now in Ephesus, in charge of the church there, he is strongly cautioned by the apostle to be on his guard against this opponent.

ALEXANDER BALAS

bä'læs [Gk. Alexandros ho Balas legómenos] A man who contended against Demetrius I of Syria for the throne and succeeded in obtaining it. He was a youth of mean origin, but was put forth by the enemies of Demetrius as being Alexander the son and heir of Antiochus Epiphanes. He received the support of the Roman senate and of Ptolemy VI of Egypt, and because of the tyranny of Demetrius he was favored by many of the Syrians. The country was thrown into civil war, and Demetrius was defeated by Alexander in 150 B.C. and was killed in battle. Demetrius II took up the cause of his father; and in 147 B.C. 这三个亚历山大都住在以弗所；第四个和第五个亚历山大在同一时期居住在该城中；保罗在不超过一年或两年的时间里提到了这两个亚历山大，这与他写《提摩太前书》和《提摩太后书》的时间间隔相差无几。所以 4 和 5 中的亚历山大很有可能指的是同一个人。

无论如何，据说最后一个亚历山大显然在保罗途经以弗所的时候，对这位使徒做了很多恶事，这说明他是个恶人。他的恶行体现在他反对使徒保罗传道。因为提摩太当时负责管理以弗所的教会，所以保罗提醒提摩太要小心提防这个敌人。

Our chief interest in Alexander is his connection with the Maccabees. Jonathan was the leader of the Maccabean forces, and both Alexander and Demetrius sought his aid. Demetrius granted Jonathan the right to raise and maintain an army. Alexander, not to be outdone, appointed Jonathan high priest, and as a token of his new office sent him a purple robe and a diadem (Josephus Ant. xiii.2.2). This was an important step in the rise of the Maccabean house, for it insured them the support of the Hasidim. In 153 B.C. Jonathan officiated as high priest at the altar (1 Macc. 10:1-14; Ant. xiii.2.1). This made him the legal head of Judea. In 1 Macc. 10:1 Alexander is called Alexander Epiphanes.

ALEXANDER THE GREAT

[Gk. Alexandros].

I. Parentage and Early Life.-Alexander of Macedon, commonly called "the Great" (b. 356 B.C.), was the son of Philip king of Macedon, and of Olympias daughter of Neoptolemos, an Epeirote king. Although Alexander is not mentioned by name in the canonical Scriptures, in Daniel he seems to be designated by a transparent symbol (8:5, 21). In 1 Macc. 1:1 he is expressly named as the over-thrower of the Persian empire and the founder of the Greek empire.

As with Frederick the Great, the career of 我们关注的重点是亚历山大与马加比家族的联系。约拿单是马加比军队的首领，亚历山大和底米丢都曾寻求他的帮助。底米丢授预约拿单特权，准许他组建和保留军队。亚历山大也不甘示弱，他任命约拿单为大祭司，并且赐予他紫袍和王冠作为他新职位的象征（Josephus Ant. xiii.2.2）。这个举动是提升马加比家族地位的重要一步，因为它使马加比家族得到了哈西德派教徒的支持。公元前 153 年，约拿单在祭坛作为大祭司主持仪式（马一 10:1-14；Ant. xiii.2.1）。这使得他成为犹太地区的法定领袖。在《马加比一书》10:1 中，亚历山大被称为亚历山大·伊皮法尼。

ALEXANDER THE GREAT 亚历山大大帝

【希腊语：Alexandros】。

I. 出生和早年经历。马其顿国王亚历山大，通常被称作亚历山大大帝（生于公元前 356 年），是马其顿国王腓力二世的儿子，他的母亲是伊庇鲁斯国王涅俄普托勒摩斯的女儿奥林匹娅斯。尽管在圣经正典中没有直接提到亚历山大这个名字，但是《但以理书》中似乎用一个易懂的象征物来称呼他（但 8:5, 21）。《马加比一书》1:1 中明确提到亚历山大大帝推翻了波斯帝国，建立了希腊帝国。

亚历山大和腓特烈大帝一样，如果他们

Alexander would have been impossible had his father been other than he was. Philip had been for some years a hostage in Thebes. While there he had learned to appreciate the changes introduced into military discipline and tactics by Epaminondas. Partly no doubt from the family claim to Heracleid descent, deepened by contact in earlier days with Athenians like Iphicrates and the personal influence of Epaminondas, Philip seems to have united to his admiration for Greek tactics a tincture of Hellenic culture and something like a reverence for Athens, the great center of this culture. In military matters his admiration led him to introduce the Theban discipline to the rough peasant levies of Macedon, and the Macedonian phalanx proved the most formidable military weapon that had yet been devised. The veneer of Greek culture he had taken on led him on the one hand—laying stress on his Hellenic descent—to claim admission to the comity of Hellas, and on the other to appoint Aristotle as a tutor to his son. By a combination of force and fraud, favored by circumstances, Philip had himself appointed generalissimo of the Hellenic states; further, he induced them to proclaim war against the “Great King.” In all this he was preparing the way for his son, soon to be his successor.

II. Preparation for His Career.—He was also preparing his son for his career. Partly no doubt from being the pupil of Aristotle, Alexander was yet more imbued with Greek feelings and ideas than was his father. He was early introduced into the cares of government and the practice of war. While Philip was engaged in the siege of Byzantium, he sent his son to replace Antipater in the regency; during his occupancy of this post, Alexander, then only a youth of sixteen, had to undertake a campaign against the Illyrians, probably a punitive expedition. Two years later at the decisive battle of Chaeroneia (338 B.C.), which fixed the doom of the Greek autonomous city, Alexander commanded the feudal cavalry of Macedon, the "Companions." He not only saved his father's life, but by his timely and vehement charge contributed materially to the victory.

II. 为伟业所做的准备。腓力还为儿子成就伟业做了准备。毫无疑问，从某种程度上说，亚历山大是亚里士多德的学生，亚历山大比他的父亲更愿意接受希腊的情感和思想。亚历山大很早便接触了政治和战争。腓力二世围攻拜占庭时，他让儿子取代安提帕特，作摄政王；亚历山大履职时年仅 16 岁，却不得不与伊利里亚人作战。这场战争可能是为了报仇。两年后，亚历山大在喀罗尼亚

III. His Accession to the Hegemony of Greece.-In 336 B.C., when he had completed all his plans for the invasion of Persia and a portion of his troops had already crossed the Hellespont, Philip was assassinated. Having secured his succession, Alexander proceeded to Corinth, where he was confirmed in his father's position of leader of Hellas against Darius. But before he could cross into Asia he had to secure his northern frontier against possible raids of barbarian tribes. He invaded Thrace with his army and overthrew the Triballi, then crossed the Danube and inflicted a defeat on the Getae. During his absence in these slightly known regions, the rumor spread that he had been killed, and Thebes began a movement to throw off the Macedonian yoke. On his return to Greece, therefore, he wreaked terrible vengeance on Thebes, which was not only promoter of this revolt but also the most powerful of the Greek states.

IV. Campaign in Asia Minor.-Having thus secured his rear, Alexander collected his army at Pella to cross the Hellespont in order to punish Persia for indignities suffered at the hands of Xerxes, who having "become strong through his

决战中(公元前 338 年)负责指挥马其顿近卫骑兵("友伴骑兵"),这次战役确定了这座希腊自治市的命运。亚历山大不仅救了他父亲的性命,而且他及时猛烈的进攻为这次战役的胜利做出了极大的贡献。

III. 称霸希腊。公元前 336 年,当腓力二世完成了侵略波斯计划时,他的一部分军队已经越过了达达尼尔海峡,他却遭到了暗杀。为了维护自己的继承权,亚历山大向哥林多进发,在那里他与大流士为敌,并继承了父亲在希腊的领导权。但是在他攻入亚洲之前,他必须稳固北方与野蛮人部落接壤的边境,以免遭遇突袭。他率军入侵色雷斯,打败了特里巴利人,然后越过多瑙河打败了格塔伊人。当他离开这些鲜为人知的地区时,有传言说他已经被杀,底比斯爆发了起义,企图摆脱马其顿的统治。他回到希腊后,对底比斯实施了残酷的镇压,因为底比斯不仅是这场叛乱的发动者,也是希腊城邦中最有实力的。

IV. 小亚细亚战役。后方稳固后,亚历山大在派拉州集结他的军队,横渡达达尼尔海峡,准备惩罚波斯,以报薛西斯侮辱之仇。薛西斯"因富足成为强盛",便会"激动大众攻击希腊国"(但 11:2)。亚历山大奉阿喀琉斯神为自己的祖先, riches,” stirred up “all against the kingdom of Greece” (Dnl. 11:2). When he came to the site of Troy, Alexander honored Achilles, whom he claimed as his ancestor, with games and sacrifices. This may have been an expression of his own romantic nature, but there was also wise policy in it; the Greeks were more reconciled to the loss of their freedom when it was yielded up to one who revived in his own person the heroes of the Iliad. From Troy he advanced southward and encountered the Persian forces at the Granicus, exhibiting the skill of a consummate general and the bravery of a Homeric hero. The Persian army was dispersed with great slaughter. Before proceeding farther into Persia, by rapid marches and vigorously pressed sieges he completed the conquest of Asia Minor. He showed his sensitivity to the legendry of the Asiatic peoples by cutting the knot tied about the yoke of the chariot of the Phrygian king Gordius—the knot on which, according to an oracle, depended the empire of Asia.

当他来到特洛伊时，他用竞技和祭品供奉来拜祭阿喀琉斯神。这可能是亚历山大浪漫本性的流露，却也体现出他的英明决策；如果亚历山大是《伊利亚特》（Iliad）里的英雄转世，那么希腊人可能更甘心接受他的统治，放弃自由。他从特洛伊继续向南行进，在格拉尼卡斯与波斯军队遭遇。在这场战役中，亚历山大展现出了领袖的杰出才能和荷马式英雄的勇敢无畏。波斯军队被屠戮殆尽。在进一步挥军进入波斯之前，他迅速猛烈地围困并攻取了小亚细亚。他挥刀斩断了弗吕家国王戈尔迪系在牛车上的结，在这个亚洲民族的传奇中展现了他的机敏——根据神谕，谁解开了此结，谁将成为亚细亚之王。

V. Battle of Issus and March through

V. 伊苏斯战役，经叙利亚远征埃及。

Syria to Egypt.-What had been accomplished symbolically now had to be effected by the sword. Having learned that Darius was coming to meet him with an army estimated at a half-million men, Alexander hastened to encounter him. Rapidity of motion (symbolized in Dnl. 8:5 by the “he-goat” that “came from the west ... across the face of the whole earth, without touching the ground”), was Alexander’s great strength. In 333 B.C. the two armies met in the relatively narrow plain of Issus. Here the Persians lost, to a great extent, the advantage of their numbers; they were defeated with tremendous slaughter, Darius himself being put to flight. Alexander pursued the defeated army only far enough to break it up utterly. He then began his march southward along the seacoast of Syria toward Egypt, a country that had always impressed the Greek imagination. Though most of the cities on his march opened their gates to the conqueror, Tyre and Gaza yielded only after a prolonged siege. Enraged at the delay occasioned by the resistance of Gaza, Alexander emulated his ancestor by dragging its gallant defender Batis alive behind his chariot as Achilles had dragged the dead Hector. (It should be noted that this episode does not appear in Arrian, usually regarded as the most authentic historian of Alexander.) Josephus relates that after he had taken Gaza, Alexander went up to Jerusalem and saw Jaddua the high priest, who showed him the prophecy of Daniel concerning him. The fact that none of the classic historians takes any notice of such a detour renders the narrative doubtful; still it is not improbable that during the siege of Gaza Alexander might have taken a small company into the hill country of Judea, both to secure the submission of Jerusalem, which occupied a position threatening to his communications, and to see something of that mysterious nation who worshiped one God and had no idols.

亚历山大象征性地完成的事情现在不得不用武力来解决。亚历山大得知大流士将要集结约 50 万大军来攻打他，决定加速行军与之交战。亚历山大的行军速度（在《但以理书》8:5 中用“一只公羊”指代他，“从西而来，遍行全地，脚不沾尘”）是他的一大优势。公元前 333 年，两军在伊苏斯一个相对狭窄的平原相遇。在这里，波斯军很大程度上丧失了兵力优势，波斯军被打败并惨遭屠戮，大流士溃败脱逃。亚历山大追击战败的波斯军队直至将其彻底击溃。然后他开始向南进发，沿叙利亚海岸线向埃及行进，埃及始终是受希腊人敬仰的国家。尽管在他所到之处，多数城邑都敞开大门迎接他，但推罗和迦萨在经历长久的围攻之后才向亚历山大投降。迦萨曾久攻不下，亚历山大震怒，他效仿他的祖先，用战车将守城勇士巴提斯活活拖死，正如阿喀琉斯曾将赫克托活活拖死。（值得注意的是，这段插曲并没有出现在阿里安的书。阿里安通常被认为是最真实记载亚历山大生平的历史学家。）据约瑟夫斯讲述，亚历山大占领迦萨之后，前往耶路撒冷，见到了大祭司押杜亚，押杜亚告知亚历山大但以理对他的预言。事实上，所有的古典历史学家都没有注意到这个插曲使这个故事变得可疑；但亚历山大在围攻迦萨时不是有可能率领小股军队进入犹大山区，既为了征服耶路撒冷，因为耶路撒冷处于威胁他通讯的位置上，也为了见识一下这个只崇拜一个神且没有偶像的神秘国度。

VI. Founding of Alexandria and Visit to the Shrine of Jupiter Ammon.-When Alexander entered Egypt in 333 B.C., the whole country submitted without a struggle. Influenced both by the fact that Pharos is mentioned in the Odyssey, and that he could best rule Egypt from the seacoast, he founded Alexandria on the strip of land opposite Pharos, which separated Lake Mareotis from the Mediterranean. The island Pharos formed a natural breakwater that made possible a spacious double harbor; the lake, communicating with the Nile, opened the way for inland navigation. The city thus founded became the capital of the Ptolemies, and the largest city of the Hellenistic world.

The most memorable event of Alexander's stay in Egypt was his expedition to the oracle of Jupiter Ammon (Amen-Ra), where he was declared the son of the god. To the Egyptians this meant no more than that he was regarded a lawful monarch, but he pretended to take this declaration as assigning to him a divine origin like so many Homeric heroes. Henceforward there appeared on coins Alexander's head adorned with the ram's horn of Amen-Ra. This impressed the Eastern imagination so deeply that Muhammad, a thousand years later, calls him in the Koran Iskander du al-qarnain, "Alexander of the two horns." In the face of the universal attribution of the two

VI. 建造亚历山大港，拜谒阿蒙神庙。

公元 333 年，亚历山大进入埃及之后，整个国家不战而降。亚历山大受到《奥德赛》(Odyssey)中提到的法洛斯岛的影响，又考虑到海岸是他统治埃及的最佳地理位置，便在法洛斯岛对面，马雷奥蒂斯湖和地中海之间的陆地上建造了亚历山大港。法洛斯岛，形成了天然的防浪堤和宽敞的双重海港；马雷奥蒂斯湖，与尼罗河相连，为内河航行开辟了道路。这个城邑建成之后，成为了多利买王朝的首都，也成了希腊最大的城邑。

亚历山大在埃及期间，最值得纪念的事件就是他去拜谒朱庇特阿蒙（古埃及太阳神）神庙，并获得神谕，被奉为太阳神之子。对于埃及人来说，这仅仅意味着亚历山大被视为法定的君王，但他像《荷马史诗》中的众多英雄一样自称是太阳神的儿子。自此以后，亚历山大的头像就出现在了硬币上，并且头上用太阳神的羊角作装饰。这给东方人留下了极为深刻的印象，以至于二千年以后的穆罕默德在《古兰经》中称他为“头生双角的亚历山大”。人们普遍认为两只公羊的角代表着亚历山大，因此《但以理书》的作者不太可能用两只角的公绵羊表示亚历山大推翻的波斯（但 8:3, 20），除非他在亚历山大远征之前就已经写下了《但以理书》。

ram's horns to Alexander, it seems impossible that the author of Daniel could represent Persia, the power he overthrew, as a two-horned ram (Dnl. 8:3, 20), unless he had written before the expedition into Egypt.

VII. Last Battle with Darius.-Having arranged the affairs of Egypt, Alexander set out for his last encounter with Darius. In vain had Darius sent to Alexander offering to share the empire with him; Alexander "was enraged against him" (Dnl. 8:7) and would have nothing but absolute submission. Darius had no choice but to prepare for the final conflict. He collected a yet greater host than that he had had at Issus, and assembled it on the plain of the Tigris. Alexander hastened to meet him. Although the plain around Gaugamela was advantageous to the Persian troops (which consisted largely of cavalry), giving them the opportunity to use their great numerical superiority to outflank the small Greek army, the result was the same as at Issus—overwhelming defeat and immense slaughter. The consequence of this victory was the submission of the greater portion of the Persian empire.

After making some arrangements for the government of the new provinces, Alexander set out in pursuit of Darius, who had fled in the care or custody of Bessus, satrap of Bactria. At last, to gain the favor of Alexander—or failing that, to maintain a more successful resistance—Bessus murdered Darius. Alexander hurried on to the conquest of Bactria and Sogdiana, in the course of his expedition capturing Bessus and putting him to death. In imitation of Bacchus, he then proceeded to invade India. He conquered all before him until he reached the Sutej; at this point his Macedonian veterans refused to follow him further.

VII. 与大流士的最后决战。安排好埃及的事宜之后，亚历山大出发与大流士作最后决战。大流士向亚历山大求和，要与他分而治之，但这是徒劳无功的；亚历山大“向他发烈怒”（但 8:7），要他无条件投降。大流士别无选择，只能准备决战。他在底格里斯河平原聚集了一支比伊苏斯之战更加庞大的军队。亚历山大加速行军前去迎战。尽管高加米拉周围的平原对波斯军队很有利（因波斯军主要由骑兵组成），这使他们有机会利用人数优势来挫败希腊军，但是战争的结果和伊苏斯战役相同，波斯军遭受了惨败和大屠杀。这场战争的胜利致使波斯帝国的大部分领地臣服于亚历山大。

VIII. His Death.-Thus compelled to give up hopes of conquests in the Far East, he returned to Babylon, which he purposed to make the supreme capital of his empire, and set about to organize his dominions and fit Babylon for its new destiny. While engaged in this work he was seized with malaria, which, aggravated by his recklessness in eating and drinking, took his life in his thirty-third year (323 B.C.).

IX. His Influence.-Alexander is not to be estimated merely as a military conqueror. Had he been only this, he would have left no deeper impress on the world than Tamerlane or Attila. While he conquered Asia, he endeavored also to Hellenize her. He everywhere founded Greek cities that enjoyed a municipal autonomy. With these, Hellenic thought and the Hellenic language were spread all over southwestern Asia, so that philosophers from the banks of the Euphrates taught in the schools of Athens. It was through the conquests of Alexander that Greek became the language of literature and commerce from the shores of the Mediterranean to the banks of the Tigris. It is impossible to estimate the effect of this spread of Greek on the promulgation of the gospel.

VIII. 亚历山大之死。他不得不放弃征服远东的愿望，回到了巴比伦，他想将巴比伦定为帝国的首都，并开始整顿他的领地，使巴比伦适宜作新都城。在从事这项工作时，他却感染了疟疾，又因饮食不当，加重了病情，于 33 岁英年早逝（公元前 323 年）。

IX. 亚历山大的影响。亚历山大不仅仅被认为是一个军事征服者。如果他仅仅是这样，那么他不会比帖木儿和匈奴王给人留下的印象深。当他征服亚细亚时，他还致力于将亚细亚希腊化。他大力建造享有完全自治权的希腊化城邑。希腊思想和语言因此传遍了整个亚细亚的西南部，因此幼发拉底河岸的众哲学家才得以在雅典学院教学。随着亚历山大继续远征，希腊语成为了地中海沿岸至底格里斯河流域文学和贸易的通用语言。无法估计希腊语的普及对福音传播产生了多大的影响。 wife of the Jewish ruler Aristobulus I (104–103 B.C.), one of the three sons of John Hyrcanus who succeeded to power when his father died in 105 B.C. Aristobulus was the first of the Hasmoneans to claim the title of king, but reigned only one year, succumbing apparently to a painful disease. Alexandra then married Aristobulus' younger brother, Alexander Janneus, who reigned 104–76 B.C. He was a weak, dissolute individual who supported Hellenistic ideals enthusiastically, and it was this which provoked serious differences with the Pharisees, whom he subjugated cruelly toward the end of his reign. On his death Salome Alexandra succeeded to the throne. During her reign of nine years she reversed Janneus' policy towards the Pharisees to the point where they became the real rulers in Judea. A notable Pharisee, Simon ben Shetach, was Alexandra's brother.

布一世（公元前 104-103 年）的妻子。亚利多布的祖父死于公元前 105 年，之后他的父亲约翰·许尔堪继位，生有三个儿子。亚利多布是哈斯摩尼家族中第一位国王，但是他仅在位一年，便死于一种痛苦的疾病。亚历山德拉随后嫁给了亚利多布的弟弟——亚历山大·杨纽在位时间是公元前 104 至公元前 76 年。他为人软弱放荡，并强烈支持希腊化的理念，这造成了他和法利赛人之间的重大分歧，在他统治后期，他残酷的压制法利赛人。他死后，萨罗米·亚历山德拉继任王位。她在位九年，期间她撤销了杨纽对法利赛人的政策，这使得他们成为了犹太的真正统治者。法利赛人中的显要人物西门·班·沙达殊就是亚历山德拉的哥哥。

I. Foundation and Geographical Setting.-Alexandria in Egypt was founded by Alexander the Great in 331 B.C. after he had wrested Egypt from Persian control. Alexander's conquest of the Persian empire is symbolically described in Dnl. 8:5-7. A dream is said to have indicated to Alexander this site in the west corner of the Nile Delta, on a neck of land between Lake Mareotis and the Mediterranean Sea. Other factors that may have influenced his choice include: the island of Pharos, furnishing a natural breakwater at this point; the story of the Greek hero Menelaus' visit to Pharos after the Trojan War (Homer Od. iv.354ff.); the availability both of fresh water and of communication with the interior by water through Lake Mareotis the Canopic branch of the Nile 12 mi. (19 km.) to the east; the neighboring Greek commercial colony at Naucratis; and finally the existence at the site of Rakotis, an ancient Egyptian coast guard post and fishing town (Egyp. Raqety). Alexander entrusted the planning of the city to Deinocrates, the architect of the temple of Artemis at Ephesus, one of the seven wonders of the ancient world.

II. History in Biblical and Apocryphal Sources.-Ptolemy, a Macedonian general under Alexander, took Egypt in the partition of Alexander's empire after the latter's death (Dnl. 11:4). Ptolemy made Alexandria his capital, where he ruled as

I. 建造及地理环境。亚历山大大帝从波斯人手中夺取埃及后，于公元前 331 年在埃及建造了亚历山大。《但以理书》8:5-7 用象征的手法描述了亚历山大征服波斯王国。据说亚历山大在梦中得到了指示，说这个地方位于尼罗河三角洲的西面拐角，马雷奥蒂斯湖和地中海之间的狭长陆地上。其他可能影响到他选择的因素有：法洛斯岛在此地形成天然的防浪堤；希腊英雄斯巴达王（墨涅拉奥斯）在特洛伊战争之后曾暂住法洛斯岛（Homer Od. iv.35 起）；该地既有淡水，又能通过水路经尼罗河 12 英里（19 公里）处的卡诺皮克支流马雷奥蒂斯湖到达法洛斯岛的东部；附近有希腊贸易殖民地的瑙克拉提斯；最后还有位于拉科提斯（Rakotis）的古埃及海岸护柱和钓鱼镇（埃及语：Raqety）。亚历山大委托迪诺克莱特斯为这座城市作规划，他是以弗所阿尔忒弥斯神庙的建造者，阿尔忒弥斯神庙是古代世界的七大建筑奇迹之一。

II. 在圣经和次经资料中的历史。亚历山大手下的一位将军多利买，在亚历山大死后占领了埃及，将埃及从亚历山大大帝国中分裂出来（但 11:4）。埃及总督多利买（公元前 323-305 年），也就是后来的国王多利买一世索特（公元前

satrap (323–305 B.C.) and King Ptolemy I Soter (305–285 B.C.). This Ptolemy and his successors on the throne at Alexandria are referred to as “the kings of the south” in Dnl. 11:5–43—Ptolemy I Soter I in Dnl. 11:5; Ptolemy II Philadelphus (285–246 B.C.) and his daughter Berenice, who married the Seleucid Antiochus II Theos, in 11:6; Ptolemy III Euergetes I (246–221) in 11:7; Ptolemy IV Philopator (221–204) in 11:11; Ptolemy V Epiphanes (204–181) in 11:14; his wife Cleopatra, daughter of the Seleucid Antiochus III, in 11:17; and Ptolemy VI Philometor (181–146) in 11:25. These verses deal chiefly with the wars between the Ptolemies of Alexandria and the Seleucids of Antioch, who finally wrested Palestine from Ptolemaic control in 198 B.C. (Dnl. 11:16). Verse 14 may refer to the revolt of the Alexandrians against the oppressive regent Agathocles during the minority of Ptolemy V. It was doubtless to Alexandria that ships came with the Roman embassy to halt Antiochus Epiphanes’ advance against Alexandria in 169 B.C. (11:30).

The Ptolemies of Alexandria are also mentioned in some books of the Apocrypha: Ptolemy IV Philopator in 3 Maccabees passim, though the attempt to kill Jewish leaders of Alexandria with elephants took place under Ptolemy Physkon according to Josephus (Cap ii.5); Ptolemy VI Philometor in 1 Macc. 1:18; 10:51–57; 11:3, 8, 13, 15–18; 2 Macc. 4:21 (his enthronement, which was probably celebrated in Alexandria as well as in Memphis); 9:29; 10:13; 4 Macc. 4:22; Ptolemy VII Euergetes II Physkon (169–164 B.C. with Ptolemy Philometor, sole ruler 145–116 B.C.) in 1

305–285 年), 在他统治埃及期间始终将亚历山大定为都城。多利买和他在亚历山大的王位继承者在《但以理书》11:5-43 中被称为“南方的王”——《但以理书》11:5 中指多利买一世索特;《但以理书》11:6 中指多利买二世非拉铁非斯(公元前 285-246 年)和他的女儿贝蕾妮斯,后者嫁给了塞琉西王朝的安提阿哥二世提阿;《但以理书》11:7 中指多利买三世友爱及弟(公元前 246-221 年);《但以理书》11:11 中指多利买四世非罗巴特(公元前 221-204 年);《但以理书》11:14 中指多利买五世伊皮法尼(公元前 204-181 年);《但以理书》11:17 中指他的妻子克娄巴特拉,塞琉西王朝的安提阿哥三世的女儿;《但以理书》11:25 中指多利买六世非罗密特(公元前 181-146 年)。这些章节主要涉及亚历山大的多利买王朝和安提阿的塞琉西王朝之间的战争,后者终于在公元前 198 年从多利买王朝的手中夺取了巴勒斯坦(但 11:16)。第 14 节描述的可能是亚历山大人起义反抗阿加托克利斯压迫的故事,他在多利买五世幼年时即担任摄政王。毫无疑问,罗马使者曾在公元前 169 年乘船来到亚历山大阻止安提阿哥·伊皮法尼对亚历山大发起进攻(但 11:30)。

次经的文献中也提到过亚历山大的多利买王朝:《马加比三书》中多次提到多利买四世非罗巴特,但是根据约瑟夫斯的记载,多利买·费斯康在位期间企图用大象杀死亚历山大的犹太领袖(Cap ii.5);《马加比一书》1:18; 10:51-57; 11:3, 8, 13, 15-18;《马加比二书》4:21(亚历山大和孟斐斯都庆祝了多利买六世的登基庆典); 9:29; 10:13;《马加比四书》4:22 中提到了多利买六世非罗密特;多利买七世友爱及弟二世费斯康(公元前 169-164 年与多利买非罗密特共治,公元前 145-116 年独自统治)出现在《马加比一书》15:16 和《便西拉智训》的前言部分;多利买

Macc. 15:16; prologue to Sirach; and Ptolemy VIII Soter II Lathyros (116–108, 88–80 B.C.) in Ad. Est. 11:1.

In collecting the biblical references to Alexandria one should note that the Vulgate mistakenly translates No (Thebes) by Alexandria in Jer. 46:25; Ezk. 30:14–16; Nah. 3:8.

The three centuries of Ptolemaic rule in Alexandria came to an end when Cleopatra VII took her own life rather than become a prisoner of Rome (30B.C.). During the remainder of the biblical period Alexandria was part of the Roman empire and was governed by an imperial prefect (Strabo Geog. xvii.1.12).

III. Description of Ancient Alexandria.—The Pontian geographer Strabo spent five years in Alexandria using its great library in preparing his Geography (completed 7 B.C.), in bk. xvii of which he carefully describes the city. In common with the Jewish historian Josephus, who visited the city in the time of Vespasian and married an Alexandrian woman, Strabo notes the following districts: (1) the royal palaces covering one-quarter of the walled city on and near the promontory called Lochias (Arab. Râs al-Silsilah); (2) the Jewish quarter, corresponding to modern Shatby, E of Lochias; (3) Rakotis on the west, the original Egyptian town, around the modern Minā' al-Başal and Kom al-Shuqāfah; (4) the island of Pharos (modern al-Anfushy and Râs al-Tīn), united to the mainland by a mole, the Heptastadium (7 stadia = 1.3 km. = 0.8 mi.). Outside the city walls on the west was the Necropolis, a cemetery, modern al-Qabbāri. To the east

八世索特二世拉蒂罗斯（公元前116-108, 88-80年）出现在《以斯帖补篇》11:1中。

在整理《圣经》中提及亚历山大的地方时，应注意《武加大译本》的《耶利米书》46:25；《以西结书》31:14-16；《那鸿书》3:8中错将挪（底比斯）译成亚历山大。

克娄巴特拉七世因不愿做罗马的俘虏而自尽（公元前30年），这标志着多利买王朝三个世纪的统治生涯至此终结。在剩余的圣经时代里，亚历山大成为了罗马帝国的一部分，接受帝国地方行政长官的统治（Strabo Geog. xvii.1.12）。

III. 关于古时亚历山大的描述。本都地理学家斯特拉波（Strabo）在亚历山大居住了五年，借用那里的大图书馆为他的著作（Geography）做准备（完成于公元前7年），在书中第十七卷里他详细地描述了这座城邑。约瑟夫斯曾在维斯帕先时期暂住这里，并娶了一位当地女子作妻子，斯特拉波和他一样，都记录了以下几个地区：（1）皇家宫殿，坐落在罗彻斯海角（阿拉伯语：Râs al-Silsilah）之上及其附近区域，占整个城墙内城区的四分之一；（2）犹太区，相当于现代的沙特比（Shatby），位于罗彻斯的东方；（3）西方的埃及区，最初的埃及城邑，在现代的米纳拜塞勒（Minā' al-Başal）和库姆舒加弗赫（Kom al-Shuqāfah）附近；（4）法洛斯岛（现在的安富希[al-Anfushy]和拉斯埃丁[Râs al-Tīn]），通过赫坡塔斯塔弟姆防波堤（7视距尺=1.3公里=0.8英里）与陆地相连。城墙外西方是大墓地，即一处公墓，是现在的盖卜巴里（al-Qabbāri）。东方是一片郊外住宅区，被称作尼哥波立，是现在的拉姆勒（al-Raml）。 was a residential suburb called Nicopolis, modern al-Raml.

The main street, Canopic Street, about 200 ft. (60 m.) wide, ran on the line of the present Shāri‘ al-Ḥurrīyah (formerly Rashīd) for about 30 stadia (5.5km.) NE-SW, parallel to the sea. The width of the city was only 7–10 stadia (1.3–1.8 km., 0.8–1.2 mi.), confined to the strip of land between sea and lake. The other streets were laid out at right angles, like a chessboard.

A canal from the Nile brought fresh water, and underground channels distributed the water to different parts of the city. This canal was also used for travel or commerce to the town of Schedia (Kom al-Jīzah) on the Canopic branch of the Nile or to Canopus (Abū Qīr).

Several harbors made Alexandria the busiest port of the ancient world. E of the Heptastadium was the Great Harbor, with a special royal port on Lochias. The Great Harbor is now called al-Minā’ al-Sharqīyah, “the Eastern Harbor,” and is used only by fishing and pleasure craft. To the west was the harbor called Eunostos, now al-Minā’ al-Gharbīyah, “the Western Harbor.” This is the modern commercial harbor in which oceangoing vessels can dock. Off this harbor was a small inner harbor called Kibotos, connected by a canal with Lake Mareotis. To the harbor on this lake came the products of Egypt, Africa, and the East to be distributed to the Mediterranean world.

主街道，即卡诺皮克大道，约有 200 英尺（60 米）宽，东北-西南走向，与海岸平行，沿着现在的沙里胡里盖赫（Shāri‘ al-Ḥurrīyah）（原来是拉希德 [Rashīd]）中心线延伸，长度约为 30 视距尺（5.5 公里）。城市的宽度仅有 7 至 10 视距尺（1.3 至 1.8 公里，0.8 至 1.2 英里），只是海洋和湖泊之间的一片狭长陆地。其他的街道则如棋盘一般，纵横交错，呈直角排列。

The chief buildings of the city as noted particularly by Strabo may be classified as follows: (1) Commercial Buildings. The Lighthouse, at the eastern point of the island of Pharos on the site of Fort Qā'it Bey, was about 400 ft. high; and its light, reflected by bronze mirrors, was visible 30 furlongs (3.8 mi., 6 km.) at sea. It was counted among the seven wonders of the ancient world. The Emporium was the business exchange. Great warehouses and docks lined the harbors. (2) Political Buildings. The extensive royal palaces faced the eastern part of the Great Harbor. The Soma (Body) or Sema (Tomb), including the mausolea of Alexandria and of the Ptolemies, has been traditionally located at the Mosque of Nabī Danyāl. There is no specific evidence for the suggestion that a marble-lined tomb discovered under the Latin Cemetery is that of Alexander. The Court of Justice was in the center of the city. (3) Cultural Buildings. Connected with the palace complex, the famous Museum and Library furnished scholars with books, laboratories, and living quarters. The 斯特拉波特别记录的城中主要建筑可以分为以下几类：(1) 商业建筑。灯塔，位于加伊特湾要塞（Qā'it Bey）上法洛斯塔岛的东端，约 400 英尺高；该塔的灯光经铜镜反射，远在 30 弗隆（3.8 英里，6 公里）的海上都可以看到。该塔被视为古代七大奇迹之一。市场是商品集散地。港口设有数个大型仓库和码头。(2) 政治建筑。依照传统，大型宫殿建筑群朝向大海港的东面。包括亚历山大和多利买王室的陵墓在内的“索马”（身体）或“塞马”（坟墓）都坐落在纳比丹尼尔（Nabī Danyāl）清真寺。尚无明确证据可以证明拉丁公墓下发现的大理石坟墓是亚历山大的坟墓。法院位于城邑的中部。(3) 人文建筑。与皇城区相连的是著名的博物馆和图书馆，这两座建筑为学者们配备了书籍、实验室和住处。剧院可能位于现在的政府医院处。(4) 潘恩神庙是一座位于山上的潘恩神公园，即现在的库姆迪凯（Kom al-Dikkah），1964 年在这里发现了一座罗马剧院。体育馆位于法院附近，体育馆的门廊比运动场还长。在卡诺皮克门之外的东面是竞技场。(5) 宗教建筑。在塞拉皮雍供奉的是亚历山大崇拜的与众不同的神塞拉皮斯，“附属”图书馆就建在庞贝（实际上是戴克里先时

Theater was perhaps where the Government Hospital now is. (4) The Paneum was a park of the god Pan on a hill, the modern Kom al-Dikkah, where a Roman theater was discovered in 1964. The Gymnasium, with porticoes over a stadium long, was near the Court of Justice. Outside the Canopic Gate to the east was the Hippodrome. (5) Religious Buildings. In the Serapeum the distinctive god of Alexandria, Serapis, was worshiped and the “daughter” library was housed near Pompey’s (really Diocletian’s) Pillar (Arab. ‘Amūd al-Sawārī, “Column of the Pillars”). The Poseidon, the temple of the god of the sea, was naturally near the Great Harbor. The Caesareum was begun by Cleopatra, the last reigning Ptolemy, in honor of Antony, then devoted to the cult of Caesar Augustus, later converted into a Christian church of St. Michael, and finally destroyed by the Arabs. Philo describes this temple as including porticoes, libraries, rooms for functionaries, groves, gateways, and open courts, and encircled with statues of gold and silver (De legatione ad Gaium 22). In front of the Caesareum were erected two obelisks of Thutmose III, brought from Heliopolis in 13 B.C., and which have been taken, one to London in 1877 and the other to New York in 1879. The main Jewish Synagogue, in the form of a basilica, was called in Hebrew Dioplostion, from Gk. diplé stoá, so named because it had a double gallery. In front were seventy-one golden, bejewelled chairs for the elders. This synagogue was so large that the ḥazzan, or sexton, had to stand on a platform in the middle to signal with a flag so that those in the back would know when to join in the amens (T.B. Sukkah 51b).

期) 柱 (阿拉伯语: ‘Amūd al-Sawārī, “柱列”) 附近。海神波塞冬神庙自然位于大海港附近。凯撒神庙由多利买王朝的最后一位统治者克娄巴特拉所建, 用来纪念安东尼, 后来则用于祭拜凯撒·奥古斯都, 随后变为圣米迦勒基督教教堂, 最终被阿拉伯人毁掉。斐罗描述这座神庙时说其中有门廊、图书馆、工作人员宿舍、果园、通道、露天庭院, 四周还有金银雕像 (De legatione ad Gaium 22)。凯撒神庙前还矗立着公元前 13 年从赫里奥波里斯带来的图特摩斯三世的两座方尖碑, 后来, 一座碑于 1877 年被带往伦敦, 另一座于 1879 年被带往纽约。主要的犹太会堂与罗马长方形会堂形状一致, 希伯来人根据希腊语 diplé stoá 称这座犹太会堂为狄奥普罗斯顿 (Dioplostion), 之所以这样命名是因为两侧都有旁听席。会堂前方是 71 个为长老准备的饰有珠宝的金椅。犹太会堂太大, 以至于会堂的领唱者或司事不得不站在中间的平台上用旗语告知坐在后方的人何时参加祷告 (T.B. Sukkah 51b)。

As late as the 7th cent. A.D., when Alexandria's glory had waned, the Arab conquerors were literally dazzled by its white marble buildings. The Arab general 'Amr reported that he had taken a city of four thousand villas with four thousand baths, four hundred places of entertainment for royalty, and ten thousand groceries (Ibn 'Abd al-Hakam, p. 82).

The population of ancient Alexandria included Macedonians, Greeks, Persians, Jews, and Egyptians. Diodorus Siculus (xvii.52) in 60 B.C. estimated the population at 300,000 citizens. Including slaves, the total was probably about 500,000.

Pompey's Pillar (actually dedicated to Diocletian ca. A.D. 297), located on the highest point in Alexandria (W. S. LaSor)

古时亚历山大中生活着马其顿人、希腊人、波斯人、犹太人和埃及人。西西里的狄奥多罗斯（xvii.52）在公元前60年估算该城有三十万居民。如果算上奴隶，那么总人口可能约为五十万。

庞贝柱（实际上在约公元297年由戴克里先而建），位于亚历山大的最高处。（W. S. LaSor）

IV. Cultural Contribution.-Alexandria was first of all a commercial city, "the greatest emporium of the inhabited

IV. 文化贡献。亚历山大首先是一座商业城邑，“有人居住世界最大的商业中心”（Strabo Geog. xvii.1.13）。该城对外 world” (Strabo Geog. xvii.1.13). Its exports included wheat (Acts 27:38), papyrus, books, linen, tapestry, articles made of glass, of ivory, of tropical woods, of alabaster, of precious metals, and of bronze (like the great doors for the temple in Jerusalem, T.B. Yoma 38a), perfumes, cosmetics, domestic animals (Mish. Bekhoroth iv.4), and rare beasts and birds. Among the imports were wine and olive oil from Greece, metals from Cyprus, timber from Asia Minor, horses from Syria, precious stones, ivory, tropical woods, perfumes, and silk from Africa and the East. Thus Alexandria served as a commercial link between the East and Africa on the one hand and the Mediterranean countries on the other.

The art and architecture of the city were Hellenistic rather than specifically Alexandrian. The famous Lighthouse on Pharos may have influenced other lighthouses and also the form of some church towers and minarets of mosques. Some pieces of heroic statuary were produced in Alexandria; but more delicate art forms such as carved gems, vessels of glass and of precious metals, and many terra-cotta figurines (some pretty, some amusing, and some obscene), were more common. Sometimes Greek and Egyptian motifs were combined as in the reliefs of the Catacombs of Kom al-Shuqāfah (2nd cent. A.D.).

The scientists who studied in the Museum under royal patronage made significant contributions in various fields. Connected with the Museum were not only the Library but also an observatory, botanical and zoological gardens, and an anatomical laboratory. Eratosthenes, the librarian, calculated the circumference of the earth. Aristarchus proposed a heliocentric solar system. Claudius Ptolemy's geocentric system and world map were influential till Copernicus and Columbus. Theophrastus collected and described hundreds of plants. Euclid is the father of geometry. Archimedes of Syracuse studied in Alexandria and made advances in geometry (calculating the area of a circle), hydraulics, and mechanics, inventing a screw for raising water which is still used in Egypt. Hero invented a force-pump and described a primitive steam engine. In physiology Herophilus differentiated sensory and motor nerves, and Erasistratus came near to stating the circulation of the blood. In 239 B.C. the scientists of the Museum proposed a calendar with an extra day for leap year.

出口麦子(徒 27:38)、纸莎草纸、书籍、亚麻布、织锦、玻璃制品、象牙制品、热带木材制品、玉石制品、贵重金属制品、青铜制品(例如耶路撒冷圣殿的大门, T.B. Yoma 38a)、香水、化妆品、家畜 (Mish. Bekhoroth iv.4), 以及珍稀鸟兽。他们从希腊进口酒和橄榄油, 从塞浦路斯进口金属, 从小亚细亚进口木材, 从叙利亚进口马匹, 从非洲和东方进口宝石、象牙、热带木材、香水和丝绸。因此亚历山大是连接东方与非洲和地中海国家的商业枢纽。

城中的艺术和建筑是希腊风格的, 而不是本地独有的风格。著名的法洛斯灯塔可能影响了其他灯塔以及某些教堂塔和清真寺尖塔的建筑风格。亚历山大铸造了一些英雄雕像; 但是更精美的艺术形式更为常见, 如, 雕刻宝石、玻璃和贵重金属容器, 以及众多赤陶土雕像(有些很精美, 有些引人发笑, 有些则淫秽下流)。有时希腊和埃及的图案互相结合, 如库姆舒加弗赫地下墓穴 (Catacombs of Kom al-Shuqāfah) 中的浮雕(公元 2 世纪)。

受皇室资助在博物馆学习的众科学家们, 在众多领域都做出了巨大的贡献。与博物馆相连的不仅有图书馆, 还有天文台、动植物园和一所解剖实验室。图书馆馆长埃拉托色尼计算出了地球的周长。阿利斯塔克提出了日心说。克劳迪亚斯·多利买的地心说和世界地图的

The scholars of the Museum copied and edited the Greek classics and scientific works. Zenodotus, the first librarian, divided the Iliad and the Odyssey into books and led the way in literary criticism by emending the text and marking doubtful verses. The Greek accents, still used in modern Greek, were introduced in Alexandria, and here the first Greek grammar was produced. In the reign of Ptolemy III the main library had 490,000 volumes, and the daughter library at the Serapeum had 42,800.

The original Greek literature produced in Alexandria was often contrived and sentimental. For example, Callimachus, librarian under Ptolemy III, wrote a poem about a lock of Queen Berenice's hair, which had disappeared from a temple and was then identified with a constellation of stars. Apollonius, another librarian, wrote a romance about the Argonauts. Theocritus was a master of the poetic dialogue called the idyll and of the pastoral poem.

博物馆的学者们抄写并编辑希腊的经典和科学著作。第一任图书馆馆长泽诺多托斯，将《伊利亚特》和《奥德赛》分成卷，并通过修订文本和标注可疑章节为文学批判做了示范。沿用至今的希腊语重音是在这时被引入亚历山大的，最初的希腊语语法也是在这里形成的。多利买三世统治期间，主图书馆有藏书 49 万卷，塞拉皮雍的附属图书馆有 42800 卷。

亚历山大原始的文獻给人一种不自然和多愁善感的感觉。例如，多利买三世时期的图书馆馆长卡利马科斯为贝蕾妮斯女王的一缕头发创作了一首诗歌，这缕长发从神庙中消失，后来变成了天上的星座。另一位馆长阿波罗尼奥斯，曾写过一部关于阿尔戈英雄的冒险故事。忒俄克里托斯是一位擅长写田园牧

The distinctive philosophies of Alexandria combined Eastern and Western elements. Philo tried to synthesize Moses and Plato. The semi-Christian Gnostics like Valentinus, and the pagan Neoplatonists like Plotinus, conceived of a God from whom proceeded successive emanations, until the evil material world was reached, from which the soul seeks to escape to return to God. These doctrines influenced Christian asceticism.

A similar fusion of East and West appears in the pagan religion of Alexandria. Serapis, the chief deity of Alexandria, was the Egyptian Osiris, god of the dead, identified with the bull-god Apis; but in Alexandria Serapis is depicted in a Greek form, something like Zeus with the addition of a basket on his head to signify abundance. The worship of Serapis and his consort Isis and their son Horus-Harpocrates spread into Europe, reaching even Pannonia (modern Hungary) and Britain. There were several temples in the city honoring members of the royal family, like the Arsinoeum in honor of Arsinoe, sister and wife of Ptolemy Philadelphus. The Greek god Hermes was identified in Alexandria with the Egyptian Hermanubis (Horus-Anubis), who guided the dead before Osiris. Hermes was also identified with the Egyptian Thoth, god of wisdom, and was given the title Trismegistus, about whom a body of syncretistic philosophical and religious literature, called the Corpus Hermeticum, developed. Magic was very popular in Alexandria, as evidenced by many magical inscriptions on papyri and potsherds.

亚历山大的哲学因综合了东西方元素而与众不同。斐罗试图将摩西和柏拉图的观念结合在一起。半基督教的诺斯替教徒(如,华伦提努),以及异教徒(如,普罗提诺,罗马新柏拉图派哲学家)认为世界的本原是“太一”,即上帝;万有出于“太一”,直到邪恶的物质世界形成,灵魂竭力逃离这个物质的世界,归于上帝。这些教义影响了基督教的苦行主义。

V. Jews in Alexandria.-A. Their Condition. According to Josephus (CAp ii.4), Alexander himself granted the Jews a place and special rights in the city. Ptolemy I brought back Jewish captives to Egypt after his campaigns in Palestine; and some of these were freed under Ptolemy II, though pseudo-Aristeas' estimate (v. 12) of 100,000 such Jewish captives is probably exaggerated. At all events, by the 1st cent. B.C. many Jews were settled in Alexandria, E of the royal palaces in a district called Delta (Josephus CAp ii.4; BJ ii.18.8). Josephus says that fifty thousand rebellious Jews were killed in Alexandria in the reign of Nero, but this number seems excessive. 'Amr ibn 'Ās, the Arab general who took Alexandria in A.D. 642, estimated the Jews there at forty thousand (Ibn 'Abd al-Hakam, p. 82).

The Jewish community in Alexandria had some measure of autonomy, and special rights were guaranteed by Alexander, Ptolemy I, and Julius Caesar (Josephus CAp ii.4). According to Strabo Geog. xiv.7.2, they were ruled by an ethnarch, and then beginning with the time of Augustus by a gerusia or senate, presided over by archons (Philo In Flaccum 10). In Roman times a Jewish official, the alabarch, is mentioned, but his functions are not clear (Josephus Ant. xviii.6.3; 8.1; xx.7.3).

Some Alexandrian Jews were given responsible positions in the army and the civil government. Josephus (CAp ii.5)

V. 亚历山大的犹太人。A. 生活状况。根据约瑟夫斯 (CAp ii.4) 记载, 亚历山大亲自将亚历山大中的一片区域赐给犹太人并赋予他们一定的特权。多利买一世占领巴勒斯坦后将犹太俘虏带回埃及; 多利买二世释放了一些俘虏, 但是伪造的《阿里斯提亚斯书信》(12 节) 中认为十万犹太人被掳可能是一种夸张的说法。无论如何, 到公元前 1 世纪时, 亚历山大有大量的犹太人定居在皇宫东面的一片被称为三角洲的区域 (Josephus CAp ii.4; BJ ii.18.8)。约瑟夫斯称, 尼禄统治时在亚历山大处死了五万名造反的犹太人, 但这似乎也是一个夸张的数字。公元 642 年占领了亚历山大的阿拉伯将军阿姆鲁·伊本·阿斯估计亚历山大有四万名犹太人 (Ibn 'Abd al-Hakam, 82 页)。

亚历山大的犹太会众有一定的自治权, 亚历山大、多利买一世和尤里乌斯·凯撒保证了他们的特权 (Josephus CAp ii.4)。根据斯特拉波的《地理学》(Geog. xiv.7.2) 上记载, 他们受行政长官管理, 在奥古斯都时期他们开始接受由执政官负责的元老院或参议院的管理 (Philo In Flaccum 10)。罗马时代出现了犹太首席行政官, 但尚不明确这个官位的职能 (Josephus Ant. xviii.6.3; 8.1; xx.7.3)。 states that Ptolemy VI Philometor placed his army under Jewish generals, Onias and Dositheus. Cleopatra III also made two Jews, Chelkias and Ananias, generals of her army in her struggles with her son Ptolemy VIII Lathyrus (Josephus Ant. xiii.10.4; 13.1). In the reigns of Nero and Vespasian an apostate from Judaism, Tiberius Alexander, was governor of the city (Josephus BJ ii.15.1; 18.7; iv.10.6; v.1.6). In Roman times Jews were collectors of the taxes on the river traffic (CAp ii.5).

亚历山大的一些犹太人在军队和公民政府中担任要职。约瑟夫斯称 (CAp ii.5) 多利买六世非罗密特任命犹太人奥尼

The Jews of Alexandria played an important role in the economy and especially the trade of the city. Philo speaks of the many articles in the shops of the Jews (In Flaccum 8). In the main synagogue, Dioploston, there were special sections for goldsmiths, silversmiths, blacksmiths, metal-workers, and weavers (T.B. Sukkah 51b). Jews largely controlled the wheat exports, which were important for feeding the people of Rome and Greece.

B. Their Religious Life. The corporate religious life of the Jews of Alexandria centered in their synagogues. In addition to the great Dioploston described above, there were other synagogues in every quarter of the city (Philo De legatione ad Gaium 20). To the regular Hebrew feasts the Jews of Alexandria added one in honor of the LXX translation of their holy books into Greek (Philo Vita Mosis ii.7), and another in memory of their deliverance from the elephants of Ptolemy VII Physkon (Josephus CAp ii.4).

Most of the Alexandrian Jews remained faithful to their traditions in spite of the 亚和多西修斯为将军。克娄巴特拉三世也在与她的儿子多利买八世拉塞鲁斯 (Josephus Ant. xiii.10.4; 13.1) 的战争中任用两个犹太人切尔基阿斯和安那涅斯为将军。在尼禄和维斯帕先统治时期, 犹太教的叛教者提比略·亚历山大担任城邑的管理者 (Josephus BJ ii.15.1; 18.7; iv.10.6; v.1.6)。在罗马时代, 犹太人担任内河运输的税吏 (CAp ii.5)。

亚历山大的犹太人在经济 (尤其是城邑贸易) 中扮演了重要的角色。斐罗在他的作品中提及了许多犹太人商店中的货物 (In Flaccum 8)。在主犹太教公会狄奥普罗斯顿中有为金匠、银匠、铁匠、金属工人和织布者特设的区域 (T.B. Sukkah 51b)。犹太人很大程度上控制了麦子的出口, 麦子出口对罗马人和希腊人的粮食供给起到重要作用。

B. 宗教生活。 亚历山大犹太人的全部宗教生活集中在他们的犹太会堂中。除了上面提到的狄奥普罗斯顿会堂, 各个城区中也有其他犹太会堂 (Philo De legatione ad Gaium 20)。亚历山大的犹太人在原有的希伯来节日的基础上增加了一个节日, 以纪念七十士将他们的圣书翻译成希腊语 (Philo Vita Mosis ii.7), 他们还增加了另一个节日, 以纪念他们从多利买七世费斯康的大象脚下被解救出来 (Josephus CAp ii.4)。

surrounding pagan pressures. Philo, for example, went at least once to Jerusalem to offer prayers and sacrifice (De providentia ii.64). Alexandrian Jews showed their concern for the minutiae of the traditional law by submitting twelve questions to Rabbi Joshua ben Hananiah in Palestine (T.B. Niddah 69b–71a). The Ptolemies released Jews from religious observances honoring the royal family and Jewish soldiers from marching on the sabbath. According to 3 Macc. 7:10–15, three hundred apostates from Judaism were killed by faithful Jews in the time of Ptolemy IV Philopator. A few like Tiberius Alexander (see above) deserted Judaism to gain political positions, but his uncle Philo rebukes those who for the sake of temporal prosperity “transgress the laws in which they were born and bred” (Vita Mosis i.6).

The scorn of the Alexandrian Jews for the idolatry around them is evident in Wisd. 13:10–14:31 and in the taunts against Isis and Serapis in the Sibylline Oracles v.484, 487. They were so scandalized by the statues of the emperor Caligula that had been forced into their synagogues that they sent a delegation headed by Philo to Rome to protest to the emperor (Philo De legatione ad Gaium, passim).

C. Their Literature. The most important book produced by Alexandrian Jews was the LXX translation of the OT, perhaps the most influential translation in history. The story of the origin of the LXX as told by pseudo-Aristeas has been proved unhistorical at several points. This account, however, illustrates some features of Ptolemaic Alexandria: the royal palace where Ptolemy II Philadelphus is said to have banqueted

斐罗就不止一次去耶路撒冷朝拜献祭 (De providentia ii.64)。亚历山大的犹太人曾向巴勒斯坦的拉比约书亚·本·哈拿尼雅提出 12 个问题 (T.B. Niddah 69b–71a)，这体现出他们对传统律法细节的关注。多利买王室准许犹太人不参加纪念皇室的宗教仪式，并准许犹太战士在安息日不行军。据《马加比三书》7:10-15 记载，在多利买四世非罗巴特时期，忠于信仰的犹太人处死了三百名犹太教叛教者。有些叛离犹太教的人（如，提比略·亚历山大，见上文）获得了政治地位，但是他的叔叔斐罗谴责了那些为一时的荣华而“违反了生养他们的律法”的人 (Vita Mosis i.6)。

从《所罗门智训》13:10-14:31 中明显可以看出亚历山大犹太人对周围偶像崇拜的轻蔑，而《西卜神谕篇》484, 487 节则展现了他们对于伊希斯和塞拉皮斯的嘲讽。卡里古拉皇帝强行将雕像放入犹太会堂的行为激怒了犹太人，于是他们派遣斐罗率领一支代表团去罗马向皇帝表示抗议 (Philo De legatione ad Gaium, passim)。

C. 文学。亚历山大的犹太人创作的最重要的书便是《旧约》的《七十士译本》，这可能也是史上最有影响力的旧约译本。伪造的《阿里斯提亚斯书信》中所讲述的关于《七十士译本》起源的故事已被证明有几处与史实不符。但是这个记录仍然体现出多利买王朝统治下的亚历山大的一些特点：据说，多利买二世费拉德弗斯在皇宫中宴请了从巴勒斯坦来的七十二位长老 (173 节)，亚历山大的图书馆藏书二十万卷 (10 节)；

the seventy-two elders from Palestine (v. 173), the library containing 200,000 volumes (v. 10), the Heptastadium over which the visiting Jewish elders walked to the island of Pharos on which they carried out their translation (v. 301), the gathering of the Jewish community on Pharos to approve the translation (vv. 308–311), and the typical Alexandrian products sent by Ptolemy to Jerusalem as gifts: couches with silver legs, robes, purple cloth, a crown, linen, bowls, dishes, and two golden beakers (v. 320). Probably this translation was begun, but not completed, under Ptolemy II, and probably the work was done by Alexandrian Jews rather than by Palestinians. At all events, Tertullian in the 2nd cent. A.D. reports that the LXX translation with the Hebrew original was preserved in the daughter library at the Serapeum (Apol. 18).

This translation opened the OT not only to the Greek-speaking Jews of the Diaspora but also to the pagans. Thus it prepared the way for the Greek NT and is the source of most OT quotations and allusions in the NT. Furthermore, it was the basis for most early Christian translations of the OT into other languages, such as the Coptic, Ethiopic, Armenian, and Old Latin.

The Jewish philosopher PHILO, in his attempt to harmonize Moses and Plato, is typical of the Alexandrian synthesis of East and West. Previously another Alexandrian Jew, Aristobulus, known only by quoted fragments, had tried to prove that Pythagoras and Plato borrowed much from Moses. Philo interprets Gen.

暂居亚历山大的犹太长老经由赫坡塔斯塔弟姆步行至法洛斯岛，他们在岛上翻译《旧约》(301 节)，并召集法洛斯上的犹太会众来核查译本 (308-311 节)；多利买将亚历山大的特产作为礼物送往耶路撒冷：有银制脚架的躺椅、礼服、紫色布料、一顶皇冠、亚麻布、碗、盘子和两个金色的烧杯 (320 节)。翻译工作或许开始于多利买二世时期，但多利买在位时期并没有完成，而且这项工作可能是由亚历山大的犹太人而非巴勒斯坦人完成的。无论如何，公元 2 世纪时特土良称《七十士译本》和其希伯来语原稿都保存在塞拉皮雍的附属图书馆中 (Apol. 18)。

这个译本不仅向离散的说希腊语的犹太人而且向异教徒介绍了《旧约》。该译本为希腊语《新约》做了铺垫，而且《新约》中大多数引用《旧约》和暗指《旧约》的内容都源自这个译本。此外，以该译本为根据，大多数早期的基督教旧约译本被翻译成了其他语言，如科普特语译本、埃塞俄比亚语译本、亚美尼亚语译本和古拉丁语译本。

另见 SEPTUAGINT (《七十士译本》)。

犹太哲学家斐罗 (见 PHILO[斐罗])，试图协调摩西和柏拉图的观念，他是学贯东西文化的亚历山大学派的代表。前面提到过另一个亚历山大的犹太人阿里斯托布鲁斯，我们只能从零星的引证中了解这个人，他曾试图证明毕达哥拉斯和柏拉图借用了许多摩西的思想。斐罗将《创世记》1:1 解释为无形世界的形

1:1 as the forming of an incorporeal pattern, like a Platonic “idea” (De opificio mundi 29). In connection with the six days of creation, his discussion of the qualities of the number “six” shows Pythagorean influence (op. cit., 13). He gives the meaning of the four rivers of Paradise as prudence, self-mastery, courage, and justice, the cardinal Platonic virtues (Legum allegoriae i.63). This allegorical method of interpreting the Bible influenced the Alexandrian school of Christian exegesis. Some have pointed out parallels in method and wording between Philo and John (1:3), where the Logos, the Word, is the agent in creation; and between Philo (Vita Mosis ii.15f., 26) and Hebrews (chs. 8f.), where the earthly tabernacle is the copy of the heavenly.

Among the Apocrypha and Pseudepigrapha are some important Alexandrian Jewish writings and translations into Greek. Alexandrian books in the Apocrypha include: Wisdom of Solomon, 2 and 3 Maccabees, and the Greek translation of Sirach. Among the so-called Pseudepigrapha the following are of Alexandrian origin: Letter of Aristeas, Sibylline Oracles (in part), 4 Maccabees, 2 Enoch, and 3 Baruch. Thus Alexandria was the intellectual capital of Hellenistic Judaism.

VI. Alexandria in the NT.-Alexandria and Alexandrians are referred to particularly in the book of Acts. Some of the Jewish visitors to Jerusalem at the time of the Pentecostal outpouring of the Holy Spirit were from Egypt (Acts 2:10), probably mostly from Alexandria. The Hellenistic Jews at Jerusalem who opposed Stephen included some Alexandrians (6:9). It is in keeping with the tradition of pagan and Jewish learning at Alexandria that Apollos of that city was eloquent in Greek and also well versed in the Scriptures (18:24–28). Others from Alexandria were to follow Apollos in the scholarly presentation of the Christian faith. The Egyptian Jew who stirred up insurrection in Jerusalem (21:38) may have been from Alexandria.

成过程，就像柏拉图的“理想” (De opificio mundi 29)。关于六天创世，他认为数字“六”的寓意受到了毕达哥拉斯的影响 (De opificio mundi 13)。他认为天堂的四条河流分别代表着审慎、克己、勇气和公义，它们也是柏拉图哲学的基本美德 (Legum allegoriae i.63)。这种寓意解经的方法影响了亚历山大学派的基督教释经。有些人指出斐罗和约翰 (约 1:3) 所使用的方法和措辞很相似，万物是藉着“道”造的；斐罗的作品 (Vita Mosis ii.15-6, 26) 和《希伯来书》(来 8-9) 在方法和措辞上也有相似之处，地上的帐幕乃是天上帐幕的影像。

VI. 《新约》中的亚历山大。《使徒行传》中特别提到了亚历山大和亚历山大人。五旬节圣灵降临时，从埃及来的犹太人访问了耶路撒冷 (徒 2:10)，这些犹太人可能主要来自亚历山大。在耶路撒冷反对司提反的希腊化犹太人中有几个是亚历山大人 (徒 6:9)。根据亚历山大异教徒和犹太人的传统，亚历山大的亚波罗精通希腊语，熟悉《圣经》(徒 18:24-28)。其他从亚历山大来的人都听

It was an Alexandrian ship on which Paul as a prisoner sailed from Myra on his way to Rome (Acts 27:6) and in which he suffered shipwreck. This ship was carrying wheat (27:38), one of Alexandria's most important exports to Italy. The ship in which Paul proceeded from Malta was also from Alexandria (28:11). The Twins Castor and Pollux, represented on the figure-head of this ship, were the seamen's protectors, the "savior gods" to whom the lighthouse of Pharos was dedicated according to its inscription. The Mishnah also refers to Alexandrian ships (Kelim xv. 1; Oholoth viii.2).

保罗做囚犯时从每拉去罗马乘坐的船便来自亚历山大（徒 27:6），这艘船遇到了海难。船上装载着麦子（徒 27:38），这是亚历山大出口给意大利的最重要的货物。保罗从马耳他出发时乘坐的船也来自亚历山大（徒 28:11）。这艘船船头装饰的“宙斯双子”，是水手们的保护神，被称为“救主神”，根据铭文记载，法洛斯灯塔就是献给此神的。《米示拿》（Mishnah）中也提到了亚历山大的船只（Kelim xv. 1; Oholoth viii.2）。

VII. Early Christianity in Alexandria.-The first to bring the gospel to Alexandria may have been some of the Alexandrian Jews who heard the message at Pentecost in Jerusalem (Acts 2:10). According to Eusebius (HE ii.16), John Mark, the writer of the Second Gospel, was the first preacher of the gospel in Alexandria. Unfortunately, earlier writers are silent about Mark's activity here. A supposed letter of Clement (announced in 1960) referring to Mark in Alexandria is suspect because of the modern date of the MS and because of Gnostic elements in the letter. In any case, the Coptic

VII. 亚历山大的早期基督教。第一批将福音书传播到亚历山大的人可能是一些在耶路撒冷五旬节上听到福音的亚历山大的犹太人（徒 2:10）。根据优西比乌的记载（HE ii.16），《马可福音》的作者约翰·马可是亚历山大的第一位福音传道者。遗憾的是，早期的作家并未提到马可在这里传道。有一封据说是克莱门特写给他人的书信（1960年被公之于众），其中提及了马可在亚历山大时的传道活动，但是因为这是近代的手稿，而且信中有诺斯替教元素，所以这封信值得怀疑。无论如何，科普替东正教的众元老被认为是马可的继承者。据传说，马可殉难后被埋葬在犹太区，圣

Orthodox patriarchs are counted in succession from Mark. According to tradition, after his martyrdom Mark was buried in the Jewish quarter, where the Church of St. Mark was built. In A.D. 828 Venetians took the reputed bones of Mark to Venice, where they were reburied in the Cathedral of St. Mark. The libelli, certificates of having performed pagan sacrifices and thus repudiations of Christianity, are evidences of the growth and of the persecution of the new faith. But in spite of the slaughter of thousands of martyrs, or perhaps partly because of these martyrdoms, Christianity triumphed. In A.D. 391 the Christians pulled down the statue of Serapis, and the Serapeum was converted into a church of St. John the Baptist.

For a time Alexandria was the intellectual center for the Christians, as it had been for the Hellenists and for the Hellenistic Jews. The Christian School in Alexandria, called the Didaskaleion (Eusebius HE v.10), produced some of the greatest scholars of the early Church, notably Clement and Origen. They had to face perversions of Christianity by Gnostics like Valentinus and also attacks on Christianity by Neoplatonic philosophers like Celsus. In the early 4th cent. A.D., both the heretical leader Arius and the champion of the true deity of Christ, Athanasius, were Alexandrians. From Alexandria missionaries took the gospel to Abyssinia.

Some of the activities now carried on by Bible societies were first performed in Alexandria. Attention has already been called to the LXX translation of the OT into Greek. Also some of the most important Greek MSS of the Bible were

亚历山大曾一度被称为基督徒的智慧中心，就如同它曾是希腊化犹太人的智慧中心一样。亚历山大的基督教学校被称为“学院” (Eusebius HE v.10)，这个学院培养出了一些早期基督教教会的最杰出学者，尤其是革利免和俄利根。他们不得不面对诺斯替教徒（如，华伦提努）对基督教教义的曲解，也不得不面对新柏拉图主义哲学家（如，塞尔苏斯）对基督教的攻击。在公元 4 世纪初，异教领袖阿里乌和基督真神的拥护者亚他那修都是亚历山大人。传教士们将福音书从亚历山大港带到了阿比西尼亚。

圣经协会现今仍然延续的一些活动最初是从亚历山大开始。学者们已经开始关注旧约的希腊语译本——《七十士译本》。一些最重要的希腊语圣经抄本也写于亚历山大，其中《梵蒂冈抄本》(B) 和《西奈抄本》(x) 都可能出现于公元

音译: al’gum 【希伯来语: ’algūmmîm】

9:10f.); ALMUG [Heb. 'almugîm] (1 K. 10:11f.). The location of Ophir in these references is connected with the identification of these trees. Ophir was first mentioned during the early monarchy as the source of gold left by David for the temple (1 Ch. 29:4), and the location from which Solomon obtained further amounts (1 K. 9:28; 10:11). Despite the occurrence of the name on a potsherd from Tell Qasileh, its location is uncertain; and India, the Arabian peninsula, and East Africa have been suggested at various times as the area where Ophir was to be found. Almug (Ugar. almg) was imported by Hiram of Tyre; and if the usual identification with red sandalwood (Pterocarpus santalinus L.) is correct, it would locate Ophir in India or Ceylon, where the tree is indigenous. The white sandalwood (Santalum album L.), a small aromatic shrub native to the Orient, is less probable, since the wood is unsuitable for building purposes.

The passage in 2 Ch. 9:10f. reads "algun" for "almug" (LXX Gk. peúkina, "pine"), perhaps through transposition of two consonants, since the Ugaritic spelling supports that in Kings. But if algun refers to a different species, it may be the eastern savin (sabina excelsa), a pyramidal tree growing in the Lebanon Range. Such an identification presents difficulties for any location of Ophir, and makes it impossible to describe the trees, if two species were meant to be understood, with any confidence.

(代下 2:8; 9:10-11); ALMUG (“檀香木”)【希伯来语: 'almugîm】(王上 10:11-12)。《圣经》中提及的俄斐的地理位置与这类树木的品种有关。以色列王国早期, 大卫为建神殿献出俄斐金, 这是《圣经》中第一次提到俄斐(代上 29:4), 后来所罗门又从俄斐运来了更多的金子(王上 9:28; 10:11)。尽管在奎西里废丘(Tell Qasile)发现的一块陶器碎片上出现了俄斐的名字, 但仍然不能确定俄斐的地理位置; 而不同时期的人分别提出俄斐应在印度、阿拉伯半岛或东非地区。推罗王希兰从俄斐进口檀香树(乌加里特语: almg); 人们通常认为这种檀香树就是紫檀(拉丁学名: Pterocarpus santalinus), 如果这一观点是正确的, 那么俄斐应在印度或希兰, 因为这两个地区盛产这种树木。檀香树不太可能指的是东方的小型芳香灌木——白檀(拉丁学名: Santalum album), 因为这种木材不适合用作建筑材料。

《历代志下》9:10-11 中将“almug”(《七十士译本》, 希腊语: peúkina, “松树”)拼写为“algun”, 这可能是对调了两个辅音字母, 因此乌加里特语的拼写证明了《列王纪》中的拼写形式。但是如果“algun”指的是一个不同的树种, 那么它可能是东方的圆柏(拉丁学名: sabina excelsa), 一种生长在黎巴嫩山脉的锥形树木。这种观点使得确认俄斐的位置十分困难, 如果经文中指的是两种树, 那将无法准确地描述这两种树。

ALIENATE

[Heb. 'ābar, yāqa', pārad; Gk. appallotriōō]; AV also SEPARATE, DEPART; NEB variously. In the OT, it is used for the break between husband and wife caused by unfaithfulness to the marriage vow (Jer. 6:8); it is also applied to the diversion of property (Ezk. 48:14).

The NT speaks of the alienation of the soul from God (Eph. 2:12; 4:18; Col. 1:21, AV). The Gk. allōtrios, which is the root of the verb, is the opposite of idios, “one’s own.” The word implies a former state, whence the person or thing has departed, and that, generally, by deterioration. ALIENATE 疏远、转让

【希伯来语：'ābar, yāqa', pārad；希腊语：appallotriōō】；《钦定版圣经》中也译为 SEPARATE (“分居”)，DEPART (“离开”)；《新英文译本》中采用了多种不同的翻译。在《旧约》中，本词指夫妇因不信守结婚誓约而关系生疏(耶 6:8)；也可表示财产转移(结 48:14)。

《新约》中提到了灵魂与神隔绝(弗 2:12; 4:18; 西 1:21, 《钦定版圣经》)希腊语 allōtrios 是这个动词的词根，是 idios (“自己的”)的反义词。Alienate 暗指从前的状态，一个人或事物通常因堕落而远离了这种状态。见 TDNT, I, 见词条 ἄλλος χτλ (Büchsel)。

ALL; ALL IN ALL 所有；无上的

《圣经》中大量使用“all”这个词，但是应区别对待它们的用法。超出本词原意或通俗意义的主要用法分为三类。

predominate.

(1) Under completeness belong the affirmations about God that relate to His causation, control, and reconstitution of all things. This spectrum is grandly summarized in the Pauline doxology: “From him and through him and to him are all things” (Rom. 11:36). God’s love and grace have all mankind as their object (Jn. 3:16; Tit. 2:11). His renewing work at the consummation will counteract all the disorder and devastation wrought by sin (Rev. 21:5). Completeness may also be involved at times when the frame of reference is less than universal (e.g., Acts 2:1). All believers are the recipients of all spiritual blessings which accrue to those who are in Christ (Eph. 1:3), even though these mercies are not always fully understood or appropriated.

(2) Some uses of the term are best described as connoting comprehensiveness. It is said of Moses that he was instructed in all the wisdom of the Egyptians (Acts 7:22). Broadly phrased axioms belong here also: “All who take the sword will perish by the sword” (Mt. 26:52).

(3) At times “all” is used for the sake of emphasis. Here should be put hyperbolic statements such as the note about Jerusalem and all Judea going out to John the Baptist (Mt. 3:5); also the assertion that the faith of the church at Rome had reached to all the world (Rom. 1:8) and the claim that the preaching of the gospel message had been similarly diffused (Col. 1:23).

Occasionally Scripture assigns limits to the meaning of “all,” relieving

(1) “完全” 的含义肯定了上帝对一切事物的创造、控制和再造。保罗的颂赞中概括了“完全”的广泛含义：“因为万有都是本于祂，倚靠祂，归于祂”（罗 11:36）。神的爱与慈悲是赐给所有世人的（约 3:16；多 2:11）。祂的更新工作完成时便要消除所有由罪恶带来的混乱和破坏（启 21:5）。有时虽然经文中指的范围并不是全体，可能仍然表示“完整”的含义（如，徒 2:1）。所有信徒都得享在基督里的属灵福气（弗 1:3），尽管他们没能完全理解或领受这份仁慈。

(2) 本词的一些用法最好理解为“全面”的含义。据说，摩西学了埃及人的一切的学问（徒 7:22）。常用的格言“凡动刀的，必死在刀下”（太 26:52），其中的 all 也是此含义。

(3) “all” 有时用来表示“强调”。这种用法带有夸张的成分，比如“耶路撒冷和犹太全地，并约旦河一带地方的人，都出去到约翰那里”这段记录（太 3:5）；再比如“罗马教会的信德传遍了天下”（罗马 1:8）；还比如“福音……也是传与普天下万人听的”（西 1:23）。

有时《圣经》中限定了“all”（“所有”）含义的范围，消除了不确定性，如短语

uncertainty, as when the phrase “all that is in the world” (1 Jn. 2:16) is specifically confined to three items. Often the context gives help in setting the limits for the intended meaning, as when Peter in the house of Cornelius asserted concerning Jesus Christ that “he is Lord of all” (Acts 10:36). The reference is probably to Jew and Gentile. As another example, the “all things” of 1 Cor. 2:15 cannot properly be treated absolutely but should be restricted to spiritual truth.

Paul’s statement that “one man’s act of righteousness leads to acquittal and life for all men” (Rom. 5:18) raises a question. Does this statement teach universal salvation? The answer would seem to be that the provision is indeed adequate for all but is actually enjoyed only by those who put their trust in the Savior (cf. Rom. 3:22).

The somewhat baffling phrase “all in all” occurs twice in the RSV and four times in the AV. Each occurrence must be studied in the light of its setting. In 1 Cor. 12:6 (AV) God is pictured as working all (spiritual gifts) in all (believers). In 1 Cor. 15:28 (AV) the ultimate end of the whole creation-redemption process is stated in terms of unquestioned divine supremacy—God will be all (not pantheistically but sovereignly) in all (men and things). In Col. 3:11 Christ is all (as the Creator of the new man where human distinctions are transcended) and in all (as uniting and enriching His people in spite of their diversity). In Eph. 1:23 the interpretation of the phrase is more difficult because the translation of Gk. plērouménou is uncertain. See FULLNESS for the various possibilities.

“凡世界上的事” (约壹 2:16) 就特指三件事。通常上下文语境能够帮助界定意义的范围, 如彼得在哥尼流家时声称耶稣基督“是万有的主”(徒 10:36)。“万有”在这里可能指的是犹太人和异教徒。不应当将《哥林多前书》2:15 中的“万事”理解为“所有的事”, 而应该将其理解为属灵的真理。

保罗的“因一次的义行, 众人也就被称义得生命了”的表述 (罗 5:18) 产生了一个问题。这句话是向信徒宣扬普世的救恩吗? 答案似乎是, 救恩确实是为所有人准备的, 但实际上只有信靠救主的人得到了救恩 (参: 罗 3:22)。

“all in all”这一令人疑惑的短语在《修订标准译本》中出现了两次, 在《钦定版圣经中》出现了四次。每次出现时, 都应根据其语境来理解其含义。在《哥林多前书》12:6 (《钦定版圣经》) 中提到, 神在众人 (信徒) 里面运行一切的事 (属灵的恩赐)。在《哥林多前书》15:28 (《钦定版圣经》) 中, 上帝无可争议的主权彰显出全部创造和救赎过程的最终目的——神为万物 (人和物) 之主 (祂不是泛神论中的主, 而是至高无上的主)。在《歌罗西书》3:11 中, 基督是包括一切 (祂是新人类的创造者, 新人类将不会再有差别), 又住在各人之内 (虽然祂的民多种多样, 但祂将他们联合在一起, 使他们富足)。在《以弗所书》1:23 中, 由于希腊语 plērouménou 的翻译尚不确定, 所以更难解释 “all in all” 这个短语。关于更多阐述, 见 FULLNESS (充实、充满、满足、丰盛)。

ALLAMMELECH

ʾ-lam'ʾ-lek [Heb. 'alammelek—‘king’s oak’]; AV, NEB, ALAMMELECH. A town in the tribe of Asher, the location of which is not known (Josh. 19:26).

ALLEGE.

The AV rendering of Gk. Paratithēmi in Acts 17:3. RSV “prove” is a more accurate modern equivalent. The NEB has “apply” (scripture quotations). The word here indicates some form of setting forth Scripture by way of proof or demonstration. See Bauer, p. 628; MM, p. 490.

ALLEGIANCE.

In 1 Ch. 12:29 the RSV uses the phrase “kept their allegiance” (cf. AV “kept the word”; NEB “remained loyal”) to translate Heb. šōm^erīm mišmeret; both the participle and the noun are based on the verb šāmar, “watch, guard, keep,” thus the phrase denotes constant attention and obedience to a person (cf. usage in Gen. 26:5; Lev. 8:35). In 1 Ch. 29:24 the RSV renders nātan yād taḥat, literally “place (or give) the hand under,” with the phrase “pledge allegiance to” (cf. AV “submit to”; NEB “swear fealty to”). Both the RSV and NEB use “swear allegiance” in Isa. 19:18 to render the niphal of šaba, the usual term for “swear” or “take an oath.”

ALLAMMELECH 亚拉米勒

音译: ʾ-lam'ʾ-lek【希伯来语: 'alammelek——“王的大树”】;《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》中译为 ALAMMELECH (“亚拉米勒”)。亚设支派的一座城邑,位置不详(书 19:26)。

ALLEGE. 陈明

《使徒行传》17:3 中希腊语 Paratithēmi 在《钦定版圣经》中的翻译。《修订标准译本》中的“prove” (“证明”)是原希腊词的更准确的现代翻译。《新英文译本》中译为“apply” (“适用”) (《圣经》引文)。该词在这里表示通过证明或示范来阐述《圣经》的某种形式。见 Bauer, 628 页; MM, 490 页。

ALLEGIANCE. 效忠

在《历代志上》12:29 中,《修订标准译本》用短语“kept their allegiance” (“仍然效忠”, 参:《钦定版圣经》, “kept the word” [“保持承诺”];《新英文译本》“remained loyal” [“保持忠诚”]) 来翻译希伯来语 šōm^erīm mišmeret; 分词和名词都基于动词 šāmar, “看守、保卫、保持”, 因此这个短语表示始终关心和顺从某人(参:创 26:5; 利 8:35 中的用法)。《修订标准译本》将《历代志上》29:24 中的 nātan yād taḥat (字面意思“将手放在……之下”) 直译为短语“pledge allegiance to” (“宣誓效忠于”) (参:《钦定版圣经》“submit to” [“服从”];《新英文译本》“swear fealty to” [“发誓效忠于”])。《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》将《以赛亚书》19:18 中 šaba ‘的简单被动干译为“swear allegiance” (“宣誓效忠”), 这个词的通常含义是“宣誓”或“立誓”。

ALLEGORY

[Heb. māšal] (Ezk. 17:2; 20:49; 24:3); AV PARABLE; NEB PARABLE, “song of derision”; [Gk. allēgorōō < állo agoreúō—‘say something other (than what the words normally imply)’] (Gal. 4:24); ALLEGORICALLY [Gk. pneumatikós] (Rev. 11:8); AV SPIRITUALLY; NEB “in allegory.” The word “allegory” etymologically can mean any verbal form of figurative expression. In actual usage in theology the term has a restricted sense, but it is used in three ways: rhetorically, hermeneutically, and homiletically.

I. Rhetorical.—The ordinary allegory of rhetoric is usually defined as an extended or continued metaphor, this extension expanding from two or more statements to a whole volume, like Bunyan’s Pilgrim’s Progress. Allegories of this character abound in the Scriptures both in the OT and NT. Instructive examples of this kind are found in Ps. 80:8–19; Eccl. 12:3–7; Jn. 10:1–16; Eph. 6:11–17. According to traditional interpretation both of the Jewish exegesis and of the Catholic and Protestant churches the entire Song of Solomon is such an allegory.

II. Hermeneutical.—In the history of biblical exegesis allegory represents a distinct type of interpretation, dating back to pre-Christian times, practiced particularly by the Jews of Alexandria, and adopted by the early church fathers and still practiced and defended by the Roman Catholic Church. This method insists that the literal sense, particularly of historical passages, does not exhaust the divinely purposed meaning of such

ALLEGORY 比喻、寓意

【希伯来语：māšal】(结 17:2; 20:49; 24:3); 《钦定版圣经》译为 PARABLE (“比喻”)，《新英文译本》译为 PARABLE (“比喻”)，“song of derision” (“讽刺诗”)；【希腊语：allēgorōō 衍生自 állo agoreúō——“不使用词语的通常含义”】(加 4:24)；ALLEGORICALLY (“比喻地”)【希腊语：pneumatikós】(启 11:8)；《钦定版圣经》译为 SPIRITUALLY (“精神上的”)；《新英文译本》中译为 “in allegory” (“在比喻中”)。本词从语源学上讲可以指任何比喻用法的动词形式。实际用于神学中时，本词的含义有限，但它有三种用法：修辞学、释经学和布道学用法。

I. 修辞学用法。通常修辞学上的比喻被定义为延伸或延续的比喻，这种延伸从两种以上的叙述扩展到一个整体，如班扬的《天路历程》。《圣经》的《旧约》和《新约》中都经常使用这种修辞手法。典型例子见《诗篇》80:8-19；《传道书》12:3-7；《约翰福音》10:1-16；《以弗所书》6:11-17。根据犹太人注释、天主教和新教教会的传统解释，《雅歌》全书中随处可见这类比喻。

II. 释经学用法。在圣经注释的历史上，寓意解经是一种典型解经方法，这种解经方法可以追溯到主前时代，亚历山大的犹太人尤其擅长寓意解经，早期教会中的教父们也使用寓意解经，罗马天主教会仍然使用这种方法，并为之辩护。这种解经方法坚持认为经文的字面含义，尤其是历史作品的字面意思，不能完全阐明上帝的旨意，这些段落里面也包含了更深刻的属灵含义和神秘意义。有一个众所周知的谚语表达了《圣经》 passages, but that these latter also include a deeper and higher spiritual and mystical sense. The fourfold sense ascribed to the Scriptures finds its expression in the well-known saying: Littera gesta docet; quid credas, allegorica; moralis, quid agas; quid speres, anagogica (“The letter shows things done; what you are to believe, the allegoric; what you are to do, the moral; what you are to hope, the anagogic”), according to which the allegorical is the hidden dogmatic meaning to be found in every passage.

H. Cremer shows that this method of finding a hidden thought behind the simple statement of a passage, although practiced so extensively on the Jewish side by Aristobulus and especially Philo, is not of Jewish origin, but was taken, particularly by Philo, from the Alexandrian Greeks (who before this had interpreted Greek mythology as the expression of higher religious conceptions) and applied to a deeper explanation of OT historical data, together with its theophanies, anthropomorphisms, anthropopathies, and the like, which in their plain meaning were regarded as unworthy of a place in the divine revelation of the Scriptures (Biblico-Theological Lexicon of NT Greek [Eng. tr. 4th ed. 1895, repr. 1954], pp. 96f). Such allegorizing became the common custom of the early Christian Church, although not practiced to the same extent in all sections, the Syrian Church exhibiting the greatest degree of sobriety in this respect. Only Jewish precedent was followed; the paraphrases of the Targums, the Midrash, and later most extremely of the Cabala, all showed this mark of “eisegesis” instead of exegesis.

克莱默 (H. Cremer) 认为找到隐藏在简单段落背后的思想这种方法虽然被犹太人 (如, 阿里斯托布鲁斯), 尤其是被斐罗广泛应用, 但是它并不是犹太人的原创, 而是他们 (特别是斐罗) 从亚历山大的希腊人 (他们在此之前将希腊神话学解读为更高宗教观念的表达) 那里学来的, 他们用这种方法对旧约历史资料进行更为深刻的解释, 并应用到神的显现、神人同形同性论、神人同情说等学说中, 而这些历史资料从表面意思看对揭示《圣经》中的启示毫无价值可言 (Biblico-Theological Lexicon of NT Greek [英文译本第四本, 1895 年编, 1954 年再版], 96-97 页)。早期的基督教会普遍接受寓意解经, 但各地区教会使用这种方法的程度不尽相同, 叙利亚教会在寓意解经方面表现得最为冷静。他们只遵从犹太人的先例; 《他尔根》和《米大示》的释义, 以及后来最为极端的犹太神秘哲学中的解释都显示出“肆意解经”的痕迹, 不能称之为释经。

This whole false hermeneutical principle and its application originated doubtless in an unhistorical conception of what the Scriptures are and how they originated. It is characteristic of the NT, and one of the evidences of its inspiration, that in the entire biblical literature of that age, both Jewish and Christian, it is the only book that does not practice allegorizing but abides by the principle of literal interpretation. Nor is Paul's exegesis in Gal. 4:21-31 an application of false allegorical methods. Here in v. 24 the Gk. allēgoroumena need not be taken in the technical sense as expressive of a method of interpretation, but is merely a paraphrase of the preceding thought; or, if taken technically, the whole can be regarded as an argumentum ad hominem, a way of demonstration found also elsewhere in Paul's writings. The Protestant Church, beginning with Luther, has at all times rejected this allegorizing and adhered to the safe and sane principle, practiced by Christ and the entire NT, of Sensum ne inferas, sed efferas ("Do not carry a meaning into [the Scriptures] but draw it out of [the Scriptures]"). It is true that the older Protestant theology still adheres to a sensus mysticus in the Scriptures, but by this it means those passages in which the sense is conveyed not per verba (through words), but per res verbis descriptas ("through things described by means of words"), as, e.g., in the parable and the type.

III. Homiletical.-In homiletics allegorizing is applied to the method that draws spiritual truths from common historical statements, as, e.g., when the healing of a leper by Christ is made the 这种完全错误的解释学原则及其应用毫无疑问源于《圣经》是什么以及《圣经》从何而来的非史实性设想。在当时的所有圣经文献里，不论是犹太教文献还是基督教文献，《新约》是唯一一本不使用寓意解经法，仅照字面意思解经的书，这是《新约》的特征，也是新约启示的确据之一。《加拉太书》4:21-31中保罗的解释也没有使用错误的寓意解经法。不应该严格从确切意义上理解第24节中的希腊语 allēgoroumena，认为这个词体现出一种解经方法，而应该仅仅将其视为前文思想的解释；如果从严格意义上讲，整段都可以看作是“人身批判”（拉丁语：argumentum ad hominem），在保罗的其他作品中也可以看到这种论证方法。从路德开始，新教教会一直都摒弃这种释经方法，并坚持 Sensum ne inferas, sed efferas（“不要在解经时牵强附会，要根据《圣经》解经”）这一安全可靠的原则，这也是基督和整部《新约》采用的解经方法。事实上，早期的新教神学始终坚持认为《圣经》中隐藏着“神秘意义”(sensus mysticus)，这意味着，那些经文段落并不是“借助词语”(per verba)而是“借助词语意义所描述的事物”(per res verbis descriptas)来阐明意义，就像是寓言和预兆。

III. 布道学用法。在布道学中，寓意解经被应用于从普通历史叙述中提取属灵真理的方法中，如基督治愈了麻风病患者，被引申为救世主拯救世人的灵魂。这自然不是注释性解经。

In Rev. 11:8, RSV, Gk. pneumatikós is translated “allegorically” (NEB “in allegory”). Schweizer (TDNT, VI, s.v.) thinks “prophetic” is closer to the meaning. “A text relating to Sodom and Egypt is not applied to Jerusalem, nor is Jerusalem given an allegorically concealing name; Jerusalem is seen with prophetic eyes and identified with the biblical Sodom and Egypt.” Cf. ALLIANCE

[Heb. b^erît, cf. Akk. birit—‘betweenness,’ ‘mutuality’]. A covenant, treaty, or agreement, generally between tribes, states, or nations. There are two types of alliance: (1) parity, in which the two parties are more or less of equal status, and (2) suzerainty, in which a dominant party imposes a treaty on the weaker.

I. Nature of an Alliance.-Excavations in ancient sites throughout the Near East have yielded evidence of a wide variety of such agreements, ranging from simple agreements between individuals to interstate treaties. While alliances were

ALLIANCE 盟约

【希伯来语: b^erît, 参: 阿卡德语: birit——“中间”, “相互”】。通常指的是部落、国家或民族之间订立的盟约、条约或协议。盟约有两种: (1) 平等盟约, 双方在这种盟约中的地位基本相同 (2) 宗主盟约, 统治方强行与弱势方立的约。

I. 盟约的性质。对整个近东地区古遗址的发掘发现了大量关于盟约的证据, 其中包括个人之间简单的协议, 国家之间的协约。虽然盟约对于商贸来说十分重要, 而且如果一个更为强大的国家占领了以色列, 必然会强行立下宗主盟约, necessary for trade and commerce, and could hardly be avoided if a powerful nation conquered Israel and imposed a suzerainty treaty, the voluntary formation of alliances with pagan nations, especially for protection, was discouraged, and even forbidden in certain areas of the legislation (Ex. 23:32; 34:12, 15; Lev. 18:3f; 20:22ff; Dt. 7:2; Jgs. 2:2f). Such alliances both compromised the kingship of Yahweh and led to intermarriages. Isaiah, Hosea, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and others warned Israel of the dangers of foreign alliances that placed the people too much in the hands of pagan kings (Isa. 7:3-9; 36:12-18; 37:5-7; Hos. 7:11; 8:9; Ezk. 23:5-7, 11-21).

If, on the other hand, an alliance had to be made for some reason, Israel was bound to be loyal, since her oath was taken in the name of Yahweh and the alliance was therefore His (Hos. 10:4; Ezk. 17:15-21). Presumably there was no objection to Israel's imposing a vassal treaty on a defeated enemy, for in that case Yahweh's sovereignty was not in danger.

II. Hebrew Alliances.-A. Early Alliances. The book of Genesis refers to a number of simple alliances between tribes or small groups. Abraham was linked in a confederacy of petty kings in the Dead Sea area (Gen. 14:13) and made an agreement with Abimelech of Gerar (21:22-34). Isaac also formed an agreement with Abimelech (26:26-34); both these agreements were concerned with land and water rights. Jacob and Laban made an agreement over Laban's daughters and over encroachment on one another's property (31:44-55). The nature

但某些地方律法不鼓励甚至禁止以色列为寻求保护主动与异教国家立下盟约（出 23:32； 34:12, 15； 利 18:3-4； 20:22 起； 申 7:2； 士 2:2-3）。这类盟约不但影响了耶和华的至高王权，还导致了异族通婚。以赛亚、何西阿、耶利米、以西结及其他人都警告以色列人与外邦立约的危险，因为这种盟约将很多子民交在了异教国王的手里（赛 7:3-9； 36:12-18； 37:5-7； 何 7:11； 8:9； 结 23:5-7, 11-21）。

另一方面，如果以色列出于某些原因不得不立约，那么她必须保持忠诚，因为她以耶和华之名起誓，因此这是祂的盟约（何 10:4； 结 17:15-21）。大概没有人会反对以色列强行与战败的敌人立下附庸条约，因为在那种情况下，耶和华的至高地位并未受到威胁。

II. 希伯来人的盟约。A. 早期盟约。《创世记》中提到了一些支派和小会众之间的简单契约。亚伯拉罕曾与死海地区的小国国王联盟（创 14:13），还曾与基拉尔王亚比米勒联盟（创 21:22-34）。以撒也曾和亚比米勒联盟（创 26:26-34）；这些盟约与土地和用水权有关。雅各和拉班立约说不会苦待拉班的女儿们，并且互不侵犯对方财产（创 31:44-55）。以色列和基尼人关系的性质并不清晰，但他们之间可能结成了联盟，基尼人后来和以色列人关系密切，而且摩西娶了基尼人的女子为妻（士 1:16； 4:11）。此外，以色列人与什亭摩押女子的关系和 of Israel's relationship with the Kenites, who were later linked closely with Israel, and from whom Moses took a wife (Jgs. 1:16; 4:11), is not clear, but there may have been some kind of alliance. Again, the attachment of Israel to the daughters of Moab in Shittim, and the consequent departure of some Israelites into false worship, may point to an alliance (Nu. 25:1-3; Hos. 9:10; Mic. 6:5).

B. Conquest and Judges Periods. A concrete example of an alliance is given in the case of the Gibeonites (Josh. 9). Other alliances may be inferred (11:10-16). The absence of fighting in the center of the land and Israel's later being in possession of the Shechem area suggest an alliance (cf. Jgs. 9:1-6).

C. David and Solomon. David became an ally of Achish of Gath (1 S. 27:2-12). Later he formed an alliance with Abner, the captain of the armies of Saul's son. This led to the consolidation of Judah and Israel into one kingdom (2 S. 3:12-21; 5:1:3). When David carried out his wars of expansion, he must have made several alliances, probably of the suzerainty type. King Toi of Hamath formed an alliance with David when they were both opposed to Hadadezer of Zobah (8:3-10). Possibly David had an alliance with Hiram of Tyre (1 K. 5:1).

Solomon maintained David's empire and kept the alliances his father had made. In addition he arranged trade treaties with Hiram of Tyre (1 K. 9:9-12) and probably with the pharaoh of Egypt (9:16).

D. Divided Kingdom. When war broke out between Asa of Judah and Baasha of Israel, Asa made an alliance with 后来某些以色列人背离主选择错误的信仰,可能说明他们之间存在盟约(民 25:1-3; 何 9:10; 弥 6:5)。

B. 征服迦南和《士师记》时期。以色列与基遍人的盟约(书 9)就是盟约的一个具体例子。以色列人可能还立下了其他的盟约(书 11:10-16)。这片土地的中心没有经历战争,以色列后来占领示剑地区都表明双方曾立下盟约(参:士 9:1-6)。

C. 大卫和所罗门。大卫和迦特的亚吉联盟(撒上 27:2-12)。他后来又与扫罗儿子的军队首领押尼珥结成联盟。这使犹大和以色列合并成一个王国(撒下 3:12-21; 撒下 5:1-3)。当大卫实行战争扩张时,他一定立了几个盟约,而且可能是宗主盟约。哈马王陀以和大卫都与哈大底谢的琐巴为敌,于是他们结成了联盟(撒下 8:3-10)。大卫还可能曾与推罗的希兰王立约(王上 5:1)。

所罗门继承了大卫的王国,并遵守他父亲所立的盟约。此外,所罗门与推罗的希兰王(王上 9:9-12),还可能与埃及的法老(王上 9:16)订立了贸易契约。

D. 分裂的王国。当犹大的亚撒和以色列的巴沙之间争战时,亚撒和大马士革的便哈达签订了盟约(王上 15:18-20)。

Ben-hadad of Damascus (1 K. 15:18–20). There had been a previous alliance between these two states, and later Omri and Ahab had an alliance with Ben-hadad (20:34). Assyrian records indicate that both Ahab and Ben-hadad were in a coalition of twelve kings which fought Assyria. On occasion Israel and Judah were in alliance, as when Jehoshaphat and Ahab joined in a war against Syria (22:2–4), or Jehoshaphat and Jehoram against Moab (2 K. 3:4–7).

Rezin of Damascus and Pekah were allied in a parity treaty and attacked Ahaz of Judah, whereupon Judah allied with Assyria (2 K. 16:6–9; Isa. 7). This latter alliance, certainly of the suzerainty type, led to the subjection of both Israel and Judah, and to the introduction of pagan cults into Judah (2 K. 16:10–18). Toward the close of Israel's life as a state, Hoshea made an alliance with Egypt that brought about the downfall of Israel (17:4).

E. Kingdom of Judah after 722 B.C. Hezekiah, when attacked by Sennacherib's armies, sought the help of Egypt (2 K. 19:8f). The Assyrian king sought to force him into an alliance with Assyria but failed (18:29–32; 19:6f). He may have had an alliance with Merodach-baladan (20:12–18). After the fall of Assyria in 612 B.C. Egypt came into Judah, deposed her king, and appointed Jehoiakim. When Egypt was expelled by Nebuchadnezzar, Jehoiakim remained, but his loyalty was suspect. He died, but his son was taken to Babylon as an exile, and Zedekiah his uncle was appointed king in his place. He too made an alliance with Egypt, and Nebuchadnezzar destroyed Jerusalem and Judah (2 K. 25).

两国此前曾有盟约，后来暗利和亚哈与便哈达结盟（王上 20:34）。亚述人的记录表明亚哈和便哈达等十二个国王联合起来与亚述争战，有时以色列与犹大结盟，如约沙法和亚哈曾联合攻打叙利亚（王上 22:2-4），或是约沙法和约兰一起攻打摩押（王下 3:4-7）。

大马士革的利汛和比加结成平等盟约一起攻打犹大的亚哈斯，于是犹大和亚述立盟约（王下 16:6-9；赛 7）。后一个盟约肯定是宗主盟约，导致了以色列和犹大臣服于亚述，并使异教传入犹大（王下 16:10-18）。以色列王国将要覆灭时，何细亚和埃及立约，导致以色列走向衰落（王下 17:4）。

E. 公元前 722 年之后的犹大王国。 希西家遭到西拿基立的军队攻击时，向埃及求援（王下 19:8-9）。亚述王试图强迫他与亚述立约，但以失败告终（王下 18:29-32；19:6-7）。亚述王可能曾与比罗达巴拉但结盟（王下 20:12-18）。公元前 612 年亚述衰落后，埃及人侵略犹大，罢免了犹大国王并任命约雅敬为王。当尼布甲尼撒击退埃及人时，约雅敬仍然作王，但是他对亚述的忠心却值得怀疑。约雅敬死后，他的儿子被掳至巴比伦，他的叔叔西底家被任命为犹大王。西底家也与埃及结盟，而尼布甲尼撒后来摧毁了耶路撒冷和犹大（王下 25）。

F. Postexilic Alliances. The remnants of Israel and Judah were subservient to Babylon, Persia, and Greece. In the days of the Seleucid rulers they rebelled under the Maccabean leaders. Judas Maccabeus sought an alliance with the Romans (1 Macc. 8; Josephus Ant. xii. 10.6), which was renewed by Jonathan (1 Macc. 12:1; Ant. xiii.5.8) and by Simon (1 Macc. 15:17; Ant. xiii.7.3). Treaties were concluded with the Spartans (1 Macc. 12:2; 14:20; Ant. xii.4.10; xiii.5.8). The Roman alliance was again renewed by Hyrcanus ca. 128 B.C. (Ant. xiii.9.2). This alliance proved to be fatal to the independence of the Jews (xiv.4.4; xiv.5).

ALLOTMENT

[Heb. gōrāl, ḥēleq]. A concept of land-tenure in which certain holdings in the total community property were distributed by lot. In Josh. 13-19 the tribes acquired territory by being allotted different sections of the land of Canaan. Because of this procedure the individual segment could be designated as a "lot" (cf. Jgs. 1:3) or a "portion" (ḥēleq). In Nu. 26:52-56 it was also called an "inheritance" (naḥ^alā). The regulations for the jubilee year (v. 25) were intended to restore allotments to their original owners so as to preclude monopolies. Under the law the Levites received no specific allotment because the Lord was their portion (Nu. 18:20; Dt. 10:9; Josh. 13:14), receiving instead places of residence among the various tribes. In Isa. 34:17 Edomite territory was assigned by lot to the wild beasts as divine punishment for national wickedness.

ALLOTMENT 分得之地

【希伯来语：gōrāl, ḥēleq】。一种土地所有权的概念，表示将全部共同财产通过拈阄分配出去。在《约书亚记》13-19 中，各支派通过接受分派迦南地的不同地区获得各自的领地。因为这个过程，每个地区都可以被称为“拈阄之地”（参：士 1:3）或“分得之地”（ḥēleq）。在《民数记》26:52-56 中，分得之地也被叫做“产业”（naḥ^alā）。五十年节（民 26:25）的法规是要将分得之地归还给他们原来的主人，从而预防垄断土地。根据律法规定，利未人因神是他们的“份”而不可有产业（民 18:20；申 10:9；书 13:14），他们却可以居住在各支派的分得之地上。在《以赛亚书》34:17 中，以东人因邪恶而受到了神的惩罚，他们的土地被拈阄分给野兽。

al'mən [Heb. 'almôn]. A Levitical city in the tribe of Benjamin (Josh. 21:18), the same as Alemeth of 1 Ch. 6:60. It is probably to be identified with Khirbet 'Almî, NE of Anathoth.

ALMON-DIBLATHAIM

al'mən dib-lə-thā'əm [Heb. 'almôn diblāṭayim]. A station in the wilderness journeyings of the Israelites, located in Moab between Dibon-gad and the mountains of Abarim (Nu. 33:46f.). It was near the end of the forty years' wanderings. The site is not certain. It was probably the same place as BETH-DIBLATHAIM of Jer. 48:22, mentioned in the prophet's oracle against Moab.

Apparently originating in western India and Persia, the almond (Amygdalus communis L.) spread westward in early times and grew in Palestine during patriarchal times. Somewhat similar to a peach tree, the almond attains a height of about 25 ft. (7.5 m.), and in Palestine it blooms toward the end of January. Even in antiquity the almond was a welcome

音译: al'mən 【希伯来语: 'almôn】。便雅悯支派的一个利未城邑(书 21:18),和《历代志上》6:60 中的阿勒箴是同一个地方。该地可能就是亚拿突东北方的亚耳米废墟(Khirbet 'Almî)。

ALMON-DIBLATHAIM 亚门低比拉太音

音译: al'mən dib-lə-thā'əm 【希伯来语: 'almôn diblāṭayim】。以色列人在旷野中的一处驻地,在摩押的底本迦得和亚巴琳山之间(民 33:46-47)。该地靠近以色列四十年旷野之行的终点。该地的位置尚未确定,但可能是《耶利米书》48:22 中的伯低比拉太音(见 BETH-DIBLATHAIM),这位先知关于摩押的预言中提到了该地。

ALMOND 杏、杏树

【希伯来语: šāqēd (创 43:11; 民 17:8; 等), lūz (创 30:37)】;《钦定版圣经》译为 HAZEL (“榛树”, 创 30:37)。杏树(拉丁学名: Amygdalus communis)显然源于西印度和波斯,在早期逐渐向西部生长,并且在族长统治时期就已经生长于巴勒斯坦。雅各想要让他的儿子们将杏树作为礼物带往埃及(创 43:11),这可能说明在族长统治时期埃及并没有杏树。

杏树与桃树有些相似,高度能达到 25 英尺(7.5 米),巴勒斯坦的杏树大约在一月末开花。甚至在古代,杏树就被视为春天来临的预兆。杏树先开花后长叶子,有开粉花的,也有开纯白花的。杏

harbinger of spring. The blooms precede the leaves, and vary from pink to pure white. The fruit is an oval drupe with fibrous husk that splits as it ripens. The ancients extracted the oil and esteemed it for its fragrance.

In descriptions of the sacred candlesticks (Ex. 25:33ff.; 37:19f.) references to the blossoms should read “calyx” for “knop” (Heb. kaptōr; RSV “capital”) and “petals” for “flower” (perah). The almond rod (lūz, incorrectly “hazel” in the AV) is referred to in Gen. 30:37 and Nu. 17:2f., the latter rod apparently having come from Egypt during the Exodus. In connection with the story of Aaron’s rod it should be noted that the almond is remarkable for the rapidity with which it can produce premature blossoms.

In Jer. 1:11f there is a play on the word “almond” in which God informs the prophet, who has seen the almond tree (šāqēd), that He will watch over (šōqēd) His word to accomplish it. In Eccl. 12:5 the blossoming tree is likened to the white hair of old age.

ALMOST

In Acts 26:28 the Gk. en oligō does not mean “almost,” although scholars have for centuries translated the clause “Almost thou persuadest me to become a Christian” (cf. AV). The RV does not make this error; but its explanation of the sentence is erroneous, for the Greek cannot mean “With but little persuasion thou wouldst fain make me a Christian.” Paul’s reply proves that en oligō must be taken with the last word poiēsai, not with peitheis, since he takes up

树的果实是带有纤维皮椭圆形的核，果实成熟时皮便会裂开。古人从中榨取油，并且因其有香味而格外受推崇。

在关于神圣烛台的描述中(出 25:33 起; 37:19-20), 提及开花时应将“球”理解成“花萼”(希伯来语: kaptōr, 《修订标准译本》中译为“capital”[“球”]), 将“花”(perah)理解成“花瓣”。《创世记》30:37 和《民数记》17:2-3 中提到了杏树枝或杏树杖(lūz, 《钦定版圣经》中错译成“hazel”[“榛树”]), 亚伦之杖显然是在出埃及时从埃及带出来的。关于亚伦的杖发芽的故事, 我们应注意的是杏树生长迅速, 因此开花较早。

在《耶利米书》1:11-12 中, 有一段关于“杏树的”故事。先知看见了杏树枝(šāqēd), 神然后晓谕先知说, 祂将留意(šōqēd) 保守祂的话, 使其成就。在《传道书》12:5 中, 开花的杏树被比作老人的白发。

在《使徒行传》26:28 中, 希腊语 en oligō 的意思并不是“几乎”, 但是几个世纪以来, 学者们都将这个从句翻译成“你这样劝我, 几乎叫我作基督徒了”(参: 《钦定版圣经》)。《修订版圣经》没有犯这个错误; 但是它对这句话的解释却是错误的, 因为希腊语不可能表示“你想稍微一劝, 便叫我作基督徒”。保罗的回答证明“稍”(en oligō) 必须和最后一个词“做”(poiēsai) 连在一起, 而不是和“劝诱”, 因为他引用了亚基帕说的“稍”(en oligō), 将它和“许多”

Agrippa's en oligō, couples it with en megálō, and continues with genésthai, which is the regular passive of poiēsai (cf. Lysias xii.71 with 72). And the idea of "Christian" is also taken up and repeated in hopoíos kai egó eimi.

An investigation of the usage of en oligō shows that it was never used in the sense of "almost" (cf. Bauer, p. 566; MM, p. 445). In the NT it means rather "a little," and is equivalent to oligōs in 2 Pet. 2:18. In classical writers the idea would have been expressed by oligon, or kat'oligon.

The King James translators disregarded the real significance of poiēsai, or adopted the reading of the inferior MSS (genésthai), so as to make the rest of the sentence harmonize with their translation of the first two words; and the RV forces the last two words into an impossible service, since the object of poiēsai, of which christianón is the factitive predicate, must be a third person, but certainly not Agrippa.

Some scholars are of the opinion that the thought is: "You are trying to persuade me so as to make me a Christian." (Cf. the NEB, "You think it will not take much to win me over and make a Christian of me.") But examples show that peíthein with the infinitive may have a different sense. The verb may mean "believe," or "earnestly desire," not "persuade." Cf. Herodotus v.93; Plato Protagoras 329d; Aeschylus, Sophocles, Euripides, etc. Agrippa is asking, "What do you want, Paul? What are you trying to do? Make me a Christian?" (The RSV reads, "In a short

(en megálō) 连用, 后面接 "成为" (genésthai), 这是 "做" (poiēsai) 的常规的被动语态 (参: Lysias xii.71 with 72)。而且 "基督徒 (Christian)" 一词也在 "都要像我一样" (hopoíos kai egó eimi) 中被重复引用。

一项关于 en oligō 用法的调查研究显示, 该词从来不曾用来表示 "几乎" 的含义。(参: Bauer, 566 页; MM, 445 页)。在《新约》中, 该词的意思是 "稍、刚刚", 与《彼得后书》2:18 中 oligōs 同义。古代作家用 oligon ("之后") 或 "kat'oligon" ("不久之后") 表示这个含义。

《钦定版圣经》的翻译者忽略 poiēsai 的真正含义, 或接受了有瑕疵手稿中的错译, 从而使这句话的剩余部分与前两个词的翻译相一致; 而《修订版圣经》不翻译后两个词, 因为 poiēsai ("做") 的宾语必须是第三人称, 但一定不是亚基帕, 而 christianón ("基督徒") 是 "做" 的使役动词谓语。

一些学者认为这里应该翻译成 "你正在试图劝说我, 使我成为基督徒"。(参: 《新英文译本》, "你认为将我说服做基督徒并不用费太多事。") 但是有例子表明, 当 peíthein 一词与不定式连用时, 意思是不同的。这个动词可能意思是 "相信" 或是 "诚挚的渴望", 而不是 "劝说"。参: 希罗多德的作品 (Herodotus, 93 节); 柏拉图的著作 (Protagoras 329d); 埃斯库罗斯、索福克勒斯、欧里庇得斯等人的作品。亚基帕问道: "你想要什么, 保罗? 你想要做什么? 让我做基督徒?" (《修订标准译本》译为, "你认为不久之后就使我做基督徒!") 保罗的回答暗示着他其实 time you think to make me a Christian!”) The implication in Paul’s reply is that he is very desirous indeed of making him a Christian. And this interpretation harmonizes with the scene. The apostle’s business at this juncture is not to convert heathen to Christianity; for he is in chains before Agrippa, Berenice, Festus, and prominent men of Caesarea, metá pollés phantasías (v. 23), to answer the charges brought against him by the Jews. But he holds forth at length and with such ardor that the Roman king says (though not necessarily in irony): “You seem to be anxious to make me a Christian in small measure.” And Paul responds: “both small and great.”

For other possible interpretations see TDNT, VI, s.v. πειθω (Bultmann), where it is maintained that peithein must mean “persuade” in this verse. Note especially the reference there to A. Nairne, JTS, 21 (1920), 171f., who would translate, “Soon thou persuadest me to play the Christian” (so also F. F. Bruce, comms. in loc.).

ALMS; ALMSGIVING

[Gk. eleēmosýnē] (Mt. 6:2-4; Lk. 11:41; 12:33; Acts 3:2f., 10; 10:2, 4, 31; 24:17); NEB CHARITY, ACTS OF CHARITY, “beg” (Acts 3:2, 10), “give to help” (Acts 10:2), GOOD DEEDS, CHARITABLE GIFTS. The OT has no specific term for almsgiving, but several Hebrew terms and phrases are used to refer to this activity, e.g.: š^edāqâ—“righteous deeds” (Ps. 11:7; Dnl. 9:18), pātaḥ ’etyād—“open (your) hand” (Dt. 15:8, 11), ḥānan—“be gracious” (Ps. 37:21, 26), raḥ^amîn —“compassion”

关于其他可能的解释，见 TDNT, VI, 见词条 πειθω (Bultmann)，该处坚持认为 peithein 在这节中必须译成“劝说”。尤其应注意该处参考的纳尔恩作品 (JTS, 21 (1920), 171-172)，他的翻译是“你就快劝我成为基督徒了”（布鲁斯对本段的评注也是如此）。

ALMS; ALMSGIVING 施舍、周济

【希腊语：eleēmosýnē】（太 6:2-4；路 11:41；12:33；徒 3:2-3, 10；10:2, 4, 31；24:17）；《新英文译本》译为 CHARITY（“慈善”）、ACTS OF CHARITY（“善行”）、“beg”（“乞讨”，徒 3:2, 10）、“give to help”（“给出帮助”，徒 10:2）、GOOD DEEDS（“好事”）、CHARITABLE GIFTS（“慈善捐赠”）。《旧约》中并没有用来表示施舍的专有名词，但是有几个希伯来语词语或短语可以表示这种行为，如：š^edāqâ——“义行”（诗 11:7；但 9:18），pātaḥ ’etyād——“张开（你的）手”（申 15:8, 11），

(Zec. 7:9), nātan —“give” (Dt. 15:10). The term š^edāqā referred to a broad spectrum of worthy deeds in accord with truth and justice. Specific acts of charity were often included. Later, the term came to be equated with gifts to the poor. The LXX uses both dikaiosynē (“righteousness,” “justice”) and eleēmosynē to translate both hesed and š^edāqā. The Eng. “alms” comes from eleēmosynē, as “charity” comes from Gk. chāris (“grace,” “favor”).

hānan——“亲切的” (诗 37:21, 26), rah^amīn——“怜悯” (亚 7:9), nātan ——“给予” (申 15:10)。 š^edāqā 和诚实、正义一样，可以指很多值得敬佩的行为。其中通常包括具体的慈善行为。后来，该词被认为是赠予穷人的礼物。《七十士译本》中 dikaiosynē (“正直” “正义”) 和 eleēmosynē 都可以用来翻译 hesed 和 š^edāqā。英语中的“alms” (“施舍”) 源于 eleēmosynē，如同“charity” (“慈善”) 源于希腊语的 chāris (“恩惠” “赐予”)。

Almsgiving, approved in some form by most religions, ancient and modern, is a specific expression of a broad, general concern for the well-being of the poor. The sharing of one’s possessions with those less fortunate arises basically from the desire to alleviate human suffering (Lev. 19:9f.; 23:22; Est. 9:22; Ruth 2:2-8; Amos 5:24; Isa. 10:1f.).

古今大多数宗教都在某种程度上将施舍视为广泛关切穷人的福乐的特殊行为。将财物施舍给相对不幸的人主要是为了减轻那人的苦楚 (利 19:9-10; 23:22; 斯 9:22; 得 2:2-8; 摩 5:24; 赛 10:1-2)。

I. In the OT.—Several OT references express concern for the poor, especially those within the community. Lev. 19:9f. places a legal obligation on the rich to aid the poor in an agrarian economy. Minimal limits for this aid were set in the Mishnah (cf. Peah i.1f.). Ex. 23:11 and Dt. 14:28 speak of special concern which is to be demonstrated every three years and every seven years. Dt. 15 is particularly illustrative of the desired spirit of giving: the attitude toward fellow Hebrews in the year of release is to be one of generosity. The motive here is partly the expectation of God’s blessing (v. 10), but basically it is a grateful response to God’s prior merciful action to the owner, both as an individual (v. 14) and as a member of the redeemed community (v. 15). In every case the gifts

I. 《旧约》中的施舍。《旧约》中有几处经文提及对穷人的关心，尤其是对会众中穷人的关心。《利未记》19:9-10 将周济穷人粮食定为富人的法定义务。《米示拿》规定了周济的底限 (参: Peah i.1-2)。《出埃及记》23:11 和《申命记》14:28 中提到每三年和七年就要进行施舍。《申命记》15 章则特别阐述了对希伯来仆人的态度应有奉献精神。希伯来人在豁免年就可以恢复自由之身。这样做从某种程度上来说是因为神赐福于他们，并期望他们这样做 (申 15:10)，但主要是因为个人 (申 15:14) 和被解救的会众 (申 15:15) 都曾经接受神的赐福，他们充满感激，想要做出回报。在任何情况下都要慷慨地施舍，而不应当不情愿地施舍。(参:《哥林多后书》9:7 中的“捐得乐意的人”; 还有《罗马书》12:8 和《多比传》4:7)。 are to be given freely and not grudgingly (cf. the “cheerful giver” of 2 Cor. 9:7; also Rom. 12:8 and Tob. 4:7).

II. In the NT.-For NT writers almsgiving is a fundamental expression of righteous life (Mt. 5:42; 19:21; Lk. 12:33; Acts 3:3; Rom. 12:6ff.; Jas. 2:15f.), especially toward other Christians (Gal. 6:10; 1 Jn. 2:10; 3:11); but the words of Jesus and His followers were directed primarily to the spirit and manner of the deed (Mt. 6:2-4; Mk. 12:41-44; Lk. 11:41; cf. Acts 20:35). Paul also gave directions as to how gifts should be made (Rom. 12:8; 2 Cor. 9:7); he brought his own alms (NEB “charitable gifts”) to the saints in Jerusalem (Acts 24:17) and urged others to contribute also (1 Cor. 16:1-3; 2 Cor. 8:2; 9:1f.). Paul’s reasons for the collection, however, included the theological concern for breaking down the wall of hostility between Gentile and Jew as well as the humanitarian concern for alleviating suffering.

III. Motivation.-The reason for charity to the poor and the sojourner was simply that this was an act pleasing to God (Ps. 11:7; Prov. 21:13; Ezk. 3:20; Sukkah 49b; Mt. 6:3; Acts 10:4). However, the idea of recompense, by which the almsgiver will receive benefits in this life, also appears in the OT and is stressed in later literature. Such good deeds deliver from death (Prov. 11:4; Tob. 4:10), bring happiness (Prov. 14:21), make one’s children a blessing (Ps. 37:26), lengthen tranquility (Dnl. 4:27) and life (Tob. 12:8f.), rescue from all affliction (Sir. 29:12f.), and atone for sin (Sir. 3:30). (See also 2 Cor. 9:6.) Belief in a reward in some future life, “laying up treasures in heaven” (cf. Mt. 6:19; Lk. 12:33), was

II. 《新约》中的施舍。对于《新约》的作者们来说，施舍，尤其是施舍给其他基督徒的行为（加 6:10；约壹 2:10；3:11），是公义生活的基本表现（太 5:42；19:21；路 12:33；徒 3:3；罗 12:6 起；雅 2:15-16）；但是耶稣和门徒的话语主要受圣灵和行为的指引（太 6:2-4；可 12:41-44；路 11:41；参：徒 20:35）。保罗还给出了如何施舍财物的指示（罗 12:8；林后 9:7）；他带着自己供献的物去耶路撒冷送给圣徒（徒 24:17），并鼓励其他人也这样做（林前 16:1-3；林后 8:2；9:1-2）。但是，保罗募捐既出于打破异教徒与犹太人之间的敌意隔阂的神学关怀，也出于减轻人们苦楚的人文关怀。

III. 施舍的动机。对穷人或流浪者行善事的原因十分简单，因为这是蒙神悦纳的行为（诗 11:7；箴 21:13；结 3:20；Sukkah 49b；太 6:3；徒 10:4）。但是《旧约》中还提到了施舍者今生将得益，即得善报，后来的文学中也着重强调了这种说法。这种善行能救人脱离死亡（箴 11:4；比 4:10），给人带来幸福（箴 14:21），使他的后裔蒙福（诗 37:26），延长平安（但 4:27）和生命（比 12:8-9），拯救人脱离苦难（便 29:12-13），赎罪（便 3:30）。（另见林后 9:6。）人们相信来生会有好报，“积攒财宝在天上”（参：太 6:19；路 12:33），这也是经常被引用的施舍的理由（如，比 4:9；提前 6:17 起）。 another frequently cited reason for almsgiving (e.g., Tob. 4:9; 1 Tim. 6:17ff.).

Early and late, however, there are evidences that all acts of charity were to be made not for the good they would bring the giver in the immediate or distant future, but in response to the mercy God had already bestowed upon the faithful community. Israel was frequently enjoined to remember her deliverance from bondage as the reason sine qua non for all genuine worship, and she was to be righteous because her God was righteous (Dt. 15:15; Ps. 11:7; Dnl. 9:18). When Jesus sent out the Twelve, His instructions included the rationale: “You received without pay, give without pay” (Mt. 10:8). The general theological basis for love and concern is further elucidated by Paul (see Romans, 1 Corinthians, Galatians), John (1 Jn. 3:17; 4:10, 19), and Peter (1 Pet. 4:10).

IV. Distribution.-As is frequently the case, some apparently abused this generous spirit so that all did not receive their equal share (e.g., Acts 6:1; 1 Cor. 11:17ff.). The church had to exercise care in distributing its limited funds. Those who falsely claimed to be widows (1 Tim. 5:6), the false prophets (Didache 12:2-5), and others who “received without need” (1:5) became a troublesome burden. One remedy given by the Didache was: “Let your alms sweat in your hand until you know to whom you are giving” (1:6).

Ignatius stressed the importance of the office of deacon: “For they are not the ministers of food and drink [only? never?], but servants of the Church of

然而，始终都有证据表明，施舍者不是为了立即或不久的将来得好处而施舍他人，而是为了回报仁慈的神赐予忠实会众的怜悯。以色列人常被要求要诚心的敬拜神，因为祂曾救赎他们，让他们不做奴仆，他们还应正直，因为他们的神是公义的(申 15:15; 诗 11:7; 但 9:18)。当耶稣差遣十二门徒时，祂吩咐他们：“你们白白地得来，也要白白地舍去” (太 10:8)。保罗 (见《罗马书》《哥林多前书》《加拉太书》)、约翰 (约壹 3:17; 4:10, 19) 和彼得 (彼前 4:10) 深入阐明了爱和关心的基本神学依据。

IV. 分配。有的人显然是滥用了这种慷慨的精神，以至于人们经常不能得到相等的份额 (如，徒 6:1; 林前 11:17 起)。因此教会在分配有限的基金时，需要多加注意。那些冒称是寡妇 (提前 5:6) 的人，假冒先知的人 (《十二使徒遗训》 12:2-5)，还有其他 “没有缺乏而接受” (《十二使徒遗训》 1:5) 的人变成了令人苦恼的负担。《十二使徒遗训》给出了一种补救的方法：“你周济人的财物，当在你手里发过汗，直到你知道应该给谁” (《十二使徒遗训》 1:6)。

伊格那丢强调了执事这一职位的重要性：“他们不是管理饮食的官员 [仅仅? 从不?]，而是神之教会的仆人：因此他们必须要防备人们的责骂，就如他们要

God: they must therefore guard against blame as against fire.” Perhaps this was a subtle hint that they should be more liberal in their distribution, based on Sir. 3:30: “As water quenches a blazing fire, so almsgiving atones for sin.” The overall economic situation in a given period always seems to be a factor in determining the attitude and form of almsgiving.

V. Status of Charity as a Virtue.—Essential to an adequate understanding of almsgiving in NT times and later is a recognition of the growing attitude that the world—and especially its riches—is evil, or at least a dangerous temptation (1 Jn. 2:15f.; 1 Tim. 6:8–10). The rich are under special obligation (1 Tim. 6:17–19), and, in fact, poverty per se is sometimes held as a virtue (Lk. 6:20; Jas. 2:5). At one stage there is a clear recognition of the mutuality of rich and poor; the former gives alms, the latter offers prayers, presumably for the giver. The Shepherd of Hermes elaborates this relationship in his parable of the elm and the vine and concludes: “Both ... share in the righteous work” (Sim. 2:9).

Almsgiving and prayer were, along with fasting, the traditional expressions of piety in Judaism and early Christianity, and were frequently mentioned together and compared as to their value. The gnostic Gospel of Thomas rejects all three of the traditional virtues (Logion 14). 2 Clement placed the highest value on charity: “Fasting is better than prayer, but the giving of alms is better than both” (16:4). See also ABSTINENCE V. Refusal to give alms, on the other hand, was known to prompt the wrath of God, for as the author

防火一般。”根据《便西拉智训》3:30: “救济穷人便可赎罪，正如水可以熄灭烈火一样”，这也许巧妙地暗示了他们应该更加慷慨地施舍。一定时期内整体的经济状况似乎决定了施舍的态度和形式。

V. 慈善美德的地位。人们渐渐将世界，尤其是这世界的财富看做是邪恶的，或者至少是一种致命的诱惑（约壹 2:15-16；提前 6:8-10），认识到这点，对于充分理解《新约》和《新约》之后的时代的施舍十分重要。富人特殊的义务（提前 6:17-19），事实上贫穷本身有时被视为一种美德（路 6:20；雅 2:5）。在一段时期，对富人和穷人的相互关系有一个明确的认知；前者施舍，后者（可能是为施舍者）祈祷。《黑马牧人书》中关于榆树和葡萄藤的寓言详细地解释了上述关系，他还总结道：“二者共同分担正义的工作”（Sim.2:9）。

周济、祈祷和斋戒都是犹太教和早期基督教虔诚的传统表现方式，三者经常被一同提及，并进行价值对比。诺斯替教的《多马福音》将这三种传统美德全部抛弃（Logion 14）。《革利免二书》最为推崇施舍：“斋戒优于祈祷，而周济更优于前两者”（Logion 16:4）。另见 Abstinence V（禁食 V）。另一方面，众所周知拒绝周济将惹神发怒，正如《箴言》14:31 的作者所说：

of Prov. 14:31 says:

He who oppresses a poor man insults his Maker, but he who is kind to the needy honors him.

欺压贫寒的，是辱没造他的主；
怜悯穷乏的，乃是尊敬主。

In the NT James puts it this way: “For judgment is without mercy to one who has shown no mercy; yet mercy triumphs over judgment” (2:13).

在《新约》中，雅各说道：“因为那不怜悯人的，也要受无怜悯的审判，怜悯原是向审判夸胜”（雅 2:13）。

Some of the biblical characters who were noted for their generosity were Job (31:19ff.), Zacchaeus (Lk. 19:8), Tabitha (Acts 9:36), and Cornelius (Acts 10:2).

《圣经》中有一些人物因慷慨而出名，他们是约伯（伯 31:19 起）、撒该（路 19:8）、大比大（徒 9:36）和哥尼流（徒 10:2）。

al'ōz [Heb. ^ahālîm; Gk. alóē]; AV, NEB, also LIGN ALOES (Nu. 24:6). An aromatic substance referred to in Nu. 24:6; Ps. 45:8; Prov. 7:17; Cant. 4:14; Jn. 19:39. Of these references, the Johannine one alone refers to the true aloes (Aloë succotrina Lam.).

ALOES 芦荟

音译: al'ōz 【希伯来语: ^ahālîm; 希腊语: alóē】; 《钦定版圣经》《新英文译本》也译为 LIGN ALOES (“沉香树”) (民 24:6)。在《民数记》24:6; 《诗篇》45:8; 《箴言》7:17; 《雅歌》4:14; 《约翰福音》19:39 中提到的香料。其中, 只有《约翰福音》中提到了真正的芦荟 (拉丁学名: Aloë succotrina Lam.)。

Most OT references to aloes or lign-aloes (lignum aloes, “wood of aloes”) are probably to the eaglewood (Aquilaria agallocha Roxb.), a lofty tree native to India and Malaya. When decaying the wood is fragrant, and in antiquity it was employed as a fumigant and perfume. The lign-aloes (RSV “aloes”) of Nu. 24:6, which Balaam saw as a symbol of the exalted position of Israel, could not have been eaglewood, which is not native to Palestine. The reference is probably to some tree as the oak or terebinth; possibly Heb. 'ēlīm (“terebinths”) became corrupted in transmission to hālīm.

The thickened juice of aloes forms a pharmaceutical purgative and is used as an inducement to menstrual flow. This substance was familiar to the ancient Egyptians, who used it in the process of embalming.

《旧约》中提及本词（或 lignum aloes, lignum aloes, “沉香树”）时，大多是指沉香木（拉丁学名：Aquilaria agallocha Roxb.），沉香树是一种原产于印度和马来亚的高大树木。这种树木腐烂后，会发出香味，在古时它被当做熏香或被制成香膏。《民数记》24:6 中的“lign-aloes”（《修订标准译本》译为“aloes”[“芦荟”]）不可能指的是沉香木，因为这种树木原产地不是巴勒斯坦，巴兰将沉香木视为以色列高贵地位的象征。这里可能是指其他的树木，比如橡树或笃耨；也可能是希腊语 'ēlīm（“笃耨”）被误传为 hālīm。

ALLOUD.

This English adverb has no direct equivalent in Hebrew or Greek, but occurs as a translation device in four different verb phrases.

(1) WEEPING ALOUD; also “mourning aloud,” “weeping with a loud voice” [Heb. bākā (e.g., Gen. 29:11; 1 S. 11:4; 2 S. 15:23; Eze. 3:12), etc.; Gk. pentheō (e.g., Rev. 18:15), klaiō (e.g., Mt. 26:75; Rev. 5:4), etc.]; AV also WEEPING, WAILING; NEB also “moved to tears,” “breaking into lamentation,” WEEPING LOUDLY. “Aloud” in these and similar cases expresses the depth and intensity of the grief. See BURIAL II.C.

(2) SINGING ALOUD [Heb. rānan (e.g., Ps. 51:14; 59:16; Jer. 31:7, 12; Zeph. 3:14), hiphil of šāma' (e.g., Ps. 26:7)]; AV also “sing with gladness,” SING, etc.; NEB also SING, SINGING OUT, “shouts of joy,” etc. “Singing aloud” occurs in poetical and covenantal contexts, as a hopeful response or challenge resulting from gratifying deliverance. ALLOUD. 大声地

这个英语副词在希伯来语和希腊语中并没有同义词,但是它出现在四个不同动词短语中,起到了翻译衔接的功能。

(1) WEEPING ALOUD (“大声哭泣”); 也作 “mourning aloud” (“大声哀悼”)、 “weeping with a loud voice” (“哭泣得很大声”)【希伯来语: bākā (如, 创 29:11; 撒下 11:4; 撒下 15:23; 拉 3:12) 等; 希腊语: pentheō (如, 启 18:15), klaiō (如, 太 26:75; 启 5:4), 等】; 《钦定版圣经》还译为 WEEPING (“哭泣”)、 WAILING (“哭号”); 《新英文译本》中还译为 “moved to tears” (“感动地落泪”), “breaking into lamentation” (“放声大哭”), WEEPING LOUDLY (“大声地哭泣”)。本词出现在上述词语或类似表达方式中时,用来表达十分沉痛和强烈的悲伤情绪。见 BURIAL II.C. (葬礼 II.C.)。

(2) SINGING ALOUD (“高声歌唱”)【希伯来语: rānan (如, 诗 51:14; 59:16; 耶 31:7, 12; 番 3:14), šāma' 的使役主动干 (即希干) (如, 诗 26:7)】; 《钦定版圣经》中还译为 “sing with gladness” (“愉快地歌唱”)、 SING (“歌唱”) 等; 《新英文译本》中译为 SING (“歌唱”)、 SINGING OUT (“唱出来”)、 “shouts of joy” (“欢乐的呼声”) 等。“大声歌唱”出现在诗或圣约中,是对可喜的救赎做出的充满希望的回应或者怀疑。另见 SINGERS (歌者); SHOUT (呼叫)。

(3) CRYING ALOUD (“大声喊叫”); 类似的还有 “大声宣布”, “大声呼唤”, “大声呼喊”, “喊叫”【希伯来语:

K. 18:27f.; Ps. 3:4; 27:7; Isa. 58:1; Jer. 4:5), ṣā‘aq (e.g., Job 19:7; Ps. 77:1; Lam. 2:18), rû (a)‘ (e.g., Zeph. 3:14; Zec. 9:9), etc.; Gk. krázō (e.g., Mt. 9:27), kraugázō (e.g., Mt. 12:19), boáō, etc.]; AV also CRY; NEB also APPEAL, “cry at the top of one’s voice,” CALL LOUDLY, SHOUT ALOUD, PROCLAIM, etc. Heb. qārā’ denotes shouting loudly in order to make oneself heard; Heb. ṣā‘aq, Gk. krázō in the passages cited focus around the notion of bitter lament, distress; rû(a)‘ emphasizes the shout of exuberance and exultation. See SHOUT.

(4) READING ALOUD; also “read in the hearing of,” “read before” [Heb. qārā’ (e.g., Ex. 24:7; Dt. 31:11; 2 K. 22:10; 23:2; Jer. 36:13); Gk. anaginōskō (Rev. 1:3)]; AV also “read in the audience,” “read in the ears,” etc.; NEB also “read publicly,” “read out,” etc. See READING.

Only in Rev. 1:3 is anaginōskō translated “reading aloud” (AV and NEB use “read” here as in all other cases). However, the context indicates oral or public reading (contrasted with reading to oneself, or the figurative “reading” in 2 Cor. 3:2) in this and other NT passages (e.g., Lk. 4:16; Acts 8:30; 13:27; 15:21; 2 Cor. 3:15; Col. 4:16; 1 Thess. 5:27). The RSV legitimately adds “aloud” in Rev. 1:3, since it is suggested by the fact that an audience hears what is read. Indeed the pattern here of reader-congregation follows the typical Jewish liturgical format (cf. Lk. 4:16; Acts 15:21; 2 Cor.

qārā’ (如, 士 9:7; 王上 18:27-28; 诗 3:4; 27:7; 赛 58:1; 耶 4:5), ṣā‘aq (如, 伯 19:7; 诗 77:1; 哀 2:18), rû (a)‘ (如, 番 3:14; 亚 9:9) 等; 希腊语: krázō (如, kraugázō (如, 太 12:19), boáō 等]; 《钦定版圣经》还译为 CRY (“喊叫”); 《新英文译本》还译为 APPEAL (“呼吁”)、 “cry at the top of one’s voice” (“高声喊叫”)、 CALL LOUDLY (“大声喊叫”)、 SHOUT ALOUD (“大声呼喊”)、 PROCLAIM (“宣布”) 等。希伯来语 qārā’ 表示大声喊叫, 使别人能够听见他说话; 段落中出现的希伯来语 ṣā‘aq、希腊语 krázō 强调哀叹痛苦或不幸; rû(a)‘ 着重表示慷慨激昂或得意狂喜。见 SHOUT (喊叫)。

(4) READING ALOUD (大声朗诵); 类似的还有 “念给……听” “在……面前读”【希伯来语: qārā’ (如, 出 24:7; 申 31:11; 王下 22:10; 23:2; 耶 36:13); 希腊语: anaginōskō (启 1:3)】; 《钦定版圣经》还译为 “read in the audience” (“在众人面前念”), “read in the ears” (“念给众人听”) 等; 《新英文译本》还译为 “read publicly” (“公开朗读”)、 “read out” (“大声朗读”) 等。见 READING (朗读)。

anaginōskō 只在《启示录》1:3 中翻译为 “大声朗读” (《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》在此处或其他所有情况中都译为 “read” [“朗读”])。但是, 在此处和《新约》其他段落中 (如, 路 4:16; 徒 8:30; 13:27; 15:21; 林后 3:15; 西 4:16; 帖前 5:27), 根据语境显示, 该词指口述或公开朗读 (与默念或《哥林多后书》3:2 中 “reading” [“念诵”] 的比喻义形成对照)。《修订标准译本》在《启示录》1:3 中合理地加上了 “大声地”, 因为事实表明此处是有听众的。实际上, 此处的读经聚会沿袭了犹太教礼拜的习俗 (参: 路 4:16; 徒 15:21; 林后 3:15)。毫无疑问, 选读经文的先例增加

3:15). Undoubtedly this lectionary precedent gave added significance to apostolic communications, which were publicly read in various congregations alongside the OT books (Col. 4:16; 1 Thess. 5:27; cf. 2Clem 19:1; Shep. Herm Vis. 5:5; J. B. Lightfoot, comm. on Col. 4:16[1900]). Within this developing tradition of publicly reading the NT John self-consciously places his “revelation of Jesus Christ,” strengthening his assertion by promising blessings only to those who take it seriously, and by deliberately labeling it “prophecy.”

ALPHA AND OMEGA

al'fə, ō-meg'ə [Gk. Α and Ω—‘A’ and ‘O’]. The first and last letters of the Greek alphabet, hence symbolically “beginning and end.” Cf. Theodoret Historia ecclesiastica iv.8: “We used alpha down to omega, i.e., all.” A similar expression is found in Latin (Martial v.26). In the Jewish tradition, God blesses Israel from aleph to taw (Lev. 26:3–13), but curses from waw to mem (Lev. 26:14–43). So Abraham observed the whole law from aleph to taw. Consequently, “Alpha and Omega” may be a Greek rendering of the Hebrew phrase that expressed among later Jews the whole extent of a thing.

In Revelation the expression means “the Eternal One.” It is used as a self-designation by the Father in 1:8 and 21:6, and by the Son in 22:13. In patristic and later literature the phrase is regularly applied to the Son.

了使徒团契的重要性，人们经常在各会众间念经文选段（西 4:16；帖前 5:27；参：《革利免二书》19:1；《黑马牧人书》异象 5:5；J. B. Lightfoot, 《歌罗西书》4:16[1900]评注）。随着当众阅读《新约》这个传统的发展，约翰自觉地将“耶稣基督的启示”寄予其中，他许诺只给认真诵读的人祝福并谨慎地称其为“预言”，从而加强了他的主张。

ALPHA AND OMEGA 阿拉法和俄梅戛

音译：al'fə, ō-meg'ə 【希腊语：Α 和 Ω——“A 和 O”】。希腊语字母表中的第一个和最后一个字母，因此，本词的象征意义为“开始和结束”；参：狄奥多田的《基督教会史》iv.8：“我们使用了从 A 到 O 全部希伯来语字母”。拉丁语中有一个类似的表达方式（Martial v.26）。在犹太人的传统中，顺从神的人（从 aleph 到 taw，按字母顺序）蒙福（利 26:3-13），悖逆神的人将加倍（从 waw 到 mem，与字母顺序相反）受惩（利 26:14-43）。亚伯拉罕始终顺从（从 aleph 到 taw）律法。因此，本词可能是一个希伯来短语的希腊语翻译，犹太人后来用这个词表示一件事的完整性。

在《启示录》中这个表示方式指“永在的全能者”。在《启示录》1:8 和 21:6 中圣父称自己为阿拉法和俄梅戛，在《启示录》22:13 中圣子称自己为阿拉法和俄梅戛。在教父文学或后来的文学中，该短语通常表示圣子。

al-fē'əs [Gk. Halphaios].

ALPHAEUS 亚勒腓

音译: al-fē'əs 【希腊语: Halphaios】。

1. The father of the second James in the list of the apostles (Mt. 10:3; Mk. 3:18; Lk. 6:15; Acts 1:13).

1、十二门徒列表中第二个雅各的父亲 (太 10:3; 可 3:18; 路 6:15; 徒 1:13)。

2. The father of Levi the publican (Mk. 2:14). Levi is designated as Matthew in Mt. 9:9. There is no other reference to this Alphaeus.

2、税吏利未的父亲 (可 2:14)。利未在《马太福音》9:9 中被称为马太。没有其他处经文提到过这个亚勒腓。

Some writers, notably Weiss, identify the father of Levi with the father of the second James; but that seems improbable. If Levi and James were brothers they would quite likely be associated as are James and John, Andrew and Peter. Chrysostom says James and Levi had both been tax-gatherers before they became followers of Jesus. This tradition would not lend much weight as proof that they were brothers, for it might have arisen through identifying the two names. Some MSS do read James instead of Levi in Mk. 2:14, but this is undoubtedly a corruption of the text. If it had been the original it would be difficult to explain the later substitution of an unknown Levi for James who is well known.

一些作者,尤其是威斯,认为利未的父亲和第二个雅各的父亲是同一个人,但这似乎不太可能。如果利未和雅各是兄弟,那么他们之间的关系似乎应该像雅各和约翰、安德鲁和彼得那样。赫里索斯托姆说,雅各和利未在成为基督的门徒前都是税吏。但是这种说法并不能证明他们是兄弟,因为这可能反而表明两个名字指的是同一个人。一些抄本在《马可福音》2:14 中确实将利未写为雅各,但这毫无疑问是对原文的篡改。因为如果这是原文的话,就很难解释后来用默默无闻的利未人代替众所周知的雅各的原因。

Many writers identify Alphaeus, the father of the second James, with Clopas of Jn. 19:25. This had early become a tradition, and Chrysostom believed they were the same person. Their identity rests on four suppositions, all of which are doubtful: 种推测都值得怀疑:

许多作者认为第二个雅各的父亲亚勒腓就是《约翰福音》19:25 中的革罗罢。这是早期的一种传说,而且赫里索斯托姆认定他们是同一个人。这种对二者身份的认定建立在四种推测之上,但是每

(1) That the Mary of Clopas was the same as the Mary who was the mother of the second James. There is a difference of opinion as to whether “Mary of Clopas” should be understood to be the wife of Clopas or the daughter of Clopas, but the former is more probable. We know from Mt. 27:56 and Mk. 15:40 that there was a James who was the son of Mary, and that this Mary belonged to that little group of women who were near Jesus at the time of the crucifixion. It is quite likely that this Mary is the one referred to in Jn. 19:25. That would make James, the son of Mary of Mt. 27:56, the son of Mary of Clopas. But Mary was such a common name in the NT that this supposition cannot be proven.

(2) That James the son of Mary was the same person as James the son of Alphaeus.

(3) That Alphaeus and Clopas are variations of a common original, and that the variation has arisen from different pronunciations of the first letter heth(h) of the Aramaic original.

(4) That Clopas had two names, as was common at that time.

It seems impossible to determine absolutely whether or not Alphaeus the father of the second James, and Clopas of Jn. 19:25, are the same person; but it is quite probable that they are, if for no other reason than the strength of the tradition.

See also CLOPAS.

(1) 革罗罢的妻子马利亚和雅各的母亲马利亚是同一个人。关于“革罗罢的马利亚”应该被理解为是革罗罢的妻子还是革罗罢的女儿，还存在争议，但是似乎前者可能性更大。从《马太福音》27:56 和《马可福音》15:40 中可知，有一个雅各是马利亚的儿子，而耶稣受难时，这个马利亚是靠近耶稣的妇女之一。这个马利亚很有可能就是《约翰福音》19:25 中提到的马利亚。这样看来，《马太福音》27:56 中马利亚的儿子雅各就是革罗罢的妻子马利亚的儿子。但是马利亚这个名字在《新约》中太常见了，因此无法证实这个推测。

(2) 马利亚的儿子雅各和亚勒腓的儿子雅各是同一个人。

(3) 亚勒腓和革罗罢是同一个名字的不同变体，而这种变化是由这个亚兰语名字首字母 heth(h) 的发音不同造成的。

(4) 革罗罢有两个名字，这在当时是常见的。

似乎无法确定第二个雅各的父亲亚勒腓是否就是《约翰福音》19:25 中的革罗罢；但是就算没有其他理由，只是根据惯例，他们也很有可能是同一个人。

I. 希伯来人祭坛的分类。A. 祭坛结构。1、土祭坛、石头祭坛和岩石祭坛。《圣经》和考古证据都表明, 在圣经世界中, 至少存在两种或两种以上的祭坛。第一类祭坛是由土或未砍削过的、无固定形状的石头堆成的简单的祭坛。这种祭坛可能由一块岩石(士 13:19; 撒上 14:33-35)或几块石头(申 27:5-6; 书 8:31)构建而成, 也可能仅仅由一堆土

13:19; 1 S. 14:33–35), or several stones (Dt. 27:5f.; Josh. 8:31), or simply a heap of earth, perhaps in blocks of dried clay (Ex. 20:24).

2. Bronze and Gilded Altars. Other passages mention altars with horns, fixed measurements, a particular pattern, and bronze or gold overlay as the material. That these altars form a separate category is evident from the accounts in which the two types appear, for such items as horns and patterns would obviously be impossible in the simple construction required in most settings. The highest expression of such an altar in OT times came with the construction of the bronze altar of burnt offering in response to directions given Moses on the mountain (Ex. 27:1–8; 38:1–7). This tabernacle altar was to be of shittim or acacia wood covered with brass (bronze). It was to be five cubits long by five broad and three high. The four corners were to have horns of one piece with it, while a network of bronze was to reach halfway up the altar to a ledge. In some way it was to be hollow with planks, and it was to be equipped with rings and staves for facility of transport. Although the precise construction cannot be determined, the altar was rectangular, with a square surface at the top framed by horns at the four corners.

Such an altar may have functioned as a prototype for the altar built by David on the threshing floor of Araunah (2 S. 24:25) and again for Solomon in building the temple (1 K. 8:64). Although we have in 1 Kings no account of the construction, according to 2 Ch. 4:1 the altar was made of bronze and was twenty cubits by twenty by ten. That the material was bronze is confirmed by 1 K. 8:64 and 2 K. 16:10–15. Such an altar would have been considerably larger than the tabernacle altar, and in fact the Chronicler's dimensions are doubted by some in light of the apparently small size indicated by 1 K. 8:64.

(可能是一块干了的黏土) 垒成的 (出 20:24)。

2、青铜祭坛和镀金祭坛。其他段落中提到的祭坛有角，尺寸固定并有特定的样式，材料是青铜或镀金。从记录这两种类型祭坛的段落中，我们可以清楚地看出这些祭坛独成一类，因为大多数简单的建筑显然不可能有这样的角和样式。根据摩西在山上得到的启示（出 27:1-8；38:1-7），献燔祭的青铜祭坛是旧约时代中此类祭坛的最高表现形式。会幕祭坛要用皂荚木制成，外面要用铜包裹。祭坛要五肘长，五肘宽，三肘高。四个角要有坛角，与坛连在一起。要为坛做一个铜网，使网从下达到坛的半腰。要用木板将祭坛制成空心的，并装上环和杠用来抬祭坛。尽管无法确定祭坛的确切外观，但祭坛应该是矩形的，上部有四方的平面，四个角上有坛角。

大卫在亚劳拿的禾场建立的祭坛（撒下 24:25），和所罗门在修建神殿时建造的祭坛（王上 8:64）可能都以这类祭坛为原型。尽管在《列王纪上》中并没有关于这类建筑的记录，但根据《历代志下》4:1 的记载，有一座青铜制的祭坛，长二十肘，宽二十肘，高十肘。《列王纪上》8:64 和《列王纪下》16:10-15 都证实了这是一座青铜材质的祭坛。这个祭

That the former altar was movable is indicated also by the account of Ahaz's journey to Damascus and subsequent replacement of the Solomonic altar with another, more splendid version patterned after a Syrian model seen during the visit (2 K. 16:10–16). Solomon's altar was then set up to the north of the new altar, and may well have been restored to its former place in Hezekiah's reform. The new altar probably was to be approached by steps (Ahaz went up to it, v. 12), though it is possible that a ramp provided the access.

In contrast to the large, bronzed altar for whole offerings, the OT also speaks of a small (one cubit by one by two) horned altar for burning Incense (Ex. 30:1–10). This altar, too, was made of acacia wood, but its top and sides were overlaid with gold and it was surrounded by a crown or rim of gold. It is clear both in the Exodus account and in the subsequent record of Solomon's altar of incense (1 K. 6:20; 7:48; 1 Ch. 28:18) that gold was used as some kind of overlay, though cedar also is mentioned for the altar of Solomon's temple (1 K. 6:20). The use of gold overlay is made more likely by the size of this altar alone, together with the fact that the altar was placed inside a tent in contrast to the great bronzed altar which stood in the court. Some have therefore suggested that in the latter case the bronzed part of the altar may have

坛远比会幕祭坛大,而事实上,根据《列王纪上》8:64中的描述,这座祭坛显然尺寸较小,一些人怀疑《历代志》的作者记载的尺寸是错误的。

根据《列王纪下》16:10-16对亚哈斯到大马士革旅行的描述,以及后来他用更美观的祭坛替换所罗门圣殿的祭坛,这些都表明之前的祭坛是可以移动的。所罗门祭坛被移到新坛的北面,希西家进行宗教改革时可能将它移回原位。这座新坛可能有台阶(亚哈斯王近前来,王下16:12),但也可能是有一段斜坡通向祭坛。

《旧约》中还提到了一种烧香用的、小的(一肘长,一肘宽,两肘高)有角的祭坛(出30:1-10),它与烧整只祭牲的大铜坛不同。这种祭坛也是用皂荚木制成的,但是它的顶端和四围都要用精金包裹,四围还要镶上金冠或金边。尽管所罗门神殿的祭坛也是用香柏木制成的(王上6:20),但是很明显,在《出埃及记》和随后建造所罗门神殿香坛的记录中(王上6:20; 7:48; 代上28:18),金子被当做镀层。镀金可能主要是由祭坛本身的尺寸决定的,而且这类祭坛是安置在会幕中的,而青铜祭坛安放在庭院中。因此有些人认为,在后一种情况中,祭坛的青铜部分可能仅仅是炉栅。

Canaanite burnt-offering altar at Megiddo (ca. 2500–1800 B.C.), reconstructed. Access was by stairs (left), at the base of which was found a large deposit of bones of sacrificial animals. (A. C. Myers)

B. Functions. 1. Lay Worship. The earliest legislation as well as the earliest practice presupposes the use of altars in a worship attended by no special priesthood. In the Book of the Covenant (Ex. 20:24–26) the regulation is given in the 2nd person singular: “An altar of earth you shall make for me and sacrifice on it your burnt offerings and your peace offerings, your sheep and your oxen; in all the place where I cause my name to be remembered I will come to you and bless you. And if you make me an altar of stone, you shall not build it of hewn stones; for if you wield your tool upon it you profane it. And you shall not go up by steps to my altar, that your nakedness be not exposed on it.” It applies in “all the place” (i.e., throughout the territory of Israel) rather than in “every place” (i.e., 重建之后的米吉多迦南人的燔祭祭坛（约公元前2500-1800年）。需要通过台阶（左）登上祭坛，在祭坛的基座处堆积着大量祭牲的骨骼。（A. C. Myers）

B. 祭坛的功能。1、世俗祭拜。最早的律法和习俗表明并没有专门的祭司在敬拜仪式中使用祭坛。约书（出20:24–26）用第二人称单数给出了律例：“你要为我筑土坛，在上面以牛羊献为燔祭和平安祭。凡记下我名的地方，我必到那里赐福给你。你若为我筑一座石坛，不可用凿成的石头，因你在上头一动家具，就把坛污秽了。你上我的坛，不可用台阶，免得露出你的下体来。”这个律例适用于“所有地方”（即以色列全境）而非“每个地方”（即神显现的特殊地点或其他圣殿）。在族长时期的记录中，大量事实表明当时确实存在以未经人工处理的土或岩石堆砌祭坛敬拜神的习俗。《创世记》8:20；12:7；13:4 可能还有《创世记》31:54，以及《撒母耳记上》20:6，29 描述了家族祭拜或世俗祭拜，大概在任何情况下都要用到祭坛。亚伯拉罕用以撒献祭时筑的祭坛 the special sites of theophanic appearances, or other sanctuaries). In the records of the patriarchal period there is abundant corroboration of the custom of throwing up what must have been rude earthen or rock altars for the purpose of offering in worship. Gen. 8:20; 12:7; 13:4 and probably 31:54, together with 1 S. 20:6, 29, describe this practice of family or lay worship, presumably in every case using an altar. Abraham's sacrifice of Isaac (Gen. 22) and also Jacob's covenant with Laban at the "heap of stones" (31:46) would both fit into such a category.

That these lay altars were something quite different from the elaborate structures described in the priestly ritual (Ex. 27:1-8 and 30:1-10) should be obvious to even the casual reader. It is for this reason that it seems best to find in the primitive regulations of the Book of the Covenant the kind of altar widely attested from ancient sources as a rough cairn, with the prohibition against tooled work and steps more in response to Canaanite cult worship than a rejection of what in other places is legitimate for the temple system.

2. Temple Worship. In the stipulations for priestly service explicit direction is given for at least two kinds of altar. Ex. 27:1-8 (cf. 38:1-7) orders the construction of a bronze-overlaid altar of burnt offering, to be attended by the caste of priests. In the service of this altar, which was set at the door of the tabernacle or the tent of meeting (Ex. 40:29; see TABERNACLE), no lay person was allowed, and the regulations of Ex. 20, alluded to above, would have been quite out of place.

(创 22), 还有雅各与拉班立约时旁边的“石堆”(创 31:46), 都属于这类祭坛。

这类普通祭坛和祭司仪式中描写的设计精细的建筑大相径庭(出 27:1-8, 30:1-10), 即使普通的读者也能轻易分辨出两者的差异。因此, 古籍证明约书简单规定中提到的这类祭坛只是一堆未经加工的石堆, 建造这种祭坛时不能使用工具, 也不能建造台阶, 与其说这种规定是为了反对其他地方的建殿体系, 不如说是为了迎合迦南的祭祀仪式。

2、神殿祭拜。祭司职分的规定中明确表明至少要有两类祭坛。《出埃及记》27:1-8(参: 出 38:1-7) 中规定建造镀铜的燔祭祭坛时要有祭司事奉。在祭坛旁事奉时, 要将祭坛安置在会幕的门前(出 40:29; 见 Tabernacle [会幕、帐幕]), 普通人禁止入内, 上文提到的《出埃及记》20 中的规定就完全不适用于这类祭坛。

A second type of altar provided for priestly service was found inside the sacred tent (Ex. 40:26) and was primarily for the burning of incense. Ex. 30:1-10 (see above) gives directions for its construction and use.

II. Archeological Evidence.-Evidence from archeological research has turned up a variety of Canaanite altars, with excellent examples available from Early Bronze times (ca. 3000 B.C.) to late in the Iron Age. In the OT specific instructions separate these Canaanite altars from the Hebrew ones, though whether the prohibition against using heathen altars relates to their form or to the innate impurity of such worship is not clear. Ex. 20:25f. prohibits both the use of hewn stone and any construction using steps, presumably both features of some Canaanite structures. Jgs. 6:25f. calls for the destruction of the altar of Baal, together with its accompanying “asherah” (a wooden symbol of a goddess), prior to the construction of Gideon’s altar of Yahweh. Finally, the action of King Ahaz in importing a Syrian altar from Damascus (2 K. 16:10ff.) and the implicit condemnation of the act in the biblical source clearly show that the pattern of altars was not interchangeable.

From the ancient sites perhaps the best preserved examples of Canaanite altars come from Bronze Age Megiddo. A possible table or deposit-altar, dated to ca. 3000 B.C., is little more than a platform built into the rear wall of a temple. A more obvious altar is the large (ca. 26 ft. in diameter) stone, stepped structure still visible on the tell from the Middle Bronze Age city. Such a platform

供祭司事奉的第二类祭坛应在会幕内（出 40:26），主要用来烧香。《出埃及记》30:1-10（见上文）规定了如何建造和使用这种祭坛。

II. 关于祭坛的考古证据。考古研究发现了大量的迦南祭坛，其中有许多属于青铜器时代早期（约公元前 3000 年）至铁器时代末期。《旧约》中有具体的说明来区分这些迦南祭坛和希伯来祭坛，但是尚无法明确禁用这些异教徒的祭坛是否与他们的的外观或这类祭拜固有的不洁有关。《出埃及记》20:25-26 禁止使用砍削过的石头建造祭坛，或为祭坛修建台阶，这可能是部分迦南祭坛的特征。在《士师记》6:25-26 中，耶和華吩咐基甸先将巴力的祭坛和旁边的“亚舍拉”（一个女神的木制偶像）拆毁，再建祂的祭坛。最后，关于亚哈斯王从大马士革带入叙利亚的祭坛（王下 16:10 起）的记录和隐含在《圣经》原文中对这个行为的谴责，明确地说明祭坛的样式是不可更换的。

在古遗址中，留存最好的迦南祭坛可能来自于青铜器时代的米吉多。祭桌或祭坛出现在约公元前 3000 年，这个祭桌或祭坛仅仅是神殿后墙内的一个平台。更显著的一处祭坛是一块巨大的岩石（直径约为 26 英尺），从青铜器时代中期的城邑遗址，仍然可以看出这座祭坛的台阶结构。毫无疑问，神职人员需要登上台阶去主持仪式，也许以色列人认为暴露身体的某个部位是不庄重而且

no doubt required officials to climb it for ceremonial purposes, perhaps exposing some part of the body considered immodest or improper in Israel (see the prohibition against steps, above). Other clearly pagan altars are either of the large, rubble type (burnt offering altars?) or the small table type (incense or possibly image-bearing altars) and appear in various levels at such ancient sites as Ai, Lachish, Alalakh, and Beth-shean. Also discovered are what have been called “altar blocks,” large hewn-out stones (or sometimes natural rock platforms) that seem to have had basin systems for blood. Such artifacts have been found at Hazor and Hamath on the Orontes. It can readily be seen that none of these types of altars is easily identifiable with the altars described in the OT, though the prohibitions against certain forms seem directed more against the worship conducted at them than against simply the constructions themselves.

Of special interest to the Bible student are two “horned” altars, each with dimensions roughly equal to those prescribed in Ex. 27:1 (five cubits square by three cubits high), with horns on each corner (Ex. 27:2). Both the Arad and the Beer-sheba altars are of stone, though the former was unworked while the latter is not only made of smooth ashlar masonry (in defiance of biblical law, Dt. 27:5) but even contains an engraved decoration of a twisted snake. Both altars come from the Israelite monarchy. Y. Aharoni dates the Arad temple to the 10th cent. (Solomonic) and the Beer-sheba construction to the 8th century. He considers both these southern temples to be part of royal border sanctuaries and thus evidence for competing Israelite cultic structures prior to Hezekiah's and Josiah's reformations (Y. Aharoni, BA, 31 [1968], 19-21; 37[1974], 2-5).

圣经学者尤为关注两种“有角”的祭坛，这两种祭坛的尺寸都与《出埃及记》27:1中提到的祭坛尺寸大致相同（边长五肘，高三肘），在每个拐角上有角（出27:2）。亚拉得和别是巴的祭坛都由石头砌成，但前者未经雕刻，后者不仅由光滑的方石砌成（违反了《圣经》中的律法，申27:5），甚至还雕刻了一条扭曲的蛇作装饰。这两座祭坛都是由以色列王室建造的。阿哈罗尼（Y. Aharoni）认为亚拉得神庙的建造时期可追溯至公元前10世纪（所罗门时期），而别是巴的建筑可追溯至公元前8世纪。他认为这两座南方的神庙都是皇家边界圣所的一部分，因而证明希西家和约西亚宗教改革之前，南方的神庙与以色列的敬拜建筑呈竞争态势（Y. Aharoni, BA, 31 [1968], 19–21; 37 [1974], 2–5）。

Finally, two small, four-sided terra-cotta structures have been found at Taanach, both of which relate to the Iron Age. The earlier, discovered in 1902 and designated by E. Sellin as an "incense-altar," is about 3 ft. (1 m.) high, hollow, with four sides like a truncated pyramid. In 1968 P. W. Lapp found buried in a cistern a tenth-century "cultic stand" (his terminology) which, when reconstructed, became a hollowed square 20 in. (50 cm.) high. It contains four registers of terra-cotta figures in relief with some resemblance to orthostats associated with Syrian temples. The form of both of these altars (if altars they may be called) is as contrary to the principles of the pentateuchal law as anything could be, and they stand as grim commentary on the religious practices to which the Israelites were exposed. (Cf. BASOR, 195 [Oct. 1969], 42-44.)

III. Altars in Israel's Worship.-A. Pre-tabernacle Altars. In the Bible, sacrifices are prior to altars, and altars prior to sacred buildings. The first reference to an altar is to the one built by Noah after the flood (Gen. 8:20). Abraham is the next builder of altars, the first three of which seem to have related to his circuit of wanderings within Canaan. His first altar, at Shechem, seems to have been the symbolic means of his formal possession of the land (Gen. 12:7), while the two subsequent structures, one between Bethel and Ai (12:8) and the other in the south at Hebron (13:18), marked the limits of his normal sojourning. At each place he sacrificed

最后，在他纳还发现了两座小的、四方的赤陶土建筑，他们都是来自铁器时代。较早的一座发现于 1902 年，塞林称这个建筑为“香坛”，该建筑约 3 英寸（1 米）高，中空，有四个边，就像是一个棱锥台。1968 年，拉普发现了一座埋在贮水池中的第十个世纪的“宗教看台”（他使用的术语），这座建筑经修复后变成了一座中空的平台，20 英寸（50 厘米）高。四面有赤陶土人像浮雕，这与叙利亚神殿的巨石板类似。这两座祭坛的样式（如果他们可以被称作是祭坛的话）与摩西律法中的规定截然相反，这些祭坛是对以色列人的宗教习俗的严厉批判。（参： BASOR, 195 [1969 年 10 月], 42-44.）

III. 以色列人祭拜用的祭坛。A. 会幕时期前的祭坛。在《圣经》中，祭品要献在祭坛前，祭坛要建在圣所前。《圣经》中第一次提及的祭坛是诺亚在大洪水之后建造的（创 8:20）。亚伯拉罕是第二个建造祭坛的人，他建造的前三个祭坛似乎与他的迦南之行有关。他在示剑建了第一座祭坛，这似乎象征着他正式占领了这片土地（创 12:7），随后的两座祭坛，一座建在伯特利和艾之间（创 12:8），另一座建在希伯仑的南面（创 13:18），这两个相继建成的建筑标明了他正常旅居的范围。他在每个献祭的地方求告耶和华的名。他最后在摩利亚地（在后来的希伯来语传说中该地被认为是耶路撒冷）的一个山顶上建造了一座用于献以撒的祭坛（创 22:9）。 and called upon the name of Yahweh. His final altar was built on the top of a mountain in the land of Moriah (identified with Jerusalem in later Hebrew tradition) for the sacrifice of Isaac (22:9).

Four-horned limestone altar from Israelite Megiddo (ca. 1000–800 B.C.), possibly a house altar or incense altar (Oriental Institute, University of Chicago)

Each of these four spots was the scene of some special revelation of Yahweh; possibly to the third of them (Hebron) we may attribute the memorable vision and covenant of Gen. 15. To them Isaac added an altar at Beer-sheba (26:25), probably a re-creation, on the same site, of an altar built by Abraham, whose home for many years was at Beersheba. Jacob built no new altars, but repeatedly repaired those at Shechem and Bethel. There were thus four or five spots in Canaan (Shechem, Bethel, Hebron, Moriah, and Beer-sheba) associated both with the worship of Yahweh and with the names of the patriarchs. In later years these locations were to become important sanctuaries, not only for the worship of Yahweh but for the preservation and proclamation of family traditions.

With the growth of the family to a nation, provision is made for some regulation of altar-building immediately after the promulgation of the Decalogue (Ex. 20:24ff.). The instructions relate to “lay” rather than tabernacle altars (see above), as the pattern of patriarchal or clan worship had still not been supplemented by any developed national cult. In the same period, before the arrival at Sinai, during the war with Amalek, Moses built an emergency altar to which he gave the name Yahweh-Nissi (Ex. 17:15). This was probably only a memorial altar, a function attested again in the controversial structure built by the two and one-half tribes in Transjordan (Josh. 22:21–29).

These patriarchal or “lay” altars continued in use well into the period of the monarchy, withstanding both the centralizing tendency first apparent in David and Solomon’s institution of worship at Jerusalem and later the iconoclastic reactions to potentially divisive or Baal-tainted shrines during the reigns of Hezekiah and Josiah. Joshua’s altar on Mt. Ebal (Josh. 8:30–34) follows the Deuteronomic regulations for lay altar construction, and is used for sacrifices accompanying a ceremony of national covenant renewal. Gideon at Ophrah (Jgs. 6:24), the people of Israel at Bethel (21:4), Samuel at Ramah (1 S. 7:17), Saul at Michmash (14:35), and David at the threshing floor of Araunah (2 S. 24:25) all fit this pattern. Of the days between David and Hezekiah we know less, but it is apparent that such activity continued, and probably the reaction against Baalism, evidenced in Elijah's contest on Mt. Carmel (1 K. 18), led to the eventual disrepute into which these lay altars fell.

家族逐渐发展成民族，摩西十诫宣布后便马上出现了建造祭坛的规定（出 20:24 起）。这些主要是关于“世俗”祭坛的规定，而不是关于会幕祭坛的规定（见上文），因为当时并没有成型的民族宗教来完善家族或宗族祭礼。在同时期，以色列人到达西奈之前，与亚玛力人争战时，摩西建造了一座临时祭坛，并称之为耶和華尼西（出 17:15）。这可能只是一座纪念用途的祭坛，两个半支派在外约旦建造的争议性的建筑进一步证明了这座祭坛的功能（书 22:21-29）。

B. Tabernacle Altars. In the worship of Israel, as formalized in the Sinai covenant, two priestly altars become central to the ritual of the tabernacle in the wilderness. As we have seen, the directions for the construction of both the altar of burnt offering (mizbah hā'ólā, or brazen altar mizbah hann^ehōšet) and the altar of Incense (mizbah haqq^etōret, or golden altar mizbah hazzāhāb) are given in great detail. Such exact direction seems to have related to the symbolic functioning of both structures with their central place in the sacrificial system of the nation.

The altar of burnt offering, much the larger of the two, was set up in front of the doorway of the tabernacle (Ex. 40:6) where it was used for the daily burnt and meal offerings (see SACRIFICES V). It was there that the priests made atonement for various sins of the people, according to the sacrificial system outlined in Lev. 1-7, and it stood as witness to the fact that any entry into the presence of God must be preceded by atonement for sin. The doorway to the tent of meeting was doubly important, as it was there that the worshiper met with the intermediary, the priest.

The second altar, the altar of incense, was also in the category of "most holy" things (Ex. 30:10). Speculation about whether it stood just inside the Holy of Holies (He. 9:4) or just before the veil (Ex. 40:26) separating the two inner rooms is useless. What is clear is that the altar was accessible to the priests who were commanded to burn daily upon it the sweet incense so that a cloud of smoke might rise to fill the inner chamber at the moment when the sacrificial blood was sprinkled. The symbolism of the incense is clearly that of offered prayer (cf. Rev. 8:3, where the golden altar stands before the throne of God and the priest is replaced by an angel).

B. 会幕祭坛。西奈圣约确定了以色列的祭拜形式，以色列人在旷野中时，两座祭司祭坛在会幕仪式中发挥着至关重要的作用。如我们所看到的，关于建造燔祭坛 (mizbah hā'ólā 或铜祭坛 mizbah hann^ehōšet) 和香坛 (mizbah haqq^etōret 或金祭坛 mizbah hazzāhā) 的规定十分详细。这类详尽的规定可能与两种建筑的象征功能和它们在民族献祭制度中所处的核心地位有关。

燔祭坛相对较大，被安置在会幕的门前（出 40:6），每日在其上献燔祭和素祭（见 SACRIFICES V[献祭 V]）。祭司们根据《利未记》1-7 中关于献祭的规定，在燔祭坛上为民众赎各种罪，而祭坛见证了每个走到神面前的人都必须首先赎去他们的罪。毋庸置疑，会幕的门口是十分重要的，因为祭拜者在这里面见中保，即祭司。

第二种祭坛是香坛，也是一种“至圣”物（出 30:10）。关于香坛是安置在至圣所中（来 9:4）还是安置在分隔两间内室的幔子前（出 40:26）的推测毫无意义。可以确定的是，祭司可以接近香坛，而且他们要每日在香坛上烧馨香，所以当他们在洒赎罪祭牲的血时，香的烟气充

C. Altars of Solomon's Temple. What happened to the tabernacle between the destruction of Shiloh (ca. 1050 B.C.) and the erection of Solomon's temple remains an enigma. Something of the wandering of the ark is known, but whether the altars and other tabernacle furniture were complete in such sanctuaries as Nob (1 S. 21:1-6) and Gibeon (2 Ch. 1:3) must remain unclear. The service of the Lord at the former site and the events of the removal to Jerusalem from the latter (cf. 1 K. 8:4 with 2 Ch. 1:3; 5:3) seem to indicate a continuous succession for the organized cult. According to 2 Ch. 1:5, the bronze altar made by Bezalel for Moses was at Gibeon, whereupon Solomon offered a thousand burnt offerings prior to its removal.

When Solomon built his new temple, he had new altars made in keeping with the fresh requirements. From the Chronicler's account (2 Ch. 4:1) we learn that one was a brazen altar, forming a square of 20 cubits (about 30 ft. or 9 m.) with a height of 10 cubits (about 15 ft. or 4.5 m.). This first and greatest altar, which with the molten sea dominated the middle of the court that was before the temple, remained the center of Israelite worship for two and one-half centuries, before Ahaz removed it to the northern side of

C. 所罗门圣殿中的祭坛。示罗毁灭（约公元前 1050 年）和所罗门圣殿建立期间，会幕究竟发生了什么变化至今仍然是个谜。我们已知约柜的辗转去向，但是，尚不清楚挪伯（撒上 21:1-6）和基遍（代下 1:3）等地的圣所中的祭坛和其他会幕器皿是否完整。在挪伯事奉神和将基遍的器皿运至耶路撒冷（对比王上 8:4 和代下 1:3；5:3）这两段记录似乎表明以色列人的宗教活动未曾中断过。根据《历代志下》1:5 的记载，比撒列为摩西建造的铜坛就在基遍，所罗门移动该祭坛里献一千祭牲为燔祭。

所罗门建造新圣殿时，为了满足新的要求，他建造了新的祭坛。根据历代志作者的记录（代下 4:1），所罗门建了一座方形的铜坛，边长 20 肘（约 30 英尺或 9 米），高 10 肘（约 15 英尺或 4.5 米）。这是第一座祭坛也是规模最大的一座祭坛，它和铜海一同占据了神殿前院的中心位置。这座祭坛自建成之后两个半世纪以来一直是以色列人祭拜的中心，直到后来亚哈斯将它搬到大马士革祭坛的北面（王下 16:14），后来可能是希西家纠正了亚哈斯这种滑稽的模仿（代下 29:18）。尽管较早的评论观点认为这 his Damascene altar (2 K. 16:14), a travesty probably corrected by Hezekiah (2 Ch. 29:18). Its function was the same as the smaller structure in the tabernacle and, much older critical opinion notwithstanding, it was probably constructed on the model of the latter.

In like manner, the smaller tabernacle incense altar was superseded by Solomon's cedar structure, overlaid (like everything else in the inner rooms) with gold (1 K. 6:20, 22), and thereafter called the golden altar to distinguish it from the brazen courtyard altar. Of the size of this altar, which also functioned as its predecessor, we know nothing, but it was undoubtedly small and was part of the "vessels of the house of God" which Nebuchadrezzar took to Babylon (2 Ch. 36:18). Possibly as a consequence of this Ezekiel planned a wooden altar of incense with larger dimensions than before (Ezk. 41:22).

D. Ezekiel's Temple Altars. The purpose of Ezekiel's vision was to draw the attention of the exiles to their return and the restoration of God's direct dealings with them in a rebuilt Jerusalem, in order that "they may be ashamed of their iniquities" (Ezk. 43:10). The altar of burnt offering was a rather large and elaborate structure, measured out by the larger cubit (43:13) and consisting of four stages lying one above another. In the account of its construction and use emphasis seems to be on the real need in Israel for atonement, with the resulting impression being one of the holiness of God and the sinfulness of the people. The altar, promising as it did cleansing from the accumulated sins of exile, was clearly the focal point of the new temple and

所罗门还以同样的方式替换了会幕中较小的香坛，他用香柏木做坛，包上精金（就像内殿中的一切事物一样，王上 6:20, 22），从而区分了金坛和院中的铜坛。这座祭坛和以前的祭坛的作用相同，但我们并不清楚它的尺寸，毫无疑问，这座祭坛很小，是尼布甲尼撒带到巴比伦“神殿里的大小器皿”中的一部分（代下 36:18）。以西结可能因此设计了一座木制的香坛，它要比之前的香坛的尺寸更大（结 41:22）。

D. 以西结神殿中的祭坛。《以西结书》中的异象是为了吸引被掳者回归家园，在重建后的耶路撒冷与神直接沟通，使“他们因自己的罪孽惭愧”（结 43:10）。燔祭坛非常大，而且有精心设计的结构，要用更大的尺寸单位“肘”来衡量（结 43:13）。这座祭坛有四层平台，层层相叠。关于建造和使用祭坛的描述似乎着重强调了以色列人对于赎罪的真正需求，因此他们意识到神是圣洁的，而他们是有罪的。这座祭坛明显是新圣殿中的重要组成部分，它有望帮会众除去他们在被掳时期累积的罪恶，并形象地指出在被掳时期没有这样的洁净仪式。 pointed graphically to the lack of such cleansing in the conditions of exile.

E. Altars of the Second Temple. The second temple likewise preserved the tradition of two altars. Ezz. 3:3 describes the laying of a foundation for the altar of burnt offerings, though of the altar itself no measurements are given. That there was also an altar of incense is clear because it was carried off by Antiochus Epiphanes (1 Macc. 1:21) and restored by Judas Maccabeus (1 Macc. 4:49), together with the altar of burnt offering.

F. Altars of Herod's Temple. The continued importance of both altars is reflected in their presence in the great sanctuary built by Herod. Although there is some difficulty in harmonizing the accounts of the Mishna and Josephus as to the size of the altar of burnt offering (see TEMPLE) the use of the altar is not in doubt. It was the one valid place of sacrifice and the place of which it was said, "Leave your gift there before the altar and go; first be reconciled to your brother, and then come and offer your gift" (Mt. 5:24). Also from the NT we know of an incident at the smaller altar. It was there that Zechariah had a vision of "an angel ... standing on the right side of the altar of incense" (Lk. 1:11).

G. Altars in the NT. In addition to references to Herod's temple with its altars, the NT used the concept of the temple in a figurative sense, especially in Revelation. What is vitally significant is that in the future temple of God there is no need for an altar of burnt offering, since atonement is now complete and the re-establishment of a sacrifice would violate all the canons of NT thought. In

E. 第二神殿的祭坛。第二神殿也保留了建造这两种祭坛的传统。《以斯拉记》3:3 描述了以色列人在原有的根基上建造了燔祭坛, 但并未提及这座祭坛的尺寸。很明显神殿中还有一座香坛, 因为有记载提到安提阿哥·伊皮法尼曾将其夺去(马一 1:21), 后来犹大·马加比修复了香坛和燔祭坛(马一 4:49)。

F. 希律神殿的祭坛。希律王建造的宏伟的神殿中也有这两座祭坛, 这体现出它们的重要性。尽管《米示拿》和约瑟夫斯作品中记录的燔祭坛尺寸稍有出入(见 Temple[神殿]), 但这座祭坛的用处是不容置疑的。祭坛是献祭的地方, 耶稣曾教训门徒说“就把礼物留在坛前, 先去同弟兄和好, 然后来献礼物”(太 5:24)。《新约》还记载了一件发生在小祭坛旁边的事, 撒迦利亚在那里见到了异象, “有主的使者站在香坛的右边向他显现”(路 1:11)。

G. 《新约》中的祭坛。《新约》中除了提到希律神殿和殿中的祭坛之外, 还使用了神殿的比喻义, 尤其是在《启示录》中。未来神殿中不再需要燔祭坛, 这是极为重要的, 因为罪已经被赎去, 任何恢复献祭的行为都将违反《新约》正典中的思想。但是, 在《启示录》中, 香坛仍旧立在神的面前(启 8:3; 9:13), 而且祭坛中也传来肯定神之审判的声音(启 16:7)。和古时仪式中的金祭坛

Revelation, however, the altar of incense still stands immediately before God (8:3; 9:13) and indeed once speaks a word of confirmation to God's work of judgment (16:7). It is, like the golden altar of the ancient ritual, the place from which the sweet smell of spice arises to God, and 8:3 makes it plain that this pleasing odor is indeed the prayers of the saints. Thus the great truths continue: the atonement of the great altar of burnt offering is no more. It has been accomplished once and for all by the sacrifice of God's Son. But the role of the smaller, golden altar will continue into eternity.

am'ə-lek, ə-mal'ə-kīts [Heb. “mālēq, “mālēqī”]. The son of Eliphaz and grandson of Esau (Gen. 36:12, 16), and as a collective noun, his descendants (Ex. 17:8; Nu. 24:20; Dt. 25:17; Jgs. 3:13; etc.). His mother was Timna, Eliphaz' concubine. He was one of “the chiefs of Eliphaz in the land of Edom” (Gen. 36:16).

Some writers distinguish the nomadic Amalekites normally found in the Negeb and Sinai area from the descendants of Esau, because Gen. 14:7, which antedates Esau, refers to the “country of the Amalekites.” This may be merely an editorial note, although no doubt some of the descendants of Esau became incorporated into Amalekite groups, as they did into other tribes in Transjordan.

The origin of the Amalekites is obscure. They do not appear in the list of the nations in Gen. 10, although it is likely that they were of Semitic origin. Their first contact with Israel was at Rephidim in the wilderness of Sinai, where they made an unprovoked attack on the Israelites and were defeated after a desperate conflict (Ex. 17:8–13; Dt. 25:17f.). Because of this attack the Amalekites were placed under a permanent ban and were to be destroyed (Dt. 25:19; 1 S. 15:2f.; cf. Ps. 83:7). A year later, following the report of the spies, Israel ignored the advice of Moses and sought to enter southern Palestine. They were defeated by the Amalekites at Hormah (Nu. 14:43, 45). The spies had reported their presence in the south along with Hittites, Jebusites, and Amorites (Nu. 13:29).

音译: am'ə-lek, ə-mal'ə-kīts【希伯来语: “mālēq, “mālēqī”】。以利法的儿子，以扫的孙子（创 36:12, 16），该词作为复合名词时，指亚玛力的后裔（出 17:8；民 24:20；申 25:17；士 3:13 等）。亚玛力的母亲是以利法的妾亭纳。亚玛力是“以东地从以利法所出的族长”之一（创 36:16）。

《创世记》14:7 中提到的“亚玛力全地的人”出现在以扫之前，因此有些作者通常将南地和西奈地区的游牧亚玛力人与以扫的后裔区别开来。这可能只是编者按语，虽然毫无疑问，以扫的部分后裔确实成了亚玛力人，正如他们曾融入外约旦的其他宗族中。

尚不清楚亚玛力人的起源。他们并未出现在《创世记》10 中的列国名单中，但他们很有可能是闪的后裔。他们在西奈旷野的利非订第一次和以色列人接触，他们无缘无故地前来攻击以色列人，殊死争斗之后被以色列人打败（出 17:8-13；申 25:17-18）。因为这次攻击，神永远放弃了亚玛力人，并吩咐以色列人要彻底除灭他们（申 25:19；撒上 15:2-3；参：诗 83:7）。一年后，以色列人按着探子窥探的结果，无视摩西的建议，试图进入巴勒斯坦南部。他们在何珥玛被亚玛力人打败了（民 14:43, 45）。探子曾报告说，他们看见亚玛力人，和赫人、耶布斯人、亚摩利人一起住在南地（民 13:29）。 encounters are recorded. The Amalekites assisted Eglon king of Moab in his attack on Israelite territory (Jgs. 3:13). Later they combined forces with the Midianites and the “people of the East” (b^enê qedem), and raided Israelite crops and flocks in the days of Gideon, who was able to drive them out (Jgs. 6:3–5, 33; 7:12).

During these years the Amalekites were to be found mainly in the Negeb region, although for a time they gained a foothold in Ephraim (Jgs. 12:15). The foreign prophet Balaam looked away to their lands from his vantage point in Moab and described them as the “first of the nations” (Nu. 24:20), which may mean in regard either to origin or to status. When Samuel commanded Saul to destroy them they were in the Negeb area, S of Telaim in Judah. Saul drove them toward Shur in the wilderness toward Egypt (1 S. 15:1–9). On that occasion Saul spared Agag their king, for which he was rebuked by Samuel, who slew Agag personally (1 S. 15:33).

David fought the Amalekites in the area of Ziklag, which Achish king of Gath had given to him (1 S. 27:6; 30:1–20). It was an Amalekite who brought to David the news of the deaths of Saul and Jonathan (in which he had a part), and who was put to death by David (2 S. 1:1–16).

After David’s time the Amalekites seem to have declined. In Hezekiah’s day the sons of Simeon attacked “the remnant of the Amalekites that had escaped,” taking their stronghold in Mt. Seir (1 Ch. 4:43).

人帮助摩押王伊矶伦攻打以色列人的领地(士 3:13)。后来他们和米甸人、“东方人”(b^enê qedem)一起攻打以色列人,掠夺粮食和牲畜,基甸后来将亚玛力人驱逐了出去(士 6:3-5, 33; 7:12)。

数年间,亚玛力人主要生活在南地,虽然他们一度在以法莲找到了立足之地(士 12:15)。外邦的先知巴兰在摩押的有利位置观看亚玛力,称他们是“诸国之首”(民 24:20),这可能指的是他们的起源或地位上位于“诸国之首”。当撒母耳命令扫罗灭尽亚玛力人时,亚玛力人住在犹大地区提拉因的南方,即南地。扫罗将他们一直驱逐到埃及旷野前的书珥(撒上 15:1-9)。那时扫罗怜惜他们的王亚甲,但撒母耳谴责了扫罗,并亲自将亚甲杀死(撒上 15:33)。

迦特王亚吉将洗革拉赐给大卫,大卫在这里和亚玛力人争战(撒上 27:6; 30:1-20)。一个亚玛力人给大卫报信说,扫罗和约拿单已经死了(他参与了谋害二人的行动),大卫将他处死(撒下 1:1-16)。

大卫时期之后,亚玛力人似乎走向衰落。希西家时期,西缅的儿子攻击了“逃脱剩下的亚玛力人”,攻占了他们在西珥山上的大本营(代上 4:43)。

AMARNA TABLETS

An important cache of cuneiform documents discovered at Tell el-Amarna in Middle Egypt. The name derives from that of a local bedouin tribe, the Beni ‘Amrân.

I. Discovery.-As in the case of many other archeologically significant finds, the Amarna Tablets were discovered accidentally and by a nonspecialist. In 1887 an Egyptian peasant woman, while digging in the ruins of el-Amarna for a type of nitrous soil which is formed by the gradual decomposition of mud bricks and which can be used as a fertilizer, stumbled upon several hundred clay tablets covered with peculiar nail-like markings. Ignorant of their value, she sold them to a neighbor for two shillings. After changing hands several times the tablets eventually came to the attention of antiquities experts. Jules Oppert, the noted Franco-German Assyriologist, promptly pronounced them forgeries, while G. M. E. Grébaut, Director of the Service of Antiquities, ventured no opinion about their genuineness. It remained for the British Orientalist E. A. Wallis Budge to recognize their age as well as their authenticity.

AMARNA TABLETS 亚玛拿泥版

该文物是从埃及的亚玛拿遗址中发掘出来的，是非常重要的楔形文字文献的载体。它的名字来源于一个当地的贝都因部落，本尼阿姆兰（Beni ‘Amrân）。

I. 发掘。和许多其他考古学上的重大发现一样，亚玛拿泥版也是被一个非专业人士偶然间发现的。1887年，一个埃及农妇在亚玛拿遗址内挖掘一种含氮元素的土时（这种土由泥砖逐渐分解而成，可以用作肥料），她绊倒的地方有数百块泥版，这些泥版上面布满了独特的钉状文字。因为不知晓泥版的价值，她把它们卖给了她的邻居，得了两个先令。经几次易手之后，这些泥版终于引起了一位文物专家的关注。知名的法裔德国籍亚述专家朱尔斯·欧佩特立即断言它们是伪造品，而文物部门的主管格雷宝（G. M. E. Grébaut）谨慎地估计了它们的真实性。后来由英国东方学家沃利斯·巴奇（E. A. Wallis Budge）鉴定出了它们的年代和真实性。

Unfortunately, many of the tablets in the original find had been damaged in various ways before the authorities became aware of their existence. It has been estimated that as many as two hundred of them were completely destroyed, whether deliberately or through rough handling, soon after their discovery. It may even be that the major portion of the archive has been irretrievably lost. Nevertheless, the surviving tablets are doubtless typical and enable us to formulate a fair evaluation of the original collection. At any rate, the 1887 find attracted the attention of archeologists to the site itself. The most important excavations at Tell el-Amarna were undertaken by W. M. Flinders Petrie in 1891, the Deutsche Orientgesellschaft from 1911 to 1914, and the Egypt Exploration Society in an almost uninterrupted series of campaigns from 1921 to 1937. In addition to the tablets found at Tell el-Amarna from the first horde in 1887 to the last group in the campaign of 1933/34, a letter of the same type and from the same period was unearthed by Frederick J. Bliss from the ruins of Tell el-Hesi (perhaps EGLON) in 1892. Other cuneiform documents have been found at Palestinian sites such as Gezer, Hazor, Jericho, Megiddo, 遗憾的是，在专家们意识到泥版的存在之前，许多最初发现的泥版遭到了不同形式的破坏。据推测，发掘之后就发现至少有两百块泥版被完全损坏了，它们可能是被人蓄意破坏的，或是由于粗暴搬运导致的。甚至于文件的主要部分可能已经永远的遗失了。然而，余下的泥版毫无疑问是具有代表性的，并且使我们能够对最初的泥版做出公正的评价。无论如何，1887年的发现引起了考古学家对遗址本身的关注。对亚玛拿遗址最重要的发掘包括1891年由费林德斯·皮特里（W. M. Flinders Petrie）进行的发掘，1911至1914年由德国东方学会进行的发掘和1921至1937年间由埃及探险学会进行的一系列几乎不间断的发掘。除了在亚玛拿出土的泥版之外（1887年出土的第一批泥版至1933/1934年出土的最后一批泥版），弗雷德里克·布利斯（Frederick J. Bliss）于1892年在赫西废丘（Tell el-Hesi，可能是伊矾伦 [见 Eglon]）发掘出一封同时期、同类型的文书。在巴勒斯坦的基色、夏琐、耶利哥、米吉多、示剑和他纳等遗址发掘出了其他楔形文字文献，这些文献大都可以追溯至约公元前1450年至1350年；但是哈锡文书仍然是迄今为止在巴勒斯坦发现的唯一的“亚玛拿”文书。

Shechem, and Taanach, dating for the most part ca. 1450–1350 B.C.; but the Tell el-Hesi letter remains thus far the only “Amarna” tablet to be discovered in Palestine.

II. Contents.—Of the 379 published Amarna documents now extant, 358 items were already known by 1915 and were included by J. A. Knudtzon in his monumental edition of that year. He attempted to arrange the tablets in a N-S geographical order as well as chronologically within each group, and his system of numbering each individual tablet is still used. Samuel A. B. Mercer, The Tell el-Amarna Tablets (1939), added a few items that had been uncovered in the interim, but his publication unfortunately turned out to be little more than an English translation of Knudtzon’s work and contained numerous errors not found in the original. As of this writing, therefore, the scholarly world still awaits a definitive, up-to-date edition of the cuneiform Amarna materials. More than half of the tablets are currently in the Berlin Museum. Budge acquired a total of eighty-two items from the original find for the British Museum, while a smaller group remained in the Egyptian Museum in Cairo. Other still smaller collections are in the possession of other museums and private individuals throughout the world.

Three hundred forty-nine of the Amarna Tablets are epistolary in nature and constitute part of the diplomatic correspondence of the Egyptian pharaohs Amenhotep III (ca. 1398–1361 B.C.) and IV (Akhenaten, ca. 1369–1353) with kings of other nations and with Egyptian officials and vassals in Palestine and

II. 内容。截止 1915 年，现存的 379 块已公布的亚玛拿泥版中，我们已经知晓其中 358 块泥版的内容，克努德森 (J. A. Knudtzon) 在他当年编辑的作品中收录了这些内容。他按照由北至南的地理顺序和每组中的年代顺序排列这些泥版，他对每块泥版的命名方法一直沿用至今。塞缪尔·梅塞 (Samuel A. B. Mercer) 的作品 (The Tell el-Amarna Tablets [1939]) 又添加了一些后来出土的泥版上的内容，但这本书只能算是克努德森著作的英语译本，而且其中还出现了大量原版中并没有的错误。因此，自这部作品之后，学术界一直在等待一部确定的、最新的关于楔形文字亚玛拿泥版的作品。目前半数以上的泥版被收藏在柏林博物馆中。巴奇获得的最初的 82 块泥版现收藏于大英博物馆中，还有一小部分被收藏在开罗的埃及博物馆中。此外剩余的更小部分则被世界范围内的其他博物馆或个人收藏着。

其中的 349 块亚玛拿泥版实际上是书信，是埃及法老阿蒙霍特普三世 (约公元前 1398-1361 年) 和四世 (亚肯那顿，约公元前 1369-1353 年) 与其他国王和与埃及驻巴勒斯坦和叙利亚的官员、封臣之间的部分外交书信。上文仅大致给出了这两位统治者的统治时间。亚玛拿泥版和其他证据似乎表明他们采取了

Syria. The dates given for these two rulers are only approximate. They assume a coregency to which the Amarna Tablets and other evidence seem to point but concerning which there is still room for considerable debate. Since the thirty-second year of Amenhotep III is probably mentioned in a hieratic docket written in ink on one of the letters, and since Tutankhamen, Akhenaten's son-in-law, appears to be named in another, the Amarna Tablets cover a period of about thirty years encompassing roughly the second quarter of the 14th cent. B.C., the heart of the so-called Amarna age. Over forty of the letters consist of correspondence between the pharaonic court on the one hand and the kings of Alashia (biblical Elishah), Assyria, Babylonia, Hatti, and Mitanni on the other. That of the last two countries has enriched our understanding of the Hittite and Hurrian (biblical Horite) languages respectively. The other approximately three hundred letters were written by scribes who were nearly all Canaanites, who had learned cuneiform second-or third-hand, and who lived in Palestine, Phoenicia, and southern Syria. Of these three hundred about half were written either from or to Palestine or discuss affairs in Palestine, and thus are of supreme importance for OT studies.

The thirty nonepistolary Amarna Tablets include syllabaries, lexical lists, and practice-copies of sections of Akkadian mythological texts for the training of Egyptian apprentice scribes. The last, consisting of portions of Adapa and the South Wind, Nergal and Ereshkigal, and the King of Battle epic, contain frequent epigraphic indications of vowel length, colored dots serving as word dividers, and almost no logograms.

父子共治的制度，但是关于这个说法仍然存有相当大的争议。因为一封用墨水和僧侣体写成的书信的公文档案中可能提到了阿蒙霍特普三世在位第三十二年这个时间，而且另一封书信中似乎提到了亚肯那顿的女婿图坦卡蒙，因此亚玛拿泥版涵盖了约三十年间发生的事，大致是公元前 14 世纪第二个二十五年，也就是所谓亚玛拿时代的中心时期。其中超过 40 块泥版是法老法庭与阿里沙王（《圣经》中的以利沙）、亚述王、巴比伦王、哈提王、米坦尼王之间的通信。与上述后两国通信的泥版增加了我们对于赫梯语和胡利安语（《圣经》中的何利）的了解。其他约三百块泥版则是由迦南的文士刻下的，这些文士通过间接方式掌握了楔形文字，他们主要住在巴勒斯坦、腓尼基和叙利亚南部。这三百块泥版中大约有一半是发往或来自巴勒斯坦的书信，或者是讨论巴勒斯坦事务的记录，因此它们对于研究《旧约》极其重要。

III. Linguistic Value.-Akkadian, firmly entrenched as the lingua franca of the Near East during the Amarna age, is the basic language of the Amarna Tablets. As might be expected, these documents have thus assisted scholars in solving certain grammatical and lexical problems inherent in the Akkadian of the period, even though Amarna Akkadian exhibits numerous linguistic archaisms. At the same time, however, the epistolary materials often reveal Amorite, Egyptian, Hittite, Hurrian, and (most importantly) Canaanite linguistic substrata, reflecting the mother tongues of the native scribes. All the Canaanite Amarna Letters display a mixture of Akkadian and Canaanite dialects, although a few are almost completely Canaanite with only the thinnest of Akkadian veneers. Amarna Canaanite and the Ugaritic documents from Râs Shamrah have helped immeasurably to establish the nature of proto-Hebrew and to trace its development into the classical language of the OT. Often the Canaanite Vorlage was all-pervasive, reaching not only into vocabulary, grammar, syntax, morphology, and phonology but also into phraseology and mode of expression, so that, e.g., when a scribe from Byblos wished to verbalize the concept of “from time immemorial” he did not write, in standard Akkadian parlance, ištu labiriš (or, as in later times, ultu ulla), but coined the phrase ištu dārīti, an Akkadian rendering of such Canaanite equivalents as Heb. mē’ōlām. Canaanite scribes also frequently glossed Akkadian words and phrases with their Canaanite counterparts. For example, the difficult Akk. ḥuḥāru,

III. 语言学价值。阿卡德语在亚玛拿时期一直都是近东地区的通用语，也是亚玛拿泥版上的基本语言。正如预料的那样，虽然亚玛拿泥版上的阿卡德语中存在大量的古词，但它们还是帮助学者们解决了许多当时阿卡德语中的某些语法和词汇难题。但同时，这些书信材料中经常出现亚摩利语、埃及语、赫梯语、胡利安语和（最重要的）迦南语的语言基础，并体现出本地文士的母语。虽然有些亚玛拿泥版几乎完全是由迦南语写成，仅有很少的阿卡德语虚饰语，但所有迦南亚玛拿泥版都有阿卡德语和迦南语两种语言。沙姆拉角（Râs Shamrah）的迦南语和乌加里特语的亚玛拿泥版极大地促进了古希伯来语的形成，并对研究这种古典语言在《旧约》中的发展极有帮助。迦南“原稿”通常涉及面很广，不仅包含了词汇、语法、句法、词态学和音系学，还包括措辞和表达方式，因此，当一个来自比布罗斯的文士想要表达“自古以来”这种概念时，他不使用标准的阿卡德语说法（ištu labiriš，或是后来的 ultu ulla），而是自己杜撰出一个短语（ištu dārīti），这是迦南语在阿卡德语中的翻译，相当于希伯来语的 mē’ōlām。迦南文士还经常用迦南语中的同义词解释阿卡德语单词或短语。比如说，拗口的阿卡德语 ḥuḥāru（“陷阱、圈套”）经常出现在巴比伦的信件中，紧随该词之后是一个迦南语同义词解释——kilūbu（相当于希伯来语 k^olūb）。无需赘言，关于不同问题的恰当解释方法，众文士之间并非始终保持一致。比如，耶路撒冷的亚玛拿泥版就显示出了抄写者的独特性，这种泥版的抄写语言不同于其他迦南亚玛拿方言。

“trap, snare,” which appears often in the Byblian letters, is usually explained immediately thereafter by Can. kilūbu (=Heb kēlūb), which has the same meaning. Needless to say, the scribes themselves did not always agree as to proper procedure in various matters. The Jerusalem Amarna correspondence, for example, exhibits scribal peculiarities demonstrating it to be the product of a scribal tradition different from that of the other Canaanite Amarna dialects.

IV. Historical Value.-The Amarna Tablets have helped to make the Amarna age one of the best-known periods in ancient history. It was supremely a time of international diplomacy, one of the first such times in the annals of mankind. Egypt had been in control of Syro-Palestine for almost two centuries but was now in decline there. Nevertheless, it was still in many respects the dominant power in the Near East. The Hittite kingdom of Asia Minor was at its height under the leadership of the great Šuppiluliuma I, and was threatening the very existence of Tušratta's Hurrian kingdom of Mitanni located in the bend of the upper Euphrates River. East of Mitanni was the rising power of Assyria under Erība-Adad I and Aššuruballit I, while the Kassite dynasty of Babylon under Kadašman-Enlil I and Burnaburiaš II exercised control over the lower Tigris-Euphrates basin. Diplomatic marriages, such as that of Tadu-ḥepa (a daughter of Tušratta) to Amenhotep III, attempted to upset the delicate balance of political power in the Near East during the Amarna age.

The chief Egyptian administrative centers in occupied Palestine were Gaza and

IV. 历史价值。亚玛拿泥版使亚玛拿时期成为了古代历史中最著名的时期。当时是国际交往的鼎盛时期，人类史上第一次出现这种国际交流的时期。埃及已经统治叙利亚和巴勒斯坦长达两个世纪，但当时埃及已走向衰落。尽管如此，埃及在很多方面仍然在近东地区占据主导地位。小亚细亚的赫梯王国处于伟大的苏皮鲁流马一世 (Šuppiluliuma I) 统治下的鼎盛时期，并对位于幼发拉底河上游弯道处米坦尼的吐什阿塔 (Tušratta) 统治下的胡利安王国构成了威胁。在米坦尼的东方，有一股势力正在崛起，它是伊里巴阿达德一世 (Erība-Adad I) 和阿淑尔乌巴里特一世 (Aššuruballit I) 统治下的亚述王国，而卡达什曼恩利尔一世 (Kadašman-Enlil I) 和布尔那布里亚什二世 (Burnaburiaš II) 统治下的喀西特王朝统治了两河流域的下游地区。吐什阿塔 (Tušratta) 的女儿塔都希帕 (Tadu-ḥepa) 嫁给阿蒙霍特普三世，国与国之间试图用外交联姻打破亚玛拿时期近东地区微妙的政治平衡。

埃及人占领巴勒斯坦之后，将主要的行政中心建在迦萨和约帕，但他们的战略

Joppa, while strategic Egyptian outposts were located at Beth-shan and elsewhere. Although native Canaanite princely dynasties were in nominal control of the city-states into which Palestine was divided, Egyptian agents known as “commissioner” (Akk. rābiṣu, Can. sōkinu [=Heb. sōkēn]) and “envoy” (Egyp. wpwty) closely supervised their activities. Such officials, often called simply rabû, “great one,” by the Canaanite scribes, were usually native Egyptians, and bribery and other forms of corruption were common among them. On occasion a trustworthy Canaanite might be permitted to rise to a position of prominence in the Egyptian bureaucracy. One such bore the Amorite name Yanḥamu. His importance is attested by his appearing in the correspondence of various princes throughout Syria and Palestine and his being in charge of the food supplies stored in the territory of Yarimmuta, the location of which remains uncertain. The career of Yanḥamu is strongly reminiscent of that of the OT patriarch Joseph, with whom he has been implausibly identified by certain scholars. Many of the Amarna Letters reveal that the Egyptian overlords exacted tribute from their Palestinian subjects. They also demanded corvée contingents to be used in Egyptian construction and other projects that required large supplies of cheap labor.

Most of the Amarna Letters reveal an unsettled state of affairs in Syro-Palestine itself, which belies the superficial appearance of unity implied by the Egyptian presence in Hither Asia. The morale of the Canaanite princelings had greatly deteriorated during the period of Egyptian decline with the result that they were often at war with each other. In their correspondence they occasionally stooped to hurling mutual accusations of treason against the crown and disloyalty toward one another. Under such circumstances they were vulnerable to attack by dissident elements within their own domains as well as by enemies from without, and in their letters to the pharaohs we frequently read their desperate pleas for fresh supplies of Egyptian and Nubian archers to man their garrisons. Such requests were met uniformly with a stony silence by the Egyptian court. The dissolution of the Egyptian empire in Syro-Palestine, already under way during the rule of Amenhotep III, was greatly accelerated under Akhenaten, who was preoccupied with domestic affairs for most of his reign.

Although most of the Palestinian chieftains bore Northwest Semitic names, Indo-Aryan names are also well represented. At least one non-Semitic name common to both Amarna age onomastics and the OT is Ara/iwana, who was a prince in the region of Damascus and whose name must be compared with that of Araunah the Jebusite. The official title of such native princelings was “(free)man” (amīlu), while their official position in the scheme of things was that of “governor, mayor” (ḥazānu). Within Canaanite circles, however, the prince was referred to as “king,” a usage reflected also in such OT passages as Josh. 11:1 and Jgs. 9:6.

It is clear from the Amarna Letters themselves that each Palestinian chieftain held sway over a city-state, which often controlled a rather large region surrounding it. Megiddo and Hazor were the two most strategic city-states in the north, Shechem dominated the hill country, Gezer and Jerusalem maintained extensive holdings in central Palestine, and Lachish was of major importance in the south. Correspondence from and concerning these cities, as well as other Syro-Palestinian sites such as Byblos, Beirut, Sidon, Tyre, Accho, and Ashkelon along the Mediterranean coast, constitutes the bulk of the Amarna archives and provides us with essential information about Canaanite civilization during the Amarna age.

他们经常在书信中寻求埃及法老的援助，并请求努比亚弓箭手来帮助防御要塞。这些请求都未得到埃及朝廷的回应，犹如石沉大海。阿蒙霍特普三世统治时期，叙利亚和巴勒斯坦境内的埃及帝国已经开始瓦解，后来亚肯那顿的统治又加速了帝国的瓦解，因为他在统治时期主要忙于处理国内事务。

虽然大多数巴勒斯坦首领都有西北闪族语名字，但是他们也有印度雅利安语名字。在亚玛拿时期专有名词学和《旧约》中至少可以找到一个非闪族语人名，即 Ara/iwana（阿拉或埃瓦纳），他是大马士革地区的一位君主，应将他的名字和耶布斯的亚劳拿进行对比。这些当地众藩王的官衔是“自由人”(amīlu)，但他们的官位相当于“地方总督或市长”(ḥazānu)。但是在迦南境内，这些藩王也被称为“王”，《旧约》《约书亚记》11:1 和《士师记》9:6 中也称他们为“王”。

从亚玛拿泥版中可以明显看出每个巴基斯坦首领都统治着一个城邦，而每个城邦通常管辖着其周围的大片区域。米吉多和夏琐是北方的两座战略要地，示

Among the disruptive elements in the political life of the period was the notorious Lab'ayu ("lion man"), the prince of Shechem who seems to have controlled all the territory in the central ridge from N of Jerusalem to N of his own city. He and his sons, rebelling against their Egyptian overlords and in league with the 'Apiru (see below), terrorized the countryside and attempted to capture Megiddo. At the other end of the political spectrum is a man like the prince of Byblos, Rib-Addi, whose nearly seventy letters (the largest single group of Amarna documents) tell a tale of loyalty to the Egyptian court and cooperation with the Egyptian commissioners. The domain of Rib-Addi comprised the northern half of the modern Lebanese coastal plain, a strip of territory stretching northward from Byblos to Simyra. He was embroiled in a more or less continuous struggle with 'Abdi-Aširta and his sons, the princes of the region of Amurru, which extended to the east and north of Byblos. Although the feud was local in nature, Rib-Addi found himself in desperate straits as his enemies almost

臭名昭著的示剑王莱巴尤（狮人）是当时政治生活的破坏性因素之一，他似乎控制了从耶路撒冷北方到示剑北方的中央山脊地区。他和他的儿子联合哈皮鲁人（见下文）反抗他们的埃及领主，他们在乡下地区实行恐怖统治，并试图攻占米吉多。政治版图的另一端是比布罗斯王——利布阿迪王，他在约七十封书信（亚玛拿文献中最多的一组）中诉说了他对埃及朝廷的忠诚和与埃及使者的合作。利布阿迪（Rib-Addi）的领地包括现代黎巴嫩海岸平原的北半部分，从比布罗斯向北延伸到西米拉的一片狭长地带。他被卷入了阿布迪·艾西尔泰（'Abdi-Aširta）和其众子时断时续的纷争之中。阿布迪的众子是比布罗斯东方和北方的阿姆鲁地区的君主。尽管这只是地区纷争，但利布阿迪发现自己已经陷入绝境，因为他的敌人几乎将他驱逐到了海里。他像其他的藩王一样，给法老写信，寻求军事支援，并且将战争的失败归于埃及拒绝出兵。

According to the Amarna Tablets, only rarely did the contingents of archers requested by the Canaanite princes exceed two hundred, and they were usually far smaller. On the basis of such evidence we may assume that the population of Palestine was small during the Amarna age. There were probably no more than 250,000 people there at the time, a figure comparable to the population total in Palestine under the Turks in A.D. 1800. The Cisjordanian inhabitants of the country were apparently concentrated in the coastal plains and adjacent hills, the plain of Jezreel, the towns of the central ridge, and the Jordan Valley. Nomadic tribes were the chief occupants of Transjordan except in the Jordan Valley and the northernmost areas. The population was ethnically mixed and socially stratified, a situation reflected, e.g., in the Byblian letters, in which hupšu, "tenant farmer," is apparently a loanword from Hurrian.

示剑的莱巴尤王申辩道，他的敌对行动仅仅是为了抵抗敌人对他的城邑的侵略（亚玛拿泥版 252）。（大英博物馆理事会）

根据亚玛拿泥版中的记载，按照迦南君主要求，弓箭手分队很少有超过二百人的，通常是远远少于这个数量。因此，我们或许可以推测出亚玛拿时期巴勒斯坦的人口很少。当时那里的人口数量可能不到 25 万，和公元 1800 年土耳其人统治时期巴勒斯坦的人口总数相差不多。约旦河西岸的居民显然集中在海岸平原和周边丘陵、耶斯列平原、中央山脊附近的城邑及约旦谷中。除了约旦谷和最北地区，约旦河东岸的主要居民是游牧民族。巴勒斯坦地区人口种族混杂，社会等级分明，巴比伦书信中体现出了这种情况。在巴比伦书信中，hupšu（意为“佃农”）明显是一个从胡利安语中引入的外来词。

Attempts to find in the Amarna Tablets

V. 与《旧约》的联系：哈皮鲁人。在亚玛拿泥版上寻找《旧约》中的人物或 specific references to OT personalities or events have been uniformly unsuccessful. The idea that the names “Joshua” and “Benjamin” occur in them was thoroughly discredited long ago. The patriarchal period of Israel’s history preceded the Amarna age; Jacob and his sons almost certainly migrated to Egypt in the early 17th cent. at the latest. The exodus period of Israel’s history followed the Amarna age; Joshua and his armies almost certainly did not conquer the cities of Canaan until the late 13th cent. at the earliest. The Amarna age is thus to be sought somewhere in the “four hundred and thirty years” of Ex. 12:40, a period concerning which the OT is virtually silent. However, scholars have turned their attention increasingly in recent years to the possible relationship between the OT Hebrews and the Amarna ‘Apiru.

Superficially, the terms ‘apiru and ‘ibri (“Hebrew”) appear to differ in derivation and in morphology. It is now generally recognized, however, that the difficulties involved in equating them are not insuperable and that the possibility of an ultimate common origin cannot be excluded. SA.GAZ and its variants, the Sumerian logographic equivalents of Semitic ‘apiru, are found in cuneiform texts from ca. 2500 B.C. down to the 11th cent. B.C. In addition to its numerous Akkadian syllabic spellings, ‘apiru appears as ‘pr in Ugaritic and occurs also in Egyptian transcriptions. Among the Amarna Tablets, the Jerusalem letters write the term syllabically, whereas elsewhere SA.GAZ and its variants are uniformly used. SA.GAZ also stood for Akk. ḥabbātu, a word that seems to have meant originally “migratory worker” but that later came to signify

事件的尝试均告失败。泥版中有“约书亚”和“便雅悯”这两个名字的观点在很早以前便备受质疑。以色列的族长时期在亚玛拿时期之前；几乎可以确定雅各和他的儿子们最迟在公元前 17 世纪初期就来到了埃及。以色列人出埃及时期在亚玛拿时期之后；约书亚和他的军队几乎必然最早在公元前 13 世纪后期才占领迦南的城市。因此，亚玛拿时期必然是《出埃及记》12:40 提到的“四百三十年”中的一个时期，然而《旧约》几乎没有关于这段时期的记录。但是，近年来，学者们越来越关注《旧约》中希伯来人与亚玛拿时期哈皮鲁人可能存在的关系。

从表面看，‘apiru 和 ‘ibri (“希伯来人”) 从派生法和形态学上看似乎并不相同。但现在学者们普遍认为这两个词可能是同一个词，并不能排除这两个词可能源于同一个根词。闪米特语 ‘apiru 在苏美尔语中的语标同义词是 SA.GAZ 和它的变体，它们存在于公元前 2500 年至公元前 11 世纪的楔形文字文本中。‘apiru 除了在阿卡德语中有多种音节拼写之外，在乌加里特语中拼写为 ‘pr，埃及语抄本中也出现了这个词。在亚玛拿泥版中，耶路撒冷文书中按音节拼写了这个词，但其他泥版一律使用 SA.GAZ 和它的变体形式。SA.GAZ 还可以表示阿卡德语中的 ḥabbātu，这个词的本意似乎是“流动工人”，但它后来表示“强盗、土匪”。这个语义学上的演变极有可能反映出历史的发展，另外自古时起，‘apiru 本身就既有褒义也有贬义。政治和社会地位低下、经济拮据、不满足于现状的人，就像哈皮鲁人一样，会轻易地放弃正经的劳作（如，按季节收

“bandit, brigand.” It may well be that this semantic evolution reflected historical development also, since from the most ancient times ‘apiru itself had similarly good and bad connotations. Request by Yapaḥu ruler of Gezer (Am.Tab. 299) for assistance against the ‘Apiru (Trustees of the British Museum)

During the Amarna age, ‘apiru was a pejorative term, denoting a population element composed of stateless and reputedly lawless individuals and groups of diverse ethnic origins and speaking a number of different languages. Although they were indigenous to Syro-Palestine, their social status was generally inferior. They therefore rebelled against native princes and Egyptian officials alike, raiding the towns and pillaging the countryside. It was for help against such forays that the Canaanite chieftains directed their frequent requests to the pharaohs. Similar bands of outlaws are not unknown in the OT; cf., e.g., Jgs. 9:3; 11:3; 1 S. 22:1f.

在亚玛拿时期, 哈皮鲁人是个贬义词, 指的是那些无国籍的、非法的个体或团体, 他们来自不同民族, 说不同的语言。尽管他们是叙利亚和巴勒斯坦的本地人, 但他们的社会地位通常很低。因此他们反抗本国的君主和埃及官员, 劫掠城邑和村庄。为了抵御他们的袭击, 迦南首领经常向法老寻求援助。《旧约》中也提到过类似的歹徒; 参: 士 9:3; 11:3; 撒上 22:1-2。

The Northwest Semitic word 'apiru may have originally meant “dusty one, (donkey) caravaner.” Abraham himself may have been just such an 'apiru; it is instructive to note that he was the first individual in the OT to bear the title 'ibrī (Gen. 14:13). In Gen. 18:27 Abraham calls himself “dust [Heb. 'āpār] and ashes” in terms reminiscent of those craven expressions of obedience and submission so common to the Amarna Tablets. Recent evidence has suggested that the Mari Banū-yamīna, with which may be compared Heb. Binyāmīn (Benjamin), had affinities with the 'Apiru of the patriarchal period, and that the ancestral “Hebrews,” understood in the broadest sense, founded the 1st Dynasty of Babylon.

Donkey caravaners continued to ply their trade down to the Amarna age (cf. esp. letter no. 96) and beyond (cf. Jgs. 5). Eventually, however, the decline of their profession forced them into less nomadic occupations such as viticulture, a transition strikingly reflected in the description of Judah in Gen. 49:11:

Binding his donkey to the vine,
His ass's colt to the tendril,
He washed his garment in wine,
His robe in the blood of grapes.

西北闪米特语中的单词 'apiru, 本意可能是“满身灰尘的人, (骑驴的) 旅行者”。亚伯拉罕可能就是这样的哈皮鲁人; 值得注意的是, 亚伯拉罕是《旧约》中第一个被称作希伯来人 ('ibrī) 的人 (创 14:13)。在《创世记》18:27 中, 亚伯拉罕自称“灰尘 [希伯来语: 'āpār]”, 这不禁让人联想起亚玛拿泥版中那些表示怯懦、顺从和顺服的常见词语。近期的证据表明马里的 Banū-yamīna (可将其与希伯来语的 Binyāmīn [便雅悯] 作对比) 和族长时期的哈皮鲁人存在密切的关系, 从广义理解, 也与巴比伦第一王朝的“希伯来人”祖先存在密切的联系。

骑驴的旅行者一直从事贸易, 直到亚玛拿时期 (参: 尤其是第 96 号亚玛拿文书) 及其之后的时期 (参: 士 5)。但最终, 这种职业逐渐消失了, 他们被迫从事流动性较低的职业, 比如葡萄种植, 《创世记》49:11 对犹大的描述中明显体现出了这种过渡:

犹太把小驴拴在葡萄树上,
把驴驹拴在美好的葡萄树上;
他在葡萄酒中洗了衣服,
在葡萄汁中洗了袍褂。

1. According to 2 S. 17:25, the son of Abigail, the sister of Zeruah and David, and Ithra, an Israelite; but another source, 1 Ch. 2:17, calls his father Jether the Ishmaelite. The RSV and NEB read “Ishmaelite” in both places. He was a nephew of David and a cousin of Absalom, who made him commander of the army of rebellion. When the uprising had been quelled, David, in order to conciliate Amasa, promised him the position held by Joab, who had fallen from favor (2 S. 19:13ff.). When a new revolt broke out under Sheba the son of Bichri (2 S. 20), Amasa was entrusted with the task of assembling the men of Judah. But Joab was eager for revenge upon the man who had obtained the office of command that he coveted. When Amasa met Joab at Gibeon, Joab murdered him while pretending to salute him (2 S. 20:8–10; 1 K. 2:5).

AMASAI

1. A son of Elkanah, a Levite of the Kohathite family (1 Ch. 6:25, 35; 2 Ch. 29:12).

2. Chief of the captains who met David at Ziklag and tendered him their allegiance (1 Ch. 12:18). Some have identified him with Amasa and others with Abishai. The difficulty is that neither Amasa nor Abishai occupied the rank of the chief of thirty according to the lists in 2 S. 23 and 1 Ch. 11, the rank to which David is supposed to have appointed him.

3. One of the trumpet-blowing priests who greeted David when he brought back the ark of the covenant (1 Ch. 15:24).

AMAZE; AMAZEMENT 危难; 惊奇

除常见用法外, 该词还在《钦定版圣经》中表示“危难”(可 14:33, 希腊语: ekthambéō)和“恐吓”(ptóēsis, 彼前 3:6)。

希腊语 ékstasis 在《马可福音》5:42; 《路加福音》5:26; 《使徒行传》3:10 中被翻译为“惊奇”, 表示人们都“满心”惊奇, 因此无法理解他们看到的事情(参: 英语: “ecstasy” [“入迷”])——这个词在这三节经文中分别描述了一个“死去”的女孩奇迹般地复活, 一个瘫子和瘸子奇迹般地康复。

AMAZIAH 亚玛谢

音译: am-əzi'ə 【^אmašyâ, ^אmašyāhû—“耶和华是强壮的”】。

1、约阿施的儿子和继承人, 犹大和以色列分裂后的第八任犹大王(王下 14:1-20; 代下 25)。亚玛谢 25 岁时顺利登基。他父亲统治时期, 犹大在亚玛 age of twenty-five. Judah had suffered considerably at the hands of Syria during his father's reign, but Amaziah's reign marked the beginning of a new period of prosperity for the two Hebrew kingdoms. In Judah, however, this prosperity was not fully realized till the reign of his son Azariah (Uzziah), for Amaziah picked an ill-advised quarrel with Jehoash of Israel and suffered a severe defeat at his hands.

Amaziah's first action as king was to punish his father's assassins. Then he made preparations for war against Edom, which had for many years been subject to the kings of Judah, but had been independent since Jehoram's reign (2 Ch. 21:8-10). The control of Edom was not only important to the prestige of Judah, but was also essential to her commercial prosperity, since a hostile Edom could cut off Judah from her southern port Elath. The logical conclusion of Amaziah's victory over Edom was to retake and reopen Elath, which was in fact done by Azariah (2 K. 14:22).

Collecting a large army, Amaziah attacked and routed the Edomites in the Valley of Salt, causing great slaughter. Then the army moved on to Sela (Petra). This city lies in a hollow, shut in by mountains, and approached only by a narrow ravine, through which a stream of water flows. Amaziah took it by storm. Great execution was done, many of the captives being thrown from the rock, the face of which is now covered with rock-cut tombs of the Greco-Roman age.

Flushed with his success, Amaziah sent a foolish challenge to Jehoash of Israel. The account in 2 K. 14 gives no reason for his action, but 2 Ch. 25 gives rather

谢的父亲执政时期饱尝苦难，但亚玛谢的统治标志着这两个希伯来王国开始进入鼎盛时期。但是由于亚玛谢不理智地与以色列的约阿施争战，并最终遭受惨败，犹大直到他的儿子亚撒利雅（乌西雅）统治时期才完全兴盛起来。

亚玛谢称王之后第一件事便是处死了暗杀他父亲的人。之后他开始为向以东开战作准备。以东人多年来一直臣服于犹大王，但从约兰统治时期开始宣布独立（代下 21:8-10）。控制以东不仅十分有利于犹大恢复声望，而且还是犹大商业繁荣的必要条件，因为敌方以东人可以切断犹大与南部港口以拉他的联系。亚玛谢战胜了以东人，希望能重新占领并开放以拉他港，但实际上，直到亚撒利雅统治时期才得以实现（王下 14:22）。

亚玛谢调集重兵攻击以东人，在盐谷击溃敌军，并大行杀戮。这支军队随后向西拉（佩特拉）进发。西拉坐落在一个山谷之中，四周群山围绕，仅有一条峡谷可以通往城内，峡谷中有一条溪流。亚玛谢攻取了该城，大开杀戒，将大量俘虏推下山崖，山崖的正面现在被希腊与罗马时代的岩洞墓所覆盖。

亚玛谢被胜利冲昏了头，愚蠢地向以色列王约阿施宣战。《列王纪下》14章中并为给出他这么做的原因，但《历代志下》25章给出了更多细节。在他与以东

more detail. At the beginning of his campaign against Edom he had engaged a large body of Israelite mercenaries, but had been dissuaded by a prophet from employing them. They were accordingly sent off home, but en route they vented their annoyance by plundering a number of the villages of Judah. Amaziah seized this as an excuse for challenging Jehoash. The latter was in no mood to fight, and his reply was the well-known parable of the thistle and the cedar. Amaziah failed to heed his good advice, and the battle of Bethshemesh followed. Judah was utterly routed, and Amaziah himself taken prisoner. Jehoash contented himself with taking hostages, plundering the treasuries of the temple and palace, and breaking down 400 cubits (almost 600 ft., 180 m.) of the wall of Jerusalem at the northwest corner of the defense (2 K. 14:13f.; 2 Ch. 25:22-24). But he did not harm Amaziah, nor did he seek to incorporate Judah into his kingdom.

Amaziah had no one but himself to blame for this humiliation. His challenge to Jehoash had been presumptuous and unnecessary. Further, the Chronicler attributes his downfall to his religious apostasy in worshiping Edomite gods (2 Ch. 25:14-16); yet prior to the Edomite campaign his conduct had been exemplary (2 K. 14:3). So deep was his disgrace now and so profound the sense of national humiliation that a party in the state determined on Amaziah's removal, as soon as there was another to take his place. The age of majority among the Hebrew kings was sixteen; and when Amaziah's son was of this age, the conspiracy against his life grew so strong and open that he fled to Lachish. Here he was followed and killed; his body was insultingly carried to Jerusalem on horses, and not conveyed in a litter or coffin (2 K. 14:19f.; 2 Ch. 25:27f.). Uzziah succeeded him.

开战初期，他雇佣了大量的以色列雇佣兵，但是先知劝阻他不要招募以色列雇佣兵。于是，这些雇佣兵被遣回原地，但在途中，他们劫掠了大量的犹大村庄发泄怒火。亚玛谢借机向约阿施宣战。约阿施无意争战，他用众所周知的蒺藜和香柏树的比喻答复亚玛谢。亚玛谢没听从他的忠告，于是爆发了伯示麦战役。犹大彻底战败，亚玛谢本人也被俘虏了。约阿施劫持了人质，掠夺了神殿和宫殿中的财宝，拆毁了 400 肘（约 600 英尺，180 米）耶路撒冷西北角的防御城墙，就此收手（王下 14:13-14；代下 25:22-24）。但他并未伤害亚玛谢，也没有试图将犹大并入他的王国。

Amaziah is credited with a reign of twenty-nine years (2 K. 14:2; 2 Ch. 25:1), and 2 Ch. 25:25 states that he outlived Jehoash of Israel by fifteen years. It does not, however, seem possible on chronological grounds that he can have reigned for so long. Some scholars have suggested that twenty-nine is an error for nineteen or even nine; W. F. Albright ignores the figure of twenty-nine altogether, and gives Amaziah's dates as 800–783 B.C. It may be, however, that 2 K. 14:19 telescopes events; possibly Amaziah lived some twelve years at Lachish, while his son acted as king in Jerusalem. The statement of 2 K. 14:22 implies that Uzziah had some powers before his father's death at any rate. E. R. Thiele credits Amaziah with a twenty-nine-year reign, 796–767 B.C., but with Uzziah as coregent from 791 to 790 (MNHK, pp. 81–87).

Amaziah is mentioned in the royal genealogy of 1 Ch. 3:12, but not in that of Mt. 1, where there is a leap from Jehoram to Uzziah; and Ahaziah, Jehoash, and Amaziah are omitted.

2. A Simeonite (1 Ch. 4:34).

3. A Levite of the house of Merari (1 Ch. 6:30, 45).

4. A priest of Bethel (Am. 7:10ff.) who accused the prophet Amos of conspiracy against Jeroboam II of Israel. Amaziah advised Amos to return to his native Judah, to which the prophet replied: "I

亚玛谢在位 29 年 (王下 14:2; 代下 25:1), 《历代志下》25:25 中称他比以色列王约阿施多活了 15 年。但是从年代证据来看, 他似乎不可能在位这么久。一些学者认为 29 这个数字是错误的, 应该是 19 甚至是 9; 奥尔布赖特完全忽略了 29 这个数字, 他认为亚玛谢的在位时间是公元前 800 至公元前 783 年。但《列王纪下》14:19 精简了事件; 当亚玛谢的儿子在耶路撒冷作王时, 亚玛谢可能已在拉吉生活了 12 年左右。《列王纪下》14:22 中的记录表明, 不论怎样, 乌西雅在其父死亡之前已经掌权。蒂勒 (E. R. Thiele) 认为亚玛谢在位 29 年 (在位时间公元前 796 至公元前 767 年), 但是从公元前 791 至 790 年他和乌西雅共治 (MNHK, 81–87 页)。

《历代志上》3:12 中的王的家谱中提到了亚玛谢, 但《马太福音》1 章耶稣家谱中却并未提到亚玛谢, 耶稣家谱直接从约兰跳到了乌西雅; 亚哈谢、约阿施和亚玛谢都被省略了。

2、一个西缅人 (代上 4:34)。

3、米拉利家族的一个利未人 (代上 6:30, 45)。

4、伯特利的祭司 (摩 7:10 起), 他向以色列王耶罗波安二世控告先知阿摩司图谋背叛他。亚玛谢让阿摩司回到他的家乡犹大去, 而这位先知回答说: "我原不是先知, 也不是先知的门徒; 我是

AMBASSADOR

[Heb. šîr (Isa. 18:2), 'messenger' (Ezk. 17:15); Gk. presbeuō—'act as an ambassador,' lit. 'be older' (2 Cor. 5:20; Eph. 6:20), presbýtēs (see below, on Philem. 9)]; AV also "the aged" (Philem. 9); NEB also ENVOY, MESSENGER. An official representative of a king or government. On the OT references see ENVOY.

In the NT the term is used in a figurative sense. As the imprisoned representative of Christ at Rome Paul calls himself "an ambassador in chains" (Eph. 6:20); and in 2 Cor. 5:20 includes, with himself, all ministers of the gospel as "ambassadors for Christ," commissioned by Him as their sovereign Lord for the ministry of reconciling the world to God. The Bible contains no finer characterization of the exalted and spiritual nature of the minister's vocation as the representative of Jesus Christ, the King of kings and Savior of the world.

In Philem. 9 most MSS have Gk. presbýtēs, "old man." Both the RSV and NEB accept the conjectured emendation to presbeutēs, "ambassador," which is possible in view of the dialectal interchange between y and eu in koine Greek (cf. 1 Macc. 14:22; 2 Macc.

AMBASSADOR 使者

【希伯來語: šîr (賽 18:2), mal'āk—“送信者”(結 17:15); 希臘語: presbeuō——“作使者”, 字面意思: “變老”(林后 5:20; 弗 6:20), presbýtēs (見下文, 門 1:9)】; 《欽定版聖經》中還譯為 “the aged” (“有年紀的”, 門 1:9); 《新英文譯本》還譯為 ENVOY (“使者”), MESSENGER (“送信者”)。使者是代表王或者政府的官員。關於《舊約》中的使者, 見 ENVOY (使者)。

《新約》中使用了這個詞的比喻義。保羅作為被囚禁在羅馬的基督的使者, 自稱是“帶鎖鏈的使者”(弗 6:20); 在《哥林多後書》5:20 中, 他稱自己和傳播福音的所有牧師都是“基督的使者”, 他們受至高神耶和華的差遣, 向這世界傳與神和好的福音。《聖經》中稱傳道者是萬王之王、救世主耶穌基督的使者, 這是對傳道者職分的屬靈本質的最高讚譽。

在大多數抄本的《腓利門書》1:9 中都出現了希臘語 presbýtēs, “老人”。《修訂標準譯本》和《新英文譯本》都將其修正為 presbeutēs, “使者”, 鑒於希臘通用語中的 y 和 eu 是可以互換的方言 (參: 馬一 14:22; 馬二 11:34; 代下 32:31 《七十士譯本》的《梵蒂岡抄本》等), 11:34; 2 Ch. 32:31, LXX B, etc.). Others maintain that Paul's reference here to his old age is appropriate (TDNT, VI, s.v. [Bornkamm]). For references on both sides see Bauer, p. 707; and see MM, p. 535.

AMBITION

[Gk. philotiméomai—‘make it one's aim’] (Rom. 15:20); AV “strive”; SELFISH AMBITION [Gk. eritheía (Jas. 3:14, 16); AV STRIFE. The Greek verb philotiméomai (lit. “be fond of honor”) denotes a positive kind of ambition or aim to accomplish a particular goal. Thus it expresses Paul's pioneering ambition to carry the Good News to those places it had not previously reached (Rom. 15:20; cf. 2 Cor. 5:9 and 1 Thess. 4:11 for other uses of this term).

By way of contrast, the Gk. eritheía denotes a negative kind of ambition that is motivated by a selfish spirit bent on immediate personal gain at any cost. It is therefore quite appropriate that the RSV renders “selfish ambition” in the James passages (cf. NEB Rom. 2:8; Gal. 5:20; Jas. 3:14). The negative force of the term is further suggested by its presence in two separate lists of the “works of the flesh” (2 Cor. 12:20; Gal. 5:20). Both in these presbeutés 这种拼写形式也有可能成立。其他抄写者则认为保罗这里应该指的是他年岁大了 (TDNT, VI, 见词条 [Bornkamm])。关于这两种观点见 Bauer, 707 页和 MM, 535 页。

AMBITION 志向

【希腊语: philotiméomai——“将……定为目标”】(罗 15:20); 《钦定版圣经》译为“strive” (“奋斗”); SELFISH AMBITION (“纷争”)【希腊语: eritheía (雅 3:14, 16); 《钦定版圣经》译为 STRIFE (“不和”)】。希腊语动词 philotiméomai (字面意思为“喜爱荣耀”)表示积极的志向或目的。因此, 这个词表示保罗立志将福音传播到他未曾到达过的地方 (罗 15:20; 关于本词的其他用法, 参: 林后 5:9 和帖前 4:11)。

而希腊语的 eritheía 则表示因自私不惜一切代价追求眼前私利的消极野心。因此《修订标准译本》在《雅各书》中将这个词译为“纷争”是非常恰当的 (参: 《新英文译本》罗 2:8; 加 5:20; 雅 3:14)。两段关于“情欲的事”的描述 (林后 12:20; 加 5:20) 中进一步解释了这个词的消极意义。在这两段描述中和《雅各书》中, eritheía 都和“嫉妒”一同出现, 这表明这两个词的含义类似。 lists and in the James passages, eritheia stands alongside of “jealousy,” which suggests a similarity of meaning.

The sin of selfish ambition runs contrary to the very heart of the Christian ethic, an ethic based on sacrificial love and humble service of the brethren, as so vividly portrayed in the life of Our Lord (e.g., Mk. 10:43-45). To promote one’s own welfare at any cost is to become arrogant and divisive, and ultimately issues in every kind of evil practice (Jas. 3:16).

AMBUSH

[Heb. 'ārab—‘lie in wait,’ mā^arāb]; AV also AMBUSHMENT; [Gk. enedra, enedreúō—‘lie in wait’]; AV “lie in wait”; NEB also “lie in wait.” A military stratagem in which a body of men are placed in concealment to surprise an enemy unawares, or to attack a point when temporarily undefended. This stratagem was employed successfully by Joshua at Ai (Josh. 8). Jeremiah commanded the Medes to prepare ambushes (Jer. 51:12). Paul’s enemies lay in ambush for him at Jerusalem (Acts 23:16, 21) and planned a further attempt at capture (25:3). The Hebrew verb is often used in the OT to describe the wiles of the wicked (Ps. 10:8; 59:3; Prov. 1:11; Jer. 9:8; etc.).

纷争的罪和基督教道德规范的核心相悖，后者以奉献的爱和对弟兄们之间的谦相待为基础，耶稣基督的生平淋漓尽致地体现出这一道德规范（如，可 10:43-45）。不惜一切代价追求一己私利，就会变得自大并造成分裂，必将出现各样的坏事（雅 3:16）。

AMBUSH 埋伏

【希伯来语: 'ārab——“埋伏以待”，mā^arāb】；《钦定版圣经》还译为 AMBUSHMENT (“埋伏”)；【希腊语: enedra, enedreúō——“埋伏以待”】；《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》还译为 “lie in wait” (“埋伏”)。一种军事策略，就是一些人隐藏起来，趁敌人未察觉发动奇袭，或攻击暂时无防御的地点。约书亚攻打艾城（书 8）时，成功地使用了埋伏策略。耶利米指挥玛代人设伏击（耶 51:12）。保罗的敌人在耶路撒冷设下埋伏，准备攻击他（徒 23:16, 21），并图谋俘虏保罗（徒 25:3）。《旧约》中经常使用这个希伯来语动词来描述恶人的计谋（诗 10:8; 59:3; 箴 1:11; 耶 9:8 等）。

AMEN 阿门（赞成；祈祷的结束语）

firm,' 'be reliable'; Gk. amén]. A particle expressing affirmation, equivalent to "so be it." It occurs twice as a noun in Isa. 65:16, "God of truth" (NEB "God of Amen"). Elsewhere in the OT it is used as a solemn formula by which an individual or the whole nation confirms a covenant or an oath (Nu. 5:22; Dt. 27:15ff.; Neh. 5:13; etc.). The prophet Jeremiah uses it to endorse the message of Hananiah (Jer. 28:6). It is also used as a liturgical formula by which the listeners join themselves to a doxology (esp. at the end of a Psalm) or to a prayer.

In the NT amén occurs frequently as a liturgical formula, usually at the end of a doxology (e.g., Rom. 1:25; 9:5; 11:36; 15:33; 16:27; Gal. 1:5; Eph. 3:21; Phil. 4:20; 1 Tim. 1:17; 6:16; 2 Tim. 4:18; He. 13:21; 1 Pet. 4:11; etc.). It is evident from 1 Cor. 14:16 that in the early Church the congregation was expected to respond with a spoken "Amen." This practice is reflected in the book of Revelation (5:13f.; 22:20).

In the Gospels a new and unique use of amén appears with the sayings of Jesus. Here the term means "surely" or "truly." All four Gospels record Jesus' use of the term as an introductory formula (amén légo hymín, "truly I say to you") emphasizing the authority of what He has to say, somewhat analogous to the messenger-formula of the OT prophets, "Thus says the Lord." (Cf. Mt. 5:18, 26; 6:2, 5, 16; etc.; Mk. 3:28; 8:12; etc.; Lk. 4:24; 12:37; etc.; Jn. 1:51; 3:3,5, 11; etc. [always amén amén in John].)

See J. Jeremias, NT Theology (1971), pp. 35f.

语: 'āmēn 衍生自 'mn——“坚定的”, “可靠的”; 希腊语: amén】。表示肯定的词, 相当于“愿如此”。该词在《以赛亚书》65:16 中以名词形式出现了两次, “真实的神”(《新英文译本》译为“God of Amen” [“真实的神”])。在《旧约》中其他经文中, 个人或全民族用这个严肃的惯用语确认盟约或誓言(民 5:22; 申 27:15 起; 尼 5:13 等)。先知耶利米用本词赞成哈拿尼雅的话(耶 28:6)。当听众唱赞美诗或祈祷时, 也使用本词作为礼拜用语(尤其是在诗篇的结尾处)。

在《新约》中, amén 多出现在礼拜用语中, 通常用在赞美诗的结尾处(如罗 1:25; 9:5; 11:36; 15:33; 16:27; 加 1:5; 弗 3:21; 腓 4:20; 提前 1:17; 6:16; 提后 4:18; 来 13:21; 彼前 4:11 等)。从《哥林多前书》14:16 明显可知, 早期教会中的会众期待以“阿门”作为回应。《启示录》中反映出这种习惯(启 5:13-14; 22:20)。

在福音书中, amén 有一种新的、独特的用法, 它和耶稣的教训一同出现。此处, 本词意思是“肯定地”或“真诚地”。根据四福音书的记载, 耶稣以这个词开始教导人(amén légo hymín, “我实在告诉你们”), 以这个词来强调祂话语的权威性, 与《旧约》中众先知传达启示的用语有些相似, “耶和华如此说”(参: 太 5:18, 26; 6:2, 5, 16 等; 可 3:28; 8:12 等; 路 4:24; 12:37 等; 约 1:51; 3:3, 5, 11 等[《约翰福音》中通常用 amén amén])。

AMMIZABAD

am'ən; AMMONITES am'ən-īts [Heb. 'ammôn, 'ammônîm]. According to Hebrew tradition, the descendants of Ben-ammi, the son of Lot by his daughter (Gen. 19:30–38). As such they were regarded as related to Israel, a relationship reflected in the names ben 'Ammi ("son of my people") and b'ne 'Ammôn ("children of Ammon"). Hence the Israelites were commanded to treat them kindly (Dt. 2:19).

At an early date the Ammonites occupied the territory of the Zamzummim between the rivers Arnon and Jabbok (Dt. 2:20f., 37; 3:11). Later part of this territory was taken from them by the Amorites, and they were confined to an area E of the river Jabbok where it runs N-S (Nu. 21:24; Dt. 2:37; Josh. 12:2; 13:10, 25). Modern archeological discovery has shown that the Ammonites, like the Edomites, Moabites, and

AMMISHADDAI 亚米沙代

音译：am-i-shad'ī 【希伯来语：'ammīšadday——“全能者的子民”】。亚希以谢的父亲，行在旷野中时，但支派的首领或“本支派的族长”（民 1:12; 2:25 等）。

AMMIZABAD 暗米萨拔

音译：ə-miz'ə-bad 【希伯来语：'ammīzābād——“我的族人做了一个礼物”】。比拿雅的儿子，比拿雅是大卫三十个勇士中的首领（代上 27:6）。

AMMON 亚扪

音译：am'ən; AMMONITES (“亚扪人”)，音译：am'ən-īts 【希伯来语：'ammôn, 'ammônîm】。据希伯来传说，亚扪是便亚米的后代，是罗得和他女儿生的儿子（创 19:30-38）。因此亚扪人被认为与以色列人有关，ben 'Ammi (“我民之子”)和 b'ne 'Ammôn (“亚扪子孙”)这两个名字就可以看出这种关系。所以神要求以色列人善待亚扪人（申 2:19）。

亚扪人早期占据了亚嫩河和雅博河之间的散送冥的领地（申 2:20-21, 37; 3:11）。后来亚摩利人占据了这片地区的一部分，亚扪人被限制在雅博河东岸由北至南的一片区域内（民 21:24; 申 2:37; 书 12:2; 13:10, 25）。现代考古学发现表明亚扪人和以东人、摩押人、亚摩利人一样，在领地周围建立了坚垒（民 21:24）。

Amorites, surrounded their territories with small fortresses (Nu. 21:24).

At the time of the Exodus, Israel did not conquer Ammon (Dt. 2:19, 37; Jgs. 11:15). Later the Ammonites were condemned for joining the Moabites in hiring Balaam, and were forbidden to enter the congregation of Israel to the tenth generation (Dt. 23:3-6). Their chief town was Rabbah, or Rabbath-ammon, where in the days of the Exodus the ironstone sarcophagus (“bedstead of iron”) of Og king of Bashan rested (Dt. 3:11). The town features much in later history.

In the days of the judges the Ammonites helped Eglon of Moab subdue Israelite territory (Jgs. 3:13). Again at the time of Jephthah they encroached on Israelite lands E of the Jordan (Jgs. 11) and were driven out. Their religion influenced some of the Israelites (Jgs. 10:6), and this caused the Ammonite oppression in Gilead and led to the campaign of Jephthah (Jgs. 11).

When Nahash king of Ammon besieged Jabesh-gilead just before Saul became king, Saul rallied the men of Israel and drove off the Ammonites, thus establishing his reputation as a military leader (1 S. 11:1-11; 12:12; 14:47). A few years later Nahash was a friend of David (2 S. 10:1f.), but his son Hanun rejected a kindly visit from David’s ambassadors and insulted them. He hired Syrian mercenaries and went to war against Israel. David’s generals Joab and Abishai defeated them (2 S. 10; 1 Ch. 14). A year later the Israelites captured the Ammonite capital of Rabbah (2 S. 12:26-31; 1 Ch. 20:1-3) and put the people to work in all their cities. Some Ammonites later befriended David when he fled from Absalom, among them being Shobi son of Nahash (2 S. 17:27–29), and Zelek, who was one of his thirty mighty men (2 S. 23:37; 1 Ch. 11:39).

出埃及时期，以色列人并未攻打亚扪（申 2:19, 37；士 11:15）。后来亚扪人因和摩押人一起雇佣巴兰而受到谴责，并被禁止进入耶和华的会，他们的子孙虽过十代，也永不可入会（申 23:3-6）。他们的主要城邑是拉巴或拉巴阿曼，出埃及时，巴珊王噩埋葬在此处的铁石棺（“铁床”）之中（申 3:11）。这座城邑在后来的历史中占重要地位。

《士师记》时期，亚扪人帮助摩押王伊矶伦攻占以色列的领地（士 3:13）。在耶弗他时期，亚扪人又侵犯约旦东部以色列人的领地（士 11），但他们被击退了。他们的宗教信仰影响了一部分以色列人（士 10:6），这使得以色列人在基列备受亚扪人压迫，进而引起了耶弗他战役（士 11）。

扫罗做王之前，亚扪王拿辖围困基列雅比，扫罗集结以色列人击退了亚扪人，从而确立了他作为军事领导的声望（撒下 11:1-11; 12:12; 14:47）。几年之后，拿辖成了大卫的朋友（撒下 10:1-2），但是他的儿子哈嫩拒绝了大卫的使者的善意拜访，并羞辱了他们。他招募叙利亚雇佣兵攻打以色列。大卫的将军约押和亚比筛打败了亚扪人（撒下 10; 代上 14）。一年之后，以色列人占领了亚扪人的首都拉巴（撒下 12:26-31; 代上 20:1-3），并派人去攻打亚扪所有的城邑。后来大卫从押沙龙逃离时，有一些亚扪人帮助了大卫，其中有拿辖的儿子朔比（撒下 17:27-29）和洗勒（大卫三十勇士之一，撒下 23:37; 代上 11:39）。

Solomon included Ammonite women in his harem and worshiped Milcom (Molech) and Chemosh their gods (1 K. 11:1, 5, 7, 33). In the days of Jehoshaphat the Ammonites joined the Moabites and Edomites in a raid on Judah (2 Ch. 20:1–30).

The Assyrian records refer to a contingent of troops from Ammon at the Battle of Qarqar in 853 B.C., when a coalition of twelve kings, including Ahab of Israel and Ben-hadad of Damascus, fought Shalmaneser III of Assyria. About 800 B.C. Zabad and Jehozabad, both sons of an Ammonitess, conspired to slay Joash king of Judah (2 Ch. 24:26). Later in the century both Uzziah and Jotham of Judah received tribute from the Ammonites (2 Ch. 26:8; 27:5).

所罗门王将亚扪女子收入后宫之中，他还祭拜她们的神米勒公（摩洛）和摩押的神基抹（王上 11:1, 5, 7, 33）。约沙法时期，亚扪人和摩押人、以东人一起劫掠犹大（代下 20:1-30）。

亚述的记录中提及了公元前 853 年参加卡卡（夸夸）战役的一支亚扪军队，在这场战役中，十二位王联合起来攻打亚述王沙尔马那塞尔三世，这些王中包括以色列王亚哈和大马士革王便哈达等。约公元前 800 年，亚扪妇人的儿子撒拔和约萨拔合谋杀死了犹大王约阿施（代下 24:26）。公元前 7 世纪末期，亚扪人向犹大王乌西雅和约坦纳贡（代下 26:8; 27:5）。

Theater at Roman Philadelphia (modern Amman), which as the ancient capital Rabbah was the only Transjordanian city clearly designated by the Bible as Ammonite (W. S. LaSor)

In the days of the Assyrian ruler Tiglath-pileser III (744–727 B.C.) Sanipu king of Ammon paid tribute to the Assyrians along with others including Jehoahaz of Judah. Ammon was also listed among those who opposed Sennacherib (704–681 B.C.) in the days of King Hezekiah of Judah, but they submitted. Josiah of Judah defiled the high place that Solomon had erected (2 K. 23:13) and to that extent checked religious influence from Ammon.

In the days of Esarhaddon of Assyria (680–669 B.C.), Puduil king of Ammon is listed as one who paid tribute. Ammonites joined others in troubling Jehoiakim (2 K. 24:2); and after the fall of Jerusalem in 587 B.C., Baalis their king provoked further trouble (2 K. 25:25; Jer. 40:11–14).

罗马非拉铁非（现代的安曼）剧场，古都拉巴是《圣经》中唯一一座明确分派给亚扪人的约旦河东城邑。
(W. S. LaSor)

亚述王提革拉毗列色三世统治时期（公元前 744-727 年），亚扪王撒尼普向亚述王、犹大王约哈斯等人进贡。犹大王希西家统治时期（公元前 704-681 年），亚扪是反对西拿基立的国家之一，但他们后来都臣服于西拿基立。犹大王约西亚污秽了所罗门王建的邱坛（王下 23:13），这体现出亚扪对以色列的宗教影响。

亚述王以撒哈顿统治时期（公元前 680-669 年），亚扪王蒲迪尔（Puduil）是向亚述纳贡的国王之一。亚扪人和其他几个国家一同攻击约雅敬（王下 24:2）；公元前 587 年耶路撒冷失陷之后，亚扪国王巴利斯使得矛盾更加激化（王下 25:25；耶 40:11-14）。

The Ammonites were bitterly attacked by the prophets as inveterate enemies of Israel (Jer. 49:1-6; Ezk. 21:20; 25:1-7; Am. 1:13-15; Zeph. 2:8-11).

After the return from exile, Tobiah the Ammonite joined others in hindering the building of the walls of Jerusalem by Nehemiah (Neh. 2:10, 19; 4:3, 7). Intermarriage between the Jews and the Ammonites was censured by both Ezra and Nehemiah (Ezr. 9:1f.; Neh. 13:1, 23-31).

The Ammonites as a recognizable group persisted until the 2nd cent. B.C. Important graves, seals, and inscribed statues from Ammon of the 7th and 6th cents. B.C. suggest a vitality and political significance that outlasted Moab and Edom. The family of the Tobiads persisted from the 5th to the 2nd cent. B.C., as important archeological evidence from both Transjordan and Egypt demonstrates. Judas Maccabeus fought the Ammonites in his day (1 Macc. 5:6). The full story awaits further archeological discovery.

AMMONITESS

am-ən-ī'təs [Heb. 'ammōnîṭ]. A woman of the Ammonites, Naamah the mother of Rehoboam (1 K. 14:21, 31; 2 Ch. 12:13; 24:26).

众先知无情地抨击亚扪人，称他们是以色列的宿敌(耶 49:1-6; 结 21:20; 25:1-7; 摩 1:13-15; 番 2:8-11)。

被掳归回之后，亚扪人多比雅和其他人一同阻止尼希米修建耶路撒冷的城墙(尼 2:10, 19; 4:3, 7)。以斯拉和尼希米谴责犹太人与亚扪人通婚(拉 9:1-2; 尼 13:1, 23-31)。

直到公元前 2 世纪，亚扪人始终存在。亚扪出土的、公元前 6 和 7 世纪时期的重要坟墓、标志和雕像表明，亚扪的活力和政治影响都远超摩押和以东。约旦河东岸和埃及的重要考古学证据都表明多比雅家族一直从公元 5 世纪延续至公元前 2 世纪。犹大·马加比攻打过亚扪人(马一 5:6)。关于亚扪的完整历史仍需进一步考古发掘的证实。

AMORITES 亚摩利人

音译：am'ə-rīts【希伯来语：ʿmōrî(常常唱歌)；苏美尔语：mar-tu；阿卡德语：amurru(m)——“西方”；埃及语：Amuru/Amarra 或 'imr；乌加里特语：'amr；希腊语：'Amorraíos】。

I. 《旧约》中亚摩利人。亚摩利用在《旧约》中表示(1)巴勒斯坦的居民，(2)与平原相对的丘陵人口，(3)一个有自己的国王的特殊民族。因此(1)出现在死海的西岸(创 14:7)、希伯仑(创 14:13)、示剑(创 48:22)、基列和巴珊(申 3:10)和黑门山下(申 3:8; 申 4:48)。他们取代迦南人成为巴勒斯坦的居民，以色列人接到旨意要根除他们(创 15:16; 申 20:17; 士 6:10; 撒上 7:14; 王上 21:26; 王下 21:11)；《约书亚记》10:5-6 中称犹大地区的早期居民为亚摩利人，这与《以西结书》16:3 中称耶路撒冷的父亲是亚摩利人相符；基遍人据说是“亚摩利人中所剩的”(撒下 21:2)。另一方面，(2)在《民数记》13:29 中，亚摩利人和赫人、耶路撒冷的耶布斯人都住在山地中，亚玛力人或贝都因人住在南地，迦南人住在海边和约旦谷中。最后(3)“亚摩利人的王”西宏，占领了摩押人领地北方的一半(民 21:21-31; 申 2:26-35)。这个问题缺乏典外文献的佐证，而《圣经》中的证据有一些值得注意的难点，《圣经》中本词的用法明显取决于公元前 20 世纪末期它在叙利亚和巴勒斯坦的一般用法。

Canaanites on the seacoast and in the valley of the Jordan. Lastly (3) we hear of Sihon, “king of the Amorites,” who had conquered the northern half of Moab (Nu. 21:21–31; Dt. 2:26–35). While nonbiblical evidence on the subject is lacking and biblical evidence faces notable difficulties, it appears certain that the scriptural use of the word depends on the general Syro-Palestinian pattern of the end of the 2nd millennium.

II. In Mesopotamia and the Ancient Near East.-A. Varying Use of the Name. Amorites appear first in Mesopotamia in a divinatory text of the time of Sargon I (ca. 2360–2305). There they are a nomadic people, possibly from the northwestern hill countries, but more likely (so Dossin) from the western deserts (kur-mar-tu=the desert countries). The name (“the Westerners”) is therefore a purely geographical indication of their immediate origins, from the perspective of Mesopotamia, and conveys no information about their ethnic composition or their real name. The highly civilized Sumerians considered them as barbarians. The name is used also for the northwestern countries: Syria, Lebanon, and Palestine; the Mediterranean appears sometimes as the “Sea of Amurru.”

B. Early Amorite Kingdoms and Nomads in Syria and Mesopotamia. Between the 23rd and 21st cents. B.C. the Amorites penetrated into Babylonia, where, after the fall of the 3rd Dynasty of Ur (ca. 1950), they settled down. Thereafter Northwest Semitic dynasties ruled over Larsa (ca. 1961–1699), Isin (ca. 1958–1733), Mari (until 1693), and Babylon (ca. 1830–1531, the 1st Dynasty of Babylon), further in Syria over Aleppo, Qatna, Alalakh, etc., showing a consistent ethnic and institutional pattern from Mesopotamia to Syria. Evidence comes also from the Egyptian Execration Texts (19th–18th cents. see ANET, pp. 328ff.) and from a list showing the presence of Amorite slaves in Egypt (18th cent.). The end of Amorite rule came after the conquest and sack of Babylon ca. 1531 by the Hittites, when its remains were overrun by the Kassites, who were to hold the region for some four hundred years. The archives of Mari reveal another wave of Amorite nomads, plundering and trying whenever possible to settle down. Their linguistic pattern shows affinities with names and idioms of Biblical Hebrew, on which ground M. Noth has called them “Proto-Arameans.” This has lately been challenged. The title “Northwest Semites” is more pertinent, therefore, although “Amorites” remains as a conventional name.

II. 美索不达米亚和古近东地区的亚摩利人。 A. 本词的不同用法。撒珥根一世（约公元前 2360-2305 年）时的一个预言书中，亚摩利人首次出现在美索不达米亚。他们当时是游牧民族，可能来自西北的丘陵地带，但更有可能（朵欣如是认为）来自西方的沙漠(kur-mar-tu, 意思是沙漠地区)。因此，从美索不达米亚的角度来看这个名字（“西方人”）仅仅指明了亚摩利人直接起源的地理方位，并未显示出他们的种族构成或真实名称。拥有高度发达文明的苏美尔人认为亚摩利人是野蛮人。这个名字也被用来指西北方的国家：叙利亚、黎巴嫩和巴勒斯坦；地中海有时被称作“阿穆路海”。

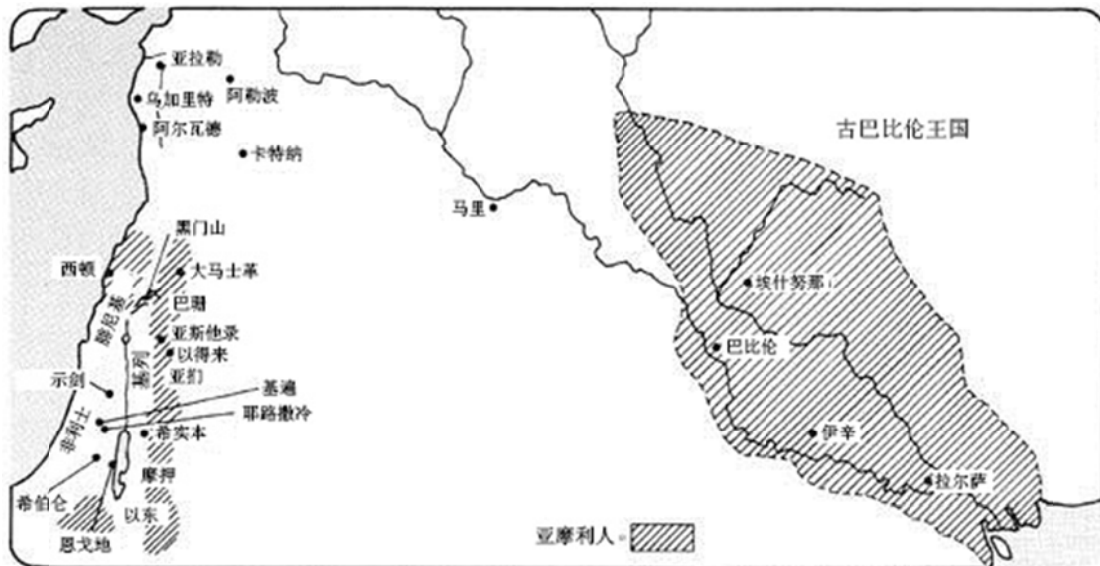

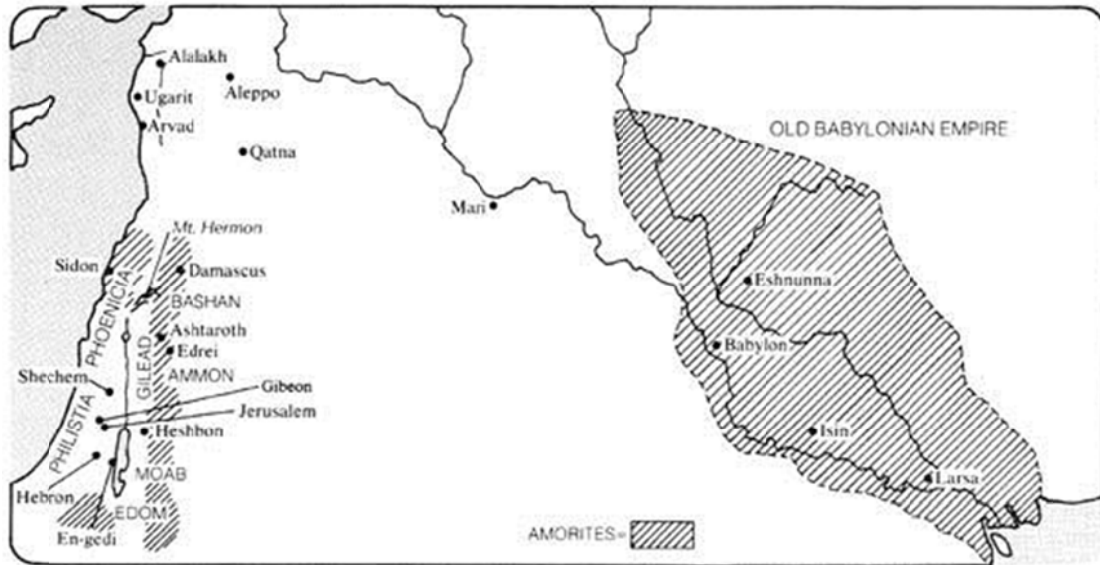

B. 早期亚摩利王国与叙利亚和美索不达米亚的游牧民族。 公元前 23 至 21 世纪之间，亚摩利人攻入巴比伦，乌尔的第三王朝衰落之后(约公元前 1905 年)，亚摩利人定居在巴比伦。此后，西北的闪族王朝统治了拉尔萨（约公元前 1961-1699 年）、伊辛（约公元前 1958-1733 年）、马里（至公元前 1693 年）和巴比伦（约公元前 1830-1531，巴比伦第一王朝），并进一步统治了叙

C. The God Amurru. The first Amorites had an eponymous god Martu, who was soon included into the Sumerian pantheon as son of Ninḫursanga and husband to Ašratum/Aširtum (=the Syrian Astarte). Martu is once identified with the storm-god (H)Adad.

叙利亚的阿勒波、卡特纳和亚拉勒等，至此美索不达米亚至叙利亚地区出现了统一的民族和制度。埃及的咒诅文（公元前 19-18 世纪，见 ANET, 328 页起）和埃及亚摩利人奴隶名单（公元前 18 世纪）上也提供了此类证据。赫人在约 1531 年侵占并洗劫了巴比伦，后来喀西特人再次蹂躏了该城，亚摩利人的统治至此结束，喀西特王朝随后统治此地约四百年。马里文献还记载了另一拨亚摩利游牧民族，他们四处抢夺，并且一直试图定居下来。他们的语言模式和《圣经》希伯来文中的名称、风格有密切联系，因此，诺斯称他们为“早期亚兰人”。这个观点后来遭到了质疑。“西北闪族”这个名称似乎更为恰当，尽管如此，人们仍然使用“亚摩利人”这个惯用名称。

C. 阿穆路神。早期的亚摩利人有一位与之齐名的神马尔图，他很快便作为尼胡桑加的儿子、阿瑟拉图姆（相当于叙利亚的阿斯她录）的丈夫被供奉在苏美尔人的万神殿中。马尔图曾被认为是风暴神（神圣法例）阿达德。

D. The Amorite Kingdom During the Amarna Age. During the 14th cent. Amurru appears as the name for a Syrian kingdom, whose frontiers reach N to Arwad, S to Sidon, and E to Damascus. Any ethnic significance of the name seems here to have been lost and replaced by one merely political. The kingdom Amurru appears in Hittite and Ugaritic treaties, and through the latter one can reconstruct a genealogy of eight kings of Amurru (cf. M. Liverani, Storia di Ugarit [1962], ch. 2). The name appears also in Egyptian and Mesopotamian sources, respectively from Seti I and Tukulti-Ninurta I onward. In the Annals

D. 亚玛拿时期的亚摩利王国。公元前14世纪时,有一个叙利亚王国名为阿穆路,该国疆界北至阿尔瓦德,南至西顿,东至大马士革。此时该名称的种族意义似乎消失了,取而代之的仅是政治意义。阿穆路王国出现在赫梯和乌加里特条约中,通过后者我们可以重现阿穆路王朝的八位国王的家谱(参: M. Liverani, Storia di Ugarit [1962], 第二章)。从塞提一世和图库尔蒂尼努尔塔一世开始的埃及和美索不达米亚的文献都出现了这个名字。在西拿基立编年史中(参: ANET, 287页 b),“阿穆路王”指的是腓尼基王、非利士王、亚扪王、以东王和摩押王,证据表明该词的用法比其原意更为广泛。 of Sennacherib (cf. ANET, p. 287 b), “kings of Amurru” are those of Phoenicia, Philistia, Ammon, Edom, and Moab, an evidence for a much broader use of the word.

E. Physical Characteristics of the Amorites. Because of the complicated history of the Amorites, great caution is needed when investigating their ethnic and racial background. The ancient statues of Amorite kings are often too damaged in relevant features (e.g., the nose) and too stylized to be of much use (cf. ANEP, nos. 429ff.), while Mari wall paintings tend not to classify the people there represented into racial types known to us. The Egyptian reliefs of Medinet Habu (12th cent. cf. ANEP, nos. 7, 9, 346) refer to the inhabitants of the kingdom of Amurru, not to the original Amorites. From the language we can, however, safely consider the Amorites of Semitic stock, with probably a few Indo-Aryan elements.

E. 亚摩利人的身体特征。亚摩利人的历史十分复杂，所以要谨慎地研究他们的种族和民族背景。古时亚摩利王雕像的重要部分都被毁坏了（如鼻子），而且他们过于艺术化，没有多少研究价值（参： ANEP，429 号起），而马里的壁画并未特意区分种族类型。埃及的拉美西斯三世葬祭殿上的浮雕（公元前 12 世纪，参 ANEP，7，9，346 号）上提到了阿穆路王国的居民，但未提到原始的亚摩利人。但是，我们可以从语言上推测出亚摩利人有闪族血统，可能还有印度雅利安人的血统。

III. Amos and the Prophetic Office

I. The Prophet.-A. Name. Amos is the prophet whose book stands third among the "Twelve" in the Hebrew canon. No other person bearing the same name is mentioned in the OT. There is an Amos mentioned in the genealogical series Lk. 3:25, but he is otherwise unknown, and although the spelling is the same as that for Amos in the Greek OT, we do not know how his name would have been written in Hebrew.

III. 阿摩司和先知职位

I. 先知。A. 名字。阿摩司是一位先知,希伯来正典“十二小先知书”的第三卷就是《阿摩司书》。《旧约》中没有其他人使用这个名字。《路加福音》3:25的家谱中提到了一个亚摩斯(Amos),但他是个默默无闻的人,而且尽管在希腊语《旧约》中这两个名字拼写相同,我们也不知道他的名字在希伯来语中的拼写形式。

B. 籍贯。阿摩司的出生地提哥亚在伯利恒南方6英里(10公里)处,从伯利恒可以看见该地,提哥亚位于一座海拔

hill 2700 ft. (820 m.) high, overlooking the wilderness of Judah. The name has survived in contemporary Arabic society (Teqû‘), and the neighborhood is at the present day the pasture-ground for large flocks of sheep and goats. From the high ground on which the modern village stands one looks down on the bare undulating hills of one of the bleakest districts of Palestine, “the waste howling wilderness,” which must have suggested some of the startling imagery of the prophet’s addresses. The place may have had—as is not seldom the case with towns or villages—a reputation for a special quality of its inhabitants; for it was from Tekoa that Joab fetched the “wise woman” who by a feigned story effected the reconciliation of David with his banished son Absalom (2 S. 14). There are traces in the book of Amos of a shrewdness and mother wit that are not so conspicuous in other prophetic books.

C. Personal History. The particulars of a personal kind noted in the book are few but suggestive. Amos was not a prophet or the son of a prophet (7:14), i.e., he did not belong to the professional class which frequented the so-called schools of the prophets. He was “among the shepherds (nōq^e dîm) of Tekoa” (1:1), the word here used being found only once again in biblical usage (2 K. 3:4), applied to Mesha king of Moab. An additional reference in the Ugaritic poem of Baal and Anath points to a cultic servant whose function included dictation of poetry in addition to whatever herding may have been required (ANET, p.141b, colophon). In 7:14 the word rendered “herdsman” is different (bôqēr) and from its etymology denotes an owner of cattle, though some, from the LXX rendering, think that the word should be the same as in 1:1. He was also “a dresser of sycamore trees” (7:14). The word rendered “dresser” (AV “gatherer”) occurs only here, and from the LXX (knizon) it is conjectured that there is reference to a squeezing or nipping of the sycamore-fig to make it more palatable or to accelerate its ripening.

2700 英尺 (820 米) 高的山上, 俯瞰犹太的旷野。现代阿拉伯语社会一直沿用这个地名 (Teqû‘), 提哥亚附近现在是放养大群绵羊和山羊的牧场。从这座村庄现今所处的高地可以俯视巴勒斯坦最荒芜的地区之上光秃起伏的丘陵, “废弃的咆哮的旷野”反映出这位先知家乡的一些惊人景象。这个地方也许因其住民的特质而闻名, 在城邑或村庄中随处可见这种特质; 因为约押从提哥亚接来一个“聪明的妇人”, 她编一个假的故事使大卫和他流放中的儿子押沙龙和解 (撒下 14)。《阿摩司书》体现出其他先知书中不太显而易见的机敏和天资。

C. 个人经历。 虽然书中详细介绍阿摩司的内容很少, 却很有启发性。阿摩司原不是先知, 也不是先知的儿子 (摩 7:14), 即他原不属于所谓的专业先知。他是“提哥亚牧人中的阿摩司 (nōq^e dîm)” (摩 1:1), 这里使用的词仅在《圣经》中仅再次出现过一次 (王下 3:4), 那次是用于形容摩押王米沙。乌加里特语中关于巴力和亚拿特的诗也使用这个词来指教仆, 他们的职责包括记录口述的诗歌, 此外可能还要负责放牧 (ANET, 141 页 b, 版本记录)。在《阿摩司书》7:14 中, 另一个词 (bôqēr) 被译为“牧人”, 根据词源, 这个词的意思是牛的主人, 但是根据《七十士译本》, 一些人认为这个词应该与《阿摩司书》1:1 中的“牧人”含义相同。他还是“修理桑树的” (摩 7:14)。被翻译成“修理者” (《英王钦定本》, “收集者”) 的词仅在这里出现过, 根据《七十士译

D. Preparation. Nothing is said as to any special preparation of the prophet for his work: “The Lord took me from following the flock, and the Lord said to me, Go, prophesy to my people Israel” (7:15). In these words he put himself in line with all previous prophets who, in various modes of expression, claimed a direct revelation from God. There is, however, significance in the mention of the prophetic call in association with the statement about his occupation. There was apparently no period interposed between the one and the other, no cessation of husbandry to prepare for the work of prophesying. Amos was already prepared for that task, and when God’s time came he took it up. Such preparation involved both his relationship with God and his awareness of the world in which he lived.

1. Knowledge of God. First of all, he had no doubt or uncertainty as to the character of the God in whose name he was called to speak. The God of Amos is one whose sway is boundless (9:2ff.), whose power is infinite (8:9f.), not only controlling the forces of nature (4; 5:8f.) but guiding the movements and destinies of nations (6:1ff., 14; 9:7ff.). Moreover, He is righteous in all His ways, dealing with nations on moral principles

D. 准备。书中并没有提到这位先知为这部作品做了怎样的特殊准备: “耶和華选召我, 使我不跟从羊群, 对我说: ‘你去向我民以色列说预言’” (摩 7:15)。在这些段落中, 阿摩司称自己与以前的先知一样, 用各种表达方式, 直接揭示神的启示。然而, 他同时提及自己的先知身份和上帝选召他说预言的职分, 这具有重要的意义。在这两件事之间明显没有间隔, 他也没有停止牧民的工作来为预言做准备。他为他使命做好了准备, 当神的召唤到来时, 他便肩负起了自己的使命。这种准备既涉及到他和上帝的关系, 也涉及到他对自己所处世界的认知。

1、神学知识。首先, 毋庸置疑, 他必然知晓恩召他的上帝的特征。阿摩司的神的影响是无限的 (摩 9:2 起), 祂拥有无尽的权柄 (摩 8:9-10), 不仅能控制自然的力量 (摩 4; 5:8-9), 还能支配国家的兴衰和命运 (摩 6:1 起, 14; 9:7 起)。此外, 祂行事正义, 用道义来管理各国 (摩 1:3 起; 2:1 起), 尽管祂偏爱以色列人, 拣选他们作祂的选民, 但祂也因此严厉地追讨他们的罪孽 (摩 3:2)。和所有先知一样, 阿摩司没有解

(1:3ff.; 2:1ff.), and, though particularly favorable to Israel, yet making that very choice of them as a people a ground for visiting them with sterner retribution for their sins (3:2). In common with all the prophets, Amos gave no explanation of how he came to know God and to form this conception of His character. It was simply assumed that God is such a Being; and this knowledge, as it could come only from God, is regarded as undisputed and undisputable. The call to speak in God's name may have come suddenly, but the prophet's conception of the character of the God who called him was no new or sudden revelation.

2. Acquaintance with History and Geography. Amos had a broad knowledge of the affairs of his own nation and those surrounding Israel. His opening words (chs. 1f.) demonstrate an ability to interact with events outside of the chosen nation, while various references (cf. below) show how well-informed the prophet was in the past and present of Israel's life. Such careful attention to national and international history has caused speculation to the effect that Amos was not the rustic he is often depicted to be. Further evidence in that direction comes from his acute awareness of the geography of his own country. Whether by personal travel as a wool-merchant or flock-master, or simply as one whose wanderlust led him to many places, the prophet seems to have visited various towns (e.g., Samaria, Bethel, Gilgal, Beer-sheba), particularly those which were religious and market centers.

Basic to all his knowledge is the influence of his own home, the scenery of the barren hills of the Judean wilderness, and the simple occupations of his daily life. The landscape surrounding Tekoa was such as to make a solemn impression on a reflective mind: the wide-spreading desert, the shimmering waters of the Dead Sea, the high wall of the distant hills of Moab. And as he tended his flock, or defended them from the ravages of wild beasts, this sublime setting nourished that exalted view of the divine Majesty which we find in his book, and furnished the imagery in which his thoughts are set (1:2; 3:4f.; 4:13; 5:8; 9:5f.). Rustic he may be; but his style is one of natural and impassioned eloquence, coming from a mind which saw God's working in all nature and His presence in every phenomenon.

释他是如何知道神并形成关于祂特征的认知。简而言之，神是一种存在；这种认识是无可争辩、不容置疑的，只能源于神。祂可能突然恩召阿摩司以上帝之名说预言，但这位先知对恩召他的上帝的特征的认识并不是新的启示或突然的启示。

2、历史和地理知识。阿摩司知识渊博，十分了解国内和以色列周边国家的时事。他的开场白（摩 1-2）体现出阿摩司知晓选民外部的事，而各种评论（参下文）体现了这位先知非常了解以色列古代和现在的生活。由于阿摩司谨慎关注国内和国外的历史，有人推测阿摩司并不是如他通常所说的那样，是个乡下人。他对国内地理知识的精确了解也佐证了这种观点。不论是为了贩卖羊毛或牧羊，还是仅仅因为他有四处流浪的爱好，阿摩司似乎去过很多城邑（如撒玛利亚、伯特利、吉甲、别是巴），尤其是那些宗教城邑或贸易中心。

他所有知识的基础是他的家乡对他的影响——犹大旷野中荒芜的丘陵的景象和他日常所从事的简单的工作。提哥

E. Date. The date of the prophet Amos can be fixed approximately from the statement in 1:1 that his activity fell "in the days of Uzziah king of Judah and in the days of Jeroboam the son of Joash king of Israel, two years before the earthquake." Both these monarchs had long reigns, that of Uzziah (Azariah) extending from 767 to 740/39 B.C. and that of Jeroboam II from 782/1 to 753 B.C. Since Jotham probably acted as co-regent with Uzziah after 750 b.c., we may safely take the years of their concurrent reign and put the ministry of Amos between 760 and 750 B.C. The earthquake reference, though long preserved in Israel's memory (Zec. 14:5), is of no help to modern chronologists. The period thus fixed was one of peace and prosperity in both north and south. The troublesome Syrians had been reduced in 802 B.C. by the destruction of their capital Damascus at the hand of the Assyrian Adadnirari III, and for the next fifty years Israel was to grow at their expense. In Assyria itself a period of weakness followed Adadnirari's early successes and no serious threat to Palestine arose until after the accession of Tiglath-pileser III in 745. During the reign of Jeroboam II the northern kingdom reached its zenith of wealth and power with the attendant results of luxury and excess, a situation reflected constantly in the prophetic visions of Amos. Whether those prophecies were spread over a long period of time we cannot tell, though there is some indication that the brief biographical sketch (7:10ff.) is set chronologically within a series of consecutive proclamations.

亚的景色会给人留下一种肃穆的印象：广阔的荒原，死海中闪着微光的水，遥远的摩押丘陵的高墙。他照料他的羊群，使他们不被野兽袭击，这种庄严的背景塑造了《阿摩司书》中关于至高神的观念，并为他的构思提供了意象（摩 1:2; 3:4-5; 4:13; 5:8; 摩 9:5-6）。他也许是个乡下人；但他在写作时风格自然，慷慨陈词，这种写作风格源于他看到了神在自然中的作为和万象中神的存在。

E. 时期。《阿摩司书》1:1 大致确定了先知阿摩司生活的年代，“当犹太王乌西雅，以色列王约阿施的儿子耶罗波安在位的时候，大地震前二年，提哥亚牧人中的阿摩司得默示论以色列”。这两位君主统治时期都比较长，乌西雅在位时间为公元前 767 年至公元前 740 或 739 年，耶罗波安二世在位时间为公元前 782 或 781 年至公元前 753 年。我们可以根据两位王同时在位的时间，推测阿摩司在公元前 760 年至 750 年之间传道。虽然以色列人长久以来始终铭记着这场地震（亚 14:5），但这对现代年代学者并没有任何帮助。因此，阿摩司生活在南北王国和平繁荣的一段时期。公元前 802 年，亚述王阿达德尼拉里三世毁灭了叙利亚人的首都大马士革，令人烦恼的叙利亚人因此减少了，以色列人得以在此后的 50 年间取得快速发展。而阿达德尼拉里初战告捷之后，亚述却经历了一段衰落期，在提革拉毗列色三世于 745 年登位之前，巴勒斯坦地区未遇到任何严重的威胁。耶罗波安二世统治时期，北方的王国进入鼎盛时期，随

II. The Book.-The arrangement of the book is clear and simple, falling naturally into three parts, recognizable by certain recurring formulas and general literary features. The text has been, on the whole, faithfully preserved, and various attempts to find traces of later editorial hands rest mainly on grounds of content rather than style.

A. Divisions. (1) The first section embraces chs. 1 and 2. Here, after the title and designation of the prophet in 1:1, there is a solemn proclamation of divine authority for the prophet's words: "The Lord roars from Zion, and utters his voice from Jerusalem" (v. 2). This is notable in one who throughout the book recognizes God's power as worldwide and His operation as extending to all creation; and it should challenge, on the one hand, the assertion that the temple of Jerusalem was not more sacred than any of the numerous "high places" throughout the land, and, on the other hand, the superficial manner in which some writers speak of the Hebrew notion of a deity whose dwelling-place was restricted to one locality beyond which His influence was not felt. For this God, who has His dwelling-place in Zion, now through the mouth of the prophet denounces in succession the surrounding nations for breaches of a universal law binding on all humanity. It will be observed that the nations denounced are not named in geographical order, and the prophet exhibits remarkable rhetorical skill in the order of selection. The interest and sympathy of the hearers is secured by fixing the attention on the enormities of guilt in their neighbors, and curiosity is kept awake by the uncertainty as to where the next stroke of the prophetic whip will fall. Beginning with the more distant and alien peoples of Damascus, Gaza, and Tyre, he wheels round to the nearer and kindred peoples of Edom, Ammon, and Moab, till he rests for a moment on the brother tribe of Judah, and thus, having relentlessly drawn the net around Israel by the enumeration of seven peoples, he swoops down upon the northern kingdom to which his message is particularly addressed.

后便骄奢淫逸，阿摩司的预言异象中曾屡次提及这种情况。我们无从得知这些预言是否传播了很长时间，但是有一些迹象表明简短的传记（摩 7:10 起）是按照年代排列的，其中有一系列连续的宣言。

II、《阿摩司书》。这本书的安排十分简明清楚，自然地分为三个部分，可以根据某些重复出现的段落和文字特点来区分这三部分。文本大体上被如实地保留了下来，有评论者称有几处发现了后来编辑者修改的痕迹，但这主要是基于内容而非格式。

A. 三部分。（1）第一部分是第一章和第二章。在《阿摩司书》1:1 先知的身份和名字之后，先知的话中有一段关于神权的庄严宣告：“耶和華必从锡安吼叫，从耶路撒冷发声”（摩 1:2）。值得注意的是，他在整本书中都承认神的力量是无边界的，凡祂所创造的都归祂掌管；一方面，耶路撒冷的圣殿不比全地大量的“邱坛”更神圣的说法是值得怀疑的，另一方面，同样值得怀疑的是，一些作者肤浅地评论了关于神的希伯来观念，他们认为神仅临在祂的居所，祂在居所之外几乎没有影响力。神，居住在锡安，藉先知之口，依次谴责周边的国家，因为他们违背了对全人类都有

(2) The second section embraces chs. 3–6 and consists apparently of a series of discourses, three of which are introduced by the formula: “Hear this word” (3:1; 4:1; 5:1), and two others introduced by a comprehensive: “Woe to them ...” (5:18; 6:1). Some would divide this section into a larger number of subsections (e.g., separating 4:1–3 from 4:4ff.); some, indeed, have described the whole book as a collection of ill-arranged fragments. Such views, however, popular with an earlier generation, are now treated with considerable reserve.

(2) 第二部分包括第三章到第六章，这部分明显由一系列演讲组成，其中的三段都由同样的话语引出：“当听我的话”（摩 3:1; 4:1; 5:1），其他两段则由另一句话引出：“……有祸了”（摩 5:18; 6:1）。有些人将这部分细分为更多的小节（如将摩 4:1-3 和 4:4 起分成两部分）；有些人称这本书只是收集了一些安排错乱的片段。这种观点，在早年间十分流行，但现已非常不受欢迎。

(3) The third section has some well-marked characteristics, although it is even less uniform than the preceding. The outstanding feature is the phrase, "Thus the Lord God showed me" (7:1, 4, 7; 8:1), varied at 9:1 by the words, "I saw the Lord standing beside the altar." We have thus a series of "visions" bearing upon, and interpreted as applying to, the condition of Israel. It is in the course of one of these, when the prophet comes to the words, "I will rise against the house of Jeroboam with the sword" (7:9), that the interposition of Amaziah the priest of Bethel is recorded, with the prophet's noble reply as to his divine call, and his rebuke and denunciation of the priest, ending with a prophetic announcement of the downfall and captivity of Israel (7:14-17).

B. Theology. Amos is sometimes considered to be the prophet of wrath in contrast to his contemporary Hosea, the prophet of God's love. Such a contrast is inconsistent with a balanced picture of both prophets as men whose theology was grounded in the covenant of love between God and Israel. Even if, as some critics (e.g., Eissfeldt) maintain, the closing passage of Amos (9:11-15) is a secondary addition, there is still no reason to believe that Amos—harsh though his words were—believed that the God of Israel would make a full end of His people in captivity. Judgment is pronounced on the false religion that claimed national security in the Lord but could ignore the ethical demands of the covenant. Woes are called down upon those who looked for the Day of the Lord

(3) 第三部分有一些明显的特征，但是它比前一部分更加不一致。“主耶和華指示我一件事”(摩 7:1, 4, 7; 摩 8:1) 这句话体现出这部分的一个显著特点，在《阿摩司书》9:1 中变为了“我看见主站在祭坛旁边”。这里出现了一系列“异象”，都适于描述以色列的情况。其中，当先知说道，“我必兴起，用刀攻击耶罗波安的家”(摩 7:9)，这部分内容记录了伯特利的祭司亚玛谢的干预，先知阿摩司义正辞严地回答说，他是神选召的，他谴责亚玛谢，并以以色列将衰落和被掳的预言结束了他的话(摩 7:14-17)。

B. 神学。 同时期的先知何西阿被认为是神爱的先知，与何西阿相比，阿摩司有时被认为是愤怒的先知。这样的反差与对二位先知的均衡描述不符，因为他们的神学都基于神和以色列间的圣约。虽然有些评论者(如艾斯斐德)坚持认为《阿摩司书》的结尾段落(摩 9:11-15)是后来添加的，虽然他的话语确实十分严厉，但是我们没有理由认为这位先知会断定以色列的神将使祂的民以囚禁告终。错误的宗教宣称神会确保民族的安全，因此他们不必遵守约中的道德要求，但神会对其降下审判。那些望耶和華日子来到的，有祸了，因为这天神将除尽所有敌人。这一天对于不忠的以色列来说，将是黑暗没有光明的(摩 5:18)，这将是民族毁灭的日子，而不是帝国扩张的日子。尽管总的来说，阿摩司似乎对国家毫无期待，但是他阐明了关于余民的教义(摩 9:8)，以利亚首先

as a day when Israel would triumph over all enemies. Such a Day, for disobedient Israel, was to be a day of darkness and not light (5:18), a day of national destruction rather than imperial expansion. Although Amos seems to have had no hope for the nation as a whole, he did enunciate the doctrine of the remnant (9:8), begun earlier under Elijah and developed fully by Isaiah. In view of these commitments to the mainstream of prophetic theological thought, it would seem strange if, as some scholars still maintain, Amos 5:21-23 were a rejection of cultic religion completely. One feels, rather, that Amos' God had rejected both cult and nation in their corrupt form, but any restoration of an Israelite remnant would certainly have included a reformed and revived ritual system.

C. Historical and Critical Value. The book of Amos is particularly valuable as a contemporaneous document from a period of great significance in the history of Israel. It not only gives graphic sketches and illuminating hints of the life and religious condition of the people, but furnishes a trustworthy standard for estimating the value of some other books whose dates are not so precisely determined, a definite starting-point for tracing the course of Israel's history.

1. As a Reflection of Social Conditions. The book is valuable as embodying a contemporary picture of society and the condition of religion. From the abuses which the prophet denounces and the lifelike sketches he draws of the scenes amid which he moved, taken along with what we know otherwise of the historical movements of the period, we are able to form a fairly adequate estimate of the condition of the age and the country. During the reign of Jeroboam II the kingdom of Israel rose to a degree of extent and influence unparalleled since the days of Solomon (2 K. 14:25), and we are not astonished to read in Amos the haughty words he puts into the mouth of the people of his time, who speak of Israel as the “first of the nations” (6:1). But success in war, if it encouraged this boastful spirit, brought also inevitable evils in its train. Victory meant plunder, an extension of territory and increase of wealth for the warrior-landowner class. The peasant, however, required to take up arms without promise of great spoil, was often taken away from the labors of the field, which at best were for a time neglected, and in the worst event were wasted and rendered unproductive. The wealth secured by men of strong hand led to the increase of luxury in its possessors, and became actually the means of still further adding to the burdens of the poor, who were dependent on the rich for the means of earning their livelihood and for basic justice in society. The opening denunciation of Israel for oppression of the poor (2:6f.) is reechoed and amplified in the succeeding chapters (3:9f.; 4:1; 5:11f.; 8:4-6). The luxury of the rich, who fattened on the misfortune of their poorer brethren, is castigated in biting irony in such passages as 6:3-6. Specially noticeable in this connection is the contemptuous reference to the luxurious women, the “cows of Bashan” (4:1), whose extravagances are maintained by the oppression of the poor. The situation, in short, was one that has found striking parallels in modern despotic countries in the East, where the people are divided into two classes, the powerful rich and the poor oppressed, men who have no helper, dependent on the rich and influential and tending to greater poverty under greedy patrons.

C. 历史和评论价值。《阿摩司书》处于以色列历史上极为重要的时期，是同时期极具价值的文献。它不仅对当时的人民生活 and 宗教状况做出了形象的描绘，并给出了启发性的提示，还为其他无法精确确定时间的文献提供了一种可靠的衡量价值的标准，并为追溯以色列历史提供了明确的起点。

1、社会环境的反映。这部书十分有价值，它具体描述了当时的社会和宗教状况。通过这位先知所谴责的恶行以及他对他经过之地的场景栩栩如生的描绘，再结合我们所知道的其他当时发生的历史运动，我们就可以对国家和时代的环境做出相当充分地推测。耶罗波安二世统治时，以色列的繁荣和影响力自所罗门时期之后便无可匹敌（王下

14:25), 阿摩司在书中转述了当时人们所说的话, 他们把以色列称作“列国之首”(摩 6:1), 当我们读到这类傲慢的话语时, 并不会感到惊奇。战争的胜利, 不仅助长了这种自负的精神, 还带来了无法避免的弊端。胜利就意味着掠夺, 勇士和地主阶级的领地得以扩张, 财富得以增长。农民被要求拿起武器去侵略或保卫, 他们不再从事田间工作, 他们的土地, 最好的情况下, 只是有一段时间未被好好照顾, 但是最坏的情况下, 则会荒废, 变成不毛之地。强壮的人抢来的财富使得拥有财富的人更加奢侈, 还会进一步加重贫民的负担, 他们不得不依靠富人来维持生计, 获得基本的社会公义。以色列因压迫穷人和义人而受到公开的谴责(摩 2:6-7), 随后的章节更加严厉地谴责了他们(摩 3:9-10; 4:1; 5:11-12; 8:4-6)。《阿摩司书》6:3-6 中用尖锐的讽刺谴责了那些靠穷人的不幸享受奢华生活的富人。在这一点上尤其值得注意的是一个奢侈的女人被比喻成“巴珊的母牛”(摩 4:1), 她靠压迫穷人来维持奢侈的生活。总之, 这种情况和现代东方的专制国家有惊人的相似之处, 在那里人们分为两个阶级, 有权有势的富人和受压迫的穷人, 后者没有靠山, 他们依赖有钱有势的人生活, 但是在贪婪的主家压迫下, 变得越来越贫穷。

2. As a Reflection of Popular Theology. In a northern version of what was later denounced by Isaiah and Jeremiah, the people prided themselves on what they regarded as the worship of the national God, thinking that so long as they honored Him with costly offerings and a gorgeous ritual, they were pleasing Him and secure in His protection. Though lacking the strong prop of a Davidic monarchy and Jerusalem temple, crowds of worshipers resorted to Bethel, Dan, Gilgal, and even Beer-sheba with all the accompaniments of ceremony and ritual which the newly found wealth put in their power. The people seem to have settled down to a complacent optimism, nourished no doubt by a national prosperity; and though there had not been wanting reminders of the sovereignty of a righteous God, in convulsions of nature—drought, famine, pestilence, and earthquake (4:6–11)—these had been of no avail in awakening the sleeping conscience. They put the evil day far from them (6:3), for the Lord was their national God and “the Day of the Lord,” the good time coming (5:18), when God would come to their help, was more in their minds than the imperative duty of returning to Him (4:6, 8, etc.).

3. As Witness to Israel's Sacred History. A past generation of scholars argued that the great historical sources of the Pentateuch which they designated J and E were composed at or shortly before the time of Amos and Hosea. References to events portrayed therein, as reflected in Amos, provided a reliable historical peg for affirming that the accounts in J and E were circulating by the 8th century. It was argued by not a few that the J and E documents were original compositions, bearing little resemblance to whatever history Israel may actually have experienced, and providing no faithful picture of what had really transpired. Contemporary scholarship offers no such facile solutions, and most would agree that the traditions contained in the Pentateuch, if not the actual writings themselves, were very old at the time Amos and his contemporaries appeared. It is not surprising, then, that within the compass of even a small book we should find references to outstanding events and stages of the past history presented as matters known to all his hearers. Such incidental notices as a reference to the house of Isaac (7:16), another to the house of Jacob (3:13), and another to the enmity between Jacob and Esau (1:11), certainly imply a familiarity with a connected patriarchal history such as found in Genesis. Again, references to the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah (4:11), to the “whole family” whom the Lord “brought up out of the land of Egypt” (3:1), to the divine leading of the people “forty years in the wilderness” (2:10), are not odds and ends of popular story but links in a chain of national history.

2、大众神学的反映。在以赛亚和耶利米后来讲述的北方故事中，人们敬奉国家的神，并引以为豪，他们一直用昂贵的祭品和华丽的仪式来敬奉祂，便以为可以取悦祂，得到祂的保护。尽管缺少大卫王朝和耶路撒冷神殿的支持，众多礼拜者仍然常去伯特利、但、吉甲甚至别是巴朝圣，当他们得到了新的财富，增加了力量，他们在随后的仪式中便献上比律法要求或常规的更多的祭品。人们似乎沉浸在洋洋自得的乐观情绪之中，丝毫不怀疑国家的繁荣，这位正义的神一直在用自然灾害——干旱、饥荒、瘟疫、地震（摩 4:6-11）来提醒这里的人，但是却没能唤醒人们沉睡的良知。他们以为降祸的日子还远（摩 6:3），因为他们认为耶和华是他们国家的神，当“耶和华的日子”，即美好的时间来临时（摩 5:18），耶和华会帮助他们，这种想法充满了他们的思想，以至于忽视了应回报祂的义务（摩 4:6, 8 等）。

3、以色列圣洁历史的见证。早前的学者称《摩西五经》的伟大史料来源，即 J 底本和 E 底本，出现于阿摩司和何西阿时期，或在此前不久。在《阿摩司书》中反映的历史事件，为 J 底本和 E 底本中描绘的事件提供了可靠的历史依据，

4. As a Reflection of Legal Development in Israel. The silence of Amos concerning the duties and perquisites of legitimate priests and Levites and the priority of the Jerusalem temple have led many to the conclusion that the prophet was unfamiliar with distinctly Levitical legislation. Adherents of the old JEDP documentary hypothesis have generally held that this material came either from D, written for Josiah's reformation in 622/621 B.C., or from P, a composition of the priests in the postexilic theocracy.

At the outset we must bear in mind the condition of the people whom Amos addressed, and the purpose and aim of his mission to the northern kingdom. As we are told in Kings (1 K. 12:25ff.), Jeroboam I deliberately sought to make a breach between the worship of Jerusalem and that of his own kingdom, while persuading his people that the worship of the Lord was being maintained. The schism occurred some 170 years before the time of Amos, and it is improbable that the worship and ritual of the northern kingdom tended in that interval to greater purity or greater conformity to what had been the authoritative practice of the undivided kingdom at the temple of Jerusalem. When, therefore, Amos, in face of the corrupt worship combined with elaborate ritual that prevailed around him, declared that God hated and despised their feasts and took no delight in their solemn assemblies (5:21), we are not justified in pressing his words into a sweeping condemnation of all ritual. On the contrary, when in the very same connection (5:22) he specified burnt offerings and meal offerings and peace offerings, and, in another passage (4:4, 5), daily sacrifices and tithes, sacrifices of thanksgiving, and free-will offerings, it is natural to infer that by these terms, which are familiar in the Pentateuch, he is referring to those statutory observances which were part of the national worship of united Israel, but had been overlaid with corruption and become destitute of spiritual value as practiced in the northern kingdom. Having condemned in such scornful and sweeping terms the worship that he saw going on around him, what was Amos to gain by entering into minute ritual prescriptions or defining the precise duties of priests and Levites? Having condemned the pilgrimages to the shrines of Bethel, Gilgal, Beer-sheba and Dan, what was he to gain by substituting for such meaningless activity an equally insincere attendance at a central sanctuary? Amos' problem was not one of form but one of content. No attempt is made even to reckon with questions of Jerusalem v. Bethel, Levite v. non-Levitical priest, because none of this could have been meaningful until the prior question of the heart and its attitude was settled. Thus the argument from silence cannot serve as proof of a late date for D or P material, inasmuch as the question simply was not one on which we might expect Amos to comment.

If we sense an ambiguity in Amos' handling of ritual law, there is no such response when we consider his ethical sources. His appeals are in striking agreement with the specifically ethical demands of the law books, and in phraseology they resemble them so much as to warrant the conclusion that the requirements of the law on these subjects were known and acknowledged. Thus his denunciations of those who oppress the poor (2:7; 4:1; 8:4) are quite in the spirit and style of Ex. 22:21f.; 23:9. His references to the perversion of justice and taking bribes (2:6; 5:7, 10ff.; 6:12) are rhetorical enforcements of the prohibitions of the law in Ex. 23:6-8. When he reproves those that "lay themselves down beside every altar upon garments taken in pledge” (2:8) we hear an echo of the command: “If ever you take your neighbor’s garment in pledge, you shall restore it to him before the sun goes down” (Ex. 22:26); and when he denounces those who make “the ephah small and the shekel great, and deal deceitfully with false balances” (8:5) his words are in close agreement with the law, “You shall do no wrong in judgment, in measures of length or weight or quantity. You shall have just balances, just weights, a just ephah, and a just hin” (Lev. 19:35f.).

In addition to an affirmation of those ethical parts of the law which lie at the foundation of all prophecy, Amos is remarkable in that his phraseology often agrees with Deuteronomy, the most ethical book of the Pentateuch. He does not, indeed, like his contemporary Hosea, dwell on the love of God as Deuteronomy does, but, in sterner mold, citing almost the very words of Deuteronomy, emphasizes the keeping of God’s commandments, and denounces those who despise the law (cf. 2:4 with Dt. 17:19). Among verbal coincidences have been noticed the combinations “oppress” and “crush” (4:1; Dt. 28:33), “blasting” (RSV “blight”) and “mildew” (4:9; Dt. 28:22), “gall” and “wormwood” (6:12; Dt. 29:18). In view of this it seems that the silence of Amos with reference to the centralization of worship, on which Deuteronomy is so explicit, is not to be seen as conclusive in judging the critical question of D.

III. Amos and the Prophetic Office.-With the possible exception of Joel, Amos is the earliest prophet whose 尺、秤、升、斗上也是如此。要用公道天平、公道法码、公道升斗、公道秤” (利 19:35-36)。

阿摩司坚信律法中的道德部分，这是所有预言书的基础，此外值得注意的是，他在措辞上也和《摩西五经》中最为道德的书《申命记》十分一致。事实上，他并不像同时期的何西阿，如《申命记》中一般详述对耶和华的爱；而是严格地引用了《申命记》中的表述，强调要遵守神的旨意，并谴责那些轻视律法的人（参：摩 2:4 和申 17:19）。关于用词的一致，应注意以下词组“压迫”（摩 4:1 “oppress”；申 28:33 “crush”），“霉烂”（摩 4:9 “blasting”，《修订标准译本》“blight”；申 28:22 “mildew”），“茵陈”（摩 6:12 “gall”；申 29:18 “wormwood”）。因此，《阿摩司书》中似乎未提到敬拜集中化，而《申命记》中却有明确表述，不应将此作为判断 D 底本中重要问题的决定性因素。

III. 阿摩司和先知职位。可能除了约珥，阿摩司是最早的先知，他的预言被收录成书。上述事实显然不同于标准预言

oracles have been collected in written form. This fact, and the apparent dissociation from normative prophecy (7:14), has led some scholars to see in Amos a sharp break with earlier professional prophets and the institution of a new movement. However, Am. 7:14 is still the subject of lively academic discussion, with some translating the pertinent phrase “I was no prophet,” indicating only a lack of early association with the office, while others opt for “I am no prophet,” and argue about Amos’ relationship with the guild prophets (some of whom may indeed have been ecstatics) and the normative tradition represented by Samuel and Elijah.

What is certainly clear, whatever the meaning of Am. 7:14, is that prophecy was no new thing in eighth-century Israel, and that Amos identified squarely with what he considered a known and accepted office within the nation. He begins by stating boldly, “Surely the Lord God does nothing without revealing his secret to his servants the prophets” (3:7). We need not search further for a definition of the prophet as understood by him and other OT writers: the prophet is one to whom God reveals His will, and who comes forward to declare that will and purpose to man. A great deal has been made of the words of Amaziah the priest of Bethel (7:12), as if they proved that the prophet in those times was regarded as a wandering rhetorician, earning his bread by reciting his speeches; and we must indeed admit that there were prophets whose motives and methodology were less than God-directed (Mic. 3:5, 11). Nevertheless, there were evidently true prophets, well known in the history of Israel, to whose tradition Amos appealed and with whose ministry he identified (2:11; 3:7f.). They were called by God to their office, and, far from echoing merely patriotic and nationalistic sentiments of the people, they were unpopular preachers of judgment whose message had, from the first, evoked a negative response (2:12).

的差异（摩 7:14），使得一些学者认为阿摩司和早期的专业先知截然不同，并认为他引领了一场新的运动。但是，《阿摩司书》7:14 仍是学术激烈讨论的主题，有些学者将相关的短句翻译为“我原不是先知”，表示他从前和这个职位关联甚少，而令一些学者则翻译成“我不是先知”，他们争论阿摩司与专业先知的关系（其中有些人可能已经心醉神迷），并争论撒母耳和以利亚所表现出的标准规范。

无论《阿摩司书》7:14 的实际含义是什么，我们可以肯定在公元前 8 世纪的以色列，预言已不是新鲜事物，而且阿摩司也坦言当时国内已经有先知。他以大胆的陈述开始，“主耶和华若不将奥秘指示祂的仆人众先知，就一无所行”（摩 3:7）。我们依此便可知阿摩司和其他旧约作者给先知下的定义：先知知晓耶和华旨意的人，他随后将这旨意告知世人。伯特利的祭司亚玛谢的话给出许多信息（摩 7:12），他似乎证明了当时的先知被看做是流浪的雄辩家，靠演讲糊口；而且我们必须承认确实有些先知的动机和方法论并非出于神的旨意（弥 3:5, 11）。无论如何，真正的先知显然存在，他们在以色列历史中十分著名，阿摩司响应他们的传统，并承认他们的职位（摩 2:11；3:7-8）。先知们响应耶和华的恩召，而不仅仅是顺应百姓的爱国情感和民族情感，他们是不受欢迎的传教士，他们的预言从一开始便引起了负面的回应（摩 2:12）。

Amos also gives a valid picture of prophetic religion. His God is a God of the universe, controlling the forces of nature (4:6ff.; 5:8f.), ruling the destinies of nations (6:2, 14; 9:2-6), searching the thoughts of the heart (4:13), inflexible in righteousness and dealing with nations and men on the basis of equal justice (1 and 2; 9:7), but most severe to the people who have received the highest privileges (3:2). This is the God whose laws Israel has broken (2:4; 3:10) and for whose just judgment she is warned to prepare (4:12). There is no rejection of cult except insofar as it has conflicted with God's true law. There is no exaltation of ethics apart from the ethic of Deuteronomy and the rest of the Pentateuch. There is no false assurance of God's choice of Israel apart from a reiteration of the covenant responsibilities inherent in that choice. In short, prophetic religion is the religion of normative spokesmen for God from Moses onward.

阿摩司还形象地描绘了先知宗教。他的神是宇宙的神，掌控万有（摩 4:6 起；5:8-9），统治着国家的命运（摩 6:2, 14；9:2-6），探求心的思想（摩 4:13），祂刚正不阿，用同样的义来治理民族和世人（摩 1 和 2；摩 9:7），祂对享受最高特权的民族最为严厉（摩 3:2）。以色列违反了这位神的律法（摩 2:4；3:10），他们就要受到警告准备接受祂的审判（摩 4:12）。他们并未背弃信仰，但是他们的行为已经违反了神的真正律法。没有任何道德能超越《申命记》中的道德和《摩西五经》中的其他道德。只有重申拣选中固有的圣约之责，才能说神拣选了以色列。总之，先知宗教就是始于摩西，神的标准代言人的宗教。

AMOS(NT)

[Gk. Amōs]. An ancestor of Jesus in Luke's genealogy, the eighth before Joseph the husband of Mary (Lk. 3:25). The name occurs also, according to most Greek MSS, in Matthew's genealogy (Mt. 1:10), followed by the RSV. The AV and NEB read with a few MSS Amon, which is historically correct (cf. 1 Ch. 3:10ff.).

ā'moz [Heb. 'āmōš—'strong']. The father of Isaiah the prophet (2 K. 19:2, 20; 20:1; 2 Ch. 26:22; 32:20, 32; Isa. 1:1; 2:1; 13:1; 20:2; 37:2, 21; 38:1).

AMPHICTYONY

[From Gk. amphiktyonia]. A confederation or league of political units focused on a central religious shrine. On the basis of twelve-member leagues known from ancient Greece, particularly the Pylean-Delphic league, and Etruria, Martin Noth and other biblical scholars have suggested such an organization for the pre-monarchic period in Israel. Biblical accounts, however, do not mention that specific type of arrangement. Rather, the loose tribal association probably resembled the situation at Mari. The Israelite tribes were linked by a covenant of allegiance to a common overlord, Yahweh, and the alliance was depicted in terms of kinship.

AMOS(NT) 亚摩斯 (《新约》中的)

【希腊语: Amōs】。耶稣的祖先之一, z 在《路加福音》族谱中排在第八位, 在马利亚的丈夫约瑟的前面 (路 3:25)。根据大多数希腊语抄本, 该名字也出现在《马太福音》的族谱中 (太 1:10), 《修订标准译本》中也有该名字。《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》遵照少数抄本, 将其译为亚们, 从历史观点上来看, 这是正确的 (参: 代上 3:10 起)。

AMPHICTYONY 近邻同盟

am-fi-pə-lis [Gk. Amphípolis—‘around the city’]. An ancient city of Macedonia situated on a terraced hill on the east bank of the river Strymon, which curved about the north, west, and south sides of the city. The river drained Lake Cercinitus near the city and then flowed into the sea some 3mi. (5 km.) downstream. The name of the city is derived either from its being nearly surrounded by a stream or from its being conspicuous on every side (Thucydides iv. 102).

The Thracian tribe that founded it (Herodotus vii.114; cf. 110) called it Nine Ways (Gk. Ennéa hodoi), a testimony to its general strategic and commercial importance. It guarded the main route from Thrace into Macedonia and later became an important station on the Via Egnatia, a main highway of the Roman empire. It lay in a fertile district, producing wine, oil, and figs. In addition, it was a depot for ship timber and for gold and silver produced in mines of the district, and also was a manufacturing center, especially of woolen stuffs.

After successfully resisting a number of attempts at colonization by Greek forces—in 497, 476, and 465 B.C.—it was colonized in 437 by Athenians and other Greeks under the leadership of Hagnon. However, the mixed population surrendered to the Spartan leader Brasidas in 424 and thereafter resisted Athenian reconquest. Philip of Macedon occupied the city in 357. When the

AMPHIPOLIS 暗妃坡里

音译: am-fi-pə-lis 【希腊语: Amphípolis——“城邑周围”】。马其顿的一座古城, 位于斯特律蒙河的东岸一处梯田山坡上, 斯特律蒙河环绕城邑的北、西、南三面。该河源于城邑附近的赛新尼替斯湖 (Lake Cercinitus), 顺流而下 3 英里 (5 公里) 左右后流入大海。该城的名字可能因其被河流环绕而得名, 也可能是因其四面都十分显眼而得名 (Thucydides iv. 102)。

色雷斯支派建立该城后 (Herodotus vii.114; 参: 110), 将其命名为“九条道路” (希腊语: Ennéa hodoi), 这体现了该城在军事和贸易上的重要性。它把守着从色雷斯进入马其顿的主要路线, 后来成为了罗马帝国主干公路——埃纳提亚大道上重要的一站。该地区土地丰饶, 盛产酒、油和无花果。此外该城出产造船木材、当地矿山出产金银, 该城还是一处制造中心, 尤其盛产羊毛制品。

该城多次成功抵御了希腊军队的攻击 (公元前 497、476、465 年), 公元前 437 年, 雅典人和其他哈格农率领的希腊人占领了此地。但是, 公元前 424 年, 这支混合种群的军队向斯巴达首领布拉西达斯投降了, 此后, 斯巴达粉碎了雅典人再次侵略的企图。公元前 357 年, 马其顿的腓力占领了此地。彼得那战役 (公元前 168 年) 之后, 罗马攻克了马其顿并将其分区, 他们将暗妃坡里变为 am-ple-ā'təs [Gk. Ampliatos, some MSS Amplias (D K L, etc.)]; AV AMPLIAS. A member of the Christian community at Rome, to whom Paul sent greetings (Rom. 16:8). He is designated “my beloved in the Lord.” It is a common name and is found in inscriptions connected with the imperial household. The name is found twice in the cemetery of Domitilla, the earlier inscription being over a cell which belongs to the end of the 1st or the beginning of the 2nd century. The bearer of this name was probably a member of her household and conspicuous in the early Christian church in Rome.

保罗和西拉在进行第二次传道旅程时，从腓立比去帖撒罗尼迦的路上途径了该地，该地在腓立比东北方约 30 英里（50 公里）处。学者们在暗妃坡里发现了大量的铭文和硬币，还有罗马修建的水渠和古防御工事的痕迹。

AMPLIATUS 暗伯利

音译: am-ple-ā'təs【希腊语: Ampliatos, 一些抄本将其拼作 Amplias (《伯撒抄本》、《纪土宾》和《路加福音》等)】; 《钦定版圣经》译为 AMPLIAS (“暗伯利”)。罗马基督教会众的一员，保罗曾向他问安 (罗 16:8)。他名字的意思是“我心爱的在主里”。这是个常见的名字，曾出现在与皇室有关的碑文中。这个名字在多米提拉 (Domitilla) 公墓中出现了两次，其中较早的铭文刻在 1 世纪末或 2 世纪初时期的一座墓碑之上。暗伯利的主人可能是她家族中的一员，而且明显属于罗马早期基督教会众。

AMRAM 暗兰

am'ram [Heb. 'amrām—'people exalted'].

音译: am'ram【希伯来语: 'amrām——“高尚的人”】。

1. Father of Aaron, Moses, and Miriam (Ex. 6:20; Nu. 26:59; 1 Ch. 6:3; 23:13); and a son of Kohath the son of Levi (Ex. 6:18; Nu. 3:19; etc.). Perhaps he was not literally the son of Kohath, but rather his descendant, since there were ten generations from Joseph to Joshua (1 Ch. 7:20–27), while only four are actually mentioned from Levi to Moses for the corresponding period. Moreover, the Kohathites at the time of the Exodus numbered 8600 (Nu. 3:28), which would have been an impossibility if only two generations had lived. It seems best to regard Amram as a descendant of Kohath, and his wife Jochebed as a “daughter of Levi” in a general sense.

1、亚伦、摩西和米利暗的父亲(出 6:20; 民 26:59; 代上 6:3; 23:13); 利未之子哥辖的儿子之一(出 6:18; 民 3:19 等)。从字面意思上看,他可能不是哥辖的儿子,更可能是他的后裔,因为从约瑟到约书亚之间有十代人(代上 7:20-27),但事实上这一时期从利未到摩西只提到了四代人。此外,哥辖人在出埃及时期的人口数为 8600 人(民 3:28),不可能只有两代人。从广义上讲,将暗兰看作是哥辖的后裔,将他的妻子约基别看作是“利未的女子”似乎最为妥当。

2. One of the Bani, who in the days of Ezra had taken a foreign wife (Ezr. 10:34; 1 Esd. 9:34).

2、巴尼的子孙,在以斯拉时期娶了一个外邦女子为妻(拉 10:34; 拉一 9:34)。

am'rām-īts [Heb. 'amrāmī]. The descendants of Amram, one of the Levitical families mentioned in Nu. 3:27 and 1 Ch. 26:23, who had the charge of the tabernacle proper.

AMRAMITES 暗兰族

音译: am'rām-īts【希伯来语: 'amrāmī】。暗兰的后裔,利未家族之一,出现在《民数记》3:27 和《历代志上》26:23 中,他们全权负责会幕的相关事宜。

am'rā-fel [Heb. 'amrāpel]. The king of Shinar who fought against Sodom and the Cities of the Plain in alliance with Arioch king of Ellasar, Chedorlaomer king of Elam, and Tidal king of nations. His name is found only in Gen. 14:1, 9.

identification both of the individual and of his territory. The MT, the Sam. Pent. (Gen. 14:1), the LXX, and the Syriac all designated him clearly as “king of Shinar.” However, the Sam. Pent. (v. 9), the Targums, and 1QapGen specifically recorded that he was king of Babel.

Shinar was the land in which the great Babylonian cities of Erech and Accad were situated (Gen. 10:10). It lay in a plain in which early migrants settled and founded the city and ziggurat of Babel (Gen. 11:2). The LXX interpreted “Shinar” (Heb. šin’ār) to mean “Babylonia” or “the land of Babylon,” following the traditions of Gen. 10:10. On philological and other grounds it is improbable that Shinar can be equated with Sumer, or southern Babylonia. It is of some interest that although Syr. Sen’ar designates the country around Baghdad, no earlier name for Babylonia that might correspond to Shinar has yet come to light. Albright suggested that the land over which Amraphel ruled might have been the West Semitic Sangar in Syria, known to the Egyptians of the Amarna period by that name and appearing in the Amarna Letters as Akk. Šankar. However, a Syrian location for the kingdom seems unlikely, since the narrative of Gen. 14 appears to consider Mesopotamia as the home of Amraphel. Possibly the reference is to the district of Singar in Upper Mesopotamia, although this cannot be substantiated at present.

From the narrative of Gen. 14 it seems that Bera king of Sodom, Birsha king of Gomorrah, Shinab king of Admah, Shemeber king of Zeboiim, and the king of Bela (Zoar) had been tributaries of

拉文本》《撒玛利亚五经》(创 14:1)、《七十士译本》和古叙利亚语各抄本都明确指出暗拉非是“示拿王”。但是，《撒玛利亚五经》(创 14:9)、《他尔根》和《创世记藏经》却特别提到他是巴比伦王。

示拿是巴比伦主要城邑以力和亚甲的所在地(创 10:10)。该地位于平原之上,早期移民者定居在此并建造了城邑和巴别通天塔(创 11:2)。《七十士译本》根据《创世记》10:10 中的传统,将“示拿”(希伯来语: šin’ār) 译为“巴比伦”或“巴比伦地”。根据语言学或其他理由,示拿似乎不能等同于苏美尔或南巴比伦。尽管叙利亚语中 Sen’ar 指巴格达周边的村庄,但是至今未发现与示拿相对应的巴比伦古名。奥尔布赖特认为暗拉非统治的地区可能是叙利亚的西闪族沙格里,亚玛拿时期埃及人如是称呼该城,亚玛拿泥版上将其拼写为 Šankar (阿卡德语)。但是该国似乎不大可能在叙利亚,因为《创世记》14 中的记录似乎显示暗拉非的家乡在美索不达米亚。该地可能指的是上美索不达米亚的沙格里,但此观点至今尚未得到证实。

根据《创世记》14 章的记录,所多玛王比拉、蛾摩拉王比沙、押玛王示纳、洗扁王善以别和比拉(琐珥)王似乎侍奉基大老玛十二年,到第十三年背叛了基大老玛,第十四年时,他们在西订谷(盐

Chedorlaomer for twelve years, had rebelled in the thirteenth, and in the following year were attacked and defeated in the Vale of Siddim or Salt Sea by a punitive coalition led by Chedorlaomer. But before this onslaught the Mesopotamian allies had campaigned against the Rephaim in Ashtaroth-karnaim, the Zuzim in Ham, the Emim in Shaveh-kiriathaim, and the Horites living in the vicinity of Mt. Seir. Once these had been rendered powerless to assist the revolted vassals, the Mesopotamian coalition marched to Kadesh, attacked the Amalekites, and fought against the Amorites of Hazazon-tamar (possibly En-gedi).

The thoroughness with which the campaign was executed suggests that Amraphel and his allies were interested in the agricultural and mineral resources for which the locality was famous in antiquity. Despite the opposition they mounted, the rulers of the cities in the valley were forced to succumb to the Mesopotamian invaders in the Vale of Siddim. The kings of Sodom and Gomorrah were trapped with some of their allies among the numerous bitumen pits of the valley, while those who were able escaped to the hills. The equipment of the defenders was captured by the invading coalition, who, after pillaging Sodom and Gomorrah, marched in the direction of their native land.

Among those enslaved by the Mesopotamians was Lot the nephew of Abram. News of this event was carried by messenger to Abram, who was encamped at the terebinth plantation in Mamre, a place in the Hebron district westward from Machpelah (Gen. 23:17, 19). The patriarch immediately set out with a raiding party and followed the withdrawing invaders to Laish (Dan). He divided his forces, attacked the enemy by night, and sent them fleeing as far as Hobah, N of Damascus. As a result of this attack Abram was able to rescue Lot, with the women and other people, as well as recover the booty that the Elamite coalition had removed from Sodom, where Lot was living.

The discovery at Susa in 1901 of the celebrated Code of Hammurabi led many contemporary scholars to identify Amraphel with that renowned Akkadian monarch. However, there were some immediate philological problems that proved difficult to resolve. The l at the end of Amraphel was a particular matter of contention. Some scholars maintained that it was in fact the Akkadian determinative ilu (“god”). This view is improbable, since in cuneiform the determinative symbol invariably precedes the particular name. If the l is linked with the following word melek, as others have argued, it destroys the sense of the phrase, which is clearly a standardized literary expression. Other inconclusive approaches include the suggestion that Heb. amrāpel is a scribal error for ‘MRPY (Ammurapi = Hammurapi), or that it is a compressed transcription of the Akkadian title Ammurapi-ili (“Hammurabi is my god”). Such arguments tend to posit corruptions of the text for which there is no factual evidence, and at best are unconvincing philologically. There would therefore appear to be no sound reason for maintaining that Amraphel can be identified with Hammurabi, particularly as such a procedure is unsubstantiated by

Mesopotamian archeology and history. If HAMMURABI were really Amraphel, it is difficult to see why he should be occupying a subordinate position to that of Chedorlaomer, unless Hammurabi happened to be a crown prince at the time. But here it has to be recognized that the Palestinian expedition itself has not been discovered to date among the recorded campaigns of Hammurabi. The identity of Amraphel king of Shinar must therefore remain uncertain for the moment.

AMULET

[Heb. laḥaš] (Isa. 3:20); AV EARRING; NEB CHARM. A small object worn on the body and generally hanging from the neck, supposed to afford protection against evil spirits. Amulets were common in all periods of Near Eastern antiquity, and many fine specimens have survived. Near Eastern amulets assumed many shapes, with animal and human figurines especially popular. The crescents (Heb. śah^arōnîm, Jgs. 8:21, 26) and female ornaments (Isa. 3:20) were fundamentally of this nature, as were possibly the earrings (nezem) of Ex. 32:2. Phylacteries (frontlets, ṭōṭāpōṭ; Gk. phylaktéria) can also be regarded as amulets (Ex. 13:16; Dt. 6:8; 11:18; Mt. 23:5; cf. Prov. 6:21), while wisdom itself was described as a pendant (Heb. “nāq, Prov. 1:9), again reflecting the custom of amulet-wearing. This custom also seems indicated by Prov. 17:8, where the MT has “a stone

AMULET 护身符

【希伯来语: laḥaš】(赛 3:20); 《钦定版圣经》译为 EARRING (“耳环”); 《新英文译本》译为 CHARM (“符咒”)。佩戴在身上的小物体,通常是挂在脖子上,人们认为护身符可以保护他们不受邪灵侵犯。护身符在近东古代所有时期都很常见,许多精美的护身符样本都被保留了下来。近东地区的护身符有多种形状,动物或人像形状的尤为流行。月牙圈(希伯来语: śah^arōnîm, 士 8:21, 26)和女性的饰品(赛 3:20)从根本上讲属于护身符,《出埃及记》32:2 中的耳环可能也是护身符。辟邪符(额饰, ṭōṭāpōṭ; 希腊语: phylaktéria)也可以被当作护身符(出 13:16; 申 6:8; 11:18; 太 23:5; 参: 箴 6:21),智慧被比作坠饰(希伯来语:, 箴 1:9),这也反映了佩戴护身符的习俗。《箴言》17:8 似乎也体现了这种习俗,《马所拉文本》将此处译为“受人喜爱的石头”。在《新约》中,《使徒行传》19:12 将日用品当作护身符,但这是以耶稣之名治愈疾病(弗 1:21; 腓 2:9),所以戴护身符不能

AMZI 暗西、暗洗

音译：am'zī【希伯来语：'amṣî——“我的力量”】。

1. A Levite of the family of Merari (1 Ch. 6:46).

1、暗西：利未人，属于米拉利家族（代上 6:46）。

2. A priest of the family of Adaiah in the second temple, the son of a Zechariah (Neh. 11:12).

ā'nab [Heb. "nab—'grape']. A place mentioned in the list of cities that fell to Judah (Josh. 15:50). In the list it follows Debir, from which it was a short distance to the southwest. It was a city of the Anakim, from whom Joshua took it (Josh. 11:21). In Egyptian texts of the 19th Dynasty it is called Qrt 'nb, indicating that the full name of the city was Kiriath-anab, "city of grapes." The site is identified as Khirbet `Anâb, about 15 mi. (24 km.) SW of Hebron.

ANAEL

an'ə-el [Gk. Anaēl]. A brother of Tobit, and father of Ahikar (Tob. 1:21).

1. In Gen. 36:2, 14, 18, the father (or mother) of Oholibamah, one of the wives of Esau. The LXX, Syriac, and Sam. Pent. read "son" of Zibeon in Gen. 36:2, 14, followed by the RSV and NEB; the AV has "daughter."

2. The fourth son of Seir, one of the Edomite chiefs (Gen. 36:20, 25, 29; 1 Ch. 1:38, 41).

3. A son of Zibeon (Gen. 36:24; 1 Ch. 1:40), who discovered thermal springs (AV, NEB, "mules") in the wilderness.

2、暗洗：第二神殿中亚大雅家族的祭司，撒迦利亚的儿子（尼 11:12）。

ANAB 亚拿伯

音译：ā'nab【希伯来语："nab——“葡萄”】。分给犹大的一族城邑（书 15:50）。在犹大列表中该地出现在底璧之后，在底璧西南方不远处。该地原属于亚衲人，后来约书亚占领了该地（书 11:21）。埃及十九王朝时期的文献中称之为 Qrt 'nb，这说明该城的全称应该是基列亚拿伯，意为“葡萄之城”。该地被认为是希伯仑西南方约 15 英里（24 公里）处的亚拿伯废墟（Khirbet `Anâb）。

ANAEL 安尼尔

音译：an'ə-el【希腊语：Anaēl】。多比的兄弟，亚希卡的父亲（比 1:21）。

ANAH 亚拿

音译：ā'nə【希伯来语："nā】。一个何利人宗族的名字（创 36）。

1、根据《创世记》36:2, 14, 18 的记载，阿何利巴玛的父亲（或母亲），阿何利巴玛是以扫的妻子之一。《七十士译本》、古叙利亚语各抄本和《撒玛利亚五经》的《创世记》36:2, 14 中称他为他祭便的“儿子”，《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》接受了这种翻译；《钦定版圣经》中翻译为“daughter”（“女儿”）。

2、西珥的第四个儿子，以东族长之一（创 36:20, 25, 19; 代上 1:38, 41）。

3、祭便的儿子（创 36:24; 代上 1:40），他在旷野中发现了温泉（《钦定版圣经》《新英文译本》中译为“mules”[“驴”]）。

ə-nā'hə-rath [Heb. ^anāh^arāt]. A place that fell to the tribe of Issachar in the division of the land (Josh. 19:19), the 'nhrt among the conquered cities listed by Thutmose III. It is identified as en-Na'ûrah, 6 mi. (10 km.) E of Afula in the Valley of Jezreel.

ə-nī'ə [Heb. ^anāyâ—'Yahweh has answered'; Gk. Ananias, Anaia]; AV and NEB Apoc. ANANIAS. A Levite who assisted Ezra in reading the law to the people (Neh. 8:4; 1 Esd. 9:43). He was one of those who sealed the covenant (Neh. 10:22).

Their name may mean "people of the necklace." They resided in the Hebron area, but may have occupied considerably more terrain originally (Josh. 11:21f.). Hebrew tradition uniformly regarded the Anakim as a formidable people (cf. Dt. 2:10, 21; 9:2), who in Nu. 13:33 are regarded as descendants of the Nephilim (Gen. 6:4). While Joshua dispossessed them from the hill-country, it was left to Caleb to drive them out of Hebron completely.

ANAHARATH 亚拿哈拉

音译：ə-nā'hə-rath 【希伯来语：^anāh^arāt】。分给以萨迦支派的一个地方（书 19:19），是图特摩斯三世占领的城邑列表中的'nhrt。该地被确认为是耶斯列谷中阿富拉东方 6 英里（10 公里）处的纳弗拉（en-Na'ûrah）。

ANAI AH 亚奈雅

音译：ə-nī'ə 【希伯来语：^anāyâ——“耶和華已回答”；希腊语：Ananias, Anaia】；《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》的《次经》译为 ANANIAS（“亚拿尼亚”）。以斯拉向人们宣读法律时协助他的一个利未人（尼 8:4；拉一 9:43）。签信实的约的人之一（尼 10:22）。

ANAK 亚衮

音译：ā'nak 【希伯来语：(hā) ^anāq】；ANAKIM（“亚衮人”），音译：an'ə-kim 【希伯来语：^anāqîm；希腊语：Enakim, Enakeim】；《钦定版圣经》译为 ANAKIMS（“亚衮人”）。以色列人定居迦南地之前该地的一些住民，亚巴的后裔（书 15:13；21:11）。他们的名字意思可能是“带项链的人”。他们居住在希伯仑地区，但是他们最初的领地可能更为广阔（书 11:21-22）。希伯来人一向认为亚衮人十分强大（参：申 2:10, 21；9:2），《民数记》13:33 中称他们是伟人的后裔（创 6:4）。约书亚将亚衮人驱逐出山地，后来迦勒又将他们彻底赶出了希伯仑。 ə-nam'ə-lek [Heb. "nammelek—possibly 'Anu is king']. One of the gods of SEPHARVAIM, along with ADRAMMELECH, to whom the Sepharvites burned their children (2 K. 17:31). Formerly, Sepharvaim was identified with Sippar, and the two deities were thought to be Babylonian. However, Sepharvaim is grouped together with Arpad and Hamath (2 K. 17:24; 18:34), strongly suggesting that it was an Aramean (Syrian) city-state. The identification with Sibraim, on the border between Damascus and Hamath (Ezk. 47:16), has been suggested, but there are phonetic difficulties in such an identification. Moreover, there is no evidence of the immolation of children as part of the cultus of any Babylonian deity. On the other hand, sacrifice by fire was practiced in various portions of Syria and Palestine. We may tentatively conclude, therefore, that Anammelech and Adrammelech were Syrian, or possibly Canaanite, deities.

ANAMMELECH 亚拿米勒

音译：ə-nam'ə-lek【希伯来语："nammelek——可能指“安努是王”】。亚拿米勒和亚得米勒（见 ADRAMMELECH）都是西法瓦音人敬奉的神祇，西法瓦音用火焚烧儿女，献给这两位神祇（王下 17:31）。此前，学者们认为西法瓦音是西帕尔，还认为这两位神祇是巴比伦的神。但是西法瓦音与亚珥拔和哈马一同出现（王下 17:24；王下 18:34），这很有可能表明该地应为亚兰（叙利亚）城邦。于是有学者提出该地可能是大马士革和哈马交界处的西伯莲（结 47:16），但是这引出了一些语音学上的难题。此外，向巴比伦神祇献祭的仪式中从未出现过将子女当祭品的例证。从另一方面来看，叙利亚和巴勒斯坦地区大多有献燔祭的习俗。因此，我们姑且认为亚得米勒和亚拿米勒是叙利亚或迦南的神祇。

the same doom.

The following points are of interest. (1) The narrative immediately follows the account of the intense brotherliness of the believers resulting in a common fund, to which Barnabas had made a generous contribution (Acts 4:32-37). The sincerity and spontaneity of the gifts of Barnabas and the others set forth in dark relief the calculated deceit of Ananias. The brighter the light, the darker the shadow. (2) The crime of Ananias consisted not in his retaining a part, but in his pretending to give the whole. He was under no compulsion to give all, for the communism of the early Church was not absolute, but purely voluntary (see esp. 5:4). Falsehood and hypocrisy ("lie to the Holy Spirit," v. 3), rather than greed, were the sins for which he was so severely punished. (3) The severity of the judgment can be justified by the consideration that the act was "the first open venture of deliberate wickedness" (Meyer) within the Church. The punishment was an "awe-inspiring act of Divine church-discipline." The narrative does not, however, imply that Peter consciously willed their death. His words were the occasion of it, but he was not the deliberate agent. Even the words in v. 9b are a prediction rather than a judicial sentence.

2. A disciple in Damascus, to whom the conversion of Saul of Tarsus was made known in a vision, and who was the instrument of his physical and spiritual restoration, and the means of introducing him to the other Christians in Damascus (Acts 9:10-19). Paul mentions him with great favor in his account of his conversion spoken at Jerusalem (Acts

以下几点十分有趣。(1)信徒非常友爱，建立了共同基金，巴拿巴慷慨捐助(徒4:32-37)，在此描述之后，作者紧接着便陈述了这件事。巴拿巴等人真诚自发捐助的行为凸显出亚拿尼亚算计欺骗的行为。光芒越亮，影子越暗。(2)亚拿尼亚的罪行不在于他留下了一部分价银，而在于他假装交出了全部。没人强迫他交出全部，因为早期教堂的公有制并不是强制的，而是自愿的(尤见徒5:4)。他因谎言和虚伪("欺哄圣灵"，徒5:3)，而非贪婪，受到了严厉的惩罚。(3)考虑到这种行为是教堂中"有意为恶的首恶"(Meyer)，这种严厉的判决可能是合理的。这种惩罚是"规范神圣教堂纪律的一项令人敬畏的法令"。但是，这段叙述没有显示出彼得是有意让他们死。他的话会引起这样的误会，但他并非有意为之。即使是《使徒行传》5:9b中的话也只是预言而不是正义的宣判。

2、亚拿尼亚：一个大马士革的门徒，主在异象中告诉他要去同大数人扫罗说话，使他的身体和精神恢复，并将其引荐给大马士革的其他基督徒(徒9:10-19)。保罗讲述他在耶路撒冷的对话时十分尊敬地提到了亚拿尼亚(徒22:12-16)，他告诉我们亚拿尼亚因严守律法、十分虔诚，为一切住在大马士革的犹太人所崇敬。保罗到凯撒利亚，在

22:12-16), where we are told that Ananias was held in high respect by all the Jews in Damascus, on account of his strict legal piety. No mention is made of him in Paul's address before Agrippa in Caesarea (Acts 26). In late tradition he is placed in the list of the seventy disciples of Jesus, and represented as bishop of Damascus, and as having died a martyr's death.

3. A high priest in Jerusalem, A.D. 47-59. From Josephus (Ant. xx.5.2; 6.2; 9.2; BJ ii.17.9) we glean the following facts: He was the son of Nedebaeus (or Nebedaeus) and was nominated to the high-priestly office of Herod of Chalcis. In A.D. 52 he was sent to Rome by Quadratus, legate of Syria, to answer a charge of oppression brought by the Samaritans, but the emperor Claudius acquitted him. On his return to Jerusalem he resumed the office of high priest. He was deposed shortly before Felix left the province, but continued to wield great influence, which he used in a lawless and violent way.

He was a typical Sadducee, wealthy, haughty, unscrupulous, filling his sacred office for purely selfish and political ends, antinationalist in his relation to the Jews, friendly to the Romans. He died an ignominious death, being assassinated by the popular zealots (sicarii) at the beginning of the last Jewish war.

In the NT he figures in two passages. (1) The first is Acts 23:1-5, where Paul defends himself before the Sanhedrin. The overbearing conduct of Ananias in commanding Paul to be struck on the mouth was characteristic of the man. Paul's ire was for the moment aroused,

亚基帕面前演讲时没有提到他(徒 26)。后来的传说将他列入了耶稣七十门徒的名单中,并称他是大马士革的主教,最终殉道。

3、亚拿尼亚: 公元 47-59 年耶路撒冷的大祭司。从约瑟夫斯的作品中(Ant. xx.5.2; 6.2; 9.2; BJ ii.17.9),我们可以得出以下事实:他是内德拜司(或内拜德司)的儿子,被卡尔基斯王希律授予大祭司职位。公元 52 年,他被叙利亚的使者夸达徒遣往罗马,去辩解撒玛利亚人对他的压迫的指控,但是革老丢王判他无罪。他回到耶路撒冷后,继续担任大祭司一职。腓力斯离开该行省前不久将他罢免,但是他使用非法和暴力手段,仍能对时局产生巨大的影响。 and he hurled back the scornful epithet of “whitewashed wall.” On being called to account for “reviling God’s high priest,” he quickly recovered the control of his feelings, and said, “I did not know, brethren, that he was the high priest; for it is written, ‘You shall not speak evil of a ruler of your people.’”

他是一个典型的撒都该人,富有、傲慢且肆无忌惮,他虽担任圣职,却只在乎一己私欲和政治目的,从与犹太人的关系上来看,他是一个反民族主义者,他亲近罗马人。他死的十分耻辱,在最后一次犹太战争开始时,他被奋锐党(匕首党)暗杀了。

This remark has greatly puzzled the commentators. The high priest could have been easily identified by his position and official seat as president of the Sanhedrin. Some have wrongly supposed that Ananias had lost his office during his trial at Rome, but had afterward usurped it during a vacancy (John Lightfoot, Michaelis, etc.). Others take the words as ironical: “How could I know as high priest one who acts so unworthily of his sacred office?” (so Calvin). Others (e.g., Alford, Plumptre) take it that owing to defective eyesight Paul knew not from whom the insolent words had come. Perhaps the simplest explanation is that Paul meant, “I did not for the moment bear in mind that I was addressing the high priest” (so Bengel, Neander, etc.).

(2) In Acts 24:1 we find Ananias coming down to Caesarea in person, with a deputation from the Sanhedrin, to accuse Paul before Felix.

时，他迅速控制住了情绪，并说道“弟兄们，我不晓得他是大祭司。经上记着说：‘不可毁谤你百姓的官长’”。

这段言辞使得注释者们十分困惑。从位置和官方座位上应该可以轻易地判断出，大祭司是犹太公会的会长。有些人错误地认为亚拿尼亚在罗马审判时被罢免，后来趁职位空缺夺回了职位（John Lightfoot, Michaelis 等）。有人认为这段话是讽刺的，“我如何知道作为大祭司竟会做出如此不符他圣职的行为？”（Calvin）。其他人（如 Alford, Plumptre）则认为，保罗因视力有缺陷，无法得知是谁说了这些无礼的话。也许对保罗的话最简单的解释是“我刚忘了我是在同大祭司讲话”（Bengel, Neander 等）。

(2) 在《使徒行传》24:1 中我们读到亚拿尼亚亲自领着犹太公会的代表团来到凯撒利亚，在腓力斯面前指控保罗。

ANANIEL 亚拿尼尔

is 音译：ʾ-nan'ē-əl 【希腊语：Ananiēl——“神是仁慈的”】；《新英文译本》译为 HANANIEL（“亚拿尼尔”）。多比的祖先之一（比 1:1）。 ā'nath [Heb. ʾnāt; cf. Ugar. 'nt]. The father of Shamgar (Jgs. 3:31; 5:6). Some scholars and the NEB emend “Shamgar ben Anath” to read “Shamgar of Bethanath,” designating either the Galilean city mentioned in Jgs. 1:33 or some other place where the Semitic goddess Anath had a sanctuary. Since, however, the goddess Anath (the sister and consort of Baal) appears in Ugaritic literature as the goddess of war as well as of love, the phrase “Shamgar ben Anath” could possibly mean “Shamgar the warrior.”

ANATH 亚拿

音译：ā'nath 【希伯来语：ʾnāt；参：乌加里特语：'nt】。珊迦的父亲（士 3:31；士 5:6）。一些学者和《新英文译本》的译者将 “Shamgar ben Anath”（“珊迦之子亚拿”）修订为 “Shamgar of Bethanath”（“伯亚纳的珊迦”），可能指的是《士师记》1:33 中提到的加利利城邑，也可能指一处有闪族女神安娜特神庙的地方。但是鉴于女神安娜特（巴力的妹妹和配偶）在乌加里特文化中是战神和爱神，那么短语 “Shamgar ben Anath” 的意思可能是 “勇士珊迦”。

ə-nath'ə-mə [Gk. anáthema < LXX and Attic anáthēma < anatíthēmi]. This word occurs only once in the AV, in the phrase “Let him be anathema, Maranatha” (1 Cor. 16:22); elsewhere the AV renders anáthema by “accursed”; the RSV has “cursed” and “accursed”; the NEB “outcast” and “a curse on” (Rom. 9:3; 1 Cor. 12:3; Gal. 1:8); in Acts 23:14 the AV has “curse,” the RSV and NEB “oath.”

Both words—anáthēma and anáthema—were originally dialectical variations and had the same connotation, “offering to the gods.” The non-Attic form anáthema was adopted in the LXX as a rendering of the Heb. ḥērem (see ACCURSED), and gradually came to have the significance of the Hebrew word—“anything devoted to destruction.” Whereas in the Greek fathers anáthema—as ḥērem in rabbinic Hebrew—came to denote excommunication from society, in the NT the word has its full force.

In common speech it evidently became a strong expression of execration, and the term connoted more than physical destruction; it invariably implied moral worthlessness. In Rom. 9:3 Paul does not simply mean that, for the sake of his fellow countrymen, he is prepared to face death, but he is ready to endure the moral degradation of an outcast from the kingdom of Christ. In 1 Cor. 12:3 the

ANATHEMA 诅咒、当诅咒的

音译: ə-nath'ə-mə【希腊语: anáthema 衍生自《七十士译本》, 阿提卡语: anáthēma 衍生自 anatíthēmi】。本词仅在《钦定版圣经》中出现过一次, “这人可诅可咒。主必要来!” (林前 16:22); 《钦定版圣经》中其他处将 anáthema 译为“accursed”(“当诅咒的”); 《修订标准译本》将 anáthema 译为“cursed”(“当咒诅的”)和“accursed”(“可咒诅的”); 《新英文译本》译为“outcast”(“咒诅”)和“a curse on”(“可咒诅的”, 罗 9:3; 林前 12:3; 加 1:8); 《使徒行传》23:14 中, 《钦定版圣经》译为“curse”(“诅咒”), 《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》译为“oath”(“誓言”)。

anáthēma 和 anáthema 最初都是方言的变体, 他们的含义相同, “给神的祭品”。《七十士译本》将希伯来语 ḥērem (见 ACCURSED[可咒诅的]) 译为非阿提卡语形式的 anáthema, 因此 anáthema 逐渐有了这个希伯来词的含义——“当除灭之物”。但是希腊语原词 anáthema (如后期希伯来语中的 ḥērem) 逐渐演变为逐出教会的意思, 《新约》中该词的含义被诠释地十分充分。

在常用语中, 该词明显是一种表示诅咒的有力表达方式, 它不仅表示身体上的毁灭; 而且可以表示精神上的卑微。在《罗马书》9:3 中, 保罗并非简单地表达, 为了他的同胞他准备赴死, 而是指他准备承受被赶出基督王国的道德惩罚。在《哥林多前书》12:3 中, “耶稣是可诅咒”的表明一个人墮落到了极点, 而“耶稣是主”表明一个人对耶稣的崇敬达到了顶点。 expression “Jesus is anathema,” with its suggestion of moral unfitness, reaches the lowest depths of depreciation, as the expression “Jesus is Lord” reaches the summit of appreciation.

The Gk. anáthēma occurs in Lk. 21:5 with the sense “votive offering” (NEB; RSV “offering”; AV “gift”).

希腊语 anáthēma 出现在《路加福音》21:5 中表示“供物”(《新英文译本》;《修订标准译本》译为“offering”[“祭品”];《钦定版圣经》译为“gift”[“礼物”])。

an'ə-thoth [Heb. “nāṭōṭ”]. A Levitical town in the tribal division of Benjamin (Josh. 21:18; cf. 1 Ch. 6:60), about 3 mi. (5 km.) NE of Jerusalem, best known as the home of the prophet Jeremiah. The modern village of Anâtā preserves the name, but the ancient city is represented by Râs el-Kharrûbeh, about a half-mile (1 km.) to the southwest. In an elevated position at the desert's edge, it was subject to drought and to the blasting east wind, elements that influenced the prophet's figures of speech (cf. Jer. 4:11; 17:8; 18:7; etc.).

Two of David's mighty men, Abiezer (2 S. 23:27; 1 Ch. 11:28; 27:12) and Jehu (1 Ch. 12:3), were from Anathoth. Abiathar the priest owned an estate there, to which he was banished by Solomon (1 K. 2:26f.). Anathoth appears in the prophecy of Isaiah concerning an impending invasion by the Assyrians (Isa. 10:30). Jeremiah was of the priests of Anathoth (Jer. 1:1) and was closely identified with his city (Jer. 29:27); the men of Anathoth

ANATHOTH 亚拿突

音译: an'ə-thoth 【希伯来语: “nāṭōṭ”】。划分地业时归便雅悯支派的一座利未城(书 21:18; 参: 代上 6:60), 在耶路撒冷东北方约 3 英里(5 公里)处, 因是先知耶利米的家乡而出名。现代村庄阿纳塔(Anâtā)沿用了这个名字, 但该古城现在则被称为拉斯哈鲁比(Râs el-Kharrûbeh), 在村庄西南方约 1.5 英里(1 公里)处。该城位于旷野边缘, 地势较高, 经常遭受旱灾和从东边吹来的飓风侵袭, 这些自然的力量都曾出现在先知的形象化比喻中(参: 耶 4:11; 17:8; 18:7 等)。

大卫的两名勇士亚比以谢(撒下 23:27; 代上 11:28; 27:12)和耶户(代上 12:3)都来自亚拿突。祭司亚比亚他在亚拿突有一处田地, 所罗门将他放逐到这里(王上 2:26-27)。以赛亚预言亚拿突将被亚述人侵略(赛 10:30)。耶利米是亚拿突的众祭司之一(耶 1:1), 他和该城存在密切关系(耶 29:27); 亚拿突人反对耶利米, 并成为一特殊预言中的对象(耶 11:21-23)。他还预言了这座城的美好未来; 他赎回了亚拿突的家族土

Men of Anathoth are listed among the people who returned from the Exile (Ezr. 2:23; Neh. 7:27); these Benjaminites reoccupied the city (Neh. 11:32).

Cultural anthropology has provided us information and insight into the ancient (and sometimes primitive) conceptions of the relationship between the living and the dead. These conceptions of the relationship can range from abject fear to reverential awe. Many cultures have “deified” their human ancestors; and at least one known culture has the category of “ancestor” among the deities (the Hittite “former deities”).

These insights are valuable for cultural studies in general, but have a limited value for understanding the ancestor in the OT. The ancestors receive frequent mention in the OT (Heb. ’āb is usually

ANCESTOR 先祖

【希伯来语：’āb】（书 19:47；士 18:29）；《钦定版圣经》译为 FATHER；《新英文译本》还译为 FOREFATHER（汉译均为“先祖”）；【希腊语：patér】（来 7:10）；《钦定版圣经》译为 FATHER（“先祖”）；ANCESTRAL TRIBE（“先祖支派”）【希伯来语：’ābōt】（民 1:16, 47）；《钦定版圣经》译为 TRIBE OF THEIR FATHERS；《新英文译本》译为 FATHER’S TRIBE, FATHER’S FAMILY（汉译均为“先祖支派”）。

文化人类学使得我们能够得知并理解古时（有时是远古时期）关于生者与死者之间关系的观念。有人对这种关系极度恐惧，有人则保持崇敬和敬畏。许多文化都将他们的人类祖先“神化”了；至少有一种文化将“先祖”视为神明（赫梯的“家神”）。

这类见解通常对于文化研究来说十分有价值，但是对于理解《旧约》中的先祖价值十分有限。《旧约》中经常提及先祖（希伯来语 ’āb 通常被译为“父亲”），但却并未提到他们是否是敬奉的 rendered “father”), but there is never the hint that they are or should be the object of worship. The scriptural view of God and history precludes such notions about the ancestors. The OT’s seeming preoccupation with the earlier generations has a historicolegal basis, viz., the covenantal relationship between Yahweh and His people. The corporate nature of the covenant community is expressed in terms of solidarity within a given generation as well as a oneness with previous generations. One’s ancestors were not to be worshiped, but they were not to be forgotten either. It is Yahweh, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, the God of one’s ancestors/forefathers, with whom each contemporary generation must be personally and covenantally related.

ANCHOR

[Gk. ángkyra] (Acts 27:29f., 40; He. 6:19). Every ship carried several anchors, which at successive periods have been made of stone, iron, lead, and perhaps other metals. Each had two flukes and was held by a cable or chain. Stern-anchoring, described in Acts 27:29, was very unusual, but a necessity in the circumstances. In Acts 27:13, “they weighed anchor” translates Gk. árantēs, from airō, “take up” (AV “loosing thence”).

The figurative usage of the word occurs in He. 6:19, where the hope of the gospel is likened to “a sure and steadfast anchor of the soul.”

对象。《圣经》中神和历史的观点排除了关于先祖的这种观念。《旧约》似乎十分关注最初的几代人，这是有历史和律法依据的，即耶和华和祂的民存在圣约关系。圣约会众的共同本质表现在某一代人的团结性和与前人的统一性上。不应当崇拜先祖，但也不应遗忘他们。亚伯拉罕、以撒和雅各的神亚伯拉罕也是先祖的神，每个同代的人都应遵守与神立下的圣约。

ANCHOR 锚

【希腊语: ángkyra】(徒 27:29-30, 40; 来 6:19)。每艘船都会携带几支锚，在不同时期，锚的材质分别为石头、铁、铅，还可能是其他金属。每个锚都有两个锚爪，锚通过缆绳或铁链与船相连。《使徒行传》27:29 中描述的锚骨十分特别，但在当时的环境中，锚是必需品。在《使徒行传》27:13 中，希腊语 árantēs 被翻译成“他们就起了锚”，这个词源于 airō，“拿起”(《钦定版圣经》译为“loosing thence”[“于是松开锚”])。

《希伯来书》6:19 使用了本词的象征意义，福音的希望在这里被比作“又坚固、又牢靠的灵魂的锚”。

ANDREW 安得烈

音译: an’drōō【希腊语: Andrea——“强壮的”, 或可能是“强大的人”, “征服者”】。十二使徒中第一个蒙召唤的。

I. 《新约》中安德烈。A. 早期历史和第一次蒙召。安得烈是加利利的伯赛大人(参: 约 1:44)。他是西门·彼得的 of Simon Peter and his father's name was John (cf. Jn. 1:42; 21:15-17). He occupies a more prominent place in the Gospel of John than in the Synoptics, and this is explicable at least in part in that Andrew was Greek both in language and sympathies (see below), and that his subsequent labors were intimately connected with the people for whom John was immediately writing.

There are three stages in the call of Andrew to apostleship. The first is described in Jn. 1:35-40. Andrew had spent his earlier years as a fisherman on the Sea of Galilee, but on learning of the fame of John the Baptist, he departed along with a band of his countrymen to Bethany (AV Bethabara) beyond Jordan, where John was baptizing (1:28). Possibly Jesus was of their number, or had preceded them in their pilgrimage. There Andrew learned for the first time of the greatness of the "Lamb of God" and "followed him" (v. 40). He was the means at this time of bringing his brother Simon Peter also to Christ (v. 41).

Andrew was probably a companion of Jesus on his return journey to Galilee, and was thus present at the wedding in Cana (Jn. 2:2), in Capernaum (v. 12), at the Passover in Jerusalem (v. 13), at the baptizing in Judea (3:22), where he himself may have taken part (cf. 4:2), and in Samaria (4:5).

B. Second Call and Final Ordination. On his return to Galilee, Andrew resumed for a time his old vocation as fisherman, till he received his second call. This happened after John the Baptist was cast into prison (cf. Mk. 1:14; Mt. 4:12) and is described in Mk. 1:16-18; Mt. 4:18f. The

兄弟，他父亲的名字是约翰（参：约 1:42；21:15-17）。他在《约翰福音》中的位置比他在《对观福音》中的位置更突出，这至少在某种程度上是因为安得烈说希腊语而且是希腊人（见下文），而且他随后的工作与约翰直接描写的人物有密切联系。

安得烈蒙召成为使徒可分为三个阶段。第一个阶段在《约翰福音》1:35-40 中有所描述。安得烈早年在加利利海边做渔夫，但是在听说施洗约翰的名声之后，他和一伙同乡一同离家去往约旦河外的伯大尼（《钦定版圣经》中译为 Bethabara [“伯大巴喇”]），约翰施洗的地方（约 1:28）。耶稣可能在其中，或在他们之前去朝圣。在那里安得烈第一次了解“神的羔羊”的伟大，于是“跟从了祂”（约 1:40）。这时他把他的哥哥西门彼得也带到了基督面前（约 1:41）。

安得烈很可能陪同耶稣一起回到了加利利，因此出现在迦拿娶亲的筵席上（约 2:2），出现在迦百农（约 2:12），出现在耶路撒冷的逾越节上（约 2:13），出现在犹太地施洗的现场（约 3:22），安德烈本人可能在犹太地受了洗（参：约 4:2），然后去往撒玛利亚（约 4:5）。

B. 第二次蒙召和最终任命。 安得烈回到加利利之后，他曾重拾旧业做渔夫，直到他第二次蒙召。这发生在施洗约翰被关入监狱之后（参：可 1:14；太 4:12），《马可福音》1:16-18；《马太福音》4:18-19 也描述了此事。这两段记录几乎一致，讲述了安得烈和他的兄弟是如

two accounts are practically identical, and tell how Andrew and his brother were now called on definitely to forsake their mundane occupations and become “fishers of men” (Mk. 1:17). The corresponding narrative of Luke varies in part; it does not mention Andrew by name, and gives the additional detail of the miraculous draught of fishes. By some it has been regarded as an amalgamation of Mark’s account with Jn. 21:1–8.

After a period of companionship with Jesus, during which, in the house of Simon and Andrew, Simon’s wife’s mother was healed of a fever (Mk. 1:29–31; cf. Mt. 8:14f.; Lk. 4:38f.), the call of Andrew was finally consecrated by his election as one of the twelve apostles (Mt. 10:2; Mk. 3:18; Lk. 6:14; Acts 1:13).

C. Subsequent History. Further incidents recorded of Andrew are: At the feeding of the five thousand by the Sea of Galilee, the attention of Jesus was drawn to the lad with five barley loaves and two fishes (Jn. 6:8f.). At the feast of the Passover, the Greeks who wished to “see Jesus” inquired of Philip, who turned for advice to Andrew, and the two then told Jesus (Jn. 12:20–36). On the Mt. of Olives, Andrew along with Peter, James and John, questioned Jesus regarding the destruction of Jerusalem and the end of the world (Mk. 13:3–23; cf. also Mt. 24:3–28; Lk. 21:5–24).

II. In Apocryphal Literature.—The name of Andrew’s mother was traditionally Joanna; and according to the “Genealogies of the Twelve Apostles” (E. A. Wallis Budge, Contendings of the Apostles [1901], II, 49) he belonged to

何蒙召，明确地接到要求，放弃世俗的职业，成为“得人的渔夫”的（可 1:17）。

《路加福音》中对应的叙述有部分不同；其中没有提到安德烈的名字，但另外详细地描述了捕鱼的奇事。有些人认为此处融合了《马可福音》和《约翰福音》中的 21:1-8 的描述。

他跟从了耶稣一段时间，期间，在西门和安德烈的家中，西门的岳母的热病被治好了（可 1:29-31；参：太 8:14-15；路 4:38-39）；安德烈因最终被拣选为十二使徒之一而最终蒙召成圣（太 10:2；可 3:18；路 6:14；徒 1:13）。

*C. 随后的历史。*关于安德烈的其他事件还有：在加利利海让五千人吃饱的事件中，耶稣的注意力被安德烈转移到一个有五个大麦饼和两条鱼的少年身上（约 6:8-9）。在逾越节筵席上，有希腊人想要“见耶稣”，他们求腓力，腓力便去征求安德烈的意见，然后他们两人一起去告诉耶稣（约 12:20-36）。在橄榄山上，安德烈和彼得、雅各、约翰一起问耶稣关于耶路撒冷毁灭和世界末日的问题（可 13:3-23；参：太 24:3-28；路 21:5-24）。

II. 伪经文学中安德烈。安德烈母亲的名字据传是约亚拿，根据“十二使徒族谱”的记载（E. A. Wallis Budge, Contendings of the Apostles [1901], II, 49），他属于吕便支派。四或五世纪的《科普特福音》中一个片段讲述了多马

the tribe of Reuben. A fragment of a Coptic gospel of the 4th or 5th cent. tells how not only Thomas (Jn. 20:27), but also Andrew was compelled, by touching the feet of the risen Savior, to believe in the bodily resurrection (H-S, I, 197). Various places were assigned as the scene of his subsequent missionary labors. The Syriac Doctrine of the Apostles (ed. W. Cureton, Ancient Syrian Documents [repr. 1967], p. 34) mentions Bithynia, Eusebius gives Scythia (HE iii.1.1), and others Greece. The Muratorian Fragment relates that John wrote his Gospel in consequence of a revelation given to Andrew, and this would point to Ephesus (cf. H-S, I, 43).

The Contendings of the Twelve Apostles contains several parts dealing with Andrew: (1) The “Preaching of Andrew and Philemon among the Kurds” (Budge, II, 163ff.) narrates the appearance of the risen Christ to His disciples, the sending of Andrew to Lydia, and his conversion of the people there. (2) The “Preaching of Matthias in the City of the Cannibals” (Budge, II, 267ff.) tells of how Matthias, on being imprisoned and blinded by the cannibals, was released by Andrew, who had been brought to his assistance in a ship by Christ; but the two were afterward again imprisoned. Matthias then caused the city to be inundated, the disciples were set free, and the people converted. (3) The “Acts of Andrew and Bartholomew” (Budge, II, 183ff.) gives an account of their mission among the Parthians. (4) According to the “Martyrdom of Andrew” (Budge, II, 215) he was stoned and crucified in Scythia.

《十二使徒争鸣》(Contendings of the Twelve Apostles)中有几部分与安德烈有关: (1) “安德烈和腓利门给库尔德人讲道” (Budge, II, 163起)讲述了复活的耶稣向祂的门徒显现的事, 祂遣安德烈去吕底亚, 劝说当地居民改信基督。(2) “马提亚在食人族城邑讲道” (Budge, II, 267起)讲述了马提亚是如何被不辨是非的食人族关进监狱的, 他后来被安德烈释放, 安德烈在一艘船上得到了耶稣的帮助; 但是他们两人后来又关进了监狱。马提亚于是让城市发洪水, 门徒都被释放了, 人们都转信了耶稣。(3) “安德烈和巴多罗买行传” (Budge, II, 183起)记录了他们在帕提亚人中的使命。(4) 根据“安德烈殉道” (Budge, II, 215)的记载, 他遭曾受石刑, 并在西古提被钉死在十字架上。

“安德烈行传”的现存残篇可能是2世

Andrew,” a heretical work dating probably from the 2nd cent., and referred to by Eusebius (HE iii.2.5), the scene of Andrew’s death was laid in Achaia. There he was imprisoned and crucified by order of the proconsul Eges (or Aegeates), whose wife had been estranged from him by the preaching of Andrew (cf. H-S, II, 416–423).

The relics of Andrew were discovered in Constantinople in the time of Justinian, and part of his cross is now in St. Peter’s, Rome. St. Andrew is the patron saint of Scotland; his arm is said to have been transferred there by St. Regulus. The ascription to him of the decussate cross is of late origin.

See also Acts of Andrew under APOCRYPHAL ACTS.

III. Character.—There is something significant in Andrew’s being the first called of the apostles. The choice was an important one, for the action of the others depended upon the lead given by Andrew. Christ perceived that the soul’s unrest, the straining after higher things and a deeper knowledge of God, which had induced Andrew to make the pilgrimage to Bethany, gave promise of a rich spiritual growth, which no doubt influenced Him in His decision. His wisdom and insight were justified by the results. Along with a keenness of perception regarding spiritual truths was coupled in Andrew a strong sense of personal conviction, which enabled him not only to accept Jesus as the Messiah, but to win Peter also as a disciple of Christ.

The incident of the feeding of five thousand displayed Andrew in a fresh

纪的一部异教作品，优西比乌（HE iii.2.5）曾提到过这部作品，其中记载道安德烈死在亚该亚。他在那里被关入狱，并被地方总督伊格斯（或 Aegeates）下令钉死在十字架上，总督的妻子因听安德烈讲道而疏远了他（参：H-S, II, 416–423）。

查士丁尼一世时期，安德烈的遗骸在君士坦丁堡被发现，他十字架的一部分现在被存放于罗马的圣彼得大教堂。圣安德烈是苏格兰的守护圣徒；据说圣雷古勒斯将他的手臂转移到了这里。后来人们用他的名字来称呼直角交叉的十字架。

另见 APOCRYPHAL ACTS（次经行传）词条下的《安德烈行传》。

III. 特质。值得注意的是，安德烈是蒙召成为使徒的。这是一个重要的选择，因为其他人的行动取决于安德烈的领导。基督感知到了这个灵魂的不安，他竭力追求更高的事物和对神更深的理解，这使得安德烈去伯大尼朝圣，使他有希望获得珍贵的心灵成长，这毫无疑问影响了耶稣的决定。安德烈的智慧和洞察力在后来的事件中得以证明。对属灵真理的敏锐感知和强烈的个人信仰同时存在于安德烈身上，这不仅使得他接受耶稣就是救世主，还使得他成功地劝说彼得成为基督徒。

让五千人吃饱这个事件从一个新的角度展现了安德烈的特质：安德烈的实际

aspect: there the practical part which he played formed a striking contrast to the simplemindedness of Philip (Jn. 6:5ff.). Both these traits—his missionary spirit, and his decision of character which made others appeal to him when in difficulties—were evinced at the time when the Greeks sought to interview Jesus. Andrew was not one of the greatest of the apostles, yet he is typical of those men of broad sympathies and sound common sense without whom the success of any great movement cannot be assured.

ANDRONICUS

an-dron'i-kəs [Gk. Andronikos].

1. A deputy of Antiochus Epiphanes who, while ruling at Antioch, excited the Jews by the murder of Onias, and upon their formal complaint was executed by his superior (2 Macc. 4:32–38).

2. Generally distinguished from 1, another officer of the same name, also under Antiochus (2 Macc. 5:23).

3. A kinsman of Paul, residing at Rome (Rom. 16:7). He had been converted to Christianity before Paul, and like Paul had suffered imprisonment, although when and where can only be surmised. When he and Junias, another kinsman of Paul, are referred to as “of note among the apostles,” this may be interpreted either as designating the high esteem in

ANDRONICUS 安得劳尼克、安多尼古

音译：an-dron'i-kəs 【希腊语：Andronikos】。

1、安得劳尼克：安提阿古·伊皮法尼的代理人，在治理安提阿时，他杀了奥尼亚，激起了犹太人的愤慨，因为他们正式抗议，安得劳尼克被他的君主处死了（马二 4:32-38）。

2、安得劳尼克：通常要将这个安得劳尼克和 1 中的安得劳尼克区分开来，安提阿古手下还有一个同名的官员（马二 5:23）。

3、安多尼古：居住在罗马的保罗的亲戚（罗 16:7）。他在保罗之前改信基督教，和保罗一样，他也曾被监禁，但是我们只能推测他被监禁的时间和地点。书中称他和保罗的另一个亲戚犹尼亚“在使徒中是有名望的”，这也许可能指他们在十二使徒中享有很高的威望，或者他们被视为使徒。如果从广义上理解使徒，那么《使徒行传》14:14 中的

The latter is the sense, if “apostle” be understood here in the more general meaning, used in Acts 14:14 of Barnabas, in 2 Cor. 8:23 of Titus, in Phil. 2:25 of Epaphroditus, and in the Didache of “the traveling evangelists or missionaries who preached the gospel from place to place.” On this assumption, Andronicus was one of the most prominent and successful of the traveling missionaries of the early Church.

ANEM

ā'nēm [Heb. 'ānēm—“two springs”; Gk. Anam]. A place mentioned with Ramoth among the cities of Issachar assigned to the Gershomite Levites (1 Ch. 6:73). In the parallel list (Josh. 21:29) are mentioned Jarmuth and Engannim, corresponding to Ramoth and Anem; therefore Anem and En-gannim (Jenîn) may be identical. As the names denote (En-gannim=“the spring of gardens”), it was well watered. WHAB suggests 'Olam, about 7 mi. (11 km.) E of Mt. Tabor, as its location.

ANER

ā'nēr [Heb. 'ānēr; Sam. 'anrām—“spout, waterfall”; Gk. Aunan]. One of the three “confederates” of Abraham in his pursuit after the four kings (Gen. 14:13, 24). Of the two other names, Mamre is the name of the sacred grove or tree and synonymous with Hebron, and Eshcol is the name of a valley (lit. “grape cluster”); thus Aner may perhaps be explained in a similar way. Dillmann suggested a range of mountains in that vicinity (comm. in loc.).

巴拿巴、《哥林多后书》8:23 中的提多、《腓立比书》2:25 中的以巴弗提和《十二使徒遗训》中的“到处布讲福音的旅行福音传道士或传教士”都可以算作使徒。根据这种设想，安多尼古是早期教堂中最杰出的和最成功的旅行传教士。

音译：ā'nēr【希伯来语：'ānēr；撒玛利亚语：'anrām——“水柱、瀑布”；希腊语：Aunan】。亚伯拉罕追击四王时的三个“同盟”之一（创 14:13, 24）。另外两个名字中，幔利是神圣的树林或果园的名字，是希伯仑的同义词，以实各是一个山谷的名字（字面意思为“葡萄串”）；因此，亚乃或许也可以用同样的方式来解释。迪尔曼认为亚乃是附近山脉的名字（此段评注）。

In Jn. 3:3, 7, the story of Jesus and Nicodemus, the important question is whether Gk. ánōthen here means "again" or "from above." While the English versions take it in the former sense, the other is possible, and not without support. Indeed, elsewhere in John ánōthen clearly means "from above" (3:31; 19:11, 23). Büchsel (TDNT, I, s.v.) argues strongly for this meaning, pointing out that John "always describes birth in terms of its origin, i.e., of God (1:13; 1 Jn. 2:29; 3:9; 4:7; 5:18), of the Spirit or flesh (3:6), of water and the Spirit (3:5)." ANEW 重新

【希腊语: ánōthen】(约 3:3, 7); 《钦定版圣经》译为 AGAIN ("再次"); 《新英文译本》译为 OVER AGAIN ("再一次"); 【希腊语: ana- (in anagennáo—'使得重生')】(彼前 1:3, 23); 《钦定版圣经》译为 AGAIN ("再次"); 《新英文译本》译为 "new" ("新的")。

在《约翰福音》 3:3, 7 关于耶稣和尼哥德慕的故事中, 重要的问题是希腊语 ánōthen 的意思的是 "再次" 还是 "从天上"。虽然英文版本选取了前一种含义, 但也有可能是后一种含义, 而且可以提供相关的依据。事实上, ánōthen 在《约翰福音》其他处都明显表示 "从天上" (约 3:31; 19:11, 23)。布沙尔 (TDNT, I, 见该词条) 十分赞同这种翻译, 他指出约翰 "总是按照来源描述血统, 即从神生的 (约 1:12; 约壹 2:29; 3:9; 4:7; 5:18), 从灵生的或从肉生的 (约 3:6), 从水和圣灵生的 (约 3:5)"。在阐述观点时, 他还借助可能隐含于其中的希伯来语或亚兰语 (关于此点 possible underlying Hebrew or Aramaic (on this see SB, II, 420f.), to ecclesiastical tradition, to a connection with Job 3:4, and to the psychology of the story.

In Bauer (p. 76) it is suggested that the usage is purposely ambiguous; Büchsel considers such an interpretation “both superfluous and unprovable,” but Leon Morris (NIC [1971], in loc.) argues well for it, quoting Barclay’s translation “reborn from above.” (Morris also notes that in any case “anew” is preferable to “again.”)

Those who argue for “anew” as the unambiguous meaning include Calvin and Westcott; but few modern commentators deny that the meaning “from above” is present at least in part. In all events, it is clearly a “new birth” that Jesus is talking about, whatever the connotations of ánōthen. That new birth is spoken of also by Peter (1 Pet. 1:3, 23), using a much less ambiguous word.

加尔文和威斯克也认为“重新”是有歧义的;但是现代的注释者认为“从天上”这一含义至少出现在某些部分。总之,无论 ánōthen 的意思是什么,耶稣都明显是在谈论“重生”。彼得也同样提到了重生(彼前 1:3, 23),但是他使用了一个不太容易引起歧义的词。

IV. Development of the Doctrine

V. Reality of Angels

I. Definition and Terms.-The word angel is applied in Scripture to an order of supernatural or heavenly beings whose function it is to act as God's messengers to men, and as agents who carry out His will. Both in Hebrew and Greek the word is also applied to human messengers (1 K. 19:2; Lk. 7:24); in Hebrew it is used in the singular to denote a divine messenger, and in the plural for human messengers, although there are exceptions to both usages. It is applied to the prophet Haggai (Hag. 1:13), to the priest (Mal. 2:7), and to the messenger who is to prepare the way of the Lord (Mal. 3:1).

IV. 教义的发展

V. 天使的真实性

I. 定义和术语。本词出现在《圣经》中用来指一种超自然的或神圣的生物，他们的职责是担当神的使者给人类传递消息，也是执行神的旨意的代理。在希伯来语和希腊语中，本词还可以用来指人类信使（王上 19:2；路 7:24）；在希伯来语中，本词用作单数形式时，表示神的信使；用作复数形式时，表示人类信使，但是两种用法都有特例。本词被用来指先知哈该（该 1:13），祭司（玛 2:7）和为神预备道路的使者（玛 3:1）。

Other Hebrew words and phrases applied to angels are b^enê ha'ēlōhîm (Gen. 6:2, 4; Job 1:6; 2:1) and b^enê'ēlîm (Ps. 29:1; 89:6), i.e., sons of the ēlōhîm or 'ēlîm; this means, according to a common

其他指天使的希伯来语单词和短语有 b^enê ha'ēlōhîm（创 6:2, 4；伯 1:6；2:1）和 b^enê'ēlîm（诗 29:1；89:6），即 ēlōhîm 或 'ēlîm 的众子；根据希伯来语的常用用法，这意味着，这个阶层的成员被称

Hebrew usage, members of the class called ʿlōhîm or ʿēlîm, the heavenly powers. It seems doubtful whether ʿlōhîm, standing by itself, is ever used to designate angels, although the LXX so translates it in a few passages. The most notable instance is Ps. 8:5, where the RSV reads, “Thou hast made him little less than God,” while the AV has “the angels” for “God” (cf. He. 2:7, 9). Other terms are q̄dōšîm, “holy ones” (Ps. 89:5, 7), a name suggesting that they belong to God; and Aram. ʾîr, ʾîrîm, “watcher,” “watchers” (Dnl. 4:13, 17, 23). Still other expressions are used to designate angels collectively: sôd, “council” (Ps. 89:7), where the reference may be to an inner group of exalted angels; ʿēdâ and qāhāl, “congregation” (Ps. 82:1; 89:5); and finally šābāʾ, šēbāʾ ôṭ, “host,” “hosts,” as in the familiar phrase “the God of hosts.”

In the NT the Gk. ángelos, when it refers to a divine messenger, is frequently accompanied by some phrase that makes this meaning clear, e.g., “the angels of heaven” (Mt. 24:36). Angels belong to the “heavenly host” (Lk. 2:13). In reference to their nature they are called “spirits” (He. 1:14).

Paul evidently referred to the ordered ranks of supramundane beings by a group of words that are found in various combinations, viz., archai, “principalities,” exousiai, “powers,” thrónoi, “thrones,” kyriótētes, “dominions,” and dynámeis, also translated “powers.” The first four are apparently used in a good sense in Col. 1:16, where it is said that all these beings were created through Christ and unto Him; in most of the other passages in which words from this group occur, they seem to represent evil powers. We are told that our wrestling is against them (Eph. 6:12), and that Christ triumphs over the principalities and powers (Col. 2:15; cf. Rom. 8:38; 1 Cor. 15:24). In two passages the word archángelos, “archangel” or chief angel, occurs: “the voice of the archangel” (1 Thess. 4:16), and “Michael the archangel” (Jude 9).

为 ʿlōhîm 或 ʿēlîm, 神圣的力量。值得怀疑的是, ʿlōhîm 一词单独出现时是否应该译为天使, 尽管《七十士译本》在数个段落中将这个词译为“天使”。最值得注意的一处例子是《诗篇》的 8:5, 《修订标准译本》中译为“你叫他比神微小一点”, 而《钦定版圣经》中用“天使”替换了“神”(参: 来 2:7, 9)。其他术语还有 q̄dōšîm, “圣者”(诗 89:5, 7), 这个名字表示了他们属于神; 还有亚兰语: ʾîr, ʾîrîm, “守望者”, “众守望者”(但 4:13, 17, 23)。还有其他用来指全部天使的表达方式: sôd, “会”(诗 89:7), 这可能是指高贵天使的议会; ʿēdâ 和 qāhāl, “圣会”(诗 82:1; 诗 89:5); 最后还有 šābāʾ, šēbāʾ ôṭ, “军”, “万军”, 如在常见的短语“万军之耶和华”中。

在《新约》中, 当希腊语 ángelos 指神的信使时, 它经常和一些短语连用, 从而表达明确的含义, 如“天上的使者”(太 24:36)。天使属于“天兵”(路 2:13)。天使的本质是“灵”(来 1:14)。

II. In the OT.-A. Nature, Appearances, and Functions. Everywhere in the OT the existence of angels is assumed. The creation of angels is referred to in Ps. 148:2, 5 (cf. Col. 1:16). They were present at the creation of the world, and were so filled with wonder and gladness that they “shouted for joy” (Job 38:7). Of their nature we are told nothing. In general they are simply regarded as embodiments of their mission. Though presumably the holiest of created beings, they are charged by God with folly (Job 4:18), and we are told that He “puts no trust in his holy ones” (Job 15:15). References to the fall of the angels are found only in the obscure and probably corrupt passage Gen. 6:1-4, and in the interdependent passages 2 Pet. 2:4 and Jude 6, which draw their inspiration from the pseudepigraphical 1 Enoch. Demons are mentioned (see DEMONOLOGY); and although Satan appears among the sons of God (Job 1:6; 2:1), there is a growing tendency in later writers to attribute to him a malignity that is all his own (see SATAN).

As to their outward appearance, it is evident that they bore the human form, and could at times be mistaken for men (Ezk. 9:2; Gen. 18:2, 16). There is no hint that they ever appeared in female form.

8:38; 林前 15:24)。 Archángelos 出现在两个段落中，指“天使长”：“天使长的声音”（帖前 4:16），和“天使长米迦勒”（犹 1:9）。

II. 《旧约》中的天使或使者。 A. 本质、外貌和职责。《旧约》中提到天使存在的所有地方都是假定的。天使这种受造物在《诗篇》148:2, 5（参：西 1:16）中被提及。创造世界时他们在场，他们如此充满惊奇和愉悦，以至于“欢呼”出来（伯 38:7）。关于他们的本质，我们不得而知。一般而言，他们仅仅被认为是使命的化身。尽管天使可能是最为神圣的受造物，但是神仍指责他们是愚蠢的（伯 4:18），而且我们还被告知“神不信靠他的众圣者”（伯 15:15）。《创世记》6:1-4 这个模糊且可能有误的经文段落，以及相互依赖的经文《彼得后书》2:4 和《犹大书》1:6 都提到了天使的堕落，这种描述受到《以诺一书》的启发。书中还提到了魔鬼（见 DEMONOLOGY[魔鬼研究学]）；尽管撒但也出现在神之众子中（伯 1:6; 2:1），但后来的作者越来越倾向于将撒但描述成恶魔（见 SATAN[撒但]）。

天使显然有人类的外貌，他们有时会被错认成人类（结 9:2；创 18:2, 16）。书中并没有提到他们曾以女性形象出现。在基督教艺术中常见带翅膀的天使形象，但在《圣经》中并没有任何佐证（《但

The conception of angels as winged beings, so familiar in Christian art, finds no support in Scripture (except, perhaps, Dnl. 9:21; Rev. 14:6, where angels are represented as “flying”). The Cherubim and Seraphim are represented as winged (Ex. 25:20; Isa. 6:2); winged also are the symbolic living creatures of Ezk. 1:6 (cf. Rev. 4:8).

As stated above, angels are messengers and instruments of the divine will. As a rule they exercise no influence in the physical sphere. In several instances, however, they are represented as destroying angels: two angels are commissioned to destroy Sodom (Gen. 19:13); when David numbers the people, an angel destroys them by pestilence (2 S. 24:16); it is by an angel that the Assyrian army is destroyed (2 K. 19:35); and Ezekiel hears six angels receiving the command to destroy those who were sinful in Jerusalem (Ezk. 9:1, 5, 7). In this connection should be noted the expression “angels of evil,” i.e., angels that bring evil upon men from God and execute His judgments (Ps. 78:49; cf. 1 S. 16:14).

Angels appear to Jacob in dreams (Gen. 28:12; 31:11). The angel who meets Balaam is visible first to the ass, and not to the rider (Nu. 22:22ff.). Angels interpret God’s will, showing man what is right for him (Job 33:23). The idea of angels as caring for men also appears (Ps. 91:11f.), although the modern conception of the possession by each man of a special guardian angel is not found in the OT.

B. Angelic Host. The phrase “the host of heaven” is applied to the stars, which 以理书》9:21 和《启示录》14:6 可能属于例外情况，其中天使被描述为“飞行中的”。基路伯和撒拉弗被描绘为有翅膀的（出 25:20；赛 6:2）；《以西结书》1:6 中的象征性的活物也是有翅膀的（参：启 4:8）。

如上文所陈述，天使是传达神的旨意的信使和工具。因此，他们不能对物理领域造成任何影响。但是，在几处例子中，他们被描写为毁灭天使：两个天使被任命去毁灭所多玛（创 19:13）；当大卫点数百姓的时候，天使用瘟疫毁灭了他们（撒下 24:16）；亚述的军队是被一个天使摧毁的（王下 19:35）；以西结听到六个天使接到命令毁灭耶路撒冷有罪的人（结 9:1, 5, 7）。在这一点上，应注意“罪恶天使”这一表达方式，即天使从神那里带来灾祸降在人的身上，执行祂的审判（诗 78:49；参：撒上 16:14）。

天使在梦中向雅各显现（创 28:12；31:11）。巴兰骑的驴子先看到了来见他的天使，他自己却没看见（民 22:22 起）。天使传达神的旨意，指示人所当行的事（伯 33:23）。天使会保护人的说法也在经文中出现过（诗 91:11-12），但是现代人认为每个人都有个特别的守护天使，这种设想并未出现在《旧约》中。

B. 天使军。 短语“天上的万象”指星辰，崇拜偶像的犹太人有时也崇拜星辰 were sometimes worshiped by idolatrous Jews (Jer. 33:22; 2 K. 21:3; Zeph. 1:5); the name is applied to the company of angels because of their countless numbers (cf. Dnl. 7:10) and their glory. They are represented as standing on the right and left hand of the Lord (1 K. 22:19). Hence God, who is over them all, is continually called throughout the OT “the God of hosts,” “the Lord of hosts,” “the Lord God of hosts”; and once “the Prince of the host” (Dnl. 8:11).

One of the principal functions of the heavenly host is to be ever praising the name of the Lord (Ps. 103:21; 148:1f.). In this host there are certain figures that stand out prominently, and some of them are named. The angel who appears to Joshua calls himself “commander of the army of the Lord” (Josh. 5:14f.). The glorious angel who interprets to Daniel the vision that he saw in the third year of Cyrus (Dnl. 10:5), like the angel who interprets the vision in the first year of Belshazzar (Dnl. 7:16), is not named; but other visions of the same prophet were explained to him by the angel Gabriel, who is called “the man Gabriel,” and is described as speaking with “a man’s voice” (Dnl. 9:21; 8:15f.). In Daniel we find occasional reference made to “princes”: “the prince of Persia,” “the prince of Greece” (10:20). These are angels to whom is entrusted the charge of, and possibly the rule over, certain peoples. Most notable among them is Michael, described as “one of the chief princes,” “the great prince who has charge of your people,” and, more briefly, “your prince” (Dnl. 10:13; 12:1; 10:21); Michael is therefore regarded as the patron-angel of the Jews.

(耶 33:22; 王下 21:3; 番 1:5); 这个名字还被用于描述天使军团, 因为他们数量庞大 (参: 但 7:10), 充满荣耀。他们被描述为站在耶和华的左右手边 (王上 22:19)。因此, 在万军之上的神, 在整部《旧约》之中一直被称为“万军之神”“万军之耶和华”和“万军之主耶和华”; 还有一次被称为“天象之君” (但 8:11)。

天军的主要职责之一是赞美耶和华 (诗 103:21; 148:1-2)。万军之中, 有些天使拥有突出的地位, 有些则是被任命的。出现在约书亚面前的天使自称要作“耶和华军队的元帅” (书 5:14-15)。向但以理解释他在居鲁士第三年看到的异象的荣耀的天使 (但 10:5), 和向他解释他在伯沙撒第一年看到的异象的天使一样 (但 7:16), 没有被任命; 但是向这位先知解释其他的异象的天使是加百列, 他被称为“那位加百列”, 被描述为“用人的声音”说话 (但 9:21; 但 8:15-16)。《但以理书》中, 偶尔会提及“魔君”: “波斯的魔君”和“希腊的魔君” (但 10:20)。他们是天使, 接受任命管理某些民族或可能统治某些民族。其中最值得注意的是米迦勒, 他被描述为“大君之一”, “保佑你本国之民的天使长”, 或更简单地称为“你们的大君” (但 10:13; 12:1; 10:21); 米迦勒因此被认为是犹太人的守护天使。

In the Apocrypha Raphael, Uriel, and Jeremiel are also named. Of Raphael it is said that he is “one of the seven holy angels who present the prayers of the saints” to God (Tob. 12:15; cf. Rev. 8:2, “the seven angels who stand before God”). It is possible that this group of seven is referred to in the above-quoted phrase, “one of the chief princes.”

Some (notably Kusters) have maintained that the expressions “the sons of the ‘lōhīm,” God’s “council,” and “congregation” refer to the ancient gods of the heathen, now degraded and wholly subordinated to Yahweh. This rather daring speculation has little support in Scripture; but we find traces of a belief that the patron-angels of the nations have failed in establishing righteousness within their allotted sphere on earth, and that they will accordingly be punished by Yahweh their Sovereign (Isa. 24:21f.; Ps. 82; cf. Ps. 58:1f., RSV; cf. Jude 6).

C. Angel of the Theophany. This angel is spoken of as “the angel of the Lord,” and “the angel of the presence [or face] of the Lord.” The following passages contain references to this angel: Gen. 16:7ff.—the angel and Hagar; Gen. 18—Abraham intercedes with the angel for Sodom; Gen. 22:11ff.—the angel interposes to prevent the sacrifice of Isaac; Gen. 24:7, 40—Abraham sends Eliezer and promises him the angel’s protection; Gen. 31:11ff.—the angel who appears to Jacob says, “I am the God of Bethel”; Gen. 32:24ff.—Jacob wrestles with the angel and says, “I have seen God face to face”; Gen. 48:15f.—Jacob speaks of God and the angel as identical: Ex. 3 (cf. Act. 7:30ff.)—the angel appears to Moses in the burning bush; Ex.

一些学者（尤其是 Kusters）坚持认为“神之众子”、神的“会”和“圣会”是指古时天上的众神，他们现在已经降级，并完全服从于耶和华。这种更大胆的推测，在《圣经》中几乎没有佐证；但是我们却找到了一种信仰的迹象，即国家的守护天使所指派的领地内没有建立起正义，他们将因此受到他们的主耶和华的惩罚（赛 24:21-22；诗 82；参：诗 58:1-2，《修订标准译本》；参：滴 1:6）。

C. 神显现时的天使。这位天使被称为“耶和华的使者”和“耶和华面前的使者”。以下段落中提及了这位天使：创 16:7 起——天使和夏甲；《创世记》18——亚伯拉罕为所多玛向天使求情；《创世记》22:11 起——天使出现阻止亚伯拉罕献以撒为祭；《创世记》24:7, 40——亚伯拉罕派遣以利以谢去其本地，并承诺天使会保护他；《创世记》31:11 起——出现在雅各面前的天使说“我是伯特利的神”；《创世记》32:24 起——雅各和天使摔跤，并说“我面对面见了神”；《创世记》48:15-16——雅各提到的神和天使是一致的；《出埃及记》3（参：徒 7:30 起）——天使从燃烧的荆棘中向摩西显现；《出埃及记》13:21；14:19（参：民 20:16）——神或天使把以色列人从埃及领出来；《出埃及记》23:20 起——人们被要求要遵守

13:21; 14:19 (cf. Nu. 20:16)—God or the angel leads Israel out of Egypt; Ex. 23:20ff.—the people are commanded to obey the angel; Ex. 32:34–33:17 (cf. Isa. 63:9)—Moses pleads for the presence of God with His people; Josh. 5:13–6:2—the angel appears to Joshua; Jgs. 2:1–5—the angel speaks to the people; Jgs. 6:11ff.—the angel appears to Gideon.

A study of these passages shows that while the angel and Yahweh are at times distinguished from each other, they are with equal frequency, and in the same passages, merged into each other. How is this to be explained? It is obvious that these apparitions cannot be the Almighty Himself, whom no man has seen, or can see. In seeking the explanation, special attention should be paid to two of the passages cited above. In Ex. 23:20ff. God promises to send an angel before His people to lead them to the Promised Land; they are commanded to obey him and not to provoke him, “for he will not pardon your transgression; for my name is in him.” Thus the angel can forgive sin, which only God can do, because God’s name, i.e., His character and thus His authority, are in the angel. Further, in the passage Ex. 32:34–33:17 Moses intercedes for the people after their first breach of the covenant; God responds by promising, “behold, my angel shall go before you”; and immediately after God says, “I will not go up among you.” In answer to further pleading, God says, “My presence will go with you, and I will give you rest.” Here a clear distinction is made between an ordinary angel and the angel who carries with him God’s presence. The conclusion may be summed up in the words of A. B.

天使的话;《出埃及记》32:34-33:17(参:赛 63:9)——摩西在神前为他的民说情;《约书亚记》5:13-6:2——天使向约书亚显现;《士师记》2:1-5——天使对众人说话;《约书亚记》6:11起——天使出现在基甸面前。

Davidson in his OT Theology (1904): “In particular providences one may trace the presence of Jehovah in influence and operation; in ordinary angelic appearances one may discover Jehovah present on some side of His being, in some attribute of His character; in the angel of the Lord He is fully present as the covenant God of His people, to redeem them.”

The question still remains, Who is the theophanic angel? To this many answers have been given, of which the following may be mentioned: (1) This angel is simply an angel with a special commission; (2) he may be a momentary descent of God into visibility; (3) he may be the Logos, a kind of temporary preincarnation of the second person of the trinity. Each has its difficulties, but the last is certainly the most tempting to the mind. Yet it must be remembered that at best these are only conjectures that touch on a great mystery. It is certain that from the beginning God used angels in human form, with human voices, in order to communicate with man; and the appearances of the angel of the Lord, with his special redemptive relation to God's people, show the working of that divine mode of self-revelation which culminated in the coming of the Savior, and are thus a foreshadowing of, and a preparation for, the full revelation of God in Jesus Christ. Further than this it is not safe to go.

III. In the NT.-A. Appearances. Nothing that is related of angels in the NT is inconsistent with the teaching of the OT on the subject. Just as they are specially active in the beginning of OT history, when God's people is being born, so they appear frequently in connection with the birth of Jesus, and again when a new order begins with the Resurrection. An angel appears three times in dreams to Joseph (Mt. 1:20; 2:13, 19). The angel Gabriel appears to Zechariah, and then to Mary in the annunciation (Lk. 1). An angel announces to the shepherds the birth of Jesus, and is joined by a "multitude of the heavenly host," praising God in celestial song (Lk. 2:8ff.). When Jesus is tempted, and again during the agony at Gethsemane, angels appear to Him to strengthen His soul (Mt. 4:11; Lk. 22:43). The verse that tells how an angel came down to trouble the pool (Jn. 5:4) is now omitted from the text as not being genuine. An angel descends to roll away the stone from the tomb of Jesus (Mt. 28:2); angels are seen there by certain women (Lk. 24:23) and (two) by Mary Magdalene (Jn. 20:12).

问题仍然存在，神显现时的天使是谁呢？可能有以下几种答案：（1）这个天使只是有特殊使命的天使而已；（2）他可能是短暂降临于人前的神；（3）他可能是道，即三位一体真神道成肉身之前的第二个位格。每一种回答都有疑问，但是最后一种肯定最有可能。然而应当记住的是，这些答案不过是关于伟大奥秘的推测而已。毫无疑问，从最开始，神就通过有人类外表和声音的天使来和人类交流；而主的天使的外貌，以及主的天使与神之子民的特殊救赎关系体现出神自我启示的方式，而这种自我启示在救世主降临时达到最高潮，因此主的天使的外貌和这种特殊的救赎关系是神在耶稣基督里完全自我启示的先兆和准备。合理推测仅此而已。。

III. 《新约》中的天使和使者。A. 外貌。
《新约》中关于天使的描述与《旧约》中关于天使的教义并不矛盾。正如天使在旧约历史初期，神之民出生时特别活跃一样，当耶稣降生时和复活开创新秩序时，他们也经常出现。一个天使在约

An angel releases the apostles from prison, directs Philip, appears to Peter in a dream, frees him from prison, smites Herod with sickness, appears to Paul in a dream (Acts 5:19; 8:26; 10:3; 12:7ff.; 12:23; 27:23). Once angels appear clothed in white; they are so dazzling in appearances as to terrify beholders; hence they begin their message with the words "Fear not" (Mt. 28:2-5).

B. Teaching of Jesus. It is quite certain that Our Lord accepted the main teachings of the OT about angels, as well as the later Jewish belief in good and bad angels. He speaks of the "angels in heaven" (Mt. 22:30), and of "the devil and his angels" (Mt. 25:41). According to Our Lord the angels of God are holy (Mk. 8:38); they have no sex or sensuous desires (Mt. 22:30); they have high

瑟的梦中出现了3次(太 1:20; 2:13, 19)。天使加百列向撒迦利亚显现, 然后向马利亚显现给她报喜(路 1)。有天使通知牧羊人耶稣的出生, 天使和“一队天兵”一起, 用圣歌赞美神(路 2:8起)。当耶稣受试探时, 以及在客西马尼忍受剧痛时, 天使向祂显现, 加添祂的力量(太 4:11; 路 22:43)。由于《约翰福音》5:4 中关于天使下池搅水的描述是不真实的, 所以现在已经将这段描述从文中删除。有天使从天上下来, 将耶稣墓碑上的石头滚开(太 28:2); 有女人在那里看见了天使(路 24:23), 抹大拉的马利亚看见了两个天使(约 20:12)。

有天使将使徒从监狱中放出来, 指引腓利, 出现在彼得的梦中, 将他从监狱中放出来, 用疾病毁灭了希律, 出现在保罗的梦中(徒 5:19; 8:26; 10:3; 12:7起; 徒 12:23; 27:23)。天使出现时穿白衣; 他们外观如此耀眼, 使得旁观者惧怕; 因此他们以“不要害怕”开始传信(太 28:2-5)。

*B. 耶稣的教导。*毫无疑问, 我们的主接受《旧约》中关于天使的教义, 也接受了后来犹太人关于善天使和恶天使的信仰。祂曾提及“天使”(太 22:30), 和“魔鬼和他的使者”(太 25:41)。据我们的主所说, 神的使者是神圣的(可 8:38); 他们没有性别或肉欲(太 22:30); 他们有极高的智慧, 但是他们不知道耶稣复临的时间(太 24:36); 他们带(在寓言中)拉撒路的 intelligence, but they know not the time of the Parousia (Mt. 24:36); they carry (in a parable) the soul of Lazarus to Abraham's bosom (Lk. 16:22); they could have been summoned to the aid of Our Lord, had He so desired (Mt. 26:53); they will accompany Him at the Parousia (Mt. 25:31) and separate the righteous from the wicked (Mt. 13:41, 49).

They watch with sympathetic eyes the fortunes of men, rejoicing in the repentance of a sinner (Lk. 15:10; cf. 1 Pet. 1:12; Eph. 3:10; 1 Cor. 4:9); and they will hear the Son of man confessing or denying those who have confessed or denied Him before men (Lk. 12:8f.). The angels of the presence of God, who do not appear to correspond to our conception of guardian angels, are specially interested in God's little ones (Mt. 18:10). Finally, the existence of angels is implied in the Lord's Prayer in the petition, "Thy will be done, /On earth as it is in heaven" (Mt. 6:10).

C. Other NT References. Paul refers to the ranks of angels ("principalities, powers," etc.) only in order to emphasize the complete supremacy of Jesus Christ. He teaches that angels will be judged by the saints (1 Cor. 6:3). He attacks the incipient Gnosticism of Asia Minor by forbidding the worship of angels (Col. 2:18). He speaks of God's angels as "elect," because they are included in the counsels of divine love (1 Tim. 5:21). When Paul commands the women to keep their heads covered in church because of the angels (1 Cor. 11:10) he may mean that the angels, who watch all human affairs with deep interest, would be pained to see any infraction of the laws of modesty.

灵去亚伯拉罕的怀里 (路 16:22); 如果主愿意, 天使可以蒙召来帮助祂 (太 26:53); 他们会在耶稣复临时陪伴祂 (太 25:31), 他们还能将正直的人和邪恶的人分开 (太 13:41, 49)。

他们注视着人类的命运, 眼中充满怜悯, 他们为罪人悔改感到欣喜 (路 15:10; 参: 彼前 1:12; 弗 3:10; 林前 4:9); 凡在人面前认人子的, 人子在神的使者面前也必认他; 在人面前不认人子的, 人子在神的使者面前也必不认他 (路 12:8-9)。神面前的天使和我们概念中的守护天使似乎不同, 他们尤为关注神的小子们 (太 18:10)。最后, 天使的存在在主祷文中的祈求里有所暗示, “愿你的旨意行在地上, 如同行在天上” (太 6:10)。

C. 《新约》中其他关于天使的描述。 保罗提到天使的等级 (“掌权的和有能的”等) 只是为了强调耶稣基督的至高无上。他教训说天使受圣徒审判 (林前 6:3)。他抨击小亚细亚早期的诺斯替教派, 并禁止人们崇拜天使 (西 2:18)。他提到天使是 “蒙拣选的”, 因为他们包含在神爱的嘱咐中 (提前 5:21)。当保罗因天使的缘故, 要求女人在教堂中要包住她们的头 (林前 11:10), 他的意思可能天使极为关注人间的事情, 他们看到任何违背谦虚律法的事时会感到痛苦。

In He. 1:14 angels are described as ministering spirits engaged in the service of the saints. Peter also emphasizes the supremacy of Our Lord over all angelic beings (1 Pet. 3:22). The reference to angels in 2 Peter and Jude are colored by contact with pseudepigraphical literature.

In Revelation, where the references are obviously symbolic, there is very frequent mention of angels. The angels of the seven churches (1:20) are the guardian angels or the personifications of these churches. The worship of angels is also forbidden (22:8f.). Of special interest is the mention of elemental angels—"the angel of water" (16:5), and the angel "who has power over fire" (14:18; cf. 7:1; 19:17). Reference is also made to the "angel of the bottomless pit," who is called ABADDON or APOLLYON, evidently an evil angel (9:11). In 12:7ff. we are told that there was war between Michael with his angels and the dragon with his angels.

IV. Development of the Doctrine.-In the childhood of the race it was easy to believe in God, and He was very near to the soul. In Paradise there is no thought of angels; it is God Himself who walks in the garden. A little later the thought of angels appears; but God has not gone away, and as "the angel of the Lord" He appears to his people and redeems them. In these early times the Jews believed that there were multitudes of angels, not yet divided in thought into good and bad; these had no names or personal characteristics, but were simply embodied messages.

Till the time of the Captivity the Jewish angelology shows little development.

在《希伯来书》1:14中，天使被描述为“服役的灵”，要奉差遣为圣徒效力。彼得还强调了主在天国众天使之上（彼前3:22）。《彼得后书》和《犹大书》都与伪经文学有联系，因此其中提到的天使都是被粉饰过的。

《启示录》中提及的天使明显是象征性的，他们经常出现。七个教会的天使（启1:20）是这些教会的守护天使或拟人化身。崇拜天使是被禁止的（启22:8-9）。其中提到的掌管四大要素的天使——“掌管众水的天使”（启16:5），和“有权柄管火”的天使（启14:18；参：启7:1；19:17）。还提到了“无底坑的天使”，他被称为亚巴顿（见ABADDON[亚巴顿]）或亚玻伦（见APOLLYON[亚玻伦]），他明显是个恶天使（启9:11）。在《启示录》12:7起中，我们读到米迦勒同他的使者争战，龙也同他的使者争战。

IV. 教义的发展。种族形成前期，人们容易信仰神，祂与灵魂十分接近。天堂中没有天使；只有神自己漫步在花园中。不久之后，天使出现了，但是神并没有离开，祂作为“神的使者”向祂的民显现并救赎他们。早期的犹太人相信有很多天使，此时还不分善恶天使；他们没有名字也没有个性，仅仅是启示的具象化。

直到被掳时期，犹太人的天使学几乎没有有什么发展。在那个黑暗的年代，他们

During the dark period they came into close contact with a polytheistic people, only to be more deeply confirmed in their monotheism thereby. They also became acquainted with the purer faith of the Persians, and in all probability viewed the tenets of Zoroastrianism with a more favorable eye, because of the great kindness of Cyrus to their nation. There are few direct traces of Zoroastrianism in the later angelology of the OT. It is not even certain that the number seven as applied to the highest group of angels is Persian in origin; the number seven was not wholly disregarded by the Jews. One result of the contact was that the idea of a hierarchy of the angels was more fully developed. The conception in Daniel of angels as “watchers,” and the idea of patron-princes or angel-guardians of nations may be ascribed to Persian influence. It is probable that contact with the Persians helped the Jews to develop ideas already latent in their minds. According to Jewish tradition, the names of the angels came from Babylon. By this time the consciousness of sin had grown more intense in the Jewish mind, and God had receded to an immeasurable distance; the angels helped to fill the gap between God and man.

The more elaborate conceptions of Daniel and Zechariah are further developed in the Apocrypha, especially in 2 Esdras, Tobit, and 2 Maccabees.

In the NT we find that there is little further development; and by the Spirit of God its writers were saved from the fanciful teachings of contemporary Rabbinism. We find that the Sadducees, as contrasted with the Pharisees, did not believe in angels or spirits (Acts 23:8).

与一个多神崇拜的民族存在密切的联系，这更加坚定了他们的一神论。居鲁士对他们十分友善，这使得他们也逐渐了解了波斯人纯粹的信仰，并用更加赞许的目光去看待拜火教的信条。《旧约》中的后期天使学几乎看不出受到拜火教直接影响的迹象。我们甚至无法确定最高的级别的七位天使是否源自于波斯；犹太人并没有完全无视数字七。这种接触的结果之一便是天使层级的概念得到了充分地发展。《但以理书》中认为天使是“守望者”，其他人则认为国家有君主或天使守护，这些观念也许应归因于波斯人的影响。与波斯的人的接触很有可能帮助犹太人发展了已经存在于他们脑中的观念。根据犹太传说，天使的名字来自巴比伦。此时犹太人对罪的认识变得更为强烈，并远远地背离了神；天使则填平了神和人之间的鸿沟。

《次经》进一步发展了《但以理书》和《撒迦利亚书》中的概念，尤其是《以斯得拉二书》《多比书》和《马加比二书》。

在《新约》中，我们几乎没有看到天使学的进一步发展；神的灵使新约作者免受同时代拉比派荒谬教义的影响。我们发现撒都该人并不相信天使或灵，法利赛人恰好相反（徒 23:8）。我们或许可以断定，撒都该人持唯物主义观点，否认复活，他们认为天使只是神的行为的

We may conclude that the Sadducees, with their materialistic standpoint and denial of the resurrection, regarded angels merely as symbolical expressions of God's actions. The book of Revelation naturally shows a close kinship to Ezekiel and Daniel.

Regarding the rabbinical developments of angelology, some beautiful, some extravagant, some grotesque, but all fanciful, it is not necessary here to speak. The Essenes held an esoteric doctrine of angels, in which most scholars find the germ of the gnostic aeons.

V. Reality of Angels.-A belief in angels, if not indispensable to the faith of a Christian, has its place there. In such a belief there is nothing unnatural or contrary to reason. Indeed, the warm welcome human nature has always given to this thought is an argument in its favor. Why should there not be such an order of beings, if God so willed it?

For the Christian the whole question turns on the weight to be attached to the words of Our Lord. All are agreed that He teaches the existence, reality, and activity of angelic beings. Was He in error because of His human limitations? That is a conclusion which it is very hard for the Christian to draw, and we may set it aside. Did He then adjust His teaching to popular belief, knowing that what He said was not true? This explanation would seem to impute deliberate untruth to Our Lord, and must equally be set aside. So we find ourselves restricted to the conclusion that we have the guarantee of Christ's word for the existence of angels; for most Christians that will settle the question.

象征性表达。《启示录》自然地展现出它与《以西结书》和《但以理书》之间的密切关系。

关于拉比派天使学的发展，有些漂亮，有些夸张，有些奇怪，但都是想象出来的，这里无需提及。艾赛尼派有一种关于天使的秘传教义，大多数学者在其中发现了诺斯替教永世概念的萌芽。

V. 天使的真实性。虽然天使信仰不是基督徒信仰中不可或缺的一部分，但它也在基督徒信仰中占有一席之地。在这种信仰中，没有违背自然和情理之事。事实上，始终让位于这种思想的人性优点是一个有利的论点。如果神有此意愿，那么为什么不能有这样一种生命秩序呢？

对于基督徒来说，整个问题增加了我们主的话语的分量。祂所教导的天使的存在、真实性和活动都被人们所接受。祂是因人类的局限性而弄错了吗？这是基督徒很难得出的结论，我们先把它放在一边。祂在认识到祂所说的不是真实的之后，是否根据大众的信仰调整了祂的教导呢？这个解释似乎认为我们的主在故意撒谎，也必须对此置之不理。于是，我们只能得出一个结论，基督向我们保证天使确实存在；对于大多数基督徒来说，这就解决了问题。

The visible activity of angels has come to an end, because their mediating work is done; Christ has founded the kingdom of the Spirit, and God's Spirit speaks directly to the spirit of man. This new and living way has been opened up to us by Jesus Christ, upon whom faith can yet behold the angels of God ascending and descending. Still they watch the lot of man, and rejoice in his salvation; still they join in the praise and adoration of God, the Lord of hosts; still can they be regarded as "ministering spirits sent forth to serve for the sake of those who are to obtain salvation" (He. 1:14); still they shall accompany Christ at His coming.

ANGELS OF THE SEVEN CHURCHES

It is evident from the contexts of the various biblical passages in which the word "angel" appears that the word does not always represent the same idea. In such passages as Dnl. 12:1 and Acts 12:15 it would seem that the angel was generally regarded as a superhuman being whose duty it was to guard a nation or an individual, not unlike the jenei of the Arabs. However, in Mal. 2:7 and 3:1 the

天使的可见行动到这里就结束了，因为他们的中保工作已经完成了；基督已经建立了灵的王国，神的灵可以直接和人类的灵对话。耶稣基督为我们开启了一种新的、鲜活的方式，我们仍能藉着祂靠信心注视天使们上升或下降。他们仍然关注着人类的命运，为他们受救赎而感到欣喜；他们仍赞美和崇敬万军之主耶和華；他们仍可被视作“服役的灵，奉差遣为那将要承受救恩的人效力”（来 1:14）；他们仍要在耶稣基督复临时陪伴基督。

书目——所有旧约和新约神学理论都有所论述。“神之众子”是降级的神这一理论最有力的支持者是 Kusters, Theologisch Tijdschrift, 10 (1876)。关于犹太人的信仰，另见 LTJM, II, 附录 xiii, 和 Bousset-Gressmann, 320–331。更多近代文章参：E. ANGELS OF THE SEVEN CHURCHES 七个教会的使者

根据《圣经》不同段落中出现“天使”时的语境，这个词显然不常表示同一个概念。在如《但以理书》12:1和《使徒行传》12:15中，天使似乎通常被认为是一种超人的生物，他们肩负着保护国家或个人的职责，类似于阿拉伯人的 jenei。但是在《玛拉基书》2:7和3:1中，希伯来语 mal'āk 明显表示人类。《新约》中还有些段落如《雅各书》2:25，其中的希腊语 ángelos 也指人类。

Heb. mal'āk is clearly used to represent men. In the NT also there are passages, such as Jas. 2:25, in which the Gk. ángelos is applied to men.

The seven angels of the seven churches (Rev. 1:20) received seven figurative letters, and therefore it would seem that the seven angels are also figurative. They may refer to the seven bishops who presided over the seven churches of Asia, or else the angels may be regarded as the personifications of the churches.

ANGER.

The commonest Hebrew term is 'ap, denoting either divine or human anger. The term means “nostril,” which was thought of as the locale of anger. The related word 'ānap, however, is used only of divine anger. The quickening of anger is described by the verb hārâ, “burn” (Nu. 22:27; Jonah 4:1), and the phrase harôn'ap is also restricted to God's anger (Ex. 32:12). Other common Hebrew synonyms include za'am, “indignation” (Jer. 15:17); zā'ap, “be enraged” (2 Ch. 26:19); kā'as, “be angry,” “be irritated” (1 S. 1:6); and 'ebrâ, “boiling rage” (Est. 1:12).

In the LXX, Gk. thymós, orgé, or their derivatives were used indiscriminately to render the Hebrew terms, a pattern followed in the NT. In the RSV thymós is always rendered “wrath,” whereas orgé can be either “anger” or “wrath.” See also WRATH.

ANGER. 忿怒

希伯来语中最常见的术语是 'ap，指神或人类的忿怒。该词语的意思是“鼻孔”，鼻孔被认为是产生忿怒的地方。但是，与之相关的词 'ānap 只用于表达神的忿怒。忿怒的加剧用动词 hārâ 来描述，“激起忿怒”（民 22:27；拿 4:1），短语 harôn'ap 也只能用来表示神的忿怒（出 32:12）。其他常见的希伯来语同义词还包括 za'am，“愤恨”（耶 15:17）；zā'ap，“发怒”（代下 26:19）；kā'as，“生气”，“激怒”（撒上 1:6）；'ebrâ，“怒火中烧”（斯 1:12）。

《七十士译本》中随意使用希腊语：thymós, orgé，或它们的变体来翻译这些希伯来词语，《新约》中也遵循这种模式。在《修订标准译本》中 thymós 经常被翻译为“愤怒”，而 orgé 则可以译为“忿怒”或“愤怒”。另见 WRATH（愤怒）。

of mind or spirit. The Heb. ’ir (Jer. 15:8) is rendered by the AV with its first meaning of “city,” while the RSV and NEB render its second meaning with “anguish” and “terror” respectively. The term mē’eh (RSV “anguish,” Jer. 4:9) refers to the internal organs which are viewed as the seat of the emotions, thus the source of anguish. The Hebrew verb hîl means “be in labor,” or writhe with the sort of pain a woman experiences in childbirth.

In some instances anguish is associated with suffering caused by political involvements or anticipation of unhappy circumstances (Isa. 23:5; 30:6; Jer. 15:8; Zec. 9:5; Dt. 2:25); sometimes it is associated with the dreaded darkness, particularly that anticipated on the Day of the Lord (Prov. 1:27; Isa. 9:1; 8:22; Zeph. 1:5). The Greek verb odynáomai is associated particularly with the torment of flames in hell (Lk. 16:24f.).

ā’nim [Heb. ’ānîm—‘springs’]. One of the cities of the hill country of Judah mentioned immediately after Eshtemoh (Josh. 15:50). The Amarna Letters refer to the city as Ḥawini, while Eusebius (Onom. 26.9) calls it Anaia, “a very large village of Jews ..., 9 [Roman] miles south of Hebron.” It is probably Khirbet Ghuwein et-Tahtā, 2.5 mi. 上的极度痛苦。《钦定版圣经》采用了希伯来语 ’ir (耶 15:8) 的第一重含义，即“城邑”，而《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》则采用其第二重含义，分别译为“痛苦”和“惊吓”。词语 mē’eh (《修订标准译本》“痛苦”，耶 4:9) 指的是体内的脏腑，人们认为他们是情绪的载体，因此也是痛苦的来源。希伯来语动词 hîl 的意思是“分娩”，或女人分娩时痛苦地扭动。

在某些情况下，本词还指因政治动荡或预感到时局艰辛而遭受的痛苦 (赛 23:5; 30:6; 耶 15:8; 亚 9:5; 申 2:25); 有时指因恐怖的黑暗而痛苦，尤其是预感到耶和華的日子来时的黑暗 (箴 1:27; 赛 9:1; 8:22; 番 1:5)。希腊语动词 odynáomai 尤其指因地狱的火焰而遭受痛苦 (路 16:24-25)。

ANNA 亚拿、哈拿

音译: an'ə 【希腊语: Hanna 衍生自希伯来语: ḥannâ——“仁慈”(参: 撒上 1:2)】。

2、亚拿: “女先知”, 亚设支派的法内力之女, 加利利人, 耶稣出生时住在耶路撒冷 (路 2:36-38)。“年纪已经老迈”, 她一定已经超过 100 岁, 在短暂的七年婚姻生活之后, 她寡居了 84 年。她异常虔诚, 天资聪慧, 她经常礼拜“禁食祈求, 昼夜侍奉”, 据说她“并不离开圣殿”。有些人误认为这表示她长久居

in spirit, she worshiped so constantly “with fasting and prayer night and day,” that it is said she “did not depart from the temple.” Some have mistakenly supposed that this signified permanent residence in the temple. 住于圣殿中。

That her lineage is recorded indicates the distinction of her family. Tradition says that the tribe of Asher was noted for the beauty and talent of its women, who, for these gifts, were qualified for royal and high-priestly marriage. While the tribe of Asher was not among the tribes that returned from the Babylonian exile to Palestine, many of its chief families must have done so as in the case of the prophetess. 她的家系被记录了下来，这表明她的家族是与众不同的。据传说，亚设支派因其女子的美貌与智慧而闻名，该支派的女子因此有资格与皇室和大祭司。从巴比伦流放回到巴勒斯坦的众支派之中并不包括亚设支派，所以支派中多数大家族的情况可能都与这位女先知的家族类似。

The period of war and national oppression through which Anna’s early life was passed created in her, as in the aged Simeon, an intense longing for the “redemption” promised through the Messiah. This hope of national deliverance sustained her through more than four decades of patient waiting. In the birth of Jesus her faith was abundantly rewarded, and she became a grateful and ceaseless witness, “to all who were looking for the redemption of Jerusalem,” that the day of their spiritual deliverance had come. 亚拿早年便生活在战争和民族压迫的环境之中，这使得她和年迈的西缅一样，对玛拿西预示的“救赎”产生了强烈的渴望。这种解救国家的渴望使得她承受了数十年之久的耐心等待。耶稣的出生使得她的信仰得到了丰厚的回报，她充满感激地见证了耶稣为“耶路撒冷一切盼望得救的人”带来的各种救治，他们得到圣灵救赎的日子终于来临了。

an'əs [Gk. Hannas, Josephus Ananos or Hananos<Heb hānān—‘merciful, gracious’ (cf. Neh. 8:7, etc.)].

1. A high priest of the Jews, the virtual head of the priestly party in Jerusalem in the time of Christ. He was a man of commanding influence.

The son of Seth (Josephus “Sethi”), he was elevated to the high-priesthood by Quirinius, governor of Syria, A.D. 7. At this period the office was filled and vacated at the caprice of the Roman procurators, and Annas was deposed by Valerius Gratus, A.D. 15. But though deprived of official status, he continued to wield great power as the dominant member of the hierarchy, using members of his family as his willing instruments.

That he was an adroit diplomat is seen in that five of his sons (Josephus Ant. xx.9.1) and his son-in-law Caiaphas (Jn. 18:13) held the high-priesthood in almost unbroken succession, though he did not survive to see the office filled by his fifth son Annas or Ananus II, who caused James the Lord’s brother to be stoned to death (ca. A.D. 62). Another mark of his continued influence is that long after he had lost his office he was still called “high priest,” and his name appears first wherever the names of the chief members

音译: an'əs 【希腊语: Hannas, 约瑟夫斯 Ananos 或 Hananos 衍生自希伯来语: hānān——“仁慈的、亲切的”(参: 尼 8:7 等)】。

1、亚那: 犹太大祭司, 基督时期耶路撒冷众祭司的实际领导人。他十分有影响力。

他是赛斯的儿子 (Josephus: 塞西), 在公元 7 年时被叙利亚巡抚居里扭提升为大祭司。在这期间, 因罗马行政长官反复无常, 该位置时有时缺, 亚那在公元 15 年被瓦勒利乌斯·格拉图斯罢免。他虽失去了官位, 但是他在统治集团中仍占据着重要地位, 他通过操纵家族成员继续达成自己的意愿, 发挥巨大的影响力

他还是个老练的纵横家, 这通过他的五个儿子 (Josephus Ant. xx.9.1) 和女婿该亚法 (约 18:13) 几乎不间断地担任大祭司一职便可看出, 尽管他没有活着看到他的第五个儿子亚那或亚那二世担任大祭司, 正是亚那二世下令用石刑处死主的兄弟雅各 (约公元 62 年)。另有一处记载体现了其影响力之久, 即他被罢免之后很久, 人们仍称他为“大祭司”, 而且无论何时提到祭司派的主要成员, 他的名字都出现在第一位。参: 《使徒行传》4:6, “又有大祭司亚那和该亚法、约翰、亚历山大, 并大祭司的 of the sacerdotal faction are given. Cf. Acts 4:6, “with Annas the high priest and Caiaphas and John and Alexander, and all who were of the high-priestly family.” Annas is almost certainly called high priest in Jn. 18:19, 22, though in vv. 13 and 24 Caiaphas is mentioned as the high priest. Note especially the remarkable phrase in Lk. 3:2, “in the high-priesthood of Annas and Caiaphas,” as if they were joint holders of the office. The cases in which Josephus gives the title “high-priest” to persons who no longer held the office afford no real parallel to this. The explanation seems to be that owing to age, ability, and force of character Annas was the virtual, though Caiaphas the titular, high priest.

Annas belonged to the Sadducean aristocracy, and, like others of that class, he seems to have been arrogant, astute, ambitious, and enormously wealthy. He and his family were proverbial for their rapacity and greed. The chief source of their wealth seems to have been the sale of requisites for the temple sacrifices, such as sheep, doves, wine, and oil, which they carried on in the four famous “booths of the sons of Annas” on the Mt. of Olives, with a branch within the precincts of the temple itself. During the great feasts, they were able to extort high monopoly prices for their goods. Hence Our Lord’s strong denunciation of those who made the house of prayer “a den of robbers” (Mk. 11:15–19), and the curse in the Talmud, “Woe to the family of Annas! woe to the serpent-like hisses” (Pesahim 57a).

As to the part he played in the trial and death of Our Lord, although he does not figure very prominently in the Gospel narratives, he seems to have been mainly responsible for the course of events. Renan's emphatic statement is substantially correct, "Annas was the principal actor in the terrible drama, and far more than Caiaphas, far more than Pilate, ought to bear the weight of the maledictions of mankind" (Life of Jesus). Caiaphas, indeed, as actual high priest, was the nominal head of the Sanhedrin which condemned Jesus; but the aged Annas was the ruling spirit. According to Jn. 18:12f., it was to him that the officers who arrested Jesus led Him first. "The reason given for that proceeding ["for he was father-in-law of Caiaphas"] lays open alike the character of the man and the character of the trial" (Westcott, in loc.). Annas (if he is the high priest of Jn. 18:19-23, as seems most likely) questioned Him concerning His disciples and teaching. This trial is not mentioned by the Synoptists, probably because it was merely informal and preliminary and of a private nature, meant to gather material for the subsequent trial. Failing to elicit anything to his purpose from Jesus, "Annas then sent him bound to Caiaphas the high priest" (Jn. 18:24; the AV "had sent" is incorrect and misleading) for formal trial before the Sanhedrin, "but as one already stamped with a sign of condemnation" (Westcott).

亲族都在那里。”几乎可以肯定亚那在《约翰福音》18:19, 22 就是大祭司,但在《约翰福音》18:13, 24 中称该亚法是大祭司。尤其应注意《路加福音》3:2 中的“亚那和该亚法做大祭司”,似乎他们共同担任这个职位。约瑟夫斯称呼那些不在位的人为“大祭司”,其他文献中没有与之类似的情况。亚那实质上的大祭司,这似乎要归因于亚那的年纪、能力和性格,而该亚法只是名义上的。

亚那是撒都该人中的贵族,和该阶级的其他人一样,他傲慢、狡猾、野心勃勃并且极其富有。众所周知,他和他家族的贪婪成性。他们财富的主要来源似乎是贩卖神殿献祭的必需品,比如羊、鸽子、酒和油,他们在橄榄山上四个著名的“亚那儿子的摊位”上贩卖这些东西,神殿辖区之内也有他们的贩卖点。在各大节日期间,他们能够以极高的垄断价格售卖货物。因此,我们的主强烈地谴责那些使教堂变成强盗的贼窝的人(可 11:15-19),《他勒目》中有诅咒说“亚那家族的人有祸了!像蛇一样发出嘘声的人有祸了!”(Pesahim 57a)。

至于我们的主接受审判和受难时他所扮演的角色,尽管在福音书的叙述中他不是十分突出,但他似乎应对事件的过

Doubtless Annas was present at the subsequent proceedings, but no further mention is made of him in the NT, except that he was present at the meeting of the Sanhedrin after Pentecost when Peter and John defended themselves for preaching the gospel of the resurrection (Acts 4:6).

2. (1 Esd. 9:32, AV, NEB). See ANNAN.

程负主要责任。勒南强调性的陈述大体是正确的，“亚那在这部可怕的戏剧中是主要角色，他远比该亚法和彼拉多重要，他应承受众人的诅咒”（Life of Jesus）。事实上，该亚法才是大祭司，犹太公会名义上的领袖，也正是犹太公会定了耶稣的罪；但年迈的亚那才是真正的统治者。根据《约翰福音》18:12-13记载，官员逮捕耶稣之后先将祂带到了亚那面前。“对这个过程的解释[“因为他是该亚法的岳父”]向我们揭示了亚那的性格和审判的特征”（Westcott，见本段）。亚那（如果他是《约翰福音》18:19-23中的大祭司，因为这似乎最有可能）以耶稣的门徒和祂的教训盘问祂。这次审判并没有被福音传道者提及，可能因为这仅仅是非正式的、预备的私下审判，是为了随后的审判收集信息。亚那私审耶稣并没有达到任何目的，于是他“就把耶稣解到大祭司该亚法那里”（约 18:24；《钦定版圣经》使用过去完成时态是错误的，这会引人误解），在犹太公会前接受正式的审判，“但是祂已被打上了犯罪的烙印”（Westcott）。

毫无疑问，随后的审判中亚那也在场，但是，五旬节之后，彼得和约翰因宣传复活的福音而受审，他们进行自我辩护时，亚那也出现在犹太公会的会议上（徒 4:6），除此之外，《新约》中再无与亚那相关的记载。

God, as the Supreme Ruler, can annul His covenant for a cause (Isa. 28:18); man, through wilfulness and transgression, as party of the second part, may break the contract and thus release the Lord as party of the first part (Isa. 14:27), though there are some purposes and laws which the Almighty will carry out in spite of ungodly rage and ravings (Gal. 3:15); or an old law or covenant might be conceived as annulled, either by a new one (Gal. 3:17) or simply because it has become obsolete and ineffective (He. 7:18).

One covenant annulling another by “conflict of laws” is expressed by Gk. akyrōō, “invalidate,” “annul,” “make of no effect.” Gk. athetēō is employed also to express annulling through age and disuse (He. 7:18; RSV “set aside”).

In Job 40:8, the AV “wilt thou also disannul [pārar] my judgment?” becomes in the RSV, “Will you even put me in the wrong?” and in the NEB, “Dare you deny that I am just ...?”

ANNUNCIATION. 预告、圣母领报

本词一般被用来表示对耶稣诞生的预告, 通常指天使加百列向马利亚报喜 (路 1:26-38)。约瑟也接到了启示 (太 1:20-21)。在这两个段落中, 圣灵都预告了圣子的诞生并告之要给他起名叫耶稣。天使告知约瑟他的使命是要将他的百姓从罪恶里救出来, 还告知马利亚他将继承大卫的位, 作雅各家的王。

同样地, 天使还向撒迦利亚预告了其子施洗约翰的出生 (路 1:11-20)。预告中包含以下内容: 他的名字, 他在主面前将要为大, 他苦行的生活方式, 他将被圣灵充满, 他的使命是“为主预备合用的百姓”。

Lord a people prepared.”

The pattern of annunciation occurs in the OT in connection with Samson (Jgs. 13:2-5), including his status as a Nazirite and his mission as the deliverer of Israel from the Philistines.

In all these cases the solicitude of God for His people is revealed along with His sovereignty in executing His purposes.

《旧约》中，参孙的出生也是以此形式被预告的（士 13:2-5），预告中包括他将归神作拿细耳人，他的使命是拯救以色列人脱离非利士人的手。

在上述所有情况中，神是至高无上的，祂在执行意志时体现了祂对祂的民的关心。

Post-Reformation Protestantism is not very familiar with ritual anointing. The early and medieval Church, nonetheless, practiced anointing with some regularity for new believers as well as at the end of life in extreme unction. Anointing oil symbolized the presence of the Lord's Spirit to give wholeness to the total person (explicitly expressed in the fifth-century A.D. Gelasian sacramentary formula).

宗教改革之后的新教徒对膏抹仪式并不熟悉。虽然如此，早期或中世纪的教会会定期膏抹新教徒，他们也会给临终者施涂油礼。抹膏油象征着主的灵赐予

The ecclesiastical practice of anointing is firmly rooted in the biblical tradition. Several words are used in the OT to express the idea of anointing; however, the main one is māšaḥ (from which comes the word "Messiah"). While māšaḥ basically means "spread a liquid over something" (e.g., oil on wafers, Ex. 29:2; a house with paint, Jer. 22:14; a body with cosmetics, Am. 6:6), it is most frequently used in the sense of "anoint" or "consecrate to service" persons and objects.

The LXX uses chrīō and aleiphō to translate māšaḥ, and these same Greek words, in addition to enchriō, are used in the NT for "anoint."

It has already been indicated that not only persons but also objects were anointed. Some suggest that shields were anointed and consecrated for battle (Isa. 21:5; cf. 2 S. 1:21), while others maintain that this was simply a process of preparing leather shields. The tabernacle (Ex. 40:9), the altar and its utensils (40:10; 30:28), the laver and its base (40:11; 30:28), were all anointed with oil and consecrated for the worship and service of Yahweh (Ex. 30:29f.).

Persons would also anoint themselves with oil for cosmetic reasons (Ruth 3:3; cf. Dt. 28:40). The soothing effect and the fragrant odors produced (Prov. 27:9; Eccl.

人们完整生命。(15 世纪格拉修仪式的惯例对膏抹仪式有清晰的描述)。

教会膏油的习惯深深地扎根于圣经的传统之中。《旧约》中有多个词语可以用来表达膏油；但其中最主要的是 māšaḥ (“弥赛亚”便是由该词引申而来)。māšaḥ 的基本含义是“将液体倾倒在某物之上”(如无酵饼抹油，出 29:2；楼房刷漆，耶 22:14；用油抹身，摩 6:6)，该词最常用的含义是“膏抹”或“使(人或物体)成圣来服侍神”。

《七十士译本》中将 māšaḥ 翻译为 chrīō 和 aleiphō，《新约》中也用同样的希腊语单词(除 enchriō 外)来表示“膏抹”。

事实证明人和物都可以被膏抹。有些人认为盾牌也可以抹油并被奉为圣，而后用于战争(赛 21:5；参撒下 1:21)，但其他人则坚持认为这仅是制作皮盾的一个步骤(出 40:9)。会幕(出 40:9)、祭坛和一切器具(出 40:10；30:28)、洗涤盆和盆座(出 40:11；30:28)都要抹上膏油，使之成圣，用来敬奉和服侍耶和华(出 30:29-30)。

人们还会为了化妆，用油涂抹全身(得 3:3；参：申 28:40)。人们十分喜欢膏油的舒缓效果和芳香气味(箴 27:9；传 9:8)，因此土地不再出产膏油是一种非

9:8) were so desirable that a lack of anointing oils in the land is a serious covenantal curse (Dt. 28:40; cf. Mic. 6:15).

Prophets (1 K. 19:16), priests (Ex. 28:41), and kings (1 S. 10:1; etc.) were anointed for office in Israel. It is only once explicitly mentioned that a prophet should be anointed (1 K. 19:16), but the patriarchs (esp. Abraham) are referred to as “my anointed ones” and “my prophets” (Ps. 105:15; 1 Ch. 16:22; cf. Gen. 20:7). Priests, beginning with Aaron (Ex. 29:7; Lev. 8:12) and including the high priests (Lev. 21:10), were also anointed and consecrated for service. They were set apart for a special office and to perform a special task in Israel. They were anointed as mediators between Yahweh and His people.

Royal anointings appear to have played a very prominent part in Israel’s history. Both priests (1 K. 1:39; 2 K. 11:12) and prophets played a role in the anointing ritual. Several accounts are given of the actual anointing ceremonies: e.g., those of Saul (1 S. 10:1), David (1 S. 16:3), Solomon (1 K. 1:39), Jehu (2 K. 9:6), and Joash of Judah (2 K. 11:12). Israelite kings were not the only ones anointed, as we know from texts from several other ancient Near Eastern cities (Amarna Letters and Hittite sources). The Jotham fable also reflects the anointing of kings in pre-monarchic Israel (Jgs. 9:15).

Anointing was not treated as a light matter: as a matter of fact there was a law prescribing the making of special anointing oil by authorized personnel in a specified way (Ex. 30:22ff.). See OIL, ANOINTING. One who would dare to

常严重的圣约诅咒（申 28:40；参：弥 6:15）。

以色列的先知（王上 19:16）、祭司（出 28:41）和诸王（撒上 10:1 等）都要受膏任职。先知受膏仅在一处有详细描述（王上 19:16），但众族长（尤其是亚伯拉罕）则经常被称为“我受膏的人”和“我的先知”（诗 105:15；代上 16:22；参：创 20:7）。祭司，包括大祭司（利 21:10），自亚伦开始（出 29:7；利 8:12）也要受膏，被奉为圣来服侍神。他们有特殊的职位，要在以色列达成特殊的使命。他们受膏担任耶和華和祂子民之间的中保。

王室受膏在以色列历史中占据了非常重要的位置。先知（王上 1:39；王下 11:12）和祭司在膏立仪式中都起着一定作用。膏立仪式有多处记载，如膏立扫罗（撒上 10:1）、大卫（撒上 16:3）、所罗门（王上 1:39）、耶户（王下 9:6）和犹大的约阿施（王下 11:12）。我们从其他古代近东城邑的文献（亚玛拿泥版和赫梯文献）中得知并非只有以色列诸王受膏。约坦的寓言反映了以色列君主制度建立之前的诸王也要受膏（士 9:15）。

make the oil illegally and anoint an outsider “shall be cut off from his people” (v. 33). Such precaution was no doubt initiated because the anointing oil was a symbol of the Lord’s appointment and consecration for office (1 S. 10:1, 9; Isa. 61:1; Zec. 4:11–14; Acts 10:38). Anointing, then, was viewed as God’s act and as the outpouring of the Spirit to equip for service.

Whereas in the OT only special persons were anointed for office, in the NT all believers receive the anointing by the Holy One (1 Jn. 2:20). This anointing abides in the believer so that, as John says, “you have no need that any one should teach you” (1 Jn. 2:27); this latter statement is a clear reference to the presence of the new covenant era as promised in Jer. 31:34.

从民中剪除” (出 30:33)。律法这样规定，无疑是因为膏油象征着主的任命，被任命之人得以成圣，可以供主的圣职 (撒上 10:1, 9; 赛 61:1; 亚 4:11-14; 徒 10:38)。因此人们认为膏抹是神的行为，是祂是祂以圣灵浇灌人，使之成圣从而可以侍奉神。

在《旧约》中，只有特殊的几个人任职时才受膏，但是在《新约》中，所有信徒都从圣者那里受了恩膏 (约壹 2:20)。这恩膏常存在信徒的心里，正如约翰所说，“并不用人教训你们” (约壹 2:27)；后一陈述明显表明《耶利米书》31:34中所许诺的新的圣约时代已经来到。

ANTEDILUVIAN PATRIARCHS.

The ancestors of the human race who lived prior to the flood and consisted of ten men, from Adam to Noah, plus Noah's three sons. Most of their data is concentrated in the genealogies of Gen. 4:17-5:32.

I. Individuality.-On the existence of the antediluvians as individual persons locatable within history, J. D. Davis, among evangelicals, advocated the concept of family or group identification rather than individual. Calling attention to the appearance within the postdiluvian genealogies of tribal or place names (e.g., Elam and Aram as sons of Shem, Gen. 10:22), of plurals (e.g., Capthorim and Philistines, v. 14), and of forms with definite articles (e.g., the Jebusites, v. 15), Davis interpreted 5:6-8 as follows: "In Seth, 105 years after it attained headship, the family of Enosh took its rise. Seth, after being at the head of affairs for 912 years, was succeeded by the family of Enosh" (ISBE [1929], I). ANTEDILUVIAN PATRIARCHS. 大洪水之前的族长

生活在洪水时期之前的族长有十位, 即从亚当至挪亚, 并挪亚的三个儿子。对他们的记载主要集中在《创世记》4:17-5:32 中的族谱里。

I. 个体性。大洪水之前的族谱上, 每个名字都代表着一个真实存在于历史上的人, 对于这种观点, 福音教派的戴维斯持不同意见, 他认为, 这些名字应各代表一个家族或族群, 而非个人。戴维斯注意到大洪水之后的家族族谱或地名列表(如示剑的儿子以拦和亚兰, 创 10:22)都以复数形式(如迦斐托人和非利士人, 创 10:14)出现, 或前面带有定冠词(如, 耶布斯人, 创 10:15), 因此他如是解读《创世记》5:6-8: "塞特家族掌权 105 年之后, 以挪士家族出现。塞特家族统治 912 年后, 以挪士家族继承了领导位置" (ISBE [1929], I)。他的目的在于说明族长们的寿命, 其动机可嘉; 但是大洪水之前的这些名字应当代表的是人而非家族(参: 4:17; 5:29), 因为《创世记》4 章和 5 章中的族谱并没有上文第 10 章中族谱的特点, 而且与其认为 10 章中大洪水之后的族谱是用人名表示家族, 不如将其理解为

(cf. 4:17; 5:29), the genealogies of chs. 4 and 5 do not exhibit the features listed above for ch. 10, and even that postdiluvian table seems best understood from the viewpoint of a family's taking its name from an individual progenitor (cf. 10:15). Many scholars today lean toward dismissing the antediluvian patriarchs as non-historical borrowings from Mesopotamian folklore (cf. IDB, III, s.v. "Patriarchs"). Despite increasing recognition of the historicity of the later patriarchs, from Abraham onward (see PATRIARCHS), the presuppositions underlying the work of today's skeptical theologians do not permit them to hold to a literal understanding of the biblical account of individuals such as Adam or Noah.

II. Identity.-Scripture distinguishes two antediluvian genealogies (see chart). Interpreters who accept Wellhausen's framework, however, regularly assign Gen. 4 to two recensions of a J document, and ch. 5 to a P document (Wellhausen, pp. 8-14; Skinner, pp. 2,14, 99). Since the names of both Adam and Enosh mean "man (kind)," all the lists are treated as corrupted forms of one original tradition beginning with "man's" son Cain (=Kenan) and ending with a family of four children (or three).

Actually, however, the only two patriarchs with identical names (Enoch and Lamech) exhibit sharply contrasted character (4:19, 23; 5:25, 28f.); some of the names that appear similar in English have distinct original meanings (e.g., Methushael, "man of God," but Methus (h)elah, "man of the javelin"), while others are radically different in the Hebrew (Irada, Heb. 'yrd, and Jared, yrd);

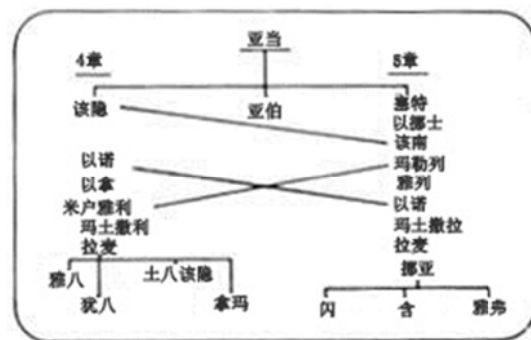

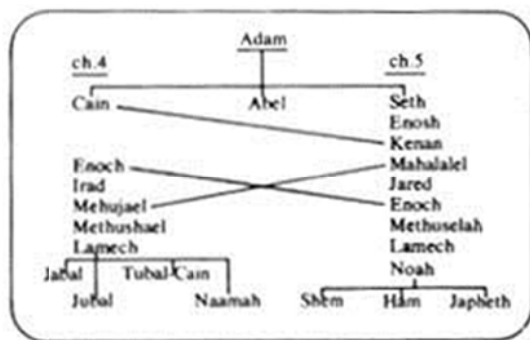

是家族是以祖先的名字来命名的 (参 10:15)。现代许多学者倾向于认为大洪水之前时期的众为族长是没有历史依据的,他们来源于美索不达米亚的民间传说(参: IDB, III, 见词条"Patriarchs")。尽管学者们愈加确认大洪水之后的族长(从亚伯拉罕开始)是真实存在的,但是现在持怀疑态度的众神学家并不按字面含义理解《圣经》中对亚当或挪亚等人的记录,他们以此为写作的前提。

II. 同一性。《圣经》中有两个大洪水之前的族谱(见图表)。但是,支持威尔豪森理论框架的翻译者通常认为《创世记》4章中的族谱来自J底本的两个修订本,《创世记》5章中的族谱来自P底本(Wellhausen, 8-14页; Skinner, 2,14, 99页)。亚当和以挪士这两个名字都有“人类”的意思,因此所有族谱都可以被认为是对原族谱的误译,原族谱应是开始于“人”子该隐(另一个族谱是开始于该南),结束于一个有四子(或三子)的家族。

但实际上,仅有两个族长名字相同(以诺和拉麦),他们的性格却截然相反(创 4:19, 23; 5:25, 28-29);有些名字,在英语中拼写相似,但最初的含义却是截然不同的(如 Methushael[米户雅利],“属神的人”,而 Methus (h)elah[玛土撒拉],“掷枪的人”),还有一些名字在希伯来语中的意义完全不同(Irada[以拿],希伯来语: 'yrd, Jared[雅列], yrd);下面这几个名字的含义正好相反:以诺和

there is difference in order between Enoch and Mehujael (“smitten of God”) or Mahalalel (in contrast, “praise of God”); and the Cainite Lamech’s sons are pre-Noachian, as contrasted with Noah’s sons (see Green, Unity of Genesis, pp. 43–49). The names of the twelve kings of Judah that were contemporary with the nineteen kings of northern Israel show almost as many resemblances to the latter as do those of the eight generations (including Adam) of the Cainites to the ten generations of the Sethites. Thus, the similarities in name could merely reflect contact between the two early branches of humanity (Leupold, Exposition of Genesis [1942], p. 217).

米户雅利 (“诋毁神”) 或玛勒列 (与之相反, “赞美神”); 该隐家族的拉麦之子生活在挪亚之前, 挪亚之子则与其相反 (见 Green, Unity of Genesis, 43–49 页)。犹大王国的十二位王与以色列王国的十九位王的名字之间相似处很多, 该隐家族的八代人 (包括亚当) 与塞特家族的十代人的名字也是如此。因此, 名字上的类似可能仅仅反映了这两个早期人类分支之间的联系 (Leupold, Exposition of Genesis [1942], 217 页)。

Confirmatory parallels to the Sethite patriarchs arise from the history of Berosus, a Babylonian priest of 300 B.C., who tells of ten kings who reigned thousands of years over Chaldea before the flood. The third king is Amelu, “man,” cf. Enosh; the fourth is Ummanu, “artificer,” matching the fourth patriarch Kenan, meaning “fabricator”; the seventh is Enmeduranki, reputed to be acquainted with the secrets of heaven and earth, while Enoch the seventh patriarch walked with God; and the tenth king, like the tenth patriarch, was the hero of the flood.

贝罗索斯 (公元前 300 年, 巴比伦祭司) 记载的历史佐证了塞特家族众族长的存在, 他记录了大洪水之前时期统治迦勒底地区数千年的十位王。第三位王是亚末路 (Amelu, 意思是 “人”), 参: 以挪士; 第四位王是温玛努 (Ummanu, 意思为 “工匠”), 与他对应的是第四位族长该南 (意思是 “制造者”); 第七位王是恩美杜兰基 (Enmeduranki, 他因熟知天地的奥秘而远近闻名), 而第七位族长以诺是与神同行的人; 第十位王和第十位族长都是大洪水时期的英雄。

III. Longevity.—According to the biblical account, most of the antediluvian patriarchs lived over nine hundred years,

III. 寿命。据《圣经》记载, 大洪水之前的族长寿命大多超过了 900 岁, 消极评论家对这种现象的解释是: 作者试图

a phenomenon which negative criticism explains as an attempt to idealize the remote past through the device of exaggeration. Yet even pagan Sumerian legend preserved the memory of extended life spans prior to the flood—although eight kings are reputed to have reigned a total of 241,200 years! (T. Jacobsen, Sumerian King List [1939]). The gradual reduction within Genesis of longevity, moreover, down to the almost normal 110 years of Joseph at the close of the book (50:26), casts doubt on theories either of special methods for counting time or of an unexplained shifting from legend to history. The decrease may have been due to a progressive manifestation of the effects of sin following Adam's fall from paradise (Prov. 10:27).

用夸张的手法将远古时期理想化。但是异教的苏美尔人中也流传着大洪水之前人类寿命很长的传说——但是这些传说中称：有八位王的统治时期累积起来长达 241200 年！（T. Jacobsen, Sumerian King List [1939]）。此外，《创世记》中记载的人类寿命在逐渐缩短，到本书结束时（创 50:26），约瑟的寿命已经缩减至 110 年，这已经比较接近现在人的正常寿命。人们由此产生了两种怀疑理论，要么是古时的计时方法与现在不同，要么是不知为何传说变成了历史，但对此我们无从解释。人类寿命的缩短有可能是亚当堕落后罪的恶果逐渐显现的标志。

*约瑟夫斯 (Ant. i.3.4) 只提到了生子年岁和总寿命；O 底本和 E 底本 (见 Niese) 除了雅列的总寿命是 969 (但 S 底本、P 底本、L 底本是 962)，拉麦的总寿命是 707，玛土撒拉的生子年岁是 187 (S 和 P 底本是 177) 之外，其他都与《七十士译本》(如图) 一致。

IV. Chronology.-The time covered by the antediluvian period depends upon ascertaining the figures employed in the original revelation of Genesis and then correctly interpreting them. While these figures appear in three differing pre-Christian texts (see chart), those of the LXX and Samaritan text represent systematic distortions of the MT. That is, the LXX adds a hundred years wherever the Hebrew states that a patriarch begat his first son before the age of 150, while the Samaritan text reduces by a hundred the three who became parents after 150. Reductions are then introduced to insure death no later than the year the flood commenced. Yet if one accepts the validity of the MT figures, he must still establish the method of chronological interpretation. Three major examples may be mentioned.

(1) The name of Archbishop Ussher is associated with a minimal methodology, which counts for each antediluvian only the years prior to the birth of his first son. This theory of overlapping patriarchs, adopted by Ussher in A.D. 1650, produced the date of 4004 B.C. (more accurately, 4142, assuming Abraham's birth in 2133 B.C.; see CHRONOLOGY OF THE OT; cf. also Zondervan's Pictorial Encyclopedia of the Bible, I, s.v. [J. B. Payne]) for the creation of Adam.

(2) Interpreters such as Green (cf. Warfield, pp. 2-11; Kidner, pp. 82f.) have preferred to compare the two sets of ten antediluvian and postdiluvian patriarchs with the three sets, each of fourteen ancestors, in the genealogy of Christ (Mt. 1:1-17), and have concluded that just as the latter could omit three generations (v. 8, "Joram begat [an ancestor of]

IV. 年表。如果能够确认《创世记》最中的数据，并对其做出准确的解读，那么就可以确定大洪水之前时期的年限。有三本主前经文提到了这些数据（见图表），但是《七十士译本》和《撒玛利亚五经》中的数据与《马所拉文本》中的数据略有出入。希伯来语经文中提到的族长若有在不到 150 岁时生第一个儿子的，《七十士译本》中都将其生子时的年岁加上了一百，而在 150 岁后生子的族长，《撒玛利亚五经》中都将其生子的年岁减去了一百。减少年岁是为了保证其死亡时间不会晚于大洪水开始的时间。但是若以《马所拉文本》中的数据为准，应先确立解读年表的方法。我们可以举三个主要的例子。

(1) 大主教乌社尔建立了一种年限最短的年表，他只计算每个大洪水之前的族长生第一个儿子之前的年岁。乌社尔只取各族长寿命重叠的部分，1650 年，他采用这种方法得出的结论是神于公元前 4004 年（假定亚伯拉罕生于公元前 2133 年，那么更精确的时间应为公元前 4142 年；见 CHRONOLOGY OF THE OT[旧约年表]；另参：Zondervan's Pictorial Encyclopedia of the Bible, I, 见该词条[J. B. Payne]) 创造了亚当。

(2) 格林等翻译者（参：Warfield, 2-11 页；Kidner, 82-83 页）更倾向于将大洪水之前和大洪水之后的十位族长与耶稣家谱（共三组家谱，每组十四代祖先）作对比，他们总结说，正如耶稣家谱中可以省略三代人一样（太 1:8, “约兰生乌西雅[的祖先]”；参：《以斯拉记》7:3 的经文省略了六代人[代上 6:7-10]），《创世记》中可能也省略了许多代人。

Uzziah”; cf. Ezr. 7:3’s omission of six generations that are found in 1 Ch. 6:7–10), so also Genesis may have omitted a number of links. A theory of disconnected antediluvians could thus allow Adam to be dated, say, 100,000 B.C. While granting freedom for anthropological theories, it leaves the OT’s lists of figures relatively pointless and must posit an unusually high proportion of omitted links.

(3) Another approach stresses W. F. Albright’s observation that ancient Near Eastern peoples “dated long periods by lifetimes, not by generations” (BASOR, 163 [Oct. 1961], 50; cf. Kitchen, p. 54). Thus in Gen. 15, Israel’s four hundred years in Egypt (v. 13), which actually covered some ten generations (1 Ch. 7:25–27), is said to entail four such lifetime generations (Gen. 15:16). Applied to Gen. 5, this counting by “successive” patriarchs would mean, e.g., that while Adam begat an ancestor of Seth when he was 130 (5:3), Seth (vv. 6–8) historically arose as Scripture’s next prominent figure only after Adam’s full life of 930 years (v. 4). Adam would then, theoretically, date from 13,652 B.C.; but since Seth was probably not born in the immediate year of Adam’s death, man’s creation may perhaps be dated 15,000 B.C., a millennium before the famous Lascaux cave paintings (Journal of the American Scientific Affiliation, 11:1 [1959], 8, though cf. 17:2 [1965], 43–47).

V. Characteristics.—Apart from Scripture’s documentation for the initial careers of Adam and his sons, and for the terminal careers of Noah and his sons, the chief events chronicled under the

按照这种理论，亚当生活的时间或许可以追溯至公元前十万年。这给了人类学理论极大的发挥空间，但相对来说，《旧约》中的数据却因此变得没有意义，而且学者们需要假定出大量被省略掉的人物关系。

(3) 另一种方法则比较看中奥尔布赖特对古代近东地区的考察报告，他说“古近东人利用寿命而不是世代来记录较长的历史时期”(BASOR, 163 [1961年十月], 50; 参: Kitchen, 54页)。《创世记》15章中记载，以色列人要在埃及生活四百年(创15:13)，直到第四代才能回归(创15:16)，但是实际上这已经跨越了十代人(代上7:25-27)。将这种方法应用在《创世记》5章的话，其中“连续”的族长的意思应是，举例说明，亚当130岁时生了塞特的祖先(创5:3)，死于930岁(创5:4)，此后《圣经》中记载的第二位杰出的历史人物塞特出现了(创6-8)。因此，从理论上讲，亚当应生于公元前13,652年；但是由于塞特可能并非亚当死后立即出生的，所以上帝造人可能要追溯到公元前15000年，比著名的拉斯科洞窟壁画早一千年(Journal of the American Scientific Affiliation, 11:1 [1959], 8, 参: 17:2 [1965], 43–47)。

V. 特征。圣经文献记录了从亚当及其子开始，至挪亚及其子结束期间众人的生平，此外，其中记录的大洪水之前时期众族长的主要事件可以简单总结如下。亚当生以诺之后建立了第一座城 antediluvian patriarchs can be summarized briefly. At the birth of Cain's son Enoch came the first settlement building (Gen. 4:17); and at the birth of Seth's son Enosh, the beginnings of public worship, "calling upon the name of Yahweh" (v. 26). Four generations later a parallel cleavage in interest appears as the Cainite sons of Lamech introduced cattle raising, the arts, and metallurgy (vv. 20–22), and their father—in a song perhaps to be associated with the metal sword—boasted of polygamy, violence, and vindictiveness (vv. 23f.); but the Sethite Enoch, walking in fellowship with Yahweh (5:22; cf. 6:9), was translated without experiencing death (5:24; cf. He. 11:5). Yet by the time of Noah even "the sons of God" (not angels, but presumably those Sethites who still worshiped Yahweh, Ex. 4:22; Dt. 14:1, 29; Isa. 1:2; 43:6; 45:11; Hos. 1:10; 11:1) had corrupted themselves by indiscriminate marriages (Gen. 6:2); and the Nephilim, those men of renown who witnessed the corruption (v. 4), became, as their name seems to suggest, "fallen ones" (Payne, pp. 205–207).

ANTHROPOLOGY

[<Gk. ánthrōpos—‘man’ + lógos—‘study’]. In general, the study of man. This definition obviously opens up a vast field that might be extended to cover all aspects of the being, life, character, history, and achievements of men, of groups of men, or of the human race as a whole. It is thus necessary to see first in what sense, with what delimitation, and with what claim one may speak of a biblical or theological anthropology. Otherwise the biblical data will be only too easily emptied of their distinctive

ANTHROPOLOGY 人类学

【源于希腊语词根 ánthrōpos (人类) 和 lógos (研究)】。一般来说，人类学是研究人的学问。这个定义显然开辟了一个巨大的领域，其覆盖范围可以扩展到与人类相关的所有方面——生活、特征、历史、成就、族群或将人类作为一个整体来研究。因此，我们首先需要明确当提及圣经人类学或神学人类学时，应如何理解其含义、界定其范围和了解其需求。否则，就极易忽略经文的特殊意义，并归于一般形式上的人类学。

I. Types of Anthropology.-There are, of course, many forms of study that might properly be regarded as branches of anthropology, e.g., primitive anthropology, psychology, physiology, sociology, even history. But if we adopt this mode of classification, it is obvious that what the Bible has to say could easily be subdivided under these various heads. It is better, then, to recognize at the outset two contrasting possibilities in anthropology: (1) that in which man is simply set in relation to himself and his world, and (2) that in which man is also and primarily set in relation to God. On the one side is scientific anthropology in the sense of an empirical study of man in his world; on the other is theological or biblical anthropology in the sense of a study of man in God's world.

I. 人类学的类型。无疑, 可以将多种形式的人类学研究视作人类学的不同分支, 如原始人类学、心理学、生理学、社会学, 甚至包括历史学。但是如果我们采取这种分类模式的话, 那么《圣经》中的内容则可以轻易地细分为上述各种类型。那么我们最好在开始时便弄清人类学中两种对比鲜明的研究方向: (1) 仅研究人类自身和人类世界的关系, (2) 研究人类与神的关系。一个是科学人类学, 是在人类世界中对人类进行实证研究; 另一个是神学人类学或圣经人类学, 是在神的世界中对人类进行研究。

This does not mean that the two possibilities are hostile or mutually exclusive. No irrevocable choice has to be made between them; indeed, a scientific anthropology can be theological, and a theological anthropology must be scientific. The difference between the two lies in the method, or, more precisely, in the terms of reference. A scientific anthropology recognizes that it can deal with man only in the given setting of the cosmos and that its knowledge must be gained from empirical investigation of man in this setting. It cannot legitimately go beyond man in his world, and any philosophical conclusions it may reach concerning the wider aspects of man's nature and destiny can only be speculative and in the last analysis improper. Its function is descriptive. Theological anthropology, however, has the primary task of studying man in the revealed setting of his dealings with God, and it realizes that in this task it can only give an exposition of what God Himself has made known. It cannot legitimately go beyond man in God's world, and attempts to draw wider deductions in the various scientific provinces cannot share the authority of the data that belong strictly to its own sphere.

The validity of both types of anthropology is not to be questioned. Many true aspects of man can be brought to light by scientific investigation, and there would be no sense in pretending that all there is to be known about man is disclosed in the Bible. But the scientific world needs to see the limitations of its own type of inquiry. A mere presentation of empirical data without any philosophical interpretation is not always an exciting or rewarding exercise. There is always a strong temptation to go further and fashion an understanding of man and the world. Strictly within the scientific method, however, this can only be an understanding of man and his world as a self-enclosed entity; and this involves a basic theological decision that the cosmos is a self-enclosed entity of this kind. To adopt this as a working methodological principle is one thing; to adopt it as a general principle for the understanding of things is quite another. It involves a very dubious process, a begging of the question that can turn a competent scientist into an incompetent theologian.

Truly to know man as he is, one must set him in his true and full context. The contention of theological anthropology, on the basis of the data of revelation, is that this true and full context involves a primary and ultimate relationship with God—a relationship that scientific anthropology cannot uncover except on its subjective side, which it necessarily has to leave out of account for its own more limited purpose, but which is not for that reason devoid of genuine objectivity or deprived of sovereign significance. As the theological anthropologist recognizes that his scientific counterpart may discover many things in his own sphere, so he claims validity for the many things that, taught by the divine self-revelation, he himself has to expound in the higher and ultimate sphere of the relation of man and his cosmos to God, i.e., of man in God's world.

II. Nature of Biblical Anthropology.—Theological or biblical anthropology is primarily concerned with man in relation to God, and with the origin, nature, life, and destiny of man against this background. Incidentally, this impinges at many points upon matter

足以将一位能干的科学家变成一位不称职的神学家。

若想真正地了解人类，那么就要将他置于一个真实且完整的研究背景之下。神学人类学在神的启示下，提出了一个论点，认为这种真实且完整的背景必须包含人与神的本质关系——科学人类学若要揭示这种关系，则只能进行主观推测，如此得出的结论必然没有参考价值，这并不是因为结论缺少真实客观性或权威性，而是因为其研究目的本身就具有局限性。神学人类学家看到许多科学人类学家也能揭示出神学领域的部分真理，因此他们承认这些真理是上帝的启示，是有效的真理，而他们则在更高级、更本质的研究领域内做出详细地阐述：人和人的宇宙与神的关系，即人在神的世界的关系。

II. 圣经人类学的本质。神学人类学或圣经人类学的主要研究范畴是：人类和神的关系，及在此背景下人类的起源、本质、生活和命运。神学人类学的研究领域偶尔会与科学人类学的研究领域产生冲突，如在历史、生理学、心理学等问题上。但是圣经人类学的定位从一 dealt with in scientific anthropology, e.g., matters of history, physiology, psychology, etc. But the orientation of biblical anthropology is different from the outset, for the factor that scientific anthropology must omit if it is to be true to itself is the basic and central theme in biblical anthropology. Furthermore, the approach is different, for, although both types of anthropology display the same rigorous objectivity, the objective data are very different. The data of scientific anthropology are men themselves, their bodies, minds, achievements, relics, and records. These things are of very little value in determining the objective relation of man to God, since they can approach this theme only from the side of man himself, i.e., the subjective side. Hence the most they can offer in themselves is information about what man has imagined this relation to be or made of it, which in itself is not theological anthropology, but only the anthropology of religion or philosophy.

To know man's relation to God, if there is such, it is necessary for God to be known as well as man and for man to be known with reference to God, not God with reference to man. For this purpose it is essential that there be objective data concerning God in His relation to man, and man as he is seen by God. In other words, God Himself must be the object of study, and man with this reference. But scientific anthropology methodologically excludes the existence of any such object of study. God Himself supplies the data with His self-revelation in word and act as recorded in the Bible, but scientific anthropology is bound by its own self-limitation to treat these data merely as the data of human religion.

如果想要了解人类与神的关系，那么人应该如认识人一般认识神，而且人类要从神的角度认识人，而不是以人的视角去认识神。因此，因此，客观的材料是必不可少的，这些材料中包含的神必须是神人关系中的神，而人则是神眼中的人。换言之，神本身必然是这一学科的研究对象，研究人类也要以神为参照。但是科学人类学从研究方法上就否认了神的存在。正如《圣经》中记载的那样，神以话语或神迹自我启示，但是科学人类学因自身存在着局限性，只将这些信息看做是人类宗教信仰的记录。但神学人类学却愿意认真看待这些记载神人相互关系的资料。因此其使命在于研究并解释神的启示，并在这一决定性的背景下研究人类的起源以及人的本质和命运。如此一来，我们就不能将神

Theological anthropology, however, is prepared to take them seriously as data concerning God in relation to man, and man in relation to God. Its task is thus to study and expound the data of revelation, setting man and his origin, nature, and destiny in this final context. In so doing, it cannot become a branch of ordinary anthropology, which, rightly enough from its own standpoint, restricts itself to the data supplied by man and the cosmos. It deals with a broader picture. Yet it does so with its own objectivity, not speculatively, submitting itself rigorously to its own data. It is confident that in so doing it can finally give the picture of man the depth, perspective, and ultimate validity that scientific anthropology, as a restricted and provisional study, can never do.

III. Content of Biblical Anthropology.-A. Terms. Several words are used for man in the Bible.

The Heb. 'ādām (Gk. ánthrōpos; Vulg. homo) is either the name of the first man (cf. Lk. 3:38; Rom. 5:14; 1 Cor. 15:45); an appellative, “the man”; or a generic name of the race. Various derivations have been suggested for the word, e.g., Heb. ʿādāmā, “of the earth”; Assy. admu, “child”; Eth. adma, “pleasant”; but the origin is obscure.

The Heb. ben-'ādām, “son of man,” is used especially to denote man in his weakness and frailty before God (cf. Nu. 23:19; Job 25:6; Ezk. 2:3); b^enōt hā'ādām, “daughters of men,” appears in Gen. 6:2.

The Heb. ʿnōš (Ps. 8:4; 10:18; 90:3; 103:15, often in Job) also denotes man in 学人类学看做是普通人类学的一个分支，因为普通的人类学就其研究立场而言，应被界定在人类和宇宙的知识范畴之内。神学人类学所涉及的范围更为广阔。但是它有自己的客观性，并不是主观臆断的，它严格地依据自身研究领域的材料。并且确实能够通过这样的研究让人类更深入地、清晰地从根本上审视自己，而这些是狭隘又初级的科学人类学无法做到的。

III. 圣经人类学的内容。A. 术语。《圣经》中用多个词表示人类。

希伯来语 'ādām（希腊语：ánthrōpos；《武加大译本》：homo）可能是第一个人类的字（参：路 3:38；罗 5:14；林前 15:45）；人类的总称；或是种族的一个属名。人们提出了多个该词的派生词，如希伯来语 ʿādāmā，“俗气的”；亚述语 admu，“孩子”；埃塞俄比亚语 adma，“令人愉快的”；但其来源尚不明确。

希伯来语 ben-'ādām，“人子”尤其用来表示人在神前的软弱和脆弱（参：民 23:19；伯 25:6；结 2:3）；b^enōt hā'ādām，“人的女子”，出现在《创世记》6:2 中。

希伯来语 ʿnōš（诗 8:4；10:18；90:3；103:15，《约伯记》中经常出现）也用来

his weakness, frailty, and mortality (Gk. brotós), as compared with 'iš, referring to man in his strength. It is used as a proper name in Gen. 4:26. Some have derived it from the root 'ānaš, “to be or become frail” (cf. also Ps. 10:18).

The Heb. 'iš (Gk. anér; Vulg. vir) is the male, as distinct from the female (cf. Gen. 7:2); the husband as distinct from the wife (Heb. 'iššá. Gen. 2:23f); man in his dignity and excellence (Jer. 5:1); the man of standing (Prov. 8:4; cf. the contrast with b^enê 'ādām; also the Attic andrés and ánthrōpoi). Heb. 'iš can also be used as the indefinite pronoun (e.g., Gk. tis, French on; cf. Ex. 21:14; 16:29).

The Heb. geber, gibbôr, is used for man in his strength (in contrast to women and children, Job 3:3); the male child (as distinct from the female, Gk. ársēn); the fighter (as distinct from noncombatants, Ex. 10:11); in the phrase “mighty man of valor” (Jgs. 6:12). It is also used for a strong beast (Prov. 30:30), or even God (Isa. 10:21) or the Messiah (Isa. 9:6). It may be combined with 'iš to give intensity (1 S. 14:52).

The Gk. ánthrōpos is used in its main Greek sense for man as a species (Mt. 12:12, etc.); sometimes there is an emphasis on his transitoriness and weakness (Jas. 5:17, etc.); other times a contrast between the outer and the inner man (2 Cor. 4:16); or between the natural and the psychic or pneumatic (1 Cor. 2:14); or between the old and the new (Rom. 6:6; Col. 3:4; Eph. 4:22).

The Gk. anér (Lat. vir) is used in the Bible in the various senses the Greek

指人类的缺点、弱点和必死的命运（希腊语：brotós），与之相对的是 'iš，指有壮年男子。《创世记》4:26 中将该词用作专有名词（以挪士）。有人认为该词来衍生自词根 'ānaš，“软弱的或变得软弱”（另参：诗 10:18）。

希伯来语 'iš（希腊语：anér；《武加大译本》：vir）指男性，与女性相对（参创 7:2）；丈夫，与妻子相对（希伯来语：'iššá，创 2:23-24）；有尊严和美德的人（耶 5:1）；站着的人（箴 8:4；参：b^enê 'ādām 的反义词；还有阿提卡语：andrés 和 ánthrōpoi）。希伯来语 'iš 还可以当不定代词使用（如希腊语：tis，法语：on；参：出 21:14；16:29）。

希伯来语 geber, gibbôr 指壮年男子（与女子和小孩相对，伯 3:3）；男孩（与女孩相对，希腊语：ársēn）；战斗人员（与非战斗人员相对，出 10:11）；短语“大能的勇士”（士 6:12）。该词还表示一种强壮的野兽（箴 30:30），甚至可以表示神（赛 10:21）或弥赛亚（赛 9:6）。该词还可以与 'iš 连用表示程度之强烈（撒上 14:52）。

希腊语 ánthrōpos 通常含义是指人类这一物种（太 12:12 等）；该词有时强调人类生命的短暂和脆弱（雅 5:17 等）；有时还强调身体和灵魂之间的差异（林后 4:16）；或强调属肉体的与属灵的、或与属血气的之间的差异（林前 2:14）；或者新与旧之间的差异（罗 6:6；西 3:4；弗 4:22）。

希腊语 anér（拉丁语：vir）在《圣经》中有多种含义，如有其他名称的人（徒

term may have, e.g., for man with some other designation (Acts 18:24); for the species (Lk. 5:8); for the male (Mt. 14:21); for man as opposed to woman (Gal. 3:28); for the husband (Mk. 10:2, 10); for the adult (1 Cor. 13:11); or for the honorable and mature man (Lk. 23:50; Acts 6:3, 5). In the plural anēr can be used of the total population (Mt. 14:35).

B. Origin of Man. Like all else in the cosmos, man is revealed in the Bible to be the creature of God. While a scientific anthropology, restricted to cosmic data, is tempted to try to account for the existence of creatures in terms of continuity or self-origination, theological anthropology can tell us plainly that the beginning of man is to be found with God (Gen. 1:1ff.). Man is the consummation of God's creative work. He owes his origin to the divine counsel and fiat (Gen. 1:26f.). He is created (Heb. bārā), and with his creation he is given dominion over other creatures (Gen. 1:28). He is presumably created with the endowment necessary for the fulfillment of this task. His position is one of honor and dignity (Ps. 8:4-6).

Man is part of creation, not merely in the sense that he derives his being from God, but also in the sense that he belongs to earth. He is fashioned (Heb. yāšar) from the dust of the earth (Gen. 2:7). It is into this earthly vessel that God breathes the breath of life so that he becomes a living soul. His setting is on earth, not in heaven. His tasks relate to the soil, to plants and trees, to rivers. Even if the beasts cannot provide a suitable helpmeet for him, he is a companion to them. While he gives them their names, and is ordained to rule over them, and has a higher being and destiny, there is also a measure of kinship. Man's being divinely created does not mean at all that he is set in sharp antithesis to other creatures, or that physiological similarities (as well as differences) should occasion surprise or alarm. On the contrary, he shares his divine creation, and his creatureliness, with the whole world and all that is in it.

18:24); 人类(路 5:8); 男性(太 14:21); 男子, 与女子相对(加 3:28); 丈夫(可 10:2, 10); 成年人(林前 13:11); 或可敬的、成熟的人(路 23:50; 徒 6:3, 5)。复数形式(anēr)时可以用来指人口总数(太 14:35)。

*B. 人类的起源。*据《圣经》所记, 人类, 如同宇宙中其他所有事物一样, 都是神的造物。而科学人类学受制于宇宙的资料, 试图从连续性或自我创造等方面来解释受造物的存在的原因, 神学人类学则直截了当的表明人类是由神所造(创 1:1 起)。创造完人标志着神的工作圆满完成。神以祂的意志和命令创造了人类(创 1:26-27)。神造(希伯来语: bārā)人, 并使人类管理一切受造物(创 1:28)。上帝创造人类时就赋予了人类管理其他受造物的权柄。人类的地位是荣耀而且尊贵的(诗 8:4-6)。

人类是受造物的一部分, 并不仅仅是因为上帝创造了人, 更是因为人类也生活在这个地球上。神用地上的尘土造(希伯来语: yāšar)人(创 2:7)。神将生气吹进这泥土造的胚中, 他便成了有灵的活人。他生于地上, 而非天上。他的使命是管理并看守土地、菜蔬、草木和河流。飞鸟走兽中虽然没有合适做他配偶帮助他的, 他仍帮助它们, 为它们命名并受命管理它们, 人类的地位和命运高于它们的地位和命运, 在一定程度上又与它们有着亲密的关系。这个人的生命受造于神, 但这并不意味着他就站在了

Nor is man created in human isolation. According to biblical anthropology sexual differentiation is part of creation. This again is something man shares at the physical level with other creatures. Yet for man sexual differentiation also means sexual interrelation (Gen. 2:20ff.). Man is from the very first a duality in unity, male and female. If the word "man" can be used for the first male, it cannot be used for the male in isolation. There is no such thing as man without the interrelation of male and female. Male or female in isolation is incomplete and doomed to extinction. The man needs a helpmeet. True man is achieved when the man cleaves to his wife and the two are one flesh.

From the very origin of man it may be seen at once that he stands in a threefold relation—to God, to his fellow man, and to the cosmos. Perhaps one might add that in terms of his human constitution man also stands in relation to himself. Biblical anthropology is a development of this fourfold relation of man as the creature of God.

C. Man's Relation to God. God is the author of man's life. He has provided him lavishly with all the means for living it. He has given man his task and man is

其他受造物的对立面，他们生理上的相似（和差别）也不足为奇。实际上恰恰相反，他与世间万物都是由神所造，他们的受造性是一致的。

人类也不是孤立的。根据圣经人类学的观点，性别分化也是创造的一部分。这也是人类在生理层次上和其他受造物共有的特征。而对于人类来说，性别分化也就意味着异性间的相互关系（创2:20起）。人类从一开始就是两性合一，雌雄同体的，既包含男性又包含女性。如果“man”这个词用来指第一个男人，那么它就不可能单纯地指男性。不包含两性特质的人类从未存在过。雌雄两性若完全孤立地存在，那么这一种群就是不完整的，注定要灭绝。人类需要配偶。因此，人要有与妻子连和，二人成为一体，才能成为真正的人。

从人类的最初起源来看，我们就会发现人类有三重关系——与神的关系、与同伴的关系、与宇宙的关系。若考虑到人类的构成，那么在上述关系中还应加上一点——人类与自身的关系。圣经人类学便是以人是神的创造物为前提，以上述四重关系为基础，而后进一步发展逐渐形成的科学。

responsible to Him. Man is not an automaton; within the possibilities and limitations of existence and under the ultimate divine sovereignty he is endowed by God with volition and has a measure of choice. God preserves and accompanies and overrules man. God is his ultimate end. He is the one from whom man comes and to whom he goes. Human life is inexplicable apart from God. It can be neither understood nor lived in terms of autonomy on the one side or a simply cosmic relation on the other. It is life from, with, by, and to God.

Since the relation between God and man is personal rather than mechanical, it has from the very first a covenantal aspect. There is election and promise on the one side, required response on the other. There is task on the one side, responsibility and obedience (or disobedience) on the other. Grace is balanced by gratitude, faithfulness by fidelity, the initiative of love by the response of love. Many of these themes are not developed in the creation narratives as such. But they are implicit from the outset and they occupy a predominant place in the further outworking of the relation of man to God. The cosmos is the theater for the great dialogue of drama between God and man. Because of the fall of man this takes the form of a drama of redemption, but even had there been no fall the great lines of interrelation could hardly have been different.

That the relationship between God and man has certain special characteristics is clearly intimated in the Bible. We have no information on the specific form of God's relation to birds or animals or plants. But in relation to man we do have the very definite statement that God created man in His image (Heb. šelem; Gk. eikōn; Lat. imago) and after His likeness (Heb. d' mūt; Gk. homoiosis; Lat. similitudo) (see IMAGE OF GOD). The exact meaning of this statement has been much debated. Even the detailed words "image" and "likeness" have called for minute investigation; and attempts have been made to differentiate between the two, e.g., physical image and ethical likeness, impressed image and acquired likeness, concrete image and abstract likeness, or original image and ideal likeness.

限性；而神是至高无上的，祂赐予人类决断力，使人类可以通过权衡做出决断。神保护人类、陪伴人类并统治人类。神是人类的根本所在。人类由神而来又将归于神去。只有相信神的存在，才能解释人类的生命。人类起源进化论或是人类与宇宙的简单关系都无从解释人类的生命。因此人类的生命来自于神，由神创造，并将最终归于神。

人类与神的关系是有意识作用的，而非机械的行为，这种关系始于二者之间的圣约。神要拣选并做出应许，人类则要做出回应。人类的使命是要对神负责，顺从（或违背）神。神赐下慈悲，人类便报以感激；神信守承诺，人类便报以忠诚；神爱世人，世人也爱神。这类主题在神创世的经文中并没有进一步升华。但是他们从一开始便已经隐含其中，而且在进一步研究人类与神关系中占据主导地位。宇宙是神人对话的戏剧舞台。人类犯了罪，因此便有了后来的赎罪这一幕，但即使人类并未犯罪，二者关系的主线也不会有多大区别。

《圣经》明确地显示出人类与神的关系的某些特征。我们没有发现神和鸟兽植物之间关系的具体形式。但神和人类之间的关系却有非常详尽的描述，即神照着祂的形象（希伯来语：selem；希腊语：

It has been asked what is the original of which man is the image or likeness. Tertullian sees a reference to the coming Christ. Others have argued that man is made after the image of the Logos. The Bible itself, with its plural ("our image"), seems at least to suggest that the reference is in some way to the whole trinity. The form of the biblical statement is also to be noted, for it does not say that man is the image of God but that he is made in the divine image.

The problem arises in what the likeness consists. Various qualities have been suggested, e.g., will, reason, love. Man's being spirit has also been named by some. Calvin thought in terms of the excellence or perfection of man rather than individual constituents; more recently Barth has argued strongly for the inner relationship of unity in plurality, though this also implies the personal qualities intrinsic in such a relationship.

There are, however, certain facts that are beyond dispute. Man is clearly eikōn; 拉丁语: imago), 按着祂的样式 (希伯来语: d' mūt; 希腊语: homoiosis; 拉丁语: similitudo) 创造了人 (见 IMAGE OF GOD[神的形象])。学者们就这段叙述的准确含义产生了巨大的争议。他们甚至对 "形象" 和 "样式" 这两个词也做了仔细研究, 试图将它们区分开来, 比如分别将这两个词理解为肉体的形像和道德的样式, 创造的形象和获得的样式, 具体的形象和抽象的样式, 或是原始的形象和理想的样式。 represented as standing in a special relation to God. This relation is of such a kind that there may be personal dealings with God. Hence an element of relationship is implied in the imago, but it is a relationship that presupposes the likeness of man's created constitution to the Creator, especially on the psychical and spiritual side. From the NT we learn that the imago is of eternal significance, for in spite of the fall man is renewed in the divine image by conformity to Christ, and thus has a destiny of eternal sonship. Necessarily the imago also involved interrelationship between men, so that the principle of such interrelationship in the basic form of man's existence as male and female may not unjustly be regarded as at least one important aspect of the imago. That there is unlikeness as well as likeness is also plainly illustrated at this point.

有人问道上帝造人所参照的原型是什么。特土良认为是耶稣再来时的形象和样式。其他学者则认为人类是按照三位一体的神的形象创造的。《圣经》中使用了复数形式 ("我们的形象"), 这似乎至少在某种程度上表明此处指的是三位一体的神。《圣经》中叙述的方式也值得注意, 其中并没有说人是神的形象, 而是说人是按照上帝的形像所造。

那么问题产生了, 这样式包含什么呢? 学者们提出了各种特质, 如, 意志、理性、爱, 有些人认为其中也包括人的灵魂。加尔文认为这样式主要指人类的品质或美德, 而不是人体的构造; 巴斯最近还强烈主张这样式指的是人类群体内部的团结, 但这一点同样也意味着群体当中的个人有这样的固有品质。

D. Man's Relation to Man. Man's personal life involves a horizontal relationship between men as well as a vertical one toward God. The basic form of this relationship is the man-woman—more specifically, the husband-wife—relation of marriage. Marriage is given with creation itself (Gen. 2:21ff.; Mt. 19:4ff.). While it is an end in itself, it is also the means to the further end of the family. Hence the husband-wife relation carries within it implicitly the parent-child relation (Ex. 20:12; Eph. 6:1ff.), and from the family circle there is a rapid extension to the varied individual and social relationships that constitute the common life of man.

Biblical anthropology makes it clear that by creation man is set in society. He cannot live by himself; but he is

类有可能与神沟通。因此，imago（形像）一词中可能包含了神人关系的某些要素，这种关系以人的构造和创造者相似为前提，尤其表现在心理和灵魂层面。从《新约》中我们可以得知，*imago*是有永恒意义的，人类虽然堕落了，但通过效法基督，人又重新获得了圣洁的形象，因此人类能够永远作神的儿子。*Imago*还必然包括人类内部的关系，而作为人类生存的基本形式，男性和女性间关系的法则也应被视作*imago*的一个重要方面。人与神的相像和不像之处也基于这一点做出明确地阐述。

D. 个人与他人之间的关系。人类生命之间存在横向关系，即人类之间的关系；还存在纵向关系，即人和神之间的关系。人类之间关系的基本形式便是男女（或者说的更明确些，即夫妻）之间的婚姻关系。人造人时便赋予人类婚姻关系（创 2:21 起；太 19:4 起）。婚姻是目的，但也是组建家庭的方式。夫妻关系也暗含着亲子关系（出 20:12；弗 6:1 起），这种家庭圈子会快速地扩大到各种个人和社会关系，这些关系组成了人类的平凡生活。 dependent on God and his fellow men, and he has obligations to them. Autonomous goals are a denial of humanity. If man is to love God, he must also love his neighbor as himself. However, in the Bible the internal relation of man to men, which is perceived in all anthropology, cannot stand alone. It cannot be the theme of an independent sociology, whether descriptive or prescriptive. Given in and with creation, this eternal relation always stands in the context of man's relation toward God. It is in a very real sense a reflection of the inner relation in the Godhead, and it stands under the direction of the reciprocal relation of God and man. The imperative nature of this relationship of man to man stands in the great imperative to love God, for the second commandment has no autonomous validity but is like the first. The indicative that underlies the imperative is not just that men are here and have to live together, like it or not. It is that God has put us here, in a relation analogous to that within Himself, and that He has made us in such a way that true humanity is possible only if there is love for God corresponding to God's love for man, and inner love of men corresponding to the inner love of the triune Godhead.

For the Christian, of course, the indicative is rather more than this. The gospel takes account of the fall, and the new indicative is that God has made us again in Jesus Christ. He has given us new life in the Son and with it new life in the family of God. He has fashioned us in the image of Christ. Having new fellowship with the Son, we have new fellowship one with the other. Yet the fact remains that, while this is a new creation, it is not unrelated to the first creation. Even in the world it is still true that by a common creation, in virtue of the common image and in terms of the common command, men belong inescapably to one another and can fulfil their destiny only in this relation. Fallen man rebels against this but cannot alter it. Redeemed man enters in a new and even more glorious way into the wonder of its fulfillment.

The implied solidarity of the race is a clear datum of biblical anthropology. It is seen already in the creation stories, for the whole race derives from the single couple. It finds expression in the OT and NT genealogies. Paul states it firmly in Acts 17:26. As the race derives from the one couple (Gen. 1:27), so the woman is from the man (1 Cor. 11:8), so that ultimately all men are in Adam (Rom. 5:12ff.), and Adam can be a term for man generally as well as for the first man. "Sons of Adam" is used for the human race (Dt. 32:8, AV).

The unity of the race has several important implications in theology and ethics. It means equality before God. It means corporate as well as individual responsibility. It makes nonsense of Cain's suggestion that he is not his brother's keeper. It underlies the various ramifications of the doctrine of original sin. It is also the basis of God's saving work in Jesus Christ. Because the race is a unity, the one can act for all. The first Adam can find his counterpart in the Lord from heaven (Rom. 5:14ff.; 1 Cor. 15:21f., 47-49). A new people can rise up in place of the old, those who belong to Christ and who thus belong no less indissolubly to one another. Whether by creation or by redemption, this unity of the race, this membership one of another in God, provides a solid basis for true ethical responsibility. It is because our fellow man is bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh that we ought to love him, that we are condemned because we do not, and that in the new body in Christ we finally can and shall.

是上帝的造物，拥有着相同的相貌，同样接受着上帝的诫命，他们彼此之间互不可分，只有在这层关系下才能实现他们的使命。犯罪的人抗拒这种关系，但无法将其改变。而赎罪的人找到了一种新的、甚至更为光荣的方式来实现这种关系。

种族的团结性是圣经人类学所采用的一种清晰的资料。我们在创世的故事中已经看到这点，因为整个种族是由一对夫妻繁衍而来的。这一点《新约》和《旧约》的族谱中都有体现。保罗在《使徒行传》17:26 中坚定地表达了这点。整个种族由一对夫妻发展而来（创 1:27），正如女人是从男人而出的（林前 11:8），因此归根结底所有人类都是从亚当来的（罗 5:12 起），亚当既可以宽泛地表示人类，也可以表示第一个人类。“亚当之子”用来表示人类这一种族（神 32:8，《钦定版圣经》）。

种族的一体性在神学和伦理学中有几个重要的暗示。这意味着所有人在神面前都是平等的。这意味着人类既肩负着共同责任又承担着个人责任。因此该隐说他不是他弟兄的守护人是十分荒谬的。这是原罪的教义产生众多分支的基础，也是神在基督里救赎人的基础。整个种族都是一个整体，因此一个人便可以代表所有人。第一人亚当是那从天而降的基督的预表。（罗 5:14 起；林前 15:21-22, 47-49）。新人类产生，取代了旧人类，因此属于基督的人，也不可分割地属于彼此。无论创造还是救赎，种族的一体性，在神里的人们之间的关系，为真正的道德责任提供了坚实的基础。我们与同伴骨肉相连，因此我们应

E. Constitution of Man. Man is made of the dust of the earth, and God has breathed into him the breath of life so that he is a living soul. This means that at the least man is made up of body and soul. Some would add spirit, and argue that his being is tripartite (1 Thess. 5:23). This factor of spirit (or Spirit) has certainly to be taken into account, more particularly when the psyche is connected with mind. Yet there is a certain flexibility in the biblical usage that rules out making definition too precise. Man has a physical side and he has a spiritual side. Both are from God. Both belong together in a psychosomatic unity. Both are integral to human life. Man is not a soul imprisoned in a body. He is certainly not a pure soul in an evil body. Nor is he a body that has of itself, and as part of itself, produced the rudiments of mental, emotional, and spiritual life. Man is rather a body-soul, in which the soul is the vital principle, almost at times the individual essence, the ego. In a suggestive phrase of Barth (CD, III/2), man is the soul of his body, an embodied soul, a besouled body. If there is differentiation, there is also unity. But if there is unity, there is also order. The body is finally subordinate to the soul, not the soul to the body.

The implications of man's constitution as

当爱他们，过去我们没有做到，因此受到了惩罚，而在基督里得到的新身体终于使得我们能做到爱人了。

E. 人类的构成。神用地上的泥土创造了人类，将生气吹给他，他就成了有生命的活人。这表明人至少由身体和生命（魂）组成。有些学者认为人应有三个部分，除了身体和生命外，还有灵（帖前 5:23）。我们确实应该考虑到这种因素，尤其是当灵与思想相关联时。但是《圣经》中的用法有一定的灵活性，因此我们无法精确地定义人类的构称。人类有肉体的一面，也有属灵的一面。二者都是由神所造的，同属于心身整体，都是人类生命不可或缺的一部分。人类不是被囚禁在肉体中的灵，显然也不是邪恶肉体中纯洁的灵。人类也不是个纯粹的肉体，其本身的一部分能够为精神、情感和灵性生命提供基础。更准确地说，人类应该是一种有肉体的魂，其中魂才是最为重要的本源，有时几乎是一个人的本质，即自我。巴斯在其作品（CD, III/2）中有一段暗示性的叙述：人类是他身体的魂，是魂的具象化，是有魂的肉体。二者之间既有差异性，也有统一性。而在统一性之中，还应有秩序。肉体最终服从于灵魂，而不是灵魂服从于肉体。 body and soul are significant. The body as such is not to be despised. It is the vehicle of life in the soul (Dt. 12:23). The word can sometimes be used to denote the whole man (Phil. 1:20). It is to be presented to Christ (Rom. 12:1; possibly the reference is again to the whole self). Even if it is secondary in importance (Mt. 6:25ff.; Phil. 3:21), its ills were healed by the Lord and His disciples (cf. Mt. 10:8). Paul emphasized both that the body is for the Lord (1 Cor. 6:13) and that it has its place in the resurrection (1 Cor. 15:23ff.). Christ Himself took a body (Jn. 1:14; He. 10), and the Church is the body of Christ (Rom. 12:5; 1 Cor. 10:16; Eph. 1:23).

In sum, the body is not to be cultivated for its own sake in abstraction from the psyche. True humanity consists in the harmony of body and soul under the direction of soul; this is supremely illustrated in the life of Jesus Himself. Yet the body has its place even in the new life. Hence Christians await not merely the immortality of the soul, but also the resurrection of the body. If there is change (cf. the spiritual body [Gk. sōma pneumatikón] of 1 Cor. 15:44), there is also identity. A guarantee of this is that salvation itself was wrought in the body. If Jesus yielded up His spirit to God, He gave His body and blood a ransom for many. Similarly, the dedicated body is the instrument for the outworking of the purposes of God in and by the Christian (cf. Rom. 12:1). The body of the believer is the member of Christ and the temple of the Spirit (1 Cor. 6:15, 19).

In sum, man is the unity of soul and body both in the life of creation and in that of redemption. There is no dualism in the sense of separation, as though there could be full man either as body alone or as soul alone. Yet monistic explanation, whereby body is subsumed under soul or soul under body, is also excluded. Both body and soul are from God. Both are given for a purpose. Both are to work in integration, in ordered unity, as together they make up the one man. Both are assumed by Christ in His coming into the world for us. Both are redeemed so that they may be Christ's in the new life of the Christian. Both have an eternal destiny in the resurrection from the dead.

的意义非常重要。我们不能轻视肉体，因为肉体是生命的载体（申 12:23）。“body”有时还用来指完整的人（门 1:20）。人类应把身体献给基督（罗 12:1；此处经文可能还是指完整的人）。尽管肉体是次要的（太 6:25 起；门 3:21），但主和祂的门徒还要治好人们肉体上的疾病（参：太 10:8）。保罗强调身体是为主（林前 6:13），而且复活时身体也要活过来（林前 15:23 起）。耶稣自己也有肉身（约 1:14；来 10），教会就是祂的身体（罗 12:5；林前 10:6；弗 1:23）。

总而言之，肉体不能脱离心灵单独发展。真正的人性是在灵的引导下，保持肉体 and 灵魂的和谐；这在耶稣的生命中得到了充分的诠释。而肉体在新的生命中也有一席之地。因此耶稣徒期待的不仅是灵魂的不朽，还有肉体的复活。他们的身体既有变化（参：灵性的身体[希腊语：sōma pneumatikón]，林前 15:44），也有同一。救赎发生在身体之内就是对此的保证。如果耶稣将祂的灵献给神，那么祂的血肉就是众人的赎价。同样地，献上的身体是神在基督里并藉着基督所行的旨意的载体（参：罗 12:1）。信徒的身体是基督的肢体，是圣灵的殿（林前 6:15, 19）。

总而言之，不论是神创造的生命还是救赎后生命，人类都是灵魂和肉体的统一体。从分别为圣的意义上说，不存在肉体与灵魂的二元论，也没有单独存在的

F. Man and the Cosmos. A brief word may be said about the relation of man to the cosmos. Man is created with the cosmos and is part of it (Gen. 1). But he is no mere transient speck of cosmic dust; he also has a history with God. The cosmos is the setting of this history. It is also the sphere of the task God has given to man, for man is to have dominion over other creatures (Gen. 1:26). This means that the cosmos is the area of human possibilities (cf. Gen. 1:29ff.; 2:8ff.). Man's achievements are to be in relation to this world. A rich field of opportunity is thereby opened up. On the other hand, the cosmos also imposes on man his limitations. He is in space and time. He cannot break out of creation or arrest its ordered course. He is finite and he has to accept his finitude. If man is given a place of honor and dignity (Ps. 8), it is not a transcendent place. It is a place in the cosmos. Even in the world to come man will be set in a new heaven and a new earth. To this degree, and also in terms of the millennial kingdom (cf. Rom. 8:22), the cosmos is linked

灵魂。但是一元论观点认为身体应归入灵魂或灵魂应归入身体，此观点也应不予以采纳。身体和灵魂都是从神而来且有其目的。二者共同协作，组成一个统一体，即人类。基督降世便是为了救赎人类的身体和灵魂，之后二者在基督徒的新生活中便属了基督。从死亡中复活后，身体和灵魂就都是不朽的。

关于“魂”和“灵”的讨论详见 PSYCHOLOGY V. (心理学 V.)。

F. 人类和宇宙的关系。人类和宇宙的关系可以简单地概括为：人类随宇宙一起被创造，人类是宇宙的一部分(创1)。但人类不仅仅是宇宙中转瞬即逝的尘埃，他们的历史也与神同在。这历史以宇宙为背景。神赋予人类使命，令人类管理万物(创1:26)，这使命便是在宇宙这一范围内执行的。这意味着宇宙便是人类存在的空间(参：创1:29起；2:8起)。人类的成就与这个世界有关，从而获得了大量的机遇。另一方面，宇宙将人类限制在时间和空间范围之内，人类不能打破或阻止创造的进程。人类是有限之物，而且他不得不接受这个现实。如果神赋予人类尊贵的地位(诗8)，这地位也局限在宇宙之内，不能超脱其外。即使是在未来的世界，人类也要处于新的天和地之间。如此来看，也从这个千年王国的角度来看(参：罗8:22)，依照神的旨意，人类和宇宙始终联系在一起。简单来说，人类作为受造物是创世的一部分，人类作为新的受造物是新的创世的一部分。人类确实地位特殊，而且有特别的天赋，但是神令他存在于这个世界，他便无法从其中脱离出去。人类堕落犯罪很可能就是由这个关系产生了混乱或是厌恶这种关系造成的。 irrevocably to man and man to the cosmos in the outworking of the divine purpose. To put it as a simple truism, man as a creature is part of creation, and man as the new creature is part of the new creation. While it is true that man has a special position and specific gifts, it is also true that he cannot be abstracted from the world in which God has set him. Disorder in and revolt against this relation plays no little part in the fall and sin of man.

G. Fall of Man. Thus far man has been discussed primarily in terms of his creation and restoration. Man as he is, however, is neither man as he was to be nor man as he will be. Theological anthropology makes it plain that man as he is, as he now presents himself for scientific investigation, is fallen man. Gen. 1 and 2 are succeeded at once by Gen. 3, and if the doctrine of the fall is not greatly developed in the rest of Scripture, the biblical records from Gen. 4 make it quite evident that the sin of Adam is also the sin of the race. In fact, all the essential elements of fallen human nature may be seen already in the story of the original sin. In terms of specific offenses, the fall involves doubt, disobedience, covetousness, self-will, pride, and falsehood. In terms of relationship, it carries with it a fourfold breach. Communion with God is broken. Adam and Eve are brought into discord; Eve takes a false initiative; Adam throws the blame on Eve; and both have a new sense of shame. This sense of shame also involves an inner conflict in man, which finds further expression in his feeble attempt at self-exculpation. Finally, his harmony with the cosmos is broken; the garden is forfeited; and man goes forth to the place of thorns and thistles where he must eat his bread in the sweat of his brow. The implications of the fall provide the very stuff of human history, and nowhere is the nature of fallen man portrayed with greater candor and insight than in the historical records of Scripture.

G. 人类犯罪。到现在为止，我们主要从创造和重生的角度讨论人类。人类是今在，不是昔在也不是将来。神学人类学阐明人类就是今在，人类对自身进行科学研究，他发现自己就是犯罪的人。《创世记》第3章的内容与《创世记》1章和2章紧密衔接，犯罪的教义在其余章节中有进一步的阐释，《创世记》第4章阐明亚当的罪就是人类的罪。实际上，所有堕落的人性要素都已在原罪的故事中体现出来。具体的罪包括：不信、不顺从、贪婪、顽固、傲慢和虚伪。原罪打破了人和宇宙间的正常关系，具体有四种表现并且最终导致人类无法再与神沟通了：亚当和夏娃之间产生了不和；夏娃做了错事；亚当怪罪夏娃；两人都产生了羞耻感。这种羞耻感还包含人类的内心冲突，这从人类试图为自己辩解却毫无力度便可以看出。最终，人与宇宙的和谐被打破了；人类被赶出了伊甸园，生活在长满荆棘和蒺藜的地上，只有汗流满面才得糊口。人类的堕落隐含着人类的历史，《圣经》最为直白透彻地记载了堕落之人的本质。

Many problems arise in relation to the fall. Does it mean that the imago is impaired or obliterated? Is it total in the sense that everything man does is wholly evil? How is it transmitted from generation to generation? What is the relation of individual sins to corporate sin, or of individual responsibility to corporate guilt? To some of these questions it is not possible to give any full answer, since Scripture merely records the data without any full doctrinal exposition. But at least it may be said that even scientific observers of man, if they are candid, must admit the tragic inconsistency in man's heart between glory and shame, grandeur and squalor, greatness and pettiness. The ordinary data of history and sociology force anthropologists to consider some explanation, if only with a view to a remedy. This explanation may take various forms, some more optimistic, some more pessimistic. Without considering the data of revelation, the final result is a hopeless riddle that can certainly provide neither reason nor imperative for attempted human solutions.

The plight of man is not to be understood except in terms of the theological data. Man, created good, has fallen from his first estate. Man as he is now is a perversion of man as he was to be and as he will be. His relationships are soured and spoiled. The good that he desires issues only in evil. Over all his work, great and imposing though it be, lies the curse of his fall from God. Human nature has come to mean fallible, erring, sinful nature. Man's divinely given task is not properly discharged. His possibilities are possibilities of evil as well as good. His limitations are necessary restraints. His life has become an enigma to himself, and he has lost the very data by which he might understand it. The very fact that there can be a self-contained and secular anthropology is a final witness to the truth of theological anthropology. Only fallen man could even think of an anthropology without God. But fallen man has to think of this because he is man without God and without hope (Eph. 2:12). He cannot make his way back to God. If there is to be true fulfillment of the divine purpose, the initiative must again be from the side of God.

H. Salvation and Destiny of Man. At this point anthropology merges into soteriology and eschatology. The account of man is the account of his salvation and final destiny. It is hardly possible or necessary to go into this aspect of the matter in the present context, but a few points of importance should be noted.

(1) The anthropology of the Bible is not a study of man in the abstract, but of the specific man whom God created, who fell from God, and on whose behalf God pursues His revealing and reconciling purpose.

(2) The reconciling purpose involves a fulfillment of the original plan of God in creation, so that God is neither deflected

其堕落而被神诅咒。人类的本性是不可靠的、易犯错误的、罪恶的。神赋予人的使命人没有正确地履行，因此人类既可能为恶，也可能为善，有必要受到限制。人类的生命对自身来说就像一个谜，而他们已失去了破解它的谜底。独立的、不朽的人类学最终见证了神学人类学的真理。只有堕落的人类才会研究没有神的人类学，但他们活在世上，没有指望，没有神（弗 2:12）。他无法回到神的面前。如果想要真正地实现神的旨意，那么主动权也必须在神那里。

H. 救赎和人类的命运。在这点上，人类学并入了耶稣救世学和末世学。人类的历史就是救赎和最终命运的历史。在现有情况下，我们无法也没必要探究问题的这个方面，但是我们应注意几个重点。

(1) 圣经人类学不是抽象地研究人类的科学，而是研究神所创造的具体的科学的科学，他们从神里跌落，神为了拯救人，向人彰显了和解的心意。

(2) 和解的信息涉及到实现神创世时的最初计划，因此神造人的目的既不曾改变，也不会落空。

from nor frustrated in His purpose in regard to man.

(3) The fulfillment of the purpose of God in man's restoration is accomplished in and by the God-man, Jesus Christ, and a wholly new turn is thereby given to anthropology; for (a) Jesus is Himself the divine Son; (b) He is as such the express image of God; (c) He is the one of and by and for whom all things are made; (d) God Himself becomes man in Him; (e) man, reconstituted in Christ, is thus advanced to a destiny and inheritance of sonship that transcends the original glory of creation. Incidentally, this raises the question to which Karl Barth has attempted an answer in his anthropology, namely, whether all anthropology does not necessarily have a christological orientation and basis in view of the incarnation.

(4) The supreme question for man becomes the question of the relation of God to man in Jesus Christ. This is the hinge of human meaning and destiny.

(5) The life of man in this world acquires significance and purpose, not just in relation to itself, but in relation to life in the world to come. As Christ is the decisive question put to man, so He is also the end and the goal. Life has relevance only in eschatological and theological terms. Apart from God's saving work in Christ, man is doomed to futility. He can never be true man. His frantic search for autonomous humanity can end only in the denial of humanity. As man has been irrevocably set in the context of this world, so life in this world has been irrevocably set in the context of life in the world to come. Anthropology

(3) 神人耶稣实现了神救赎人类的目的，于是人类学有了新的转折；祂之所以能实现救赎的目的，是由于（a）耶稣自身是圣子；（b）祂是神本体的真像；（c）万物都是靠着祂造的，藉着祂造的，又是为祂造的；（d）耶稣是神在肉身的显现；（e）人类在基督里得以重造，他的命运改变了，得了嗣子的名分，获得了比最初受造时更高的荣耀。随之产生了一个问题，即鉴于道成肉身一说，是否所有人类学都无需以基督论为方向和基础，卡尔·巴斯试图用他的人类学回答这个问题。

(4) 人类最重要的问题变为了神和在基督里的人的关系问题。这是人类意义和命运的关键。

(5) 人类今世的生命获得了意义和目的，这不仅指它自身，还指未来世界的生命。基督是人类生命的决定性问题，因此祂还是终点和目标。只有在末世学和神学方面，生命才是有关联的。如果没有神在基督里的救赎，人类的生命注定是没有价值的，他永远不可能成为真正的人类。他疯狂的寻找人性的自治，但只能以否决人性而告终。人类已然处于今世之中，那么今世的生命也应处于未来世界的背景之下。人类学不可能脱离基督学，因此它也不能脱离末世学。人类企图建立起一种独立的人类学，但这随即就被一个事实彻底的否定了，因为神在基督里成了人，闯入了这一领域。人性在堕落的亚当身上并未得以实 can never be divorced from eschatology because it can never be divorced from Christology. If man tried to set up an independent anthropology, the fact that God has become man in Christ, and invaded this sphere, has negated this attempt once and for all. The fulfillment of humanity does not lie in fallen Adam, but exclusively in the Second Adam, the Lord from heaven. It is the life of the new man in Him.

IV. Biblical and Other Anthropologies.-There are two main points at which biblical anthropology impinges on the various forms of secular anthropology.

A. Data from Other Sciences. It is inevitable that biblical anthropology should also include historical, physiological, psychological, and sociological data. Hence the question arises how far these coincide with the findings of scientific anthropology. It should be noted, of course, that in theological anthropology these data are in fact very selective. In many cases they are only incidental and secondary. They are not to be studied and classified merely or primarily along the lines adopted in scientific anthropology. Their presentation is mainly more general or popular, for the Bible is a book for everyman, not for this or that specialist alone. Scientific anthropology is not the purpose of the Bible. Nevertheless, there is a certain overlap, and possibility of cross-checking thus arises.

In general it may be affirmed with all confidence that the accounts given in the Bible conflict in no way with the data uncovered by scientific investigation.

现，它只在第二个亚当，也就是从天上来的主身上才得以实现。这就是在主里面的新人。

IV. 圣经人类学和其他人类学。圣经人类学中两大要点与其他人类学存在着冲突。

A. 其他学科研究资料。圣经人类学必然包含历史学、生理学、心理学和社会学的资料。由此产生了一个问题：这些资料与科学人类学的研究成果有多少相符之处呢？我们必须注意的是，神学人类学采用的资料实际上是非常有选择性的。大多情况下，这些资料只是附带的、次要的。神学人类学并未对这些资料多加研究，它仅是或基本上是按照科学人类学采用的主线进行了分类。神学人类学中的陈述大多比较通俗易懂，因为《圣经》是写给每个人看的，不是专为专家写的。然而，两种人类学中必然存在某些重叠之处，于是学者们可以依此进行交叉校验。研究资料的可能性。

一般而言，我们可以信心满满地说《圣经》中的记载与科学研究资料绝无冲突之处。从生理学 and 心理学角度来看，《圣经》中的用辞最多是有些不确切，但这

Physiologically and psychologically, the most that can be said is that biblical terminology is imprecise; but this is irrelevant in terms of the Bible's purpose. Historically and archeologically, too, the biblical stories stand up well at points of demonstrated overlapping.

It is, in fact, only in the sphere of the origins of the human race that a clash seems to arise between the stories in Gen. 1ff. and findings that seem to date back the history of the race thousands of years and to establish a possible line of derivation from closely related animals. In face of this problem various solutions have been proposed: (1) that the biblical records in Genesis are purely theological and not historical; (2) that the biblical records are an account of real events in the genre, not of exact history, but of poetic saga; (3) that the biblical records allow for long periods of development by natural processes; (4) that the early men of primitive archeology are not true men, and that God later either introduced a new race or brought about the decisive change that instituted true humanity. Other points that might be considered are that the data of primitive archeology are far less reliable than sometimes alleged, and that creatio ex nihilo cannot in any case be the object of scientific investigation, since the new creation will necessarily carry the implication of a prior history (e.g., the bread in the feeding of the five thousand, if it were subjected to scientific analysis). The problems are hardly severe enough to warrant an abandonment of the factual authenticity of the biblical account, and the final point is a pertinent reminder that for all the points of contact the approach, the purport, and the data of theological anthropology are by no means the same as those of scientific anthropology.

并不影响《圣经》表达其目的。从历史和考古学角度来看，《圣经》中的故事可以很好的证明重叠之处。

实际上，两种人类学上只在人类起源一论上有所冲突，《创世记》1章及随后章节中的经文显示是神创造了人类，而科学发现则将人类的历史追溯至数千年前，并建立了进化论学说，认为人类是由近似的物种演化而来。就这一冲突，人们作出了多种解释：(1)《圣经》从神学角度而不是从历史角度记录了《创世记》；(2)《圣经》中对真实事件的记载是史诗性记载，而不是精确的历史；(3)《圣经》中的记载经得住长期自然发展的推敲；(4)考古学发现的远古时期的人类不是真正的人类，神后来可能创造了新的人类，也可能是对早期的人类做出了决定性的改变，从而使他们成为了真正的人类。其他值得考虑的观点还有：远古考古学远没有所说的那样可靠；科学研究无论如何都不能将“无中生有”(creatio ex nihilo)作为研究对象，因为新的创造必然会受到先前历史的影响（如用麦饼使五千人吃饱的故事，从科学角度分析，这是无法解释的）。但这些问题还没有严重到让我们认定《圣经》中的记录没有权威性和真实性，最重要的问题是，我们一定要牢记：神学人类学和科学人类学的研究方法、研究目的、采用的资料绝不可能相同。

B. Basic Presuppositions. It is inevitable that biblical anthropology should impinge upon scientific anthropology in the area of basic presupposition. The scientist, justifiably for his own purpose, has to operate with a closed mind. He is giving an account of the creaturely within the creaturely context alone. This is legitimate so long as he recalls that his work is purely descriptive. But the human mind finds it very hard to stop at description. It wants to move on to interpretation. Here, however, the empiricist is in danger of arguing in a circle. Concentrating by choice on the creaturely data, he is in danger of explaining them solely in terms of themselves, and of then claiming that they prove the explanation. In other words, the methodology is made into an argument. The ignoring of the divine work of creation becomes an argument for its denial. The truth is, of course, that by entering the sphere of interpretation, scientific anthropology becomes philosophical anthropology. Indeed, it is this from the very outset if it treats its working principle as a basic principle. But the moment it becomes philosophical anthropology it comes into contact with theological anthropology. In this case it does so at some disadvantage, for theological anthropology is pursuing its proper task and doing so in a rigorously scientific manner, whereas in far too many cases scientific anthropology is here indulging merely in dilettante and obscurantist speculation.

In the sphere of interpretation, then, biblical anthropology need make no

B. 基础设想。在基础设想领域，圣经人类学和科学人类学无可避免地有所冲突。科学家们受限于科学人类学的研究目的，他们的思想是封闭的。他们研究生物时只考虑生物的背景。只要他们牢记他们的工作只是纯粹的描述，那就是合理的。但是他们会发现，研究不可能止于描述层面，他们渴望做出进一步的阐释。但此时，经验主义者就很有可能陷入循环论证之中。他们的选择局限于所采用的生物资料，因此他们所作的解释可能是孤立的，但却宣称他们证明了这种解释。换言之，他们将方法论当成了论据。他们对神创世的工作视而不见，并把这当成是否认神创论学说的论据。当然，如果科学家们进入阐释阶段，那么他们的工作就不再属于科学人类学的范畴，而是变成了哲学人类学。实际上，如果他们将这种研究规则当作基本规则的话，那么这种转变从一开始就已经发生了。这样看来，科学人类学就存在一些缺点，因为科学人类学在大多数情况下做出的阐释都仅仅是业余的、蒙昧的推测，而神学人类学则与之相反，研究者们采取科学、严谨的方法追求合理的阐述。

那么，在阐释的范畴内，圣经人类学并无不当之处。恰恰相反，它能够帮助其

apology for its work. On the contrary, it may rightly call other anthropologies to account. On what grounds and with what basic knowledge does psychology adopt a materialistic view of man? or biology an explanation in terms of creative evolution? or physics and eternity of the cosmos? On what grounds and with what basic knowledge does anthropology exclude an interpretation in which man is related to the Creator as well as the creature? On what grounds and with what basic knowledge does science turn the modesty of its inquiry into the arrogance of denial of the Creator?

To be sure, man cannot see God. The eternal dimension of human life escapes ordinary observation. The claim of biblical anthropology, however, is that what man cannot perceive for himself, God has revealed to him. New data have been given. God Himself has revealed Himself as Creator. In so doing He has declared man's first, central, and final relation, the relation to Him. In so doing He has shown the nature of fallen man, but He has also exhibited true man in Jesus Christ and the restoration and eternal destiny of man in Him. These are the data on which alone a true and full anthropology can rest.

诚然，人类无法看见神。这是由于人类疏忽了对生命的永恒维度普遍观察。但是，圣经人类学认为，上帝向人类揭示了他们无法感知到的真理。于是人类得到了新的资料。神自我启示，称祂就是造物主。祂向人们揭示：人类的第一关系、核心关系以及终极关系就是人与神的关系。祂解释了堕落人类的本质，但是祂还揭示了在耶稣基督里的真正的人类，和人类在基督里的复活和永生。真正和完整的人类学必须建立在这类资料之上。

ANTHROPOMORPHISM

[<GK. ánthrōpos—‘man’ + morphé—‘form’]. The manifestation or depiction of God in human terms or as having the characteristics of man. Anthropomorphism is very common in the Bible.

- I. Its Use in the Bible
- II. The Dangers Involved
- III. Its Necessity
- IV. Its Justification
- V. The Incarnation and Anthropomorphism

I. Its Use in the Bible.-A. Data. In Gen. 1 God is represented as speaking (v. 3), then as seeing (v. 4). He walks in the garden in the cool of the day (3:8). Elsewhere we read of the human form of God (Nu. 12:8), of the feet of God (Ex. 24:10), of the hand of God (Isa. 50:11), of the heart of God (Hos. 11:8). In addition to physical characteristics, emotional qualities appropriate to man are also ascribed to God. Thus He is jealous (Ex. 20:5), angry (Ps. 77:9), merciful (Jonah 4:2), mighty (Ps. 147:5), gracious and loving (Ps. 103:8). The Lord can resolve and He can also repent (1 S. 15:11). He is a shepherd (Ps. 23:1), a bridegroom (Isa. 62:5), and a warrior (Ex. 15:3).

While anthropomorphisms are in general less frequent in the NT, they do occur. There is a reference to the finger of God in Lk. 11:20. In Mt. 19:10 the angels behold the face of God. In Jn. 10:29 it is said that none can pluck the disciples out of the hand of God. In Jn. 1:18 the only

ANTHROPOMORPHISM 神人同形同性论

【源于希腊语词根 ánthrōpos (人类) 和 morphé (形式)】。神人同形同性论表现或描述神有人类的外形, 或者有人类的性格。这种学说在《圣经》十分常见。

- I. 在《圣经》中的使用
- II. 包含的危险
- III. 必然性
- IV. 理由
- V. 道成肉身和神人同形同性论

I. 在《圣经》中的使用。A.资料。根据《创世记》第1章中经文的描述, 神说了话(创1:3)然后看见了光(创1:4)。天起了凉风, 耶和華神在园中行走(创3:8)。我们在其他经文中读到, 神有人的形象(民12:8), 有脚(出24:10), 有手(赛50:11), 有心(何11:8)。经文中除了体现神和人类身体特征上的相似, 还描述了神的情感特质也与人相似。祂会嫉妒(出20:5)、发怒(诗77:9), 祂是慈爱的(拿4:2)、大能的(诗147:5)、亲切的和慈悲的(诗103:8)。祂做出决定后, 也会后悔(撒上15:11)。祂是牧羊人(诗23:1)、新郎(赛62:5)和战士(出15:3)。

神人同形同性论在《新约》中出现的次数相对较少, 但确实存在。《路加福音》11:20 提到了神的手指。《马太福音》19:10 中描述有天使注视着神的脸。《约翰福音》10:29 中记载道谁也不能将门徒从神的手中夺去。《约翰福音》1:18 中描述到独生子坐在父的怀里。基督升 begotten Son is in the bosom of the Father. The ascended Christ is seated at God's right hand (He. 1:3). In many verses (e.g., 2 Tim. 2:13; Eph. 2:8; 1 Tim. 1:16; Eph. 2:4; 1 Jn. 3:1) we read of the faithfulness, wisdom, longsuffering, mercy, and love of God. God can also act as man acts. He speaks (He. 1:1f.), sends (Jn. 17:18), chooses (Eph. 1:4), purposes (Eph. 3:11), is wrathful (Rom. 1:18), judges (Rom. 2:2f.), reconciles (2 Cor. 5:18f.), loves (Jn. 3:16). He is described in human categories as father (Mt. 6:9, etc.) or as king (Rev. 4:2).

B. Use. An interesting feature of the biblical use, especially in the OT, is that there is no very apparent development from anthropomorphism to more abstract terms. It is often said that cruder ideas of God give way to more lofty conceptions as one moves from the earliest documents to the later writings. But this is not very well substantiated by the facts. Thus if it were argued that Gen. 3 is of an earlier date than Gen. 1, the most that could be said is that there is a change in the nature of the anthropomorphism from walking to speaking and seeing. Perhaps there is a greater refinement in speaking and seeing than in walking, for the former denote more intellectual activity and the latter more physical. Or perhaps it could be argued that there is a greater awareness of the figurative nature of the usage in the so-called later writing. But the anthropomorphism itself remains. Moreover, some of those parts of Scripture that represent the sovereignty of God in the loftiest terms, e.g., the second part of Isaiah, are even more strongly anthropomorphic in expression than others that are supposed to belong to a more primitive stage.

天后坐在神的右手边(来 1:3)。神的忠诚、智慧、坚韧、怜悯和慈爱在许多经文中都有所体现(如提后 2:13; 弗 2:8; 提前 1:16; 弗 2:4; 约壹 3:1)。神的行为也可以像人一样行事,他能晓谕(来 1:1-2)、赐予(约 17:18)、拣选(弗 1:4)、打算(弗 3:11)、忿怒(罗 1:18)、审判(罗 2:2-3)、和好(林后 5:18-19)、爱(约 3:16)。人类称祂为父(太 6:9 等)或王(启 4:2)。

B. 使用。《圣经》中,尤其是《旧约》对神人同形同性论的使用有一个有趣的特征,即神人同形同性论并没有明显地发展为更抽象的术语。学者们认为,人们在将早期典籍收集整理成后来的作品时,将神的原意修改加工成更为崇高的理念。但这种观点没有事实依据。因此,如果认为《创世记》第 3 章要早于第 1 章的话,最多也就是神人同形同性论的本质从行走变为说话和看见而已。或许说话或看见这两种行为比行走更加文雅,因为前者更倾向于智力活动,而后者更倾向于体力活动。或者可以这样说,所谓的后来作品中,对其用法的比喻性认识的更加深刻。但语义中的神人同形同性论都始终存在。此外《圣经》中的某些部分用高深莫测的术语来表达神权的至高无上,如《以赛亚书》的第二部分,这些经文在表达上更能体现神人同形同性论,更原始阶段的典籍可能就没有这种效果。人们虽然原则上反感神人同形同性论。但这似乎对《旧约》没什么影响,但在《七十士译本》的翻译过程中,人们有时会煞费苦心地避免产生神人同形同性论的暗示(如出 24:10)。后期的作品中经常提及天使,这与早期经文中提及的神的显现也不无相似之处。两约之间的时期,人们愈加强调神权的至高无上,而神人

The revolt against anthropomorphism in principle did not seem to affect the OT until the time of the LXX translation, in which pains are sometimes taken to avoid any anthropomorphic implication (e.g., Ex. 24:10). Even the more common introduction of angels in some of the later works is not without parallels in the earlier theophanies. Only with the increasing stress on the divine transcendence between the Testaments is there any real sense that anthropomorphism is in some way derogatory to God. If the NT displays a greater reserve in this respect than the OT, it has a special reason that will be seen later.

C. Meaning. The question arises whether the Bible really teaches that human attributes may be ascribed to God in the strict sense. Various answers may be given. In the first place, a distinction certainly has to be made between the various kinds of attributes. Thus ethical and spiritual qualities such as wisdom, power, mercy, righteousness, and love are obviously intended literally when posited of God, whereas a figurative meaning is in many cases no less apparent in the case of physical attributes or members. In the Psalms or Isaiah, for example, the anthropomorphisms have a vivid poetic quality when there is reference to the hand or face of God. God did not literally extend a giant arm from heaven when He protected Israel and overthrew Egypt at the Red Sea. The almost stereotyped metaphor is simply a graphic way of expressing the truth that God Himself did in fact intervene to save His people and to destroy the oppressor. The finger of God in the dominical saying in Luke is of the same genre.

同形同性论在某种程度有损于神权。如果《新约》比《旧约》中更多地体现出神人同形同性论，这一定是出于一个特别的理由，这一点我们在后文中会提到。

*C. 含义。*人们提出了一个问题，《圣经》中是否真的教导我们说，从严格意义上讲，人类的属性应归属于神。对这个问题的回答有许多。首先，人类有多种属性，而且他们之间必然是有区别的。当用智慧、力量、仁慈、正义和爱等道德和精神特性来描述神的时候，那他们的含义明显就是字面的含义，至于身体属性或肢体则是有比喻意义的，但是其含义也同样明显。比如说，《诗篇》和《以赛亚书》提到神的手或脸时，神人同形同性论就体现出一种生动的、诗歌的特质。神并没有真的从天上伸出手臂，在红海保护以色列并推翻埃及。这个比喻几乎成了定式，它简单而生动地表达了一个事实，即神确实亲自保护了祂的民，摧毁了他们的敌人。《路加福音》记载的基督语录中提到了神的手指，这段经文也采用了同样的手法。

Is this true of all physical anthropomorphism in the Bible? It could be argued, of course, that at an earlier stage God was thought to have a human form, that this underlies or finds expression in a story like Gen. 3, that it forms the basis of the later usage, and that many Israelites continued to believe it even when the great prophets had a clearer insight into the true nature of God. But, while it may be admitted that the individual beliefs of many Israelites, perhaps a majority at times, were crudely anthropomorphic, this does not mean that the usage in the text is necessarily of this kind. Indeed, one might suppose that the divine walking of Gen. 3 could be happily retained in the text because, in its charming poetic form, it represents so vividly the closeness of the relationship with God that was forfeited in the fall. If one considers the purpose of Bible study to be the reconstruction of the beliefs of the Israelites, then traces of inadequate conceptions, even illicit images, of God can easily be detected. If, on the other hand, one reads the Bible to hear the revelation of God, things take on a very different aspect.

That the Bible itself is very conscious of the limitation of anthropomorphism may be seen from the many verses that emphasize the transcendence of God in relation to man or to the cosmos at large. Thus Dt. 4:12 states categorically that when God met with Israel at Sinai they heard the voice of the words but saw no form. Again, when Moses sought the vision of God in Ex. 33, he asked only to be shown God's way of glory, and even the glory of God was seen only in passing: "You cannot see my face; for man shall not see me and live” (v. 20). Isaiah, in spite of all his anthropomorphisms, flings out the tremendous question: “To whom then will you liken God, or what likeness compare with him?” (40:18). God is the high and lofty one who inhabits eternity (Isa. 57:15). The same witness is carried through into the NT: “No one has ever seen God” (Jn. 1:18); “God is spirit” (Jn. 4:24). God alone has immortality “and dwells in unapproachable light, whom no man has ever seen or can see” (1 Tim. 6:16). Even the ways and thoughts of God are not as man’s ways and thoughts (Isa. 55:8), and the natural man does not receive the things of the Spirit of God (1 Cor. 2:14).

II. The Dangers Involved.-The seriousness of the dangers of anthropomorphism may be seen from the crudities of myths in which gods share not only the attributes but also the vices and failings of men, albeit on a larger scale. What has happened is that God has been made in the image of man. He is simply an enlarged projection. The reverse side of the same error is divinization, for if the gods are no more than men writ large, there is no intrinsic reason why men, or at least some men, should not become or be gods.

Already in Greek philosophy Xenophanes recognized the danger of making God in the image of man, or indeed of any creature: “There is one God, greatest of all gods and men, who is like to mortal creatures neither in form nor in mind.” But this opens the way only too easily to abstraction or to agnosticism. Either we cannot know or say anything concerning God, or we conceive of Him in abstract categories that deprive Him of any true and dynamic life. The Bible, on the other hand, uses anthropomorphic forms of speech, but it recognizes their limitation. Obvious crudities must be avoided. God cannot be shaped according to the physical, mental, ethical, or spiritual pattern of man. God has His own transcendent life and being that defy human depiction. He is not just an enlarged man. He certainly does not display human faults and failings. Nevertheless, He may still be presented in human categories and in terms of human attributes. With careful avoidance of extravagances, the Bible maintains a proper use, and it continues to do so even in the later books of the OT and on into the NT. Why is this so?

比 神，用什么形象与 神比较呢？”（赛 40:18）。神至高至上，自有永有（赛 57:15）。《新约》中也有同样的证据：“从来没有人看见 神”（约 1:18）；“ 神是个灵”（约 4:24）。神“是那独一不死，住在人不能靠近的光里，是人未曾看见，也是不能看见的”（提前 6:16）。神的意念和道路也与人类不同（赛 55:8），属血气的人不能领会神圣灵的事（林前 2:14）。

II. 包含的危险。有些粗糙的神话认为神不但有人类的属性，还有人类的缺点和过失，只是程度更大，由此我们可以看出神人同形同性论的危险之严重性。这种神话将神捏造成了人的形象，祂只是放大的人类投射。这种错误观点的另一面是成神论，因为如果神只是放大的人，那么人类，至少是某些人类也有可能成为神或者成为神。希腊哲学家色诺芬尼早已认识到神人（甚至是任何生物）同形同性论的危险性，因此他说：“世上仅有一位神，祂高于万物和万神，祂的形象和思想都是凡人所无法企及的。”但是这种说法非常容易让人觉得神是抽象的、不可知的。我们要么不知道或无法说出有关神的事，要么将神理解成抽象的存在，使祂丧失了真实而有活力的生命。另一方面，《圣经》采取了神人同形同性论这种讲述方式，但同时深谙这种表达方式的局限性。经文中必须避免出现明显的生硬的表述。我们绝不可以根据人类的外形、精神、道德和心灵来塑造神的形象。神超越万有的生命和存在是人类无法用语言形容的。祂并不是放大了的人类，也必然不会表

III. Its Necessity.-A first point is that anthropomorphism is subjectively necessary (see ACCOMMODATION III). If man is to hear or speak about God at all, it must be in intelligible terms. But man is limited by his own creatureliness. He can embrace the cosmos, but he cannot climb up to the sphere of God. He has no words or thoughts by which to describe transcendent deity. Even if he takes refuge in abstraction, his very abstractions have an ultimate creaturely basis. To say that God is the infinite is to define Him negatively in terms of the finite, and the finite involves spatial or temporal measurement. To take the way of negativity is here shown to be no true help, for this in turn involves definition in terms of the human or the creaturely, as though God were simply the opposite of the human.

The best that man can do, it might seem, is to take refuge in silence, to think and say nothing about God at all. But this is obviously impossible in face of the reality of God. The only other option is to be frank about anthropomorphism as the Bible is, to admit at once that some kind of anthropomorphism is needed, to avoid the supercilious contempt for the anthropomorphic that has come to characterize some theological and philosophical schools. There is a difference between cruder and more instructed anthropomorphism. Depiction of God as a cruel, carousing giant is not comparable with His depiction as the merciful Father. It is important that the right kind of anthropomorphism be found and that its limitation be recognized. But the fact remains that there is no escaping anthropomorphism as such. It is imposed by the ineluctable necessity of the very fact that seems to call it in question, namely, that man is man and not God. If on the one side this means that man cannot reduce God to human categories, it also means on the other that he has none but human categories in which to speak of God.

现出人类的错误和缺点。然而，仍然可以以人类的角色和特质来描绘神，我们或许还是应该将神划分到人类这个类别之中。为了避免滥用神人同形同性论，《圣经》行文谨慎，这一写作特点一直保持到旧约后期的各书和《新约》当中，这是为什么呢？

III. 重要性。第一点是神人同形同性论的主观重要性（见 ACCOMMODATION III[俯就 III]）。人类若想听讲或谈论神，那么他就应该使用可以理解的术语。但是人类受自身的受造性所限，他能理解宇宙，却永远不能理解神的境界，他的思想和话语都无法描述至高无上的神性。即使人类借助于抽象的描述，这种抽象性也脱离不了人受造物的基础。如果说神是无穷的，那么其实就是从有限性的角度消极地对神做出了定义，这种有限性包含时间和空间限制。如果从消极性出发的话，那么实际上是没有任何帮助的，因为这反而是从人类或受造性的角度定义了神，似乎神就是与人相反的存在。

人类最应该做的事似乎是保持沉默，不要思考神也不要讨论神。但人们显然不能对神的真实性视而不见。那么剩下的

IV. Its Justification.-The limitations of man do not in themselves justify anthropomorphism. Perhaps man is unable to think or speak of God in any other way than that of anthropomorphism (unless, of course, he chooses to think and speak of Him in terms of other aspects of the organic or inorganic world). But one could deduce from this that he is in fact unable to think or to speak about God at all. God is so different from man that He transcends human comprehension altogether. To say that man is condemned to anthropomorphism is to say that he is condemned to ignorance or error. Even when it has been established that man has

IV. 理由。人类出于自身的局限性，不能证明神人同形同性论。人类在思考神或谈论神时，或许除了神人同形同性论之外别无他选（当然，除非他选择从有机或无机世界的其他角度来思考神或谈论神）。但是人可以由此得出一个结论，事实上，他根本无法思考神或谈论神。神与人如此不同，超出了人类所能理解的范围。说人陷入了神人同形同性论的误区就相当于说他注定是无知或错误的。即使人类不得不通过这种方式来了解和谈论神，我们仍需提问，人类有什么权利这样做，又是出于什么理由这样做呢？ to learn and to speak about God in this way, it has still to be asked by what right and with what justification he may do so.

The answer to this question is twofold. First, the Bible itself does so, and the Bible is not just man's thinking and speaking about God. It is God's own address to man. Hence God Himself speaks concerning Himself in anthropomorphic terms, and this constitutes for man both a permission and a command to do the same. Anthropomorphism within the biblical limit is justifiable because it is God Himself who authorizes it. Second, God authorizes it, not under the pressure of an imposed necessity, nor by an act of irrational caprice, but because it corresponds to the facts of the situation. God has made man in His own image and after His own likeness. Between God and man, by God's own appointment and according to His own revelation, there is similarity as well as dissimilarity. If man, especially fallen man, is not to make God in his own image, he has to recognize that he himself, for all his present corruption, is made in the image of God.

This means that man's wisdom is in fact a copy of God's wisdom, man's love a copy of God's love, man's righteousness a copy of God's righteousness. Even the body of man, his capacity to act, to express himself, to fulfil his decisions and plans in the material cosmos, is in its own way a copy of God's superior power of action. Hence, so long as man remembers that he is the copy and God the original, not vice versa, there is every reason why anthropomorphism should contribute not to ignorance or error but to a true knowledge of God.

这意味着人类的智慧、爱、正义都是来自于神。即使是人类的身体、行为能力、表达能力、决断能力和实现他们在这个物质宇宙中的计划能力都是按其自身的方式对神的大能的复制。因此,人类只要记住自己是复制品,神是原型,而不是与之相反,那么就有充分的理由相信神人同形同性论不但不会导向无知和错误,反而能够促进对神的正确认识。神与人的关系证明了神人同形同性论是正当的,因为神也采用了它,这是因为它的真正基础是神创造的似神论。

Anthropomorphism is justified in relation to God because God Himself uses it, and God Himself uses it because its real basis is the divinely created theomorphism of man.

V. The Incarnation and Anthropomorphism.

This truth finds supreme illustration and support in the climax of God's revealing and reconciling action in the incarnation of the Word. The astonishing truth of the gospel is that God did in fact take human form even to the point of a human body. As mentioned earlier, the NT is comparatively reserved in its individual anthropomorphisms, but the special reason for this is that the basic NT witness and confession is to the supreme anthropomorphism of the God-man. In the NT God is not just depicted metaphorically in anthropomorphic terms. A reality of the most literal kind is now seen to underlie the metaphors. God has revealed Himself with all the attributes of humanity. "And the Word became flesh and dwelt among us" (Jn. 1:14). He "emptied himself, taking the form of a servant, being born in the likeness of men. And being found in human form he humbled himself" (Phil. 2:7f.). "Sacrifice and offerings thou hast not desired, but a body hast thou prepared for me ... Lo, I have come ..." (He. 10:5, 7). "That ... which we have heard, which we have seen with our eyes, which we have looked upon and touched with our hands, concerning the word of life" (1 Jn. 1:1), "He who has seen me has seen the Father" (Jn. 14:9).

All this means that in Jesus Christ God has actually assumed human form in fulfillment of His revealing and

V. 道成肉身和神人同形同性论。道成肉身是神的揭示和救赎行为的顶点，这最能解释和支持神人同形同性论。福音传达给我们一个惊人的事实，即神确实用了人的形象，甚至有了肉身。正如前文提到的，《新约》对神人同形同性论的运用是有所保留的，但这是有特殊原因的，《新约》想要人们见证和忏悔的正是基督至高无上的神人同形同性论。根据神人同形同性论，《新约》对神的描写并不是比喻性的。我们看到了比喻之下的真实。神用所有人的属性自我揭示。“道成了肉身，住在我们中间”(约 1:14)。他“反倒虚己，取了奴仆的形象，成为人的样式。既有人的样子，就自己卑微”(腓 2:7-8)。“祭物和礼物是你不愿意的，你曾给我预备了身体……神啊，我来了……”(来 10:5, 7)。“论到从起初原有的生命之道，就是我们所听见，所看见，亲眼看过，亲手摸过的”(约壹 1:1)。“人看见了我，就是看见了父”(约 14:9)。

这些都意味着神在基督耶稣里成了人的样子来达成他自我揭示和救赎的旨意。因此，关于耶稣，人们完全可以说

reconciling purpose. Hence in relation to Jesus one can speak quite literally, not merely of the love, compassion, righteousness, or holy wrath of God, but of the hand or arm or eyes or feet of God. While God in His eternal deity is a Spirit, there is nothing incongruous or impossible in His assuming human form. Within the context of the divine self-revelation, anthropomorphism is fully vindicated, not as a general principle, but as a christological reality.

Several troublesome questions remain. Is there a sense in which humanity is intrinsic to God? Was the humanity of Christ the prototype of man as originally created? Will our knowledge of God always be in terms of the divine humanity of Christ? Would it have been this way even had there been no fall? Speculation on such matters can lead to some curious developments, e.g., the Scholastic problem whether there would have been an incarnation whatever happened, or the suggestion in Luther that somewhere a Deus absconditus still lurks behind the Deus revelatus in Christ, as though Christ were not the fulness of the Godhead bodily, as though some part of God were not revealed in Him. Behind this type of reasoning, and the implied wish that we may see God other than in Christ, there probably lies a recollection of the limitation of anthropomorphism, of the witness to divine transcendence.

Quite apart from all such questions, however, the incarnation does have at least three clear implications which may be accepted as criteria in this whole question of anthropomorphism. First, it leaves us in no doubt that there is nothing inconsistent in the bearing of human form by God. Second, it thereby establishes and reconstitutes the creation, not of God in man's image, but of man in God's. Man is truly theomorphic in Christ, and this theomorphism is the basis of legitimate anthropomorphism. Third, it makes it plain that anthropomorphism is not just a device; it is a divinely given task. Man has not just to learn about God in human terms. He has to find his true humanity in God and to work it out in terms of being made conformable to Christ as the image of the invisible God.

祂不仅有神的慈爱、怜悯、正义和神圣之怒，还有神的手，或膀臂，或眼睛，或脚。神是一个拥有永恒神性的圣灵，因此他采用人的外形并不是不相称或不可能的。在神圣的自我揭示的背景中，神人同形同性论得到了充分的诠释，它不是一种普通规则，而是一种基督论的真理。

但仍然有一些令人烦恼的问题。哪种人性是神固有的呢？上帝造人是否是以基督的人性为原型？我们对神的认知是否总是根据基督神圣的人性呢？如果人类未曾堕落，那么世界会是什么样子？对这些问题的思索产生了有趣的发展，比如学者们提出了一个学术问题，即是否无论发生什么，都会有道成肉身呢；卢瑟认为，在基督里显明的神（Deus revelatus）的背后，还存在着另一位隐藏的神（Deus absconditus），这似乎意味着基督的身体不是神性的完整体现，上帝的部分神性没有在祂身上彰显。在这种推理的背后，我们或许可以看见神除了在基督里的其他隐藏的意愿，这可能令我们回忆起神人同形同性论的局限和神权至高无上的证据。

但是，除了上述问题之外，道成肉身至少还有三种清晰的隐藏含义，这些含义可以被视为所有神人同形同性论问题的标准。首先，道成肉身明确地表明神有人的形象一说并不矛盾。第二，它确立并重建了创造的过程，不是神有人类的形象，而是人类有神形象。人在基

Set in the light of the incarnation, biblical anthropomorphism takes on a completely different aspect from the crass and dubious anthropomorphism that arouses justifiable objection. It starts not with man but with God. It has its basis in creation. It is sponsored by divine revelation. It teaches man his true relation to God. It gives him his real dignity and humanity. It poses his ethical task, and sets him the eschatological goal not of divinization but of assumption to eternal sonship in, with, and by the one Mediator between God and man, the man Christ Jesus.

ANTICHRIST

[Gk. antichristos]. The word "antichrist" occurs only in 1 Jn. 2:18, 22; 4:3; 2 Jn. 7, but the concept appears frequently in Scripture.

督里是似神的，似神论是合理的神人同形同性论的基础。第三，它表明神人同形同性论不是一种手段，而是一种神圣的使命。人类不应从人的角度理解神，而是要在神里发现并弄清真正的人性，将基督当做是可见的神。

《圣经》中的神人同形同性论以道成肉身为基础，呈现出一种完全不同的视角，这种视角不同于愚蠢的、可疑的神人同形同性论，并就后者提出了合理的反对意见。它以创世为基础，得到了神的启示的支持。它教导我们人类和神的真正关系。它赋予人类真正的尊严和人性。它给予人类真正的道德使命，设立了末世论的目标，但这目标不是成神，而是坚信神和人之间的中保是基督耶稣，他将救赎人类，令人永远在基督里奉神为父。

I. In the OT.—As in the OT the doctrine concerning Christ was only suggested, not developed, so is it with the doctrine of the antichrist. That the Messiah should be the divine Logos, the only adequate expression of God, was merely hinted at, not stated: so the antichrist was exhibited as the opponent of God rather than of His anointed. In the historical books of the OT “Belial” is used as of a personal opponent of the Lord; thus the shamefully wicked are called in the AV “sons of Belial” (Jgs. 19:22; 20:13), “daughter of Belial” (1 S. 1:16), etc. Modern versions translate the expression in an abstract sense, e.g., “base fellows,” “scoundrels,” “wicked woman.” In Dnl. 7:7f. there is the description of a great heathen empire, represented by a beast with ten horns: its full antagonism to God is expressed in a little eleventh horn which had “a mouth speaking great things” and “made war with the saints” (vv. 8, 21). He was to be destroyed by the “Ancient of Days,” and his kingdom was to be given to a “son of man” (vv. 9–14). Similar yet differing in many points is the description of Antiochus Epiphanes in 8:9–12, 23–25.

I. 在《旧约》中。《旧约》中仅仅提出了关于基督的教义，但并没有将其升华，关于敌基督者的教义也是如此。弥撒亚就是神圣的道，是对神唯一适当的表达，对于这一点神仅给出了默示，并未阐明，因此敌基督者反对的是神，而不是祂的受膏者。在《旧约》的历史书中，“彼列”是神的反对者；因此《钦定版圣经》中将那些可耻的、不道德的人称作“彼列之子”（士 19:22; 20:13），“彼列之女”（撒上 1:16）等。现代的《圣经》译本用抽象意义来翻译这些表述，如“匪徒”“罪犯”“不正经的女子”。《但以理书》7:7-8 描写了一个强大的异教帝国，将这个帝国比作头生十角的野兽：这头野兽与神的全部对抗表现在第十一个小角，这个小角“有口说夸大的话”，“与圣民争战”（但 7:8, 21）。“亘古常在者”要将这兽毁灭，将它的国赐给“人子”（但 7:9-14）。《但以理书》8:9-12, 23-25 对安提阿古·伊皮法尼的描述与上文提到的既有许多相似点，也有许多差异。

Gospels the activity of Satan is regarded as specially directed against Christ. In the Temptation (Mt. 4:1-10; Lk. 4:1-13) the devil claims the right to dispose of "all the kingdoms of the world," and has his claim admitted. The temptation is a struggle between the Christ and the antichrist. In the parable of the tares and the wheat, while He that sowed the good seed is the Son of man, he that sowed the tares is the devil, who is thus the antichrist (Mt. 13:37-39). Our Lord felt it the keenest of insults that His miracles should be attributed to satanic assistance (Mt. 12:24-32). In Jn. 14:30 there is reference to the "ruler of this world" who "has no power over" Christ.

B. Pauline Epistles. The Pauline Epistles present a more developed form of the doctrine. In the spiritual sphere Paul identifies the antichrist with Belial. "What accord has Christ with Belial?" (2 Cor. 6:15). 2 Thessalonians, written early, affords evidence of a considerably developed doctrine being commonly accepted among believers. The exposition of 2 Thess. 2:3-9, in which Paul exhibits his teaching on the "man of lawlessness," is very difficult, as may be seen from the number of conflicting attempts at its interpretation. (See LAWLESS, LAWLESSNESS.) Here we would indicate only what seems to be the most plausible view of the Pauline doctrine.

It had been revealed to the apostle by the Spirit that the Church was to be exposed to a more tremendous assault than any it had yet witnessed. Some twelve years before the Epistle was penned, the Roman world had seen in Caligula the portent of a mad emperor. Caligula had claimed to be worshiped as a god, and had a temple erected to him in Rome. He went further, and demanded that his own statue should be set up in the temple at Jerusalem to be worshiped. As similar causes might be expected to produce similar effects, Paul, interpreting what was “indicated by the Spirit of Christ within him,” may have thought of a youth reared in the palace, who, raised to the awful, isolating dignity of emperor, might like Caligula be struck with madness and demand divine honors, and might be possessed with a thirst for blood as insatiable as his. The fury of such an enthroned maniac would, with too great probability, be directed against those who, like the Christians, would refuse as obstinately as the Jews to give him divine honor, but were not numerous enough to make Roman officials pause before proceeding to extremities. So long as Claudius lived, the manifestation of this “lawless one” was restrained; when, however, the aged emperor should pass away, or God’s time should appoint, that “lawless one” would be revealed, whom the Lord would “slay with the breath of his mouth” (v. 8).

音书》中认为撒但的行动专门针对基督。在耶稣受试探的经文中(太 4:1-10; 路 4:1-13), 魔鬼承诺说要将“世上的万国”都赐给耶稣。这试探就是基督和敌基督者之间的斗争。在好种和稗子的寓言中, 撒好种的就是人子, 撒稗子的仇敌就是魔鬼, 也就是敌基督者(太 13:37-39)。法利赛人将神行的神迹归功于魔鬼的协助, 这被我主视作最大的褻渎(太 12:24-32)。《约翰福音》14:30提到了“这世界的王”, 基督说“他在我里面是毫无所有”。

B. 《保罗书信》。《保罗书信》中体现了敌基督教义较为成熟的形式。在灵的范围內, 保罗认为敌基督者就是彼列, “基督和彼列有什么相和呢?” (林后 6:15)。较早写成的《帖撒罗尼迦前书》和《帖撒罗尼迦后书》提供了一个为信徒们普遍接受的成熟教义, 。保罗在《帖撒罗尼迦后书》2:3-9 中陈述了他有关“罪人”的教导, 对这个教导的解读出现了大量相互矛盾的观点, 由此我们可以看出这个教导是非常难的。(见 LAWLESS, LAWLESSNESS[无法之人; 罪人]。)在此, 我们仅阐述对保罗教义解读得最为可信的观点。

圣灵已经向使徒揭示说, 教会将经历一场前所未有的巨大打击。在保罗书写这封书信之前约 12 年, 罗马人已经看出卡里古拉将成为一位暴君。他自命为神, 并在罗马为自己建立了神庙, 要人们敬奉他。他甚至还要在耶路撒冷的神殿中树立自己的雕像供人膜拜。类似的原因可能产生类似的效果, 保罗解释什

C. Johannine Epistles. Although many of the features of the “man of lawlessness” were exhibited by Nero, yet the messianic kingdom did not come, nor did Christ return to His people at Nero’s death. Writing after Nero had fallen, the apostle John, who, as noted above, alone of the NT writers uses the term, presents us with another view of the antichrist (1 Jn. 2:18, 22; 4:3; 2 Jn. 7). From the first of these passages (“as you have heard that antichrist is coming”), it is evident that the coming of the antichrist was an event generally anticipated by the Christian community, but it is also clear that the apostle shared to but a limited extent in this popular expectation. He thought the attention of believers needed rather to be directed to the antichristian forces that were at work among and around them (“so now many antichrists have come”). From 1 Jn. 2:22; 4:3; 2 Jn. 7 we see that the apostle regards erroneous views of the person of Christ as the real antichrist. To him the Docetism (i.e., the doctrine that Christ’s body was only a seeming one) which portended Gnosticism, and the elements of Ebionism (Christ was only a man), were more seriously to be dreaded than persecution.

么是“考察在他们心里基督的灵”时，他可能会想到，有一个年轻人，自小在宫中长大，被培养成一个可怕的、孤立的、尊贵的君主，他很有可能像卡里古拉一样变得疯狂，需求神的荣耀，渴望鲜血，而且贪得无厌。这样一个疯狂的君主奢求神的荣耀，而基督徒们却像犹太人一样固执，拒绝给予他这种荣耀，因此君主的狂怒就会导致他敌视这些基督徒，而基督徒的数量又不足以阻止罗马官员，以至于事情最后走向了极端。只要革老丢还活着，“无法之人”的行动就有所限制；但是当这位君主年老逝世时，或活到神指定的时间时，“不法的人”就会显露出来，主耶稣要“用口中的气灭绝他”（帖后 2:8）。

C. 《约翰》书信。 尼禄表现出许多“无法之人”的特征，但他死时，弥撒亚的国度并没有降临，基督也没有回到祂的民身边。正如前文所述，使徒约翰是唯一一个使用“敌基督者”一词的《新约》作者，他在尼禄死后写的书信向我们展现了敌基督者的另一种观点（约壹 2:18, 22; 4:3; 约贰 7）。从上述第一段经文（“那敌基督的要来”）可知，基督教社团明显普遍预料到了敌基督的要来这一事件，而使徒们也明显在一定程度上接受了这个普遍的预测。他认为信徒们更应当注意那些在他们之中或周围的敌基督者（“现在已经有好些敌基督的出来了”）。从《约翰一书》 2:22;

D. Revelation. In the book of Revelation the doctrine of antichrist receives a further development. If the traditional date of the Apocalypse is to be accepted, it was written when the lull that followed the Neronian persecution had given place to persecution under Domitian—“the bald Nero.” The apostle now feels the whole imperial system to be an incarnation of the spirit of Satan; indeed, from the identity of the symbols, seven heads and ten horns, applied both to the dragon (12:3) and to the beast (13:1), he appears to have regarded the raison d’être of the Roman empire to be found in its incarnation of Satan. The ten horns are borrowed from Dnl. 7, but the seven heads point, as seen from Rev. 17:9, to the “seven hills” on which Rome sat. As for the “image of the beast” (13:14f.), possibly this symbolizes the cult of Rome, the city being regarded as a goddess, and worshiped with temples and statues all over the empire. Inasmuch as the seer endows the beast that comes out of the earth with “two horns like a lamb” (13:11), the apostle must have had in his mind some system of teaching that

4:3; 《约翰二书》7 可知，约翰认为不认基督的，就是真正的敌基督者。对他来说，诺斯替教的前身幻影说（即，基督的肉身只是一个幻想）和伊便尼派的观点带来的危害要比宗教迫害更严重，更可怕。

D. 《启示录》。在《启示录》中，敌基督的教义发展的更为成熟。尼禄死后，图密善（“秃头尼禄”）继位之前的短暂时期，基督徒们免于迫害，据说《启示录》就是写于这个时期。约翰当时认为整个帝国体制都是撒但的化身；实际上，从对七头十角的龙（启 12:3）和兽（启 13:1）两个象征物的鉴别上我们可以得知，约翰似乎认为罗马帝国存在的理由便是作撒但的化身。“十角”借鉴于《但以理书》第 7 章中的描述，但是从《启示录》17:9 中可知，“七头”指的是罗马所处的“七座山”。至于“兽的像”（启 13:14-15）可能指的是罗马的宗教，当时的罗马人认为这座城市是一个女神，他们在全帝国建立神庙和塑像崇拜她。约翰认为这从地中来的兽“有两角如同羊羔”（启 13:11），因此他脑中一定有类似基督教的教导体系；从它“说话好像龙”可以看出它和撒但的关系（启 13:11）。 resembled Christianity; its relationship to Satan is shown by its speaking “like a dragon” (v. 11).

The number 666 given to the beast (v. 18), though presumably understood readily by the writer’s immediate public, has proved a riddle capable of too many solutions. The favorite explanation nerôn qēsar (Nero Caesar), which suits numerically (see NUMBER VI), becomes absurd when it implies the attribution of seven heads and ten horns. There is no necessity to make the calculation in Hebrew; the corresponding arithmogram in Sib. Or. 1:328–330, in which 888 stands for Iesous, is interpreted in Greek. On this hypothesis Lateinos, a suggestion preserved by Irenaeus (Adv. haer. v.30), would suit. If we follow the analogy of Daniel, which has influenced the Apocalypticist so much, the Johannine antichrist must be regarded not as a person but as a kingdom. In this case it must be the Roman empire that is meant.

III. In Apocalyptic Writings.—Although from their eschatological bias one would expect that the Jewish apocalyptic writings would be full of the subject, mention of the antichrist occurs in only a few of the apocalypses. The earliest certain notice is found in the Sibylline books (1:167). We are there told that “Beliar shall come and work wonders,” and that “he shall spring from the Sebasteni (Augusti),” a statement that, taken with other indications, inclines one to the belief that the mad demands of Caligula were threatening the Jews when this was written. There are references to Beliar in the Testaments of the Twelve Patriarchs, which, if the date ascribed to them by Charles is correct, i.e., the reign of John Hyrcanus I, are earlier. The accuracy of this conclusion is doubtful, however. Further, Charles admits the presence of many interpolations, and even though one might assent to his opinions as to the nucleus of the work, yet these Beliar passages might be due to the interpolator. In only one passage is “Beliar” antichristos as distinguished from antitheos, T. Dan. 5:10f. (Charles’ translation): “And there shall arise unto you from the tribe of [Judah and of] Levi the salvation of the Lord; And he shall make war against Beliar. And execute an everlasting vengeance on our enemies; And the captivity shall he take from Beliar ... And turn disobedient hearts unto the Lord...” Charles thinks he finds an echo of this last clause in Lk. 1:17; but may the case not be the converse?

III. 在启示文学作品中的。 启示文学中经常出现末世论观点, 人们或许会推测犹太人的启示文学作品应该充满了敌基督者的主题, 但实际上, 仅有小部分提及了敌基督者。最早的确定记录出现在《西卜神谕篇》1:167 中。其中记载道“彼列也要前来, 给人许多征兆”, 还有“彼列要从撒巴天奴 (奥古斯都) 前来”, 将这段陈述和其他迹象综合考虑, 我们或许可以相信这部作品写作时正值卡里古拉压迫犹太人时期。《十二族长遗训》中也曾提到彼列, 查尔斯推测这本作品应著于约翰·许尔堪一世时期, 如果这个推测是正确的话, 那么这本作品的写作时期要早于《西卜神谕篇》。但是查尔斯推测的准确性仍值得怀疑。此外, 查尔斯也承认作品中确实存在许多篡改之处, 即使人们同意他提

The fullest exposition of the ideas associated with the antichrist in the early decades of Christian history is to be found in the Ascension of Isaiah. In this we are told that “Beliar” (Belial) would enter into “the matricide king” (Nero), who would work great wonders and do much evil. After the expiration of 1332 days during which he has persecuted the plant which the twelve apostles of the Beloved have planted, “the Lord will come with his angels and with armies of his holy ones from the seventh heaven, with the glory of the seventh heaven, and he will drag Beliar into Gehenna and also his armies” (4:3, 13, Charles’ translation). If the date at which Beliar was supposed to enter into Nero was the night on which the great fire in Rome began, then the space of power given to him is too short by 89 days. From the burning of Rome till Nero’s death was 1421 days. It is to be noted that there are no signs of the writer having been influenced by either Paul or the Apocalypse. As he expected the coming of the Lord to be the immediate cause of the death of Nero, we date the writing some months before that event. It seems thus to afford contemporary and independent evidence of the views entertained by the Christian community as to the antichrist.

出的关于作品核心的观点，书中提到彼列的地方也有可能是后人的篡改。《十二族长遗训》中仅有一处经文使用的彼列 (antichristos) 和其他处 (antitheos) 拼写不同，即在《但的遗训》5:10-11 (查尔斯译) 中，“又为你们从 (犹太的支派和) 利未的支派中，兴起上主的救赎。他要与彼列争战；他要赐复仇得胜作为我们的目标。他要从彼列那儿带走俘虏……他要把悖逆者的心归向上主……” 查尔斯认为《路加福音》1:17 中的经文是对最后一句的模仿；但有没有可能是《但的遗训》模仿了《路加福音》呢？

《以赛亚生天记》对基督教历史早期数十年中关于敌基督者的观点做出了最全面的解释。其中记载道，“彼列”将以“弑母的王” (尼禄) 的形象降下，他会大行奇迹，做许多恶事。世界完结之后，彼列“亲自迫害蒙爱者的十二使徒所栽种的植物”，他统治一千三百三十二日之后“主将与他的天使，以及众圣徒带同第七重天的荣耀，从第七重天下来，将彼列和他的党羽逐往地狱” (《以赛亚升天记》4:3, 13, 查尔斯译)。如果彼列以尼禄的形象降下的日子是罗马大火开始的那个晚上，那么他统治的时间就只有 89 天，这太短了。罗马大火与尼禄逝世相距 1421 天。值得注意的是，书中并没有任何痕迹表明它的作者受到了保罗或其他启示文学的影响。鉴于作者认为主降临之时，尼禄必将死亡，因此我们可以推断这本书著于尼禄逝世之前的几个月。这似乎为基督教社团所理解敌基督者的观点提供了一些同时代的、独立的证据。

IV. In Patristic Writings.-Of the patristic writers, Polycarp is the only one of the Apostolic Fathers who refers directly to the antichrist. He quotes John's words, "Whosoever doth not confess that Jesus Christ has come in the flesh is antichrist" (Polyc Phil. 1:7), and regards Docetism as antichrist in the only practical sense. Barnabas, although not using the term, implies that the fourth empire of Daniel is antichrist; this he seems to identify with the Roman empire (4:5). Irenaeus is the first writer known to occupy himself with the number of the Beast. While looking with some favor on Lateinos, he himself prefers Teitan as the name intended (Adv. haer. v.30). His view is interesting as showing the belief that the arithmogram was to be interpreted by the Greek values of the letters.

More particulars as to the views prevailing can be gleaned from Hippolytus, who has a special work on the subject, in which he exhibits the points of resemblance between Christ and the antichrist (Demonstratio de Christo et antichristo 4, 14f., 19, 25). In this work we find the assertion that the antichrist springs from the terms of Jacob's blessing to Dan. Among other references, the idea of Commodian (A.D. 250) that Nero redivivus (risen from the dead) was to be the antichrist has to be noticed. In the commentary on Revelation attributed to Victorinus of Petau there is, inserted by a later hand, an identification of Genseric with the “beast” of that book. It is evident that little light is to be gained on the subject from patristic sources.

IV. 在教父作品中。教父作家中，坡旅甲是唯一一个直接提到敌基督者的使徒教父。他引用了约翰的话，“那些不认耶稣基督是成了肉身来的，就是敌基督的”（Polyc Phil. 1:7），他认为幻影说是唯一实际意义上的敌基督者。而巴拿巴虽然没有使用“敌基督”这个词，但是他暗指《但以理书》中第四个帝国是敌基督的，这个帝国似乎就是罗马帝国（但 4:5）。爱任纽是已知的第一个提到兽的数目的作者。他虽然也有些认同 666 指的是“拉丁人”（Lateinos），但就他本人而言，他更倾向于认为这个数字指的是“泰坦”（Teitan）（Adv. haer. v.30）。他的观点比较有趣，因为他认为应该按照恺撒密码将这个数字解读成希腊字母。

我们可以从希坡律陀身上了解到关于当时盛行观点的更多细节，他就这个主题专门写了一部作品，他在作品中展现了基督和敌基督者之间的相似点（Demonstratio de Christo et antichristo 4, 14-15, 19, 25）。在这部作品中，希坡律陀称敌基督者来自雅各对但的祝福中。在其他众多相关文献中，值得注意的还有康默典（公元 250 年）的观点，他提出尼禄复活（redivivus）成为了敌基督者。在佩托的威克多林（Victorinus of Petau）对《启示录》的评注中，后人插入了一条评注，这条评

V. Medieval Views.-A. Christian. The Christian was mainly occupied in finding methods of transforming the names of those whom monkish writers abhorred into a shape that would admit of their being reckoned 666. The favorite name for this species of torture was naturally Maometis (Muhammad). Gregory IX found no difficulty in accommodating the name of Frederick II so as to enable him to identify his great antagonist with “the beast coming up out of the sea.” This identification the emperor retorted on the pope. Rabanus Maurus gives a full account of what the antichrist was to do, but without any attempt to label any contemporary with the title. He was to work miracles and to rebuild the temple at Jerusalem.

The view afterward so generally held by Protestants that the papacy was the antichrist had its representatives among the sects denounced by the hierarchy as heretical, as the Kathari. In various periods the rumor was spread that the antichrist had already been born. Sometimes his birthplace was said to be Babylon, sometimes this distinction was accorded to the mystical Babylon, Rome.

B. Jewish. The Jewish views had little effect on Christian speculation. With the Talmudists the antichrist was named Armilus, a variation of Romulus. Rome evidently is primarily intended, but the antichrist became endowed with personal

注称《启示录》中的“兽”指的就是金赛里克。很明显，教父作品使得我们对这个问题的思路变得稍微清晰了一些。

V. 中世纪的观点。A. 基督徒。基督徒们大多寻求方法，意图将修道士作者憎恨的名字变换成有可能计算出 666 形式 000。他们用这种扭曲的方法自然而然地得出了一个比较合适的名字——默罕默德 (Maometis)。贵格利九世轻易地得出了结论，他认为他的大敌腓特烈二世就是“从海中上来的兽”。腓特烈二世反驳了教皇 (格雷戈里九世) 的这个观点。拉班 (Rabanus Maurus) 完整地描述了敌基督者将要做的事，但却没有指出同时期的敌基督者是谁。敌基督者将要大行奇迹，重建耶路撒冷的圣殿。

此后的新教徒普遍认为罗马教皇就是敌基督者，当时的统治集团将持有这种观点的代表看做是各教派中的异端 (Kathari)。各个时代都有传言说敌基督者已经出生了。人们有时传言说他出生在巴比伦，有时又说说他可能出生在有奥秘之名的大巴比伦——罗马。

B. 犹太人。犹太人的观点对基督徒的推测几乎没有影响。根据《他勒目》研究者的观点，敌基督者的名字是阿米鲁斯 (Armilus)，这个名字是“罗穆卢斯” (Romulus) 的一种变体。敌基督者最有可能是罗马，但是人们逐渐赋予了敌 attributes. He makes war on Messiah son of Joseph, and slays him, but is in turn destroyed by Messiah son of David.

VI. Post-Reformation Views.-In immediately post-Reformation times the divines of the Roman Church saw in Luther and the Reformed churches the antichrist and beast of Revelation. On the other hand the Protestants identified the papacy and the Roman Church with these, and with the Pauline man of sin. The latter view had a certain plausibility, not only from the many undeniably antichristian features in the developed Roman system, but from the relation in which the Roman Catholic Church stood to the city of Rome and to the imperial idea. That the beast that came out of the earth (Rev. 13:11) had the horns of a lamb points to some relation to the lamb that had been slain (5:6).

Futurist interpreters have sought the antichrist in historical persons, as Napoleon III. These persons, however, did not live to realize the expectations formed of them. The critical consensus is that Nero is intended by the beast of the Apocalypse, but this, on many grounds, as seen before, is not satisfactory. Some future development of evil may more exactly fulfil the conditions.

基督者个人特质。他同约瑟的儿子弥赛亚争战并将其杀死，但是他之后又被大卫的子孙弥赛亚毁灭了。

VI. 改教之后的观点。改教之后，罗马教堂的神学家认为路德和归正会就是敌基督者，也就是《启示录》中的兽。另一方面，新教徒将教皇和罗马教会看作是敌基督者和《启示录》中的兽以及保罗提到的敌基督者。后一种观点在某种程度上来说是有道理的，这不仅因为成熟的罗马体系中确实有许多敌基督者的特征，还因为罗马天主教会坚持奉罗马城和皇室为神。《启示录》13:11中称那从地中上来的兽有两角如同羔羊，这显示出它和那被杀过的羔羊之间有某种联系（启 5:6）。

未来主义的释经者认为敌基督者是历史上的人物，如拿破仑三世。但是，这些历史人物在世时并没有展现出未来主义者期待他们所体现的特征。学者们一致认为尼禄就是启示文学中所说的兽，但是正如上文所说，仍有许多理由使得这种观点也不那么令人满意。未来关于魔鬼的研究发展可能会更精确地完成对敌基督者的解读。

an-ti-nō'mē-ən-iz-əm [< Gk. antí—‘against’ + nómos—‘law’]. The view that Christians are exempt from the demands of the moral law by reason of their reliance upon divine grace alone for salvation. Although the expression is not found in Scripture, it is evident that Paul was libelously accused by his detractors of holding such a false doctrine. In Rom. 3:8 he denied heatedly the accusation that he had called right conduct irrelevant to Christian experience, and again made this repudiation in Rom. 6:1f., 15f.

The gospel brings freedom from sin but not freedom to sin. It is true that in the new dispensation of Christ the believer is no longer under obligation to the Mosaic law, in the sense that he is emancipated from its frustrating impositions upon an incapable human will. His obedience is not rendered directly to the commandment, but represents his response to the person of Christ. But this reorientation does not supply him with a license to transgress with impunity. “The freedom from the moral law which the believer enjoys,” writes Robert Haldane, “is a freedom from an obligation to fulfil it in his own person for his justification—a freedom from its condemnation on account of imperfection of obedience. But this is quite consistent with the eternal obligation of the moral law as a rule of life to the Christian” (Epistle to the Romans [repr. 1966], p.

福音使人免罪, 而不是给人自由犯罪。基督确实特免信徒, 可以不遵守摩西律法, 祂将人类从严苛的禁令中解放出来, 因为人的意志难以顺从律法。在新天地里, 信徒们得以从这种绝境中解放出来。人类将不再直接以遵守律法来显示顺从, 他的顺从体现在笃信基督。但这种再定位并没有许可他们犯罪后不受惩罚。罗伯特·霍尔丹写到, “信徒可以不遵守律法, 是免于为了自己的义而在自己身上履行义务——免于因顺从有瑕疵而受到谴责。但这完全符合一个基督徒生活的准则, 即要永久遵守道德律法” (Epistle to the Romans [1966 年修订], 259 页)。

The Epistle of James provides a further NT corrective to any such misconception of the Christian faith. James would appear to have been confronting a popular abuse, perhaps current in gentile Christian circles (as Sieffert conjectures), which laid such exaggerated emphasis upon faith in the scheme of salvation that a certain indifference to morality was inadvertently encouraged. James's stress on "the perfect law of liberty" (1:25) and "the royal law" of love (2:8), combined with his recognition that works must necessarily evidence the reality of faith, completes Paul's protest against the unwarranted preference of any antinomian charge against Christianity. Positive warnings about the insidious nature of the heresy are found in 2 Cor. 6:14-18; 12:21; Eph. 5:9; 2 Pet. 2:18f.; and 1 Jn. 3:7f.

The reference in 1 John reminds us that some of the Gnostic sects of the 1st and 2nd cents. were antinomian in their teaching. The Nicolaitans, mentioned in Rev. 2:6, 14f. as well as in the writings of the early fathers, advocated a return to sub-Christian morality. The Ophites inverted the accepted standards of moral judgment, and the Cainites exalted Cain and others who withstood the God of the OT. In the Valentinians we meet "the most frank and definite statement of antinomianism in its widest and most immoral form" (J. M. Sterrett, ERE, I, 582). The licentious practices of these Gnostics (standing in such marked contrast with the severe asceticism of other schools within the movement) arose from an unscriptural dualism that erroneously divorced matter from spirit.

《新约》中的《雅各书》进一步修正了人们对基督徒信仰的这种误解。雅各对这种普遍的谬解予以了驳斥，非犹太基督徒普遍持有这种观点（按照希菲尔特推测），他们过于强调要坚信救赎的计划，无意间鼓动了人们对于道德的漠视。雅各强调“全备、使人自由之律法”（雅 1:25）和“至尊的律法”（雅 2:8），同时还结合了他的认知，即作品必然要证明信仰的真实性，他完成了保罗对那些唯信仰论者的抗议，这些人毫无根据地指责基督教的教义。一些经文中出现了对这种异端邪说邪恶本质的正面警告（林后 6:14-18; 12:21; 弗 5:9; 彼后 2:18-19; 约壹 3:7-8）。

《约翰一书》中的经文提醒了我们，1 世纪和 2 世纪的一些诺斯替教派在他们的教导中体现了唯信仰论。《启示录》2:6, 14-15 中提到的尼哥拉党，早期的教父作品中也曾提及，他们提倡恢复次级基督教道德。奥菲特派（Ophites）颠倒了道德审判公认的标准，该隐派则崇拜该隐和《旧约》中其他反抗神的人。华伦提努派是“最疯狂的、最不道德的唯信仰论者，他们的主张最直白、最确切地体现了唯信仰论的观点”（J. M. Sterrett, ERE, I, 582）。这些诺斯替教派的放纵行为（与运动中其他学派的严肃的禁欲主义形成了鲜明的对比）源于一种《圣经》中不曾出现的二元论，这种理论错误地将物质从精神中剥离出来，使二者变成独立的存在。他们认为物质世界既然已经堕落，无法赎回，那么就不用再压抑肉欲，反而要放纵肉欲，这样一经对比，他们的灵魂就会显出更明

Since matter was thought to be irredeemably corrupt, the bodily passions could be indulged without inhibition, and in fact should be, so that the soul might shine in brighter splendor by comparison. The maxim of Gnostic antinomianism was: "Give to the flesh the things of the flesh and to the spirit the things of the spirit." The Circumcellions of the 4th cent. laid themselves open to the charge of antinomianism, and one of Augustine's treatises was entitled Against the Enemies of the Law and Prophets.

The actual term "antinomian" was first employed, so far as is known, by Martin Luther in his controversy with Johannes Agricola. The latter denied that the preaching of law should precede or accompany the preaching of the gospel in order to arouse a sense of sin. "The decalogue," he declared, "belongs to the courthouse, not the pulpit." His slogan was "To the gallows with Moses." In the later Majoristic dispute even more extreme forms of antinomianism were defended by Andreas Poach and Anton Otto on the ground that the Christian is "above all obedience" (see R. Seeberg, History of Doctrines [Eng. tr. 1952], II, 251, 365f.).

Luther opposed his former pupil Agricola in six disputations against the antinomians. The reformer maintained that, although the new obedience of the believer no longer requires the coercive stimulus of the Mosaic code, the law nevertheless serves as a mirror, a guide, and a restraint. A specific proscription of antinomianism was written into the Formula of Concord, where it was firmly asserted that the liberty of Christians with respect to the demands of the law must not be misconstrued in the sense “that it were optional with them to do or omit them or that they might or could act contrary to the Law of God and nonetheless could retain faith and God’s favor and grace” (Art. IV). Bente shrewdly assessed the situation when he asserted that the intrusion of antinomianism was “a veiled effort to open once more the doors of the Lutheran Church to the Roman work-righteousness which Luther had expelled” (F. Bente, Concordia Triglotta, Historical Introductions, p. 161).

亮的光辉。诺斯替教派唯信仰论者的准则是：“给肉身肉欲的事物，给灵魂属灵的事物”。4世纪时的萨肯撒利恩派（Circumcellions）也有唯信仰论之嫌，奥古斯丁一篇专著题目就是 Against the Enemies of the Law and Prophets。

就目前所知，马丁·路德在他与阿格利果拉（Johannes Agricola）的争论中第一次使用了“唯信仰论”这个词。后者否认宣扬福音之前先宣传律法，从而使人们产生一种罪恶感。他声称“摩西十诫应属于法庭，不应属于讲道坛”。他的口号是“守摩西律法的人应该和摩西一起上绞刑架”。在后来的马尔约之争中甚至出现了更为极端的唯信仰论，安德烈亚里斯（Andreas Poach）和安顿（Anton Otto）为这种为信仰论辩护，他们的理由是基督徒“最重要的是顺从”（见 R. Seeberg, History of Doctrines [英文译本，1952年]，II, 251, 365-366）。

阿格利果拉曾是路德的学生，路德在第六次辩论中否定了唯信仰论者。路德是改教者之一，他坚持认为信徒不再需要被迫遵守摩西律法，律法是信徒的镜子、指导和约束。《协和信条》中特意记录要禁止为信仰论，其中坚定地声称基督徒要对律法心怀敬意，他们坚决不能将自由误认为是“他们可以自由选择遵守或不遵守律法，他们可能会违背神的律法，但仍能保持信心，蒙神宠爱”（Art. IV）。本特精明地对这种情况进行了评估，他声称唯信仰论的侵入是

Antinomian echoes may be heard in succeeding centuries among the Anabaptists in Germany and Holland, the Illuminati in Spain, and the Camisards in France. During the Evangelical Awakening in Britain, John Wesley had occasion to warn his followers against “the bane of true religion” (Letters, ed. Telford, VII, 169) and John Fletcher issued his celebrated Checks to Antinomianism. While some of the conclusions drawn, e.g., by R. A. Knox in his study of Enthusiasm, are to be resisted, the caveat of Wesley ought to be observed: “I have found that even the precious doctrine of salvation by faith has need to be guarded with the utmost care, or those who hear it will slight both inward and outward holiness” (Letters, V, 83).

后世仍有一些教派支持唯信仰论，如德国和荷兰的再洗礼派、西班牙的光照派、法国的卡米撒派。英国的福音教派觉醒时期，约翰·卫斯理提醒他的跟随者们要小心“真实宗教的痛苦之源” (Letters, Telford 编, VII, 169)。同时期，约翰·弗莱彻发表了著作 (Checks to Antinomianism)。虽然我们应该反对诺克斯对狂热派的一些研究结论，但是我们应该留心卫斯理的警告：“我发现，即使是信仰带来的关于救赎的宝贵教义，也需要极其谨慎的守护，否则听到的人就会轻视它内在和外在的神圣” (Letters, V, 83)。

ANTIOCH (PISIDIAN) 安提阿 (彼西底的)

第一次传道旅程时，保罗和巴拿巴曾在这座城市传播福音 (徒 13:14; 14:19, 21; 提后 3:11)，在第二次和第三次传道旅程中，他们可能再次来到了这座城 third missionary journeys (Acts. 16:6; 18:23). The city is identified in the NT as Pisidian Antioch (Antiocheia hē Pisidia; var. tēs Pisidias). Strabo (Geog. xii.3.31; 6.4; 8.14) names it “Antioch toward Pisidia,” a more precise description since the city lay in Phrygian territory near the Pisidian border (W. M. Calder, ed., Monumenta Asiae Minoris Antiqua, VII (1956), p. xi). Its Phrygian character is shown by Phrygian inscriptions found near Antioch. Later, ca. A.D. 297, it became the metropolis of the new Roman province of Pisidia. The city was located on the right bank of the Anthius River between Sultan Dağ to the NE and Eğridir Gölü on the S at an elevation of about 3600 ft. (1100 m.), NE of the modern village of Yalvaç in west central Turkey.

I. History.-The city was founded ca. 350 B.C. by either Seleucus Nicator or his son Antiochus I on territory devoted to the Phrygian god Mên. Settlers included Greeks, Jews, and Phrygians from nearby areas (ca. 200 B.C. two thousand Jewish families were brought to Phrygia from Babylonia [Josephus Ant. xii.3.4]). The early history of Antioch was a struggle between mountain tribes and coastal peoples until Augustus created Provincia Galatia upon the death of Amyntas in 25 B.C. (Dio Cassius Hist. liii.26.3). Antioch, as a Roman colony, was entitled Colonia Caesareia Antiocheia. Its location, on a major junction of the Via Sebaste built by Augustus in 6 B.C. to link his colonies, was both economically and militarily important. Situated on the east-west highway from Syria to Ephesus, it provided commercial attractions to merchants. Historical data and epigraphical evidence indicate that it was a prominent city at the time of Paul's visit(s). Levick (pp. 43–45) considers the colony to have been of moderate size, the city wall enclosing an area of about 115 acres (47 hectares) and the territorium of Antioch covering about 540 acres (219 hectares).

市(徒 16:6; 18:23)。《新约》认为这座城市就是彼西底的安提阿 (Antiocheia hē Pisidia; 变体: tēs Pisidias)。斯特拉波称这座城市为“靠近彼西底的安提阿”(Geog. xii.3.31; 6.4; 8.14), 他的描述更为准确, 因为这座城市属于弗吕家的地域范围内, 靠近彼西底边境 (W. M. Calder 编, Monumenta Asiae Minoris Antiqua, VII (1956), xi 页)。安提阿附近发现的弗吕家语碑文表明该城有弗吕家的地域特征。后来, 约在公元 297 年, 该城成为了新罗马彼西底行省的首府。该城海拔约 3600 英尺 (1100 米), 位于安蒂斯河 (Anthius River) 东岸, 苏丹道格 (Dağ) 的东北方, 埃利迪尔湖 (Eğridir Göl) 的南方, 土耳其中部偏西的现代村庄亚尔瓦奇的东北方。

I. 历史。这座城市大约于公元前 350 年, 由塞琉古·尼加铎或他的儿子安提阿古一世所建, 住在这座城市所属区域的人信奉弗吕家的月神 (Mên)。该城的住民包括来自附近地区的希腊人、犹太人、弗吕家人 (约公元前 200 年, 有 2000 个犹太家庭从巴比伦迁往弗吕家 [Josephus Ant. xii.3.4])。安提阿的早期历史可以概括为山地支派和沿岸住民间的战争史, 后来阿闵塔死后 (公元前 25 年), 奥古斯都建立了加拉太行省才结束了此地的争战 (Dio Cassius Hist. liii.26.3)。安提阿成为罗马殖民地之后, 改名为凯撒利亚安提阿殖民地 (Colonia Caesareia Antiocheia)。奥古斯都在公元前 6 年修建了色巴斯大道 (Via Sebaste), 连通了各殖民地, 这条道路在经济和军事上都非常重要, 安提阿就位于这条道路的一个重要交叉点上。该城位于从叙利亚通往以弗所的公路 (东西走向) 上, 因此吸引了大量商人来此地进行贸易活动。历史资料和碑文都表明该城市在保罗途径时已经

II. Jews in Antioch.—The existence of a synagogue in Antioch indicates a sizable Jewish population. Ramsay concluded that the Phrygian Jews were largely the nobles and the rich, who adapted their religion and culture to Roman and local customs, although retaining basically their Jewish feeling and religion (Bearing; Cities, 255–59). Paul's ministry in Antioch, given in detail in Acts, was his first full-scale encounter with Hellenized and Greek-speaking Diaspora Jews who were citizens of a Roman colony. It began in the synagogue where the audience was augmented by proselytes (Acts 13:43) and God-fearers (v. 16) who were directly addressed along with the Jews. Perhaps this Hellenized character of Diaspora Judaism in Asia Minor has not always been adequately appreciated in discussing the Galatian problem. The power and status of the Jewish community in Antioch forced the banishment of Paul and Barnabas from the city (Acts 13:50) and Antiochene Jews pursued them to Lystra (14:19).

III. Language and Culture.—Phrygian, Latin, and Greek inscriptions have been found in and around Antioch—Latin usually in official documents and Greek in the popular and private documents. Latin did not decline as rapidly in Antioch as in other colonies (Levick, pp. 130–144) because of the presence of

非常有名。莱维克认为这座城市的规模适中，城墙内的面积约为 115 英亩（47 公顷），安提阿的领地总面积约为 540 英亩（219 公顷）。

II. 安提阿的犹太人。安提阿有一座犹太会堂，这表明此地曾有许多犹太人居住。蓝西推测弗吕家犹太人大多是贵族和富人，他们已经适应了罗马的宗教、文化和当地的风俗，但他们仍然保留了犹太人的民族情结和宗教信仰 (Bearing; Cities, 255–59)。《使徒行传》中详细记载了保罗在安提阿的传道旅程，这是他和离散的犹太人第一次全面接触，这些犹太人已经被希腊化了，他们说希腊语，住在罗马的殖民地。保罗在会堂中给众人传道，这些会众中包括改信犹太教的人（徒 13:43）、敬畏神的人（徒 13:16）和犹太人。在讨论加拉太问题时，这些离散犹太人（他们住在小亚细亚）的希腊化特征并不总是那么讨人喜欢。安提阿的犹太社团用他们的权力和地位强迫保罗和巴拿巴离开这座城市（徒 13:50），并且一直追赶他们到路司得（徒 14:19）。

III. 语言和文化。安提阿城内和附近地区都曾发现过弗吕家语、拉丁语和希腊语碑文——官方文件一般用拉丁语写成，民间或者私人的文件则一般使用希腊语。罗马殖民者和退伍军人住在安提阿，这促进了当地居民（弗吕家当地人、彼西底人和离散的犹太人）的罗马化，因此安提阿并未像其他罗马殖民城市

Roman colonists and veterans located there to Romanize the subjugated peoples (indigenous Phrygians and Pisidians and Diaspora Jews). These Roman (and Greek) influences, along with the local worship of Mên and Judaism, shaped the culture and religion, so that the city was both a model Roman colony and a striking mix of local and imported cultures (Levick, pp. 190–92). In this setting Paul confronted elements and issues that were formative factors in his succeeding ministry: the mission to acculturated Jews, to proselytized Gentiles (Gk. éthnē, Acts 13:48), and to the religious and secular pagans and Roman colonists. Paul’s message had a mixed reception—enthusiastic interest, negative reaction, and political opposition. But in this first major confrontation with a heterogeneous culture being romanized, the gospel not only survived but triumphed, and Antioch became a paradigm for Paul’s continuing ministry in Asia Minor, Greece, and Italy.

一样很快减少对拉丁语的使用 (Levick, pp. 130–144)。罗马人 (和希腊人) 影响了安提阿人, 当地人还崇敬月神 (Mên) 和犹太教, 在这种情况下, 安提阿的文化和宗教逐渐形成了, 所以这座城市既是典型的罗马殖民地, 也是一处著名的本土文化和外来文化相互融合之地 (Levick, 190–92 页)。在这种环境下, 保罗所面对的元素和问题就是他随后的传道旅程的形成要素, 他的使命是使犹太人适应新的文化、使外邦人 (希腊语: éthnē, 徒 13:48)、虔诚的和世俗的异教徒、罗马殖民者改信基督教。保罗的信息中混合了多重感受, 既有热情的兴趣, 也有负面的反应, 还有对政治的反对。但是在与罗马化的异种文化第一次全面接触时, 福音不仅没有被压制, 反而获胜了, 安提阿成了保罗继续在小亚细亚、希腊和意大利传教的范例。

IV. Remains of the City.-The ruins of the city include remains of the Roman aqueduct which brought water from Sultan Dağ to the city, traces of the city wall on the NW, and on the W the ruins of the monumental Triple City Gate from early 3rd cent. A.D. Excavations by Ramsay and D. M. Robinson (American Journal of Archaeology, 28 [1924], 435–444) have uncovered remains of the first-century city: its squares, archways,

ANTIOCH (SYRIAN)

A city in ancient Syria (now Antakya, Turkey), founded by Seleucus I Nicator (300 B.C.) and named for his father Antiochus. It became the western capital of the Seleucid empire. The city enjoyed a beautiful site and an abundant supply of water from the springs of the suburb Daphne, 5 mi. (8 km.) S of the city, which was famous throughout antiquity as a pleasure resort. From early times, when the Seleucid kings rewarded their Jewish mercenaries with grants of land, Antioch had an important Jewish community.

When the deterioration of the Seleucid dynasty led to the Roman occupation of Syria (64 B.C.), Antioch became the capital of the new province of Syria and was beautified by Augustus and Tiberius, aided by Herod the Great. As a prosperous commercial center Antioch was a meeting point of the Greek and the oriental civilizations. ANTIOCH (SYRIAN) 安提阿(叙利亚的) of Jesus fled to Antioch. Some of these undertook the customary preaching to the Jews in the city. Others who were “Hellenist” (Greek-speaking) Jews, finding themselves in a Greek city, began to preach to the Greek-speaking Gentiles (Acts 11:19–21), some of whom had been attending the synagogue services, attracted by the Jewish ethical teaching; one of these may have been Nicolaus of Antioch, an early proselyte and one of the seven deacons in Jerusalem (Acts 6:5).

塞琉古一世尼加铎于公元前 300 年建立的一座古叙利亚城市(现在是土耳其的安塔基亚), 以其父安提阿古的名字命名。该城成为了塞琉西帝国的西都。该城南方 5 英里(8 公里)处的达佛涅郊区有许多泉眼, 因此城中水源丰富, 而且城内风景优美, 这里是古时著名的度假胜地。从早时起, 塞琉西国王将此地奖赏给犹太雇佣兵当做土地津贴, 因此安提阿有一个重要的犹太社团。

后来塞琉西王朝逐渐衰落, 罗马于公元前 64 年占领了叙利亚, 安提阿成了新叙利亚行省的首府, 奥古斯都和提比略在大希律的帮助下美化了这座城市。作为繁荣的商业中心, 安提阿是希腊文明和东方文明的一处交汇点。司提反死后, 耶路撒冷的基督徒遭到迫害, 许多耶稣的门徒都逃亡到安提阿。他们中的一些人继续按照惯例向城中的犹太人传教。剩余的人中有“希腊化的”(说希腊语的)犹太人, 他们既然处在希腊

城市中，便开始向说希腊语的外邦人传教（徒 11:19-21），他们中的一些人受到犹太道德教导的吸引，开始参加犹太会堂的礼拜；这其中可能包括安提阿的尼哥拉，他比较早的皈依者，也是耶路撒冷七执事之一（徒 6:5）。

Following the success of the first preachers, Barnabas and Paul began to work in Antioch, and it was here that the name Christians was first used (Acts 11:22–26), the term apparently having been adopted by the Roman authorities as a means of describing the group. We hear of an ekklēsia including “prophets and teachers,” named as Barnabas, Symeon Niger, Lucius of Cyrene, Manaen a “companion” of Herod the tetrarch, and Saul (Acts 13:1); but there is no indication of “elders” such as the leaders in Jerusalem. Jewish Christians and gentile Christians at first presumably met separately because of the Jewish law concerning association with Gentiles. About A.D. 46 the community was strong enough to send famine relief to Jerusalem by the hand of Barnabas and Paul (Acts 11:27–30). The question now arose of applying Jewish ritual law to the gentile converts. After a discussion in Jerusalem followed by a dispute in Antioch, Peter and Paul separated, the former to work among the Jews and the latter among the Gentiles, who were to be exempt from the law (Act. 15:1ff.; 2:1–21). Paul made Antioch the headquarters for his three missionary journeys in Asia Minor and Greece (Act. 13:1ff.; 15:40ff.; 18:23ff.). Local tradition made Peter the first “bishop” of the city, but the evidence for this is weak. Another tradition, equally dubious, made Luke the Evangelist a native of Antioch.

第一批传道者在安提阿传道成功后，巴拿巴和保罗也开始在那里传道，正是在这里，信徒开始被称为基督徒（徒 11:22-26），罗马官方显然接受了这个称呼。《使徒行传》13:1 中记载道，教会（ekklēsia）中“有几位先知和教师，就是巴拿巴和称呼尼结的西面、古利奈人路求与分封之王希律同养的马念并扫罗”；但是经文中却没有提到安提阿有像耶路撒冷领袖一样的“长老”。犹太基督徒和外邦基督徒最初可能是分开会面的，因为犹太人中有关于和外邦人交往的律法。约公元 46 年，社团已经足够强大，开始通过巴拿巴和保罗向耶路撒冷运送救济物资（徒 11:27-30）。此

Led by Lucian of Antioch, early in the 4th cent., Antioch became an important center for biblical studies. The “Antiochene” text of the Greek NT was the forerunner of the “Constantinopolitan” text, and so of the Textus Receptus.

The celebrated Chalice of Antioch, reputed to have been found in or near the city about 1910, is now owned by the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York. The original owners claimed that this was the cup used at the Last Supper, but scholarly opinion now dates it in the 4th century. Excavations were begun at Antioch in 1932 by a group of American sponsors and the Louvre, Paris, but were interrupted by war in 1939.

时出现了一个问题：外邦的皈依者是否也要遵守犹太人的宗教律法。信徒们先在安提阿争辩，然后又在耶路撒冷讨论这个问题，最终得出结论，即外邦人可以免受割礼，于是彼得和保罗分头行动，他们分别在犹太人和外邦人中做工作（徒 15:1 起；2:1-21）。保罗将安提阿当做是他在小亚细亚和希腊三次传道旅程的根据地（徒 13:1 起；2:1-21）。根据当地的传说，彼得应是安提阿的“主教”，但并没有太多证据可以证明这个传说。另有一种传说称福音传道者路加是安提阿人，但这也值得怀疑。

在安提阿的琉善带领下，早在公元 4 世纪，安提阿就成为了《圣经》研究的重要中心。“安提阿经文本”的希腊语《新约》是《康士坦丁信经》和《公认经文》的前身。

著名的安提阿圣杯于 1910 年在安提阿城内或附近出土，现被纽约大都会博物馆收藏。圣杯原先的收藏者声称这就是最后的晚餐时曾使用的圣杯，但是学者们认为这件藏品的制作时间应该在 4 世纪。1932 年，一队美国赞助商和巴黎卢浮宫的工作人员对安提阿进行了发掘，但是 1939 年的战争打断了他们的发掘工作。

Antiochus IV Epiphanes, who ruled Syria from 175–164 B.C., had determined to Hellenize the entire kingdom, but found the Jews stubbornly opposed to the policy. Jason, the brother of the high priest Onias III, bribed Antiochus, with money as well as promises of Hellenizing efforts, to get Antiochus to appoint him high priest. With the founding of a gymnasium (2 Macc. 4:12) and the increase of adopted foreign ways (4:13; cf. 1 Macc. 1:14f.), he succeeded not only in "an extreme of Hellenization" but even in turning the priests from their service at the altar to "unlawful proceedings in the wrestling arena," etc. (2 Macc. 4:14). When the quinquennial games were held at Tyre (174 B.C.), Jason sent "Antiochians" from Jerusalem with money for a sacrifice to Hercules (4:18f.). The money was used, however, toward the construction of triremes (4:20).

ANTIOCHIANS 安提阿市民

音译: an-teōk'e-ənz 【希腊语: Antiocheís】; 《新英文译本》译为 ANTIOCHENES; 《修订标准译本》译为 "citizens of Antioch" ("安提阿市民")。一个荣誉称号, 耶孙许诺将耶路撒冷的希腊化犹太人纳入 "安提阿市民", 以此作为他们支持他作大祭司的回报 (马二 4:7-9)。

安提阿古四世伊皮法尼, 于公元前 175-164 年统治叙利亚, 他决定将整个王国希腊化, 但是犹太人坚决反对这项政策。大祭司奥尼亚三世的兄弟耶孙用金钱贿赂安提阿古, 并许诺帮助他实现希腊化, 于是安提阿古任命耶孙为大祭司。耶孙修建了一座体育场 (马二 4:12), 他追求外邦的习俗 (马二 4:13; 参: 马一 1:14-15), 这不仅使安提阿达到了 "希腊化的极端", 甚至使得祭司们无心过问祭坛的圣职, 而是热心于 "律法禁止的活动" 等 (马二 4:14)。当推罗举行五年一次的体育运动会时 (公元前 174 年), 耶孙从耶路撒冷派遣 "安提阿市民" 带上钱财去拜祭海克力斯神 (马二 4:18-19)。但最后这笔钱用来修建三层桨战船了 (马二 4:20)。

有学者提出, 耶路撒冷的名字确实改为了安提阿, 但是没有直接证据能证明这个观点是否属实, 如果这是真的, 那么 line with the policy of Antiochus throughout his kingdom—but there is no positive evidence to support this theory. E. Bickermann argues that the text simply means “to register the Antiochenes in Jerusalem”; in other words, as Bruce explains, the “‘Antiochenes of Jerusalem’ probably formed a distinct corporation in Jerusalem and enjoyed the privileges granted to a free Greek city.”

Jason and the hellenization movement were opposed by devout Jews (1 Macc. 1:15) who banded together as Hasidim (“Pious”), the precursors of the Pharisees; but they could not halt the trend.

ANTIOCHIS

an-tī'ə-kis [Gk. Antiochis]. A concubine of Antiochus Epiphanes whom he presented with the two Cilician cities Tarsus and Mallus, which caused the cities to revolt (2 Macc. 4:30).

ANTIOCHUS

an-tī'ə-kəs [Gk. Antiochus—‘opposer,’ ‘withstander’].

1. The father of Numenius, who in company with Antipater, son of Jason, was sent by Jonathan on an embassy to the Romans and Spartans to renew “the friendship” and “former confederacy” made by Judas (1 Macc. 12:16; 14:22).

2. The favorite name of the Seleucid

肯定是与安提阿古在国内施行的希腊化政策有关。比克曼 (E. Bickermann) 认为这处经文仅仅指“在耶路撒冷登记安提阿市民”，换言之，正如布鲁所解释的“‘耶路撒冷的安提市民’可能在耶路撒冷形成了一个独特的团体，他们享有国王赋予的希腊自由城市的特权”。

虔诚的犹太人反对耶孙和他的希腊化运动 (马一 1:15)，他们团结在一起组成了哈西德派 (“敬虔派”)，也就是法利赛人的前身，但是他们并没能阻止这个大趋势。

ANTIOCHIS 安提阿奇

音译: an-tī'ə-kis 【希腊语: Antiochis】。安提阿古·伊皮法尼的情妇，安提阿古将基利家的两座城市大数和马勒斯赠给了她，这一行为引发了两座城市的暴动 (马二 4:30)。

ANTIOCHUS 安提阿古

音译: an-tī'ə-kəs 【希腊语: Antiochus——“反对者”“抵抗者”】。

1、纽门尼的父亲，约拿单派纽门尼和耶孙之子安提帕特出使罗马和斯巴达，重修犹太时建立的“友谊”和“同盟关系” (马一 12:16; 14:22)。

2、塞琉西王朝的国王们最钟爱的名字，

kings, whose history with reference to Jewish affairs is contained particularly in the books of Maccabees, and is predicted with remarkable minuteness in Dnl. 11. The name was first borne by one of the generals of Philip, whose son SELEUCUS, by the hold of the first Ptolemy, established himself as ruler of Babylon. In the Macedonian calendar the Seleucid era began with Dios 1 (Oct. 7), 321 B.C.; in the Babylonian it began with Nisanu 1 (Apr. 3), 311 B.C. Parker and Dubberstein cautioned: "The beginnings and ends of their reigns cannot always be determined with exactitude" (Babylonian Chronology [1956], p. 20). When Ptolemy, son of Lagus, became master of Southern Syria, the line dividing Seleucus and his successors from the Ptolemies (cf. "king of the north" and "king of the south" in Dnl. 11) was drawn somewhat to the north of Damascus, the capital of Coele-Syria.

塞琉西王朝和犹太事件有关的历史主要记录在《马加比书》中，在《但以理书》11章中也有精确的预测。第一个使用这个名字的是腓力的一个将军，他的儿子塞琉古（见 SELEUCUS[塞琉古]）在第一个多利买的帮助下，成为了巴比伦的统治者。在马其顿历法中，塞琉西时代始于公元前 321 年，狄奥斯月 1 日（10 月 7 日）；在巴比伦历法中，始于公元前 311 年，尼散月 1 日（4 月 3 日）。帕克和都伯斯丁（Dubberstein）警示说：“无法精确地确定塞琉西王朝建立和灭亡的时间”（Babylonian Chronology [1956], 20 页）。当拉古斯之子多利买成为南叙利亚的统治者时，从柯里叙利亚的首府大马士革往南一线成为了塞琉西王朝和多利买王朝的分界线（参：《但以理》11 章中的“北方王”和“南方王”）。

sō'âr [Gk. Sōtēr—'savior']. Born 324 B.C., son of Seleucus Nicator. He fell in love with his stepmother, Stratonike, and became very ill. His father, when he discovered the cause of his son's illness, gave her to him in 292 B.C., and yielded to him the sovereignty over all the countries beyond the Euphrates, as well as the title of king. When Seleucus returned to Macedonia in 281 B.C., he was murdered by Ptolemaeus Ceraunus. Antiochus thus became ruler of the whole Syrian kingdom. At this time the Hellenistic state was already organized, most of the new Hellenic cities founded, the economic organization functioning, and the social classes well established. But at the same time a new series of wars, which heavily involved Syria, Babylonia, and Cilicia, the "Syrian Wars," began between the Seleucids and the Ptolemies. The "First Syrian War," waged ca. 280–270 B.C., occasioned heavy fighting and considerable civil effort by both sides. Antiochus I lost important districts of Asia Minor and Syria to Ptolemy II Philadelphus (see PTOLEMY). Antiochus also waged war on Eumenes of Pergamum, but without success. For the victories of his elephant corps over the Gauls, who had settled Asia Minor, he received the surname of Soter. It was in a battle with these inveterate foes of his country that he met his death (261 B.C.).

ANTIOCHUS I SOTER 安提阿古一世索特

音译: sō'âr【希腊语: Sōtēr——“救主”】。生于公元前 324 年, 塞琉古·尼加铎之子。他爱上了继母斯特拉托妮可, 因此生了重病。他的父亲在发现他生病的原因后, 于公元前 292 年将斯特拉托妮可许配给他, 并将王位传给他, 让他统治幼发拉底河之外各国。公元前 281 年, 塞琉古回到马其顿时, 多利买·西罗纳斯将其杀死。因此安提阿古成为了整个叙利亚王国的统治者。此时国内已经希腊化, 大多新的希腊化城市已经建成, 经济组织开始执行职能, 社会阶层也已经成型。但与此同时, 爆发了一系列新的战争, 即塞琉西王朝和多利买王朝之间的战争, 这系列战争将叙利亚、巴比伦和基利家都卷入其中, 后人称其为“叙利亚战争”。约公元前 280 至 270 年, “第一次叙利亚战争”爆发了, 两国激烈交战, 大量公民参与其中。多利买二世(见 PTOLEMY[多利买])非拉铁非斯从安提阿古一世手中夺去了小亚细亚和叙利亚的重要地区。安提阿古还同别迦摩的欧迈尼斯开战, 但以战败告终。他的象兵军团打败了定居在小亚细亚的高卢人, 因此人们称他为“救主”。公元前 261 年, 他死于一场与宿敌的战争之中。

ANTIOCHUS II THEOS

the-os' [Gk. Theos—‘god,’ so surnamed “by the Milesians because he overthrew their tyrant Timarchus” (Appian Syr. 65)]. Born 286 B.C., son and successor of Antiochus I, 261–246 B.C. In the “Second Syrian War” (260–253 B.C.) he regained from Ptolemy II Philadelphus of Egypt much of what Antiochus I had lost, but was obliged to buy peace in 253 B.C. by divorcing his wife Laodice and marrying Ptolemy’s daughter Berenice (the incident in view in Dnl. 11:6) with the understanding that the kingdom should go to Berenice’s son. After the death of Ptolemy, “the king of the south” (Dnl. 11:6), Antiochus recalled Laodice and named her eldest son (Seleucus Callinicus) as his successor to the throne. But Laodice (probably because she feared a second repudiation) had Berenice, her child, and Antiochus all murdered in 246 B.C. After the death of Antiochus, Ptolemy Euergetes the brother of Berenice (“out of a branch of her root,” Dnl. 11:7) exacted vengeance for his sister’s death by an invasion of Syria in which Laodice was killed, her son Seleucus Callinicus driven for a time from the throne, and the whole country plundered (Dnl. 11:7–9).

音译: the-os' 【希腊语: Theos——“神明”, “米利都人给他起的别名, 因为他打败了对他们施行残暴统治的提马克斯” (Appian Syr. 65)】。生于公元前 286 年, 统治时期为公元前 261 至 246 年, 是安提阿古一世的儿子和继承人。在“第二次叙利亚战争”中 (公元前 260-253 年), 他从多利买二世非拉铁非斯手中收复了安提阿古一世曾丢失的埃及土地, 但是公元前 253 年, 他不得不与妻子劳迪丝离婚, 迎娶多利买之女贝蕾妮斯, 并许诺他与贝蕾妮斯之子将继承王位, 以此求得两国之间的和平 (但 11:6 预言了这一事件)。“南方王” (但 11:6) 多利买死后, 安提阿古重新召回劳迪丝, 将她的长子塞琉古·迦立尼库立为王位继承人。但公元前 246 年, 劳迪丝将贝蕾妮斯、她的儿子和安提阿古二世全部杀死, 她可能是担心再次被抛弃。安提阿古死后, 贝蕾妮斯的兄弟多利买·友爱及弟 (“这女子本家必另生一子”, 但 11:7) 为给他的姐妹报仇, 对叙利亚发动了侵略, 他将劳迪丝处死, 将劳迪丝之子塞琉古·迦立尼库赶下王位, 并在全国内进行掠夺 (但 11:7-9)。

ANTIOCHUS III THE GREAT 安提阿古三世大安提阿古

【希腊语: Megas——“大帝”】。生于公元前 242 年, 叙利亚的塞琉西国王,

223–187 B.C., second son of Seleucus II Callinicus (246–226 B.C.); brother and successor of Seleucus III Soter (226–223 B.C.).

After stabilizing the Seleucid Empire, Antiochus began the “Fourth Syrian War” by seeking to wrest southern Syria and Palestine from Ptolemy IV Philopator, who had previously neglected foreign affairs. His second campaign (219 B.C.) took him S of Mt. Carmel to the fortress of Dura. Misinformed about the Egyptian strength, he agreed to a four months’ truce and led his army into winter quarters (Polybius v. 60; Justinus xxx.1.2; cf. Dnl. 10:11). By spring 218 B.C. Antiochus had seen through the negotiations and began methodically to reduce Coele-Syria. In 217 B.C. he advanced beyond the frontier town of Raphia (Rafa, S of Gaza), where Ptolemy IV utterly defeated him. The Egyptian king reclaimed southern Syria, Palestine, and Phoenicia (Polybius v. 79f., 82–86; Strabo Geog. xvi.2.31; cf. Dnl. 11:11).

Antiochus now undertook to bring under his sway again all the territory of the Near East. His expedition against Bactria and Parthia gained for him the surname “The Great.” When Ptolemy IV died in 204 B.C. and was succeeded by his four-year-old child Ptolemy V Epiphanes, Antiochus saw his opportunity to retake the three countries. After concluding a pact with Philip the son of Demetrius, Antiochus attacked Coele-Syria in 202 B.C. Although details of the campaign(s) are obscure, it is clear that by 199 B.C. Antiochus considered the conquest of Coele-Syria, Phoenicia, and Palestine achieved, for he then invaded the undefended territory of Pergamos.

统治时期为公元前 223 至 187 年，塞琉古二世迦立尼库（公元前 246-226 年）的次子；塞琉古三世索特（公元前 226-223 年）的兄弟和继承人。

塞琉西帝国稳定之后，安提阿古发动了“第四次叙利亚战争”，他企图从多利买四世非罗巴特手中夺取南叙利亚和巴勒斯坦，后者此前曾忽视了外交事务。他第二次出征时（公元前 219 年），一直攻打到了迦密山南方的杜拉堡垒。他被埃及的战力误导，同意停战四个月，随后挥军抵达冬季营地（Polybius v. 60; Justinus xxx.1.2; 参：但 10:11）。公元前 218 年春，安提阿古看清了谈判的真相，他开始有条不紊的削弱柯里叙利亚。公元前 217 年，他越过了边境城镇拉非亚（迦萨南方的拉法），多利买四世在那里将他彻底击败。埃及王收复了南叙利亚、巴勒斯坦和腓尼基（Polybius v. 79-80, 82–86; Strabo Geog. xvi.2.31; 参：但 11:11）。

安提阿古此时再次出兵意图夺取整个近东地区。他远征巴克特里亚和帕提亚，因此获得了“大帝”的称号。公元前 204 年，多利买四世逝世，他年仅四岁的儿子多利买五世伊皮法尼继位，安提阿古看到了重夺三个国家的机会。公元前 202 年，安提阿古结束了与底米丢之子腓力的条约，攻击了柯里叙利亚。虽然战役的细节尚不明确，但到公元前 199 年时，安提阿古显然已经征服了柯里叙利亚、腓尼基和巴勒斯坦，因为他随后便侵略了毫无防备的别迦摩地。但安提阿古出征之后，多利买和前埃托利亚同盟将军斯谷巴趁虚而入，侵略了柯里叙利亚，并夺得了对耶路撒冷的控制权。公元前 198 年，安提阿古回来面对挑战，并在帕尼亚（《新约》中的凯撒

But during his absence Ptolemy, aided by Scopas, formerly a strategos of the Aetolian League, invaded Coele-Syria and obtained possession of Jerusalem. Antiochus returned to confront this challenge and won a decisive victory at Panias (NT Caesarea Philippi) in 198 B.C. This battle denotes the final and definite replacement of Ptolemaic rule by the Seleucids in Palestine (Polybius xv.20; xvi.18f.; xviii.1; Appian Syr. 1; Livy xxxiii.19; Josephus Ant. xii.3.3; cf. Dnl. 11:13–16). The bulk of the Jewish population in Jerusalem opened its gates and assisted in the expulsion of its Egyptian garrison. Antiochus rewarded the Jews for their “splendid reception” by restoring those parts of Jerusalem destroyed by the war, freeing its citizens from taxes for three years, guaranteeing an inviolate and subsidized temple, and in general permitting “members of the nation to have a form of government in accordance with the laws of the country” (Josephus Ant. xii.3.4).

After completing a treaty with Ptolemy Epiphanes in which Antiochus betrothed his daughter Cleopatra to the young king (Polybius xxviii.20; Appian Syr. 5; cf. Dnl. 11:17), Antiochus turned to the West and encountered Rome. He launched his forces upon Asia Minor in 197 B.C. and Greece in 194 B.C., but the Romans defeated him at Thermopylae (191 B.C.) and at Magnesia in Lydia (190 B.C.). According to the treaty signed at Apamea in 189 B.C., the Asiatic monarch was obliged to renounce everything on the Roman side of the Taurus and to pay enormous reparations over the course of twelve years (Appian Syr. 36–39; Polybius xx–xxi; Livy xxxvi–xxxvii; Josephus Ant. xii.10.6; 1 Macc. 1:11; 8:6–8; cf. Dnl. 11:18f.).

利亚腓立比)取得了决定性的胜利。这场战役表明塞琉西王朝最终并明确地取代了多利买王朝在巴勒斯坦的统治地位 (Polybius xv.20; xvi.18-19; xviii.1; Appian Syr. 1; Livy xxxiii.19; Josephus Ant. xii.3.3; 参: 但 11:13–16)。耶路撒冷的大部分犹太人打开城门,帮助安提阿古将埃及驻军驱逐出城。安提阿古为了奖赏犹太人的“热情接待”,他修复了战争中遭到破坏的耶路撒冷城区,免去犹太人三年赋税,保证圣殿不受侵害,资助圣殿,并允许“民族成员依照帝国律法建立政府”(Josephus Ant. xii.3.4)。

安提阿古和多利买·伊皮法尼达成协议,将他的女儿克娄巴特拉许配给这位年轻的国王 (Polybius xxviii.20; Appian Syr. 5; 参: Dnl. 11:17),他随后回到西方与罗马开战。公元前 197 年,他出兵小亚细亚,三年后他又出兵希腊,但罗马人在吕底亚的塞莫皮莱 (公元前 191 年) 和马格尼西亚 (公元前 190 年) 将其击败。公元前 189 年,这位亚细亚君主被迫签订阿帕米亚条约,放弃托鲁斯山脉以西属罗马的地区,并连续十二年支付巨额赔款 (Appian Syr. 36–39; Polybius xx–xxi; Livy xxxvi–xxxvii; Josephus Ant. xii.10.6; 马一 1:11; 8:6–8; 参: 但 11:18-19)。

In 187 B.C. Antiochus marched against the Armenian revolt. In order to replenish his exhausted treasury, he attempted to plunder a temple; but both he and his soldiers were slain by the Elymaeans.

ANTIOCHUS IV EPIPHANES

ə-pi'fə-nēz [Gk. Epiphanēs—'illustrious'; nicknamed Epimanēs—'madman' (Polybius xxvi.10); on coins Theos Epiphanēs—'god manifest']. Younger son of Antiochus the Great (Appian Syr. 45; 1 Macc. 1:11), born 215 B.C., ruler 175–163 B.C. His career with respect to Palestine is recorded in 1 and 2 Maccabees, and remarkably predicted in Dnl. 11:21–35. Although some modern scholars speak sarcastically of the Jewish books that represent the events in Judea as of central importance, E. R. Bevan observed, "In regard to the influence destined to be exerted upon the subsequent history of mankind ... the Jewish books were right. Of all that was happening in the kingdom of Antiochus, the events in Judea were by far the most important in consequence for the mind of man in ages to come" (CAH, VIII [1930], 514).

After the battle of Magnesia, Antiochus lived in Rome as a hostage in connection with the reparations Antiochus the Great had to pay. In 175 B.C. he was released by the intervention of his brother Seleucus IV Philopator, who substituted his own son Demetrius I as hostage. While

ANTIOCHUS IV EPIPHANES 安提阿古四世伊皮法尼

音译：ə-pi'fə-nēz 【希腊语：Epiphanēs——“杰出的”，绰号 Epimanēs——“狂人” (Polybius xxvi.10); 硬币上，Theos Epiphanēs——“神明显现”】。大安提阿古的幼子 (Appian Syr. 45; 马一 1:11)，生于公元前 215 年，统治时期为公元前 175 至 163 年。《马加比一、二书》记载了安提阿古在巴勒斯坦的生涯，值得注意的是《但以理书》11:21-35 对此也早有预测。虽然有些现代作者讽刺了这两本犹太人记载犹大地事件的经书，称他们过于看重这些事情的重要性，但贝文 (E. R. Bevan) 经过考察后说道，“关于这些影响注定要作用于随后的人类历史……这些犹太经书是正确的。目前为止，在安提阿古王朝发生了所有事件中，犹大地发生的事件在后人脑中留下的影响最为重要” (CAH, VIII [1930], 514)。

马格尼西亚战争后，安提阿古留在罗马作人质，以此保证大安提阿古的巨额赔款。公元前 175 年，他的哥哥塞琉古四世非罗巴特让自己的儿子底米丢一世去罗马做人质代替安提阿古，将安提阿古释放出来。安提阿古在雅典时，塞琉古四世被他的首相希流多路暗杀了。安

Antiochus was at Athens, Seleucus IV was assassinated by his chief minister, Heliodorus. Antiochus IV, with the military sanction of the Pergamene monarch Eumenes II, expelled Heliodorus and usurped the throne to the exclusion of both Demetrius and the late king's younger son Antiochus, still a baby in Syria. The evidence, both from contrasting coins bearing either the image of the baby Antiochus or the image of the uncle Antiochus, and from cuneiform documents dating from 175 to 169 B.C. with the reading "Antiochus and Antiochus kings," indicates a struggle for power between the nephew and uncle. Commenting on Dnl. 11:21, E. R. Bevan concluded, "our scrappy data indicate that it required a good deal of dexterity and intrigue on the part of Antiochus for him to establish his position in Syria, but that he did get the better of the opposing elements" (CAH, VIII, 498).

His intervention in Jerusalem was brought about in part by the factions within the Jewish high-priestly state. The personal strife for power between Honyah III (Gk. Onias), his brother Yeshua (Jesus, called Jason by the Greeks), and a certain Menelaus of the tribe of Benjamin supported by the powerful house of Tobiah, was exacerbated by the fact that Jason and Menelaus wished to introduce Hellenistic culture while Onias stood by the traditional custom and law. By the promise both of a larger tribute and of habituating the Jews to Greek customs Jason induced Antiochus, an intense champion of Hellenization, to establish him as high priest in place of his brother (2 Macc. 4:7-20). Jerusalem under Jason was thus converted into a Greek city.

提阿古四世，在别迦摩君主欧迈尼斯二世的军事制裁下，将希流多路驱逐出境，并篡夺了王位，将底米丢和已故国王的幼子、仍在叙利亚的小安提阿古排除在外。当时有两种截然不同的硬币，一种上面刻有小安提阿古的头像，一种刻有安提阿古四世的头像，公元前 175 年至 169 年的楔形文字文献上记载道“安提阿古和安提阿古王”，这两种证据都表明这对侄子和叔叔曾争夺王位。贝文在评注《但以理书》11:21 时总结道，“我们拼凑起来的资料表明安提阿古为了确立他在叙利亚的地位运用了大量的阴谋诡异，但他的确战胜了反对者” (CAH, VIII, 498)。

他侵入耶路撒冷，这在某种程度是由于犹太大祭司之间的内讧。奥尼亚三世（希腊语：Onias）、他的兄弟耶孙（希腊语：Jason）和便雅悯支派的某个麦尼劳斯（受强大的多比雅家族支持）三人争夺权力，耶孙和麦尼劳斯希望引进希腊文化，而奥尼亚则坚持传统的风俗和律法，这种分歧又加剧了他们之间的战争。安提阿古强烈支持希腊化，耶孙许诺给安提阿古大量的礼物，并让犹太人习惯希腊风俗，终于说服安提阿古任命他为大祭司，取代了他的兄弟奥尼亚（马二 4:7-20）。在耶孙的领导下，耶路撒冷自此转变了成了一座希腊化的城市。

When Antiochus' sister Cleopatra I, the queen-regent of Egypt, died and the power was seized by two palace servants of the minor king Ptolemy Philometor, the war party at Alexandria, which wanted to recover Coele-Syria, gained the ascendancy. Antiochus moved south as far as Joppa with a force to encounter a possible invasion. The war did not come to pass, however, and after paying a visit to Jerusalem he returned to Antioch.

In 171 B.C. the blatant opportunist Menelaus, with the support of the Tobiads, purchased the venerable office of high priest from the "incarnate Zeus," who had to worry about military expenses. Menelaus came to Antioch in 170/169 B.C., during the absence of Antiochus in Cilicia, and persuaded a certain Andronicus to murder Onias, who had taken refuge in Antioch. At the same time Andronicus murdered the nephew king Antiochus. While Menelaus was at Antioch and desperate for money, his brother Lysimachus, whom he had left in command, robbed some of the temple's golden furniture. Although this provoked rioting in which Lysimachus was killed, Menelaus, through bribery, had the king reestablish him (2 Macc. 4:24-50).

From 170 to 168 B.C. Antiochus engaged in the "Sixth Syrian War," in the course of which he twice marched against Egypt. During the first attack, probably in 169 B.C., most of Egypt fell to him, including Memphis where he held the young Ptolemy captive. The people at Alexandria put the king's younger brother (Ptolemy Euergetes II) upon the throne. Toward the end of 169 B.C. Antiochus withdrew from Egypt, leaving Ptolemy Philometor king in Memphis and the younger Ptolemy king in Alexandria (cf. Dnl. 11:25–27).

公元前 171 年，厚颜无耻的机会主义者麦尼劳斯在多比雅家族的支持下，从“宙斯的化身”手中买到了大祭司这一圣职，后者不得不为军费担忧。麦尼劳斯在公元前 170 或 169 年来到了安提阿，安提阿古此时不在安提阿，麦尼劳斯于是说服某位安提阿古，杀死了当时正在安提阿避难的奥尼亚。同时，安提阿古杀死了他的侄子安提阿古王。麦尼劳斯在安提阿时极需要钱，他将大祭司职位留给他的兄弟吕西麦克，后者抢劫了许多圣殿中的金器具，民众对此十分愤怒，掀起了暴动，吕西麦克在暴动中丧生，但是麦尼劳斯贿赂了国王，重新获得了大祭司的职位（马二 4:24-50）。

公元前 170 至 168 年，安提阿古忙于“第六次叙利亚战争”，期间他曾两次出兵攻打埃及。在第一次争战时（可能在公元前 169 年），他夺得了埃及大部分地区，其中包括孟斐斯，他还俘虏了年轻的多利买。亚历山大港人拥立国王的弟弟多利买·友爱及弟二世为王。公元 169 年末，安提阿古撤出埃及，留下多利买·非罗巴特作孟斐斯的王，小多利买作亚历山大港的王（参：但 11:25-27）。

While Antiochus was in Egypt a false rumor ran through Palestine that he was dead, and as a result Jason, who had fled to Transjordan, broke into Jerusalem and began killing the adherents of Menelaus (2 Macc. 4:39ff.). V. Tcherikover argues convincingly that the opponents of the king—the enemies of the Hellenizers—then defeated Jason and forced him back to the country of the Ammonites (Hellenistic Civilization and the Jews [1961], p. 187; 2 Macc. 5:7). On returning from Egypt, Antiochus, knowing that Jerusalem, a vital point in his frontier defenses, was in the hands of his opponents, stormed the city, killing thousands of Jews and selling thousands more into slavery. Moreover, he entered the holy of holies and carried off a quantity of gold and silver vessels from the temple (1 Macc. 1:20–42; 2 Macc. 5:1–23; Josephus Ant. xii.5.3; CAp ii.83; Dnl. 11:28). At some point before his next retributive raid the insurgents must have again taken the city.

In 168 B.C., in his second attack upon Egypt, Antiochus marched against Alexandria with even stronger forces, furious at a temporary collaboration of the two Ptolemies against him. After capturing Memphis he once again marched upon Alexandria. But then “ships of Kittim” arrived (Dnl. 11:30); at Eleusias, the eastern suburb of Alexandria, the Roman legate C. Popilius Laenas handed Antiochus an ultimatum from the senate, arrogantly drew a circle around Antiochus, and demanded his answer before he stepped outside the circle. Antiochus was forced to retreat to 安提阿古在埃及时，巴勒斯坦有谣言称他已经死了，于是此前已经逃到约旦河东岸的耶孙突袭耶路撒冷，开始屠戮麦尼劳斯的追随者（马二 4:39 起）。切利科沃（V. Tcherikover）的观点十分有说服力，他认为国王的反对者，也就是反对希腊化的人打败了耶孙，并将他赶回亚扪人的领地（Hellenistic Civilization and the Jews [1961], 187 页；马二 5:7）。从埃及回军的路上，安提阿古得知耶路撒冷这个边防重地落入了敌人手中，于是他迅速回到耶路撒冷，杀死了成千上万的犹太人，还把更多犹太人卖作奴隶。此外，他还进入圣殿，从中夺去了大量的金银容器（马一 1:20–42；马二 5:1–23；Josephus Ant. xii.5.3；CAp ii.83；但 11:28）。在他第二次展开报复行动之前，一定有叛乱者再次占领了耶路撒冷。

公元前 168 年，安提阿古再次出征埃及，两位多利买王暂时合作，一起抵御安提阿古，这激怒了他，于是他率领更为强大的军队去攻打亚历山大港。他占领孟斐斯后，再次出兵攻打亚历山大港。但随后，基提战船到达了（但 11:30）；在亚历山大港的东部郊区埃流西亚（Eleusias），罗马使者彼流利拿（C. Popilius Laenas）交给安提阿古一封来自元老院的最后通牒，并傲慢地在安提阿古四周画了一个圈，要求他在出圈之前必须给出回复。他们还要求安提阿古在指定时间内撤回叙利亚（Polybius xxix.2.1–4; 27.1–8; Livy xlv.12.1–6; Diodorus xxxi.2;

Syria within a specified time (Polybius xxix.2.1-4; 27.1-8; Livy xlv.12.1-6; Diodorus xxxi.2; Appian Syr. 66; Justinus xxxiv.3; Dnl. 11:28-30).

With the independence of Egypt and the threat of Rome from the south, the tyrannical king determined to secure his southern Palestinian border by organizing a solid Seleucid province. To Antiochus it evidently appeared that transforming the city into a settlement of gentile soldiers (1 Macc. 1:35f.; 3:45) was the only means of achieving political stability in Palestine, since that country's religion was out of place in a predominantly Hellenized empire and its conservative party opposed him. In 167 B.C. he detached a body of troops to Jerusalem. They took the city by assault on the sabbath, slaughtered a large part of the inhabitants, and gave up the city to a general sack (1 Macc. 1:30ff.; 2 Macc. 5:24ff.; cf. Dnl. 11:31ff.). Then followed the decrees that have rendered his name infamous: the Jews were compelled under penalty of death "to depart from the laws of their fathers, and to cease living by the laws of God. Further, the sanctuary in Jerusalem was to be polluted and called 'Jupiter Olympius'" (2 Macc. 6:1f.), probably a Syrian deity in Hellenistic garb (E. Bickermann, Der Gott der Makkabäer [1937], pp. 111ff.). On Chislew 15 Antiochus instituted the pagan festival of "light," which celebrated the rebirth of the sun, and had a Greek altar erected upon the old altar in the temple court (Dnl. 11:31; cf. Josephus Ant. xii.5.4); the first victim was sacrificed to Jupiter Olympius on the twenty-fifth (Dec. 16, 167 B.C.) of the same month. Such an offering to Appian Syr. 66; Justinus xxxiv.3; 但 11:28-30)。

埃及独立，南方又有来自罗马的威胁，这位残暴的国王决定建立一个稳定的塞琉古行省以保证南方巴勒斯坦边境的稳固。以色列民族信仰的宗教不适合这个带有明显希腊化风格的帝国，城中又有保守党反对安提阿古，所以对他来说，将这座城市转变为非犹太人战士驻扎的要塞（马一 1:35-36; 3:45），显然是他获得政治稳定的唯一途径。公元前 167 年，他分出一支军队前往耶路撒冷，这支军队在安息日对耶路撒冷发起突袭，屠杀了大量居民，并将城市劫掠一空（马一 1:30 起；马二 5:24 起；参：但 11:31 起）。安提阿古随后颁布了一条令其声名狼藉的法令：他“强迫犹太人放弃自己的宗教信仰和祖先的风俗习惯。他还要亵渎圣殿，把它奉献给奥林巴斯神宙斯”（马二 6:1-2），而宙斯指的可能是一个穿希腊服装的叙利亚神祇（E. Bickermann, Der Gott der Makkabäer [1937], 111 页起）。安提阿古将基斯流月 15 日定为异教节日“光之节”，在这一天庆祝太阳的重生，他在原来圣殿院落中旧祭坛之上建起了一座希腊祭坛（但 11:31；参：Josephus Ant. xii.5.4）；同月 25 日（公元前 167 年，12 月 16 日），他在祭坛上第一次给奥林巴斯神宙斯献人祭。安提阿古在每月的 25 日庆祝生日，因此每到这天人们都要给他献人祭。上述行为都是安提阿古所犯的严重错误。他不但没能稳定帝国，传播希腊文化和宗教，反而激起了马加比家族的革命（见 MACCABEES [马加比家族]）。

Antiochus was to be made on the twenty-fifth of every month, since that date was celebrated as his birthday. All of this was a serious error on Antiochus' part. Instead of consolidating his empire around the Hellenic culture and religion, he sparked the Maccabean revolution (see MACCABEES).

Antiochus did not personally oversee the implementation of these policies but turned to campaigns in Parthia and Armenia (Josephus Ant. xii.7.2; Appian Syr. 45). Having heard of the riches of the temple of Nanaea in Elymais (1 Macc. 6:1ff.), hung with the gifts of Alexander, he resolved to plunder it. Although he did not fall like his father in the act of sacrilege, the event hastened his death. He retired to Babylon and then to Tabae (Isfahan) in Persia. Here, having first heard of the successes of the Maccabees in restoring the temple worship at Jerusalem, he died insane in 164 B.C. (1 Macc. 6:1-16; Appian Syr. 66; Polybius xxi.11; xxxi.9; Josephus Ant. xii.8.1ff.).

安提阿古并没有亲自监督这些政策的实施，而是转为征讨帕提亚和亚美尼亚 (Josephus Ant. xii.7.2; Appian Syr. 45)。他听说以利买的娜妮娅神庙十分富有，神庙中有亚历山大献上的礼物，于是他决定抢掠这座神庙。虽然他并没有像他父亲一样堕落，做出亵渎神明的事情，但这次事件还是加速了他的死亡。他退回巴比伦，随后又撤退到波斯的都彭 (伊斯法罕)。他在此第一次听说马加比家族成功地恢复了耶路撒冷圣殿的敬拜，他于公元前 164 年在疯癫中死去 (马一 6:1-16; Appian Syr. 66; Polybius xxi.11; xxxi.9; Josephus Ant. xii.8.1 起)。

ANTIOCHUS V EUPATOR

ū-pā'tōr [Gk. Eupatōr—'having a noble father']. Son (born 173 B.C.) and successor (163–162 B.C.) of Antiochus Epiphanes.

When he departed for the East Antiochus IV left his infant son Antiochus in Syria. A certain Lysias, who had the rank of Kinsman, was to act for the king in Syria during his absence. With his father's untimely death, Antiochus V succeeded to the throne in 164 B.C. while yet a child (of nine years according to Appian Syr. 66; or twelve years according to Porphyry in Eusebius Chronicon-Armenian i.348).

Antiochus Epiphanes had precipitated an internal division in his kingdom by his deathbed nomination of Philip as regent and guardian (1 Macc. 6:14ff., 55; 2 Macc. 9:29). With Philip still in Persia, Lysias held his position as regent, and together with Antiochus V directed a large army against Judea, complete with elephants, to relieve a hard-pressed

ANTIOCHUS V EUPATOR 安提阿古五世尤佩特

音译: ū-pā'tōr 【希腊语: Eupatōr——“有一位高尚的父亲”】。生于公元前 173 年, 安提阿古·伊皮法尼的儿子和继位者, 统治时间为公元前 163 年至 162 年。

安提阿古四世东征时, 将年幼的儿子安提阿古留在了叙利亚。他的族人中有个叫吕西亚的, 在他离开时做叙利亚的代理国王。安提阿古四世死得过早, 以至于安提阿古五世继位时(公元前 164 年)还是个孩子(据 Appian Syr. 66 记载, 他继位时只有 9 岁; 或据 Porphyry in Eusebius Chronicon-Armenian i.348 记载, 只有 12 岁。)

安提阿古·伊皮法尼临终时任命腓力做摄政王和监护人, 这造成了王国内部的分裂(马一 6:14 起, 55; 马二 9:29)。公元前 162 年, 腓力仍在波斯, 吕西亚就担任摄政王, 和安提阿古五世一起率领一支完全由象兵组成的庞大军队, 与犹太对抗, 以此为耶路撒冷的驻军解围。他们在伯士撒迦利亚击退了犹太·马加比, 并在有力反击之后夺取了

But when the Jewish force in the temple was on the point of yielding, Lysias persuaded the king to conclude a hasty peace in order that he might advance to meet Philip, who had returned from Persia and made himself master of Antioch (1 Macc. 6:51–63; Josephus Ant. xii.9.5ff.). Lysias defeated Philip, but in 162 B.C. Demetrius Soter son of Seleucus Philopator, now a young man of twenty-five, escaped from Rome with the aid of the historian Polybius and reached Syria by way of Lycia. The population of Syria quickly rallied to the legitimate heir of Seleucus IV, and the army abandoned the cause of Lysias and the young boy-king, putting them both to death (1 Macc. 7:14; 2 Macc. 14:1f.; Justinus xxxiv.3; Josephus *Ant.*xii.10.1; Polybius xxxi.11; Appian Syr. 46f., 67; Livy Epit. xlvi).

ANTIOCHUS VI

(surnamed Epiphanes Dionysus—‘illustrious Bacchus’ on coins; but theós—‘god’ by Josephus Ant. xiii.7.1). Son of Alexander (Balas) king of Syria, who claimed to be the son of Antiochus Epiphanes; ruled 145–142 B.C.

Though still a child, Antiochus VI was brought forward from Arabia by Diodotus (who assumed the name Tryphon [Strabo xvi. 752]), who had been one of his father’s chief ministers, as a claimant of the throne of Syria against Demetrius Nicator. Tryphon forced the Syrians to

ANTIOCHUS VI 安提阿古六世

（姓氏为 Epiphanes Dionysus —— Epiphanes Dionysus 硬币上“著名的酒神巴克斯”；但根据 Josephus Ant. xiii.7.1 记载，他的姓氏为 theós——“神明”）。叙利亚王亚历山大（巴拉斯，他自称是安提阿古·伊皮法尼之子）之子，统治时间为公元前 145 至 142 年。

安提阿古六世还是个孩子的时候，他父亲的权臣之一，狄奥多德就将他从阿拉伯带了回来（狄奥多德的名字可能是特里丰[Strabo xvi. 752]），同底米丢·尼加铎争夺叙利亚的王位（马一 11:39, 54；Justinus xxxvi.1；Appian Syr. 68）。王国由此分裂成了两个部分——特里丰控

The kingdom was thereby divided between Tryphon, who had mastery of the Orontes Valley with headquarters in Antioch, and Demetrius, who had mastery of most of the seaboard and of the provinces beyond the Euphrates with headquarters in Seleucia. By transferring his allegiance to Antiochus Dionysus, Jonathan Maccabeus was installed in the high priesthood, and his brother Simon was appointed commander of the royal troops in Palestine (1 Macc. 11:57ff.). Jonathan subjected the whole land from Damascus to Antioch (v. 62), defeated the troops of Demetrius (v. 63), and even successfully repelled a fresh incursion of Demetrius into Palestine (12:24ff.).

As soon as the monarchy had been firmly established, Tryphon unmasked his long-cherished plan of seizing the royal power for himself (1 Macc. 12:39). First he had put to death Jonathan, whom he had seized at Ptolemais separated from his main body of troops. On his return to Syria he dethroned Antiochus and in 142 B.C. procured his assassination by surgeons in an operation (1 Macc. 13:31ff.; Josephus Ant. xiii.5.6; Appian Syr. 68; Livy Epit. lv).

王国刚刚稳固，特里丰就撕下了长久以来的伪装，表露出自己想要做叙利亚王的野心（马一 12:39）。首先，当约拿单脱离主力部队时，特里丰在多利买将他抓获并处死。他回到叙利亚后，废黜了安提阿古，公元前 142 年，他利用外科医生，在一场手术中暗杀了安提阿古（马一 13:31 起；Josephus Ant. xiii.5.6; Appian Syr. 68; Livy Epit. lv）。

ANTIOCHUS VII SIDETES 安提阿古七世西底达斯

音译：si-dēt'ēz（因生于旁非利亚的西达而得名[Eusebius Chronicon- Armenian i.349]；还被称为 Eusebēs——“虔诚的”[Josephus Ant. xii. 8.2]；在硬币上为 Euergetēs——“施惠者”）。生于公元前 159 年，底米丢一世的次子；统治时间为公元前 139 或 138 年至 129 年。

After his brother Demetrius II Nicator was captured by Mithridates king of Parthia in 139 B.C., temporarily leaving Tryphon sole king in Syria, Antiochus set foot quickly in Syria and took up the task of restoring Seleucid authority in the land. He married (as her third husband) Cleopatra Thea, his captive brother's wife (Justinus xxxvi.1), captured Tryphon and compelled him to commit suicide in 138 B.C. (Strabo *Geog.*xiv.886), and ruled for nine years as the last strong representative of the old royal house.

Before making his invasion Antiochus gained the allegiance of Simon by confirming to him concessions granted by his predecessors and adding the right to coin money (1 Macc. 15:1-9; Josephus Ant. xiii.7.1). But when he grew independent of Simon's help, Antiochus withdrew the concessions and demanded the surrender of the fortresses beyond the frontier of Judea, Joppa and Gezer, and of the Akra at Jerusalem, or an equivalent in money (1 Macc. 15:26-31; Josephus Ant. xiii.7.3). Simon refused the payment. Antiochus then sent a detachment under a certain Cendebaeus in 138 B.C., which was defeated by Simon's two sons, John Hyrcanus and Judas (1 Macc. 16:1-10). The land had rest for the next three years. Then in 135 B.C., while he was heavy with wine, Simon was assassinated at Jericho by a son-in-law, Ptolemy, who was in league with Antiochus VII (1 Macc. 16:11-20). John Hyrcanus forestalled Ptolemy's attempt to seize the chief power and had himself installed as high priest.

Antiochus, who had by this time returned from pursuing Tryphon, invaded Judea in person, reoccupied the frontier fortresses, and besieged Jerusalem for more than a year, after which it surrendered in 134 B.C. Although his councillors urged him to exterminate the turbulent people, he refused. Instead, through fear of the Romans, he did not reimpose the tribute and gave back the places the Jews had conquered beyond their frontiers. But he did insist that the Jews pay a tribute for these and a war indemnity of five hundred talents. The high priest also had to give hostages—including his own brother—and the fortifications of Jerusalem were demolished. Antiochus conciliated the Jews by marks of respect for their religion, but politically the Jews were subject to the house of Seleucus (Josephus Ant. xiii.8.3f.; cf. Eusebius Chronicon-Armenian i.349).

公元前 139 年，他的兄弟底米丢二世尼加铎被帕提亚王米利提达俘虏，这使得特里丰暂时成为了叙利亚唯一的王，安提阿古迅速前往叙利亚，希望恢复塞琉西王朝在叙利亚的权力。他娶了底米丢二世的妻子克娄巴特拉·提亚（作她的第三任丈夫），于公元前 138 年将特里丰抓起来，并逼迫他自杀（Strabo *Geog.*xiv.886），他在位 9 年，是这个古老的皇室最后一位强势的国王。

安提阿古入侵之前，承认先王对马加比家族做出的让步，并授权他们自己制造货币，由此获得了西门的效忠（马一 15:1-9; Josephus Ant. xiii.7.1）。但当安提阿古不再需要西门的帮助之后，他便收回了之前做出的让步，要求西门放弃犹太、约帕和基色边境外的堡垒以及耶路撒冷城内的堡垒，或是交付等价的赔款（马一 15:26-31；Josephus Ant. xiii.7.3）。西门拒绝赔款，于是公元前 138 年，安提阿古派遣辛迪比率军队攻打西门，但是这支军队却被西门的两个儿子约翰许尔堪和犹大打败了（马一 16:1-10）。这片土地在随后的三年得以休养生息。公元前 135 年，西门的女婿多利梅与安提阿古七世勾结，在耶利哥趁西门酒醉时将他暗杀了（马一 16:11-20）。约翰许尔堪预先得知了多利梅想要夺权的企图。后来约翰许尔堪做了大祭司。

Having restored the kingdom in Syria, Antiochus set himself against the eastern provinces with some initial success against the Parthians in 130 B.C. But in 129 B.C. the Parthians set his brother Demetrius II free to create a diversion in Syria. In the same year Antiochus was entirely defeated by Phraortes II (Arsaces VII) king of Parthia, and fell in battle (Josephus Ant. xiii. 8.4; Justinus xxxviii. 10; Appian Syr. 68).

ANTIPTER

an-tip'ə-tər [Gk. Antipatros—‘instead of (his) father’]. The name of several men in the books of Maccabees and Josephus.

1. One of two envoys sent by the Jews in the time of the Maccabees to confirm the former amity with the Romans and Spartans (1 Macc. 12:16; 14:22).

2. The father of Herod the Great. According to Josephus (Ant. xiv.1.3) he was the son of a noble Idumean, to whom the government of that district had been given by Alexander Janneus and his queen Alexandra, at whose court he was raised. Antipater married an illustrious Arabian lady, Cypros, by whom he had four sons—Phasaël, Herod, Joseph, and Pheroras—and a daughter, Salome.

He served as a counselor to Hyrcanus II against his brother Aristobulus II. When Pompey captured Jerusalem and took Aristobulus with his family to Rome in 63 B.C., Antipater continued to exercise his influence on the high priest and labored to ingratiate himself with the Romans. From the Roman occupation in 63 B.C. until 55 B.C., he was the unofficial ruler of the land. In 62 B.C. he assisted Scaurus, Pompey's legate to Syria, in his punitive campaign against the Nabateans. When Gabinius became proconsul of Syria, a rebellion broke out in Judea that had to be put down three times between 57 and 55 B.C. With the full support of Antipater, Gabinius and his daring cavalry commander Mark Antony succeeded in the suppressions. In 55 B.C., during the third campaign, Antipater, who had also recently helped Gabinius in

ANTIPTER 安提帕特

音译: an-tip'ə-tər 【希腊语: Antipatros——“代替(其)父”】。《马加比书》和约瑟夫斯的作品中出现了多个安提帕特。

1、马加比家族时期,犹太人派两名使节前往与罗马和斯巴达修好,其中一名使节就叫安提帕特(马一 12:16; 14:22)。

2、大希律的父亲。根据约瑟夫斯记载(Ant. xiv.1.3),他是一名以土买贵族之子,这个贵族将他养大,亚历山大·杨纽和他的皇后亚历山德拉曾将那片地区的政府交给这名贵族管理。安提帕特娶了一个著名的阿拉伯女人,她名叫塞洛斯(Cypros),他们生了四个儿子(法撒勒、希律、约瑟、斐洛拉斯)和一个女儿(撒罗米)。

他曾经担任许尔堪二世的参事,帮助许尔堪对抗他的兄弟阿里斯托布鲁斯二世。公元前 63 年,庞培攻占了耶路撒冷,并将阿里斯托布鲁斯全家带到罗马,安提帕特继续对大祭司施加影响,他还尽力取悦罗马人。公元前 63 至 55 年罗马人占领期间,他是这片土地非官方的统治者。在公元前 62 年,他协助庞培派往叙利亚的使节斯考卢斯征讨纳巴泰人。当加比尼乌斯成为叙利亚总督时,犹太爆发了叛乱,他不得不在公元前 57 至 55 年间进行了三次镇压。在安提帕特的全力支持下,加比尼乌斯和他勇敢的骑兵指挥官马克·安东尼成功地平息了叛乱。公元前 55 年第三次战役期间,安提帕特还帮助加比尼乌斯在埃及内进行了政权变革,这使他后来成为了耶路撒冷的罗马行政长官(希腊语: epimelētēs) (Josephus Ant. xiv.1-7)。 connection with a change of regime in Egypt, was made Roman procurator (Gk. epimelētēs) in Jerusalem (Josephus Ant. xiv.1–7).

After Gaius Julius Caesar occupied Rome, he liberated a number of political prisoners, including Aristobulus II, whom he sent to Syria against Pompey. Pompey's supporters, however, soon eliminated Aristobulus and his elder son Alexander. In 48 B.C. Pompey was defeated at Pharsalus in Thessaly and slain by the ministers of Ptolemy when he sought refuge in Egypt. Caesar now rushed to Alexandria and occupied both the city and the land. This began the Alexandrian War in 48–47 B.C. When Caesar was in a desperate strait for reinforcements and supplies, and found himself in mortal danger, Antipater appeared as deus ex machina (Josephus Ant. xiv.8.1). With a combination of friendly influence on Syrian neighbors, speedy intervention of Jewish troops, and pressure on the Egyptian Jews, he made it possible for the popular Roman hero to continue his rise to dictatorship (Caesar, Bellum alexandrinum xxvi.1–3).

In grateful repayment for this assistance, Caesar granted a series of privileges to Antipater and the Jews. B. Reicke concluded: "These privileges remained extremely important even in the NT period, because Antony and Octavian, Caesar's successors, were prepared to continue his policies" (NT Era[1968], p. 88). Thus in 47 B.C. Hyrcanus II was confirmed in his high priesthood, and Antipater was granted Roman (city) citizenship as well as made procurator of the Roman Republic over the territory of the Jews. He in turn appointed his sons Phasael and Herod governors respectively of Jerusalem and Galilee. Moreover many courtesies were extended to the Jews: taxes were reduced, several towns in the Valley of Jezreel added to the land, exemption from the usual obligation of providing auxiliary troops, and freedom in their synagogues (Josephus Ant. xiv.9). B. Reicke observed: "One should not overlook the significance this freedom was later to have for the spread of the Gospel, which took place in and through the synagogues of the Diaspora, including their membership and adherents" (op. cit., p. 89). In 46 B.C. Antipater dissuaded Herod from attacking Hyrcanus, and in 43 B.C. (after Caesar's death) he regulated the tax imposed by Cassius upon Judea for her support of the Roman troops. In 43 B.C. Malichus, whose life Antipater had twice saved, bribed Hyrcanus' cupbearer to poison him.

凯撒为了酬谢安提帕特的援助，授予了他和犹太人一系列的特权。瑞奇（B. Reicke）总结道：“这些特权即使到新约时代，仍是十分重要的，因为凯撒的继任者安东尼和屋大维准备继续施行他的政策”（NT Era[1968], 88 页）。于是在公元前 47 年，许尔堪二世确认了他的大祭司之职，安提帕特被授予罗马（城）公民称号，还成为了罗马共和国的行政长官，管理犹太人的领地。他分别任命他的儿子法撒勒和希律当耶路撒冷和加利利的官员。此外，犹太人还获得了许多其他特权：减少赋税，免除

3. The eldest son of Herod by his first wife Doris. After his marriage to Mariamne the Hasmonean, Herod sent Doris and Antipater away. But when Herod, being suspicious of Mariamne's loyalty, ordered her execution in 29 B.C., tensions arose between him and her sons, Alexander and Aristobulus. In order to humble them Herod restored Antipater to court. Antipater now sought to annihilate Mariamne's sons by circulating calumnies against them. Even after Herod sent Antipater to Rome as the apparent crown prince in 12/11 B.C., he continued to send back false reports against his brothers. Inflamed by these reports Herod took the case before Caesar, who, finding nothing of substance, effected a temporary reconciliation. But Herod continued in his suspicions and in the end

兵役，在犹太会堂内享有充分的自由，耶斯列谷的数个城邑也被分封给他们 (Josephus Ant. xiv.9)。瑞奇总结道：“我们不能忽视这种宗教自由对后来传播福音起到的重要影响，这种自由在离散犹太人的会堂（包括成员和信徒）中都存在” (NT Era[1968], 89 页)。公元前 46 年，安提帕特劝阻希律，不让他攻击许尔堪，在公元前 43 年（凯撒死后），许尔堪因感激犹太支持罗马军队，控制了卡西乌斯强加在犹太的赋税。公元前 43 年，马里卡二世（安提帕特救过他的妻子两次）贿赂许尔堪的斟酒人，将安提帕特毒死了。

3、希律和第一任妻子多莉丝的长子。希律和哈斯蒙的米利暗结婚后，就将多莉丝和安提帕特送走了。后来希律怀疑米利暗的忠诚，于公元前 29 年将她处死，这使得希律和她的两个儿子，亚历山大和阿里斯托布鲁斯之间的关系变得十分紧张。希律为了贬低他们，恢复了安提帕特在朝廷中的地位。安提帕特为了打压米利暗的儿子们，就开始传播谣言。公元前 12 或 11 年，希律将安提帕特送去罗马做王储时，安提帕特还是继续传回虚假的消息来诽谤他的兄弟们。希律被这些消息激怒，控告到凯撒那里，但没有找到任何实质性证据之前，凯撒令双方暂时和解。然而希律仍然对这两个儿子保持怀疑，安提帕特和他的同盟最终达成了目标：希律下令处死亚历山大和阿里斯托布鲁斯，公元前 7 年，安提帕特开始和其父共同治理国家。但是后来，安提帕特诬陷他兄弟的

Antipater and his allies gained their objective: Alexander and Aristobulus were executed on Herod's orders and Antipater became joint ruler with his father in 7 B.C. Testimony later came to light exposing both Antipater's seditious activity against his brothers and a plot to murder the aged Herod. Antipater was condemned to death and the sentence carried out five days before Herod's own death in March/April, 4 B.C.

ANTIPATRIS

an-tip'ə-tris [Gk. Antipatris]. A town mentioned in Acts. 23:31 as the end of the first stage of Paul's transfer, under a guard of 470 Roman soldiers, from Jerusalem to Caesarea. The site is located near Râs el-'Ain at the headwaters of the Yarkon, about 16 km. (10 mi.) north of Lydda (Lud), 65 km. (40 mi.) from Jerusalem and 40 km. (25 mi.) from Caesarea. Antipatris was built by Herod the Great in 9 B.C. and named in honor of his father Antipater, who had been procurator of Judea under Julius Caesar. The site was previously occupied by Kfar Saba (Josephus Ant. xvi.5.2 [143]. xiii.15.1[390]. and BJ i.21.9 [417]). This is also the site of OT Aphek. In Roman times Antipatris served as a military relay station. It also was recognized as the border between Samaria and Judea.

ANTIPATRIS 安提帕底

音译：an-tip'ə-tris【希腊语：Antipatris】。《使徒行传》23:31中提到的一座城邑，470名罗马士兵将保罗从耶路撒冷解往凯撒利亚，安提帕底是押解保罗第一个阶段的终点。该城位于雅康河的源头拉斯艾因（Râs el-'Ain）附近，在吕大北方约16公里（10英里）处，距离耶路撒冷65公里（40英里），距离凯撒利亚40公里（25英里）。公元前9年，大希律修建了安提帕底，并以他父亲的名字安提帕特命名了这座城市。安提帕特曾是尤里乌斯·凯撒治下的犹太行政长官。此地之前曾被卡萨沙巴占领（Josephus Ant. xvi.5.2 [143]. xiii.15.1 [390]. and BJ i.21.9 [417]）。此地就是《旧约》中提到的亚弗。罗马时期，安提帕底曾是军事中继站。此地还被视为是撒玛利亚和犹太的边界。

During this season a street of Antipatris bordered by a row of shops was uncovered; it had been destroyed during the conquest of Herodian Antipatris by Vespasian in A.D. 67. Occupation of Tell Aphek, one of the largest tells in the state of Israel, dates from the beginning of the Early Bronze Age, ca. 3000 B.C., and its importance as a crossroads is apparent in every period of its history. The ruins of the castle of Mirabel form a picturesque part of Râs el-‘Ain.

In the OT the concerns and fears of everyday life are vividly portrayed in the vocabulary of “anxiety.” For example, the Heb. dā’ag is used of a father’s rightful concern over the delayed return of his son (1 S. 9:5; 10:2) and of the fear of famine in a year of drought (Jer. 17:8). Its derivative d’āgā occurs in a familiar proverb: “Anxiety in a man’s heart weighs him down, but a good word makes a man glad” (Prov. 12:25). Hannah’s “great anxiety” (NEB “grief”) over her childlessness is conveyed by the Heb. sī(a)h (1 S. 1:16). The Aram. k’rā’ describes Daniel’s distress over his vision of the four beasts (Dnl. 7:15). A key OT passage is the reference to “eating the bread of anxious toil” (Heb. ‘eseb in Ps. 127:2); the preceding verse makes the point that any human effort that leaves God out is performed in vain. Only as man recognizes his own weakness and learns to trust in God’s providence and care is he rescued from the treadmill of futile self-effort and spared “the bread of anxious toil” (see Weiser, pp. 764–66).

In the NT the subject of anxiety receives more extensive treatment, but moves in the same general direction that has been observed in the OT. Of the twenty-six occurrences of “anxiety” in the RSV NT, twenty-two are translations of merimnāō and its cognate forms. The essential meaning of this family of terms is given as “anxiety,” “worry,” or “care” (see Bauer, p. 506); however, apart from context, one cannot determine whether “anxiety” is used in a good sense or a bad sense. On the one hand, there are the recognized concerns of life that are both presupposed and expected. (The recurring “take no thought” of the AV is an unfortunate translation in its apparent denial of necessary foresight and planning.) For example, Paul is hard pressed to find anyone like Timothy who will be “genuinely anxious” for the welfare of the Philippians (2:20). He intends to send Epaphroditus to them momentarily in order that he may be “less anxious” (2:28; cf. NEB “to relieve my sorrow”). In another context, Paul alludes to “the daily pressure upon me of my anxiety for all the churches” (2 Cor. 11:28). These references illustrate some of the legitimate concerns of an apostle for his converts, and this is only one of many areas of human concern that are either implicitly or explicitly legitimized in Scripture.

《旧约》用本词生动形象地描绘了人们日常生活中的担忧和恐惧。比如说，希伯来语 dā’ag 表示一位父亲对他晚归的儿子应有的担心（撒上 9:5；10:2），还表示在干旱之年对饥荒的挂虑（耶 17:8）。它的衍生词 d’āgā 出现在一条常见的箴言中：“人心忧虑，屈而不伸；一句良言，使心欢乐”（箴 12:25）。希伯来语 sī(a)h 表示哈拿因无子女而“愁苦太多”（《新英文译本》译为“悲痛”，撒上 1:16）。亚兰语 k’rā’描述了但以理看到四兽之后的愁烦（但 7:15）。《旧约》中有一处关键的经文提到“吃劳碌得来的饭”（希伯来语：‘eseb，诗 127:2）；这句话之前的章节指出人类的任何活动如果不是倚赖神的，都是徒劳无功。人类只有意识到自身的弱点，学着信靠神的旨意和照顾，才会免于做无用的努力或吃“劳碌得来的饭”（见 Weiser, 764–66 页）。

On the other hand, there are those forbidden concerns that originate from a distorted perspective of life. The key NT teaching in this regard is found in the Sermon on the Mount (Mt. 6:25–34; Lk. 12:22–31). Here Jesus prohibits anxiety about even the most basic needs of life (i.e., food, drink, and clothing), not to mention the luxuries of life. Surely this does not mean that man is to fold his hands and to cease providing for himself and his household, for the Scriptures themselves teach otherwise (e.g., Prov. 6:6–11; 1 Tim. 5:8). A clue to the proper understanding of this and related passages is found in the word “first” in Mt. 6:33: “But seek first his kingdom and his righteousness, and all these things shall be yours as well.” The emphasis in the Gk. prōton (“first”) as used here is not so much one of chronological priority as one of priority in degree or importance (see Bauer, p. 734). E. J. Goodspeed’s translation of this verse is quite appropriate: “But you must make his kingdom and uprightness before him, your greatest care ...” (italics added). Jesus warns elsewhere against the “cares of the world,” the “delight in riches,” and the “desire for other things” (Mk. 4:19). Whenever these concerns are given priority, the more important concerns of God’s kingdom are crowded out and man’s perspective on life becomes perilously distorted. The solution to anxiety lies in casting every concern upon God with thankful heart in the full realization of His care for His people (1 Pet. 5:7; Phil. 4:6).

另一方面，从扭曲的人生观念中产生忧虑是被禁止的。就这点而言，山上宝训体现了《新约》中的关键教训（太 6:25-34；路 12:22-31）。耶稣在宝训中禁止人们忧虑最基本的生活需求（如饮食和衣裳），更不用说忧虑生活中的奢侈品。当然，这并不意味着人们就要合拢双手，不再看顾自己和家人，因为《圣经》之中还有其他教训（如箴 6:6-11；提前 5:8）。为了正确理解这点以及相关的经文，《马太福音》6:33 中的“先”这个词为我们合理理解这一教训和相关经文提供了线索：“你们要先求他的国和他的义，这些东西都要加给你们了”。这里使用的希腊语 prōton (“先”) 强调的不是时间上的先后，而是程度或重要性上的主次关系（见 Bauer, 734 页）。古德斯皮德 (E. J. Goodspeed) 对这一节的翻译非常合理：“但是你们必须先求祂的国，在祂面前称义，这才是你们最大的忧虑……”（斜体是补充的内容）。耶稣在另一处经文中警告人们不要有“世上的思虑”“钱财的迷惑”和“别样的私欲”（可 4:19）。当这些忧虑占据优先地位时，对神的国度的忧虑（无疑是更重要的）就被抛之脑后，人

APAME 阿佩米

音译：ə-pā'mə 【希腊语：Apamē】。大流士的妃子之一，名人巴塔克的女儿。所罗巴伯在国王面前传道时，提到了阿佩米对国王的行为，以此向国王证明女人力量的强大（拉一 4:29）。见 BARTACUS（巴塔克）。

APART 远离、单独的、分别出来

【希伯来语：baḏ, bāḏal, qāḏaš, ḥûṣ, sāḇaḇ, ‘āḇar, pālâ, nāṭan, rûm；希腊语：chōrís, kat’ idían, aphorízō, diaspáō（可 5:4）】。

希伯来语 baḏ 有分开的含义，经常被翻译为 “alone”（“单独的”）、“by itself”（“独自”），或者有时被翻译为 “apart”（“分离的”或“分开的”）。动词 bāḏal 指将某人“分出来”或“分别出来”去达成一个特殊的使命或目标，如将利未

someone set apart for sacred purposes, e.g., the tribe of Levi to carry the ark (Dt. 10:8), Aaron to consecrate holy things (1 Ch. 23:13), sons of Asaph, etc., for temple service, and priests for priestly service (Ezr. 8:24). Or it may refer to something set apart for non-sacred use; e.g., cities set apart as cities of refuge (Dt. 4:41; 19:2, 7) or for the Ephraimites (Josh. 16:9), certain animals as unclean (Lev. 20:25), certain men to bury dead bodies (Ezk. 39:14).

The term qādaš is normally narrower in meaning and refers to that which is set apart exclusively for sacred use. This is the case with the portions set apart for the Levites and sons of Aaron (Neh. 12:47) and the sheep for sacrifice (here referring to the wicked, Jer. 12:3) and those who boast of their holiness (Isa. 65:5). However, in Josh. 20:7 qādaš seems to be used interchangeably with bādal for the cities of refuge which were set apart from other cities.

There are several other Hebrew words which the RSV rarely renders as “apart.” In Eccl. 2:25 hūš is rendered “apart” instead of the more frequent “outside.” Twice in 2 S. 14:24 Absalom “dwells apart” (sābab) from David’s quarters. Twice ‘ābar is translated “set apart,” once of the firstborn (Ex. 13:12) and once of temple officials who attend the Levites (1 Ch. 25:1). In Ex. 8:22 pālā indicates that Goshen will be treated differently from the rest of Egypt. The same sense of pālā seems to be in view in Ps. 4:3, which would then mean “the Lord works wonders for” (instead of “set apart”) the one devoted to him. In Ezk. 45:6 nātan refers to an area given to each town. Four times in Ezekiel the

qādaš 的含义通常比较特定，它专指为宗教用途而将人或物分别出来。如给利未人和亚伦子孙当得的分（尼 12:47），拉出待宰的献祭羔羊（此处指的是诡诈的恶人，耶 12:3），分出那些自夸圣洁的人（赛 65:5）。但在《约书亚记》20:7 中 qādaš 似乎可以与 bādal 交换使用，表示那些分定的逃城。

还有几个希伯来词语，但《修订标准译本》很少将它们译为“分别”。在《传道书》2:25 hūš 中被翻译为“离开”，而不是更为常见的“在……之外”。《撒母耳记下》14:24 中两次提到了押沙龙被赶出 (sābab) 大卫的兵营。‘ābar 有两次被翻译为“分开”，一次被翻译为“头生的”（出 13:12），还有一次被翻译为在神殿供职的利未人（代上 25:1）。在《出埃及记》8:22 中 pālā 指耶和華将区别对待歌珊和埃及其他地方。《诗篇》4:3 似乎也使用了 pālā 的同个含义，那么这一节的意思就是“主向忠实于祂的人行奇迹”（而不是“分别”）。在《以西结书》45:6 中，nātan 指划分给每座城邑的区域。《以西结书》中，动词 rūm 四次用来指分出来一分地献给耶和華为圣供地（结 45:1；48:8-9, 20）。最后，

verb rûm refers to the portion of land to be offered or set apart to God (45:1; 48:8f., 20). Finally, the Hebrew in Ps. 16:2 is difficult. However, the general sense of the RSV translation is probably correct if 'al is translated “beyond” or “apart from.”

In Gk. chōris is used mostly as a preposition meaning “apart (from)” or “without.” The latter translation is the consistent rendering of the AV where RSV has “apart.” The verb diaspáō in Mk. 5:4 refers to the demoniac who wrenched apart (NEB snapped) his chains. The phrase kat' idían, translated “apart” in Mt. 14:13; 17:1; Mk. 9:2; Lk. 9:10, has the idea of “privately” or “alone.” In each case the reference is to Jesus seeking privacy, alone or with His disciples, apart from the crowds. Finally, the verb aphorízō is used of the setting apart of Paul (Rom. 1:1; Gal. 1:15) and Barnabas and Saul (Acts 13:2) to preach the gospel.

The Hebrew is the equivalent of Eyp. gwf, Akk. uqūpu, and Syr. qūpa. Probably the reference is not to apes as such, which are tailless, but to monkeys or baboons, the latter being well known in Egypt.

《诗篇》16:2 中的希伯来语有些难以理解。但是，如果 'al 被翻译为“在……之外”或“远离”，那么《修订标准译本》中翻译的大意就很可能是正确的。

在希腊语中，chōris 通常用作介词，指“除了”或“没有”。《修订标准译本》经常译为前者，而《钦定版圣经》则始终译为后者。《马可福音》5:4 中，动词 diaspáō 指一个污鬼附着的人挣断（《新英文译本》用 snapped 翻译这个词）了铁链。短语 kat' idían 在一些经文中译为“单独”（太 14:13; 17:1; 可 9:2; 路 9:10），有“悄悄”或“单独”的意思。这些经文指的都是耶稣独自或带领祂的门徒寻找一处远离百姓的秘密之地。最后，动词 aphorízō 用来指拣选保罗（罗 1:1; 加 1:15）、巴拿巴和扫罗（徒 13:2）去传道。

APE 猿猴

【希伯来语: qôp】。仅在《列王纪上》10:22 和平行经文《历代志下》9:21 中出现过，猿猴是所罗门时期进口的奢侈品之一。希伯来语 qôp 等同于埃及语的 gwf、阿卡德语的 uqūpu 和叙利亚语的 qūpa。这两处经文可能指的不是无尾的猿猴，而是指猴子或狒狒，狒狒在埃及十分出名。

APHAIREMA

ə-faîr'ə-mə [Gk. Aphairema, Apherema]; AV, NEB, APHEREMA. One of three districts taken from Samaria and added to Judea by Demetrius Nicator (1 Macc. 11:34). cf. Josephus Ant. xiii.4.9.

APHARSACHITES

ə-fār'sə-kīts [Aram. ^a*pars^ekāyē*']. The AV translation of a word in Ezr. 5:6; 6:6 formerly taken to be a tribe living in Samaria, but now generally recognized to be officials (cf. RSV “governors”; NEB “inspectors”). The word has been connected with Old Persian frasaka and is found in cuneiform texts as iprasakku, which agrees with the consonantal form (but not as vocalized) in Ezra. These officials complained to Darius about the rebuilding of the temple by the Jews who had returned from exile.

APHARSITES

ə-fār'sīts [Aram. ^a*pārsayē*]. The AV translation of a word in Ezr. 4:9 (cf. RSV “Persians”; NEB “chief officers”) formerly identified as another tribe (along with the APHARSATHCHITES in the same verse) transplanted from the Trans-Euphrates province or from Persia by Asnapper (Ashurbanipal); see v. 10. Verse 9 is difficult, with three Masoretic emendations to complicate it further. The first four words after the athnaḥ (approximately equivalent to a colon) can be taken as gentilic forms (i.e., peoples) or as titles. The MT accents seem to oppose the RSV change from title to gentilic after the first three words: “the judges, the governors, the officials, the Persians.” The following words all seem to be gentilics. To translate “Persians” is to ignore the aleph at the beginning of the word.

1、沙仑平原上的一座城邑，在约帕的

Joppa near Râs el-‘Ain, the site of springs that form the main source of the Nahr el-‘Aujā or Yarkon River. Joshua defeated the king of this city in his conquest W of the Jordan (Josh. 12:18; cf. v. 19, NEB). In the days of Samuel the Philistines set themselves at Aphek against the forces of Israel encamped at Ebenezer (1 S. 4:1). Later the Philistines again gathered their forces at Aphek preparing to engage the Israelites who were “pitched by a fountain which is in Jezreel” (1 S. 29:1). Aphek is mentioned in several Egyptian texts, including those of Thutmose III, Amenhotep II, Ramses II, and Ramses III, and also Josephus (BJ ii.19.1). About 35 B.C. Herod the Great built a fortress at Aphek and named it Antipatris in honor of his father.

Archeological investigations have revealed that the site has been almost continuously occupied since the Early Bronze Age (ca. 3000 B.C.). The discovery of cuneiform tablets indicates the importance of Aphek in the Late Bronze Age, at the end of which (ca. 1200 B.C., period of Israelite conquest) it was apparently destroyed by fire. Numerous artifacts from the time of the Israelite monarchy have been discovered also. See also ANTIPATRIS.

2. A city in the north listed as territory not conquered at the end of Joshua’s life (Josh. 13:4). It is apparently N of Sidon and may be Afqā NE of Beirût.

东北方，靠近拉斯艾因。这里的泉水汇聚成了奥亚河 (Nahr el-‘Aujā)，也就是雅康河的主要源头。约书亚攻打约旦西部时击杀了亚弗王 (书 12:18; 参: 书 12:19, 《新英文译本》)。撒母耳时期，非利士人安营在亚弗，与安营在以便以谢的以色列人争战 (撒上 4:1)。后来非利士人又在亚弗聚集兵力，准备攻打以色列人，“以色列人在耶斯列的泉旁安营” (撒上 29:1)。有几本埃及语文献中提到了亚弗，其中包括图特摩斯三世、阿蒙霍特普二世、拉美西斯二世、拉美西斯三世的时期的文献，约瑟夫斯在其作品中也提到了亚弗 (BJ ii.19.1)。约公元前 35 年，大希律在亚弗建立了一座堡垒，为了纪念他的父亲，他将其命名为安提帕底。

考古研究表明此地从青铜时代早期 (约公元前 3000) 开始就一直有人类聚居。出土的楔形文字泥版表明亚弗在青铜时代后期 (约公元前 1200 年，以色列占领时期) 占有重要地位，在这一时代后期，亚弗显然被烧毁了。此地还出土了大量以色列王朝时期的古文物。另见 ANTIPATRIS (安提帕底)。

APOCALYPTIC LITERATURE. 启示文学

《新约》中的启示，也就是约翰的《启

first word in our NT apocalypse, the Revelation of John, meaning “disclosure” or “revelation.” In this book it designates “what must soon take place”: the consummation of God’s redemptive purposes. The revelations were imparted to John in a series of ecstatic experiences (see “in the Spirit” at Rev. 1:10; 4:2; 17:3; 21:10) when Christ revealed to him the events that would attend the consummation of the age and the establishing of God’s rule in the world. The term “apocalypse” has been borrowed from the Revelation and applied to a whole genre of Jewish literature produced between 200 B.C. and A.D. 100. The earliest apocalypse is the book of Daniel, and the subsequent apocalypses were written in imitation of it.

The word “apocalyptic” is used to designate two distinct things: the group of writings, and the kind of eschatology they contain. These two uses of “apocalyptic” need to be clearly distinguished.

- I. Apocalyptic as Literature
 - A. Revelatory Character
 - B. Artificial Nature
 - C. Pseudonymity
 - D. Pseudo-Prophecy
 - E. Symbolism
- II. Apocalyptic as Eschatology
 - A. Dualism

- III. Apocalyptic Writings

《启示录》中出现的第一个词，它的意思是“揭示”或“启示”。在这本书中，本词指的是“即将要发生的事”：神将完成救赎计划。约翰在一系列令人激动的经历中获得了神的启示（见“被圣灵感动”，启 1:10; 4:2; 17:3; 21:10），基督在启示中给约翰展示了救赎完成之后的事件，告知他神在新世界中建立了规则。犹太人从《启示录》中借鉴了“启示”一词，并将其应用于公元前 2 世纪至公元 1 世纪犹太文学的整体流派之中。最早的启示录是《但以理书》，后来的启示录都模仿了这本书。

本词的形容词形式用来表示两种不同的事物：启示文学作品和其中所包含的末世论。要仔细区分这两种用法。

- I. 启示文学
 - A. 启示文学的特征
 - B. 虚构本质
 - C. 托名写作
 - D. 伪预言
 - E. 象征
- II. 启示末世论

 - B. 历史和末世论

I. Apocalyptic as Literature.-We do not know with certainty what circle in Judaism produced the apocalypses, nor how widely they were known and read in NT times. Albright held that Jewry swarmed with apocalyptists (FSAC, p. 374), while G. F. Moore thought they were only a small group of enthusiasts who were practically ignored by the masses of the people and their religious leaders (Judaism in the First Centuries of the Christian Era, I [1927], 127). Extensive new information about first-century Judaism has come to hand in the so-called Qumrân literature, and one fact at least is clear: the Qumrân community prized the apocalyptic writings. This is proved by the fact that fragments of several apocalyptic books, or of sources of some of these books, have been found in the Qumrân caves, including fragments of ten MSS of Jubilees, fragments of ten MSS of four of the five parts of Enoch, and fragments of the sources of the Testaments of Levi and Naphtali (see J. T. Milik, Ten Years of Discovery in the Wilderness of Judaea [1959], pp. 32-35). This fact has led some scholars to conclude that the Qumrân community, or rather the proto-Essenes of which it was one community, produced and preserved the apocalyptic literature, and that these writings should be interpreted in the life situation of the thought of this community (F. M. Cross, Jr., Ancient Library of Qumran and Modern Biblical Studies [1957], pp. 142ff.; H. H. Rowley, Jewish Apocalyptic and the

I. 启示文学。我们不确定是犹太教中的哪些人创造了启示文学,也不知道新约时代这些作品传播和阅读的范围有多广。奥尔布赖特认为犹太人中不乏启示文学作者(FSAC, 374 页),但摩尔(G. F. Moore)则认为只有一小部分启示文学热衷者,他们实际上已被民众和宗教领袖所忽略(Judaism in the First Centuries of the Christian Era, I [1927], 127)。学者们偶然从所谓的昆兰文学中找到了大量关于1世纪犹太教的信息,并且至少弄清了一个事实:昆兰社团十分珍视启示文学作品。人们在昆兰的山洞中发现了一些启示录的残本或原始资料的残本,其中包括《禧年书》十种抄本的残本,《以诺书》中四五个部分的十种抄本的残本,还有《利未遗训》和《拿弗他利遗训》原始资料的残本(见 J. T. Milik, Ten Years of Discovery in the Wilderness of Judaea [1959], 32-35 页),这些残本都可以证明之前提到的事实。由此一些学者总结道,昆兰社团,或者说是其中的一个社团——原始艾赛尼派,创造并保留了启示文学作品,学者们认为通过这些作品可以解读这个社团的思想和生活情况(F. M. Cross, Jr., Ancient Library of Qumran and Modern Biblical Studies [1957], 142 页起; H. H. Rowley, Jewish Apocalyptic and the Dead Sea Scrolls [1957])。但是瑞格伦(H. Ringgren)只承认启示文学作品有可能与艾赛尼派的原始资料有关(“Jüdische Apokalyptik,” RGG, I, 464);启示文学中的末世论和其他昆兰文学有明显的相似之处,但是二者之间也有显著差异(见 Millar Burrows, Dead Sea Scrolls [1955], 261 页)。如果我们对两约之间的时期有足够的了解,可以准确地再现艾赛尼运动的历史,或许就可

Dead Sea Scrolls [1957]). However, H. Ringgren admits only the possibility of an Essenic source for the apocalyptic writings (“Jüdische Apokalyptik,” RGG, I, 464); and while there are marked similarities between the eschatological ideas of the apocalypses and the other Qumrân literature, there are also striking differences (see Millar Burrows, Dead Sea Scrolls [1955], p. 261). Perhaps this problem could be solved if we had sufficient knowledge of the intertestamental period to reconstruct accurately the history of the Essene movement, but we must deal with the apocalypses as they stood and await further light upon their historical milieu.

以解决这个问题，但是我们只能根据现在已知的史实来审视启示文学，等到对当时的历史环境拥有更为清晰的认识之时，再进行深入的研究。

popular critical view is that prophetic eschatology and apocalyptic eschatology are two mutually exclusive kinds of eschatology in the OT and Judaism. According to this view, prophetic eschatology expected the kingdom of God to arise out of history and to be an earthly kingdom within history. However, when this historical hope was not realized, the Jews came to despair of history and to expect the kingdom of God to come from outside of history—i.e., directly from God—to involve a cosmic catastrophe, and to issue in a kingdom so different from earthly experience that it could only be described as a kingdom “beyond history” (see S. Mowinckel, He That Cometh [1956]; P. Volz, Die Eschatologie der jüdischen Gemeinde [1934], ch. 23). Prophetic eschatology looked for the coming of an earthly Davidic king (Messiah); apocalyptic eschatology looked for the coming of a heavenly Son of Man. However, the present author has argued that the expectation of a cataclysmic irruption into history is intrinsic to the prophetic hope of the OT. The kingdom of God will be established in this world, but with an entirely new quality of life (see G. E. Ladd, Presence of the Future [1974], pp. 55ff.). T. C. Vriezen describes the eschatology of Isaiah and his contemporaries as one that is “historical and at the same time supra-historical. It takes place within the framework of history but is caused by forces that transcend history, so that what is formed is a new order of things in which the glory and the Spirit of God (Isa. 11) reveals itself” (“Prophecy and Eschatology,” in Supplements to Vetus Testamentum, I [1953], 222). Vriezen finds an even more distinct contrast between the old order and the new in Deutero-Isaiah. Certainly the eschatology of such scriptures as Isa. 24–27, Zephaniah, Joel, Zec. 9–14 expects to see the kingdom of God established only by a cosmic act of God. This is the most notable feature of apocalyptic eschatology, and it has its roots in the OT. See ESCHATOLOGY.

种普遍的批判性观点认为：《旧约》中的先知末世论和犹太教的启示末世论是两种相互排斥的末世论。这种观点认为，先知末世论期待神之国度真实在人类的历史中建立，是一个真实存在于历史的、地上的国。但是这种希望并没能实现，犹太人渐渐对历史绝望，开始期待一种历史之外的神之国度，即直接从神而来的国度，神将带来一场宇宙大灾难，然后建立一个与地上的国完全不同的新国度，我们只能将其描述为“超越历史”的国度（见 S. Mowinckel, He That Cometh [1956]; P. Volz, Die Eschatologie der jüdischen Gemeinde [1934], 23 章）。先知末世论期待出现一个地上的、大卫家族的王（弥赛亚）；启示末世论期待出现一个天上的人子。但是，现代的作者认为期待大洪水灭世是《旧约》中先知的期望。神之国度将建立在这个世界上，但其中会产生一种全新的生活质量（见 G. E. Ladd, Presence of the Future [1974], 55 页起）。弗里森（T. C. Vriezen）将以赛亚和与其同时期人的末世论描述为“一个既是历史的，又是超历史的末世论。它产生于历史框架之内，但却是由超历史的力量所引发的，世界将由此形成一种新秩序，神的圣灵（赛 11）和荣誉将在其中自我揭示”（“Prophecy and Eschatology,” in Supplements to Vetus Testamentum, I [1953], 222）。弗里森在第二以赛亚中找到了新旧秩序更为显著的对比。很明显，《以赛亚书》24-27、《西番亚书》《约珥书》《撒迦利亚书》9-14 这类经文中的末世论期待看到神仅用无尽的大能建立神之国度。这是启示末世论最明显的特征，它起源于《旧约》之中。见 ESCHATOLOGY（末世论）。

A. Revelatory Character. The apocalyptic literary genre has several outstanding characteristics. First, it is revelatory of the future. In this matter, apocalyptic differs from most of the writings of the prophets. The prophets claimed to receive revelations, as did the apocalyptists; but the central content of prophetic revelation was the will of God, and the chief means of revelation was the word of God. The prophets often foretold God's action in the future, but they did so that in the light of future judgment and salvation they might enforce the demands of the divine will in the present. Furthermore, while the prophets received revelations through dreams and visions (e.g., Isa. 6; Ezk. 1; Jer. 24), these were not central. "The word of the Lord," the dynamic message of the living God, was the center of their experience. Dreams and visions were never an end in themselves but were accompanied by an explanatory, accosting word.

With the apocalyptists, the center of interest has shifted. The living word of the Lord has given way altogether to revelations and visions. God no longer speaks by His Spirit to the prophet. The seer learns the solution to the problem of evil and the coming of God's kingdom through dreams, visions, or heavenly journeys. By means of these media the apocalypticist discovers the secrets of the hidden world, the reason for the suffering of the righteous on earth, and when and how the Kingdom will come.

A. 启示文学的特征。启示文学流派有几个显著的特征。首先，它是对历史的启示。从这点上看，启示文学和大多数先知文学有所不同。先知们声称收到了启示，启示文学作者也是如此；但是先知启示的中心内容是神的旨意，启示的主要方法是神的话语。先知经常预言神未来将行的事，但他们这样做是为了借助神未来的审判和救赎，来强制实施神当下的旨意。此外，虽然先知从梦境或异象中获得启示，但这些并不是主要获得启示的方式。“神的话语”，永活的神的动态信息才是先知们获得启示的主要方式。梦境和异象从来不是终极目的，其中都会随有解释性或引导性的话语来揭示其中的意义。

We should note that some of the books usually called apocalyptic are not true apocalypses in that they are not revelations of this sort. The Testaments of the Twelve Patriarchs contain eschatology of an apocalyptic character, but the literary form is not that of an apocalypse. Each of the twelve patriarchs gives a brief resume of his life, makes a moral application, and usually utters a brief prediction of the future of his descendants. In form the book is imitative prophecy rather than apocalyptic. The Psalms of Solomon are not apocalyptic, i.e., revelatory, but are patterned after the OT Psalms. Since two of the Psalms anticipate the coming of Messiah and of the kingdom of God, they are usually included in the survey of Jewish apocalyptic literature. Those two books illustrate that apocalyptic literature and apocalyptic eschatology are not identical; the apocalyptic eschatology found expression in works that were not apocalyptic in literary form.

B. Artificial Nature. A second characteristic of apocalyptic literature is the imitative and artificial nature of its revelations. This stands in contrast to the visions of the canonical prophets, which involved genuine subjective experiences. In apocalyptic, visions and dreams have become a form of literature. While a few of the apocalypticists may have undergone some sort of subjective experience as a result of brooding over the problem of evil (see G. H. Box, Ezra-Apocalypse [1912], p. lxvii), Porter

B. 虚构本质。 启示文学的第二种特征是其中启示的本质是模仿的、虚构的。这和正典中的先知所看见的异象恰恰相反，他们看到的异象都是自身真实经历的。而在启示文学中，异象和梦境成为了一种文学形式。虽然一些作者在苦思恶的问题之后，可能亲身经历过某些异象或梦境（见 G. H. Box, Ezra-Apocalypse [1912], lxvii 页），但是波特的说法也是正确的，他称“启示文学中所描述的大多数异象无疑都并不是真实的，只是一种文学虚构而已”（F. C. Porter, Messages of the Apocalyptic is correct in saying that “the visions described in the apocalypses are beyond doubt in the majority of cases not real visions at all but literary fictions” (F. C. Porter, Messages of the Apocalyptic Writers [1905], pp. 40f.).

C. Pseudonymity. A third characteristic of Jewish apocalyptic is pseudonymity. Usually, the apocalyptists employed the transparent fiction of using the name of an OT saint long dead as a means of validating their revelations. Many critics feel that the real authors did not intend to deceive their readers by this devout fiction; however, if the prevailing interpretation of the reason for pseudonymity is valid, the authors did expect their pious fraud to be taken seriously. After the days of Ezra and Nehemiah, Judaism felt that the age of the prophets was over, for no one stood up among the people to announce, “Thus saith the Lord.” The Qumrân community believed that the Holy Spirit inspired their leaders, but the purpose of this inspiration was the correct interpretation of the Word of God, not the utterance of a fresh word from God. If the age of prophecy was over, how could the revelations of the apocalyptists gain a hearing? Since the apocalyptist could not speak as a prophet, “Thus saith the Lord,” he borrowed an OT saint and attributed his visions to him, that the writing might receive the sanction of the prophetic name, whether Enoch, the Twelve Patriarchs, Moses, Ezra, or Baruch.

In this connection, we must observe that Daniel is not pseudonymous, for Daniel is not an OT saint whose name could be used to lend authority to a book. Apart from the stories in the book of Daniel, he is a nonentity. This fact lends some evidence to the view that, whatever the date of composition of Daniel, it embodies traditions of a historical person who lived in the time of Captivity.

Writers [1905], 40-41 页)。

C. 托名写作。犹太启示文学的第三个特征是托名写作。通常，启示文学作者会选择一位早已过世的旧约圣徒，借他之名写作，以此证明自己的启示属实，这种托名的方式通常很容易辨识。许多评论家认为，作品的真正作者并非是想通过这种虔诚的虚构来欺骗读者；但是，如果这种对常见的托名写作的原因的解释是正确的，那么这些作者采取这种方式其实是希望人们认真对待他们的作品。以斯拉和尼希米时期之后，犹太教徒感觉先知的时代已经过去了，因为没有人从人群中出来说“耶和华如此说”。昆兰社团认为圣灵激励了他们的族长，但是这种激励是为了正确地解读神的道，而不是为了表明神做出了新的启示。如果先知的时代确实结束了，那么启示文学作者是从哪里得到的启示呢？启示文学作者不能像先知一样说“耶和华如此说”，所以他只能托旧约圣徒之名，以他的名义说自己的启示，这样写出的作品或许会被认为是先知所做，无论是以诺、十二族长、摩西、以斯拉还是巴录。

在这一点上，我们必须注意到但以理并不是一个托名，因为但以理并不是旧约中的圣徒，他的名字并不能增加作品的权威性。除了《但以理书》中的故事，这个名字无足轻重。这个事实或多或少

Here too is one of the most notable differences between the Revelation and Jewish apocalyptic. The Revelation was written by a living author who was well known to those to whom he wrote.

D. Pseudo-Prophecy. Pseudonymity may be accompanied by pseudo-prophecy. The author not only borrowed an OT saint as the alleged author of his book; he often rewrote the history of Israel from the time of the alleged author to his own time, but cast it in the form of prophecy.

The prophets were men known to their audiences, who took their stand in their own historical situations and proclaimed their messages to their own generations against the background of the coming kingdom of God. Each prophetic writing reflects the events of the author's own time, which the critic must study to determine the date of the book. The prophets also predicted both historical and eschatological events that yet lay in the future. The apocalyptists often took their stand in the distant past and rewrote history as though it were prophecy, attributing the pseudo-prophecy to the pseudo-author. It is frequently possible to follow the course of the alleged prophecy down to the author's own time, when the historical predictions become vague and the Kingdom is expected to come.

It is significant that the Revelation does not use this technique, nor does Our Lord in his apocalyptic sayings. Both take their

地可以证明一个观点，无论但以理的作品写于什么时间，它都体现了一个生于囚禁时代的历史人物的习惯。

这也是《启示录》和犹太启示文学的一个最明显的差异。《启示录》的作者是一个活生生的人，他的读者们都知道他。

D. 伪预言。托名写作通常伴随着伪预言。启示文学作者不但借旧约圣徒之名写作，他还经常以预言的形式重现这位圣徒生活年代的以色列历史。

先知是作者们都了解的人，他以自己的立场，写明当时的历史情况，并向同时代的人揭示神的默示，宣告神之国度即将到来。每部先知书都体现出作者生活年代的历史事件，评论家们必须仔细研究，从而确定书籍的写作时间。先知们还会预言未来的历史事件和末世论的事件。而启示文学作者通常以过去的角度重写历史，并假装那些是预言，即托名作者的伪预言。我们通常可以按照所谓的预言进程去判断作者生活的年代，当书中对历史的预测开始变得模糊不清，并开始表现出对神之国度的期待时，我们便可以推测这就是作者所处的年代了。

值得注意的是，《启示录》和我们主的启示性话语都没有使用这种技巧。它们都是处于当时的时代，预测未来的历史

stand in their own day and predict both historical and eschatological events to come.

E. Symbolism. A final characteristic of the apocalyptic genre is the use of symbolism in declaring the will of God to the people and in predicting future events. This goes back to the prophets. To illustrate Israel's corruption, Jeremiah buried a linen cloth until it was spoiled (Jer. 13:1-11). Ezekiel's vision of the valley full of bones depicted the revival of Israel to national life (Ezk. 37). With Zechariah symbolic visions reach a new dimension. The first six chapters contain eight visions, each involving developed symbolism. The last vision is of four chariots with red, black, white, and dappled-gray horses that came from between the two mountains of bronze to patrol the four corners of the earth (Zech. 6:1-8). These chariots are symbolic of the accomplishment of God's will in all the earth. They are not designed to be identified with specific historical events or personages.

In the use of symbolism, Daniel goes beyond the other prophets and introduces a usage that is imitated by later apocalypses. He uses symbolism to represent events in history. The great image of gold, silver, brass, and iron represents four successive nations in history before the coming of God's kingdom (Dnl. 2), as do the four beasts of Dnl. 7. This device is greatly elaborated in subsequent apocalypses (see 1 En 85-90), and the symbolism of the beast in Rev. 13 is clearly dependent on Daniel.

II. Apocalyptic as Eschatology.-We have 事件和末世论事件。

E. 象征。启示文学流派的最后一个特征是，作者在向百姓宣告神的旨意和在预言未来的事件时，会使用象征。这也是在模仿先知。耶利米埋藏了一条麻布腰带，以此表明以色列将要衰落（耶 13:1-11）。以西结所描述的遍满枯骨的平原这一异象表明以色列将要复兴，重新为国（结 37）。撒迦利亚的象征异象达到了一个新的维度。《撒迦利亚书》前六章包含八个异象，每个异象中都有成熟的象征。最后一个异象是四辆分别套着红马、黑马、白马、有斑点的壮马的车，他们从两座铜山中间出来，要在遍地走来走去（亚 6:1-8）。这些车象征着神的旨意将在普天达成。这些异象都没有对应指示特殊的历史事件或人物。

但以理对象征的使用与其他先知有所不同，他引入的这种新用法受到了许多后来的启示文学作者的模仿。用金银铜铁制的大像象征历史上紧随其后的四个国家，这几个国家都出现在神之国度到来之前（但 2），《但以理书》第 7 章中的四兽也有同样的象征意义。在随后的启示文学作品中，作者们都煞费苦心模仿了这种形式（见《以诺一书》85-90），《启示录》第 13 章中的兽也明显是以《但以理书》为基础。

examined the main features of the apocalyptic genre of literature. We must turn now to a consideration of the main features of the type of eschatology embodied in the apocalypses.

A. Dualism. The first and most important characteristic of apocalyptic eschatology is eschatological dualism. The apocalyptists see a sharp contrast between the character of this age and that of the age to come. The present is the age of sin and evil; the future will see the establishment of the kingdom of God, when God's people will be redeemed from all traces of sin and all the effects of evil will be removed from the earth. The transition from this age will not be achieved by historical processes, but only by an unmediated cosmic act of God.

This apocalyptic dualism is a development of the theology of the prophets, who were conscious of the contrast between God's ideal world and the actual world of nature and history. Although nature and history were under the divine sovereignty, both lay under the curse of sin and the burden of evil. God's kingdom would be established only by an inbreaking of God into history that would result in both a moral and a physical transformation of the present order.

This dualistic eschatology appears distinctly in one of the earliest prophets, Zephaniah. He begins his prophecy with an announcement of divine judgment in which God will "sweep away everything from the face of the earth" (Zeph. 1:2), including man and beast. "In the fire of his jealous wrath shall all the earth be consumed; for a full, yea, sudden end he will make of all the inhabitants of the

示文学流派的主要的特征。现在我们要阐述启示末世论的主要的特征。

A. 二元论。启示论的第一个也是最重要的特征是启示二元论。启示文学作者看到了这一时代和即将来到的时代之间的鲜明对比。当前的时代是罪与恶的时代；未来的时代则建立了神之国度，神的子民将得到救赎，不再有罪，所有恶的影响也都将从地上除去。历史的进程无法实现这一时代的转变，只有神施展大能，才能实现这种转变。

先知们同样意识到了神的理想世界与自然和历史的显示世界之间存在的对比，启示二元论正是先知这种理论的一种发展。虽然自然和历史也为神所统治，但是二者都受到了罪的诅咒和恶的烦扰。只有当神改写历史，改变现在的道德和物理秩序，神之国度才会建立起来。

最早的先知西番亚显然就展现出了这种二元的末世论。他宣告神的审判“必从地上除灭万类”（番 1:2），以此开始了他的预言，这万类中包含人和兽等。“他的忿怒如火，必烧灭全地，毁灭这地的一切居民，而且大大毁灭”（番 1:18）。但在审判之外，西番亚还描述了救赎之时，那时受到救赎的以色列之余民将聚集在锡安，即使是外邦人，也将归顺神，用锡安的语言敬奉神（番 earth” (v. 18). Yet beyond judgment 3:9-20)。

Zephaniah sees a time of salvation when a remnant of Israel, redeemed, will be gathered in Zion, and even the Gentiles will be converted and worship God in the language of Zion (3:9–20).

Zephaniah does not emphasize the redemption of nature as do other prophets. Amos sees an earth that has become rich and abundant in harvest. So abundant will be the grain that the harvest will take all summer. The vines will yield so richly that the work of the treader of grapes in the wine press and that of the sower in the fields will overlap. The mountains and hills on whose slopes the vineyards lay will seem to stream with the flow of the wine (Am. 9:13). Isaiah paints the familiar picture of the wolf lying down with the lamb, the calf with the lion—of a nature so transformed that these fierce beasts become the pets of little children (Isa. 11:6–9). Second Isaiah describes the new age in terms of a new heaven and a new earth (65:17; 66:22), so different will the new order be from the old order. There is, in short, the idea of the contrast between this present world with its burden of evil and the new world transformed by a divine act of redemption.

This dualistic eschatology gradually developed the terminology of “this age” and “the age to come.” This terminology begins to appear in 1 Enoch (16:1; 48:7; 71:15), but it makes its clear appearance first in 4 Ezra and in the NT. Fourth Ezra, written at the end of the 1st cent. A.D., says, “The Most High has made not one Age but two” (7:50, APOT); “This age the Most High has made for many, but the age to come for few” (8:1). If our Gospels accurately report Jesus’ saying, he may have been among the first to use this idiom (Mk. 4:19; 10:30; Mt. 12:32; Lk. 16:8; 20:34). The expression also appears in the Pauline correspondence (Gal. 1:4; Eph. 1:21; 1 Cor. 2:6; 3:18). The theology of eschatological dualism is that the powers of evil are so dominant in this age that only a direct unmediated act of God can destroy them; and this redemptive act of God will deliver not only God’s people but the very world of nature from the grip of evil. “The creation itself will be set free from its bondage to decay and obtain the glorious liberty of the children of God” (Rom. 8:21). This is a thoroughly apocalyptic saying.

西番亚并没有像其他先知一样，强调自然的救赎。阿摩司预言地上将变得富饶，人们将有丰沃的收获。粮食丰收，人们将用一整个夏天来收获。葡萄长势良好，“耕种的必接续收割的，踹葡萄的必接续撒种的。大山要滴下甜酒，小山都必流奶”（摩 9:13）。以赛亚描绘了一副常见的画面，“豺狼必与绵羊同居，豹子与山羊羔同居”，自然改变了，猛兽成了孩童的宠物（赛 11:6-9）。第二以赛亚描述了一个有新天新地的新时代（赛 65:17; 66:22），新秩序和旧秩序之间有天壤之别。总之，先知文学中存在着对比的概念：有恶的烦扰的这个现实世界与神行救赎改变的新世界之间的对比。

B. History and Eschatology. A second characteristic of apocalyptic eschatology is its non-prophetic view of history. The prophets see a dynamic tension between the immediate historical future and the more distant eschatological future. For instance, Amos describes the day of the Lord as a day of darkness, when a historical judgment would overtake Israel (5:18–20). This means nothing less than captivity beyond Damascus (5:27). Yet beyond this historical judgment Amos sees a further visitation: the eschatological Day of the Lord. The future holds a day of universal judgment (7:4; 8:8f.; 9:5) and, beyond that, a day of salvation when the house of David will be revived, Israel restored, and the earth become a blessing (9:11–15). God will judge His people for their sins in a historical judgment, but He will finally redeem them in the kingdom of God.

The apocalyptists lost this tension between history and eschatology. The 了未来的世界”（《以斯拉四书》8:1）。如果我们现在研读的福音书精确地记录了耶稣的话语，那么祂可能是第一批使用这两个词语的人（可4:19；10:30；太12:32；路16:8；20:34）。保罗书信中也出现了这两个词语（加1:4；弗1:21；林前2:6；3:18）。末世二元论认为邪恶力量占据了这个世界，只有神的大能才能将他们毁灭；这种理论还认为神的救赎行为将拯救神的子民和这个自然世界，使其摆脱罪恶的束缚。“但受造之物仍然指望脱离败坏的辖制，得享神儿女自由的荣耀”（罗8:21）。这句话完全是一种启示性话语。

B. 历史与末世论。 启示末世论的第二个特征是它的非预言性的历史观。先知们看到即将到来的历史的未来和比较遥远的末世论的未来之间存在着一种动态的张力。比如说，阿摩司将主的日子描述成黑暗没有光辉的日子，这一天将有一场历史的审判给以色列人带来灾祸（摩5:18-20）。这指的就是神将会把以色列人掳到大马士革以外（摩5:27）。除了这场历史审判之外，阿摩司还描述了一场规模更大的审判：世界末日。未来有一天将有一场对整个世界的审判（摩7:4；8:8-9；9:5），此外，还将有救赎的日子，在这天，大卫倒塌的房屋将被修复，以色列将要复兴，而以色列的地将成为神的赏赐（摩9:11-15）。神会因祂的民的罪对他们行审判，但是祂终将在神之国度中救赎他们。

启示文学作者则没有体现出历史和末世论之间的张力。他们认为现在和未来

present and the future were seen as quite unrelated. The apocalyptists could not understand the prophetic interpretation of present historical experience as God's judgment upon His people for their apostasy, for Israel was no longer faithless. After the days of Ezra and Nehemiah, the Law assumed a role of new importance in the experience of Israel. Israel in OT times again and again neglected the Law and apostatized to foreign gods; but in NT times, under the influence of Pharisaic and scribal religion, many Jews were utterly devoted to obedience to the Law. In fact, religion had become a life of strict obedience to a mass of rules. Here then was Israel's problem: "Israel has received and kept God's law; why then are God's people suffering under the heel of godless pagans? This cannot be God's doing." The only answer given is that God's ways are inscrutable. There is no other answer. After the destruction of Jerusalem in A.D. 70, a very sensitive spirit, pondering this problem, wrote 4 Ezra 3:32-36: "Has another nation known Thee besides Israel? Or what tribes have so believed Thy covenants as these tribes of Jacob? Yet their reward has not appeared and their labor has borne no fruit, ... when have the inhabitants of the earth not sinned in Thy sight? Or what nation has kept Thy commandments so well [as Israel]? Thou mayest indeed find individual men who have kept Thy commandments, but nations Thou wilt not find." The response to this problem is one of utter despair: "It would be better for us not to be here than to come here and live in ungodliness, and to suffer and not understand why" (4:12). The only solution offered is that God will yet act to rectify the evil of the present. The age

毫不相关。先知将当前的历史事件解读为神因祂的民叛教和不信而对祂们所行的审判，但启示文学作者对此却并不理解。以斯拉和尼希米时期之后，律法在以色列人的经历中扮演着新的重要角色。旧约时期，以色列人一再忽视律法，转信外邦的神；但新约时期，在法利赛人和类似教派的影响下，许多犹太人开始谨遵律法。实际上，宗教已经变成了一种要严格服从大量规则的生活模式。因此以色列人产生了一个疑问：“以色列已经接受并遵守了律法，为何神的民仍然被不信神的异端践踏呢？这不可能是神所行的事。”对此只有一个回答：神的道神秘莫测。我们再找不到其他的答案。公元70年，耶路撒冷毁灭之后，一个非常敏感的灵魂，沉思这个问题之后，写下了一段话（《以斯拉四书》3:32-36）：“除了以色列以外没有别的民族更了解你，没有别的民族曾经接受过你的圣约。但以色列人却从未得到过回报，从未因他们的劳作而获益……所有世人都无时无刻不对你犯下罪孽；但又有哪一个民族像以色列一样遵从过你的戒律呢？你或许能找到这样做的个人，但你却不会找到这样做的一个民族。”以斯拉彻底绝望，他对这个问题的回应是：“如果我们从未出生，也许要比我们无奈地生活在这个充满了罪孽与苦难的世界上，却不能理解它为何如此要好得多”（《以斯拉四书》4:12）。唯一的解决方式是神仍审判现在的恶行。这个世界终将结束，神将创造一个充满义的世界。但是这最终的救赎行为与这个世界毫无关联。 will finally come to its end, and God will inaugurate the new age of righteousness. However, this final redemptive act has no bearing upon the present.

While the NT shares the eschatological dualism of Jewish apocalyptic, it does not share its despair over history. In fact, the NT revives the prophetic tension between history and eschatology. Jesus’ view of the divine acts in the future includes both judgment in history and judgment at the end of history. He wept over Jerusalem because the Holy City had rejected the divinely appointed messenger: “Behold, your house is forsaken and desolate” (Mt. 23:38). He foretold the destruction of the holy temple; not one stone was to be left standing upon another (Mt. 24:2). He predicted the destruction of Chorazin and Bethsaida because of their unrepentant spirit (Mt. 11:20–22). God was again seen as active in history to challenge and to judge His people. Jesus also announced that Israel is to be dispossessed as the covenant people of God and that a new people will be raised up to take her place (Mt. 21:43).

《新约》虽然和犹太启示文学一样采用了末世二元论，但是它并没有体现出对历史的绝望。实际上，《新约》中恢复了先知神学中的历史与末世论之间的张力。耶稣认为神将行的审判既包括历史审判，也包括末日审判。耶稣为耶路撒冷撒冷哭泣，因为这座圣城拒绝了神所派遣的使者：“看哪，你们的家成为荒场，

At the same time, Jesus looked beyond this historical judgment to a final eschatological judgment. This is clear from the parables; in the day of judgment the wheat and the tares will be separated and the bad fish gathered out from among the good (Mt. 13).

This tension between history and eschatology (cf. G. E. Ladd. Presence of the Future [1974], pp. 64ff.) is seen most vividly in the Olivet discourse. According to Matthew, the disciples asked two questions: when will the temple be destroyed, and what will be the sign of the close of the age? In answer, Jesus seems to have conflated these two events, and to have viewed the eschatological future through the transparency of the nearer historical future. Mk. 13 and Mt. 24 emphasize the eschatological aspect—the appearance of the Antichrist and the last great tribulation (Mt. 24:15ff.). In the parallel passage, Luke writes of Jerusalem being surrounded by armies (Lk. 21:20). God, who will act at the end of history to establish His kingdom, is working in history in His kingly power. This tension between history and eschatology is one of the most distinctive marks of prophetic eschatology in contrast to Jewish apocalyptic. While Jesus shares the eschatological dualism of apocalyptic, with its expectation of a cosmic catastrophe. He stands squarely in the prophetic tradition in that He also sees the hand of God in historical events.

同时，除了这场历史审判，耶稣还看见了一场最终的末日审判。这从耶稣说的寓言中可以明显看出；在审判的日子里，好种和稗子、好鱼和烂鱼将被区分开来，坏的都要被烧毁丢弃（太 13）。

耶稣在橄榄山上的教训最为生动地体现出了历史和末世论之间的张力（参：G. E. Ladd. Presence of the Future [1974], 64 页起）。根据《马太福音》中的记载，门徒提出了两个问题：神殿什么时候毁坏，世界的末了有什么预兆？耶稣似乎将这两个问题合并回答，他透过较近的历史前景看到了将来的末日。《马太福音》第 13 章和 24 章强调了末日即将到来，那时敌基督的要出现，人们将经受最后的大灾难（太 24:15 起）。在这段经文的平行经文中，路加写道耶路撒冷将被兵围困（路 21:20）。神在历史中行使祂的王权，祂会在历史结束时建立祂的国度。历史和末世论之间的张力是先知末世论和犹太启示末世论之间最显著的区别。虽然耶稣和启示末世二元论一样，都期待世界末日的到来，但祂同时也遵循了先知的传统，看到了神对历史事件的统治。

C. Pessimism. Jewish apocalyptic may also be described as pessimistic about history. Some scholars (e.g., H. H. Rowley, Relevance of Apocalyptic [1947], p. 36) object to the use of the term “pessimistic.” As Rowley writes, it is erroneous to call the apocalyptists pessimists in their ultimate outlook, for they never lost their confidence that God would finally triumph. They possessed an ultimate optimism that was born of an unshakable faith. Indeed, the very purpose of their writings was to assure God’s people that God had not really forsaken them, but that in His own good time He would arise to save Israel and punish the wicked.

But it is also true that the apocalyptists had not only lost the sense of the divine activity in history; they had become utterly pessimistic about the evil character of this age: the blessings of God’s kingdom could not be experienced in the present, for God had abandoned this age to suffering and evil. Such a theology was forced upon devout Jews as the only possible explanation for their evil plight. The solution to the problem of evil was thrown altogether into the future; the present was seen as irremediably evil. The righteous could only submit patiently to suffering, sustained by the assurance that deliverance would surely come when the evil age was past and the new age of the Kingdom had arrived.

C. 悲观论。我们也可以将犹太启示末世论看作是一种历史悲观论。有些学者（如 H. H. Rowley, Relevance of Apocalyptic [1947], 36 页）并不支持使用“悲观”这个词。罗莱写道，根据启示文学作者的最终展望就称他们为悲观主义者，这是错误的，因为他们从来没失去信心，他们坚信神终将胜利。他们抱有一种终极的乐观主义，这种乐观来自于他们坚定的信仰。实际上，他们作品的目的在于向神的子民保证，神从未真正的遗弃他们，在神的日子，祂必将兴起，救赎以色列，惩治恶人。

The most vivid illustration of this is found in the dream-visions of 1 Enoch (chs. 83–90). According to the second vision, God personally guided the experiences of Israel throughout its history until the Babylonian captivity. Then God withdrew his personal leadership, forsook the temple, and surrendered his people to wild beasts to be torn and devoured. God “remained unmoved, though He saw it, and rejoiced that they were devoured and swallowed and robbed, and left them to be devoured in the hand of all the beasts” (1 En 89:58, APOT). Then God turned the fortunes of the nation over to seventy angel-shepherds, instructing them as to the number of Jews who might be slain. However, the shepherds were self-willed and faithless, ignoring the divine directive, and permitting fearful evils to befall God’s people. When reports of the evil conduct of the shepherds were brought to God, He laid them aside and remained unmoved and aloof (1 En 89:71, 75). A record was made of the angels’ faithlessness that they might be punished on the day of judgment when Israel would be delivered. Between the years 586 and 165 B.C., God was conceived to be inactive in the fortunes of Israel. God’s people found themselves at the mercy of faithless angels. No deliverance could be expected until the messianic era. The apocalypse of Ezra reflects an equal pessimism. Ezra’s problem is found in the fact that Israel has received and kept God’s Law (4 Ezr. 6:55–59), while the Gentiles have rejected it (3:31–34; 7:20–24); yet God has spared the ungodly and preserved His enemies, but has destroyed His people (3:30). This insoluble problem casts Ezra into abject despair. He wishes he had never been born (4:12). Dumb beasts are better off than the righteous, for they cannot think about their fate (7:66). The only hope lies in the future. By divine decree, there are two ages: the present age is hopelessly evil, but the future age will witness the solution to the problem of evil (4:26–32; 7:50; 8:1–3). The righteous, therefore, must now patiently resign themselves to evil in the confidence of a solution in the age to come, and are not to be disturbed because the masses perish. God himself is not moved by the death of the wicked (7:60f., 131; 8:38, 55). This age is evil; hope belongs altogether to the age to come.

《以诺一书》83-90章中梦的异象最为生动地阐明了这种理论。根据第二个异象，神与以色列人同在，一直到巴比伦囚禁时期。随后神离开了祂的子民，放弃了神殿，任祂的民被野兽撕碎吞食。“上主仍然是平静和喜乐的，因为羊被擒获和吞噬；他把羊交给一切的猛兽作食物”（《以诺一书》89:58, APOT）。神将民族的命运交给七十个牧羊人，指示他们哪些是当剪除的。但是这些牧羊人不信靠神，按照自己的意愿行事，他们无视主的指示，对神的民犯下了可怕的罪行。当牧羊人的行为被报告给神时，祂任由他们继续行事，保持缄默（《以诺一书》89:71, 75）。使者对神不忠，但据记载，他们将在审判的日子受到惩罚，届时以色列将受到救赎。人们认为公元前586-165年，神并未支配以色列的命运。神的民受不忠的使者的支配。弥赛亚时代到来之前，他们不会得到救赎。《以斯拉启示录》中也体现出这种悲观论。以斯拉的问题在于以色列已经接受并遵守了律法（《以斯拉四书》6:55-59），外邦人却拒绝律法（《以斯拉四书》3:31-34; 7:20-24）；神容忍恶人，保护敌人却消灭祂的民（《以斯拉四书》3:30）。以斯拉无法解决这个问题，他陷入了不幸的绝望之中。他希望自己从未出生（《以斯拉四书》4:12）。哑巴动物比义人幸福得多，因为他们不能思考自己的命运（《以斯拉四书》7:66）。唯一的希望存在于未来世界之中。神的法令中有两个世界：这个世界已经充满不幸，无可救药，但在未来世界，恶的问题将得以解决（《以斯拉四书》4:26-32; 7:50; 8:1-3）。因此，义人必须耐心地忍受不幸，坚信在未来世界可以得到救赎，不能因百姓毁灭而受烦扰。神不会因恶人的死亡而被感动（《以斯拉四书》7:60-61, 131; 8:38, 55）。这个世界是

The NT shares the view of Jewish apocalyptic that this age is evil (Gal. 1:4). Satan is even called the god of this age (2 Cor. 4:4). But no NT writer shares the Jewish pessimism about this age. In fact, the heart of the gospel is found in the fact that in Jesus of Nazareth God has acted to bring to men the blessings of His kingly rule. The kingdom of God, which belongs to the age to come, has actually come to men in history (Mt. 12:28). While Satan is the god of this age, the mission of Jesus accomplishes a binding of Satan (Mt. 12:29). By His death, Jesus has “destroyed him who has the power of death, that is, the devil” (He. 2:14). Our NT apocalypse shares this redemptive view of history. John sees the scroll of human destiny resting in the hand of God, but the scroll is firmly sealed with seven seals so that no one can open the book and read its contents. When John weeps because the book can not be opened, he is told, “Weep not; lo, the Lion of the tribe of Judah, the Root of David, has conquered [lit., has won a victory], so that he can open the scroll and its seven seals” (Rev. 5:5). When John turns to see the Lion—the Davidic King—he sees instead a lamb, bearing the marks of slaughter. The Davidic King will be able to bring history to the kingdom of God only because He was first the suffering Lamb of God. He won a victory in history that will lead into the kingdom of God. This is the theme of the entire NT: the redemptive work of God in the historical Jesus of Nazareth, which will issue finally in Jesus’ apocalyptic coming as the Son of Man to establish the glorious kingdom of God.

《新约》和犹太启示末世论一样，都认为这是个罪恶的时代（加 1:4）。在这个时代，甚至有人称撒但为神（林后 4:4）。但是《新约》作者却像犹太人一样，对这个时代抱有悲观情绪。实际上，神通过拿撒勒人耶稣带给人祂称王的福音，我们可以从这一事实中发现福音书的核心。神的国是属于未来世界的，但实际上，这国在历史上已经临到人的身上（太 12:28）。当撒但作这个时代的神时，耶稣的使命就是捆住撒但（太 12:29）。耶稣要“藉着死，败坏那掌死权的，就是魔鬼”（来 2:14）。《新约》中启示末世论也有救赎的历史观。约翰看见了神手中拿着的写满人类命运的书卷，但有七印将这书卷牢牢地封死，没有人能展开这幅书卷，观看其中的内容。当约翰因没人能展开书卷而痛哭时，有长老对他说：“不要哭！看哪，犹太支派中的狮子，大卫的根，他已得胜[字面意思：获得胜利]，能以展开那书卷，揭开那七印”（启 5:5）。当约翰

D. Determinism. Another characteristic of Jewish apocalyptic is determinism. The course of this age is predetermined and must run to its completion. The Kingdom does not come even though the righteous deserve it, because certain fixed periods must first unfold. Therefore, the Kingdom must await its appointed time. Little emphasis is placed on a sovereign God who is acting through these appointed times to carry out His purposes. Rather, God Himself is awaiting the passing of the times He has decreed. “For he has weighed the age in the balance, and measured the times by measure, and numbered the times by number; and he will not move nor arouse them until that measure is fulfilled” (4 Ez. 4:36f.). The entire course of human history is prerecorded in heavenly books (1 En 81:1-3; 103:1f.).

Since the time of the end is fixed, the present age is often thought to be divided

去看那狮子，也就是大卫家族的王时，他却看到一只羔羊，“像是被杀过的”。这个大卫家族的王首先是受难的神的羔羊，所以祂才得以使历史进入神之国度中。这是整本《新约》的主题：神在拿撒勒的基督里的救赎行为，当耶稣作为人子，施行审判的末日来临时，祂将建立荣耀的神之国度，此时救赎行为才会最终完成。

D. 决定论。犹太启示末世论的另一个特征是决定论。这种理论认为这个时代的进程已经决定了，必须运转到结束的那一刻。义人虽然足以进入神之国度，但这国度却暂时不会来临，因为神在最初就已经订立了时期。因此，神之国度必将等到神指定的日期才会到来。神在这些指定的时间内行使祂的旨意，但决定论中并没怎么强调神权的至高无上。神自身也在等待祂指定的时代过去。“因为上帝已经称过了今世的重量，量过了这些年月的长度，查点了这些日子的数目。在时间走完预定的行程之前，一切都不会变动”（《以斯拉四书》4:36-37）。天上的书卷已经预先记录了整个人类历史的进程（《以诺一书》81:1-3; 103:1-2）。

由于时代结束的时间已经决定了，人们通常会认为这个时代被分为了某些早

into certain determined periods. The dream-visions of Enoch divide time, from the captivity to the end, into seventy periods during which Israel is given into the care of seventy shepherds (1 En 89:72; 90:1, 5). Only when the seventy periods have passed can the end come. The apocalypses usually assume that the fixed periods have nearly run out, and therefore that the end is about to come.

In contrast to this stand Jesus' words: "But of that day and hour no one knows, not even the angels of heaven, nor the Son, but the Father only" (Mt. 24:36); "Watch therefore, for you do not know on what day your Lord is coming" (v. 42); "The master of that servant will come on a day when he does not expect him and at an hour he does not know" (v. 50).

E. Ethical Passivity. A final characteristic may be called ethical passivity. The apocalyptists were not motivated by strong moral or evangelical urgency. The prophets continually appealed to Israel to repent and to turn from their sins to God. They prophesied that judgment would fall upon a sinful nation, but that the kingdom would one day come for a righteous remnant. The prophets were not interested in the future for its own sake, however, but only for its impact upon the present. They predicted future judgment and salvation in order that, in light of that future, they might confront Israel with the will of God.

As the apocalyptists perceived it, however, the problem in their day was not the need for national repentance. Rather, the problem arose out of their conviction that the Israel of their day was the righteous remnant—yet the Kingdom did

已决定的时间段。以诺梦的异象将被掳到末日的这段时间分为七十个时间段，在这期间，以色列由七十个牧羊人看管（《以诺一书》89:72；90:1, 5）。只有当这七十个时间段过完时，这个时代才会结束。启示文学作品中经常假设这已经决定了的时期马上就要结束了，因此末日就要到来了。

耶稣的话语与启示文学作品中的这种假设形成了对照：“但那日子、那时辰，没有人知道，连天上的使者也不知道，子也不知道，惟独父知道”（太 24:36）；“所以，你们要警醒，因为不知道你们的主是哪一天来到”（太 24:42）；“在想不到的日子，不知道的时辰，那仆人的主人要来”（太 24:50）。

E. 道德被动论。 启示末世论的最后一个特征或许可以被称作道德被动论。启示文学作者并不是受强烈的道德感或福音带来的紧迫感的驱使。先知们一直在呼吁以色列人忏悔，脱离罪恶并归向神。他们在预言中称审判将临到罪恶的民族，但神之国度终将临到剩余的义人身上。先知并不在乎未来世界本身，他们关注的仅仅是未来对当前的影响。他们预言未来的审判和救赎，是希望以色列人通过这些能够获知神的旨意。

但是，正如启示文学作者所感知的，这个时代的问题不是对民族悔改的需求。他们的问题在于当前的以色列人已经是剩余的义人了，但神之国度仍然没有临到。启示文学和拉比文学对义的定义基本相同，即遵守摩西律法便是义；启

not come. The apocalyptic and rabbinic definitions of righteousness were basically the same: obedience to the Law of Moses; and the circles in which the apocalyptists moved were faithful to the Law. The literature from the Qumrân caves, e.g., shows that the Qumranians were strict legalists. Therefore most of the apocalypses devote very little space to ethical exhortation. The two notable exceptions are the Testaments of the Twelve Patriarchs and the last part of Enoch (chs. 92–105). The Testaments have a strong ethical emphasis with a noteworthy stress on inward righteousness and the ethic of love; but this sets the book apart from the usual atmosphere of apocalyptic literature. The book is not in fact apocalyptic in form, but is imitative prophecy. The last section of Enoch defines righteousness in terms of obedience to the Law (99:2, 4) and has little apocalyptic material in the strict sense of the word. The scholars who insist upon a strong ethical emphasis in apocalyptic literature draw most of their illustrations from the two canonical apocalypses, Daniel and Revelation, and from the Testaments of the Twelve Patriarchs.

Ethical exhortation is lacking because there is a loss of a sense of sinfulness. The problem of the apocalyptists is found in the fact that the true Israel does keep the law and therefore is righteous—and yet is permitted to suffer. Fourth Ezra seems to be an exception to this statement, for the author at several points expresses a profound sense of sinfulness (4:12; 7:118). This, however, is counterbalanced by a sense of the righteousness of God's people, who have received the Law (3:32; 5:29; 8:29), have kept it (3:35; 7:25), and therefore have a treasury of works before God (6:5; 7:77; 8:33). Nevertheless, Jerusalem has been destroyed by the Romans and the temple leveled, and according to prophetic theology this must be a judgment for Israel's sins. But just there is the problem: as a matter of fact, Israel is not sinful! She has kept the Law. This problem created a tension in the author's mind that led to deep despair (7:118) and to a pitiful cry to God to deal with his people in terms of grace (8:6). Thus, Ezra's sense of sinfulness is more the result of theoretical theology than deep conviction. Throughout the book we meet the contrast between the righteous few who have kept the Law—the faithful of Israel—and the mass of men who perish, but about whose fate God is unconcerned (8:56; 7:61, 131; 8:38).

示文学作者都是忠于律法的。昆兰的山洞中发现的文献表明昆兰人是严格的律法主义者。因此启示文学中道德教训所占的篇幅非常小。但在这点上,《十二族长遗训》和《以诺一书》的最后一部分(《以诺一书》92-105章)显然是两个特例。《十二使徒遗训》侧重道德,尤其强调内在的义和爱的道德;但这种侧重使得《十二使徒遗训》与启示文学的普遍基调有所不同。这本书在形式上并不属于启示文学,它更像是在模仿先知文学。《以诺一书》的最后部分将义定义为遵守律法(《以诺一书》99:2, 4),从措辞的严格意义上来讲,这几乎没有启示文学的元素。有些学者坚持认为启示文学中着重强调道德,这种观点则大多都是出自两本正典启示录——《但以理书》和《启示录》以及《十二族长遗训》。

启示文学中缺少道德教训,这是因为作者们缺失了对罪的认知。启示文学作者认为真正的以色列人遵守律法,因此他们是义人,但他们仍要受苦难,这是他们的疑问。《以斯拉四书》似乎是个例外,书中作者几次表露出深刻的罪恶感(《以斯拉四书》4:12; 7:118)。但是,这种罪恶感被神的民的正义感抵消了,他们获知了律法(《以斯拉四书》3:32; 5:29; 8:29),遵守了律法(《以斯拉四书》3:35; 7:25),因此在神面前积攒了财富(《以斯拉四书》6:5; 7:77; 8:33)。然而耶路撒冷被罗马人毁灭了,神殿也

Both Jesus' teachings and the Revelation reflect prophetic rather than apocalyptic theology on this point. Jesus' forecast of the future has an ethical purpose. "Watch [lit., be awake], therefore, for you do not know on what day your Lord is coming. But know this, that if the householder had known in what part of the night the thief was coming he would have watched and would not have let his house be broken into. Therefore you must always be ready" (Mt. 24:42–44).

The seven letters of Rev. 2–3 are replete with ethical warnings. Most of them contain a summons to repentance. The Revelation as a whole concludes with an evangelical summons for men to come and drink of the water of life (Rev. 22:17).

倾倒了，根据先知神学的观点，这一定是神因以色列人犯了罪而降下的审判。但这就又回到了之前的问题上：实际上，以色列并没有罪！以色列人遵守了律法。作者对这个问题十分困惑，因此产生了深深的绝望（《以斯拉四书》7:118），于是他向神哭诉，求神恩待祂的民（《以斯拉四书》8:6）。因此，以斯拉的罪恶感其实更多是出于一种理论神学，而不是出于深刻的忏悔。我们可以看到义人与堕落之人的对比贯穿于整本《以斯拉四书》之中，以色列虔诚的义人是少数的，他们遵守律法，而堕落之人则有很多，神对这些堕落之人的命运毫不关心（《以斯拉四书》8:56; 7:61, 131; 8:38）。

在这一点上，耶稣的教训和《启示录》所体现的特征更类似先知神学而非启示神学。耶稣对未来的预测中包含有一种道德目的。“所以，你们要警醒[字面意思：醒着]，因为不知道你们的主是哪一天来到。家主若知道几更天有贼来，就必警醒，不容人挖透房屋，这是你们所知道的。所以，你们也要预备”（太24:42-44）。

《启示录》第2、3章中的七封信内也充满了道德警示。其中大多数都是在呼吁人们悔改。总的来说，《启示录》最后以福音派对人类的呼吁结束：来取生命的水喝（启22:17）。

III. Apocalyptic Writings.-Included here are the several books that are usually grouped under the heading of apocalyptic writings, even though some of them are not, strictly speaking, apocalyptic in form.

A. First (or Ethiopic) Enoch. Three apocalyptic books bearing the name of Enoch have come down to us, known as Ethiopic Enoch (1 Enoch), Slavonic Enoch (2 Enoch), and Hebrew Enoch (3 Enoch). Since the last of these lies beyond the period of our interest, it will receive no attention.

First Enoch is obviously a composite work, consisting of at least five different parts. The third part (chs. 72-82) is an astronomical treatise containing no eschatology and may here be ignored. Since Aramaic fragments of ten different MSS, representing four parts of the book, have been found in the Qumrân caves, it is quite certain that the book in its several parts was originally written in Aramaic and then translated into Greek at an early date. Considerable fragments of the Greek version have been found; these have recently been re-edited by Matthew Black (Apocalypsis Henochi Graece [1970]). The Greek version was translated into Ethiopic. In 1773 a traveller, James Bruce, brought three MSS in Ethiopic from Abyssinia to Britain. We now possess twenty-nine MSS, but all of them more or less corrupt. We have no materials to trace the history of the five parts of Enoch as individual books or as a collection.

Few objective criteria exist by which to date the production of these books and

III. 启示文学作品。以下提到的几本书，通常人们将其归类为启示文学作品，即使其中某几本书，严格来说，在形式上并不属于启示文学。

A. 《以诺一书》(或《埃塞俄比亚以诺启示录》)。有三本用以诺之名写就的作品流传了下来，它们的名字分别是《埃塞俄比亚以诺启示录》(《以诺一书》)、《斯拉夫以诺启示录》(《以诺二书》)和《希伯来以诺启示录》(《以诺三书》)。其中《以诺三书》超出了我们的讨论范围，所以在此不予关注。

their collection. Most scholars believe they were written between 165 and 64 B.C., but conclusions vary considerably.

The central motif of Enoch is easy to understand. According to Gen. 5:24, Enoch was caught up from the earth to be with God. The books of Enoch relate many of the heavenly secrets that Enoch allegedly saw on his journeys through the heavens. He learned not only secrets about the end of the age and the coming of the kingdom of God, but also secrets about many of the mysteries of life and the world.

The first book (chs. 1–36) opens with a brief introduction (chs. 1–5) that contains a short passage quoted in Jude 14f.: “And behold! He cometh with ten thousand of His holy ones to execute judgment upon all and to destroy all the ungodly, and to convict all flesh of all the works of their ungodliness which they have committed, and of all the hard things which ungodly sinners have spoken against Him” (1:9). In this part of Enoch there is no messianic personage; it is God who comes.

The main part of the first book is concerned with the problem of evil. Evil is traced to the fallen angels who lusted after the daughters of men. The fallen angels instructed men in many arts and crafts of civilization. Furthermore, all sin is ascribed to these fallen angels (10:8). They are allowed to plague mankind throughout human history, but Enoch foresees their final doom. This book pictures the coming of the kingdom of God, but in very crude terms, “Then shall all the righteous escape, and shall live till they beget thousands of children. And all

《以诺一书》的主旨很容易理解。根据《创世记》5:24中的记录，以诺被神从地上取去，与神同行。《以诺一书》中提到了许多以诺自称在天堂之旅时看到的天上的奥秘。他不仅知晓了这个时代的结束和神之国度将要到来的奥秘，还了解了许多关于生命和世界的奥秘。

《以诺一书》的第一卷（第1-36章）以简述开篇（第1-5章），其中包含了《犹太书》中曾引用的一小段经文：“看哪，主带着他的千万圣者降临，要在众人身上行审判，证实那一切不敬虔的人，所妄行一切不敬虔的事，又证实不敬虔之罪人所说顶撞他的刚愎话”（犹1:9）。《以诺一书》的第一卷中并没有提到弥赛亚这个角色，将要到来的是神。

第一卷书主要关注的是恶的问题。恶要追溯到那些堕落的天使身上，他们随意娶人的女子。这些堕落的天使教导人类许多艺术与工艺文明。此外，所有的罪都要归于这些堕落天使身上（《以诺一书》10:8）。神允许他们给人类带来灾祸，这些灾祸贯穿于整个人类历史，但以诺预言了他们最终的厄运。这卷书描述了神之国度即将到来，但书中的用词却未经雕琢，“那时，所有的义人将会逃命；他们要成为活人，直至他们生养众多，遍满地面；他们在年轻和年老的日子均能得享平安”（《以诺一书》10:17）。书中并没有提到弥赛亚的存在。

the days of their youth and their old age shall they complete in peace” (10:17). There is no messiah of any kind.

In his travels, Enoch visits Sheol. The depiction of Sheol shows considerable development beyond the OT conception of a place where all the dead have a shadowy existence. In Enoch’s description there are several compartments into which men are separated according to the good and evil of their lives. The righteous are gathered into a place that has a bright fountain of water (ch. 22). Although it is not explicitly stated, Enoch probably expected a resurrection before the day of judgment.

The second book, called the Parables or Similitudes (chs. 37–71), is of great interest for NT studies. It differs significantly from the first book in that it makes no reference to the fallen angels. Instead, the wicked are said to be subject to Satans (54:6) who, unlike the fallen angels, have access to heaven (40:7f.) to accuse men. The Similitudes is of particular interest because of its distinctive doctrine of the Son of Man and the kingdom of God. In Dnl. 7 “one like a son of man” comes to the throne of God to receive the kingdom of God. Scholars disagree as to whether this passage refers to a specific individual or merely to a symbol representing the saints of God (cf. the four beasts). In any case, in Enoch the Son of Man has become an individual who is also called the Elect One. He is a superhuman, heavenly, preexistent being to whom God has given all dominion, who comes to raise the dead and to sit in judgment over all men. Twice in Enoch this Son of Man is called the “messiah” (48:10; 52:4), but as the Psalms of Solomon shows, the messiah was thought to be an earthly, human, Davidic king, not a heavenly supernatural being. Therefore it is well to distinguish between the earthly Davidic messiah and the heavenly preexistent Son of Man.

第二卷书被称为《以诺类撰》（第 37-71 章），这卷书对《新约》研究十分有价值。它与第一卷书有很大区别，因为其中并未提及堕落的天使，反而提到恶人作了撒但的使者（《以诺一书》 54:6），撒但是可以到天上控诉人类的，这点与堕落的天使不同（《以诺一书》 40:7-8）。《以诺类撰》值得给予特别关注，因为这其中包含了一种关于人子和神之国度的独特教义。《但以理书》第 7 章中提到“一位像人子的”将要得了神的权柄，掌控神的国。关于这段经文指的是一个具体的个体，还是仅仅是对神的圣徒的一种象征，学者们对此持有不同观点（参：四兽）。无论如何，《以诺一书》中的人子指的是一个个体，他被称作“被拣选的圣者”。他是一个超人类的、天上的、先于时间的先存者，神将权柄赐予他，他将令死者复生，并对全人类行审判。《以诺一书》中两次将人子称作弥赛亚（《以诺一书》 48:10； 52:4），但根据《所罗门诗篇》的描述，弥赛亚应该是一个地上的凡人，他是大卫家族的王，而不是天上超自然的存在。因此最好还是应当将地上的、大卫家族的弥

In Enoch the righteous will be raised to a glorious Kingdom. They will be “clothed with garments of glory” (62:16). Both the earth and the heaven will be transformed (45:4) as the final dwelling place for the righteous. This reflects the theology of the new heaven and a new earth in Isaiah 65:17; 66:22.

A few scholars have maintained that the figure of the heavenly Son of Man in the similitudes can be used to explain our Lord’s use of the term. Others have argued that the Son of Man passages in Enoch are the result of a Christian redaction of a Jewish book. The situation is further complicated by the fact that fragments of the other four books of Enoch have been found in Qumrân; and some scholars have used this fact to argue that the Similitudes is a Christian work. However, there is no distinctive Christian element in the book. The Son of Man theme can be accounted for as a midrash on the Son of Man in Dnl. 7. This book is of great value to Gospel study because it shows how some circles in Judaism interpreted Dnl. 7.

The fourth book (chs. 83–90) is the account of two visions seen by Enoch in his dreams. The second vision uses elaborate animal symbolism to trace the history of the world down to the establishment of the messianic Kingdom.

赛亚与天上的、存在于时间之前的人子区分开来。

根据《以诺一书》记载，义人将要在荣耀的国度中复活。他们要“穿上荣耀的袍子”（《以诺一书》62:16）。天与地都要更新（《以诺一书》45:4），成为义人的永久居所。这反映了《以赛亚书》65:17和66:22中关于新天和新地的神学理论。

有些学者坚持认为这卷书中所说的天上的人子可以用来解释我们的主所说的人子。其他学者则认为《以诺一书》中关于人子的经文是基督徒对犹太典籍进行修订之后的结果。昆兰的山洞中发现了《以诺一书》其他四卷书的残本，这一事实使得情况变得更加复杂；有些学者将这个事实当做论据，认为比喻卷是一本基督教作品。但是，这卷书中并不具备明显的基督教作品的特征。人子这一主题可以对《但以理书》第七章中人子的注释作出解释。这卷书对福音书的研究十分有价值，因为它体现了犹太教的某些领域是如何解读《但以理书》第7章的。

第四卷书（第83-90章）记载了以诺在梦境中看到的两个异象。第二个异象中，作者煞费苦心，运用动物象征人类，追溯了这个世界的历史，一直演绎到弥赛亚国度的建立。我们可以将这个世界的历史追溯到马加比家族时期。在最后

We can trace this history down to Maccabean times. In the final period the Gentiles will launch an attack upon Israel; but they will not prevail, because a deliverer will arise, who is pictured as a mighty horn sprouting on one of the sheep (90:9ff.). The judgment will take place, the wicked will be destroyed, and the surviving Gentiles will be converted to serve Israel (90:30). A new Jerusalem replaces the old, the righteous dead arise, and the messiah will lead them (90:37). He is not called “messiah,” but the idea is present.

The fifth book (chs. 92–105) contains an apocalypse of weeks, in which human history is divided into a period of ten weeks. The seventh week is marked by apostasy; the eighth week is a time of righteousness; the ninth week will see the destruction of the works of the godless; and the tenth week will witness the final judgment of the angels. This apocalypse is notable in that the kingdom of God is in a new heaven (91:16); there is no mention of a new earth.

B. Book of Jubilees. In form Jubilees is an apocalypse, for it allegedly records the revelation God made to Moses on Mt. Sinai. “The angel of the Presence” dictates the history of the world beginning at creation and ending with Moses on Mt. Sinai. The book is called Jubilees because of its way of calculating time. History is divided into a series of forty-nine Jubilees of forty-nine years each. It has also been called the “Little Genesis,” not because of its size but because it tells the story found in Genesis in much greater detail.

Scholars are generally agreed that the 一段时期，外邦人将攻击以色列；但是他们不会获胜，因为以色列将兴起一位拯救者，书中将他描绘为一只羊长出的一个很大的角（《以诺一书》90:9起）。审判将要来临，恶人将被除尽，存活的外邦人都要皈依并侍奉以色列（《以诺一书》90:30）。新耶路撒冷将取代旧耶路撒冷，死去的义人将复活，弥赛亚将做他们的领袖（《以诺一书》90:37）。书中并没有直接称他为“弥赛亚”，但是这种概念是显而易见的。

第五卷书（第92-105章）包含了关于周的启示，其中人类历史被分成了十周。第七周被称为叛逆的时代；第八周被称为义人的时代；在第九周，不敬虔之人将被除尽；在第十周，天使将行最终的审判。这一启示值得注意，因为其中说神的国度是新天（《以诺一书》91:16）；但其中并没有提到新地。

*B. 《禧年书》。*从形式上看，《禧年书》属于启示文学，因为它自称记录了神在西奈山上给摩西的启示。“在神面前伺候的天使”所记录的历史始于神创世，结束于摩西在西奈山的故事。这本书之所以被称为《禧年书》是由于其计算时间的方式，它将历史分为49个禧年，每个禧年又包含49年。它还被称为“小创世记”，这不是因为书的篇幅较短，而是因为它更为详细地讲述了《创世记》中记载的故事。 book was written in the 2nd cent. B.C. Fragments of the book in Hebrew have been found in three of the Qumrân caves, representing ten different MSS. The Hebrew text as a whole has been lost, and so has most of a Greek translation. We possess four Ethiopic translations of the Greek, and a sizeable fragment in Latin.

The book, although technically an apocalypse, contains very little eschatology. Its main purpose is to prove that the cultic and religious practices accepted by the author actually go back to Moses. This reflects the Jewish tradition that both the written Law and the oral interpretation of the Law go back to Moses. The author rewrites the whole history of Genesis to prove that the patriarchs observed the customs of the author's own day. It is primarily a book glorifying the Law and Israel, and urging separation from Gentile practices. Thus, e.g., the angels were created circumcised (15:27).

What little eschatology the book contains is significant. A time of decadence and apostasy will set in; but this will be followed by a renewed study of the law and obedience to the commandments. This will result in the coming of the Kingdom, which is described in very earthly terms—men will live to be 1000 years old (23:27). There is no hint of a resurrection; instead, “their bones will rest in the earth, and their spirits will have much joy” (23:31)—a very unusual teaching in Judaism.

C. Testaments of the Twelve Patriarchs. This book (abbr. XII P.) belongs to the Pseudepigrapha rather than to apocalyptic literature, for it consists of 世纪。人们在3个昆兰的山洞中发现了这本书的希伯来语残本，而且有十种不同版本的手稿。希伯来语的《禧年书》和它的希腊语译本大多已失传。目前尚存的有四本翻译自希腊语的埃塞俄比亚语译本，还有一份比较完整的拉丁语残本。

从写作技巧上来看，这本书确实属于启示文学，但是其中却几乎没有提到末世论。这本书的主要写作目的在于证明作者所接受的仪式和宗教习俗实际上都应追溯到摩西时期。这表明按照犹太人的传说，文本形式的律法和人们口头传颂的律法都应追溯至摩西时期。作者重写了《创世记》中的整部历史，这是为了证明族长们也作者所处年代的习俗。这本书主要赞美了律法和以色列，并且敦促人们远离外邦人的习俗。因此依据这本书的观点，天使们从被创造的那天开始，就是圣洁的（《禧年书》15:27）。

这本书中出现的末世论很少，但意义却很重要。虽然书中表明在将要到来的日子中，人们会堕落叛教；但在这之后，人们会重新学习律法，遵从诫命。神之国度就会因此降临，本书以世俗的话语描述了神的国度——人类的寿数接近千年（《禧年书》23:27）。书中并没有提及复活；但是却有一段犹太教中的特别教训，“他们的骨头可安息在地上，他们的灵体验更多的喜乐”（《禧年书》23:31）。

C. 《十二族长遗训》。这本书（简称：XII P.）属于伪经文学而非启示文学，因为书中自称记录了十二位族长死前留下的遗训，是十二本伪预言书。这十二 twelve pseudoprophecies allegedly uttered by each of the patriarchs before his death. Usually each of the twelve parts consists of a resume of the life of the given patriarch, emphasizing his particular merits or weaknesses; a moral application urging his sons to follow his example in the good things and warning them to avoid his sins; and a prediction of the future of the tribe. The book contains a strong eschatological element, and for this reason is usually included in the discussion of apocalyptic literature.

The text of XII P. is an unsolved problem. It exists in Greek translation and in Armenian and Slavonic translations of the Greek. Numerous fragments in Aramaic of Levi and Naphtali have been found in the Qumrân caves; but these look like fragments of sources used by the authors rather than fragments of the Semitic original. The problem of the text is further complicated by the fact that there are some obvious Christian passages in the Testaments, e.g., "In thee shall be fulfilled the prophecy of heaven, concerning the Lamb of God, and Savior of the world" (T. Benj. 3:8, APOT) The Armenian version lacks the Christian glosses that appear in the Greek. These facts have led to diverse conclusions. The most obvious conclusion is that XII P. is a Jewish book that has been interpolated by a Christian hand. Although some scholars have argued that XII P. in toto is a Christian production, the Christian passages are so obvious and interrupt the context so abruptly that this seems unlikely. One scholar has said, "Given such a history of the text it is apparently hopeless to try to unscramble the present omelet" (M. Smith, IDB, IV, 578).

本书的原本尚未确定。它有希腊语译本、亚美尼亚语译本、还有希腊语的斯拉夫语译本。昆兰的山洞中还发现了大量利未和拿弗他利遗训的亚兰语残本；但这些残本似乎更像作者写作时参考的资料的残本，而不像闪族语原本的残本。遗训中有一些明显的基督徒注释，这使问题变得更加复杂，如“藉着你，有关上帝的羔羊——也就是救世主——的属天预言必要应验”（《便雅悯遗训》3:8, APOT）。希腊语译本中有这类基督徒改写的经文，但亚美尼亚语版本中却没有。上述事实引出了不同的结论。最明显的结论是《十二族长遗训》是一本犹太典籍，但有基督徒将其篡改了。有些学者认为这本书完全由基督徒创作而成，但是基督徒改写的痕迹太过明显，甚至生硬地打破了上下文的语境，因此这种观点似乎不大可能成立。有一个学者称，“按照这种经文中的历史，试图还原出当时的情况显然毫无希望”（M. Smith, IDB, IV, 578）。

The date of the book is difficult to determine. It has been dated as early as the 3rd to 2nd cent. B.C., but the prevailing date chosen by those who accept it as a Jewish work is the Maccabean period, probably in the reign of John Hyrcanus, between 140 and 110 B.C.

The book has strong moral and ethical emphasis. Dan warns against anger and sums up the law in these words: “Love the Lord throughout your life, and one another with a true heart” (T. Dan. 5:3). Gad hates Joseph and warns against hatred. Joseph dwells at length on his refusal to yield to Potiphar’s wife and urges mutual love that covers one another’s faults.

Throughout the book, the moral law is stressed rather than the ceremonial. Sin results from the evil impulse in man, which is personified in Beliar, the prince of evil, and his seven false spirits—lust, greed, hostility, hypocrisy, arrogance, falsehood, and injustice (T. Reub. 3:3–6). The seven false spirits are therefore evil tendencies rather than demons. Repentance receives considerable attention. “For true, godlike repentance drives away the darkness, illuminates the eyes, gives knowledge to the soul, and leads the mind to salvation” (T. Gad. 5:7). There is a passage in Joseph (1:5f.) that is strikingly similar to Mt. 25:35f.

Beliar plays an important role in the book and is frequently mentioned. He is the lord of darkness (T. Jos. 20:2); he can rule men (T. Dan. 4:7). In the last days men will serve Beliar (T. Iss. 6:1). One is to arise (Messiah) who will make war on Beliar and deliver men from his captivity

这本书的写作时间也很难确定。有学者认为这本书早在公元前3世纪到2世纪时期就已经写成，但认为这是一本犹太人典籍的学者则普遍认为这本书写于马加比家族时期，可能处于约翰·许尔堪统治时期，即公元前140至公元前110年间。

这本书中着重强调了道德和伦理方面的教训。但警告子孙不要发怒，并将律法总结为：“你们要一生真心爱主和彼此相爱”（《但遗训》5:3）。迦得恨约瑟，因此他警告子孙不要怨恨。约瑟一直在详述他拒绝向波提反的妻子让步的过程，他还劝说子孙彼此相爱，为彼此隐瞒对方的缺点。

整本书中都在强调道德律法，而非仪式律法。罪是因人体内恶的冲动而产生的，人们经常将这种恶拟人化地称为彼列（恶的君王）和他的七个错误的灵——淫乱、贪得无厌、争斗、谄媚（哄骗）、自高自大、说谎和不义（《吕便遗训》3:3-6）。因此这七个错误的灵其实是恶的倾向而非魔鬼。书中对悔改给予了相当多的关注。“因为，照上主的真理，悔改毁灭不顺服，使黑暗逃跑，照亮异象，为灵魂提供知识，并且引导审判的权柄朝向救赎”（《迦得遗训》5:7）。《约瑟遗训》1:5-6中的经文与《马太福音》25:35-36中的经文十分类似。

彼列在这本书中扮演了非常重要的角色，书中经常提到他。彼列是黑暗中的君主（《约瑟遗训》20:2）；他能够管辖人类（《但遗训》4:7）。在最后的日子里，人们将服侍彼列（《以萨迦遗训》6:1）。有一个人（弥赛亚）会兴起，他将与彼列争战，救人们脱离彼列的俘虏（《但

(T. Dan. 5:10f.). He will bind Beliar (T. Levi. 18:12) and cast him into the fire (T. Jud. 25:3). Beliar stands over against God; he is the embodiment of evil as God is of goodness. H. H. Rowley thinks that Beliar corresponds to Antichrist (Relevance of Apocalyptic [1963], p. 72); and although he is not a human figure, he is the personification of opposition to the will of God, and thus fills the role of Antichrist.

There are several striking similarities to the Qumrân literature, especially in the opposition of light to darkness (T. Levi. 19:1; T. Jos. 20:2). The office of the priesthood is exalted over the office of the king. The descendants of Levi are urged to revere Levi and Judah—the priesthood and the Kingdom; but God “set the kingdom beneath the priesthood” (T. Jud. 21:3). Before the Qumrân materials had been published, G. R. Beasley-Murray defended the thesis that there were two messiahs in the Testaments (although they are not called “messiah”), with the kingly messiah subordinate to the priestly messiah (JTS, 48 [1947], 1–13); and this apparently is the messianic theology of Qumrân. “The Lord shall raise up from Levi as it were a High-Priest, and from Judah as it were a King” (T. Sim. 7:2; see also T. Iss. 6:7). Judah says, “To me the Lord gave the kingdom, and to him (Levi) the priesthood. He set the kingdom beneath the priesthood. To me He gave the things upon the earth, to him the things in the heavens. As the heaven is higher than the earth, so is the priesthood of God higher than the earthly kingdom, unless it falleth away through sin from the Lord and is dominated by the earthly king” (T. Jud. 21:2f.; cf. APOT).

遗训》5:10-11), 他会将彼列捆绑(《利未遗训》18:12), 丢进永火里去(《犹大遗训》25:3)。彼列与神对立, 他是恶的化身, 而神是善的化身。罗莱(H. H. Rowley)认为彼列就是敌基督者(Relevance of Apocalyptic [1963], 72页); 他虽然不是一个人物角色, 但他是一切反对神旨意的事物的化身, 因此他扮演着敌基督者这个角色。

《十二族长遗训》中有几处经文显然与昆兰文献相似, 尤其是在表述光与暗的对立上(《利未遗训》19:1; 《约瑟遗训》20:2)。祭司的职任比王权更为尊贵。犹太要利未的子孙敬爱利未和犹太, 因为利未供祭司的职任, 而犹太则被赐下了王权; 但神“叫王权服在祭司的职任下”(《犹大遗训》21:3)。昆兰文献资料公布之前, 比斯利(G. R. Beasley-Murray)坚持认为《十二族长遗训》中提到了两个弥赛亚(虽然书中并没有称呼他们为“弥赛亚”), 掌王权的弥赛亚要顺从供祭司职的弥赛亚(JTS, 48 [1947], 1–13); 这显然是昆兰的弥赛亚神学。“上主将要从利未那儿兴起某人作大祭司, 从犹太那儿兴起某人作王”(《西缅遗训》7:2; 另见《以萨迦遗训》6:7)。犹太说, “于我, 上帝赐下了王权, 于他(利未), 祭司的职任。而祂(指: 上帝)叫王权服在祭司的职任下。于我, 祂赐下了属地的事, 于他, 属天的事。正如天比地尊贵, 上帝的祭司职任也比地上的国度优越, 除非因为罪, 祭司的职任背弃了上主, 受属地的国度支配”(《犹大遗训》21:2-3, 参: APOT)。

It is clear that a messianic king is expected who will “make war against Beliar, and execute an everlasting vengeance on our enemies” (T. Dan. 5:10). Israel is to be restored to her land (T. Iss. 6:4). There will be a resurrection of the patriarchs (T. Jud. 25:1), martyrs (v. 4) and all the saints (T. Levi. 18:14). There will be a judgment of men, of angels and Beliar (T. Levi. 3:2f.); the ungodly will be cast into eternal fire (T. Zeb. 10:3). God will visit His people (T. Ash. 2:3), and “the saints shall rest in Eden, and in the New Jerusalem will the righteous rejoice ... and no longer shall Jerusalem endure desolation, nor Israel be led captive, for the Lord shall be in the midst of it, and the Holy One of Israel shall reign over it” (T. Dan. 5:12f.). The saints will enter into eternal life (T. Ash. 6:6).

D. Psalms of Solomon. These Psalms are not properly apocalyptic, but since they contain one of the most important eschatological passages in Jewish literature they are usually discussed in connection with this genre. Why the Psalms are ascribed to Solomon is a matter of conjecture.

The Psalms reflect a definite historical situation. Judea was plunged into war (1:2), invaded by a foreigner (17:8) who comes from the ends of the earth (8:16). The authorities opened the gates of Jerusalem to him (8:18f.), but he met stiff resistance within the walls (8:21). He broke down the walls with a battering ram (2:1) and trod Jerusalem under foot (2:20), desecrating the sanctuary (2:2). Multitudes were slain (8:23) and many taken away into captivity in the west

人们显然期待一位国王能作弥赛亚，他将“与彼列争战，他要赐复仇得胜作为我们的目标”（《但遗训》5:10）。以色列人将获释，返回他们的土地（《以萨迦遗训》6:4）。众族长（《犹大遗训》25:1）、殉道者（《犹大遗训》25:4）和所有圣徒（《利未遗训》18:14）都将复活。人类、天使和彼列都要得到审判（《利未遗训》3:2-3）；不敬虔的人将被丢入永火中去（《西布伦遗训》10:3）。神会审视祂的民（《亚设遗训》2:3），“诸圣者要在伊甸歇息，义人要在耶路撒冷欢喜快乐……耶路撒冷将不再被蹂躏，以色列也不会被俘虏，因为上主将要在她中间（在人当中居住），以色列的圣者要……掌管他们”（《但遗训》5:12-13）。圣徒将得享永生（《亚设遗训》6:6）。

D. 《所罗门诗篇》。将这些诗篇划分到启示文学不太合适，但是犹太文学中一段最重要的末世论经文就在这些诗篇之中，因此我们在讨论启示文学时，经常也将这些诗篇包括在内。将这些诗篇归于所罗门仍然只是一种推测。

这些诗篇反映了确切的历史情况。犹大卷入战争（1:2），被外族侵略（17:8），他从地极兴起（8:16）。国内的领袖开启耶路撒冷的城门迎接他（8:18-19），但城墙内的人却顽强地抵抗他（8:21）。他用攻城锤拆毁城墙（2:1），践踏雅路撒冷（2:20），亵渎圣地（2:2）。他杀了許多人（8:23），还将许多人掳到西边（8:24；17:13-14）。但是，这个破坏者很快便在海滨的埃及山上被杀了。没有人埋葬他，他的尸体被丢入了海浪中（2:30-31，本段中所有引用章节都出自

(8:24; 17:13f.). However, the destroyer soon met his doom on the mountains of Egypt by the seashore. His body was thrown to the waves with none to bury him (2:30f.).

The situation depicted here corresponds to the historical situation in 63 B.C., when the Roman general Pompey came to Jerusalem. Aristobulus II and Hyrcanus II were contending for the position of leadership of the Jews. When Pompey arrived they sent ambassadors to him bearing gifts. Hyrcanus opened the city to Pompey, but Aristobulus fortified himself on Mt. Zion; and Pompey had to lay siege and break down with rams the walls protecting the temple area. He entered the holy of holies to see what was there, thus desecrating it. He carried Aristobulus and his children back to Rome as captives. Some years later (48 B.C.) Pompey was engaged in civil war with Caesar. Defeated at Pharsalus, he fled to Egypt, where he was murdered and decapitated. His body lay for some time unburied and was finally burned on a pile of spars. The allusions to these facts indicate that the book was written shortly after 48 B.C.

The tone of the Psalms is distinctly Pharisaic. Israel is divided into the righteous poor who fear the Lord, and the sinners or transgressors who are the priestly or Sadducean aristocracy. The pious, or Hasidim, are humble and poor (16:12-15), quiet souls who seek peace (12:6), enduring patiently the chastisement of the present distress (14:1; 16:11). They look forward to a reward after death (13:9-11; 14:3; 15:13; 16:1-3) and the coming of the messianic kingdom.

此处描述的情况与公元前 63 年时的历史情境相符，当时罗马将军庞培侵略了耶路撒冷。阿里斯托布鲁斯二世和许尔堪二世争正在夺犹太人的领导权。庞培到达时，他们派使者带着礼物去见庞培。许尔堪打开城门迎接庞培，但阿里斯托布鲁斯却在锡安山上安营并修建了防御工事；庞培不得不围攻圣殿地区，并用攻城锤摧毁圣殿区域外围的城墙。他进入至圣所中去看个究竟，也就是诗篇中提到的亵渎了圣地。他将阿里斯托布鲁斯和其子俘虏回罗马。数年后（公元前 48 年），庞培与凯撒发生内战。凯撒在法萨罗击败了庞培，庞培随后逃往埃及，并在那里被斩首了。有一段时间，他的尸体就暴露在外，无人埋葬，最后有人点了一堆桅杆，将他的尸体焚烧了。诗篇中对这些事件的隐喻表明《所罗门诗篇》写于公元前 48 年后不久。

《所罗门诗篇》的基调显然有法利赛教派的特点。以色列人分为两种，一种是称义的穷人，他们敬畏主，另一种是罪人或违法者，他们是祭司或撒都该贵族。虔诚派犹太教徒，或称哈西典人，是谦卑而贫穷的（16:12-15），他们的灵魂是安静的，他们渴求平静（12:6），耐心地承受着今世的苦难和惩罚（14:1; 16:11）。他们期待死后受到恩待（13:9-11; 14:3; 15:13; 16:1-3，本段中引用的章节都来自《所罗门诗篇》），并盼望弥赛亚国度的到来。

The author prays for the coming of the king, the Son of David, who is called “the anointed of the Lord” (17:36; 18:8), i.e., “the Lord’s Christ.” He will destroy his enemies with the word of his mouth (17:37f.), purify Jerusalem, gather the righteous in Israel together under his rule. Thus “the Lord Himself is our King for ever and ever” (17:46, APOT).

Here is a messianic concept very different from that found in the Similitudes of Enoch. The latter, following Dnl. 7, looks for the coming of a preexistent, supramundane, heavenly figure at whose coming the very earth will be transformed. The Psalms look for the coming of a Davidic kingly messiah, arising from among men, human but divinely empowered to destroy the enemies of Israel, purify Jerusalem, and gather God’s people together in an earthly kingdom. These two concepts should be kept distinct in the study of the NT.

E. Assumption of Moses. This book is extant in a single sixth-century Latin MS discovered in 1861 in Milan. The Latin is obviously translated from the Greek, and the Greek from either Hebrew or Aramaic. It is allegedly a prophecy made by Moses to Joshua on the threshold of entering the Promised Land. Moses forecasts the future of Israel down to the coming of the Kingdom. It is largely didactic prophecy and does not use the elaborate animal symbolism of Daniel or the dream visions of Enoch. Events can be identified that belong to the Maccabean period. The insolent king (6:2) is probably Herod the Great, and the King of the West (6:8) Varus, governor of Syria, who quelled a rebellion in 4 B.C. This is followed by a time of 作者祈祷大卫后人中被称作“主所膏立指人”的到来（《所罗门诗篇》17:36; 18:8），即“上主的弥赛亚”。他用口中的言语击败敌人（《所罗门诗篇》17:37-38），他还净化耶路撒冷，将以色列的义人都聚集在一起并管辖他们。因此“上主就是我们永远的王”（《所罗门诗篇》17:46，《旧约伪经》）。

这些诗篇中关于弥赛亚的概念与《以诺类撰》中出现的概念有很大区别。《以诺类撰》遵循了《但以理书》第7章中的概念，期待一位存在于时间之前的、超越世俗的、天上的弥赛亚到来，他到来时，地上会发生改变。而《所罗门诗篇》则期待一个大卫家族的王到来，这位弥赛亚将从人类中兴起，他是人类，但得到了神的授权，可以毁灭以色列的敌人，净化耶路撒冷，将神的民都聚集在一个地上的国度里。我们在研究《新约》时，不应混淆这两种概念。

E. 《摩西升天记》。这本书只有一本拉丁语手稿流传了下来，这本手稿写于6世纪，并于1861年在米兰出土。这本拉丁语手稿显然翻译自希腊语译本，而希腊语译本则可能是翻译自希伯来语或亚兰语版本。这本书自称是摩西在进入应许之地前，在临界之处交代给约书亚的预言。摩西预言了神之国度到来前以色列的未来。这本书中主要包含的是教诲性的预言，它不像《但以理书》那样运用复杂的动物象征手法，也不像《以诺书》那样描述各种梦的异象。书中所描述的事件应处于马加比家族时期。“放肆的王”（《摩西升天记》6:2）可能指的是大希律，而西方的王（《摩西升天记》6:8）可能指的是叙利亚的总督韦鲁斯，他在公元前4世纪时平息了一场叛乱。随后的时期比较混乱，但此后神之国度就到来了。因此这本书的写作年 trouble and then God's kingdom comes. The book therefore is easy to date; it must have been written shortly after the death of Herod the Great in 4 B.C.

It is quite certain that ch. 8 is out of place and belongs between chs. 5 and 6. Some scholars think ch. 9 also is out of place. It contains a reference to a mysterious figure Taxo (9:1), who had seven sons. Some think this is a reference to Eleazar of Maccabean times (2 Macc. 6:18-31); others think he is an unknown contemporary of the author. S. Mowinckel (He That Cometh [1956], p. 301) suggests that the word "Taxo" comes from the Gk. táxōn, "the orderer," the one who expounds the law and establishes right order. Mowinckel thinks Taxo is identical with the Teacher of Righteousness of the Qumrân community.

Scholars disagree as to the nature of the Kingdom in the book. One thing is clear: there is no messianic figure for "the Most High God, the Eternal and Only God shall arise and manifest Himself to punish the nations" (10:7). "Then shalt thou be happy, O Israel, and shalt mount on the neck and wings of the eagle ... And God shall exalt thee, and bring thee to the heaven of the stars, the place of His habitation. And thou shalt look from on high and behold thy adversaries on the earth, and shalt know them and rejoice, and give thanks, and acknowledge thy Creator" (10:7-10s). It is possible that instead of "earth" (Gk. gḗ) we should read "Gehenna," for gḗ can stand alone to represent Heb. gê-hinnôm. Some scholars think this is a nationalistic earthly eschatology, others a wholly supramundane eschatology.

代易于认定；它一定写于公元前 4 世纪大希律死后不久。

《摩西升天记》中第 8 章显然位置有误，它应该在第 5 和 6 章之间。有些学者认为第 9 章的位置也有错误。第 9 章第 1 节中提到了一个神秘的人物塔数，他有七个儿子。有些学者认为他指的是马加比家族时期的以利亚撒(马二 6:18-31)；其他学者则认为他指的是一个与作者同时代的人，但具体是哪个人尚不确定。莫文克 (S. Mowinckel, He That Cometh [1956], 301 页) 认为“塔数” (Taxo) 这个词来源于希腊语 táxōn，意为“制定秩序的人”，也就是解释律法，并建立正确秩序的人。莫文克还认为塔数就是昆兰社团中公义的教师。

学者们并不认同这本书中神之国度的本质。但有一件事是明确的：“至高的上帝，独是那永恒的一位，他要来全面报应各国”(《摩西升天记》10:7)，这句话中并没有提到弥赛亚这类人物。“那么，你要快乐，以色列啊！你们要爬到鹰的颈项和翅膀之上……而上帝要把你升到高处。而且祂要把你稳妥地安放在星空里，在他们的住处。而你要从高处观看。真的，你要看到你在地上的敌人。认出他们，你会欢喜快乐。你又会感恩。而且，你要承认你的创造主”(《摩西升天记》10:7-10)。我们或许应该将希腊语 gḗ 翻译为“地狱”而不是“地上”，因为只有这个希腊语词可以表示希伯来语 gê-hinnôm (地狱)。有些学者认为这是一种民族的世俗的末世论，其他学者则认为这是一种完全远离世俗的末世论。

F. Second (or Slavonic) Enoch. A second book bearing the name of Enoch has been preserved only in a Slavonic version. It is not at all clear that this book belongs to NT times, for some scholars have found strong reason for dating it much later (see K. Lake, HTR 16 [1923]). Rowley says, "it is improbable that the first-century date will maintain itself" (Relevance of Apocalyptic [1963], p. 110). The book describes the things seen in the seven heavens as Enoch ascended from earth to the dwelling place of God. In the first heaven he sees the angels who guard the ice and snow and dew; in the second he sees the fallen angels in torment waiting their final doom. In the third heaven he sees both the paradise of the righteous and the place of torment for the wicked. In the fourth heaven are the sun, moon, and stars and their attending angels. In the fifth he sees the watchers who revolted against God, and their chief, Satan. In the sixth he sees the angels who superintend the forces of nature. In the seventh heaven he comes to the throne of God himself, with the archangels and the heavenly glory.

The book contains several items of interest. Enoch is told about the souls who have been created from eternity (23:5). He is told about the course of creation, which will last seven thousand years—a thousand years for each day (33:1f.). The seventh thousand years will be a period of rest, corresponding to the sabbath. Here is the one place in Jewish literature where we find the idea of a millennium—a thousand-year interim kingdom. At the end of the thousand years time shall come to an end. There will be "no computations and no end; neither months, nor weeks, nor days, nor hours” (32:2). Here is a very un-Jewish idea, for our other literature considers “eternity” to be unending time in the age to come. There is no reference to a messiah and no description of a messianic kingdom.

F. 《以诺二书》(或《斯拉夫以诺启示录》)。托以诺之名写的第二本书只有斯拉夫语译本存留了下来。我们完全不确定这本书是否属于新约时代,因为有些学者有力证明这本书的成书年代应该向后推很多年(见 K. Lake, HTR 16 [1923])。罗莱说,“1 世纪这个日期毫无根据”(Relevance of Apocalyptic [1963], 110 页)。这本书中描述了以诺从地上升到神的居所后,在七层天上看到的事物。在第一层天上,以诺看到了看守雪库、冰库和露水府库的天使;在第二层天上,他看到正在遭受折磨的堕落天使,他们在等待最后的审判。在第三层天上,他看到了义人的乐园,还看到了恶人遭受折磨的地方。在第四层天上,他看到了太阳、月亮、星辰和看护它们的天使。在第五层天上,他看到了离弃上主的守望者和他们的领袖撒但。在第六层天上,他看到了管理自然力量的天使。在第七层天上,他在天使长的带领下,伴着天上的荣耀,来到了神的宝座前。

G. Fourth Ezra. This book was originally written in either Hebrew or Aramaic, which was in turn translated into Greek. From it have descended versions in Latin, Syriac, Ethiopic, Arabic, Armenian, and Coptic. Of these, the Latin is the best. The Latin contains four additional chapters—two at the beginning and two at the end—that are obviously not a part of the apocalypse. The translation of the Latin, including the four additional chapters, is included in our English versions of the Apocrypha as 2 Esdras. The apocalypse alone is usually called 4 Ezra.

The book contains a series of seven visions allegedly given to Ezra in Babylon, but it was clearly written shortly after the fall of Jerusalem in A.D. 70. This is by far the most profound and moving apocalypse we possess. “Ezra” is deeply troubled that such a terrible fate could have befallen God’s people, who have received and who keep God’s Law. He descends to the depth of pessimism and despair, cries to God for help, and prays for a new heart (8:6, 31–33). He feels it would have been better if the human race had not been created and given the power of choice (7:116). “It would be better for us not to be here than to come here and live in ungodliness, and to suffer and not understand why” (4:12).

In answer to his despair, Ezra is told that

亚，也没有描述弥赛亚的国度。

G. 《以斯拉四书》。这本书最初可能是用希伯来语或亚兰语写成的，然后被翻译成了希腊语。然后古人又将希腊语翻译成拉丁语、叙利亚语、埃塞俄比亚语、阿拉伯语、亚美尼亚语和科普特语。在这些译本中，拉丁语译本是最好的。拉丁语译本在原本的首尾各增加了两个章节，但这后加的四个章节显然不属于启示文学。英语版本的《次经》中收录了拉丁语译本和增加的四个章节，并称其为《以斯拉二书》。而仅由启示文学构成的这部分内容（不包括拉丁译本增加的四个章节）《以斯拉四书》。

这本书中据说记录了以斯拉在巴比伦看到的七个异象，但它显然写于公元 70 年耶路撒冷陷落之后不久。这是我们目前存留的意义最深远和最令人触动的启示文学作品。在书中，“以斯拉”极为困惑，他不明白为何那些接受并遵守律法的神的民要遭受这样悲惨的命运。极度悲观而绝望，他向神哭诉，祈求神的恩待，渴望得到新的心（《以斯拉四书》 8:6, 31-33）。他想若是神没有创造人类，并赐予他们选择的权力，那该有多好（《以斯拉四书》 7:116）。“如果我们从未出生，也许要比我们无奈地生活在这个充满了罪孽与苦难的世界上，却不能理解它为何如此要好得多”（《以斯拉四书》 4:12）。

天使在回应以斯拉的绝望时，告诉他神

God's ways are inscrutable (4:7-11), that human intelligence is finite and limited (4:12-21), that human history has been predetermined (4:33-43), and that God does love Israel (5:31-40). The most fundamental answer is that the evils of the present age will be righted in the future age (7:1-16). Suffering in this age is the way to future blessing. While God loves Israel, he does not love the mass of sinners (7:60f., 131). God is patient with men not because he loves men but because the times have been ordained (7:74).

The eschatology of the book is notable for its explicit dualism. "The Most High has made not one world but two" (7:50; cf. 6:7; 7:113; 8:1, 4-6). "This age is full of sadness and infirmities" (4:27); the present age has grown tired and lost the strength of youth (5:55); this age must pass away to make room for a new age (4:29).

In the first vision (3:1-5:19), Ezra is told that the end of the present age is not far off (4:44-50). The signs of the end will be widespread desolation, portents in the heavens, monstrous births, and universal wickedness (5:1-5). Ezra is also told that "one shall reign whom those who dwell on earth do not expect" (5:6)—probably the antichrist.

In the third vision (6:35-9:25) Ezra is told how the New Jerusalem will appear (7:26) and the messiah will be revealed together with those who have not tasted death. The messiah is called "my Son the Messiah." The messiah will remain for four hundred years "and those who remain shall rejoice" (7:28). Here again, as in 2 Enoch, is the idea of a temporal

的做法是高深莫测的（《以斯拉四书》4:7-11），人类的智力有限，无法理解（《以斯拉四书》4:12-21），人类的历史早已决定（《以斯拉四书》4:33-43），天使还告诉以斯拉，神确实是爱以色列的（《以斯拉四书》5:31-40）。而最根本的回答是，这个世界的恶在未来的世界中会被除尽（《以斯拉四书》7:1-16）。这个世界中的苦难是通往未来世界福祉的路。神爱以色列，但祂不爱众多罪人（《以斯拉四书》7:60-61, 131）。神对人有耐心，不是因为祂爱他们，而是因为既定的审判之时还没有到来（《以斯拉四书》7:74）。

值得注意的是，这本书中的末世论体现出明显的二元论。“上帝创造了两个世界，而不是只有一个”（《以斯拉四书》7:50；参《以斯拉四书》6:7；7:113；8:1, 4-6）。“今世充满了不幸和残缺”（《以斯拉四书》4:27）；这个世界已经变老，失去了她年轻时的气力（《以斯拉四书》5:55）；这个世界必将终了，被新的世界所取代（《以斯拉四书》4:29）。

在第一个异象中（《以斯拉四书》3:1-5:19），以斯拉得知这个世界的终了已经不远了（《以斯拉四书》4:44-50）。世界会逐渐变得荒芜，天上出现异状，怪物出现在世上，邪恶遍及全地，这些都是末日的征兆（《以斯拉四书》5:1-5）。以斯拉还得知“一个被所有人讨厌的国王将会开始执政”（《以斯拉四书》5:6）——这指的可能就是敌基督者。

在第三个异象中（《以斯拉四书》6:35-9:25），以斯拉得知新的耶路撒冷将如何显现的（《以斯拉四书》7:26），还得知弥赛亚将同幸存者一同出现。在书中，神称弥赛亚为“我的儿子弥赛亚”。弥赛亚将在世上停留四百年，“为那些幸存者带来幸福”（《以斯拉四书》7:28）。此处和《以诺二书》一样，认为未来的世界来到之前，将出现一个短暂

earthly kingdom before the age to come. After this “millennium” the messiah dies, and all men die with him. This is the one place in apocalyptic literature where we find the idea of a dying messiah. However, no reason or value is ascribed to his death. There follow seven days of silence on the earth, after which will come the resurrection of all men for the great judgment (7:31–35). Gehenna and Paradise will stand over against each other (7:36), and the judgment period will last a week of years (7:43).

Here the messiah is mortal and does not play a significant role in the Kingdom or in the Judgment. Resurrection is universal, and there is no enduring earthly kingdom, but a temporal earthly kingdom followed by the age to come.

In the fourth vision (9:26–10:59) Ezra beholds a sorrowful woman, who represents Jerusalem in all its misery and desolation. The sanctuary is laid waste and the altar broken down (10:21); the cultus and sacred songs are no more, and exile, bondage, and dishonor are the lot of the people (10:22). This passage, representing the desolation of Jerusalem, points to a date for the book shortly after A.D. 70. Suddenly the woman is transfigured so that she is no longer a woman but the New Jerusalem, surpassing in beauty. Thus the seer is assured of a blessed future for the Holy City.

The fifth vision (11:1–12:51) is the Eagle vision. The vision is of a twelve-winged eagle with three heads, which is interpreted as the fourth kingdom of Dnl. 7. The eagle thus represents Rome, whose emperors are indicated by the wings and

的地上的国度。“千禧年”过后，弥赛亚会死亡，所有人类都会随他一起死亡。这是启示文学中提到弥赛亚将死这一观点之处。但是，书中没有提及弥赛亚死亡的原因或意义。随后，世界将寂静七天，这七天之后，所有人类都会复活，接受神的审判（《以斯拉四书》7:31-35）。地狱和天堂将要彼此对立（《以斯拉四书》7:36），审判将要持续七年（《以斯拉四书》7:43）。

此处的弥赛亚是一个凡人，他在神之国度或审判中并不扮演重要的角色。全世界都将复活，地上的国度不会永久长存，它只是暂时的，这个国度终了之后，新的世界就会临到。

在第四个异象中（《以斯拉四书》9:26-10:59），以斯拉看到了一个悲伤哭泣的女人，她代表了耶路撒冷所有的不幸和忧伤。圣殿变成废墟，祭坛已被推倒（《以斯拉四书》10:21）；祭仪和圣歌都已经沉寂，人民被流放、奴役和玷污（《以斯拉四书》10:22）。这段描述耶路撒冷破败景象的经文表明这本书写于公元70年后不久。突然这个女人变成了新耶路撒冷，美丽非凡。这证明圣城的未来将受到祝福。

第五个异象（《以斯拉四书》11:1-12:51）是鹰的异象。在异象中，有一只长着十二只翅膀和三个头的鹰，它指的是《但以理书》第7章中的第四个国。因此这鹰代表的是罗马，鹰的十二个翅膀和三个头代表罗马的君主。这三个头可能代 heads. The three heads probably represent Vespasian, Titus, and Domitian, who reigned as emperors A.D. 70–96. Then appears a lion, who announces the destruction of the eagle. Thereupon the eagle is destroyed and burned. The lion is declared to be the messiah, who will execute judgment upon the oppressors, deliver the righteous with mercy, and make them joyful until the day of judgment. Little is said here of the reign of the messiah, and he functions only in the role of deliverer. He merely brings joy that shall last until the unspecified time of the Judgment.

The sixth vision (ch. 13) is of interest because of the appearance of the Son of Man figure. Ezra beholds a storm-tossed sea and emerging from it is the figure of a man, who comes with the clouds of heaven. A multitude of men gather to do battle with him. He makes for himself a mountain, later explained as Mt. Zion, and flies upon it. He consumes his foes with the breath of his mouth, then calls forth a peaceable multitude. In the interpretation the deliverer is called “my Son” (13:32). The fact that he flies with the clouds of heaven shows that he is not a human messiah of the seed of David, but the heavenly transcendental figure of Dnl. 7. However, his mission is to destroy his foes and deliver the saints. Little is said about the blessings he will bestow on the righteous in the Kingdom.

The seventh vision (ch. 14) assures Ezra that he is to be translated out of the world together with “my Son” (14:9), and together with those who are like him until the time of the end; and he is told that nine of the twelve parts into which the age is divided have already passed.

表的是维斯帕先、提图斯和图密善这三位君主，他们的统治时期是公元 70 至 96 年。随后，异象中出现了一只狮子，这只狮子预言鹰将要毁灭。鹰随即就毁灭了，并被焚烧殆尽。狮子就是弥赛亚，他会审判压迫者，拯救义人，令他们欢喜，直到审判的日子到来。此处并没有提到弥赛亚将掌权，他仅仅扮演了一位拯救者的角色，只能给义人带来欢喜，直到没有指明的审判之日到来之时。

第六个异象（《以斯拉四书》13 章）值得注意，因为其中出现了人子的形象。以斯拉看见海上兴起了风浪，从中显现出了一个人的形象，驾着天云而来。许多人聚集起来同他争战。他自己斩出一座山，然后飞到了山上，后文中解释说这座山就是锡安山。他用口中的气息除灭了敌人，然后召集了一群热爱和平的人。神随后为以斯拉解释异象时，称这个人为“我的儿子”（《以斯拉四书》13:32）。他与天上的云朵一同飞翔，这表明他并不是大卫的子孙，地上的弥赛亚，而是《但以理书》第 7 章中提到的亘古常在者。但是，他的使命是毁灭敌人，拯救圣民。书中甚少提到他将给神之国度中的义人带来的祝福。

在第七个异象中（《以斯拉四书》14 章），神告知以斯拉，他将要与神的儿子（《以斯拉四书》14:9）和像他的人一起进入天国，直到世界的末日；以斯拉还得知这个世界分为十二个阶段，第九个阶段已经过去了。

In conclusion, Ezra experiences a remarkable inspiration. He takes five men into the field, and after drinking from the cup of inspiration he dictates to the five scribes for forty days and nights without stopping. During these forty days, ninety-four books are written: the twenty-four of the Hebrew canon that are for all men to read, and seventy books that are to be given “to the wise among your people” (14:46). These were apparently apocalyptic books, and this incident suggests that the apocalypses were not widely read among the people at large but were the particular possession of small esoteric groups.

These seven visions contain very diverse eschatologies and messianic ideas, and have led to theories of various source for the apocalypse. One thing is clear: there was no “orthodox” eschatology in Judaism.

Several items in this book are of great interest. In comparison to 1 Enoch, there is little angelology. This shows that an elaborate angelology and demonology is not essential to an apocalyptic view of history. Sin did not originate with fallen angels as in Enoch, but springs from an evil heart (3:20, 22). Sin is indeed attributed to Adam, but Adam sinned because he had an evil heart (3:21). The book has quite a bit to say about faith; but faith for Ezra is not personal commitment as in the NT, but is faith in the law (5:20). The Gentiles are condemned because they have not had faith in the law (7:24). On the other hand, Ezra frequently speaks of treasures of works laid up before God (7:27; 8:33).

最后，以斯拉得到了非凡的启示。他带上五个人，在旷野上住了下来，他喝了一杯装满神赐的智慧的液体，然后向这五个文士讲述他的经历，连续四十个昼夜，不曾停歇。四十天内，他们写成了九十四卷书，其中二十四卷正典可以公之于众，而学下的七十卷，则要送给“民众中的那些智者”（《以斯拉四书》14:46）。这七十卷书显然指的是启示文学作品，但这段经文表明这些作品阅读的范围并不广，只有一些小范围内的人才拥有这些作品。

这七个异象中所包含的末世论和弥赛亚的概念各有不同，由此引出了启示文学的多种理论。但有一件事可以肯定：犹太教中并没有“正统的”末世论。

书中有几点值得注意。和《以诺一书》不同，《以斯拉四书》中并没有多少关于天使学的经文。这表明启示文学的历史观并不以发展完善的天使学和魔鬼学为基础。和《以诺书》一样，这本书认为罪并不源自堕落的天使，而是来源于人心中的恶根（《以斯拉四书》3:20, 22）。实际上，罪应归于亚当，但是亚当犯罪是因为他有一颗恶的心灵（《以斯拉四书》3:21）。这本书中对信心进行了长篇阐述，但以斯拉的信心并不是像《新约》中那样，对承诺存有信心，他是对律法有信心（《以斯拉四书》5:20）。外邦人因不信靠律法而被定罪（《以斯拉四书》7:24）。另一方面，以斯拉多次提及要在神的面前积存善工的财富（《以斯拉四书》7:27; 8:33）。

H. Apocalypse of Baruch. Also dating from the late 1st cent. A.D., the Apocalypse of Baruch is similar to 4 Ezra in its theology, but is far less profound and original. Most scholars think it was written in imitation of 4 Ezra. It has been preserved in a single Syriac version.

The book opens with Baruch, the scribe of Jeremiah, in Jerusalem. God announces to him the destruction of the Holy City. The next day the Chaldeans besiege the city; but before they take it, it is destroyed by four angels, who bury the sacred vessels of the temple. The Chaldeans then take possession of the city. Jeremiah goes into exile, but Baruch remains in Jerusalem lamenting its fate. He cannot understand why, if the world was made for God's people, such great evils should befall them. (As in 4 Ezra, the actual historical situation is the fall of Jerusalem in A.D. 70.) In answer, Baruch is told that men have sinned deliberately; therefore they deserve to suffer (15:6). A future world is destined for the righteous. Here again appears the eschatological dualism of the two ages (15:7; see also 44:13-15; 51:3; 83:8). If man is prospered in the end, then everything is in order (19:7); it is the end that should be considered (19:5). Meanwhile, Zion's fate will hasten the divine visitation and the coming of the end (20:1f.). There follows a series of revelations of the final woes, judgment, the messiah, and the messianic kingdom. These events are revealed not by the medium of visions or dreams, but in the form of a dialogue with God.

The revelations begin with a time of tribulation when men will abandon hope (25:4). The tribulation is divided into twelve disasters which will precede the messianic age. These woes will affect the whole earth (29:1), but those who are in the land will be protected (29:2). “The Messiah shall then begin to be revealed” (29:4), and the Kingdom—portrayed in crudely materialistic terms—will be established. Two great monsters, Leviathan and Behemoth, which have been kept in the sea since the fifth day of creation, will come up from the sea to serve as food for those who enter the Kingdom (29:4). “The earth also shall yield its fruit ten thousandfold, and on one vine there shall be a thousand branches, and each branch shall produce a thousand clusters, and each cluster shall produce a thousand grapes, and each grape shall produce a cor (120 gal.) of wine” (29:5). Manna will again descend from on high.

H. 《巴录二书》。这本书的写作时间也在1世纪晚期，它的神学理论与《以斯拉四书》类似，但却远不如后者那么深刻和新颖。大多数学者认为这本书的作者是在模仿《以斯拉四书》。流传下来的只有一本叙利亚语译本。

这本书以耶路撒冷的巴录开篇，他是耶利米的文士。神晓谕他圣城即将毁灭。第二天，迦勒底人就包围了这座城；但在他们攻取圣城之前，先有四个天使将城毁灭了，他们还埋葬了圣殿中的圣器具。迦勒底人于是占领了这座城。耶利米逃亡了，但巴录仍然留在耶路撒冷，哀叹圣城的命运。如果这世界是神为祂的民创造的，巴录不理解为什么这种恶行会临到他们身上。（这里的历史情境同《以斯拉四书》中一致，指的是公元前70年耶路撒冷陷落。）神告知巴录说，人是故意犯的罪，因此应当受到惩罚（《巴录二书》15:6）。神为义人预备了未来的世界。此处再次出现了关于两个世界的末世二元论（《巴录二书》15:7；另见《巴录二书》44:13-15；51:3；83:8）。人应该在年幼时受苦待，到老时享福（《巴录二书》19:7）；人类应该忧虑的是末日（《巴录二书》19:5）。因此，神使锡安灭亡，是为了尽快来到世上，使末日早些来到（《巴录二书》20:1-2）。这之后，书中提到了一系列的启示，包括末日、审判、弥赛亚和弥赛亚的国度。本书是通过神与巴录之间的对话，而不是借助于异象或梦境来揭示这些事件的。

启示从苦难之时开始，此时人类已经放弃了希望（《巴录二书》25:4）。这苦难分为十二灾，苦难过后，弥赛亚的世界才会到来。末世将要临到全地（《巴录

“And it shall come to pass after these things, when the time of the advent of the Messiah is fulfilled, that He shall return in glory” (30:1, APOT). This is a perplexing passage, for the messiah seems to be revealed before the beginning of the Kingdom. Many interpret this passage as saying that the messiah will return to heaven after his reign in the Kingdom. It is possible, however, that it refers to his coming to earth. He only begins to be revealed before the Kingdom; his advent occurs after the Kingdom. In any case, we have here a temporal earthly Kingdom, which is followed by the resurrection of “all who have fallen asleep in hope of Him” (30:2). The souls of the wicked, however, will waste away in torment (30:4f.). This is to be followed by the renewal of creation (32:6). In this passage the messiah seems to be only a conventional figure, without any significant function.

二书》29:1), 只有这片大地的人才会受到保护(《巴录二书》29:2)。灾难过后, “弥赛亚就必显明”(《巴录二书》29:4), 神之国度将要建立, 但这本书中仅用物质享受粗糙地描绘了神之国度。神在第五天创造了两个兽, 他们分别叫利维亚但(Leviathan)和彼希摩特(Behemoth), 神一直保守他们, 留他们在海中, 让他们作进入神之国度中人的食物(《巴录二书》29:4)。“地上将结出万倍的果子。一株葡萄树要长出千枝枝子, 一枝枝子生出千串葡萄藤, 一串葡萄藤结出千粒葡萄, 一粒葡萄可制成一柯珥(120加仑)的酒”(《巴录二书》29:5)。吗哪将再度降在地上。

“这事以后, 那时候满足了, 弥赛亚必降临地上, 在荣耀中再来”(《巴录二书》30:1, APOT)。这段经文令人疑惑, 因为弥赛亚似乎在神之国度到来前就已经出现。许多人将这段经文解释为弥赛亚在完成地上的统治之后将回到天上。但是这也有可能指的是他将来到地上。神之国度即将到来前, 他才开始揭示, 但是神之国度到来后他才显现。无论如何, 此处提到了一个短暂的地上的国度, 这之后, “凡睡着的, 若存盼望的心等候他, 都要复活”(《巴录二书》30:2)。但恶人的灵魂将要经受永刑, 逐渐衰弱(《巴录二书》30:4-5)。然后神将更新天地(《巴录二书》32:6)。在这段经文中, 弥赛亚似乎只是一个按照惯例出现的人物, 没有什么意义或作用。

In the second section (chs. 36–40) Baruch is given a dream-vision of the coming of the Kingdom. In the vision, he sees a forest that represents the four kingdoms of Dnl. 7. In the forest is one great cedar. Then he sees a peaceable fountain that submerges the forest, rooting out the greater part of the trees so that none is left except the great cedar. Finally the fountain destroys also the cedar.

Baruch's interpretation of this vision takes the fountain to be "the principate of My Messiah" (39:7). The tall cedar is "the last leader of that time" (40:1), possibly the antichrist. The victory of the fountain over the cedar means that "My Messiah shall convict him of all his impieties ... and afterwards he shall put him to death, and protect the rest of My people which shall be found in the place which I have chosen. And his principate shall stand for ever, until the world of corruption is at an end, and until the times aforesaid are fulfilled" (40:2f.). Here the Kingdom is an everlasting earthly kingdom, and the messiah a warlike deliverer who does not destroy by the word of his mouth but by the sword in his hand. The antichrist is apparently a human figure, the last Roman sovereign; and Messiah's Kingdom lasts forever. Nothing is said about the Age to Come.

A third section (chs. 49–52) is important for its teaching on the resurrection. Baruch asks in what shape men will come forth in the resurrection. He is told that men will first come to life again in the same form in which they died, in order that they may recognize one another. After this recognition, they will be changed. "Those who have now been justified by My law” (51:3) shall be “turned into the light of their beauty,” that they may inherit the world that does not die. They shall be transformed into the splendor of angels because they have been “saved by their works” and the Law has been to them a hope. They shall dwell “in the heights of that world” and “be made like unto the angels, and be made equal to the stars, and they shall be changed into every form they desire” (51:10, APOT) in paradise.

神给巴录解释异象，祂称这泉水是“我弥赛亚的国”（《巴录二书》39:7）。高大的香柏木指的是“列国最后的一个王”（《巴录二书》40:1），可能就是指敌基督者。泉水冲毁了香柏木，这意味着“我的弥赛亚要宣判他的一切恶行……之后把他杀死。弥赛亚必保护我余下的民，叫他们住在我为他们预备的地方。他的国度和权柄存到永远，直到这必朽坏的世界完结，直到之前所提及的时候满足了”（《巴录二书》40:2-3）。这里提到的国度是一个永存的地上的国度，弥赛亚通过战争拯救神的民，他不是用口中的话语行毁灭，而是用他手中的剑。敌基督者显然是一个人，他是最后一位罗马君主；而弥赛亚的国度要永存。这里完全没有提到未来的世界。

第三部分（《巴录二书》49-52 章）很重要，因为其中包含了关于复活的教训。巴录问道人类复活时将是什么样式，神回答他说，人死时是什么样式，复活时就是什么样式，这样他们就可以彼此相认。之后，他们的形体就会改变。“按律法定为义人的”（《巴录二书》51:3）会“面貌改变，犹如荣耀的光”，领受永恒的天地。他们会变得像天使般荣

A final apocalypse is found in chs. 53–74. In it Baruch sees another dream-vision in which the entire course of history is disclosed to him in the likeness of twelve white and black waters pouring upon the earth from a great cloud. The black waters represent evil periods in Israel’s history, the last of which is the Roman period, and the bright waters represent good periods in history. Finally, he sees lightning on the summit of the cloud, which shines so brightly that it illuminates the whole earth, and heals the place of the last black waters and has dominion over all the earth. The lightning represents “My Messiah” who shall “summon all the nations, and some of them He shall spare, and some of them he shall slay ... Every nation which knoweth not Israel and hath not trodden down the seed of Jacob shall indeed be spared” (72:2, 4, APOT). Those who have ruled over Israel shall be given to the sword. Here the messiah is a warlike being who slays Israel’s enemies with his own hands. Thus the Kingdom is established.

It is clear that Baruch’s concept of righteousness is legalistic. The righteous can die in peace because “they have with Thee a store of works preserved in treasuries” (14:12). Paradise will be opened to “those who have been saved by their works” (51:7). Baruch, like 4 Ezra, has no doctrine of fallen angels. However, his theology of sin is different. In 4 Ezra sin is due to an evil heart; but in Baruch every man is free. Adam was indeed the first to sin; but Adam’s successors are responsible for their own sin. Man may choose torment or glories to come. “Adam is therefore not the cause, save only of his own soul, but each of us has been the Adam of his own soul” (54:19, APOT).

美，因为“他们有相应的行为”，律法成为了他们的希望。“他们住在那世界的高处（乐园），变得像天使一样，如同星宿的样式。他们改变成自己愿意的形体”（《巴录二书》51:10, APOT）。

《巴录二书》第53-74章中出现了最后的启示。在这部分中，巴录在梦中看见了另一个异象，云彩向地上倾倒黑暗和光明的雨水，反复倾倒了十二次，整个历史进程以这种方式向巴录显现出来。黑暗的水代表着以色列历史上恶的时代，最后一次指的就是罗马统治时期，而光明的水则代表以色列历史上公义的时代。最后他看到了云端上的电光，光亮照到全地，为末后落下的雨水所毁灭的地方，带来了医治，并掌管了全地。这电光指的就是“我的弥赛亚”，“他必召集列国。其中的一些，将得到宽恕；其余的，却要亡在他的手里。……凡不认识以色列的，或是不曾践踏雅各子孙的国，必不至灭亡”（《巴录二书》72:2, 4, APOT）。那些曾统治以色列的，将要在战争中灭亡。此处提到的弥赛亚发动了战争，亲手灭尽以色列的敌人，从而建立了神之国度。

巴录显然认为义人就是遵守律法的人。义人可以安心地死去，因为“他们的善行积攒在你那里，他们财宝保存在天上的府库中”（《巴录二书》14:12）。天堂

会向“得救的人显现，因为他们有相应的行为”（《巴录二书》51:7）。《巴录二书》和《以斯拉四书》一样，并没有提及关于堕落的天使的教义。但是两本书中关于罪的神学是有差异的。在《以斯拉四书》中，罪是出于人心中的恶根；但在《巴录二书》中，每个人生来是无罪的。亚当确实是第一个犯罪的，但是亚当的子孙要为自己犯的罪负责。每人自己的行为会决定他将来是要受刑还是得荣耀。“亚当自己是犯了罪，却没有导致别人落在罪中，只是我们各人都成了自己的亚当”（《巴录二书》54:19, APOT）。

I. Definition.—The word “Apocrypha,” as usually understood, denotes the collection of religious writings that the LXX and Vulgate (with trivial differences) contain that are not included in the Jewish and Protestant canon. This is not the original or the correct sense of the word, as will be shown, but the one it bears almost exclusively in modern speech.

It is customary to speak of the collection of writings now in view as the OT Apocrypha, because many of the books at least were written in Hebrew, the

V. 写作时期

I. 定义。正如通常所理解的，本词指的是犹太教和新教正典中未出现，但收录在《七十士译本》和《武加大译本》（两个译本中有细微差别）中的典籍。正如下文将要介绍的那样，“次经”并不是 Apocrypha 的本义，甚至不是它的正确含义，但在现代语言中，它基本仅指次经。

这个词用作作品的统称时，通常指《旧约》中的《次经》，因为这些书基本上都是用旧约的语言——希伯来语写成，而且它们与《旧约》的联系比《新约》更

language of the OT, and because all of them are much more closely allied to the OT than to the NT. But there is a “New” as well as an “Old” Testament Apocrypha consisting of gospels, epistles, etc. Moreover the adjective “apocryphal” is also often applied in modern times to what are now generally called “pseudepigraphical” writings, so designated because ascribed in the titles to authors who did not and could not have written them (e.g., Enoch, Abraham, Moses). The persons thus connected with these books are among the most distinguished in the traditions and history of Israel, and there can be no doubt that the reason for using such names is to add weight and authority to these writings. See PSEUDEPIGRAPHA.

II. Usage.—When the word “apocryphal” was first used in ecclesiastical writings it bore a sense virtually identical with “esoteric,” as we shall see, so that “apocryphal writings” were such as appealed to an inner circle and could not be understood by outsiders. The present connotation of the term did not become fixed until the Protestant Reformation had set in, limiting the biblical canon to its present dimensions among Protestant churches.

A. Original Meanings. 1. Classical. The Gk. adjective apókryphos denotes strictly “hidden,” “concealed,” of a material object (Euripides Hercules furens 1070). Then it came to signify what is obscure, recondite, hard to understand (Xenophon Memorabilia 3.5, 14). But in classical Greek it never has any other sense.

2. Hellenistic. In Hellenistic Greek as

为紧密。但不仅存在《旧约次经》，还有《新约次经》，其中福音书和书信等作品。此外，在现代，形容词“apocryphal”还通常用以指代人们常说的“伪经”著作，这是由于“伪经”托名的作者并不可能真的写下这些作品（如，以诺、亚伯拉罕、摩西等）。与伪经相关的人通常是以色列历史和传说中最著名的人，作者托名这些伟人显然是为了增加作品的分量和权威性。见 PSEUDEPIGRAPHA（伪经）。

II. 用法。 传教作品中最初使用“apocryphal”一词时，实际上指的是“秘传的”，下文会有所提及，因此“apocryphal writings”实际上指的是一些在小范围内流传，外人无法理解的作品。直到新教改教运动期间，新教教会将正典的范围加以限制，该词“伪经”含义才确定下来。

A. 本义。1、古典希腊语中的含义。 希腊语形容词 apókryphos 只能表示某个物体是“隐藏的”“隐匿的”（Euripides Hercules furens 1070）。后来这个词开始表示晦涩的、深奥的、难以理解的（Xenophon Memorabilia 3.5, 14）。但在古典希腊语中，这个词并没有其他的含义。 represented by the LXX and the NT there is no essential departure from classical usage. In the LXX (or rather Theodotion's version) of Dnl. 11:43 it stands for "hidden" as applied to gold and silver stores. But the word has also in the same text the meaning "what is hidden away from human knowledge and understanding." So Dnl. 2:20 (Th.), where the apókrypha or hidden things are the meanings of Nebuchadnezzar's dream revealed to Daniel though "hidden" from the wise men of Babylon. The word has the same sense in Sir. 14:21; 39:3, 7; 42:19; 48:25; 43:32.

2、希腊语中的含义。 希腊化时期，《七

3. In the NT. In the NT the word occurs but thrice, viz., Mk. 4:22 par. Lk. 8:17; Col. 2:3. In the last passage Lightfoot thought we have in the word apókryphoi (treasures of Christ hidden) an allusion to the vaunted esoteric knowledge of the false teachers, as if Paul meant to say that in Christ alone we have true wisdom and knowledge and not in the secret books of these teachers. Assuming this, we have in this verse the first example of apókryphos in the sense "esoteric." But the evidence is against so early a use of the term in this—soon to be its prevailing—sense. Nor does exegesis demand such a meaning here, for no writings of any kind seem intended.

4. Patristic. In patristic writings of an early period the adjective apókryphos came to be applied to Jewish and Christian writings containing secret knowledge about the future, etc., intelligible only to the small number of disciples who read them and for whom they were believed to be specially provided. To this class of writings belong in particular those designated apocalyptic

十士译本》和《新约》中，本词的用法与古典时期的用法并没有本质区别。在《七十士译本》（或《狄奥多田旧约希腊文译本》）《但以理书》11:43 中，本词指金银宝库时意为“隐秘的”。但是在《七十士译本》中，这个词还有“人类无法得知和理解的”这种含义。如在《但以理书》2:20（《狄奥多田旧约希腊文译本》）中，巴比伦的哲士无法理解尼布甲尼撒梦境中的 apókrypha（“奥秘的事”），但神在异象中向但以理显明了。《西卜神谕篇》14:21; 39:3, 7; 42:19; 48:25; 43:32 中也使用了这个词的同一含义。

3、《新约》中的含义。这个词在《新约》中仅出现过三次，即《马可福音》4:22，平行经文《路加福音》8:17；《歌罗西书》2:3。莱特福特认为在《歌罗西书》2:3 中，apókryphoi（“蕴藏在”基督里面的宝库）暗指假师傅自诩拥有的隐秘知识，保罗似乎是想说真正的智慧和知识只蕴藏在基督里面，而不存在于假师傅隐秘的书籍中。如果这样假设，那么我们看到了首例将 apókryphos 译为“隐秘的”的经文。虽然这成为了该词的常见意，但是证据表明，这个词在早期还没有这种含义。解经时，此处也并未理解为该含义，因为没有任何一部作品表现出该含义。

4、教父作品中的含义。在早期的教父作品中，形容词 apókryphos 逐渐用来表示犹太教和基督教作品中包含的关于未来等方面的隐秘知识，只有少量的信徒才能理解这些知识，学者们认为这些作品是专为他们而写的。那些指定的启示文学作品尤其应归为这类（见 APOCALYPTIC LITERATURE[启示文学]），此时的 apókryphos 实际意思已经等同于希腊语 esōterikós（“秘传的”）。

(see APOCALYPTIC LITERATURE), and it will be seen that apókryphos as thus employed has virtually the meaning of the Gk. esōterikós.

B. “Esoteric.” From quite early times the philosophers of ancient Greece distinguished between the doctrines and rites which could be taught to all their pupils, and those which could profitably be communicated only to a select circle called the initiated. The two classes of doctrines and rites—they were mainly the latter—were designated respectively “exoteric” and “esoteric.” Lucian (d. 312; see Vitarum Auctio 26), followed by many others, referred the distinction to Aristotle, but wrongly as modern scholars agree, for the exōterikoí λόγοι of that philosopher denote popular treatises. The Pythagoreans recognized and observed these two kinds of doctrines and duties, and there is good reason for believing that they created a corresponding double literature, though unfortunately no explicit examples of such literature have come down to us. In the Greek mysteries (Orphic, Dionysiac, Eleusinian, etc.) two classes of hearers and readers are implied all through, though it is a pity that more of the literature bearing on the question has not been preserved. Among the Buddhists the Samga forms a close society open originally to monks or bhikhus admitted only after a most rigid examination; but in later years nuns (bhikshunis) also have been allowed admission, though in their case too after careful testing. The Vinaya Pitaka or “Basket of Discipline” contains the rules for entrance and the regulations to be observed after entrance. But this and kindred literature were and are still held to be caviar to outsiders.

B. “秘传的”。从很早开始，古希腊哲学家就将教义和礼仪分成两类，一类是所有人都可以了解的，另一类只在被选者之间传达，这些人被称作内行人。人们将这两类教义和礼仪分别称为“世俗的”和“秘传的”，当时的教义和礼仪大多属于后一类。琉善及许多其他学者（卒于 312 年；见 Vitarum Auctio 26），认为这种分类始于亚里士多德，但是现代的学者却认为这种观点是错误的，因为亚里士多德所说的 exōterikoí λόγοι 指的是通俗的知识。毕达哥拉斯学派认识到有两类教义和礼仪，并遵守它们，人们有充分的理由相信他们曾创造出一种相对应的双文学，但遗憾的是，这类文学的实例并没有存留到现代。希腊神话（如关于俄尔普斯、酒神和伊洛西斯的神话）一直有两类读者和听众，但很遗憾，这类文学中关于双文学这一问题的更多信息并没有流传下来。佛教徒中也形成了一个紧密的圈子，最初只有经过最严格考验的僧侣或比丘才能加入；但后来尼姑（比丘尼）也可以加入了，不过她们同样也需要经过严格的考验。《律藏》，或称《调伏藏》中包含了关于入教的规定和入教之后应遵守的戒律。但无论是过去还是现在，局外人一直都无法理解这类典籍。

It must be borne in mind that the word “apocrypha” is really a Greek adjective in the neuter plural, denoting strictly “things hidden.” But almost certainly the noun biblia is understood, so that the real implication of the word is “apocryphal books” or “writings.” In this article apocrypha will be employed in the sense of this last, and apocryphal as the equivalent of the Gk. apókryphos.

C. Early Christian Usage. The word “apocrypha” was first used technically by early Christian writers for the Jewish and Christian writings usually classed under “apocalyptic” (see APOCALYPTIC LITERATURE). In this sense it takes the place of the classical Greek word esōteriká and bears the same general meaning, viz., writings intended for an inner circle and capable of being understood by no others. These writings give intimations regarding the future, the ultimate triumph of the kingdom of God, etc., beyond, it was thought, human discovery and also beyond the intelligence of the uninitiated. In this sense Gregory of Nyssa (d. 395; In suam ordinationem 2.44) and Epiphanius (d. 403; Haer. 51:3) speak of the Apocalypse of John as “apocryphal.”

D. Eastern Church. Christianity itself has nothing corresponding to the idea of a doctrine for the initiated or a literature for a select few. The gospel was preached in its first days to the poor and ignorant, and the reading and studying of the sacred Scriptures have been urged by the churches (with some exceptions) upon the public at large.

1. “Esoteric” Literature. The rise of this

我们应当牢记“apocrypha”一词确实是个中性复数形式的希腊语形容词，它只能表示“隐藏的事物”。但是正如人们通常将名词 biblia 理解为其引申含义，“apocrypha”一词真正的含义是“伪书”或“作品”。本词条使用的就是这最后一种含义，“apocryphal”就等同于希腊语中的 apókryphos（隐藏的、奥秘的）。

C. 早期基督教的用法。 早期基督教作者首次使用“apocrypha”一词，专门用于表示归为“启示文学”的犹太教和基督教作品（见 APOCALYPTIC LITERATURE [启示文学]）。当该词表示这种含义时，它取代了古典希腊语中的 esōteriká 一词，并取其通用含义，即专门写给内行人的、其他人不能理解的作品。这些作品预言了未来的世界会来临，神之国度必将胜利等，作品中认为这些信息超出了人类的理解范围，外行人也无法理解。从这种意义上说，女撒的贵格利（卒于 395 年；In suam ordinationem 2.44）和伊皮法尼（卒于 403 年；Haer. 51:3）将《约翰启示录》划分为“次经”。

D. 东正教会的用法。 基督教教义中并没有类似的概念，也就是没有专为入教者订立的教义，或专供被选者阅读的典籍。基督徒早期向穷人和无知者传播福音，教会（有些教会是例外）一直激励百姓阅读并学习《圣经》。 conception in the Eastern Church is easily understood. When devotees of Greek philosophy accepted the Christian faith it was natural for them to look at the new religion through the medium of the old philosophy. Many of them read into the canonical writings mystic meanings, and embodied those meanings in special books, these last becoming esoteric literature in themselves; and as in the case of apocalyptic writings, this esoteric literature was more revered than the Bible itself. In a similar way there grew up among the Jews side by side with the written law an oral law containing the teaching of the rabbis and regarded as more sacred and authoritative than the writings they profess to expound. One may find some analogy in the fact that among many Christians the official literature of the denomination to which they belong has more commanding force than the Bible itself. This movement among Greek Christians was greatly aided by Gnostic sects and the esoteric literature to which they gave rise. These Gnostics had been themselves influenced deeply by Babylonian and Persian mysticism and the corresponding literature. Clement of Alexandria (d. 220) distinctly mentions esoteric books belonging to the Zoroastrian (Mazdean) religion.

Some Oriental and especially Greek Christians tended to give to philosophy the place which the NT and western Christianity assign the OT. The preparation for the religion of Jesus was said to be in philosophy as well as in the religion of the OT. It will be remembered that Marcion (d. end of 2nd cent.A.D.), Thomas Morgan, the Welsh eighteenth-century deist (d. 1743), and

一些东方人，尤其是希腊基督徒倾向于将《新约》和西方基督教教义中的哲学划分到《旧约》中去。他们认为哲学和《旧约》中的信仰为基耶稣的宗教信仰做了准备。马吉安（卒于 2 世纪晚期）、威尔士 18 世纪的自然神论者托马斯·摩根（卒于 1743 年）和弗里德里希·施莱尔马赫（卒于 1834 年）尤为支持这种观点。

Friedrich Schleiermacher (d. 1834) taught this even more strongly.

Clement of Alexandria recognized 2 Esdras, the Assumption of Moses, etc., as fully canonical. In addition to this he upheld the authority and value of esoteric books, Jewish, Christian, and even heathen. But he is of most importance for our present purpose because he is probably the earliest Greek writer to use the word “apocrypha” as the equivalent of esōteriká, for he describes the esoteric books of Zoroastrianism as apocryphal.

But the idea of esoteric religious literature existed at an earlier time among the Jews, and was borrowed from them by Christians. It is clearly taught in 2 Esd. 14, where it is said that Ezra aided by five amanuenses produced under divine inspiration ninety-four sacred books, the writings of Moses and the prophets having been lost when Jerusalem and the temple were destroyed. Of this large number of sacred books twenty-four were to be published openly, for the unworthy as well as the worthy, these twenty-four books representing undoubtedly the books of the Hebrew OT. The remaining seventy were to be kept for the exclusive use of the “wise among the people,” i.e., they were of an esoteric character. Perhaps if the Greek original of this book had been preserved the word “apocrypha” would have been found as an epithet attached to the seventy books. Our English versions are made from a Latin original (see ESDRAS, BOOKS OF). Modern scholars agree that in its present form this book arose in the reign of Domitian A.D. 81–96. Thus the conception of esoteric literature existed among the Jews in the 1st cent. A.D., and probably still earlier.

但更早时期，犹太人就已经有秘传宗教文学一说，基督徒正是从犹太人那里借鉴了这种概念。据《以斯得拉二书》第 14 章中描述，以斯拉被圣灵感动，他在五位文士的帮助下，写成了九十四卷圣书，随着耶路撒冷和圣殿被毁，摩西和众先知的作品都失传了。圣书的书目虽多，但只有其中二十四卷是公开发表的，不论这二十四卷书是否有价值，它们显然指的就是希伯来语的旧约各书。其余的七十卷书，则专供“民众中的那些智者”研读，也就是说，这些书有秘传文学的特征。如果这本书的希腊语原本能够流传下来的话，那么其中的“apocrypha”一词可能就七十卷书的别称。现在的英文译本翻译自拉丁语原本（见 ESDRAS, BOOKS OF [《以斯得拉书》]）。现代学者认为这本书的版本在图密善统治时期（公元 81-96 年）就已经形成，因此在公元 1 世纪或更早时期，秘传文学这一概念就已经存在于犹太人当中了。

It is significant of the original character of the religion of Israel that no one has been able to point to a Hebrew word corresponding to “esoteric” (see below). When among the Jews there arose a literature of oral tradition it was natural to apply to this last the Greek notion of esoteric, especially as this class of literature was more highly esteemed in many Jewish circles than the OT Scriptures themselves.

2. Noncanonical “Religious” Books. The next step in the history of the word “apocrypha” is that by which it came to denote religious books inferior in authority and worth to the Scriptures of the OT and NT. This change of attitude toward noncanonical writings took place under the influence of two principles: (1) that no writer could be inspired who lived subsequent to the apostolic age; (2) that no writing could be recognized as canonical unless it was accepted as such by the churches in general (in Latin the principle was: quod ubique, quod semper, quod ab omnibus). Now it was felt that many if not most of the religious writings which came in the end of the 2nd cent. to be called “apocryphal” in a disparaging sense had their origin among heretical sects like the Gnostics, and that they had never commanded the approval of the great bulk of the churches. Origen (d. 253) held that we ought to discriminate among books called “apocryphal,” some such having to be firmly rejected as teaching what is contrary to the Scriptures. More and more from the end of the 2nd cent., the word “apocrypha” came to stand for what is

以色列宗教的原始特征值得注意，希伯来语中没有与“esoteric”（秘传的）一词相对应的单词（见下文）。当犹太人中兴起这样一种口传文学，尤其是许多犹太群体相对《旧约》更为推崇这类文学时，他们自然而然地就会接受希腊语中关于秘传的概念。

2、典外“宗教”文献。在随后的历史中，“apocrypha”一词开始表示那些不如《新约》和《旧约》有价值 and 权威性的宗教文献。人们对典外文献态度的转变受到两个原则的影响：（1）使徒时期之后，再没有作者在圣灵感动下创作；（2）只有教会普遍认可的作品才可被称为正典（这个原则用拉丁语来说是：quod ubique, quod semper, quod ab omnibus [不分时间、无所不在、普遍适用]）。现在学者普遍认为，人们称 2 世纪末期由异教徒（如诺斯替教）写成的许多（如果不是大多数的话）文学作品为“apocryphal”（伪经），这种说法是带有贬义的，这些作品也从未受到多数教会的认可。俄利根（卒于 253 年）认为人们应辨别出那些被称作“apocryphal”（伪经）的作品，并且要坚决抵制这类书中与《圣经》对立的教训。从 2 世纪末期开始，“apocrypha”一词越来越多地用来表示那些伪造的、不可靠的作品，尤其是那些托他人之名写成的作品，也就是“pseudepigraphal”（伪经）。 spurious and untrustworthy, and especially for writings ascribed to authors who did not write them, the “pseudepigraphal” books.

Irenaeus (d. 202) in opposition to Clement of Alexandria denies that esoteric writings have any claims to credence or even respect. To him, as later to Jerome (d. 420), “canonical” and “apocryphal” were antithetic terms.

Tertullian (d. 230) took the same view: “apocryphal” to him denoted noncanonical. But both Irenaeus and Tertullian meant by “apocrypha” in particular the apocalyptic writings. During the Nicene period, and even earlier, sacred books were divided by Christian teachers into three classes: (1) books that could be read in church; (2) books that could be read privately, but not in public; (3) books that were not to be read at all. This classification is implied in the writings of Origen, Clement of Alexandria, Athanasius (d. 373), and in the Muratorian Canon (ca. A.D. 200).

3. “Spurious” Books. Athanasius, however, restricted the word “apocrypha” to the third class, thus making the corresponding adjective synonymous with “spurious.” Nicephorus, patriarch of Constantinople (A.D. 806–815), in his chronography (belonging essentially to A.D. 500 according to Zahn) divides sacred books thus: (1) the canonical books of the OT and the NT; (2) the Antilegomena of both Testaments; (3) the Apocrypha of both Testaments.

The details of the Apocrypha of the OT are thus enumerated: (1) Enoch; (2) Twelve Patriarchs; (3) Prayer of Joseph;

爱任纽（卒于 202 年）与亚历山太的革利免观点相反，他认为秘传文学不值得信赖或尊敬。对于他和后来的耶柔米（卒于 420 年）来说，“正典”和“伪经”是相互对立的。

特土良（卒于 230 年）也持有同样的观点：对他来说，“apocryphal”意味着不权威。但是爱任纽和特土良用“apocrypha”一词专指启示文学作品。尼西亚时期，甚至可能更早，基督教教师将经书分为三类：（1）可以在教会中阅读的；（2）可以在私下阅读，但不可公开阅读的；（3）完全不可阅读的。俄利根、亚历山太的革利免和亚他那修（卒于 373 年）的作品，以及《穆拉多利经目》（约公元 200 年）中都默认了这种分类。

3、“伪”书。但亚他那修认为“apocrypha”一词只能指第三类作品，这样该词的含义就相当于形容词“spurious”（假的、伪造的）。君士坦丁堡牧首尼赛福鲁斯（公元 806-815 年）在其年表（据查恩称，年表主要记录了公元 500 年时期的事件）中将经书分为三类：（1）《新约》和《旧约》正典；（2）两约之中有争议的经卷；（3）两约的伪经。

《旧约》的伪经包括：（1）《以诺书》；（2）《十二族长遗训》；（3）《约瑟祷文》；（4）《摩西遗训》；（5）《摩西升天记》；

(4) Testament of Moses; (5) Assumption of Moses; (6) Abram; (7) Eldad and Modad; (8) Elijah the Prophet; (9) Zephaniah the Prophet; (10) Zechariah, father of John; (11) Pseudepigrapha of Baruch, Habakkuk, Ezekiel, and Daniel.

The books of the NT Apocrypha are thus given: (1) Itinerary of Paul; (2) Itinerary of Peter; (3) Itinerary of John; (4) Itinerary of Thomas; (5) Gospel According to Thomas; (6) Teaching of the Apostles (the Didache); (7) and (8) Two Epistles of Clement; (9) Epistles of Ignatius, Polycarp, and Hermas.

The above lists are repeated in the "Synopsis of Athanasius." The authors of these so-called apocryphal books being unknown, it was sought to gain respect for these writers by tacking onto them well-known names, so that, particularly in the Western Church, "apocryphal" came to be almost synonymous with "pseudepigraphal."

Of the OT lists given above, nos. 1, 2, 4, 5 are extant wholly or in part Nos. 3, 7, 8, 9 are lost though quoted as genuine by Origen and other Eastern Fathers. They are all of them apocalypses designated apocrypha in accordance with early usage.

4. "List of Sixty". In the anonymous "List of Sixty," from the 7th cent., we have represented probably the attitude of the Eastern Church. It divides sacred books into three classes: (1) Sixty canonical books, thirty-four of the OT and twenty-six of the NT (lacking Revelation). (2) Books excluded from the sixty, yet of superior authority to those

(6)《亚伯拉罕启示录》; (7)《伊利达和米达书》; (8)《以利亚启示录》; (9)《西番亚启示录》; (10) [伪]《撒迦利亚(约翰之父)启示录》; (11) [伪]《巴录书》《哈巴谷书》《以西结书》《但以理书》。

《新约》的《伪经》包括: (1)《保罗行传》; (2)《彼得行传》; (3)《约翰行传》; (4)《多马行传》; (5)《多马福音》; (6)《十二使徒遗训》; (7)和(8)《革利免一书》和《革利免二书》; (9)《伊格那丢书》《坡旅甲书》《黑马牧人书》。

上述列表在“亚他那修大纲”中再次出现。这些所谓的伪经作者不详,作者借这些名人之名写作是为了得到尊敬,因此,尤其是在天主教会中,“apocryphal”一词变为了“pseudepigraphal”(伪经)的同义词。

在上述《旧约》的伪经列表中,第1、2、4、5号有全本或残本流传下来,而第3、7、8、9号已经失传了,但俄利根和其他东正教的教父曾引用这些文献,这可以证明它们确实存在。这些都是被认作伪经的启示文学作品,此时“apocrypha”的用法与早期的用法是一致的。

4、“六十正典”。在7世纪时匿名的“六十正典”中,我们或许可以看出东正教会对伪经的态度。它将经书分为三类: (1)六十部正典,其中《旧约》34部,《新约》26部(不包括《启示录》)。(2)六十正典之外的文献,但比伪经更有权权威性。(3)伪经,包括:(a)《亚当启示录》; (b)《以诺书》; (c)《拉麦启示录》; (d)《十二族长遗训》; (e)《约瑟

mentioned as apocryphal in the next class. (3) Apocryphal books, the names of which are as follows: (a) Adam; (b) Enoch; (c) Lamech; (d) Twelve Patriarchs; (e) Prayer of Joseph; (f) Eldad and Modad; (g) Testament of Moses; (h) Assumption of Moses; (i) Psalms of Solomon; (j) Apocalypse of Elijah; (k) Ascension of Isaiah; (l) Apocalypse of Zephaniah (see no. 9 of the OT Apocrypha the Chronography of Nicephorus above); (m) Apocalypse of Zechariah; (n) Apocalyptic Ezra; (o) History of James; (p) Apocalypse of Peter; (q) Itinerary and Teaching of the Apostles; (r) Epistles of Barnabas; (s) Acts of Paul; (t) Apocalypse of Paul; (u) Didascalia of Clement; (v) Didascalia of Ignatius; (w) Didascalia of Polycarp; (x) Gospel According to Barnabas; (y) Gospel According to Matthew. (See H-S, I, 51f.)

The greater number of these books come under the designation “apocryphal” in the early sense of “apocalyptic,” but by this time the word had taken on a lower meaning, viz., books not good for even private reading. Yet that these books are mentioned at all show that they were more highly esteemed than heathen and than even heretical Christian writings. The Eastern churches down to the present day reject the meaning of “apocrypha” current among Protestants (see definition above), and their Bible includes the OT Apocrypha, making no distinction between it and the rest of the Bible.

E. Western Church. 1. The Decretum Gelasianum. In the Western Church the words “apocrypha” and “apocryphal” had a somewhat different history. In general it may be said that the Western Church did not; (f) 《伊利达和米达书》; (g) 《摩西遗训》; (h) 《摩西升天记》; (i) 《所罗门诗篇》; (j) 《以利亚启示录》; (k) 《以赛亚升天记》; (l) 《西番亚启示录》(见上文提到的《尼赛福鲁斯年表》中《旧约》的伪经第9号); (m) 《撒迦利亚启示录》; (n) 《以斯拉启示录》; (o) 《雅各史述》; (p) 《彼得启示录》; (q) 《十二使徒行传与遗训》; (r) 《巴拿巴书》; (s) 《保罗行传》; (t) 《保罗启示录》; (u) 《革利免遗范》; (v) 《伊格那丢遗范》; (w) 《坡旅甲遗范》; (x) 《巴拿巴福音》; (y) [伪]《马太福音》(见 H-S, I, 51-52)。

此时 “apocryphal” 一词已经不单指 “apocalyptic” (启示文学作品), 而是用来指更多的文献, 但此时该词包含了更多的贬义, 即私下也不能读的作品。但毕竟仍有人提及上述文献, 这说明它们仍比异教文献, 甚至基督教异端作品更受人尊敬。现代的新教徒认同该词的这种含义, 但东正教会却从始至终拒绝接受这一含义, 他们的《圣经》中还留着《旧约》的伪经, 也没有将这些伪经与《圣经》中的其他经卷区分开来。

E. 天主教会的用法。1、《格拉修斯法令》。在天主教会中, “apocrypha” 和 “apocryphal” 的历史略有不同。通常来说, 天主教会并不接受东正教会中对经书的三种普遍的分类。但《格拉修斯 not adopt the triple division of sacred books prevalent in the Eastern Church. Yet the Decretum Gelasianum (6th cent. in its present form) has a triple list which is almost certainly that of the Roman synod of 382 under Damasus bishop of Rome (366–384). It is as follows: (1) the canonical books of both Testaments; (2) writings of the fathers approved by the Church; (3) apocryphal books rejected by the Church. Then there is added a list of miscellaneous books condemned as heretical, including even the works of Clement of Alexandria, Tertullian, and Eusebius, these works being all branded as “apocryphal.” On the other hand Gregory of Nyssa and Epiphanius, both writing in the 4th cent., use the word “apocrypha” in the old sense of apocalyptic, i.e., esoteric.

2. “Noncanonical” Books. Jerome (d. 420) in the Prologus Galeatus (so called because it was a defense and so resembled a helmeted warrior) or preface to his Latin version of the Bible uses the word “Apocrypha” in the sense of noncanonical books. His words are: Quidquid extra hos [i.e., the 22 canonical books] inter Apocrypha ponendum: “Anything outside of these must be placed within the Apocrypha” (when among the fathers and rabbis the OT is made to contain 22 [not 24] books, Ruth and Lamentations are joined respectively to Judges and Jeremiah). He was followed in this by Rufinus (d. ca. 410), in turns Jerome’s friend and adversary, as he had been anticipated by Irenaeus. The Western Church as a whole departed from Jerome’s theory by including the antilegomena of both Testaments among the canonical writings; but the general custom of western

法令》(现存的版本形成于 6 世纪)中有三类列表,几乎可以肯定这就是公元 382 年罗马教皇达玛苏(366-384 年)在罗马教省会议上确立的列表。其分类如下:(1)两约中的正典经卷;(2)教会认可的教父所写的作品;(3)教会不认可的伪经。此外还增加了一个列表,收录了各种异端作品,其中甚至包括亚历山太的革利免、特土良、和优西比乌的作品,这些作品都被称作“apocryphal”(伪经)。另一方面,女撒的贵格利和伊皮法纽在 4 世纪时,都使用了“apocrypha”一词的古义,指启示文学作品,也就是秘传文学。

2、典外文献。耶柔米(卒于 420 年)在他翻译的拉丁语《圣经》译本的序言中(也被称作 Prologus Galeatus [“带头盔的序言”],这种命名是因为序言中有很多自我辩解之词,像戴头盔的勇士)使用了“Apocrypha”一词,指典外文献。他的原话是: Quidquid extra hos [即, 22 本正典经卷] inter Apocrypha ponendum: “这之外的任何书籍都应算作典外文献”(神父和拉比之间流传的《旧约》只有 22 卷书[而不是 24 卷],其中《路德记》和《耶利米哀歌》被分别添加在《士师记》和《耶利米书》中)。鲁非诺(卒于约 410 年)既是耶柔米的朋友也是他的对手,他遵循了耶柔米对“Apocrypha”一词的解释,这在爱任纽的意料之中。总的来说,天主教会背离了耶柔米的理论,他们将两约之中有争议的经卷都看做是正典;但当时天主教徒通常认为“apocryphal”指的是“典外的”。然而奥古斯丁(卒于 430 年, Civ. Dei xv.23)将“apocrypha”解释为来源或作者不明的作品,西方世界普遍

Christians about this time was to make apocryphal mean noncanonical. Yet Augustine (d. 430; Civ. Dei xv.23) explained “apocrypha” as denoting obscurity of origin or authorship, and this sense of the word became the prevailing one in the West.

F. Reformers. But it is to the Reformers that we are indebted for the habit of using Apocrypha for a collection of books appended to the OT and generally up to 1827 appended to every printed English Bible. Bodenstein of Carlstadt, usually called Carlstadt (d. 1541), an early Reformer, though Luther’s bitter personal opponent, was the first modern scholar to define Apocrypha quite clearly as writings excluded from the canon, whether or not the true authors of the books are known, in this going back to Jerome’s position. The adjective “apocryphal” came to have among Protestants more and more a disparaging sense.

Protestantism was in its very essence the religion of a book, and Protestants would be sure to see to it that the sacred volume on which they based their religion, including the reforms they introduced, contained no book but those which in their opinion had the strongest claims to be regarded as authoritative. In the Eastern and Western churches under the influence of the LXX and Vulgate the books of the Apocrypha formed an integral part of the canon and were scattered throughout the OT, generally placed near books with which they have affinity. Even Protestant Bibles up to 1827 included the Apocrypha, but as one collection of distinct writings at the end of the OT. It will be seen from what has been said that notwithstanding the favorable attitude toward it of the Eastern and Western churches, from the earliest times, our Apocrypha was regarded with more or less suspicion, and the suspicion would be strengthened by the general antagonism toward it. In the Middle Ages, under the influence of Reuchlin (d. 1532)—great scholar and Reformer—Hebrew came to be studied and the OT read in its original language. That the Apocrypha is absent from the Hebrew canon must have had some influence on the minds of the Reformers. Moreover in the Apocrypha there are parts inconsistent with Protestant principles, as for example the doctrines of prayers for the dead, the intercession of the saints, etc.

F. 改教家的用法。但改教家们通常用 “Apocrypha” 表示《旧约》中附加的经卷，到 1827 年时，几乎每本出版的英语《圣经》中都有这些经卷。迦勒斯大的博登施泰因（Bodenstein of Carlstadt，人们通常称其为迦勒斯大，卒于 1541 年）是一位早期的改教家，他与路德意见相左，但他是第一个将 “Apocrypha” 明确定义为典外文献（无论是否知道作品的真实作者）的现代学者，这与耶柔米对该词的解释一致。形容词 “apocryphal”（伪的、杜撰的）对新教徒来说越来越含有贬义。

新教徒十分注重书籍中宗教信仰的本质，他们力求（包括他们提出的宗教改革）使新教的宗教典籍只包含他们认为最有权威性的经卷。东正教会和天主教会在《七十士译本》和《武加大译本》的影响下，仍然将一些次经列入正典之中，并将其分别安放在《旧约》中与其关系比较紧密的经卷前后。到 1827 年时，即使是新教的《圣经》也还包含次经，但他们将其收录在《旧约》末尾。由上文可知，虽然东正教会和天主教会从早期开始便对次经持赞许态度，但他们对这些经卷都或多或少有些怀疑，而人们普遍持有的反对态度又加重了这种怀疑。在中世纪时期，受伟大的学者和改教家赖希林（Reuchlin，卒于 1532 年）影响，人们开始学习希伯来语，并阅读《旧约》的希伯来语版本。希伯来

The Jews in the early Christian centuries had really two Bibles: (1) There was the Hebrew Bible which does not include the Apocrypha, and which circulated in Palestine and Babylon; (2) there was the Greek version (LXX) used by Greek-speaking Jews everywhere. However, instigated by the use made of it by Christians against themselves, the Jews condemned this version and made the Hebrew canon their Bible, thus rejecting the books of the Apocrypha from their list of canonical writings, and departing from the custom of Christian churches which continued with isolated remonstrances to make the Greek OT canon, with which the Vulgate agrees almost completely, their standard. It is known that the Reformers were careful students of the Bible, and that in OT matters they were the pupils of Jewish scholars—there were no other competent teachers of Hebrew. It might therefore have been expected that the OT canon of the Reformers would agree in extent with that of the Jews and not with that of the Greek and Latin Christians. Notwithstanding the doubt which H. E. Ryle (Canon of the OT [2nd ed. 1895], p. 156) casts on the matter, all the evidence goes to show that the LXX and therefore the other great Greek versions included the Apocrypha from the first onward.

在公元后的前几个世纪中，犹太人其实有两种《圣经》：（1）流传于巴勒斯坦和巴比伦地区的希伯来语《圣经》，其中没有次经；（2）所有说希腊语的犹太人使用的希腊语版本《圣经》（《七十士译本》）。但是，由于包含次经的《圣经》有违基督徒自身的原则，犹太人拒绝使用包含次经的希腊语译本，而是将希伯来语的正典作为他们的《圣经》，这背离了基督教会的习惯，但基督教会不顾反对，仍然使用《希腊语旧约》中的正典，基于这点，《武加大译本》最符合他们的标准。众所周知，改教家谨慎地研究《圣经》，他们拜犹太学者为师（除他们之外，似乎没有更合适的教师），学习希伯来语。因此改教家认定的《旧约》正典似乎应该更倾向于犹太人，而非希腊或拉丁基督教徒。虽然赖尔（H. E. Ryle, Canon of the OT [1895年再版], 156页）对这个问题表示怀疑，但所有的证据都表明《七十士译本》和其他主要的希腊语译本都从一开始就包含了次经。

But how comes it to be that the Greek OT is more extensive than the Hebrew OT? Up to the final destruction of Jerusalem in A.D. 71 the temple with its priesthood and ritual was the center of the religious thought and life of the nation. But with the destruction of the sanctuary and the disbanding of its officials it was needful to find some fresh binding and directing agency, and this was found in the collection of sacred writings known by us as the OT. By a national synod held at Jamnia, near Jaffa, in A.D. 90, the OT canon was practically though not finally closed, and from that date one may say that the limits of the OT were once and for all fixed, no writings being included except those written in Hebrew, the latest of these being as old as 100 B.C. The Jews of the Dispersion spoke and wrote Greek, and they continued to think and write long after their fellow countrymen of the homeland had ceased to produce any fresh original literature. What they did produce was explanatory of what had been written and practical.

The Greek Bible—the LXX—is that of the Jews in Egypt and of those found in other Greek-speaking countries. John Wyclif (d. 1384) put the Apocrypha together at the end of the OT and the same course was taken by Luther (1546) in his great German and by Miles

但为何希腊语《旧约》中的经卷会多于希伯来语的《旧约》呢？在公元 71 年耶路撒冷被毁之前，圣殿中一直有祭司供圣职，祭礼也在圣殿中举行，它是民族宗教思想和宗教生活的中心。但圣殿被毁，神职人员被遣散之后，人们需要一些新的有约束性和指导性的代替品，一系列宗教作品起到了这个作用，这些作品也就是我们所熟知的《旧约》。公元 90 年，犹太人举行了雅麦尼亚会议（位于雅法附近），在这次会议上，虽然《旧约》的真作没有最终确定，但从这次会议开始，人们可以说《旧约》的范围已经永久性地确立了，只有那些用希伯来语写成的作品才能被收录其中，这些作品中年代最近的也至少写于公元前 100 年。当故土的同胞许久都没有推出原创的文学作品时，离散的犹太人仍然能说希腊语、写希腊语，继续思考并写作。但这些离散犹太人所创作的作品都是对已经写成作品的解释。

埃及和其他说希腊语国家的犹太人研读的是希腊语《圣经》，也就是《七十士译本》。威克利夫（John Wyclif，卒于 1384 年）将伪经列在《旧约》之后，路德（卒于 1546 年）和科弗代尔（卒于 1568 年）也是这样做的，他们分别在各自的德语和英语译本中将伪经添加在

Coverdale (d. 1568) in his English translation.

G. Hebrew Words for Apocrypha. Is it quite certain that there is no Hebrew word or expression corresponding exactly to the word “apocrypha” as first used by Christian writers, i.e., in the sense “esoteric”? One may answer this by a decisive negative as regards the OT and the Talmud. But in the Middle Ages qabbālā (lit. “tradition”) came to have a closely allied meaning (cf. our “cabalistic”).

Is there in Hebrew a word or expression denoting “noncanonical,” i.e., having the secondary sense acquired by “apocrypha”? This question does not allow of so decided an answer, and as a matter of fact has been answered in different ways.

Zahn, Schürer, Porter, and others maintained that “Apocrypha (Biblia)” is a translation of the Heb. s^epārîm g^enûzîm, lit. “books stored away.” If this view is the correct one it follows that the distinction of canonical and noncanonical books originated among the Jews, and that the fathers in using the word “apocrypha” in this sense were simply copying the Jews, substituting Greek words for the Hebrew equivalent. But there are decisive reasons for rejecting this view.

(a) The verb gānaz of which the passive participle occurs in the above phrase means “store away,” “remove from view”—of things in themselves sacred or precious. It never means exclude as from the canon.

《旧约》之中。

G. 表示“Apocrypha”的希伯来语词汇。希伯来语中确实没有与“apocrypha”（“秘传的”，这是基督教作者第一次使用该词时的含义）完全对应的单词或表达方式吗？如果根据《旧约》或《塔木德》来回答这个问题的话，那么人们的回答肯定是否定的。但在中世纪时，qabbālā（字面含义“传说”）的意思与“apocrypha”表达的含义已经极为接近（参：英语“cabalistic”[“犹太神秘哲学的”]）。

希伯来语中是否有与“noncanonical”（“典外的”，即“apocrypha”的第二种含义）相对应的单词或表达方式呢？这个问题并没有明确的答案，实际上，学者们对此有多种回答。

查恩、舒勒（Schürer）、波特等人坚持认为“Apocrypha (Biblia)”（《圣经》典外文献）是对希伯来语 s^epārîm g^enûzîm 的翻译，它的字面意思是“储藏起来的书籍”。如果这种观点是正确的，那么对正典和典外文献的区分就始于犹太人，而前人们采用“apocrypha”一词的这种含义仅仅是在效仿犹太人，他们只是用希腊语替换了希伯来语中对应的单词。但有决定性的理由反对这种观点。

(a) 动词 gānaz 在上述希伯来短语中以被动分词形式出现，它的意思是被“储藏起来”或“放在视线之外”的事物，用以指那些本身圣洁或珍贵之物。它从来没有“从正典中排除”的含义。

(b) When employed in reference to sacred books it is only of those recognized as canonical. Thus after copies of the Pentateuch or of other parts of the Hebrew Bible had, by age and use, become unfit to be read in the home or in the synagogue they were “buried” in the ground as being too sacred to be burned or cut up; and the verb denoting the burying is gānaz. But those buried books are without exception canonical.

(c) The Hebrew phrase in question does not once occur in either the Babylonian or Jerusalem Talmud, but only in rabbinical writings of a much later date. The Gk. apókrypha cannot therefore be a rendering of the Hebrew expression. The Hebrew for books definitely excluded from the canon is s^epārîm hîṣônîm, “outside” or “extraneous books.” The Mishnah or oral law with its additions came to be divided analogously into (1) the Mishnah proper; (2) the external (hîṣônâ) Mishnah.

H. Summary. (1) Among the Protestant churches the word “Apocrypha” is used for the books included in the LXX and Vulgate, but absent from the Hebrew Bible. This restricted sense of the word cannot be traced farther back than the beginning of the Reformation.

(2) In classical and Hellenistic Greek the adjective apókryphos denotes “hidden” (of visible objects), or obscure, hard to understand (of certain kinds of knowledge).

(3) In early patristic Greek this adjective came into use as a synonym of the classical Gk. esōterikós.

(b) 当该词用于指经书时，单指那些被认作是正典的经书。《摩西五经》和其他希伯来语《圣经》经卷经多年的使用和抄录后，已经不适宜在家中或会堂中阅读，人们将这些经卷“埋葬”在地底，它们太过神圣，不能被烧毁或粉碎；表示“埋葬”含义的动词就是 gānaz。但这些被埋葬的书籍一律都是正典。

(c) 此处讨论的希伯来语短语不曾出现在《巴比伦他勒目》或《耶路撒冷他勒目》之中，它仅在较晚时期的拉比文献中出现过。因此不能用希腊语 apókrypha（典外文献）来翻译这个希伯来语短语。希伯来语中明确表示典外文献的短语是 s^epārîm hîṣônîm，它的意思是“外来的或没有关联的书籍”。《米示拿》或口传律法及其附近经卷也同样被分成两部分（1）《米示拿》本身；（2）外（hîṣônâ）《米示拿》。

H. 总结。（1）新教教会中“Apocrypha”指的是希伯来语《圣经》中没有，但收录在《七十士译本》和《武加大译本》中的经卷。该词的这种有限含义直到改教运动之后才出现。

（2）在古典希腊语和通俗希腊语中形容词“apókryphos”指的是“隐藏的”（可见物体），或晦涩的、难以理解的（某种知识）。

（3）在早期教父希腊语中，这个形容词逐渐变为古典希腊语 esōterikós（“秘传的”）的同义词。

(4) In later patristic Greek (Irenaeus, etc.) and in Latin works beginning with Jerome, Gk. apókryphos meant noncanonical, implying inferiority in subject-matter to the books in the canon.

(5) By the Protestant Reformers the term “apocrypha” (“apocryphal books”) came to stand for what is now called the “OT Apocrypha.” But this usage is confined to Protestants, since in the Eastern Church and in the Roman branch of the Western Church the OT Apocrypha is as much an integral part of the canon as Genesis or Kings or Psalms or Isaiah.

(6) There are no equivalents in Hebrew for apókryphos in the sense of either “esoteric” or “noncanonical.”

III. Contents of the Apocrypha. A. List of Books. The books of the Apocrypha in the order in which they occur in the English versions are: (1) 1 Esdras; (2) 2 Esdras; (3) Tobit; (4) Judith; (5) Additions to the Book of Esther; (6) Wisdom of Solomon; (7) Ecclesiasticus (Sirach); (8) Baruch, with the Letter of Jeremiah; (9) Song of the Three Young Men; (10) Susanna; (11) Bel and the Dragon; (12) Prayer of Manasseh; (13) 1 Maccabees; (14) 2 Maccabees.

No. 5 in the above, “Additions to Esther,” consists of 107 (out of 270) verses of the book of Esther that occur in the best MSS of the LXX and in the Vulgate but not in the Hebrew Bible. These six additions are in the LXX scattered throughout the book and are intelligible in the context thus given them, but not when brought together as they are in the collected Apocrypha of the AV, ERV, and RSV, and as they are to some extent

(4) 在后期教父希腊语（爱任纽等）和始于耶柔米的拉丁语作品中，希腊语 apókryphos 表示典外的，暗指在主题上低于正典的书籍。

(5) 到新教改教家时期，“apocrypha”（或“apocryphal books”）一词开始表示“《旧约》次经”。但这种用法仅限于新教徒使用，因为在东正教会和天主教会的罗马分支教会看来，“《旧约》次经”同《创世记》《列王纪》《诗篇》或《以赛亚书》等经卷一样，也属于正典。

(6) 当 apókryphos 表示“秘传的”或“典外的”含义时，在希伯来语中没有对应的词汇。

III. 次经的内容。A. 书籍列表。 次经书籍出现在英文译本中的顺序如下：(1)《以斯得拉一书》；(2)《以斯得拉二书》；(3)《多比传》；(4)《犹滴传》；(5)《以斯帖补篇》；(6)《所罗门智训》；(7)《便西拉智训》；(8)《巴录书》，其中包含《耶利米书信》；(9)《三童歌》(10)《苏撒拿传》；(11)《彼勒与大龙书》；(12)《玛拿西祷词》；(13)《马加比一书》；(14)《马加比二书》。

上面的第五卷典籍——《以斯帖补篇》，其中包含了最完好的《七十士译本》手稿和《武加大译本》中的107节（共270节），但这些经文并未出现在希伯来语《圣经》中。《七十士译本》中，这六处补篇是分散在整个《以斯帖记》中的，内容前后承接，就易于理解，但当这些经文被集中收录在《钦定版圣经》《英语修订译本》和《修订标准译本》里的《次经》中时，就变得无法理解了，从某种程度上来说，在耶柔米的拉丁译本

in Jerome's Latin version and the Vulgate (the NEB Apocrypha translates the whole LXX version of Esther). Nos. 9–11 in the above enumeration are additions made in the LXX and Vulgate versions of Daniel to the book as found in the MT. It would be well to name them "Additions to Daniel." The bringing together of the writings of the Apocrypha into a separate collection was due in a large measure to Jerome, who separated many of the apocryphal additions from their original context because he suspected their genuineness. His version influenced the Vulgate, which follows Jerome's version closely.

Though it is generally true that the Apocrypha is the excess of the Greek (LXX) and Latin (Jerome, Vulgate) over the Hebrew (MT) Bibles, the statement needs qualification. 2 Esdras (4 Ezra) is absent from the LXX, from Jerome's version, and also from Luther's Bible, but it occurs in the Vulgate and in the English and other modern versions of the Apocrypha. On the other hand 3 and 4 Maccabees occur in the best MSS of the LXX, but the Vulgate, following Jerome's version, rejects both as do modern versions of the Apocrypha. Moreover, in the Vulgate proper the Prayer of Manasseh and 1 and 2 Esdras are appended to the NT as apocryphal.

B. Classification. 1. Historical. (a) 1 and 2 Esdras; (b) 1 and 2 Maccabees; (c) Additions to Daniel (nos. 9–11 in the above list); (d) Additions to Esther; (e) Letter of Jeremiah (usually appended to Baruch); (f) Prayer of Manasseh.

2. Legendary. (a) Baruch (sometimes

和《武加大译本》中，这些经文也无法理解（《新英文译本》的《次经》翻译了整卷《七十士译本》中的《以斯帖记》）。《七十士译本》和《武加大译本》将上述列表中的 9 至 11 号经书补充在《但以理书》的异象中，这与《马所拉文本》一致。将这三卷书称为“《但以理补篇》”似乎比较好。这种将次经作品整合成一卷单独的经文的做法在很大程度上归因于耶柔米，他因怀疑某些经文的真实性，于是将它们从原文中分离出来，形成了许多次经中的补篇。《武加大译本》受耶柔米译本的影响，严格遵循了耶柔米译本的成文方式。

“次经”指的就是希腊语译本（《七十士译本》）和拉丁语译本（耶柔米的译本和《武加大译本》）比希伯来语《圣经》（《马所拉文本》）多出的经卷，虽然这种说法普遍来说是正确的，但也有例外。《七十士译本》、耶柔米的译本和《路德圣经》中没有《以斯得拉二书》（《以斯拉四书》），但《武加大译本》、英语《圣经》和现代多个版本的《次经》中都有这卷经文。另一方面，《七十士译本》保存最完好的手稿中包含《马加比三书》和《马加比四书》，但《武加大译本》受耶柔米译本的影响，没有收录这两卷经文，现代各版本的《次经》也是如此。此外，在《武加大译本》中，《玛拿西祷词》《以斯得拉一书》和《以斯得拉二书》都被归为《新约》次经。

B. 分类. 1、历史书。 (a) 《以斯得拉一书》和《以斯得拉二书》；(b) 《马加比一书》和《马加比二书》；(c) 《但以理补篇》（上文列表中的 9 至 11 号经书）；(d) 《以斯帖补篇》；(e) 耶利米书信（通常附加在《巴录书》中）；(f) 《玛拿西祷词》。

2、传奇书。(a) 《巴录书》（有时被归 classed with prophetic books, sometimes with apocalypses); (b) Tobit; (c) Judith.

3. Apocalyptic. 2 Esdras.

4. Didactic. (a) Wisdom of Solomon; (b) Sirach (Ecclesiasticus).

IV. Original Languages.-The bulk of the Apocrypha was written originally in Greek and existed at first in that language alone. The following books, however, were written in Hebrew: Tobit, Judith, Sirach, Baruch (part probably in Greek), and 1 Maccabees. In these cases some prefer regarding Aramaic as the original language in at least parts of the above books. For detailed information see articles on individual books.

V. Dates.-The dating of the books is discussed in the separate articles. But a general statement regarding the extreme limits between which all the books were completed may safely be made. The oldest apocryphal book is Sirach, which in its original Hebrew form belongs to the period 190-170 B.C. In its Greek form the best modern scholars agree in fixing it at 130-120 B.C. None of the books can well belong to a date later than A.D. 100, though some (e.g., 2 Esdras) may be as late as that. The whole of the Apocrypha may with more than average certainty be said to have been written some time between 200 B.C. and A.D. 100. It is inaccurate to assume that the Apocrypha was in all its parts of later date than the latest parts of the OT. Many think the canonical book of Daniel and many of the Psalms are of later date than Sirach and 1 Esdras, and there are reasons for giving the canonical Esther a later date than any of the books named and perhaps than 为先知书, 有时被归为启示文学); (b) 《多比传》; (c) 《犹滴传》。

3、启示录。《以斯得拉二书》。

4、教训书。(a)《所罗门智训》; (b)《便西拉智训》(《次经传道书》)。

IV. 原始语言。大多数次经最初由希腊语写成, 而且最初只有希腊语版本。但如下次经经书则是用希伯来语写成的: 《多比传》《犹滴传》《便西拉智训》《巴录书》(可能有部分用希腊语写成)和《马加比一书》。在这些情况下, 有些学者倾向于认为上述书籍至少有某些部分的原始语言是亚兰语。关于更多细节, 详见各卷书的词条。

V. 写作时期。各卷书的词条中对次经各卷书籍的写作时期进行了讨论。但此处不妨大致陈述一下每卷次经的写作时段。最早的次经是《便西拉智训》, 它的希伯来语原本写于公元前 190 至 170 年。现在学者大多认同它的希腊语译本成书于公元前 130 至 120 年。次经(如《以斯得拉二书》)中的经卷最晚成书于公元 100 年。学者们普遍认为整部《次经》的写作时期介于公元前 200 年至公元 100 年间。有人认为《次经》所有部分的写作时间都晚于《旧约》最后一个部分的写作时间, 这显然是错误的。许多人认为正典中的《但以理书》和《诗篇》中的多篇内容写作时间要晚于《便西拉智训》和《以斯得拉一书》, 也有理由认为正典中的《以斯帖记》的写作时间要晚于上文中提到的任何一卷书, 可能也晚于《犹滴传》(另见 DANIEL[《但以理书》]; ESTHER[《以斯帖记》])。但目前可以确定的是, 大部分次经写作时期都要晚于《旧约》; 因此, 次经至关重要的作用在于, 它反映出了各个时期犹太人的生活状况以及

Judith as well (see, however, DANIEL; ESTHER). But it is quite certain that by far the greater part of the Apocrypha is of later date than the OT; it is therefore of the utmost importance as reflecting the state of the Jews and the character of their intellectual and religious life at the various periods represented. And in later years much use has been made of it.

APOCRYPHAL ACTS.

A body of extracanonical writings of the 2nd and 3rd cents A.D.

Originally the designation apocryphal meant “hidden” [<Gk. apokryptō—‘hide’], particularly in reference to the claims of some sects to preserve a tradition of secret doctrine of Christ or the apostles. The nature of these sects and the Church’s insistence that the tradition of the apostles was openly preserved in the NT naturally added the connotation of spuriousness and even of heresy to the term, and “apocryphal” is used in this sense by Irenaeus and Tertullian. By the time of Jerome, however, “apocryphal”

APOCRYPHAL ACTS. 次经行传

公元2世纪和3世纪时期的一些典外文献。

“apocryphal”最初的意思是“隐藏的”[衍生自希腊语: apokryptō——“隐藏”], 专指某些教派的主张保留了基督或使徒神秘教义中的某个传统。这些教派的教会主张使徒的传统公开保存在《新约》中, 结合对这些教派本质的分析, 自然为“apocryphal”一词增加了“虚假的”甚至“异端的”这层含义, 爱任纽和特土良就使用了“apocryphal”一词的这种含义。但是, 到耶柔米时期, “apocryphal”一词用来表示那些表面上描述关于神或使徒的信息, 但却不受教会承认的作品(不论书中教义是否受 describes any writings ostensibly giving information about the Lord or the apostles but not recognized by the Church (whether doctrinally suspect or not). In this sense of “extracanonical” it is used here.

It is not known whether Luke or his transmitters named his second volume Acts of the Apostles, but the title, like much else in the book, was freely borrowed for a crop of second-and third-century writings. These writings were also influenced by another popular form of Christian writing also called Acta—the accounts of the trials and passions of the martyrs. Consideration must here be limited to some of the earlier and more influential apocryphal acts, but their manufacture went on for centuries, especially in the Eastern Church. Older legends were refurbished, new ones begun, and sometimes, one suspects, pagan stories adapted. Most apocryphal acts consequently present complex literary problems.

人们不知道是路加还是他的转述者将他的第二卷作品命名为《使徒行传》，但有大量 2 世纪或 3 世纪的作品广泛引用了该书的题目和书中的许多内容。这些作品还受到了另一种流行的基督教作品形式的影响，这种形式被称为 Acta——记录殉道者的磨练和受难的作品。虽然次经行传的创作持续了数个世纪（尤其是在东正教会中），但此时，我们的应当主要关注一些时期较早、影响力较大的作品。作者们翻新了古老的传说，并创作了新的传说，他们有时甚至可能改编了异教的故事。因此，大多数次经行传中体现了复杂的文学问题。

GENERAL INTRODUCTION

I. Characteristics.—The apocryphal acts are surviving examples of early Christian popular literature. They reflect not only the doctrinal concerns of their authors, but also the tastes of their readers and the convictions and ideas of the past entertained by numerous humbler Christians both orthodox and heretical. Not all literate Christians spent their leisure hours studying Origen's De principiis.

A. Romance. These acts set out to tell a good story: to entertain as well as to edify. They succeed in various degrees, but most of all they reflect the reading public's craving for marvels, strange adventures, and the triumph of piety. Thomas' wonderful travels in India and Andrew's among the cannibals are related in detail; Peter's witness against Simon Magus is assisted by a dog with human speech. The ascetic fervor of the Acts of John is leavened with anecdotes like the curious story of the apostle and the bugs. The apostles, more than life-size, stride invincibly through the stories (none of the writers has Luke's observation or gift of characterization).

Supernatural intervention by dream, vision, voice from heaven, and Christophany becomes commonplace. God fights for his martyrs: the wild beasts are tamed or killed, the fire goes out; and when the time for death finally comes, the martyr dies transfigured in unearthly glory. The apocryphal acts are in general unrealistic, fetid, and unutterably vulgar; and they witness, incidentally, to the probability that the real age of miracles lay already in

概述

I. 特征。次经行传是现存的早期基督教通俗文学的实例。他们不仅反映了作者关注的教义，体现了读者的品味，还反映了过去大量谦卑的基督徒（无论是正统的还是异端的）的信念和思想。并不是每个受过教育的基督徒都会在闲暇时间研读俄利根的《论首要原理》(De principiis)。

1、传奇。这些行传的作者准备讲述一个精彩的故事：寓教于乐。从不同程度上来讲，他们是成功的，但他们首先反映的是大众渴望的奇迹、奇妙的冒险和虔诚者的胜利。次经行传中详细地描述多马在印度和安得烈在食人族中的奇妙旅程；行传中还讲述了一条能说人话的狗帮助彼得证明行邪术的西门有罪。

《约翰行传》描述了一些奇闻异事（如使徒和虫子的奇妙传说），这点燃了禁欲主义者的热情。故事中的使徒不再是普通人，他们所向无敌（这些作者都没有路加的洞察力和人物刻画的天赋）。梦境、异象、天上的声音、基督复临等超自然现象都变得司空见惯。神为殉道者争战：祂驯服或杀死野兽、熄灭火焰；当殉道者死时，他们会改变形体，变得荣美非凡。次经行传通常是一些粗俗不堪、不切实际，而且臭名昭著的作品。它们还会证明真正的奇迹时代早已过去。

the past.

B. Sexual Asceticism. Christians in the 2nd and 3rd cents faced countless problems arising from the sexual promiscuity of the times. Pagan popular literature was blatantly erotic in interest and a strain of sexual asceticism ran through Christian popular literature. Continenence ranked high, even supreme, among Christian virtues—thus the Acts of Paul (written by an orthodox presbyter) summarized Paul’s preaching as “the word concerning abstinence and the Resurrection.” Other acts, of more dubious doctrinal pedigree, are even more extreme in their insistence on celibacy; and many of their stories center upon disrupted brothels or withdrawal from conjugal relations—often displayed as the direct result of apostolic preaching. The subject takes an unhealthy proportion of space, and its treatment at times (notably in the Acts of John) is indelicately explicit. Christian and pagan popular literature, in fact, arise from the same social background; and the writers of the acts are guided in varying degrees by horror of immorality, false ideals, and the horrible fascination of that which is loathed.

C. Heretical Teaching. Besides this ascetic stress, some of the earlier acts contain traces of dogmatic heresy; and it is possible that this type of literature arose first in unorthodox circles, other writers being influenced by the popular success of the (undoubtedly heretical) “Leucius” of the Acts of John. The latter work has a thoroughly docetic Christology, in which the human Jesus is little more than a specter; and it displays a naive modalism without clear

B. 禁欲主义。 2 世纪和 3 世纪时期，基督徒们面对着大量由淫乱引发的问题。异教的大众文学中公然表现出对性的兴趣，而基督教的大众文学则是充斥着禁欲主义思想。在基督教的美德中，节欲的很受推崇，甚至可以说是最受推崇的，因此，《保罗行传》（作者是一位东正教牧师）将保罗的教导总结为“关于节制和复活的道”。其他教义由来较可疑的行传对于禁欲的坚持则更为极端；解散妓院或接触婚姻关系等故事是这类行传的中心——这通常都是使徒传教的直接结果。这种主题占据了很大比例，而且书中（尤其是《约翰行传》）对此的描述有时是粗俗直白的。基督教和异教的大众文学实际上是兴起于同一种社会背景中；不道德的社会情况、错误的理念和对恶行的沉迷在不同程度上影响了行传的作者们。

C. 异端教义。 除了强调禁欲之外，一些早期的行传中有异端教义存在的痕迹；这类文学形式很有可能是首先从非正统的阶层中兴起，“利斯流 (Leucius)”的《约翰行传》（显然是异端作品）成功普遍影响了其他作者。《约翰行传》中的神学理论是彻底的基督幻影说，其中凡人耶稣与幽灵相差无几；而且书中还展现出一种幼稚的形态论，它没有明确地区分圣父和圣子。在这部作品中，基督行走时没有足迹；使徒试图触摸基督时，手臂能够从祂的身体里穿过去。 distinction between the Father and the Son. According to this work, Christ left no footprints; and the apostle, trying to touch Him, put his arm through His apparent form. While apparently being crucified on Calvary, Jesus was in fact talking to John on the Mt. of Olives.

Less extreme are the docetic traces in the Acts of Peter, which probably reflect more of crude popular devotion than of self-conscious Gnostic rationalism. Moreover, this book is concerned to combat, under the symbol of Simon Magus, certain other forms of heresy. The Acts of Paul actually incorporates a pseudo-Corinthian correspondence that is specifically anti-Gnostic. Many of the acts, however, have images and aspirations drawn from the fringes of Gnosticism, like the mystic dance in the Acts of John, and the hymn of the pearl in the Acts of Thomas. References by some Christian fathers suggest that they knew versions more heretical than our present texts; and it is probable, and in the case of the Acts of Andrew virtually certain, that we possess in some instances disinfected copies, with the worst offenses removed, a process that strikingly testifies to the popularity of this type of literature.

D. Religious Feeling. Despite the unfavorable impression created by their vulgar, unpleasant, or unorthodox features, the apocryphal acts manifest unmistakably over large sections the rapture of a great spiritual enthusiasm. There are passages (supremely in the Acts of Thomas) of rare poetic beauty, full of religious warmth, mystic fervor, and moral earnestness. The rank superstition and the traces of unconquered heathenism should not blind us to the fact that we have in the apocryphal acts what is often a genuine, though greatly distorted, expression of Christian faith.

D. 虔诚感。次经行传粗俗的、令人讨厌的或异端的特征给人们留下了糟糕的印象，但除此之外，书中大部分都明显表现出了充满属灵热情的喜悦之情。某些段落（尤其是多马行传）体现出罕见的诗意美，并充满宗教、神秘和道德热忱。虽然书中存在无稽之谈和异端教义的痕迹，但我们仍应看到其中表现出来的基督教信仰，这种信仰虽然有时极为扭曲，但却是真诚的。

II. Origin.-A. Reverence for the Apostles.

The apostles were recognized throughout the early Church as the normative interpreters of Jesus, commissioned by the risen Lord Himself and uniquely invested with His authority. As early as Ignatius the difference in kind between the apostolic and the fullest ecclesiastical authority is manifest (Ign. Trall. 3; Ign. Rom. 4). This recognition must be borne in mind when considering some types of apocryphal literature. The sanction of some apostle was often claimed for a form of doctrine or local custom.

Eventually it became clear that the traditions of apostles could not be pitted against each other, and that true apostolic tradition was substantially coterminous with the NT; but in days when the possibility of genuine tradition surviving orally was conceivable, these principles were not everywhere obvious. Among the motives that produced the apocryphal acts we may trace both the natural tendency of piety to glorify the apostles and the desire to appropriate apostolic authority.

B. Desire for Apostolic Authority. The Acts of John, for instance, undoubtedly seeks to justify outrageously sectarian views of Christ by using the name of the great apostle, ostensibly reported by a companion. The Acts of Thomas has affinities with other works to which Thomas' name is attached, and which represent him as the apostle most favored with stores of knowledge

II. 出发点。A. 对使徒的崇敬。所有早期基督教教会都认为使徒是耶稣传话的同事，主亲自任命他们，并独赐予他们主的权威。早在伊格那丢时期，使徒的权力和教会的最大权力之间的区别就已经很明显（《伊格那丢书信：致他拉勒人书》3 和《伊格那丢书信：致罗马人书》4）。当考虑伪经文学的某些类型时，一定要牢记这种区别。一些使徒认可思想和学说通常被视作一种教义或地方习俗。

人们最终明白，使徒的传说不能互相矛盾，真正的使徒传说要基本与《新约》中描述一致；但是在当时，真正的传说可能仅靠口传，因此这些原则可能并非在所有地方都那样明显。作者写下次经行传的动机可能既有想要美化使徒的虔诚的自然倾向，也有对借用使徒权威的渴望。

B. 对使徒权威的渴望。以《约翰行传》为例，作者表面上以约翰同行者的身份记录其行传，这显然是借这位伟大使徒之名，任意地表达自己关于基督教的宗教观点。《多马行传》和其他作品类似，它假借多马之名，并称多马是知识最丰富的使徒（见 APOCRYPHAL GOSPELS V.J.1[次经福音书 V.J.1]），这可能一定程度上是由于有传说表明多马与次经行传成书的地方有关系。《保罗行传》

(see APOCRYPHAL GOSPELS V.J.1), perhaps partly because Thomas was traditionally associated with the areas in which they were produced. The author of the Acts of Paul, quite orthodox in his central theology, had a concern for sexual abstinence, which, while he doubtless believed it to be scriptural, he did not find clearly enough expressed in Scripture for his purpose. Accordingly, he attributes his concern to Paul himself, whom we find preaching a new form of the Beatitudes:

“Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God.

“Blessed are they that keep the flesh chaste, for they shall become the temple of God.

“Blessed are the continent, for unto them shall God speak....”

C. Glorification of Martyrdom. The 2nd cent. saw the development, accentuated in later centuries, of a cult of the martyrs. This produced a body of literature of its own. We have moving early accounts of judicial processes leading to martyrdom that were treasured in the churches and elaborated by later generations. But those who revered the martyrs revered the apostles still more; and to such the silence of the canonical Acts on the last crises of the greatest apostles was inexplicable. Even the author of the Muratorian Canon felt he must explain this: “Luke has included for good Theophilus [only] the things done in his presence, as the omission of Peter’s passion clearly shows, and the departure of Paul from Rome en route for Spain.” Such pious, if misguided, sentiment filled in vivid pictures of the martyrdoms; and later generations concentrated their attention on these “contendings,” or glorious sufferings, of the apostles.

作者的核心神学理论十分正统，他关注禁欲，虽然他在《圣经》中没有找到明确信息表达他的目的，但他显然相信这是依据圣经得到的教训。因此他将这种关注归于保罗身上，我们在书中发现保罗传扬了一种新形式的天国八福：

“清心的人有福了，因为他们必得见上帝。

保持肉体纯洁的人有福了，因为他们必成为上帝的殿。

节制的人有福了，因为上帝要对他们说话……”

C. 对殉教的赞颂。对殉道者的崇拜在2世纪时有所发展，随后的几个世纪中，这种崇拜变得更为突出。由这种崇拜产生了许多文学作品。教会十分重视关于殉道正规程序的早期记录，后世也详细阐明了这些程序。但是那些崇拜殉道者的人更为崇拜使徒；而正典的《使徒行传》中又没有详细描述这些伟大使徒最后的危机。就连《穆拉多利经目》的作者也感觉到他必须对此做出解释：“路加给提阿非罗的书信中[只]包含了当时所做的公义之事，他显然没有描述保罗的热情，也没有描述保罗离开罗马去往西班牙途中的经历。”殉道的生动画面充满了这种虔诚感（如果是被误导的）；后世的注意力集中在使徒的这类“斗争”或光荣的受难上。

D. Local Patriotism. But if the apostle is glorious, some of his glory is reflected on the area in which he worked. Early church controversies (above all the Quartodeciman) show how apostolic tradition was invoked to support local practice. Some features of some of the apocryphal acts may be due to such local patriotism: the Thecla stories in the Acts of Paul, for instance, associate the apostle with a heroine of local fame.

E. Dogma. The heretical tendency of many of the apocryphal acts has obscured that some of them are in fact antiheretical. The Acts of Paul, as we have seen, has a vigorous anti-Gnostic polemic; and the Acts of Peter, in spite of all its docetic touches, raises its banner against those who proclaim that Jesus was misunderstood by His disciples (cf. Acts of Peter 10, which is interesting to link with Tertullian De praescr. haer. 32). We may be satisfied that among the motives that produced this literature was the desire to set forth doctrine in an attractive form. Sometimes that doctrine was pernicious, sometimes eccentric, but occasionally it was catholic. Generally speaking it is the earlier acts that show the clearest dogmatic interest; later ones are usually simply mythopoeic.

III. Sources.-By far the most important source of the apocryphal acts is the imagination of their authors. At certain points, however, the influence of other forms of literature can be traced.

A. The Canonical Acts. The influence of the canonical Acts, both as an inspiration and as a model, is beyond doubt. Incidents and phraseology are borrowed

D. 地方主义。但如果使徒是荣耀的，那么他们的荣耀就会在他们曾传道的区域产生影响。早期教会的争论（尤其是十四日教派）就体现了人们是如何援引使徒的传说去支持当地风俗。使徒行传的某些特征可能来自于这种地方主义：例如《保罗行传》中的特格拉故事就将使徒保罗与当地的一位杰出女性联系在了一起。

E. 教义。许多次经行传都有异端倾向，这会令人们忽视有些行传实际上是反异端的作品。正如我们所见，《保罗行传》表现出了强烈的反诺斯替教观点；《彼得行传》中尽管有关于基督幻影说的教导，但其中也公开反对了一种观点，这种观点认为耶稣的使徒误解了祂（参：《彼得行传》10，将其与 Tertullian De praescr. haer. 32 联系起来看会更为有趣）。作者创造这类作品是为了用较为引人注意的方式陈述教义，这在各种动机中可能是令人满意的一种。这类作品中的教义有时有害，有时反常，但有时又是属于天主教的。通常来说，早期的行传一般会明确的体现教义；但后期的行传则通常仅仅是在创作神话。

III. 来源。到目前为止，作者的幻想是次经行传最重要的来源。但在某些点上，这些作品也受到了其他文学形式的影响。

A. 正典中的《使徒行传》。毫无疑问，正典中的《使徒行传》对次经行传作者来说既是启发，也是模本。他们借鉴《使徒行传》中的事件和措辞，并对其加以 from Acts, or remodeled, to lend verisimilitude to the narrative. In some cases the authors apparently propose a form of supplement to Acts. Thus the Roman section of the Acts of Peter opens with Paul's journey to Spain after the events of Acts 28; and the Acts of Paul, though it is sometimes said to use the framework of Acts, probably intends to describe an assumed eastern ministry of Paul after the first imprisonment. Most of the personal names are fictitious, but of those taken from the NT not one occurs in Acts, and most come from the Pastorals. John, Andrew, Thomas, and the others play little or no part in the canonical Acts. Of twelve (or thirteen) apostles, the sacred writer had related the "acts" of only two. The impulse to supply parallels for the others proved irresistible.

B. Martyrologies. As we have seen, by second-century standards the canonical Acts were also deficient in having no accounts of the last crises of their heroes. People who treasured the stories of the trial and death of Polycarp and Justin would wish parallel accounts for the great apostles. It should be noted how large a proportion of many apocryphal acts is given to these stories, which in many cases (notably the Acts of Paul and the Acts of Peter) have circulated separately and have a literary history of their own. The inspiration for these stories comes from contemporary martyrologies, and sometimes local martyr stories (like the Thecla incidents?) have been incorporated.

C. Travel Romance. Among the contemporary forms of pagan literature that have influenced some of the apocryphal acts we may include that of 改写,从而使叙述更为逼真。有时候,他们显然是对《使徒行传》的情节进行了补充。因此《彼得行传》中的罗马部分就以保罗旅行至西班牙时的故事开篇,这发生在《使徒行传》28章中事件之后;虽然有时人们说《保罗行传》使用了《使徒行传》的框架,但书中很可能描述了保罗在第一次监禁之后去东方传教的故事。书中大多人名都是虚构的,但也有借鉴自《新约》中但未曾出现在《使徒行传》中的人名,它们大多都来自教牧书信。正典的《使徒行传》中很少,甚至没有描述约翰、安得烈、多马或其他使徒。《使徒行传》的作者只描述了十二(或十三)使徒中两位的“行传”。因此自然会有其他作者也想要描述其他使徒的行传。

*B. 殉教史。*正如我们所见,到2世纪时,正典中的《使徒行传》也没有记录这些使徒最后遭遇的危机。有些人十分重视坡旅甲和查士丁受试验和受难的故事,因此他们认为伟大的使徒也经历了相似的事情。我们应注意到,许多次经行传中运用了很大篇幅来描述这类故事,在很多情况下(尤其是《保罗行传》《彼得行传》),书中都分别流传着各自记录的使徒的受难故事和文字史。这类故事的灵感来自同时代的殉教史,有时则吸取了当地的殉教故事(如特格拉的事件[尚不确定])。

*C. 旅行罗曼史。*对一些次经行传产生影响的同时代异教文学作品中包括旅行罗曼史。这类浪漫主义文学中最著名的例子就是提亚纳的亚波罗纽的作品

the travel romance. The most famous example of this romantic literature is the Life of Apollonius of Tyana, the neo-Pythagorean preacher and great wonder-worker, who died about the end of the 1st cent. A.D. The marvelous deeds reported to have been wrought by him on his travels were freely transferred in a somewhat less striking form to other teachers. It is in the atmosphere of these romances that the apocryphal acts had their birth. In particular the Acts of Thomas recalls the history of Apollonius. For just as Thomas was a missionary in India, so "Apollonius as a disciple of Pythagoras had traveled, a peaceful Alexander, to the Indian wonderland and there preached his master's wisdom" (J. Geffcken, Christliche Apokryphen [1908], p. 36).

IV. Ecclesiastical Testimony.-From the nature of his reference to the canonical Acts it is probable that the writer of the Muratorian Canon (ca. A.D. 190) had the existence of other acts in mind. "The acts of all the apostles," he says, "are written in a single book. Luke relates them admirably to Theophilus, confining himself to such as fell under his own notice, as he plainly shows by the omission of all reference either to the martyrdom of Peter or to the journey of Paul from Rome to Spain." During the 3rd cent. there are slight allusions to certain of the apocryphal acts, but it is only in the 4th cent. that distinct references are frequent in writers both of the East and of the West. A few of the more important references follow (for a full account see A. Harnack, Geschichte der altchristlichen Literatur[2nd ed. 1958], I, 116ff.).

(Life). 亚波罗纽(卒于约1世纪末期)是新毕达哥拉斯派的传教者,他还是一位伟大的奇迹创造者。其他作者以平铺直叙的形式大量转述了他在旅行中记录的不可思议的事件。次经行传正是产生于这种浪漫文学的氛围之中。《多马行传》尤其令人回想起亚波罗纽的历史。正如多马是一个在印度的传教士一样,“亚波罗纽,一个爱好和平的亚历山大,作为毕达哥拉斯的门徒,他旅行至印度这片奇迹之地,传播他师傅的智慧”(J. Geffcken, Christliche Apokryphen [1908], 36页)。

IV. 教会的见证。《穆拉多利经目》的作者提到了正典《使徒行传》的本质,从这一点来看,他可能也曾读过其他行传。他说道,“所有使徒的行传各自成书。路加崇敬地将这些行传与提阿非罗联系起来,但他受自身关注所限,没有描述关于彼得殉教或保罗从罗马旅行至西班牙的故事。”3世纪时期,很少有其他作品提及次经行传,因此我们无法确定当时确实存在这类书籍,但到4世纪时,显然东西方的作者都频繁地提及它们。下文将列出提到次经行传的较为重要的参考资料(完整的记录见 A. Harnack, Geschichte der altchristlichen Literatur[1958年再版], I, 116页起)。

A. Eastern Testimony. Among Eastern writers Eusebius is the first to make any clear reference to apocryphal acts. He speaks of “Acts of Andrew, of John, and of the other apostles,” which were of such a character that no ecclesiastical writer thought it proper to invoke their testimony. Their style and their teaching showed them to be so plainly of heretical origin that he would not put them even among spurious scriptures, but absolutely rejected them as absurd and impious (HE iii.25.6f.). Ephraem (d. 373) declares that these acts were written by the Bardesanites to propagate in the name of the apostles unbelief that the apostles had destroyed. Epiphanius (ca. 375) repeatedly refers to individual acts that were in use among heretical sects. Amphilochius of Iconium, a contemporary of Epiphanius, declares that certain writings emanating from heretical circles were “not acts of the apostles but accounts of demons.” The Second Council of Nicea (A.D. 787), in the records of which those words of Amphilochius are preserved, dealt with apocryphal literature, and had under special consideration the Acts of John, to which the Iconoclasts appealed. In the synod’s finding these acts were characterized as “this abominable book,” and on it the judgment was passed: “Let no one read it; and not only so, but we judge it worthy of being committed to the flames.”

B. Western Testimony. In the West from the 4th cent. onward, references are frequent. Philastrius of Brescia (ca. 387) testifies to the use of apocryphal acts among the Manichaeans, and declares that although they are not suitable for general reading they may be read with

A. 东方作者的证据。东方作者中，第一个明确提及次经行传的作者 是优西比乌。他曾提及“《安得烈行传》《约翰行传》和其他使徒的行传”，教会作者考虑到这类作品的特征，不会引用其中的内容作为证据。优西比乌认为次经行传的形式和教训显然表明他们源自异端学说，因此他甚至不会将这类作品归于伪经，他彻底拒绝这些作品，并认为它们是荒诞的、不虔诚 (HE iii.25.6-7)。以法莲 (卒于 373 年) 认为这些行传的作者是诺斯替派巴戴桑，他们借使徒之名，传播那些曾被使徒否定的不敬虔的观点。伊皮法尼 (约卒于 375 年) 反复提及次经行传只流传于异端教派之中。以哥念的安非罗西与伊皮法尼同属一个时代，他声称从异端阶层中流传出的某些作品“不是使徒的行传而是魔鬼的记录”。尼西亚第二次会议 (公元 787 年) 的记录保留了安非罗西的话语，这次会议讨论了伪经文献，并对《约翰行传》予以特殊考虑，因为反对偶像崇拜者曾呼吁教会接受这些作品。会议中的发现表明这些作品是“令人憎恶的作品”，而会议对它们的评判是：“不要让人阅读这些作品；不仅不能阅读，我们判定这些作品应该拿去焚烧”。

B. 西方作者的证据。从 4 世纪开始，西方的作者经常提及次经行传。布雷西亚的费拉多 (Philastrius of Brescia, 卒于约 387 年) 证实了次经行传曾流传于摩尼教徒之中，他还声称这些作品虽然不适合大众阅读，但成熟的基督教徒却可以从中受益 (De haeresibus 88)。他 profit by mature Christians (De haeresibus 88). The reason for this favorable judgment is to be found in the pronounced ascetic tendency of the acts, which was in line with the moral ideal prevalent at that time in the West. Augustine refers repeatedly to apocryphal acts in use among the Manichaeans and characterizes them as the work of “cobblers of fables” (sutoribus fabularum). The Manichaeans accepted them as true and genuine; in reference to this claim Augustine says: “They would in the time of their authors have been counted worthy of being welcomed to the authority of the Holy Church, if saintly and learned men who were then alive and could examine such things had acknowledged them as speaking the truth” (Contra Faustum Manichaeum xxii.79). The Acts of John and the Acts of Thomas are mentioned by Augustine by name. He also refers to Leucius as the author of apocryphal acts. Turribius of Astorga (ca. 450) speaks of acts of Andrew, John, and Thomas and attributes them to the Manichaeans. Of the heretical teaching in the Acts of Thomas, Turribius singles out for special condemnation baptism by oil instead of by water. Leucius is mentioned as the author of the Acts of John. The acts of Andrew, Thomas, Peter, and Philip are condemned as apocryphal in the Gelasian Decree (A.D. 496; see APOCRYPHA II.E.1); and in the same condemnation are included “all books written by Leucius, a disciple of the devil.”

C. Photius. The fullest and most important reference to the apocryphal acts is found in Photius, the patriarch of Constantinople in the second half of the 9th century. In his Bibliotheca, which contains an account of 280 different books that he had read during his absence on a mission to Baghdad, we learn that among these was a volume, “the so-called Wanderings of the Apostles, in which were included Acts of Peter, John, Andrew, Thomas, Paul. The author of these Acts, as the book itself makes plain, was Leucius Charinus.” The language had none of the grace that characterized the evangelical and apostolic writings. The book teemed with follies and contradictions. Its teaching was heretical. In particular it taught that Christ had never really become man. Not Christ but another in His place had been crucified. After referring to the ascetic doctrine and the absurd miracles of the acts and to the part the Acts of John had played in the Iconoclastic controversy, Photius concludes: “In short this book contains ten thousand things which are childish, incredible, ill-conceived, false, foolish, inconsistent, impious and godless. If anyone were to call it the fountain and mother of all heresy, he would not be far from the truth.”

C. 佛提乌。9 世纪下半叶的君士坦丁堡牧首佛提乌最全面地提及了次经行传，他的提及也最为重要。他的作品（Bibliotheca）中记录了 280 本不同的书籍，这些都是他暂时卸任去巴格达传

D. Ecclesiastical Condemnation. There is thus a consensus of ecclesiastical testimony as to the general character of the apocryphal acts. They were writings used by a number of heretical sects but regarded by the Church as unreliable and harmful. It is probable that the corpus of the acts in five parts referred to by Photius was formed by the Manichaeans of North Africa, who attempted to have them accepted by the Church in place of the canonical Acts, which they had rejected. These acts in consequence were stamped by the church with a heretical character. The sharpest condemnation is that pronounced by Leo I (ca. 450), who declares that “they should not only be forbidden but should be utterly swept away and burned. For although there are certain things in them which seem to have the appearance of piety, yet they are never free of poison and secretly work through the allurements of fables so that they involve in the snares of every possible error those who are seduced by the narration of marvelous things.”

D. 教会的谴责。教会对次经行传的一般特征存在共识。这些作品流传于一些异端教派之中，教会将其看作是不可信的和有害的作品。佛提乌提到的分为五个部分的行传文集可能是由北非的摩尼教徒所著，他们试图令教会接受这些行传并用其取代正典中的《使徒行传》，摩尼教徒拒绝接受这部正典。最后这些次经行传被教会定为异端学说。利奥一世（卒于约 450 年）给予这些作品最严厉的谴责，他声称“不仅要禁止人们阅读这些作品，还要将它们一扫而空，全部焚毁。虽然这些作品中的某些地方似乎表现出了虔诚，但它们是有害的，它们通过描写诱人的故事，千方百计地诱惑那些被奇妙故事吸引的人犯错”。

The Acts of Paul, which shows no trace of dogmatic heresy, was included in the ecclesiastical censure inasmuch as it had received a place at the end of the corpus. Many teachers in the Church, however, made a distinction between the miraculous details and the heretical doctrines of the apocryphal acts. While they rejected the latter they retained the former. Witness the words of an orthodox reviser in regard to his heretical predecessor: Quaedam de virtutibus quidem et miraculis quae per eos Dominus fecit, vera dixit; de doctrina vero multa mentitus est—“he had told the truth about apostolic virtues and miracles, but had lied shamefully about their doctrine.”

E. Influence. Ecclesiastical censure could not check the appeal of the stories, and for centuries Christians from Persia to Spain repeated and embroidered them. Apostolic legends appeared in poetry, martyrologies, and calendars; they were solemnly recounted in sermons on the saints’ festal days. Their influence on Christian art has also lasted for centuries. Of the general effect of such literature as a staple diet, Harnack’s words are still appropriate: “Whole generations of Christians, whole Christian nations, were intellectually blinded by the dazzling

《保罗行传》中虽然没有体现出异端学说的痕迹，但因其处于行传文集的末尾，教会还是对其进行了谴责。但是，许多教会中的教师对次经行传中奇迹般的细节和异端教义加以区分，他们拒绝后者，但却保留了前者。以下是一个正统的修订者对作品的异端作者的评论：Quaedam de virtutibus quidem et miraculis quae per eos Dominus fecit, vera dixit; de doctrina vero multa mentitus est——“书中对使徒的美德和神迹的描述是真实的，但关于使徒的教义，他却不体面地撒谎了”。

E. 影响。 教会对这些作品的谴责并不能抹杀故事的吸引力，数个世纪以来，从波斯到西班牙的基督教徒一再重复并润色这些作品中的故事。他们在诗歌、殉教史和日历集中讲述使徒们的传奇；他们在圣徒节日布道时，庄严地讲述这些传奇。使徒故事对基督教艺术的影响长达数个世纪。哈纳克的话语仍然适用于总结这类文学对大众的影响：“一代又一代的基督徒，一个又一个基督教国家，都被这些传奇的炫目的外表所迷惑，他们不仅忽略了真正的历史，也忽略真相本身”（翻译自 I, 26）。 appearance of these tales. They lost the eye not only for the true light of history, but also for the light of truth itself” (tr. from I, 26).

V. Value.-As historical records, the apocryphal acts have negligible worth. If some of the earlier ones do preserve valid traditions from the 1st cent., it is now impossible to sift them out. But as records of early Christianity they are of immense, and often underrated, value.

A. Records of Popular Christianity. Some insight into the masses of common people who were born amid degradation and superstition, and came, sometimes very imperfectly, under the influence of the gospel, is provided by the apocryphal acts. These people are not represented by the productions of most of the early church fathers. One can see the sort of stories that delighted them, and in the better works their aspirations, concerns, and problems. In some of the stories in the Acts of Peter, for example, one hears echoes of conflicts with the Jews, the problem of apostasy, the puzzle of unhealed illness, the controversies with pseudo-Christian sects who despised the apostles.

The apocryphal acts also recall that in many ill-instructed congregations there must have been a no-man’s-land between orthodoxy and heresy. Their first readers were children of the soil in which Gnosticism flourished, and people who were not intentionally sectarian might hold gnosticizing views of the gospel. A contempt for matter is basic to Gnostic teaching, and when Gnosticism attached itself as a parasite to Christianity it had two effects that are marked even in the

V. 价值。次经行传的史料价值是微不足道的。即使某些早期的次经行传中确实保留了一些 1 世纪时期的真实记录，现在也无法将这些记录筛选出来。但作为对早期基督教的记录，这些作品极有价值，而人们通常低估了它们的价值。

*A. 大众基督教精神的记录。*次经行传，针对出生在堕落和迷信之中，有时还没有接受完备福音的众生提出了一些深刻的见解。早期基督教教父的大多数作品并没有展现这些普通人。人们可以从次经行传中的故事里了解到能令当时的基督徒感到高兴的事，在较好的作品中，甚至可以看到他们的愿望、关注和问题。比如说，《彼得行传》中的一些故事就体现了基督徒和犹太人斗争的后果，叛教的问题，他们对不治之症的困惑和他们与轻视使徒的伪基督教派间的辩论。

次经行传还令人记起，在许多受教程度较低的会众中，必然存在着一种介于正统和异端之间的困惑状态。生活于诺斯替主义盛行之地的人们是这些作品的第一批读者，那些不属于教派的人也可能对福音持有诺斯替教的观点。轻视物质是诺斯替教的基本教导，当诺斯替主义寄生于基督教之中时，就会产生两个效果：基督幻影说和禁欲主义，这两个效果甚至会在无教派的次经行传中留下印记。

nonsectarian acts: docetic Christology and sexual asceticism.

B. Other Values. Some of the acts are, indeed, useful witnesses to Gnostic teaching and practice. They also preserve traces of liturgy and hymnody to which we would never have had access in orthodox sources. Nor should it be forgotten how the apocryphal acts show both the uniqueness of Luke's canonical work and its universal recognition and influence in the 2nd century.

THE "LEUCIAN" ACTS

In the notice of Photius (Bibliotheca 114) the whole corpus made up of the acts of Peter, John, Andrew, Thomas, and Paul is ascribed to Leucius Charinus; but earlier writers speak of Leucius (a supposed disciple of John) as the ostensible author of the Acts of John; and his name has probably been transferred to the corpus as a whole.

Undoubtedly these acts have had a complicated editorial history. There seems to have been a bowdlerization to eliminate heretical elements. Many Gnostic features have been retained, however—some probably because the reviser did not understand their true meaning.

I. Acts of Paul.-A. Ecclesiastical Testimony. Hippolytus (d. A.D. 235) in his commentary on Daniel argues from a lion's refusal to attack Paul in the arena to the credibility of a similar immunity for Daniel (3.29; the story about Paul occurs in the Hamburg Greek fragment of the Acts of Paul). Tertullian attests the popularity of the work while exposing its origin and date (De baptismo 17). Origen

B. 其他价值。实际上，一些次经行传十分有效地见证了诺斯替教的教训和传统。这些作品中还保留了祷告文和赞美诗的痕迹，它们可能永远也不会出现在正统的文献中。我们也不应忘记次经行传中所体现出的两个事实，即路加正典作品的独特性及其在2世纪时得到的普遍认同和产生的影响。

“利斯流”的行传

佛提乌在作品 (Bibliotheca 114) 中认为利斯流·加里努是整本次经行传文集的作者，这部文集包括《彼得行传》《约翰行传》《安得烈行传》《多马行传》和《保罗行传》；但较早的作者认为利斯流（可能是约翰的门徒）只是《约翰行传》名义上的作者；人们将他的名字应用到整部文集之上。

毫无疑问，这些行传的编辑历史十分复杂。人们似乎曾经对这些作品进行修订，删除了其中的异端元素。但是，书中却保留了许多诺斯替教的特征——这可能是因为修订者不明白某些经文的真正含义。

*I. 《保罗行传》。*A. 教会的见证。希坡律陀（卒于235年）在其对《但以理书》的评注中认为，保罗在竞技场中不受狮子攻击这段故事与但以理在狮子坑这段故事的可信程度是类似的（《保罗行传》3.29；讲述保罗在汉堡这段故事的希腊语残本）。特土良证实了这部作品的普及，并讲述了它的起源和写作时期（De baptismo 17）。虽然俄利根并不认为《保罗行传》有权威性，但他两次引 twice quotes the Acts of Paul with approval, though not as authoritative (De prin. i.2.3; In Ioannem xx,12). Both Eusebius (HE iii.25.4) and a stichometry attached to the (sixth-century) Codex Claromontanus rank it with works that are catholic but subcanonical. Many writers reflect the popularity of the Thecla story; and another constituent element, “3 Corinthians,” had an eventful history of its own.

B. Contents. From the notes given of extent in Codex Claromontanus and in the Stichometry of Nicephorus it seems that we possess rather over half of the ancient form of the book. Three of its constituents, the Acts of Paul and Thecla, the Corinthian correspondence, and the Martyrdom of Paul, are separately attested many times over and in several languages. In 1904 Carl Schmidt published a mutilated Coptic version that demonstrated that all three were part of the same work; in 1936 he published a Greek fragment that supplied some of the missing material. Further help may be expected from recently discovered Coptic material in the Bodmer papryi.

1. The Acts of Paul and Thecla. After some incidents preserved fragmentarily in Coptic, the first major surviving section is the Acts of Paul and Thecla. Thecla of Iconium, a betrothed maiden, is so fascinated by Paul’s preaching on virginity that she repudiates her husband-to-be. Urged on by her mother and two scoundrels called Demas and Hermogenes, he brings Paul before the proconsul. Paul is imprisoned; Thecla visits him there and is condemned to be burned. The fire, however, is miraculously quenched, and Thecla seeks out Paul (who has been banished) and accompanies him to Antioch. There the official Alexander interferes with her; Thecla defends herself and is condemned to the beasts; but the beasts refuse to touch her, a lioness attacking instead those that come near. Thecla, after praying, throws herself into a tank of seals with the cry, "In the name of Jesus Christ I baptize myself on the last day." The seals perish in a flash of fire. From the first Thecla had engaged the sympathy of Queen Tryphena. When it was proposed to have Thecla torn asunder by maddened bulls Queen Tryphena fainted, and through fear of what might happen the authorities released Thecla and handed her over to Tryphena. Thecla once again sought Paul, and having found him was commissioned by him to preach the Word of God. This she did first at Iconium and then in Seleucia, where she died. Various later additions described Thecla's end, and in one of them it is narrated that she went underground from Seleucia to Rome that she might be near Paul. Finding that Paul was dead she remained in Rome until her death.

用《保罗行传》，并对其持肯定态度 (De prin. i.2.3; In Ioannem xx,12)。优西比乌 (HE iii.25.4) 和 6 世纪时的《克勒芒特抄本》的行数表都认为这部作品属于天主教作品，但应为次正典。许多作者都反映出特格拉故事的普及性；这本书的另一个组成部分“哥林多三书”的历史也十分不平凡。

*B. 内容。*从《克勒芒特抄本》中对范围的注释和《尼赛福鲁斯的行数表》来看，我们似乎已经拥有了这部作品古时版本的大部分残本。它的三个组成部分《保罗与特格拉行传》《哥林多三书》和《保罗殉道记》曾分别且多次译为不同语言。1904 年，卡尔·施密特公布的一个科普特语残本表明这三个故事同属于一个作品；1936 年，他又公布了一个希腊语残本，这为该作品提供了一些缺失的材料。最近发现的《伯默蒲草纸抄本集》中的科普特语材料或许能为人们解读这些故事提供更多的帮助。

1、《保罗与特格拉行传》。除了一些零碎的用科普特语记录的故事之外，这部作品中第一个存留较为完整的故事是《保罗与特格拉行传》。以哥念的特格拉是一个已经订婚的少女，她深受保罗关于贞洁的教训的影响，拒绝了她的未婚夫。特格拉的未婚夫在她的母亲和两个地痞（名叫底马和赫莫吉斯）的怂恿下，将保罗带到省长面前去。省长将保罗监禁起来；特格拉去监狱看望保罗，省长却因此判处她火刑。但是，火却奇迹般地熄灭了，特克拉去寻找保罗（保罗此时已被驱逐出城）并陪同他去安提阿。在安提阿时，有一个叫亚历山大的

Although the Thecla story is a romance designed to secure apostolic authority for the ideal of virginity, it is probable that it had at least a slight foundation in fact. The existence of an influential Thecla-cult at Seleucia favors the view that Thecla was a historical person. Traditions regarding her association with Paul, which clustered round the temple built in her honor in Seleucia, may have provided the materials for the romance. In the story there are clear historical reminiscences. The historicity of Tryphena is established by coins. She was the mother of King Polemon II of Pontus and a relative of the emperor Claudius. There are no grounds for doubting the information given us in the acts that she was living at Antioch at the time of Paul's first visit. The acts further reveal striking geographical accuracy in the mention of "the royal road" by which Paul is stated to have traveled from Lystra on his way to Iconium—a statement that is all the more remarkable because, while the road was in use in Paul's time for military reasons, it was given up as a regular route in the last quarter of the 1st century. In the acts Paul is described as "a man small in stature, baldheaded, bow-legged, of noble demeanor, with meeting eyebrows and a somewhat prominent nose, full of grace. He appeared sometimes like a man and at other times he had the face of an angel." This description may quite well rest on reliable tradition. On the ground of the historical features in the story, Ramsay (CRE, pp. 375ff.) argued for the existence of a shorter version going back to the 1st cent.; but this view has not been generally accepted.

The Acts of Paul and Thecla was very widely read and had a remarkable influence owing to the widespread reverence for Thecla, who had a high place among the saints as the first female martyr. References to the acts in the church fathers are comparatively few, but the romance had an extraordinary vogue among Christians both of the East and of the West. In particular, veneration for Thecla reached its highest point in Gaul; and in a poem entitled "The Banquet" (Caena) written by Cyprian, a poet of southern Gaul in the 5th cent., Thecla stands on the same level as the great characters of biblical history. The later Acts of Xanthippe and Polyxena is entirely derived from the Acts of Paul and Thecla.

2. 3 Corinthians. Another important fragment of the Acts of Paul is that containing the so-called Third Epistle to the Corinthians. Paul is represented as being in prison at Philippi (not at the time of Acts 16:23ff., but at some later time). His incarceration was due to his influence over Stratonice, the wife of Apollophanes. The Corinthians, who had been disturbed by two teachers of heresy, sent a letter to Paul describing their pernicious doctrines, which were to the effect that the prophets had no authority, that God was not almighty, that there was no resurrection of the body, that man had not been made by God, that Christ had not come in the flesh or been born of Mary, and that the world was not the work of God but of angels. Paul was very distressed on receipt of this epistle, and “under much affliction” wrote an answer in which the popular Gnostic views of the false teachers are vehemently opposed (see APOCRYPHAL EPISTLES I.A).

3. Martyrdom of Paul. The Coptic and Greek portions, and some citations, preserve in whole or part certain other incidents, notably Paul’s healing a man with dropsy at Myra, which leads to an attempt on his life (his would-be murderer is struck blind), and a fight with wild beasts at Ephesus in which the lion proves friendly. Clement of Alexandria (Misc. vi.5.42f.) and the twelfth-century John of Salisbury (Policraticus iv.3) have accounts of Paul’s missionary preaching that may be derived from the Acts of Paul.

There are several versions of the

2、《哥林多三书》。《保罗行传》中另一个重要的残篇包括所谓的《哥林多三书》。书中描绘到保罗被囚禁在腓立比（与《使徒行传》16:23 起的经文中叙述的时期不同，而是稍后的某一段时期）。保罗的教导对亚波洛范尼斯的妻子斯特拉顿尼丝产生了影响，因此被囚入狱。哥林多人受两个异端教师的烦扰，给保罗写信描述了他们邪恶的教义，其大意是先知没有权威，上帝并非大能，也没有肉体复活这回事，人的创造亦非出自上帝的作为，主也没有降生成人，或由马利亚所生，世界并不是上帝创造的，而是天使创造的”。保罗收到这封书信后非常忧虑，他“处身无数磨难中”，写下了回信，强烈反对那些假师傅所鼓吹的诺斯替教的主流观点（见 APOCRYPHAL EPISTLES I.A[次经福音书 I.A]）。

3、《保罗殉道记》。本书的科普特语和希腊语部分以及其他书对本书的引用，完整地或部分保留了其他某些故事，尤其是保罗在每拉的故事，他在那里治愈了一个患水肿的病人，有人因此想要杀掉保罗（想要杀他的人却失明了），还有一个故事描述了保罗在以弗所与野兽争斗的故事，故事中的狮子对保罗表现出了善意。亚历山太的革利免（Misc. vi.5.42-43）和 12 世纪时索尔兹伯里的约翰（Policraticus iv.3）关于保罗传道说教的记录可能有源自《保罗行传》。

martyrdom of Paul, which takes place during the Neronian persecution. As the executioner beheads Paul, milk spurts upon his cloak. Paul appears in vision to Nero and his officers and prophesies judgment: the prefect and centurion in charge of Paul are converted, and Titus and Luke baptize them.

C. Authorship and Date. Tertullian (De baptismo 17), denying suggestions that Thecla's self-baptism was a sound precedent for female ministry, says that the author of the Acts of Paul was "a presbyter of Asia, who wrote the book with the intention of increasing the dignity of Paul by additions of his own." He adds that he was deposed from office, despite his confession that he had acted "out of love for Paul." The exact knowledge of the topography and local history of Asia Minor that the book demonstrates supports an Asian origin. F. C. Conybeare argued that the Armenian version preserved an earlier form of the Acts of Paul and Thecla than do the Greek and Latin, removing anachronisms and an apparent confusion of Pisidian with Syrian Antioch. Perhaps the author belonged to a town where Thecla was especially revered. The incident was a thing of the past when Tertullian wrote, and the acts probably belong to ca. A.D. 160–180, though C. Schmidt dated them rather later, holding them to be dependent on the Acts of Peter. Recently M. Testuz has argued that the Corinthian correspondence, with its different textual history, doctrinal interests, and purposes, is the work of an earlier author, which has been incorporated in the Acts of Paul; but this is not necessary. The same concern over Gnostic teaching on the Resurrection is visible in various parts of

*C. 作者和成书时期。*有观点认为特格拉给自己施洗对于女传教士来说是一个良好的先例，但特土良否认了这种观点 (De baptismo 17)，他说《保罗行传》的作者是“一个亚细亚的牧师，他为了增添保罗的荣耀在书加入了自己杜撰的故事”。尽管他声称他添加这些故事是“出于对保罗的爱”，但他还是因此被免职了。书中对小亚细亚地势和地方志的精确描述表明作者应是亚细亚人。孔尼白 (F. C. Conybeare) 认为亚美尼亚语版本保留了比希腊语和拉丁语版本更早的《保罗与特格拉行传》，这个版本中没有年代错误，也没有混淆彼西底和叙利亚的安提阿。作者可能来自一个尤为崇拜特格拉的城镇。当特土良著书时，保罗的故事早已成为过去，这本书可能写于约公元 160 至 180 年，但施密特 (C. Schmidt) 却认为该书的成书时期要晚得多，而且是参照《彼得行传》创作的。特斯图兹 (M. Testuz) 最近认为哥林多书信体现出截然不同的文本历史、教义观点和写作目的，因此它可能由一位更早时期的作者所写，然后被收录在《保罗行传》之中；但这是不必要的。行传中多个部分都明显体现出了作者对诺斯替教所提出的关于复活的教导的担忧。

II. Acts of Peter.- A. Contents. A large portion (to judge from the Stichometry of Nicephorus, nearly two-thirds) is preserved in a Latin translation found at Vercelli, and consequently known as the Actus Vercellenses. The latter part of this, describing the martyrdom, circulated separately in many languages, and two Greek MSS survive. There is a later recension entitled Martyrium Beati Petri Apostoli a Lino conscriptum. A number of fragments and stories about Peter probably belong to this work, notably one in Coptic published by Schmidt and headed "An Act of Peter." References in Philastrius of Brescia, Isidore of Pelusium, and Photius make it practically certain that the Actus Vercellenses belongs to the writing known in antiquity as the Acts of Peter and condemned in the rescript of Innocent I (A.D. 405) and in the Decretum Gelasianum.

1. The Coptic Fragment. This "Act of Peter" contains the story of the apostle's paralytic daughter. One Sunday, while Peter was healing (apparently in Jerusalem), a bystander asked why he did not heal his own daughter. To prove God's power, Peter did so, and then commanded her to return to her paralysis, explaining that he had had a vision on the day she was born that if she remained whole she would be a sore trial. There is a gap in the MS here, but from what follows one can gather that she was desired by Ptolemaeus, a rich man, and saved from ruin only by the affliction for which her father prayed. Ptolemaeus, grief-stricken, goes blind, repents, is healed, and bequeaths some land for the girl, which Peter sells and gives to the poor. Augustine (Contra Adimantum 17.5) and the Acts of Titus allude to a story that may come from the same context: Peter's prayers are sought for a gardener's daughter, who immediately falls dead. Her father begs for her restoration, and she recovers, only to be kidnapped shortly after. Both stories probably reflect concern with the problem of disease.

II. 《彼得行传》。A. 内容。韦尔切利发现的拉丁语译本保留了本书中的大部分内容（根据《尼赛福鲁斯的行数表》记录的篇幅来看，约有三分之二），因此这本书也被称为《韦尔切利行传》（拉丁名：Actus Vercellenses）。描述殉道的后一部分被译为多种语言并广泛流传，其中有两份希腊语手稿保留了下来。后来还有一本名为 Martyrium Beati Petri Apostoli a Lino conscriptum 的校订本。许多关于彼得的残篇和故事可能都来自这部作品，尤其是施密特发行的一个题为“彼得行传”（An Act of Peter）的科普特语残本。布雷西亚的费拉多、柏雷西安的伊西多尔（Isidore of Pelusium）和佛提乌都提及了这部作品，这证明《韦尔切利行传》确实属于古时流传的作品《彼得行传》，《英诺森一世法令》（公元 405）年和《格拉修斯法令》都对该书进行了谴责。

1、科普特语残本。这部分“彼得行传”记录了使徒彼得的瘫痪女儿的故事。一个星期日，彼得在治愈病人时（显然在耶路撒冷），有一个旁观者问他为什么不治愈他自己的女儿。彼得为了证明神的大能，治愈了女儿，但随后又使她恢复瘫痪的模样，并向众人解释说他在女儿出生时曾看见过一个异象，主在异象中对保罗说，如果他的女儿身体健康，她将是一个重大的试炼，伤害很多人的灵魂。文稿此处有缺失，但从后文中可以看出有一个叫多利买亚斯的富人想要娶彼得的女儿，彼得祈祷女儿受磨难，使她免受玷污。多利买亚斯极度悲伤，哭盲了双眼，他悔改后，双眼又恢复了光明，他死后将一块土地遗赠给彼得的女儿，彼得把地卖掉后，将全部所得的钱送给穷人。奥古斯丁（Contra

2. Actus Vercellenses. The first three chapters of the Actus Vercellenses are clearly a continuation of some other narrative. They could easily be added to the canonical Acts to tell of Paul's departure to Spain.

The longest section of the acts (chs. 4–32) gives an account of the conflict between Peter and Simon Magus at Rome. Paul had not been gone many days when Simon, who “claimed to be the great power of God,” came to Rome and misled many of the Christians. Christ appeared in a vision to Peter at Jerusalem and bade him sail at once for Italy. Peter confirmed the congregation in Rome, declaring that he came to establish faith in Christ not by words alone but by miraculous deeds and powers (allusion to 1 Cor. 4:20; 1 Thess. 1:5). At the request of the brethren, Peter went to seek out Simon in the house of one named Marcellus, whom the magician had led astray; and when Simon refused to see him. Peter unloosed a dog and commanded it to go and deliver his challenge. The result of this marvel was the repentance of Marcellus. A section follows describing the mending of a broken statue by sprinkling the pieces with water in the name of Jesus.

Adimantum 17.5) 和《提多行传》描述了一段故事，可能就源于这段记录：彼得的祷告者想要娶一个花匠的女儿，她立刻就死了。她的父亲祈求她复活，于是她就醒转过来，但不久又被诱拐了。这两个故事都反映了对疾病的忧虑。

2、《韦尔切利行传》。《韦尔切利行传》的前三章显然是其他某个故事的续篇。它们无疑是接续了正典《使徒行传》中保罗去往西班牙的故事。

行传中最长的一部分（4-32章）记述了彼得和行邪术的西门在罗马时的斗争。保罗离开罗马不久，西门就来到了罗马，他说“他就是上帝的大能”，误导了许多基督教徒。基督在异象中向耶路撒冷的彼得显现，命令他立刻起航去意大利。彼得召集了罗马的会众，声称他不但用言语，还会用奇事和能力坚定人们在基督里的信心（暗指林前 4:20；帖前 1:5）。在众弟兄的要求下，彼得去马撒来斯的家中寻找西门，而马撒来斯已经被邪术迷惑得叛教了；西门拒绝见他。彼得放开一条狗，命他去向西门递战书。马撒来斯看见这件奇事便悔改了。随后，书中描述了马撒来斯奉耶稣之名，将水洒在雕像的碎片上，修复了雕像。同时，那只狗对西门讲话并宣判他将不死之火烧死。狗在完成彼得的委托并对他说了鼓励的话语之后，便死在了彼得的脚下。随后，彼得令一条熏鱼活了过来，在水里游来游去。马撒来斯看见彼得行的神迹，他的信心就得著坚固，他极其蔑视西门，便将他赶出家门。

Meanwhile the dog had given Simon a lecture and had pronounced on him the doom of unquenchable fire. After reporting on its errand and speaking words of encouragement to Peter, the dog expired at the apostle's feet. A smoked fish is next made to swim. The faith of Marcellus was strengthened by the wonders Peter worked, and Simon was driven out of his house with every mark of contempt.

Simon, enraged at this treatment, came to challenge Peter. An infant of seven months speaking in a manly voice denounced Simon and made him speechless until the next sabbath day. Christ appeared in a vision during the night encouraging Peter, who when morning came narrated to the congregation his triumph over Simon, "the angel of Satan," in Judea. Shortly afterward, in the house of Marcellus, which had been "cleansed from every vestige of Simon," Peter unfolded the true understanding of the gospel.

The adequacy of Christ to meet every kind of need is shown in a characteristic passage that reveals docetic traits: "He will comfort you that you may love Him, this Great and Small One, this Beautiful and Ugly One, this Youth and Old Man, appearing in time yet utterly invisible in eternity, whom a human hand has not grasped, who yet is now grasped by His servants, whom flesh had not seen and now sees." Next, in a wonderful blaze of heavenly light, blind widows received their sight and declared the different forms in which Christ had appeared to them. A vision of Marcellus is described in which the Lord appearing in the likeness of Peter struck down with a sword “the whole power of Simon,” which had come in the form of an ugly Ethiopian woman, clad in filthy rags.

基督恩典的完备性，通过书中一个明显揭示了基督幻影说的段落表现出来：“他同样要安慰你们，好使你们可以爱他。这个（上帝）是既伟大又渺小；既美丽又难看；既年轻又年老；既出现在时间之中，又住在永恒里，是肉眼所不能见的；他并非人手所能捉摸的，却让他的仆人紧紧的握着；没有人见过他，现在他却成为可见的”。随后，在美妙的天堂之光中，盲寡妇都能看见了，她们描述了基督出现在她们面前的不同样式。在马撒来斯的异象中，主的外表看似彼得，祂拿起利刃斩碎了一个衣衫褴褛的邪恶的埃塞俄比亚女人，“西门和他的上帝的能力全都”在这个女人身上。

Later, there was a conflict with Simon in the forum in the presence of the senators and prefects. First the combatants exchanged words; then the contest switched and the power of Peter was signally exhibited as greater than Simon’s in raising the dead. Simon was now discredited in Rome, and in a last attempt to recover his influence he declared that he would ascend to God. Before the assembled crowd he flew up over the city, but in answer to Peter’s prayer to Christ he fell down and broke his leg in three places. He was removed from Rome and, after having his leg amputated, died.

The Actus Vercellenses closes with an account of Peter’s martyrdom (chs. 33–44). Peter had incurred the enmity of several influential citizens by persuading their wives to separate from them. The well-known “Quo vadis?” story follows: Peter, being warned of the danger he was in, fled from Rome; but meeting Christ and learning that He was going to the city to be crucified again, Peter returned and was condemned to death. At his own request he was crucified head downward, explaining the symbolism of this in obscure, and probably gnosticizing, words. He prays, and as the crowd says “Amen,” he dies. Marcellus buries him in his own tomb, and Peter appears to him in a vision. Nero, who had intended to torture Peter, is angry at his summary execution, but is withheld by a vision from a general persecution (Vouaux considers this incident an addition).

之后，彼得在集会场与西门争辩，各参议员和长官们也齐集在那里。他们二人先辩论；然后竞争的方式改变了，彼得能使死人复活，他的能力显然比西门强。此时西门在罗马已经名誉扫地，他为恢复自己的影响力，孤注一掷，他声称他要飞到上帝那里去。西门马上就要在众人面前飞过这座城市，但保罗向基督祈祷，于是西门就“从高处堕落，脚上有三处跌断了骨”。有人将西门抬出罗马，并送他去做手术，锯断了他摔伤的腿，西门就死了。

B. Authorship, Date, General Features.

B. 作者、成书时期、一般特征。关于

Nothing can be said with certainty on the authorship of the Acts of Peter. James (ANT, p. 300) apparently retracted his earlier opinion (Apocrypha Anecdota, II, p. xxiv) that linguistic parallels indicated the same authorship as that of the Acts of John. The religious atmosphere is that of Asia Minor, though Schmidt has urged that Syria or Palestine is more likely. At any rate, the writer is not at home in Rome. Schmidt, who believed the work dependent on the Acts of Paul, thought the Acts of Peter might have been written ca. A.D. 180; it is not likely to be later than 200.

While obviously used, and possibly modified, by heretical sects, the Acts of Peter may well have originated within the catholic Church. Its gnosticizing ideas belong to its environment: great stress is laid on understanding the Lord. Scripture is supplemented by a secret tradition committed to the apostles. Peter communicates what he received in a "mystery," and on the cross reveals another. There are here and there traces of docetic language, but the writer seems to have believed in the reality of the Lord's sufferings and in their atoning efficacy. Water is used at the eucharist. A notable and welcome concern of the work is the stress on the mercy of God in Christ toward the backslider—probably one of the concerns of the writer in an age when some Christians were urging that postbaptismal sin was inexpiable. Altogether it is an eloquent mixture of theology, morality, and superstition.

III. Acts of John.-A. Contents. According to the Stichometry of Nicephorus the complete Acts of John was a book about the length of Matthew's Gospel. We have

《彼得行传》的作者，我们知之甚少。詹姆斯 (ANT, 300 页) 早期曾认为这本书从语言学角度讲与《约翰行传》十分相似，因此可能是由同一个作者所著，但后来他收回了这个观点。该书呈现出的宗教氛围符合小亚细亚，但施密特认为其中的描述更有可能是叙利亚或巴勒斯坦。无论如何，作者不是罗马人。施密特认为《彼得行传》以《保罗行传》为基础，可能写于约公元 180 年，不大可能晚于公元 200 年。

异端教派可能曾使用并修改过《彼得行传》，因此该书可能起源于天主教会中。其中的诺斯替教观点可能源自当时的宗教氛围：当时教徒极为重视对主的认识。他们在《圣经》中加入了一个关于使徒的秘密传说。彼得描述了他在“异象”中所见的，又在十字架上揭示了另一个奥秘。书中随处可见基督幻影说的痕迹，但作者似乎相信主曾真的受过磨难，也相信这种磨难有赎罪的效用。圣餐礼时使用了水。书中有一个值得注意的普遍的忧虑，其中强调神在基督里对那些反复无常之人的恩典，这大概是因为当时一些基督徒可为受洗后若犯了罪便无法抵赎，这可能是本书所处时代的作者的一种担忧。总之，这部书中的辩论混合了神学、道德和迷信的成分。

III. 《约翰行传》。A. 内容。根据《尼赛福鲁斯的行数表》记录的篇幅，整本《约翰行传》的篇幅与《马太福音》相仿。现存的希腊语残本可能占全书的三 perhaps two-thirds of the whole, in Greek. From late witnesses Bonnet deduces that the lost beginning contained John's summons from Ephesus to Rome, his trial, and his banishment to Patmos. When the first extant long Greek section begins, John is hastening to Ephesus. Lycomedes, the Ephesian praetor, beseeches him to heal his paralyzed wife Cleopatra. Lycomedes dies from grief, but John restores them both and agrees to stay with them. An incident follows that was to be discussed at large at the Second Council of Nicea. Lycomedes commissioned a friend to paint a picture of John, which he put in his bedroom with an altar and candlesticks. John, discovering this, accused Lycomedes of worshipping a heathen god, and only then found that the portrait was of himself. The picture, John says, is of a dead man; let Lycomedes paint his own soul, with such colors as faith in God, knowledge, godly fear, friendship, communion.

John next heals a group of aged women, and improves the occasion with an address to the Ephesians on the deadliness of fleshly passion. In answer to his prayer the temple of Artemis falls down, the priest killed in the collapse is revived and converted, and many are won to Christ. After further wonders (including the pleasant story of the bugs) comes the repulsive story of Drusiana, rescued by John from necrophilia (the theme also of a poem by the nun Hrotswitha [Roswitha] of Gandersheim in the 10th cent.). A lengthy discourse by John on the life, death, and ascension of Jesus is characterized by strong docetic traits, a long passage dealing with Christ's appearance in many forms and with the peculiar nature of His body. 分之二。邦尼特从过去的证据中推断出书中失传的开头可能包含了关于约翰被从以弗所召唤至罗马、受试探和被流放到拔摩岛的故事。现存较长的希腊语残本开篇时，约翰正加速赶往以弗所。以弗所的执政官赖康密特斯恳求约翰治愈他瘫痪的妻子克利奥帕特。赖康密特斯因过于悲伤死去了，但约翰将二人都复活了，并答应留下与他们一起。尼西亚第二次会议上讨论了书中随后叙述的事件。赖康密特斯托朋友给约翰画了一副画像，将它摆在卧室中，并摆上祭坛和灯台。约翰发现之后，指责赖康密特斯供奉异教的神，但却发现这肖像是中的人竟他自己。约翰说这是死人的画像；他让赖康密特斯用对上帝的信心、知识、尊敬、仁慈、团契交通等颜料，描绘他自己的灵魂。 this section occurs the strange hymn used by the Priscillianists, which purports to be the one Jesus sang after supper in the upper room (Mt. 26:30), the disciples dancing around Him in a ring and responding with an amen. Here too we find the mystic doctrine of the cross revealed to John by Christ. Chapters 106–115 narrate the death of John. After addressing the brethren and dispensing the sacrament of the Lord's supper with bread alone, John ordered a grave to be dug; and when this was done he prayed, giving thanks that he had been delivered from "the filthy madness of the flesh" and asking a safe passage through the darkness and dangers of death. He lay down quietly in the grave and gave up the ghost.

B. Historical Value. The Acts of John, it need hardly be said, have not the slightest historical value. They are a tissue of legendary incidents that by their miraculous character served to insinuate into the popular mind the dogmatic conceptions and the ideal of life the author entertained. The acts are, however, in harmony with the well-founded tradition that Ephesus was the scene of John's later activity. Very remarkable is the account of the destruction of the Artemis temple by John—a clear proof that the acts were not written in Ephesus, for the Ephesian temple of Artemis was destroyed by the Goths in A.D. 262.

C. General Character. The Acts of John are the most clearly heretical of all the acts. The docetic traits have already been referred to. The unreality of Christ's bodily existence is shown by the changing forms in which He appeared (chs. 88–90), by His ability to do without food (ch. 93), and without sleep (“I never at any time saw His eyes closing but only open,” ch. 89), by His leaving no footprint when He walked (ch. 93), by the varying character of His body when touched, now hard, now soft, now completely immaterial (ch. 89, 93). The crucifixion of Jesus, too, was entirely phantasmal (chs. 97, 99). the Ascension followed immediately on the apparent crucifixion; there was no place for the resurrection of someone who had never actually died.

成一圈，跳着舞蹈，并回答说“阿们”。此处我们再次读到了关于基督揭示给约翰的神秘教义。书中第 106 至 115 章叙述了约翰离世的故事。约翰在对弟兄们讲说之后，给众人分发主的圣餐的饼，然后他命人挖坑；坑挖好之后，约翰开始祈祷，感谢主使他摆脱“肉体内邪恶疯狂的行径”，祈求自身不受黑暗和死亡危险的侵袭。他安详地躺在坑中，喜乐地交出了他的灵魂。

B. 历史价值。 无需多说，《约翰行传》毫无历史价值。这部作品就是一系列的传奇故事，通过故事中不可思议的特性，向大众灌输作者的教义和生活理想。但是，书中对约翰晚年在以弗所传教的这段描述符合其他有根据的传说。约翰毁灭亚底米神庙这段描述尤为值得注意，这明确表达出这部作品的成书地点并非在以弗所，因为以弗所的亚底米神庙是在公元 262 年毁于哥特人手中。

C. 一般特征。《约翰行传》是所有行传中异端特征最为显著的。上文已经提到了基督幻影说的特征。书中所描述的基督以不同形体出现（第 88 至 90 章），祂无需进食（第 93 章），无需睡觉（“我从未见过祂把双眼闭合，总是张开的”，第 89 章），祂行走时不曾留下脚

Gnostic features are further discernible in the disparagement of the Jewish laws (ch. 94), in the emphasis on a secret tradition committed by Christ to the apostles (ch. 96), and in the contempt for those who were not enlightened (“Care not for the many, and them that are outside the mystery despise,” ch. 100). The historical incidents of Christ’s sufferings are sublimated into something altogether mystical (ch. 101); they are simply a symbol of human suffering, and the object of Christ’s coming is represented as being to enable men to understand the true meaning of suffering and thus to be delivered from it (ch. 96). The real sufferings of Christ are those caused by His grief at the sins of His followers (chs. 106f.). He is also a partaker in the sufferings of His faithful people, and indeed is present with them to be their support in every trial (ch. 103). The Acts of John also reveal a strong ascetic tendency, although it is not so pronounced as that in the Acts of Andrew and of Thomas. Nowhere, however, is there a more horrifying glimpse into the depths of corrupt sexualism than in these acts. The writing and circulation of the story of Drusiana cast a lurid light on the gross sensual elements that survived in early Hellenic Christianity. Apart from this there are passages that reveal a warm and true religious feeling, and some of the prayers are marked by glow and fervor (cf. chs. 112ff.). The acts show that the author was a man of considerable literary ability.

书中的描述蔑视犹太律法（第 94 章），强调基督委托给使徒的秘密传统（第 96 章），并轻视那些未受启发的人（“不要理会众人，并应轻看那些在奥秘之外的人”，第 100 章），这些进一步体现出了诺斯替教的特征。耶稣受难的历史事件被升华为某种奥秘之事（第 101 章）；这些只是人类受难的象征，书中表示基督来世上的目的是为了使人明白苦楚的真正含义，从而免受苦楚（第 96 章）。基督真正的苦楚是因门徒犯罪而悲伤痛苦（第 106 至 107 章）。祂会分担信徒的苦楚，并在每次试探中与他们同在，给他们支持（第 103 章）。《约翰行传》还表现出强烈的禁欲主义倾向，虽然没有《安得烈行传》和《多马行传》中表现得那样明显，但本书中所体现的社会的淫乱程度要远超过其他任何一部行传。真士安娜这段故事的描述和流传使希腊化早期基督教中的恶劣的性欲元素显得尤为可怕。但是，除了上述异端特征之外，书中的一些段落还表现出一种热情的、真实的宗教意识，有些祈祷词中蕴含着炽热和激情（参：第 112 章起）。这部作品表明其作者很有文学功底。

D. Authorship, Date, Influence. The author represents Himself as a companion of the apostle. Testimony going back to the 4th cent. calls him Leucius; perhaps this name occurred in some part of the acts now lost. A passage in Clement of Alexandria's Hypotyposesis on 1 John (Lat. version in Stählin, Clemens Alexandrinus, III, 210; cf. Eng. tr. in Ante-Nicene Fathers, II [repr. 1971], 574) betrays knowledge (not necessarily firsthand) of these acts as a source of traditions about John. The book seems to belong to Asia Minor between A.D. 150 and 180.

The Acts of John was widely influential. It is probably the earliest of the apocryphal acts, and to some extent the model of the others. The reference in Clement of Alexandria suggests that the work was read in quite sophisticated, orthodox circles, as well as among ruder folk. Later opinion is represented by Augustine's severe animadversions on the hymn that he found being used by the Priscillianists, and by the severe judgment of the Second Council of Nicea. By this time, however, the stories had passed into orthodox tradition, and had been used by Prochorus (5th cent.), a supposed disciple of John, and Abdias, whose Apostolic History contains material from older acts not otherwise preserved. The Syriac Acts of John (in W.

*D. 作者、成书日期和影响。*作者自称是使徒的同伴。4世纪时有证据表明作者是利斯流；可能书中某些部分出现过这个名字，但没能保存至今。亚历山太的革利免在其作品（Hypotyposesis on 1 John, Stählin 作品中的拉丁语译本，Clemens Alexandrinus, III, 210；参： Ante-Nicene Fathers, II, 英文译本，[1971年修订版]，574）中将这行传看作是 关于约翰的传说的原始资料。这本书似乎于公元 150 至 180 年间写于小亚细亚。

《约翰行传》影响范围比较广泛。它可能是最早的次经行传，从某种程度上来说，它是其他行传的范本。亚历山太的革利免曾提及本书，这表明在当时，无论精英、正统阶层的人士还是普通民众都曾阅读这部行传。奥古斯丁发现普里希利安派曾使用书中的赞美诗，他严厉地批评了这首诗，第二次尼西亚会议也对其表示严厉的谴责，这都是后来人对这部作品的态度。但是，此时书中的故事已经逐渐变成了正统的传说，5世纪时的伯罗哥罗也曾使用过这些传说，他可能是约翰的门徒，奥巴代亚的作品（Apostolic History）还包含了一些较老的使徒行传中的内容，这部分内容在其他文献中没有保存下来。叙利亚语的《约翰行传》（在 W. Wright 的作品中）似乎基本上（如果不是完全的话）独立于“利斯流”的行传。

Wright) appear to be almost, if not entirely, independent of the “Leucian” acts.

IV. Acts of Andrew. Eusebius (HE iii.25.6) is the earliest of many writers to mention this work, which he rejects as impious and absurd. Epiphanius (Haer. 47, 61, 68) refers to it as being in use among ascetic heretical sects. Some early writers attribute it to the author of the Acts of John, but in modern times the tendency has been to date it rather late in the 2nd cent.; but the use of the book by the author of the Acts of Paul means that it originated before the last decade of the 2nd century.

A. Contents. The general shape of the book is given in an abstract by Gregory of Tours. He says it was considered apocryphal because of its inordinate length, but either he or the version he used has eliminated repulsive elements referred to by other writers, and thoroughly worked over the stories. As with other acts, we have separate texts and different versions of the martyrdom. For the rest, only fragments remain, and it is not always certain that they are rightly attributed. The stories about Andrew and Matthias with the cannibals seem to belong to a different work.

An important fragment published by G. Quispel in 1956 describes how a soldier sent to arrest Andrew is convulsed by a demon, and, being healed, leaves the army. We hear also how his believing sister has resisted a magician’s attacks on her virginity. There is a Gnostic flavor about the whole that is missing from Gregory’s abstract. Euodias of Uzala (d. 424), attacking the Manichaeans’

IV. 《安得烈行传》。 优西比乌 (HE iii.25.6) 是最早提及这部作品的作者，他认为这部作品荒谬而且不虔诚。伊皮法尼 (Haer. 47, 61, 68) 提及这部作品曾流传于奉行禁欲主义的异端教派中。一些早期的作者认为这部作品和《保罗行传》是由同一作者所著，但现代学者则倾向于认为该书的成书时间为较晚的 2 世纪；但《保罗行传》的作者借鉴了《安得烈行传》的内容，这表明该书的成书时间不晚于 2 世纪的最后十年。

A. 内容。 图尔的贵格利所写的一段摘要表明了该书的一般型式。他说这本书因长度过长而被认定是伪经，但他或者他引用的版本删除了其他作者所提到的令人反感的元素，并彻底重述了书中的故事。和其他行传一样，这部作品中的殉道故事也有独立的经文和不同的版本。至于书中的其他部分，则只有残本流传了下来，而且很多部分的位置是否正确尚不确定。关于安得烈和马提亚与食人族的故事似乎属于另一部作品。

1956 年，基斯佩尔 (G. Quispel) 公布了一个重要的残本，其中描述了魔鬼使一个被派去抓捕安得烈的士兵浑身抽搐，安得烈治愈他之后，他便离开了军队。书中还描述了一个术士曾想攻击这个士兵的妹妹，但她很虔诚，抵御住了术士的攻击。贵格利在编写本书的摘要时，删除了其中体现出诺斯替特征的内容。乌扎拉的友阿蝶 (Euodias of Uzala, 卒于 424 年) 抨击了摩尼教徒对这本书 regard for the book, alludes to a story describing the deceits that enabled a certain Maximilla to resist the conjugal claims of her husband the proconsul.

The longest section of the acts deals with Andrew's imprisonment because he had induced Maximilla to separate from her husband "Aegeates" and to live a life of chastity. ("Aegeates," which occurs as the name of Maximilla's husband, denotes in reality "a native of Aegae," a town in the vicinity of Patrae, where Andrew was described as carrying on his work.) The section opens in the middle of an address spoken to the brethren by Andrew in prison, in which they were enjoined to glory in their fellowship with Christ and in their deliverance from the baser things of earth. Maximilla and her companions frequently visited the apostle in prison. Aegeates argued with her and warned that if she did not give up her life of chastity he would subject Andrew to torture. Andrew counseled her to resist the importunity of Aegeates, and delivered an address on the true nature of man, stating that torture had no terrors for him. If Maximilla should yield, the apostle would suffer on her account. Through her fellowship with his sufferings she would know her true nature and thus escape from affliction. Andrew next comforted Stratocles, the brother of Aegeates, who declared his need of Andrew, who had sown in him the "seed of the word of salvation." Andrew then announced his crucifixion on the following day. Maximilla again visited the apostle in prison, "the Lord going before her in the form of Andrew." To a company of the brethren the apostle delivered an address, in which he discoursed on the deceitfulness of the devil, who first had dealt with men as a friend but now was manifest as an enemy.

的推崇，暗指书中描写的某个马克西米娜受谎言所骗，拒绝与她的丈夫（一个地方长官）亲热。

When brought to the place of crucifixion Andrew addressed the cross, which he joyfully welcomed. After being bound to the cross he hung smiling at the failure of Aegeates' vengeance, for (as he explained) "a man who belongs to Jesus because he is known of Him is armed against every vengeance." For three days and nights Andrew addressed the people from the cross, and they, moved by his nobility and eloquence, went to Aegeates, demanding that he should be delivered from death. Aegeates, fearing the wrath of the people, went to take Andrew down from the cross, but the apostle refused deliverance and prayed to Christ to prevent his release. After this he gave up the ghost. He was buried by Maximilla, and Aegeates soon afterward cast himself down from a great height and died.

B. General Character. The ascetic ideal in its most pronounced form is exhibited in the Acts of Andrew. In view of this, and of Andrew's association elsewhere in ecclesiastical tradition with a strict asceticism, there is a curious irony in that in some parts of Germany Andrew is the patron saint of young girls seeking husbands. In the Harz and in Thüringen St. Andrew's Night (Nov. 30) is considered by unmarried women to be the most favorable time for having a vision of their future husbands. The Gnostic spirit is revealed in the feeling for the preeminent worth of the spiritual man (ch. 6). The true nature of man is pure; his weakness and sin are the work of the "evil enemy who is averse to peace." In seducing men he does not come out openly as an enemy but pretends

B. 一般特征。《安得烈行传》明显体现了禁欲主义的理念。基于这一点，以及安德烈与其他地方教会严守禁欲主义的传统之间的联系，使得在德国的某些地方，安得烈离奇地成为了适婚女子的守护圣徒。哈茨山和图林根的未婚女子认为在圣安得烈之夜（11月30日）是他们看见未来丈夫的模样的最佳时间。书中认为属灵的人更为优越，这体现了诺斯替教的教义（第6章）。人的本性是纯洁的；人类的弱点和罪恶都来自“反对和平的敌人”。为了引诱人类，他通常不会“公开显示自己敌人的身分，却以自己的作风假装友善”。当世界之光出现时，人类便会看到敌人的真正本质。他们会受到启示，并得以脱离罪恶。关于受苦的神秘观点（第9章）使我们想起《约翰行传》中的类似观点。安得烈讲道的特点是充满了宗教的热忱和炽热（他口中的话犹如“灼热的 friendship. When the light of the world appeared, the adversary of man was seen in his true colors. Deliverance from sin comes through enlightenment. The mystical view of sufferings (ch. 9) reminds us of the similar view in the Acts of John. The addresses of the apostle are characterized by religious earnestness and warmth (words flow from his lips “like a stream of fire,” ch. 12), and by a profound sense of the divine pity for sinful and tempted men.

The only detail in the Acts of Andrew that has any claim to be considered historical is his activity at Patrae on the Corinthian Gulf.

V. Acts of Thomas. These acts alone of the Leucian corpus are extant in their entirety, and appear in many MSS. They appear to have been composed in Syriac and later translated into Greek and worked over from a nonoriental standpoint.

A. Contents. The Stichometry of Nicephorus gives the work sixteen hundred stichoi (a fifth fewer than Mark’s Gospel). Our present versions are much more extended.

At a meeting of the apostles in Jerusalem, Thomas is appointed to India. He is unwilling to go, but the Lord sells him as a slave to a messenger of the Indian king Gundaphorus. At the city of Andrapolis on the way, the nuptials of the king’s daughter are in progress. The apostle sings a hymn in praise of the heavenly wedding; the king asks Thomas to pray for his daughter, and the Lord (appearing in the form of Thomas) wins the bridal couple to a life of sexual abstinence.

箭”，第 12 章)，以及对罪人和受引诱之人深刻的、圣洁的怜悯之情。

《安得烈行传》中唯一有可能视为史实的，便是他在哥林多港的佩特里所行的事。

V. 《多马行传》。这部作品是利斯流文集之中唯一完整保存袭来的文稿，而且有多份手稿。该书似乎用叙利亚语写成，后来被翻译成了希腊语，而且似乎有人用非东方的立场重述了书中的故事。

A. 内容。根据《尼赛福鲁斯的行数表》记录篇幅的方式，该书有 1600 节（比《马可福音》少 15 节）。现存的版本要长的多。

在耶路撒冷的使徒会议上，多马被指派去印度传道。他本不想去，但主将他卖给印度王袞大弗鲁斯的信使做奴隶。当他们途径安德拉波利城时，人们正在筹备王女儿的婚礼。多马唱了一首赞美诗歌颂这美好的婚礼；国王要求多马为他的女儿祷告，主（以多马的样子显现）成功地劝说了这对新婚夫妇过禁欲的生活。

On arrival in India Thomas undertakes to build a palace for Gundaphorus, but gives the poor the money received for the work. The king imprisons him, until an appearance of his dead brother shows that Thomas has built a heavenly palace for him.

Farther east Thomas discovers a youth killed by a dragon in a quarrel over a woman. Thomas orders the dragon to suck the poison from the youth's body; the dragon dies; and the youth accepts sexual abstinence. A colt of the stock of Balaam's ass salutes Thomas as Christ's twin. Thomas delivers a woman from an unclean spirit; she is baptized, and the eucharist, celebrated with bread alone, and with a Gnostic prayer, follows. A youth partakes and becomes paralyzed. He confesses to the murder of a girl, whom Thomas raises, and who describes what she saw in hell.

Further anecdotes relate how Thomas is asked to exorcize the wife and daughter of a commander called Siphor. On the way the carriage animals are exhausted, but four wild asses allow themselves to be yoked. One of them assists Thomas at the exorcism, and afterward reminds him of his duty. Mygdonia, a relative by marriage of the king, Misdai, hears Thomas and repudiates marital relations; her husband secures Thomas' imprisonment as a magician. At their request, Thomas prays for his fellow prisoners, and recites the famous Gnostic Hymn of the Pearl. Thomas, miraculously released, meets Mygdonia and baptizes her; and another eucharist without wine is held. Siphor and his family are also baptized. Tertia the queen seeks to bring

多马来到印度后，袞大弗鲁斯王指派他为自己建一座宫殿，但多马却将王给他建宫殿的银钱分发给了穷人。王因此将多马收进监里，直到王死去的兄弟出现在他面前，告诉他多马在天上为他建了一座宫殿。

多马继续向东走，他看到了一个死去的青年，蛇因一个女子与这个青年发生争执并杀死了他。多马命令蛇将青年体内的毒液吸出来；这个青年复活后接受了多马关于节欲的教训。有一头驴驹，它的种族曾服侍巴兰，它因多马是基督的孪生兄弟而向他行礼。多马又拯救了一个女子脱离不洁的鬼的骚扰；给她施洗，并用只有饼的圣餐为她庆祝，然后多马说了一段诺斯替教的祈祷文。一个青年来分享圣餐时，他的双手就枯干了。他承认曾杀死一个女子，多马令这个女子复活，这个复活的女子讲述了她在地狱看见的情景。

随后的故事讲述了一个叫色弗的总管恳求多马为他的妻子和女儿驱邪。多马上路时，驮行李的牲口都走不动了，但有四头野驴过来，让人们给它们套上轭。其中一头野驴帮助多马驱邪，随后还提醒他应担当的指责。米代斯王近亲的妻子米琪顿，听从了多马的教训，拒绝与丈夫亲热；她的丈夫将多马当做术士关进了监狱。在囚犯的恳求下，多马为他们祈祷，吟诵了著名的诺斯替教《珍珠之歌》。后来多马被奇迹般地释放了，他遇见了米琪顿并为她施洗；并举办了另一场没有酒的圣餐。色弗和他的家人也都受洗了。皇后特太想要使米琪顿恢复理智，但她自己却得知了新的生命。米代斯王十分愤怒，他粗鲁地将多马带去审判的地方。王的儿子华撒改信了基督。王试图用烙铁折磨多马，但地上却发起洪水阻止了这场刑罚。华撒

Mygdonia to reason, but is herself won to the new way. Misdai, enraged, has Thomas roughly brought to judgment. Vazan, the king's son, is converted. An attempt to torture Thomas with red-hot irons is foiled by a flood. The women and Vazan visit Thomas in prison; Thomas transfers to Vazan's house for the latter's baptism and the eucharist.

Thomas is later put to death by four spears. He appears to Siphor and Vazan (now a presbyter and a deacon). Mygdonia and Tertia are left in peace. Later Misdai seeks a bone from Thomas' tomb to cure a possessed son; but the body has already been transported to Mesopotamia (a significant bit of local patriotism on the part of the author). Dust from the tomb, however, is enough to effect the cure, and Misdai is converted.

B. Character and Tendency. The Acts of Thomas is a product of Syriac Christianity, in which, even in nonsectarian circles, asceticism and the requirement of celibacy are paramount. It is a work of intense earnestness, and in the speeches of Thomas positive Christian virtues are stressed. In particular, the duty and recompense of compassion are strongly exhibited in the story of the heavenly palace. A Gnostic origin seems certain, though orthodox revisers have been at work; they have left much in the hymns and dedication prayers, probably because they did not always understand their Gnostic significance. The Hymn of the Pearl, almost certainly older than the acts (some have ascribed it to the heresiarch Bardesanes), is usually interpreted as an allegory of the descent of the soul into the world of sense, its deliverance by the

和一群女子去监狱中探望多马；多马来到华撒的家里，随后为他们施洗并分发圣餐。

随后，多马被四根矛刺死了。他向色弗和华撒显现（他们现在一个是长老，一个是执事）。米琪顿和特太也不受打扰，平静地生活。后来，米代斯王去多马的墓中找一块骨头，想要用它治愈他被鬼附身的儿子；但多马的尸体已经被转移到美索不达米亚（此处十分重要，它表现出了作者的地方主义观念）。然而墓中的尘土就足以治愈米代斯的儿子，于是米代斯归信了基督。

B. 特征和倾向。《多马行传》产生于叙利亚的基督教中，在这些教会中，甚至在无宗派的人群中，禁欲主义和独身主义也是至高无上的观念。这部作品中包含了极大的热忱，多马在讲道中也强调了积极的基督教美德。尤其是书中关于天上的宫殿的故事强烈地表达出人们行善事、怜悯穷人将获得回报的观念。这部作品无疑源自诺斯替教，但正统的修订者也对该书进行了修订；他们保留了书中的许多赞美诗和奉献的祈祷文，这可能是因为他们并不太能理解文中表达的诺斯替教的意义。几乎可以肯定《珍珠之歌》要早于《多马行传》（一些人认为是异端领袖巴德萨理创作了这首赞美诗），人们通常认为这首诗是一则关于灵魂从天上降入这个感觉世界的寓言，神拯救这个灵魂，使他升入天上的居所，回到他所属的放；但这则故事更可能表达的是诺斯替教救世主降世的故事。无论如何，这都是一首充满美感、富于想象力的赞美诗。《多马 revelation of God, and its ascent to the heavenly house whence it came; though it may represent rather the descent of the Gnostic redeemer. Either way, it is a hymn of beauty and rich imagery. Christ frequently appeared in the likeness of Thomas, who is represented as His twin and designated “Judas Thomas”—a title that reappears in the Nag Hammadi Gospel of Thomas, with which there are other links (see APOCRYPHAL GOSPELS V.J.1; NAG HAMMADI LITERATURE).

The Acts of Thomas is not a historical source for the life of the apostle. That some of the situations described are true to life is beyond doubt. The story of Mygdonia and her husband is drawn with real insight, and must have represented the course of many marriages disrupted by such preaching as that attributed to Thomas. Furthermore, King Gundaphorus (Viñdafra) is known from other sources as an Indo-Parthian ruler of the 1st cent., and other indications have been found of genuine knowledge of Indian topography. It is still possible that the tradition of Thomas’ residence in India, maintained for centuries by the ancient Indian Christian communities, has factual basis. It is difficult to date the Acts of Thomas: a reference in the Hymn of the Pearl implies that the Parthian kingdom, which fell in A.D. 227, still existed; but the hymn is probably older than the rest of the book.

OTHER ACTS

The five “Leucian” acts are by far the most important; but the early Christian centuries produced countless others. “Put very broadly the development is from rather dim historical reminiscences used as a framework for doctrinal teaching, to

行传》将多马描述为基督的孪生兄弟，基督多次以多马的样子出现，书中还称多马为“犹大·多马”——这个名字在《拿·戈玛第文库》中的《多马福音》里多次出现，《多马行传》与《多马福音》还有其他联系（见 APOCRYPHAL GOSPELS V.J.1[次经福音书]；NAG HAMMADI LITERATURE[《拿·戈玛第文库》]）。

《多马行传》不是记录使徒生平的历史资料，但书中所描绘的某些生活情景无疑是真实的。米琪顿和她丈夫的故事体现了作者的真知灼见，这必然反映出当时许多婚姻因禁欲主义的教训而破裂的社会现实，只不过书中将这些教训归到多马的身上。此外，从其他文献可知，书中提到的 袞大弗鲁斯王（Gundaphorus 或 Viñdafra）是 1 世纪时印度和帕提亚的统治者，其他发现的证据表明，书中真实地描述了印度的地形。关于多马曾在印度居住的传说在古印度基督教社团中流行了数个世纪，这个传说是有事实依据的，而且至今可能仍在流传。我们很难确定《多马行传》的成书日期：书中提到的《珍珠之歌》表明当时帕提亚王国仍然存在，该王国于公元 227 年陷落；但这首赞美诗的创作时间很可能要早于书中的其他部分。

上文提到的五个“利斯流”创作的行传是目前为止最为重要的；但是在早期基督教世纪中，人们还创作了无数其他行传。这些行传“将暗淡的历史回忆当作是教义教导的框架，并在此框架上广泛发展，书中通过奇术来反映教义，但纯

thaumaturgy plus doctrine, to pure thaumaturgy without any doctrine of significance” (ANT, p. 474). Syriac, Coptic, and Ethiopic sources are particularly fertile. Large numbers of texts have been published; many still lie unedited. Only a few of these minor acts will be mentioned here.

I. Acts of Thaddaeus.—Eusebius (HE i. 13) tells the legend of the evangelization of Edessa. King Abgar Uchama (4 B.C.—A.D. 50) wrote to ask Jesus for healing and invited Him to stay in Edessa. Jesus wrote back declining, but promising to send a disciple. In due time Thaddaeus healed the king and converted the territory. Various elaborations of the story exist. The Greek form is the Acts of Thaddaeus; the Syriac form (where a verbal, not epistolary, reply comes from Jesus) is the Doctrine of Addai.

II. Acts of Philip.—This catholic novel (after the form of the Acts of Thomas) describes Philip’s adventures in Greece, Parthia, and Carthage “which is in Azotus” (!). The martyrdom exists separately.

III. Acts of Andrew and Matthias.—This startling tale describes the adventures of these two apostles among the cannibals. Formerly, it was often thought to be part of the Acts of Andrew.

Bibliography.—I. General: The standard collection of Gk. and Lat. texts is R. A. Lipsius and M. Bonnet, Acta Apostolorum Apocrypha (1891–1903, repr. 1959); J. A. Fabricius, Codex Apocryphus Novi Testamenti (1719–1743), is still in use. Some Syr. texts with Eng. tr. are given in W. Wright, Apocryphal Acts of the 粹的奇术丝毫不带有重要的教义” (ANT, 474 页)。这些行传多用叙利亚语、科普特语和埃塞俄比亚语写成。人们已经公布了大量的文献；当然仍有许多文献还未被公布。在此我们仅提及这些次要行传中的几部。

I. 《达太行传》。优西比乌 (HE i. 13) 讲述了伊得撒基督教化的传说。阿伯加·乌查玛王 (Abgar Uchama, 公元前 4 年至公元 50 年) 写信请求耶稣治愈他并邀请耶稣留在伊得撒。耶稣回信婉拒了王的请求, 但祂许诺将会派遣一名使徒过去。达太在适当的时间治愈了这位王, 并使得这片领土上的人都归信了基督。这个故事流传下来的版本有多个, 希腊语版本是《达太行传》; 叙利亚语版本则是《亚戴的教训》(在这个版本中, 耶稣以口信而不是以书信的方式答复了这位王)。

II. 《腓力行传》。这本天主教的小说讲述了腓力在希腊、帕提亚和“位于亚锁都”(!) 的迦太基的冒险。腓力殉道的故事则独立存在。

III. 《安得烈和马提亚行传》。这个惊人的传说描述了这两位使徒在食人族中的奇遇。此前人们通常认为这本书是《安得烈行传》的一部分。

书目——I. 概述: 希腊语和拉丁语文本的标准合集见 R. A. Lipsius 和 M. Bonnet, Acta Apostolorum Apocrypha (1891–1903, 1959 年再版); J. A. Fabricius, Codex Apocryphus Novi Testamenti (1719–1743) 现仍在使用中。一些叙利亚语文本和其英文译本见 W. Wright, Apocryphal Acts of the Apostles (1871); 埃塞俄比亚语文本见 E. A. Wallis Budge,

The intros., trs., and comms. in H-S have largely replaced ANT. Many new texts have been published since the standard collections; J. Quasten, Patrology, I (1950), is helpful in tracing some of them.

III. 总结

I. Introduction.-The missionary outreach of the early church was undergirded by the written word. The literary form first employed was the letter, but primitive Christianity soon created new forms, like the gospel, and adopted from Palestinian Judaism older forms, like the apocalypse, to convey its message. The general recognition of the power of the written page as literary propaganda in support of the Christian movement stimulated the production of other documents which were similar in form, if not in content. Many of these asserted or implied a claim to apostolic origin. The distinction between authentic apostolic literature and other compositions, which resulted ultimately in the recognition of the authority of the documents comprising the NT, was made only after an extended process of use, examination and debate. Even then apocryphal accounts continued to appear and were widely circulated. They exerted a discernible impact upon the theology of the developing Church, and especially upon popular thinking, from the 2nd cent. to the medieval period. Study of the Apocrypha frequently puts the student in touch with grass-roots Christianity in the place and period in which a particular document first appeared.

There is evidence that Apocalyptic Literature held a peculiar fascination among early Christians. The concept of revelation is integral to Christianity. Moreover, the Christian mission was supported by apocalyptic ideas and expectations. These factors created a climate of interest for this form of literature. The concept of an apocalypse, i.e. a writing disclosing the secrets previously hidden from men in the counsel of God, was familiar from the book of Daniel in the OT, and from the book of Revelation in the NT. The designation of this type of literature as “apocalypse” can be traced directly to Rev. 1:1, where the content of the book is characterized as “the revelation [Gk. apokálypsis] of Jesus Christ, which God gave to him to show his servants those things which must shortly take place.” Here the word “apocalypse” is used for the first time to designate the disclosure of what must occur in the course of history under the sovereignty of God. The term was first used to designate a particular type of document when the title “Apocalypse of John” was attached to the Revelation. The authority and significance of the canonical Apocalypse explains why the word “apocalypse” subsequently became a literary title and the designation of related Christian compositions. Already in the 2nd cent. the Muratorian Canon (ca. 180) speaks of “the apocalypse of John, and of Peter” (lines 71f.).

I. 介绍。早期教会的传教士主要通过书面语的形式来宣讲教义。他们首先使用的文学形式是书信，但原始基督教很快便创造出其他形式，如福音书，并从巴勒斯坦的犹太教借鉴了较为古老的文学形式——启示录，并用这两种形式来传达信息。人们普遍认识到了文学在基督教运动中的书面宣传力量，从而刺激人们创作出了其他形式类似（如果不是内容类似的话）的作品。许多这类作品或直接表述或含蓄暗示它们是由使徒创作的。在经过广泛使用、考证和讨论之后，学者们才区分开使徒真作和其他作品，并最终认识到了《新约》的正典的权威性。即使这样，伪经传说仍继续出现并广泛流传。人们可以看出这类作品对教会神学的影响，尤其对2世纪至中世纪时期大众思想的影响。学者们通常可以通过对伪经的研究来了解某部作品首次出现时该地基础的基督教思想。

有证据表明，启示文学对早期的基督徒来说有一种特殊的魅力。启示的概念是基督教精神中不可或缺的一部分。此外，启示文学中的理念和期望有助于基督教徒传教。这些因素使得这类文学形式形成了一种引人注意的氛围。启示录就是一种揭示神对人所隐藏的奥秘的作品，人们已经从《旧约》中的《但以理书》和《新约》中的《启示录》里熟悉了这一概念。将这类作品称为“启示录”可以直接追溯至《启示录》1:1，这

In the canonical book of Revelation the writer clearly identifies himself by name and circumstances (1:9). All Christian apocryphal apocalypses, however, are pseudonymous—the apocalypticist does not write under his own name, but assumes the mask of one of the great personages from the past. The literary device of pseudonymity served two purposes: it permitted the writer to claim the authority of a prophet or an apostle; and it lent to his composition a fictitious aura of antiquity. The primary vehicle for conveying his message is an account of a revelation received through visionary ecstasy and mystical ascent into the presence of God and His angels. The apocalyptic seer claims to have been shown the regions of heaven and hell. What he has seen becomes the basis for exhortations to repentance, conversion, and correction. Having penetrated the veil of mystery surrounding the destiny of men, he can speak with conviction about the imminence of the consummation and the finality of the judgment of God.

在正典中的《启示录》里，作者表明了自己的身份，明确提到了自己的名字和所处的境况（启1:9）。但是，所有的基督教次经启示录都是托他人之名而作——启示录的作者并没有著明自己的真实姓名，而是借用过去的重要人物之名来写作。托名写作这种文学手法有两个目的：一是作者可以借用先知或使徒的权威；二是能够为作营造出一种虚假的古代氛围。这类作品传达信息的主要方式便是描述一段极乐的异象或描述主人公神秘地升天，来到神和祂的使者面前。启示录中的先知自称能够看到天堂和地狱。他所看到的景象构成了教导人们悔改、归信和改正的基础。他们能够揭开笼罩人类命运的神秘面纱，明确地告诉人们末世和神的审判即将临近。

In the patristic era Christians read and adopted for their own purposes several of the Jewish apocalypses that were produced during the Intertestamental Period. Dogmatic additions to the text created the impression that respected seers from the past had prophesied the coming of “the lamb of God,” who would be “put to death upon a tree,” or the bestowal of the Holy Spirit upon the Gentiles (e.g. T. Benj. 3:8; 9:3-5; 10:7-9; 11:1-5). The extent and character of the Christian interpolations in one Jewish apocalypse can be gauged by comparing the Greek text of the Testaments of the Twelve Patriarchs, which contain insertions of a universal and patripassionist character, with the Armenian version, which appears to be relatively free from Christian alteration. Jewish apocalypses also provided models for the composition of distinctly Christian documents that were attributed to persons well known from the OT or to individuals from the apostolic age.

Numerous works of this type are known only by title; of others, only fragments or late versions survive. Nevertheless, the works which have been preserved provide a sufficient indication of the concerns of those Christians who were responsible for their production and

在教父时代，基督徒们出于自身目的，阅读并接受了几部写于两约之间的犹太教启示录。这类作品在文本中添加了一些教义，因此给人留下了这样一种印象，即古时受人尊敬的先知预言了“上帝的羔羊”将临，他将“被凌辱，且被挂在树上”，或将神灵赐予外邦人（如《便雅悯遗训》3:8；9:3-5；10:7-9；11:1-5）。我们可以对比《十二族长遗训》的希腊语文本与亚美尼亚语文本，来判断基督徒在犹太教启示录中改写的范围和特征，基督徒在前者中插入了一些带有圣父受苦论特征的文本，这种理论曾被人们普遍接受，基督徒对后者的篡改相对较少。基督教的某些作品也托《旧约》中或使徒时代的名人之名写作，这显然是在模仿犹太教启示录。 circulation. The several apocryphal apocalypses which have survived are probably not the isolated statement of an individual; they represent the convictions of a larger group of Christians. They are therefore important sources for understanding the concerns and beliefs of broad segments of the Christian community in the post-apostolic period. As such, they modify and qualify the intellectual portrait of Christianity sketched by the Apologists and the church fathers. The range and variety of the apocryphal apocalypses that have survived the accidents of history can be gauged by the following examples.

对于这类文学作品，人们大多只知其名；其他的也仅有残本或后修订的版本流传下来。然而，流传下来的文本足以使人们了解创作并传扬这类书籍的基督徒的关注点。现存的几部次经启示录可能并不仅仅代表了个人观点，他们所表达的是更多基督徒的坚定信心。因

II. Apocryphal Apocalypses.-A. Ascension of Isaiah. This apocryphon is composite in character. The first part (1-5) purports to narrate the circumstances under which Isaiah experienced martyrdom at the hands of Manasseh. Apart from an extraneous unit that is clearly a Christian insertion (3:13-5:1), the Martyrdom is a Jewish writing of uncertain date. The substance of the tradition that Isaiah was sawed in two (1:9; 5:1-14) was known in the 1st cent. A.D. (cf. Heb. 11:37), and it may be proper to assign the Jewish composition to the early years of the Christian era. To this account a Christian later added a description of the visionary ascent of Isaiah into the presence of God in the seventh heaven (6-11). The fusion of the two narratives shows little skill, for the martyrdom takes place under Manasseh, but the visionary experience of the prophet occurs while he is talking to Hezekiah (6:10-12). The person responsible for bringing the two accounts together failed to make the seam less obvious by identifying the visionary

此, 这些作品是人们了解后使徒时期基督教社团的普遍关注点和信仰的重要资料。同样, 这些作品还修正并限制了护教士和教会教父所描绘的基督徒的思想状况。我们可以通过下文中的例子来判定各种次经启示录中的历史事件。

II. 次经启示录。A. 《以赛亚升天记》。这部藏经兼具犹太教和基督教的特征。第一部分(第1至5章)旨在给出以赛亚在玛拿西手下殉道的故事背景。3:13至5:1这段文本显然是由一个基督徒添加的, 除此之外, 有关以赛亚殉道的段落均属于犹太教作品, 这部分内容的写作日期不明。以赛亚被锯成两段(1:9; 5:1-14)的传说在1世纪时就为人所知(参:来11:37), 因此我们或许可以认定这部分犹太教作品的写作时间在基督教时代早期。一位基督徒在此基础上添加了一段故事, 描述以赛亚在异象中升入第七重天, 来到神的面前(6-11章)。这两段故事的融合技巧较为拙劣, 因为是玛拿西令以赛亚殉道, 而他升天时却正在同希西家说话(6:10-12)。将这两段故事合二为一的人试图将以赛亚在异象中升天和以赛亚在受刑时因全神贯注于异象, 而忽略了行刑者和剧痛(5:7)这两段故事相连, 但他没能做到顺利过渡。 ascent of the seer with the vision in which Isaiah became so totally absorbed at the time of his ordeal that he became oblivious to the presence of his tormentors or the excruciating pain (5:7).

The composite character of the Ascension of Isaiah is confirmed by the textual history of the work. Various fragments of the document are available in Greek, Latin, Old Slavonic, and Coptic, but the entire work has been preserved only in an Ethiopic version. The Latin text, which has been known in published form since 1522, and the three Slavonic versions, contain only chs. 6–11, i.e., the visionary ascent of Isaiah into the presence of God. These versions carry the title “The Vision which Isaiah the son of Amoz saw,” which is sufficient indication that the account of the seer’s heavenly journey existed quite independent of the Martyrdom (1–5). The agreement of the Latin and Slavonic texts upon the omission of 11:2–22, the account of the vision of a small child granted to Joseph and Mary prior to Jesus’ birth, indicates that this unit was not originally an integral part of the Ascension of Isaiah. It is now impossible to reconstruct the several stages of the growth of the document, although the seams are easily detected with the assistance of the manuscript tradition.

The Christian insertion in the Martyrdom of Isaiah (3:13–5:1) speaks of Beliar’s wrath toward Isaiah because of a vision he received of Christ’s incarnation, death, and resurrection, and of the experience of the Church following his ascension. The persecution of believers is the occasion for widespread apostasy encouraged by the reign of a godless world-ruler who claims to be God and opposes himself to the people of God (cf. 2 Thess. 2:3-12). The vision concludes with the coming of the Beloved One to vindicate the people of God and initiate the final judgment. This vision of the course of history, which is climaxed by the overthrow of Beliar (4:14), is introduced to explain why Beliar stirred the heart of Manasseh to consign Isaiah to be “sawn asunder with a tree saw” (5:1). It is the only genuinely “apocalyptic” element in the Martyrdom.

《以赛亚升天记》的文本历史可以证明该书的混合作品特征。该书有多个残本，分别用希腊语、拉丁语、古斯拉夫语和科普特语写成，但只有埃塞俄比亚语的完整版本保留了下来。现已知的公开版本的拉丁语文本公布于 1522 年，三份斯拉夫语版本只包含第 6 至 11 章，即以赛亚在异象中升天来到神的面前这一部分。这三份版本的标题是“亚摩斯的儿子以赛亚所见的异象”，这足以表明以赛亚在天堂的旅程这一部分是独立于《以赛亚殉道记》（第 1 至 5 章）而存在的。书中 11:2-22 叙述了耶稣出生前，一个孩童显现在约瑟和马利亚面前的并未出现在拉丁语和斯拉夫语文本中，表明这段记录并非是《以赛亚升天记》中原有的，而是后人添加的。虽然我们可以根据手稿中记录的故事轻易地找出添加的部分，但仍无法重现这部书演变过程中不同阶段的状况。

The Ascension of Isaiah (6-11) is also an account of what the prophet saw while in a visionary trance, but there is no indication that it is by the same hand responsible for 3:13-5:1. In contrast to the prophecies found in the canonical book of Isaiah, the writer states explicitly “the vision which he saw was not of this world, but from the world which is hidden from all flesh” (6:15). The unique character of the revelation is stressed by the repeated statement that the vision granted to the seer had never before been given to a man (8:11f.; 11:34). Isaiah is conducted by an angel from the seventh heaven on a journey that takes him through the firmament, which serves as the realm of the fallen angels (7:9-12; 10:29-31), to an experience of ascent through successive realms of the heavenly spheres. What he sees and hears in each of the heavens is a chorus of angels engaged in the praise of God. What he experiences is an increasing awareness of glory, so that the prophet himself becomes transformed as he ascends from one realm to the next (7:25). His destination is the seventh heaven where he beholds the ineffable glory of “the

判结束。异象中的历史进程，在描述彼列被推翻时（4:14）达到高潮，这解释了彼列为何要附在玛拿西的心中，将以赛亚“用树锯分割为二”（5:1）。这是《以赛亚殉道记》中唯一的也是真正的“启示”元素。

《以赛亚升天记》（6-11 章）也描述了以赛亚在异象中看见的情景，但没有证据表明它和 3:13-5:1 这段文本出自同一作者。作者明确提到“他所见的异象并不属于这个世界，而是来自所有肉体看不到的世界”（6:15），这与正典中《以赛亚书》里的预言形成了鲜明对比。这一启示录的独特性在于书中一再强调先知所看到的异象从未显现给人类（8:11-12; 11:34）。一个从七重天下来的天使引导以赛亚穿过穹苍，那里是堕落的天使的居所，而后他们又依次经历了各重天（7:9-12; 10:29-31）。他在每重天上看见和听见的都是天使在齐声赞美神。他说见到的荣耀越来越大，因此当他由一重天升上另一重天时，他“面容上的荣耀随之出现变化”（7:25）。他的目的地是第七重天，在那里他看见了“诸天之主”不可言喻的荣耀，并被特赐恩典，知晓圣子的奥秘，祂抛开荣耀，经各重天和穹苍下降，这就是道成肉身的过程（8:9-10; 10:7 起）。在第六重天（8:16-22）和第七重天（9:28-30, 33）以赛亚也和天使一同歌颂赞美主，但圣子经由诸天下降到地上时，各重天的天使都没能认出祂，而以赛亚只能敬畏地看着圣子的下降。随后书中描述了从耶稣出生到祂升天的故事，祂以人的样式存在，直到祂经由诸天上升，坐在至高者荣耀的圣父的右边（11:2-33）。

Lord of all those heavens” and is privileged to see the mystery of the Son of God laying aside His glory progressively as He descends through the seven heavens and the firmament in the course of the incarnation (8:9f.; 10:7ff.). In the sixth heaven (8:16–22) and in the seventh (9:28–30, 33) Isaiah himself had joined in the chorus of praise-songs addressed to the Lord, but as the Son of God descends, unrecognized, through the realms of heaven to the earth he can only reflect in awe. The account follows Jesus’ life from His birth to His ascension, in capsule fashion, until He ascends through each of the heavens and sits down on the right hand of the ineffable glory of the Father (11:2–33). The vision is brought to an end on the note of assurance that all of this will occur “in the last generation” (11:37f.).

This Apocryphon is interesting because it indicates two kinds of reflection that some Christians were bringing to biblical statements. One such statement is Jn. 12:41, “Isaiah ... saw his glory and spoke of him.” Throughout the account there is repeated emphasis upon the quality of glory associated with each of the realms of heaven, the glory of the Son eclipsing that of all the realms. Even the Son, who is designated “the Lord of all glory” (cf. 2 Cor. 2:8) engages in the worship of the Father, whom Isaiah describes as “the glorious One whose glory I could not see” (10:2). The striving after a conceptualization of the glory of the Lord appears to account for this dominant note in the Apocalypse. But a second kind of reflection is also evident here: What was involved in the incarnation of the Lord who possessed such glory?; How could Christ Jesus, who was in the form of God, lay aside His robes of glory and assume human form (cf. Phil. 2:6–8)? It is in response to such questions that the Ascension of Isaiah makes its boldest suggestion. The Son descended from the seventh heaven through each of the heavenly realms, and from the fifth heaven downward He was unrecognized because His appearance became like that of those who inhabited that realm. Isaiah had observed an increasing gradation of glory as he travelled from the first to the seventh heaven; the Son divested Himself by degrees of the glory He possessed with the Father (cf. Jn. 17:5, 24) as He made His way to the earth, until finally He bore the image and likeness of man (8:9f.). Behind the expression of the text can be detected an earnest searching after understanding by segments of the Church as men reflected upon the Incarnation in the light of such texts as Jn. 12:41 or 17:5, 24. This document may have originated in the 2nd or 3rd cent. A.D.

以赛亚保证异象中的一切“将在最后一个时代实现” (11:37-38), 至此, 关于异象的叙述完结了。

B. Apocalypse of Peter. In the 2nd cent. an apocalypse attributed to Peter circulated widely. Although its reception in the Church was not uniform, it was highly regarded by many orthodox Christians in the East and the West. Among the books received as authoritative by the Church of Rome, the Muratorian Canon lists “the apocalypse ... of Peter,” but with the qualification that “some of our people will not have it read in the church” (lines 72f.). Evidence that the greater part of the Western Church received this document as Scripture is provided by its inclusion in the Latin catalogue of biblical books in the Codex Claromontanus. Clement of Alexandria regarded it as Petrine, citing

察到每重天的荣耀都逐渐增加；圣子下降到地上时，祂逐渐剥离圣父赐予祂的荣耀（参：约 17:5, 24），直到祂最终变成人的形象和样式（8:9-10）。《约翰福音》12:41 或 17:5,24 这样的经文引起了人们对道成肉身的思考，这部作品的字里行间流露出了教会中的部分基督徒对理解这一教义的热切渴望。这部作品可能创作于 2 世纪或 3 世纪。

B. 《彼得启示录》。 2 世纪时，一本据说是彼得所做的启示录广泛流传。虽然教会对该书的看法不一，但许多东西方的正统基督徒都极为看重这本书。《穆拉多利经目》将“彼得的……启示录”列在罗马教会认可的权威书目之中，但却对其加以限制，“我们中的一些人不会在教堂内阅读它们”（72-73 行）。《克勒芒特抄本》的拉丁语《圣经目录》包含了《彼得启示录》，这说明大部分天主教会将这部作品当做是《圣经》中经卷。亚历山太的革利免认为这部作品是彼得所作，他提及了这本书（Eclogae ex scripturis prophetis, 41, 48-49），并在其作品（Hypotyposeis）中直接提及了本书书名并评论了该书（Eusebius HE vi.14.1）。虽然《尼赛福鲁斯的行数表》将该书视为有争议的作品，但优西

the work by title (Eclogae ex scripturis prophetis, 41, 48f.) and commenting upon it in his Hypotyposes (Eusebius HE vi.14.1). Although the Stichometry of Nicephorus placed it among the disputed books, and Eusebius rejected it as spurious, claiming that no orthodox writer had made use of its testimony (HE iii.3.2 [he had forgotten, apparently, about Clement]), Methodius Olympius alluded to it as inspired Scripture (Symposium 2.6), and according to Sozomenus (HE vii.19) the book was read publicly on Good Friday in certain Palestinian communities as late as the 5th century. Yet in the modern period this work was known only through patristic reference and citation until the close of the 19th century.

The first large segment of the Apocalypse of Peter was recovered through a Greek fragment in 1887 and was published in 1892. It had been found in the grave of a Christian monk who was buried in the 8th or 9th cent. at Akhmim in Upper Egypt, together with a fragment of the Gospel of Peter and portions of the Book of Enoch in Greek. Although the new text was untitled, agreement with a quotation from the Petrine Apocalypse preserved by Clement of Alexandria (Eclogae 41.2) served to identify it. The Akhmim fragment begins abruptly with Jesus' words to His apostles, at the end of a discourse reminiscent of Mk. 13 (and parallels). In a first person account, Peter reports that Jesus led the disciples to the Mount of Olives. There, in response to a request to see the state of the blessed righteous who have died, two men appear to them clothed in resplendent light. At the request of Peter, the disciples are shown the regions of light where the righteous live with the angels. They are engaged in the joyous praise of God. Beyond this realm Peter can discern a dark place of torment, which is described in vivid detail. It is the final abode of unrighteous men, who are enumerated according to their chief offenses. Their punishment is administered by angels in dark robes. The narrative is broken off abruptly in a description of men and women “who have abandoned the way of God.”

比乌认为这部作品是杜撰的，声称没有正统作者引用过本书内容作为论据 (HE iii.3.2[他显然忘记了革利免曾引用过])，奥林匹斯的麦托丢称该书是一部受圣灵感动而作的圣书 (Symposium 2.6)，而且据索卓门努斯 (Sozomenus, HE vii.19) 所述，直到 5 世纪时，巴勒斯坦的某些会众仍在耶稣受难日公开阅读该书。但在现代，19 世纪以前，人们还只能通过教父作品的中提及和引用得知这部作品。

The complete text of the Apocalypse came to light in 1910 in an Ethiopic translation. It was recognized by M. R. James as an older work interpolated into a shapeless pseudo-Clementine collection of materials. Since the Ethiopic text contained all the previously known citations from the Apocalypse of Peter, including those which had not been verified by the Akhmim fragment, distributed over chapters 4, 5, 8, 10, 12, and 14, its identity was established beyond question. The Ethiopic text supplemented the Greek fragment by providing the extended discourse with which the Apocalypse begins and by carrying the narrative to a point of conclusion. The Lord promises Peter that He will return to resurrect the dead and to judge all men. The description of the torments suffered by the condemned closely parallels the Greek fragment but is more complete. The blessedness of the elect is only briefly described. The narrative concludes with the Transfiguration, which becomes the occasion for Jesus to ascend to heaven with Moses and Elijah in the company of other men.

且详细地描绘了这处地方。这便是恶人的最终居所，他们根据所犯的主要罪行被安置在不同的地点。穿黑色衣饰的天使负责惩罚这些恶人。一段对“弃绝上帝的道路”的男女的描述生硬地中断了书中的叙述。

人们于 1910 年发现了埃塞俄比亚语译本的《彼得启示录》全本。詹姆斯 (M. R. James) 认为这是未成形的托革利免名著作文献合集中插入的一部较古老作品。由于埃塞俄比亚语文本包含了《彼得启示录》中所有已知的部分，还包含一些《艾赫米姆残篇》中没有的文本，它们分别在第 4、5、8、10、12 和 14 章中，因此这部作品无疑就是《彼得启示录》。埃塞俄比亚语文本通过补齐开篇时突兀的谈话和叙述的生硬结尾，完善了希腊语文本。主允诺彼得，祂将归来复活死去的义人，并审判所有的人。这部文本中描述的罪人所受的折磨与希腊语残篇中的描述基本对应，但是更为完整。书中对选民的福音只做了简短描述。书的结尾是耶稣登山变像的故事，但书中的描述变成了耶稣与摩西和以利亚在他人的陪同下升天。

Comparative study of the Greek and 希腊语残篇和埃塞俄比亚语文本的对

Ethiopic texts points up the problem of recovering the original form of the Apocalypse of Peter. (1) The Ethiopic account is almost three times as long as that of the Akhmim fragment. Yet it exceeds only slightly the figures which are given for the Apocalypse of Peter in the Stichometry of Nicephorus (300 lines) and in the Codex Claromontanus (270 lines). On this basis it can be assumed that the Ethiopia document approximates the original length of the Apocalypse of Peter. (2) The consideration of parallel passages reveals noticeable differences in content. The two accounts display extensive agreement in the description of hell, but striking differences exist in the treatment of paradise. The Ethiopic text simply alludes to the place of the elect in chs. 14 and 16. Its primary focus is upon the Transfiguration, where Moses and Elijah appear with Jesus, clothed in radiant light. In the Akhmim fragment there is no material parallel to ch. 14, but the Transfiguration account has become the basis for a genuine description of paradise. The two transfigured men who appear on the mountain are not identified as Moses and Elijah but as two of the “righteous brothers” whose form the disciples had requested to see. Their appearance is the introduction to the vision of the realm from which they come and the life of praise they share. This drastic alteration of the Transfiguration narrative in the Synoptic Gospels appears to be a secondary development and is unsupported by any of the older citations. (3) The sequence of the descriptions differs in the two principal witnesses. In the Akhmim fragment the description of paradise precedes the account of the condemned; in the Ethiopic text the order is reversed. The description of the condemnation awaiting the unrighteous follows rather naturally upon Christ's assurance that He will return as the Judge of all men. The sequence in the Ethiopic text should be followed, for it has the support of a secondary witness to the original order in Sibylline Oracles ii.238–338, a third-century document which used the Apocalypse of Peter.

比研究指名了复原《彼得启示录》的问题。(1) 埃塞俄比亚语文本的长度几乎是《艾赫米姆残篇》的三倍。但它仅稍微多于《尼赛福鲁斯的行数表》(300行)和《克勒芒特抄本》(270行)中记载的《彼得启示录》的篇幅。在此基础上,人们可以推测埃塞俄比亚语文本的篇幅更为接近《彼得启示录》原本的篇幅。(2) 两个文本内平行段落中的内容有明显差异。它们都采用大量篇幅描述地狱的景象,但对天堂中境遇的描写则有显著不同。埃塞俄比亚语文本仅在第14和16章中提到了选民居住的地方。这个版本主要强调的是耶稣登山变像,在这段描述中摩西和以利亚同耶稣一起出现,身披耀眼的光芒。《艾赫米姆残篇》中并没有与埃塞俄比亚语文本中第14章相对应的语句,但是其中关于耶稣登山变像的叙述却变成了描述天堂景象的基础。在这一文本中,两个在山上变像的人并不是摩西和以利亚,而是众使徒想要看见的“公义的弟兄”中的两个。这部残篇通过描述他们的出现,转入描述天堂的异象,他们正是从天堂来,并在那里过着赞美神的生活。《艾赫米姆残篇》中这段改变较大的关于耶稣登山变像的故事似乎是在《对观福音书》的基础上进行了二次创作,其他较为古老的作品并没有引用其中的这段描述。(3) 两个文本中的描述顺序有所差异。《艾赫米姆残篇》先描述了天堂的场景,然后描述了罪人所受的折磨;而埃塞俄比亚语文本中的顺序正好相反。后一文本中对不义之人等待定罪的描述十分自然地衔接上了前文中基督保证祂将归来作所有人的审判者这段话。3世纪时的文献《西卜神谕篇》ii.238-338引用了《彼得启示录》,证明了埃塞俄比亚语文本的顺序是正确的,因此我们应遵循这个版本中的顺序。

In addition to the two primary witnesses to the text, there exist two small Greek fragments on papyrus: the Bodleian Fragment, a fifth-century scrap, contains verses 33f.; the Rainer Fragment, a larger piece from the 3rd or 4th cent., corresponds to ch. 14 of the Ethiopic translation.

The Apocalypse of Peter is an early and important exemplar of this literary genre. The citations preserved by the church fathers indicate it was in circulation prior to A.D. 180. The reference to a messianic deceiver who will persecute Christians and put them to death appears to be an allusion to the militant messianic claimant Simon bar Cochba, who led the Jewish revolt against Rome in A.D. 132. If this is so, the Apocalypse of Peter may have been written during the period of the revolt to encourage Christians to be faithful to Jesus, even in the face of death. The allusion to the prophetic word received on the mount of Transfiguration in 2 Pet. 1:16–19 appears to have prompted the writer to prepare the Apocalypse, with its twofold development of the coming in majesty of the Lord, and the experience of glory at the Transfiguration. The focus upon the situation in the afterlife, the different classes of sinners and their punishments, as well as the salvation experienced by the righteous, however, is distinctively his own. Before the end of the 2nd cent. his work was known in the West as well as in the East. The vision of the underworld and its torments put forth in the Apocalypse was picked up by later apocalyptists (Sibylline Oracles ii; Apocalypse of Thomas 55-57; Apocalypse of Paul) and so exerted an immense impact upon popular conceptions. As the first Christian book that attempted to represent through pictorial language what hell and heaven were like, the position of the Apocalypse of Peter in the history of ideas is secure.

除了这两部主要的文本之外，还有两部篇幅简短的蒲草纸希腊语残篇：5 世纪时的《波德林残篇》，包含第 33-34 节；3 或 4 世纪时较长的《赖纳残篇》，与埃塞俄比亚语译本的第 14 章相对应。

《彼得启示录》是这类文学体裁中一个早期的重要范本。现存的教父作品引用了该书的内容，这表明该书在公元 180 年以前就已经在世上流传。书中提到的将要迫害并杀死基督徒的假弥赛亚似乎指的是自称是弥赛亚的好战的西门·巴尔·科赫巴（Simon bar Cochba），他于公元 132 年领导犹太人反抗罗马。如果是这样的话，那么《彼得启示录》是在这位假弥赛亚所领导的起义期间写成的，为了鼓励基督徒即使在面对死亡时也要忠于耶稣。《彼得后书》1:16-19 中提到使徒在耶稣登山变像时听到的先知的预言，这似乎为《彼得启示录》的作者带来了创作灵感，因此作者在书中创作了主带着至高的王权到来和使徒感受耶稣登山变像时的荣耀这两段叙述。但是书中主要描述的死后的生活、各种罪人和他们所受的惩罚以及义人经历的救赎都是作者的原创。2 世纪末期之前，东西方世界都知晓这部作品。后来启示文学作者都模仿了《彼得启示录》中所提出的地狱和其中酷刑的异象（《西卜神谕篇》ii；《多

C. Coptic Apocalypse of Peter (CG VII.3). Among the Coptic documents found at Nag Hammadi in Upper Egypt was one that excites particular interest, for it claims to be “The Apocalypse of Peter.” The title occurs before the beginning of the text (70:13) and again at its conclusion (84:14). The document is clearly an apocalypse, but it bears no obvious relationship to the work discussed above. It is an account of a visionary revelation granted by the Savior to Peter during the night prior to the crucifixion (cf. 84:13, “When these things were said, Peter came to himself”). An oblique reference to Satan, who will accuse Peter “three times during this night” (72:4), situates the entire exchange on the evening of Jesus’ betrayal and arrest. The central element in the Apocalypse is a long discourse in which Jesus provides assurance and consolation to His anxious follower and discloses what will take place in the period following His death. The setting for the vision is the temple, presumably in Jerusalem (perhaps under the influence of

C. 科普特语《彼得启示录》(CG VII.3)。在上埃及的《拿·戈玛第文库》中发现的科普特语文献里,有一部作品尤为引人注目,因为这本书的题目是“彼得启示录”。文本的开篇(70:13)和结尾处(84:14)都提到了这个题目。这部作品显然也是启示录,但是与上文提到的作品没有明显联系。书中描述了救主受难前夜通过异象给予保罗的启示(参:84:13,“他说完这一切,彼得苏醒过来”)。书中描述的耶稣被出卖和被捕的那一晚上的整段对话中含蓄地提到了撒旦,说他将在“这个晚上三次”控告彼得(72:4)。这部启示录中的主要部分是耶稣的一段长篇教训,祂提供了保证,安慰了担忧的彼得,并揭示了祂死后将要发生的事情。异象的场景是在圣殿之中,可能是耶路撒冷的圣殿(可能是受《马太福音》14:49中经文的影响)。耶稣自称是启蒙者,祂的使命是向圣父的选民启示生命。祂关注的是那些在真理中定居的人应当继续“聆听祂的教导”,分别真理和谎话。随后的叙说中,耶稣明确了彼得所领导的人的特权,“我为余民……,要叫他们获得知识”(71:20),祂还提及了另一群人,他们是“拒绝真理,传递谬误的使者”

Mk. 14:49). Jesus identifies Himself as the Revealer, whose task was to reveal life to those chosen by the Father. His concern is that those who have been established in the truth should continue to “hear his word” and be able to distinguish truth from falsehood. What follows is a clear distinction between the group to which Peter gives leadership, “the remnant, whom I have called to understanding” (71:20), and another group, called “the men of the constitution of deceit” (74:10f.). This latter group “cleave to the name of a dead man, thinking they will become purified” (74:14f.). They experience deception and heresy (74:16–22), and from that perspective they attack the truth entrusted to Peter and his followers. The Apocalypse is thus a polemical document that reflects a struggle in the early Church over the fundamental issue of authority and truth. The community responsible for the Coptic Apocalypse of Peter grounds the authority of its tradition in the primacy of Peter, to whom Jesus entrusted a secret tradition that is clearly in conflict with the tradition observed by “the children of this age.”

The revelation that Peter receives from the Savior centers in his destiny. He has been chosen by the Son of Man to “become perfect with me through your name” (71:16f.). The reference may be to martyrdom, if the word “perfect” carries the same nuance it does in He. 5:9, 14; 12:23; Eusebius HE v.2.3. In John 13:36; 21:18f. Peter is told in an elusive way that the form of his death will identify him as a follower of Jesus (cf. 71:25–32, where Peter is told he has been called to know the Son of Man through an act he is to perform, which has to do with “the distance which divides him, and the joints of his hands and feet, and the crowning by those of the center,” an apparent reference to crucifixion). In his vision Peter sees the priests and the people running toward him, intent upon stoning Jesus and His disciple, and betrays deep anxiety in the face of death. But Jesus calms his fears by disclosing to him the character of the blindness in his adversaries (they are blind because they have no leader) and the vindication which will follow the apparent humiliation of the Savior. Like Jesus, he will be the object of rejection and humiliation, for this is the common lot of all who are worshippers of the Word (73:19–30).

(71:10-11)。后一群人“藉一个死人之名，预备虚假的饶恕”（74:14-15）。他们经历了欺骗和异端的教导（74:16-22），因此他们会攻击主告知彼得和彼得门徒的真理。因此，这部启示录是一部有争议的作品，它反映了在早期教会中对权威与真理的这类根本问题的争论。写下科普特语《彼得启示录》的社团借彼得的地位来树立这本书的权威，因为耶稣曾揭示给彼得一个秘密传统，该传统显然与“这个时期的小子”遵守的传统有所冲突。

Although Peter can expect humiliation, he is also assured that he has been chosen to be “a ruler over the remnant” of those whom the Savior has called to understanding (71:19–21). He is clothed with the robe of the primate, and at one point the eyes embroidered upon the garment play a special role in disclosing to Peter the Savior’s nature (72:14–29). It is because He is the ruler of “the man of understanding” that the Revealer entrusts to Peter “a mystery” to be guarded from “the children of men.” The mystery consists of the teaching of the two kinds of souls found in men, the mortal soul that exhausts itself upon the material creation (75:10–26), and the immortal soul that has its source in truth and continually strives for reunion with “the Living One” (75:26–76:18). Between men who possess these two different types of souls conflict is inevitable. Only those with an immortal soul know the mysteries of the Revealer, while all others only pretend to know, but satisfy themselves with falsehood and deception.

虽然彼得会遭受羞辱，但主还保证祂将拣选彼得做“余民的管理者”，祂要叫这些余民获得知识（71:19-21）。彼得穿着大主教的长袍，在文中一处，长袍上绣的眼睛图案在救主向彼得解释祂的本质时起到了特殊作用（72:14-29）。祂是“有识之士”的统治者，因此，这位启蒙者向保罗透漏了一个“奥秘”，不叫“人的小子”知道。奥秘中包含了关于人类中两种灵魂的教训，腐朽的灵魂在受造的物质上耗尽了自身（75:10-26），不朽的灵魂来自真理，他们会不断挣扎重聚，与“亘古常在者”共存（75:26-76:18）。拥有这两种不同灵魂的人类必然会相互冲突。只有那些拥有不朽灵魂的人才能知晓启蒙者的奥秘，其他人则只能假装知晓，自欺欺人。他们不仅反对真理，还“滥用我的话”（77:23-78:1）。他们是死人的门徒，是黑暗之子，而非光明之子（78:15-30）。这里所说的“死人”似乎是指受难的耶稣，因为书中大部分文本主要表现了该启示录的读者与由主教和执事领导的等级制社团之间的斗争（79:23-31）。书中贬低物质世界，并声称神的奥秘中独有的知识是主赐予保罗的秘传教训，

They not only oppose the truth, but “they make merchandise of my Word” (77:23–78:1). Actually they are followers of a dead man and are sons of darkness, not of light (78:15–30). The reference to the “dead man” appears to be to the crucified Jesus, for the larger context focuses upon an ecclesiastical struggle between the group for whom the Apocalypse was prepared and a hierarchically-constituted community led by bishops and deacons (79:23–31). The depreciation of the material world and the claim to exclusive knowledge of the mysteries of God as a result of esoteric teaching entrusted to Peter may serve to identify the first group as a gnostic sect, and the community which opposes them as the more numerous exponents of “orthodox” Christianity. When Peter expresses his concern that “there are multitudes who will certainly lead astray other multitudes of these who are living” who will be destroyed because they have believed those deceivers who have spoken “your name” (80:2–6), he is assured that the age of deception has an appointed limit. Then the age of immortal thought will be renewed and the members of the sect who have kept alive “the truth” will be vindicated. It is on the ground of this assurance that suffering and martyrdom can be embraced (80:25–81:4).

What follows is a vision of Jesus’ arrest and crucifixion that makes clear the docetic orientation of the sect. A clear distinction is made between Jesus and the Savior: Jesus is arrested in the garden, but it is the Savior who restrains Peter from intervening; Jesus is “struck upon his feet and his hands” but the Savior is the “glad one above the tree who is laughing” in derision (81:5-13). “The Savior said to me: ‘The one whom you see above the tree, who is glad and laughing, is the living Jesus. But his fleshly counterpart, into whose hands and feet they are driving the nails, is the substitute whom they put to shame. He it is who was in his likeness. Now look at him and me’ ” (81:15-25, cf. Acts of John 97-101). The assurance that the living Savior cannot be humiliated marks the transition to the high point of the Apocalypse. Peter sees the Holy Spirit (“one who will command us, who resembles him,” 82:5f.) and the Laughing One surrounded by an ineffable light, receiving the unbroken praise of a multitude of invisible angels. The Savior is revealed as the one who bestows glory on men. He was in the one who was arrested, but the spiritual and the fleshly Jesus were separated. The men who put the fleshly Jesus on the cross simply demonstrated their blindness and lack of perception. It is the living Jesus who promises to be with Peter “so that none of your enemies will have power over you” (84:9f.).

这可以使人们认定书中不朽的灵魂指的是诺斯替教派，而反对他们的多数人指的是“正统的”基督教。当保罗表示惧怕“有很多人把众多活着的人带离正道”，而这些活着的人会被毁灭，因为这些人“说出你的名字时，人们便会相信他们”（80:2-6），主向彼得保证欺骗不会长久。随后书中提到不朽的思想的时代将要复兴，教派中的信徒领悟“真理”时，就会受到保护。正是因为有了这种保证，人们不必再惧怕受苦或殉道（80:25-81:4）。

随后书中描写了耶稣被捕和受难的异象，这明显体现出了这个教派的基督幻影说的倾向。耶稣和救主间有明显的差异：耶稣在园子中被捕，而救主却阻止彼得介入；耶稣“遭他们袭击手脚”，但救主却是“那个在树旁高兴发笑的人”（81:5-13）。“救主对我说：‘你看见那个在树旁高兴发笑的人，就是活着的耶稣。但给他们用钉钉起手脚的是他肉

On the surface, this document is a word of encouragement for Peter in the face of impending suffering and martyrdom. But behind the figure of Peter can be discerned an oppressed community of a distinctly docetic, if not gnostic, character, who receive the assurance that they possess the secret tradition entrusted to Peter that guarantees the presence of the Savior. In this apocalypse Peter is the recipient, transmitter, and guarantor of authentic gnosis. He functions as the base of authority for the teaching embraced by the sect. It is possible that Peter was chosen as the one to whom the revelation was purportedly entrusted because the opponents of this community appealed to Peter for their tradition. The function of the Revealer's visionary appearance to Peter is to ground his authority in an experience granted to him alone (cf. 2 Pet. 1:15-17). Although incidental references to Jesus' appearance to Peter after the Resurrection (Lk. 24:34; 1 Cor. 15:5) might have invited the kind of account found here, the clear situating of the visionary experience on the night of Peter's denials suggests that it was prompted by the promise of a future knowing given to Peter in the Upper Room (cf. Jn. 13:7, 36). There Jesus alluded both to Satan's desire for Peter, and to the special provision Jesus had made for him, in the light of his responsibility to strengthen his brothers (Lk. 22:31-33). Peter's experience of stupor and sleep in the Garden (Lk. 22:45) may have suggested an appropriate occasion for a visionary experience. This would explain the emphasis upon Peter's anxiety and the experience of Jesus with the arresting party. All of this, however, was only the vehicle for the word of consolation addressed to the members of the sect in their struggle with the "heresy" of orthodox Christianity. The Coptic Apocalypse of Peter may be dated tentatively in the late 2nd or early 3rd cent. A.D. It provides an important source for understanding the response of an unorthodox community to the heresiological struggles in which it found itself involved.

身的样式，即那赎价，他们只能叫肉身蒙羞。那是照着他的样式造成的。但看看他，也看看我’” (81:15-25, 参:《约翰行传》97-101)。活着的救主保证祂不会蒙羞，这是书的高潮部分。彼得看见了圣灵 (“样貌像他，将要指挥我们”，82:5-6) 和在树旁发笑的人，“有一道难以言喻的大光包围他们，还有无数难以言喻和无法看见的天使，正在赞美他们”。书中揭示的救主是赐荣耀于人的那一位。祂曾在那被捕之人的身上，但祂是灵，与肉身的耶稣是分开的。那些人将肉身的耶稣钉在十字架上仅仅表明了他们的盲目和无知。活着的耶稣允诺祂会与彼得一起，并允诺彼得的敌人没有一个能够胜过他 (84:9-10)。

从表面来看，这部作品是在鼓励彼得面对即将到来的受难和殉道。但在彼得这个人物之后，我们可以看到一个有明显基督幻影说（如果不是诺斯替教的话）特征的受压迫的社团，他们拥有了彼得所领受的奥秘，确保救主与他们同在。在这部启示录中，彼得是真正灵知的接收人、传达人和保证人。他是这个教派接受的教训的权威基础。这部作品之所以选择彼得当做领受救主启示的人，可能是因为这个社团的敌人曾为了他们的传统诉诸于彼得。作者描述启蒙者在异象中向彼得显现，只有彼得领受了启示，这是为了给彼得的权威打下基础（参：彼后 1:15-17）。虽然《路加福音》24:34 和《哥林多前书》15:5 中粗略提

D. Apocalypse of Paul. The Apostle Paul's reluctantly-given report of his visionary ascent into paradise and the third heaven (2 Cor. 12:1-4) found in the late 4th cent. a literary sequel, the 到的耶稣在复活后向彼得显现这段叙述可能引出了《彼得启示录》中的这段描述，但书中明确将异象发生的时间设定在彼得三次不认主的那个晚上，这表明这部作品是由彼得在大楼中得知未来这段故事引出的（参：约 13:7, 36）。在这个故事中，耶稣提及撒但想要得着彼得，祂对彼得做出了特殊要求，要他肩负起坚固弟兄的责任（路 22:31-33）。彼得在园子中忧愁地睡着了（路 22:45），这是一个经历异象的合适时机。这也就解释了书中为何强调彼得的担忧和耶稣的被捕。但是全部这些，都只是作者安慰这个教派信徒的工具，他们正在同正统基督教“异端学说”进行斗争。我们暂且将科普特语《彼得启示录》的成书时间定在 2 世纪末期或 3 世纪早期。这部作品十分重要，它有助于我们理解一个非正统社团在参与异端学说斗争时的反应。

*D. 《保罗启示录》。*该作品是一部 4 世纪晚期的作品，它接续了《哥林多后书》12:1-4 中的经文，此处使徒保罗并不愿描述他在异象中升入天堂和第三重天的景象。该书在当时的修道士和修女中

Apocalypse of Paul. It proved popular among monks and nuns of the period, but was rejected by churchmen who investigated its claims. Augustine (ca. A.D. 416) commented that some have concocted an Apocalypse of Paul “which is full of fables” regarding the unutterable words which Paul had heard, but the true Church does not receive it (On John, tractate 98.8). Sozomenus is even more explicit: “The book now circulated as the Apocalypse of Paul the Apostle, which none of the ancients ever saw, is commended by most monks; but some contend that this book was found in the reign of which we write (i.e. Theodosius). For they say that by a divine manifestation there was found at Tarsus in Cilicia, in Paul’s home, a marble chest, and that in it was this book” (HE vii. 19). That Sozomenus has in view the Apocryphon which has been preserved in a variety of versions and recensions is clear from the detail of the finding of the document, which corresponds to the opening paragraphs of the work. He adds that he investigated this claim, but learned from an aged presbyter at Tarsus that no such discovery had been made in the city and that he had not previously heard the story. The prefatory note to the Apocalypse (which begins at para. 3) states that it was discovered in Tarsus but was sent to Jerusalem. This is a virtual declaration that Jerusalem, or Palestine, is its place of origin. The Decretum Gelasianum (6th cent.) consigns the Apocalypse of Paul to the category of apocrypha which were not accepted by the Church. Nevertheless, later testimony confirms the continued knowledge of the work and an unchecked extension of its influence. It was actually quoted by Dante, who drew many of his conceptions from it (Inferno 2.28).

广泛流传,但牧师在研究其中内容之后拒绝接受这部作品。奥古斯丁(约416年)评论说,一些人捏造出了一部《保罗启示录》,其中“充满了寓言”,都是关于保罗曾听到过的隐秘的言语,但真正的教会并不承认这部作品(On John, 98.8册)。索卓门努斯的表述则更为明确:“现在流传的被称为《使徒保罗行传》的这部作品,古人从未看见,大多数修士都推荐它;但一些人认为这本书是当前历史时期的作品(即狄奥多西时期)。因为他们说有天使显现,指引人们在基利家大数保罗的房子里找到了一个大理石盒子,盒子中装着的就是这本书”(HE vii. 19)。索卓门努斯认为这部藏经(有多种版本和校订本存留下来)被发现时的细节十分清楚,而且符合书中的开篇段落。他随后又考究了这一说法,但他从一个大数的年长的长老那里得知,这座城市不曾有这样的发现,他此前也不曾听过这个故事。这部启示录(正文始于第三段)中的序言证明该书是在大数发现的,但随后被送至耶路撒冷。这实际上表明该书应写于耶路撒冷或巴勒斯坦。《格拉修斯法令》(6世纪)将《保罗启示录》归入次经目录中,但教会对此并不接受。然而,后期的证据表明该书仍在流传,它的影响范围与越来越广。实际上,但丁引用了该书,并从其中借鉴了许多概念(Inferno 2.28)。

The manuscript tradition confirms the popularity of this work. The original Greek text has been preserved only in a fragmentary, abbreviated form, which may be no more than a summary of the document. The most complete and reliable witness to the extent and form of the text is the old Latin translation published by M. R. James on the basis of a MS at Paris. This text can be corrected by a whole series of Latin recensions, and by versions preserved in Syriac, Armenian, Coptic, and Slavonic texts. Of these, the most important witness to the text is the Coptic version, published by E. A. Wallis Budge in 1915, which begins with para. 15 of the Latin edition.

The revelation begins abruptly with the declaration: "The Word of God addressed me in these terms," followed by the exhortation to reprove men for their faults and to urge them to lead godly lives. The urgency for repentance is evident, for the creation continually reminds God of the transgression of men, and only divine forbearance delays the imposing of final punishment (para. 3-6). The complaints of the creation are verified by the reports about the deeds of men which the angels present to God each evening and morning (para. 7-10). Paul is then guided by angels through the regions where the righteous experience rest and the unrighteous receive the punishment their deeds have merited. He is shown that impiety covers the whole earth like a fiery cloud. Angels conduct the just and the unjust before God for judgment, and Paul participates in the judgment of two men, one of whom is righteous, the other unrighteous. Both holy and fallen angels are present at the judgment. When the fallen angels find nothing with which to accuse the righteous man, he is led to the place of rest by the holy angels; but the unrighteous man is accused by the guardian angel appointed to watch over him, and when he stands condemned before the tribunal of God the fallen angels are allowed to lead him to the inferno. The time of repentance is past, and the sinner is condemned to outer darkness because of his deeds (para. 11-18).

Paul is then shown the character of the two regions to which men are assigned following their death. The realm of the just resembles a city. Within the city of God the righteous of all ages are comforted, and Paul sees the patriarchs, the prophets whose word was scorned, the children of Bethlehem whom Herod slew, together with others, each occupying places which reflect the virtues that each one displayed in his life. In the center of the city the sweet singer of Israel, David, sings "alleluia" before the heavenly altar, especially when the sacrifice of the body and blood of the Lord is repeated in the Mass upon earth (para. 19-30).

The region of darkness lies at the extreme west of the city, and there Paul sees those who have been justly condemned for their crimes. At this point the apocalypticist subjects the Church of his day to searching criticism, for in the lake of fire is a bishop who failed to fulfill his responsibilities to the poor. Beside him are a priest and a deacon who carelessly broke their fast before serving at the altar. Their faithlessness merits the punishment they now receive. In the abyss Paul is shown those who refused to receive the teaching of the Church. Included are those who failed to recognize Mary as the mother of God and who say that the Lord was not made incarnate through her, and those who deny that the bread of the eucharist or the wine of the chalice is really the body and blood of the Lord. Those who denied the factuality of the resurrection are also there, weeping and gnashing their teeth (para. 31–44).

(第 11-18 段)。

保罗随后看见了人死后被带去的两个地方的景象。义人之处类似一座城市。在这座神的城市中，所有时代的义人都得到了安慰，保罗看见了众族长，预言一度遭人蔑视的众先知，被希律杀害的伯利恒的孩童们，还有许多其他人，每群人都各自居住在一处地方，这里反应了他们在世时所展现出的美德。在城市的中央是以色列的歌者大卫，他站在神圣的祭坛前咏唱“哈利路亚”，尤其当主在地上的众人面前献上身体和血之时（第 19-30 段）。

黑暗的地方位于城市的最西面，在那里，保罗看到了一些因罪行而受到应有处罚的人们。此处作者描写了一个主教因没有履行对穷人的责任而被置于火河之中，因此受到了同时代教会的彻底谴责。除了这个主教之外，还有一个祭司和一个执事，他们在祭坛供奉时没有禁食。正是由于他们对主不忠才会受到这样的惩罚。保罗看见了那些拒绝接受教会教导的人处于深渊之中。其中有不认马利亚是神母亲的人，有说主没有通过她道成肉身的人，还有一些说圣餐礼

It is especially in the depiction of the region of hell that this apocryphon provides an indication of popular thinking in the 4th cent., at a time when the theology of the Church had become encrusted with traditions alien to the Scriptures. Thus in para. 43 those who have been condemned to eternal torment beg Gabriel to intercede for them with Jesus that they may experience respite from their pain. As a result of his intercession, and for the sake of Paul, their punishment is relaxed “in the night and the day of the holy Sunday when Christ was raised from the dead.” It is not clear from the text whether this provision was thought to apply to every Sunday or to Easter alone. But it is ironical that Augustine, who rejected the Apocalypse of Paul as a fraudulent document, should show the impact of its teaching upon his own thinking when he speaks of the relief experienced by those in hell on the day of the Lord (Ench. 112f.; cf. Prudentius Cathemerinon 5.125ff.). Another popular notion is reflected in Paul’s admonition to praise God at sunset, for that hour marks the return of the guardian angels to adore God and to report on the actions of men. Such reflections of popular thinking permit a more accurate evaluation of the state of the Church in a period when

饼和福杯并非主的体和血的人。那些说主没有从死里复活的人们也在那里，哭泣并咬牙切齿（第 31-44 段）。

这部藏经中关于地狱的描写尤其体现了 4 世纪时期人们的普遍观念，当时教会的神学中还流传着《圣经》之外的传说。因此在第 43 段中，那些被判永受酷刑的人乞求加百列代他们向耶稣求告，缓解他们的痛苦。因为加百列的祈求，又因为保罗的缘故，神赐予这些罪人在基督从死里复活的神圣星期日获得一日一夜的歇息。书中并未指明这规定是适用于每一个星期日还是仅仅适用于复活节那天。但讽刺的是，虽然奥古斯丁将《保罗启示录》看作是一部欺世之作，但他却提及地狱中的罪人将在主日获得歇息（Ench. 112-113；参：Prudentius Cathemerinon 5.125 起），这体现出《保罗启示录》中的教导对他思想产生了影响。保罗警示人们要在日落时赞美神，因为守护天使在这个时间回到天上赞美神并报告人类的行为，这体现了当时的另一种普遍观念。这反映了当时人们的普遍观念，这种观念有助于人们对基督徒不再受火刑迫害时教会的状况作出更准确的评价。

Christianity was no longer being refined by the fires of persecution.

It is probable that the original Apocalypse of Paul ended with para. 44, but in all existing copies there is now found a second vision of paradise, in which he has an opportunity to speak with many of the great figures of the OT (45–51). The second tour of paradise entails obvious repetition and may tentatively be regarded as a secondary element. Greek, Latin, and Syriac texts speak of Paul's introduction to distinctly OT figures, but the Coptic version extends the account to include the priest Zacharias and his son John the Baptist. Once the convention had been established, it became possible to extend it to include persons from the NT as well.

In the 7th cent. (or later) a parallel work appeared, the Ethiopic Apocalypse of Mary the Virgin. This consists of an adapted translation of para. 13–44 of the Apocalypse of Paul, and tends to support the conclusion that the original Apocryphon concluded with para. 44. A closely related work, the Apocalypse of the Holy Mother of God concerning Those Who are Punished, is preserved in Greek, Armenian, Ethiopic, and Old Slavonic versions. It shows a dependency upon the Apocalypses of Peter and Paul, and may be assigned to the 9th century. In both of these later works Mary, the mother of Jesus, is accorded the experience previously claimed for Paul. She tours the regions of the condemned and assists in the judgment. As a result of her intercession for those who were not Christians and for Christians guilty of crimes which merited eternal punishment she obtains for them a suspension of torment during the days of Pentecost. The modern view of Mary's role as intercessor has its root in such popular conceptions as find expression in these apocrypha, which assign to Mary a function she nowhere has in Scripture.

原始的《保罗启示录》可能结束于第 44 段，但是在所有现存的文本中，都描述了第二个关于天堂的异象，在这部分中，保罗有机会和许多旧约时代的重要人物交谈（第 45-51 段）。保罗的第二次天堂之旅明显是对前文的重复，因此我们可以暂且认为这段描述不那么重要。希腊语、拉丁语和叙利亚语的文本提及了保罗对旧约伟人的介绍，但科普特语版本却完善了这段描述，添加了对祭司撒迦利亚和他的儿子施洗约翰的描述。这一旦形成惯例，就会涉及到很多《新约》中的人物。

7 世纪（或更晚时期）出现了一部类似的作品，即科普特语《童女马利亚启示录》。这部作品中包含对《保罗启示录》中第 13 至 44 段的翻译和改编，而且倾向于支持原始的藏经结束于第 44 段的结论。与其密切相关的作品《圣母启示录》中也有关于受罚之人的描述，该书的希腊语、亚美尼亚语、埃塞俄比亚语和古斯拉夫语版本均流传了下来。这部作品参照了《彼得启示录》和《保罗启示录》，可能成书于 9 世纪。这两部后来的作品中都描述耶稣的母亲马利亚经历了上文中保罗所经历的事。她游历了刑罚之地，并协助审判。在她的祈求下，那些非基督徒和因犯罪而永受酷刑的基督徒可以在五旬节期间免受痛苦。在现代，认为马利亚是代祷者的这一观点源于这些次经中的描述，而马利亚在《圣经》中并没有这样的角色。

Among the Coptic documents found at Nag Hammadi was a fragmentary work entitled the Apocalypse of Paul (CG V. 2). Preliminary study has indicated that it is an independent work that was prompted by reflection of 2 Cor. 12:1-4. It situates Paul on the way to Jericho, and later "on the mountain of Jericho" (19:11ff.), reflecting the biblical convention of the mountain as the place of revelation. Paul's mystical ascent actually begins at the third heaven, from which he passes into the fourth heaven where a man is being examined at the judgment tribunal. When he is condemned by the mouth of three witnesses (cf. Deut. 19:15), his soul is cast into a body. In the fifth and sixth heavens Paul recognizes that he is being accompanied by his "fellow apostles." In the seventh heaven Paul has a long discussion with an old man who functions as a guardian to the upper regions. He will not permit Paul to ascend further until he presents an acceptable sign. His ascent continues to the tenth heaven, but no real description of the upper realms is presented. It is possible that the Coptic Apocalypse of Paul has some connection with a work mentioned by Epiphanius (Haer. 28.2) entitled the Ascension of Paul. Epiphanius traced its origin to the Cainite Gnostics, but gave no indication of its content.

E. Christian Sibylline Books. The earliest reference to the oracles of the Sibyl

在拿·戈玛第发现的科普特语文献中，有一部名叫《保罗启示录》的残本 (CG V. 2)。初步研究表明这是一部独立的作品，是在《哥林多后书》12:1-4 中经文的启示下所作的作品。书中从保罗在去往耶利哥的路上开始描述，后来他“在耶利哥山上”(19:11 起)，这反映了《圣经》中将耶利哥山当作启示之地的传说。保罗神秘的升天经历实际上始于第三重天，他经由这里升上第四重天，看到了一个人正在法庭接受审判。有三个见证人控告他有罪 (参：申 19:15)，于是他的灵魂就被投到一个躯体之中。在第五和第六重天时，保罗意识到“众使徒”与他一起同行。在第七重天，保罗与一个老人辩论了很久，这老人是上层领域的守护者。他不允许保罗再上升，直到保罗给他展现他能接受的记号。科普特语的《保罗启示录》可能与伊皮法尼提到的 (Haer. 28.2) 一部名为《保罗升天记》的作品有一定联系。伊皮法尼认为该作品源于该隐派诺斯替教，但并没有提及其内容。

E. 《基督教西卜神谕篇》。 普鲁塔克 (De Pythiae oraculis 6 [397 A]) 保存下来的 occurs in a quotation from Heraclitus preserved by Plutarch (De Pythiae oraculis 6 [397 A]): “The Sibyl, with frenzied mouth uttering things not to be laughed at, unadorned and rough, yet reaches to a thousand years with her voice by aid of the god.” Plutarch described the oracles, which were the classical pagan counterpart to prophecy, as poems which spoke of “many revolutions and upheavals of Greek cities, many appearances of barbarous hordes and murders of rulers.” They were uttered by a woman in a state of ecstasy under the prompting of some deity. The writers of the classical period knew of only one Sibyl, but later others were recognized. Their oracles were collected and commanded deep respect even in imperial times.

It was a specifically Jewish idea to attribute to the pagan Sibyl utterances that directed men to the one God. The Jewish Sibylline Oracles (Books iii–v, and fragments preserved in Theophilus Ad Autolyicum) effectively brought together authentic ancient oracles and verses newly composed on the hexameter pattern of the Sibyl in the praise of monotheism and the Jewish people. These works furnished literary propaganda in support of the mission of Diaspora Judaism to the Gentiles at Alexandria and elsewhere in the second half of the 2nd cent. B.C. Christian apologists from Clement of Rome, who alludes to the Sibyl’s prophecy that the world will perish by fire, to Lactantius, whose writings are a mine of Sibylline verses, generally accepted these compositions as genuine. Augustine even assigned the Sibyl a place among those who dwell in the City of God because of her service to the truth (Civ. Dei xviii.23).

In the second half of the 2nd cent. A.D., or early in the 3rd cent., Christians borrowed from Hellenistic Judaism the literary convention of Sibylline oracles. The success of the Jewish compositions indicated that the Sibyl could become an appropriate vehicle for the truth in the struggle to affirm Christian faith in a pagan world. The first step appears to have been the insertion of Christian verses into existing collections, and finally the creation of distinctly Christian oracle collections. Of the Oracles which have been preserved, it is commonly felt that books vi–viii are Christian, books xi–xiv are Jewish but have been subjected to Christian interpolation, and books i–ii, though of Jewish origin, have been completely revised by a Christian hand. Not all of these collections of verse are apocalyptic in nature. Book vi, for example, consists of only twenty-eight verses and is a hymn in honor of Christ, reviewing His earthly ministry from the moment of His baptism to His triumph upon the cross. But other segments of the Oracles clearly belong to the category of apocryphal apocalypses.

Particular importance attaches to book viii, a collection of 500 lines representing the work of two different writers. The first part (lines 1–216) contains nothing that is necessarily Christian. Its fierce invective against Rome was kindled by persecution. The punishment that will descend upon the imperial capital, where all vice increases, is detailed, together with the general judgment that will determine the destiny of all offenders against the law of God. The second part, however, is distinctly Christian, beginning with an acrostic on the words “Jesus Christ, Son of God, Savior, Cross” (lines 217–250). A translation of the passage in Latin verse, preserved by Augustine, is quite successful in maintaining the acrostic (Civ. Dei xviii.23). The acrostic rapidly sketches the events that herald the end of the world and provides a transition to a theological reflection upon the nature of the person of Christ (lines 251–323). The statement is interrupted by an exhortation to faithfulness (lines 324–358) and then is continued, developing the concepts of the unity of the Father and the Son, the function of the Word in creation and His incarnation in time (lines 369–470). The work is terminated with a final exhortation (lines 480–500). While the first part of book viii may date from the last quarter of the 2nd cent., critical opinion assigns the distinctly Christian portion of the work to the second half of the 3rd century. Its theological significance derives from the fact that distinctively Christian documents are rare in this period, and the light it sheds upon the history of doctrine is welcome.

2 世纪后半叶或 3 世纪早期，基督教徒从希腊化的犹太教徒那里借鉴了《西卜神谕篇》中的文学传统。这些犹太作品的成功表明了西卜可以成为在异教世界里坚固基督徒信心的斗争中一种表达真理的工具。基督徒似乎首先在现存的文集中插入他们的章节，最终创作出有明显基督教特征的神谕文集。在现存的《西卜神谕篇》中，人们普遍认为六书至八书是基督徒所作，而十一书至十四书是犹太教徒所作，但这四卷犹太教神谕中也有基督徒插入的章节，而一书和二书虽然源于犹太教，但却由一位基督徒将其彻底修改了。并非所有的章节集合在本质上都属于启示文学。例如只有 28 节的六书就是一首歌颂基督的赞美诗，回顾了基督从受洗到在十字架上得胜的地上的传教生活。但《西卜神谕篇》的其他部分显然属于次经启示录。

Apocalyptic passages are scattered throughout the several collections, but they determine the character of books i and ii, which are sometimes joined together in the manuscript tradition. They form a unity in describing the general history of mankind by grouping events within a framework of ten generations. The tenth generation is concluded with the fall of Rome (ii.34ff.), which is itself the prelude to the great reversals that signal the consummation of history and the end of the world. The eschatological descriptions are familiar from other apocalypses, but have been disturbed by the insertion of the verses of pseudo-Phocylides (ii.56–148). The resurrected dead are made to pass through a river of fire which leaves unharmed the righteous but swallows up the sinners (ii.313ff.; cf. Isa. 43:2). The description of the destiny of those condemned to punishment and of the bliss of the righteous that brings the collection to a conclusion appears to be narrowly connected with the conceptions informing the Apocalypses of Peter and Paul. A prominent role in the final judgment is assigned to Jesus as Lord. In book i, lines 1–323 may be assigned to a Jewish hand (apart from the interpolation in lines 137–146), but lines 324–400, which speak of the appearance of Christ and of Israel's sin against him, resulting in the nation's fall, are Christian in origin. In book ii it is no longer possible to distinguish the Jewish element from the Christian, so thoroughly has it been revised by a Christian writer. The Christian redaction of this collection may be assigned tentatively to the middle of the 3rd century.

的形式和内容 (Civ. Dei xviii.23)。这首离合诗迅速地描绘了预示世界末日到来的事件，并过渡为对基督肉身本质的神学反思（第 251-323 行）。文中的叙述被一段关于信心的训词（第 324-358 行）打断了，随后文中又继续并发展了如下概念，即圣父和圣子的一致性、神的道在创世和祂后来道成肉身中所发挥的作用（第 369-470 行）。这卷书的结尾是一段最后的劝勉（第 480-500 行）。八书的第一部分可能写于 2 世纪的最后 15 年，而评论家则认为带有明显基督教特征的第二部分写于 3 世纪后半叶。这部作品的神学意义源自两个事实，一个是该时期鲜有带有明显基督教特征的文献，另一个是该书中阐明的教义历史受到了基督徒的欢迎。

启示的段落分散在几卷书之中，但它们决定了一书和二书的特征，在手稿传统中，这两卷书有时放在一起。它们共同描述了人类通史，并将其划分为十个时代，以此为框架将历史事件分组。第十个时代以罗马的衰亡结束（二书 34 起），这是伟大逆转的前奏，而这逆转就标着历史的终结和世界的末了。书中关于末世的描述与其他启示文学作品类似，但后人插入了一些托福西莱德名所作的章节（二书 56-148），影响了末世描述的完整性。书中描述复活的人要经过一条火河，义人将不受伤害，而罪人将被吞噬（二书 313 起；参：赛 43:2）。二书末尾描述了将受酷刑的罪人的命运，

F. Apocalypse of John. A relatively late apocryphon, which was composed at the earliest in the 5th cent., is to be distinguished from the canonical book of Revelation, which is often designated the Apocalypse of John. It consists of a dialogue concerning the end of time that the apostle John is purported to have had with the exalted Lord after His ascension. By means of John's questions and the response of the Lord, many details of the coming age are disclosed. John is shown the character of the signs that herald the end and the last judgment that will ensue. The popular conception of the antichrist is expressed through grotesque imagery.

F. 《约翰启示录》。一部相对较晚的藏经，最早创作于5世纪，我们应将这部作品和正典中的《启示录》区分开来，这部正典通常被认作《约翰启示录》。书中描述了末世时使徒约翰与升天后的尊贵的主的对话。书中通过约翰的问题和主的回复，揭示了许多未来世界的细节。约翰得知了末日和随后的最后审判到来时的预兆。书中描述了怪诞的异象，从而表达了敌基督者这一普遍观念。《启示录》11章中的两个见证人以诺和以利亚向约翰保证，敌基督者将被战胜。书中还详细描述了人们复活之后的命运，约翰看见了地狱中的酷刑和天堂中的恩典。主告知约翰死人将按照他死时的样式和年纪复活，这明确体现了

The seer is assured by the two witnesses of Rev. 11, Enoch and Elijah, that the antichrist will be overcome. The fate of individuals in the resurrection is discussed in detail, as John sees the punishments of hell and the blessings of heaven. An insight into a current view of the resurrection is provided when John is told that the dead will be raised in the same form and the same age they had attained at the time of their death. After the judgment, those condemned will be consigned to the abyss with its darkness, but a distinction will be made between two classes of sinners. Gentiles who have maintained their pagan stance will be cast into the lake of fire; but the Jews, who were responsible for putting Jesus to death, will be cast into Tartarus. Christians who have sinned will be punished in accordance with the seriousness of their offense. Only baptized Christians who have died in a state of righteousness will be allowed to participate in the judgment. Their reward is to shine like the sun. Once the judgment has been accomplished there will remain no vestige of evil or vice or anything associated with Satan, but a renewed earth will provide the home of the one flock under the one Shepherd.

Most of these conceptions are familiar from the earlier apocalypses. Their appearance in a later document such as the Apocalypse of John simply attests a continuation of the Christian apocalyptic tradition from the early patristic era to the close of the medieval period, when they received classic formulation in the Inferno of Dante. The reason for assigning the Apocalypse of John to the 5th cent. is its apparent dependence upon Ephraem for its description of the antichrist. The oldest testimony to its existence, however, comes from the 9th century.

III. Summary.-These examples may be sufficient to indicate the kind of material to be found in documents that are apocryphal and apocalyptic in nature. There are other works of a later date that fall into this category, but they add nothing to the common stock of ideas from which they borrow. It is expected that new light will be shed on the subject from the publication and discussion of apocalypses of the Coptic library at Nag Hammadi. See NAG HAMMADI LITERATURE.

Common to the several documents discussed here is a desire to conceptualize what Scripture had left relatively veiled, i.e., the course of history toward the consummation and the nature of heaven and hell. The several apocalypses constitute primary evidence for a widespread wish on the part of the Old Catholic Church to know more than what Scripture had revealed. Apologetic motifs are skillfully woven into the fabric of apocalyptic fictions, and it is not difficult to demonstrate that these works made a profound impression upon popular thinking. One of their primary values is their witness to grass-roots Christianity in the postapostolic period, when increasingly the biblical core of the Church's thinking was overlaid with alien traditions, many of which had their origin in pagan conceptions. The neglect of the apocryphal apocalypses by the church historian and the student of the history of dogma can only result in a distorted picture of the developing church and the adjustments it made to the world of ideas

III. 总结。上述例子足以表明这类文献中的元素的本质属于次经和启示文学。较晚时期的其他作品有的也属于这类文学，但是他们并未在借鉴的普遍观点中添加任何个人见解。人们发表并讨论在拿·戈玛第发现的科普特语文献中的启示文学作品，希望借此为这一课题提供一些新的线索。见 NAG HAMMADI LITERATURE（拿·戈玛第文学）。

此处讨论这几部作品是希望将《圣经》中仍然较为隐晦的表述概念化，也就是将要终结的历史进程以及天堂和地狱的真实性。这几部启示录是旧天主教会中普遍观点的原始证据，我们希望借此可以了解更多《圣经》中的启示。这些作者巧妙地在启示录这类虚构作品中插入了护教的思想，不难证明这些作品给大众思想留下了深刻的印象。其主要价值之一便是表现出了后使徒时期的基督教基础思想，当时外来的传统覆盖了教会思想中的圣经核心，其中许多传统都源自异教概念。教会历史学家和教义史学者否认次经启示录，这只能导致他们扭曲地认识教会的发展史，以及教会在与各种神学思想发生摩擦、碰撞时，它所作出的调整。

APOCRYPHAL EPISTLES.

A body of early Christian writings, either letters purporting to be from Paul, or types of literature having the form of letters, or romantic forgeries resembling novels. Paul himself evidently knew of unauthorized letters sent in his name (cf. 2 Thess. 2:2; 3:17), but remarkably few indisputably apocryphal epistles are known. “The epistle was on the whole too serious an effort for the forger, more liable to detection, perhaps ... and not so likely to gain the desired popularity as a narrative or an Apocalypse” (James, ANT, p. 476).

James’s point is noteworthy in view of the facility with which pseudonymity has sometimes been attributed to the NT

APOCRYPHAL EPISTLES. 次经书信

一类早期基督教作品的总称, 包括据说是保罗所写的书信, 或以书信形式出现的一类文学作品, 或类似小说的幻想和虚构的作品。保罗显然知道有人假借他的名义写信 (参: 帖后 2:2; 3:17), 但无争议余地的次经书信少之甚少。“总得来说书信很难仿造, 它们更容易被发现, 或许不如叙说或启示录那些普及” (James, ANT, 476 页)。

鉴于《新约》中的书信有时也容易被归为托名书信, 詹姆斯的观点值得人们注意。2 世纪的正统信徒可以辨别出公开

Epistles. In second-century orthodox circles some reticence is discernible in publishing letters (cf. the anonymous writer who is quoted in Eusebius HE v.16.3; Dionysius of Corinth, quoted in HE iv.23.12; W. C. van Unnik, VC, 3 [1949], 1ff.); and the “catholic epistle” was so sacrosanct a form that to write one was “aping the apostle” (Apollonius, quoted in HE v.18.5). This notion passed, but few of the later apocrypha bear even formal resemblance to the NT Epistles. The whole literature produced nothing really like 2 Peter.

I. Pseudo-Pauline Letters.-A. “3 Corinthians.” The Acts of Paul (see APOCRYPHAL ACTS) contains an additional Corinthian correspondence set in a Philippian imprisonment. The Corinthians complain that Simon and Cleobius forbid their use of the OT, attribute creation to the angels, not God, and deny the Incarnation and Resurrection (these are standard Gnostic positions). Paul’s reply, using 1 Cor. 15 and other Scripture in pastiche, stresses redemption through the Incarnation (there is no mention of the cross) as well as resurrection and judgment.

This correspondence was accepted by fourth-century Syriac authorities (Ephraem expounds 3 Corinthians in his comm. on the Pauline Epistles), and it appears regularly in Armenian, and very rarely in Latin Bibles long after. The Bodmer papyri have now provided a third-century Greek version, without the narrative setting. The correspondence is usually regarded as integral to the Acts of Paul, in which case its author was Tertullian’s “presbyter of Asia,” and its pseudonymity is a piece of historical 信件中的某些话语（参：Eusebius HE v.16.3 中引述的匿名作者；HE iv.23.12 中引述的 Dionysius of Corinth；W. C. van Unnik, VC, 3 [1949], 1 起）；而“天主教的书信”是一种神圣不可侵犯的文学形式，写书信就是在“模仿使徒”（HE v.18.5 中引述的 Apollonius）。这种观点过时之后，但仍鲜有伪经形似《新约》中的书信。这类文学中没有任何作品真正与《彼得后书》类似。

I. 托彼得名书信。A. “《哥林多三书》”。《保罗行传》（见 APOCRYPHAL ACTS [次经行传]）中包括保罗在腓立比入狱时与哥林多人的通信。哥林多人写信抱怨西门和奇奥比艾斯禁止他们使用《圣经》，这二人认为创世的是天使而非神，并否认道成肉身和复活的事（这是标准的诺斯替教观点）。保罗的回信是由《哥林多前书》15 章和其他《圣经》经文东拼西凑而成的，信中强调了救赎是通过道成肉身完成的（并未提到十字架），同时还强调了复活和审判的重要意义。

4 世纪时叙利亚的权威人士接受了这部书信（厄弗冷评注保罗书信时详细说明了《哥林多三书》），该书通常为亚美尼亚语，很久之后的拉丁语《圣经》则很少包括这部书信。《伯默蒲草纸抄本集》中有一个 3 世纪时期的希腊语译本，但个译本中没有背景叙述。人们通常认为这部书信是《保罗行传》的必要组成部分，因此特土良称该书的作者为“亚细亚的一个牧师”，而人们认为该书的作者托名写作，是因为在小说创作中产生了历史联想。但是特斯图兹（M. Testuz）认为这是一部 2 世纪时期的独立的反诺 imagination arising from his novelistic purpose. M. Testuz, however, argues that the letters were a separate late-second-century anti-Gnostic polemic, incorporated later by the Acts of Paul. This would be a very rare example of orthodox resort to pseudepigraphy to make an antiheretical point. If so, it was neither successful nor necessary. The work, though faithful enough to Pauline language, says nothing that the canonical Pauline Epistles do not say better.

B. Laodiceans. Col. 4:16 probably indicates that Paul sent a letter to Laodicea. Marcion apparently called Ephesians “Laodiceans,” but the Muratorian Canon, which knows Ephesians, speaks of epistles to the Laodiceans and Alexandrians “forged in Paul’s name for [possibly by mistranslation for “against”?] the heresy of Marcion.” Jerome (De viris illustribus 5) and some Greek fathers speak slightly of a forged Laodicean epistle, and the Second Council of Nicea (A.D. 787) rejects it. Many Latin MSS, however, beginning in the 6th cent. with Codex Fuldensis and continuing through the Middle Ages, contain an epistle to the Laodiceans: a feeble and formless collection of Pauline phrases, plagiarized mainly from Philippians, with no obvious motive other than filling out Col. 4:16. It bears marks of being translated from the Greek; the existence of an Arabic version also suggests this. It cannot be later than the 4th cent., but it is unlikely to be the second-century epistle attacked in the Muratorian Canon. It does not have a Marcionite, anti-Marcionite, or any other theological character at all.

C. Alexandrians. Only the Muratorian

斯替教辩论词，后来才被收录在《保罗行传》中。那么这就是正统基督徒借助托名著作表达反异端观点的一个罕见例子。这部作品虽然非常符合保罗的语言特点，但却没能在正典中保罗书信的基础上提出更好的见解。

B. 《老底嘉书》。《歌罗西书》4:16 可能表明保罗曾给老底嘉的教会写信。马吉安显然称《以弗所书》为“老底嘉书”，但《穆拉多利经目》(包含《以弗所书》)称《老底嘉书》和《亚历山太书》“以保罗的名义伪造书信传播(可能将“反驳”误译成了“传播”)马吉安的异端邪说”。耶柔米(De viris illustribus 5)和一些希腊教父很少提及伪造的老底嘉书信，尼西亚第二次会议(787年)也拒绝承认这部作品。但是，6世纪时的《新约拉丁抄本》至中世纪时期的许多拉丁语手稿都包含《老底嘉书》：一部不可信的、形式散乱的保罗话语的收录集，该书主要模仿了《腓立比书》，它的创作目的仅仅是为了补充《歌罗西书》4:16。书中有翻译自希腊语的痕迹；该书的阿拉伯语译本也表明了这点。该书的成书时间不会晚于4世纪，但是它不可能是《穆拉多利经目》中所抨击的2世纪时期的书信。书中完全不含马吉安派、反马吉安派或其他任何神学学派的特征。

*C. 《亚历山太书》。*只有《穆拉多利经

Canon names this epistle. Identifications with Hebrews, 3 Corinthians, or a homiletic section from a Bobbio missal headed "Colossians" (T. Zahn, Geschichte des NT Kanons [1892], II, 586ff.), involve extensive conjectures.

D. Paul and Seneca. Western Christians often esteemed Seneca. Tertullian calls him saepe noster. Jerome (De viris illustribus 12) classes him among his illustrious men on account of a correspondence "read by some" between him and Paul. No other authorities before the 9th cent. except Augustine (Ep. 153.14, perhaps following Jerome) and Pseudo-Linus, Passio Pauli (H-S, II, 134), show knowledge of it. It is doubtless identical with a set of fourteen Latin letters in several medieval MSS. These contain little but mutual compliments, some circumstantial historical detail, and reflections by Seneca (who sends Paul a book for improving his style) on the confluence of divine knowledge and uncultivated expression. They doubtless belong to the 4th cent., and reflect a recognition of Christian affinities in Seneca and sensitivity to criticisms that Christian writings were deficient in art. They are poor work by any standard, and went largely unnoticed.

II. Letters by Literary Convention.-Certain types of literature, neither epistles nor imitations of any of the NT categories, conventionally took some apparatus of the epistolary form. To some extent apocalypses followed this pattern (see APOCALYPTIC LITERATURE). Revelation itself contains a general epistolary address from John as well as the seven letters to the churches. The

目》提及了这部作品。人们对它有很多猜想，有人认为该书是《希伯来书》，有人认为是《哥林多三书》，还有人认为是它博比奥祈祷书中名为“歌罗西书”的教训部分。

*D. 《辛尼加与保罗的信》。*西方的基督教徒通常尊崇辛尼加。特土良称他为“常在我们中间的一位”(saepe noster)。耶柔米(De viris illustribus 12)因为辛尼加和保罗之间的通信(“被一些人阅读”)而将他归为杰出人士。除了奥古斯丁(Ep. 153.14, 可能是遵照了耶柔米的观点)和托利努名著作(Passio Pauli, H-S, II, 134)提到了该书的信息之外, 9世纪之前再没有其他权威的证据。该书无疑就是多份中世纪手稿中的一部拉丁语书信(共14封)。这些书信主要包含了两人的相互赞美之词, 一些详尽的历史细节, 以及辛尼加(他送给保罗一本书改善他的写作风格)在融合神的知识和一些粗糙的表达方式时的反思和见解。这些书信无疑创作于4世纪, 反映了基督徒与辛尼加的密切关系, 以及对基督徒作品缺少艺术性这类批评的敏感。这些书信从任何标准来说都是蹩脚的作品, 大部分都不引人注意。

II. 符合文学传统的书信。某类文学形式, 既不是书信也不是对任何《新约》文学的模仿, 它按照惯例采取了某种书信体。从某种程度上来说, 启示录就参照了这类文学形式(见 APOCALYPTIC LITERATURE[启示文学])。启示录通常包括约翰书信和给七个教会的书信中的内容。此处提及的文学形式与启示文学有一定联系。 forms mentioned here bear some relation to apocalyptic.

A. Epistle of the Apostles. Preserved in Coptic and Ethiopic with one Latin scrap, this purports to be a letter to the churches of East, West, South, and North, from the Eleven (John is named first, then Thomas and Peter), describing the teaching of the Lord just before the Ascension. The core is an apocalypse; but there are reflections on evangelic matter, and a curious account of the Annunciation in which the Logos assumes the form of Gabriel. The work uses all four Gospels and independent tradition. The theology is essentially orthodox and anti-Gnostic, but with some eccentricities. It has usually been dated in the middle of the 2nd cent., and from Asia; but de Zwaan made a good case for an Edessene origin near the end of the 2nd cent., among Syrian Christians resentful of Roman pretensions.

B. The Didascalia. This was an influential Syrian work of the 3rd cent., claiming to represent the joint work of the apostles after the Jerusalem Council. It contains various materials on church order and discipline. Such epistolary indications as exist are consequent on the fiction (probably not intended seriously) of its historical setting.

C. Other Church Orders. Features noticeable in the Epistle of the Apostles and in the Didascalia were combined in a considerable pseudo-apostolic literature of church orders (such as the Testamentum Domini and the Apostolic Constitutions), which contain epistolary elements.

A. 《使徒书信》。该书现存有科普特语和埃塞俄比亚语译本，还有一部拉丁语残本，这部作品据说是第十一使徒（约翰是第一使徒，然后是多马和彼得）写给东、西、南、北四方教会的一封信，描述了耶稣在即将升天前所教导的话语。该书的核心是一则启示；但书中有关于福音问题的反思，还有一段奇怪的关于圣母领报的描述，其中道以加百列的样式显现。这部作品引用了四本福音书和一些独立的传说。书中的神学大体上是正统的和反诺斯替教的，但却含有一些怪异的观点。人们通常认为该书在 2 世纪中期写于亚细亚，但是德·兹万却提出了一个很好的观点，他认为该书由忿恨罗马的自负的叙利亚基督徒所作，成书时期则为 2 世纪末期。

B. 《使徒遗范》。这是一部在 3 世纪时期很有影响力的叙利亚作品，据说这部作品是耶路撒冷会议后，使徒们共同创作的作品中的代表作。书中包含各种关于教会法规和纪律的材料。作者对历史背景的杜撰（本意可能并不严肃）形成了这类作品中的预示。

C. 其他的教会法规。这是一类重要的托使徒名教会法规文献，这类作品结合了《使徒书信》和《使徒遗范》中的显著特征（如 Testamentum Domini 和 Apostolic Constitutions），还包含书信的特征。

III. Romantic and Novelistic Forgeries.—Some famous examples of this genre must suffice. The independent Syrian buffer state of Carhoene was evangelized during the 2nd cent., and became the first state to acknowledge Christianity. Eusebius, in the early 4th cent. (HE i.13), transcribes a correspondence obtained from its capital Edessa. In this king Abgar Uchama (4 B.C.—A.D. 50; see ABGAR) invites Jesus to Edessa. Jesus replies by letter, commending Abgar's faith, declining the invitation, and promising to send one of His disciples when "all is fulfilled." This is the earliest known form of a legend originating in local patriotism and extant in many highly colored forms, notably the Greek Acts of Thaddaeus and the Syriac Doctrine of Addai (see APOCRYPHAL ACTS). In some versions a picture and an oral message replace the letter of the Lord.

The Clementine Homilies represent one form of a popular, if theologically dubious, Christian novel of the 2nd or 3rd century. They open with a letter in which Peter, whose sermons are allegedly abstracted by Clement, exhorts James the Just to secrecy on their contents. An equally worthless letter of Clement to James indicates what is to follow.

The Letter of Lentulus, supposedly by a Roman official in Palestine under Tiberius, has achieved celebrity as a contemporary description of Jesus' appearance; but it is a valueless medieval Latin creation. It "follows the traditional portraits closely, and was no doubt written in the presence of one" (ANT, p. 478).

III. 空想和小说性质的伪作。这类体裁的一些著名例子足以使我们了解这一类别。福音于公元2世纪传到了独立的叙利亚卡和因(Carhoene)缓冲国,该国成为了第一个承认基督教的国家。早在4世纪时,优西比乌(HE i.13)就转录了一封从该国首都伊得撒获得的书信。阿伯加·乌查玛王(Abgar Uchama, 公元前4年至公元50年;见ABGAR[阿伯加])邀请耶稣来伊得撒。耶稣在给这位国王的回信中赞扬了他的信心,但拒绝了他的邀请,不过耶稣承诺说“当一切应验时”,祂会派遣一名使徒过去。这是已知最早的源于地方的传奇形式,而这则故事现存的形式多种多样,十分传神,尤其是希腊语的《达太行传》和叙利亚语的《亚戴的教训》(见APOCRYPHAL ACTS[次经行传])。在某些译本中,一副图片或一封口信代替了耶稣所写的书信。

《托革利免名讲道集》体现了一种流行于2世纪和3世纪时期的基督教小说形式,但这种形式的小说从神学角度来看是值得怀疑的。该书以一封彼得的书信开篇(革利免称其中彼得的布道是没有实际意义的),彼得在信中劝告义者雅各为书信的内容保密。《革利免致雅各书信》预示了将要发生的事,这封书信同样没有价值。

《伦图罗斯书信》,可能是一位提比略时期驻巴勒斯坦的一位罗马官员创作的作品,作为一部同时期描述了耶稣出现的作品,该书十分著名;但它却是一部没什么价值的中世纪拉丁语作品。该书“严格遵循了传统描写,无疑是模仿前人所作”(ANT, 478页)。

The Sunday Letter. In a category apart stands a letter, found in many languages and versions (the oldest perhaps going back to the 6th cent.), supposedly from the Lord, said to have dropped out of heaven onto various altars, denouncing the profanation of Sunday.

《主日书信》。这封书信属于另一个类别，它有多种语言的译本和版本（最早的可能追溯至 6 世纪），该书可能由主所写，谴责人们在主日褻渎神灵，据说该书从天而降落在许多祭坛之上。

I. Introduction.-A. Description. The apocryphal gospels are a motley group of noncanonical writings about the purported deeds and revelations of Jesus Christ. Though the Greek word apocrypha originally meant “hidden,” the church fathers used it to describe spurious gospels. Irenaeus refers to “an unspeakable number of apocryphal and spurious writings, which they themselves [i.e., heretics] had forged, to bewilder the minds of the foolish” (Adv. haer. i.20.1). Though some are patterned after the canonical Gospels, many bear little resemblance to them.

B. Attestation and Extant Copies. As Origen noted, “The Church possesses four Gospels, heresy a great many” (First Homily on Luke, cited in H-S, I, 55). Of the approximately fifty apocryphal gospels, many are known by title only or by a few scattered quotations and allusions in the patristic writers. We know nothing more than the title of four of the nine apocryphal works titled “Gospels” in the sixth-century Decretum Gelasianum (see APOCRYPHA II.E.1). A number of works, especially of the popular infancy gospels, have been preserved in late MSS and versions. Egypt has preserved some

I. 介绍。A. 描述。 次经福音书是一类混杂的典外作品，记录了传说中的耶稣基督的行为和启示。虽然希腊语 “apocrypha” 的原意是 “隐藏的”，但教会教父却用它来形容次经福音书。爱任纽提及这些作品是 “无数次经和伪经作品，都是他们自己（即异端教徒）仿造的，用来迷惑愚人的思想” (Adv. haer. i.20.1)。虽然有些次经福音书模仿了正典中的福音书，但其他许多作品却与正典福音书没什么相似之处。

B. 证据和现存抄本。 俄利根曾说道， “教会有四部福音书，而异端却有很多福音书” (First Homily on Luke, H-S, I, 55 中的引用)。在大约五十部次经福音书中，其中的大多数作品人们只知道书名，或只在教父作品中被提到或引用过几次。6 世纪时的《格拉修斯法令》(见 APOCRYPHA II.E.1[秘传文学；典外文献；次经；伪经 II.E.1])中提到了 9 部以“福音书”为名的伪书，但其中的 4 部我们除了书名外一无所知。一些次经福音书，尤其是普遍流传的耶稣婴童福音书，有许多近期的手稿和版本保留了下来。埃及，尤其是在拿·戈玛第（见 NAG HAMMADI [拿·戈玛第]）发现的诺 early papyrus and parchment copies, most notably in the Gnostic library discovered at NAG HAMMADI.

C. Types. In addition to apologetic works such as the Gospel of Peter, most apocryphal gospels fall into two categories: (1) legendary, or (2) sectarian or heretical. The former category encompasses the infancy gospels, which are highly imaginative accounts of the Virgin Mary, the Nativity, and the childhood of Jesus. The latter category includes works which were written to set forth the peculiar views of Jewish-Christian sects, Encratites, and Gnostics. Eusebius (HE iii.25) describes such works as the Gospels of Peter, of Thomas, and of Matthias as follows: "Again, nothing could be farther from apostolic usage than the type of phraseology employed, while the ideas and implications of their contents are so irreconcilable with true orthodoxy that they stand revealed as the forgeries of heretics."

D. History of Research. Until the 19th cent. our only evidence for the apocryphal gospels apart from late MSS or versions consisted of patristic notices and extracts. Within the last century fragments and even entire copies of apocryphal gospels have been discovered in Egypt.

In 1886 five leaves of a parchment codex were discovered at Akhmim in the grave of a Christian monk of the 8th century. These contained a portion of the Gospel of Peter.

Between 1897 and 1907 second-to-fourth-century papyri containing sayings

斯替教图书馆中保留了一些早期的蒲草纸和羊皮纸抄本。

*C. 类型。*除了《彼得福音》等护教作品之外，大多数次经福音书都可以分为两类：(1) 传奇类福音，或(2) 宗派类或异端类福音。第一类作品包括耶稣婴童福音（这些作品富有想象力地描述了童女马利亚的经历）、描述耶稣诞生和耶稣童年的作品。第二类作品包括陈述犹太人基督教派、禁欲派和诺斯替教派独特观点的作品。优西比乌（HE iii.25）对《彼得福音》《多马福音》和《马提亚福音》等作品的描述如下：“此外，这些作品的措辞极其偏离使徒传统，而内容中的思想和暗示与正统信仰非常矛盾，这表明它们是异端教徒伪造的作品”。

*D. 研究史。*直到19世纪，除了近期的次经福音书的手稿和版本，我们辨别这类作品的唯一证据就是教父的短评和摘录。上个世纪，人们在埃及发现了次经福音书的残本甚至是完本。

1886年，人们在艾赫米姆的一座8世纪基督教修道士坟墓中发现了5张羊皮纸抄本。这些抄本中包含《彼得福音》的一部分。

1897年至1907年，人们在俄西林古发现一些包含耶稣语录的蒲草纸抄本（见

of Jesus were discovered at Oxyrhynchus (see AGRAPHA IV.C). We now know that these are from a Greek version of the sectarian Gospel of Thomas.

In 1934 the British Museum acquired two damaged leaves and a fragment of a papyrus, Pap. Egerton 2, which combined elements from the four canonical Gospels. Published by Bell and Skeat in 1935, the papyrus dates to ca. 130 and is an important witness to the early circulation of the Gospels in Egypt.

The most important recent development has been the discovery in 1945 of the Nag Hammadi codices. These date to the 4th cent. and contain a number of apocryphal gospels in their entirety, including the Gospel of Truth, first translated in 1956, and the Gospel of Thomas, first translated in 1959.

In 1924 M. R. James published a handy collection of extracts and abstracts of the apocryphal gospels. This work has now been superseded by E. Hennecke and W. Schneemelcher's NT Apocrypha, I (Eng. tr. 1963).

II. Gospels of Jesus' Infancy and Parents.-A. Origins. The accounts of the birth of Jesus in Matthew and Luke, and the one account of Jesus as a child in Lk. 2:40-52, did not satisfy the curiosity of many Christians. Some, therefore, invented infancy gospels which attributed numerous miracles to the baby Jesus and the child Jesus. The Jesus who is thus portrayed appears as a grotesquely petulant and dangerously powerful youngster.

A desire to glorify Mary and to establish

AGRAPHA IV.C[福音书以外的耶稣言语 IV.C])。我们现已得知这些抄本来自于宗派类《多马福音》的一个希腊语版本。

1934年,大英博物馆得到了两张残页和一份蒲草纸抄本(《伊吉顿蒲草纸卷2》),其中结合了四部正典福音书中的元素。贝尔和斯基特于1935年公布了这份抄本(约公元130年),它是早期福音书曾流传于埃及的重要证据。

近来最重要的发现是在1945年发现的《拿·戈玛第文库》。这些文献可以追溯至4世纪,其中有许多完整的次经福音书,包括《真理福音》(1956年首译)和《多马福音》(1959年首译)。

1924年,詹姆斯(M. R. James)发表了译本次经福音书摘录和摘要的简易合集。这部作品现已被E. Hennecke和W. Schneemelcher的*NT Apocrypha*, I(1963年英文译本)取代了。

II. 关于耶稣孩童时期和祂父母的福音书。A. 起源。《马太福音》和《路加福音》中关于耶稣出生的记录,以及《路加福音》2:40-52中关于耶稣幼年的记录并不能满足许多基督徒的好奇心。因此,一些作家创造了耶稣婴童福音,描述耶稣婴儿时期和童年时期所行的大量奇事。于是耶稣被描绘成一个奇怪、任性、危险而强大的少年。

一些作者为了美化马利亚并确保她的

her perpetual virginity motivated some writers to describe the “brethren” of Jesus as the children of Joseph by a previous marriage.

The Protevangelium of James and the Infancy Gospel of Thomas, both from the 2nd cent., served as a basis for the later Pseudo-Matthew, the Arabic and the Armenian infancy gospels, and the Nativity of Mary. These expanded accounts were incorporated in the Golden Legend, which had an enormous influence upon medieval Europe.

B. Protevangelium of James. The History of James Concerning the Birth of Mary was given the title Protevangelium or “First Gospel” by the Frenchman Postel, who first published a Latin translation of it in 1552. The Gelasian Decree refers to it as The Gospel of James the Less, though the work itself implies that its author is James the Lord’s brother.

There are possible allusions to elements contained in this work as early as Justin Martyr Dial. 78.5, and Clement Misc. vii.93.7. The earliest explicit reference is in Origen’s commentary on Mt. 13:55, which cites The Book of James as the source for the tradition that Jesus’ brethren were from Joseph’s previous marriage.

The Protevangelium was composed in Greek in the mid. 2nd cent., probably in Egypt by an author who was quite ignorant of Palestinian customs. The rather extensive work of 25 chapters or paragraphs is preserved in some 30 MSS which date from after the 10th century. Portions are represented in a fifth-or sixth-century papyrus published by

永久童贞，将耶稣的“弟兄们”描述为约瑟在前一段婚姻中所生的孩子。

2 世纪时的《雅各原始福音》和《多马耶稣婴童福音》为后来的《托马太福音》、阿拉伯语和亚美尼亚语的《耶稣婴童福音》以及《马利亚诞辰福音》奠定了基础。这些后人扩展的故事被收录在《黄金传说》(Golden Legend)中，这部作品对中世纪的欧洲产生了巨大的影响。

B. 《雅各原始福音》。关于马利亚诞辰的雅各史述被法国人波斯托称为“原始福音”或“第一福音”，他于 1552 年发表了该书的第一本拉丁语译本。《格拉修斯法令》称该书为《小雅各福音》，但书中暗指该书的作者是主的弟兄雅各。

早在游斯丁 (Martyr Dial. 78.5) 和革利免 (Misc. vii.93.7) 的作品中就可能提及了该书中的元素。俄利根对《马太福音》13:55 的评注中最早明确地提到了该书，他认为耶稣的弟兄们来自约瑟的前一段婚姻的观点就源自《雅各书》。

这部原始福音在 2 世纪中期时用希腊语写成，可能由一位非常不了解巴勒斯坦习俗的作者在埃及所写。这部作品篇幅较长，有 25 个章节或段落，现存有 30 本手稿包含这部作品，抄写时间都晚于 10 世纪。格伦费尔于 1896 年公布的蒲草纸抄本 (5 或 6 世纪) 和特斯图兹于 1958 年公布的《伯默蒲草纸 5》(3 世纪) 展现了该书的部分内容。现存的版本有

Grenfell in 1896, and in Pap. Bodmer V of the 3rd cent., published by Testuz in 1958. Versions are extant in Syriac, Armenian, Ethiopic, Georgian and Slavonic, but surprisingly not in Latin.

The Protevangelium describes the parents of Mary as the aged Anna and the wealthy Joachim. In a narrative patterned after the story of Samuel, Mary is dedicated at the age of three as a kind of Jewish “vestal virgin.” She is nurtured at the temple by angels until the age of twelve, when she is betrothed to Joseph, who is miraculously selected from a number of suitors.

Joseph is portrayed as a widower with sons, an attempt to explain away the reference to “first-born” in Lk. 2:7. Before the consummation of the marriage Joseph is horrified to discover that Mary is already six months pregnant. Both Mary and Joseph, however, demonstrate their innocence by drinking the waters of conviction (cf. Nu. 5:11–31).

The birth of Jesus takes place in a cave, a tradition mentioned by Justin Martyr also. Mary is assisted in her delivery by a Hebrew midwife, and her virginity notwithstanding the birth is attested by Salome.

The final chapters recount how Herod killed the Baptist’s father, Zacharias, and how he sought the Baptist, who escaped by hiding with his mother in a hollow mountain.

C. Infancy Gospel of Thomas. The Gospel of Thomas that describes Jesus’ childhood is quite distinct from the Gospel of Thomas discovered at Nag

叙利亚语译本、亚美尼亚语译本、埃塞俄比亚语译本、格鲁吉亚语译本和斯拉夫语译本，但出人意料的是没有拉丁语译本。

这部原始福音中称马利亚的父母是年老的亚拿和富有的乔基姆。书中一段模仿撒母耳的叙述提到，马利亚在三岁时就被献为犹太人的“维斯塔贞女”。她在圣殿中被天使抚养到 12 岁，然后被许配给了约瑟，他在一众求婚者中奇迹般地脱颖而出。

书中将约瑟描绘为有几个儿子的鳏夫，这是为了解释《路加福音》2:7 中所说的“头胎的”。在成婚之前，约瑟惊讶地发现马利亚已经有六个月的身孕了。但是马利亚和约瑟都喝了主定罪的水，证明了他们的清白（参：民 5:11-31）。

耶稣出生在一个洞窟之中，殉道者游斯丁也提到了这个传说。一个希伯来接生婆为马利亚接生，撒罗米证实了马利亚虽然生产，但仍是童贞女。

末尾的章节描述了希律王杀害施洗约翰的父亲撒迦利亚，又寻找约翰，而约翰与母亲一同藏在分开的山中躲过一劫。

C. 《多马的耶稣婴童福音》。 这部作品描述了耶稣幼年的故事，与拿·戈玛第发现的《多马福音》（见下文 V.J.1）截然不同。有的手稿中将这部作品称为

Hammadi (see V.J.1 below). The titles as given in the MSS are Infancy of the Lord Jesus and Account of the Infancy of the Lord by Thomas, the Philosopher of Israel.

Irenaeus alludes to the learning of the alphabet by Jesus, an incident related in this gospel. The Gospel of Thomas was therefore composed in the 2nd century. It is extant in two recensions: an older and longer form with nineteen chapters, and a shorter form with eleven chapters. Most Greek MSS are later than the 13th century. There are Syriac, Latin, Ethiopic, Georgian, and Slavonic versions.

The Infancy Gospel of Thomas purports to describe the miracles which Jesus, a veritable “enfant terrible,” performed between the ages of five and twelve. When Jesus was five he made twelve sparrows from clay, and then caused them to fly. When the son of Annas the scribe scattered the water that Jesus had collected into a pool, Jesus cursed the child: “You insolent, godless dunderhead, ... See, now you also shall wither like a tree.” A lad who accidentally bumped into Jesus was smitten dead. Those who accused him were blinded. A teacher who attempted to teach the Alpha and the Beta was rebuked by the precocious Jesus. As an assistant in his father’s carpenter shop, Jesus was able to stretch beams of wood to the proper size!

D. Pseudo-Matthew. A work known as Pseudo-Matthew is a Latin composition from the 6th–8th cent. preserved in numerous MSS dating from the 11th. cent. and later. Chs. 1–17 are based on the Protevangelium, and chs. 25–42 on the Infancy Gospel of Thomas. The

爱任纽提及了这部书中描述的耶稣学习字母表的故事。因此这部福音创作于2世纪。这部作品现存有两部校订本：一部时间较早、篇幅较长，有19个章节，另一部篇幅较短，有11个章节。大多数希腊语的抄本都出现在13世纪之后。现存的版本有叙利亚语译本、拉丁语译本、埃塞俄比亚语译本、格鲁吉亚语译本和斯拉夫语译本。

《多马的耶稣婴童福音》中描述了耶稣5至12岁时的奇事，书中的耶稣是名副其实的“可怕的顽童”。耶稣五岁时，用泥土捏了12个麻雀，然后令它们飞了起来。当文士亚那的儿子将耶稣汇聚成的水洼分散时，耶稣诅咒这孩子：“你这个傲慢无礼而又邪恶的笨蛋……看看吧，你现在就要像树木般枯干”。后来，有一个少年不小心撞到了耶稣，于是耶稣就杀死了他。那些指责耶稣的人都瞎了。有一位教师想要教耶稣学习字母，但早慧的耶稣却训斥了他。耶稣在祂父亲的木匠铺里帮忙时，将一根短木条拉长到合适的尺寸！

*D. 《托马太名福音》。*这是一部6至8世纪时期的拉丁语文献，从11世纪起该书的大量手稿流传了下来。第1至17章主要参考《雅各原始福音》，而第25至42章主要参考《多马的耶稣婴童福音》。这两部分中间的章节主要描述了圣家庭逃往埃及路上发生的奇事。 intervening chapters recount miracles which took place during the Holy Family's flight to Egypt.

We are told that at the Nativity of the holy Infant was worshiped by the ox and the ass (cf. Isa. 1:3). Wild animals pay homage to the child en route to Egypt (cf. Isa. 11:6ff.). When Mary becomes hungry, the child commands the palm tree to bow down and proffer its dates. The thirty-day journey to Egypt was completed in one. In the capital of Egypt, Sotinen in the region of Hermopolis, 365 pagan idols fall down as Mary and the child enter the temple.

Based on Psuedo-Matthew is a Latin work, Evangelium de nativitate Mariae, The Gospel of the Nativity of Mary. It purports to be the work of Jerome, but was composed during the 6th to 8th centuries. It served as one of the principal sources of Marian legends.

Another Latin infancy gospel, preserved in the fourteenth-century Arundel MS, has the following testimony of the midwife who assisted at the Nativity: "... he had no weight like other children who are born.... I wondered greatly because he did not cry as new-born babes are accustomed to cry" (H-S, I, 414).

E. Arabic and Armenian Infancy Gospels. The Arabic Infancy Gospel, which is based upon the Protevangelium and the Infancy Gospel of Thomas, seems to have been composed originally in Syriac. The Arabic MS, first published in a Latin translation in 1697, is now lost. Its stories, which resemble those of the Arabian Nights, were known to Muhammad and appear in Islamic

圣婴诞生的故事中描述了一头牛和一头驴认识主耶稣（参：赛 1:3）。在去往埃及的路上，野兽都向幼年耶稣表示敬意（参：赛 11:6 起）。当马利亚感到饥饿时，幼年耶稣就命令棕榈树弯下树干，献出它的果子。耶稣还使得本来需要三十天的路程一天就走完了。在埃及的首都，也就是希摩波利地区的苏蒂南，当马利亚和幼年耶稣进入神庙时，里面的 365 个异教的偶像都倒在了地上。

一部名为《马利亚诞辰福音》（Evangelium de nativitate Mariae）的拉丁语作品参考了《托马太福音》。这部作品据说是耶柔米所作，但成书时间为 6 世纪至 8 世纪期间。这部作品是关于马利亚的传说的主要参考资料之一。

14 世纪的《阿伦德尔手稿》中保留了另一部婴童福音，该书中记载了一段马利亚的接生婆的证言：“……祂不像其他新生儿那样重……我感到非常奇怪，因为通常其他新生儿都会哭泣，祂却不哭”（H-S, I, 414）。

E. 阿拉伯语和亚美尼亚语《耶稣婴童福音》。阿拉伯语的《耶稣婴童福音》主要参照了《雅各原始福音》和《多马的耶稣婴童福音》，该作品似乎最初是用叙利亚语创作的。1697 年本书的阿拉伯语手稿首次在一份拉丁语译本中公布，但这份手稿现在已经失传了。书中的故事和《一千零一夜》一样，既为默罕默德所知，又出现在伊斯兰教的传说中。 traditions.

This gospel recounts that on the trip to Egypt the Holy Family encountered two robbers, Titus and Dumachus. The young Jesus prophesies, “In thirty years, mother, the Jews will crucify me in Jerusalem, and those two robbers will be fastened to the cross with me, Titus on my right hand and Dumachus on my left” (H-S, I, 408).

The Armenian Infancy Gospel is a long text which also relies upon a Syriac work based on the Protevangelium and the Infancy Gospel of Thomas. Among the added features is a detailed description of the Magi: Melqon from Persia, Balthasar from India, and Gaspar from Arabia.

F. Assumption of the Virgin Mary. The Gelasian Decree condemns a work which is known in Latin as Transitus Mariae and in English as The Assumption of Mary. This was composed in Greek in Egypt ca. 400. It is preserved in eleventh- to fourteenth-century MSS and in Latin, Syriac, Coptic and Arabic versions, as well as in a discourse on St. John the Divine.

Two years after His ascension Jesus Himself appears to Mary to announce her impending demise. After her death miracles of healing take place through the agency of her corpse. Mary, restored to life in her body, is then transported to Paradise. This document played a role in the formulation of the dogma of the assumption of the Virgin promulgated by Pius XII in 1950.

G. The History of Joseph the Carpenter. The otherwise neglected Joseph is the subject of this work. Originally composed

亚美尼亚语的《耶稣婴童福音》篇幅较长，该书也参照了一本以《雅各原始福音》和《多马的耶稣婴童福音》为基础的叙利亚语作品。书中添加了对几位博士的详细描述：来自波斯的梅尔肯、来自印度的巴尔塔萨和来自阿拉伯的加斯帕。

F. 《童女马利亚升天记》。这是一部被《格拉修斯法令》谴责的作品，该书的拉丁语版本名字为《圣母蒙召升天》（Transitus Mariae），英语版本的名字是《马利亚升天记》。大约在公元 400 年时，该书的希腊语版本在埃及写成。目前保存下来的是 11 世纪至 14 世纪的手稿，还有拉丁语译本、叙利亚译本、科普特语译本和阿拉伯语译本，书中还保留了一段关于圣约翰的语篇。

耶稣升天后两年，祂向马利亚显现，告知她即将死亡。马利亚死后，她的尸体奇迹般地得到医治。马利亚复活后升上了天堂。庇护七世于 1950 年颁布的《童女升天记》中的教义很大程度上参考了这部作品。

G. 《木匠约瑟史述》。其他作品中忽略的约瑟正是这部作品的主人公。大约在公元 400 年时，该书的希腊语版本在埃 in Greek in Egypt ca. 400, it is preserved in Latin, Coptic, and Arabic versions. Like the infancy gospels in general, it assumes that Joseph was a widower before his marriage to Mary. The narrative relates that he was first married at 40, and was widowed when he was 89. Two years later he wed Mary. He died at the advanced age of 111.

III. Gospels of Jesus' Passion and Resurrection.-A. Gospel of Peter. Origen in his commentary on Mt. 10:17 claimed that a Gospel of Peter was used by those who held that Jesus' "brethren" were Joseph's sons by a previous marriage. Theodoret of Syria (5th cent.) also mentions a Gospel of Peter used by the Nazaraeans. Eusebius (HE vi. 12) includes a very instructive account from the writings of Serapion, Bishop of Antioch (190), who discovered that the Christians at Rhossus in Syria were using a Gospel of Peter. After giving his preliminary approval to their reading it, he later examined the work more carefully and concluded "that while most of it accorded with the authentic teachings of the Savior, some passages were spurious additions."

One of the earliest noncanonical gospels, the Gospel of Peter was composed early in the 2nd cent., probably in Syria by Docetists who maintained that Christ only appeared to have a human body. In 1886 a Greek manuscript containing a portion of this gospel was discovered at Akhmim, Egypt.

The Gospel of Peter makes use of the four canonical Gospels. It shifts the blame for Christ's condemnation from Pilate entirely upon Herod and the Jews.

及写成, 现在保留下来的版本有拉丁语译本、科普特语译本和阿拉伯语译本。和大多数耶稣的婴童福音一样, 本书也认为约瑟在迎娶马利亚之前是一个鳏夫。书中描述约瑟第一次结婚时 40 岁, 89 岁时成了鳏夫。2 年后他娶了马利亚。他去世时已经 111 岁高龄。

III. 关于耶稣受难和复活的福音书。

A. 《彼得福音》。俄利根在对《马太福音》10:17 的评注中称那些阅读《彼得福音》的人认为耶稣的“弟兄们”是约瑟与前妻所生的儿子。叙利亚的狄奥多勒(5 世纪)也提到了拿撒勒人阅读的《彼得福音》。优西比乌的作品(HE vi. 12)中囊括了安提阿主教塞拉皮翁(190 年)作品中的一段非常有启发性的描述, 塞拉皮翁发现《彼得福音》流传于叙利亚罗瑟斯的基督徒之间。在初步认可基督徒阅读这部作品之后, 他又更为仔细地检查了这部作品并总结道: “虽然书中大部分内容都符合救主的纯正教导, 但有一些段落却是虚构的添加之语”。

《彼得福音》是最早的典外福音书之一, 创作于 2 世纪早期, 可能是一位提倡基督幻影说的人在叙利亚创作的, 他坚持认为基督只是貌似拥有人类的身体。1886 年人们在埃及的艾赫米姆发现了一份希腊语手稿, 其中包含这部福音书中的部分内容。

《彼得福音》参照了四本正典中的福音书。他在书中将耶稣受难全部归咎于希律王和犹太人, 而非彼拉多。当耶稣被钉十字架时, 祂“一直默不作声, 仿佛

When Jesus was crucified he “kept silence as one feeling no pain” in accordance with a docetic understanding of the crucifixion. On the cross he cried out, “My power, my power, thou hast forsaken me,” and was then “taken up.”

The miraculous element is also heightened. The guards actually witnessed the Resurrection taking place before their eyes: “they saw three men coming out from the sepulchre, and two of them sustaining the other, and a cross following them, and the heads of the two reaching as far as heaven, but that of him whom they led by the hand overpassing the heavens.”

B. Gospel of Nicodemus (=Acts of Pilate). The Acts of Pilate became known after a Latin tradition (13th–14th cent.) as the Gospel of Nicodemus. A Christian named Ananias claims to have translated into Greek, in 425, the Hebrew account of Nicodemus, who is identified as the man whom Jesus healed of a thirty-eight-year-old paralysis.

Justin (Apol. i.35.9) mentions an Acts of Pilate, as does Tertullian (Apol. 21.24), but these references seem to be to the alleged official reports of Pilate. Epiphanius (Haer. 50.1.5) is the first to refer to a Christian Acts of Pilate.

Although some of the elements may go back to the 2nd cent., the work as it now stands does not date prior to the 4th–5th centuries. It is extant in Latin MSS, some of the 5th cent., and in Greek MSS, the oldest of which dates to the 12th century. It was also widespread in Coptic, Syriac, and Armenian versions.

感觉不到痛楚似的”，这段描述符合幻影论者对耶稣受难的理解。后来耶稣在十字架上高声喊叫，“我的力量，我的力量啊，你离弃了我。”然后，他就“被提去了”。

书中还强调了一个不可思议的事件。实际上，守卫亲眼见证了耶稣复活：“他们看见有三个人从坟墓里走出来，当中两个搀扶着走在后面的哪一个，跟随后面的，还有一个十字架，那两个人的头伸到天上去，而他俩领着的人，头更高过诸天”。

*B. 《尼哥底母福音》(即《彼拉多行传》)。*人们根据一个拉丁语传统（13 至 14 世纪），将《彼拉多行传》称为《尼哥底母福音》。公元 425 年，一个名叫亚拿尼亚的基督徒自称将希伯来语尼哥底母的故事翻译成了希腊语，人们认为他就是耶稣曾治愈的那个 38 岁的瘫子。

游斯丁 (Apol. i.35.9) 提到了一部《彼拉多行传》，特土良也同样提及了该作品 (Apol. 21.24)，但他们指的似乎是所谓的彼拉多的奏报。伊皮法尼 (Haer. 50.1.5) 首先提及了基督教的《彼拉多行传》。

虽然书中的某些元素可以追溯至 2 世纪，但是该书的现存版本直到 4 至 5 世纪时才最终形成。现存的一些拉丁语手稿属于 5 世纪，而最早的希腊语手稿可以追溯至 12 世纪。该书的科普特语译本、叙利亚语译本、亚美尼亚语译本也同样广泛流传。

It is possible that the work was written as a Christian answer to the anti-Christian Acts of Pilate introduced by the emperor Maximinus II into the schools in 311 (Eusebius HE ix.5). As in the Gospel of Peter, the blame for Jesus' condemnation is placed on the Jews rather than on Pilate, to avoid giving offense to the imperial authorities.

The gospel consists of two quite distinct parts. The first describes in chs. 1–11 the crucifixion and burial of Christ, and in chs. 12–16 the Sanhedrin's investigations which prove the Resurrection. The second part which may have been added to the first because of the prominence of Joseph of Arimathea in both sections, describes in chs. 17–27 the Descent of Christ to the nether world (cf. 1 Pet. 3:19).

When Jesus first enters before Pilate, the Roman standards automatically bow down. The Jews charge Jesus: "Firstly, that you were born of fornication; secondly, that your birth meant the death of the children in Bethlehem; thirdly, that your father Joseph and your mother Mary fled into Egypt because they counted for nothing among the people." Twelve men step forward to affirm that Joseph and Mary were indeed married, and that Jesus' birth was therefore legitimate.

A number of other witnesses appear on behalf of Jesus, including Nicodemus and Bernice (Lat. Veronica), the woman who was healed of a hemorrhage. Despite Pilate's perception of Jesus' innocence, he is forced by the Jews to crucify Him. The robbers who are crucified with Jesus are identified as Dysmas and Gestas. The soldier who thrust a spear into Jesus is

这部福音书由两个截然不同的部分组成。第一部分的第1至11章描述了耶稣受难和安葬, 第12至16章描述了犹太公会的调查, 从而证明了耶稣复活属实。第二部分可能是后来被添加到第一部分当中的, 因为这两部分都突出描述了亚利马太的约瑟, 这一部分的第17至27章描述了耶稣下到阴间的故事 (参: 彼前3:19)。

当耶稣第一次进去见彼拉多时, 罗马旗帜上的画像就向他鞠躬敬拜。犹太人控告耶稣说: "首先, 你是私生子; 其次你的出生意味着伯利恒的孩子死亡; 第三, 你的父亲约瑟和你的母亲马利亚逃往埃及, 因为他们在民中不受尊重"。有十二人站出来证实约瑟和马利亚确实结婚了, 耶稣不是私生子。

许多人出来为耶稣做见证, 其中就包括尼哥底母和百尼基(拉丁名: Veronica), 耶稣治愈了百尼基的血漏病。虽然彼拉多认为耶稣无罪, 但犹太人还是逼他将耶稣钉在十字架上。和耶稣一起被钉十字架的两个强盗是底士马和格达。用矛扎耶稣的兵丁叫朗吉努斯。 called Longinus.

After the Resurrection the Jews send three of their rabbis to investigate. These return and testify that they have seen the risen Christ teaching and then ascending into heaven.

The Descensus portion describes how Christ's arrival in the nether world strikes terror among Satan and his minions, a theme elaborated in the later Harrowing of Hell traditions. Christ raises the dead, including Adam and the penitent thief, Dysmas.

At a much later date were added appendices which related Pilate's end and which even described him as "blessed" because in his governorship "all was fulfilled." This tendency eventually led to the canonization of Pilate's wife, Procla, by the Greek Orthodox Church, and the celebration of St. Pilate's Day by the Ethiopian Orthodox Church.

IV. Jewish-Christian Gospels.-The question of the gospels used by early Jewish-Christian groups such as the Nazarenes and the Ebionites is very complex. The difficulty revolves around whether or not there were three separate gospels: (1) The Gospel of the Nazarenes (G. Naz.), (2) The Gospel of the Ebionites (G. Eb.), and (3) The Gospel of the Hebrews (G. Heb), or whether G. Naz. = G. Heb. and G. Eb. = G. Heb. Quispel (VC, 11 [1957], 190f.) suggests that G. Naz. and G. Eb. are but recensions of an underlying G. Heb.

Eusebius (HE iv.22.8) reports that Hegesippus (A.D. 170) relied "occasionally on the Gospel of the

耶稣复活后，犹太人派遣了三个拉比去调查这件事的真相。他们回来之后证明自己看见了复活的耶稣教导门徒，然后被提上了天。

基督下到阴间的部分描述了基督是如何到达阴间并打败撒旦和他的仆从的，后来的地狱传说中详细描述了主题。耶稣使死者复活，其中包括亚当和忏悔的强盗底士马。

很久以后，人们又在这部作品之后加上了彼拉多的结局，书中甚至称他为“蒙福的”，因为在他执政期间，“一切都应验了”。这种倾向最终使得希腊正教会将彼拉多的妻子普劳克追封为圣人，埃塞俄比亚正教会也因此庆祝圣彼拉多日。

III. 犹太人基督教的福音书。与早期犹太人基督教徒阅读的《拿撒勒派人福音》和《伊便尼派人福音》等福音书相关的问题非常复杂。难点在于究竟是否存在三部不同的福音：(1)《拿撒勒派人福音》(简写：G. Naz.)，(2)《伊便尼派人福音》(简写：G. Eb.)，(3)《希伯来人福音》(简写：G. Heb)，又或者前两部福音书是否等同于最后一部福音书。基斯佩尔 (VC, 11 [1957], 190-191)认为《拿撒勒派人福音》和《伊便尼派人福音》是《希伯来人福音》的校订本。

优西比乌 (HE iv.22.8) 称赫格西仆 (公元 170 年) “偶尔参照《希伯来人福音》和叙利亚语的福音书，尤其会参照希伯

Hebrews, on the Syriac Gospel, and particularly on works in Hebrew (i.e. Aramaic), showing that he was a believer of Hebrew stock.” Clement of Alexandria cites a Gospel according to the Hebrews in his discussions on marriage (cf. Misc. ii.45.5).

Epiphanius speaks of a gospel used by the Ebionites, also called a Gospel of the Hebrews, which he considers a falsified and truncated Matthew (haer. 30.3.7). He also says that the Nazoraeans (cf. Nazaraeans, Nazarenes), Jewish-Christians of Syria, have a Hebrew Gospel, which he thinks is the original Aramaic of Matthew (Haer. 29.9.4).

Jerome mentions a Hebrew Gospel used by the Ebionites, and a Hebrew Gospel used by the Nazaraeans, Jewish-Christians of Beroea near Aleppo, Syria. He says that he translated such a Gospel of the Hebrews into Latin, and reproduces many citations from it. A copy of the Gospel of the Hebrews was kept in the library at Caesarea.

Some scholars, such as P. Vielhauer (H-S, I, 117–165), believe that Jerome has falsified or at least confused his information. Vielhauer would distinguish three distinct Jewish-Christian gospels as follows:

A. Gospel of the Nazarenes. The Gospel of the Nazarenes was composed in Aramaic (or Syriac) early in the 2nd cent. in northern Syria, where it was used by the Nazarenes. Attested by Hegesippus (cited in Eusebius), Epiphanius and Jerome, it was apparently a targumic rendering of Matthew with various 来语（即亚兰语）作品，这表明他是一个有希伯来血统的信徒”。亚历山太的革利免在论述婚姻时（参：Misc. ii.45.5）根据希伯来人的传统引用了一部福音书。

伊皮法尼提及了一本伊便尼派人阅读的福音书，名字也是《希伯来人福音》，他认为这本书是经大幅删改后的《马太福音》（haer. 30.3.7）。他还说拿撒勒人（参：拿撒勒人，拿撒勒派人）和叙利亚的犹太派基督徒阅读一本希伯来语的福音书，他认为这就是最初的亚兰语《马太福音》（Haer. 29.9.4）。

耶柔米提到了一本伊便尼派人阅读的希伯来语福音书和一本拿撒勒派人（阿勒波附近庇哩亚的犹太派基督徒）阅读的希伯来语福音书。他说他将这类《希伯来人福音》译成拉丁语，并且多次引用了福音书中的话。凯撒利亚的图书馆中保存了《希伯来人福音》的一份抄本。

一些学者，如威尔豪尔（P. Vielhauer, H-S, I, 117–165）认为耶柔米在翻译时篡改了这部作品，或者他弄混了信息来源。威尔豪尔区分出如下三部不同的犹太派基督徒的福音书：

A. 《拿撒勒派人福音》。这本福音书在2世纪早期于北叙利亚用亚兰语（或叙利亚语）写成，当地的拿撒勒派人阅读这部作品。赫格西仆（优西比乌在作品中曾引用过）、伊皮法尼和耶柔米证明这部作品似乎是《他尔根》中《马太福音》的翻译本，但书中有许多内容上的增减。 deletions and additions.

In the gospel the man with a withered hand, who was healed by Jesus (Mt. 12:10), says, “I was a stonemason, earning my living with my hands. I pray you, Jesus, restore my health to me, so that I may not be shamefully reduced to begging my food.” When the disciples ask how often they should forgive, they are told that they should forgive seventy times seven (Mt. 18:15–22) “for in the prophets also ... the sinful word was found.” The story of the reluctant rich man (Mt. 19:16–22) was expanded to include two rich men, one of whom scratches his head in perplexity (See AGRAPHA IV.D.2–3). The parable of talents (Mt. 25:14–30) describes the three servants as follows: “One of them greatly multiplied his stock-in-trade, one hid his talent, and one consumed his master’s property with harlots and flute-girls.” At Jesus’ death “the lintel of the temple, which was of immense size, was cracked in two” (cf. Mt. 27:51).

B. Gospel of the Ebionites. The Ebionites were heretical Jewish-Christians who lived in Transjordan. They rejected the OT sacrificial laws and were vegetarians. They denied the Virgin Birth and held that Christ’s divinity depended on His union with the Holy Spirit at the time of His baptism.

That this gospel, written ca. 150, was composed in Greek is shown by the substitution of the Gk. enkris, “cake” for akris, “locust” in the Baptist’s diet. It also omitted the narrative of the Nativity. As noted by Epiphanius, our chief witness for this work, the Gospel of the Ebionites was a “falsified and abridged” Matthew.

在这部福音书中，被耶稣治愈的一个双手枯干的人（太 12:10）说，“我是石匠，是靠双手谋生的。耶稣，我恳求你恢复我的健康，好叫我不必卑贱地乞讨食物。”当使徒问耶稣应当饶恕别人几次时，耶稣告诉他们要饶恕到七十个七次（太 18:15-22），因为“即使先知……仍会犯口出恶言的罪”。故事中那个舍不得钱财的富人（太 19:16-22）变成了两个，其中一个富人迷茫得搔头（见 AGRAPHA IV.D.2–3[福音书以外的耶稣言语 IV.D.2–3]）。才干的比喻（太 25:14-30）被描述为：“一个把利润增加了，而另一个却把一千银子收藏起来，一个把主人的财物挥霍在妓女和笛女身上”。耶稣受难时，“圣殿里有一条巨型横梁折断分开”（参：太 27:51）。

B. 《伊便尼派人福音》。伊便尼派人是住在外约旦的异端犹太派基督徒。他们拒绝《旧约》中的献祭律法，只吃素食。他们否认童女生子，认为基督是因在受洗时被圣灵充满才带有神性。

这部福音书约于 150 年用希腊语写成，这表现在施洗约翰当时吃的是“饼”（希腊语：enkris）而非“蝗虫”。书中还省略了对耶稣出生的描述。正如伊皮法尼曾评论的（这部作品的主要证据），《伊便尼派福音书》是一部经“大幅删改的”《马太福音》。

Christ is made to say, “I came to abolish sacrifices, and if you do not cease from sacrificing, the wrath of God will not cease from you” (cf. Mt. 5:17). His disapproval of the Passover is raised in the question, “Do I desire with desire at this Passover to eat flesh with you?” (cf. Mt. 26:17; Lk. 22:15).

C. Gospel of the Hebrews. According to Vielhauer this title should be reserved for a gospel composed in Greek in the first half of the 2nd cent. and in use in Egypt among Greek-speaking Jewish Christians. It is known chiefly from Clement, Origen, and Jerome. According to the Stichometry of Nicephorus it had but 300 lines less than Matthew.

The citation, “Even so did my mother, the Holy Spirit, take me by one of my hairs and carry me away on to the great mountain Tabor” (H-S, I, 164; cf. Mt. 4:1), would seem to betray a Semitic background as the Hebrew/ Aramaic word for spirit is feminine. The saying, “He that marvels shall reign and he that has reigned shall rest” (H-S, I, 164), is paralleled in the Coptic Gospel of Thomas, logion 2, leading scholars to conclude that the latter has incorporated materials from the Gospel of the Hebrews.

The high regard for James, the Lord’s brother, among Jewish-Christians is prominent in a passage in which the risen Lord appears to him, “For James had sworn that he would not eat bread from that hour in which he had drunk the cup of the Lord” (H-S, I, 165).

书中描述基督说,“我来是要废除献祭。你们若不停止献祭,忿怒将不停地压向你们”(参:太 5:17)。耶稣曾说,“我想与你们在这逾越节吃肉吗?”这句话体现了祂并不赞成吃逾越节的筵席。(参:太 26:17; 路 22:15)。

C. 《希伯来人福音》。威尔豪尔认为这个书名应该属于一部创作于2世纪上半叶的希腊语福音书,住在埃及的说希腊语的犹太派基督徒阅读这部作品。人们主要从革利免、俄利根和耶柔米对这本书的摘录中得知这部作品。根据《尼赛福鲁斯的行数表》的记载,这部作品比《马太福音》少了300行。

“刚才我的母亲,就是圣灵,执着我其中的一条头发,带我到他泊山去”(H-S, I, 164; 参:太 4:1),书中的这段摘录似乎表明了作者是闪族后裔,因为希伯来语或亚兰语中表示灵的词是阴性的。“惊悟的会掌权,掌权的会安息”(H-S, I, 164),书中的这句话与科普特语《多马福音》的第二条语录类似,因此学者们认为后者收录了一些《希伯来人福音》中的资料。

书中描述复活的主向雅各显现,这突出表明了犹太派基督徒十分崇敬主的弟兄雅各,“雅各曾起誓要自喝过主的杯后即不再吃饼”(H-S, I, 165)。

V. Heretical Gospels.-A. Gospels of

V. 异端福音书。A. 异端教师的福音书。

Heretical Teachers. The church fathers attributed numerous gospels to heretical leaders, chiefly of Gnostic sects. The Gospel of Marcion was a redaction of Luke shorn of its first two chapters and adapted to Marcion's hostility to Judaism, to the OT, and to marriage.

The Gnostic Basilides "compiled twenty-four books on the gospel," which indicates that the gospel of Basilides was probably not his own composition but an altered gospel, perhaps of Luke. Clement, Misc. iv.81-83, cites from the 23rd book, called the Exegetica: "I will say that any man you may name is a man; the just one is God (Lk. 18:19)." A fourth-century work, Acta Archelai lxvii.5.7-11, preserves comments on the parable of the rich man and the beggar (Lk. 16:19-31), which according to a Gnostic point of view "shows us a nature without Root and without Place returning above to the things from which it had originated."

Other gospels, of which we know scarcely more than their names, are ascribed to Apelles, Bardesanes, Mani, etc.

B. Gospel of Eve. Epiphanius Haer. 26.3.1 quotes from a Gnostic work called The Gospel of Eve: "I stood upon a high mountain and saw a tall man, and another of short stature, and heard as it were a sound of thunder and went nearer in order to hear. Then he spoke to me and said: 'I am thou and thou art I, and where thou art there am I, and I am sown in all things; and whence thou wilt, thou gatherest me, but when thou gatherest me, then gatherest thou thyself.'" We know little else of this work, which seems to have been composed in the 2nd century.

教会教父认为许多福音书都是由异端领袖，尤其是诺斯替教领袖所写。《马吉安福音》是《路加福音》的修订本，该书删去了《路加福音》的前两个章节，书中表现出了马吉安对犹太教、《旧约》和婚姻的敌视。

诺斯替教的巴西利得“创作了二十四本论福音书作品”，这表明《巴西利得福音》可能并非他的原创作品，而是对其他福音书（可能是《路加福音》）的改编。革利免在作品（Misc. iv.81-83）中引用了第二十三本书（名为 Exegetica）中的话语：“你可以称任何人作人；但良善的那一位独是神（路 18:19）”。一部四世纪的作品（Acta Archelai lxvii.5.7-11）保留了关于财主和讨饭的人的寓言（路 16:19-31）的一些评论，根据诺斯替教的观点，这些评论“无根可寻，无源可溯”。

其他福音书如《亚皮拉斯福音》《巴德萨理福音》和《摩尼福音》等，对于这些作品我们除了书名之外一无所知。

B. 《夏娃福音》。 伊皮法尼在其作品（Haer. 26.3.1）中引用了一段来自诺斯替教作品《夏娃福音》中的话：“我站在高耸的山上，看见一个高个子的人和另一个身材矮小的人。我又听见仿佛是打雷的声音，靠近就听见他对我说：‘我是你，你是我；无论你在哪里，我也在哪里；我撒在万有之中。只要你想，无论在哪里你都可以招聚我；但当你招聚我，你就是招聚你自己。’”除此之外，我们对这部作品知之甚少，该书可能创作于 2 世纪。

C. Gospel of Judas. Irenaeus (Adv. haer. i.31.1) describes a Gospel of Judas (Iscariot), used by the perverse Cainites, Gnostics who esteemed the villains of Scriptures. This work, composed between 130 and 170, maintained that Judas, “alone knowing the truth as no others did,” betrayed Jesus so that the mystery of redemption might be accomplished.

D. Works Associated with Bartholomew. Jerome in his commentary on Matthew mentions a Gospel of Bartholomew. Apart from its condemnation by the Decretum Gelasianum we know little about this work.

It may, however, be reflected in another work, The Questions of Bartholomew. Composed between the 3rd and 5th cent., this is preserved in Greek, Latin, and Slavonic recensions. Bartholomew (who is identified with Nathanael, cf. Jn. 1:50f.) asks a series of questions addressed to Jesus, to the Virgin Mary, and to Satan. When Bartholomew asks, “Tell me, Lord, who was he whom the angels carried in their arms, that exceedingly large man?,” Christ answers that it was Adam, whom He raised from Hades. The answer to the question of how many souls leave the world every day is “thirty thousand,” of which number only three are admitted into Paradise.

The text concludes with a comment on the issue of digamy or second marriage: “A single marriage belongs to chaste living. For truly I say to you: ‘He who sins after the third marriage is unworthy of God.’” The fourth-century APOSTOLIC CONSTITUTIONS likewise maintained that to marry once is righteous, that second

C. 《犹大福音》。爱任纽 (Adv. haer. i.31.1) 提到了一部《犹大(加略的)福音》，堕落的该隐派诺斯替教徒阅读该书，他们信奉《圣经》中的反派角色。这部作品创作于公元 130 年至 170 年间，书中认为“唯有犹大知晓别人不知道的真理”，是他出卖了耶稣，才成就了耶稣救赎世人的奥秘。

D. 与巴多罗买有关的作品。耶柔米评论《马太福音》时提到了一部《巴多罗买福音》。我们除了知道《格拉修斯法令》曾谴责这部作品外，对其知之甚少。

但是，上文提到的《巴多罗买福音》还可能指另一部作品，即《巴多罗买提问》。这部作品创作于 3 至 5 世纪期间，流传下来的有希腊语版本、拉丁语版本和斯拉夫语的校订本。巴多罗买(人们认为他就是拿但业，参：约 1:50-51)向耶稣、童女马利亚和撒但提出了一系列问题。当巴多罗买提问说，“主啊，请告诉我，天使们扶着那位极其魁梧的人是谁？”耶稣回答说那是祂从阴间举起的亚当。巴多罗买问主每天离开世界的灵魂有多少，主的回答是“三万”，而其中只有三个灵魂可以进入天堂。

文中有一段关于再婚或二婚问题的评论：“贞洁的生活只能有一次婚姻。我实在告诉你们，人结了三次婚，仍犯罪的，就配不起上帝”。4 世纪时的《使徒宪章》(见 APOSTOLIC CONSTITUTIONS [使徒宪章]) 同样认为只结一次婚是公义的，只有年轻的寡妇可以结第二次婚，但结了三次婚仍然要结婚的，就是“明 marriage is permissible for young widows, but that marriages beyond the third are “manifest fornication and unquestionable uncleanness.”

The Book of the Apostle Bartholomew, composed in Egypt during the 5th or 6th centuries, is preserved in several Coptic MSS, the most important dating from the 12th century. It has Bartholomew relating to his son Thaddaeus the resurrection of Adam. “Doubting” Thomas is absent from the rendezvous with the risen Christ because of the death of his son Siophanes in a distant land. After raising his son from the dead and baptizing 12,000 natives, Thomas is transported back to the Mount of Olives on a cloud.

E. Gospel of the Egyptians. There are numerous patristic citations from the Gospel of the Egyptians, a work written in Greek in Egypt early in the 2nd century. It is quite distinct from a work with the same title found at Nag Hammadi (see V.J.4 below). It was a heretical gospel used by the Sabellians (Epiphanius Haer. 62.4), by the Naassene Gnostics (Hippolytus Ref. v.7.9), and by the Encratites or “Continent Ones,” who discouraged marriage and procreation.

Clement of Alexandria cites the work a number of times in attempting to demonstrate the legitimacy of marriage: (1) In Misc. iii.6.45 (cf. iii.9.64) he accuses the Encratites of misquoting from the Gospel of the Egyptians when they refer to the Lord’s answer to Salome’s question, “How long shall death hold sway?” His answer, “As long as you women bear children,” implied simply that birth was followed by death and was not a denigration of marriage. The same

《使徒巴多罗买书》于 5 至 6 世纪时创作于埃及，本书有多份科普特语手稿流传下来，其中最重要的一份是 12 世纪时的手稿。书中描述巴多罗买向他的儿子达太讲述了亚当的复活。书中还说“多疑的”多马并未出现在耶稣复活后召集众使徒的地方，因为他的儿子西奥法尼 (Siophanes) 死在了远方。多马令他的儿子复活，并为一万两千名当地人施洗后，他乘着一片云回到了橄榄山。

E. 《埃及人福音》。这是一部 2 世纪时在埃及用希腊语写成的作品，许多教父都引用过这部作品。该书与拿·戈玛第发现的同名作品截然不同（见下文 V.J.4）。这是一部撒伯流派人 (Epiphanius Haer. 62.4)、挪阿新派诺斯替教徒 (Hippolytus Ref. v.7.9) 和禁欲派（或称“自制者”，他们反对婚姻和生育）阅读的异端福音书。

亚历山大的革利免多次引用该书来证明婚姻的合理性：(1) Misc. iii.6.45 (参：iii.9.64)，他指责禁欲派错误地引用了《埃及人福音》的文本：“当撒罗米问：‘死亡掌权要到哪时呢？’主说：‘只要你们女人还会怀孕。’”革利免称这段话仅仅表明人出生就会面对死亡，并不是在诋毁婚姻。革利免在摘录诺斯替教狄奥多土的作品 (Excerpta Theodoti 67) 时也引用了同个段落。(2) Misc. iii.9.63，他提到禁欲派曾引用了这部次经福音书中救主的话“我来是要毁灭女人所作 passage is cited by Clement in his excerpts from the Gnostic Theodotus (Excerpta Theodoti 67). (2) In Misc. iii.9.63 he notes that the Encratites quote the words of the Savior, "I came to destroy the works of the female," from this apocryphal gospel. (3) In Misc. iii.9.66 he accuses them of quoting very selectively Salome's reply, "I would have done better had I never given birth to a child," without also citing the Lord's reply, "Eat of every plant, but eat not of that which has bitterness in it." (4) In Misc. iii.13.92f. Clement says that Julius Cassianus, the originator of Docetism, cites the passage, "When Salome asked when she would know the answer to her questions, the Lord said, 'When you trample on the robe of shame, and when the two shall be one, and the male with the female, and there is neither male nor female.'"

As the latter saying is reproduced in logion 22 and logion 37 of the Coptic Gospel of Thomas, scholars have concluded that the latter is partly dependent upon the Gospel of the Egyptians.

F. Gospel of Matthias. The Gospel of Matthias (cf. Acts 1:26) is cited by Origen (In Luc. Hom. 1), and by Eusebius (HE iii.25.6). Hippolytus (Ref. vii.20.1) and Clement (Misc. vii.17.108) speak about secret traditions which the Basilidians had inherited from Matthias. Clement (Misc. iii.4.26) reports: "It is said that Matthias also taught that one should fight the flesh and abuse it, never allowing it to give way to licentious pleasure, so that the soul might grow by faith and knowledge."

的工”。(3) Misc. iii.9.66, 他指责禁欲派只引用了撒罗米的回答,“我不生孩子是做得对的”,却没有同时引用主的回答“所有植物都可以吃,惟独那苦涩的不能吃”。(4) Misc. iii.13.92-93, 革利免称幻影说的创始人犹流·卡西安纳斯引用了下面这段文本,“当撒罗米问,她想知道的事何时才会有答案时,主说:‘就在你们践踏耻辱之外衣,二变成一,跟女人在一起的男人不再是男或女的时候’”。

鉴于科普特语的《多马福音》中第 22 条和第 37 条语录也引用了后一段话,因此许多学者认为该书也在一定程度上参考了《埃及人福音》。

F. 《马提亚福音》。 俄利根 (In Luc. Hom. 1) 和优西比乌 (HE iii.25.6) 都引用了《马提亚福音》(参:徒 1:26)。希坡律陀 (Ref. vii.20.1) 和革利免 (Misc. vii.17.108) 谈及了巴西利得从马提亚那里继承的秘密传统。革利免 (Misc. iii.4.26) 称:“他们说,马提亚也如此教导:我们应该与肉体斗争,要苦待它,不要妥协,也绝不要给它任意放荡,却应凭信心和知识,叫灵魂得以成长”。

Doresse (Secret Books, pp. 226, 336) has argued for the identification of the Gospel of Matthias with a work found at Nag Hammadi, The Book of Thomas the Contender (CG II.7), “which he wrote for the perfect ones,” inasmuch as the work contains “secret sayings that the Savior told to Jude-Thomas, and that I myself have written, I, Matthew.” Like the Gospel of Matthias it condemns sexuality: “woe to you who love intimacy with that which is feminine.” But Puech (H-S, I, 313) objects that the transcriber is Matthew and not Matthias. The names are two different Greek transliterations that ultimately derive from the Hebrew or Aramaic Mattathiah.

G. Pistis Sophia. A Gnostic work known as the Pistis Sophia, “Faith Wisdom,” has been preserved in the Coptic Codex Askewianus, a parchment from ca. 350–400 acquired by the British Museum in 1785. This was first translated in 1851 and retranslated in 1905 by C. Schmidt. The three sections of the Pistis Sophia were composed originally in Greek ca. A.D. 250–300; the fourth untitled section of the codex was composed ca. 200–250.

This treatise consists of a series of 46 questions posed to the Lord in the 12-year interval after the Resurrection; of these 39 are asked by Mary Magdalene. The answers are written down by Philip. The prominence of Mary exasperates Peter, who cries out, “My Lord, we shall not be able to endure this woman, for she takes our opportunity, and has not let any of us speak, but talks all the time herself” (Pistis Sophia 146). Similar resentment against her is expressed in the Gospel of Mary (see V.I. below), and in the last logion of the Coptic Gospel of Thomas.

多雷斯 (Secret Books, 226, 336 页) 认为《马提亚福音》和在拿·戈玛第发现的《争战者多马书》(CG II.7) 是同一部作品, 因为作品中有“我马太记录的, 救主教训犹太和多马的秘密话语”这样一句话, 所以该书“是他为完全的人所写的”。和《马提亚福音》一样, 这部作品也谴责肉欲: “愿与女人亲热的人有祸了”。但皮尤彻 (H-S, I, 313) 注意到这本书的转录者是马太而非马提亚。马太和马提亚是从希伯来语或亚兰语词语 Mattathiah 音译过来的两个不同希腊语名字。

G. 《皮斯特斯·索菲娅》。这是一部诺斯替教作品, 也被称为《信仰智慧书》, 该书保存在一份约公元 350 年至 400 年的科普特语羊皮纸《阿斯克维抄本》中, 大英博物馆于 1785 年获得了这份抄本。1851 年, 人们首次翻译了这部作品, 1905 年施密特 (C. Schmidt) 再次进行翻译。《皮斯特斯·索菲娅》中的三个部分最初 (约公元 250 年至 300 年) 用希腊语写成; 抄本中未命名的第四部分约于公元 200 年至 250 年间写成。

这部作品由人们在主复活后的 12 年间向主提出的 46 个问题组成; 其中 39 个问题是抹大拉的马利亚提出的。腓力记录了主的回答。马利亚不停提问, 这激怒了彼得, 他高声喊道, “我的主啊, 我们再不能忍受这个女子, 她夺了我们的机会, 不让我们讲话, 自己却一直说话” (《皮斯特斯·索菲娅》, 146)。《马利亚福音》(见下文 V.I.) 和科普特语《多马福音》的最后一条语录中也表现出了同样的愤怒。

Jesus informs his disciples of his victory over the evil celestial powers, and of his encounter with Pistis Sophia, who sorrows because of her fall from the Pleroma. He tells his disciples that they must learn the mysteries of the Books of Jeu (see V.H. below). Jesus informs them about a baptism of the first oblation, a baptism of fire, and a baptism of the Holy Spirit.

H. Books of Jeu. The Coptic Codex Brucianus contains A Great Treatise according to the Mystery or The Books of Jeu. The papyrus codex, dated to the 4th to 6th centuries, was acquired by the Bodleian Library in 1769. It is a translation of a Greek work composed in the first half of the 3rd century. The work received a preliminary translation in 1891, and was retranslated by C. Schmidt in 1905.

Jesus reveals how the Father projected from his bosom Jeu, the true God, who dwells in the Treasury of Light. He warns his disciples not to reveal secrets to the licentious Gnostics. After reciting magical prayers, Jesus administers to his disciples baptisms of water, of fire, and of the Holy Spirit. As a preparation for the baptisms the disciples bring to Jesus various plants, the juniper, the terebinth, etc., probably for their magical properties. An untitled section of the codex gives a description of the various emanations from the supreme God.

I. Gospel of Mary (Magdalene). The Coptic papyrus Codex Berolinensis 8502, dated to the 5th cent., was acquired in 1896. It was lost during the Second World War, but W. Till was able to publish a

在书中，耶稣告知门徒祂战胜了邪恶的掌权的，还说祂遇见了皮斯特斯·索菲娅，她因为从第十三个永世跌落而十分悲伤。祂告诉门徒，他们必须了解《论约伊的书》中的奥秘（见下文 V.H.）。耶稣还给门徒讲述了第一个祭品的洗礼、火的洗礼和圣灵的洗礼。

H. 《论约伊的书》。根据《奥秘之书》或《论约伊的书》科普特语《布鲁西抄本》包含一篇重要的论文。这部蒲草纸抄本的抄写时间可以追溯到 4 至 6 世纪，博德利图书馆于 1769 年收藏了这份抄本。该书是一部 3 世纪上半叶的拉丁语作品的译本。这部作品首译于 1891 年，1905 年，施密特再次翻译了这部作品。

在书中，耶稣启示了圣父如何从居住在光明宝库中的真上帝约伊的怀抱中投射出来。耶稣警告门徒不要向放纵的诺斯替教徒揭示奥秘。耶稣吟唱了一段神奇的祈祷词，然后用水、火和圣灵给祂的门徒施洗。门徒为了准备洗礼，给耶稣带来各种各样的植物，如杜松、笃耨香等，可能因为这类植物有神奇的特性。这部抄本中未命名的部分描述了从至高的上帝而来的各种散发物。

I. 《马利亚（抹大拉）福音》。人们于 1896 年发现了 5 世纪时期的科普特语蒲草纸抄本《柏林蒲草纸断片 8502》（Codex Berolinensis）。二战时期，这部抄本遗失了，但蒂尔（W. Till）根据 translation in 1955 from C. Schmidt's notes. The codex contains an apocryphal Acts of Peter and three Gnostic works: (1) the Apocryphon of John, a work which is also contained in three NAG HAMMADI codices (CG II.1, CG III.1, CG IV.1); (2) the Sophia of Jesus, also contained in a Nag Hammadi codex (CG III.4); and (3) the Gospel of Mary.

The Gospel of Mary was composed in Greek in the 2nd century. A portion of it is also contained in a Greek papyrus, Pap. Rylands 463, dated to the 3rd century.

In this gospel the Savior tells the disciples, "Sin as such does not exist, but you make sin when you do what is of the nature of fornication, which is called 'sin.'" He reveals other mysteries only to Mary Magdalene, whom he loves above all women. She in turn describes to the disciples how the soul is questioned by such powers as Darkness and Ignorance during its ascent to heaven.

Peter is indignant at the favoritism shown to Mary, and bursts out, "Did he then speak secretly with a woman, in preference to us and not openly?" Whereupon Mary is aggrieved and protests, "My brother Peter, what do you think? Do you think that I thought this up myself in my heart or that I am lying concerning the Savior?" Levi comes to her defense and rebukes Peter, "But if the Savior made her worthy, who are you to reject her?"

施密特的注释于 1955 年发表了这部抄本的翻译本。这份抄本包含次经《彼得行传》和三部诺斯替教作品：(1)《约翰藏经》，拿·戈玛第(见 NAG HAMMADI [拿·戈玛第])发现的三部合集(CG II.1, CG III.1, CG IV.1)中也包含这部作品；(2)《耶稣智慧书》，拿·戈玛第发现的一部合集中也包含这部作品(CG III.4)；(3)《马利亚福音》。

《马利亚福音》于 2 世纪时用希腊语写成。3 世纪时期的一份希腊语蒲草纸抄本(Pap. Rylands 463)也包含这部作品中的部分内容。

在这部福音书中，救主告知门徒说，“罪并不存在，是你们让罪产生的，你们做事本质上跟奸淫一模一样时，这就叫做‘罪’”。祂仅向抹大拉的马利亚揭示了其他奥秘，祂爱马利亚比爱其他妇女多。于是马利亚向门徒讲述了当魂升上天堂时，黑暗和无知是如何提问它的。

彼得因救主偏袒马利亚而愤愤不平，他大声说，“他是不是真的瞒着我们，私下跟一个女人讲话？”马利亚因此十分委屈，抗议说，“我的兄弟彼得，你在想什么？难道你以为我自己编造出这些东西来，还是以为我说有关救主的谎话？”利未为马利亚辩护，并指责彼得说，“救主若要她配得，你实在又是谁，可以拒绝她？”

J. 《拿·戈玛第文库》中的福音书。人们于 1945 年(或 1946 年)偶然在上埃及拿·戈玛第附近发现的 12 部科普特语文集和第 13 部文集的残本，这是有史以来最重要的发现之一。这些文集创 of all times. The codices date from the 4th cent. and were buried early in the 5th century. The texts are cited as follows: CG stands for Cairensis Gnosticus, the name of the collection; the Roman numeral corresponds to the number of the codex and the Arabic numeral to the tractate in a given codex. Among the fifty-three treatises are a number of gospels used by Gnostics.

1. Gospel of Thomas (CG II.2). Quite distinct from the Infancy Gospel of Thomas (see II.C. above) is the Coptic Gospel of Thomas. References in Origen In Luc. Hom. 1, in Eusebius HE iii.25.6, and in Ambrose In Luc. I.2 may be to this Gospel of Thomas. Hippolytus Ref. v.7.20 says that a Gospel of Thomas was used by the Naassenes, and cites a sentence from this work.

The Gospel of Thomas was originally composed in Greek, probably in Edessa in Syria ca. 140. It consists entirely of logia or sayings of Jesus, a number of which are also contained in Greek Oxyrhynchus Papyri, dated ca. 150. A number of the sayings are also paralleled in the Gospel of Hebrews (IV.C. above) and in the Gospel of the Egyptians (V.E. above) as well as in later Manichaean writings.

The 114 logia of the Gospel of Thomas represent the most extensive collection of noncanonical sayings of Jesus extant. Forty of these are entirely new. Some scholars, such as Koester (in Trajectories Through Early Christianity [1971], pp. 128–143) and Quispel (NTS, 12 [1966], 372), maintain that these sayings are based on an independent Aramaic tradition. A number of the logia may

作于 4 世纪，并于 5 世纪时被埋葬。文集中有这样一段话：CG 代表科普特语诺斯替教作品，是整部文集的名称；罗马数字表示每卷文集的编号，阿拉伯数字代表文集每部作品编号。《拿·戈玛第文库》一共有 53 部作品，其中许多是诺斯替教派阅读的福音书。

1、《多马福音》(CG II.2)。这部科普特语《多马福音》和《多马的耶稣婴童福音》(见上文 II.C.) 截然不同。俄利根 (In Luc. Hom.)、优西比乌 (HE iii.25.6)、安波罗修 (In Luc. I.2) 在各自的作品中提到的可能是这部《多马福音》。希坡律陀 (Ref. v.7.20) 称挪阿新派曾阅读过《多马福音》，并从中引用了一句话。

《多马福音》最初是用希腊语写成的，可能于约 140 年写于叙利亚的伊得撒。该书完全由耶稣的箴言或耶稣语录组成，其中的一部分也收录在希腊语的《俄西林古蒲草纸》(约 150 年) 中。书中的一些语录也类似于《希伯来人福音》(上文 IV.C.)、《埃及人福音》(上文 V.E.) 以及后来的摩尼教作品中的内容。

《多马福音》中的 114 条耶稣语录是现存的收录了最多耶稣典外语录的合集。其中有四十条箴言以前从未出现过。克斯特 (Trajectories Through Early Christianity [1971], 128–143 页)、基斯佩尔 (NTS, 12 [1966], 372) 等学者坚持认为这些语录是参照了一些独立的亚兰语经外传说。其中许多箴言可能确实是耶稣所说 (见 AGRAPH A IV.D [福音书以外的耶稣言语 IV.D])。 preserve genuine agrapha (see AGRAPHIA IV.D).

The sayings are colored by Naassene Gnosticism according to Grant (VC, 13 [1959], 174–180), by Valentinian Gnosticism according to Gärtner and L. Cerfaux (Muséon, 70 [1957], 321), and by Encratism according to Quispel (in Bible and Modern Scholarship, ed. J. P. Hyatt [1965], pp. 252–58) and Grobel (NTS, 8 [1962], 367–373). In any case they stress perfection obtained through sexual abnegation and asceticism.

Among the three new parables are: (1) logion 21, a parable of children who take off their clothes in a field, i.e. Gnostics or Encratites who die and discard their bodies; (2) logion 97, the parable of a woman who was unaware that her jar was leaking grain, a warning against self-confidence; and (3) logion 98, the parable of the killing of a mighty man: “The Kingdom of the Father is like a man who wishes to kill a powerful man. He drew the sword in his house, he stuck it into the wall, in order to know whether his hand would carry through; then he slew the powerful (man)” (cf. Lk. 14:28–32).

The final logion reads: “Simon Peter said to them: ‘Let Mary (Magdalene) go out from among us, because women are not worthy of the Life.’ Jesus said: ‘See, I shall lead her, so that I will make her male, that she too may become a living spirit, resembling you males. For every woman who makes herself male will enter the Kingdom of Heaven.’” This refers to the ultimate reunification of the sexes, as the Gnostics maintained that the separation of the sexes was responsible for the origin of evil.

不同学者认为是不同的教派润色了这些语录，格兰特认为是挪阿新派诺斯替教徒 (VC, 13 [1959], 174–180)，加特纳和赛福克斯 (L. Cerfaux) 认为是华伦提努派诺斯替教徒 (Muséon, 70 [1957], 321)，基斯佩尔和格罗贝尔认为是禁欲派 (Bible and Modern Scholarship, J. P. Hyatt 编 [1965], 252–58 页；NTS, 8 [1962], 367–373)。总之，这些教派都强调人们可以通过克己和节欲获得完全。

书中有三则从未出现过的寓言：(1) 第 21 条语录，是一则关于小孩子在田中脱下衣服的寓言，这表示的是诺斯替教徒或禁欲派教徒死后离开肉身；(2) 第 97 条语录，这条寓言描述了一个女人不知道她的瓶子已经破碎，食物正从中漏出，这是警告人们不要太过自信；(3) 第 98 条语录，一则关于杀掉大能勇士的寓言：“父的国度就好像一个人，想杀死一个大能勇士。他就在家中拔剑，将剑插在墙上，好知道我的手是否有力量；然后把大能勇士杀了。”（参：路 14:28-32）。

最后一条语录写道：“西门彼得对他们说：‘让马利亚（抹大拉的）离开我们吧！因为女人是不配得到生命的。’耶稣说：‘看！我会带领她，使她成为男的，好叫她也能变成活着的、男性的灵，像你们一样。凡将自己变成男人的女人，都可以进入天国。’”这里指的是人的性别会最终统一，因为诺斯替教徒坚信，性别的不同是罪恶之源。

2. Gospel of Philip (CG II.3). The Pistis Sophia declares that the three disciples who wrote down the Savior's revelations were Matthew, Thomas, and Philip. Apart from the title at the end and paragraph 91, Philip is not mentioned in this work. The title The Gospel of Philip may therefore have been secondary. Epiphanius (Haer. 26.13.2f.) refers to a Gospel of Philip used by Egyptian Gnostics, but the words which he cites are not found in this gospel.

The original Greek composition dates to the 2nd century. The Gospel of Philip is a Valentinian work with 127 paragraphs expounding Gnostic doctrines, often through parables. There is a particular stress on sacraments—baptism, chrism, “redemption,” and a “bridal chamber”—which recalls the Valentinian Marcosians.

The Gospel of Philip, p. 104, lines 26–30 (para. 23), seems to be an attack on those who maintain a mere resurrection of the flesh: “Some are afraid lest they rise naked. Because of this they wish to rise in the flesh, and they do not know that those who bear the flesh [it is they who are] naked.” The Gospel of Philip 121.1–5 (90) seems to defend the concept of a present spiritual resurrection (cf. 2 Tim. 2:18): “Those who say, ‘They will die first and rise again,’ are in error. If they do not first receive the resurrection while they live, when they die they will receive nothing.’”

A passage in 130.2–6 (122) speaks of the mystery of the undefiled marriage, a reference to the Valentinian concept of

2、《腓力福音》(CG II.3)。根据《皮斯特斯·索菲娅》中的记载,写下救主启示的三个使徒是马太、多马和腓力。书中除了末尾的题目和第 91 段,其他地方并未提到腓力的名字。因此《腓力福音》这个名字可能并不重要。伊皮法尼(Haer. 26.13.2-3)提及了埃及诺斯替教徒阅读的一部《腓力福音》,但是人们并未在这部作品中找到他引用的文本。

该书最初的希腊语版本可以追溯至 2 世纪。《腓力福音》是一部华伦提努派的作品,包含 127 个段落,详细地解释了诺斯替教的教义,多处运用了寓言。书中着重描述了圣事——洗礼、恩膏、“救赎”和“新房”——这使人们回忆起了华伦提努派的马库斯派教徒(Marcosians)。

《腓力福音》104 页第 26-30 行(第 23 段)似乎是在攻击那些仅坚持肉体复活的人:“有些人唯恐他们将来复活时会是赤身的。因为这个缘故,他们希望能在肉身中复活。他们并不知道,那些披着肉身的正是赤裸的。”《腓力福音》121 页第 1-5 行(第 90 段)似乎是在为一种当时灵的复活的观念辩护(参:提后 2:18):“说他们要先死去然后再复活的人错了。人若不趁还活着的时候先领受复活,到死的时候便什么也得不着了”。

《腓力福音》130 页第 2-6 行(第 122 段)提及了纯洁婚姻的奥秘,这指的是华伦提努派认为婚姻是一种性别统一 marriage as a positive symbol of the reunification of the sexes. Similar is the reference in 117.1–4 (73) to a “bridal chamber” which “is not for the beasts, nor is it for the slaves, nor for the women defiled; but it is for the free men and virgins.”

3. Gospel of Truth (CG I.2). Irenaeus (Adv. haer. iii.11.9) writes, “But they who are from Valentinus ... boast of having more gospels than there are. In fact they have gone to such lengths of audacity as to entitle what was not long ago composed by them [the] Gospel of Truth, though it in no way agrees with the Gospels of the Apostles.” Since a further reference, Adv. haer. ii.24.6 (cf. i.16.2), and the Gospel of Truth 31.4–32.17 both refer to the counting of the ninety-nine sheep with the fingers of the two hands, we may identify the latter as the work written by Valentinus himself, perhaps ca. 140–145, before his break with the orthodox church. There are allusions in this work to eighteen books of the NT, including the four Gospels and the Apocalypse.

The Gospel of Truth is found in the codex bought for the Jung Institute in Zurich. It was the first of the Nag Hammadi works to be translated, appearing in 1956 as the Evangelium Veritatis. Several pages of this gospel were among the 38 pages of the codex which became detached and were sold to the Coptic Museum in Cairo. These were translated in 1961 as a supplement.

The maddeningly unsystematic essay is a meditation on the Gnostic understanding of the universe and salvation. Its opening words are: “The Gospel of Truth is a joy

的积极象征。类似的还有 117 页第 1-4 行（第 73 段），“新房不是为动物预备的，也不是为奴仆、或是不洁的富人；它却单单是为了自由的人和童贞女而预备的。”

3、《真理福音》(CG I.2)。爱任纽写道 (Adv. haer. iii.11.9)，“但是华伦提努派竟胆敢将自己的杜撰提出来，夸说实际存在着更多的福音书。他们胆大妄为，竟把他们近来的一部杜撰，称为“真理的福音”，其实它与使徒们的福音书完全不符。”由于《反异端》(Adv. haer. ii.24.6，参：i.16.2)和《真理福音》(31.4–32.17)都提到了用双手的手指查出 99 只羊，因此我们可以认定《真理福音》是华伦提努亲笔所写，写作时间大约是公元 140 年至 145 年，此时他还未与正统教会决裂。书中提到了 18 部《新约》中的经卷，包括四福音和《启示录》。

苏黎世荣格学院买下的抄本中发现了《真理福音》。这是《拿·戈玛第文库》中第一部被翻译过来的作品，该译本于 1956 年发表，题目为《真理福音》(Evangelium Veritatis)。开罗的科普特博物馆买下了 38 页从《拿·戈玛第文库》中分离的抄本，《真理福音》中有几页也在其中。1961 年人们翻译了这几页并将其作为该书的补充。

这部令人恼火的、条理不清的文章是对诺斯替教关于宇宙和救赎的理解的沉思。该书的开篇如下：“对于那些藉着从丰盛而出的道之能力，并从真理的父

for them who have received the boon, through the Father of Truth, of knowing it by virtue of the Word who came from the Pleroma.” Ignorance about the Father produces anguish and terror; man without gnosis is like one who is enmeshed in a fog.

It is Planē or Deceit who elaborated matter by a process of emanation, and who in anger nailed Jesus to a tree. Thereupon “having divested himself of these perishing rages, he (Jesus) clothed himself with the imperishability which none has power to take from him” (20.30–34).

4. Gospel of the Egyptians (CG III.2, IV.2). A Coptic work called The Sacred Book of the Invisible Great Spirit also has the title The Gospel of the Egyptians. It is quite distinct from another work with the latter title (see V.E. above). It contains a passage cited by Epiphanius Haer. 26.13 as coming from a Gospel of Philip.

This Sethian or Barbelo-Gnostic work is similar to the anonymous treatise in the Codex Brucianus. It describes how there emerge from the Ineffable Father the three powers of the Father, the Mother, and the Son, “issuing from the living Silence.” There then proceeds emanation upon emanation so that five ogdoads (groups of eight beings) are formed. The mother of angels, a grotesque Plesithea, appears. Her four breasts produce the fruit of Gomorrha and Sodom.

A parody of the OT Yahweh, the demiurge Sacla, cries out: “I am a jealous god and there is no other beside me.” Heaven responds with the declaration, “Man exists, and so does the Son of 那里领受恩典得以认识他的人而言，真理的福音乃是喜乐。”对父的无知会带来痛苦和恐慌；不知真理的人就像是身处迷雾中的人。

是谬误 (Planē 或 Deceit) 通过精神力量使得问题复杂化，也是它愤怒地将耶稣钉在树上。因此“脱去了那会朽坏的衣服，祂（耶稣）穿上了不能朽坏的；那是没人能从他那里夺去的” (20.30–34)。

4、《埃及人福音》(CG III.2, IV.2)。一部题为“伟大而不可见之灵的圣书”的科普特语作品也同样被称为《埃及人福音》。该书与另一部同样名为《埃及人福音》(见上文 V.E.) 的作品截然不同。伊皮法尼 (Haer. 26.13) 引用了该书的一个段落，这个段落出自《腓力福音》。

这部赛特派或巴贝洛派诺斯教作品类似于《布鲁西抄本》中的同名作品。书中描述了有三种力量从不可言喻的圣父而来，即圣父、圣母和圣子，他们“从活着的寂静而来”。书中随后描述了由父而来的五个奥加达（八个一组）。众天使之母，奇形怪状的佩斯蒂尔 (Plesithea) 出现了。她的四个乳房哺育了蛾摩拉和所多玛的果实。

该书参照《旧约》中的耶和华神，拙劣地仿造出了造物主撒卡拉 (Sacla)，他高喊：“我是一个嫉妒的神，除我之外，再无其它神存在。”天堂回应并宣告说，“那人存在，他是人子。”

Man.”

Three divine visitations, including a flood, are announced. Seth is given a holy, magical baptism which will enable his race to escape from the evil god. The final section contains a series of magical vowels similar to the formulae found in the Egypto-Hellenistic magical texts edited by Preisendanz.

VI. A Secret Gospel of Mark?-In 1973 Morton Smith published a MS which he had discovered in 1958 at the monastery of Mar Saba, SE of Jerusalem. The eighteenth-century MS, copied on two and a half blank pages of a book, contains part of a letter ascribed to Clement of Alexandria.

The letter maintains that the Carpocratian Gnostics derived their doctrines from a secret Gospel of Mark. It asserts that, after Peter's death at Rome, Mark came to Alexandria and composed a more spiritual gospel for those who were being perfected. Passages which are cited from this gospel include the description of the raising of a dead youth by Jesus. After his resurrection the youth came to Jesus with only a linen cloth over his nude body, "and he remained with him that night, for Jesus taught him the mystery of the kingdom of God."

Smith has drawn the most unwarranted conclusions from what is obviously but another apocryphal gospel. He not only asserts that this new gospel is earlier than canonical Mark but even argues that it reveals that the essence of Christianity was erotic magic.

VII. Evaluation.-The apocryphal gospels,

天堂降下了三次天罚，其中就包括洪水。塞特得到了一场神圣的、有魔力的洗礼，从而得以逃离邪恶的神。最后一部分包含一系列神奇的元音，这类似于普莱森丹茨所编的希腊化埃及魔法书中发现的咒语。

VI. 马可的神秘福音（尚有疑问）。1973年，莫顿·史密斯（Morton Smith）发表了一份他在耶路撒冷东南方的玛·沙巴的修道院内发现的手稿。这份18世纪的手稿被抄录在一本书的空白页上，篇幅为两页半，手稿中包含一份据说是亚历山太的革利免所写的书信。

这封书信中称迦坡加德派诺斯替教徒的教义来源于一部《马可的秘密福音》。书信中称，彼得在罗马去世之后，马可来到了亚历山大港，并为那些完全的人创作了一部较属灵的福音书。书信中引用了该部作品中的段落，包括一段关于耶稣使一位年青人复活描述。这个年青人复活之后，只用一块细麻布长衣遮盖赤身就来见耶稣，“那晚他就与耶稣同住，因耶稣教导他上帝国的奥秘”。

史密斯从书中得出了最无根据的结论，但他显然是从另一部次经福音书中得出的。他不仅断言这部新发现的福音书比正典《马可福音》时间更早，甚至还认为该书揭示了基督教教义的本质是色情的邪术。

VII. 评价。次经福音书，即使是最早

even the earliest and soberest among them, can hardly be compared with the canonical Gospels. They are all patently secondary and legendary or obviously slanted. Commenting on the infancy gospels, Morton Enslin concludes: “Their total effect is to send us back to the canonical gospels with fresh approval of their chaste restraint in failing to attempt to fill in the intriguing hidden years” (IDB, I, 167).

A. Roberts and J. Donaldson, the editors of the Ante-Nicene Library, observe that while the apocryphal gospels afford us “curious glimpses of the state of the Christian conscience, and of modes of thought in the first centuries of our era, the predominant impression which they leave on our minds is a profound sense of the immeasurable superiority, the unapproachable simplicity and majesty, of the Canonical Writings.”

Though the authentic gold of possibly genuine AGRAPHA contained in the massive dross of the apocryphal gospels is minute, their influence on literature and art through the Middle Ages (especially the 13th–15th cent.) was enormous and even greater than that of the canonical Gospels themselves. The legendary account of Pilate in the Gospel of Nicodemus influenced the passion plays of the 15th century. The Marian legends of the infancy gospels, especially as incorporated by Jacobus de Voragine in The Golden Legend (A.D. 1298), became widely known. These stories inspired Giotto to paint “The Exclusion of Joachim from the Temple,” Raphael to paint “The Betrothal of the Virgin,” and Titian to paint “The Presentation of the Virgin in the Temple.” They have contributed to the development of the Roman exaltation of Mary in no insignificant measure.

最严肃的，也很难与正典的福音书相比。它们显然都是次要的，并带有传奇性质，或者带有明显的偏见。莫顿·恩斯林（Morton Enslin）评注耶稣的婴童福音时总结道：“它们的全部作用就是令我们回到正典的福音书上，这些正典严肃节制，没有试图去补充那些遗失的、引人好奇的年代发生的事情，因此我们对这些正典形成了新的认可”（IDB, I, 167）。

尼西亚前期文库的编辑者罗伯茨（A. Roberts）和唐纳森（J. Donaldson）评论道，虽然次经福音书使我们“瞥见了主后前几个世纪基督徒的道德状况和思维方式，并满足了我们的好奇心，但它们给我们留下的主要印象使得我们更为深刻地体会到正典文献的不可估量的优越性，及其无与伦比的质朴与威严。”

次经福音书中包含大量的异端邪说，但是其中也包含一些可能是真正的耶稣语录（见 AGRAPHA [福音书以外的耶稣言语]），虽然这些作品中包含的真正语录很少，但作品本身给中世纪的文学和艺术所带来的影响却是巨大的，甚至多于正典福音书。《尼哥底母福音》中关于彼拉多的传奇记录影响了 15 世纪的耶稣受难复活剧。耶稣婴童福音中关于马利亚的传说，尤其是被雅古普·德·佛拉衲（Jacobus de Voragine）收录在《黄金传说》（The Golden Legend, 1298 年）中的传说，流传十分广泛。这些故事激发了许多画家的灵感，使他们创作出许多著名的作品，如乔托的“乔基姆被逐出圣殿”，拉斐尔的“圣母的婚礼”，以及提香的“献马利亚于圣殿”。这些作品都在很大程度上促进了罗马人高举马利亚。

The Aquarian Gospel, produced by Levi Dowling (1844–1911) and derived in part from the Protevangelium, and numerous other examples described by Edgar Goodspeed demonstrate that the motivation which inspired the creation of the apocryphal gospels is still very much alive.

The foundation of the town may perhaps be dated ca. 432 B.C.; in any case, coins are extant that attest its existence in the 4th cent. B.C. (B.V. Head, Historia Numorum [n.d.], p. 181). Paul and Silas passed through the town on their journey from Philippi to Thessalonica, but apparently did not stay there (Acts. 17:1).

APOLLONIUS

ap-ə-lō'nēəs [Gk. Apollōnios]. A common name among the Syro-Macedonians.

1. Governor of Coelesyria under Seleucus Philopater (2 Macc. 3:5ff.). In v. 5 the AV and NEB, following the Greek text, read "son of Thras(a)eus," while the RSV has "of Tarsus." By his authority in that province he supported Simon the governor of the temple at Jerusalem against Onias the high priest. He was also chief minister of state to Seleucus. But on the accession of Antiochus Epiphanes, Apollonius, in some way incurring the disfavor of the new king, left Syria and retired to Miletus.

不远处, 地处连接亚得里亚海岸和赫布鲁斯河 (Hebrus, 又名马里查河 [Maritza]) 的罗马大路埃纳提亚大道之上, 这条大道是罗马帝国的主要军事和贸易通路之一。亚波罗尼亚位于暗妃坡里和帖撒罗尼迦之间, 距暗妃坡里约 30 罗马里 (27.6 英里, 44.4 公里), 需要一天的路程 (Livy xlv.28), 距帖撒罗尼迦 38 罗马里 (35 英里, 56.2 公里)。该城的建造时间或许可以追溯至约公元前 432 年; 无论如何, 现存的钱币证明该城曾存在于公元前 4 世纪 (B.V. APOLLONIUS 阿波罗尼

音译: ap-ə-lō'nēəs【希腊语: Apollōnios】。叙利亚人和马其顿人的常用名字。

1、塞琉古·非罗巴特治下的柯里叙利亚总督 (马二 3:5 起)。在这一章节中, 《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》遵照希腊语译本, 翻译为“特罗修之子阿波罗尼”, 而《修订标准译本》则译为“大数的阿波罗尼”。阿波罗尼运用他在行省内的职权, 帮助耶路撒冷的圣殿主管西门反抗大祭司奥尼亚。他还是塞琉古的首席国务大臣。但安提阿古·伊皮法尼继任时, 阿波罗尼在某些方面招致了这位新王的厌恶, 于是他离开叙利亚, 回到了米利都。

2、1 中柯里叙利亚总督的儿子, 当他的父亲居住在米利都时, 他却留在罗马和

Rome along with Demetrius son of Seleucus Philopator, and at that time held as a hostage by the Romans. This Apollonius lived in great intimacy with Demetrius, who, on recovering the crown of Syria, made him governor of Coelesyria and Phoenicia, the same position his father held under Seleucus Philopator. He seems to have been continued in the same capacity by Alexander (1 Macc. 10:69), but he revolted from him to embrace the interest of Demetrius.

3. Son of Menestheus, and favorite and chief minister of Antiochus Epiphanes (2 Macc. 4:21). He went as ambassador from Antiochus, first to Rome (Livy xlii.6) and afterward to Ptolemy Philometor, king of Egypt.

This is generally held to be the same man who is said to have been over the tribute (1 Macc 1:29; 2 Macc. 5:24) and who, on the return of Antiochus from his last expedition into Egypt, was sent with a detachment of 22,000 men to destroy Jerusalem. He attacked the Jews on the sabbath and killed great numbers of them (2 Macc. 5:24-27).

4. Governor of Samaria in the time of Antiochus Epiphanes. He was slain in battle by Judas Maccabeus (1 Macc. 3:10f.; Josephus Ant. xii.7.10).

5. Son of Gennaesus (2 Macc. 12:2). As governor of a toparchy in Palestine under Antiochus Eupator he proved a bitter enemy of the Jews.

塞琉古·非罗巴特的儿子底米丢一同长大，当时罗马人将他当做人质。这个阿波罗尼和底米丢的关系十分亲密，底米丢重获叙利亚王位时，封他为柯里叙利亚和腓尼基的总督，塞琉古·非罗巴特也曾赐予他父亲同样的职位。亚历山大大帝似乎仍然让他担当这一职位（马一 10:69），但他却反叛亚历山大，拥护底米丢。

3、麦尼修斯的儿子，安提阿古·伊皮法尼最器重的首相（马二 4:21）。他作为安提阿古的使者，首先前往罗马（Livy xlii.6），然后去拜见埃及王多利买·非罗密特。

人们通常认为他就是税官（马一 1:29；马二 5:24），安提阿古在最后一次远征埃及回程时，派他率领两万两千名士兵的指挥官去毁灭耶路撒冷。他在安息日那天向犹太人发起了攻击，并屠杀了大批犹太人（马二 5:24-27）。

4、安提阿古·伊皮法尼统治时期的撒玛利亚总督。他与犹大·马加比争战时被杀（马一 3:10-11；Josephus Ant. xii.7.10）。

5、吉纳由斯的儿子（马二 12:2）。安提阿古·尤佩特统治时期的地方总督，他是犹太人的宿敌。

ə-pol'əs [Gk. Apollōs, abbr. of Apollōnios (Apollonius)]. A Jew of Alexandria (Acts 18:24) who reached Ephesus in the summer of A.D. 54, while Paul was on his third missionary journey, and there "spoke and taught accurately the things concerning Jesus" (18:25).

That he was eminently fitted for the task is indicated by his being a "learned man," "mighty in the scriptures," "fervent in spirit," "instructed in the way of the Lord" (vv. 24f.). His teaching was incomplete however, in that he knew "only the baptism of John" (v. 25); and this has given rise to some controversy. According to Blass, his information was derived from a written gospel which reached Alexandria, but it was more probably the fruits of what Apollos had heard, either directly or from others, of the preaching of John the Baptist at Bethany beyond Jordan (cf. Jn. 1:28).

Upon receiving further instruction from Priscilla and Aquila (Acts 18:26), Apollos extended his mission to Achaia, being encouraged thereto by the brethren of Ephesus (v. 27). In Achaia "he helped them much that had believed through grace; for he powerfully confuted the Jews, and that publicly, showing by the scriptures that Jesus was the Christ" (vv. 27f.). During Apollos' absence in Achaia, Paul had reached Ephesus and learned of what had been taught by Apollos there (19:1). As Paul was informed that the Ephesians still knew nothing of the baptism of the Spirit (vv. 2-4), it is

APOLLOS 亚波罗

音译：ə-pol'əs 【希腊语：Apollōs, Apollōnios（阿波罗尼）的缩写】。亚历山大港的犹太人（徒 18:24），他于公元 54 年夏天来到以弗所，并在那里“将耶稣的事详细讲论教训人”（徒 18:25），当时保罗正在进行第三次传道旅程。

书中描述他是“有学问的，最能讲解圣经”，“他心里火热”，“已经在主的道上受了教训”（徒 18:24-25），这表明亚波罗能够胜任讲道的使命。然而，他的教导是不完备的，因为“他单晓得约翰的洗礼”（徒 18:25）；这引起了一些争议。布拉斯认为，亚波罗的知识来自于一部流传到亚历山大港的福音书，但他更有可能直接从其他人那里领受了福音的真知，或是在约旦河外的伯大尼听到了施洗约翰讲道（参：约 1:28），从而获得了知识。

亚波罗从百基拉和亚居拉那里得到了更多的教导（徒 18:26），在以弗所的弟兄们的鼓励下，他前往亚该亚传教（徒 18:27）。他在亚该亚“多帮助那蒙恩信主的人，在众人面前极有能力驳倒犹太人，引圣经证明耶稣是基督”（徒 18:27-28）。亚波罗在亚该亚时，保罗来到了以弗所，听说了亚波罗曾在那里教导的知识（徒 19:1）。保罗得知以弗所人仍然对圣灵洗礼一无所知（徒 19:2-4），亚波罗可能刚获得百基拉和亚居拉的更多教导不久就动身去了亚该亚，所以他没能把这些教导传授给他的听众。保罗在以弗所呆了两年多（徒 19:8-10），并于公元 57 年春天写下了

probable that Apollos had not imparted to his hearers the further instruction he had received from Priscilla and Aquila, but had departed for Achaia shortly after receiving it. Paul remained upward of two years among the Ephesians (vv. 8, 10), and in the spring of A.D. 57 he wrote the First Epistle to the Corinthians. By this time Apollos was once more in Ephesus (cf. 1 Cor. 16:12).

It is incredible that this Epistle of Paul could have been prompted by any feelings of jealousy or animosity on his part against Apollos. It was rather the outcome of discussion between the two regarding the critical situation then existing in Corinth. The mission of Apollos had met with a certain success, but the breeding of faction, which that very success, through the slight discrepancies in his teaching (cf. 1 Cor. 1:12; 3:4) with that of Paul or of Cephas, had engendered, was utterly alien to his intentions. The party spirit was as distasteful to Apollos as it was to Paul, and made him reluctant to return to the scene of his former labors even at the desire of Paul himself (16:12). The Epistle voiced the indignation of both. Paul welcomed the cooperation of Apollos (3:6: "I planted, Apollos watered"). It was not against his fellow evangelist that he fulminated, but against the petty spirit of those who loved faction more than truth, who saw not that both he and Apollos came among them as "God's fellow workers" (3:9), the common servants of the one Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. This view is also borne out by the tenor of Clement's Epistle to the Corinthians; nor does it conflict with the passages 1 Cor. 12:1-7; 2 Cor. 3:1; 11:16, where Paul seems to allude to Apollos'

《哥林多前书》。此时亚波罗再次回到了以弗所（参：林前 16:12）。

保罗在书信中反对亚波罗，但这应该并不是嫉妒或敌意的情绪。这应该是当时两人就哥林多的紧急情况讨论之后出现的结果。亚波罗的传道获得了某种成功，但他的教导与保罗或矶法的教导略有不同，这使得会众之间产生了内讧（参：林前 1:12; 3:4），而这完全有违他的初衷。亚波罗和保罗都厌恶派系之争，因此即使保罗亲自要求，他也不愿回到他此前传道的地方（林前 16:12）。书信中表现出了他们二人的愤慨。保罗乐意与亚波罗合作（林前 3:6，“我栽种了，亚波罗浇灌了”）。保罗并非是在严厉谴责和他一同传播福音的亚波罗，而是谴责那些爱内讧甚于爱真理的人的卑劣心理，那些人没有意识到保罗和亚波罗都是“与神同工的”（林前 3:9），都是唯一的主和救主耶稣基督的仆人。《革利免致哥林多书信》的大意同样证实了这种观点；这种观点并不与《哥林多前书》12:1-7 和《哥林多后书》3:1; 11:16 中的经文冲突，保罗似乎在这些段落中提到了亚波罗的口才、智慧和荐信。保罗写下这些语句并不是为了毁谤亚波罗，而是为了证明亚波罗即使没有这些优点，他在关于受难耶稣的教导上也不会输给任何人。 eloquence, wisdom, and letter of commendation. Paul wrote thus not in order to disparage Apollos, but to affirm that, even without these incidental advantages, he would yield to none in the preaching of Christ crucified.

The last mention of Apollos is in Titus, where he is recommended along with Zenas to Titus (3:13). He was then on a journey through Crete (1:5), and was probably the bearer of the Epistle. The time of this is uncertain, as the writing of Titus, though generally admitted to have been after Paul's release from imprisonment at Rome, has been variously placed at A.D. 64–67.

ə-pol'ē-ən [Gk. Apollyōn < apollyō—'destroy']. A name found only in Rev. 9:11, as a translation of the Hebrew name "Abaddon," designating an angel or prince of the lower world. In the OT ABADDON and the accompanying terms Death and Sheol are personified (as in Job. 28:22) and represented as living beings who speak and act (cf. Rev. 6:8).

The starting point of the Apocalypticist's use of "Apollyon" is to be found in the fundamental meaning of "Abaddon" as moral destruction in the underworld, together with the occasional personification of kindred terms in the OT. The imagery was in general terms familiar, while the NT writer felt perfectly free to vary the usage to suit his own particular purposes.

(1) Since Apollyon is a personification he is not to be identified with Satan (cf. Rev.

《圣经》中最后一次提到亚波罗是在《提多书》中，书中说，有人推荐他和西纳一起去找提多（多 3:13）。他随后上路途经克里特（多 1:5），他可能是送信人。此时和《提多书》的时间都尚不明确，虽然人们通常认为这事发生在保罗从罗马监狱释放之后，但人们无法确定具体发生在公元 64 至 67 年中的哪一年。

APOLLYON 亚玻伦

音译：ə-pol'ē-ən 【希腊语：Apollyōn，衍生自 apollyō——“毁灭”】。这个名字仅出现在《启示录》9:11 中，是希伯来语名字“亚巴顿”的希腊语翻译，表示阴间的使者或君主。《旧约》将亚巴顿（见 ABADDON [亚巴顿]）和一起出现的死亡和阴间（如伯 28:22）都拟人化，成为能说会动的活物（参：启 6:8）。

启示文学作者使用“亚玻伦”这个词是因为该词的基本含义是指阴间的道德败坏，而且《旧约》偶尔将该词和类似的词语拟人化。一般来说，这个词所表达的意象比较常见，而新约作者根据所要表达的特定含义，来随意变换这个词的用法。

(1) 由于亚玻伦是一个拟人化的词，所以人们通常不会将他看作是撒但

9:1, where Satan seems to be clearly indicated) or with any other being to whom historical existence and definite characteristics are ascribed. He is the central figure in a mental picture of evil forces represented as originating in the world of lost spirits and allowed to operate destructively in human life. They are pictured as locusts, but on an enlarged scale and with the addition of many features inconsistent with the strict application of the figure (see vv. 7-10). The intention is, by the multiplication of images which the author does not appear to harmonize, to convey the impression of great power and far-reaching destructiveness.

(2) This interpretation finds additional support in the writer's significant departure from the familiar usage. In the OT the place of destruction is personified; in Rev. 9:11, personal forces issue from the Abyss, of which the presiding genius is Destruction in person. The seer's picture is equally independent of the tradition represented by the Talmud (Shabbath 55f.), where Abaddon is personified as jointly with Death president over six destroying angels. These modifications are evidently due to the exigencies of the pictorial form. It is clearly impossible to portray forces proceeding from the place of ruin as in charge of the place itself.

The importance of the conception of Apollyon to the completeness of the picture should not be overlooked. It is intended to represent these forces as having a certain principle of internal unity and as possessors of the power of effective leadership.

(参：启 9:1，此处似乎明确表示撒但) 或任何曾存在于历史中并有明确特征的人物。他是人们心目中邪恶力量的中心人物，他被描绘为来自丧失的灵魂的世界，可以摧毁人类的生命。书中将他们描绘为有蝗虫的外形，但体型更大，还有许多其他不符合这一形象严格定义的特征（见启 9:7-10）。作者增加了这种意象的数目，这似乎有些与传统不符，但他的目的是赋予他们更强的力量和更广泛的破坏性。

(2) 值得注意的是，作者没有采用该词的常见用法，这给翻译时提供了一些额外的支持。《旧约》中，毁灭的居所被拟人化了；而在《启示录》9:11中，毁灭本身被拟人化了，他是无底坑所产生的力量中的魔鬼君主。《他勒目》中的亚巴顿被拟人化，他和死亡一起统治着六个毁灭天使 (Shabbath 55-56)，但先知也没有遵照这个传统来描绘亚巴顿。这些修改显然是作者在原型基础上进行的形象化处理。作者显然不可能将毁灭的居所描绘成一种势力，然后让他自己控制自己。

我们不能忽视亚玻伦的概念对于保持整个画面完整性的重要意义。作者想要描述这些无底坑力量的内部是团结的，他们遵守某种规则，而且他们拥有有效地控制自身的能力。

As to the specific significance of the vision of the locusts as a whole it is not easy to reach a conclusion. H. B. Swete suggests (comm. [1908] in loc.) that “the locusts of the abyss may be the memories of the past brought home at times of divine visitation; they hurt by recalling forgotten sins.” It seems to us more probable that it represents an actual historical movement, past or to come, demoniacal in origin and character, human in the mode of its operation and the sphere of its influence, used by God for a scourge upon mankind and kept in restraint by His grace and power.

L. M. SWEET

作者描述这些力量的整体形象是蝗虫，我们很难得出关于其中特殊意义的结论。斯韦特(H. B. Swete, comm. [1908], 见该段落)认为“无底坑的蝗虫可能代表了旧时的记忆，是神的眷顾使人免遭蝗灾；它们使人想起忘记的罪，并因此伤痛”。但对我们来说，蝗虫更可能代表了一件真实的历史事件，可能是过去的，也可能是未来的，它们的本源和特征是邪恶的，它们的行为模式类似于人类，影响的范围波及人类，神用它们来处罚人类，但神却用他的恩惠和大能对这种处罚加以限制。

I. 《旧约》中的护教学。 A. 旧约一神论的基础。《旧约》中有大量关于神和

interpretation of God and the world, constructed around the three fundamental concepts of election, revelation, and redemption.

It is the clear witness of the OT that Israel became God's people through an election of grace (cf. Dt. 1-10). Israel was not great nor holy, but small and stubborn (Dt. 9:6). Her history began concretely in the call of Abraham, which in turn was reaffirmed and enlarged in the revelation to Moses. Therefore, the root of OT theism is the gracious election of Israel (cf. H. H. Rowley, Biblical Doctrine of Election [1950]).

This election became manifest through divine revelation: "the God of glory appeared to our father Abraham" (Acts 7:2). The knowledge of God possessed by Abraham was founded in revelation, and this tiny stream of patriarchal revelation eventually became the great river of revelation of the major and minor prophets.

Election and revelation are incomplete without redemption. The fundamental redeeming act of God in the history of Israel was her deliverance from Egypt in a display of God's power and a manifestation of His glory.

The negative conclusions at this point are: (1) Israel did not first understand Yahweh as Creator and then as a consequence come to know Him as Elector, Revealer, and Redeemer; rather it was the other way around (cf. Vriezen, p. 187); (2) Israel's faith was not philosophically grounded in the sense of being a product of a rational interpretation of nature, religion, or

世界的一神论的解释，这些解释围绕拣选、启示和救赎三个基础概念展开。

以色列人因神的恩惠蒙拣选成为神的子民（参：申 1-10），这是《旧约》中的明确见证。以色列既不伟大，也不圣洁，反而是渺小和硬着颈项的（申 9:6）。以色列的确切历史从亚伯拉罕蒙召开始，摩西得到的启示又反过来再次确认并扩大了这种恩召。因此旧约一神论的基础是以色列蒙恩得神的拣选（参：H. H. Rowley, Biblical Doctrine of Election [1950]）。

这种拣选通过神的启示显示出来：“我们的祖宗亚伯拉罕……荣耀的神向他显现”（徒 7:2）。亚伯拉罕在启示中建立了神的知识，族长启示的小溪最终汇聚成了大小先知书中启示的大河。

没有救赎，拣选和启示就是不完整的。在以色列历史上，神最重要的救赎行为就是指引以色列走出埃及，神以此展现了祂的大能，并显示出祂的荣耀。

关于这一点的否定结论有：（1）以色列并未先认定耶和华是造物主，而后认定祂是拣选者、启示者和救世主；实际上顺序恰好相反（参：Vriezen, 187 页）；（2）从哲学角度来讲，以色列的信心不是建立在对自然、宗教或经历的合理解释的结果之上。 experience.

B. Yahweh as the Living God. Israel's faith was held within a polytheistic group of cultures. Speculative atheism was hardly known in the ancient world; the atheism referred to in the OT (Jer. 5:2; Ps. 10:4; 14:1) is a so-called practical atheism. The OT emphasizes differentiation of the God of Israel from the pagan gods and religions of the surrounding cultures (cf. G. E. Wright, The OT Against Its Environment [1950]). The OT speaks much more of the living God than of the true God. A living God does something; He possesses power; He is spirit; He can answer by fire (1 K. 18:24). The pagan gods are essentially lifeless, breathless, and powerless.

(1) The God of Israel is a living God because He is the Lord of history. The living God can control the affairs of men and the destinies of nations. According to the taunt of Elijah (1 K. 18:27), the lifeless god is always meditating, or gone away, or on a journey, or asleep and in need of being awakened. But the living god can turn the heart of kings. He can make Nebuchadnezzar live like a beast until he recognizes that the Lord of Israel rules the kingdoms of men (Dnl. 4:25).

Furthermore, the living Lord knows what will come to pass, whereas the idol is speechless about the future. Isaiah taunts the gods to declare the future so that "we may know that you are gods" (41:23). He calls upon them to act in history—to do good or do harm, so that "we may be dismayed or terrified" (v. 23). But the gods are lifeless, hence powerless; so Isaiah says, "Behold, you are nothing" (v. 24).

B. 永生神耶和华。以色列的信心建立在一种多神崇拜的文化群体之中。古时世界几乎没有纯理论的无神论；《旧约》中的无神论是一种所谓的实用无神论（耶 5:2；诗 10:4；14:1）。《旧约》强调以色列的神与异教的神和周边文明的宗教的区别（参：G. E. Wright, The OT Against Its Environment [1950]）。《旧约》中提及的主要是永生神，而非真神。永生神有所作为；祂拥有大能；祂是灵；祂能降火回应（王上 18:24）。异教的神基本都是没有生命的、不能呼吸的、没有大能的。

(1) 以色列的神是永生神，因为祂是历史的主宰。永生神可以控制人类的事件，还能掌控列国的命运。以利亚嘲笑说（王上 18:27），没有生命的神总是或默想、或走到一边、或行路、或睡觉，异教徒们应该叫醒他。永生神还能转变诸王的心。祂能使尼布甲尼撒像野兽一样生活，直到他意识到是以色列的主统治着人类诸国（但 4:25）。

此外，永生神知道将要发生的事，而偶像却对未来一无所知。以赛亚讽刺异教的神，要他们说明将来的事，“好叫我们知道你们是神”（赛 41:23）。以赛亚还要求他们行使能力改变历史，或降福，或降祸，好“使我们惊奇，一同观看”（赛 41:23）。但这些神明根本没有生命，因此也不具备能力；于是以赛亚说道，“看哪，你们属乎虚无”（赛 41:24）。

(2) The God of Israel is the living God because He can speak. The pagan gods are lifeless and therefore speechless. Habakkuk writes: “Woe to him who says to a wooden thing, Wake; to a dumb stone, Arise! Can this give revelation? Behold it is overlaid with gold and silver, and there is no breath in it” (2:19).

OT theism is therefore firmly grounded in revelation: in the remarkable revelatory person of the prophet, in the revelatory modalities of dreams, visions, and the divine speaking, and in the revelatory content (conceptions of God and of morality, and the schemata of blessing/judgment and prophecy/fulfillment).

(3) The God of Israel is the living God because He is Creator of all. According to the fullest revelation of the prophets He is the one and only God. There are no others. No representation may be made of Him and no idol may be worshiped, for in both instances His spirituality would be misrepresented. He is the Creator and must never be confused in any way with His creation.

In contrast the pagan idols are constructed by men from materials (cf. Ps. 96:5; Jer. 10:1–16). Such gods need nourishment from their worshipers; if they would change residence they must be picked up and carried. But the God of Israel is the sustainer of his worshipers.

God’s action in history, God’s revelation through his prophets, and God’s creation and control of the universe are the criteria that show Him to be the living Lord, whereas the pagan gods and idols are

(2) 以色列的神是永生神，因为祂能言语。异教的神没有生命，因此不能言语。哈巴谷写道：“对木偶说：‘醒起！’对哑巴石像说：‘起来！’ 那人有祸了，这个还能教训人吗？看哪，是包裹金银的，其中毫无气息”（哈 2:19）。

因此，旧约的一神论以启示作为坚实的依据：说出启示的先知，表现启示的梦境、异象和神的话语和启示的内容都表现出了这种神学理论（启示的内容包括神的知识和道德的概念，赐福与审判的基本方式和预言与应验的模式）。

(3) 以色列的神是永生神，因为祂是万有的造物主。根据众先知最完全的启示，祂是唯一的神。再没有其他神。无法描述神，也不应敬拜任何偶像，因为这样会曲解祂的灵性。祂是造物主，人们决不能将祂与受造之物混淆。

异教的神明偶像与永生神相反，它们是人们用材料建造起来的（参：诗 96:5；耶 10:1-16）。需要崇拜者供养他们；如果他们要更换居所，那么人们必须将他们抬起和搬运。但以色列的神却是信徒的支持者。

神在历史中行大能，通过先知晓谕人类，创造和统治万有，这都证明祂是永生神，然而异教的神明和偶像却不能言语，没有大能，无法助人。因此，整个《旧约》经卷中描写的以色列的神是真

speechless, powerless, and helpless. It is therefore the presupposition of the entire corpus of OT writings that the God of Israel is the true and living God, and that the faith He founded in Israel corresponds to the reality as it is in Yahweh.

II. New Testament.-A. Vocabulary of Apologetics. Although the word apologetics [Gk. apologētikós] does not appear as such in the NT, the NT uses the vocabulary of apologetics, which is derived from Greek legal practice, in a popular and technical way. In Greek law an accusation (katēgoría) was lodged against a person, who then attempted to vindicate himself with a reply, an answer, a defense (apología, vb. apologéomai). If a person had no defense against the accusation, he was called anapológētos, “without excuse,” a term Paul uses in Rom. 1:20; 2:1.

A classic example is the case of Socrates. The accusation (katēgoría) against him was that he was an atheist—in that he did not accept the gods of the state—and that he was a corrupter of the youth of Athens. To this charge Socrates made his famous defense (apología), preserved in Plato’s dialogue Apology.

Paul’s speeches before the various officials are called apologies (Acts 22:1; 24:10; 25:8; 26:1, 24). Peter says that Christians ought always to be ready to give an apología for the hope that is within them (1 Pet. 3:15). Paul says that he is set for the apología of the gospel (Phil. 1:16). Jesus told his disciples not to frame their defense ahead of time whenever they might be brought into court for loyalty to Him, but that at that time they were to trust the Holy Spirit to

神，是永生神，祂在以色列里建立的信心实际上对应着在耶和华里的事实。

II. 《新约》中的护教学。A. 护教学词汇。虽然护教学【希腊语：apologētikós】一词本身并未出现在《新约》中，但《新约》却以一种通俗且专业的方式运用了衍生自希腊法律实践的护教学词汇。在希腊法律中，人们对一个人提出控告（katēgoría）时，这个人随后会做出回复、答辩和辩护（apología，动词 apologéomai），以此证明自己无罪。如果一个人不能为控告做辩护，那么他就是 anapológētos，意思是“无可推诿”，保罗在《罗马书》1:20 和 2:1 中使用了这个词。

苏格拉底的辩护就是一个经典的实例。人们控告（katēgoría [名词]）他是无神论者，因为他不接受国家的神，还控告他使雅典年青人堕落。苏格拉底针对这些指控做出了著名的辩护（apología），柏拉图的对话体作品（Apology）保留了苏格拉底的辩护辞。

保罗在各个官员面前的演讲被称为“护教辞”（徒 22:1；24:10；25:8；26:1，24）。彼得说，有人问基督徒心中盼望的缘由，他们应该常作准备（彼前 3:15）。保罗说他是为辨明（apología [名词]）福音设立的（腓 1:16）。耶稣告知门徒说，每当他们要在法庭上表达他们对耶稣的忠诚时，不用提前思虑如何分诉，而是要坚信圣灵那时会藉着他们为主辨明（路 12:11；21:14）。 make His defense through them (Lk. 12:11; 21:14).

The translators of the LXX made little use of this vocabulary. In the rare times they did, it was to translate the Heb. rib, “to strive, contend, dispute, conduct a legal suit” (cf. B. Gemser, “The rib- or Controversy-pattern in Hebrew Mentality,” in M. Noth and D. Winton Thomas, eds., Wisdom in Israel and the Ancient Near East [SVT, 3, 1955], pp. 120–137).

B. Particularized Apologetics of the NT. The basic apologetic stance of the NT is the same as that of the OT. The writers of the NT believed that God did act in Israel’s history, that the prophetic word is God’s truth, that Yahweh is the Creator of the universe, and that idolatry is worthy of the severest judgments (cf. 1 Cor. 8:1–6; Eph. 2:1f.). However, upon this foundation the NT authors constructed a more particularized apologetic centering in the two foci of Jesus Christ and special revelation.

1. Christological. The Scriptures are nowhere concerned with the theistic proof or proofs for the existence of God, such as are found throughout the history of philosophy and theology: first, because the knowledge of God in Scripture is essentially revelational, thus displacing the function of such proofs; second, because the knowledge of God’s being from the human side is everywhere intuitional (cf. Mt. 5:8—hence the immense scriptural data on hearing and seeing, which are intuitional terms); and third, because such a simple or abstract statement as “God is” cannot begin to carry all the weight necessary for a

《七十士译本》的译者很少使用这类词汇。他们仅在极少情况下才使用它们，如在翻译希伯来词语 rib 时，这个希伯来词语的意思是“抗争、斗争、辩论、法律诉讼”（参：M. Noth and D. Winton Thomas 等人编辑，Wisdom in Israel and the Ancient Near East [SVT, 3, 1955], 120–137 页中的 B. Gemser, “The rib- or Controversy-pattern in Hebrew Mentality”）。

B. 《新约》中的特殊护教学。《新约》中的基本护教立场与《旧约》一致。《新约》中的作者相信，神确实在以色列历史中行使了大能，先知的话语就是神的真理，耶和华是万有的造物主，崇拜偶像的应受到最严厉的审判（参：林前 8:1-6；弗 2:1-2）。然而，新约作者在此基础之上建立了一种更为特殊的护教学，这种学问的两个主要焦点是耶稣基督和特殊启示。

1、基督论护教学。在《圣经》中找不到一神论的证据或神存在的证据，而在哲学历史和神学历史中随处可见这类证据：首先，因为《圣经》中神的知识主要是通过启示传达给人们的，所以就代替了这类证据的功能；其次，因为从人类的角度看，每处关于神存在的知识都是直观的（参：太 5:8——因此《圣经》有大量关于听到和看见神的记载，这都是直观的表现）；再次，因为“神是”这类简单而抽象的叙述不可能承载有意义神学和宗教所需的全分量。因此，正如加尔文的作品一样，本词条强调的是神的知识，而非神的存在。 meaningful theology and religion. Therefore the emphasis in this article, as in Calvin, is on the knowledge of God rather than on the existence of God.

The NT expresses often and forcefully that the knowledge of God is brought fully and authentically in Jesus Christ by virtue of His being God manifest in the flesh (cf. Jn. 1:1, 14, 18). Therefore the root of the NT apologetic is christological and incarnational.

a. Christianity v. Judaism. This controversy began with the debates between Jesus and the Jewish leaders. The issue behind the particular controversies was the authority of Jesus Christ; and behind that was the fundamental question whether or not Jesus Christ was the Messiah, the Son of man, with whose appearing came the fulfilment of the OT and the inbreaking of the kingdom of God. It was at root a christological controversy.

The apologetic method of Christ in these controversies was fivefold: (1) He appealed to the OT as being on His side rather than that of His opponents; (2) He argued from logic, e.g., when He demonstrated the logical absurdity in saying that He was in league with the devil in casting out demons (Mt. 12:22–25); (3) He argued from analogy in His parables and in various sayings; once, e.g., He argued that if it is right for a man to rescue a sheep on the sabbath, it ought to be more than right to heal a man on the sabbath (Mt. 12:9–12); (4) He appealed to the verifying function of signs (cf. Jn. 2:18–22; Lk. 7:18–23); (5) He placed great emphasis on the spiritual hearing of the Word of God as a self-authenticating

《新约》中通常强烈地表达出道成肉身的耶稣基督带来了全民真实的神的知识（参：约 1:1, 14, 18）。因此，新约护教学的基础是基督论和道成肉身。

a. 基督教与犹太教。耶稣和犹太领袖间的辩论开启了基督教和犹太教之间的争论。这种争论背后的问题是耶稣基督的权柄；在权柄之后是一个根本性问题，即耶稣基督是否是人子弥赛亚，当人子出现时，《旧约》中的允诺都将应验，神之国度也将要到来。这种争论从根本上来说是基督论的争论。

在这些争论中，基督的护教方法有五种：（1）祂诉诸于《旧约》，因为《旧约》是祂的支持者，而不是祂的反对者；（2）祂从逻辑的角度与人争论；如，当人们说祂靠着鬼王赶鬼时，祂指出了其中的逻辑谬误（太 12:22-25）；（3）祂通过寓言和各种谚语中的类比与人争论；比如，有一次，祂举例说如果人在安息日救羊是正确的，那么在安息日治愈人更应该是正确的（太 12:9-12）；（4）祂通过行神迹来证明祂的教导（参：约 2:18-22；路 7:18-23）；（5）祂极为强调人们应将听从神的道的属灵教导当作一种自我验证的经历（如约 5:24；10:3；太 11:15）。 experience (e.g., Jn. 5:24; 10:3; Mt. 11:15).

The debate with Judaism was carried on in Stephen's ministry (Acts 6f.), in some of Paul's letters (Romans, Galatians, 2 Corinthians, and Philippians), and in Hebrews, everywhere having this christological basis. The promises made to the fathers are fulfilled in Jesus Christ; the full knowledge of God shines in Jesus' face, not Moses' (2 Cor. 3f.); the shadows and types of the old covenant find their substance in Jesus Christ; the new covenant promised by Jeremiah was ratified in Jesus Christ; the sacrificial intentions of the Levitical system are fulfilled and ended in Christ crucified. Thus the great themes of the old covenant, the great institutions, and the representative persons find their consummation in Jesus Christ. The Jewish person with seeing eyes thus finds in Jesus Christ the complete vindication of the Christian religion, for in His person and work He sums up the entire reality of the old covenant (cf. 2 Cor. 3:7-18).

b. Christianity v. Philosophy. According to Paul, the norm for all knowledge of God is the knowledge of God in Jesus Christ (cf. 2 Cor. 10:5; Phil. 3:10; Col. 2:2f.). In Jesus Christ, the Lord of glory and the image of the invisible God, God has become fully known for the spiritual purposes of the human race; and, consequently, any proposed philosophical knowledge of God cannot be considered to compete with the knowledge of God in Jesus Christ. Thus on Mars' Hill Paul accuses the audience, which included Stoics and Epicureans, of ignorance; and he sets out the true knowledge of God as that known by creation (Acts 17:24) and

在司提反传道（徒 6-7）、保罗的一些书信（《罗马书》《加拉太书》《哥林多后书》和《腓立比书》）和《希伯来书》中，基督教与犹太教的争论仍在继续，其中每处争论都以基督论为基础。神将在耶稣基督里兑现祂对众先祖的允诺；神的完备知识是耶稣面上的荣光，而非摩西面上的荣光（林后 3-4）；《旧约》中的预表在耶稣基督里应验了；耶利米曾应许的新约在耶稣基督里得以实现；基督被钉十字架完成并结束了利未祭司的献祭。因此，旧约的伟大主题、伟大体系和代表人物在耶稣基督里得以圆满。犹太人亲眼见证了，因此他们在耶稣基督里找到了基督教的完整辩护，耶稣用祂自身和祂的工作概括了旧约的全部真实性（参：林后 3:7-18）。

b. 基督教与哲学。据保罗所说，所有神的知识的标准就是神在耶稣基督里的知识（参：林后 10:5；腓 3:10；西 2:2-3）。耶稣基督是荣耀的主，是那不能看见之神的像，世人在基督里知晓了神的属灵旨意；因此，人们提出的任何关于神的哲学知识都无法比拟神在耶稣基督里的知识。因此，保罗在亚略巴古上谴责听众的无知，其中包括斯多亚和伊壁鸠鲁两门的学士；他随后陈述了通过创造（徒 17:24）和耶稣基督（徒 17:31）得来的神的真正知识。在《哥林多前书》1:20-22 中，保罗称希腊的智慧人所创造的神学是愚拙的，因为无法通过他们的智慧来认识神（注意保罗说的不是神的存在，而是神的知识）。在《哥林多

Jesus Christ (17:31). In 1 Cor. 1:20–22 he claims that the wise men of Greece have produced theological foolishness, for in their proposed wisdom they failed to know God (note Paul does not speak of the existence of God, but of the knowledge of God). In 1 Cor. 2:1–6 Paul emphatically declares that Christian faith does not rest upon the methodology followed by the philosophers. Christianity does not rest upon “lofty words or wisdom,” nor upon “plausible words of wisdom,” nor upon the “wisdom of men.”

In a passage replete with military metaphor (2 Cor. 10:4f.) Paul says that in the contest for theological truth the Christian is guided by the knowledge of God as it is in Jesus Christ. In contesting Gnosticism in the Colossian letter, Paul again makes the issue one of tempting human philosophy or beguiling human wisdom over against the full knowledge of God in Jesus Christ (2:4, 8). Christ is the only image of the invisible God. Only in Christ is the vast storehouse of the true knowledge of God (cf. Col. 1:15–20; 2:1–4; 2:8–3:5).

According to Paul the Resurrection put the status of the person of Christ beyond dispute. The early Church had composed a list of “official” appearances of the risen Lord (1 Cor. 15:3–11). Remarkably, this list did not include the appearances to the women, but did include the appearance to Paul. This also constituted the objective basis for Paul’s apostleship (1 Cor. 9:1). The Resurrection marked out Jesus Christ as the powerful Son of God, thus setting the issue above equivocation (cf. G. Kock, Die Auferstehung Jesa Christi [1959]).

前书》2:1-6 中，保罗强调基督徒的信心并不取决于哲学家们所遵循的方法论。基督教的教义既不依赖于“高言大智”，也不依赖于“智慧委婉的话语”，更依赖于“人的智慧”。

在一段充满军事比喻的经文（林后 10:4-5）中，保罗称基督徒在为神的真理争战时，神在耶稣基督里的知识指导了他们。保罗在《歌罗西书》中反驳诺斯替主义，祂再次提出骗人的人类哲学或智慧与神在耶稣基督里的完备知识是完全对立的（西 2:4, 8）。基督是不可看见之神的唯一的像。只有在基督里蕴藏着丰富的神的知识（参：西 1:15-20; 2:1-4; 2:8-3:5）。

据保罗所述，基督复活证明了基督的身份人。早期的教会整理了一份复活后的主“正式”显现的列表（林前 15:3-11）。值得注意的是，这份列表并未包含基督向众妇女显现，但确实提及了基督向保罗显现。这也构成了保罗使徒身份的客观基础（林前 9:1）。耶稣基督的复活表明祂就是有大能的神的独生子，从而明确了祂的身份（参：G. Kock, Die Auferstehung Jesa Christi [1959]）。

The christological knowledge of God is opposed to specific humanly constructed philosophies that compete against it, not to rationality as such. The elaborate emphasis of the NT on truth is not to be overlooked. It is referred to more than 170 times in the NT. Many traditional forms of logic were employed by Jesus and Paul. In the debates of Jesus with His contemporaries He made repeated appeals to the rational powers of His hearers (“What do you think?”—Mt. 17:25; 18:12; 22:17; Lk. 10:36). Paul carries on profound discourses in his Epistles, leading one to conclude that he expected his readers to use their minds to the fullest. Writing to the Corinthians he says: “I speak as to sensible men [Gk. phrónimos, “intelligent, wise”]; judge for yourselves what I say” (1 Cor. 10:15). For the balance between theology and philosophy, cf. CD, 1/2, 607–609, 727–736.

2. Revelational. The NT teaches that our knowledge of God is revelational. The existence of God is neither rationally demonstrated nor presumed, but revealed.

a. General Revelation and Sin. The NT teaches that all men are under a general revelation of God. In Acts 10:35 Peter says that men in all nations may fear God and do right, which implies some witness of God’s being and holiness. In Acts 14:17 Paul says that God’s witness to the gentile world was His goodness in the fruitfulness of the earth; in Acts 17 he promulgates the theses that man is God’s offspring, that He is near the seeking pagan, and that He is the Creator, who gives life to all things (vv. 24–28). In Rom. 1:19f. Paul argues that God reveals

神在基督里的知识与特殊的人类哲学对立竞争，但并不与理性对立。人们不应忽视《新约》中对真理的着重强调，《新约》提到真理 170 多次。耶稣和保罗采用了许多传统的逻辑形式。耶稣多次呼吁听众关注理性的力量（“你[们]的意思如何？——太 17:25；18:12；22:17；路 10:36”）。保罗继续在书信中写下意义深刻的话语，因此人们可以推断保罗是希望他的读者充分地运用他们的头脑。他在给哥林多人的书信中写道：“我好像对明白人[希腊语：phrónimos, “聪明的、智慧的”]说的，你们要审察我的话”（林前 10:15）。关于神学和哲学之间的平衡，参：CD, 1/2, 607–609, 727–736。

2、启示护教学。《新约》教导说，我们关于神的知识来自于启示。既不能用理性论证神的存在，也不能推测神的存在，而应通过启示知晓神的存在。

a. 一般启示和罪。《新约》教导说，所有人都可以得到神的一般启示。在《使徒行传》10:35 中，彼得说各国的人都可以敬畏神并行义，这见证了神的存在和圣洁。在《使徒行传》14:17 中，保罗称神常施恩惠，使地上丰收，这是神存在于外邦的证据；在《使徒行传》17 章中，保罗称神创造了人类，祂离那些寻求神的异教徒不远，祂是造物主，赐予万有生命（徒 17:24-28）。在《罗马书》1:19-20 中，保罗认为神通过所造之物显明了自己；在《罗马书》1:32；2:6-11, 14-15, 26-29 中，保罗暗示出外邦人对神的道德命令有些恐惧（参：

Himself through the things He has created; and in Rom. 1:32; 2:6–11, 14f., 26–29, he implies that Gentiles have some apprehension of God's moral order (cf. B. Gärtner, The Areopagus Speech and Natural Revelation [Eng. tr. 1955]).

Sinful man, according to the NT, perverts this general revelation. The argument of Paul in Rom. 1:19ff. is that the knowledge of God in general revelation is not honored by sinners but perverted. The Athenians are accused of ignorance of God (Acts 17:23). Idol worshipers are in ignorance of God as Creator and of Christ as co-Creator (1 Cor. 8:6f.). The pagan nations of the world have walked in their own erring ways (Acts 14:16). Man outside of Israel and the Church leads a Godless and Christless existence (cf. 1 Cor. 8:1–9; Gal. 4:1; Eph. 2:11f.; 1 Thess. 1:9). In that they pervert a valid general revelation, they are not innocent but without excuse (Gk. anapológētos, Rom. 1:20; 2:1).

Sinful men pervert general revelation and reject special revelation. The sinner is blind (2 Cor. 4:3f.); he possesses a fleshly mind hostile to the truth of God (Rom. 8:7); he considers the gospel foolishness (1 Cor. 1:18, 23); and he has no powers to apprehend a spiritual revelation (1 Cor. 2:14; cf. also R. Mehl, La Condition da philosophe chrétien [1947]).

b. Soteric Revelation. Man's recovery of a true knowledge of God is through soteric (i.e., healing, saving, and restoring) revelation. Man in sin does not have the will or the means to recover a true knowledge of God. The special revelation of God is "a secret wisdom of God" (1 Cor. 2:7). Its content could never

B. Gärtner, The Areopagus Speech and Natural Revelation [1955 年英文译本])。

根据《新约》记载，罪人滥用这种一般启示。《罗马书》1:19 起中的经文记载了保罗的辩护，罪人不将一般启示中神的知识当作荣耀，反而滥用它们。保罗谴责雅典人不认神（徒 17:23）。崇拜偶像的人不认神为造物主，也不认基督同为造物主（林前 8:6-7）。世上的异教列国各行其道（徒 14:16）。以色列人和教会以外的人不信神和基督的存在（参：林前 8:1-9；加 4:1；弗 2:11-12；帖前 1:9）。因此他们滥用了有效的一般启示，他们是有罪的，而且无可推诿（希腊语：anapológētos，罗 1:20；2:1）。

罪人滥用一般启示，并拒绝特殊启示。罪人都是心眼盲目的（林后 4:3-4）；他的思想是属肉体的，不顺从神的真理（罗 8:7）；他认为福音是愚拙的（林前 1:18, 23）；他不能领会属灵的启示（林前 2:14；另参：R. Mehl, La Condition da philosophe chrétien [1947])。

b. 救恩启示。人类通过救恩（即，治愈、救赎和复活）启示重获关于神的真正知识。罪人不愿也不能重获关于神的真正知识。神的特殊启示是“神奥秘的智慧”（林前 2:7）。人类通过宗教猜想永远也不能得出特殊启示的内容（林前 2:9），他们的自然意识根本不能理解这类启示（林前 2:14）。 be deduced from man's religious speculations (v. 9), and his natural mind is not at all favorably disposed toward such a revelation (v. 14).

This special revelation is communicated through the Holy Spirit. The Spirit knows the depths of God (1 Cor. 2:10) and the thoughts of God (v. 11). The depths and thoughts of God known by the Spirit may be communicated to Christians, who have received Him. This is what it means to have the mind of Christ (v. 16). This is the direct epistemological linkage in the communication of soteric revelation from God's mind to the human mind.

The content of soteric revelation is Jesus Christ and His cross. Paul speaks of the "word of the cross" (1 Cor. 1:18) when he opposes human wisdom. The "word of the cross" is the "testimony of God" (1 Cor. 2:1) and "spiritual truths" (v. 13) and "the mind of Christ" (v. 16). The intention of special revelation is to heal and restore; therefore, its content must be redemptive. In broad terms, special revelation is Christ crucified (Gal. 3:1). In this gospel there is the power of God unto salvation (Rom. 1:16). Special revelation cannot be discussed apart from its concrete expression in Jesus Christ as Redeemer, nor can apologetics be truly Christian if it does not draw into its discussion the apologetic significance of both special revelation and the word of the cross.

Special or soteric revelation became embodied in the NT. Just as the Church of the OT eventually cast her revelations into the documents of the ancient Scriptures, so the Church of the NT eventually cast her revelation in the form of Scripture. The word of the cross eventually became transcribed on papyrus just as the words of the divine Logos were eventually embodied in the records of the Evangelists. For all concrete theological and apologetical purposes, the NT is for the Church the special, soteric revelation of God.

神藉着圣灵向人类显明这种特殊启示。圣灵参透了神的深奥的事（林前 2:10）和神的思虑（林前 2:11）。被圣灵感动的基督徒得以知晓神的深奥和思虑。这就是知道基督的心意（林前 2:16）。这是存在于救恩启示的交流中的人类的思想与神的思想的直接认知联系。

救恩启示的内容是耶稣基督和祂的十字架。保罗反驳人的智慧时提及了“十字架的道理”（林前 1:18）。“十字架的道理”就是“神的奥秘”（林前 2:1）、“属灵的事”（林前 2:13）和“基督的心”（林前 2:16）。特殊启示是为了治愈和恢复；因此，特殊启示中一定包含救赎。从广义上讲，特殊启示是基督被钉十字架（加 3:1）。福音中包含神救赎的大能（罗 1:16）。我们不能抛开耶稣基督是救世主这个特殊启示的具体表现，而单独讨论特殊启示，护教学若不论述特殊启示和十字架的道理的护教意义，也就不能称其为真正的基督救护教学。

《新约》具体展现出特殊启示或救恩启示。正如旧约教会最终将启示整理成了圣经经卷古籍，新约教会也最终将启示收录成了圣经经卷。十字架的道理最终被誊写在蒲草纸上，正如福音传道者以具体的形式记录了神的道。为了所有具

Soteric revelation becomes actualized in sinners by the witness of the Holy Spirit. If human depravity causes the sinner to pervert general revelation and reject soteric revelation, something more powerful than his depravity must function if he is to be saved. At this point the general work of the Holy Spirit and His particular work of witnessing within the human heart come into consideration. In this witness, depravity is overcome, illumination takes place, and the believing sinner has a full assurance (Gk. plērophoría) of the truth of the gospel (cf. B. Ramm, Witness of the Spirit [1959]).

体的神学和护教学目的,《新约》对于教会来说是神的特殊救恩启示。

救恩启示藉着圣灵的见证在罪人身上显明。如果说人类的堕落使得罪人滥用一般启示,拒绝救恩启示,那么只有比堕落更强大的力量才能救赎人类。从这一点说,圣灵的一般工作和祂在人心里的特殊见证工作才是人们应该考虑的救恩启示。藉着这种见证,人类战胜了堕落,走出蒙昧,信主的罪人获得了福音真理的完全保证(希腊语:plērophoría) (参: B. Ramm, Witness of the Spirit [1959])。

APOSTASY

[Heb. m^ešûbâ] (Jer. 2:19; 5:6); AV BACK-SLIDING; [Gk. parapíptō] (He. 6:6); AV, NEB, FALL AWAY. Defection from the faith. The English word occurs only in the passages above (thrice in the RSV, twice in the NEB); the Gk. apostasía occurs also in Acts 21:21 (“forsake”) and 2 Thess. 2:3 (“rebellion”; AV “falling away”). But the concept of apostasy is found throughout Scripture.

“Forsaking the Lord” was the characteristic and oft-recurring sin of the chosen people, especially in their contact with idolatrous nations. It constituted their supreme national peril. The tendency appeared in their earliest history, as abundantly seen in the warnings and prohibitions of the laws of Moses (Ex. 20:3f., 23; Dt. 6:14; 11:16). The fearful consequences of religious and moral apostasy appear in the curses pronounced against this sin, on Mt. Ebal, by the representatives of six of the tribes of Israel, elected by Moses (Dt. 27:13–26; 28:15–68). So wayward was the heart of Israel even in the years immediately following the national emancipation, in the wilderness, that

APOSTASY 背道、离弃道理

【希伯来语: m^ešûbâ] (耶 2:19; 5:6); 《钦定版圣经》译为 BACK-SLIDING (“背弃道理”); 【希腊语: parapíptō] (来 6:6); 《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》译为 FALL AWAY (“背道; 背弃道理”)。本词的意思是背叛了信仰。本词仅在上述经文中出现(《修订标准译本》中出现了三次,《新英文译本》中出现了两次); 希腊语 apostasía 仅出现在《使徒行传》21:21 (“forsake”, 意思是“离弃”)和《帖撒罗尼迦后书》2:3 (“rebellion”; 《钦定版圣经》译为“falling away”, 汉译均为“离道反教”)中。但整部《圣经》中随处可见背道的概念。

“离弃主”是选民特有的罪,而且他们经常犯的罪,尤其是当他们与崇拜偶像的诸国接触时。这造成了选民的巨大民族危机。他们在历史初期就体现出了这种倾向,摩西律法中可以看到大量关于背道的警告和禁令(出 20:3-4, 23; 申 6:14; 11:16)。摩西选出六个以色列支派,让他们在以巴路山上宣布诅咒,这些诅咒中指明了以色列人背弃宗教或背离道德的罪所要承受的可怕后果(申 27:13-26; 28:15-68)。即使在以色列人刚刚获得民族解放,还未出旷野时,他们的心仍如此反复无常,因此约书亚觉得在以色列人获准进入应许之地之前,有必要重新坚固整个民族对主和对最初的约的忠诚(书 24:1-28)。士师时期,以色列因背弃圣约,毁灭了国家的前途并阻碍了自身发展(士 2:11-15; 10:6,

Joshua found it necessary to repledge the entire nation to a new fidelity to the Lord and to their original covenant before they were permitted to enter the Promised Land (Josh. 24:1-28). Infidelity to this covenant blighted the nation's prospects and growth during the time of the judges (Jgs. 2:11-15; 10:6, 10, 13; 1 S. 12:10). It was the cause of prolific and ever increasing evil, civic and moral, from Solomon's day to the Assyrian and Babylonian captivities. Many of the kings of the divided kingdom apostatized, leading the people, as in the case of Rehoboam, into the grossest forms of idolatry and immorality (1 K. 14:22-24; 2 Ch. 12:1). Conspicuous examples of such royal apostasy are Jeroboam (1 K. 12:28-32); Ahab (16:30-33); Ahaziah (22:51-53); Jehoram (2 Ch. 21:6, 10, 12-15); Ahaz (28:1-4); Manasseh (33:1-9); Amon (33:22). See IDOLATRY. Prophecy originated as a divine and imperative protest against this historic tendency to defection from the religion of the Lord.

Paul was falsely accused of teaching the Jews apostasy from Moses (Acts 21:21); he predicted the great apostasy from Christianity, foretold by Jesus (Mt. 24:10-12), which would precede "the Day of the Lord" (2 Thess. 2:2f.). Apostasy, not in name but in fact, meets scathing rebuke in the Epistle of Jude, e.g., the apostasy of angels (v. 6). It is foretold, with warnings, as sure to abound in the latter days (1 Tim. 4:1-3; 2 Thess. 2:3; 2 Pet. 3:17).

Causes of apostasy include persecution (Mt. 24:9f.); false teachers (24:11); temptation (Lk. 8:13); worldliness (2 Tim. 4:4); defective knowledge of Christ

10, 13; 撒上 12:10)。这也是从所罗门时期至被掳亚述和巴比伦时期，邪恶日益盛行和公民道德日益提高的原因。王国分裂后，许多国王（如罗波安）都背弃耶和华，并带领子民崇拜偶像，不守道德，行耶和华眼中看为最恶的事（王上 14:22-24；代下 12:1）。典型的背道国王有耶罗波安（王上 12:28-32）、亚哈（16:30-33）、亚哈谢（王上 22:51-53）、约兰（代下 21:6, 10, 12-15）、亚哈斯（代下 28:1-4）、玛拿西（代下 33:1-9）、亚们（代下 33:22）。见 IDOLATRY（偶像崇拜）。预言兴起，这是为了对这种背弃耶和华宗教的历史趋势提出神圣的和必要的抗议。

保罗被诬告教导犹太人背弃摩西（徒 21:21）；他预言犹太人将要严重背弃基督教，耶稣此前也曾预言过这点（太 24:10-12），这将发生在“主的日子”之前（帖后 2:2-3）。《犹大书》中严厉地谴责了实际的背道行为，而非名义上的背道，如不守本位的天使（犹 1:6）。经文中用警示的话语预言了后来的日子里将有大量离道反教的事发生（提前 4:1-3；提后 2:3；彼后 3:17）。

背道的原因包括迫害（太 24:9-10）；假师傅（太 24:11）；试炼（路 8:13）；世俗心（提后 4:4）；缺乏基督的知识（约壹 2:19）；道德堕落（来 6:4-6）；不再

(1 Jn. 2:19); moral lapse (He. 6:4-6); forsaking worship and spiritual living (10:25-31); unbelief (3:12).

Some additional biblical examples: Saul (1 S. 15:11); Amaziah (2 Ch. 25:14, 27); many disciples (Jn. 6:66); Hymenaeus and Alexander (1 Tim. 1:19f.); Demas (2 Tim. 4:10). For further illustration see Dt. 13:13; Zeph. 1:4-6; Gal. 5:4; 2 Pet. 2:20f.

In classical Greek, apostasy signified revolt from a military commander. In the Roman Catholic Church, it denotes abandonment of religious orders; renunciation of ecclesiastical authority; defection from the faith. The persecutions of the early Christian centuries forced many to deny Christian discipleship and to signify their apostasy by offering incense to a heathen deity or blaspheming the name of Christ. The emperor Julian, who probably never vitally embraced the Christian faith, is known in history as “the Apostate,” having renounced Christianity for paganism soon after his accession to the throne.

An apostate’s defection from the faith may be intellectual, as in the case of Ernst Haeckel, who, because of his materialistic philosophy, publicly and formally renounced Christianity and the Church; or it may be moral and spiritual, as with Judas, who barely betrayed his Lord.

APOSTLE

[Gk. apóstolos < apostéllō—‘send’ (with stress on the commission and

敬拜，背弃圣灵（来 10:25-31）；不信神（来 3:12）。

《圣经》中的其他例子有：扫罗（撒上 15:11）；亚玛谢（代下 25:14, 27）；许多门徒（约 6:66）；许米乃和亚历山大（提前 1:19-20）；底马（提后 4:10）。关于进一步的说明，见申 13:13；番 1:4-6；加 5:4；彼后 2:20-21。

在古希腊语中，“apostasy”指的是反抗军事指挥官。在罗马天主教会中，该词指离弃宗教命令；拒绝承认教会权威；背弃信仰。主后前几个世纪，许多基督徒由于遭受迫害而否认自己的门徒身份，他们被迫通过为异教的神明烧香或亵渎基督的名证明自己背叛了基督教。犹利安皇帝（史称“叛道者”）可能从未真正地接受基督教信仰，因此他登基后不久就背弃基督教，改信异教。

叛道者可能从“理智”上背弃信仰，如恩斯特·海克尔（Ernst Haeckel），他因坚信唯物主义哲学，曾公开且正式宣布脱离基督教和教会；或从“道德和灵魂”上背弃信仰，就像犹大公开地背叛了主。

APOSTLE 使徒、门徒、传道者、使者

【希腊语：apóstolos 衍生自 apostéllō—“送信”（强调写信人的委托和授 authorization of the sender)]. A missionary, envoy, ambassador; in the NT, one of those who, having seen the risen Christ, is a witness of His resurrection, and, commissioned by Him, preaches the gospel to all the nations.

In classical usage the Greek verb apostéllō generally referred to the sending of a fleet or an embassy, but is also used by Epictetus to describe Zeus's sending a teacher of philosophy as his messenger. This would make the messenger a minister of the god, but scarcely, as with Paul, his bondservant. OT parallels to the office have been sought in God's sending Moses and Aaron to Pharaoh, Elijah to Ahab, and Isaiah to callous Israel, as well as in the religious consciousness of Jeremiah. Ahijah was an apostle with hard tidings for Jeroboam (1 K. 14:6).

Rabbinic Judaism used the Heb. šālī(a)h or šālū(a)h to describe an agent authorized by someone else to act for the sender in personal, legal, or financial matters. In such cases a man's ambassador was as himself (cf. 1 S. 25:40ff.; 2 S. 10:1ff.). If unable to complete his task, the embassy had no authority to commit the job to another. When Paul started to Damascus with letters of accreditation, he may have been a šālī(a)h of the Sanhedrin, as were later emissaries of Judaism who opposed the Christian message (Justin Dial. 17, 108). The rabbinical concept, however, lacked the religious missionary obligation that is essential for the Christian apostle (Rom. 1:14-17; 15:16). The nearest to a Christian equivalent of the rabbinical concept seems to be the apostles sent by congregations to bring help to Paul (Phil.

在古希腊语中，动词 apostéllō 通常表示派遣舰队或使节，伊比德图也经常用这个词形容宙斯派遣一个哲学教师传达知识。因此信使就是神的传道士，但鲜有像保罗一样的神的仆人。《旧约》中也有类似的信使，如神派遣摩西和亚伦去见法老，派遣以利亚去见亚哈，派遣以赛亚去唤醒麻木的以色列人，派遣耶利米去唤醒人们的宗教意识。亚希雅是给耶罗波安带去坏消息的使者（王上 14:6）。

拉比犹太教用希伯来语 šālī(a)h 或 šālū(a)h 来描述一个人委派另一个人作为私人代理、法定代表或财务代理。在这种情况下，这个人的使者就代表着他自己（参：撒上 25:40 起；撒下 10:1 起）。如果使者不能完成任务，他没有权力将工作交托给其他人。当保罗带着委托信前往大马士革时，他就可以被称作是犹太公会的 šālī(a)h（代理），他后来带回犹太教反对基督教的信息，这时可以称他为犹太教的使者（Justin Dial. 17, 108）。但是，拉比的概念中缺乏宗教传教的义务，而这却是基督教使徒必需肩负的使命（罗 1:14-17; 15:16）。拉比概念中最接近基督教使徒的应该是会众派去协助保罗（腓 2:25）或帮助耶路撒冷的贫穷圣徒（林后 8:23）的信徒。

I. NT Usage.-There is some variety in the NT usage of the term “apostle.” The supreme example of an apostle is Jesus Christ Himself. There is also a broad usage referring to many of His missionaries, but most frequently the word is applied to the Twelve and to Paul.

Jesus Christ is the Apostle and High Priest of our profession (He. 3:1), the Son through whom God has spoken His final word to men (He. 1:1), the High Priest who has made propitiation for the sins of His people once for all (He. 2:17; 9:26). Whoever receives Him, receives Him that sent Him (Mk. 9:37). As the Father sent Jesus, He has also sent His apostles to preach the gospel to all the world (Jn. 20:21; 1Clem. 42), nor are the disciples to expect a better treatment than that accorded their Master (Mt. 10:24f.; Jn. 13:16).

The expression “all the apostles” in 1 Cor. 15:7 seems to include more than the twelve referred to in v. 5. Here, as in Gal. 1:19, James is designated as an apostle; and he worthily performed the duties of that office for a generation as a home missionary to Jerusalem, as the chief minister of the church there, and as a witness for Jesus to Jewry. Barnabas is designated an apostle in Acts 14 (cf. 11:22f.; 13:1-4), and Junias and Andronicus, kinsmen of Paul, in Rom. 16:7. In 1 Cor. 3:5, Apollos is called a

- IV. 使徒的权柄

I. 《新约》中的用法。《新约》中“apostle”一词有多种用法。最高的使徒就是耶稣基督本人。广义的使徒表示基督的众多传教士，但这个词最常用来指十二使徒和保罗。

耶稣基督是我们所认为的使者和大祭司（来 3:1），神藉着圣子晓谕人类（来 1:1），祂是彻底挽回子民之罪的大祭司（来 2:17； 9:26）。凡接待祂的，不是接待祂，乃是接待那差祂来的（可 9:37）。正如圣父差基督来，基督也差遣祂的使徒向全地传播福音（约 20:21； 1Clem. 42），使徒不要期盼能得到比他们的主还好的待遇（太 10:24-25； 约 13:16）。

《哥林多前书》15:7 中的“众使徒”这一表达似乎不仅包括《哥林多前书》15:5 中提到的十二使徒。在这节经文和《加拉太书》1:19 中，雅各也被称为使徒；他也确实履行了使徒的职责，他一生都在耶路撒冷担任家庭传教士和教会的主任牧师，并在犹太人前为耶稣作见证。《使徒行传》14 章中将巴拿巴称作使徒（参：徒 11:22-23； 徒 13:1-4），《罗马书》16:7 中将保罗的亲属安多尼古和犹尼亚称作使徒。《哥林多前书》3:5 将亚波罗称为“执事”（希腊语：diákonos）；因此《哥林多前书》4:6, 9 很难将他称

minister (Gk. diákonos); hence he is hardly to be included as an apostle in 4:6, 9. Likewise Timothy is a brother, a minister, and a fellow laborer in 1 Thess. 3:2, and he is probably not designated an apostle in 2:6. The wider circle is intimated in 1 Cor. 9:5 and is presupposed in Didache 11:4–6. Paul's reference to false apostles in 2 Cor. 11:13 certainly goes beyond the Twelve and himself. In this broad usage, then, an apostle was a first-century evangelist who bore witness to the resurrection of Christ, an itinerant missionary sent by Him to make disciples of all nations.

In most of the approximately eighty cases in which the word “apostle” occurs in the NT, it refers to the Twelve or to Paul. Their unique place is based upon the resurrected Jesus' having appeared to them and having commissioned them to proclaim the gospel as the eschatological action of God in Christ. As witnesses of Jesus' resurrection (Mt. 28; Lk. 24; Acts 1:22; 10:41; 1 Cor. 9:1; 15:4) and sole witnesses of His ascension (Acts 1:9–13), they are the guarantors of His resurrection, even as the resurrection is the demonstration that He is the Messiah of prophecy and the Lord of glory (Acts 2:36; Rom. 1:4). Moreover, the risen Lord has particularly empowered them by the Holy Spirit for their whole ministry of witnessing, preaching, working miracles, establishing and guiding churches (Jn. 20:22; Acts 1:8; 2 Cor. 12:12; Rom. 15; 1 Cor. 2), and bearing hardships, shame, and suffering for Jesus' sake (Acts 5:40f.; 12:1–4; Phil. 3:8; 1 Cor. 9:1). In the case of the Twelve, an additional qualification for their special apostleship is having had fellowship with the Lord from the baptism of John until Jesus was received

为使徒。同样的,《帖撒罗尼迦前书》3:2 中称提摩太为兄弟、执事和与神同工的,因此《帖撒罗尼迦前书》2:6 中提到的使徒可能不包括他。《哥林多前书》9:5 和《十二使徒遗训》11:46 中所指的使徒范围更广。那么,从广义上讲,使徒指的是公元 1 世纪见证耶稣复活,并受祂委派去万国传道使人归信的人。

《新约》中“apostle”一词约出现了 80 次,其中大多数指的都是十二使徒或保罗。复活后的耶稣向这十二个人显现,并委托他们将福音当做神在基督里的末世行动来宣传,这奠定了他们作为十二使徒的独特地位。作为耶稣复活的见证人(太 28; 路 24; 徒 1:22; 10:41; 林前 9:1; 15:4)和耶稣升天唯一见证人(徒 1:9-13),他们是耶稣复活的证人,正如复活证明了耶稣就是预言中的弥赛亚和荣耀的主(徒 2:36; 罗 1:4)。此外,复活的主都藉着圣灵赐予他们权柄,让他们传播所见证之事,讲道,行奇事,建立和指引教会(约 20:22; 徒 1:8; 林后 12:12; 罗 15; 林前 2),为耶稣受苦楚、羞辱和磨难(徒 5:40-41; 12:1-4; 腓 3:8; 林前 9:1)。还需要另外一个条件证明十二使徒的特殊身份,即他们从约翰施洗直到耶稣升天离开他们,一直跟随主(徒 1:21-22);因此,他们掌握了关于道成肉身的知识。 up from them (Acts 1:21f.); thus they had personal knowledge of the Incarnate Word.

The apostles are regarded as setting the norms of doctrine and fellowship (Acts 2:42), the marking posts (Gal. 2:9), the rule by which one must measure his preaching (Gal. 2:2), the foundation (Eph. 2:20; Rev. 21:14; 1 Cor. 3:11), so that there is no way to Christ that detours around them. Their importance is due to their function of presenting the authentic interpretation of their Lord. With the increasing Gnostic claims for oral tradition an added emphasis accrued to the writings authorized by the apostles. Their common testimony is based on OT prophecy and is preserved in the NT. Since they saw, heard, and handled the Word of life and gave eyewitness testimony to decisive events (1 Jn. 1:1-3), and since no foundation repeats itself, they are irreplaceable in any subsequent generation.

II. The Twelve.-In His itinerant ministry, Jesus called men to repent and receive the yoke of the kingdom (Mk. 1:14-20; Jn. 1:35-51). From those who heard He gathered disciples, and from among them He called twelve (Simon Peter, James and John sons of Zebedee, Andrew, Philip, Bartholomew, Matthew, Thomas, James son of Alphaeus, Thaddaeus, Simon the Cananaean or Zealot, Judas Iscariot) to be with Him (Mk. 3:15), that they might learn of Him such things as humility (Mt. 11:28-30; Lk. 18:9-14), prayer (Lk. 11:1-13), service to others (Mt. 20:20-28), the characteristics and responsibilities of the children of the kingdom (Mt. 5-7; 13), the person and mission of Himself (Mt. 16:13f.; 20:28).

使徒被认为建立了教义上和相交上的规范 (徒 2:42), 他们是柱石 (加 2:9)、衡量传道的规则 (加 2:2) 和根基 (弗 2:20; 启 21:14; 林前 3:11), 因此人们若想得见基督, 就不可能绕开他们。他们的重要性源自于他们对主的权威解读。诺斯替教要求口述传统必须更加侧重于那些被使徒推崇的作品。使徒的共同见证以旧约预言为基础, 并被收录在《新约》之中。因为他们看见了、听见了并触摸到了生命的道, 亲眼见证了决定性事件 (约壹 1:1-3), 又因为这样的根基不会再现, 所以他们的地位是后人无法替代的。

II. 十二使徒。耶稣四处传道时, 恩召世人忏悔, 并负上神之国度的轭 (太 1:14-20; 约 1:35-51)。耶稣从那些听祂讲道的人中召集了门徒, 又从中选立了十二个人 (西门彼得、西庇太的儿子雅各和约翰、安得烈、腓力、巴多罗买、马太、多马、亚勒腓的儿子雅各、达太、奋锐党的西门和加略人犹大) 常与祂同在 (可 3:15), 好使他们得以学习祂的谦卑 (太 11:28-31; 路 18:9-14)、祷告 (路 11:1-13)、服侍人 (太 20:20-28)、国中小子的特质和责任 (太 5-7; 13) 以及耶稣自身和祂的使命 (太 16:13-14; 20:28)。然后耶稣赐予这十二人一些权柄, 并派遣他们作使徒去传道、赶鬼和医病 (可 6:7; 路 9:1-6; 太 10:1)。使徒的临时使命完成之后, 就回到耶稣那里, 向他报告所做的事和所教导的事

Then, delegating some of His own authority to them, Jesus sent out the Twelve as apostles on limited assignments, to preach, to cast out demons, and to heal (Mk. 6:7; Lk. 9:1-6; Mt. 10:1). Their temporary mission accomplished, they returned to Jesus, reporting what they had done and taught (Mk. 6:30; Lk. 9:10). Seeing one casting out demons in the name of Jesus, without specific authorization by the Master, they had forbidden him (Mk. 9:38-41). Jesus assured them that even a cup of cold water given an apostle because he is Christ's is given to his sender (Mk. 9:41; Mt. 10:40). In these ways Jesus trained an inner circle of twelve to become the permanent apostles of the Lamb (Rev. 21:14), the "twelve tribes" of the New Israel (Mt. 19:28).

The Lord celebrated the Last Supper with the Twelve (Lk. 22:14f.) and used that occasion to teach them of the coming of the Holy Spirit (Jn. 14-17), who would interpret to them the meaning of His message, His acts, and His person. By the Spirit's abiding presence, their witnessing is not left to their unaided impressions and recollections, but is so directed by Him as to become the authentic interpretation of Christ. The arrest and the crucifixion scattered the Twelve, but their resurrected Lord appeared to Peter and to the Twelve (1 Cor. 15:5; Lk. 24:34f.). He breathed His Spirit upon them (Jn. 20:22f.; Acts 2), and thus empowered and commissioned them as permanent apostles sent by the risen Redeemer to carry His gospel to all nations (Mt. 28:19; Lk. 24:47; cf. Eph. 4:11; 1 Cor. 12:28).

The inner core of the Twelve consisted of Peter, James, and John (Mt. 17:1; 26:37).

(可 6:30; 路 9:10)。他们看到有人奉耶稣的名赶鬼,却没有得到主赐予的特殊权柄,于是他们就禁止这个人再这样做(可 9:38-41)。耶稣向他们保证,凡因使徒属基督而给他们哪怕只是一杯冷水的,必得赏赐(可 9:41; 太 10:40)。耶稣用这些方式调教出一个由十二人组成的一个核心集团,他们成为了永恒的羔羊十二使徒(启 21:14)和新以色列的“十二个支派”(太 19:28)。

耶稣和十二使徒一同庆祝最后的晚餐(路 22:14-15)并利用这个机会教导使徒圣灵将要降临(约 14-17),圣灵会向他们解释耶稣的启示、行动和人性。因圣灵的永在,他们的见证不会变成无助的印象和回忆,而会在圣灵的带领下成为对基督的真实解读。基督被捕和钉十字架令使徒分开了,但是复活的主向彼得和十二使徒显现(林前 15:5; 路 24:34-35)。耶稣向他们吹气,让他们领受圣灵(约 20:22-23; 徒 2),进而赋予他们权柄并委任他们奉升天救主的差遣,作永恒的使徒,将祂的福音传遍地上的万国(太 28:19; 路 24:47; 参:弗 4:11; 林前 12:28)。

十二使徒的内在核心是彼得、雅各和约翰(太 17:1; 26:37)。彼得在忏悔时作

As Peter had been the spokesman of the Twelve in the great confession (Mt. 16:16), so with him begins the apostolic faith in Jesus' resurrection (1 Cor. 15:5; Lk. 24:34), as well as the apostolic interpretation of His death from such OT passages as Isa. 53 (Mk. 10:45; Acts 10:43; 1 Pet. 1:11, 19; 2:4; 3:18). In Jerusalem Peter led the disciples in appealing to the Lord to designate a successor to Judas as a witness to His resurrection (Acts 1:15–26). Peter with the Eleven proclaimed the risen Christ who sent the Spirit from God's right hand. Three thousand were baptized in the name of Jesus Christ and continued in the apostles' doctrine, fellowship, and prayers (Acts 2). In Christ's name Peter and John proclaimed healing to the lame man, and Peter used the occasion to preach again the resurrection of Jesus (Acts 3), as a result of which they were temporarily imprisoned. Speaking for the apostles, Peter condemned Ananias and Sapphira (Acts 5). With John he was sent to Samaria to seal with the Holy Spirit the newly baptized disciples (Acts 8:14). Thereafter Peter extended his missionary activities to Lydda, Joppa, and Caesarea, where he opened the doors of the Church to Cornelius, a Gentile who feared God (Acts 9:32–11:18). Later his missionary activities reached Antioch (Gal. 2) and Corinth (?) (1 Cor. 1:12; 9:5), and probably extended to a martyrdom in Rome.

The apostolic proclamation, that the God of Israel had raised from the dead and glorified as the Messiah the Jesus whom Jerusalem had crucified, aroused animosity. The broadening of the Church, first by the preaching of the Seven and later by Peter's reception of Cornelius,

了十二使徒的发言人（太 16:16），从他开始十二使徒都相信耶稣复活（林前 15:5；路 24:34），并且根据《以赛亚书》53 章等旧约经文来解读耶稣受难（可 10:45；徒 10:43；彼前 1:11, 19；2:4；3:18）。在耶路撒冷，彼得带领使徒向主祷告，指定一人接替犹大，同作主复活的见证（徒 1:15-26）。彼得和十一使徒祈求升天的主从神的右边赐下圣灵。有三千人奉耶稣基督的名受了洗，恒心遵守使徒的教训，彼此交接和祈祷（徒 2）。随后彼得和约翰奉基督的名，治愈了一个瘸腿的人，彼得利用这个机会再次宣传耶稣复活的信息（徒 3），他们因此被暂时囚禁了。彼得还曾代表使徒，谴责了亚拿尼亚和撒非喇（徒 5）。后来使徒打发彼得和约翰去撒玛利亚，使那些新受洗的门徒领受了圣灵（徒 8:14）。从那以后，彼得继续前往吕大、约帕和凯撒利亚传道，他在凯撒利亚向一个敬畏神的外邦人哥尼流敞开了教会的大门（徒 9:32-11:18）。他后来去安提阿（加 2）和哥林多（尚不确定）（林前 1:12；9:5）传道，可能最后在罗马殉道。

使徒们宣称，以色列的神已经从死里复活，并将耶路撒冷钉死的耶稣奉为弥赛亚，这招致了犹太人的敌意。教会首先通过七个使徒的祷告增加了信徒，后来彼得又让哥尼流进入教会，从而使犹太人越来越敌视使徒，尤其敌视核心三人。希律用刀杀死了约翰的兄弟雅各，

accentuated the opposition, particularly toward the inner three. Herod killed James the brother of John with the sword, and put Peter in prison, expecting to treat him the same way in order to please the Jews. But the angel of the Lord delivered Peter from prison (Acts 12).

又将彼得囚禁起来，准备用同样的方式杀死他去讨好犹太人。但主的使者使彼得获释（徒 12）。

In Antioch, Paul pleaded with Peter to stand by his own true principles of receiving Gentiles and not to play the hypocrite in order to please the Judaizers (Gal. 2:11f.). Thus for the truth of the gospel even Peter, the Rock apostle, was corrected by an associate; and at the Council of Jerusalem Peter told how God had used him to proclaim the gospel and minister faith to the household of 在安提阿，保罗请求彼得坚持他接受外邦人的真正原则，不要为了讨好犹太派的基督徒就装假（加 2:11-12）。因此，为了福音的真理，就连彼得这位“固执”使徒，也在同伴的帮助下改正了错误；在耶路撒冷会议上，彼得讲述了神是如何叫他传播福音，并坚固哥尼流的信心的。他祈求其他使徒和长老不要将额外的轭放在外邦信徒的颈项上（徒 15:6-11）。在哥林多，有些人自称是矶

Cornelius. He begged the apostles and elders to lay no additional yoke upon these gentile believers (Acts 15:6–11). In Corinth some called themselves disciples of Cephas (1 Cor. 1:12; 3:22), but Peter seems to have been as careful as Paul to have his associates rather than himself baptize (Acts 10:48), lest men should say that the apostles baptized in their own names (1 Cor. 1:17). Thus Peter was the decisive figure among the Twelve.

III. Paul.—Unlike the Twelve, Paul had not accompanied Jesus during His preaching ministry. Nevertheless, he regarded himself and was accepted by the primitive Church as manifesting the signs of an apostle. While Acts gives Paul the title only in ch. 14, where some understand the reference to be to apostles of the church in Antioch, nevertheless the paramount place this book gives to Paul’s ministry attests his full recognition. In its three accounts of the Lord’s initial encounter with Paul as well as in the apostle’s own writing (e.g., Gal. 1:16; 2 Cor. 4:6), his apostleship is presented as the direct action of the risen Lord Jesus. He is an apostle, not from men nor through a man, but through Jesus Christ and God the Father who raised Him from the dead (Gal. 1:1). This encounter is not a mere subjective vision, but an objective event, an act of God, a Christophany (1 Cor. 9:1; 15:8).

As Paul preached the gospel of Christ (Rom. 15:16–21), Gentiles were brought into the obedience of the faith, and churches were established throughout the Roman world. The fruits of his ministry, miraculous signs (1 Cor. 9:2; 2 Cor. 12:12; Gal. 2:8; cf. Jn. 14:12), his labors and sufferings for the name of Jesus

法的门徒（林前 1:12；3:22），但彼得似乎和保罗一样谨慎，吩咐别人施洗，而不亲自施洗（徒 10:48），以免别人说使徒以自己的名施洗（林前 1:17）。因此彼得是十二使徒中的关键人物。

III. 保罗。保罗并不像其他十二使徒那样，在耶稣传道时一直追随着祂。然而，他自称具有使徒的记号，而初期教会也接受了这点。虽然《使徒行传》仅在第 14 章将保罗称为使徒，一些人认为这里指的是安提阿教会的传道者，然而该卷中的保罗拥有极其重要的地位，这充分证明了保罗的身份。《使徒行传》中关于主向保罗显现的三段记录和保罗自己的作品（如加 1:16；林后 4:6）中都提到，复活的主耶稣的直接赐予保罗使徒身份。保罗作使徒，“不是由于人，也不是藉着人，乃是藉着耶稣基督，与叫祂从死里复活的父神”（加 1:1）。这种显明不仅是一种主观异象，而是一个客观的事件，是神的行为，是基督的再现（林前 9:1；15:8）。

由于保罗宣讲基督的福音（罗 15:16-21），外邦人都建立了信心，顺从神，整个罗马世界都建起了教会。他传教的结果、神迹（林前 9:2；林后 12:12；加 2:8；参：约 14:12），他做的工和为耶稣基督的名所受的苦楚（西 1:14；林后 1:5-6；4:5-6；参：路 21:12），都表明他是真正的使徒。

Christ (Col. 1:14; 2 Cor. 1:5f.; 4:5f.; cf. Lk. 21:12), were truly apostolic.

In their ministry to the Jews and the God-fearers, the Twelve could presuppose OT theism, i.e., the living God, His righteousness, judgment to come, and the hope of Israel. Building on this, they sounded the call to repentance and offered men the Lord Jesus as the messianic Savior. In preaching to the Gentiles, Paul was given the additional task of first reasoning of the Most High God (Acts 16:17), the Maker and Governor of all things (Acts 17:24-28), and also of righteousness, self-control, and judgment to come (Acts 24:25; cf. Rom. 1:18-3:19). Then, having sought conviction under the law written in the hearts of men as well as on the tablets of Moses, he called sinners to Christ, the one Mediator between God and men (1 Tim. 2:5).

The most significant characteristic of Paul's apostleship is the graciousness of the Lord's action in converting His most formidable opponent into His most effective minister. The first word of the encounter recorded in Acts is "Saul, Saul, why do you persecute me?" In the Epistles, Paul never forgets that as a persecutor injurious to the Church, he is less than the least of all the saints and not worthy to be called an apostle (Eph. 3:8; 1 Cor. 15:9; 1 Tim. 1:12-16). In such a situation it was only grace on top of grace that made Paul an apostle. Here is grace most clear: Christ is for Paul even when Paul is most actively against Him. Thus is it most evident that the glory is not of men but of God. God is willing to work more abundantly in this very earthen vessel than in others (1 Cor. 15:10; 2 Cor.

十二使徒向犹太人和敬畏神的人传道时,以旧约的一神论为前提,即永生神、祂的公义、将来的审判和以色列的盼望。在此基础上,他们响应恩召悔改,将耶稣奉为救主弥赛亚。保罗向外邦人传道时,肩负起另外一个使命,要第一个讲论至高神(徒 16:17),创造和掌管万物的主(徒 17:24-28),以及公义、节制和将来的审判(徒 24:25; 参:罗 1:18-3:19)。然后,在人心中的和刻在摩西法版上的律法的指示下,保罗坚定信心,呼吁罪人信仰基督,因为祂是神和人中间唯一的中保(提前 2:5)。

慈爱的主将保罗这个基督的最大敌人变成了最得力的传道者,这是保罗使徒身份的最重要的特征。《使徒行传》中记载主向保罗显明的第一句话是“扫罗,扫罗!你为什么逼迫我?”保罗在书信从未遗忘自己曾是迫害教会的人,比众圣徒中最小的还小,不配称作使徒(弗 3:8; 林前 15:9; 提前 1:12-16)。在这种情况下,保罗仍然成为了使徒,这只能是因为主的无上恩典。这件事最能彰显基督的恩典:即使在保罗强烈反对基督的时候,祂仍支持保罗。因此,这最能体现出荣耀不是属人的,而是属神的。神更愿意在这个地上的器皿而不是其他人身上显明祂的丰富(林前 15:10; 林后 4:7-8; 弗 3:8-9; 提前 1:14, 16)。

4:7f.; Eph. 3:8f.; 1 Tim. 1:14, 16).

By his apostolic commission Paul was separated from all other interests to God's gospel concerning His Son (Rom. 1:1-3; 1 Cor. 1:1, 17; Gal. 1:15; 2:7; Acts 22:14-17). Other disciples had a long period of training for their apostleship, but by this great encounter Christ made Paul forever His bond slave, debtor, and apostle (Rom. 1:1, 15). In the case of Paul there was an immediate surrender, his consciousness was completely dominated by the will of God (1 Cor. 1:1; 2 Cor. 1:1; Eph. 1:1), which he beheld working from his birth to fit him for his particular place in God's plan (Gal. 1:15; Eph. 1:5; 3:2-9). Here is the recovery of that prophetic consciousness that gives the dominant place to the thought of God. In his letters to the church in Corinth Paul is constantly wringing all self-adulation out of his ministry that men may glory only in Christ, whom God has made unto us wisdom, righteousness, sanctification, and redemption.

Paul is careful not to base his apostleship on ecstatic gifts, lest by magnifying his own individuality he overshadow the grace of God (1 Cor. 12; 2 Cor. 12). It is by God's grace that he is an apostle, commissioned not to honor himself but to serve God in preaching the gospel of His Son (Rom. 1:9; 15:19; 1 Cor. 1:17). Even the signs of an apostle are given Paul only to further his ministry, to magnify God, not himself (1 Cor. 2:5).

IV. Apostolic Authority.-In the NT there is always a decisive distinction between the Lord Jesus and His apostles. While He has full authority in Himself, their power is only in His Name and in the 主将保罗从其他所有人中分别出来，赋予他使徒的身份，让他宣讲神关于圣子的福音（罗 1:1-3；林前 1:1, 17；加 1:15；2:7；徒 22:14-17）。主教养了十二使徒很久，才委任他们使徒的身份，但伟大的基督通过向保罗显明，就使保罗永远成为祂的仆人、债主和使徒（罗 1:1, 15）。保罗直接把自己交给神，他的意识完全受神的旨意的支配（林前 1:1；林后 1:1；弗 1:1），神从保罗出生时，就预定了他在神计划中的特殊位置（加 1:15；弗 1:5；3:2-9）。这是对先知意识的恢复，这种意识在神的思想中占据主导地位。保罗在给哥林多教会的信中一再排除传道中所有自我吹捧的成分，他教导说，人只有在基督里才能得荣耀，神藉着基督赐予人们智慧、公义、圣洁和救赎。

保罗唯恐将他的使徒身份建立在出色的天赋上，以免由于过多显示他的个人特征而掩盖了神的恩典（林前 12；林后 12）。他藉着神的恩典成了使徒，他接受委任不是为了将荣耀归于自己，而是要侍奉神，传播圣子的福音（罗 1:9；15:19；林前 1:17）。即使神赐给保罗的使徒的标志，也只是为了帮助他传播福音，让他赞美神，而不是为了赞美他自己（林前 2:5）。

IV. 使徒的权柄。在《新约》中，主耶稣和祂的使徒之间总有一种明确的区别。祂拥有所全部的权柄，而使徒的权柄都是藉着基督的名和基督赐予的圣灵得到的（徒 3:6, 12；9:34；约 15:5）。

Spirit given by Him (Acts 3:6, 12; 9:34; Jn. 15:5). Even so His majesty and might stand behind them. As His witnesses, ambassadors, and vicars (Mt. 10:40; Lk. 10:16), they hold the first and most significant place in the primitive Church (1 Cor. 12:28; Eph. 4:11). Accordingly, they exercise great authority in matters of discipline (Acts 5:1-11; 1 Cor. 5:1-7; 2 Cor. 2:1-10; Jn. 20:23; Mt. 16:19; 18:15-22) and other problems facing the churches (2 Cor. 13:2, 10; 1 Thess. 4:2; 2 Thess. 3:4, 6). Yet they treasure the precept, "you have one teacher, and you are all brethren" (Mt. 23:8; cf. Mt 10:24). Paul sought to increase the joy of others, not to lord it over their faith (2 Cor. 1:24). He insisted that his own preaching as truly as Peter's conduct must be in accord with the gospel (Gal. 1:18; 2:14). Peter felt obligated to defend his in receiving Cornelius to the other apostles and the brethren (Acts 11:1-18).

The explanation of this paradox is to be found in the missionary situation in the primitive fellowship. In a sense the apostolate was prior to the Church as a sociological gathering. As the foundation pillars they spoke with authority, but it was an authority that sought to bring out and develop the local ministry. The earliest disciples put forward two, of whom the Lord chose Matthias to replace Judas (Acts 1:15, 23), and the enlarged body selected the Seven, whom the apostles ordained with the laying on of hands and prayer (Acts 6:1-6). The elders shared with the apostles in the decision at Jerusalem (Acts 15), and government appears as a gift distinct from apostleship in 1 Cor. 12:28f. Paul participated with the congregational presbytery in ordaining Timothy (1 Tim. 4:14; 2 Tim.

虽然如此，但基督的权柄和大能是使徒的后援。使徒作为基督的见证、使者和代理（太 10:40；路 10:16），他们在初期教会占据最为重要的位置（林前 12:28；弗 4:11）。因此，他们在教会纪律（徒 5:1-11；林前 5:1-7；林后 2:1-10；约 20:23；太 16:19；18:15-22）和其他问题上（林后 13:2，10；帖前 4:2；帖后 3:4，6）拥有很大的权柄。然而他们十分珍视一条训诫，即“只有一位是你们的夫子，你们都是弟兄”（太 23:8；参：太 10:24）。保罗试图帮助他人快乐，而不是辖管他们的信心（林后 1:24）。他坚持认为他的传道是正确的，并认为彼得应当按照福音的教导行事（加 1:18；2:14）。彼得认为自己有必要在其他使徒和弟兄们面前为自己接受哥尼流的行为辩护（徒 11:1-18）。

人们可以从最初使徒的传道情况中找到这一悖论的解释。从某种意义上说，使徒的地位是一种社会学集合，他们的地位甚至要在教会之上。使徒是柱石，他们的话带有基督赐予的权柄，但这种权柄却是为了形成并发展当地的传教活动。最初的使徒选出了两位候选人代替犹大的位，主在这两人中选择了马提亚（徒 1:15，23），门徒增多后，大众就拣选了七人，使徒按手在他们头上，并祷告，规定他们做管理的工作（徒 6:1-6）。在耶路撒冷，长老和使徒共同掌握着决策权（徒 15），而在《哥林多前书》12:28-29 中，治理能力似乎是主赐予使徒的有别于使徒身分的天赋。保罗和会众中的长老一起授予提摩太职分（提前 4:14；提后 1:6）。使徒并未像 2 世纪的主教那样在圣礼中起主导作用（林前 1:14；徒 10:48）。使徒们通过在各地的牧师，为他们离开或死后教会的

1:6). Nor did the apostles take the leading place in administering the sacraments, as the bishops did in the 2nd cent. (1 Cor. 1:14; Acts 10:48). Through the local ministers the apostles made provision for the Church's worship, government, and discipline to be carried on in their absence and after their decease. The writings of the Apostolic Fathers show the advance of this process.

Later in the 2nd cent. a more strenuous effort was made to ward off the dangers of speculation, schism, and apostasy brought about by persecution. Added stress was placed upon the Apostolic Rule of Faith, the Apostolic Canon of Scripture, and the Apostolic Office, that is, the bishops in churches that had been founded by apostles. These tests were expected to keep church proclamation in conformity with the word and witness of the dominically chosen and commissioned body of apostles.

In the final analysis the apostles were officers not of the Church but of the risen Lord, who proclaimed Himself through their preaching of Him and so built His Church through their labors. In their activities, the ministry of the Church was so related to the ministry of Christ that it was Christ Himself who was nourishing, sustaining, and directing His Church. And the Church is authentically apostolic only when her thought and action are governed and guided by her Lord, that is, when He rules and teaches His Church through His Spirit and Word by the ministry of men. Through their faithful exposition of the apostolic gospel the risen Lord is still heard proclaiming Himself as the Savior of sinners.

2 世纪后期，人们为了避免迫害导致的思辨、教会分裂和叛教的危险，做出了更为艰苦的努力。人们更加强调使徒信规、使徒圣经正典和使徒的职分，也就是使徒所建立的教会主教一职。这些尝试旨在使教会的宣告始终符合主拣选并委任的使徒的话语和见证。

总之，使徒是升天的主的委任者，而不是教会的管理者，主通过使徒的传教自我揭示，然后藉着他们所作的工建立了教会。在使徒的活动中，教会的传教和基督的传教密切相关，所以基督自身在滋养、维护并指导着祂的教会。只有当教会的思想和行为受主的管辖和引导时，也就是当主通过人类的传道，藉着祂的灵和道管辖和教导祂的教会时，教会才是真正的使徒教会。升天的主仍在使徒忠实传播的福音中揭示祂自己，向世人宣布祂就是所有罪人的救主。

APOSTOLIC AGE.

The period from Pentecost to the death of John, the last of the twelve apostles (ca. 100), when the Church was under the guidance of Paul (till his death) and the apostles, especially Peter and John.

I. The Mission.—When the disciples realized that they had seen the risen Christ for the last time and that it had now become their duty to spread His message, they gathered themselves together and restored the number of “witnesses” to the appointed Twelve. Immediately afterward the outpouring of the Holy Spirit gave them the signal to begin work. At first this work was rigidly centered in Jerusalem, and the first journeyings were the result of forcible dispersion and not of planned effort (Acts 11:19). But pilgrims to the feasts had

APOSTOLIC AGE. 使徒时期

这段时期指从五旬节至十二使徒中最后一位——约翰去世(约公元 100 年)之间的时期, 当时教会受保罗(直到他去世)和使徒领导, 尤其受彼得和约翰的领导。

I. 使命。当门徒们意识到这是他们最后一次看见复活的主, 并且意识到他们有责任去传播主的福音, 于是他们聚集到一起, 并将主的“见证人”的数目恢复到了祂所规定的十二位。被圣灵感动后, 他们立即接到开始传道的信号。起初, 他们的传道工作主要集中在耶路撒冷, 犹太人的被迫离散促成了他们第一次传道旅程, 这并非是计划好的行动(徒 11:19)。人们在节期朝圣时, 将福音一起传播了出去, 基督教通过这种方式至少传播到了大马士革(徒 9:2, 19)。而离散的犹太人又开始向塞浦路斯和安提阿传播基督教, 这标志着外邦传道 carried away the gospel with them, and in this way Christianity had been spread at least as far as Damascus (9:2, 19). The dispersion itself widened the circle to Cyprus and to Antioch and marked the beginning of the gentile work (11:19f.).

The extreme prominence of Paul's ministry in the NT should not obscure the success of the other missionaries. When the apostles began their journeys we do not know, but at the time of Gal. 1:19 only Peter represented the Twelve in Jerusalem. Paul mentions their extended work in 1 Cor. 9:5f., and it seems certain that Peter was in Rome shortly before his death. The troubles caused Paul by the Judaizers at least give evidence of the missionary zeal of the latter. Barnabas and Mark worked after their separation from Paul (Acts 15:39), and gentile Christianity existed in Rome long before Paul's arrival there (Rom. 1:13). By the year 100 it appears that Christianity extended around the Mediterranean from Alexandria to Rome (and doubtless farther, although data are scanty), while Asia Minor was especially pervaded by it.

在《新约》中，保罗的传教尤其突出，但这并不能掩盖其他传教士的成功。我们不知道使徒何时开启传道之旅，但到《加拉太书》1:19 中描述的时期，只有彼得代表十二使徒留在了耶路撒冷传道。保罗在《哥林多前书》9:5-6 中提到他们扩大了传道的范围，彼得似乎确实在去世前曾暂住罗马。犹太基督徒给保罗带来的麻烦至少表明了他们的传道热情。巴拿巴和马可在与保罗分开后，继续传道（徒 15:39），早在保罗到达罗马之前，当地就已经有外邦的基督

Many factors cooperated to help the work. Peace was universal and communication was easy. Greek was spoken everywhere. The protection given Judaism sheltered from civil interference. The presence of Judaism insured hospitality and hearers for at least the first efforts to convert. The Jews' proselytizing zeal (Mt. 23:15) had prepared Gentiles to receive Christianity. And not the least element was the break-up of the old religions and the general looking to the East for religious satisfaction.

Paul's procedure is probably typical. Avoiding the smaller places, he devoted himself to the cities as the strategic points and traveled in a direct route, without side-journeys. In this way a "line of fire" (Harnack) was traced, and the flame could be trusted to spread of its own accord to each side of the road. So as fruits of Paul's work at Ephesus there appear churches at Colossae and Laodicea some 120 mi. (200 km.) away (Col. 2:1; 4:16). The churches founded needed revisiting and confirming; but when the apostle felt that they could shift for themselves, he felt also that his work in the East was over (Rom. 15:23).

徒 (罗 1:13)。到公元 100 年, 基督教似乎沿地中海从亚历山大港传播到了罗马 (虽然缺乏数据的证实, 但无疑传播得更远), 在小亚细亚尤为普遍。

许多其他因素也推动了基督教的传播。当时时局总体稳定, 交流也十分容易。各地的民众都讲希腊语。犹太教的保护使得基督教不受民众干扰。犹太教的存在至少保证听众愿意首先改变信仰。犹太人改变信仰的热情 (太 23:15) 为外邦人接受基督教做了铺垫。另一个因素便是旧宗教的分裂, 人们因此转向东方寻求宗教信仰的满足。

保罗的传道过程可能具有典型性。他不在小地方传道, 而是将城市作为传道的重点, 他走直路传道, 绝不绕路。通过这种方式, 学者们 (Harnack) 可以描绘出一条 "火线", 并且相信火焰已经弥漫到了这条路线的两侧。保罗在以弗所的传教促使 120 英里 (200 公里) 之外的歌罗西和老底嘉建立了教会 (西 2:1; 4:16)。这些教会建立之后需要他再次访问和确认; 但当保罗认为这些教会可以独立发展时, 他也认为自己在东方的传道工作结束了 (罗 15:23)。

II. Jerusalem Church.-The members of II. 耶路撒冷教会。 最早的耶路撒冷教

the earliest Jerusalem church thought of themselves simply as Jews who had a true understanding of the Messiah and so constituting a new “way” or “party” (hardly “sect”) in Judaism (Acts 22:4, esp.). At first they were allowed to grow unmolested, and their right to exist was apparently unquestioned, for the Sadducean actions of Acts 4:1; 5:17 were in the nature of police precautions. And it is significant that the first attack was made on a foreigner, Stephen. He seems to have angered the crowds by preaching the impending destruction of the temple, although he was martyred for ascribing (practically) divine honors to Jesus (7:56). Yet the apostles were not driven from the city (8:1) and the church was able to continue its development.

In 41, the Roman representatives gave way to the pharisaically inclined Agrippa I, and (for reasons that are not clear) persecution broke out in which James was martyred and Peter delivered only by a miracle (Acts 12). With the resumption of Roman rule in 44 the persecution ceased. Some peaceable mode of living was devised, as appears from the absence of further allusions to troubles (cf. Acts 21:17-26) and from the accounts of Josephus and Hegesippus of the esteem in which James the Lord’s brother was held. His martyrdom (in 62?) was due to the tension that preceded the final revolt against Rome, in which the Christians of Jerusalem took no part. Instead, they retired across the Jordan to Pella (Rev. 12:13-17), where they formed a close, intensely Jewish body under the rule of the descendants of Christ’s brethren according to the flesh. Some mission work was done farther to the east, but in the 2nd cent. they either were absorbed in normal Christianity or became one of the factors that produced Ebionism.

会的成员认为自己仅仅是拥有关于弥赛亚的真正知识的犹太人，并组成了一个犹太教的新“道”或新“党”（几乎不能称之为“教派”）（尤其见徒 22:4）。起初，教会可以不受烦扰地自由发展，显然也无人质疑他们存在的权力，因为《使徒行传》4:1; 5:17 中撒都该人的行动从本质上看只是维护秩序的预防措施。值得注意的是，第一个遭受攻击的人是外邦人司提反。他传道时说，圣殿即将倾覆，这似乎激起了民众的忿怒，但他（实际上）因为宣传耶稣拥有神圣的荣耀而最终殉道（徒 7:56）。但人们并未将使徒逐出城（徒 8:1），教会也可以继续发展。

公元 41 年，罗马众议院让位于倾向亚基帕一世的法利赛人，迫害（原因不明）开始了，雅各在这次迫害中殉道了，但彼得因神迹得以释放（徒 12）。公元 44 年，罗马统治复辟后，停止了迫害。《圣经》中并未进一步提及其他烦扰（参：徒 21:17-26），约瑟夫斯和赫格西卜的作品体现出了对主的弟兄雅各的尊重，这表明基督徒找到了一种和平的生存模式。雅各殉道（可能是在公元 62 年）要归因于反抗罗马的最终起义前的紧张时局，耶路撒冷的基督徒并未参与这场起义。他们反而经约旦河退到了佩拉（启 12:13-17），并在基督血缘上弟兄的后裔的管理下，形成了一个封闭的、紧张的犹太团体。他们继续向东方传道，但是到公元 2 世纪时，他们要么并入了正统的基督教，要么逐渐发展成了伊便尼派的一部分。

III. Judaists.-Many members of this body (and, doubtless, other Jewish Christians outside it) showed various degrees of inability to understand the gentile work. The acceptance of an uncircumcised Christian as "saved" offered fairly slight difficulty (Gal. 2:3; Acts 15). But to eat with him was another thing and one that was an offense to many who accepted his salvation (Gal. 2:12f.). The rigorous conclusion that the Law bound no Christian was still another thing and one that even James could not accept (Acts 21:21). At the time of Gal. 2:9, the "pillars" were as yet not thinking of doing gentile work. Paul's controversies are familiar, and probably the last friction did not end until the fall of Jerusalem. But the difficulties grew gradually less, and 1 Peter is evidence that Peter himself finally accepted the full status of Gentiles.

IV. Relations with Rome.-From the Roman power Christianity was safe at first, as the distinctions from Judaism were thought too slight to notice (Acts 18:14-16; 25:19). (Troubles such as those of Acts 17:9 were due to disturbance of the peace.) So the government was thought of as a protector (2 Thess. 2:7) and spoken of in the highest terms (Rom. 13:1; 1 Pet. 2:13f.). But, while absolute isolation was not observed (1 Cor. 10:27), yet the Christians tended more and more to draw themselves into bodies with little contact with the world around them (1 Pet. 4:3-5), so provoking suspicion and hostility from their neighbors. Hence they were a convenient scapegoat for Nero after the burning of Rome. It is uncertain

III. 犹太教徒。这一团体中的许多成员（无疑不包括犹太基督徒）在不同程度上都无法理解向外邦人传道的工作。他们并未过多为难，便接受了未受割礼的人作“被救的”基督徒（加 2:3；徒 15）。但与他一起吃饭则是另一回事，对于许多接受他的救赎的人来说，这是一种冒犯（加 2:12-13）。律法并未束缚任何基督徒这一严格结论也是另一回事，就连雅各都不能接受（徒 21:21）。在《加拉太书》2:9 中，“柱石”在那时也没有想过向外邦人传教。保罗的辩论对人们来说十分熟悉，最后一次摩擦可能直到耶路撒冷陷落才最终结束。但困难逐渐被克服，《彼得前书》表明彼得本人最终接纳了外邦人的全部地位。

IV. 与罗马的关系。在罗马统治时期，基督教起初是安全的，因为他们与犹太教的差别太小，没有引起人们的注意（徒 18:14-16；25:19）。（由于他们扰乱治安，所以才遇到了《使徒行传》17:9 中的那些麻烦）。因此政府被视为保护者（帖后 2:7），占据着最高的地位（罗 13:1；彼前 2:13-14）。但是，基督徒虽然没有绝对地孤立存在（林前 10:27），却越来越自成一体，少与周边接触（彼前 4:3-5），这就引起了邻居的怀疑和敌意。因此尼禄认为罗马大火之后，他们非常适合做替罪羊。尚无法确定尼禄的迫害范围，也不确定从尼禄时期到图密善统治末期迫害的程度（见 PETER, FIRST EPISTLE OF II[《彼得前书》II]），但在《启示录》中，罗马成为了所有敌基督者的象征。

how far his persecution spread or how far persecutions occurred from his time until the end of the reign of Domitian (see PETER, FIRST EPISTLE OF II), but in Revelation Rome has become the symbol for all that is hostile to Christ.

V. “Hellenism”.-Influence of the “pagan” religions on Christianity is not very perceptible in the 1st century. But syncretism was the fashion of the day and many converts must have attempted to combine the new religion with views that they held already (or that they learned still later). Apparently little attention was paid to this attempt if it was restricted to entirely minor details (1 Cor. 15:29?), but in Col. 2:8–23 a vital matter is touched. The danger appears more acute in the Pastorals (1 Tim. 1:4; 4:3; Tit. 3:9), and according to Rev. 2 great harm was being done. Also, Jude, 2 Peter, and 1 John contain direct polemics against the systems so arising, the beginnings of what in the 2nd cent. appeared as Gnosticism.

V. “希腊化”。在公元 1 世纪，“异端”宗教对基督教的影响并不太明显。但宗教融合是当时的主流趋势，许多皈依者必然试图将新的宗教和已知观点（或他们随后了解的观点）融合在一起。显然，如果这种融合仅限于全部细枝末节（林前 15:29[不确定]），那么显然很少有人关注它，但《歌罗西书》2:8-23 中触及了一个至关重要的问题。在教牧书信中，这种危险似乎变得更加严重（提前 1:4; 4:3; 多 3:9），而根据《启示录》2 章的描述，这种融合造成了巨大的危害。另外，《犹大书》、《彼得后书》和《约翰一书》中也包含了刚兴起体系的直接论述，这种体系在 2 世纪时期发展成了诺斯替主义。

APOSTOLIC CONSTITUTIONS AND CANONS.

A pseudepigraphical work usually dated in the 4th cent. A.D. and thought to be Syrian in origin. It consists of a collection of independent treatises on doctrine, worship, and discipline collected into eight books, with eighty-five appended canons, and seems to be designed predominantly as a manual for the clergy. The ostensible author is Clement of Rome, who, it is claimed, edited apostolic materials, although as early as the Trullan Council of 692 it was recognized that neither the apostolic origin nor Clement's editorship was authentic.

The general dating of the Constitutions has not given rise to serious controversy. Many of the underlying materials obviously come from the third century or even (in a few instances) earlier, but since the rulings of the Council of Antioch in 341 are incorporated the compilation can hardly precede this date. On the other hand there is no reference to the Nestorian or Monophysite debates, so that a date past ca. 420 is excluded. References by Eusebius, Epiphanius, and Athanasius might be to constituent materials and not necessarily to the full collection.

The books of the Constitutions come from various sources. Bks. 1-6 rest on a

APOSTOLIC CONSTITUTIONS AND CANONS. 《使徒典章与法令》

这是一部伪经作品,人们通常认为该书是在 4 世纪时用叙利亚语写成的。该书共分八卷,并带有八十五部附加典籍,书中收录了许多关于教义、敬奉和教规的独立的论述,似乎主要是供神职人员使用的手册。该书据称由罗马的革利免编纂,而且据称他还曾参与了使徒文献的编辑,虽然早在 692 年的楚兰会议上,人们就已经意识到这部作品实际上既非使徒所作,也不是由革利免所编。

这部作品编辑的大概日期并未引起太多争论。书中的大多原始资料显然来自 3 世纪时期甚至(极少情况下)更早时期,但由于 341 年安提阿会议在表决时引用了这部作品中的内容,所以该书的编纂时间不应早于这个年限。此外,书中没有提及基督教派或基督一性论的争论,因此编辑日期不可能超过约公元 420 年。优西比乌、伊皮法尼和亚他那修的作品可能构成了该书的一部分,不太可能构成了整部作品。

这部作品有多个来源。第一至六卷基于一部名为《使徒遗范》的 3 世纪时期的

third-century collection known as the Didascalia, which is fully extant only in Syriac. One part of bk. 7 incorporates the moral teaching of the Didache, while the rest is from an unknown source. Bk. 8 brings together various materials. It seems to use at the outset the treatise of Hippolytus on spiritual gifts. Other sections show evident kinship to the Egyptian Church Order, and the familiar Clementine Liturgy is included also. The work of redaction is usually traced to a single, if unknown, hand, since the style in the editorial sections is obviously uniform. A semi-Arian trend has been seen in the work by some, but others suspect Apollinarianism. More plausibly the editor has been identified as pseudo-Ignatius, the writer responsible for the longer recension of the epistles of Ignatius of Antioch.

The contents of the first set of books—those based on the Didascalia—give evidence of careful grouping. Bk. 1 is devoted to the duties of ordinary Christians and prescribes a strict although not wholly ascetic manner of life. Soberness in adornment and caution in respect of the public baths might be mentioned as examples. In contrast, bk. 2 deals with the qualifications and duties of the clergy. An interesting account of penitential practice is added, and many ceremonial details are given. Widows and their office receive attention in bk. 3, as do also deacons and baptism, while charity comes under discussion in bk. 4. In bk. 5 duties toward the persecuted are set out, and martyrdom comes under discussion, along with idolatry as the main threat to Christians and the chief object of the martyrs' protest. Finally, bk. 6. offers a survey of the history and teachings of the different movements of schism and heresy in the early Church.

文集, 但该书只有叙利亚语版本完整地保留了下来。第七卷的部分内容取自《十二使徒遗训》中关于道德的教训, 而其他部分的来源尚未查明。第八卷整合了多份原始资料。这卷书起初似乎引用了一部希坡律陀关于属灵恩赐的专著中的内容。其他部分显然与《埃及教会法令》有密切联系, 众所周知的《革利免礼典》(Clementine Liturgy) 也被收录其中。人们通常认为这部作品是同一个人编辑的, 但具体是谁尚未可知, 因为各个编辑部分风格显然是一致的。一些学者在这部作品中看到了一种半亚流主义的趋势, 但其他人则推测该作品属于亚波里拿流主义。有一种更为合理的推测, 即该书的编辑者是伪伊格那丢, 也就是安提阿的伊格那丢书信的较长校订本的编辑者。

The part of bk. 7 that derives from the Didache provides moral instruction according to the familiar schema of the Two Ways. The second part consists of liturgical directions, an interesting point here being that some of the prayers suggest Jewish origins. Bk. 8, apart from the opening section on charismata, deals predominantly with matters of order and worship. Finally, the appended canons turn again to the important subject of the selection, ordination, and duties of the clergy. Also given is a list of canonical writings which omits Revelation but recognizes 3 Maccabees, 1 and 2 Clement, and the Constitutions themselves. Fifty of these canons came into the West and found a home in the Isidorian Decretals and Gratian's codification. The full eighty-five were adopted by John of Constantinople in the East and came to be invested with considerable authority.

Certain features of the Constitutions and Canons call for special notice. Occasional extravagant mystical interpretations of Scripture characterize and mar the work. If a certain friendliness toward Jews may be discerned, opposition to Jewish Christians is severe, possibly because of local rivalries. Sharp separation from the pagan world is demanded, including the laying aside of all pagan literature. A full round of observances is also required of all Christians, including brief services twice a day, the keeping of both the sabbath and the Lord's Day, and various fasts and festivals. Exaggerated respect must be paid to the clergy and especially the bishop. The bishop should not even be approached except through deacons or servants, just as God should not be approached except through Christ. Deaconesses are to be esteemed as the Holy Spirit and presbyters as the apostles, while teachers deserve more respect than princes or magistrates. The clericalism of a later period found welcome ammunition in this set of documents.

第七卷源于《十二使徒遗训》的第一部分内容，并根据“生死两道”这一常见模式提供了道德教导。第二部分由礼仪指示组成，比较有趣的是，此处的一些祈祷文源自犹太人。在第八卷中，除了开篇部分是有关恩赐的，其余部分都主要涉及法令和敬奉的问题。最后，附加的典籍再次回到拣选、任命和神职人员责任等重要主题上。这部分还给出了一份正典经卷的列表，其中删除了《启示录》，但添加了《马加比三书》、《革利免一书》和《革利免二书》以及《使徒典章和法令》本身。其中 50 部典籍传入西方，并收录在《伊西多尔教令集》和格拉典编纂的法典中。东方君士坦丁堡的约翰接受了全部的 85 部典籍，并赋予它们极大的权威。

The intricate problems associated with the sources of the Constitutions have given rise to an extensive literature. This is, however, a specialized field which, in view of the inauthenticity of the work, has little bearing on the church's life, teaching, or discipline today. The main interest in the Constitutions for the average Christian lies in the picture that they give of practical, liturgical, and clerical life in the early centuries, the measures in which this conforms to authentically apostolic precept and precedent, its influence in succeeding centuries, and the positive and negative lessons that might still be learned from it.

关于《使徒典章和法令》来源的问题十分复杂，这些问题甚至可以形成一类宽泛的文学。然而，这是一个专业的领域，鉴于该书是伪造的，它对现今的教会生活、教导或教规几乎没有产生影响。对于大多基督徒来说，这部作品的主要价值在于该书描绘了主后前几个世纪的传统、礼仪和牧师的生活，书中的法令符合真正的使徒教训和典范，人们可以看出该书在随后几个世纪的影响，并且仍能从书中学到或积极或消极的教训。

APOSTOLIC COUNCIL. 使徒会议

这是一次安提阿教会代表团（保罗、巴拿巴等人）和耶路撒冷母教会代表团之间的会议，本次会议是为了解决一些从耶路撒冷来的犹太派基督徒所引起的争论，他们教训外邦的归信者说，如果不按摩西律法的规定受割礼，就不能得救。这次会议可能在保罗第一次和第二次传道旅程之间举行，《使徒行传》15:1-35 中的经文记录了这次会议。施 place between Paul's first and second missionary journeys and is recorded in Acts 15:1-35. Schlatter (p. 125) suggests that the term "Apostolic Council" is not entirely appropriate, since the apostles were not the only active participants. It is also called the Jerusalem Council.

I. Critical Problems.-Whether we may supplement the Acts 15 account with information from Paul's report in Gal. 2:1-10 (his encounter with "those who were of repute") depends upon our decision regarding the relationship between Paul's visits to Jerusalem as recorded in Galatians and those recorded in Acts. If these are two accounts of the same incident we will have to conclude that Paul played a much more active role than is suggested by the passing references to him in Acts (15:4, 12), and also that the decisions of the Council were considerably broader in scope than a mere rejection of the Jewish-Christian proposal for gentile circumcision.

Briefly stated the problem is this. In his letter to the Galatians Paul indicates with great care that subsequent to his conversion he had been in Jerusalem on but two occasions. The first (Gal. 1:18-24) was a fortnight spent with Peter during which he saw none of the other apostles except James. The second (Gal. 2:1-10) was "after fourteen years," at which time he gave an account of his gospel. The leaders of the Jerusalem church, recognizing that the gospel to the

拉特 (Schlatter, 125 页) 认为“使徒会议”一词不完全恰当, 因为使徒不是仅有的积极参与者。这次会议也被称为“耶路撒冷会议”。

- II. 会议时机
- III. 本次会议
- IV. 使徒法令
- V. 会议成果

I. 关键问题。我们是否可以用《加拉太书》2:1-10 中保罗提到的信息 (他遇见了“那些有名望的”) 来补充《使徒行传》15 章中的记录, 这取决于我们如何看待《加拉太书》中与《使徒行传》中关于保罗拜访耶路撒冷的两段记录的关系。如果这两段经文指的是同一事件, 那么我们就可以推断保罗在会议中所起的作用更为积极, 而不像《使徒行传》(徒 15:4, 12) 中那样描述保罗时一带而过, 我们还可以推断出使徒会议的与会者并非仅仅拒绝犹太派基督徒提出的让外邦信徒也受割礼的这一建议, 还对更多的论题进行了表决。

这个问题可以简述如下。保罗在给加拉太人的书信中特别表明他归信主之后, 曾两次访问耶路撒冷。他第一次访问时和彼得同住了两周 (加 1:18-24), 除了雅各之外, 他没看到其他使徒。保罗第二次去耶路撒冷时 (加 2:1-10), 已经“过了十四年”, 他去那里向弟兄们传播他的福音。耶路撒冷教会的领袖承认, 是主托保罗传福音给那未受割礼的人, 于是他们就向保罗用右手行相交之礼。他们并未补充保罗的福音。实际上, 就连他们想要让提多受割礼的尝试也 uncircumcised had been entrusted to him, extended to him the right hand of fellowship. Nothing was added to his gospel. In fact, even an apparent attempt to have Titus circumcised failed. 失败了。

In what has traditionally been taken as the same span of time, Acts lists not two but three visits to Jerusalem. The first follows Paul's escape from Damascus (Acts 9:26-30). This is quite widely identified with the first visit of Gal. 1:18-24. The second visit in Acts is the so-called famine visit (Acts 11:30; 12:25) and the third is the Jerusalem Council. The essential problem is which, if either, of these two latter visits in Acts coincides with Gal. 2:1-10. The problem is made acute by the absolute necessity to Paul's argument that all his contacts with Jerusalem be mentioned. The very point he wants to establish is that his apostolic commission is independent of the authorities in Jerusalem. Deliberately to omit a significant contact would be to falsify the record and discredit himself as a true apostle. Innocently to overlook the visit would undermine his argument and afford his opponents a splendid opportunity for rebuttal.

The view that Gal. 2:1-10 is Paul's account of the Jerusalem Council (described by Luke in Acts 15) is most often associated with the name of J. B. Lightfoot (St. Paul's Epistle to the Galatians [1900], pp. 123-28). He argues the striking coincidence of circumstances between the accounts (in matters of geography, time, persons, subject of dispute, character of conference, and result) and concludes that it is unlikely that two conferences so similar could have occurred within such a few years (p.

在同样的时间跨度内,《使徒行传》中记载了保罗三次拜访耶路撒冷,而非两次。第一次是保罗逃离大马士革之后(徒 9:26-30)。人们普遍认为这就是保罗在《加拉太书》1:18-24 中所描述的第一次去耶路撒冷。《使徒行传》中记载了保罗第二次访问耶路撒冷,这就是所谓的“救济访问”,而第三次就是为了参加耶路撒冷会议。关键问题是,《加拉太书》2:1-10 中到底指的是后两次访问中哪一次。保罗在争论中提到了所有与耶路撒冷的接触,他的争论的绝对必要性使得这一问题变得更为严重。他强调的重点是,他的使徒使命与耶路撒冷有名望的人无关。如果他故意漏掉了一次与耶路撒冷教会的接触,那么他就是在伪造记录,这将影响他作为一个真正使徒的荣誉。而如果他是无意忽略了这次访问,那么就会影响他辩论的力度,从而为敌人反驳他提供了有利条件。

莱特福特(J. B. Lightfoot)通常认为《加拉太书》2:1-10 中保罗提到的就是耶路撒冷会议(路加在《使徒行传》15 章中描述了这次会议)(St. Paul's Epistle to the Galatians [1900], 123-128 页)。他认为这两记录中的描述的情况(地理、时间、人物、争论的主题、会议的特征和结果)惊人的相似,他认为在几年的时间里不太可能出现两次如此相似的会议(124 页)。他指出这是两次不同的会议的说法很难站住脚,从而反证了自己的观点。

124). He supports his position negatively by pointing out difficulties with alternative solutions.

A great number of scholars from Irenaeus in the 2nd cent. (cited by Lightfoot, p. 123 n. 1) to Burton (Galatians [ICC, 1920], pp. 115ff.), Ridderbos (comm. on Galatians [NIC, 1953], pp. 78–80), and Filson (IDB, I, 701f.) in the 20th have been in essential agreement with Lightfoot. Writing at the turn of the century W. M. Ramsay was forced to admit that “scholars who agree in regard to scarcely any other point of early Christian history are at one in this” (SPT, p. 154). Filson holds that although the accounts of Acts 15 and Gal. 2 differ “in important respects” there is nevertheless broad agreement between the accounts. Of the various solutions proposed “none is so convincing as the view that Gal. 2:1–10; Acts 15:1–29 describe the same conference” (p. 711; cf. also O. Moe, The Apostle Paul: His Life and His Work [Eng. tr. 1950], pp. 221ff.; D. J. Selby, Toward the Understanding of St. Paul [1962], pp. 196–204).

The other classic solution is connected with the name of William Ramsay. He accepted as historical the three visits recorded by Luke and held that the private consultation of Gal. 2:1–10 took place during the second (or famine) visit, (pp. 54ff., 152ff.). This view has gained a great number of adherents (cf. the bibliographic note in Bruce, Book of the Acts, pp. 300f. n. 10) and is apparently the revival of Calvin’s position in his commentary on Galatians published in 1548. It is the prevailing view among British scholars.

从 2 世纪的爱任纽 (Lightfoot, 123 页, 注释 1), 至 20 世纪的伯顿 (Galatians [ICC, 1920], 115 页起), 里德伯斯 (《加拉太书》评注, [NIC, 1953], 78–80 页) 和费尔森 (IDB, I, 701-702) 等大量学者都基本赞成莱特福特的观点。世纪之交时, 拉姆塞 (W. M. Ramsay) 不得不承认 “学者们几乎没就任何早期基督教史问题达成过共识, 但在这一点上, 他们观点一致” (SPT, 154 页)。费尔森认为, 虽然《使徒行传》15 章和《加拉太书》2 章中的记录 “在重要方面” 有所不同, 但两处记录基本一致。在各种解答中, “没有哪个观点比认为《加拉太书》2:1-10 和《使徒行传》15:1-29 中描述了同一次会议的观点更有说服力” (711 页; 另参: O. Moe, The Apostle Paul: His Life and His Work [1950 年英文译本], 221 页起; D. J. Selby, Toward the Understanding of St. Paul [1962], 196–204 页)。

威廉·拉姆塞 (William Ramsay) 提出了另一种传统的解答。他认为路加记录的保罗三次拜访耶路撒冷符合史实, 他还认为《加拉太书》2:1-10 中记载的私下磋商发生在保罗第二次去耶路撒冷 (或救济访问) 时 (54 页起, 152 页起)。这种观点有很多拥护者 (参: Bruce, Book of the Acts, 300-301, 注释 10), 这显然再现了加尔文在 1548 年发表的《加拉太书》评注中的立场。英国学者普遍认同这种观点。

There are three basic arguments against the equation of Gal. 2 with Acts 15 that make many scholars look with favor on an alternate solution. First, attention is drawn to the discrepancies between the accounts. Lightfoot is certainly right when he argues the similarity of geography and persons (in the matter of time he is begging the question) but wrong when he holds that the subject of dispute, the character of the conference, and the result are the same.

The subject of the Galatians meeting was not circumcision but the sufficiency of Paul's gospel and the appropriateness of his ministry to the Gentiles. The question of circumcision arose at the instigation of some false brethren, and receives the mention it does because it serves to establish the point Paul is making in his letter, namely, the independence of his gospel. In the case of Acts 15 the Council is convened to deal with the subject of gentile acceptance into the Church. Here circumcision is the occasion of the meeting. It is interesting to note, however, that after the preliminary hearing (Gal. 2:5) it is not mentioned again in the entire conference.

Neither is the character of the conference the same in the two accounts. Lightfoot's description of the Council as a "prolonged and hard-fought contest" (p. 124) captures the feeling of the Galatians account but not that of Acts. The strong dissension and debate took place in Antioch, not Jerusalem. While the opposition gave clear statement to their opinion (Gal. 2:5), the Council itself is represented by Luke as conciliatory and moving rather easily toward a practically unanimous verdict (cf. esp. vv. 12, 21).

《加拉太书》中会议的主题不是割礼的问题,而是保罗的福音是否完备,以及他是否恰当地向外邦人传道。在一些假弟兄的煽动下,割礼问题被提了出来,保罗提及这个问题是因为它能够支持保罗在信中提出的观点,即他所传福音的独立性。而《使徒行传》15章中会议的主题是教会是否应该接纳外邦人。割礼问题是召开这次会议的一个原因。但是,值得注意的是,预审之后(加 2:5),整个会议过程中再没有提及这个问题。

两段描述中会议的特点也不同。莱特福特将会议描述为“冗长的、激烈的争论”(124页),这体现了《加拉太书》中会议的基调,而不是《使徒行传》中会议的基调。在安提阿而非耶路撒冷产生了激烈的纠纷和辩论。反对派阐明了他们的观点(加 2:5),但在路加的描述中,耶路撒冷会议的气氛比较和谐活跃,实际上与会者很容易达成一致(尤其参:徒 15:12, 21)。

The results of the two meetings are not the same. In Galatians a division between spheres of missionary activity is recognized and accepted. Not yielding to circumcision is a parenthetical event within the conference, not the outcome of it. In Acts the result is a decision against the imposition of either circumcision or Mosaic law upon gentile converts. Along with it goes a request that for the sake of fellowship the Gentiles abstain from certain practices abhorrent to the Jews.

Certain other discrepancies may be mentioned. Paul portrays his opponents as “false brethren” who slipped in secretly to enslave the gentile converts (Gal. 2:3f.). Luke calls them “believers” (Acts 15:5) and gives no indication of any lack of integrity. Galatians suggests that for a time the Jerusalem leaders were willing to compromise with the antagonists (Burton says that the pillar apostles for a time “urged that Paul should waive his scruples and consent to the circumcision of Titus” but later “yielded and gave assent to Paul’s view” [p. 77]), but Luke presents Peter and James in unwavering support of the Pauline position. In Galatians Paul is portrayed as pressing home his case, unwilling to allow even Titus to be circumcised, and securing the confidence of the Jerusalem leaders. In Acts Paul is hardly more than an interested onlooker who gives an account of what God has done through him among the Gentiles but leaves the deliberations in the hands of the Jerusalem authorities. In Galatians Paul is fiercely independent and depreciates the rank (if not the person) of those “reputed to be something” (Gal. 2:6, 9). In Acts he is a part of the team. (It is common for writers who distinguish between Gal. 2 and Acts 15 to point out still other discrepancies, but many of these are of dubious validity. For example: the motives for going [“by revelation”; “appointed to go”] are not mutually exclusive; the decree concerning table fellowship does not mean that something was added to Paul’s gospel; and the problem of private or public council is extremely unconvincing.)

这两次会议还存在其他的差异。保罗将反对者描述成“假弟兄”，他们偷着进来，要让外邦的归信者作奴仆（加 2:3-4）。而路加则称反对者是“信徒”（徒 15:5），也并未指出他们缺少真诚。《加拉太书》中表明耶路撒冷的领袖曾一度向这些反对者妥协（巴顿称柱石使徒曾“劝保罗放下顾虑，同意提多受割礼”，但后来他们“妥协并同意了保罗的观点” [77 页]），但路加却表明彼得和雅各坚决支持保罗的立场。在《加拉太书》中，保罗极力坚持自己的观点，不愿让提多受割礼，并坚固了耶路撒冷领袖的信心。而在《使徒行传》中，保罗仅仅是一位关心此事的旁观者，他描述了神通过他在外邦人里行的事，但把决定权交给了耶路撒冷的权威人士。在《加拉太书》中，保罗是绝对独立的，而且贬低了“那些有名望的”阶层（如果不是指人的话）（加 2:6, 9）。在《使徒行传》中，保罗只是众人中的一员。（认为《加拉太书》2 章和《使徒行传》15 章不同的作者经常指出这两章中的其他差异，但大多都不足为信。比如说：保罗去耶路撒冷的缘由[“奉启示”；“受指派”]并不互相矛盾；关于餐桌团契的法令并不意味着保罗的福音中被添加了什么；私下磋商或公众会议的问题就更没有说服力了。）

Two approaches have been taken to alleviate the problem. One is to hold that most of the account in Galatians describes the private consultation and that Acts records the public meeting (Ridderbos follows this approach). But the overall tone of the two meetings is too divergent to explain Galatians as a caucus before the Acts convention. Is it psychologically reasonable that the rugged champion of gentile freedom (Galatians) would act as nothing more than a witness (Acts) when the crucial question came out into the open for final disposition?

The other approach is to stress the difference between external and internal history (cf. R. B. Rackham, comm. on Acts [WC, 1902], p. 240). Paul is seen as revealing his own personal involvement to a specific group for a specific reason (Galatians). Luke writes as an objective historian to the entire Church and reports the major result. That the perspectives of Paul and Luke would differ is undeniable, but that this difference in perspective is adequate to explain the marked dissimilarities is highly questionable.

A second basic problem with the Gal.

可以采用两种方法解决这个难题。一种方法是认为《加拉太书》中的大多数描述属于私下磋商，而《使徒行传》中记录的是公众会议（里德伯斯采用这种方法）。但这两次会议基调相差甚大，很难相信《加拉太书》中的会议是《使徒行传》中会议之前的一次核心会议。一个坚决拥护外邦人自由的人（《加拉太书》），在其他公开提出这个尖锐的问题并做最终决定时，却仅仅充当着见证人的角色（《使徒行传》），这从心理学上讲合理吗？

另一种方法则强调外部记录或内部记录的差异（参：R. B. Rackham, 《使徒行传》评注[WC, 1902], 240 页）。人们可以看出保罗出于一个特殊原因加入了一个特殊的团体（《加拉太书》）。而路加则客观地记录了整个教会的情况，并记载了会议的主要结果。不可否认，保罗和路加的视角是不同的，但这种视角的不同能否合理地解释两次会议中的显著差异却非常值得怀疑。

关于《加拉太书》2 章和《使徒行传》

2—Acts 15 equation is created by Paul's omissions. What possible explanation could there be for his failure to include the famine visit in his Gal. 2 listing of his contacts with the Jerusalem leaders? Would not this omission—deliberate or accidental—undermine the very point he was trying to establish?

The weight of this argument depends upon one's interpretation of why Paul in Galatians lists his visits to Jerusalem. Some hold that the visits are mentioned in Galatians not to show that it would have been geographically impossible for him to have received his gospel, but to illustrate that when he did have contact with the apostles his purpose was not to secure authorization for his gospel. However, the text seems to emphasize the significance of the actual contacts (e.g., Gal. 1:16, "I did not confer with flesh and blood"; Gal. 1:19, "I saw none of the other apostles"; Gal. 1:22, "I was still not known by sight to the churches of Christ in Judea"). The idea that Paul could defend the omission before the Council by retorting, "Don't you recall that this visit was made during a time of persecution when all Christians of rank had fled from Jerusalem?" and thus score a debating point, is overly subtle and in conflict with the pattern found in Acts 8:1.

Short of the critical reconstruction that maintains that both Paul and Barnabas were appointed to go on the famine visit but for some unexplained reason only Barnabas went, there is no reasonable explanation for Paul's neglect. (Renan's suggestion is that Luke was simply mistaken about the identity of Barnabas' colleague and Paul never did go. Cf. B.

15 章描述的是同一次会议的第二个基本问题是由于保罗的遗漏引起的。保罗为何没有在《加拉太书》2 章中他接触耶路撒冷领袖的列表中提到救济访问？难道这种遗漏——无论是有意还是无意——不会破坏他竭力主张的观点吗？

这种争论的重要性取决于人们如何解读保罗为何要在《加拉太书》中列出他拜访耶路撒冷。一些学者认为这段描述不是为了表明从地理上讲保罗不可能领受福音，而是要证明他并不是为了保证自己所传福音的权威性才与使徒取得联系。然而，经文中似乎强调了这种实际接触的重要意义（如加 1:16, “我就没有与属血气的人商量”；加 1:19, “至于别的使徒, ……我都没有看见”；加 1:22, “那时, 犹太信基督的各教会都没有见过我的面”）。有人认为, 保罗在会议前本可以反驳说“难道你不记得那次访问发生在所有基督徒受迫害逃离耶路撒冷期间吗?”, 从而为自己的遗漏辩解, 进而获得一个非实质性论点, 然而这种观点过于微妙, 与《使徒行传》8:1 中的记载不符。

一种批判性重构的观点认为, 虽然保罗和巴拿巴都接受指派去进行救济访问, 但出于某些未知原因, 只有巴拿巴去了耶路撒冷, 除此之外, 人们无法合理地解释保罗的遗漏。(勒南认为, 路加仅仅是认错了巴拿巴的同伴, 保罗从未进行救济访问。参: B. H. Streeter, The Four Gospels [修订版, 1964 年再版], 556-557 页, 注释 1; 另参: E. J. Goodspeed, H. Streeter, The Four Gospels [rev. ed., repr. 1964], pp. 556f. n. 1; also E. J. Goodspeed, Paul [1948], p. 35)

Another serious omission by Paul is his lack of reference to the restrictive clauses of the decree. In Galatians he reports “mission accomplished” and adds that the only obligation was that “they would have us remember the poor” (Gal. 2:10). In view of the specific instructions to gentile Christians, would not Paul be guilty of playing fast and loose with the decision by presenting it in such a general way? It is no answer to say that Galatia was far removed from Palestine and the problem was less acute. The matter of Jewish-Gentile fellowship was as broad as the early Church itself. It reached even to Corinth (1 Cor. 8–10) and Rome (Rom. 14).

It is also difficult to understand why Paul did not report to the Galatians the major decision of the Council, namely, that the Gentiles need not be circumcised or take upon themselves the yoke of Mosaic legislation. While the reference to Titus’ not being compelled to be circumcised would be important as a specific example, the final decision of the authorities at Jerusalem would have settled the matter for good.

The third problem is to account for the actions of Peter and Barnabas at Antioch on the assumption that they follow the Council (Gal. 2:11–21). In Acts, Peter gives the keynote address and, arguing from the Cornelius episode, becomes an outstanding advocate of gentile freedom. In Antioch he quickly abandons his convictions upon the arrival of a Jewish delegation and withdraws from table

Paul [1948], 35 页)。

保罗的另一处重要的遗漏是他没有提及法令的限制性条款。在《加拉太书》中，保罗称他完成了使命，并表示他唯一的责任是“只是愿意我们纪念穷人”（加 2:10）。关于对外邦基督徒的特殊指示，难道保罗不会因为把决议当成儿戏，用这样一种普通的方式将其呈现出来而感到内疚吗？加拉太距巴勒斯坦太远，这个问题没有那么尖锐，这种回答并不合理。犹太人与外邦人的相交问题像早期教会传播的范围那样广。甚至到了哥林多（林前 8-10）和罗马（罗 14）。

人们也无法理解保罗为何没有告知加拉太人会议的主要决定，即外邦人无需受割礼，也不用负上摩西律法的轭。虽然提多不必受割礼是一个重要的特例，但耶路撒冷权威人士的最终决议将永久解决这个问题。

第三个问题是，假设彼得和巴拿巴遵循了会议的决定，那么应如何解释他们在安提阿的行为（加 2:11-21）。在《使徒行传》中，彼得做了一段关键的发言，他从哥尼流的事件说起，坚决拥护外邦人的自由。在安提阿时，犹太代表团一抵达，彼得就放弃了自己的坚定信仰，不再参加外邦信徒的餐桌团契。在《使徒行传》15:2 中，巴拿巴极力反对从犹太下来的人，然后就立即去耶路撒冷参 fellowship with the gentile believers. In Acts 15:2 Barnabas strenuously resists the men from Judea but immediately following the Council, which gave official support to his position, weakly acquiesces to their demands. Ramsay writes with eloquent disapproval, "We are asked to accept as a credible narrative this recital of meaningless tergiversation" (p. 164).

All three of these problems disappear when the Galatians account is identified with Acts 11 rather than Acts 15. The discrepancies no longer exist, there are no omissions, and the behavior of Peter and Barnabas offers no problem. (Some evade this last problem by explaining that Paul has arranged the material in Gal. 2 in a logical rather than chronological order; cf. Zahn and Turner).

An Acts 11 equation is also favored by Paul's remark that he "went up by revelation" (Gal. 2:2). The answer that Paul is supplying the inner motive while Luke is recording the external details is a bit beside the point, because in both cases the men are delegated by the Antiochene church. "By revelation" refers not to a divine impulse but to the prophecy of Agabus, who foretold the great famine (Acts 11:28). It was in response to this revelation of God that the men of Antioch determined to send relief to the brethren in Judea.

That the circumcision party was already questioning the inclusion of Gentiles even before the founding of the church at Antioch is seen in Acts 11:2f., where Peter is forced to defend his actions at Caesarea.

加会议，这次会议正式地支持了巴拿巴的立场，勉强同意了他们的要求。拉姆塞有力的辩驳到，“我们不得不将这种无意义的变节赘述看作是可靠的叙述”（164页）。

当人们意识到《加拉太书》与《使徒行传》11章（而不是15章）描述的是同一个事件，上述3个问题就都解决了。这些差异不再存在，也不再有任何遗漏，彼得和巴拿巴的行为也没有什么问题。（有人解释说保罗在安排《加拉太书》中的材料时，是依照逻辑顺序，而非时间顺序，从而避开了最后一个问题；参：Zahn and Turner）。

从《使徒行传》11:2-3中的经文可以看出，安提阿教会建立之前，受割礼的门徒就已经对应该让外邦人受割礼的问题表示质疑，而彼得在这里不得不为他在凯撒利亚的行为辩护。

Ramsay's view gains credence when compared with the numerous alternatives that have been suggested. The most important of these is the Wellhausen-Schwartz hypothesis (BC, V, 195–212) that the visits of Acts 11 and 15 are really one. When Luke came across two variant traditions he failed to recognize that they referred to the same event and kept them separate in his reconstruction. (This view is widely accepted in Europe: Goguel, Jeremias, Bultmann. It is also the later view of Lake and others. Cf. the bibliographic note in Bruce, Book of the Acts, p. 300.)

Characteristic of this approach is a lack of confidence in Luke's record. A mild position is that of Foakes-Jackson, who says that although "it is not possible to deny the accuracy of the impression he [Luke] has conveyed" it is "unquestionable that St. Paul's statements in Galatians are to be preferred to those of Luke" (comm. on Acts [MNTC, 1931], pp. 137, 132). Others, however, are more radical. Sahlin rejects the historicity of Acts completely (Der Messias und das Gottesvolk [1945]). Haenchen's view is that the Apostolic Council "is an imaginary construction answering to no historical reality" (The Acts of the Apostles [Eng. tr. 1971], p. 463). Dibelius' view (Studies in the Acts of the Apostles [Eng. tr. 1956], pp. 93–101) is that Luke's treatment is literary-theological and can make no claim to historical worth. Luke has taken the account of Cornelius (originally a "simple conversion story") and written it into the story of the Council to propagate his thesis that the conversion of the Gentiles was dependent upon the will of God rather than a decision by Peter or

当将拉姆塞的观点与其他人提出的大量观点进行对比时，就会发现拉姆塞的观点更为可信。在其他人的观点中，维尔豪森和施瓦兹的假说最为重要 (BC, V, 195–212)，他认为《使徒行传》11章和 15 章中描述的实际上是同一个事件。当路加面临两种不同版本的传说时，他没有意识到它们指的是同一个事件，因此在他在创作中还原历史事件时，将这两个版本的传说分开记录。(欧洲学者普遍接受这种观点：Goguel, Jeremias, Bultmann。莱克和其他学者后来也同样秉持这种观点。参：Bruce, Book of the Acts, 300 页中的书目注释。)

这种方法的特点是对路加记录的缺乏信任。福科斯 (Foakes-Jackson) 坚持比较温和的立场，他认为虽然“我们不能否认 (路加) 表述的准确性”，但“无疑圣保罗在《加拉太书》中的记录比路加的记录更受青睐” (《使徒行传》评注 [MNTC, 1931]137, 132 页)。但其他人的观点却较为激进。萨林 (Sahlin) 完全否认《使徒行传》的史实性 (Der Messias und das Gottesvolk)。翰申 (Haenchen) 认为使徒会议“不符合史实的虚构事件” (The Acts of the Apostles [1971 年英文译本], 463 页)。狄比流 (Dibelius) 认为路加对这个事件进行了文学和神学处理，因此它没有历史价值 (Studies in the Acts of the Apostles [1956 年英译本], 93–101 页)。路加参照了哥尼流的事迹 (起初是“一个简单的归信故事”)，然后将其创作成一个会议的故事来宣传他的论点，即外邦人归信神是出于神的旨意，而非彼得或保罗的决定。

Paul.

Against those who hold a low view of Luke as a historian (to say nothing of the implications concerning his intelligence) Filson replies, "If Acts is so confused on this crucial point, we can hardly hope to reconstruct a convincing history of the apostolic age" (p. 711).

Other alternatives involve the rearrangement of material or the creation of new visits. Lampe favors the view that Luke has fused together two different stories (one about circumcision and the other a dispute about food laws) and arranged his materials in a historically mistaken order (Peake's comm. on the Bible [rev. ed. 1962], pp. 907f.). J. Knox (pp. 47f.) notes that Acts has two more visits than Paul. He finds two sets of doublets (Acts 11:27-30 = Acts 20:3-21:17 = Rom. 15:25; and Acts 15 = Acts 18:21-19:1 = Gal. 2:1ff.) and holds that the Council of Acts 15 took place after the second missionary journey. The Acts 11 account was created to find a place for the famine visit, which was actually Paul's last visit to Jerusalem (Acts 20:3-21:17). T. W. Manson (BJRL, 24 [1940], 58-80) devises the theory that the Gal. 2 account is a visit not recorded in Acts but taking place on the eve of the first missionary journey (ca. A.D. 47/48). (Cf. Lightfoot, p. 123 nn. 2, 3, for other views from earlier writers; also C. S. C. Williams, comm. on Acts [HNTC, 1957], pp. 28-39, for more recent "imaginative reconstructions.")

Several arguments have been raised against the equation of Gal. 2 and Acts 11:

费尔森 (Filson) 回应那些将路加贬低为历史学家 (姑且不提关于路加智力的暗示) 的人说, "如果《使徒行传》在这一重要问题上如此混乱的话, 我们几乎不敢相信他忠实地还原了使徒时期的历史" (711 页)。

其他观点包括路加重新整理了材料或增加了新的访问。兰普 (Lampe) 认为路加将两个不同的故事融合在了一起 (一个是关于割礼的争论, 一个是关于饮食律法的争论), 并以错误的历史顺序安排了他所使用的材料 (Peake's comm. on the Bible [1962 年修订版], 907-908 页)。诺克斯 (J. Knox, 47-48 页) 认为《使徒行传》比保罗自己的记录中多出两次访问。他发现了两组平行经文 (徒 11:27-30=徒 20:3-21:17=罗 15:25; 徒 15=徒 18:21-19:1=加 2:1 起), 他认为《使徒行传》15 章的会议发生在保罗第二次传道旅程之后。他还认为《使徒行传》11 章中的描述是为了帮救济访问找到一个位置而添加的, 而这实际上记录的是保罗最后一次访问耶路撒冷 (徒 20:3-21:17)。曼森 (T. W. Manson, BJRL, 24 [1940], 58-80) 提出了一个理论, 他认为《使徒行传》中并未记录《加拉太书》2 章中的那次访问, 这次访问发生在保罗第一次传道旅程前夕 (约公元 47 或 48 年)。(关于早期作家的其他观点, 参: Lightfoot, 123 页, 注释 2 和 3; 关于近期的“想象重构”, 另参: C. S. C. Williams, 《使徒行传》评注 [HNTC, 1957], 28-39 页。)

关于《加拉太书》2 章与《使徒行传》11 章描述的是同一件事, 存在以下几种争论:

(1) If the question of circumcision was settled in Acts 11 why was it brought up again in Acts 15?

The “question of circumcision” was not the same on the two occasions. In Acts 11 it arose in connection with the independence of Paul’s gospel. In Acts 15 it is only a symbol of the real problem—that of gentile acceptance into the Church.

(2) The famine visit of Acts 11 is historically suspect because Josephus dates it after the death of Herod Agrippa and Luke places it before.
