BAPTISMAL REGENERATION.

This conjunction of the sign of baptism and its meaning is not wholly unscriptural or objectionable so long as it is correctly understood. Thus Jn. 3:5 speaks of being “born of water,” and Tit. 3:5 refers to the “washing of regeneration,” so that water and the new birth are brought into close interrelationship. This connection may be validly defended either in terms of the sign alone or in terms of the thing signified alone. On the one side, all those who have external baptism may be said to have the sign of regeneration and thus to be regenerate in sign, i.e., baptismally. On the other side, all those who are regenerate by faith in Christ have the thing signified in baptism and may thus be described as truly baptized, i.e., to regeneration.

次，我们无需遵循使徒的例子，也没有任何关于明确得到属灵祝福的证据，如实据或圣职授任。这种习俗的延续还面临着以随后的恩赐为代价极度减少圣灵更新的工作的危险。另外，如果这种礼节不表示必然获得了属灵的恩赐，那么就没有理由终止《圣经》中行按手礼祷告的习俗。另见 HANDS, LAYING ON OF（按手礼）。

BAPTISMAL REGENERATION. 洗礼的重生

只要正确理解经文，就会发现《圣经》并不完全反对将洗礼的印记和洗礼的意义结合起来，经文中也不是完全没有相关的记载。因此，《约翰福音》3:5中提到了“从水生的”，《提多书》3:5中提到“重生的洗”，所以水和新生之间存在着紧密的关系。这种关系可以单独用洗礼的记号来证明，也可以单独用代表洗礼的事物来证明。一方面，所有受过外部洗礼的人可以说拥有了重生的印记，因此靠着这个印记，即洗礼获得了重生，另一方面，所有因信靠基督获得重生的人拥有了洗礼所预示的品质，因此可以说真正受了洗，即获得了重生。实际上，只要不从因果角度或洗礼对重生产生重要作用的角度理解这种关系，就可以大胆地假设这种印记和印记所代表的事物之间的关系。因此，

Indeed, there is no particular danger in seeing a connection between the sign on the one hand and the thing signified on the other so long as this is not conceived in causal or instrumental terms. Thus the sign of baptism undoubtedly points us to regeneration as its meaning, and regeneration gives meaning to the baptismal sign. Or, to state it another way, Christian regeneration is that which is signified in baptism, and baptism is that which signifies regeneration.

The introduction of causal notions, however, brings about an inevitable distortion of the phrase, since it overthrows the two basic principles of sacramental theology: (1) that there is a distinction between sign and thing signified, and (2) that these coincide not in terms of cause and effect but only by the sovereign activity of the Holy Spirit. Hence we cannot speak legitimately of baptismal regeneration in the sense of the effective conferring of regeneration by means of or through the instrumentality of the external rite. Where baptismal regeneration is taught in this sense, it results in a depreciation of the word, in a mistaken sense of assurance, in a false problem or dilemma of the postbaptismal life, and in a restriction of the sovereignty of the Spirit.

The Roman Catholic Church accepts baptismal regeneration in the instrumental sense. It can claim certain passages in the fathers that obviously equate baptism and regeneration, though not necessarily in causal terms. Following Augustine, it can also argue from the divine sovereignty itself, counting upon God to work through the means of grace that He Himself has appointed. It thus administers baptism with the belief that the graces of cleansing, regeneration, and habitual righteousness are infallibly conveyed, that they will be enjoyed except where an obstacle of unbelief or insincerity is posed, and that in any case an indelible “character” is impressed on all the baptized.

然而,因果观念的引入必然会导致对这个短语的曲解,因为它推翻了圣礼神学中的两个基本原则:(1) 印记和印记所代表的事物之间存在着差异,(2) 它们之间不存在因果关系,仅仅与圣灵最高活动相一致。因此,藉着或通过外部的仪式,并按照洗礼引起了重生的说法,我们无法对洗礼的重生作出合理的解释。如果从这个意义上讲解洗礼的重生,就会贬低这个词,产生错误的臆断,提出错误的问题,陷入洗礼后生命的困境,并会限制圣灵的至高权柄。

罗马天主教承认重生的洗礼,认为洗礼对重生具有重要作用。教父的作品中,尽管不一定从因果关系的角度,但还是有部分文章明显地将洗礼等同于重生。按照奥古斯丁的说法,洗礼的重生源自神至高无上的权柄本身,靠着神赐予的恩典发挥作用。因此,他们相信洗礼带来了洁净的恩典,重生和惯常的义,除非他们不信或不虔诚,否则他们将获得洗礼的重生,总之,所有受洗的人都有

A similar view is held by some High Church Anglicans, though without the accompanying insistence on the absolute necessity of the sacrament in all normal cases, and frequently with a distinction between baptismal regeneration and the full renovation envisaged in Scripture. On this view, baptism is a normal channel for the mediation of grace. Administered to infants, it brings forgiveness of sins and at least the germ of new life. This does not give absolute assurance, nor does it preclude the need for subsequent conversion in many recipients. Always there is need of the fostering of the new life not merely by Christian instruction but also by such additional special means of grace as confirmation and holy communion. It need hardly be said that this is not the teaching of the Anglican Reformers or of the Formularies in their original Reformation setting.

Lutheranism, too, has a doctrine of baptismal regeneration in a modified sacramentalist sense. Here regeneration is given its fuller meaning and implies true spiritual quickening and the kindling of saving faith, with which is naturally connected the justification of the sinner. This regeneration is called baptismal regeneration insofar as this occurs in the event and as an application of Christian baptism, which is plainly linked with it in the texts quoted earlier. Lutheranism emphasizes that the external sacrament does not confer regeneration ex opere operato. The Spirit alone does this through the Word of God as His giving hand. Lutheranism also emphasizes that there is no operation without faith. Faith is awakened in the sacrament as man's receiving hand. This is a mystery in infants; but so, too, is the miracle by which the adult is brought from spiritual darkness to light. In adults, faith is more directly kindled by the Word, but even here it is relevant to speak of baptismal regeneration, because the sacrament is a seal of righteousness and a summons to daily renewal.

In these views there are real elements of truth that we should not ignore because of the doubtful nature of the whole understanding. Particularly important is the stress on the sovereignty of God and the miraculous rather than the rationalistic nature of faith. On the other hand, we have to note such serious consequences as the gravitation to more mechanical or formal understanding, the equation of sign and thing signified in more causal terms, the creation of a false antithesis between the status and the reality of the lives of some of the baptized, and the fostering of resistance to evangelism within the Church on the ground of its supposed superfluous character.

We may conclude that if the term baptismal regeneration is to be used at all it should be with reference to the sign alone, to the thing signified alone, or preferably to the work of Christ, in which the sign and the thing signified are truly one and the same.

会起作用。信心在圣礼中被唤醒，进而获得重生。这对于婴儿而言是一个奥秘；但也是一种奇迹，成年人藉着它从属灵的黑暗中走向光明。成年人更容易直接靠神的道建立起信心，但即使这样，信心也与洗礼的重生有关，因为圣礼是公义的印记和每日更新的召唤。

根据这些观点，我们不能因为整个认识的不确定性而忽略其中的真实成分。尤为重要的是强调神至高的主权和神奇的信心本质，而不是强调理性主义的信心本质。另一方面，我们必须注意一些严重的影响，如倾向于更为机械或正式的理解，在更多的因果关系方面将印记和印记所代表的事等同起来，在一些受洗之人的地位和现实之间确立错误的对立面，认为没必要进行福音传道，所以抵制在教会内开展福音传道。

我们可以总结说，如果使用洗礼的重生这个词语，那么它应该单指印记、印记所代表的事，或者更合适地说，指的是基督的工作，在基督的工作中，印记和印记所代表的事实际上是完全相同的。

BAR

bār (prefix). Aramaic for the Heb. bēn, “son.” Cf. Aramaic sections of Ezra and Daniel. In the OT the word is found three times in Prov. 31:2 and once in Ps. 2:12 (Jerome translates “pure”). In the NT “Bar” is frequently employed as prefix to names of persons. Cf. Barabbas; Bar-Jesus; Bar-Jonah; Barnabas; Barsabbas; Bartholomew; Bartimaeus. See BEN-.

BAR.

(1) [Heb. berī(a)ḥ]. (a) A part of the framework of the tabernacle, made of acacia wood and plated with gold (Ex. 26:26–29; 35:11; 36:31–34; 39:33; Nu. 3:36; 4:31).

(b) A bolt, part of the securing mechanism of a gate (Dt. 3:5; Jgs. 16:3; 1 S. 23:7; 1 K. 4:13; 2 Ch. 8:5; 14:7; Neh. 3:3, 6, 13–15; Job 38:10 [“bars and doors” of the sea]; Ps. 107:16; 147:13; Prov. 18:19 [“the bars of a castle”]; Isa. 45:2; Jer. 51:30; Lam. 2:9; Nah. 3:13; Jonah 2:6 [the bars of the earth]). The lack of bars is a sign that a city is at peace (Jer. 49:31; Ezk. 38:11). The NEB also has “barred gates,” “doors,” “gates,” “gate-bars.”

(c) Two passages do not fit with the above definitions easily: Am. 1:5 and Isa. 43:14. The latter is a difficult verse in which the RSV interprets bārīḥīm as a form of b^eri(a)ḥ; thus it refers to the bars of Babylon that had been broken down. The AV and NEB take it to be from bārāḥ (to “flee”), thus “their nobles” or “great men,” those most likely to flee. The NEB

although it also occurs here in a few other witnesses, it is probably due to a scribe's error in transcription. If the name was simply Barabbas or Barrabban, it may still have meant that the man was a rabbi's son, or it may have been a purely conventional proper name. The criminal chosen by the Jerusalem mob, at the instigation of the priests, in preference to Jesus, for Pilate to release on the feast of Passover (Mk. 15:15; Mt. 27:20f.; Lk. 23:18; Jn. 18:40). Matthew calls him "a notorious prisoner" (27:16). Mark says that he was "among the rebels in prison, who had committed murder in the insurrection" (15:7). Luke states that he was cast into prison "for an insurrection started in the city, and for murder" (23:19; cf. Acts 3:14). John calls him a "robber" or "brigand" (18:40). Nothing further is known of him, nor of the insurrection in which he took part.

Luke's statement that he was a murderer is probably a deduction from Mark's more circumstantial statement, that he was only one of a gang who in an uprising had committed murder. Whether robbery was the motive of his crime, as John suggests, or whether he was "a man who had raised a revolt against the Roman power" (Gould) cannot be decided. But it seems equally improbable that the priests (the pro-Roman party) would urge the release of a political prisoner and that Pilate would grant it, especially when the priests were urging, and Pilate could not resist, the execution of Jesus on a political charge (Lk. 23:2). The insurrection may have been a notorious case of brigandage. To say that the Jews would not have been interested in the release of such a prisoner is to forget the history of mobs. No extrabiblical sources refer to the custom of celebrated Song of Deborah, ch. 5).

According to both accounts, Israel was suffering under the oppression of the Canaanites (Jgs. 4:2f.), and the land was in a state of near anarchy: the caravan roads were in danger and traffic almost ceased; the cultivated lands were plundered; the fighting men in Israel were disarmed, and neither a shield nor a spear could be found among forty thousand in Israel (5:6-8). According to the prose narrative, Barak was summoned in the name of Yahweh by the prophetess Deborah, who was judging Israel at that time, to gather an army of ten thousand on Mt. Tabor and meet Jabin's army near the brook Kishon (4:6f.). Barak refused to go unless Deborah would accompany him. Deborah consented to go with him, but apprised him that the glory of bringing down Sisera would go not to him but to a woman (vv. 8f.).

With an army of ten thousand men—according to Jgs. 4:10 they were all drawn from Zebulun and Naphtali, but the account in ch. 5 adds Benjamin, Machir (Manasseh), and Issachar to the list of faithful tribes (vv. 13-18)—Barak, accompanied by Deborah, went up to Mt. Tabor, about 12 mi. (19 km.) NE of Megiddo. This location was favorable to the poorly armed Israelites, for the wooded slopes protected them against the iron chariots of the Canaanites. Sisera, informed that the Israelites were positioning themselves on Mt. Tabor, mustered his troops and approached from Harosheth-ha-goiim to the brook Kishon in the Valley of Jezreel. With Deborah's assurance that Yahweh would bring them victory, Barak and his army rushed down upon the Canaanites, completely routing them. The victory, however, is attributed to Yahweh, for He fought against the Canaanites with a storm that caused the brook Kishon to become a raging torrent overflowing its banks. Thus the plain became a morass in which Sisera's troops found it impossible to maneuver. Barak pursued the Canaanite army all the way to Harosheth-ha-goiim, "and all the army of Sisera fell by the edge of the sword; not a man was left" (4:16). Sisera, however, fled on foot; and Deborah's prophecy was fulfilled when Barak found him murdered by JAEL in her tent (4:22; 5:24-27).

根据这两章经文中的描述,以色列当时正遭受着迦南人的压迫(士 4:2-3),以色列全地几乎处于混乱状态:商道受到威胁,交通几乎中断;耕地遭到抢夺;以色列的勇士缴械投降;在四万以色列人中看不到藤牌和枪矛(士 5:6-8)。根据这篇散文的描述,女先知底波拉以耶和华之名召来巴拉,吩咐他在他泊山召集一万军队,并在基顺河与耶宾的军队交战(士 4:6-7),底波拉当时是以色列的士师。巴拉拒绝前往基顺河,除非底波拉与他同去。底波拉答应与他同去,但她告诉巴拉,打败西西拉的荣耀不属于他,而是属于一个妇人(士 4:8-9)。

Barak is mentioned in Samuel's farewell address as one of the judges who delivered the Israelites from the hand of their enemies (1 S. 12:11; RSV and NEB correctly follow the LXX and Syriac in rendering "Barak" rather than "Bedan" [MT; cf. AV]). His name also appears in He. 11:32 on the list of ancient heroes of the faith.

【希腊语: bárbaros】(罗 1:14; 西 3:11); 《新英文译本》中还译为 NON-GREEK ("不谙希腊文化之人")。在其他经文中, 《修订标准译本》将之译为 "natives" ("当地的人", 徒 28:2, 4) 和 "foreigner" ("外邦人", 林前 14:11); 《新英文译本》中还译为 "(rough) islanders" ("土人"), 《哥林多前书》14:11 中采用了意译 "words will be gibberish" ("我以他为化外之人")。这个希腊词可能是一个仿声词, 模仿了外邦语中一种难以让人理解的声音, 因此, 当希腊人说这个词 language and culture, it came to be used generally for all that was non-Greek. Philo and Josephus sometimes called their own Jewish nation “barbarians,” as Roman writers did their country up to the Augustan age, when the Romans adopted Greek culture and reckoned themselves with the Greeks as the only cultured people in the world. Therefore “Greek and barbarian” meant the whole human race (Rom. 1:14).

In Col. 3:11 “barbarian, Scythian” is not a classification or antithesis but a “climax” (Abbott, comm. on Colossians [ICC, 1905], in loc.)—“barbarians, even Scythians, the lowest type of barbarians.” In Christ all racial distinctions, even the most pronounced, disappear.

In 1 Cor. 14:11 Paul uses the term in its more primitive sense of one speaking a foreign and therefore unintelligible language: “But if I do not know the meaning of the language, I shall be a foreigner [bárbaros] to the speaker and the speaker a foreigner [bárbaros] to me.” Speaking in tongues would not be a means of communication unless someone had the gift of interpretation.

In Acts 28:2, 4 the writer, perhaps from the Greco-Roman standpoint, calls the inhabitants of Melita bárbaroi, as being descendants of the old Phoenician settlers, or possibly in the more general sense of “strangers.” For the later sense of “brutal,” “cruel,” “savage,” see 2 Macc. 2:21; 4:25; 15:2.

BARBER

[Heb. gallāb]. One who shaves the head

的时候，它可以指代任何非希腊语、希腊民族或希腊风俗的事物。随着希腊语和希腊文化的传播，这个词逐渐被希腊人之外的所有民族所使用。罗马作者曾称本国的乡下人为“化外人”，直到奥古斯丁时代，罗马人才接受了希腊文化，并认为他们和希腊人一样，是这个世界上唯一的文明人，斐洛和约瑟夫斯有时也称他们本族的犹太人为“化外人”。因此，“希腊人和化外人”代表着整个人类（罗 1:14）。

在《歌罗西书》3:11 中，“化外和、西古提人”并不是一种分类或对照，而是一种“层进法”（Abbott, 《歌罗西书》注释[ICC, 1905], 在这一章）——“化外人，甚至是最低等的化外人西古提人”。在基督里，人间一切种族隔膜，甚至是最明显的种族的隔膜均告瓦解。

在《哥林多前书》14:11 中，保罗使用了这个词更为原始的含义，即一个说外邦人的话的人，因此让人听不懂他所说的话：“我若不明白那声音的意思，这说话的人必以我为化外之人 [bárbaros]，我也以他为化外之人 [bárbaros]。”说方言不是一种交流方式，除非说话人懂翻译。

在《使徒行传》28:2, 4 中，作者可能从希腊罗马的角度，称米利大的居民为“土人” (bárbaroi)，因为他们是古代腓尼基定居者的后代，从更广泛的意义上说，他们可能属于“外人”。关于“野蛮的”、“残忍的”和“粗鲁的”三个词的后来含义，见《马加比二书》2:21、4:25 和 15:2。

or beard, or styles and trims the hair. The term occurs once only, in Ezk. 5:1. Shaving is referred to in Gen. 41:14, where the bearded Semites are contrasted to the clean-shaven Egyptians. Beard-trimming is mentioned in 2 S. 19:24 (Heb. šāpām, “beard,” “moustache”), while neglect of the beard is associated with madness in 1 S. 21:14. In Lev. 21:5 the priests are forbidden to shave their heads or the corners of their beards, these perhaps being pagan practices. The prohibition is extended to the Zadokite priesthood in Ezk. 44:15, 20.

BAREFOOT

[Heb. yāhēp] (2 S. 15:30; Isa. 20:2-4). In biblical times it was customary for people to walk barefoot indoors and to put on sandals to go out (cf. Ex. 12:11). The dusty roads made it necessary, for the sake of comfort, to take them off and wash the feet when coming into the house (Gen. 18:4; 19:2; 24:32; 43:24; Jgs. 19:21; 1 S. 25:41; Lk. 7:38, 44; Jn. 13:5ff; 1 Tim. 5:10).

To walk outside with bare feet, however, had special significance. It was a sign of mourning (2 S. 15:30; Ezk. 24:17, 23) and of poverty (Lk. 15:22). It also implied captivity or slavery (Isa. 20:2; Mic. 1:8, LXX; cf. Job 12:17, 19 [esp. v. 19 in Moff.]). Any form of nakedness was shameful; even, according to J. Pedersen, “if one pulls off the sandal of a man, one

人，或修剪头发的人。这个词只在《以西结书》5:1中出现过一次。《创世记》41:14中提到了剃头和刮脸，在这节经文中蓄须的闪族人与不蓄胡子的埃及人形成了对比。《撒母耳记下》19:24中提到了剃胡须（希伯来语：šāpām，“络腮胡子”、“小胡子”），在《撒母耳记上》21:14中，不打理胡须与疯癫有关。在《利未记》21:5中规定，祭司不可剃除胡须或胡须的周围，剃须可能是异教的风俗。根据《以西结书》44:15和20的描述，这条禁令也约束着祭司撒督的子孙。

【希伯来语：yāhēp】（撒下 15:32；赛 20:2-4）。在圣经时代，人们习惯于在屋内赤脚行走，穿鞋出门（参：出 12:11）。满是灰尘的道路需要人们穿上鞋，为了舒适起见，人们进屋后会脱掉鞋，然后洗脚（创 18:4； 19:2； 24:32； 43:24； 士 19:21； 撒上 25:41； 路 7:38, 44； 约 13:5 起； 提前 5:10）。

然而，在外赤脚行走具有特殊的意义。它是哀悼（撒下 15:30； 结 24:17, 23）和贫穷（路 15:22）的一个标志。还意味着被囚禁或被奴役（赛 20:2； 弥 1:8，《七十士译本》； 参：伯 12:17, 19 [尤见莫法特所译《圣经》的《约伯记》12:19]）。任何形式的赤裸都是可耻的；按照彼得森（J. Pedersen）的说法，即使“一个人脱掉另一个人的鞋，也会使 puts him to shame” (ILC, I, 242). This seems to be implied by Dt. 25:9f., where the loosing of the shoe is linked with the idea of renunciation or transference of rights (cf. Ruth 4:7f.; T. Zeb. 3:4ff.).

The origins of such customs are obscure. They seem to have been general among Semitic peoples and have been regarded as remnants of animism, or perhaps of ancestor worship; but no certainty is possible. Mt. 10:10 has been interpreted by some, e.g., Francis of Assisi, as a command to go barefoot.

The removal of shoes also had a ritual significance. To be barefoot was a sign of reverence, and so Moses and Joshua were commanded to remove their sandals when on “holy ground” (Ex. 3:5; Josh. 5:15), in the presence of a theophany, which made the surrounding place holy or taboo. Sandals that have been in contact with common ground must not be brought into contact with sacred ground lest they bring in any contagion from the secular world, and, similarly, lest they carry away the sacredness of the holy place, which would prevent the ordinary usage of the sandals again. Also, since bare feet were a sign of mourning, they may have been thought appropriate as denoting a humble approach to the deity. Again, to remove sandals in the presence of God may indicate the renunciation of all rights before Him. Thus Martin Buber, writing on Ex. 3:5 and comparing Ruth 4:7, says: “The reason may possibly be because, being holy ground, it should not be trodden by any occupying or possessing shoe” (Moses [1946], p. 42). Originally, religious rites must have been performed without shoes; and this practice continued after shoes had become general, so that

那个人受辱” (ILC, I, 242)。《申命记》25:9-10 中似乎暗示出这一点，脱鞋与放弃权柄或转让权柄有关（参：得 4:7-8；T. Zeb.3:4 起）。

尚不清楚这些风俗的起源。它们可能是闪族的普遍风俗，被认为是万物有灵论或祖先崇拜的残余；但尚无定论。圣方济等人将《马太福音》10:10 中的经文理解成一种要求赤脚的命令。

脱鞋也有仪式意义。赤脚是敬畏的标志，所以当摩西和约书亚来到“圣地”（出 3:5；书 5:15）站在神面前时，神命令他们脱掉鞋，因为神显现使周围的地方成为圣地或禁地。接触了世俗之地的鞋不可踏入圣地，以免从世俗世界带来了污秽玷污圣地，同样，以免鞋带走圣地的神圣，从而在日常生活中不能再穿这双鞋。另外，因为赤脚是哀痛的一个标志，所以赤脚可以表示谦卑地走向神。此外，在神面前脱鞋表示站在神面前的人放下了所有的权柄。马丁·布伯评论了《出埃及记》3:5，并与《路得记》4:7 进行了比较，他说：“赤脚可能是因为，圣地不允许穿鞋的人进入” (Moses [1946], 42 页)。起初，在举行宗教仪式的时候人们必定是不穿鞋的；但鞋普及之后，仍然保留这种习俗，所以在圣殿侍奉的祭司都光着脚。

The AV reflects an accepted meaning of the verb kārâ in Job 6:27; however, the RSV rendering is preferred (cf. KD, in loc.). The NEB reflects the emendation of the LXX (Gk. enállomai). The RSV and NEB take Job 41:6 (MT 40:30), which uses kārâ‘al- in exactly the same way as 6:27, to mean the capture and sale of Leviathan by barter to the merchants, rather than the butchering of him to make a banquet. The RSV and NEB emend Isa. 57:8 to read kārâ instead of kārat, a term frequently used by the MT in the phrase kārat b^erîṭ for making a covenant or treaty such as the alliance formed between Israel and Assyria in Hos. 12:1 (MT 2).

BARGAIN 当货物买卖、立约

【希伯来语: kārâ】(伯 6:27; 41:6); 《钦定版圣经》中译为 “dig a pit”、“make a banquet”, 汉译均为 “拿……当货物”; 《新英文译本》中译为 “hurl” (“抛、赶”)、HAGGLE (“拿……当货物”); 【kārat (赛 57:8), kārat b^erîṭ (何 12:1)】; 《钦定版圣经》译为 “make a covenant”; 《新英文译本》还译为 “make a treaty” (何 12:1), 汉译均为 “立约”。《钦定版圣经》在《约伯记》6:27 中显示出动词 kārâ 的普通意义; 而《修订标准译本》中译法更好 (参: KD, 见这一章)。《新英文译本》对《七十士译本》(希腊语: enállomai) 的译文做了修订。《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》接受了《约伯记》41:6 (《马所拉文本》40:30) 的译法, 也像《约伯记》6:27 中那样, 用 kārâ‘al- 表示渔夫把捕获的鳄鱼卖给商人, 而不是拿杀死的鳄鱼当货物。《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》对《以赛亚书》57:8 做了修订, 用 kārâ 取代了 kārat, 《马所拉文本》中经常在短语 kārat b^erîṭ 中用到 kārat 这个词, 这个短语的意思是立约, 如在《何西阿书》12:1 (《马所拉文本》2) 中, 以色列与亚述立约结盟。

bār-jē'zəs [Gk. Bariēsous]. “A certain magician (Gk. mágos), a Jewish false prophet” whom Paul and Silas found at Paphos in Cyprus in the company of Sergius Paulus, the Roman proconsul (Acts 13:6ff.). The proconsul was “a man of intelligence,” of an inquiring mind, interested in the thought and magic of his times. This characteristic explains the presence of a mágos among his staff and his desire to hear Barnabas and Saul. Bar-Jesus was the magician’s Jewish name. “Elymas” is said to be the interpretation of his name (v. 8). It is the Greek transliteration of an Aramaic or Arabic word equivalent to mágos. From Arab. ‘alama, “to know” is derived ‘alīm, “wise man” or “learned man.” In Koran Sura 109, Moses is called sāhir ‘alīm, “wise magician.” Elymas therefore means “sorcerer” (cf. Simon “Magus”).

The East was flooding the Roman empire with its new and wonderful religious systems, which, culminating in Neo-Platonism, were the great rivals of Christianity both in their cruder and in their more strictly religious forms. Superstition was very widespread, and wonder-workers of all kinds, whether impostors or honest exponents of some new faith, found their task easy through the credulity of the public. Babylonia was the home of magic, for charms are found on the oldest tablets. “Magos” was originally applied to the priests of the Persians who overran Babylonia, but the title degenerated when it was assumed by baser persons for baser arts. Juvenal (vi.562, etc.), Horace (Satires i.2.1), and other Latin authors mention Chaldean astrologers and imposters, possibly

罗马帝国的新的、奇妙的宗教体系在东方很盛行, 新柏拉图主义是罗马宗教体系的最高发展阶段, 这些宗教体系是基督教的强大竞争对手, 它们坚持更为原始、更为严格的宗教形式。迷信行为很常见, 各种创造奇迹的人, 无论他们是骗子还是某种信仰的忠实倡导者, 都很容易得到公众的轻信。巴比伦是法术的发源地, 因为在最古老的石碑上发现了符咒。“术士”最初是对波斯祭司的称谓, 巴比伦曾有很多波斯祭司, 但当称从事低俗艺术的卑贱之人为“术士”时, 这个称谓就变成了一种蔑称。尤维纳利斯 (vi.562 等)、贺拉斯 (Satires i.2.1) 等拉丁作者说, 迦勒底的占星家和骗子可能是巴比伦的犹太人。然而, 许多术士是当时的科学家, 他们是巴比伦科学和波斯学问的继承人, 不仅仅是假冒者或行法术的 (见 MAGIC[法术])。术士可能是某种东方体系的代表人物, 这种

Babylonian Jews. Many of the Magians, however, were the scientists of their day, the heirs of the science of Babylon and the lore of Persia, and not merely pretenders or conjurers (see MAGIC). It may have been as the representative of some oriental system, a compound of “science” and religion, that Bar-Jesus was attached to the company of Sergius Paulus.

Both Sergius and Elymas had heard about the teaching of the apostles, and this aroused the curiosity of Sergius and the fear of Elymas. When the apostles came, obedient to the command of the proconsul, their teaching apparently produced on him a considerable impression. Fearing that his position of influence and gain would be taken by the new teachers, Elymas “withstood them, seeking to turn away the proconsul from the faith” (v. 8). Paul, inspired by the Holy Spirit, struck him blind with his word, thus revealing to the proconsul that behind him was divine power. Sergius Paulus believed, “for he was astonished at the teaching of the Lord” (v. 12).

BAR-JONAH

bār-jō'nə [Gk. Bar-iōnas]. Simon Peter's patronymic (Mt. 16:17). Bar is Aramaic for “son” (cf. Bar-timaeus, Bartholomew, etc.), and corresponds to Heb. bēn. This would indicate that Peter's father's name was Jonah. But in Jn. 1:42; 21:15–17, according to the best reading, his name is given as John (so RSV, instead of AV Jona, Jonas). There are two hypotheses to account for the difference: (1) iōnas (Jonah) in Mt. 16:17 may be simply a contraction of iōanēs (John); (2) Peter's father may have been known by two

东方体系融合了“科学”和宗教，因此，巴耶稣常与士求保罗同在。

士求保罗和以吕买都听到了使徒们的教导，这教导激起了士求保罗的兴趣，却令以吕马担心。当使徒们应方伯的邀请到来时，他们的教导显然给方伯留下了深刻的印象。以吕马担心自己的地位受到威胁，害怕新师傅夺走他的利益，所以他“抵挡使徒，要叫方伯不信真道”（徒 12:8）。保罗被圣灵充满，用他的话语使以吕马瞎眼，从而使方伯相信保罗得到了圣灵的支持。士求保罗“很希奇主的道，就信了”（徒 13:12）。

BAR-JONAH 巴约拿

音译：bār-jō'nə 【希腊语：Bar-iōnas】。西门彼得源于父名的姓（太 16:17）。Bar 是亚兰语，意思是“儿子”（参：Bar-timaeus[“巴底买”]、Bartholomew[“巴多罗买”]等），对应的希伯来语词汇是 bēn。这个词表明彼得父亲的名字是约拿。但根据最佳理解，《约翰福音》1:42 和 21:15-17 中称彼得的父亲为约翰（《修订标准译本》也采用了这个译法，而《钦定版圣经》则译为 Jona 或 Jonas，汉译均为“约拿”）。以下是解释这种差异的两种假设：（1）《马太福音》16:17 中的 iōnas

BARLEY

[Heb. śē'ōrā]. Several kinds of cultivated barley grow in Palestine, the most common being Hordeum distichon L., H. vulgare L., and H. hexastichon L. In ancient times barley was a characteristic Palestinian product (Dt. 8:8), and the failure of the crop was a national disaster (Joel 1:11). Barley bread was the common food of the poor (Ruth 2:17; 2 K. 4:42; Jn. 6:9, 13), and in Jgs. 7:13f. the barley loaf may have depicted the peasant origin of Gideon and his army. The grain was fed to horses, asses, and cattle. Ezekiel was requested to eat barley cakes under distasteful conditions (Ezk. 4:9, 12) as a sign to the people. He also accused the false prophetesses of profaning God for “handfuls of barley” (13:19). The five thousand were fed barley bread at the hands of Christ (Jn. 6:9ff.).

BARLEY 大麦

Archeological excavations have revealed three devices for storing grain: jars, pits, and silos. Work at the Middle Bronze level of Jericho has unearthed jars containing charred grain (Kenyon, p. 187). A large pit (25 ft. [7.5 m.] in diameter and 19 ft. [6 m.] deep) has been uncovered at Beth-shemesh. The city of Gezer possessed public as well as private granaries. Macalister suggests that the silos found in Gezer were probably beehive-shaped with vents at the top. Storage of wheat, barley, and oats in pits and jars was also common at Gezer. The reference to “stores of wheat, barley, oil and honey hidden in the fields” (Jer. 41:8) probably refers to underground granaries.

The apothékē is, literally, a place where anything is stored; figuratively it represents heaven (Mt. 13:30). Our English word “apothecary” is a well-known derivative.

【希伯来语: m^egûrâ】(该 2:19); 【'āsām】(申 28:8; 箴 3:10); 《钦定版圣经》译为 STOREHOUSES; 《新英文译本》译为 GRANARIES, 汉译均为“仓”。【希腊语: apothékē】(太 6:26; 13:30; 路 12:18, 24); 《新英文译本》还译为 STOREHOUSES (“仓”)。仓是储存粮食的地方; 因此, 最好将这个词译为“粮仓”(参: 叙利亚语: âsan; 乌加里特语: šm)。

考古发掘已经揭示出三种储存粮食的方法: 用粮缸、仓窖和粮仓储存粮食。考古人员在耶利哥青铜时代中期的考古地层中挖掘出一个装有烧焦粮食的粮缸 (Kenyon, 187 页)。在伯示麦还挖掘出一个仓窖(直径 25 英尺[7.5 米], 深 19 英尺[6 米])。麦卡利斯特认为, 基色的粮仓可能是蜂窝形的, 上面有一些通风孔。在基色也经常可以看到将小麦、大麦和燕麦储藏在仓窖和粮缸中。《耶利米书》41:8 中提到了将“大麦、小麦、油和蜜藏在田间”, 这可能指的是一种地下的粮仓。

apothékē 的字面含义是储存东西的地方; 它还可以用来比喻天堂(太 13:30)。英语中的“apothecary”(“药房”)是一个众所周知的派生词。

bär'nə-bəs [Gk. Barnabas—‘son of exhortation’ or possibly ‘son of Nebo’]. An associate of Paul, originally called Joses or Joseph (Acts 4:36). He was called Barnabas as a testimony to his eloquence. Its literal meaning is “son of prophecy” (Aram. bar, “son”; n^eḥū’ā, “prophecy”; cf. Heb. nāḥī; Aram. n^eḥī). This is interpreted in Acts 4:36 as “Son of encouragement” (RSV) or “son of consolation” (AV), expressing two sides of Gk. paráklēsis that are not exclusive. The office of a prophet being more than to foretell, all these interpretations are admissible in estimating Barnabas as a preacher. The interpretation “son of Nebo” is Deissmann’s suggestion (G. A. Deissmann, Bible Studies [2nd. Ed., Eng. tr. 1909], pp. 187ff.), taking “Barnabas” as the Jewish Greek form of the Semitic Barnebon. He is followed by Dalman and G. B. Gray.

Barnabas was a Levite from the island of Cyprus and a cousin, not “uncle” (AV), of the Evangelist Mark, the word anēpsios (Col. 4:10) being used as in Nu. 36:11, LXX, “father’s brothers’ sons.” When we first learn of him, he had moved to Jerusalem and acquired property there. He sold “a field,” and contributed its price to the support of the poorer members of the church (Acts 4:36f.). In Acts 11:24 he is described as “a good man, full of the Holy Spirit [cf. Isa. 11:2; 1 Cor. 12:8, 11] and of faith,” traits that gave him influence and leadership. Possibly on the ground of former acquaintanceship, interceding as Paul’s sponsor and surety, he removed the distrust of the disciples at Jerusalem and secured the admission of the former persecutor to their fellowship.

音译: bär'nə-bəs 【希腊语: Barnabas——“安慰之子”或是“尼波之子”】。保罗的同工,最初被称为约瑟(徒4:36),他因雄辩被称为巴拿巴。这个名字的字面含义是“预言之子”(亚兰语: bar, “儿子”; n^eḥū’ā, “预言”; 参: 希伯来语: nāḥī; 亚兰语: n^eḥī)。《使徒行传》4:36 中将这个名字解释成“Son of encouragement”(《修订标准译本》)或“son of consolation”(《钦定版圣经》),汉译均为“劝慰子”,这个名字表达了希腊词 paráklēsis 的两个方面,而这两个方面并不相互排斥。先知的职分不只包括预言,根据所有这些解释可以推测巴拿巴是一个传道者。戴斯曼认为这个名字可以理解成“尼波之子”(G. A. Deissmann, Bible Studies [第二版, 1909 年英文译本], 187 页起),认为“Barnabas”是闪族语 Barnebon 的犹太希腊语形式。达尔曼(Dalman)和格雷(G. B. Gray)也都认同这样的观点。

巴拿巴是塞浦路斯岛上的一个利未人,是福音传道者马可的表兄,而不是马可的“伯叔”(《钦定版圣经》),《七十士译本》的《民数记》36:10 中都使用了 anēpsios (西 4:10) 一词,意思是“伯叔的儿子”。当我们首次听说这个人时,他已经搬到了耶路撒冷,并在那里获得了产业。他卖了“田地”,用价银帮助教会中更为贫穷的成员(徒 4:36-37)。《使徒行传》11:24 称他为“好人,被圣灵充满[参: 赛 11:2; 林前 12:8, 11],

When the preaching of some of his countrymen resulted in a movement toward Christianity among the Greeks at Antioch, Barnabas was sent from Jerusalem to give this movement encouragement and direction; and after a personal visit to Antioch, recognizing its importance and needs, he sought out Paul at Tarsus and brought him back as his associate. At the close of a year’s successful work, Barnabas and Paul were sent to Jerusalem with contributions from the infant church for the famine sufferers in the older congregation (Acts 11:30). Ordained as missionaries on their return (13:3), and accompanied by John Mark, they proceeded upon what is ordinarily known as the “first missionary journey” of Paul (13:4f.). Its history belongs primarily to Paul’s life (see PAUL THE APOSTLE VII.D). Barnabas as well as Paul is designated “an apostle” (14:14). Up until Acts 13:43, the precedence is always ascribed to Barnabas; from that point, except in 14:14 and 15:12, 25, we read “Paul and Barnabas” instead of “Barnabas and Saul.” Paul became the chief spokesman. The people at Lystra named Paul, because of his fervid oratory, Hermes, while the quiet dignity and reserved strength of Barnabas gave him the title of Zeus (Acts 14:12). Barnabas escaped the violence Paul suffered at Lystra (14:19).

巴拿巴的一些同乡的传道促使安提阿的希腊人参与到支持基督教的运动中来，此时耶路撒冷教会派遣巴拿巴鼓励并指导这场运动；巴拿巴来到安提阿之后，认识到了这场运动的重要性和需求，于是找到住在大数的保罗，和他一起回到了安提阿。巴拿巴和保罗成功结束一年的传道工作之后，回到了耶路撒冷，他们带着初期教会献给遭受饥荒者的捐项，并把它们送到了众长老的手里（徒 11:30）。教会差遣他们作回程传道的传教士（徒 13:3），并让马可作他们的帮手，他们继续传道，这就是所说的保罗“第一次传道之旅”（徒 13:4-5）。这段历史主要与保罗的生平有关（见 PAUL THE APOSTLE VII.D[使徒保罗 VII.D]）。巴拿巴和保罗被称为“使徒”（徒 14:14）。在《使徒行传》13:43 之前，巴拿巴和保罗同时出现时总是先提到巴拿巴，后提到保罗；除了《使徒行传》14:14 和 15:12，我们在《使徒行传》13:43 之后总是看到“保罗和巴拿巴”这样的描述，而不是“巴拿巴和保罗”。保罗变成了主要的发言人。因为保罗热情雄辩，路司得的人称他为希耳米，而巴拿巴沉着、高贵、内敛，所以称他为宙斯（徒 14:12）。巴拿巴逃过了保罗在路司得所遭受的苦难（徒 14:19）。

Upon their return from this first missionary tour they were sent, with other representatives of the church at Antioch, to confer with the apostles and elders of the church at Jerusalem concerning the obligation of circumcision and the ceremonial law in general under the new covenant; this conference was known as the Council of Jerusalem. A separation from Paul seems to begin with a temporary yielding of Barnabas in favor of the inconsistent course of Peter (Gal. 2:13). This was followed by a more serious rupture concerning Mark. On the second journey, Paul proceeded alone, while Barnabas and Mark went to Cyprus. Luther and Calvin regarded 2 Cor. 8:18f. as meaning Barnabas ("the brother whose praise is spread through all the churches"), and indicating, therefore, subsequent joint work. The incidental allusions in 1 Cor. 9:6 and Gal. 2:13 ("even Barnabas") show at any rate Paul's continued appreciation of his former associate. Like Paul, he accepted no support from those to whom he ministered.

Tertullian, followed in modern times by Grau, Zahn, and a few others, regarded him as the author of Hebrews. The document published among patristic writings as the Epistle of Barnabas, and found in full in Codex Sinaiticus, is universally assigned today to a later period. "The writer nowhere claims to be the apostle Barnabas; possibly its author was some unknown namesake of 'the son of consolation'" (J. B. Lightfoot, Apostolic Fathers [1912], pp. 239f.).

BARNABAS, EPISTLE OF.

保罗和巴拿巴结束了第一次传道之旅，与安提阿的教会代表一起返回耶路撒冷，与耶路撒冷教会的使徒和长老商议割礼之约和新约下的基本仪式律法；这次会议被称为耶路撒冷的会议。似乎是由于巴拿巴暂时让步，支持彼得前后矛盾的教导，巴拿巴和保罗之间开始出现分歧（加 2:13）。后来因为马可，他们之间的分歧更为严重。在第二次传道时，保罗单独前行，巴拿巴和马可去了塞浦路斯。路德和加尔文都认为《哥林多后书》8:18-19 中提到的那个兄弟是巴拿巴（“这人在福音上得了众教会的称赞”），因此，这表明后来他们又一起传道。《哥林多前书》9:6 和《加拉太书》2:13（“甚至连巴拿巴”）附带提及了巴拿巴，这表明不论怎样保罗依然欣赏这位他从前的同工。他和保罗一样，没有得到听取他们传道的人的支持。

特土良认为巴拿巴是《希伯来书》的作者，格劳（Grau）、扎恩（Zahn）等现代作家也持有相同的观点。本书与《巴拿巴书》等教父著作一同发表，在《西奈抄本》中可以看到这本书的完整版，现代学者普遍认为这本书是后期的作品。“该书作者没有在任何地方称自己是使徒巴拿巴；这本书的作者可能是某个同样名为‘安慰之子’的人创作的”（J. B. Lightfoot, Apostolic Fathers [1912], 239-240 页）。

Metaphorically, Israel in her days of adversity, when her children were exiled, was barren, but in her restoration she will rejoice in many children (Isa. 54:1; Gal. 4:27). bār'tə-kəs [Gk. Bartakos, Josephus Rhabezakēs; Vulg. Bezazes]. The father of APAME (1 Esd. 4:29). He is called “the illustrious,” probably because of rank and merits. The family seems to be of Persian origin, since the name Bartacus (Syr. ʿrtq) in the form of Artachaeas is mentioned by Herodotus (vii.22.117) as a person of rank in the Persian army of Xerxes, and since the name of his daughter, Apame, is identical with that of a Persian princess who married Seleucus I Nicator and became the mother of Antiochus I. Apamea, a city in Asia Minor founded by Seleucus I, is named in honor of his wife Apame.

In the “Preaching of St. Bartholomew in the Oasis” (cf. Budge, II, 90), he is referred to as preaching probably in the oasis of Al Bahnâsâ; and according to the “Preaching of St. Andrew and St. Bartholomew” he labored among the Parthians (Budge, II, 183). It is not absolutely impossible that two or even three events are recorded, but so close is the similarity of the three accounts that it is highly improbable. Regarding them as referring to the same event, it is easy to understand how the discrepancies arose in the passage of the story from mouth to mouth. The main incident is clear enough, and on purely historical grounds the miracle cannot be denied. The discrepancies themselves are evidence of the wide currency of the story before the Gospels assumed their present form. Only a most mechanical theory of inspiration would demand their harmonization.

He was the devoted friend (32:12), the amanuensis (36:4ff., 32), and faithful attendant (36:10ff.; Josephus Ant. x.6.2) of the prophet Jeremiah. He seems to have been of noble family (see Ant. x.9.1; cf. Jer. 51:59; Bar. 1:1). He was also according to Josephus a man of unusual achievements (Ant. x.9.1). He might have risen to a high position and seemed conscious of this, but under Jeremiah's influence (Jer. 45:5) he repressed his ambition and was content to throw in his lot with the great prophet.

Jeremiah dictated his prophecies to Baruch, who read them to the people (ch.

经文中记载了两个、甚至是三个事件,这种说法并不是完全没有可能,但是这三件事的描述过于相似,以至这种说法不大可能成立。如果将这三件事视为同一件事,便很容易理解这些差异是由口口相传造成的。主事件非常的清晰,不能否认这一神迹完全基于历史事实。描述上的差异证明四福音书最终成文之前,这个故事已经流传甚广。只有最机械的默示理论才会要求三种描述完全一致。

In the final siege of Jerusalem Baruch stood by his master, witnessing the purchase by the latter of his ancestral estate in Anathoth (ch. 32). According to Josephus (Ant. x.9.1) he continued to reside with Jeremiah at Mizpah after the fall of Jerusalem. Subsequent to the murder of Gedaliah, he was accused of having unduly influenced Jeremiah when the latter urged the people to remain in Judah—which shows how great an influence Baruch was believed to have had over his master (Jer. 43:3). He was carried with Jeremiah to Egypt (43:6; Ant. x.9.6), and thereafter our knowledge of him is merely legendary. According to a tradition preserved by Jerome (on Isa. 30:6f.) he died in Egypt soon after reaching that country. Two other traditions say that he went, or was carried by Nebuchadnezzar, to Babylon after the latter conquered Egypt.

The high character of Baruch and the important part he played in the life and work of Jeremiah induced later generations to enhance his reputation still further, and a large number of spurious writings passed under his name, among them the following: The Apocalypse of Baruch, the Book of Baruch, the Rest of the Words of Baruch, the gnostic Book of Baruch, the Latin Book of Baruch (composed originally in Latin), a Greek Apocalypse of Baruch belonging to the 2nd cent. A.D., another Book of Baruch belonging to the 4th or 5th century.

2. A son of Zabbai who aided Nehemiah in rebuilding the walls of Jerusalem (Neh.

这些预言后大发雷霆，令人逮捕了巴录，并烧毁了书卷。不过，巴录重写了先知的预言。在耶路撒冷最终被围时，巴录站在他主人的旁边，见证了耶利米在亚拿突购买他祖先的产业（耶 32）。根据约瑟夫斯的记载（Ant. x.9.1），耶路撒冷被毁之后，巴录继续和耶利米一同住在米斯巴。后来基大利被杀，耶利米规劝百姓继续留在犹大，百姓指责巴录过度地影响了耶利米——这显示了人们认为巴录对他主人的影响很大（耶 43:3）。后来他和耶利米被带入埃及地（耶 43:6; Ant. x.9.6），从那以后，关于巴录，我们所知道的都是传说。根据耶柔米记载的一则传说（对《以赛亚书》30:6-7 的注释），巴录到达埃及后不久就死了。而另外两则传说认为，在尼布甲尼撒征服埃及之后，他去了巴比伦，或是被尼布甲尼撒送到的巴比伦。

巴录具备高尚的品格并且在耶利米的人生中和传道工作中扮演着重要的角色，因此，后来人更加提高他的声望，大量伪作都被归到巴录的名下，这些作品包括：《巴录二书》，《巴录书》，《巴录四书》，诺斯替教派《巴录书》，拉丁语《巴录书》（最初版本为拉丁语），2 世纪希腊语《巴录二书》，4 世纪或 5 世纪《巴录书》。

VII. 结论

I. The Text.—Whatever the original language of Baruch may have been, the most authoritative extant textual evidence is in Greek—all other versions are translations therefrom. Swete (OTG, III, 351–59) prints Codex Vaticanus (B) in full, with variants from Codex Alexandrinus (A), Codex Marchalianus (Q), and Codex rescriptus Cryptoferratensis (T). This critical apparatus, though not exhaustive, is sufficient for most purposes. For details of other Greek MSS, and of secondary versions in Syraic, Latin, Arabic, Ethiopic, Coptic, Armenian, indeed for anything else connected with the book, the most exhaustive of all published studies is that of J. J. Kneucker, Das Buch Baruch (1879). See in this connection pp. 91–97,

I. 原文。无论《巴录书》的原书语言是哪种语言，现存最权威的版本是用希腊语写成的——其他所有版本都是这一版本的译本。斯韦特（OTG, III, 351–359）出版了整个《梵蒂冈抄本》，这个译本与《亚历山大抄本》《玛加列抄本》和《博尔亚纳斯抄本》有一定的差异。这一重要译本虽然不够详尽，却足以满足大多数的需求。如果想要了解其他希腊语抄本，和叙利亚语、拉丁语、阿拉伯语、埃塞俄比亚语、科普特语和亚美尼亚语译本，以及其他与本书相关的文献的具体信息，都可以参阅克瑙科的 Das Buch Baruch (1879)，该作品是所有出版著作中对《巴录书》解释最全面的。关于这一点，见 91–97 页，135–189 页；E. H. Gifford, Wace 作品，II, 215–216；O. C. Whitehouse, APOT, I, 577–580；E. C. Bissell, Apocrypha of 135–189; E. H. Gifford in Wace, II, 215f.; O. C. Whitehouse in APOT, I, 577–580; E. C. Bissell, Apocrypha of the OT (Lange, XV [1886]), pp. 410ff. The text of the more important of the Syriac versions will be found in Paul de Lagarde, Libri Veteris Testamenti Apocryhi Syriace (1861), pp. 93–100. The reconstructed Hebrew text of Kneucker (pp. 351–361), though purely conjectural in authority, is always of immense interest and exegetical suggestiveness.

II. Contents.—APOT (I, 570) divides Baruch into three parts, A, B, and C, which form a convenient basis of reference.

A. Chs 1:1–3:8: Historical introduction, followed by penitential prayers, entirely in prose. The ostensible scene is the Babylonian Captivity, and the implied historical reference is 597 or 586 B.C. The choice between these dates, and the numerous errors and anachronisms, need concern only those anxious to uphold the authorship of the real Baruch; for others, they are mere pseudepigraphic embroidery or literary carelessness.

B. Chs 3:9–4:4: Wisdom section, in poetry, with canonical and apocryphal counterparts.

C. Chs 4:5–5:9: Further poetry, not of the wisdom type, with alternating strains of lamentation and comfort.

See also JEREMIAH, EPISTLE OF, sometimes incorrectly appended as a sixth chapter.

Baruch is minutely summarized in HNTT, pp. 409–411; and it is translated in full in the OT (Lange, XV [1886]), 410 页起。在保罗·德·拉加德的作品(Libri Veteris Testamenti Apocryhi Syriace[1861], 93–100 页)中可以看到更为重要的叙利亚语版本的原文。虽然从权威性的角度而言,克瑙科再现的希伯来语文本仅凭他的推测(351–361 页),但却总能引起学者的兴趣,并且对解释《巴录书》很有启发性。

II. 内容。APOT (I, 570) 将《巴录书》分为 A、B、C 三个部分,便于参考。

A. 《巴录书》1:1-3:8: 历史简介,随后是忏悔祷告词,全都采用散文形式。从表面看,这部分经文描述的场景是掳巴比伦之囚,暗示出故事发生在公元前 597 年或 586 年。对于渴望维护巴录是《巴录书》的真实作者的人来说,成书时间、各种错误和年代错误是他们需要考虑的问题;而对于其他人来说,它们不过是《伪经》中的粉饰或文学上的疏忽。

B. 《巴录书》3:9-4:4: 采用诗歌形式的智慧礼赞,其中含有正典和《次经》中均有的对照经文。

C. 《巴录书》4:5-5:9: 仍然为诗歌,但不属于智慧礼赞,在这一部分中,哀悼和安慰的话语交替出现。

另见 JEREMIAH, EPISTLE OF (耶利米书信),有时不应附加在《巴录书》之后,作为该书第 6 章。

HNTT (409-411 页)中详细总结了《巴录书》; APOT 中,以及韦斯(Wace)

APOT; Wace; Lange; etc.

III. Author.-The traditional or professed author of the book was of course Baruch, friend and amanuensis of Jeremiah. He certainly traveled to Egypt with the prophet, but his residence in Babylon possessed only a legendary attestation, invented perhaps to support the theory of his authorship, which in turn would lend considerable prestige to the book. The claim of the opening verses, unethical by modern literary standards, was a tolerated device of ancient authorship. The three parts A, B, and C probably originated from at least three different unknown authors, and may have been fused by one of them, or by yet another hand. See the elaborate study of Kneucker, pp. 1-76; this dry-looking volume contains some novel and interesting theories, though these have not been universally accepted. Kneucker feels (p. 61) that Baruch was compiled by a Jew reared in Palestine, but now in exile; that ancient Babylon is merely a type of contemporary Rome, and 588 B.C. is really A.D. 70 (p. 62). As rabbis Gamaliel II, Eleazar, Joshua, and Akiba were exiled the short distance from Jerusalem to Jabneh, and thereby just as effectively barred from the Holy City, Kneucker toys with the idea that A might have originated from one of their number (pp. 63, 67). These hypotheses all accord with his theory of a very late date (see further below).

IV. Date.-Only a few Roman Catholics pursue the lonely battle for a dating in the time of the real Baruch. Whitehouse (APOT, I, 569) urges that every part of the book was composed after A.D. 70, that the tragedy of 597 or 586 B.C. is merely a

III. 作者。从传统或公认的角度讲,这本书的作者当然是巴录,他是耶利米的朋友和抄写员。他必定同这位先知一起来到了埃及,说他住在巴比伦,这仅仅是个传说,可能是为了证明他是《巴录书》的作者而编造的,进而赋予这本书极大的威望。该书开篇之语是古代原作者可以采用的一种文学手法,但依据现代文学标准,这不太符合常规。A、B、C 三部分可能至少是三个佚名作者创作的,可能是其中一个作者或其他人将三部分合成一部书。见克瑙科的详尽研究 (1-76 页); 这本看似枯燥的作品包含了一些新奇、有趣的理论,但这些理论尚未得到普遍认可。克瑙科认为 (61 页),《巴录书》是由一位在巴勒斯坦长大、后被流放的犹太人编辑成书的; 古巴比伦不过象征着后来的罗马,公元前 588 年实际上是公元 70 年 (62 页)。拉比迦玛列二世、以利亚撒、约书亚和亚及巴都曾从耶路撒冷被掳至雅比尼城,两城市之间相隔不远,这同样可以有效地禁止他们进入圣城,有人认为他们当中的某个人可能是《巴录书》的作者,然而克瑙科并没有认真考虑这种观点 (63, 67 页)。这些假设都符合他晚期所提出的理论 (详细内容见下文)。

IV. 成书时间。只有几个罗马天主教徒致力于研究真正《巴录书》的成书日期。怀特豪斯 (APOT, I, 569) 认为《巴录书》的每部分都创作于公元 70 年之后,公元前 597 年或 586 年发生的悲剧不过是希律圣殿最终被毁的一个暗号, cryptogram for the final destruction of the Herodian temple, that Nebuchadnezzar and Belshazzar really mean Vespasian and Titus. He would further associate the pacifist attitude toward Rome with the celebrated Rabban Johanan ben Zakkai, who flourished before and after the destruction of the Herodian temple. (See Jew.Enc. for an excellent biography.) Kneucker dates entirely in the period A.D. 81–117. If the Catholic dating be rejected, need the pendulum be swung quite so radically? Pfeiffer (HNTT, pp. 413–423) cogently argues that A, B, and C may all be dated a hundred or more years before Christ; Wace, Toy in Jew.Enc., Marshall in HDB, and many others share his doubts concerning so late a dating. The crucial factor is whether certain allusions, particularly in C, do or do not have a demonstrably Christian or post-temple reference, when ambiguity and possible interpolation are allowed for. Witton Davies (ISBE [1929]) urges the later dating for 1:1–14 and 4:5–5:9, but feels that some of the material in between may be earlier. There are some arguments and authorities at least for tracing the book back, in whole or in part, to the commonly accepted apocryphal period, and not divorcing it quite so radically from its sister writings.

V. Original Language.—It may be taken as reasonably well established that the Greek of A is translated from Hebrew; the original language of B and C, however, is more controversial. Several scholars claim a Hebrew inception for the entire book, and Kneucker's rendering into Hebrew is a very practical argument for his opinion. Others are convinced that B and C were composed in Greek. Primary Jewish Greek writing and Jewish translation

V. 原书语言。A 部分的希腊语是从希伯来语译过来的,这可能是一个被普遍接受的观点;然而,对于 B 和 C 部分的原书语言,却存有更多争议。一些学者认为整本书最初是用希伯来语写成的,克瑙科认为该书后来译成了希伯来语,这实际上是在证明他个人的观点。其他人认为 B 和 C 是用希腊语写成的。该书中最初的犹太希腊语和由犹太人译成的希腊语不像其他的《次经》资料那样清晰,因此很难进行区分。马歇尔

Greek are never easy to differentiate, as other apocryphal sources have made clear. Marshall (HDB) argues with equivalent renderings of great learning that B was originally composed in Aramaic. This strengthens the Semitic claim, though certain scholars do not admit that he has demonstrated Aramaic as such. The book is unquestionably Hebraic in its thought molds, whatever answer may be given to the controversial issues.

VI. Selected Exegetical Notes.-1:11f. Despite prophetic precedent, prayer for a heathen overlord, Babylonian or Roman, would violently offend nationalistic Judaism. The close of v. 11 is a hyperbolic prayer, flattering but formalized, that the lives of the monarchs may last as long as the heavens. It echoes Dt. 11:21, where the reference is national, not personal. Cf. Dnl. 2:4 and Neh. 2:3. Oriental crowds shout the same thing to their rulers on the streets today, and the Western mind should not take the words too literally.

2:3. Anthropophagy, foretold as the punishment of sin in Lev. 26:29; Dt. 28:53; Jer. 19:9, became a hideous reality in 2 K. 6:28f.; Lam. 4:10.

2:17. The sentiment, which sounds rather harshly in Christian ears, is really quite scriptural; see Ps. 6:5; 30:9; 88:10-12; 115:17; Isa. 38:18; Eccl. 9:5. Cf. also Sir. 17:27f. The Baruch passage has been interpreted as a throwback to an early Jewish Sheol theology, in which the concept of personal immortality was somewhat rudimentary (cf. Toy in Jew.Enc.). This is also used as an argument for an earlier dating. The hypothesis that mortal death is followed

VI. 节选注释。《巴录书》1:11-12。祈祷者不顾先知的教导, 为异教君主巴比伦王或罗马皇帝祈祷, 这激怒了坚持民族主义的犹太人。《巴录书》1:11 的结束部分是一个夸张的祷告词, 其中充满了奉承的话语, 但语言却很正式, 祈祷者愿君主与天同寿。这与《申命记》11:21 中的描述类似, 但《申命记》11:21 中指的是一个民族, 而不是一个人。参:《但以理书》2:4 和《尼希米记》2:3。如今, 东方的百姓仍然用这句祷告词祝福他们的君主, 但西方人不应按照字面意思来理解这句话。

《巴录书》2:3。《利未记》26:29、《申命记》28:53 和《耶利米书》19:9 中的预言道, 食人是对罪的惩罚, 但在《列王纪下》6:28-29 和《耶利米哀歌》4:10 中食人却变成了可怕的现实。

by oblivion lasting till the final resurrection could also be read into the passage. See further Wace, pp. 262f.; Kneucker, pp. 239f. When Scripture repeatedly states that the dead cannot praise God, this means that the physical tools of praise, organs of speech and song, perish with the material body, and also that a corpse cannot help the living. There is no denial of immortal soul or spirit, or of a final resurrection, or of the praise of God in higher realms than ours. See Matthew Henry on the scriptural passages.

2:18. Kneucker turns the tortured Greek of the verse opening into smooth Hebrew, drawing his vocabulary only partially from Dt. 28:65. His Hebrew means: “For the troubled heart and the foot which walks bent and stumbling...” In the Greek, psyché could mean either life principle or immortal soul, and may have stood in antithesis to some part of the body mistranslated from Hebrew by the impossible epi tó mégethos. The writer’s exact meaning is now a matter of conjecture.

2:19. A most interesting denial of the prevailing Jewish doctrine of merits.

2:29. For “multitude,” the original probably used the biblical (Heb.) hāmôn (so Kneucker). The beautiful onomatopoeic bómbēsis of the LXX, “buzzing of bees,” hence by metonymy “swarm” or “multitude,” is not a mistranslation, as Kneucker maintains (p. 254), though it may be a happy coinage. The cognate Hebrew and Greek verbs are found in Jer. 31:35; 48:36, but the Greek noun is known only in this passage.

《巴录书》2:29。最初可能用《圣经》中的希伯来语 hāmôn 来表示“列国”（克瑙科也坚持这种观点）。《七十士译本》中巧妙地运用了拟声词 bómbēsi，这个词的意思是“蜜蜂的嗡嗡声”，因此可以借代“一大群人”或“众人”，克瑙科（254 页）认为这个词不是错译，它可能是《七十士译本》中巧妙创造出的新词。在《耶利米书》31:35 和 48:36 中可以看到希伯来语同源词和希腊语动词，但只有在这段经文中看到了这个希腊语名词。

3:4. Much has been made of the supposedly praying dead. Cf. prayer for the dead in 2 Macc. 12:43ff., a passage important to Roman Catholics, and contrast Bar. 2:17. The word for dead, Heb. mētē (pl. construct), may also be read m^etē (pl. construct), from mat, “man”; and the original text, written in Hebrew, may have postulated no other prayer than that of the men of Israel. The meaning of the whole verse outshines its textual confusions and changes of pronoun. It may reasonably be inferred that the plagues of the last clause represent sufferings recognized as deserved through personal sin, and do not violate the theological principle of Ezk. 18 or Jer. 31:29f.

3:24. For an exhaustive study of the phrase ho oikos tou theou, see TDNT, V, s.v. οἶκος (Michel). In the OT the term commonly means sanctuary (Michel), also holy place created by theophany, as in Gen. 28:17, 19. But why should the sanctuary contain (v. 26) the giants of Gen. 6:4? The meaning here must be wider, perhaps (with Philonic precedent) signifying the entire created universe. Or (Wace, p. 274), v. 24 may split into two halves the phrase under discussion meaning the heavens, God’s residence, as in 2:16, and topos tes ktēseōs autoū, the earth beneath, which He has made.

3:32. An apparent doctrine of “earth abides,” linking with Eccl. 1:4; Ps. 104:5; 119:90, and contrasting sharply with the more orthodox teaching of Ps. 102:26 (MT 27), which is so strongly confirmed by modern scientific opinion. The contradiction is resolved if Baruch and canonical parallels be understood comparatively—earth’s duration is eternal, not absolutely, but in contrast to the transient life of man. In the Bible and elsewhere, many so-called contradictions are merely fruits of shifting emphasis, and of the inherent imperfection of all human language.

《巴录书》3:4。这节经文很有可能是在向神祈祷死亡。参：《马加比二书》12:43 起的为死者祈祷，这段经文对罗马天主教徒来说很重要，对比《巴录书》2:17。表示死的希伯来语是 mētē（复数形式），这个词还可以读成 m^etē（复数形式），源自 mat，意思是“人”；用希伯来语写成的原文可能仅仅描述了以色列人的祷告词。表述较为混乱而且代词繁多，但整节经文的含义掩盖了这些问题。最后一个子句中所描述的灾祸很可能是有罪之人所应忍受的苦难，这并不违背《以西结书》18 章或《耶利米书》31:29-30 中的神学原则。

《巴录书》3:32。关于“永存的地”的教义明显与《传道书》1:4、《诗篇》104:5 和 119:90 有关，而与《诗篇》102:26 (《马所拉文本》27) 中的更为传统的教导对立，但这一教义却得到了现代的科学观点的有力证明。如果通过比较来理解《巴录书》和正典中的平行经文，就可以解决这个矛盾——地将永存，这

3:34. This verse has been variously interpreted as a genuine Jewish prophecy of Jesus Christ; as a spurious Christian interpolation; and as an authentic Jewish utterance, referring not to the Incarnation but to wisdom.

4:3. Many have taken the “strange nation” to mean the Christians (cf. esp. Kneucker, pp. 73ff., 315f.). This certainly suits theories of late dating; but Toy has pointed out (Jew.Enc., II, 557 col. 1) that it is just as logical to regard this as Jewish propaganda against Hellenism, and to date it two centuries earlier.

4:5. “Be of good cheer”—cf. vv. 21, 27, 30 below. The LXX has tharseite as in Mt. 24:27, etc. Kneucker renders ’al-tîr ’û “fear not,” with tenfold MT and LXX precedent (see HR, p. 626 col. 3). See further TDNT, III, s.v. θαρσέω (Grundmann). Syriac uses in the first passage the word of the Peshitta in Isa. 40:1, meaning “to comfort” or “console.”

4:6ff. Idolatry, captivity to correct this favorite sin, final restoration—these elements constitute a familiar prophetic picture.

4:28. Pfeiffer, arguing for a Hebrew original, remarks (HNTT, p. 423): “The

《巴录书》3:34。这节经文已经被解读为犹太人关于耶稣基督的真实预言,也可以理解成模仿基督教作品的伪作,或者理解成犹太人关于智慧的真实话语,并非关于道成肉身。

《巴录书》4:3。很多人认为“别的民族”指的是基督徒(参:尤见 Kneucker, 73 页起, 315-316 页)。这当然符合该书成书较晚的理论;但托伊(Toy)指出(Jew.Enc., II, 557, 第 1 列),将“别的民族”理解为犹太人为反对希腊化所做的宣传也同样合理,如果按照这种推测,那么该书的成书时间还要早两个世纪。

《巴录书》4:5。“坚强些吧”——参:下文《巴录书》4:21, 27, 30。《七十士译本》在《马太福音》24:27 等章节中使用了 tharseite 一词。克瑙科将 ’al-tîr ’û 译为“不要恐惧”,《马所拉文本》和《七十士译本》也有十次采用了这种译法(见 HR, 626 页,第 3 列)。另见 TDNT, III 见词条 θαρσέω (Grundmann)。《叙利亚语译本》的《以赛亚书》40:1 在第一段中采用了《别西大译本》中的一个词,意思是“安慰”。

《巴录书》4:6 起。这些受神眷顾子民崇拜偶像,在囚禁中赎自己犯下的罪,并最终走向复兴,这些因素构成了人们熟悉的预言。

《巴录书》4:8。法伊弗认为原书的语言是希伯来语,他评论道(HNTT, 423

presence of phrases like ‘seek him ten times more,’ which are not easily reproduced in Hebrew, merely prove that the Greek translation is occasionally rather free.” LSJ records only one other, Philonic, occurrence of the Greek verb dekaplasiázō, “multiply by ten”; it may be that the writer’s thought was not easily reproduced in Greek either! Kneucker translates by the piel of the Hebrew verb ‘āsar, “tithes,” meaning here “multiply by ten.” This he characterizes in his exegetical note (p. 336) as a “neuhebräische Bedeutung,” a late-Hebrew meaning. But “neuhebräisch” roughly means “postbiblical,” and includes the rabbinic language. There is no trace of this usage in rabbinic literature—it is entirely modern. See Yehudi-Gûr’s contemporary Hebrew Dictionary (1946), or the smaller Compendious Hebrew Dictionary of Grossman, Sachs, Segal (1946). Kneucker’s translation, delightfully neat as it is, constitutes a philological anachronism. A very rare Greek verb, and a Hebrew usage impossible at its implied date, cannot be claimed as a valid argument either way for the identity of the original language.

4:35. It is not necessary to examine all Kneucker’s arguments for late dating. Here he invokes the fire as that of the eruption of Vesuvius in A.D. 79 (pp. 51ff.). It could also (Wace) refer immediately to Babylon, and backward to Sodom and Gomorrah, and be inspired by Isa. 13:19–21. The allusions are all too vague to constitute absolute proof in either direction.

It has been impossible in this brief compass to make any study of the numerous OT quotations in Baruch.

《巴录书》4:35。没有必要一一检验克瑙科提出的关于该书成书较晚的论点。他认为这节经文中的火是公元 79 年维苏威火山爆发时喷出的火焰 (51 页起)。这也可能指的就是巴比伦、后来的所多玛和蛾摩拉 (Wace), 并且可能受到了《以赛亚书》13:19-21 的启发。但这些暗指过于模糊, 不能作为证明成书时间的确凿证据。

VII. Conclusion.—If there were an edition of the Greek text of Baruch that, like certain convenient Greek Testaments, printed the OT quotations in black type, their proportional bulk would be seen to be approximately in ratio to those of the Epistle to the Hebrews. If this quoted material were entirely removed from both writings, the residue of Baruch would be of much lesser significance than that of the Epistle, for Baruch's original contribution to theology and thought (making the fullest allowance for its most valuable part, the praise of wisdom in 3:9–37) is infinitely less. There is no doubt that the book was overestimated in early Christian patristic circles, owing to the mistaken idea that it emanated from one very close to the person of Jeremiah. Protestant thought assigns, without antagonism, a lesser valuation.

1. A Gileadite of Rogelim who brought provision to David and his army at Mahanaim in their flight from Absalom (2 S. 17:27–29). When David was returning to Jerusalem after Absalom's defeat, Barzillai conducted him over Jordan; but being an old man of eighty years, he declined David's invitation to come to live in the capital and sent instead his son

VII. 结论。如果某个希腊语版本的《巴录书》像某些实用的希腊语《新约》那样，将引述《旧约》的原文打印成黑体，那么这些黑体字所占的比例可能相当于《希伯来书》引用《旧约》的比例。如果完全删去这两本书中的引文，那么《巴录书》的意义将远不如《希伯来书》的重大，因为《巴录书》对神学的原创贡献要小得多，该书中所包含的思想也比《希伯来书》中包含的思想少得多（即使充分考虑到该书中最有价值的部分，即《巴录书》3:9-37中的“智慧的礼赞”）。毋庸置疑，早期的基督教教父曾给予这本书过高的评价，因为他们误以为这本书是由与耶利米有密切关系的人创作的。新教徒对这本书的评价没有那么高，但他们并没有任何敌意。

BARZILLAI 巴西莱

1、基列的罗基琳人，当大卫和他的军队逃离押沙龙之手来到玛哈念时，巴西莱为他们提供食物和必需品（撒下 17:27-29）。当大卫打败押沙龙回到耶路撒冷时，巴西莱带领他穿过约旦河；大卫邀请他定居都城耶路撒冷，他却拒绝了，因为他年纪老迈，已经八十岁了，但他派自己的儿子金罕来到了耶路撒冷（撒下 19:31-39）。大卫临终前叮嘱

Chimham (2 S. 19:31–39). David before his death charged Solomon to “deal loyally with the sons of Barzillai” (1 K. 2:7).

2. The father of a family of priests who in Ezra’s time, after the return of the exiles, could not trace their genealogy, “so they were excluded from the priesthood as unclean.” This Barzillai had taken “a wife of the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite,” and had adopted his wife’s family name (Ezr. 2:61f.=Neh. 7:63f.). His original name is given as Jaddus (AV Addus) in 1 Esd. 5:38.

3. Barzillai the Meholathite, whose son Adriel was married to Saul’s daughter, either Michal (2 S. 21:8) or Merab (1 S. 18:19).

所罗门，“当恩待巴西莱的众子”（王上 2:7）。

2、以斯拉时期的一个祭司家族的祖先，从巴比伦被掳归回之后，这个巴西莱的子孙想要寻找自己的谱系，却寻不着，“因此算为不洁，不准供祭司的职任”。这个巴西莱因“娶了基列人巴西莱的女儿为妻”，所以接受了他的妻子的姓氏（拉 2:61-62，平行经文尼 7:63-64）。《以斯得拉一书》5:38 中给出了他的原名，亚达斯（《钦定版圣经》中译为 Addus[“亚达斯”]）。

3、米何拉人巴西莱，他的儿子亚得列娶了扫罗的女儿米甲（撒下 21:8）或米拉（撒上 18:19）。

BASEMATH 巴实抹

1. AV BASHEMATH. A wife of Esau. Gen. 26:34 has her as “the daughter of Elon the Hittite.” Gen. 36:2–4, however, lists Basemath as the daughter of Ishmael and sister of Nebaioth who bore Esau a son Reuel, and lists Adah as the daughter of Elon the Hittite. It is probable that Esau had only one wife Basemath, the daughter of Ishmael, and that the Gen. 26:34 (cf. 36:2) designation actually belonged only to Adah. It is also likely that Basemath is identical with Mahaleth (cf. 28:9), a daughter of Ishmael whom Esau married because his father was displeased with his Canaanite wives.

1、《钦定版圣经》译为 BASHEMATH (“巴实抹”)。以扫的妻子之一。《创世记》26:34 中称她为“赫人以伦的女儿”。然而在《创世记》36:2-4 中，巴实抹被称作“以实玛利的女儿、尼拜约的妹子”，她为以扫生了流珥，而称亚大为是“赫人以伦的女儿”。有可能以扫只有一个妻子，就是以实玛利的女儿巴实抹，而《创世记》26:34 (参: 创 36:2) 中的巴实抹实际上就是亚大。而且巴实抹也有可能与《创世记》28:9 中的“以实玛利的女儿玛哈拉”是同一个人，以扫娶她为妻，因为以扫的父亲讨厌以扫的迦南妻子。

2. AV BASMATH. The daughter of Solomon and wife of Ahimaaz (1 K. 4:15).

BASHAN

bā'shən [Heb. habbāšān—‘fruitful,’ possibly ‘wheatland’]. A fertile plateau E of the Sea of Galilee and N of Gilead, the borders of which are not precisely defined. When the Israelites were moving toward Canaan from the wilderness, Bashan was under King Og, who had his capital at Ashtaroth (Nu. 21:33; Dt. 29:7). Og was defeated at Edrei (Dt. 3:1–3), and the territory was given to the half-tribe of Manasseh (Dt. 3:13) except for the Levitical cities of Golan and Beeshterah (Josh. 21:27). The region was taken by Hazael the Aramean king in the days of Jehu (2 K. 10:33) and reconquered by Jeroboam II (2 K. 14:25). Tiglath-pileser III conquered a large portion of north Transjordan and Galilee in the days of Pekah (2 K. 15:29), including Bashan, which thereafter was outside the limits of the land of Israel. In the time of the Persian empire it was approximately equivalent to the district of Qarnaim, and in the Greek period it was known as Batanea, which has been taken to be a derivative of Arabic Bathaniyah, which in turn is cognate with Hebrew Bashan (GP, II, 9).

音译: bā'shən 【希伯来语: habbāšān——“肥沃的”，可能指“小麦地”】。加利利海以东，基列以北的土壤肥沃的高原，尚无法准确地确定该高原的边界。当以色列人从旷野进入迦南地时，噩统治着巴珊，并定都亚斯他录 (民 21:33; 申 29:7)。噩在以得来被打战 (申 3:1-3)，除了利未城市哥兰和比施提拉 (书 21:27)，巴珊全境都送给了玛拿西

的半支派（申 3:13）。耶户时期，亚兰人的国王哈薛控制着巴珊地区（王下 10:33），后来耶罗波安二世重新夺回了巴珊（王下 14:25）。提革拉毗列色三世在比加时期侵占可外约旦北部和加利利的大部分地区（王下 15:29），其中就包括巴珊，此后巴珊就再也不属于以色列的境界了。在波斯帝国时期，巴珊大致等于加宁区，在希腊时期，巴珊被称为巴坦尼亚，它可能是阿拉伯语 Bathaniyah（“巴坦尼亚”）的派生词，因此与希伯来语中的“巴珊”同源（GP, II, 9）。

Most of Bashan is tableland, described by Baly as “wide open plains between 1600 and 2300 feet in height, and magnificently fertile” (GB, p. 220). It is generally considered to be the southern portion of Ḥaurân, which extends from Mt. Hermon to the Yarmuk River; but the borders of Bashan are not exact, and in some references the northern limit extends to Mt. Hermon (cf. Josh. 12:5; 13:4–5; 1 Ch. 5:23). Its western border is generally taken to be the edge of the plateau overlooking the Sea of Galilee (cf. Dt. 4:47; 33:22; Josh. 12:5; 13:11), and its eastern extent would seem to include the wooded slopes of Jebel Druze (Jebel

巴珊的大部分地区都是高原，贝里（Baly）将之描述为“海拔介于 1600 至 2300 英尺之间的开阔平原，该地景色壮观，土壤肥沃”（GB, 220 页）。巴珊通常被认为是浩兰高原（Ḥaurân）的南部地区，浩兰高原从黑门山一直延伸到耶尔穆克河；但尚无法确定巴珊的境界，根据某些参考资料的记载，巴珊的北部边界延伸至黑门山（参：书 12:5; 13:4-5; 代上 5:23）。通常认为某高原的边缘构成了巴珊的西部边界，从该高原上可以俯瞰加利利海（参：申 4:47; 33:22; 书 12:5; 13:11），巴珊的东部边境似乎囊括了森林茂盛的耶布杜鲁斯山（耶布浩兰 [Jebel Ḥaurân]; 参：诗 68:16, “多峰多岭的山”）。亚珥歌伯和

Haurân; cf. Ps. 68:16, “the many-peaked mountain of Bashan”). The relationship between Argob and Bashan remains a problem, hence we cannot be sure how many of the sixty cities of Argob actually were in the Bashan (cf. 1 K. 4:13); at any rate, Bashan included Ashtaroth, Qarnaim, Kenath, Edrei, and Salecah, the latter two possibly indicating the western and eastern limits of Bashan (Dt. 3:10). Mt. Zalmon (AV Salmon), on which snow fell (Ps. 68:14), is mentioned immediately before the mighty, many-peaked mountain of Bashan (68:15), hence is generally identified with Jebel Haurân.

Because of the lower altitude of the hills in lower Galilee, rainfall in Bashan is above the normal for a region so far east, which, added to the volcanic nature of the soil, has produced rich land. The primary crop is wheat, and Bashan has long been one of the regions to serve as a “breadbasket.” In NT times, when Bashan included Gaulanitis and Batanea, it was one of the important granaries of the Roman empire, and its wheat was transported across Galilee to be loaded on Roman grain ships at Ptolemais (Acre). Likewise the region provided good pasture land, and the “bulls of Bashan” (Ps. 22:12), the “cows of Bashan” (Am. 4:1), and the “fatlings of Bashan,” including rams, lambs, goats, and bulls (Ezk. 39:18), appear to be proverbial figures of speech in Scripture. Lions are also mentioned (Dt. 33:22).

The trees of Bashan are often mentioned, particularly the oaks (Isa. 2:13; Zec. 11:2), which were used by Tyrian Phoenicians to make oars (Ezk. 27:5f.). Baly points out that since Bashan has been farmland for so many centuries, the ground must have been cleared comparatively early; hence we are probably to apply the references to trees to the eastern part, on the slopes of Jebel Ḥaurân, to which we might possibly add the southern region across the Yarmuk in north Gilead.

巴珊的关系仍然是一个难题，因此，我们无法确定亚珥歌伯地的六十座城市实际上有几座位于巴珊境内（参：王上 4:13）；无论如何，巴珊包括亚斯他录、加宁、基纳、以得来和撒迦，后两座城市可能表明了巴珊的西部和东部边界（申 3:10）。《诗篇》在提及飘雪的撒们山（诗 68:14）之后，随即提到了多峰多岭的巴珊高山（诗 68:15），因此巴珊通常被认为是耶布浩兰。

由于下加利利的山丘海拔相对较低，对于如此靠近东面的地区开说，巴珊的降雨量高于正常标准，再加上巴珊的土壤属于火山灰土壤，因此土地非常肥沃。巴珊的主要农作物是小麦，长久以来巴珊就是“产粮区”之一。新约时期的巴珊包括高拉尼提斯和巴坦尼亚，该地是罗马帝国的重要粮仓之一，巴珊的小麦被运到加利利海对岸，在多利买（阿卡）装上运粮船。巴珊还是优良的牧场，《圣经》中“巴珊的公牛”（诗 22:12）、“巴珊的母牛”（摩 4:1）和“巴珊的肥畜”，包括公绵羊、羊羔、公山羊和公牛（结 39:18）成了众所周知的修辞格。《圣经》中还提到了巴珊的狮子（申 33:22）。

《圣经》中还经常提到了巴珊的树，尤其是巴珊的橡树（赛 2:13；亚 11:2），推罗的腓尼基人用橡树制作桨（结 27:5-6）。贝里指出，因为几个世纪以来巴珊就是农田，所以土地应该在较早时期就很平整；因此这些树可能指的是

【希伯来语: mizrāq, sap, 'aggān, ^a*gartāl*; 希腊语: nīptēr, kratēr, trýblion, phiála, psyktēr, lébēs 等]; 《钦定版圣经》还译为 BASON (“盆”)、BOWL (“盘、盆”)、CHARGER (“盘”, 拉 1:9); 《新英文译本》还译为 TOSSING-BOWL (“盘子”)、BLANKET (“褥”, 撒下 17:28)。

deep. Bronze basins are mentioned in connection with the tabernacle (Ex. 27:3; 38:3) and the temple (1 K. 7:45; cf. Jer. 52:18); silver ones in the description of the dedication of the altar of the tabernacle (Nu. 7:13–85, 14 times; in these exceptional cases they were filled with wheat groats mixed with oil, which was used as a cereal offering); silver or gold ones are mentioned in connection with the temple (2 K. 12:13; 25:15; cf. Jer. 52:19); for golden basins see 1 K. 7:50; 1 Ch. 28:17; 2 Ch. 4:8, 22, in descriptions of the temple.

Some of these bowls, captured by the Babylonians in 586, were sent back to Jerusalem to be used after the reinstatement of sacrificial worship there (Neh. 7:70). The weight of one silver mizrāq according to Nu. 7:13–85 was 70 shekels, i.e., about 28 oz. (794 grams). Inasmuch as they were used in the sacrificial cult, a special sanctity was ascribed to these vessels (Zec. 14:20). The blood of the sacrifice filled them to the rim (Zec. 9:15). Am. 6:6 mentions the use of such sprinkling bowls for drinking wine; this is both a profanation (cf. Dnl. 5:2) and an indication of greed. Many scholars, however, read here, following the LXX, “refined wines.”

Evidently 1 K. 7:50 distinguishes between the mizrāq and the sap, both made of gold and both used in the temple. 2 K. 12:13 mentions sippôt of silver; cf. Jer. 52:19. The sap could be used for drinking (Zec. 12:2; cf. Ps. 75:8 [MT 9]; Isa. 51:17–22; Jer. 25:15–29, where kôs, a drinking cup, is used in the same way). Whereas the kôs had a large foot, the sap seems to have been a fairly flat bowl without foot. In Ex. 12:22 it is supposed that there was at least one sap in every household. In such cases it was of course one of earthenware. The sappôt of 2 S. 17:28 were probably not bowls but rather woolen blankets; cf. Bab. šipātu, “skin, wool,” and Perles, AfO, 4 (1927), 220.

献祭的经文中还提到了银盘（民 7:13-85，这个词被提及 14 次；在特殊情况下，用银盘来盛作为素祭的调油的小麦）；描述圣殿的经文中还提到了银碗或金碗（王下 12:13; 25:15; 参：耶 52:19）；关于金盆，见《列王纪上》7:50、《历代志上》28:17、《历代志下》4:8 和 22 对圣殿的描述。

公元前 586 年，巴比伦人掳走了一些碗，但当耶路撒冷重新恢复献祭仪式之后，这些碗又被送回了耶路撒冷（尼 7:70）。根据《民数记》7:13-85，一个银碗重 70 舍客勒，即约 28 盎司（794 克）。因为这些碗用于献祭仪式中，所以这些器皿被认为具有特殊的圣洁性（亚 14:20）。碗中装满了祭物的血（亚 9:15）。《阿摩司书》6:6 中提到了用洒血的碗喝酒；这既是亵渎神（参：但 5:2）也是贪婪的表现。然而，很多学者遵照《七十士译本》中译文，将之理解成“澄清的陈酒”。

显然，《列王纪上》7:50 中区分了 mizrāq（“盆、碗”）和 sap（“杯”），这两种器皿都是用金子制成的，都在圣殿中使用。《列王纪下》12:13 中提到了银杯（sippôt）；参：《耶利米书》52:19。杯子（sap）可以用来喝酒（亚 12:2；参：诗 75:8[《马所拉文本》9]；赛 51:17-22；耶 25:15-29，这些经文中的 kôs 指的是酒杯，两种器皿的用途相同）。Kôs 指的是高脚杯，而 sap 似乎指的是一种没有脚的很平的杯。根据《出埃及记》

The 'aggān is mentioned in Ex. 24:6 in connection with the blood of the covenant ceremony. According to Honeyman these basins were large, deep bowls, with two handles (cf. Cant. 7:2 [MT 3]; Isa. 22:24).

In Ezr. 1:9, 'gartāl is of uncertain meaning and origin. It may have been a basket (cf. BDB, KoB; the LXX, however, has psyktéres, “wine-coolers.”) The RSV and NEB render “basins,” while the AV has “chargers” (large flat platters).

In the NT, “basin” occurs only in Jn. 13:5 (Gk. niptér < niptō, “wash off”). Hands and feet were washed by pouring water on them, not by putting them into a basin of water. In order to purify, water should run. This is the general oriental conception to this day. The method of washing by using water in a basin is considered “washing in one’s own uncleanness.” Washing by pouring water is to be supposed in texts such as Gen. 18:4; 19:2; Lev. 15:11, 1 S. 25:41, and is explicit in 2 K. 3:11. So the niptér of Jn. 13:5 is not a basin to wash the feet in, but rather a jug of water to pour over the feet. Perhaps a basin was also used, to catch the water as it dripped from the feet, as is done nowadays in oriental countries. But the elaborate brass ewer with long spout, and basin with double bottom as described by E. W. Lane (Manners and Customs of the Modern

《出埃及记》24:6 在提到了 'aggān (“盆”)，这种器皿被用来盛立约仪式中的血。根据荷里曼 (Honeyman) 的描述，这些盆都很大、很深，并且有两个手柄 (参：歌 7:2 [《马所拉文本》3]; 赛 22:24)。

《以斯拉记》1:9 中的 'gartāl 的含义和词源不能确定。它可能指的是一种篮子 (参：BDB, KoB; 然而《七十士译本》中译为 psyktéres, “酒柜”)。《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》中译为 “basins” (“盆”)，而《钦定版圣经》译为 “chargers” (“盘子”，大浅盘)。

在《新约》中，只有《约翰福音》13:5 中提到过一次 “盆” (希腊语：niptér, 源自 niptō, “洗掉”)。要从盆里倒水洗手和脚，而不是将手脚浸在盆中的水里。用水清洗才能达到洁净。东方人至今仍普遍保留着这个观念。用盆内的水清洗被认为是 “在某人的不洁中清洗”。《创世记》18:4 和 19:2、《利未记》15:11、《撒母耳记上》25:41 等经文指的都是倒水清洗，《列王纪下》3:11 中明确提到了倒水洗手。所以《约翰福音》13:5 中的 niptér 指的不是洗脚盆，而是向脚上倒水的水壶。可能还需要一个盆来接从脚上淌下来的水，东方国家至今仍保留着这种风俗。但是在对圣经地区进行考古发掘时，并没有发现拉内 (E. W. Lane) 描述的带有长喷口的精铜水壶和双座的盆 (Manners and Customs of the Modern Egyptians [1908 年再版], 第 5 章)，它们可能是相当现代的器皿。在圣经时代，人们并不关心地面是否潮

Egyptians [2nd ed. 1908], ch. 5), have never been found in biblical excavations, and should be considered as rather modern. In biblical times people did not mind if the floor of the house got wet; note the Greek custom of pledging some of the wine to the gods by pouring it on the floor. It seems probable, therefore, that the níptēr was a jug or ewer to be filled with water from larger pots standing ready near the wall of the room (Jn. 2:6). The large footbaths of Israelite times (K. Galling, Biblisches Reallexicon [1937], pp. 79–81) had handles so that they could be carried by two men, and therefore have nothing to do with the níptēr, which was handled by the Master alone.

BASKET 箱子、筐子、篮子

（“箱子”，出 2:3, 5）和 “pots”（“筐子”，诗 81:6）。

I. OT Terms.-There is little in the Hebrew terms, or in the narratives where they occur, to indicate the exact differences in size and shape among the various baskets. The Mishnah refers to baskets of willow and of palm branches, of rushes and of leaves, some having lids, some with handles (Mish. Kelim xvi, xvii).

The Heb. dūd includes various kinds of baskets (note the variety of words used to translate it in the LXX). It is used as a symbol of slavery in Egypt (Ps. 81:6), referring probably to the large baskets in which clay was carried to the brick kilns. It was used, too, in fruit-gathering (Jer. 24:1f.), though this is distinguished from Amos' basket of summer fruit (k^elūb, Am. 8:1), and was counted a suitable receptacle in which to carry the heads of Ahab's slaughtered sons (2 K. 10:7). It stands, too, for a cooking pot (1 S. 2:14; Job 41:20), perhaps indicating that a pot-shaped basket was known by this name.

I. 《旧约》中的箱或筐。在希伯来语的词汇中和提到筐的文字内容中,很难找到明确区分筐大小和形状的词。《米示拿》中提到了用柳条、棕榈枝、灯心草和树叶编织的筐,有些筐有盖子,有些筐有把手(《米示拿》《论器皿》xvi, xvii)。

希伯来语 dūd 可以表示各种筐或箱子(值得注意的是,《七十士译本》中使用不同的词来翻译这个词)。筐是以色列人在埃及被奴役的象征(诗 81:6),指的可能是用来装泥土的大筐,被奴役的人要将筐中泥土运到砖窑里。筐还可以用来采集水果(耶 24:1-2),但这种筐与阿摩司装夏季果子的筐不同(k^elūb, 摩 8:1),亚哈儿子被杀后,筐被认为是装亚哈儿子首级的最佳容器(王下 10:7)。这个词还以表示烹饪锅(撒上 2:14; 伯 41:20),从名称上推测,它可能指的是一种锅形的筐。

The ṭene', a large, deep basket for carrying and storing crops (Dt. 26:2, 4), was a common household article along with the kneading trough (28:5, 17). The modern counterpart of it is possibly the habya, a basket of clay and straw used by peasants. Shaped like a jar, it is used for storing grain, which is poured in at the top, and removed as needed from an opening at the bottom.

The sal was the flat, lidless basket in which the court baker of Egypt carried his wares on his head (Gen. 40:16). As a basket for carrying foodstuffs (Jgs. 6:19), it was used in the offering of unleavened bread (Ex. 29:3; Lev. 8:2; Nu. 6:15). Some see a connection with Heb. salsillā in Jer. 6:9, interpreting this as a grape-gatherer's basket (AV). More probably it refers to the shoots of the vine (BDB, RSV, NEB).

The k^elūb, found in Am. 8:1 for a fruitbasket, is used in Jer. 5:27 for a birdcage (cf. Am. Tab. kilubi, "bird net").

The basket of bulrushes in which the infant Moses was placed by his mother is called tēbā, the same word used of Noah's ark. Cf. Egyp. tebt; LXX thibis. It was made of bulrushes (Heb. gōme, "papyrus"), a species of reed used by the Egyptians for many different vessels, even small ships. It was made fit to float by plastering with a mixture of bitumen (hēmār) and Nile mud (zepet), then placed among the reeds in the shallow water at the edge of the Nile. A similar story is told of Sargon of Agade. See MOSES.

II. NT Terms.—The Gospel writers describe the baskets used in feeding the five thousand as Gk. kóphinoi (Mt. 14:20 par.), in contrast to the spyrides (WH sphyrídes) of the miracle of the four thousand (Mt. 15:37; Mk. 8:8). That they are specifically contrasted (Mt. 16:9f.; Mk. 8:19f.) indicates that they are clearly distinguished from each other, though the distinction is probably one of material rather than size. The kóphinos was

Sal 指的是一种无盖的平筐，埃及的膳长用头顶着筐中的货物（创 40:16）。这种用来搬运粮食的筐（士 6:19），在献祭时可以用来装无酵饼（出 29:3；利 8:2；民 6:15）。有人认为这种筐与《耶利米书》6:9 中的希伯来语 salsillā 有联系，因此将之译为摘葡萄人的筐（《钦定版圣经》）。它更可能指的是葡萄的嫩枝（BDB,《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》）。

《阿摩司书》8:1 中提到的筐 (k^elūb) 是用来装果子的，在《耶利米书》5:27 中，这种筐用作鸟笼（参：亚玛拿泥版上作 kilubi, “捕鸟网”）。

摩西的母亲将婴儿摩西放进蒲草箱中，这种箱子被称作 tēbā，这个词还可以表示挪亚的方舟。参：埃及语：tebt；《七十士译本》中译为 thibis。这种箱子是用蒲草制成的，埃及人还用蒲草制作其他不同的容器，甚至用蒲草来造小船。涂上石漆 (hēmār) 和尼罗河淤泥 (zepet) 的蒲草箱可以漂浮在河面上，摩西的母亲将装有婴儿摩西的蒲草箱藏在尼罗河浅水边的芦荻中。类似的故事也曾发生在亚加得的撒珥根身上。见 MOSES (摩西)。

II. 《新约》中的筐或篮子。 耶稣给五千人吃饱后人们收拾了剩下的零碎，用篮子装起来，福音书作者用希腊语 kóphinoi 来表示这篮子（太 14:20，平行经文），而用 spyrides (WH sphyrídes) 来表示四千人奇迹般吃饱后用来装零碎的筐子（太 15:37；可 8:8）。《马太福音》16:9-10 和《马可福音》8:19 专门将筐子和篮子进行了对比，这表明它们明显区别于彼此，但它们所使用的材料可能有差异，而不是尺寸上存有差 probably a basket of wickerwork, such as were carried by Jews as food containers, slung on the back by means of a cord handle (cf. kúptā' in the Mishnah). Evidence of its variation in size is found in certain military accounts (MM).

The spyrís, on the other hand, was a large hamper, possibly of rope, of sufficient size and strength for Paul to be lowered in it from the wall of Damascus (Acts 9:25). The apostle himself describes this basket as sargánē (2 Cor. 11:33), a plaited basket, sometimes more specifically a fish basket.

而 spyrís 指的是一种用绳子或交错的枝条编成的大提筐，这种筐的尺寸足够大，且足够牢固，所以可以用它把保罗从大马士革的城墙上缒下去（徒 9:25）。使徒保罗将这种筐描述成 sargánē（林后 11:33），它是一种编织筐，有时它特指是鱼筐。

[Heb. ^a*tallēp*] (Lev. 11:19; Dt. 14:18; Isa. 2:20). Bats are the most widely distributed of mammals. Because it has not always been realized that they are mammals, it is not surprising that they should be mentioned at the end of the list of unclean birds in Lev. 11:19 and Dt. 14:18. It may, however, be significant that they are at the end of the list and not in the middle of it. The reference in Isa. 2:20, “cast ... idols ... to the moles and to the bats” refers to these animals as inhabitants of dark and deserted places.

BATH KOL

bath kōl [Heb. bat̄ qōl—‘daughter of the voice,’ i.e., ‘sound’]. A rabbinic term signifying the divine voice, audible to man and unaccompanied by a visible divine manifestation. Thus conceived, bat̄ qōl is to be distinguished from God’s speaking to Moses and the prophets; for at Sinai the voice of God was part of a larger theophany, while for the prophets it was the resultant inward demonstration of the divine will, by whatever means effected, given to them to declare (see VOICE). It is further to be distinguished from all natural sounds and voices, even where these were interpreted as conveying divine instruction.

The concept appears for the first time in Dnl. 4:31 (MT 28), where, however, Aram. qal, “voice,” stands without b^erat̄, “daughter”: “A voice fell from heaven.”

BATH KOL 神的声音

《但以理书》4:31(《马所拉文本》28)中首次提到了这种观念, 不过, 亚兰语 qal (“声音”)并没有与 b^erat̄ (“女儿”)连用: “有声音从天降下”。约瑟夫斯

Josephus (Ant. xiii.10.3) relates that John Hyrcanus (135–104 B.C.) heard a voice while offering a burnt sacrifice in the temple, which Josephus expressly interprets as the voice of God (cf. TB Sotah 33a and TP Sotah 24b where it is called bat qôl). In the NT, mention of “a voice from heaven” occurs in the following passages: Mt. 3:17; Mk. 1:11; Lk. 3:22 (at the baptism of Jesus); Mt. 17:5; Mk. 9:7; Lk. 9:35 (at His transfiguration); Jn. 12:28 (shortly before His passion); Acts 9:4; 22:7; 26:14 (conversion of Paul), and 10:13, 15 (instruction of Peter concerning clean and unclean).

In the period of the Tannaim (ca. 100 B.C.–A.D. 200) the term bat qôl was in very frequent use and was understood to signify not the direct voice of God, which was held to be supersensible, but the echo of the voice (bat being somewhat arbitrarily taken to express the distinction). The rabbis held that bat qôl had been an occasional means of divine communication throughout the whole history of Israel and that since the cessation of the prophetic gift it was the sole means of divine revelation. It is noteworthy that the rabbinical conception of bat qôl sprang up in the period of the decline of OT prophecy and flourished in the period of extreme traditionalism. Where the gift of prophecy was clearly lacking—perhaps even because of this lack—there grew up an inordinate desire for special divine manifestations. Often a voice from heaven was looked for to clear up matters of doubt and even to decide between conflicting interpretations of the law. So strong had this tendency become that Rabbi Joshua (ca. A.D. 100) felt it

(Ant. xiii.10.3) 说道，当约翰·许尔堪（公元前 135-104 年）在圣殿中献燔祭时，他听到了一个声音，约瑟夫斯明确地将这个声音解释成神的声音（参：《巴比伦他勒目》，《论疑妻子行淫》33a 和《巴勒斯坦他勒目》，《论疑妻子行淫》24b，其中称神的声音为 bat qôl）。在《新约》中，只有以下经卷中提到了“有声音从天上来”：《马太福音》3:17、《马可福音》1:11、《路加福音》3:22（耶稣受洗时）、《马太福音》17:5、《马可福音》9:7、《路加福音》9:35（耶稣登山变像时）、《约翰福音》12:28（耶稣受难之前不久）、《使徒行传》9:4、22:7、26:14（保罗悔改时），以及《使徒行传》10:13 和 15（保罗听到关于洁净和不洁净的教导时）。

Most of these instances occur in the ceremonial regulations of Lev. 15 – 17 and Nu. 19, where the Hebrew verb rāḥaṣ, “rinse,” refers to Israel’s washings in connection with sexual uncleanness (cf. BATHE 洗澡、沐浴 open footgear of the Orient on stockingless feet) (Gen. 19:2; 2 S. 11:8; Cant. 5:3). Such partial bathing might carry a ritualistic meaning (Ex. 30:19; Mt. 15:2; cf. Lk. 11:38) or a symbolical one (Dt. 21:6; Ps. 26:6; cf. Mt. 27:24 on Pilate's vain handwashing), and was a particular sign of a host's hospitality (Gen. 18:4; Jgs. 19:21; Lk. 7:44; Jn. 13:5; 1 Tim. 5:10); but see WASH AND FOOT WASHING. As used for full, bodily bathing the verb rāḥaṣ does not, moreover, distinguish between immersion in water (2 K. 5:13; cf. v. 14, Heb. ṭābal, "dip, plunge into") and the application of water through pouring or scrubbing (Ezk. 16:9; in parallelism with šāṭap, "wash away," here, of blood). A combination practice is suggested by the 800 B.C. pottery figurine from ez-Zīb, which depicts a woman bathing in a shallow tub. Streams and ponds, when available, were the usual resorts for bathing (Ex. 2:5; 2 K. 5:10); but the water supply of large cities, stored up in pools or large cisterns, was available to some degree for bathing (2 S. 11:2). Cleansing agents employed (cf. Jer. 2:22) consisted either of vegetable alkali, extracted from soap plants (KoB, p. 152; Heb. bōrīt, "soap"), or of mineral alkali (Heb. netēr, "natron"; AV "nitre"; RSV "lye"). See SOAP.

【希伯来语: rāḥaṣ; 希腊语: louō (约 13:10)】; 《钦定版圣经》还译为 WASH (“洗”)、DIP (“蹚”, 诗 68:23); 《新英文译本》也译为 WASH (“洗”)、SPLASHED (“洗净”, 歌 5:12)、DABBLE (“蹚”, 诗 68:23)。动词“bathe”在《修订标准译本》中出现了 34 次。其中大多数用法出现在《利未记》15-17 和《民数记》19 的仪式规定中, 希伯来语动词 rāḥaṣ, 意思是“冲洗”这个词指的是清除与性相关的污秽 (参: 申 23:11)、赎罪日仪式、去除食物污染和死亡带来的污秽时以色列人进行沐浴; 参: 类似的例子, 如《利未记》14:8-9 中的大麻风痊愈后洁净身体, 以及《利未记》22:6 中的因接触不洁净的事物而洁净身体。然而, 在《圣经》中, 介绍洗澡的过程的文字要比“洗澡”这个词所占的篇幅更大。

The OT describes bathing for newborn children (Ezk. 16:4), but bathing was avoided at times of mourning (2 S. 12:10). Eight specific instances appear in which rāḥaṣ identifies full bodily bathing: the pharaoh's daughter washing in the Nile (Ex. 2:5), the ritualistic washing by Moses of Aaron and his sons at their priestly ordination (Lev. 8:6), Ruth's washing and anointing before meeting Boaz (Ruth 3:3), Bathsheba's washing herself at her house

11:8; 歌 5:3)。局部清洗可能具有仪式意义(出 30:19; 太 15:2; 参: 路 11:38)或象征意义(申 21:6; 诗 26:6; 参:《马太福音》27:24 中彼拉多徒劳地洗手),局部清洗也是主人好客的特殊标志(创 18:4; 士 19:21; 路 7:44; 约 13:5; 提前 5:10); 另见 WASH AND FOOT WASHING (沐浴和洗足礼)。此外,当表示清洗全身时,动词 rāḥaṣ 等同于浸在水中(王下 5:13); 参: 王下 5:14, 希伯来语: ṭābal, "浸、投入"、倒水清洗或擦洗(结 16:9; 与 šāṭap["洗掉"]的含义类似,这里指的是洗净血)。埃斯齐比(ez-Zīb)出土的公元前 800 年的陶俑塑造了一个在浅浴盆中洗澡的女子,表明当时的人们在进行全身清洗时,同时采用倒水清洗和浸水沐浴两种方式。如果有溪流和池塘,人们也常在其中沐浴(出 2:5; 王下 5:10); 在大城市中,水储存在水塘或蓄水池中,有时也可以在其中沐浴(撒下 11:2)。人们使用的清洗剂(参: 耶 2:22)包括从皂用植物中提取植物碱(KoB, 152 页; 希伯来语: bōrīt, "肥皂")和矿物碱(希伯来语: netēr, "泡碱";《钦定版圣经》译为 "nitre";《修订标准译本》译为 "lye", 汉译均为 "碱")。见 SOAP (肥皂)。

《旧约》中描述了为新生儿洗澡(结 16:4), 但服丧时不能洗澡(撒下 12:10)。《圣经》列举了 8 个具体的洗澡例子, 这些例子中的 rāḥaṣ 表示全身清洗的例子有: 法老的女儿在尼罗河边洗澡(出 2:5), 亚伦和他的儿子被任命为祭司时, 摩西用水洗了他们(利 8:6), 路得去见波阿斯之前曾沐浴抹膏(得 3:3), 拔示巴在耶路撒冷她的家中沐浴(撒下 11:2), 大卫的儿子死后, 他沐浴己身(撒下 12:20), 妓女在撒玛利亚

in Jerusalem (2 S. 11:2), David's bathing after the death of their child (12:20), the harlots at the pool of Samaria (1 K. 22:38), Naaman in the Jordan (2 K. 5:10-13), and the allegorical Oholah and Oholibah when preparing to receive guests (Ezk. 23:40). Additional figurative references occur in OT prophecy (Isa. 1:16; 4:4; Ezk. 16:9; not to be confused with the "washing" of Jer. 2:22, in which the verb is the piel of kābas, "launder" by pounding) and in poetry (Prov. 30:12); and OT law prescribes numerous ritualistic washings, as noted above (see ABLUTION; CLEAN AND UNCLEAR; etc.). Albright comments on the built-in basins for washing found in the guest house of preexilic Tell Beit Mirsim (AP, pp. 139f.). Thus, while it is true that certain Hebrews, particularly among the masses, may have had neither the privacy nor the inclination for bathing, still, the total OT picture suggests standards of cleanliness well above the average for the ancient world. The priests of Egypt took four baths daily (Herodotus ii.37; cf. the bathing of the Egyptian official Sinuhe, as recorded in ANET, p. 22a); but when one considers that in Palestine six months of the year are rainless, and how scarce water is at any season, the Mosaic law's rigid requirement of bathing for so many purposes is remarkable indeed.

Public baths are first constructed during the Greco-Roman period, when they are found to be regularly included in the gymnasia, or "places of exercise" (1 Macc. 1:14). A series of bath chambers was discovered by Macalister at Gezer in connection with a building supposed to be the place of Simon Maccabeus. The Apocrypha speaks of Judith bathing in a fountain (Jth. 12:7), and of Susanna, in a garden, attended by maids (Sus. 15). Under Herod (37–4 B.C.) Greek ideas of bathing increasingly prevailed. The hot springs at Tiberias in Galilee and at Callirrhoë by the Dead Sea were sought out as health resorts (Josephus Ant. xvii.6.5; xviii.2.3), and elaborate public baths were eventually constructed in various cities (cf. xix.7.5). Herod's temple included a bathing room for priests (Mish. Yoma iii.2), and the name of the rabbi Gamaliel is associated with the public bath of Aphrodite in Acre.

In NT times, at the Essene community of Qumrân by the Dead Sea, most of the pools that have been excavated appear to have served simply as reservoirs, though some of the smaller were probably employed for daily priestly lustrations (cf. Josephus BJ ii.8.5) and for baths before the communion meal (F. M. Cross, Ancient Library of Qumran and Modern Biblical Studies [rev. ed. 1961], pp. 67f., 85, 234). Discovered remains of actual baths confirm the inscription found in the first-century Jerusalem synagogue of Theodotos near the Pool of Siloam, which mentions its “bathing establishment for those from abroad.” Simons is willing to equate this structure with the synagogue of the Freedmen mentioned in Acts 6:9. The NT speaks of bathing in the Pool of Bethesda, for a cure (Jn. 5:7); and Christ illustrates the relationship of basic salvation to the need for daily cleansing by saying, “He who has bathed [Gk. louō] does not need to wash [niptō] except for his feet” (Jn. 13:10); cf. 1 Cor. 6:11, “You were washed [apoloūō] ... sanctified in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ....”

海附近的卡里尔荷温泉都是疗养圣地 (Josephus Ant. xvii.6.5; xviii.2.3), 许多城市最终精心设计了公共浴场 (参: xix.7.5)。希律在圣殿中为祭司建造了一间浴室 (《米示拿》, 《论圣日》 iii.2), 拉比迦玛列的名字与阿卡阿佛洛狄特公共浴场有关。 wife, and she lived with him in the palace (v. 27). After their first child died (12:14ff.) she bore him four sons (2 S. 5:14; 1 Ch. 3:5).

With the help of the prophet Nathan she rendered futile the usurpation of Adonijah and secured the throne for her son Solomon (1 K. 1:11ff.). According to Jewish tradition, Prov. 31 was written by Solomon in memory of his mother. In the genealogy of Jesus (Mt. 1:6) Bathsheba is mentioned as the former wife of Uriah and the mother of Solomon by David.

The place referred to in Acts 27:39 has been identified as St. Paul’s Bay, about 8 mi. (13 km.) NW of Valetta, on the island of MALTA. James Smith, Voyage and Shipwreck of St. Paul (4th ed. 1880), pp. 141ff., used the translation “creek” as the basis of his study, and suggested one of the two creeks on the west side of the bay. This interpretation, however, disregards the evidence that the Gk. kólpos (cognate with Eng. “gulf”), when used of the sea, means bay or gulf.

BAZLITH 巴洗律

音译：baz'lith 【希伯来语：bašlîṭ】（尼 7:54）；BAZLUTH（“巴洗律”）【bašlûṭ】（拉 2:52）；【希腊语：basalōtī】（拉 5:31）；《钦定版圣经》译为 BASALOTH；《新英文译本》译为 BAALOTH，汉译均为“巴洗律”。家族首领，巴洗律的子孙和其他尼提宁同所罗巴伯回到了耶路撒冷。

del'ē-əm [Heb. bēdōlah; Akk. budulḥu—‘Indian myrrh’]; NEB also “gum resin” (Nu. 11:7). A word that occurs twice in the Pentateuch: (1) in Gen. 2:12, in conjunction with gold and onyx, as a product of the land of HAVILAH, and (2) in Nu. 11:7, where the manna is likened to this substance in appearance. Cognate terms favor an identification with a resinous gum, which in droplet form might resemble stones or a pearl, depending on the color of the exudation.

BDELLIUM 珍珠

音译：del'ē-əm 【希伯来语：bēdōlah；阿卡德语：budulḥu——“印度没药”】；《新英文译本》还译为“gum resin”（“珍珠”，民 11:7）。《摩西五经》中提到过这个词两次：（1）《创世记》2:12 中同时提到了珍珠、金子 and 红玛瑙，珍珠是哈腓拉（HAVILAH[哈腓拉]）土地上的出产物，（2）《民数记》11:7 中的吗哪看起来像珍珠。这个词的同根词表明，这节经文中的珍珠应该是一种树脂，水滴形状的树脂像宝石或珍珠，但这要取决于这种分泌物的颜色。

BEADS

[Heb. kûmāz—some kind of golden ornament] (Nu. 31:50); AV TABLETS; NEB PENDANTS. Articles of gold jewelry, possibly pectorals, necklaces, or breastplates. See also ARMLET.

bē-ā-lī'ā [Heb. b^e'alyā]. A former friend of Saul who joined David at Ziklag (1 Ch. 12:5).

BEALOTH

bē'ā-loth [Heb. b^e'ālōt].

1. An unidentified city of Judah in the Negeb (Josh. 15:24), perhaps Baalath-beer.

2. AV, NEB, ALOTH. One of the places in Solomon's eleventh administrative district (1 K. 4:16), possibly the same as 1.

BEAM.

(1) [Heb. mānōr]. A part of a loom, used in comparison to indicate the great size of the spears carried by the enemy soldiers who were defeated by the heroes of Israel (1 S. 17:7; 2 S. 21:19; 1 Ch. 11:23; 20:5).

(2) Translation of a variety of building terms, all referring to constructional beams used in buildings for roofings, upper floors. See also ARCHITECTURE.

书中提到的“岸”指的是加利利海的海岸；《使徒行传》中的“岸”指的是地中海海岸。

BEACON 旗杆

见 STANDARD (纛、旗、模范)。

BEADS 手钏

【希伯来语：kûmāz——某种金饰】(民 31:50)；《钦定版圣经》译为 TABLETS；《新英文译本》译为 PENDANTS，汉译均为“手钏”。这个希伯来词语指的是黄金饰品，可能是胸饰、项链或胸甲。另见 ARMLET (臂环)。

BEALIAH 比亚利雅

音译：bē-ā-lī'ā 【希伯来语：b^e'alyā】。比亚利雅是扫罗的旧知，他在洗革拉跟随了大卫（代上 12:5）。

BEALOTH 比亚绿、亚绿

音译：bē'ā-loth 【希伯来语：b^e'ālōt】。

1、比亚绿是犹大南边的一座无法确定位置的城市（书 15:24），可能就是巴拉特比珥。

2、《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》中译为 ALOTH（“亚律”）。亚绿是所罗门第 11 个行政区中的一个地名（王上 4:16），可能就是比亚绿。

BEAM. 机轴、梁、栋梁、横梁、梁木

(1) 【希伯来语：mānōr】。机轴是织布机上的一个部件，经文中将以色列敌人所拿的枪杆比作织布机的机轴，这表明，这些枪杆尺寸很大，但以色列的勇士最终打败了这些敌人（撒上 17:7；撒下 21:19；代上 11:23；20:5）。

(2) 梁是对各种建筑术语的翻译，所有的术语指的都是建筑屋顶上的房梁。另见 ARCHITECTURE（建筑风格、建筑学）。

- (a) [Aram. 'ā']; AV TIMBER. A punishment for anyone who altered the king's edict was that "a beam shall be pulled out of his house" (Ezr. 6:11; AV "timber"). (a)【亚兰语: 'ā'】;《钦定版圣经》译为 TIMBER (“梁”)。无论谁更改了王的命令,“必从他房屋中拆除一根梁来”(拉 6:11;《钦定版圣经》译为“timber”[“梁”])。
- (b) [Heb. gēb]. Part of the ceiling (1 K. 6:9). (b)【希伯来语: gēb】。栋梁,是天花板的一部分(王上 6:9)。
- (c) [Heb. kāpīs]. Used in Hab. 2:11 in the protest of inanimate things against sin. (c)【希伯来语: kāpīs】。《哈巴谷书》2:11 中使用了栋梁一词,这说明连无生命的东西都要出声告发他们的罪。
- (d) [Heb. k^erutōt]; NEB LENGTHS. Lit. "lengths"; cedar used in building courts and the House of the Forest of Lebanon, laid upon courses of stone or pillars (1 K. 6:36; 7:2, 12). (d)【希伯来语: k^erutōt】;《新英文译本》译为 LENGTHS (“木”)。字面含义是“长度”;指的是建造宫殿和黎巴嫩林宫的香柏木,这些香柏木要放在多层石头或柱子的上面(王上 6:36; 7:2, 12)。
- (e) [Heb. qōrā]; NEB also RAFTERS. Literally "a thing meeting another" (2 Ch. 3:7; Cant. 1:17). (e)【希伯来语: qōrā】;《新英文译本》还译为 RAFTERS (“栋梁”)。这个词的字面含义是“衔接之物”(代下 3:7; 歌 1:17)。
- (f) [Heb. qōrā]; AV also FLOOR. Timber purchased for buildings (2 Ch. 34:11; Neh. 2:8). (f)【希伯来语: qōrā】;《钦定版圣经》还译为 FLOOR (“栋梁”)。指买来用于修补殿宇的横梁(代下 34:11; 尼 2:8)。
- (g) [Heb. qārā]; NEB also TIE-BEAM. Part of a gate (Neh. 3:3, 6); also used of the work of God (Ps. 104:3). (g)【希伯来语: qārā】;《新英文译本》还译为 TIE-BEAM (“横梁”)。横梁属于门的一部分(尼 3:3, 6);立栋梁还可以用来表示上帝的工作(诗 104:3)。
- (h) [Gk. toichos]. The AV, RSV, and NEB follow the LXX in 1 K. 6:6. (h)【希腊语: toichos】。梁木:《钦定版圣经》《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》的《列王纪上》6:6 遵循《七十士译本》中的翻译,将这个词译为梁木。

BEANS

[Heb. pôl; Gk. kýamos]. A valuable article of ancient diet cultivated throughout the entire Near East. The beans of 2 S. 17:27f.; Ezk. 4:9 are undoubtedly the broad beans (Faba vulgaris Moench). The sowing took place in the autumn, and the crop was harvested just after the barley and wheat. The beans were threshed and winnowed like the other cereals, and while sometimes eaten raw, they were often cooked with oil and meat.

[Heb. dôb, dôb; cf. Arab. dubb; Gk. árktos]. Mentioned in 1 S. 17:34-37, where David tells Saul how as a shepherd boy he had overcome a lion and a bear. In 2 K. 2:24 it is related that two she-bears came out of the wood and tore forty-two of the children who had been mocking Elisha. All the other references to bears are figurative; cf. 2 S. 17:8; Prov. 17:12; 28:15; Isa. 11:7; 59:11; Lam. 3:10; Dnl. 7:5; Hos. 13:8; Am. 5:19; Rev. 13:2.

The Syrian bear, sometimes named as a distinct species, Ursus Syriacus, is better to be regarded as merely a local variety of the European and Asiatic brown bear, Ursus arctos. The figurative references to the bear take account of its ferocious nature, especially in the case of the bear robbed of her whelps (2 S. 17:8; Prov. 17:12; Hos. 13:8). Her transformation in the messianic age is envisaged in Isa. 11:7.

叙利亚的熊有时也被当做一种独特的物种，即叙利亚棕熊（拉丁学名：Ursus Syriacus），其实应该仅仅将它视作欧洲和亚洲棕熊（拉丁学名：Ursus arctos）在叙利亚的本地品种。熊的凶残本性，尤其是丢了幼崽的母熊（撒下 17:8；箴 17:12；何 13:8）还具有比喻义。《以赛亚书》11:7 中预言道，在弥赛亚时代熊必将改变本性。

MEN;《新英文译本》译为 BEARING THE HUMAN LIKENESS, 汉译均为“有人的样子”。另见 BIRTH (本地、出生)。

In the OT the term used often is yālad. The RSV also renders “born” certain Hebrew expressions that are translated more literally in the AV. In Gen. 25:23, e.g., the RSV translates šné l’ummîm mimmē‘ayik yippārēdû as “two peoples, born of you, shall be divided,” while the AV gives a literal translation: “two manner of people shall be separated from thy bowels.” Similarly, in 1 K. 8:19 and 2 Ch. 6:9 the RSV renders hayyôšē’ mēh^alāšeykâ as “who shall be born to you,” while the AV gives “that shall come forth out of thy loins.” Again, the RSV renders “before you were born” for ûb^eterem tēšē’ mēreḥem (Jer. 1:5), while the AV gives “before thou camest forth out of the womb.”

《旧约》中经常用 yālad 来表示“生”的含义。《修订标准译本》还将《钦定版圣经》中更多按照字面意思翻译的内容译为了“born”(生)。如,在《创世记》25:23中,《修订标准译本》将 šné l’ummîm mimmē‘ayik yippārēdû 译为“two peoples, born of you, shall be divided”,而《钦定版圣经》照字面意思译为“two manner of people shall be separated from thy bowels”,汉译均为“两国在你腹内,两族要从你身上出来”。同样,在《列王纪上》8:19和《历代志下》6:9中,《修订标准译本》将 hayyôšē’ mēh^alāšeykâ 译为“who shall be born to you”,而《钦定版圣经》译为“that shall come forth out of thy loins”,汉译均为“你所生的”。另外,《修订标准译本》将《耶利米书》1:5中的 ûb^eterem tēšē’ mēreḥem 译为“before you were born”,而《钦定版圣经》译为“before thou camest forth out of the womb”,汉译均为“你未出母胎”。

The NT term used most frequently for “bear, born” is Gk. gennáō—sometimes in the literal sense alluding to motherhood, but also in a figurative sense referring to the beginning of the spiritual life (e.g., Jn. 1:13; 3:3-8). In Gal. 1:15 the RSV renders “he who had set me apart before I was born” for ho apherísas me ek koilías mētrós, which the AV translates literally as “who separated me from my mother’s womb” (cf. NEB “who had set me apart from birth”).

《新约》极为频繁地用“bear or born”(“生”)来翻译希腊语 gennáō, 有时借这个词的字面含义来暗指母性,但也使用这个词的比喻义来表示属灵生命的开始(如,约 1:13; 3:3-8)。在《修订标准译本》《加拉太书》1:15中,将 ho apherísas me ek koilías mētrós 译为“he who had set me apart before I was born”,《钦定版圣经》照字面意思译为“who separated me from my mother’s womb”,汉译均为“那把我从母腹里分别出来的”(参:《新英文译本》“who had set me apart from birth”,汉译相同)。

BEAR; BORNE.

The usual OT word is Heb. nāsā'. It is used for bearing punishment (Gen. 4:13), iniquity (Ex. 28:38; Isa. 53:12), shame (Ezk. 32:24), honor (Zec. 6:13); of the waters bearing the ark of Noah (Gen. 7:17), priests bearing the ark of the covenant (Josh. 3:8), an armor-bearer (1 S. 14:1), a tree bearing fruit (Joel 2:22). Other words include kūl (Am. 7:10), sābal (Gen. 49:15; Isa. 53:11; Lam. 5:7), 'āsā (2 K. 19:30; Ezk. 17:23). In Lam. 3:28 nāṭal is better rendered as in the RSV, "laid it on him." The RSV is to be preferred also at Ps. 75:3 ("keep steady," tākan) and Zeph. 1:11 ("weigh out," nāṭil).

In the NT the most frequent words are Gk. bastázō (bear a cross, Lk. 14:27; Jn. 19:17; one another's burdens, Gal. 6:2; cf. also 6:5, 17; Mt. 8:17; Acts 15:10; Rev. 2:2), phérō (bear fruit, Jn. 15:2), anaphérō (bear sins, He. 9:28; 1 Pet. 2:24), ekphérō (He. 6:8), phoróō (Rom. 13:4; 1 Cor. 15:49), airō (Mt. 4:6 par.), anéchomai (bear with, 2 Cor. 11:1). Gk. stégō means "endure" in 1 Thess. 3:5, and in 1 Cor. 13:7 may have the connotation "endure in silence." In Acts 27:15 antophthalméō, AV "bear up," means the ship could not head into the wind.

《旧约》中的一个常见词是希伯来语 nāsā'。这个词用来表示担当刑罚(创 4:13)、罪孽(出 28:38; 赛 53:12)、羞辱(结 32:24),也可以表示担负尊荣(亚 6:13);还可以表示水把方舟从地上漂起(创 7:17),祭司抬起约柜(书 3:8),少年拿起兵器(撒上 14:1),树木结果(珥 2:22)。其他表达上述含义的词还包括 kūl (摩 7:10)、sābal (创 49:15; 赛 53:11; 哀 5:7) 和 'āsā (王下 19:30; 结 17:23)。《修订标准译本》将《耶利米哀歌》中的 nāṭal 恰当地译为 "laid it on him" ("加在他身上")。《修订标准译本》将《诗篇》75:3 中的 tākan 译为 "keep steady" ("使……坚立"), 将《西番雅书》1:11 中的 nāṭil 译为 "weigh out" ("称"), 这两处翻译也比较可取。

《新约》中表达词含义最常用的词汇是希腊语 bastázō ("背着十字架", 路 14:27; 约 19:17; "各人的重担", 加 6:2; 另参: 加 6:5, 17; 太 8:17; 徒 15:10; 启 2:2)、phérō ("结果", 约 15:2)、anaphérō ("担当罪", 来 9:28; 彼前 2:24)、ekphérō (来 6:8)、phoróō (罗 13:4; 林前 15:49)、airō (太 4:6 平行经文) 和 anéchomai ("宽容", 林后 11:1)。《帖撒罗尼迦前书》3:5 中的希腊语 stégō 的含义是 "忍受", 而这个词在《哥林多前书》13:7 中可能表示 "默默忍耐"。《钦定版圣经》将《使徒行传》27:15 中的 antophthalméō 译为 "bear up" ("敌住"), 指的是船不能迎风前行。

wore full rounded beards, as contrasted with the desert nomads who frequently clipped or cut their beards (cf. Jer. 9:26; 25:23; 49:32; etc.). The Egyptians were clean shaven, although high officials wore artificial beards. In Babylonia and Assyria the aristocrats and rulers usually wore beards. The customary Hebrew word for beard (zāqān) was the term for “elder” or “old man.” The term šāpām (2 S. 19:24) probably referred to the moustache.

The Torah forbade trimming the edges of the beard (Lev. 19:27), though Ezekiel was told to shave off his beard as a token of coming destruction (Ezk. 5:1). Among the Semites grief was indicated by cutting off the hair and beard, while anger could be shown by plucking out hair from one’s head and beard. Mutilating the beard of another person, however, was considered an insult (cf. 2 S. 10:4; Isa. 50:6). The anointing of Aaron’s beard (cf. Ps. 133:2) was probably part of the tabernacle ritual.

摩西律法禁止以色列人“损坏胡须的周围”（利 19:27），但《以西结书》5:1 中讲道，耶和华命令以西结剃掉胡须作为耶路撒冷将被围困的预兆。闪族人以剃掉头发和胡须的方式来表达悲痛之情，拔掉头发和胡须可以表示愤怒。但损坏他人的胡须被视为一种侮辱（参：撒下 10:4；赛 50:6）。在亚伦的胡须上抹油（参：诗 133:2）可能属于帐幕中的一种礼节。

(Dt. 28:4), LION'S WHELPS (Job 28:8), "multitude of the wicked" (Ps. 74:19), etc.; NEB also CATTLE, (WILD) ANIMAL, etc. In Ezk. 17:23 the RSV includes the phrase "all kinds of beasts," based on the LXX; the MT lacks the phrase, and is followed in this by the AV and NEB.

The word "beast" has been largely replaced in English by the word "animal." Nonetheless, the RSV and NEB have usually followed the tradition of the AV in translating the terms at the head of this entry as "beast" (although the NEB sometimes uses "[wild] animal" for ḥayyâ). Some of these terms probably refer to a particular species and/or genus, but it is most difficult to distinguish their original designations today. It is probably correct, however, to say that all the "beasts" designated by these terms belong to the general category of mammals.

"Beast" often refers to any animal at all in distinction from man (Eccl. 3:18-21), reptiles (Gen. 1:24), and (sometimes) cattle (Gen. 1:30). Two common uses of beasts were for food and for sacrifices. Beasts were divided into categories of CLEAN AND UNCLEAR (Lev. 11:1-8); only the clean ones could be eaten by the Israelites. Certain kinds of animals could be used for sacrifices, and these were sometimes fattened for the special occasions (Isa. 1:11; Am. 5:22; cf. Acts 7:42; He. 13:11).

In addition to the categories of clean and unclean, beasts were divided into those of

（“走兽牲畜”，创 8:1）、CATTLE（“牲畜”，申 28:4）、LION'S WHELPS（“狂傲的野兽”，伯 28:8）、“multitude of the wicked”（“野兽”，诗 74:19）等；《新英文译本》还译为 CATTLE（“牛、牲畜”）、(WILD) ANIMAL（“野兽”）等。在《以西结书》17:23 中，《修订标准译本》根据《七十士译本》中的翻译，包括了“all kinds of beasts”（“各类走兽”）这个短语；《马所拉文本》中却省略了这个短语，《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》也遵循了这种译法。

英语单词“animal”（“动物、兽”）在很大程度上取代了“beast”这个词。但《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》通常遵循《钦定版圣经》中的译法，将本词条最前面提到的那些词语译为“beast”（但《新英文译本》有时也将 ḥayyâ 译为“野兽”）。其中的一些词可能指的是某种特殊的物种，但是今天很难确定这些词的最初含义。不过，这些词所表示的“兽”都属于普通的哺乳动物这种观点可能是正确的。

“Beast”通常指的是区别于人类（传 3:18-21）和爬行动物（创 1:24）的所有动物，有时还表示除了牛之外的所有动物（创 1:30）。牲畜有两个常见的用途，做食物和献祭。《利未记》11:1-8 将走兽分为洁净的和不清净的（见 CLEAN AND UNCLEAR[洁净的和不清净的]）；以色列人只能吃洁净的走兽。某些牲畜可以用来献祭，有时出于特殊的原因，需要献上肥畜（赛 1:11；摩 5:22；参：徒 7:42；来 13:11）。

wild and domesticated. “Wild beasts” (AV “beasts of the field”) lived outside the civil community. These animals were predacious (cf. Gen. 37:20; Dt. 28:26). To the extent that this predatory nature was also characteristic of some people, the terms “wild beast” and “evil beast” became descriptive of Israel’s enemies (Ps. 74:19; Jer. 12:9; cf. also 1 Cor. 15:32, where enemies of Paul are termed “wild beasts”). See WILD BEAST.

The term “beast” is also used for domesticated animals (though not necessarily “pets” as we think of the term). They received their food from their owners and did not have to plunder for it. Laws were formed to provide compensation for any violent act done against such animals (Ex. 22:10), and other laws proscribed any sexual activity between man and beast (Ex. 22:19; Lev. 18:23; Dt. 27:21). This anti-bestiality proscription may well have been formulated to distinguish the Israelites from the Canaanites, who are thought by some to have practiced a ritualistic copulation with beasts. (See CRIME.) Tamed animals were used for riding (Neh. 2:12, 14; Lk. 10:34) and probably also for pack purposes (Gen. 45:17; 2 K. 3:9). Furthermore, domesticated animals were subject to the laws of the sabbath (Dt. 5:14, Heb. b^ehēmā; RSV “cattle”) and of firstlings (Nu. 3:13; 8:17).

Whereas wild beasts will be the instruments of God’s judgments (Ezk. 5:17), domestic animals will be the objects of God’s wrath along with their owners (Jer. 7:20; 50:3; Ezk. 36:11). Nonetheless, when the Lord promises renewal to His people, both man and beast are included in the restoration (Jer. 31:27; 《钦定版圣经》作“beasts of the field”) 在人类生活区之外生存。它们都属于食肉动物 (参: 创 37:20; 申 28:26)。从某种程度上讲, 某些民族也有食肉的本性, 以色列的敌人被描述成“野兽”和“恶兽” (诗 74:19; 耶 12:9; 另参: 林前 15:32, 在这节经文中, 保罗的敌人被称作“野兽”)。见 WILD BEAST (野兽)。

“beast”这个词还以表示驯养的动物 (但这个词并不一定如我们所想的, 表示“宠物”)。驯养的动物可以从他们的主人那里获取食物, 因此不需要出去捕食。《出埃及记》22:10 中的律法规定, 人要因虐待动物的行为而赔还本主, 其他律法则禁止人与兽淫合 (出 22:19; 利 18:23; 申 27:21)。这种反对人兽淫合的规定很可能区分了以色列人和迦南人, 有些人认为迦南人举行人兽淫合的宗教仪式。(见 CRIME[犯罪]。)人可以骑驯养的牲畜 (尼 2:12, 14; 路 10:34), 这些牲畜还可以用来驮东西 (创 45:17; 王下 3:9)。此外, 驯养的动物也要守安息日的律法 (申 5:14, 希伯来语: b^ehēmā; 《修订标准译本》译为“cattle” [“牲畜”]), 头生牲畜要献给耶和华 (民 3:13; 8:17)。

Ezk. 36:11). See also CATTLE.

“The Beast” is used symbolically in the apocalyptic literature to represent the enemies of God and His people (Dnl. 7; Rev. 13:17). The OT already knew a metaphorical use of “beast” for enemies (Ps. 74:19; Jer. 12:9), and the apocalyptic usage may well be building on that.

Daniel in his vision saw “four great beasts” coming out of the sea, each with slightly different characteristics. “These four great beasts are four great kings who shall arise out of the earth” (Dnl. 7:17). Each shall make an onslaught against God’s kingdom, but “the saints of the Most High shall receive the kingdom, and possess the kingdom for ever” (v. 18).

John in Revelation writes of “a beast rising out of the sea” (13:1) in an obvious allusion to the Daniel passage. John’s “beast,” however, is a composite figure that combines many of Daniel’s characteristics into one. This seven-headed beast receives his authority from the dragon (Rev. 12:3; 13:4) and symbolizes the last enemy of God and His people (cf. Ps. 74:13f.). Yet another “beast” arises, but this one from the earth (Rev. 13:11ff.). This “lesser” beast seeks devotees for the “greater” beasts, and is referred to as the “false prophet” (16:13; 19:20; 20:10). The beast and this false prophet harass the Church but finally receive their decisive judgment (19:20) at Christ’s appearing (cf. 2 Thess. 2:6ff.).

但以理在异象中看见了“四个大兽”从海中上来，而且它们在特征上稍有不同。“这四个大兽就是四王将要在世上兴起”（但 7:17）。每个兽都将攻击神的国，“然而，至高者的圣民，必要得国享受，直到永永远远”（但 7:18）。

约翰在《启示录》13:1 中写道，“一个兽从海中上来”，这显然暗指了《但以理书》中的经文。然而，约翰描述的“兽”是一个组合形象，这只兽同时具有《但以理书》中四兽的很多特征。这只七头兽从那条龙那里得了权柄（启 12:3；13:4），它象征着神和祂的子民的最后的敌人（参：诗 74:13-14）。不过，另有一个“兽”从地中上来（启 13:11 起）。这个“小”兽为“大”兽寻找信徒，它就像“假先知”一样（启 16:13；19:20；20:10）。这只兽和假先知侵扰着教会，但在基督到来的时候（参：帖后 2:6 起），他们终将面临可怕的审判（启 19:20）。

BEATITUDES.

Statements of blessedness, particularly those at the beginning of Jesus' great discourse commonly called the Sermon on the Mount (Mt. 5) or Sermon on the Plain (Lk. 6).

I. The Name.-The word "beatitude" is not used in the English Bible. It derives from the Lat. beatitudo, used by the Vulgate in Rom. 4:6, 9, where, with reference to Ps. 32:1f., David is said to pronounce a "beatitude" upon a certain type of man. "Beatitude" originally meant simply "blessedness," "happiness," "felicity." In church usage the term came to refer to biblical declarations of blessedness (makarisms), particularly the Psalms (32:1f.; 41:1; 65:4; etc.), but especially Jesus' pronouncements of blessing (Mt. 11:6; 13:16; 16:17; 24:46; Lk. 7:23; 10:23; 11:27f.; 12:37f., 43; Jn. 13:17; 20:29). Finally the plural form became the common designation for the series of blessings beginning both accounts of Jesus' great sermon. These beatitudes regularly consist of two clauses, the first pronouncing blessedness upon a certain type of person, the second giving the reason or ground for such blessedness: "Blessed ..., for..."

II. The Differing Forms.-Comparison of the two collections of beatitudes (Mt. 5:3-12; Lk. 6:20-23 [24-26]) immediately reveals their resemblances and differences. The ordinary reader, most familiar with Matthew's version, will

八福是关于福的讲论, 尤指耶稣在登山宝训(太 5) 或平原宝训(路 6) 开始时所作的重要教导。

I. 八福的名称。英语《圣经》中没有这个词。这个词源于拉丁语 beatitudo, 《武加大译本》的《罗马书》4:6, 9 和《诗篇》32:1-2 中使用了这个词, 在这两段经文中, 大卫称某一类人是“有福的”。“Beatitude”一词最初的含义仅为“福气”、“喜乐”和“幸福”。教会用这个词来表示《圣经》中宣告的“福”(八福), 特别是《诗篇》32:1-2; 41:1; 65:4 等经文中宣告的“福”, 尤其是耶稣宣告的福(太 11:6; 13:16; 16:17; 24:46; 路 7:23; 10:23; 11:27-28; 12:37-38, 43; 约 13:17; 20:29)。最终, 用这个词的复数形式来表示起始于耶稣宝训的一连串的祝福。这八福通常由两个子句构成, 第一个子句是对某一类人的祝福, 第二个子句给出了得到祝福的原因: “……是有福的, 因为……”。

II. 关于八福的不同表述形式。如果对比《马太福音》和《路加福音》对八福的阐述(太 5:3-12; 路 6:20-23[24-26]), 就会发现它们之间的异同。最熟悉《马太福音》中的八福的普通读者, 首先会注意到两段经文描述上的差异, 而且会

notice first the differences, and will be apt to account for the discrepancy of the two reports as Augustine did, by assigning them to distinct occasions in the Lord's ministry. However, careful comparative study of the two passages raises serious questions regarding such a view. Some have proposed a varying oral tradition to account for the differences, but most scholars conclude that these are two versions of material drawn by the Evangelists from an underlying source consisting of sayings of Jesus (see SYNOPTIC GOSPELS). Numerous scholarly studies and proposals concern the extent of each Evangelist's freedom in using the hypothetical source and the possibility that the source itself had a prior redactional history. But the hosts of hypotheses have not yielded much scholarly consensus on the origin of the two collections or their present differences.

The form of the two collections differs markedly. Luke has a very balanced and orderly form: four blessings followed by four woes—the woes being exact counterparts to the respective blessings (blessed are you poor, woe to you that are rich; blessed are you that are hungry now, woe to you that are full now; etc.). Both the blessings and the woes are addressed directly to the audience in the 2nd person. Matthew on the other hand, has a series of eight blessings in the more general 3rd person, followed by a ninth blessing in the direct 2nd person form. As to content, Luke's first is the same as Matthew's first; Luke's second equals Matthew's third; Luke's fourth matches Matthew's ninth. Luke's third has no counterpart in Matthew; and Matthew's second, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth have no counterparts in Luke.

Although Greek literature has a few formulations that suggest beatitude collections, more likely antecedents to Matthew's and Luke's forms are found in the OT and other Jewish literature. Schweizer (p. 122) sees Luke's form as part of a continuation and gradual expansion of the prophetic-apocalyptic tradition of pronouncing series of woes on the hearers. Dodd has found precedents for both versions in the OT and Jewish literature. For Luke's antithetical scheme he cites Eccl. 10:16f. and rabbinic uses in T.B. Berakoth 61b and Yoma 87a. Dodd concludes, "The Lucan beatitudes and woes, forming a unitary whole, are composed on a well-established literary pattern" (p. 4). Dodd has more difficulty in finding parallels for Matthew's form, but he notes that some of the Psalms have at least a series of two beatitudes, e.g., Ps. 32:1f.; 84:4f., 12; sometimes the whole Psalm is simply an expansion of an initial beatitude, e.g., Ps. 112. But the closest literary analogy to Matthew's form he finds in Sir. 25:7-11, where, although the actual beatitude formula occurs only twice, in effect there is a series of ten beatitude statements. Dodd finds that "Matthew and the son of Sirach are composing within the same literary genre" (p. 7). He advises caution in drawing conclusions from the two literary forms of the Beatitudes: "Perhaps we can with confidence say little more than that when the tradition emerges into our ken, the Beatitudes had already taken two diverse forms represented by Matthew and Luke respectively. In that sense both are 'primitive'. But whether these traditional forms reflect distinct modes of presentation by the Lord himself on different occasions, or whether they developed in the course of giving shape to the Church's recollections of his teaching, is a question more difficult to answer" (pp. 9f.).

III. The Differing Emphases.-The beatitudes in the two collections as well as the single pronouncements of beatitudes found throughout the NT are expressions of the distinctive religious joy that comes to one sharing in the salvation of the kingdom of God. The beatitudes often resemble sacred paradoxes. For those who are citizens of God's kingdom, human estimations and values are radically reversed: the hungry, the meek, and weeping, the persecuted are pronounced blessed. In striking ways the beatitudes present the consolation and the challenge of the kingdom that Christ was bringing.

A. Luke. The beatitude collections in Matthew and Luke betray different emphases. Luke's emphasis is on the great reversal in personal and social relationships that the arrival of the kingdom will bring. The contrast between the present situation and that to come is expressed by the future tense of the verbs and is heightened by the fourfold occurrence of "now" in vv. 21 and 25. It is further heightened by the woes upon the counterparts of the blessed and the portrayal of the great reversal to come upon them in the eschaton. The poor, the hungry, the weeping, and the hated are pronounced blessed, but the rich, the full, the jovial, and the well-accepted are candidates for woe. Luke's words suggest social categories; no qualifying terms suggest religious commitment or a spiritualizing of the stance.

III. 两种表述的不同侧重点。两个版本的八福和整部《新约》对八福的一次次宣告是那些得到救赎进入神的国的信徒对独特宗教喜乐的表述。八福通常类似于宗教上的悖论。对于天国中的子民来说,人类的估价和价值将从根本上被颠覆:饥饿的人、温柔的人和哀哭的人被称为有福的人。八福以显著的方式呈现了基督带来的安慰和对地上王国的挑战。

A. 《路加福音》中的八福。《马太福音》和《路加福音》中的关于八福的表述侧重点各有不同。《路加福音》中的八福强调,神的国来临时个人和社会关系将面临大逆转。《路加福音》以动词的将来时对比了今世和将来的世界,《路加福音》6:21-25以四个“now”(“现在”)增强了这种对比。并以福祸对照和对末世大逆转的描述进一步增强了这种对比。贫穷的人、饥饿的人、哀哭的人和被恨恶的人被称为有福的人,而富足的人、饱足的人、喜乐的人和受欢迎的人将面临灾祸。没有一个限定词能表明这是宗教上的应许或立场的属灵化。

In Luke the sermon containing this beatitude collection is delivered on the plain where Jesus meets the crowds, after having returned from the hills where he chose his twelve disciples (6:17). Hence, Luke gives the sermon a general thrust, and it seems to speak of the broadest categories—the poor, the rich. His version is thus open to misunderstanding as presenting an “opiate of the people” type of religion: the poor and weeping will get their reward in the next life. The fact that Jesus “lifted up his eyes on his disciples” (v. 20a) immediately before speaking the beatitudes and woes in Luke’s account does not limit Jesus’ words to being specific instruction for the disciples alone. Their whole content is the broad address to the crowds on the plain.

Dupont proposes that the theological milieu for the Lucan beatitudes is not so much the Galilean plain, the mixed crowd, and the imminence of the messianic kingdom. Rather, Luke sees the social condition of the primitive Church in Acts, the poor saints of Jerusalem and the outcasts of this world. Here the poor, the hungry, the afflicted, and the dishonored have a theological interpretation; they are blessed because they cannot and do not live for this world but remain faithful to the Lord as they await their pleasures in the next life. As Dupont points out, this combination of social justice and Christian asceticism, together with an expectation of greater reward in the next life than in the present messianic kingdom, is typical of Luke’s Gospel (cf. the rich man and Lazarus, 16:19–31; the dishonest steward, 16:1–15; the Baptist’s advice to the crowd, 3:10–14; and Mary’s song, 1:46–55). Luke’s beatitudes offer eschatological consolation to suffering

在《路加福音》中，耶稣在山上选定了十二使徒，下山之后祂就在平原上用八福教导众人（路 6:17）。因此，路加扩大了这次训诫的范围，这似乎是在教导最广大的民众——穷人和富人。因此，他的表述很容易引起误解，很像是宗教上的“精神鸦片”：贫穷的人和哀哭的人会在将来的世界得到奖赏。在《路加福音》中，耶稣“举目看着门徒”（路 6:20a），紧接着阐明了福与祸，这并不能说明耶稣的话仅仅是在教导门徒。这段话是对平原上会众的普遍教导。

Christians.

B. Matthew.-If Luke's beatitudes present eschatological consolation, Matthew's beatitudes present eschatological challenge. There is an ethical emphasis in Matthew, with no suggestion of a reversal in conditions or roles. The merciful, the pure of heart, and the peacemakers are pronounced blessed with no implications of their having afflictions from which one might anticipate alleviation. Rather, their behavior is clearly indicative of conduct that meets with God's approval and characteristic of eschatological blessedness in the kingdom of heaven. While the persecuted in Luke's setting could look forward to release from an unfavorable situation (Lk. 6:23), in Matthew's setting the persecution is "for righteousness' sake" (5:10), stressing the ethical quality of the martyr's sufferings. The next beatitude, in the 2nd person address of its Lucan counterpart, does not direct the attention of the persecuted to "that day" as in Luke; rather, they are to "rejoice and be glad" (by implication "now") as they find themselves in the situation of the prophets before them (Mt. 5:12). The "mourners" who shall be "comforted" (5:4) are reminiscent of the many during prophetic times who mourned over the sins of the covenant people and whom the prophets promised comfort (cf. Isa. 57:18; 61:2f.; Joel 2:12-14). Mourning thus suggests the present life of penitence for personal and national sin.

Nowhere is the ethical emphasis of Matthew's collection seen more clearly than in his beatitudes about the poor and the hungry. The poor in Matthew are "the poor in spirit," the pious and humble poor

B. 《马太福音》中的八福。如果说《路加福音》中的八福带来了末世的安慰，那么《马太福音》中的八福则呈现出了末世的挑战。《马太福音》中的八福侧重于道德方面，并未显示出对生存状况或社会角色的颠覆。怜悯的人、清心的人和使人和睦的人被称为有福的人，经文中并未暗示出他们遭受了苦难，并且期望可以减轻痛苦。相反，他们的行为表明了上帝认可的行为和天国中末世之福的特点。虽然《路加福音》中的那些受逼迫的人盼望摆脱艰难处境（路 6:23），但《马太福音》中却说“为义”而遭受逼迫（太 5:10），这强调了殉道者所遭受的苦难的道德特点。马太接着以第二人称描述了另外一个福，在《路加福音》中可以看到对应的表述，但马太并不像路加那样，指引受逼迫者盼望“那日”的到来；相反，他们应当“欢喜快乐”（暗示出他们“现在”就应该喜乐），因为他们以前的先知也同样遭受着逼迫（太 5:12）。“哀恸的人”必得“安慰”（太 5:4），这些人令人回忆起先知时期的伤心之人，他们为约民所犯的罪而哀恸，先知们应允道，他们必将得安慰（参：赛 57:18； 61:2-3； 珥 2:12-14）。因此，哀痛是在痛悔个人和民族今世所犯的罪。

of a host of OT passages. By the times of later Isaiah, Jeremiah, and the postexilic Psalms, the term “poor” could be the practical equivalent of “the truly devout Israelite.” Their poverty in spirit contrasts not with material riches or intellectual wealth, but with those who are rich in religious knowledge and achievement (TDNT, VI, 401 [E. Schweizer]). Matthew’s poor are those whose sole help is God and who stand poverty-stricken in their own achievements. They are the humble and lowly as opposed to the Pharisees with their self-esteem and religious accomplishments. As for the hungry, in Matthew they hunger and thirst for righteousness. Hunger and thirst are spiritualized, indicating a driving desire for righteousness. Whether this righteousness is that which is the gift of salvation from God, or the righteousness that is the human activity of actualizing God’s ways in our lives, is a question for continued scholarly debate (cf. Strecker, p. 265, and n. 1). Either way, the beatitude has an ethical thrust, for the righteousness that is a gift yields the activity of actualizing that salvation which has been given.

Matthew’s beatitudes suggest more clearly than Luke’s the inaugurated presence of God’s kingdom in Jesus’ present ministry. Luke stresses the future consummation of the kingdom that will come with the great reversal. Matthew’s collection begins and ends (except for the added 2nd person beatitude) with the promises “for theirs is the kingdom of heaven” (vv. 3, 10). Clearly this is programmatic for the construction of the Matthean series. Matthew’s beatitudes proclaim eschatological fact and eschatological promise. They present the challenge to actuate here and now what is ours as citizens of God's kingdom through Christ. However the differing forms of the two collections in Matthew and Luke are to be accounted for, there are clearly two distinct emphases. The two collections reflect the two poles of the "already but not yet" nature of God's kingdom through Christ.

《马太福音》中的八福比《路加福音》中的八福更清晰地显示出，耶稣现在的传道揭开了神国的序幕。路加强调神的国将在未来圆满地呈现出来，并且这王国将伴随着大逆转来到。《马太福音》中的八福以“天国是他们的”（太 5:3, 10）这个应允开始和结束（除了以第二人称表述的那个“福”）。这显然是《马太福音》中一连串福的总纲。《马太福音》中的八福宣告了末世的事实和应许。这些福展现出了挑战，从而激励我们这些藉着基督成为天国子民的人勇敢地面对我们的挑战。然而，必须对《马太福音》和《路加福音》中的两种不同

【希伯来语: yāpeh, yōpī, tip'ārā, nō'am, hādār, hesed (赛 40:6), mar'eh (赛 53:2), hōd (何 14:6) 等】; 《钦定版圣经》译为 GOODLINESS (“美容”, hesed)、GLORY (“华美”, 赛 62:3) 等; 《新英文译本》还译为 GRANDEUR (“尊荣”)、DIGNITY (“尊荣”)、SPLENDOUR (“尊荣”)、“perfume” (“香味”, 赛 3:24) 等; 【希腊语: timē】(罗 9:21); 《钦定版圣经》还译为 HONOUR (“尊荣”); 《新英文译本》译为 “to be treasured” (“贵重的”); 【euprépeia】(雅 1:11); 《钦定版圣经》译为 “grace of fashion”; 《新英文译本》译为 “what was lovely to look at”, 汉译为 “美容”。《圣经》中的这些词语和它们的同根词描述了美丽的形象, 却系统阐述关于美的理论命题。

The Hebrews appreciated the aesthetic values of nature in Palestine (cf. Ps. 16:6; Jer. 3:19), but also saw beauty in Zion (Ps. 50:2; Lam. 2:15) and even in such places as Egypt (Ezk. 31:1ff.) and Tyre (Ezk. 27:1ff.). The handsome qualities of men such as David (1 S. 16:12), Absalom (2 S. 14:25), Daniel (Dnl. 1:4, 15) and others were paralleled by the feminine beauty of Sarai (Gen. 12:11, 14), Rebekah (Gen. 24:16; 26:7), Abigail (1 S. 25:3), and numerous others. The bride of Cant. 4:1-6 was the epitome of womanly beauty. Various parts of the body were credited with beauty, such as the lips (Cant. 4:3), the hair (4:1), and the neck (cf. Hos. 10:11), while elegant clothing of various kinds also had aesthetic appeal (cf. Gen. 41:42; 45:22; Ex. 26:36; 28:2, 40; Mt. 17:2; Rev. 3:4f.; etc.).

While the Hebrews did not build magnificent structures on the scale of other nations, they expressed their aesthetic values in a variety of arts and crafts, and were outstanding musicians in the ancient Near East. Their speech, and especially their poetry, manifested a beauty and delicacy of linguistic expression that has seldom been exceeded. Beauty is accepted in Scripture as a concomitant of divine creativity, and thus it is hardly surprising that it plays so important a part in the eschatological passages of Revelation.

The biblical terms for the adjective “beautiful” include Heb. yāpeh (AV usually “fair”; NEB also “comely,” “fine,” etc.), tôb mar’â (AV “fair”), hemdâ (AV “pleasant”), tip’arâ (NEB also “loveliest,” “glorious,” etc.), sebi (AV also “fair”); Gk. hōraios (NEB also “well,” “welcome”), kalos (AV “good”; NEB “fine”), asteios (AV “fair,” “proper”; NEB “pleasing,”

希伯来人既欣赏巴勒斯坦自然美景（参：诗 16:6；耶 3:19），又看到了锡安山（诗 50:2；哀 2:15），甚至是埃及（结 31:1 起）和推罗（结 27:1 起）的美景。大卫（撒下 16:12）、押沙龙（撒下 14:25）、但以理（但 1:4, 15）等人的英俊容貌可以与撒莱（创 12:11, 14）、拉结（创 24:16；26:7）、亚比该（撒上 25:3）等众多女子的美貌相媲美。《雅歌》4:1-6 中的新娘是一个典型的美女。身体上各个部分都可以用美来形容，如嘴唇（歌 4:3）、头发（歌 4:1）和脖子（参：何 10:11），而且各种优雅的服饰也具有美感（参：创 41:42；45:22；出 26:36；28:2, 40；太 17:2；启 3:4-5 等）。

《圣经》中表示“美丽的”词语包括希伯来语 yāpeh（《钦定版圣经》通常译为“fair”[“美丽的”]；《新英文译本》还译为“comely”[“俊美的”]、“fine”[“精美的”]等）、tôb mar’â（《钦定版圣经》译为“fair”[“美丽的”]）、hemdâ（《钦定版圣经》译为“pleasant”[“美的”]）、tip’arâ（《新英文译本》还译为“loveliest”[“优美的”]、“glorious”

“fine”). The terms for the verb “beautify” include Heb. yāpā (AV “make yourself fair”), pā’ar (NEB “add glory,” “bring glory”).

[“荣耀的”]等)和 ṣebī (《钦定版圣经》译为“fair”[“美丽的”]), 希腊语 hōraios (《新英文译本》译为“well”[“良好的”]、“welcome”[“悦纳的”])、kalós (《钦定版圣经》译为“good”; 《新英文译本》译为“fine”, 汉译均为“美丽的”)和 asteios (《钦定版圣经》译为“fair”[“美丽的”]、“proper”[“俊美的”]; 《新英文译本》译为“pleasing”[“悦纳的”]、“fine”[“俊美的”])。表示动词“使美化”含义的词语包括希伯来语 yāpā (《钦定版圣经》译为“make yourself fair”[“修饰眼目”])、pā’ar (《新英文译本》译为“add glory”[“争光”]、“bring glory”[“把荣耀带到……”])。

音译: bē’bī 【希伯来语: bēbay; 希腊语: Bēbai】。

1. AV also BABI; NEB also BABI, BEBAE. The head of a family that returned with Ezra to Jerusalem (Ezr. 8:11; 1 Esd. 8:37). One of his descendants was Zechariah, the son of Bebai (Ezr. 8:11; 1 Esd. 8:37). Of his descendants, 623 returned with Zerubbabel to Jerusalem (Ezr. 2:11; 1 Esd. 5:13; Neh. 7:16 gives the number 628); some of these had married foreign wives (Ezr. 10:28; 1 Esd. 9:29).

1、《钦定版圣经》还译为 BABI; 《新英文译本》也译为 BABI 和 BEBAE, 汉译均为“比拜”。一个家族的首领, 这个家族同以斯拉一起回到了耶路撒冷(拉 8:11; 拉一 8:37)。属比拜的子孙有比拜的儿子撒迦利亚(拉 8:11; 拉一 8:37)。比拜的 623 个子孙同所罗巴伯归回了耶路撒冷(拉 2:11; 拉一 5:13; 尼 7:16, 这些经文中给出的数字是 628); 其中一些子孙娶了外邦妻子(拉 10:28; 拉一 9:29)。

2. A chief of the people who sealed the covenant with Nehemiah (Neh. 10:15).

2、与尼希米一同在约上签名的民的首领(尼 10:15)。

BECHER

bē'kār [Heb. beḳer]; BECHERITES; AV, NEB, BACHRITE(S).

BECHER 比结

音译: bē'kār 【希伯来语: beḳer】; BECHERITES (“比结族”); 《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》译为 BACHRITE(S) (“比结族”)。

1. Second son of Benjamin (Gen. 46:21; 1 Ch. 7:6, 8).

1、比结: 便雅悯的第二个儿子(创 46:21; 代上 7:6, 8)。

2. Son of Ephraim, whose family is called the Becherites (Nu. 26:35); both names are omitted in the LXX. Cf. Bered in 1 Ch. 7:20.

2、比结: 以法莲的儿子, 他的家族被称为比结族(民 26:35); 《七十士译本》中省略了这个名字。参: 《历代志上》7:20 中的“比列”。

BECK

Archaic for “nod” (Gk. neúma) in 2 Macc. 8:18, AV.

BECK 点头

《钦定版圣经》的《马加比二书》8:18中出现的一个词,“nod”(希腊语:neúma)的古语表达。

BECKON

[Gk. neúō (Jn. 13:24), kataneúō (Lk. 5:7)]; NEB SIGNAL, NOD. A nod would be appropriate in the context of Jn. 13:24, but in Lk. 5:7 a more visible signal such as a motion with the arm is no doubt intended. MM can cite no clear examples of kataneúō. The AV has “beckon” for dianeúō in Lk. 1:22, where the RSV has “made signs” (so NEB), more clearly describing the situation with the mute Zechariah.

BECKON 点头、招呼、打手式

【希腊语: neúō (约 13:24), kataneúō (路 5:7)】; 《新英文译本》译为 SIGNAL (“招呼”)和 NOD (“点头”)。“点头”这种翻译符合《约翰福音》13:24 中的语境, 但《路加福音》5:7 中“招呼”是一种更为明显的信号, 如挥动手臂。莫尔顿(Moulton)和米丽根(Milligan)没有给出引用 kataneúō 的明确例子。《钦定版圣经》将《路加福音》1:22 中的 dianeúō 译为“beckon” (“招呼”), 而《修订标准译本》译为

“made signs” (“打手式”) (《新英文译本》也采用了这种译法), 这个翻译更为清晰地描述出哑巴撒迦利亚的处境。

See also GESTURE.

另见 GESTURE (动作、手势)。

BECOME; BECOMING; BECOMINGLY.

The notion of the fitting, the suitable, the proper, is not unknown to the Bible. The Heb. nā'weh, “fitting” or “beautiful,” occurs in Prov. 17:7, “Fine speech is not becoming to a fool”; the same word occurs in 19:10, “It is not fitting for a fool to live in luxury,” and 26:1, “honor is not fitting for a fool.” The NEB has “out of place” in the first two instances and “unseasonable” in 26:1. Cf. Ps. 33:1. Ps. 93:5, AV, reads “Holiness becometh thine house”; the RSV reads “befits” (nā'ā).

In the NT occurs Gk. prépei, “it is proper, fitting” (Mt. 3:15; Eph. 5:3; 1 Tim. 2:10; Tit. 2:1; He. 2:10; 7:26), translated “become” in the AV, as is axiōs, “worthily,” in Rom. 16:2; Phil. 1:27. See FIT. The word “becomingly” is used in Rom. 13:13, RSV (AV “honestly”; NEB “with decency”) to translate euschēmónōs (cf. 1 Thess. 4:12; RSV and NEB “command respect”). The Greek word means literally “in good form.” Paul was concerned that outward appearance accurately reflect the Christian’s renewed inner disposition; that the conduct of the Christian reflect Christian faith.

《圣经》中有关于适宜、合适和适当的观念。《箴言》17:7 中使用了希伯来语 nā'weh, 意思是“合适的”或“美丽的”, “愚顽人说美言本不相宜”; 《箴言》19:10 和 26:1 中使用了同一个词, “愚昧人宴乐度日, 是不合宜的”, “愚昧人得尊荣也是如此。”《新英文译本》将前两处经文中的希伯来语 nā'weh 译为 “out of place” (“不相宜”), 将《箴言》26:1 中的这个词译为 “unseasonable” (“不合宜的”)。参: 《钦定版圣经》的《诗篇》33:1 和 93:5, “Holiness becometh thine house” (“你的殿永称为圣, 是合宜的”); 《修订标准译本》将 nā'ā 译为 “befits” (“合宜”)。

《新约》中使用了希腊语 prépei, 意思是“方合、理当、相宜、合乎、合宜” (太 3:15; 弗 5:3; 提前 2:10; 多 2:1; 来 2:10; 7:26), 《钦定版圣经》译为 “become”, 而且还把《罗马书》16:2 和《腓立比书》1:27 的 axiōs 译为 “become” (“合乎、相称”), 这个希腊语词汇的含义是“合宜地”。见 FIT (相宜、合乎、相称)。《修订标准译本》的《罗马书》13:13 将 euschēmónōs 译为 “becomingly” (“端正”) (《钦定版圣经》译为 “honestly” [“光明磊落地”]; 《新英文译本》中译为 “with decency” [“端正地”]) (参: 帖前 4:12; 《修订译本》和《新英文译本》译为 “command respect” [“光明磊落地”])。这个希腊语的字面意思是“状态良好”。保罗认为, 外表能够准确地反映出基督徒更新的内在气质; 基督徒的行为可以反映出

bek'tə-leth [Gk. Baikteilaith]. A plain, described as three days' march from Nineveh, "near the mountain which is to the north of Upper Cilicia" (Jth. 2:21). But upper Cilicia is N of the Taurus Mountains, 300 mi. (480 km.) from Nineveh, and far out of the way for Holofernes, according to the route described in the following verses. Hence scholars believe either that the text has been distorted or that the author is using symbolic language. (In Aramaic, Bectileth could mean "place of slaughter.") Some scholars identify Bectileth with the Beqa', the mountain with the Anti-Lebanon, and the possible location in the region between Beirût and Damascus.

音译: bek'tə-leth【希腊语: Baikteilaith】。一个平原,根据《犹滴传》2:21 中的描述,贝克特利郊外的平原距离尼尼微有三天的路程,该平原“靠近基利家北部的山地”。基利家位于托罗斯山脉的北部,距离尼尼微城 300 英里(480 公里),根据这节经文中描述的路线,何乐弗尼没有到达这里。因此学者们认为,要么是这节经文被篡改了,要么是作者在使用象征性的预言。(在亚兰语中,贝克特利的含义可能是“杀戮地”)。有些学者认为贝克特利就是贝卡(Beqa'),是与前黎巴嫩山相连的一座山,可能是贝鲁特和大马士革之间的地区。

I. Types of Beds and Couches.—The Hebrew and Greek words for “bed” and “couch” seem to overlap in usage with little detail given as to shape and structure. At times, no doubt, the bed was the ground or a mat laid out on the ground, with the person’s garment as a covering (Ex. 22:27). But often the bed was laid somewhere in the house, sometimes in the bedchamber of the master of the house (2 K. 6:12). At other times it might be in a guest room in an upper story, i.e., a small roof chamber (2 K. 4:12; 1 K. 17:19).

I. 床榻的种类。希伯来语和希腊语中表示“床”和“榻”的词似乎可以互换使用，但这两种语言几乎没有详细地描述床和榻的形状和结构。毋庸置疑，有时大地就是床，或在地上铺上褥子作为床，睡在上面的人用自己的衣服作被子（出 22:27）。但通常情况下，床摆放在屋内，有时也摆放在屋子主人的卧房内（王下 6:12）。在其他情况下，床可能放在楼上的客房内，即屋顶的阁楼内（王下 4:12；王上 17:19）。

Beds were sometimes quite short (Isa. 28:20), but at other times they seem to have been large and off the ground (2 K. 1:4, 6, 16)—at least high enough for a lamp to be placed under them (Mk. 4:21; Lk. 8:16). The bed could be simple, a mere portable mattress belonging to a poor man (Mk. 2:4); or it could be quite elaborate, with a frame covered with silver or gold (e.g., the couches used in the palace at Shushan, Est. 1:6); cf. the “stately” (RSV) couch mentioned by Ezekiel (23:41). Some couches, as noted in Am. 6:4 and in Hezekiah’s tribute list given to Sennacherib (ANET, p. 288), were inlaid with panels of ivory. Holofernes had a canopied bed (Jth. 10:21). Josephus reports (Ant. xii.2.15) that Ptolemy Philadelphus of Egypt gave Eleazer the high priest of Jerusalem ten couches (klínai) with silver feet, along with accompanying furnishings.

有的床很短（赛 28:20），但有的床似乎很长，且离开地面（王下 1:4, 6, 16）——床与地面的高度至少足以在床底下摆放一盏灯（可 4:21；路 8:16）。床可能很简陋，穷人的床仅仅是他们随身携带的褥子（可 2:4）；床也可能很精致，上面可能还镶嵌着银或金（如《以斯帖记》1:6 中书珊宫殿的床榻）；参：《以西结书》23:41 中提到的“华美”（《修订标准译本》译为“stately”[“华美的”]）的床。有些床榻中镶嵌着象牙，如《阿摩司书》6:4 中和希西家献给西拿基立的贡物清单中提到的象牙床（ANET, 288 页）。何乐弗尼有一张挂有蚊帐的

Some beds or couches were undoubtedly portable and made with a wooden frame, e.g., the bed carried in to King Saul (1 S. 19:13, 15; cf. 2 S. 17:28); cf. also the mattress bed on which the paralytic man was carried to Jesus (Mt. 9:2; Lk. 5:18). Beds belonging to the wealthy or royalty were perfumed with myrrh, aloes, and cinnamon (Prov. 7:17), and might be covered with linen sheets or spreads from Egypt (v. 16). The Scriptures do not mention the wooden headrests connected with Egyptian beds; there is, however, the mention of a pillow of goat's hair (1 S. 19:13), or even of stone (Gen. 28:11).

II. Uses of Beds or Couches.-The most common use of the bed was for sleeping at night (cf. Job 7:13; Ps. 132:3; Lk. 11:5-8). The place of sleeping, especially in the case of royalty or the wealthy, could be in a room set aside as a bedchamber (cf. Ex. 8:3; 2 S. 4:5, 7; 2 K. 6:12). On occasion the bed was also used for taking a siesta at noon (2 S. 4:5, 7). Often the bed is referred to as the place of rest and recuperation for the sick (Gen. 48:2; Ps. 41:4; Acts 9:33); and sometimes a person sat on the bed while regaining his strength (1 S. 28:23). Being at times transportable, the pallet was used as a stretcher to carry those who were ill (Mk. 2:4, 9, 11f.; Lk. 5:18; Jn. 5:8-11). Misuses of the bed are also mentioned: the sluggard is warned against spending too much time in bed

有些床或榻一定便于携带,床架是木质的,如:抬到扫罗王那里的床(撒上 19:13, 15; 参:撒下 17:28);参:《马太福音》9:2 和《路加福音》5:18,这两节经文中提到有人用褥子作床,抬着瘫子到耶稣跟前来。富人或皇室用没药、沉香和桂皮薰他们的床(箴 7:17),这种床上可能铺着绣花布或埃及线织的花纹布(箴 7:16)。《圣经》中没有提到埃及人的床上有木制的头枕;不过,经文中提到了用山羊毛装的头枕(撒上 19:13)或石头枕(创 28:11)。

II. 床或榻的用途。床的最常见用途是在夜间用来睡觉(参:伯 7:13; 诗 132:3; 路 11:5-8)。睡觉的地方,尤其皇室或富人的睡觉的地方可能指的是用作卧房的房间(参:出 8:3; 撒下 4:5, 7; 王下 6:12)。有时还可以在床上午睡(撒下 4:5, 7)。通常情况下,床指的是休息的地方和病人恢复身体的地方(创 48:2; 诗 41:4; 徒 9:33);有时人们坐在床上恢复体力(撒上 28:23)。简陋的小床有时可以作为抬病人的担架(可 2:4, 9, 11-12; 路 5:18; 约 5:8-11)。《圣经》中还提到了滥用床的行为:警告懒人在床上呆的时间太久了(箴 26:14);亚哈王在床上生闷气(王上 21:4)。

(Prov. 26:14); King Ahab used the bed as a place to do his sulking (1 K. 21:4).

Another common use of the couch was for reclining beside a table, either while beautifying oneself with cosmetics (Ezk. 23:40f.), or while taking meals; examples of this latter use are the couch of gold and silver in the Shushan (Susa) palace (Est. 1:6), the equally luxurious couches of ivory mentioned in Am. 6:4, and the ancient dining couch of Mk. 7:4, mentioned in some early Greek MSS.

There is considerable reference in Scripture to the bed used as a place of lovemaking (cf. Nu. 31:17, 35; Jgs. 21:11f.). This could be the legitimate and God-honoring use of the marriage bed (Cant. 3:1; He. 13:4). However, the bed is also described as being defiled through incest (Gen. 49:4; 1 Ch. 5:1) or other sexually immoral acts (Ezk. 23:17; He. 13:4b), e.g., homosexuality (Lev. 18:22; 20:13; Rom. 1:26f.). The Greek word koitē, which can have the general meaning of bed (Lk. 11:7), is sometimes used euphemistically for sexual intercourse (cf. LXX Lev. 15:21–26) or sexual excesses (Rom. 13:13, RSV “debauchery”), and in one instance refers to seminal emission in the conception of a child (Rom. 9:10).

One particularly specialized use of the bed is as a funeral bier. The Heb. miṭṭā (2 S. 3:31) and miškāb (2 Ch. 16:14) and the Gk. klīnē (LXX 2 S. 3:31; 2 Ch. 16:14; Josh. 7:20) are sometimes used in this sense in the OT; although klīnē does not occur with this meaning in the NT, it is used thus by Josephus for Herod’s golden bier studded with precious stones (Ant. xvii.8.3). Related to this usage is the figure of the grave as the bed for the individual (Job 17:13; cf. Ps. 139:8) or nation (Ezk. 32:24f.) at death. The expression, a “short bed” (Isa. 28:20), seems to be a figure for difficult circumstances.

当人们乔装打扮时(结 23:40-41)或吃饭时,会斜倚着桌案旁的床,这是床的另一个常见用途;《以斯帖记》1:6中提到了书珊宫殿中有金银的床榻,这是吃饭时用到床的一个例子,《阿摩司书》6:4中提到了奢华的象牙床。早期的某些希腊语抄本中提到了《马可福音》7:4中的古人吃饭时倚靠的床。

《圣经》中大量经文暗示出床是男女交合的地方(参:民 31:17, 35; 士 21:11-12)。婚床上的交合是合理的,也是上帝认可的(歌 3:1; 来 13:4)。但是,床也因人类的乱伦(创 49:4; 代上 5:1)或其他不正当的结合(结 23:17; 来 13:4b)而被玷污,如同性恋(利 18:22; 20:13; 罗 1:26-27)。希腊语 koitē 的一般含义是床(路 11:7),但有时也用这个词来委婉地表示男女交合(参:《七十士译本》的《利未记》15:21–26)或“好色邪荡”(罗 13:13,《修订标准译本》译为“debauchery”[“好色邪荡”]),在《罗马书》9:10中,这个词表示男人使女人怀孕。

床还可以用作葬礼上的棺架,这是床的一个特殊用途。希伯来语 miṭṭā (撒下 3:31)、miškāb (代下 16:14)和希腊语 klīnē (《七十士译本》,撒下 3:31; 代下 16:14; 书 7:20)在《旧约》中有时也用到床的这层意思;虽然《新约》中的 klīnē 没有这层含义,但是约瑟夫斯用这个词来表示希律的镶有宝石的金棺材(Ant. xvii.8.3)。与之相关的一个用法是,将坟墓比作死人(伯 17:13; 参:诗 139:8)或覆灭的民族(结 32:24-25)。

Beds are sometimes mentioned as places where acts of devotion (Gen. 47:31; 1 K. 1:47) and meditation (Ps. 63:6) are performed. Grief on account of sin against the Lord or the oppression of the enemy is also expressed in bed (Ps. 6:6).

It is not certain whether Og’s “bedstead of iron” mentioned in Dt. 3:11 is anything other than a bed for sleeping; a sarcophagus has been suggested (cf. NEB).

See A. Edersheim, Sketches of Jewish Social Life (repr. 1957), pp. 86–102.

《以赛亚书》28:20 中的“短床榻”似乎是在比喻困境。

经文中还提到，床有时可以作为“敬拜神”的地方（创 47:31；王上 1:47），有时可以作为“思想神”的地方（诗 63:6）。人们还会因悖逆耶和华或忍受敌人的压迫而在床上哀痛（诗 6:6）。

《申命记》3:11 中提到了噩的“铁床”，但尚无法确定它是睡觉用的床，还是其他用途的床；它可能指的是一种石棺（参：《新英文译本》）。

1、比但：（《钦定版圣经》，撒上 12:11）。以色列的一位首领，《马所拉文本》中提到，比但与耶路巴力、耶弗他和撒母耳救以色列民族脱离敌手。但这段经文是值得怀疑的，因为《七十士译本》、《叙利亚文译本》和《阿拉伯文译本》将这个人译名为“巴拉”（见 BARAK[巴拉]），《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》也遵循了这种译法。

BEE

[Heb. d'ḥôrâ; cf. Arab. dibr—'a swarm of bees']. Honey is mentioned many times in the Bible, especially in the OT, but the word "bee" occurs only four times, and only one of the four times in connection with honey, in the story of Samson (Jgs. 14:8). Both wild and domesticated bees are found today in Palestine; though it is not clear that bees were kept in Bible times, it would seem very probable. The frequently recurring phrase, "a land flowing with milk and honey," certainly suggests that honey as well as milk was a domestic product.

In Jgs. 14:8 it is related that Samson found a swarm of bees and honey in the carcass of the lion he had killed on his previous visit. We are not told how much time had intervened, but it does not take long in the dry climate of Palestine for scavenging beasts and insects to strip the flesh from the bones and make the skeleton a possible home for a swarm of bees.

The other three passages refer to the offensive power of bees. In Dt. 1:44 Moses says, "The Amorites ... chased you as bees do"; in Ps 118:12 the psalmist says, "They surrounded me like bees"; in Isa. 7:18, the bee is the type of the chastisement that the Lord will bring from the land of Assyria.

【希伯来语: d'ḥôrâ; 参: 阿拉伯语: dibr——“一群蜂子”】。《圣经》中,尤其是《旧约》中曾多次提到了蜂蜜,但“bee”(“蜜蜂”)一词仅被提及四次,只有参孙的故事中提到的蜂子与蜂蜜有关(士 14:8)。在巴勒斯坦地区,既可以看到野生的蜜蜂,也可以看到家养的蜜蜂;虽然无法确定在圣经时期是否有人养殖蜜蜂,但似乎这一时期有人养殖蜜蜂。经文中经常提到“流奶与蜜之地”这个短语,这表明奶和蜜是巴勒斯坦地区的本地产品。

与蜂子相关的经文是《士师记》14:8,参孙在他之前杀死的狮子的尸体内看见了一群蜂子和蜜。虽然这段经文并没有告诉我们参孙杀死狮子至发现蜂子和蜜经过了多长时间,但巴勒斯坦地区气候干旱,用不了多久,死去的野兽和昆虫的尸体就会腐烂,只剩下骨头,而它们的尸骨可能成了一群蜂子的蜂巢。

其他三处经文提到了蜜蜂的攻击力量。在《申命记》1:44中,摩西说,“亚摩利人……追赶你们如蜂拥一般”;在《诗篇》118:12中,诗篇作者说,“他们如同蜂子围绕我”;在《以赛亚书》7:18中,亚述地的蜂子是耶和华所施的一种惩罚。

音译: bē-el'zə-bub。见 BEELZEBUL(别西卜)。

BEELZEBUL 别西卜

音译: bē-el'zə-bul 【希腊语: Beezeboul 或 Beelzeboul——“高处居所的主人”; 《拉丁文译本》和《叙利亚文译本》作 Beelzebub——“苍蝇的主人”】(可 3:22, 平行经文: 太 12:24, 路 11:15; 太 12:27, 平行经文: 路 11:18-19; 太 10:25); 《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》译为 BEELZEBUB(“别西卜”, 遵循了《武加大译本》中的译法)。别西卜是撒但(可 3:26, 平行经文: 太 12:26, 路 11:18)、鬼王(太 9:34)和污鬼(可 3:30)的相对隐晦名称, 耶稣的敌人认为别西卜是一种超自然的力量, 并认为耶稣靠着这种力量行神迹。

b^e‘ēl (“master, lord”) and the Heb. z^ebul (“height, abode, dwelling”), the only Hebrew word found on the lips of Jesus in the NT. The compound name may therefore be translated “master of the (heavenly) dwelling,” and appears to have been a pejorative nickname for Jesus coined by his enemies (Mt. 10:25). This interpretation is made plausible in view of the play on words found in the saying of Jesus: “If they have called the master of the house (Gk. oikodespotēn, possibly translating Heb. ba‘al habbayit or Aram. b^e‘ēl d^ebaytā) Beelzebul (i.e., “master of the [heavenly] dwelling”), how much more will they malign those of his household.” In origin, Beelzebul may have been the name of the Canaanite god of Ekron, later altered to the opprobrious form BAALZEBUB found in 2 K. 1:2f., 6, 16; nevertheless it remains a mystery why Jerome and the unknown translators of the Syriac NT rendered the transliterated Greek name “Beelzebul” with the form “Beelzebub.” A less likely etymology of Beelzebul is reflected in the translation “lord of dung,” based on the valid contention that zbl in postbiblical Hebrew, as in Syriac and Arabic, can be translated “dung, manure.”

Jesus and many of His Greco-Roman contemporaries believed that miraculous feats were accomplished through the possession of a spirit (Smith, pp. 220ff.). Jesus regarded His own miracles as empowered by the “finger of God” or the Holy Spirit (Lk. 11:20; Mt. 12:28; cf. Mk. 3:28–30 par. Mt. 12:31f. and Lk. 12:10), while His Jewish opponents were apparently convinced that His miracles were in fact feats of magic performed through the agency of Satan or the prince of demons, i.e., Beelzebul (Mk. 3:23, 26; 耶稣和希腊罗马时期很多与耶稣同时代的人都认为藉着灵才能行神迹 (Smith, 220 页起)。耶稣认为祂靠着“神的能力”或圣灵赶鬼 (路 11:20; 太 12:28; 参: 可 3:28–30, 平行经文: 太 12:31–32, 路 12:10), 但耶稣的敌人显然认为耶稣实际上靠着撒但或鬼王, 即别西卜 (可 3:23, 26; 太 12:26; 可 3:22, 平行经文: 太 12:24, 路 11:15) 的力量行神迹, 或者说, 仅仅依靠污鬼 (可 3:29; 约 7:20; 8:48–52; 10:20), 也许是藉着施洗约翰的灵 (可 6:14–16, 平行经文: 太 14:1–2, 路 9:7–9; 参:

Mt. 12:26; Mk. 3:22 par. Mt. 12:24 and Lk. 11:15), or simply an unclean spirit or demon (Mk. 3:29; Jn. 7:20; 8:48–52; 10:20), or possibly through the spirit of John the Baptist (Mk. 6:14–16 par. Mt. 14:1f. and Lk. 9:7–9; cf. Kraeling). In the NT era it was believed that a man might be possessed and victimized by a demon, or might have a demon under his control. The accusation that Jesus “has Beelzebul” (Mk. 3:22) or that He performs miracles “by Beelzebul” (Mt. 9:34; 12:24, 27; Lk. 11:15, 18f.) clearly presupposes the second type of possession (for a similar charge against John the Baptist, cf. Mt. 11:18; Lk. 7:33). In fact, the expression “by Beelzebul” is probably a shortened form of an original “by/in the name of Beelzebul” (Samain, p. 466); according to Origen, “those who invoke Beelzebul are magicians” (In Numeros homilia 13:5). Apart from the Beelzebul passages listed above, an analogous charge that Jesus has a demon, repeated three times in the Gospel of John (7:20; 8:48–52; 10:20), also appears to be an accusation that Jesus practiced magic, as is the charge that Jesus is an impostor in Mt. 27:63 (Samain, pp. 456–464, 473–484). The depreciating charge that Jesus was a magician has been preserved in both pagan and Jewish traditions and sources (Origen Contra Celsum i.6, 38, 49, 53, 68; Justin Apol. i.30; Dial. 69.7; T.B. Sanhedrin 43a; Koran 5:113; cf. Klausner, pp. 18–47; Hull, pp. 1–4).

bē'ər [Heb. bē'ēr; Gk. phréar—'well'; Lat. puteus]. The word for "well," used as a place name, usually in compounds. Two locations are called Beer.

1. A station on the march of the Israelites N of the Arnon (Nu. 21:16), the well that the Lord had promised. It is perhaps to be identified with Wādī eth-Themed, where an adequate water supply can be easily attained by digging, and the BEER-ELIM of Isa. 15:8.

2. The town to which Jotham fled from his brother Abimelech after declaring his parable from Mt. Gerizim (Jgs. 9:21), identified as BEEROTH or as el-Bîreh (7 mi. [11 km.] N of Beth-shan).

BEERA

bē'ə-rə [Heb. bē'ērā—'well']. A descendant of Asher (1 Ch. 7:37).

bē'ə-rə [Heb. bē'ērā—'well']. A chieftain of the house of Reuben whom Tiglath-pileser carried away captive (1 Ch. 5:6). Cf. 2 K. 15:29; 16:7ff.

bēr-ē'lim [Heb. bē'ēr'ēlîm; Gk. phéar tou Aileim—'well of Elim' or 'terebinths' or 'chiefs']. A city mentioned in the oracle concerning Moab (Isa. 15:8). Some scholars identify it with BEER 1.

音译: bē'ər【希伯来语: bē'ēr; 希腊语: phréar——“井”; 拉丁语: puteus】。比珥的含义是“井”, 可以用作地名, 通常用在合成词中。有两个地方叫作比珥。

1、比珥: 以色列人从亚嫩河北部起行后途径的一个地方(民 21:16), 也是神应许赐予以色列人的一口井。比珥可能就是塞迈德干谷(Wādī eth-Themed), 在这个干谷中很容易挖出充足的水源, 也有可能是《以赛亚书》15:8 中的比珥以琳(见 BEER-ELIM[比珥以琳])。

2、比珥: 约坦在基利心山揭发他的兄弟亚比米勒的恶行后, 逃往比珥(士 9:21), 比珥被认为比录(见 BEEROTH[比录])或比拉(伯珊以北 7 英里[11 公里]处)。

BEERA 比拉

音译: bē'ə-rə【希伯来语: bē'ērā——“井”】。亚设的后代(代上 7:37)。

BEERAH 备拉

音译: bē'ə-rə【希伯来语: bē'ērā——“井”】。流便支派的首领, 后来被提格拉毗尼色掳去(代上 5:6)。参: 王下 15:29; 16:7 起。

BEER-ELIM 比珥以琳

音译: bēr-ē'lim【希伯来语: bē'ēr'ēlîm; 希腊语: phéar tou Aileim——“以琳的井”、“松脂”或“首领”】。关于摩押的预言中提到了这座城市(赛 15:8)。有些学者认为比珥以琳就是比珥(见 BEER 1[比珥 1])。

bē'ə-rī [Heb. be'erī].

1. Father of Judith, one of Esau's wives (Gen. 26:34).

2. The father of the prophet Hosea (Hos. 1:1).

BEER-LAHAI-ROI

bēr-lə-hī'roi [Heb. b'ēr lahay rō'ī—'well of the Living One that sees me,' possibly a folk etymology of a more ancient name, 'well of a jawbone of a rō'ī']. The name given to "a spring of water in the wilderness" and "the spring on the way to Shur" (Gen. 16:7-14), which was the scene of Hagar's theophany, and by which Isaac dwelt for some time (Gen. 16:7f.; 24:62; 25:11). The site is in the Negeb between Kadesh and Bered (16:14). According to Arab tradition, it may possibly be identified with modern 'Ain Muweileh about 7 mi. (11 km.) W of Kadesh-barnea and about 47 mi. (75 km.) SW of Beer-sheba.

bē'ə-roth [Heb. b'ērōt; Gk. Bērōt, Bērōth]; AV and NEB Apoc. BEROOTH (1 Esd. 5:19). A Canaanite city, one of four Hivite strongholds that followed the Gideonites in making a covenant with Israel (Josh. 9:17). Beeroth was assigned to Benjamin (2 S. 4:2f.), though located on the border between Benjamin and Ephraim.

音译: bē'ə-rī 【希伯来语: be'erī】。

1、比利: 犹滴的父亲, 犹滴是以扫的妻子之一 (创 26:34)。

2、备利: 先知何西阿的父亲 (何 1:1)。

BEER-LAHAI-ROI 庇耳拉海莱

音译: bēr-lə-hī'roi 【希伯来语: b'ēr lahay rō'ī——“那察看我的活者之井”, 可能是一个更为古老名称的民间词源, “永活神的颞骨之井”】。这个名字指的是“旷野中的水泉”和“书珥路上的水泉” (创 16:7-14), 也是神向夏甲显现的地方, 以撒曾在这个泉边住过一段时间 (创 16:7-8; 24:62; 25:11)。该地在南地境内, 位于加低斯和巴列之间 (创 16:14)。根据阿拉伯传说, 庇耳拉海莱可能是现代的艾因穆韦利赫 ('Ain Muweileh), 位于加低斯巴尼亚以西 7 英里 (11 公里) 处, 大约位于别是巴西南 47 英里 (75 公里) 处。

BEEROTH 比录

音译: bē'ə-roth 【希伯来语: b'ērōt; 希腊语: Bērōt, Bērōth】; 《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》的《次经》译为 BEROOTH (“比录”, 拉一 5:19)。迦南的一座城市, 希未人的四座城邑之一, 基遍人与以色列立约后, 这四座城中的人也与以色列立了约 (书 9:17)。虽然比录位于便雅悯和以法莲之间的境界上, 但它属于便雅悯支派的领地 (撒下 4:2-3)。

经文中提到, 非利士在基利波山打败扫

In 2 S. 4, two Beerothite brothers, Rechab and Baanah, were officers in Ishbosheth's forces and assassinated him in the seventh year of his reign. The site remains unidentified; el-Bîreh, Nebu Samwil, and Tell en-Naşbeh have been suggested.

BEER-SHEBA 别是巴

I. Significance of the Name.-The name of this venerable town means literally “the well of seven.” The Semitic words for “oath” and “swear an oath” are derived from the consonantal root of the number seven, and this etymological relationship is stressed in the biblical explanations of the name Beer-sheba. The name was first given because there Abraham and Abimelech king of Gerar swore an oath of mutual allegiance (Gen. 21:31), and the ritual of swearing involved seven ewe lambs that Abraham gave to Abimelech (Gen. 21:28–30). The covenant agreement was aimed at resolving disputes between the two parties concerning the possession of certain wells. A similar dispute is recorded concerning Abimelech and Isaac. When agreement was finally reached and the oath duly taken, Isaac received a report from his servants that a new well had successfully been dug. In honor of this occasion, Isaac named the new well šib‘á, the numeral seven (masc). “Therefore the name of the city is Beer-sheba to this day” (Gen. 26:33).

II. Geographical Situation.-The site of biblical Beer-sheba has been identified with Tell es-Seba‘, also known as Tell el-’Imshash, “mound of the wells,” located at the juncture of the Wādī Seba‘ with the Wādī Khelil. The resultant stream bed continues WSW in a winding course for about 10 mi. (16 km.) before swinging northward in a wide arc past Tell el-Far‘ah (Sharuhen) and Tell Jemmeh (probably Yurzah, known from Egyptian inscriptions), whence it continues NW, reaching the sea near Tell el-’Ajjûl (known from Byzantine sources as Beth-eglaim). The western segment of this stream bed was probably the biblical Besor; various wells, especially in the region of Tell es-Seba⁴, serve to illustrate the appropriateness of the biblical passages cited above.

I. 别是巴的意义。这座庄严的城邑的字面含义是“七物之井”。闪米特语中表示“誓言”和“起誓”的词语源于数字七的辅音词根,《圣经》在解释别是巴这个词时,强调了这种词源关系。《创世记》21:31中首次提到了别是巴,因为此时亚伯兰与基拉耳王亚比米勒起誓彼此效忠(创21:31),亚伯兰在起誓仪式中给亚比米勒七只母羊羔(创21:28–30)。为了消除双方在某些井上的争竞,他们起誓立约。经文中还记载了亚比米勒和以撒之间的类似争竞。当双方最终达成一致,彼此起誓时,以撒的仆人告诉以撒他们成功挖出了一口井。为了纪念这件事,以撒给这口新井起名叫示巴(šib‘á),即“七物之井”(阳性)。“因此那城叫作别是巴,直到今日”(创26:33)。

II. 地理位置。《圣经》中的别是巴被认为是萨巴废丘(Tell es-Seba‘),这个废丘也被称为伊姆萨巴废丘(Tell el-’Imshash),意思是“井地”,该地位于萨巴河(Wādī Seba‘)与克利勒河(Wādī Khelil)的交汇处。汇聚之后的河床继续向西南偏西方向绵延约10英里(16公里),穿过特尔埃法拉(沙鲁险)和詹米废丘(根据埃及碑文的记载,詹米废丘可能是伊尔扎[Yurzah])之后,向北蜿蜒成一条宽阔的弧线,然后继续向西北流淌,在阿朱勒废丘(Tell el-’Ajjûl,拜占庭时期的资料中称该地为“伯以基莲”)附近入海。这个河床的西段可能是《圣经》中的比梭溪;各种不同的井,尤其是萨巴废丘境内的井证明了上述经文的准确性。

Beer-sheba is located in a topographical basin, the outline of which resembles an hourglass. As it extends eastward from the coastal plain, it narrows toward Beer-sheba; from there to the crest overlooking the Dead Sea it widens once again. Thus it serves to separate the populated region on the north, where the traditional topographical division into longitudinal belts prevails, and the desert highlands on the south, where the principal ridges swing round toward the southwest. Because of this position between the Judean mountains to the north and the Negeb highlands to the south, the Beer-sheba basin is an area of deposition rather than of erosion. This accounts for its rich alluvial soil, and especially its extensive regions of loess (a very fine blown sand). The basin itself marks the southern end of the region of permanent settlement; the 300 mm. (about 12 in.) per annum rainfall line, the border of aridity, passes through it. Below this line regular agriculture could not be maintained without an artificial water supply. Therefore, the southern boundary of settlement varied from N to S in accordance with prevailing weather conditions. This territory, of which Beer-sheba was the topographical pivot, embraced the biblical Negeb.

III. Chalcolithic Culture.-Extensive Chalcolithic settlement in the immediate vicinity of Beer-sheba is evidenced by numerous small mounds on both sides of the Wādī es-Seba⁴. Each of these hillocks contained the remains of a small community of underground dwellings dug

III. 别是巴的铜石并用时代文明。萨巴河两岸的众多小土丘证明,在铜石并用时代,大量的人口定居在别是巴附近地区。每个小丘中都有一些小社区居住的遗迹,这些社区是在黄土中挖掘出的隐秘居住区。别是巴的铜石并用时代文明显然起源于南地的北部;铜石并用时 in the loess. The Chalcolithic culture of Beer-sheba evidently originated in the northern Negeb; its latest stage is closely related to that of Tuleilat Ghassul. But Chalcolithic culture in this region has no connection with any of the events or peoples referred to in the Bible even though Chalcolithic sherds have also been found at Tell es-Seba'.

IV. Patriarchal Associations.-More than a millennium separated the biblical patriarchs from the Chalcolithic occupants of Beer-sheba. The Genesis accounts make no mention of a king or even of a city at Beer-sheba. The absence of Middle and Late Bronze Age sherds from Tell es-Seba' and the immediate vicinity supports the assumption that the patriarchs encountered no sedentary population there. Accordingly, the area of Hagar's wanderings is called "the wilderness of Beer-sheba" (Gen. 21:14). The closest cultural and commercial center was evidently Gerar, whose rulers enjoyed hegemony over the Beer-sheba district. While Abraham was located on the vital artery connecting Shur (the famous Egyptian defense line on the east) and Kadesh (-barnea), he enjoyed the status of a sojourner at Gerar (Gen. 20:1). At the same time, he enjoyed water rights in the Beer-sheba area by virtue of an agreement with Abimelech, the ruler of Gerar (21:22-32). The earliest biblical reference to the sanctity of Beer-sheba is associated with this event. Soon after this covenant with Abimelech, Abraham planted a tamarisk tree at Beer-sheba; the religious nature of this act is stressed by the added statement that there he called on the name of Yahweh the everlasting God (21:33). He evidently continued to reside in that region for some time (cf. 22:19).

IV. 别是巴与族长时期的联系。铜石并用时代别是巴的定居者与《圣经》中的族长们相隔一千多年。《创世记》中没有提及别是巴的国王,甚至连这个城市都未提及。在萨巴废丘及其附近地区没有找到青铜时代中期和晚期的碎片,这证明族长时期那里可能没有人类定居。因此,夏甲所经过的地区被称作“别是巴的旷野”(创 21:14)。距离别是巴最近的文明中心和商业中心显然是基拉耳,基拉耳的统治者控制了别是巴地区。当亚伯拉罕迁至书珥(埃及人东部的著名防线)和加低斯(加低斯巴尼亚)之间的主干道上,他寄居在基拉耳(创 20:1)。同时,由于亚伯拉罕与基拉耳王亚比米勒立约,他拥有了别是巴水源的使用权(创 21:22-32)。《圣经》中关于别是巴的圣洁的最早描述与这一事件有关。亚伯拉罕与亚比米勒立约之后不久,就在别是巴栽种了一棵垂丝柳树;《创世记》21:33 进一步强调了这一行为的宗教性质,这是亚伯拉罕在求告耶和华永生神的名。他显然继续在别是巴居住了一段时间(参:创 22:19)。

A similar situation prevailed during the sojourn of Isaac in the territory of Gerar. Although Isaac dwelt for a time in Gerar itself (Gen. 26:1–16), the envy of his agricultural success and renewed disputes over water rights forced him to move, first to the “valley of Gerar” (v. 17) and finally to Beer-sheba (v. 23). Here he was able to reach an agreement with Abimelech like that formerly extended to his father (vv. 23–33). Isaac must have remained in the Beer-sheba region for a long time; the disputes between his grown sons Jacob and Esau seem to have taken place there (28:10). But upon his return to Canaan, Jacob found his father at Hebron (35:27); Jacob evidently made this latter place his own headquarters until his descent to Egypt (cf. 46:1–7).

V. Southern Extremity of Israelite Territory.—From early in the period of settlement by the Israelite tribes Beer-sheba was reckoned as the southernmost extremity of the territory, as expressed in the familiar phrase “from Dan to Beer-sheba” (Jgs. 20:1; 1 S. 3:20). The same definition was applied to the territory encompassed by Saul’s kingdom (2 S. 3:10) and maintained its validity during the reign of David (2 S. 24:2, 15; 1 Ch. 21:2). Under Solomon it served to distinguish Israel proper from the wider sphere of his dominions (1 K. 4:24f.). Even after the fall of the northern kingdom of Israel, when Hezekiah king of Judah sought to expand his own influence over the entire Israelite sphere, he had a proclamation made “from Beer-sheba to Dan” (2 Ch. 30:5). Meanwhile, Beer-sheba had represented the southern limit of the Judean kingdom, for example, under Jehoshaphat, who had exercised leadership “from Beer-sheba to Mount Ephraim” (2 Ch. 19:4). Although King Josiah had extended his own authority, at least in some measure, even as far as Galilee (2 Ch. 34:6), the immediate bounds of his own Judean kingdom extended “from Geba to Beer-sheba” (2 K. 23:8).

以撒寄居在基拉耳地区时也面临着类似的情况。虽然以撒在基拉耳居住了一段时间（创 26:1–16），他在农业上的丰收遭到了非利士人的嫉妒，另外再次出现了用水权问题，从而迫使他离开基拉耳，他首先来到了“基拉耳谷”（创 26:17），最后来到了别是巴（创 26:23）。他在别是巴与亚比米勒立约，这约就像之前他的父亲与亚比米勒所立的约（创 26:23–33）。以撒必定在别是巴停留了很长时间；以撒的儿子雅各和以扫长大之后，他们之间的纷争可能就发生在别是巴（创 28:10）。但当以撒刚从迦南回来，雅各就在希伯仑找到了他（创 35:27）；显然，在雅各下埃及之前，他一直定居在希伯仑（参：创 46:1–7）。

V. 以色列领地的南部境界。从以色列支派定居生活的早期开始，别是巴就被视作以色列领地的南部境界，众所周知的短语“从但到别是巴”就表明了这一点（士 20:1；撒下 3:20）。扫罗王国的南境界也是“从但直到别是巴”（撒下 3:10），大卫统治时期一直维持着这个境界（撒下 24:2, 15；代上 21:2）。在所罗门统治时期，以色列的领地范围进一步扩大（王上 4:24–25）。甚至在北国以色列衰落之后，此时犹大王希西家试图扩大他在整个以色列的影响力，他定的命令传遍以色列“从别是巴到但”（代下 30:5）。与此同时，别是巴代表着犹大王国的南部境界，例如，在约沙做王时，他统治了“从别是巴直到以法莲山地”的区域（代下 19:4）。虽然约西亚王扩大了他的统治权，至少扩张到加利利地区（代下 34:6），但他统治下的犹大王国的直接境界仍是“从迦巴直到别是巴”（王下 23:8）。

During the postexilic period Beer-sheba continued to mark the southern extent of Judean settlement (Neh. 11:30).

VI. Capital of the Negeb.-Beer-sheba was assigned to the tribe of Simeon (Josh. 19:2; 1 Ch. 4:28); but since that tribe had become so closely affiliated with Judah (Jgs. 1:3), the towns of Simeon also appear in the allotments made to Judah. Beer-sheba and the others are listed therefore among the towns in the “Negeb district” of Judah (Josh. 15:28; cf. vv. 21, 32). Beer-sheba’s importance as an administrative center in the premonarchial period is underlined by Samuel’s having stationed his sons there to act as judges (1 S. 8:2).

The role of Beer-sheba as capital of the Negeb, the southernmost district in David’s kingdom (2 S. 24:2; 1 Ch. 21:2), is clearly seen in the record of Joab’s census. The officials sent out to take this census went “to the Negeb of Judah at Beer-sheba” (2 S. 24:7). The same administrative arrangement seems to have prevailed under Solomon (1 K. 4:24). When the prophet Elijah wished to escape from the territory under Ahab and Jezebel’s jurisdiction, he fled south; his first stop was evidently at “Beer-sheba, which belongs to Judah” (1 K. 19:3). Perhaps it was necessary to explain which Beer-sheba was intended so as to

被掳巴比伦后,别是巴仍然是犹太人定居地的南部边界(尼 11:30)。

VI. 南地上的都城。别是巴是分给西缅支派的产业(书 19:2; 代上 4:28); 西缅支派与犹大支派交往密切后(士 1:3), 这座西缅支派的城邑也出现在犹大支派的分得之地的名单内。名单上的别是巴和其他城邑在犹大“南地地区”(书 15:28; 参: 书 15:21, 32)。别是巴是君主制前期的重要行政中心, 撒母耳很重视别是巴, 派他的儿子在那里作士师(撒上 8:2)。

从约押的人口普查记录中可以清晰地看出, 别是巴是南地的一座都城, 南地是大卫王国最南边的地区(撒下 24:2; 代上 21:2), 派出普查人口的官员来到了“犹太南方的别是巴”(撒下 24:7)。所罗门似乎也做出了相同的行政部署(王上 4:24)。当先知以利亚试图从亚哈和耶洗别的统治区逃走时, 他选择向南逃去; 他首先来到了“犹太的别是巴”(王上 19:3)。这对于区分犹太南地的别是巴和加利利的别是巴是很有必要的(Josephus BJ iii.3.1)。 distinguish this town in the Judean Negeb from another Beer-sheba in Galilee (Josephus BJ iii.3.1).

A wife of Ahaziah king of Judah, named Zibia, came from Beer-sheba. It was her son, Joash/Jehoash, who was rescued from Athaliah's cruel slaughter of the royal sons (cf. 2 K. 11:2), and who was later enthroned by a palace coup (2 K. 12:2; 2 Ch. 24:1). Under King Jehoshaphat, Beer-sheba was apparently still the administrative center of southern Judah as indicated by 2 Ch. 19:4. Two allusions to Beer-sheba by the prophet Amos indicate that a shrine was located there (Am. 5:5; 8:14). Although Beer-sheba continued to be singled out as the southern extremity of Judean territory during the reign of Hezekiah (2 Ch. 30:5) and of Josiah (2 K. 23:8), it has been suggested that the capital of the Negeb of Judah was moved late in the Iron Age to the powerful fortress at Khirbet Gharrah, about 8 mi. (13 km.) E of Beer-sheba.

VII. Postexilic Period.-The presence of a Judean population at Beer-sheba and other neighboring towns is indicated by the book of Nehemiah (11:27), and the general sphere of Judean occupation is said to extend from "Beer-sheba to the Valley of Hinnom" (v. 30). The presence of Judeans in Beer-sheba and the Judean Negeb, even though the region was practically cut off from Jerusalem by the newly arrived Edomites who had settled in the southern Judean hill country (the Idumeans of NT times), suggests that perhaps the residents of these towns (and of the others in Neh. 11:25-35) may have escaped the Babylonian Exile.

VIII. Later History.-In spite of the 犹大王亚哈谢的妻子洗比雅就来自别是巴。洗比雅的儿子约阿施躲过了亚他利雅对众王子的残忍杀戮（参：王下 11:2），后来，约阿施又通过宫廷政变登上了王位（王下 12:2；代下 24:1）。根据《历代志下》19:4 中的记载，在约沙法王统治时期，别是巴显然仍是犹大南方的行政中心。先知阿摩司曾两次提及了别是巴，这表明别是巴有一座神殿（摩 5:5；8:14）。虽然在希西家（代下 30:5）和约西亚（王下 23:8）统治时期，别是巴仍是犹大领地的南部境界，但有人提出，在铁器时代犹大将南地的都城迁至别是巴以东约 8 英里（13 公里）处的坚固要塞盖哈废墟（Khirbet Gharrah）。

VII. 被掳巴比伦之后的别是巴。《尼希米记》11:27 中指出，别是巴及其附近的城邑中居住着犹太人，根据《尼希米记》11:30 中的描述，犹太人的大致居住范围从“从别是巴直到欣嫩谷”。尽管刚刚入侵的以东人（新约时期的以土买人）实际上切断了别是巴地区与耶路撒冷的联系，并定居在犹大的山区，但是仍有犹太人居住在别是巴和犹大的南地，这表明这些城邑中的犹太居民（和《尼希米记》11:25-35 中的其他人）可能逃脱了被掳巴比伦的命运。 presence of Jewish settlements, it is quite possible that Beer-sheba had become absorbed into Idumea during the intertestamental period. Under the Romans Beer-sheba was a major military center on the defense line that spanned southern Palestine from Raphia to the Dead Sea (Eusebius Onom. 50.1).

IX. Archeological Excavations.-Besides the excavation of the prehistoric Chalcolithic settlements along the stream bed there have been several trial digs in the modern town of Beer-sheba when new buildings were being constructed. An extensive Iron Age settlement was found to exist on the western bank of the Wādī es-Seba'. Beginning in 1969, Tell es-Seba'(Modern Hebrew Tel Beer Sheva) became the subject of an intensive research project by the Institute of Archaeology, Tel Aviv University, under the direction of Y. Aharoni.

The earliest occupation (stratum VIII) is dated by painted Philistine ware to the late 12th century. Strata VII and VI represent further occupation levels of the Early Iron Age. There premonarchial remains have appeared mainly in the area beneath the later city gates. During the united monarchy (stratum V) a huge, artificial platform was created by laying down large quantities of gravel and dirt mixed with ash. A massive solid wall with salients and recesses surrounded the city. Stratum V was destroyed by fire; the city was rebuilt in the early 9th cent. B.C. and the solid wall and its gate were reused. Stratum IV was also destroyed by fire.

In the late 9th or early 8th cent. B.C. (stratum III) the city was reconstructed once again along lines similar to those of

IX. 别是巴的考古发掘。考古人员除了沿着河床挖掘了史前铜石并用时代的定居点,当新建筑开始在别是巴建立起来时,他们还多次尝试发掘现代别是巴。他们在萨巴河西岸发掘出了大量铁器时代的定居点。从1969年开始,特拉维夫大学考古协会在阿哈罗尼 (Y. Aharoni) 的指导下对萨巴废丘 (现代希伯来语称之为 Tel Beer Sheva) 展开了深入的研究。

别是巴最早的定居区 (考古地层 VIII) 是公元前 12 世纪晚期的非利士人定居区。在考古地层 VII 和 VI 发现了铁器时代早期的更多人类居住区。君主制前期的遗迹主要集中于后建城门下面的区域。在统一王国时期 (考古地层 V), 当时的人建造了一个巨大的人工平台, 平台下铺着大量碎石和泥灰的混合物。厚重而又凹凸不平的实墙围绕城市一圈。考古地层 V 是被火烧毁的; 在公元前 9 世纪这里重新建起了一座城市, 实墙和墙中的城门又被重新使用。考古地层 IV 也是被火烧毁的。 the preceding strata. However, a casemate wall was built over the remains of the former solid wall and a new gate, somewhat smaller than the older one, was constructed. The stratum III city seems to have suffered considerable damage but does not show signs of having been burned. The buildings were, for the most part, repaired and some of the floor levels were raised for the final Israelite city (stratum II). This latter occupation level was destroyed by a terrific conflagration (similar to strata V and IV), and afterwards there are only traces of a poor attempt by squatters to live for a short time among the ruins of the city (stratum I).

在公元前 9 世纪晚期或公元前 8 世纪初期 (考古地层 III), 人们又沿着与前一个地层类似的直线上建起了一座城市。

During the course of excavation, almost the entire plan of this Judean fortified center has been uncovered. In the stratum II gate house one sees rooms with plastered walls and benches round about. Through the streets ran a unique drainage system to carry the overflow water from the sudden winter rainstorms to safe storage areas outside the city gate. Inside the gate was a plaza (Heb. r^ehōb ša'ar hā'ir, 2 Ch. 32:6) from which streets led in several directions through the town. One street followed a circular course parallel to the city wall; the zone between the street and the wall was taken up with small dwelling units. The inner quarters were bisected by lateral streets and contained larger buildings of a more impressive nature. A plastered pool, probably for ceremonial purposes, was found near the center of the town. A row of three storehouses at one side of the gate plaza resembled in many details the so-called stables at Megiddo, including small holes in the corners of some of the pillars; there is no doubt today that at

几乎整个犹太防御中心的全貌在考古发掘过程中揭露出来。在考古地层 II 的门房中,人们可以看见抹灰的墙和墙周围的长凳。一个独特的排水系统从很多街道中穿过,这个排水系统将冬季突降暴雨带来的溢流水引至城外的安全蓄水池内。城门里有一个广场(希伯来语: r^ehōb ša'ar hā'ir, 代下 32:6),城中多个不同走向的街道都通向广场。有一条街道是环形的,正好与城墙平行;城墙与这条街道之间的区域建起了一些较小的居住单元。核心居住区被横向的街道一分为二,这里还有一些更大的、更引人注目的建筑。在城中心附近发现了一个用灰泥建成的水池,这个水池可能具有仪式用途。城门广场的一侧是一排储藏室,总共有三间,从很多细节上看,这些储藏室很像所谓的米吉多马厩,储藏室内的一些柱子的柱脚上还有一些小洞;毫无疑问米吉多等地的这一类型建筑是用来储藏东西的,而不是用来养马的。

Megiddo and elsewhere, the buildings of this type were for storage and not for keeping horses.

At the northeast corner of the mound a large flight of stairs was uncovered which seems to lead down into a water shaft. There is an obvious depression in the mound at this point which probably denotes the presence of an installation similar to those discovered at Megiddo and Hazor.

Small cult objects such as figurines, miniature incense altars, a broken kernos, etc., have come to light in various parts of the city. Of special interest is a krater bearing the Hebrew inscription qdš, which must represent the word qōdeš, “holy.” Epigraphic finds have generally been limited to incised personal names on vessels or fragments of ink inscriptions. One complete text, from a storehouse, bears the hieratic numerals for “fifteen” and records commodities (wine?) “from Tolad” and “from Beth-amam.” Both (El)tolad (Josh. 15:30; 19:4; cf. 1 Ch. 4:29) and Amam (Josh. 15:26) were towns in the Negeb (15:21).

The most astonishing discovery from the Israelite period thus far has been the ashlar stones of a dismantled altar. The stones were found built into a storehouse wall; horns were preserved on three of them and a fourth showed signs of having its horn broken off. Though other stones are still missing, the provisional reconstruction of the altar is quite impressive. No cultic building has, as yet, been discovered, but the only large structure oriented directly E and W (a “four-unit” dwelling plus a deep cellar) was shown to date from stratum II; its predecessor(s) had been completely removed down to bedrock and this dwelling unit built in its place. Perhaps the dismantling of the altar accompanied the obliteration of its associated temple.

在别是巴的不同地区都发现了小型的宗教祭祀用品，如雕像、微型香坛、破碎的多头陶花瓶等。特别引人关注的是一个双耳喷口杯，杯子上写有希伯来语铭文 qdš，这个词一定代表着 qōdeš 这个词，意思是“圣洁的”。一般来说，该地发现的铭文仅仅是器皿上或油墨铭文碎片上雕刻的人名。一个储藏室中发现的完整的铭文中提到了僧侣体数词“十五”，还记录着来自“多腊”和“伯亚曼”的商品名（酒[不确定]）。（伊勒）多腊（书 15:30; 19:4; 参：代上 4:29）和亚曼（书 15:26）都是南地的城邑（书 15:21）。

The date of the great devastation by fire that marked the end of Beer-sheba as an Israelite city is linked to the destruction of Lachish stratum III and Arad stratum VIII, since the pottery styles are identical in the three sites. Historically, the only reasonable date for the fall of Lachish III is 701 B.C. in the campaign by Sennacherib.

During the Persian period practically no structures were erected on the site, but the tell was used as a campground and for the storage of grain in pits. About fifty Aramaic ostraca record quantities of cereals in relation to personal names (Jewish, Edomite, and Arabian); sometimes the texts are dated.

The Hellenistic Period (strata H III and H II) saw the construction of a small fort with a temple nearby. Excavations uncovered many votive cult objects, including a Mesopotamian cylinder seal and Egyptian figurines, along with Hellenistic coins and lamps. The temple plan resembles closely the Israelite temple at Arad and the temple (also Hellenistic in date) at Lachish. The central axis was turned north of east, to line up with the summer solstice. Steps found earlier were seen to lead into the holy place; the holy of holies, if it existed, was not preserved. Two occupation phases were evident. The construction of the first cannot be earlier than ca. 125 B.C., as evidenced by three coins of Demetrius II; the second phase lasted until ca. 95–90 B.C., since Nabatean

在波斯时期，这里实际上没有建造任何建筑，这个废丘用作露营地和粮窖。约 50 个写有亚兰语的陶器碎片上记录了大量的谷物名，这些谷物与某些人名（犹太人、以东人和阿拉伯人）有关；有些铭文上还注明了日期。

希腊化时期（考古地层 H III 和 H II），该地有一座小堡垒，堡垒附近有一座神庙。从这里发掘出许多宗教祭祀用品，包括美索不达米亚的滚筒印章、埃及的雕像、希腊化钱币和灯具。这座神庙非常像以色列人的亚拉得神殿和拉吉神殿（也是希腊化时期的建筑）。神庙的中心轴被转到北偏东方向，从而与夏至时太阳的位置保持一致。更早时期的台阶通向圣地；就算这里曾存在过至圣所，也未能保存下来。这里显然经历了两段人类居住期。底米丢二世时期的三枚硬币证明，第一段居住期的建筑应该不早于约公元前 125 年；第二段居住期约持续到公元前 95 年至 90 年，因为在这里发现了亚哩达二世时期的纳巴泰人的钱币。在庭院地下的坑中发现了很多宗教祭祀用品，它们在第二阶段重建时期显然已经被废弃。

coins of Aretas II were present. Many cult objects, apparently discarded during the rebuilding of the second phase, were found buried in pits beneath the courtyard floor.

In the early Roman period (parallel to the Herodian dynasty in Judea; stratum H I) a massive structure stood on the western quarter of the tell. It included a deep plastered pool or cistern, water conduit(s), and a typical hot room for a Roman-style bathhouse.

On top of the tell and over the ruins of the Herodian-period building was erected a small fort. A coin from the age of Trajan found in the wall of this fort shows that it was built no earlier than the first quarter of the 2nd cent. A.D.

The adjacent ridge and plateau, both lower than Tell es-Seba', saw settlement at least in the late Israelite, Hellenistic, and Roman periods. It is worthy of note that late seventh-century B.C. pottery (like that of Arad VI and Lachish II) is entirely lacking on the high mound but present on the plateau below as well as in the settlement beneath modern Beer-sheba. The ostrakon from Arad stratum VI concerning a shipment of supplies to Beer-sheba and the reference to Josiah's rule "from Geba to Beer-sheba" (2 K. 23:8) evidently refer to one of these unwalled towns, since the fortified city was in ruins.

在该土丘的上方和希律时期建筑遗迹的上方建起了一座小堡垒。在这座堡垒的墙里发现了图拉真时期的一枚硬币, 这表明, 这座堡垒的建造时间应该不早于公元 2 世纪的前 50 年。

毗连的山脉和高原都比萨巴废丘海拔低, 至少在以色列后期、希腊化时期和罗马时期这些山脉和高原上有人类定居。值得一提的是, 在这个废墟上没有发现公元前 7 世纪晚期的陶器(类似于亚拉得考古地层 VI 和拉吉考古地层 II 中的陶器), 但在废墟下方的高原和现代别是巴下方的定居区中却发现了这一时期的陶器。亚拉得考古地层 VI 中出土的陶器碎片与运往别是巴的补给有关, 《列王纪下》23:8 中提到, 约西亚的统治区域“从迦巴直到别是巴”, 这显然指的是其中一座没有城墙的城邑, 因为这座坚固城已经变成一片废墟。

BEG; BEGGAR; BEGGING.

There are not OT terms for professional begging; the nearest are the expressions (Heb) baqēš lehem—“ask for bread” (Ps. 37:25) or y^enū'ûn le^ekōl—“let them wander to eat” (Ps. 59:15 [MT 16]); the NT expressions formed with Gk. aitéō have the root idea of “asking,” while ptōchós (Lk. 16:20, 22) suggests the cringing of a beggar.

BEG; BEGGAR; BEGGING. 讨饭; 乞丐; 求; 讨饭

《旧约》中没有专门用来表示讨饭的词语; 与这个含义最接近的表述是希伯来语 baqēš lehem——“讨饭”(诗 37:25) 或 y^enū'ûn le^ekōl——“走来走去, 寻找食物”(诗 59:15[《马所拉文本》16]); 《新约》中用希腊语 aitéō 来表达“乞求”的词根含义, ptōchós (路 16:20, 22) 指的是乞丐的奉承。

I. OT Times.—While there are no provisions in the Mosaic law for beggars,

I. 旧约时期的乞讨或乞丐。虽然摩西律法中没有对乞丐的规定, 但古犹太人

the practice was not unknown to the ancient Jews. It developed with the growth of the larger cities and probably arose with the intermingling of other peoples. It is associated in the OT with the wicked, for the children of the righteous never have to ask for bread: "I have been young, and now am old; yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken or his children begging bread" (Ps. 37:25).

II. Jewish Literature.-The first denunciation of beggary and alms-taking in Jewish literature is found in Sir. 40:28-30, where the Hebrew for begging is the same as in the OT. The Jewish community was forbidden to support beggars from the general charity fund (Baba Bathra 9a; Jacob ben Asher, Yoreh De'ah 250.3). However, it was also forbidden to drive a beggar away without alms (Maimonides, ha-Yad ha-Hazakah vii.7).

III. Gospel Age.-Evidence of its prevalence in the gospel age is abundant. Beggars were to be found wherever crowds assembled or passed by, as at the entrance to Jericho or the gates of the temple (Mt. 20:30; Acts 3:2). This prevalence of begging was due largely to the want of any adequate system of ministering relief, to the lack of any true medical science and the resulting ignorance of remedies for common diseases like ophthalmia, and to the impoverishment of the land under the excessive taxation of the Roman government.

[Gk. ptōchós] (Gal. 4:9). The Greek word

对乞讨的行为并不陌生。随着大城市的发展,乞讨的人越来越多,他们可能是和其他民族一融合时出现的。《旧约》将乞丐和邪恶的人联系在一起,因为义人的孩子不必乞讨:“我从前年幼,现在年老,却未见过义人被弃,也未见过他的后裔讨饭”(诗 37:25)。

II. 犹太文献中的表述。犹太文献中对乞讨和接受施舍的谴责最早出现在《便西拉智训》40:28-30中,这段经文对希伯来乞丐的看法与《旧约》中的观点一致。犹太会众不可设立日常慈善基金来供养乞丐 (Baba Bathra 9a; Jacob ben Asher, Yoreh De'ah 250.3)。然而,不施舍就赶走乞丐也是被禁止的 (Maimonides, ha-Yad ha-Hazakah vii.7)。

III. 福音时代的乞讨或乞丐。充分的证据表明,乞讨的行为在福音时代很盛行。无论是在人群聚集的地方,还是在人们经过的地方,都可以看到乞丐的身影,如耶利哥城门口或圣殿门口就聚集着乞丐 (太 20:30; 徒 3:2)。乞讨盛行主要是因为缺乏适当的救济体系和真正的医学科学知识,也因为人们忽视对眼炎等常见疾病的治疗,另外罗马征收过重的赋税而导致的土地荒芜也是造成乞讨盛行的原因之一。

has the thought of “crouch” or “cringe,” such as is common with professional beggars. It is normally translated “poor,” as in Mt. 5:3; both there and in Gal. 4:9 it means complete spiritual destitution. As used in Galatians it expresses the contrast between the Galatian Christians’ present condition and the former state toward which Paul says they are again tending. He has in mind both the Jewish and heathen systems of religion with all their outward show. He therefore emphasizes the immeasurable superiority of the riches and liberty in Christ.

Paul expresses this same thought in reference to the law in Rom. 8:3; cf. He. 7:18. In view of the wretchedness of the condition indicated by “beggarly,” he states his astonishment that they should so little appreciate the liberty and riches they now enjoy as even to think of going back to the former condition.

[chiefly Heb. ḥālal; Gk. árchomai]. Those who interpret it in many passages pleonastically mean that in such passages as “began to teach” or “began to speak,” nothing more is intended than to express vividly and graphically the thought of the dependent infinitive. Mt. 4:17; Lk. 3:23; Acts 1:1 are so understood. For contrary opinion see Thayer’s Lexicon and Winer’s Grammar of NT Greek.

希腊语词汇有“屈膝”或“奉承”的含义，在专业乞丐身上经常可以看到这种行为。通常应像《马太福音》5:3那样，将这个词译为“贫穷的”；在《马太福音》5:3和《加拉太书》4:9中，这个词都表示精神上的极度匮乏。在《加拉太书》中，这个词展现出加拉太基督徒现在的状态和以前状态之间明显的差异，保罗说他们又要回归从前的样子。他注意到加拉太人在固守犹太教和异教的束缚奴役。因此，他强调基督里的富足和自由具有不可估量的优越性。

保罗在《罗马书》8:3中谈到了律法因肉体而软弱；参：《希伯来书》7:18。“beggarly”（“贫乏的、无用的”）这个词体现出境况的悲惨，鉴于此，保罗感到很惊讶，他说道，他们不应为现在的自由和富足而感到满足，甚至不该想着回到从前的样子。

【主要是希伯来语：ḥālal；希腊语：árchomai】。有些人将很多段落中“begin”一词赘释为“开始教导”或“开始说话”，但这仅仅是为了生动形象地表达这个从属不定式的含义。同样应该这样理解《马太福音》4:17、《路加福音》3:23和《使徒行传》1:1中的这个词。关于相反的观点，见泰勒（Thayer）的 Lexicon and Winer’s Grammar of NT Greek。

eternity and quality. The temporal use is found in Ex. 12:2; etc., and is probably found also in Gen. 1:1, where the construct state probably indicates a translation such as “When in the beginning God created the heavens and the earth...” Certainly the sentence structure as well as the context of Gen. 1:1 requires that the word “beginning” be understood as the first stage of a historical process or sequence. This is the customary use of the word. Jn. 1:1, on the other hand, refers to the existence of the Word prior to creation or to any historical sequence, hence “in the beginning” is here equivalent to “before time,” therefore “in eternity.” The en archē of Jn. 1:1 is accordingly not to be equated with the b^erē’sīt of Gen. 1:1, but is anterior to the beginning of creation, as Jn. 1:3 clearly indicates. (This is not to deny, however, that the author of the Fourth Gospel may have drawn his terminology from the LXX of Gen. 1:1.) Christ is without beginning or end (He. 7:3).

The use of “beginning” to denote quality or excellence is found in Prov. 1:7, where “the fear of the Lord” is described as “the beginning,” or the best or most significant element, of “wisdom.”

Acts (13:33) in reference to His resurrection (cf. Rom. 1:4). The same passage is cited in He. 1:5 as proving Christ's filial dignity, transcending the angels in that "the name he has obtained is more excellent than theirs," i.e., the name of son; and again (5:5) of God's conferring upon Christ the glory of the priestly office.

Commentators differ as to whether the act of begetting the Son in these two passages is (1) the eternal generation, or (2) the incarnation in time, or (3) the resurrection and ascension. The immediate context of He. 1:5 (see 1:3) seems to favor the last view (Westcott). The first view would not be foreign to the author's thought; with 5:5 cf. 6:20, "a high priest forever." The author of Hebrews thinks of the eternal and essential sonship of Christ as realized in history in His ascension to the "right hand of the Majesty" (1:3). And what is emphatic is the fact and status of sonship, rather than the time of begetting.

(诗 2:7), 《使徒行传》13:33 在提及耶稣复活时引用了这句话 (参: 罗 1:4)。《希伯来书》1:5 引用这段经文来证明基督作为圣子的尊荣, 祂的地位超越了天使, 因为“祂所承受的名比天使的名更尊贵”, 这里的名指的是圣子的名, 另外, 父神还赐予基督祭司的荣耀。

这两段经文中的生子行为指的是 (1) 父在永世中间把子生出来, 还是 (2) 及时的道成肉身, 亦或是 (3) 耶稣复活和升天, 对此注释者坚持不同的观点。《希伯来书》1:5 (见《希伯来书》1:3) 的上下文似乎证实了最后一种观点 (Westcott)。作者可能对第一种观点并不陌生; 见《希伯来书》5:5, 参:《希伯来书》6:20, “成了永远的大祭司”。《希伯来书》的作者认为历史中的基督藉着升天, “坐在高天至大者的右边” (来 1:3) 永远作父神的儿子, 这也是祂的基本身份。《希伯来书》强调了圣子的事实和身份, 而不是在强调生子的时间。

关于《钦定版圣经》中的翻译 “only begotten Son” (“独生子”), 见 ONLY BEGOTTEN (独生子)。

BEGUILE; BEGUILING 引诱、诱惑; 诡计

【希伯来语: nāšā (创 3:13), nākal (民 25:18); 希腊语: paralogizomai (西 2:4), planáō (启 2:20)】; 《钦定版圣经》还译为 SEDUCE (“引诱”, 启 2:20); 《新英文译本》译为 TRICK (“引诱”)、 “be the undoing of” (“诱惑”)、SPECIOUS (“花言巧语”) 和 LURE (“引诱”)。《创世记》和《新约》中的“引诱”与试图用花言巧语或教导使人堕落有关。在《民数记》25 章, 米甸人引诱以色列

AV also in Gen. 29:25; Josh. 9:22; 2 Cor. 11:3 (RSV “deceive”); and 2 Pet. 2:14 (RSV “entice”), where the words are Heb. rāmā; Gk. exapatáō, deleázō.

BEHAVIOR.

David “changed his behavior” when he feigned madness before Achish. The Hebrew word is ta’am, “taste,” hence “intellectual taste,” i.e., judgment. He acted as though he had lost his judgment, or sense.

“Behaved worse” in Jgs. 2:19 translates šāḥat; the AV has “corrupted themselves more,” the NEB “(relapsed into) deeper corruption,” both of which render the word more specifically. In Job 36:9, “behaving arrogantly” better translates Heb. gāber than AV “exceeded” (cf. NEB “tyranny”). Other OT words are dābār (Est. 1:18; AV “deed”; NEB “conduct”) and derek (Ezk. 16:27; AV “way”; NEB “ways”).

The Gk. anastropho occurs in the NT in 2 Cor. 1:12 (AV “have conversation”; NEB “dealings”) and 1 Tim. 3:15 (NEB “conduct oneself”); the noun anastrophē is used in 1 Pet. 3:1f., 16 (AV “conversation”; NEB v. 16 “conduct”).

列人崇拜偶像，与异族结婚。在《钦定版圣经》的《创世记》29:25、《约书亚记》9:22、《哥林多后书》11:3（《修订标准译本》译为“deceive”[“诱惑”]）和《彼得后书》2:14（《修订标准译本》译为“entice”[“引诱”]）中出现了“Beguile”（“欺哄、引诱、诱惑”）这个词，而原词是希伯来语 rāmā，希腊语 exapatáō 和 deleázō。

BEHAVIOR. 寻常的举动、行为、举止行动

当大卫在亚吉面前假装疯癫时，他“改变了寻常的举动”。这个词的希伯来语形式是 ta’am，意思是“味道”，因此可以理解为“智力品味”，即判断力。大卫好像丧失了判断力或失去了理智。

《士师记》2:19 中的 šāḥat 被译为“行恶”；《钦定版圣经》译为“corrupted themselves more”，《新英文译本》译为“(relapsed into) deeper corruption”，汉译均为“行恶”，这两个译本对这个词的翻译更为具体。《约伯记》36:9 中将希伯来语 gāber 译为“behaving arrogantly”[“骄傲”]比《钦定版圣经》中译为“exceeded”（“骄傲的”，参：《新英文译本》译为“tyranny”[“残忍”]）更好。其他表示这一含义的旧约词语还有 dābār（斯 1:18；《钦定版圣经》译为“deed”；《新英文译本》译为“conduct”，汉译均为“行事”）和 derek（结 16:27，《钦定版圣经》译为“way”；《新英文译本》译为“ways”，汉译均为“行为”）。

希腊语 anastropho 出现在《新约》《哥林多后书》1:12 中（《钦定版圣经》译为“have conversation”；《新英文译本》译为“dealings”，汉译均为“在世为人”）和《提摩太前书》3:15 中（《新英文译本》中译为“conduct oneself”[“行事”]）。

“Behave” also translates peripatéō (1 Cor. 3:3; AV “walk”; the NEB renders this passage “you are living on the purely human level of your lower nature”) and aschēmonéō (7:36). “Behavior” translates katástēma in Tit. 2:3 (NEB “bearing”) and a form of gínomai in 1 Thess. 2:10.

anastrophé 出现在《彼得前书》3:1-2, 16 中（《钦定版圣经》译为“conversation”[“言语”]；《新英文译本》16 章译为“conduct”[“品行”]）。“Behave”这个词还可以用来翻译 peripatéō（林前 3:3；《钦定版圣经》译为“walk”[“行”]；《新英文译本》将这段经文译为“you are living on the purely human level of your lower nature”[“这岂不是属乎肉体，照着世人的样子行吗”]）和 aschēmonéō（林前 7:36）。“Behavior”还用来翻译《提多书》2:3 中的 katástēma（《新英文译本》译为“bearing”[“举止行动”]）和《帖撒罗尼迦前书》2:10 中 gínomai 的某种形式。 be-hē'math [Heb. b^ehēmōt] (Job 40:15). Apparently the intensive plural of b^ehēmā, “beast,” used of domesticated or wild animals. The same form, b^ehēmōt, occurs in other passages, e.g., Dt. 28:26; 32:24; Isa. 18:6; Hab. 2:17, where it is not rendered “behemoth” but “beasts.” The reference in Job is to some marsh-dwelling mammoth such as the Hippopotamus amphibius, which inhabits the Nile and other African rivers. In the Apocrypha the name denotes the male counterpart of the Leviathan (2 Esd. 6:49, 52), while in the Targum on Ps. 50:10 it alludes to the “ox of the open field.”

音译：be-hē'math【希伯来语：b^ehēmōt】（伯 40:15）。b^ehēmā 的加强语干的复数形式显然可以表示驯养或野生的动物，这个词的含义是“兽”。其他经文段落中用到了 b^ehēmōt 的相同形式，如《申命记》28:26；32:24；《以赛亚书》18:6 和《哈巴谷书》2:17，但这些经文没有将这个希伯来词语译为“behemoth”（“河马”），而是译为“beasts”（“兽”）。《约伯记》中的“behemoth”指的是一种生活在沼泽地的猛兽，如河马（拉丁学名：Hippopotamus amphibius），这种动物生活在尼罗河和非洲的其他河流中。《次经》中的这个词指的是雄性动物利威申（拉二 6:49，52），但在《他尔根》的《诗篇》50:10 中，这个词指的是“千山上的牲畜”。

bā-his-tōōn'. Village and precipitous rock (modern Bisitun in Iran) near Hamadan, on the road from Ecbatana to Babylon. In the face of the cliff, 500 ft. (150 m.) above the plain, Darius the Great (522–486 B.C.) carved a relief and trilingual inscription depicting his succession upon defeating the usurper Gaumata. The Old Persian and Babylonian portions of the text were copied by H. C. Rawlinson from 1835–1847 and recopied in 1948 by G. G. Cameron, who used latex “squeezes” (rubber molds) to recover the Elamite columns as well. Decipherment of the Behistun inscription proved the key to these languages and their cuneiform scripts.

See ARCHEOLOGY OF MESOPOTAMIA II; CUNEIFORM; DARIUS.

BEHOLDING.

A significant occurrence is in 2 Cor. 3:18, where the Greek is katoptrizómenoi, “beholding the glory of the Lord.” The AV renders “beholding as in a glass,” thus giving something of the etymological sense of the word; a kátoptron was a mirror of polished metal. The NEB has “we all reflect as in a mirror the splendour of the Lord”; cf. also the ERV, ARV mg, and RSV mg., which all give “reflecting.” For references on both sides, see Bauer, pp. 425f.; see also MM, p. 738; TDNT, II, s.v. ἑσοπτρον κτλ. BEHISTUN 贝希斯敦

音译: bā-his-tōōn'. 哈马丹附近的小村庄和岩壁(今伊朗境的比索通), 位于埃克巴坦那至巴比伦的道路上。大流士大帝(公元前 522 至 486 年)在平原上方 500 英尺(150 米)的悬崖上雕刻了一个浮雕和三种语言的碑文, 其中记录了他战胜篡位者高墨达登上王位的故事。从 1835 年至 1847 年, 罗林森(H. C. Rawlinson)抄写了碑文上的古波斯语和巴比伦语文字, 1948 年卡梅隆(G. G. Cameron)重新抄写了这篇碑文, 他还使用乳胶“拓印”(“橡胶模”)还原了石柱上的埃兰语。解密贝希斯敦碑文是破译这三种语言和楔形文字的钥匙。

BEHOLDING. 看见

《哥林多后书》3:18 中记录了一个重要的事件, 其中用到了希腊语 katoptrizómenoi, “看见主的荣光”。《钦定版圣经》译为“beholding as in a glass”(“反映主的荣光”), 从这种译法中可以看出这个词的词源含义; kátoptron 指的是用磨光金属制成的镜子。《新英文译本》译为“we all reflect as in a mirror the splendour of the Lord”(“我们众人……得以看见主的荣光, 好像从镜子里返照”); 另参:《英语修订译本》《美国修订译本》旁注和《修订标准译本》旁注, 这些译本都把这个词译为“reflecting”(“反映”)。关于这两种译法, 见 Bauer, 425-426 页; 另见 MM, 738 页; TDNT, II, 见词条 ἑσοπτρον κτλ. (Kittel)。

BEING

[Heb. baṭṭuhōt] (“in the inward being,” Ps. 51:6 [MT 8]); AV “in the inward parts”; NEB “in darkness”; [b^e‘ōdī] (“while I have being,” Ps. 104:33; 146:2); NEB “all my life”; [nepeš] (Gen. 2:7); NEB CREATURE; [Gk. eimi] (“have being,” Acts 17:28); NEB EXIST; [psychē] (1 Cor. 15:45); AV SOUL. The NEB rendering of Ps. 51:6 reflects the LXX (ádēlos—‘unseen’) and the Vulgate (incerta—‘uncertain’).

The Hebrews thought of man as an animated body rather than an incarnated Soul. In the creation story two distinct kinds of being are described: the infinite being of God, whose very nature is to exist; and the finite being of man, who is unique among living creatures. The vital relationship between the finite and the Infinite is suggested by God’s animating man by His own breath, and by the psalmist’s responding to God by that inner animation or spirit.

BEING 活人、活的、诚实、存留

【希伯来语: baṭṭuhōt】(“内里诚实”, 诗 51:6[《马所拉文本》8]);《钦定版圣经》译为“in the inward parts”;《新英文译本》译为“in darkness”, 汉译均为“内里诚实”;【b^e‘ōdī】(“我还活的时候”, 诗 104:33; 146:2);《新英文译本》译为“all my life”(“我还活的时候”);【nepeš】(创 2:7);《新英文译本》译为 CREATURE(“活人”);【希腊语: eimi】(“存留”, 徒 17:28);《新英文译本》译为 EXIST(“存在”);【psychē】(林前 15:45);《钦定版圣经》译为 SOUL(“灵”)。《新英文译本》对《诗篇》51:6 的翻译体现出了《七十士译本》(ádēlos——“看不见的”)和《武加大译本》(incerta——“不确定的”)中的译法。

希伯来人认为,人是有生命的身体,而不是灵魂的化身。创世的故事中描绘了生命的两个不同的方面:上帝是自有永有的,祂本质上就是一种存在;人的生命是有限的,人是一种独特的生物。上帝向人的口中吹气,人就有了生命,这表明生命有限的人和自有永有的上帝之间存在着至关重要的关系,诗篇作者以内在的生气或灵来回应上帝也体现了这种关系。

bēkə [Heb. beqa ‘—‘half’]. Half a shekel, the amount contributed by each male of the Israelites for the use of the sanctuary (Ex. 38:26). Its value varied according to the standard used. See WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

BEL

bel [Heb. bēl]. Name of a Babylonian god, the counterpart of the Canaanite Baal, identified in the OT and Apocrypha with Marduk or Merodach, the tutelary deity of Babylon (cf. Isa. 46:1; Jer. 50:2; 51:44; Bar. 6 [Letter of Jeremiah]:41). See the discussion of Marduk in RELIGIONS OF THE BIBLICAL WORLD: ASSYRIA AND BABYLONIA.

BEL AND THE DRAGON;

NEB DANIEL, BEL, AND THE SNAKE. A book of the OT Apocrypha, an addition to the book of Daniel along with SONG OF THE THREE YOUNG MEN and SUSANNA.

I. The Daniel Apocrypha: Texts and Versions.-A. Greek. The Hebrew Bible contains no trace of the Danielic Apocrypha. The earliest attestation is the LXX, where Daniel and its additions happen to be preserved only in a single ninth-century MS, Codex Chisianus. The additions are printed on the left-hand pages of OTG, III, 576–593. Theodotion’s second-century Greek version (Th.) ousted the LXX of Daniel in Christian circles. (See IOTG, pp. 42–49, 165ff., 260ff.; for complete text, see the right-hand pages opposite Codex Chisianus, OTG, loc. cit.)

音译: bēkə 【希伯来语: beqa ‘—“半”】。一比加等于半舍客勒, 是每个以色列男子按圣所的平所出的银子数量(出 38:26)。一比加的价值随着标准的变化而变化。见 WEIGHTS AND MEASURES (度量衡)。

BEL 彼勒

音译: bel 【希伯来语: bēl】。巴比伦神明的名字, 与迦南主神巴力相对应的神, 也就是《旧约》和《次经》中巴比伦的守护神玛尔杜克或米罗达(参: 赛 46:1; 耶 50:2; 51:44; 巴 6:41 [《耶利米书信》])。见 RELIGIONS OF THE BIBLICAL WORLD: ASSYRIA AND BABYLONIA (圣经世界的宗教: 亚述和巴比伦) 中关于玛尔杜克的讨论。

BEL AND THE DRAGON; 《彼勒与大龙书》

《新英文译本》译为 DANIEL, BEL, AND THE SNAKE (《但以理、彼勒与大龙》)。《旧约》《次经》中一书, 《彼得与大龙书》与《三童歌》和《苏撒拿传》都是《但以理书》的补篇。

I. 次经《但以理书补篇》: 经文和译本。
A. 希腊语译本。希伯来语《圣经》中不包括《次经》中《但以理书补篇》。关于这本书的最早证据出现在《七十士译本》中。9 世纪的唯一一份原稿, 也就是《七十士译本》古卷 (Codex Chisianus) 中保留了《但以理书》和《但以理书补篇》。《但以理书补篇》印刷在 OTG (III, 576–593) 的左手页上。在 2 世纪的希腊语译本中, 狄奥多田没有收录《七十士译本》中的《但以理书》, 认为这本书不属于基督教文献。(见 IOTG, 42–49 页, 165 页起, 260 页起; 关于完整的经文, 见正对着《七十士译本》古卷的右手页, OTG, 出处同上)

- B. Latin. The Old Latin is available in fragmentary form, the Vulgate complete. B. 拉丁语译本。在古拉丁语译本中只能看到这本书的残本，《武加大译本》完整地收录了此书。
- C. Syriac. The very literal Syriac rendering of Paul of Tella is contained in the sixth column of Origen's Hexapla. Its main textual significance, collated with Codex Chisianus and distilled into Greek, may be gleaned from Swete's critical notes to the LXX. The Syriac Peshitta text is splendidly printed in P. de Lagarde, Libri Veteris Testamenti Apocryphi Syriace (1861). C. 叙利亚语译本。叙利亚语译本极忠实于原文地将“保罗”直译为“特勒拉”，这种翻译出现在俄利根在《六文本合参》的第六栏中。根据斯韦特 (Swete) 对《七十士译本》的批判注释可以推断出《但以理书补篇》的主要文字含义，这部作品的主要文字含义是通过整理《七十士译本》古卷和提取希腊语译本精髓得到的。拉加德 (P. de Lagarde) 的 Libri Veteris Testamenti Apocryphi Syriace (1861) 中极好地刊载了叙利亚语《别西大译本》。
- D. Other Languages. There are further versions in Sahidic, Bohairic, and Ethiopic. (See W.O.E. Oesterley, Intro. to the Books of the Apocrypha [1935]; HNTT; C. C. Torrey, Apocryphal Literature: A Brief Intro. (1945); Jew.Enc.; HDB; R. H. Charles, Comm. on Daniel [1929], Intro., pp. 1-lviii; J. A. Montgomery, ICC on Daniel [1927], pp. 24-57; etc.) D. 其他语言的译本。另外这部作品还有沙西地语译本、波海利语译本和埃塞俄比亚语译本。(见 W.O.E. Oesterley, Intro. to the Books of the Apocrypha [1935]; HNTT; C. C. Torrey, Apocryphal Literature: A Brief Intro. (1945); Jew.Enc.; HDB; R. H. Charles, 《但以理书》注释[1929], 简介, 1-lviii 页; J. A. Montgomery, ICC 对《但以理书》的注释[1927], 24-57 页; 等)
- E. Hebrew and Aramaic. The existence of Hebrew and Aramaic versions is unquestioned, their date controversial. Josippon (the Little Josephus) recounted the tales in Hebrew ca. A.D. 940, but this proves nothing before his date. M. Gaster claimed that the “Aramaic original” is embedded in the medieval Chronicles of Jerahmeel; T. Witton Davies and others regard this as merely a late rendering into Aramaic of Th. The lateness of Josippon and Jerahmeel does not exclude a lost Semitic original. (See APOT, I, 655ff.; HDB, I, 267f.; Jew.Enc., II, 651 col. 1; Wace, II, 344ff.; with further references in literature cited.) E. 希伯来语和亚兰语译本。对于希伯来语译本和亚兰语译本是否存在, 以及这两个译本的翻译时间, 学者们存在争议。约在公元 940 年, 约斯朋 (Josippon, 小约瑟夫斯) 用希伯来语叙述了这个故事, 但这并不能证明在这时期之前就存在希伯来语译本和亚兰译本。葛斯特 (M. Gaster) 认为, “亚兰语原文”包含在中世纪时期耶拉箴的作品中 (Chronicles of Jerahmeel); 戴维斯 (T. Witton Davies) 等人认为, 这个亚兰原文是由狄奥多田后来翻译的。约斯朋和耶拉箴的最晚译本都不能排除可能存在一个已经遗失的闪米特语原文 (见 APOT, I, 655 页起; HDB, I, 267-268; Jew.Enc., II, 651, 栏 1; Wace, II,

II. The Stories of Bel and the Dragon.—The story of Daniel and Bel is recounted in vv. 1–22, that of Daniel and the dragon or serpent in vv. 23–42, with numerous discrepancies between the LXX and Th. In the LXX Daniel strews the ashes unbeknown to the king, making the plot coherent, while in Th. he strews them in his presence, utterly spoiling the story. (For a full translation of both Greek versions, see APOT, I, 658–664; for detailed separate summaries, HNTT, pp. 436f.; also Wace; and others in loc.)

Bel or Ba'al signifies here the Babylonian deity Marduk, worshiped as a temple idol, and reputed to consume daily quantities of food and drink faithfully offered. The pure monotheist Daniel refuses to worship Bel, incurring royal censure. He undertakes, on pain of death if he fails, to demonstrate Bel's inability to eat or drink a particle. The offerings are duly laid, the temple sealed, the priests confident. The next day everything has disappeared as usual, and Daniel impudently laughs. Unbeknown to priests or king, he has had fine ash sprinkled over the temple floor, which in the darkness of the night has become mysteriously covered with naked footprints. The secret trapdoor in the floor leading to the homes of the fraudulent servitors of Bel is unmasked, Daniel is justified, the priests are visited with condign punishment. Ludwig Couard (Die Apokryphen und Pseudepigraphen [1907], p. 5) describes Bel and Susanna as pikante Kriminalnovellen.

II. 彼勒和大龙的故事。《彼勒与大龙书》1:1-22 记载了但以理与彼勒的故事，《彼勒与大龙书》1:23-42 记载了但以理与大龙的故事，《七十士译本》和《狄奥多田旧约希腊文译本》对这两个故事的叙述存在很多差异。在《七十士译本》中，但以理瞒着国王向地上撒灰，从而使整个故事的情节连贯起来，但在《狄奥多田旧约希腊文译本》中，但以理在国王在场时向地上撒了灰，这完全破坏了整个故事的情节。（关于希腊语译本的全文，见 APOT, I, 658–664 页；关于详细的单独叙述，见 HNTT, 436-437 页；另见 Wace 等人的作品，见本文。）

这里的彼勒代表着巴比伦的神玛尔杜克，他是神庙中供奉的神明，巴比伦人认为他会在每天吃掉祭品，喝掉献给他的所有东西。独一神论者但以理拒绝崇拜彼勒，这招致了国王的谴责。但以理如果不能向国王证明彼勒无法吃喝任何东西，国王将会处死他。祭物按时摆放在祭桌上，然后封闭了神庙，祭司们自信彼勒可以吃掉这些供品。第二天，像往常一样，供品都被吃掉了，但以理大笑起来。他瞒着祭司或国王，已经向神庙的地上撒了灰，但奇怪的是，在漆黑的夜里神庙的地上留下了脚印。地上这些神秘的脚印通向彼勒的欺诈的仆人家，从而败露了整件事，但以理证明了自己的话，祭司们受到了应得的惩罚。路德维格·库阿尔 (Die Apokryphen und Pseudepigraphen [1907], 5 页) 称彼勒和苏撒拿为 pikante Kriminalnovellen (“调皮的侦探”)。

The recalcitrant Daniel refuses equally to worship the dragon (or serpent) revered by the Babylonians, impiously declaring that he will kill it. This he does by throwing into its mouth a cake composed of pitch, fat, and hair, which causes the corporeal explosion of the deity. The king is deeply impressed, but the angry mob clamors for Daniel's blood. For his theocide, he is cast into a den of hungry lions, where he remains unscathed for seven days, the distant prophet Habakkuk being miraculously brought to minister to him. Daniel emerges to enjoy royal and public favor, while his enemies discover that it is their turn to be cast to the lions.

III. Selected Exegetical Notes.-v. 1. In the LXX and Syrohexapla the composition of the work is referred to Habakkuk, Grecized for euphony Ambakoum. His authorship is not endorsed in Th. and Pesh., where a note of regal chronology is substituted.

v. 2. The LXX designates Daniel "priest," probably for apologetic motives. Th. enhances rather the lay prestige of the hero, while Pesh. carries this to still greater lengths. The Hebraism kai én (way^ehî) may be noted—see vv. 11–22 below. The Aram. wah^awâ without waw conversive might produce the same Greek.

v. 5. In Th. Daniel refuses his worship to eidōla cheiropoiēta, "idols made with hands," which Pesh. renders "the work of the hands of the sons of men." Hatch and Redpath (HR, p. 1467 col. 1) record sixteen occurrences of the Greek adjective, ten without Hebrew equivalents, six translating Heb. ʿlîl "worthless." All

III. 节选经文注释。《彼勒与大龙书》1:1。《七十士译本》和叙利亚语《六文本合参》中提到了哈巴谷，而且把这个名字译成了希腊语谐音 Ambakoum。但是《狄奥多田旧约希腊文译本》和《别西大译本》中并不认为哈巴谷是《彼勒与大龙书》的作者，并且书中的一个帝王年表也被替换掉了。

《彼勒与大龙书》1:2。《七十士译本》中称但以理为“祭司”，这可能是为了进行辩护。而《狄奥多田旧约希腊文译本》却抬高了这位英雄人物的威望，《别西大译本》更加凸显了但以理的威望。希伯来语词 kai én (way^ehî) 可能值得注意——见下文《彼勒与大龙书》1:11-22。没有 waw 对义词的亚兰语 wah^awâ 可以译成同一个希腊词语。

passages refer to idolatry. Classical usage is less restricted—cheiropoiētos means “man-made, artificial,” the antonym of autophyēs, “self-growing, natural.” In the NT five passages describe the man-made temple or sanctuary, one in its actuality (Mk. 14:58), two in general concept (Acts 7:48; 17:24), two in special concept (He. 9:11, 24). In Hebrews the term is used of phenomenal, material, earthly sanctuaries, which are antitypes of the real, eternal ektypes in God’s realm—an instance of idealist philosophy with a deeply spiritual insight. In Eph. 2:11 the reference is to the physical performance of the rite of circumcision.

v. 9. Th. and Pesh. speak of Daniel “blaspheming” Bel, which is the reverse of the customary usage of the term. For this important word, see TDNT, I, s.v. βλασφημέω (Beyer).

《彼勒与大龙书》1:9。《狄奥多田译本》和《别西大译本》中都提到但以理“褻渎”彼勒, 这是这个词常规用法的一个反例。关于这个重要的词汇, 见 TDNT, I, 见词条 βλασφημέω (Beyer)。 vv. 11–22. T. W. Davies (APOT, in loc.) makes strong points for a Hebrew rather than an Aramaic original:

《彼勒与大龙书》1:11-22。戴维斯 (T. W. Davies, APOT, 见本文) 坚决认为这段经文原来是用希伯来语, 而不是用亚兰语写成的。

(1) In v. 14 the LXX sphragisámenos tón naón ekéleuse sphragísai makes an intolerable tautological reading. The substitution of kleisas for the first word has the authority of Th., enhanced, as Davies brilliantly points out, by the ready confusability of Heb. stm, “to shut,” with h̄tm, “to seal,” in the postulated Hebrew original.

(1) 《七十士译本》对《彼勒与大龙书》1:14 进行了极为冗赘的翻译, 译作 sphragisámenos tón naón ekéleuse sphragísai。《狄奥多田旧约希腊文译本》用第一个词来替换 kleisas, 因此, 戴维斯明确指出, 狄奥多田很可能混淆了假想希伯来语原文中希伯来语 stm (“关上”) 与 h̄tm (“封住”) 的含义。

(2) The numerous verses beginning kai egéneto, where Classical Greek would use an aorist participle followed by an indicative, suggest the familiar Heb. way^ehî—although Aramaic cannot be ruled out. See on v. 2 above.

(3) In v. 18a, where the LXX is classical and neat, Davies points out in Th. the same Hebraism conjoined with another: kaí egéneto háma tō anoíxai tás thýras. The Hebraist quickly perceives that háma represents the familiar Heb. way^ehî followed by an infinitive, corresponding to an English adverbial clause of time (cf. W. Gesenius, E. Kautzsch, and A. E. Cowley, Hebrew Grammar [1910], § 111 g). This clause can easily be translated into Hebrew as way^ehî biptō (a)h'et-hadd^elātīm. Similar OT constructions are innumerable: cf. Gen. 19:29; 1 Ch. 15:26. While the LXX ends the verse in good Classical Greek, Th. ends it with a double negative—most un-Greek, but translatable, as Davies demonstrates, into excellent Hebrew.

v. 23. Is the drákōn of Babylonian worship a mythical dragon or an ordinary serpent? The Heb. tannīk is as ambiguous as the Greek. Pesh. favors “dragon,” using a different word for “serpent” in Gen. 3:1 and Am. 9:3. However, the evidence on this important point remains ambiguous.

v. 25. Included in Th., lacking in the LXX; cf. v. 5. The “living God” is an important biblical concept, often found in polemic against idols.

v. 27. With the remains of the monster strewn over the ground, Daniel remarks

文表明，作者很熟悉希伯来语 way^ehî——但并不能排除这是一个亚兰语词汇。见上文《彼勒与大龙书》1:2。

(3)《七十士译本》对《彼勒与大龙书》1:18a 的翻译非常经典和简洁，戴维斯指出，《狄奥多田旧约希腊文译本》中使用了同样的希伯来语语法，并结合了另一个希伯来语语法：kaí egéneto háma tō anoíxai tás thýras。希伯来语学者很快察觉到，háma 表示常见的希伯来语 way^ehî 加上一个不定式，相当于英语中的时间状语从句（参：W. Gesenius, E. Kautzsch, A. E. Cowley, Hebrew Grammar [1910], 111 g 节）。很容易将这个从句译为希伯来语 way^ehî biptō (a)h'et-hadd^elātīm。类似的旧约解释还有很多：参：《创世记》19:29；《历代志上》15:26。虽然《七十士译本》以优美的古典希腊语结束了这节经文，而《狄奥多田旧约希腊文译本》却以双重否定结尾——正如戴维斯所指出的，大多数非希腊语是可译成优秀的希伯来语的。

《彼勒与大龙书》1:23。巴比伦人崇拜的“大龙”到底是一种神秘的龙，还是一种常见的蛇？希伯来语 tannīk 与希腊语一样含义模糊。《别西大译本》更愿意使用“dragon”（“龙”）这个词，而《创世记》3:1 和《阿摩司书》9:3 中却使用了不同的词语“serpent”（“蛇”）。不过，关于这一重要问题的证据还不够明确。

《彼勒与大龙书》1:27。当这个巨兽的尸体躺在地面上时，但以理有趣地讽刺

(LXX) with delicious irony: ou taúta sébesthe, basileú—“You don’t mean to tell me you worship these smithereens, O king?”

v. 32. Part of the planned punishment is that Daniel is to be unburied, a thought horrible to a Greek, worse to a Jew. See Oxford Classical Dictionary (1949), s.v. “Dead, Disposal of”; HDB, s.v. “Burial.”

vv. 33–39. The Habakkuk incident may be a late interpolation.

v. 36. Gk. epilambánesthai may mean “to succor”; cf. He. 2:16; Sir. 4:11. Here it means “take hold of.” The verb requires a genitive. In the LXX it is furnished with several genitives, awkwardly separated, but the sense is clear.

v. 41. The king’s praise of God is significant, perhaps indeed the point of the story. In Th, in the 2nd person, it becomes almost the language of prayer.

IV. Original Language.—Six reasonable hypotheses may be considered: (1) That both versions were originally written in Greek. (2) That both versions are in a contemporary “Yiddish,” a mixture of Greek and Hebrew elements. (3) That both versions are translated from the same Semitic document. (4) That the two versions are translated from two different Semitic documents. (5) That both versions rest on an oral, folkloristic Semitic source, maintaining substantial agreement, but liable to variation in detail. (6) That the original language was not Aramaic, but

《彼勒与大龙书》1:33-39。有关哈巴谷的故事可能是后来添加的。

《彼勒与大龙书》1:36。希腊语 epilambánesthai 的含义可能是“拯救”; 参:《希伯来书》2:16;《便西拉智训》4:11。在本节经文中这个词的含义是“握住”。这个动词必须有一个属格。在《七十士译本》中,这个词有多个属格,这几个属格分隔地不大自然,但表达的意思很明确。

《彼勒与大龙书》1:41。国王对上帝的赞美具有重要的意义,这可能是这个故事的真正重点。在《狄奥多田旧约希腊文译本》中,这个赞美以第二人称形式呈现出来,几乎成为了祷告用语。

IV. 原书语言。关于原书语言,有六个合理的假设可能值得考虑:(1)两个译本原始语言可能都是希腊语。(2)两个译本可能都是用同时代的“意第续语”写成的,意第续语是一种同时包括希腊语和希伯来语元素的语言。(3)两译本都译自同一个闪米特语文献。(4)两译本译自不同的闪米特语文献。(5)两个译本都以一个口头的、与民间传说有关的闪米特语文献为蓝本,大部分内容是一致的,只是在具体细节上存在差异。(6)原书语言不是亚兰语,而是希伯来语。

Hebrew.

The argument for (1) would be that a writer of Semitic background composed in Greek. The limits of reasonable expectation for such coloring seem here to have been exceeded. (2) was proposed and abandoned by Wellhausen (cf. APOT, I, 656). The Greek is just a little too good. The numerous variants rule (3) out of court. (4) and (5) are both possible, and (5) commends itself as more probable. Davies makes a good case for Hebrew (6), though it is only fair to set against this J. T. Marshall's arguments for Aramaic in HDB, which are based on Gaster's work. On balance, however, Davies seems worthy of the vote.

V. Author, Place, and Date.-On the identity of the author, it is idle even to speculate. The story professes a Babylonian setting, which may be fact or fiction. Editorial opinions on the dating are somewhat variant, but most of them fall within the 2nd cent. B.C.

VI. Evaluation.-The double version of Bel and the Dragon, with its many variants, can distract the reader and spoil the fun, unless he peruses one at a time. The two stories probably came together without any original connection, simply because both exalt the shrewdness of Daniel in the same sphere. The first story is logical, satisfying, free from the supernatural; the second somehow falls rather flat. The narrative may, of course, be entirely satirical in intent. The prophet Habakkuk seems to be dragged in in more senses than one, and he may be omitted without disruption. Both stories are intended to ridicule the excesses of heathen idolatry; the first does so with greater skill and success.

V. 原书作者、创作地点和创作时间。仅仅靠推测来确定原书的作者是徒劳的。书中的故事以巴比伦为背景,故事可能是真实的,也可能是虚构的。对于该书的成书时间,编者的观点有所不同,但大多数编者都认为该书创作于公元前2世纪。

VI. 评价。两个版本中的《彼勒与大龙书》拥有多处差异,两个版本可能会分散读者的注意力,令读者感到扫兴,除非他们每次只细读一个版本。两个最初没有任何关联的故事仅仅因为都颂扬了但以理的高明,最终可能被整合成了一个故事。第一个故事符合逻辑,令读者满意,且不受超自然现象的影响;而第二个故事则过于单调乏味。当然,这种叙述方式可能完全是为了进行讽刺。从多个意义上说,先知哈巴古似乎被硬拉入到这个故事中,删掉这个人并不会破坏整个故事。两个故事都旨在讽刺过度崇拜异教偶像;第一个故事以更高超的技巧,更为成功地达到了这一目的。

Without making any fresh contribution, this writing reiterates the unity and omnipotence of God, showing the impact of the Jewish faith on a heathen king.

这部作品并没有作出任何新的贡献,只是重申了上帝的完整性和无所不能,并展示出犹太人的信心对异教国王产生的影响。

音译: bēlā【希伯来语: bela ‘——“毁灭”】;《钦定版圣经》还译为 BELAH (“比拉”, 创 46:21)。

1. Son of Beor and the first king of Edom previous to the kingdom of Israel. He reigned in the city of Dinhabah (Gen. 36:32f.; 1 Ch. 1:43f.). The LXX (A) calls him Balak; the Targum has Balaam.

1、比拉: 彼珥的儿子, 以色列成立王国之前的第一个以东国王。比拉在亭哈巴作王(创 36:32-33; 代上 1:43-44)。《七十士译本》(亚历山太抄本)中称他为 Balak (“巴勒”);《他珥根》中称他为 Balaam (“巴兰”)。

2. The firstborn son of Benjamin (Gen. 46:21; 1 Ch. 7:6f.; 1 Ch. 8:1). He was the head of the family of the Belaites (Nu. 26:38), the father of Addar (called Ard, Nu. 26:40), Gera, Abihud, Abishua, Naaman, Ahoah, Gera, Shephuphan (cf. Shephupham, Nu. 26:39), Hiram (1 Ch. 8:3-5).

2、比拉: 便雅悯的长子(创 46:21; 代上 7:6-7; 代上 8:1)。比拉是比拉家族的族长(民 26:38), 亚大(也被称作亚勒, 民 26:40)、基拉、亚比忽、亚比书、乃幔、亚何亚、基拉、示孚汛(参: 书反, 民 26:39)和户兰(代上 8:3-5)的父亲。

3. A son of Azaz, of the tribe of Reuben, who had great power and wealth. His possessions reached from Nebo to the Euphrates (1 Ch. 5:8ff.).

3、比拉: 流便支派亚撒的儿子, 他是个有钱有势的人。他的产业从尼波山直到幼发拉底河(代上 5:8 起)。

The name appears in the MT (as b^eliya'al) in Jgs. 20:13; 1 S. 10:27; 30:22; 1 K 21:13; etc., generally rendered as a proper name by the AV, but by the RSV as “base fellows” and by the NEB as “scoundrels.” In Jewish apocalyptic writing (Book of Jubilees, Ascension of Isaiah, Sibylline Oracles) the name was used to describe Satan or the antichrist. Paul used the word in this sense in 2 Cor. 6:15: “What accord has Christ with Belial?” The “man of lawlessness” in 2 Thess. 2:3 is probably an equivalent of the “man of Belial.” See ANTICHRIST; MAN OF LAWLESSNESS.

This and equivalent phrases occur frequently as a regular description of those who professed their faith in Christ, and attached themselves to the Christian Church. The one essential condition of admission into the Christian community was that one should believe in Jesus Christ (Acts 16:31). The actual experiences of the persons thus denoted varied with all the possible degrees and modifications of faith. Believers are nowhere in the NT distinguished as a subordinate class from the “Christians who know,” as in the gnostic antithesis of pistikoi and gnōstikoi, “believers” and “knowers.”

BELL

[Heb. m^ešillōt, pa^amôn]. In Zec. 14:20 the former term meant “that which tinkles,” and was an ornament attached to the harness of horses. The latter term occurs only in Ex. 28:33f.; 39:25f., describing a golden object fastened to the high priest’s robes, alternating with golden pomegranates. It served as a signal or warning of the high priest’s movements (cf. Ex. 28:35).

BELLOWS

[Heb. mappu(a)h]. The word occurs only once in the AV and RSV, in Jer. 6:29 where the prophet is predicting the coming of the destroyer (v. 26), “a great nation” from “the north country” (v. 22), upon Israel because “all of them act corruptly” (v. 28). The imagery is drawn from the refiner’s art, and the “bellows”

The term for belly used most often in the OT is beṭen. Heb. gāhôn is used only with reference to reptiles; mē'eh for intestines or abdomen; hōmeš, “belly,” is identical in form to the Hebrew term for “fifth.” In the NT, koilia, a general term for the abdomen (Mt. 12:40), was sometimes regarded as the seat of appetite and carnal affection (Phil. 3:19).

BELOVED

[chiefly Heb. dôd (Cant. 1:13; etc.); Gk. agapētós]. A term of affectionate endearment common to both Testaments. In the OT it occurs about thirty-two times in the Song of Solomon, translating Heb. dôd. Other words include 'āhēb (2 S. 1:23; Hos. 3:1), yādīd (Dt. 33:12; Ps. 60:5; etc.), maḥmād (Hos. 9:16), yēdidūt (Jer. 12:7), and h^amūdôt (Dnl. 9:23; 10:11, 19). The words seem to have interchangeable significance, so usage is more important than etymology in determining shades of meaning.

In the NT “beloved” (Gk. agapētós) is used exclusively of divine and Christian love, an affection begotten in the community of the new spiritual life in Christ, e.g., “beloved in the Lord” (Rom. 16:8). The beauty, unity, endearment of this love is historically unique, being peculiarly Christian. “Brethren” in Christ are “beloved” (1 Thess. 1:4; 1 Cor. 15:58; Jas. 1:16; 2:5). Many individuals are specified by name: Timothy (2 Tim. 1:2); Philemon (Philem. 1); Epaenetus, Amplias, Urbane, Stachys, Persis (Rom. 16:5, 8f., 12), et al.

【主要是希伯来语: dôd (歌 1:13 等); 希腊语: agapētós】。两约中常用来表示爱慕之情的昵称。这个词在《旧约》《雅歌》中出现了 32 次, 用来翻译希伯来语 dôd。其他译为“beloved”的词语包括 'āhēb (撒下 1:23, 何 3:1)、yādīd (申 33:12; 诗 60:5 等)、maḥmād (何 9:16)、yēdidūt (耶 12:7) 和 h^amūdôt (但 9:23; 10:11, 19)。这些词似乎可以互换使用, 所以这些词的用法比它们的词源更能够区分含义上的细微差别。

《新约》中“beloved”(希腊语: agapētós) 专门用来表示神的爱、基督之爱和基督里新的属灵生命团体之间的情感, 如: “在主里面所亲爱的”(罗 16:8)。从历史观点上说, 这种爱所表达的美好、团结和钟爱之情是独一无二的, 而且只有基督徒能享受到。在基督里的“弟兄们”是被神“所爱的”(帖

The aged John is the conspicuous NT illustration of the depth and tenderness of Christian love. In his Epistles alone he addresses his disciples twelve times as “beloved.” Paul terms “God’s elect” “holy and beloved” (Col. 3:12).

The term has still greater significance as an epithet of Christ, whom Paul, grateful for His “freely bestowed” grace, terms “the Beloved.” This is the word used repeatedly to express God the Father’s infinite affection for Jesus His “beloved Son” (Mt. 3:17; 12:18; 17:5; Mk. 1:11; 9:7; Lk. 3:22; 20:13).

Through the apostles the word has become familiar in pastoral and sermonic address. Few NT words better illustrate the power and impress of the Christian spirit on succeeding centuries than this.

前 1:4; 林前 15:58; 雅 1:16; 2:5)。很多人的名字表明他们是蒙爱的,如提摩太(提后 1:2)、腓利门(门 1)、以拜尼士安、暗伯利安、耳巴奴、士大古安、彼息(罗 16:5, 8-9, 12)等。

《新约》中年迈的约翰显然大大地领受了基督的怜爱。单在他的书信中,就有 12 次称呼他的追随者为“亲爱的”。保罗称呼他们为“神的选民”、“圣洁蒙爱的人”(西 3:12)。

这个词作基督的别称时具有更多的意义,保罗感激基督“慷慨赐予的”恩惠,并称祂为“神的爱子”。经文中反复用这个词来表达父神对祂的“爱子”耶稣无限的爱(太 3:17; 12:18; 17:5; 可 1:11; 9:7; 路 3:22; 20:13)。

使徒们使这个词成为教牧书信和布道中的常用语。在随后的世纪中,很少有新约词汇能比这个词更好地展现出基督教精神的影响和特征。

BELSHAZZAR 伯沙撒

音译: bel-shaz'lier【亚兰语: bēlša'ššar 或 bēl'šaššar; 巴比伦语: bēl-šar-ušur——“愿彼勒保佑王”】;《钦定版圣经》还译为 BALTHASAR (“伯沙撒”, 巴 1:11)。新巴比伦最后一位国王的儿子(见 NABONIDUS [拿波尼度], 公元前 556 年至 539 年), 他曾与父亲拿波尼度共同执政(约公元前 553 年至 539 年)。

Belshazzar appears in Dnl. 5, 7, and 8 as the last of the Neo-Babylonian kings, in succession to NEBUCHADREZZAR (Nebuchadnezzar). Ancient historians, however, knew the last of those rulers as Nabonnēdus (Berossus, quoted by Josephus (CAp 1.20 [149]), Naboandēlus (Josephus Ant. x.11.2 [232]), Labynētus (Herodotus i.77, 188), or Nabannidochus (Abydenus, quoted by Eusebius Praep. ev. ix.41), all variants of the name Nabonidus. The contemporary cuneiform inscriptions also make clear that Nabonidus (Bab. Nabû-na'id, “Nabû is awe-inspiring”) was the last titular king of the neo-Babylonian empire (cf., e.g., the “Nabonidus Chronicle,” ANET, pp. 305–07). Yet the book of Daniel does not mention Nabonidus and suggests that the empire fell with the death of Belshazzar (5:30).

However, the biblical account is not incorrect. The cuneiform literature shows that: (1) Nabonidus’ son was named Bēl-šar-ušur, i.e., Belshazzar (cf., e.g., S. Langdon, Die neubabylonischen Königsinschriften [1912], Nabonid. No. 5).

(2) In the third year of his reign (553 B.C.) Nabonidus “entrusted the ‘Camp’ to his oldest son Belshazzar, the first-born.... He let everything go, entrusted the kingship to him, and himself, he started out for a long journey” (“Verse Account of Nabonidus,” ANET, pp. 312–15). So although Belshazzar is never called “king” in the cuneiform sources, and was unable to replace Nabonidus in the New Year Festival ritual, he clearly exercised many of the functions of kingship. He was still theoretically subordinate to Nabonidus, a situation reflected correctly in Dnl. 5:16, where he offers Daniel a position as “third ruler in the kingdom,” or perhaps as “member of triumvirate.”

然而, 《圣经》中的描述并非不准确。楔形文字文献表明: (1) 拿波尼度的儿子是 Bēl-šar-ušur, 也就是伯沙撒 (参: S. Langdon, Die neubabylonischen Königsinschriften [1912], Nabonid. 5 号)。

(3) Nabonidus seems to have remained absent from Babylon for nearly ten years. We know from the “Nabonidus Chronicle” (ANET, pp. 305–07) that the New Year Festival was cancelled in the seventh to the eleventh years of his reign because he did not return to Babylon from his new capital at Teima in northern Arabia. The wording of two legal documents, from his twelfth and thirteenth years, in which oaths are sworn not only by his name but also by that of Belshazzar (cf. T. G. Pinches, PSBA, 38 [1916], pp. 27–29), suggests that Nabonidus was no more than a nominal ruler, in Babylon at least. He did return to Babylon in 539 B.C., a few months before the city fell to the Persians, but whether he relieved Belshazzar of his responsibility we do not know.

There are two points at which the biblical narrative of Belshazzar appears impressionistic rather than formally precise. (1) Belshazzar’s father is said in Dnl. 5:2, 11, 18, 22 to have been Nebuchadnezzar. In fact, Nebuchadnezzar’s son and successor was Amēl-Marduk (EVIL-MERODACH; cf. 2 K. 25:27), while Belshazzar was the son of Nabonidus, an Aramean usurper from Ḥarran who brought Nebuchadnezzar’s dynasty to an end. Yet “father” may simply have been a rather loose term for “predecessor.” Some have argued that Nabonidus married Nebuchadnezzar’s daughter Nitocris (R. P. Dougherty, pp. 42ff., following Herodotus i.188), thus making Nebuchadnezzar Belshazzar’s grandfather, which is clearly sometimes meant by “father” (e.g., Gen. 28:13). This view is uncertain, however.

(3) 拿波尼度在近十年的时间里都不在巴比伦。从“拿波尼度年代志”(ANET, 305–307 页)中可以看出,在他执政第七年至第十一年的新年庆祝活动都被取消了,因为他没有从阿拉伯北部的新都提玛返回巴比伦。拿波尼度在位第十二年和第十三年的两份法律文件的措辞都表明,拿波尼度只是名义上的统治者,至少在巴比伦他是有名无实的统治者,在这两份法律文件中,拿波尼度和伯沙撒都以个人名义发了誓(参: T. G. Pinches, PSBA, 38 [1916], 27–29 页)。在公元前 539 年,波斯人攻陷巴比伦都城几个月前,拿波尼度回到了巴比伦,但他是否解除了伯沙撒的权力,我们不得而知。

(2) Years are numbered in Dnl. 7:1; 8:1 by the reign of Belshazzar, whereas contemporary Neo-Babylonian documents invariably number years by the reign of Nabonidus. It is not surprising, however, that the biblical narrator, having no occasion to mention Nabonidus, should number years by the reign of the co-regent who did figure in his story.

Two further elements in the Belshazzar narrative cannot be certainly confirmed from the cuneiform evidence. One of these is the report of his death on the night Babylon fell to the Persians. The Persian account is that Cyrus’ army under Ugbaru (Gobryas) entered Babylon without a battle, and a fortnight later Cyrus’ arrival was greeted with much enthusiasm (“Nabonidus Chronicle,” ANET, pp. 305–307; Cyrus Cylinder, ANET, pp. 315f.). A mutilated passage of the “Nabonidus Chronicle” has, however, been understood by some scholars as recording that on Araḥ-samnu 11, one month after Gobryas’ entry into Babylon, he slew Belshazzar (cf. H. H. Rowley, Darius the Mede [1935], p. 20). If this uncertain reading is correct, it would confirm the biblical report of Belshazzar’s death, while implying that the narrator has compressed the events of one month into a single night. If it is incorrect, Belshazzar may well, of course, have been slain on the night of Gobryas’ entry, whether by a Persian or by one of his own subjects.

The other element is the report that Babylon was taken by the Persians while the Babylonians were feasting. Although there is no contemporary evidence of

(2) 《但以理书》7:1 和 8:1 中以伯沙撒在位的时间纪年，然而，同时期的新巴比伦文献都以拿波尼度的继位时间纪年。不过这不足为奇，因为圣经作者没有提到拿波尼度，所以应该以故事中的重要人物，也就是摄政王伯沙撒的在位时间来纪年。

另一个无法证实的方面是，在巴比伦人举行庆祝活动时，波斯人攻占了巴比伦。虽然没有任何同时期的证据能证明这些情况，但是希罗多德 (i.191) 和色 these circumstances, Herodotus (i.191) and Xenophon (Cyropaedia vii.5.15–25) recount the same story. Nevertheless, the testimony of the extrabiblical sources is that Babylon was taken by Cyrus, not “Darius the Mede,” as Dnl. 5:31 has it. On the identification of this figure, see DARIUS.

ben (prefix) [Heb. sing. bēn—‘son of’; pl. bēnē—‘sons of’; cf. Aram. bar and related forms in most Semitic languages]. The term occurs in the construct to express a consanguine or affinal relationship or a particular condition. The Hebrew form is preserved in a number of personal or place names (Ben-Geber, Ben-Hadad, Bene-Berak), but for the most part the idiom is translated variously in the English versions. It can designate: (1) a direct male descendant (see SON); the plural may indicate children of both sexes (Gen. 3:16); in combination with other kinship terminology bēn- may designate a variety of relationships (bēnē’ābikā, “your brothers,” lit. “your father’s sons,” Gen. 49:8; see RELATIONSHIPS, FAMILY); (2) a member of a tribe or people, in construct with the name of the father or another ancestor (“sons [= children] of Esau,” Dt. 2:4; “sons of Israel,” Gen. 42:5); (3) a representative of a geographic or national entity, perhaps indicating place of birth (“son of Jabesh,” 2 K. 15:10ff.; cf. Benjamin, lit. “son of the right hand” = “southerner”); (4) a member of a social or professional class (bēnē hā’ām, “the common people,” 2 K. 23:6; bēnē haggôlā, “[returned] exiles,” lit. “sons of the exile,” Ezr. 4:1 [cf. Aram. Dnl. 2:25]; ben-hāraqqāhîm, “perfumer,” Neh. 3:8).

It can also designate characteristics or conditions: (5) a person distinguished by a certain trait (ben-hayil, “valiant man,” lit. “son of strength,” 1 S. 14:52; bēnē-merî, “rebels,” lit. “sons of rebellion,” Nu.

ben-am'ī [Heb. ben 'ammî—‘son of my kinsman’ (Gen. 19:38)]. The progenitor of the Ammonites, a son of Lot's younger daughter, born after the destruction of Sodom. It was thought originally that the name Ben-ammi was derived from the deity Emu, an alternative name for Nergal. However, excavations at Ugarit (Râs Shamrah) have revealed that in the 15th cent. B.C. Ben-ammi was a genuine name in north Syrian onomastics. Lists of names from Alalakh also include what appears to be the form Ben-Ammi as a personal designation. During the Amarna age, therefore, it would seem to have been in fairly frequent use in Syro-Palestine. The fact that the name appears in the Râs Shamrah texts as the designation of both an individual and a clan supports the

BENEDICTION.

A declaration of, or supplication for, divine blessing. Pronouncing the benediction was a regular part of the temple service in Israelite times. It was assigned to the Aaronites, who preserved the benediction of Nu. 6:24–26 (cf. Lev.

9:22; Dt. 10:8; 2 Ch. 30:27). All Aaronites of proper age were entitled to perform this service except those who by previous conduct or on account of physical defect were disqualified. One who had killed another (intentionally or otherwise), violated the marriage vows, given himself excessively to wine drinking or other excesses, or been guilty of unrighteous conduct, was not only prohibited from pronouncing the blessing but was also required to withdraw before this part of the service was performed. If one was blind even of one eye, had a defect in his hands or speech, or was a hunchback, he was also excluded. Before the priest could engage in this service he was required to wash his hands. Then, with uplifted hands, while the people stood, he uttered the words or blessing. The main idea was that the name of Yahweh was thus put on the people. Later it came to be regarded as having some special blessing in and of itself, a development against which the more spiritual priests protested.

It was common to pronounce the benediction not only in the public worship but also in noncultic settings (Gen. 9:26f.; 27:27-30). This practice prevailed among the heathen as well as in Israel. We may readily see, therefore, that from the very beginning of the Christian Church the use of the benediction was common. In the course of time an extensive literature developed on this subject, and it may be said that there are now three distinct ideas in the Church as to the benediction. (1) One section of the Church holds that the blessings pronounced are actually conferred in the utterance of the words, because of the sacerdotal powers conferred upon the minister or priest when he was set aside for the sacred office. (2)

在公众礼拜和非宗教礼拜环境下为人祝福是很常见的（创 9:26-27；27:27-30）。这既是异教中盛行的仪式，也以色列人普遍奉行的仪式。因此，我们很容易看出，从基督教教会初期开始，就经常可以看到为人祝福。后来涌现出关于这一主题的大量文献，据说，教会中可能存在着关于祝福的三种不同观点。（1）教会中一些人认为，实际上是藉着牧师或祭司的话语宣告了祝福，因为专司圣职的牧师或祭司掌握着祭司的权柄。（2）其他人则认为祝福仅仅是一次祷告，上帝可能会因为这次祷告赐福于人。（3）还有一部分人教导道，祝福宣布了那些因追随基督进入圣约的人与神之间的特殊关系，现在他们藉着这种关系也得到了圣灵的恩赐。

Others hold that the benediction is merely a prayer that God may bestow certain blessings on the people. (3) Still others teach that it is the declaration of the special relation in which those stand who have entered into covenant fellowship with Christ, and that the blessings now declared are theirs by right of that relation and are conferred upon them by the Holy Spirit.

The Greek and Roman Catholic Churches take the first position, and therefore we find among them much detail as to the manner in which it should be pronounced. In the Greek Church the priest raises his hand with the thumb touching the third finger to signify the procession of the Holy Spirit from the Father alone, or according to others to form the sacred name IHS. In the Roman Church the thumb and first and second fingers are open in order to symbolize the trinity.

The apostolic benedictions in the Epistles present considerable variety. A striking feature in a number of cases is the omission of the Holy Spirit. The best explanation seems to be that the Father and the Son effect the redemption of the world, and the Holy Spirit applies this blessing. Thus, “grace, mercy, and peace” are sent from the Father and the Son, through the Holy Spirit, to be the possession of all who have come into the kingdom. Since the involvement of the third person of the trinity is in the application of the blessing, He is not mentioned. The fact that in other cases Father, Son, and Holy Spirit are mentioned indicates that the writers were aware of the work of the Holy Spirit. Familiar NT benedictions occur in Rom. 15:13; 2 Cor. 13:14; He. 13:20f.

使徒书信中使徒的祝福多种多样。很多使徒祝福的一个显著特点是，祝福中未提及圣灵。最佳解释似乎是，圣父和圣子救赎着这个世界，圣灵为世人赐福。因此，“恩惠、怜悯和平安”是圣父和圣子藉着圣灵赐给世人的，所有进入神国的人都蒙神祝福。因为赐福中包含了三位一体真神的三个位格，所以使徒们没有提及圣灵。其他的使徒祝福提到了圣父、圣子和圣灵，这表明经文作者意识到了圣灵的工作。《罗马书》15:13、《哥林多后书》13:14 和《希伯来书》13:20-21 中提到了常见的新约祝福。

BENEFACTORS

[Gk. euergétai] (Lk. 22:25). Probably an allusion to the practice among kings of assuming or accepting the surname “Euergetes,” e.g., Ptolemy III (247–242 B.C.) and VII (147–117 B.C.) of Egypt. Jesus draws the contrast between worldly kingdoms, in which the title “benefactor” is given those who rule with all the splendor of earthly display and luxury, and His kingdom, in which it belongs only to those whose work is that of humble, obscure, and often menial service.

BENEFIT.

In the OT Heb. g^emûl is thus rendered in 2 Ch. 32:25 (NEB “good”) and Ps. 103:2. The usual meaning of the Hebrew term is “deed,” but here the connotation of “good deed” is present. The cognate tagmûl in Ps. 116:12 is rendered “bounty” in the RSV (NEB “gifts”).

The noun “benefit” occurs in the RSV NT in 1 Cor. 4:6 (Gk. Di’hymás; AV “for your sakes”; NEB “on your account”); 7:35 (symphérō; AV “profit”; NEB “good”); Philem. 20 (onínēmi; AV “joy”; NEB paraphrases, “be generous with me”); “material benefits” occurs in 1 Cor. 9:11 (Gk. tá sarkiká; AV “carnal things”; NEB “material harvest”). The verb occurs for ōphelēō (AV “profit”; NEB “do good”) in 1 Cor. 14:6; He. 4:2; 13:9; and for euergesía in 1 Tim. 6:2.

BENEFIT. 恩、恩惠、厚恩、缘故、益处、快乐、善行

《旧约》的《历代志下》32:25 和《诗篇》103:2 中的希伯来语 g^emûl 被译为 “benefit” (“恩、恩惠”),《新英文译本》译为 “good” (“恩”)。这个希伯来词语的一般含义是 “行为”,但这里指的是 “善行”。《修订标准译本》在《诗篇》116:12 中将这个词的同根词 tagmûl 译为 “bounty”,《新英文译本》译为 “gifts”, 汉译均为 “厚恩”。

名词 “benefit” (“缘故、益处、快乐”) 出现在《修订标准译本》的《新约》《哥林多前书》4:6 (希腊语: Di’hymás; 《钦定版圣经》译为 “for your sakes”; 《新英文译本》译为 “on your account”, 汉译均为 “为你们的缘故”); 7:35 中 (symphérō, 《钦定版圣经》译为 “profit”; 《新英文译本》译为 “good”, 汉译均为 “益处”) 和《腓利门书》1:20 (onínēmi, 《钦定版圣经》译为 “joy” [“快乐”], 《新英文译本》中采取了释义 “be generous with me” [“得到你

的帮助”])。《哥林多前书》9:11 中译为“material benefits” (“肉身之物”，希腊语: tá sarkiká，《钦定版圣经》译为“carnal things”；《新英文译本》译为“material harvest”，汉译均为“肉身之物”)。《哥林多前书》14:6 和《希伯来书》4:2；13:9 中用这个动词翻译 ōphelēō (《钦定版圣经》译为“profit” [“益处”]；《新英文译本》译为“do good” [“得着益处”])；《提摩太前书》6:2 中用这个动词翻译 euergesía。

In the AV the word appears also for Gk. cháris in 2 Cor. 1:15, “a second benefit,” where the RSV has “double pleasure,” the NEB “the benefit of a double visit.” The RSV is based on the variant chará found in a few MSS (including B). The AV also has “benefit” for agathós in Philem. 14 (RSV “goodness”; NEB “kindness”).

《钦定版圣经》还将《哥林多后书》1:15 中希腊语 cháris 译为“a second benefit”，《修订标准译本》译为“double pleasure”，《新英文译本》译为“the benefit of a double visit”，汉译均为“再得益处”。《修订标准译本》中的翻译以一些抄本（包括《梵蒂冈抄本》）中的 chará (cháris 的一种变形) 为依据。《钦定版圣经》还将《腓利门书》1:14 中的 agathós 译为“benefit” (《修订标准译本》译为“goodness”；《新英文译本》译为“kindness”，汉译均为“善行”)。

The TR. has Gk. eúnoia in 1 Cor. 7:3, followed by the AV; the better reading, however, is simply opheilē, hence RSV “conjugal rights,” NEB “her due.” This reference to the marriage relation is explained in v. 4. Cf. Ex. 21:10.

《公认经文》的《哥林多前书》7:3 中译为希腊语 eúnoia，《钦定版圣经》遵循了这种译法；不过，简单且更好的翻译是 opheilē，《修订标准译本》译为“conjugal rights”，《新英文译本》译为“her due”，汉译均为“合宜之分”。《哥林多前书》7:4 将“合宜之分”解释为婚姻关系。参：《出埃及记》21:10。

ben-hā'dad [Heb. ben-hadad; Gk. hyiós Hader]. The name of either two or three rulers of the Aramean kingdom of Damascus. Ben-hadad seems to have become a general designation for the kings of Syria (Am. 1:4; Jer. 49:27).

1. Ben-hadad I was called “son of Tabrimmon, son of Hezion, king of Aram” (1 K. 15:18), though his thronename was probably Hadadezer (Akk. Adad-'idri). He is first mentioned as king of Damascus in connection with the attack of Baasha of Israel (909/08–886/85 B.C.) on Asa of Judah in the thirty-sixth year of the divided monarchy. In 879 Asa bridged Ben-hadad to break his treaty with Baasha, and when Ben-hadad invaded northern Israel Baasha was obliged to withdraw his forces in order to protect his own capital (1 K. 15:16ff.). Subsequently Omri of Israel (885/84–874/73) was compelled to admit the merchants of Damascus to the bazaars of Samaria (1 K. 20:34). Perhaps about 860, shortly after the accession of Pygmalion to the Tyrian throne, Ben-hadad I seems to have entered into some sort of alliance with him, and this doubtless provided the occasion for the erection of his votive stele to his

见 W. F. Albright, JPOS, 5 (1925), 17 起。

BEN-HADAD 便哈达

音译: ben-hā'dad【希伯来语: ben-hadad; 希腊语: hyiós Hader】。大马士革亚兰王国中两个或三个统治者的名字。便哈达似乎是叙利亚王的常用名(摩 1:4; 耶 49:27)。

1、《列王纪上》15:18 称便哈达一世为“亚兰王希旬的孙子、他伯利们的儿子”,但他登基之后的名字可能是哈大底谢(阿卡德语: Adad-'idri)。经文中首次提到便哈达时,他在大马士革作王,以色列王国分裂之后的第三十六年,便哈达听从犹大王亚撒的话,进攻以色列王巴沙(公元前 909 或 908 年至公元前 886 或 885 年)。公元前 879 年,亚撒贿赂便哈达,让他废除与巴沙所立的约,当便哈达进攻以色列北部时,巴沙不得不撤回军队来保卫自己的都城(王上 15:16 起)。后来,以色列王暗利(公元前 885 或 884 至公元前 874 或 873 年)被迫允许大马士革的商人在撒玛利亚立街市(王上 20:34)。大约在公元前 860 年,皮格马利翁登上推罗王位不久,便哈达一世似乎与他结成了某种同盟关系,毫无疑问,便哈达借此时机为他的“主”推罗神明麦勒卡特立了一块石碑。1940 年该石碑在叙利亚北部的一个地方被挖掘出来,次年奥尔布赖特(W. F. Albright)翻译了石碑上的

“lord,” the Tyrian Melqart. This stele was discovered in 1940 at a north Syrian site, and the text was translated the following year by W. F. Albright. While the stele confirmed the Syrian list contained in 1 K. 15:18, it failed to identify Rezon, who seized Damascus in the Solomonic period and established the Aramean dynasty. From his connections with Asa it would appear that Ben-hadad was ruling by ca. 895, and perhaps as early as 900.

2. If three Ben-hadads are to be distinguished, the second Damascene ruler of this name probably commenced his reign about 860 B.C., and as such would be the opponent of Ahab (874/73–853). According to 1 K. 20, Ben-hadad besieged Samaria and demanded the capitulation of the northern kingdom. His purpose seems to have been that of compelling Ahab of Israel to join the Syrians in resisting the military encroachments of Assyria, which had become a threat to the security of Palestine ever since 857, when Shalmaneser III of Assyria (859–824) had begun to launch annual campaigns against Syria. In one foray against Israel Ben-hadad was driven off (1 K. 20:21); and in a second attack near Aphek he suffered heavy losses, although Ahab spared his life (vv. 26–30) in return for commercial concessions in the bazaars of Damascus (v. 34) similar to those allowed the Syrian merchants in Samaria in the time of Omri. Ben-hadad was also required to return the border cities the Damascene regime had captured from Omri, after which a treaty was made (856) that resulted in three years of peace between Israel and Damascus (1 K. 22:1).

公元前 853 年，便哈达与亚哈组成联军共同抵御撒缦以色列三世的侵略，两军在奥龙特斯河的夸夸全面交锋，庞大的以色列和叙利亚步兵及战车使联军在与亚述军队的对抗中取得了决定性的胜利。然而，撒缦以色列却宣称亚述获得了重大的胜利，撒缦以色列三世在碑文中记

However, Shalmaneser claimed a great victory, and in his Monolith Inscription he stated among other things that Ahab the Israelite and Ben-hadad (Adad-'idri) led the opposing forces. When animosity between Israel and Syria flared up again shortly afterward, Ahab allied himself with Jehoshaphat of Judah in an attempt to capture Ramoth-gilead from Ben-hadad (1 K. 22:29); but the Syrians won the battle and Ahab was killed.

Stele of Ben-hadad, dedicated to the Tyrian god 上图为便哈达为推罗神明麦勒卡特立的石碑。碑文

Melqart. The inscription apparently commemorates a treaty with Tyre, perhaps made shortly after the accession of Pumiyaton (Pygmalion) in Tyre (ca. 860 B.C.). (James B. Pritchard)

Ben-hadad II may be the “king of Aram” mentioned in the Elisha narratives who sent his officer Naaman for healing (2 K. 5:1–19) and later on sought aid for himself when ill. His servant Hazael, who bore the message to Elisha, was informed by the prophet that he would succeed to the Damascene throne; and on his return ca. 843 Hazael murdered Ben-hadad and usurped the rule (2 K. 8:14f.). The annals of Shalmaneser III recorded the incident by saying: “Adad-ʾidri forsook the land; Hazael, the son of a nobody, seized the throne.”

3. The third Ben-hadad, following the above pattern, was the son of Hazael and reigned from ca. 796 to 770 B.C. He continued his father’s oppression of Israel into the reign of Jehoash (798–782/81), who in fulfillment of the prophecy of the dying Elisha was able to repel Ben-hadad III (2 K. 13:14–19, 25). The latter was mentioned on the contemporary stele of Zakir king of Lu’ash and Hamath, which commemorated a victory of Zakir over the Syrian ruler ca. 775. The reference to an unnamed nation that delivered Israel from Syrian interference at this time may be to the Assyrian intervention under Adadnirari III (805–782), though this is uncertain.

Before the discovery of the Melqart stele it was usual to distinguish three Damascene rulers named Ben-hadad, as suggested above. Since that time many scholars have dropped the distinction between a Ben-hadad I of the time of king Asa of Judah and Baasha of Israel, and a Ben-hadad II who was contemporary with

便哈达二世可能就是以利沙故事中的“亚兰王”，便哈达二世派遣元帅乃幔见以利沙，求以利沙治好乃幔的麻风病（王下 5:1–19），后来当便哈达生病时，他又派人向以利沙求问病情。便哈达的仆人哈薛带信给以利沙，这位先知告诉哈薛，他将继承大马士革的王位；约公元前 843 年，哈薛回到大马士革后，便杀死了便哈达，篡夺了王位（王下 8:14-15）。撒幔以色列三世的年鉴中记载了这一事件：“便哈达丢下了他的土地；无名之子哈薛篡夺了王位。”

3、参照上文模式，第三个便哈达是哈薛之子，他的统治时间约从公元前 796 年至 770 年。他和他的父亲一样继续压迫约阿施执政时期（公元前 798 至 782 或 781）的以色列，以利沙临终前预言约阿施将击败便哈达三世，这个预言最终应验了（王下 13:14–19, 25）。鲁阿施（Lu’ash）和哈马王扎基（Zakir）的同时期石碑上提到了便哈达三世，扎基为了纪念他在公元前 775 年前后战胜了叙利亚统治者，立下了这块石碑。石碑上提到了一个无名的民族，这个民族使以色列摆脱了叙利亚人的围困，这个民族可能就是亚达尼拉利三世（公元前 805 至 782 年）统治时期的亚述，但尚不能确定这一点。

正如上文所示，麦勒卡特石碑出土之前，通常需要区分三个名叫便哈达的大马士革统治者。麦勒卡特石碑出土之后，很多学者不再区分犹大王亚撒和以色列王巴沙时期的便哈达一世与亚哈时期的便哈达二世。因此，正如上文所述，哈薛的儿子便哈达三世后来被认为是便哈达二世。不过，如果假设只有两

Ahab. On such a basis the son of Hazael, enumerated above as Ben-hadad III, would then be known as Ben-hadad II. However, there are certain problems that arise if only two Ben-hadads are postulated. If the one mentioned in connection with the reigns of Ahab and Joram is also the Ben-hadad associated with Asa of Judah, namely Ben-hadad I son of Tabrimmon, it would imply that he occupied the throne of Damascus for a period of about fifty-seven years (ca. 900–843 B.C.), which while not entirely without parallel would certainly be unusual. Albright thought in terms of a single Ben-hadad for this period, but seems to have based his estimate on a date of ca. 850 for the Melqart stele, arrived at on epigraphic grounds. It is equally possible from the style of the script, however, to date the stele as early as ca. 870, which would place it firmly within the time of Ben-hadad I and eliminate the need for telescoping two Ben-hadads into one. Furthermore, from 1 K. 20:34 it would appear that Omri had been defeated at an earlier time by Ben-hadad I, the father of Ben-hadad II who was the speaker and a contemporary of Ahab of Israel. Since the Melqart stele is partly mutilated and the patronymic has been lost, its evidence is less than decisive in identifying Ben-hadad I and Ben-hadad II.

个便哈达,就会产生一些问题。如果亚哈和约兰统治时期的便哈达就是犹大王亚撒时期的便哈达,即他伯利们的儿子便哈达一世,那么也就意味着他在大马士革执政约五十七年(约公元前900至843年),虽然这不是完全没有可能,但这必定是非常罕见的。奥尔布赖特认为这一时期只有一个便哈达,不过他似乎根据麦勒卡特碑文中约公元前850年这个时间,推测出了这个结论。然而,从文字风格推测,也有可能早在约公元前870年就立下了这个石碑,此时便哈达一世一定还活着,因此也就不需要将两个便哈达合为一个便哈达。此外,根据《列王纪上》20:34中的记载,便哈达二世的父亲便哈达一世似乎在很早时期就打败了暗利,经文中的说话者是便哈达二世,他是与以色列王亚哈同时期的人物。因为麦勒卡特石碑已经残缺不全,源于父名的名字已经不复存在,所以这些证据不足以证实便哈达一世和便哈达二世的身份。

1、雅各的最小的儿子，也是唯一一个生于巴勒斯坦的儿子；便雅悯支派因他而得名。据传说，他的母亲拉结在生他时去世（创 35:16-20），拉结在将死时

(Gen. 35:16–20), and the name Ben-oni, “son of my sorrow” (Gen. 35:18), was given by the dying Rachel; Jacob, however, named him Benjamin.

Benjamin, Ephraim, and Manasseh formed a special group among the tribes, all of them being sons of Rachel. Some scholars believe that as “sons of Rachel” these tribes were goatherds at the time of their wanderings, since the name Rachel in Hebrew means “young goat,” and that the other tribes were cattlebreeders inasmuch as they were related to Leah (“cow” in Akkadian; “wild cow” in Arabic). The tribes descendant from Rachel finally settled in Canaan in an uninterrupted stretch of country. As the territory of Benjamin lay S of that of Manasseh and Ephraim, i.e., to the right of them, some scholars have believed that their name was given them after their settlement. The tradition of Benjamin having been born in Palestine may mean, according to some scholars, that this tribe had already settled there before the coming to Canaan of Jacob and his sons.

At the time of the Exodus the number of men of war in the tribe is given as 35,400; at the time of the second census as 45,600 (Nu. 1:37; 26:41); their place was with the standard of the camp of Ephraim, W of the tabernacle; their leader was Abidan son of Gideoni (Nu. 2:22). Benjamin was represented among the spies by Palti son of Raphu (Nu. 13:9). At the time of the division of the land the leader of Benjamin was Elidad son of Chislon (34:21).

The tribe of Benjamin settled between Ephraim to the north and Judah to the south. To the west their neighbor was the

便雅悯、以法莲和玛拿西构成了以色列支派中特殊群体，他们都是拉结的儿子。有些学者认为这些支派是“拉结的子孙”，是旷野之行中的牧羊人，因为希伯来语中拉结的含义是“羔羊”，其他的支派是牧牛人，因为他们和利亚有关（利亚在阿卡德语中的含义是“牛”；在阿拉伯语中的含义是“野牛”）。这些从拉结而来的支派最终定居在迦南这片连绵不断的土地上。因为便雅悯支派的境界位于玛拿西和以法莲支派的境界以南，也就是这些支派的右侧，所以一些学者认为这些支派在定居迦南之后才有了名字。据传说，便雅悯生于巴勒斯坦，某些学者认为这可能意味着雅各和他的子孙来到迦南之前，便雅悯支派就已经定居于此。

在出埃及时，便雅悯支派出去打仗、被数的，共有三万五千四百名；在第二次人口普查时，这个支派的人数是四万五千六百（民 1:37； 26:41）；他们按着以法莲营的纛，驻扎在会幕的西侧；便雅悯人的首领是基多尼的儿子亚比但（民 2:22）。拉孚的儿子帕提代表便雅悯支派出去窥探迦南地（民 13:9）。在分割这片土地时，便雅悯支派的首领是基斯伦的儿子以利达（民 34:21）。

tribe of Dan (Josh. 18:11).

The northern border started from the Jordan over against Jericho, then continued to the west toward Bethaven, the northern part of the Wilderness of Judah. From there it turned NW to Bethel, then to Ataroth-addar and W to the neighborhood of Beth-horon. The western border crossed the town of Kiriath-jearim and then turned east. The southern border crossed the waters of Nephtoah and then ran S of Jerusalem through Beth-hoglah and joined the river Jordan again near its mouth (Josh. 18:11–20).

The eastern parts of the territory of Benjamin were seized by force at the beginning of the Israelite conquest of Canaan. But most of their territory was acquired through the treaty between the Israelites and the four Hivvite cities (Josh. 9:7). This situation is reflected in the list of Benjaminite cities (18:21–28), which is divided into two groups of a dozen cities each. The first group, the conquered area, consists of the cities of the southern Jordan Valley E of the watershed; the second group of cities, which came to them through the treaty, lay W of the watershed.

The first of the judges that emerged in Israel after the conquest was Ehud of the tribe of Benjamin, who fought the Moabites. If we trace in the genealogical lists the names that reflect place names, it appears that during this period Benjamin expanded northward and southward, and later also to the west when the tribe of Dan left its previous territory. The Benjaminites were men of war and famous slingers (Gen. 49:27; Jgs. 3:15; 1 Ch. 8:40; 12:2). The story told in Jgs.

以色列人征服迦南初期,派兵驻扎在便雅悯支派领地的东界。便雅悯支派的大部分领地是通过与以色列人与四座希未人城市立约得来的(书 9:7)。便雅悯人的城邑名单中反映了这种情况(书 18:21–28),便雅悯人的城邑分为两部分,每部分包括十二座城。第一部分是征服的城邑,由包括分水岭以东、约旦谷南部的城邑组成;第二部分城邑是通过立约得来的,这些城邑位于分水岭以西。

征服迦南地之后,以色列人中出现的第一位士师就是便雅悯支派的以笏,他与摩押人争战过。如果我们追溯宗谱上的名单,就会发现这些名字还可以表示地名,便雅悯支派似乎在这一时期向北和向南扩张了领地,后来当但支派舍弃了他们之前的领地,便雅悯支派又向西扩张了领地。便雅悯人英勇善战,是著名的投石手(创 49:27; 士 3:15; 代上 8:40; 12:2)。《士师记》19-21 章中的故事有一些难点,这里不予讨论。便雅悯人所施的暴行和他们因此所遭受的可怕惩

19–21 presents many difficulties that cannot be discussed here. The atrocity committed by the Benjaminites and the terrible punishment they suffered for it illustrate certain features of life in those lawless times when there was no king in Israel. The refusal of the men of JABESH-GILEAD (of the tribe of Manasseh) to take part in the battle of requital against Benjamin provides the background for the special relationship between the Benjaminites and the inhabitants of that city. It explains why Saul and the Benjaminites came to their aid when Jabesh-Gilead was attacked by the Ammonites (1 S. 11:1–3).

Benjamin was also the first tribe to oppose the Philistines. From among the Benjaminites arose the first king, Saul. After his death David a Judahite, became king. David did not easily win the loyalty of the Benjaminites; and one of them, Shimei son of Gera, a descendant of Saul, took part in Absalom's rebellion (2 S. 16:5). Sheba son of Bichri led the revolt against David after the quelling of Absalom's rebellion (2 S. 21:1f.). Owing to David's peaceful policy, however, the Benjaminites finally joined him and remained loyal to his son Solomon even after the division of the kingdom. From that time the history of the tribe is the history of the kingdom of Judah.

Other Benjaminites of distinction were the prophet Jeremiah (1:1), Esther and Mordecai (Est. 2:5), and the Apostle Paul (Rom. 11:1; Phil. 3:5).

其他著名的便雅悯人包括：先知耶利米（耶 1:1）、以斯帖和末底改（斯 2:5），以及使徒保罗（罗 11:1；腓 3:5）。

The woman who had the spirit of infirmity and was unable to straighten herself (Lk. 13:11–17) was afflicted with senile kyphosis, a chronic bone disease often found among aged men and, more frequently, women whose lives have been spent in agricultural labor. In these people the vertebrae become altered in shape so that it is impossible to straighten the back. Some rabbinical authorities believed all deformities to be due to Satan, and to this Jesus seems to have alluded in His rebuke to those who objected to His healing on the sabbath. This condition has been observed in some Egyptian skeletons, and a skeleton with a similar curvature was found buried under the threshold of a house at Gezer, where she had evidently been offered as a foundation sacrifice.

BEREAVE

[Heb. šākal, šākōl] (Dt. 32:25; Ezk. 36:12–14; Hos. 9:12); AV also DESTROY (Dt. 32:25); NEB “make orphans” (Dt. 32:25), “rob of children” (Ezk. 36:12–14), “make childless” (Hos. 9:12). In these passages, šākōl is in the piel (šikkēl). In the qal, šākōl is a stative verb meaning “be without children.” The piel makes this verb active, “deprive of children.”

In Ezk. 36:14 the form is ʿkaššēlī in the K, but in the Q this is corrected to ʿšakkēlī. The K reading would be a piel form of the verb kašal, meaning “stumble” (cf. v. 15).

In Dt. 32:25 the word is found in connection with the judgment of God upon the people of Israel due to their violation of the first commandment. The whole of the pericope 32:1–43 is the so-called Song of Moses, which plays upon the themes of God’s activity in history and the apostasy of the people.

有两个地点可能是庇哩亚：比录（el-Bîreh），耶路撒冷以北约8英里（13公里）处的一座便雅悯城市；比珥兹特（Bir ez-Zait），耶路撒冷以北约13英里（21公里）处的一个村庄。

BEREAVE 使……丧亡、使……丧子

【希伯来语：šākal, šākōl】（申 32:25；结 36:12–14；何 9:12）；《钦定版圣经》还译为 DESTROY（“使……丧亡”申 32:25）；《新英文译本》译为 “make orphans”（“使……丧亡”，申 32:25）、“rob of children”（“使……丧子”，结 36:12–14）、“make childless”（“使……丧子”，何 9:12）。在这些经文中，šākōl 是皮卡（šikkēl）。šākōl 作卡干时是状态动词，意思是“无子嗣”。皮卡使得这个动词成为主动动词，意思是“使……丧子”。

在《以西结书》36:14 中，这个词在《纪土宾》中的形式是 ʿkaššēlī，但在 Q 字原材料中，它被更改为 ʿšakkēlī。《纪土宾》中使用了动词 kašal 的皮卡形式，意思是“使……绊倒”（参：结 36:15）。

在《申命记》32:25 中，这个词与上帝对以色列子民的审判有关，以色列人因为违背了第一条诫命而受到审判。《申命记》32:1–43 被称为所谓“摩西的歌”，这个章节阐明了上帝在历史中的作为和祂的子民的悖逆行为两大主题。

In Ezk. 36 the passage is giving a picture of the new Israel. The whole of the unit 36:1-15 is directed to the mountains of Israel. Vv. 13f. probably refer to the child sacrifice that was a feature of Canaanite religion.

Hosea 9:12 is part of a judgment oracle against the people of Israel. A clue to the reason for the judgment is found in v. 10. The people were found by Yahweh and nurtured as a farmer nurtures his crops, but they chose to dedicate themselves to Baal instead of Yahweh. Therefore there shall be no hope for productivity in the land, and even those children who are born will be slain.

《何西阿书》9:12是关于以色列子民的审判预言的一部分。《何西阿书》9:10中暗示出以色列受审判的原因。神的子民是由神创造的,祂养育他们就像农民培育他的庄稼,但他们却崇拜巴力,悖逆耶和华。因此,地上必不生产,甚至连出生的孩子都将被杀死。

[Heb. bered; Gk. Barad]. A place in the Negeb mentioned in the story of Hagar (Gen. 16:14). The well Beer-lahai-roi was "between Kadesh and Bered." The Onkelos Targum renders it H^agrā', the usual equivalent of Shur; the Jerusalem Targum renders it H^alūšā, also the equivalent of Shur (Ex. 15:22). H^alūšā is the Elusu mentioned by Ptolemy and from the 4th to 7th cents by various ecclesiastical writers. It was an important town on the road from Palestine to Kadesh and Mt. Sinai, and can be identified with reasonable certainty with Khirbet Ḥalāṣeh, modern Ḥalutsah, about 15 mi. (24 km.) SW of Beer-sheba. The large ruins are of a city with a population of about twenty thousand, from the Byzantine period. The identification Bered = Shur = Ḥalutsah, however, is not positively established.

音译：bər-nēs'【希腊语：Bernikē——“征服”】（徒 25:13, 23; 26:30）。希律亚基帕一世的长女，希律亚基帕二世的姐姐。百尼基生于约公元 28 年。约瑟夫斯讲述了她的生平（另参：Juvenal Satires vi.156）。

Her first marriage was to Marcus the son of Alexander Lysimachus the “alabarch”

of Alexandria. After Marcus' death she married her uncle, King Agrippa's brother Herod, for whom Agrippa was able to procure the kingdom of Chalcis from Claudius (Ant. xix.5.1). This marriage produced two sons, Bernicianus and Hyrcanus (xx.5.2). After Herod's death in 48 she became involved in an incestuous relationship with her brother Agrippa II, with whom she listened to the defense of Paul at Caesarea before Festus. In an attempt to silence the rumors about her relationship with Agrippa, she persuaded Polemo king of Sicily to undergo circumcision and marry her; but soon after they were married she left him and returned to her brother (xx.7.3).

Josephus writes that she was in Jerusalem to perform a vow at the time when Procurator Florus slaughtered many of the Jews (A.D. 66). She pleaded with him to stop the massacre; but he refused to listen to her, and she herself was almost killed by his soldiers (BJ ii.15.1). During the war that ensued, her palace—as well as that of Agrippa—was set on fire by the Jews (ii.17.6).

In later years she and Agrippa took an oath of loyalty to the emperor Vespasian. It appears that ca. 75 they moved to Rome, where she became the mistress of Vespasian's son Titus.

后来，她和亚基帕宣誓效忠于维斯帕先皇帝。他们似乎是在约公元 75 年来到了罗马，百尼基在罗马成了维斯帕先儿子提图斯的情妇。

bə-rē'ə [Gk. Beroia, Berroia]; AV BEREΑ.

1. A city of southwestern Macedonia in the district of Emathia; modern Verria. Lying 40 mi. (65 km.) W of Thessalonica and 25 mi. (40 km.) from the Gulf of Thermai, Beroea was situated on a tributary on the Haliacmon at the foot of Mt. Bermius. It was called “a town off the beaten track” by Cicero (In Pisonem 36) probably because it was not on one of the main Roman roads. The existence of the city by the end of the 4th cent. B.C. is verified by an ancient inscription (U. Koehler, ed., Inscriptiones Graecae, II/5 [1895], no. 296i). Moreover, it is mentioned twice by Polybius (xxvii.8; xxviii.8). After the battle of Pydna in 168 B.C., Beroea was the first city to surrender to Rome, and fell into the third of the four regions into which Macedonia was divided (Livy xlv.45; xlv.29).

When they were driven out of Thessalonica, Paul and Silas came to Beroea, where they preached in the synagogue of the Jews. Many of their hearers came to believe, having first carefully examined the message in the light of the Scriptures (Acts 17:10f.). The work of Paul and Silas in Beroea terminated when a group of hostile Jews from Thessalonica created a disturbance in the city and thereby forced them to leave (vv. 12–15). Perhaps Sopater of Beroea, who accompanied Paul to Asia on his last journey, was one of his converts on this

音译: bə-rē'ə【希腊语: Beroia, Berroia】; 《钦定版圣经》译为 BEREΑ(庇哩亚)。

1、依马提亚地区马其顿西南部的一座城市; 现代维里亚。庇哩亚位于帖撒罗尼迦以西 40 英里 (65 公里) 处, 距离塞尔迈湾 25 英里 (40 公里), 位于伯米乌山脚下阿利阿克蒙河的支流上。西塞罗称之为“人迹罕至的城邑”(In Pisonem 36), 这可能是因为在庇哩亚不在罗马的主干道上。古代的铭文证明这座城市建于公元前 4 世纪末 (U. Koehler, 编, Inscriptiones Graecae, II/5 [1895], 296i 号)。此外, 波利比乌斯曾两次提及这座城市 (xxvii.8; xxviii.8)。公元前 168 年彼得那战争之后, 庇哩亚是首个向罗马投降的城市, 罗马占领马其顿后, 将其领土分为 4 区, 庇哩亚为第 3 区 (Livy xlv.45; xlv.29)。 visit (20:4).

As one of the most populous cities of Macedonia, Beroea was made a bishopric under the metropolitan of Thessalonica and was itself made a metropolis by Andronicus II (1283–1328). According to tradition, Onesimus was the first bishop of the church. After playing a prominent role in the struggles between the Greeks and the Bulgarians and Serbs, Beroea was conquered by the Turks in 1373/74. A large number of inscriptions are the only known remains of the ancient city.

2. The city of Aleppo in northern Syria between the Orontes and the Euphrates rivers. It was renamed Beroea, after the Macedonian city, by Seleucus Nicator (312–280 B.C.). It is mentioned in 2 Mac. 13:3ff. as the site of the execution of Menelaus, the former high priest, by order of Antiochus Eupator, for inciting war with the Maccabees. The manner of the execution was one peculiar to the region, whereby the victim was thrown into a tower filled with ashes. The Semitic name of the city, Halab, from which “Aleppo” is derived, was revived by the Moslems in the Middle Ages when it was a city of some importance, being located on a vital trade route from Europe to Persia and Asia. Its importance declined, however, after the discovery of the route around the Cape. The Mosque Zakariyah in Aleppo is reported to contain the tomb of Zechariah, father of John the Baptist. For many years the city was the repository of the famous Aleppo Codex of the OT.

2、奥龙特斯河与幼发拉底河之间、叙利亚北部的阿勒坡城。塞琉古·尼卡特（公元前312至280年）后来将这座马其顿城市被改名为庇哩亚。《马加比二书》13:3起中提到，庇哩亚是安提阿哥·优帕特下令处死前大祭司麦尼劳斯的地方，因为麦尼劳斯挑起了希腊人与马加比人之间的战争。安提阿哥按照当地独特的方式处死了麦尼劳斯，麦尼劳斯被扔进一个装有灰土的塔中。这个城市的闪米特语名字是Halab，“阿勒坡”由此得名。中世纪时期，穆斯林教徒振兴了这座城市，因为庇哩亚位于欧洲至波斯和亚西亚的重要商道上，从而成为当时重要城市。然而，好望角周围道路的发现削弱了庇哩亚的重要性。据说施洗约翰的父亲撒迦利亚的坟墓就位于阿勒坡的扎卡利亚大清真寺中。著名的《旧约》《阿勒坡抄本》多年来一直存放在这座城市中。

bē'roth [Heb. bērōtā] (Ezk. 47:16); NEB BERUTHA; BEROTHAI bē-ro'thī [Heb. bērōtay] (2 S. 8:8). A town on the northern boundary between Zedad and Sibram (Sepharvaim), just S of the kingdom of Hamath (Ezk. 47:16). 2 S. 8:8 identifies Berothai as one of the cities belonging to King Hadadezer from which David captured much bronze. The parallel passage, 1 Ch. 18:8, substitutes the name Cun. Etymological similarities have convinced some that it was identical with ancient Beirūt (Beruti in Am. Tab.), but its position in the Ezekiel passage makes this unlikely. A more plausible site would be at Bereitan (Brital) 8 mi. (13 km.) S of Baalbek in the western foothills of Anti-Lebanon (GTTOT, p. 333).

bə-rit'əs. The ancient name of the city of Beirut, Lebanon. There seems to be no reference to the city in the Bible. Some have thought that Berothai (2 S. 8:8) and BEROTHIAH (Ezk. 47:16) were references to Beirut, but the other names associated with these places make such an identification improbable. The name seems to have come from the Phoenician word for “wells.”

BERYTUS 贝里图斯

音译: bə-rit'əs。黎巴嫩贝鲁特城的古名。《圣经》中似乎没有提到这座城市。有些人认为《撒母耳记下》8:8 和《以西结书》47:16 中的比罗他(见 BEROTHIAH[比罗他])就是贝鲁特, 但其他与比罗他相关的地名证明这种说法不太可能成立。这个地名似乎源自腓尼基语中的“井”。

The incident is recalled by Josephus (Ant. vi.14.6). Some have identified it with Wādī es-Sheriah, others with Wādī Ghazzeḥ. Modern Israeli maps identify Wādī Ghazzeḥ as Habesor or “the Besor.” It enters the Mediterranean Sea S of Gaza.

BESAI 比赛

音译: bē'si 【希伯来语: bēsay; 希腊语: Basi, Bēsi, 《次经》中作 Basthai】; 《钦定版圣经》的《次经》中译为 BASTAI; 《新英文译本》的《次经》中译为 BASTHAE, 汉译均为“比赛”。比赛的子孙与所罗巴伯一同回到了耶路撒冷(拉 2:49; 尼 7:52; 拉一 5:31)。

BESIDE. 除了

《钦定版圣经》通常用“beside”作为“besides”的古语表达, 汉译均为“除了”; 如《出埃及记》12:37; 《民数记》5:20; 《约书亚记》22:19, 29; 《以赛亚书》44:6; 45:5; 《何西阿书》13:4; 《马太福音》14:21; 25:20; 《哥林多后书》11:28。

BESIEGE. 围困

见 SIEGE (围困)。

BESODEIAH 比所玳

音译: bes-ə-dē'yə 【希伯来语: b^esodyā——“跟耶和华亲密来往”(参: 耶 23:18, 22)】。建造者米书兰的父亲(尼 3:6)。

BESOR 比梭溪

音译: bē'sōrr, BROOK (“溪”) 【希伯来语: naḥal b^eśōr; 希腊语: Bechōr, Beana】; 《新英文译本》译为“ravine of Besor” (“比梭溪”)。大卫将二百人留在这个河床 (naḥal) 或干谷中, 让其他的军队继续追赶亚玛力人(撒上 30:9-10, 21)。约瑟夫斯回忆了这个事件 (Ant. vi.14.6)。有些人认为比梭溪就是舍拉干谷 (Wādī es-Sheriah), 其他人则认为比梭溪是盖宰溪谷 (Wādī Ghazzeḥ)。现代以色列地图上将盖宰溪谷标注为哈比梭溪 (Habesor) 或“比梭溪”。这条小溪注入迦萨南部的地中海。

BEST SEAT

[Gk. prōtokathedría]; AV CHIEF SEATS, UPPERMOST SEAT, HIGHEST SEAT; NEB CHIEF SEAT, SEAT OF HONOUR. Jesus reproached the scribes and Pharisees for having the best seats in the synagogues (Mt. 23:6; Mk. 12:39; Lk. 11:43; 20:46). These were special chairs set in front of the ark and facing the congregation, reserved for those held in highest honor in the congregation, the teachers of the law. They may have been similar to the seventy-one special chairs in the great synagogue of Alexandria, which were occupied by the members of the great council in that city.

BESTEAD.

Archaic term for “beset” in Isa. 8:21, AV.

BESTIALITY.

BESTOW.

Some occurrences in the AV are archaic for “lay up,” “stow away,” “store,” as 2 K. 5:24 (Heb. pāqad); Lk. 12:17f. (Gk. synágō). In 1 K. 10:26 (Heb. nāhā) and 2 Ch. 9:25 (nū(a)h) it is replaced in the RSV by “station.” Elsewhere “bestow” or “bestow on (upon)” means “give” or “provide.”

BEST SEAT 首位、高位

【希腊语: prōtokathedría】:《钦定版圣经》译为 CHIEF SEATS (“首位”)、UPPERMOST SEAT (“高位”)、HIGHEST SEAT (“高位”);《新英文译本》中译为 CHIEF SEAT (“首位”)、SEAT OF HONOUR (“高位”)。耶稣因为文士和法利赛人喜爱会堂里的高位而谴责他们(太 23:6; 可 12:39; 路 11:43; 20:46)。首位或高位是约柜前的特殊座位,它面对着会众,专门为会众中拥有最高头衔的律法教师准备的。这种座位可能与亚历山大港庞大犹太会堂中的七十一个特殊座位类似,城市大议会的议员可以坐在这些位子上。

BESTEAD. 艰难

《钦定版圣经》《以赛亚书》8:21 中 “beset”的古语表达,汉译均为“艰难”。

BESTIALITY. 兽行

见 CRIME (罪、罪行)。

BESTOW. 放、存放、收藏

这个词在《钦定版圣经》中出现过几次,是 “lay up” (“放”)、“stow away” (“存放”)、“store” (“收藏”)的古语表达,如《列王纪下》5:24 (希伯来语: pāqad) 和《路加福音》12:17-18 (希腊语: synágō)。《修订标准译本》在《列王纪上》10:26 (希伯来语: nāhā) 和《历代志下》9:25 (nū(a)h) 中用 “station” (“安置”)取代了这个词。在其他的经文中 “bestow” 或 “bestow on (upon)” 的含义是 “给” 或 “供给”。

bet'ə-nē [Gk. Baitanē] (AV Jth. 1:9). A place named among those to which the messengers of Nebuchadrezzar were sent. From the order in which they are named we should look for it S of Jerusalem. It may be identical with Beit 'Ainûn (Beth-anoth) about 3 mi. (5 km.) N of Hebron; or the RSV may be correct in identifying it with BETHANY (el-'Azariyeh) 2 mi. (3 km.) SE of Jerusalem.

bē'tən [Heb. beṭen; Gk. Batne]. A city listed to designate the territory assigned to Asher when the land of Canaan was divided among the tribes of Israel following the conquest under Joshua (Josh. 19:25). It is probably modern Abtun, 2.5 mi. (4 km.) ENE of Mt. Carmel on the eastern edge of the Kishon River Valley.

BETANE 伯大尼

音译: bet'ə-nē 【希腊语: Baitanē】(《钦定版圣经》, 滴 1:9)。尼布甲尼撒派使臣传谕旨的地区之一。从经文中提及的地名顺序来看, 伯大尼应该在耶路撒冷南面。它可能是希伯仑以北约 3 英里(5 公里)的伯亚诺; 《修订标准译本》将这个词更正为 BETHANY (见 BETHANY [伯大尼]), 也就是耶路撒冷东南 2 英里(3 公里)处的拉匝禄 (el-'Azariyeh)。

BETEN 比田

音译: bē'tən 【希伯来语: beṭen; 希腊语: Batne】。约书亚征服迦南之后, 以色列的各支派分割迦南的土地时, 比田是分给亚设支派的城市(书 19:25)。它可能就是迦密山东北偏东 2.5 英里(4 公里)处的现代艾顿 (Abtun), 位于基顺河谷的东边。

BETH 伯

音译: beth (出现在专有名词中) 【希伯来语: bêt; 希腊语: bēth, baith 或

beth-ab’ə-rə [Gk. Bēthabara]. The AV and RV mg. for Bethany in Jn. 1:28. The best MSS (p66 κ * A B C* W N Θ) have Bethany, obviously the original reading. In his Greek comm. on the Fourth Gospel Origen says: “We were persuaded it must not be read Bethany, but Bethabara.” The only Bethany he knew was “the home town of Lazarus and Martha and Mary,” near Jerusalem. This apparently explains the presence of Bethabara in the TR. A redactor of Codex Sinaiticus substituted Betharaba for Bethany, perhaps to identify it with a city of Judah and Benjamin (Josh. 15:6, 61; 18:22). Bethabara has also been identified with Beth-nimrah (Josh. 13:27); but this is 5 mi. (8 km.) E of the Jordan, about opposite Jericho. It is more probable that John would be baptizing at the Jordan.

Condor (HDB, I, 276) writes: “The name survives at the ford called Abarah, north-east of Bethshean, and this is the only place where this name occurs in Palestine.” He favors this site, as being only a day’s walk from Cana. But A. S. Geden observes: “The inference ... which has been drawn from Jn. 2:1, that Bethabara or Bethany lay not more than a day’s journey from Cana of Galilee, is precarious” (DCG, I, 193).

beth】。希伯来语 bēt 的意思是“家”、“帐幕”或“地方”。这个词用在组合的专有名词中和短语中，如 bēt “nāṭ”或“nōṭ——“回应之家”（书 19:38；士 1:33）；bēt’ēl——“上帝的殿”（创 12:8；13:3）等。我们也可以在一些合成词中看到这个词，如 Bēthphagē——“无花果之家”（太 21:1）。

BETHABARA 伯大巴喇

音译：beth-ab’ə-rə【希腊语：Bēthabara】。《钦定版圣经》和《修订译本》在《约翰福音》1:28 中对伯大尼的旁注。最佳手稿 (p66 κ * A B C* W N Θ) 中译为伯大尼，这显然是最初的文本。俄利根在第四福音书的希腊语注释中说道：“我们必须承认这个词一定不能读作伯大尼，而应该读作伯大巴喇。”他所了解的唯一的伯大尼是“拉撒路、马大和马利亚的家乡”，位于耶路撒冷附近。这显然说明在《公认经文》中出现了伯大巴喇这个词。《西奈抄本》的编辑者将伯大巴喇替换成了伯大尼，可能认为它是犹大和便雅悯的一座城市（书 15:6, 61；18:22）。伯大巴喇还被认为是伯宁拉（书 13:27）；但该地位于约旦河以东 5 英里（8 公里）处，大致与耶利哥相对。约翰很有可能是在约旦河附近为人施洗。

孔多尔（Condor, HDB, I, 276）写道：“浅滩边上的这个地名被称为大巴喇，位于伯善东北方向，这个地名只在巴勒斯坦地区出现过。”他认为这个地名仅表示，从迦拿出发一天所走的路程。但基登（A. S. Geden）认为：“根据《约翰福音》2:1 推测，伯大巴喇或伯大尼距离加利利的迦拿不到一日的路程这种说法是不成立的”（DCG, I, 193）。

After a lengthy discussion, Gustaf Dalman fixes on the Wādī el-Kharrâr, E of the Jordan near Jericho, as the best site (SSW, p. 89).

Perhaps the best suggestion is that of Pierson Parker. Pointing out that Gk. péran can mean “opposite” as well as “beyond,” he paraphrases Jn. 1:28 thus: “These things took place in Bethany, which is across from the point of the Jordan where John had been baptizing” (JBL, 74 [1955], 258). That is, the reference here is to the well-known BETHANY, near Jerusalem.

BETH-ANATH

beth-a'nath [Heb. bêt ^a*nat*—‘house of Anath,’ a Canaanite goddess; Gk. Baithanath]. A fortified city (listed by several Egyptian rulers during the New Kingdom period) in the territory assigned to Naphtali when Canaan was divided among the tribes of Israel following the conquest under Joshua (Josh. 19:38). Instead of driving out the inhabitants, the Israelites used them as forced labor (Jgs. 1:33). If represented by modern el-Ba'neh, the city is located 10 mi. (16 km.) E of Acco (Ptolemais).

BETH-ANATH 伯亚纳

音译: beth-a'nath【希伯来语: bêt ^a*nat*——“亚拿特之家”，迦南女神；希腊语: Baithanath】。约书亚征服迦南之后，以色列的各支派开始分割迦南地，伯亚纳是拿弗他利支派分得的一座坚固城（新王国时期的许多埃及统治者都曾提及这座城市）（书 19:38）。这些以色列人没有把城中的迦南居民赶走，而是强迫他们服劳役（士 1:33）。如果现代的巴内 (el-Ba'neh) 就是伯亚纳，那么该城市位于亚柯（多利买）以东 10 英里（16 公里）处。 allotted to Judah (Josh. 15:59), often identified as Beit' Ainûn, 2 mi. (3 km.) SE of Hālhûl and 3 mi. (5 km.) NE of Hebron. On the basis of the similarity of the names, this was sometimes identified as the Aenon of Jn. 3:23—which is quite impossible.

BETH-ANOTH 伯亚诺

BETHANY

beth'ə-nē [Gk. Bēthania].

1. A village 15 stadia (less than 2 mi., 3 km.) from Jerusalem (Jn. 11:18), on the southeast slopes of the Mt. of Olives, on the Jericho road (Mk. 11:1; Lk. 19:29). Here lived Simon the leper (Mk. 14:3), and Mary, Martha, and Lazarus (Jn. 11:18ff.). Apparently Jesus usually spent the night there when He went to Jerusalem (Mt. 21:17; Mk. 11:11). On at least one occasion He was entertained in the home of Martha and Mary (Lk. 10:38–42). At Bethany He raised Lazarus from the dead (Jn. 11). In the home of Simon the leper He was anointed by Mary (Mt. 26:6–13; Mk. 14:3–9; Jn. 12:1–9). That Martha served the meal on this occasion (Jn. 12:2) suggests that this may also have been the home of Martha and Mary, though their relation to Simon is not stated.

The Ascension is commonly placed at Bethany, because of the statement in Lk. 24:50f., “Then he led them out as far as Bethany, and lifting up his hands, he blessed them. While he blessed them, he parted from them.” The account of the Ascension in Acts 1:6–12 seems to

音译: beth'ə-nē 【希腊语: Bēthania】。

1、距耶路撒冷 15 视距 (少于 2 英里[3 公里]) 的一个村庄 (约 11:18), 位于橄榄山的东南坡, 在通向耶利哥的道路上 (可 11:1; 路 19:29)。长大麻风的西门 (可 14:3)、马利亚、马大和拉撒路 (约 11:18 起) 都生活在伯大尼。显然, 当耶稣去往耶路撒冷时, 祂通常在伯大尼过夜 (太 21:17; 可 11:11)。祂至少有一次曾在马大和马利亚的家中受到了款待 (路 10:38–42)。耶稣在伯大尼使拉撒路死后复生 (约 11)。在长大麻风的西门的家中, 马利亚将香膏抹在耶稣的身上 (太 26:6–13; 可 14:3–9; 约 12:1–9)。马大借此机会款待了耶稣 (约 12:2), 这表明伯大尼是马大和马利亚的家乡, 但经文中并没说她们与西门的关系。

人们通常认为耶稣升天发生在伯大尼, 因为《路加福音》24:50-51 中说, “耶稣领他们到伯大尼的对面, 就举手给他们祝福。正祝福的时候, 祂就离开他们。”《使徒行传》1:6–12 中似乎表明耶稣升天发生在橄榄山, 可能包括了伯大尼。不过, 《路加福音》24:50 中的这个

suggest that it took place on the Mt. of Olives, which could include Bethany. But the phrase in Lk. 24:50 may be translated “over against Bethany” (RV). So the traditional site of the Ascension on top of the Mt. of Olives could be correct.

Today Bethany is called el-‘Azariyeh, a corrupted form of “Lazarus.” Tourists are shown the tomb of Lazarus, as well as the house of Mary and Martha; but both sites are uncertain.

See also BETANE (Jth. 1:9).

BETH-ARABAH

beth-är'əbə [Heb. bêt hā^arābā—‘house (place) of the Arabah’]. One of the six cities of Judah “in the wilderness” (Josh. 15:61). Also included in this group is En-gedi, a well-known location midway along the western shore of the Dead Sea, which suggests that the site is to be located in the barren land W of the Dead Sea. Since it is named both as a city of Judah and as a city of Benjamin (Josh. 15:6; 18:18), it must have stood on the border between the two tribes, somewhere near the north end of the Dead Sea. It is possibly to be identified with 'Ain el-Gharabah, on the north of Wādī Qelt, SE of Jericho.

另见 BETANE (伯大尼，滴 1:9)。

2、“约旦河外伯大尼”(约 1:28)。关于这个伯大尼的可能位置，见 BETHABARA (伯大巴喇)。正如词条“伯大巴喇”所述，伯大巴喇应该很有可能就是耶路撒冷附近的伯大尼。

BETH-ARABAH 伯亚拉巴

音译：beth-är'əbə 【希伯来语：bêt hā^arābā——“亚拉巴之家”】。犹大支派“在旷野中”的六座城市之一(书 15:61)。死海西海岸中间位置的著名地点隐基底也包括在这六座城市之中，这表明该地位于死海以西的贫瘠土地上。因为伯亚拉巴既是犹大支派的城市，又是便雅悯支派的城市(书 15:6; 18:18)，所以它一定位于两支派之间的境界上，靠近死海北端的某个地方。它可能是吉勒特干谷(Wādī Qelt)北部、耶利哥东南的艾因盖拉巴('Ain el-Gharabah)。

BETH-AVEN 伯亚文

(place) of nothing'; Gk. Baithōn, Baithaun]. A place near Ai (Josh. 7:2), on the northern boundary of Benjamin (Josh. 18:12). According to 1 S. 13:5, Michmash was E of Beth-aven; but this cannot be if the latter was near Ai. The Greek texts indicate a basic problem throughout: in Josh. 7:2 there is no mention of Beth-aven; in 18:12, B reads Baithōn and A reads Baithaun; in 1 S. 13:5 some texts read Baithōn, others read Baithōrōn; and in 14:23 we find Baithōn, Bamōth, Bēthaun, or Baithōrōn.

Hosea (4:15; 10:5) uses the term Beth-aven as a symbol of reproach for Bethel, and Amos (5:5) makes a pun on the name, "Bethel shall come to nought" (Heb. 'āwen). Even the word 'āwen may be a pun, for with slightly different vocalization it becomes 'Ōn, which was Heliopolis, the city of the Egyptian priestly caste, from which elements were imported for the idolatrous religion at Bethel. It seems likely, then, that Beth-aven is a surrogate for Bethel.

beth-az-mā'vəth [Heb. bēṭ 'azmāweṭ]; NEB BETH-AZMOTH. A place named in the census of men who returned from the Exile (Neh. 7:28), identified with AZMAVETH on the basis of Ezr. 2:24.

——“虚浮之屋”；希腊语：Baithōn, Baithaun】。临近艾城的一个地方（书 7:2），位于便雅悯支派的北界上（书 18:12）。根据《撒母耳记上》13:5 中的记载，密抹在伯亚文的东边；但如果伯亚文靠近艾城，这种说法一定不正确。希腊译本中指出了贯穿经文始终的基本问题：《约书亚记》7:2 中没有提到伯亚文；在《约书亚记》18:12 中，《梵蒂冈抄本》将这个地名译为 Baithōn，而《亚历山大抄本》将这个地名译为 Baithaun；在《撒母耳记上》13:5 中，某些抄本将这个地名拼写为 Baithōn，其他抄本则拼写为 Baithōrōn；我们可以在《撒母耳记上》14:23 中看到 Baithōn、Bamōth、Bēthaun 或 Baithōrōn 几种不同的拼写形式。

《何西阿书》4:15 和 10:5 中用伯亚文这个词作为谴责伯特利的象征，《阿摩司书》5:5 将这个词用为双关语，“伯特利也必归于无有”（希伯来语：'āwen）。甚至连 'āwen 这个词都可能是双关语，因为对这个词稍微进行一下变音，它就变成了 'Ōn（“安城”），这个词可以表示埃及祭司等级之城黑利奥波勒斯（“太阳城”），先知们藉此谴责伯特利的偶像崇拜。伯亚文似乎是伯特利的替代词。

beth-bāl-mē'on [Heb. bêt ba'al me'ôn—'Baal's dwelling place'] (Josh. 13:17). See BAAL-MEON.

BETH-BARAH

beth-bâr'ə [Heb. bêt bārā]. A place in the vicinity of the Jordan Valley, probably located between the Jordan and the modern Wādī Fār'ah. At this point the enemy could easily be taken. Gideon sent messengers to the Ephraimites directing them to seize these rivers "as far as Beth-Barah" in order to trap the fleeing Midianites (Jgs. 7:24). If, as some conjecture, it is the same as Bethabara (bêt "bārā), guttural having been lost in copying (HDB), it may indeed have been a ford or crossing near the confluence of the two rivers. The exact location is unknown.

See BETHABARA.

beth-bā'sī [Gk. Baithbasi, perhaps < Heb. bêt-b'šî—'place of marshes'] (1 Macc. 9:62, 64). A place in the Wilderness of Judah refortified by Jonathan and Simon Maccabeus. It was subsequently attacked by Bacchides, but he was driven off. Today it is identified with Khirbet Beit Baṣṣi, SE of Bethlehem and about 3 mi. (5 km.) NE of Tekoa.

BETH-BIREIBETH-AZMOTH 伯亚斯玛弗

音译: beth-az'moth (《新英文译本》, 拉 2:24; 尼 7:28; 12:29)。见 AZMAVETH (亚斯玛弗); BETH-AZMAVETH (伯亚斯玛弗) (尼 7:28)。

BETH-BAAL-MEON 伯巴力勉

音译: beth-bāl-mē'on 【希伯来语: bêt ba'al me'ôn——“巴力的居所”】(书 13:17)。见 BAAL-MEON (巴力免)。

BETH-BARAH 伯巴拉

BETHBASI 伯士巴西

音译: beth-bā'sī 【希腊语: Baithbasi, 可能源自希腊伯来语 bêt-b'šî——“沼泽地”】(马一 9:62, 64)。约拿单和西门·马加比加固的犹太旷野中的一个地方。后来伯士巴西受到巴克西得的攻击,但巴克西得最终被击退。伯士巴西现被认为是拜特巴西废墟(Khirbet Beit Baṣṣi),在伯利恒东南,约位于提哥亚东北 3 英里(5 公里)处。

BETH-BIREI 伯比利

beth-bir'ā (1 Ch. 4:31, AV, NEB). See BETH-BIRI.

beth-bir'ī [Heb. bêṭ-bir'î; Gk. oikos Braoumseōreim]; AV, NEB, BETHBIREI. A site belonging to Simeon in the Negeb (1 Ch. 4:31). The consonants suggest a meaning “house (or place) of my Creator,” but the vowel pointing does not, and the Greek seems to support a different reading. In Josh. 19:6 the same site, apparently, is called Beth-lebaoth (“abode of lionesses”). The name may survive in Jebel el-Biri, about 6 mi. (10 km.) SW of Ḥalutsah (el-Ḥalāṣeh) or about 20 mi. (32 km.) SW of Beer-sheba; but the site has not been identified.

BETH-CAR

beth-kār' [Heb. bêṭ-kār—“house (place) of a lamb”; Gk. Baithchor, Belchor]. A place mentioned only in 1 S. 7:11, “And the men of Israel went out of Mizpeh and pursued the Philistines, and smote them, as far as below Beth-car.” Ain Kârim has been suggested. If Mizpah is Nebī Samwīl or nearby Tell en-Naṣbeh, then this identification is possible, as the pursuit would be along the deep Wādī beit Hannīneh—a natural line of retreat for the Philistines to take. But the route of pursuit is uncertain and the site of Beth-car unknown.

BETH-BIRI 伯比利

音译: beth-bir'ī 【希伯来语: bêṭ-bir'î; 希腊语: oikos Braoumseōreim】; 《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》译为 BETHBIREI (“伯比利”)。南地中属西缅的一个地方 (代上 4:31)。这个词的子音的含义是“我的造物主之家”, 但母音符号没有这层含义, 希腊语似乎支持不同的阐释。在《约书亚记》19:6 中, 伯比利显然被称为伯利巴勿 (“雌狮的栖息地”)。这个地名 (Beth-biri) 可能包括在比利山 (Jebel el-Biri) 的名字内, 比利山位于哈鲁萨 (Ḥalutsah 或 el-Ḥalāṣeh) 西南约 6 英里 (10 公里) 处, 或位于别是巴西南约 20 英里 (32 公里) 处; 但尚无法确定伯比利的位

BETH-CAR 伯甲

beth-dā'gən [Heb. bêt-dāgôn—‘house of (the god) Dagon’]. The name of at least five localities in Palestine. The frequency of the name points to the popularity of the cult of Dagon among the Canaanites.

1. A town belonging to Šidqa of Ashkelon, conquered by Sennacherib in 701 (Taylor Prism ii.65), on the Madeba Map “(bēto)degana.” The name has been preserved in Beth Dejān, 6 mi. (10 km.) SE of Jaffa, identical with Caferdago (Eusebius Onom. 50.16).

2. Present-day Beth Dejān 7 mi. (11 km.) E of Nablus, with the ruins of a Samaritan synagogue.

3. A town in upper Galilee, mentioned in Tosephta, present-day Beth Jenn, 7 mi. (11 km.) W of Safed.

4. A town of Judah (Josh. 15:41), mentioned also in a list of Ramses III, where it is preceded by rbnt=Libnah (cf. Josh. 15:42). Probably it is to be looked for in the region of Lachish; some identify it with 1.

5. A town near the boundary between Asher and Zebulun (Josh. 19:27), unidentified, probably about 3 mi. (5 km.) W of Galilean Bethlehem (Khirbet Bušin?).

音译: beth-dā'gən【希伯来语: bêt-dāgôn——“(神明)大衮之家”】。巴勒斯坦地区至少有五个地方叫伯大衮。这个被频繁使用的地名说明迦南人普遍崇拜大衮。

1、属亚实基伦斯卡 (Šidqa) 的一座城邑, 西拿基立于公元前 701 年征服了这座城邑 (Taylor Prism ii.65), 该城邑在马达巴地图上的名称是 “(bēto) degana”。该地现名为伯代坚 (Beth Dejān), 伯代坚位于雅法东南 6 英里 (10 公里) 处, 也就是卡弗达甘 (Caferdago, Eusebius Onom. 50.16)。

2、今纳布勒斯以东 7 英里 (11 公里) 的伯代坚, 包括撒玛利亚犹太会堂遗址。

3、上加利利的一座城邑, 陀瑟他提到过这座城邑, 今萨法德以西 7 英里 (11 公里) 的伯坚 (Beth Jenn)。

4、犹大的一座城邑 (书 15:41), 拉美西斯二世也在一份清单中提到过这座城市, 在这份清单中, 伯大衮位于 rbnt (立拿) 的前面 (参: 书 15:42)。这座城邑有可能位于拉吉地区; 有些人认为这个伯大衮就是 1 中的伯大衮。

5、亚设和西布伦边界附近的一座城邑 (书 19:27), 尚无法确定该地的位置, 可能位于加利利伯利恒以西约 3 英里 (5 公里) 处 (可能是布森废墟 [Khirbet Bušin])。

BETH-DIBLATHAIM

beth-dib-lə-thā'im [Heb. bêt diblāṭayim—'house of Diblathaim'].

A town in Moab mentioned with Dibon and Nebo (Jer. 48:22). It is probably identical with ALMON-DIBLATHAIM (Nu. 33:46f.), a stopping place during the Exodus. Mesha claims to have fortified it along with Medeba and Baal-meon (see MOABITE STONE). It may be Khirbet Deleitāt esh-Sherqîyeh.

BETH-DIBLATHAIM 伯低比拉太音

在《耶利米书》48:22中,与底本和尼波一同被提及的一座摩押城市。伯低比拉太音可能就是亚门低比拉太音(见 ALMON-DIBLATHAIM[亚门低比拉太音])(民 33:46-47),以色列人出埃及时经停的一站。米沙王声称加固了伯低比拉太音城、米底巴和巴力免(见 MOABITE STONE[摩押石碑])。该地可能就是低拉坦舍吉耶废墟(Khirbet Deleitāt esh-Sherqîyeh)。 beth-ē'dən [Heb. bêt 'eden—(as pointed) 'house (place) of delight']; AV HOUSE OF EDEN. A place named in the prophecy of Amos against Damascus (Am. 1:5). In view of the parallelism of Amos' words, it seems most likely that "Valley of Aven" should be read as Biq'at'Ōn (Valley of Heliopolis=Baalbek), the prophecy accordingly referring to the Aramean city-states of Damascus and Bit-adini. The LXX, in fact, lends support to this translation by reading "from the men of Haran"—for Haran was in Bit-adini. "The people of Eden" (AV "children of Eden") in 2 K. 19:12=Isa. 37:12, and "Eden" in Ezk. 27:23, likewise probably refer to (Bit-) Adini.

BETH-EDEN 伯伊甸

beth-eg'lā-əm [Gk. Bēthaglaim]. The name, which does not occur in the Bible, is applied by some archeologists to the site of modern Tell el-'Ajjûl, 4 mi. (6.5 km.) SW of GAZA. Fruitful excavations have led to the discovery of fortifications and other structures, pottery, and other artifacts of the Hyksos and post-Hyksos periods of Egyptian history. With the onset of the Iron Age and the arrival of the Philistines, Egyptian influence and the importance of Beth-eglaim decreased. Cf. Eusebius Onom., s.v. "Bethaglaim."

A place where Jehu met and killed forty-two men in the course of his extinction of the house of Ahab. Eusebius (Onom., s.v.) calls it Bethacath and locates it 15 mi. BETHEL 伯特利

1. A city located W of Ai on the main N-S watershed route near where the boundaries of Benjamin and Ephraim met. It was situated about 12 mi. (19 km.) N of Jerusalem, and was identified with the modern Tell Beit'in by Edward Robinson in the 19th century. This mound has been excavated at various times between 1934 and 1957 under Albright and Kelso. In antiquity the site was noted for the numerous springs present on the mountain ridge, and these have remained perennial features of the terrain.

1、艾城以西的一座城市，位于一个南北走向的重要分水界上，靠近便雅悯支派和以法莲支派的交界。伯特利位于耶路撒冷以北约 12 英里（19 公里）处，19 世纪的爱德华·罗宾逊认为伯特利是现代的百丁废丘（Tell Beit'in）。从 1934 年至 1957 年，奥尔布赖特和凯尔索多次对该废丘进行了发掘。古代的伯特利以山脊上的众多泉水而闻名，这一地区常年有泉水喷涌。

Although excavations have uncovered traces of earlier occupation, the city proper seems to have been founded somewhat prior to the Middle Bronze Age, perhaps ca. 2000 B.C. In the early Hyksos period, ca. 1750 B.C., a city wall on the north side constructed of well-fitted stones to a depth of about 11 ft. (3.3 m.) was reinforced with a wide clay revetment, and about a century later a number of defensive buildings were constructed inside the wall and close to the city gate. Another wall uncovered at the west of the tell was also early, but its gate had been replaced by a defensive tower with a Hyksos type of revetment.

虽然通过考古发掘已经发现了早期人类居住的痕迹，但这座城市似乎建于青铜时代中期之前的某个时间，可能建于约公元前 2000 年。在希克索斯王朝早期（约公元前 1750 年），厚厚的泥土护墙加固了由合适的石头堆砌而成的约 11 英尺（3.3 米）厚的北城墙，约一个世纪之后，城墙内和城门附近建起了大量防御性建筑。在废丘的西面发现了另外一道早期的城墙，但带有希克索斯式护墙的防御塔取代了城门。

The city was well established by the time it was mentioned in the patriarchal narratives in the Middle Bronze Age (ca. 1950–1550 B.C.). Abraham halted near Bethel on his way S from Shechem, and offered sacrifice to God. After visiting Egypt he returned there (Gen. 13:3).

青铜时代中期（约公元前 1950–1550 年），族长故事中提及这座城市时，它已经完全被建立起来。亚伯拉罕从示剑以南的道路上经过时，曾在伯特利附近停顿下来，向神献祭。从埃及回来之后，他又返回了伯特利（创 13:3）。伯特利最初被称作路斯（创 28:19），在雅各时

Bethel, originally known as Luz (Gen. 28:19), became particularly significant to the Hebrews in the time of Jacob, who received a divine revelation there from the “God of Bethel” (Gen. 31:13). Thereupon Jacob named the place “house of God,” and set up a pillar as a memorial. (See also EL-BETHEL). On his return from Haran Jacob was summoned to Bethel, where he built an altar and set up another pillar, again giving the name “Bethel” to the site. Most probably the location (cf. Gen. 28:11) was the one where Abraham had offered sacrifice in an earlier generation. The site may be that of Burj Beitan, SE of Tell Beitân (cf. Josh. 18:13, RSV). At about this time Jacob ordered his household to put away their Mesopotamian idols, and shortly afterward his name was changed to Israel. The renewal of the Abrahamic covenant with Jacob at Bethel (Ge. 35:10ff.) related the city intimately to the origins of Israelite faith. At Bethel, Deborah the nurse of Rebekah was buried (Gen. 35:8), and it was probably on the uplands E of the city that Abraham and Lot stood to look across the highlands to the rich terrain of the Jordan Valley.

At the beginning of the Late Bronze Age (ca. 1550 B.C.) a strong city wall was erected around Bethel, and this was accompanied by the construction of sturdy houses. Excavations at this level show that the period was one of considerable prosperity, with luxury goods being imported from Egypt to that part of the country. In the period of Joshua it was a royal city of the Canaanites (Josh. 12:16), and appears to have been captured by Joshua (8:7), though the destruction of Bethel was not mentioned specifically in the narrative. However, thirteenth-century

青铜器时代末期伊始(约公元前1550年),伯特利的周围建起了一道坚固的城墙,随后又建起了坚固的房屋。这一考古地层的发掘显示,这一时期是极其繁荣的时期,此时的伯特利从埃及进口了一些奢侈品。在约书亚时期,伯特利是迦南人的王城(书12:16),约书亚似乎占领过这座城市(书8:7),但经文中并没有具体提及伯特利的毁灭。不过,伯特利的考古地层显示,在公元前13世纪,这座城市曾被洗劫和烧毁过,大量烧焦的碎片、烧毁的砖块和青铜时代下层的灰烬说明了这一点。根据这些证据判断,这次毁灭是由公元前13世纪

B.C. levels at Bethel revealed that the city had been sacked and burned at that time, as indicated by the vast quantities of charred debris, burned brick, and ashes at the lower Bronze Age levels. On the basis of such evidence this destruction has been assigned to the Israelite invasion in the latter part of the 13th cent. B.C. (Josh. 12:16; Jdg. 1:22ff.).

The Israelite campaign against Ai and Bethel contains certain problematical features. Et-Tell, commonly identified with Ai, gives no indication of thirteenth-century destruction, yet Bethel, which was thoroughly obliterated, was unmentioned in this connection. The two sites were very close together, and it seems highly probable that Ai served as an advanced strong point for the defense of Bethel, a role that it may well have played in the previous millennium. Ai was quite small compared with other sites (Josh. 7:3); and if the victory there involved the simultaneous conquest of a neighboring town, there is no reason why the entire military operation should not have been described in terms of Ai, where the battle was really won, rather than of Bethel. That the thirteenth-century destruction was at Israelite hands seems probable from the nature of the city that was built subsequently on the site, where the crude constructional techniques contrast strongly with the elegance of earlier dwellings.

The Israelite conquest of Bethel marked the transition from the late Bronze Age to the Iron Age. The city was given to the tribes of the house of Joseph who had captured it, particularly to Benjamin (Josh. 18:22). The road from Jericho to Bethel formed the boundary between

以色列人攻取伯特利标志着由青铜时代晚期过渡到铁器时代。约瑟的宗族，尤其是便雅悯支派分得了这座城市（书 18:22）。从耶利哥到伯特利的道路构成了以法莲与便雅悯支派的边界（书 18:13），当便雅悯支派几乎被完全除灭时（士 20:1-48），以法莲支派掌控了伯

Ephraim and Benjamin (Josh. 18:13), and when the latter was virtually wiped out (Jgs. 20:1–48) the city seems to have passed into Ephraimite control (cf. 1 Ch. 7:28). The ark of the covenant was brought to Bethel from Gilgal (Jgs. 2:1, LXX), and during this period Bethel became an important center of worship (Jgs. 20:18). It was still a sanctuary in the days of Samuel, and he visited the city annually on circuit to judge the Israelites (1 S. 7:16; 10:3). Deborah the prophetess lived in the vicinity of Bethel (Jgs. 4:5). Toward the end of the judges period the ark was moved to Shiloh, probably to avoid capture by the Philistines. If one of the levels of destruction in the Iron Age occurred while the ark was still at Bethel, it would probably represent a Philistine attack earlier than the campaign against Shiloh (1 S. 4–6) in which the ark was captured and taken to Philistine territory. In the time of Saul, Bethel lost its prominence to nearby Gibeah, which was established in Benjaminite territory as the capital of the new ruler. Although the Philistines fought a battle near Bethel (1 S. 12–14), there is no archeological evidence that the city was actually conquered at that time. Under David its influence waned still further with the establishing of Jerusalem as the capital of the monarchy, though excavations have shown that Bethel was a prosperous farming center at that time.

With the disruption of the kingdom came Bethel's greatest period of splendor and prominence. To counteract the influence of Jerusalem as the national religious center, Jeroboam I erected an independent shrine in Bethel, instituted a new priesthood, adopted a different religious calendar, and set up the golden calves as new cultic images. The north sanctuary at Dan never equaled in splendor that of Bethel, which became the royal sanctuary and the focus of religious life in the northern kingdom (1 K. 12:29ff.; Am. 7:13). To Bethel came the man of God from Judah who pronounced doom against Jeroboam (1 K. 13). The Judean King Abijah (913–910 B.C.) captured it (2 Ch. 13:19), and his son Asa (910–869 B.C.) probably subjugated it also (cf. 2 Ch. 14:8).

特利（参：代上 7:28）。约柜从吉甲被运到了伯特利（《七十士译本》，士 2:1），在这一期间，伯特利成为了重要的礼拜中心（士 20:18）。在撒母耳时期，伯特利仍然是一个至圣所，撒母耳每年巡行伯特利，在这里审判以色列人（撒上 7:16; 10:3）。女先知底波拉住在伯特利附近（士 4:5）。约柜在接近士师末期的时候被运到了示罗，可能是为了避免非利士人掳走约柜。如果铁器时代的某一考古地层遭到破坏时约柜还在伯特利，那么很可能说明非利士人进攻伯特利的时间早于非利士人进攻示罗的时间（撒上 4-6），非利士人在示罗掳走了约柜，并把它带到了非利士的领地。扫罗时期，伯特利的突出地位被附近的基比亚所取代，新的统治者在便雅悯的领地上建起了基比亚作为都城。虽然非利士人在伯特利附近争战（撒上 12–14），但没有任何考古证据能够证明，非利士人实际上在这一时期已经攻取了这座城市。在大卫时期，伯特利的影响力进一步被削弱，他建造了耶路撒冷作为王国的都城，但考古发掘显示，伯特利是那一时期繁荣的农业中心。

A prophetic guild appears to have existed in Bethel and had some contact with Elisha (2 K. 2:3); but according to Amos and Hosea, Canaanite religion with its terrible moral, social, and religious degradations was dominant at Bethel. Because it was synonymous with the very worst elements of paganism and idolatry, these two prophets launched the most scathing denunciations against it. Amos condemned the rites of the royal sanctuary (Am. 4:4; 5:5f.; 7:13), while Hosea (10:15) prophesied the destruction of the king of Israel. Even Jeremiah commented in retrospect upon the futility of the cultic rites at Bethel (Jer. 48:13). With Hosea the name Beth-aven became a condemnatory surrogate for Bethel (Hos. 4:15; 5:8; 10:8), the place of supreme idolatry. The prophets pointed out that unless Israel repented and turned afresh in faith to God, such a gross violation of covenant love could only end in destruction. The latter came about when the Assyrians under Sargon II (722–705 B.C.) overthrew the northern kingdom and carried the tribes captive to Assyria. While Bethel shared in this general fate there is no specific mention in the OT or the cuneiform texts that it was destroyed, nor do excavations at the site give indication of damage or fire at Assyrian levels.

教生活的中心(王上 12:99 起; 摩 7:13)。从犹大来的神人来到了伯特利,并宣布了耶罗波安要遭受的厄运(王上 13)。犹大王亚比雅(公元前 913 至 910 年)占领了这座城市(代下 13:19),他的儿子亚撒可能也征服过这座城市(参:代下 14:8)。

The territory around Bethel was repopulated by Assyrian colonists, who intermarried with the local population; and when a plague of mountain lions threatened community life the superstitious colonists sent to Assyria for a deported priest to instruct them in the law of Yahweh, god of the land (2 K. 17:28). This priest settled at Bethel, and was instrumental in building up the religious tradition that was later described as Samaritan. Worship continued in the area until King Josiah took advantage of a decline in Assyrian power to invade the northern territories and destroy the existing pagan sanctuaries. The shrine at Bethel was demolished and its priests were dispersed (2 K. 23:15ff.), but Bethel itself was spared. Perhaps the sanctuary lay outside the city proper, near the site of the patriarchal altars, since archeologists to date have been unable to locate any traces of it in the city mound. Nebuchadrezzar spared Bethel from destruction, probably because of its past association with Assyrian colonists; but during the 6th cent. B.C. the city was destroyed by fire, at the hands of either Nabonidus of Babylon or the Persian armies.

After the Exile the men of Bethel were among those who returned from Babylonia under Zerubbabel (Ezr. 2:28; Neh. 7:32), at which time the site was apparently reoccupied by Benjaminite families (Neh. 11:31). Bethel never again became a separate sanctuary, and worship from that time on was centered upon Jerusalem (Zec. 7:2). The city was one of the fortifications established by Bacchides in the time of the Maccabees, ca. 160 B.C.

被掳巴比伦之后，伯特利人与所罗巴伯一同从巴比伦归回家园（拉 2:28；尼 7:32），被掳时期，便雅悯人显然住在伯特利（尼 11:31）。伯特利再未能成为单独的至圣所，从那时起。耶路撒冷成为礼拜的中心（亚 7:2）。马加比时期（约公元前 160 年），伯特利成为巴克西得兴建的要塞之一（马一 9:50；osephus Ant. xiii.1.3），公元 69 年维斯帕先皇帝进军耶路撒冷时，伯特利成为被罗马占领的城市之一，一起被占领的城市还有

(1 Macc. 9:50; Josephus Ant. xiii.1.3), and was again mentioned as a town that, along with Ephraim, was captured in A.D. 69 by Vespasian as he approached Jerusalem (Josephus BJ iv.9.9).

The NT makes no reference to Bethel, although at that time the city was at its greatest size since OT days. It reached its highest level of population in the Byzantine period, and archeological excavations have so far been unable to explain why Bethel suddenly ceased to exist at the time of the transition from the Byzantine to the Arabic period. The site lay in ruins thereafter until the 19th cent., when it was reoccupied by Arabs from nearby Burka.

BETHEL (DEITY).

A West Semitic god, originating perhaps among the Phoenicians or Arameans, current from the time of Esarhaddon of Assyria (7th cent. B.C.) until Darius II of Babylon (5th cent. B.C.). The name is also seen as part of some Jewish personal names from Elephantine, and in the documents from Râs Shamrah. Some scholars find a reference to this deity in Gen. 31:13; Jer. 48:13; Am. 5:5.

虽然在新约时期伯特利达到了自旧约时期以来的最大规模,但是《新约》中没有提及这座城市。伯特利在拜占庭时期的居住人口最多,考古证据尚无法解释为何从拜占庭时期向阿拉伯时期过渡时伯特利突然消失了。从19世纪之后,伯特利变成了废墟,此时从布尔卡 (Burka) 而来的阿拉伯人重新在这里定居。

2、犹大一座城市 (撒上 30:27),《约书亚记》19:4 中称之为“比土力”,《历代志上》4:30 中称之为“彼土利”,目前尚无法确定该地的位置。

BETHEL (DEITY). 伯特利 (神祇)

西方闪族人的一位神祇,最初可能是腓尼基人或亚兰人信奉的神祇,自亚述以撒哈顿时期 (公元前7世纪) 至巴比伦大流士二世时期 (公元前5世纪),人们普遍信奉伯特利神。这个名字还被认为是象岛中和拉斯珊拉文献中某些犹太人名的一部分。某些学者发现,《创世记》31:13、《耶利米书》48:13 和《阿摩司书》5:5 中都提及了这个神。

BETHEL, HILL COUNTRY OF

BETHESDA 毕士大

音译: bə-thez'də 【希腊语: Bēthesda, 可能源自亚兰语 bēṭhisdā——“怜悯之家”; 希腊语异文: Bēth-zatha 和 Bēthsaida 得到了抄本的有力支持】;《修订标准译本》译为 BETH-ZATHA (“毕士大”)。

耶路撒冷的一个池子,《新约》只在《约翰福音》5:2 中描述耶稣用话语治愈一个病了三十八年的人时提到了这个池子,那个人躺在池子的廊子旁边。根据一个没被充分证实过的文本的记载(共

According to a less well-attested text (the koine recension; vv. 3b, 4) he was hoping to be the first to be carried into the pool after the waters had acquired momentary healing powers by being disturbed by an angel (cf. v. 7).

The story locates the incident near the Sheepgate of Jerusalem, which, since it was constructed by the priests (Neh. 3:1), must have been one of the entrances to the temple area. It is regularly placed on the north facing the suburb called Bezetha.

Early tradition speaks of twin pools having five porticoes and known as the Sheep Pool or Bethesda. Pilgrim reports locate the site more exactly by noting the erection of a church in the first half of the 5th cent. in memory of the healing of the “lame” man N of the temple not far from the city gate leading to the Kidron.

Archeological discoveries and excavations support the tradition that the Pool of Bethesda is to be found at the foot of Mt. Bezetha largely within the property of St. Anne’s Church, which belongs to the White Fathers.

In the process of restoring the Church of St. Anne in 1866 a marble foot from the 2nd cent. A.D. was found bearing the Greek inscription “devoted by Pompeia Lucilia.” This suggests that physical healing was associated by the Romans with this location. The two cisterns, of which the eastern is approached by a medieval staircase and is frequently shown as the Pool of Bethesda, are but a small part of the north pool and are later constructions, though the eastern cistern may date from the Roman period and have been used for storing drinking water.

通语校订本; 约 5:3b, 4), 天使搅动池子中的水后会赋予池中水短暂的治愈能力, 这个病人希望第一个下去, 治愈自己的疾病 (参: 约 5:7)。

故事发生在耶路撒冷羊门附近, 自从祭司们建立羊门 (尼 3:1), 羊门一定始终是圣殿区的一个入口。这个池子通常被认为在圣殿区的北面, 正对着贝吉塔郊区 (Bezetha)。

早期的传说认为这是一个有五个柱廊的双池子, 通常被称为羊池或毕士大。朝圣者的记载更准确地定位了这个池子的位置, 据记载, 为了纪念耶稣在圣殿北面 (圣殿距离通向汲沦谷的城门不远) 治愈了一个 “瘫子”, 人们在 5 世纪上半叶建立了一个教堂。

考古发现和发掘证明了毕士大池位于贝吉塔山的山脚下, 池子的主体部分位于白衣神父会的圣安妮教堂院中。

1866 年, 在修复圣安妮教堂过程中发现了一个公元 2 世纪的大理石根基, 上面刻着希腊铭文 “庞培亚·卢西利亚敬献”。这表明, 罗马人认为这个位置的池子可以治愈疾病。这两个池子只是北池的一小部分, 并且是后期建造的, 通过中世纪时期的台阶可以进入东面的池子, 这个池子通常被认为是毕士大池, 但东面的池子可能建于罗马时期, 用于储存饮用水。

Ruins of Byzantine and Crusader churches built over the Pool of Bethesda (B.Van Elderen)

In 1914 S of the two cisterns a second pool was discovered separated from the north pool by an east-west dike over 20 ft. (6 m.) in breadth. This wall is doubtless the site of the fifth pillared hall mentioned by Cyril of Jerusalem and Theodore of Mopsuestia. In 1938 van der Pliet suggested that the pools formed an unsymmetrical trapezoid. Vincent demonstrated that the columns were over 22 ft. (6.7 m.) high and the hall about 27.5 ft. (8.4 m.) high and of the Roman period. Recent extension of the excavations to the east uncovered a vaulted subterranean gallery covered with paintings no longer identifiable, which Rousée suggests may have been a sanctuary of Roman times.

The history of the site may be tentatively reconstructed as follows. Presumably during the time of Herod two large reservoirs were built in the valley coming down from the north. The location of the pools may have been determined by the presence of a seasonal intermittent spring as well as by the possibility of collecting the rainwater of the valley. Locally the site may have been known as the Sheep Pool because it was near the Sheep Gate; it could have been used for watering the flocks.

上图 为建在毕士大池上面的拜占庭时期和十字军时期的教堂的遗迹 (B.Van Elderen)。

1914 年，在这两个池子的南面又发现了一个池子，一个东西走向约 20 英尺（6 米）宽的堤坝将这个池子与北池隔开。这个墙体无疑是耶路撒冷的济利禄和摩普绥提亚的狄奥多若提到的第五柱厅的遗址。普利埃特（van der Pliet）于 1938 年提出，这些池子构成了一个非对称的梯形。文森特（Vincent）证明了，这些石柱高约 22 英尺（6.7 米），大厅高约 27.5 英尺（8.4 米），属于罗马时期的建筑。最近，考古人员继续向东进行了发掘，并发现了一个圆顶形的地下走廊，走廊中的图画已经无法识别，罗斯（Rousée）认为这可能是罗马时期的至圣所。

Vincent supposes that in connection with his building the temple, Herod the Great, because of the healing powers of the waters, constructed the splendid five-porticoed building. Presumably Sheep Pool would be too common a name for such a beautiful pool, and so Bethesda, suggesting the site where God's mercy was shown in healing, became the proper name. Since the pool was located in a district known in the time of Josephus as Bezetha, it may on occasion have been referred to as the Be (th)zatha pool.

In the 5th cent., in order to supplant the pagan sanctuary and to commemorate the healing of Jn. 5:2, a Byzantine church was built partly on the pools and partly on solid ground to the east.

On the ruins of the old Bethesda church the Crusaders built a chapel probably between 1177 and 1187 and constructed a stairway to the Roman cistern at the southeast corner of the north pool.

On the basis of excavations of a cave E of the two pools since 1956, Père Benoit has proposed an alternative view: that with Herod the Great's construction of the Pool of Israel closer to the temple those pools went out of use, and that the miracle should now be associated with the reddish-hued waters of that cave.

文森特认为，由于这里的水具有治愈功效，希律大帝在建造圣殿的同时建起了这个有 5 个柱廊的辉煌建筑。而羊池这个名字太过于普通了，这么美丽的池子怎么能叫羊池呢，所以这个池子应该叫毕士大池，这个池名表明上帝在这里通过治愈疾病来彰显祂的怜悯之心。因为在约瑟夫斯生活的年代这个池子位于贝吉塔区，所以它有时也被认为是贝吉塔池。

公元 5 世纪，为了取代异教圣所，也是为了纪念《约翰福音》5:2 中毕士大池的治愈能力，在这些池子上面和东面的坚实土地上建起了一座拜占庭教堂。

大概在公元 1177 年至 1187 年之间，十字军在古老的毕士大教堂的废墟上建造了一个小教堂，并建造了一个通向北池东南角罗马水池的台阶。

根据 1956 年以来考古人员在两水池东侧山洞中的挖掘，佩雷·伯努瓦提出：因为希律大帝建造的以色列水池更靠近圣殿，所以这两个水池被废弃了，池水治愈疾病的奇迹应该与洞穴中的微红色的水有关。

This identification is unlikely. Pfeiffer suggests that the ancient sources all support a location in the vicinity of modern Ramat Raḥel about midway between Jerusalem and Bethlehem. Modern Israel has assigned the name to a new community about 1.5 mi. (2.4 km.) SW of Jerusalem near Mt. Herzl on the road leading to the valley and village of ‘Ain Kârim.

BETH-HORON 伯和仑

音译: beth-hôr'ən【希伯来语: bêt-ḥôrôn——可能是“空地”(还有其他希伯来语形式); 希腊语: Beth-ōrōn】。两个城邑的名字, 上伯和仑 (书 16:5) 和下伯和仑 (书 16:3), 这两座城距离从亚雅仑 (Yâlō) 平原到基遍 (el-Jīb) 附近的西部高原的古道只有几英里。下伯和仑海拔高度约为 1210 英尺 (369 米)。上伯和仑海拔高度约为 2022 英尺 (616 elevation of about 1210 ft. (369 m.) above sea level. The upper city was about 2022 ft. (616 m.) above sea level. Although the pass was rugged and steep it was the great highway from the plain into the plateau that was the heart of Judea. The importance of this pass as the main approach to the interior of the country explains the frequent enlargement and fortification of these two towns through many centuries.

When Joshua overcame the Amorites “Israel ... slew them with a great slaughter at Gibeon, and chased them by the way of the ascent of Beth-horon ...” (Josh. 10:10). When the land was apportioned to the Israelites the two Beth-horons were assigned to Ephraim and stood on the border between Ephraim and Benjamin (Josh. 16:5; 18:13f.). One of the cities was assigned to the Levite family of Kohath (21:22). Both cities were enlarged and fortified by Sheerah the daughter of Beriah (1 Ch. 7:24). When the Philistines were opposing King Saul at Michmash they sent a company of their men “toward Beth-horon” (1 S. 13:17f.). Solomon further expanded and fortified both Upper and Lower Beth-horon “with walls, gates, and bars” (1 K. 9:17; 2 Ch. 8:5).

From Egyptian sources it appears that Beth-horon was one of the places conquered by Shishak of Egypt from Rehoboam. Centuries later Bacchides repaired Beth-horon, “with high walls and gates and bars. And he placed garrisons in them to harass Israel” (1 Macc. 9:50f.). At another time the Jews fortified it against Holofernes (Jth. 4:4f.). Along this route came Canaanites, Israelites, Philistines, Egyptians, Syrians, Romans, Saracens, 当约书亚打败亚摩利人，“以色列……在基遍大大地杀败他们，追赶他们在伯和仑的上坡路，击杀他们…”（书 10:10）。当这一地区被分给了以色列人时，以法莲支派分得了这两座城邑，它们位于以法莲支派和便雅悯支派的交界处（书 16:5； 18:13-14）。利未支派的歌辖族曾分得了其中一座城（书 21:22）。比利亚的女儿舍伊拉曾扩建并加固过这两座城（代上 7:24）。当非利士人与扫罗王在密抹对峙时，非利士人派遣了一队兵丁“往伯和仑去”（撒上 13:17-18）。所罗门进一步扩大并加固了上下伯和仑，这两座城“都有墙、有门、有门”（王上 9:17； 代下 8:5）。

根据埃及人的记载，伯和仑似乎是埃及王示撒从耶罗波安手中夺取的地区之一。几个世纪之后，巴克西得修复了伯和仑，“修建高墙，安装上门的大门，加固了防御工事。在所有这些地方，他都派驻军队袭扰犹太人”（马一 9:50-51）。犹太人为了抵御何乐弗尼的进攻再次加固了伯和仑（滴 4:4-5）。迦南人、以色列人、非利士人、埃及人、叙利亚人、罗马人、萨拉森人和十字军都曾途径这一古道。从约书亚时期开

Along this pass in A.D. 66 the Roman general Cestius Gallus was driven in headlong flight before the Jews.

I. 政治局势。由于《约书亚记》10:6-14 记录了伯和仑之战期间发生的天文奇观, 所以约书亚率领以色列人占领巴勒斯坦南部的战争总能引起人们的兴趣。以色列人在入侵巴勒斯坦时, 他们进攻的不是一个单一民族国家, 而是在进攻一个生活着多个民族和多个族群(就像后期的希腊)的地区, 每个族群由多个 country occupied by different peoples and divided, like Greece at a later period, into a number of communities, each consisting of little more than a single city and the cultivated country around it. Thus Joshua destroyed the two cities of Jericho and Ai without any interference from the other Amorites. The destruction of Jericho gave him full possession of the fertile valley of the Jordan; the taking of Ai opened his way up to the ridge that forms the backbone of the country, and he was able to lead the people unopposed to the mountains of Ebal and Gerizim for the solemn reading of the law. But when the Israelites returned from this ceremony a significant division showed itself among their enemies. Close to Ai, Joshua's most recent conquest, was Beeroth, a small town inhabited by Hivites; and no doubt because in the natural order of events Beeroth might be next attacked, the Hivites determined to make terms with Israel. An embassy was therefore sent from Gibeon, their chief city, and Joshua and the Israelites, believing that it came from a distant land not under the ban, entered into the proposed alliance.

城市和附近的耕作区组成。因此，约书亚摧毁耶利哥和艾城时，其他的亚摩利人并没有进行干涉。摧毁耶利哥使约书亚完全占领了土壤肥沃的约旦谷；占领艾城使他打通了通向该地区主山脉的道路。他率领以色列人毫无阻扰地进入了以巴路山和基利心山，然后在那里庄严地宣读律法。但当以色列人参加完这个仪式返回时，他们的敌人内部明显出现了分歧。约书亚率先占领的艾城附近是一个希未人居住的小镇比录；毋庸置疑，按照事件发生的自然顺序，比录将是下一个遭到攻击的对象，于是希未人决定与以色列议和。因此，基遍人差遣了使者，约书亚和以色列人相信使者来自于遥远地区，不住在他们中间，于是约书亚与基遍人讲和，与他们立约。

Key: ⇨ Israelite Army → Amorites

箭头: ⇨以色列军队 →亚摩利人军队

The effect on the political situation was immediate. The Hivites formed a considerable state, relatively speaking; their cities were well placed on the southern highland, and Gibeon their capital was one of the most important fortresses of that district, and only 6 mi. (9 km.) distant from Jerusalem, the chief Amorite stronghold. The Amorites recognized at once that, in view of this important defection, it was imperative for them to crush the Gibeonites before the Israelites could unite with them, and this they endeavored to do. The Gibeonites, seeing themselves attacked, sent an urgent message to Joshua, and he at the head of his picked men made a night march up from Gilgal and fell upon the Amorites at Gibeon the next day and put them to flight.

II. Joshua's Strategy.-We are not told by which route he marched, but it is significant that the Amorites fled by the way of Beth-horon; that is to say, not toward their own cities, but away from them. A glance at the map shows that this means that Joshua had succeeded in cutting their line of retreat to Jerusalem.

II. 约书亚的策略。经文中没有约书亚的行军路线，但重要的是亚摩利人逃跑时途径了伯和仑；也就是说，他们没有逃向自己的城市，而是远离了这些城市。查看下地图就会发现，约书亚成功地切断了亚摩利人向耶路撒冷撤退的路线。因此，约束亚可能是从南面向基遍进发，显然没有选择途径被毁的艾城

He had probably therefore advanced upon Gibeon from the south, instead of by the obvious route past Ai which he had destroyed and Beerth with which he was in alliance. But coming up from Gilgal by the ravines in the neighborhood of Jerusalem he was exposed to a great danger, for the Amorites might have caught him before he had gained a footing on the plateau, and have taken him at a complete disadvantage. It was thus that the eleven tribes suffered such terrible loss at the hands of the Benjaminites in this very region during the first intertribal war; and probably the military significance of the first repulse from Ai was of the same character, the forces holding the high ground being able to overwhelm their opponents without any fear of reprisals.

It would seem possible, therefore, that Joshua may have repeated on a larger scale the tactics he employed in his successful attack upon Ai. He may have sent one force to draw the Amorites away from Gibeon, and when this was safely done, he may have led the rest of his army to seize the road to Jerusalem, and to break up the forces besieging Gibeon. If so, his strategy was successful up to a certain point. He evidently led the Israelites without loss up to Gibeon, crushed the Amorites there, and cut off their retreat toward Jerusalem. He failed in one thing. In spite of the prodigious efforts that he and his men had made, the greater part of the Amorite army succeeded in escaping him and gained a long start in their flight NW through the two Beth-horons.

III. Joshua's Command.-It was at this point that the incident occurred upon which attention has been chiefly fixed.

和盟邦比录向基遍进发。但如果他沿着耶路撒冷附近的峡谷从吉甲上去，他就面临着暴露的巨大危险，因为他在高原上站稳脚跟之前亚摩利人可能会抓到他，使他处于完全被动的境地。在第一次支派战争期间，十一个支派就在这一地区遭受了重创，落入便雅悯人之手；艾城首战告捷可能具有同样的军事意义，驻守在高地的以色列军队可以击退他们的敌人，且不惧任何报复行动。

III. 约书亚命日头“停住”。人们的主要关注点一直以来都集中在约书亚命日头“停住”这件事上。《雅煞珥书》

The Book of Jashar (which seems to have been a collection of war songs and other ballads) ascribes to Joshua the command (Josh. 10:12f.):

“Sun, stand thou still at Gibeon, and thou Moon in the valley of Ai’jalon.”
And the sun stood still, and the moon stayed, until the nation took vengeance on their enemies.

And the prose narrative continues, “The sun stayed in the midst of heaven, and did not hasten to go down for about a whole day.”

IV. Astronomical Relations.-In these two, the ballad and the prose chronicle, we have several distinct astronomical relations indicated. The sun to Joshua was associated with Gibeon, and the sun can naturally be associated with a locality in either of two positions: it may be overhead to the observer, in which case he would consider it as being above the place where he himself was standing; or on the other hand, he might see the locality on the skyline and the sun rising or setting just behind it. In the present instance there is no ambiguity, for the chronicle distinctly states that the sun was in “the midst of heaven”; literally, in the halving of the heaven, that is to say overhead. This is very important because it assures us that Joshua must have been at Gibeon when he spoke, and that it must have been noonday of summer when the sun in southern Palestine is only about 8° or 12° from the exact zenith. Next, the moon appeared to be associated with the valley of Aijalon; i.e., it must have been low down on the horizon in that direction, and since Aijalon is NW of Gibeon it must have been about to set, which would imply that it was (这本书似乎是战歌和其他叙事诗的合集)中认为这个命令是约书亚发出的(书 10:12-13):

“日头啊，你要停在基遍；月亮啊，你要止在亚雅仑谷。”
于是日头停留，月亮止住，直等国民向敌人报仇。

这篇叙述诗中继续写道，“日头在天当中停住，不急速下落，约有一日之久。”

IV. 天文关系。我们可以在这篇叙事诗和平淡的编年史中看到几个已经显明的独特天文关系。首先，在约书亚看来，日头与基遍有关，日头必定止在两个位置中的某个位置：日头可能在观测者的头顶上，因此，约书亚认为日头应该位于他所站位置的正上方；另外，他可能看到地平线上的某个位置中，日头从地平线之后升起或下落到地平线之后。如果是这样，就不存在任何表述不清之处，因为经文中清楚地记载道，日头“在天当中停住”；按照字面意思理解，日头停在了半空中，也就是在头顶上。这一点非常重要，因为它告诉我们，当约书亚说这话时，他一定在基遍，此时一定正处于夏天的正午时分，巴勒斯坦南部的日头仅偏离天顶 8°或 12°。其次，月亮似乎与亚雅仑谷有关；月亮一定低悬在亚雅仑谷方向的地平线上，因为亚雅仑在基遍西北，它一定很快就要落下了，这表明月亮很快就要半满，此时是“下弦月”；正如我们看到的，日头处于最高点。再次，“日头不急速下落”，也就是说，太阳已经位于顶点，即它的最高点；日头自此以后向下落。这是在含蓄地重复此时正处于正午时刻，但也补充了一些细节。日头似乎下落得很慢。这是下午的日头，也就是半日的日 about half full, in its “third quarter,” the sun being, as we have seen, on the meridian. Third, “the sun did not hasten to go down,” that is to say, it had already attained the meridian, its culmination; and henceforward its motion was downward. The statement that it was noonday is here implicitly repeated, but a further detail is added. The going down of the sun appeared to be slow. This is the work of the afternoon, that is of half the day, but on this occasion the half-day appeared equal in length to an ordinary whole day. There is therefore no question at all of the sun becoming stationary in the sky: the statement does not admit of that, but only of its slower progress.

V. The “Silence” of the Sun.-The idea that the sun was fixed in the sky, in other words, that the earth ceased for a time to rotate on its axis, has arisen from the unfortunate rendering of the Hebrew verb dûm, “be silent,” by “stand thou still.” It is our own word “dumb,” both being onomatopoeic words from the sound made when a man firmly closes his lips upon his speech. The primary meaning of the word therefore is “be silent,” but its secondary meaning is “desist,” “cease,” and therefore in some cases “stand still.”

From what was it that Joshua wished the sun to cease: from its moving or from its shining? It is not possible to suppose that, engaged as he was in a desperate battle, he was even so much as thinking of the sun’s motion at all. But its shining, its scorching heat, must have been most seriously felt by him. At noon, in high summer, the highland of southern Palestine is one of the hottest countries of the world. It is impossible to suppose that Joshua wished the sun to be fixed overhead, where it must have been distressing his men who had already been on foot for seventeen hours. A very arduous pursuit lay before them, and the enemy not only had a long start but must have been fresher than the Israelites. The sun's heat therefore must have been a serious hindrance, and Joshua must have desired it to be tempered. And the Lord listened to his voice and gave him this and much more.

V. 日头“停住”。日头在天上停住,换句话说,地球在某一段时间停止了自转,这种观点源自于人们将希伯来语动词 dûm (意思是“寂静的”) 错误地理解成“停住不动”。这个希伯来动词相当于英语中的“dumb”(“无声音的”),这两个词都是拟声词,形容人紧闭双唇不说话时发出的声音。因此,这个希伯来语动词的主要含义是“寂静的”,它的第二个含义才是“停止”、“结束”,因此在某些情况下可以表示“停住”。

VI. "The Lord Fought for Israel."-A great hailstorm swept up from the west, bringing with it a sudden lowering of temperature, and no doubt hiding the sun and putting it to "silence." And "the Lord fought for Israel," for the storm burst with such violence upon the Amorites as they fled down the steep descent between the Beth-horons that "there were more who died because of the hailstones than the men of Israel killed with the sword" (v. 11). This was the culminating incident of the day, the one that so greatly impressed the sacred historian. "There has been no day like it before or since, when the Lord hearkened to the voice of a man" (v. 14). It was not the hailstorm in itself nor the veiling of the sun that made the day so remarkable. It was that Joshua had spoken, not in prayer or supplication, but in command, as if all Nature were at his disposal; and the Lord had hearkened and had, as it were, obeyed a human voice: an anticipation of the time when a greater Joshua would command even the winds and the sea, and they would obey Him (Mt. 8:23 - 27).

VII. The Afternoon's March.-The explanation of the statement that the sun "did not hasten to go down for about a whole day" is found in v. 10, in which it is stated that the Lord discomfited the

凉爽的地方。因此，日头发出的热一定是他们面临的严重障碍，约书亚一定希望日头不要那么热。耶和华听到了他的呼求，满足了他的呼求并给予了他更多的帮助。

VI. "耶和華為以色列爭戰"。一場劇烈的雹暴從西面席卷而來，帶來了急速的降溫，它無疑遮住了日頭，使日頭“停住”了。“耶和華為以色列爭戰”，因為這場劇烈的風暴侵襲了沿着兩個伯和倫之間的陡坡向下逃跑的亞摩利人，“被冰雹打死的，比以色列人用刀殺死的還多”（書 10:11）。這是當日事件的最高潮，這一事件給這位神聖的歷史學家留下了極為深刻的印象。“在這日以前、這日以後，耶和華聽人的禱告（或呼求），沒有像這日的，是因耶和華為以色列爭戰”（書 10:14）。並不是冰雹本身或日頭被遮住使得這一天如此引人關注。真正引人關注的是，約書亞以命令的口氣，而不是以禱告的方式發出了這些呼求，似乎自然萬物都隨他支配；耶和華傾听了人的呼求，似乎還听從了他的呼求：這預表着，在未來會有一個更偉大的約書亞，祂甚至可以向風和海水發出指令，並且它們都听从祂的指令（太 8:23-27）。

VII. 午后行軍。在《約書亞記》10:10中可以找到對“日頭不急速下落，約有一日之久”這句話的解釋，這節經文中說道，耶和華使亞摩利人在以色列面前潰亂，“在基遍大大地殺敗他們，追趕

Amorites before Israel, “who slew them with a greater slaughter at Gibeon, and chased them by the way of the ascent of Beth-horon, and smote them as far as Azekah and Makkedah.” The Israelites had of course no time-keepers, no clocks or watches, and the only mode of measuring time available to them was the number of miles they marched. Now from Gibeon to Makkedah by the route indicated is some 30 mi. (48 km.), a full day’s march for an army. It is possible that, at the end of the campaign, the Israelites on their return found the march from Makkedah to Gibeon heavy work for an entire day. Measured by the only means available to them, that afternoon seemed to be double the ordinary length. The sun had not hastened “to go down for about a whole day.”

VIII. The Chronicle and the Poem.—Joshua’s reference to the moon in connection with the valley of Aijalon appears at first sight irrelevant, and has frequently been assumed to be merely inserted to complete the parallelism of the poem. But when examined astronomically it becomes clear that it cannot have been inserted haphazardly. Joshua must have mentioned the moon because he actually saw it at the moment of speaking. Given that the sun was “in the midst of heaven,” above Gibeon, there was only a very restricted arc of the horizon in which the moon could appear as associated with some terrestrial object; and from Gibeon, the valley of Aijalon does lie within that narrow arc. It follows therefore that unless the position assigned to the moon had been obtained from actual observation at the moment, it would in all probability have been an impossible position. The next point is especially interesting. The ballad does not expressly state whether the sun was upon Gibeon in the sense of being upon it low down on the distant horizon, or upon it, in the sense of being overhead both to Joshua and to that city. It becomes clear that the latter is the only possible solution. The moon was above the valley of Aijalon. The sun and moon cannot both have been setting—though this is the idea that has been generally held, on the supposition that the day was far spent and that Joshua desired it to be prolonged—for then sun and moon would have been close together and the moon would be invisible. The sun cannot have been setting and the moon rising; for Aijalon is W of Gibeon. Nor can the sun have been rising and the moon setting, since this would imply that the time of year was either about Oct. 30 of our present calendar, or about Feb. 12. The month of February was already past, since the Israelites had kept the Feast of the Passover. October cannot have come; for since Beeroth, Gibeon, and Jerusalem were so close together it is certain that the events between the return of the Israelites to Gilgal and the battle of Beth-horon cannot have been spread over several months, but must have occupied only a few days. The poem therefore contains implicitly the same fact that is explicitly stated in the prose narrative—that the sun was overhead—but the one statement cannot, in those days, have been inferred from the other.

IX. Date of the Events.—A third point of interest is that the position of the moon gives an indication of the time of the year. The valley of Aijalon is 17° N of W from Gibeon, of which the latitude is $31^{\circ} 51'$ north. With these details, and assuming the time to be nearly noon, the date must have been about the twenty-first day of the fourth month of the Jewish calendar, corresponding to July 22 of our present calendar, with an uncertainty of one or two days on either side. The sun's declination would then be about 21° N, so that at noon it was within 11° of the zenith. It had risen almost exactly at 5:00 A.M. and would set almost exactly at 7:00 P.M. The moon was now about third quarter, and in north latitude about 5° . It had risen about 11:00 the previous night, and was now at an altitude of under 7° , and within about half an hour of setting. The conditions are not sufficient to fix the year, since from the nature of the luni-solar cycle there will always be one or two years in each cycle of nineteen that will satisfy the conditions of the case, and the date of the Hebrew invasion of Palestine is not known with sufficient certainty to limit the inquiry to any particular cycle.

X. The Records Contemporaneous with the Events.-It will be seen, however, that the astronomical conditions introduced by the mention of the moon are much more stringent than might have been expected. They supply therefore proof of a high order that the astronomical details, both of the poem and prose chronicle, were derived from actual observation at the time and have been preserved to us unaltered. Each, therefore, supplies a strictly contemporaneous and independent record.

This great occurrence appears to be referred to in one other passage of Scripture—the Prayer of Habakkuk. Here again the rendering of the English versions is unfortunate, and the passage should stand:

头与最高点相差约 11° 。日头几乎正好在早上 5 点升起，几乎正好在下午 7 点落下。此时的月亮接近于下弦月，大约在北纬 5° 的位置上。月亮在前一夜的 11 点左右升起，此时的高度低于 7° ，大约在半小时内就会落下。这些条件还不足以确定年份，因为从阴阳历周期特征来看，在每个 19 年的周期内就会有一两年发生这种情况，我们无法确定希伯来人到底在哪一个周期内入侵巴勒斯坦。

X. 同一时期的记载。然而，我们可以看到，这段经文通过提及月亮所阐述的天文现象可能远比我们想象的准确。因此，这些天文现象有力地证明了，诗歌和编年史中的天文细节都源自当时的实际观测，而且这些细节始终不变地流传至今。因此，同时期的诗歌和编年史分别对这一事件作了严谨的记录。

另一段经文——“哈巴谷的祈祷诗”似乎也提到了这个重大的事件。这段英文翻译也不太准确，应该译为：

The sun and moon ceased [to shine] in their habitation;
At the light of Thine arrows they vanished,
And at the shining of Thy glittering spear.
Thou didst march through the land in indignation,
Thou didst thresh the nations in anger (Hab. 3:11f.).

因你的箭射出发光，
你的枪闪出光耀，
日月都在本宫不再发光（和合本译为“停住”）。
你发愤恨通行大地，
发怒气责打列国，如同打粮（哈3:11-12）。

BETH-JESHIMOTH

beth-jesh'ə-moth [Heb. bēt hayy'šimōt; Gk. B Haisimōth, A Asimōth, and other variants]. One of the final stopping places of the Exodus, mentioned as the point in the south from which the camp of Israel in the plains of Moab stretched N to Abel-shittim (Nu. 33:49). It was assigned to Reuben (Josh. 13:20), but later is mentioned as one of the important cities of Moab (Ezk. 25:9). It is most likely the modern Tell el-'Azeimeh near the northeast shore of the Dead Sea. Close by is a Roman settlement whose Greek name was Besimoth, the modern Khirbet es-Sweimeh.

rainfall has been 18.5 in. (47 cm.). Bethlehem is surrounded by fertile fields, fig and olive orchards, and vineyards. (47 厘米)。伯利恒的四周环绕着良田、无花果园、橄榄果园和葡萄园。

I. OT History.-In 1 Ch. 2:51 Salma the son of Caleb is described as the “father of Bethlehem.” In Gen. 35:19; 48:7 it is recorded that Rachel was buried in Bethlehem (see RACHAEL’S TOMB). The Levites mentioned in Jgs. 17 and 19 were Bethlehemites. Bethlehem is the stage for the love idyll of Ruth and Boaz (Ruth 4:11). Rehoboam, son and successor of King Solomon, fortified Bethlehem to guard the approach to Jerusalem (2 Ch. 11:5f.). After the return of the Jews from exile (ca. 538 B.C.), Bethlehem was sparsely populated (Ezr. 2:21; Neh. 7:26).

David himself is declared “the son of that Ephrathite of Bethlehem-judah, whose name was Jesse” (1 S. 17:12). Samuel was sent to Bethlehem to anoint David as successor to unworthy Saul (16:1f., 12). At Bethlehem David went about feeding his father’s sheep (17:15). In the days of David the town was occupied by a garrison of the Philistines (2 S. 23:14; 1 Ch. 11:16). David’s men broke through the host of Philistines to draw water out of the well of Bethlehem and brought it to David (2 S. 23:16). According to tradition, the well is a short distance NE of Bethlehem. David’s nephews, the sons of Zeruah (1 Ch. 2:15f.), came from Bethlehem; Asahel, one of the nephews, was buried “in the sepulchre of his father, which was Bethlehem” (2 S. 2:32).

Though Bethlehem became an insignificant town after the time of David, Mic. 5:2 indicates its future fame. Matthew and the Fourth Gospel acknowledge this to be a prophecy of the birth of the Messiah (Mt. 2:5f.; Jn. 7:42). 约 7:42)。

I. 《旧约》中伯利恒的历史。《历代志上》2:51 中称迦勒的儿子萨玛为“伯利恒之祖”。根据《创世记》35:19 和 48:7 中的记载，拉结死后就葬在了伯利恒（见 RACHAEL’S TOMB[拉结的坟墓]）。《士师记》17 和 19 章中提到的利未人就是伯利恒人。波阿斯娶路得的事就发生在伯利恒（得 4:11）。所罗门儿子和继任者罗波安为保障通往耶路撒冷道路的安全，加固了伯利恒（代下 11:5-6）。犹太人从流放地归回之后（约公元前 538 年），伯利恒的人口很稀少（拉 2:21；尼 7:26）。

大卫被称为“犹大伯利恒的以法他人耶西的儿子”（撒上 17:12）。神差遣撒母耳去膏立大卫，取代已不配作王的扫罗（撒上 16:1-2, 12）。大卫时而回伯利恒，牧养他父亲的羊（撒上 17:15）。在大卫时期，该城邑被非利士的防营占领着（撒下 23:14；代上 11:16）。大卫的勇士闯过了非利士的营盘，将伯利恒的井里的水打来给大卫喝（撒下 23:16）。据传说，这口井位于伯利恒东北方向的不远处。大卫的外甥，洗鲁雅的儿子（代上 2:15-16）就来自于伯利恒；他的一个外甥亚撒黑死后被“送到伯利恒，葬在他父亲的坟墓里”（撒下 2:32）。

虽然在大卫时期过后伯利恒成为了一个微不足道的城邑，但是《弥迦书》5:2 中表明了伯利恒在日后将声名远扬。《马太福音》和“第四福音”都认为，这是关于弥赛亚降生的预言（太 2:5-6；

II. Christian Era.-In the NT Bethlehem is mentioned as the birthplace of the Messiah (Mt. 2:1, 5; Lk. 2:4, 15) and the locale of Herod's "massacre of the innocents" (Mt. 2:8, 16). The cave-stable is mentioned by Justin Martyr (Dial 78.5f.), Origen (Contra Celsum i.51), and Jerome (Ep. 108.10). After the Romans conquered Bethlehem anew (A.D. 135) the site of the Nativity was desecrated, probably under Hadrian (117-138; cf. Jerome Ep. 58.3). Jerome lived for thirty-three years in Bethlehem (A.D. 387-420). Here he helped found and direct pilgrim hospices, convents for women, and a monastery. During this time, by the request of Pope Damasus, Jerome began his revision of the Latin NT and his comparison of the Greek version of the OT with the original Hebrew, which ultimately led to the composition of the Vulgate. The cell where Jerome made his famous translation is still maintained as a chapel in the Church of the Nativity.

The desert E of Bethlehem is still inhabited by Moslem bedouin who use this fertile land for grazing goats and sheep. A field located a short distance SE of Bethlehem is designated as the place where the angels appeared to the shepherds to bring them the good tidings of the birth of the Savior (Lk. 2:8). See Plate 19.

Bethlehem has had an interesting history. The Persians spared it in A.D. 614, the Arabs in 636. The inhabitants invited the Crusaders to occupy the city in 1099. In the 12th cent. a Latin bishopric was erected in Bethlehem; in the 14th cent. an episcopal see was constituted there by the

II. 基督纪元。《新约》中提到，伯利恒是弥赛亚的诞生地（太 2:1, 5; 路 2:4, 15），也是希律“屠杀婴儿”的地点（太 2:8, 16）。殉道者游斯丁（Dial 78.5-6），俄利根（Contra Celsum i.51）和耶柔米（Ep. 108.10）都提到了石洞马厩。罗马人再次征服伯利恒之后（公元 135 年），耶稣诞生地遭到亵渎，这可能发生在哈德良执政时期（117-138；参：Jerome Ep. 58.3）。耶柔米在伯利恒生活了 33 年（公元 387 至 420 年）。他在这里指导并协助创立了朝圣者济贫院、女修道院和男修道院。根据教宗达玛苏的要求，耶柔米从这一时期开始修订拉丁语《新约》，他还将希腊语版本的《旧约》与原始希伯来语《旧约》进行比对，并最终翻译出了《武加大译本》。耶柔米进行这个著名译本的翻译时所居住的房间保留了下来，并作为圣诞教堂中的一个小礼拜堂使用。

伯利恒拥有一段有趣的历史。波斯人在公元 614 年占领该城，阿拉伯人在公元 636 年占领这里。公元 1099 年，当地居民请求十字军占领这座城市。12 世纪时，伯利恒成立了一个拉丁主教辖区；希腊教会于 14 世纪在伯利恒设置主教辖区，亚美尼亚教会于 17 世纪在

Greek Church; the same was done by the Armenian Church in the 17th century. The wall and the towers, symbolizing Bethlehem on the Madeba Map, were demolished and the moat was filled in 1489. Ibrahim Pasha, Egyptian general and son of Muhammed Ali, as punishment for a Moslem insurrection laid waste the Moslem section of the town in 1834.

III. Church of the Nativity.-Constantine erected the large basilica (ca. 325) over the hillside grotto that is identified by tradition and believed by most authorities to be the site of the birth of Jesus. Originally it was known as S. Marie a Praesepio (Church of St. Mary). The Church of the Nativity was never destroyed; it remains the oldest of the famous churches of the world.

Even though it was damaged by the Samaritans in A.D. 525, it was repaired and enlarged under the rule of the emperor Justinian. When the Persians invaded the Holy Land in 614 they left the church untouched, because they recognized the garb worn by the Magi pictured in the mosaic as their national attire. The three large gates of the basilica were changed into a small entrance in order to prevent riders from entering on their horses. Entering this 4-ft. (1.2-m.) high "Door of Humility," one proceeds through a vestibule to the main sanctuary.

The grotto of the Nativity is under the chancel. It occupies the center of the transept and is approached by steps leading down from each side of the choir. In a crypt at the front of the grotto is the manger where Jesus was born. A silver star on the marble floor at the east end of the crypt is inscribed with the words, Hic

III. 圣诞教堂。君士坦丁在位于半山腰的圣诞洞穴的上方建立了一座长方形的基督教堂 (约 325 年), 传说和绝大多数权威都认定该地为耶稣的诞生地。人们最初称它为 S. Marie a Praesepio (圣马利亚教堂)。圣诞教堂保存至今; 它始终是世界上著名教堂中最古老的一座。

虽然公元 525 年该教堂遭到了撒玛利亚人的破坏, 但是查士丁尼皇帝统治时期, 人们修复并扩建了这座教堂。公元 614 年波斯人入侵圣地时, 他们未曾破坏这座教堂, 因为他们意识到镶嵌画中东方三博士所穿的服饰就是他们的民族服饰。长方形基督教堂的三座大门被冲入教堂。人们通过这个 4 英尺 (1.2 米) 高的“谦卑之门”进入, 穿过前厅之后进入主殿。

圣诞洞位于圣坛的下面。它占据着耳堂的中心位置, 踏着圣坛两侧的台阶走下便步入这个洞穴。洞穴前部的地窖中有一个马槽, 耶稣就诞生在这个马槽里。地窖东端的大理石地面上有一颗银星, 上面刻着 Hic de Virgine Maria Jesus Christus natus est (“童贞女马利亚在此诞下耶稣”)。这颗星四周有十五盏日夜

de Virgine Maria Jesus Christus natus est (“Here of the Virgin Mary Jesus Christ was born”). Of the fifteen lamps that burn day and night around this star, six belong to the Greek, five to the Armenian, and four to the Latin churches.

不熄的灯，六盏属于希腊教会，五盏属于亚美尼亚教会，其余的四盏属于拉丁教会。

IV. Modern Bethlehem.-Bethlehem has become a city of international and ecumenical character. It became a part of Jordan in 1949, and residence for Jews was prohibited; in June, 1967, it was occupied by Israel. Its modern name is Beit Lahm, “house of meat.” The majority of its people belong to one of the various Christian confessions. Though the Bethlehemites prefer occidental clothing the national garb may still be seen, worn mostly by women.

IV. 现代伯利恒。伯利恒已经成为了一座国际化和普世教会特色的城市。1949年它成为约旦领土的一部分，并且禁止犹太人在此居住；1967年6月，以色列占领了这里。该城的现名为贝特拉马，即“肉房”。当地的基督教派众多，但绝大多数人信仰同一教派。虽然伯利恒人更喜欢穿西方的服饰，但是仍然可以看到人们穿着传统服饰，尤其是妇女。

are manufactured in private homes with primitive tools. Other small factories produce furniture, plastic, macaroni, and weaving equipment. Bethlehem also produces one of the finest wines in the Palestine area.

V. Archeology.-Bethlehem is among the ancient cities and villages that have been only slightly disturbed by excavations. Nevertheless, bones and teeth of monstrous rhinoceroses, hippopotamuses, elephants, and cave oxen have been discovered in the hills of Bethlehem, as well as tools used by pre-Chellean man over 100,000 years ago.

2. Bethlehem of Zebulun (Jos. 19:15f.), now the small village of Beit Lahm located 7 mi. (11 km.) NW of Nazareth on the edge of the Oak Forest. A few antiquities have been found there showing that in earlier days it was a place of some importance. There are traces of the influence of Hellenism as well as the ruins of a synagogue.

V. 考古。伯利恒是世界上甚少经历考古发掘，安然沉睡的古代遗址之一。不过，人们在伯利恒的山丘上发现了巨型犀牛、河马、大象和洞穴牛的骨骼和牙齿，还发现了 10 万多年前的前舍利人所使用的工具。

2、西布伦的伯利恒（书 19:15-16），现在是贝特拉马一座小村庄，位于拿撒勒西北 7 英里（11 公里）处，地处橡树林的边缘。人们在该地发现了一些古物，这表明从前这个地方比较重要。人们可以看到该地受希腊文化影响的痕迹和一些犹太会堂的废墟。 is so named in 1 S. 16:18; 17:58, and Elhanan in 2 S. 21:19. The sons of Bethlehem are referred to in Ezr. 2:21; Neh. 7:26; 1 Esd. 5:17.

BETH-LOMON

beth-lō'mən [Gk. Baithlōmōn, B Rhagethlōmōn].

A town in Judah whose inhabitants returned from Babylon with Zerubbabel (1 Esd. 5:17, Gk, AV, NEB), identified as Bethlehem in the RSV (cf. Ezr. 2:21).

BETH-MAACAH

beth-mā'ə-kə. See ABEL-BETH-MAACAH.

BETH-MARCABOTH

beth-mār'kə-both [Heb. bêt hammarkābōt—‘the house (place) of chariots’; Gk. Baithmachereb]. A place mentioned along with Hazar-susah, “the station of horses,” as cities in the Negeb near Ziklag (Josh. 19:5; 1 Ch. 4:31). It is tempting to connect these stations with “the cities for his chariots, and the cities for his horsemen” which Solomon built (1 K. 9:19; cf. 10:26). The site of Beth-marcaboth has not been identified, although in a partly parallel list in Josh. 15:31 its place is taken by Madmannah, which is also in the Negeb and may be identical (GAB).

犹大的一座城邑,当地的居民与所罗巴伯一同从巴比伦返回了家园(拉一5:17, 希腊语,《钦定版圣经》,《新英文译本》),《修订标准译本》将之译为 Bethlehem (“伯利恒”) (参: 拉 2:21)。

beth-mil'ō [Heb. bêt millô'; Gk. oikos Maallōn] (Jgs. 9:6, 20); AV “house of Millo.” A quarter in Shechem associated with the armed forces of that city, perhaps to be understood as a civil defense center or barracks. It is not certain whether “the house of Millo” is identical with the TOWER OF SHECHEM (J. Simons, Jerusalem [1952]), nor how both are related to the shrine of BAAL-BERITH. The three seem to be connected with the city's considerable defense installations (see G. E. Wright, Shechem [1965]).

BETH-NIMRAH

beth-nim'rā [Heb. bêt nimirā] (Nu. 32:36; Josh. 13:27); NIMRAH nim'rā [Heb. nimirā] (Nu. 32:3). A city in the plains of Moab built and fortified by the Gadites.

It is located on the north side of Wādī Shu'eib at Tell Bleibil, about 1 mi. (1.6 km.) N of the Byzantine site of Tell Nimrîn. Because of the vegetation lining the banks of the streams on the east of the Jordan, the Gadites requested this city among others for grazing their cattle (Nu. 32:3, 36). In Isa. 15:6 the prophet, in an oracle against Moab, declared a blight on this land.

BETH-MILLO 米罗

BETH-NIMRAH 伯宁拉

该城市坐落于舒伊博河(Wādī Shu'eib)北侧的比利比废丘(Tell Bleibil)上, 位于拜占庭遗址宁林废丘(Tell Nimrîn)以北1英里(1.6公里)处。由于约旦以东的溪流沿岸被植被覆盖, 迦得人想求得伯宁拉等城邑来牧放他们的牲畜(民 32:3, 36)。在《以赛亚书》15:6中, 先知在论摩押的预言中宣布这片土地将变得荒芜。

beth-pē'lət [Heb. bêt-peleṭ—'house of escape']; AV BETH-PALET (Josh. 15:27), BETH-PHELET (Neh. 11:26). An unidentified city in the extreme south (Negeb) of Judah, "toward the boundary of Edom." Some of the Judahites returned there after the Exile (Neh. 11:26).

BETH-PEOR

beth-pē'ôr [Heb. bêt p^e'ôr—'house of the opening'; Gk. oikos Phogōr, Baithphogōr]. A place in Moab, possibly N of Mt. Nebo, used to identify the valley where Moses recalled to Israel the covenant of Sinai (Dt. 3:29; 4:46) and where Moses was buried (Dt. 34:6). It was in the portion of land allotted to the tribe of Reuben by Moses (Josh. 13:20), near the mountain where Balaam had seven altars built and where Israel later "began to play the harlot with the daughters of Moab" and "yoked himself to Baal of Peor" (Nu. 25:1, 3, 5, 18; cf. Dt. 4:3; 31:16; Josh. 22:17; Ps. 106:28; Hos. 9:10).

BETH-PEOR 伯毗珥

音译: beth-pē'ôr【希伯来语: bêt p^e'ôr——“开口之家”; 希腊语: oikos Phogōr, Baithphogōr】。摩押的一个地方, 可能位于尼波山以北, 人们过去认为摩西在这个河谷提醒以色列人遵守他们在西奈山与神所立的约(申 3:29; 4:46), 而且认为摩西死后也葬在了这个河谷(申 34:6)。摩西把这片土地的部分地区分给了流便支派(书 13:20), 在该地附近的一座山上, 巴兰建造了七座坛, 后来以色列人在这里“与摩押的女子行起淫乱”, “与巴力毗珥连合”(民 25:1, 3, 5, 18; 参: 申 4:3; 31:16; 书 22:17; 诗 106:28; 何 9:10)。

Beth-peor was 6 mi. (10 km.) from Livias on the road to Ḥesbân (Heshbon). on a mountain of the same name, 7 mi. (11 km.) from Heshbon. The Taanaïtes said that the cult of Baal-phegor was still practiced in their time, and a Roman fort at that place overlooked the Jordan Valley. Khirbet esh-Sheikh Jâyel best fits this description, but identification with Beth-peor is not certain.

See GP, II, 278.

beth'fə-jē, beth'fāj [Gk. Bēthphagē—'house of figs']. A village near the Mt. of Olives and the Jericho road, mentioned three times in the NT. In Mk. 11:1 and Lk. 19:29 it is associated with Bethany, in connection with the Triumphal Entry. Only Bethphage is named in the parallel passage in Matthew (21:1).

Although not mentioned in the OT, the name occurs in the Talmud, where it is spoken of as being near Jerusalem. G. Dalman (SSW, pp. 252f.) says: "It must have been a district situated outside Jerusalem (in any case a suburb, but not a separate unit), beginning at the border of the sanctuary, i.e. before the eastern wall of Jerusalem." This would mean the western slope of the Mt. of Olives. Because Bethphage is mentioned before Bethany, many scholars locate it E of Bethany, on the lower slopes of the Mt. of Olives. The site is nonetheless uncertain.

BETHPHAGE 伯法其

音译：beth'fə-jē, beth'fāj 【希腊语：Bēthphagē——“无花果树之家”】。橄榄山和耶利哥道路附近的一座村庄，《新约》中提及这个村庄三次。《马可福音》11:1和《路加福音》19:29提及伯法其时还一起提到了伯大尼，它们与“光荣进圣城”有关联。《马太福音》中的平行经文只提到了伯法其（太21:1）。

虽然《旧约》中没有提及这个地方，但《他勒目》中出现了这个地名，该书中称伯法其靠近耶路撒冷。多尔曼（G. Dalman）在其作品（SSW, 252-253页）中说：“该城一定在耶路撒冷之外（总之位于郊区，而不是一个单独的地点），从圣殿的边缘向外伸展，即在耶路撒冷的东墙的前面。”这意味着它位于橄榄山的西坡上。因为经文中先提到了伯法其，后提及了伯大尼，所以许多学者认为伯法其位于伯大尼东侧，在橄榄山的低坡上。但是人们还不能确定该地的位置。 beth-rē'hob [Heb. bēt-rē'hōb—‘place of street (or “market”)’ (?); Gk. ho oikos Rhaab]. A principality of Aram along the southern border of Hamath; the northernmost point of the spies’ journey (Nu. 13:21). The valley around Beth-rehob included the city of Dan, formerly Laish, according to Jgs. 18:28. Simons, however (GTTOT, p. 7), translates so that Dan was near [b^e; cf. 1 S. 29:1] the valley of Beth-rehob, rather than in it, thereby allowing for a location farther N and W, along the Syrian Beqa‘. W. M. Thomson suggested present-day Bāniyās in the general area of Dan (Land and The Book, II [1882], 547). According to 2 S. 10:6 Beth-rehob supplied mercenaries to fight David, along with the neighboring city-states of Zobah, Tob, and Maacah.

BETH-REHOB 伯利合

音译: beth-rē'hob【希伯来语: bēt-rē'hōb——“街道(或‘市场’)”(不详); 希腊语: ho oikos Rhaab】。哈马南部边境上的亚兰诸侯国; 窥探之旅的最北面的一个地方(民 13:21)。根据《士师记》18:28 中的描述, 伯利合周围的山谷包括了但城, 也就是之前的拉亿。然而, 西蒙斯(Simons)在其作品中(GTTOT, 7 页)这样翻译, 但城靠近【b^e; 参: 撒上 29:1】伯利合平原, 非在伯利合平原上, 因此, 但城是一个在沿着叙利亚贝卡(Beqa‘)再往北、往西的地方。汤普森(W. M. Thomson)认为今天的巴尼亚斯(Bāniyās)与但城所在的区域大致吻合(Land and The Book, II [1882], 547)。根据《撒母耳记下》10:6 中的描述, 从伯利合和其附近城邦琐巴、陀伯和玛迦招募来的兵丁与大卫争战。

BETHSAIDA 伯赛大

音译: beth-sā'ə-də【希腊语: Bethsaida——“捕鱼之家”或“渔夫之家”】。

A town on the north shore of the Sea of Galilee. Many scholars believe there were two towns of the same name, one to the east and the other to the west of the

加利利海北岸的一座城邑。许多学者认为有两个叫伯赛大的城邑, 一个位于约旦河以东, 另一个位于约旦河以西。该城的确切位置一直存有争议。

Jordan. The precise locations are disputed.

I. In the NT.-Bethsaida was the home of at least three of Jesus' disciples. In Jn. 12:21 Philip is identified as being from "Bethsaida in Galilee," and in Jn. 1:44 Bethsaida is described as "the city of Andrew and Peter." Some think James and John also came from the same city. There are reasons to believe that Bethsaida was a city of some importance. With Chorazin and Capernaum, it is one of the cities (Gk. póleis, although it is twice designated a kómē, "village," in Mk. 8:26) where Jesus did most of His mighty works (Mt. 11:20-24; Lk. 10:13-15). Further, if there were but one Bethsaida it would undoubtedly be the one lying E of the Jordan which Philip the tetrarch rebuilt in honor of Julia, the daughter of Caesar Augustus, and made into his capital (Josephus Ant. xviii.2.2). It was at Bethsaida that Jesus healed a blind man by spitting on his eyes and laying His hands on him (Mk. 8:22-26). Context would seem to locate this E of the Jordan (the "other side" from the district of Dalmanutha, Mk. 8:10, 13; on the way to the villages of Caesarea Philippi, Mk. 8:27), although the injunction not to enter the village (v. 26) is more in keeping with Jesus' practice in Jewish, rather than gentile, regions (cf. Mk. 5:43 with 5:19).

II. One Bethsaida or Two?-The evidence for a Bethsaida E of the Jordan is strong. Josephus, who identified Bethsaida as the site Philip developed into the city of Julias, located it as lying near the Jordan

I. 《新约》中的伯赛大。耶稣至少有三个门徒来自伯赛大。《约翰福音》12:21 中的腓力来自于“加利利伯赛大”，《约翰福音》1:44 中称伯赛大人腓力“和安德烈、彼得同城”。有些人认为雅各和约翰都来自于这座城市。人们有理由认为伯赛大是一座重要的城市。伯赛大和哥拉汛、迦百农一样，是耶稣的大多数神迹都是在这些城市行的（太 11:20-24；路 10:13-15）（希腊语：póleis，虽然在《马可福音》8:26 中有两次称其为 kómē，即“村庄”）。此外，如果只有一个伯赛大，那么一定是约旦河以东的伯赛大，分封王腓力曾以凯撒·奥古斯都的女儿朱莉亚（Julia）的名义重建了这座城市，并将该城定位首都（Josephus Ant. xviii.2.2）。正是在伯赛大，耶稣吐沫在瞎子眼睛上，按手在那人身上（可 8:22-26）。从上下文语境来看，伯赛大似乎位于约旦河以东（《马可福音》8:10 和 8:13 中大玛努他地区的“海那边”；《马可福音》8:27 中“往凯撒利亚腓立比的村庄去”），虽然禁止入村的禁令（可 8:26）与耶稣在犹太人中行的神迹相符，而不是与祂在外邦人和其他地区所行的神迹相符（比较《马可福音》5:43 与 5:19）。

II. 有一个伯赛大还是两个伯赛大？有可靠证据证明在约旦河以东有一个伯赛大。约瑟夫斯认为伯赛大指的是腓力建造的犹流亚斯之城，这座城市位于“下高拉尼提斯”境内的约旦河附近 in “Lower Gaulanitis” (cf. BJ ii.9.1; 8.2; iii.10.7; with Vita 72). Both Pliny and Jerome agree with this location. (参: BJ ii.9.1; 8.2; iii.10.7; Vita 72)。蒲林尼和耶柔米都认可这一位置。

The problem arises with the Gospel materials. After the feeding of the five thousand in a place Luke connects with “a city called Bethsaida” (Lk. 9:10), Jesus sends His disciples by boat to “the other side, to Bethsaida” (Mk. 6:45). Jesus walks on the water to the disciples, who are rowing against a strong wind; and “when they had crossed over, they came to land at Gennesaret” (Mk. 6:53). John’s account indicates that the disciples started across the sea to Capernaum. The following day the crowds, who had been miraculously fed on five barley loaves and two fish, follow by boat and find Jesus “on the other side of the sea,” at Capernaum (Jn. 6:16–25). A normal reading of these verses assumes a Bethsaida W of the Jordan as well as another to the east. 福音书中的材料中却出现了一个问题。耶稣在一个路加称之为“伯赛大城”的地方给五千人吃饱之后(路 9:10), 祂催门徒上船, 先渡到“那边伯赛大去”(可 6:45)。耶稣在海面上行走, 往逆着强风行船的门徒那里去;“既渡过去, 来到革尼撒勒地方, 就靠了岸”(可 6:53)。约翰的描述表明门徒是乘船来到的迦百农。第二天, 人们见证了耶稣奇迹般地只用五个大麦饼和两条鱼就使众人吃饱, 他们乘船往迦百农去找祂, 但发现耶稣已在“海那边”了(约 6:16–25)。人们正常会将这些经文理解为, 在约旦河西面和东面各有一个伯赛大。

The position is strengthened by several supporting considerations: (1) Philip, Peter, and Andrew are from “Bethsaida in Galilee” (Jn. 1:44 with 12:21); (2) in Acts 1:11 the disciples are called “men of Galilee,” which would be incorrect if at least three were from Gaulanitis; (3) the close connection with Chorazin and Capernaum as the center of Jesus’ mighty works does not favor a gentile city E of the Jordan (Mt. 11:20–24). In fact, Bethsaida is contrasted with the gentile cities of Tyre and Sidon. Further, we have recorded only three brief visits of Jesus to the foreign peoples E of the Sea of Galilee. 还有几个因素能够证明该地点的可靠性: (1) 腓力、彼得和安德烈都来自于“加利利伯赛大”(约 1:44 和 12:21); (2) 在《使徒行传》1:11 中, 门徒被称为“加利利人”, 如果说至少有三个门徒来自于高拉尼提斯, 那么这种称谓就是不正确的; (3) 伯赛大与耶稣行神迹的另两个中心哥拉汛和迦百农存在密切的关系, 这无法证明伯赛大是一座位于约旦河以东的外邦城市(太 11:20–24)。实际上, 伯赛大与外邦城市推罗和西顿之间形成了对比。此外, 据记载耶稣只对加利利海以东的外邦人进行过三次简短的拜访。 unlikely it would be that two towns of the same name should exist so close to each other. It is also stressed that Mark's "to the other side, to Bethsaida" (6:45) need not indicate a journey directly across the lake to the far side. John indicates the destination as Capernaum (Jn. 6:17), which lay a relatively short distance away; and Josephus uses a similar expression for a boat trip from Tiberias to Taricheae (3.7 mi. [6 km.]), both on the west shore of the lake. That three disciples came from "Bethsaida in Galilee" is answered by the claim that at one time the province of Galilee ran right around the lake (G. A. Smith) or that Galilee may here indicate a general geographical area rather than a province.

III. Location.-The exact location of Bethsaida Julias is still uncertain, although most scholars identify it with et-Tell, 2 mi. (3 km.) N of the Sea of Galilee just E of the Jordan, along with Khirbet el-Araj, the nearby fishing settlement on the shore of the lake. Traces of an aqueduct and a Roman road indicate a connection between the original fishing village and the larger city established by Philip on higher ground to the north. The transfer of the name "house of fishing" to the larger settlement is understandable. Et-Tell is located near an open plain (about 2 mi. [3 km.] down the east side of the lake) with rich soil and thick grass. This corresponds to the "green grass" of Mk. 6:39 and the "much grass" of Jn. 6:10 where Jesus fed the five thousand.

'Ain et-Tabigha, about 3 mi. (5 km.) SW of the mouth of the Jordan, is usually mentioned as the location of the "second Bethsaida" W of the Jordan.

城市距离如此之近。也有人强调，马可所说的“那边伯赛大”不一定说明直接穿过这一湖泊到对岸去就能够到达。约翰指出该行程的目的地是迦百农（约 6:17），行程距离相对较短；而且约瑟夫斯在描述乘船从湖西岸的提比哩亚来到湖西岸的塔瑞妾耶（Taricheae）（3.7 英里[6 公里]）时，也采用了类似的表达方式。对于三个来自于“加利利伯赛大”的门徒这一问题，人们的回答是，加利利行省的范围，曾恰好环绕着加利利湖（G. A. Smith），或者说此处所提到的加利利可能谈论的是一个大致区域，而不是指代加利利行省。

III. 位置。伯赛大犹流亚斯的准确位置还不能确定，虽然大多数学者认为它就是埃特废丘（et-Tell），该废丘恰好位于约旦河以东、加利利海以北 2 英里（3 公里）处，靠近湖岸附近的打鱼点阿哈耶遗址（Khirbet el-Araj）。沟渠和罗马道路的遗迹表明这个原始的渔村与腓力在北部高地上建立的大城市之间存在着联系。因此该地的名称从“捕鱼之家”变为更大的聚落名称也就可以理解了。埃特废丘靠近一片开阔平原（距离湖泊东岸约 2 英里[3 公里]），这一地区土壤肥沃，草丛茂密。这与《马可福音》6:39 中的“青草地”和《约翰福音》6:10 中的“草多”的描述相符，耶稣在那里为五千人吃饱。

A solution to the Bethsaida problem suggested by W. M. Thomson (Land and the Book, II [1882], 422) locates the city at el-Mas'adiyah on the eastern bank of the river near the lake, and posits a Galilean suburb on the west bank. This double city would answer the problem raised by the data in the Gospels, but the boggy ground and the lack of any fording place or indication of connection by bridge argues against the site.

BETH-SHEAN

beth-shē'an; BETH-SHAN beth'shan, beth-shan' [Heb. bêṭ-šē'ān, bêṭ-šān; Gk. usually Baithsan, Bethsan, with minor variants]; (1 and 2 Samuel); AV Apoc. BETHSAN; SCYTHOPOLIS sith-op'ə-lis [Gk. Skythōn Pólis] (Apoc.). A city located at the juncture of the Jezreel and Jordan valleys. Through here passed the main arteries of the ancient world, and Beth-shean saw almost continuous occupation from Chalcolithic times to the present. The numerous springs and wells, especially the (now Nahal Harod) and its tributaries, have combined with the intense summer heat and rich soil to produce a subtropical paradise ideal for human habitation. During OT and prehistoric times the main settlement was on the site of Tell el-Huṣn, an impressive mound just S of Nahal Harod, and some 650 ft. (200 m.) N of modern Beit Shan (formerly Beisan). The name can be interpreted "house of rest" but was more than likely called "the temple of Shan," 汤姆森 (W. M. Thomson) 在他的作品 (Land and the Book, II [1882], 422) 中提出了一个解决伯赛大问题的方法, 他认为这一湖泊附近、河流东岸的马萨迪亚 (el-Mas'adiyah) 就是伯赛大, 并假设在西岸有一个加利利郊区。这一双重城市解决了福音书中资料中产生的问题, 但是这一地区为沼泽地, 并且没有渡河的地点, 也看不到连接河两岸的桥梁的迹象, 这些都构成了驳斥该地点的理由。

BETH-SHEAN 伯善

音译: beth-shē'an; BETH-SHAN (“伯善”) 音译: beth'shan, beth-shan' 【希伯来语: bêṭ-šē'ān, bêṭ-šān; 希腊语通常为: Baithsan, Bethsan, 还有一些微小词形变化】; (《撒母耳记上》和《撒母耳记下》); 《钦定版圣经》《次经》译为 BETHSAN (“伯善”); SCYTHOPOLIS (“西多波利”) 音译: sith-op'ə-lis 【希腊语: Skythōn Pólis] (《次经》)。一座位于耶斯列谷与约旦谷交界处的城市。古代世界的主干道穿过这里, 从铜石并用时代至今该地几乎一直有人类居住。该地泉眼众多, 尤其是贾鲁德泉 (Jālūd, 现名为纳哈勒哈罗德 [Nahal Harod]), 支流纵横交错, 与炎热的夏季与肥沃的土壤一起构成了适合人类居住的亚热带天堂。在旧约时期和史前时期, 人们主要定居于胡森废丘 (Tell el-Huṣn) 上, 该废丘是纳哈勒哈罗德正南面的一个著名的高地, 距离现代的伯善 (Beit Shan, 之前被称为贝珊 [Beisan]) 约 650 英尺 (200 米)。这个名字可以被译为 “安息之所”, 但很有可能被称为 “‘珊’ 的神庙”, “珊” the latter being a deity some have identified with the Sumerian serpent-god Šaḥan.

I. Late Bronze Age.-Beth-shean is mentioned among the “conquered” cities of Pharaoh Thutmose III, the name being spelled btšir. Scarabs from these rulers were found in the temples of levels IX-VII. During the Amarna period (level IX) a garrison of troops from Gath-Carmel was posted at Beth-shean (Bītsāni). The king of Jerusalem felt that this was not in the best interest of Egypt (Am. Tab. 298:18-20).

By the time Seti I had risen to the throne of Egypt (1303 B.C.), Beth-shean was clearly in Egyptian hands. To this period (Late Bronze II) Mazar dates the temples of level IX. This was one of the richest strata to be uncovered in the excavation; it abounded in artifacts of Egyptian type. A stele found in the southern-most of these two temples was dedicated to “Mikkal, Lord of Beth-shean.” A stone slab from the same place bore two carved scenes representing a lion and a dog (?) fighting.

Among the stelae of Seti I found at Beth-shean, two give glimpses of military action taken by this pharaoh to secure and maintain his control of this vital strategic region. The first indicates that Beth-shean served as the main Egyptian base in the area. The king of Rehob was evidently the principal vassal ruler in the valley, and an attack on him by his neighboring rivals could be accomplished only by

I. 青铜器时代晚期。图特摩斯三世法老在他“攻取的”城市的名单中提到了伯善,其拼写为 btšir。人们在第 9 至 7 考古层中发掘的神庙中发现了这些统治者的圣甲虫护身符。在亚玛拿时期(第 9 层),迦特迦密的一支驻军驻守在伯善 (Bītsāni)。耶路撒冷的国王认为这不符合埃及的最大利益(亚玛拿泥版 298:18-20)。

塞提一世登上埃及王位时(公元前 1303 年),伯善显然被埃及人所控制。马萨尔(Mazar)认为第 9 层中的神庙建于这一时期(青铜时代晚期)。这是发掘中的蕴藏古物最为丰富的考古层之一;这里出土了大量的埃及古物。在两座神庙最南面发现的石碑是献给“伯善之主,米加”的。这里发现的一块石板上雕刻着两个场景,描绘的都是一只狮子和一只狗(不确定)争斗的景象。

在伯善发现的赛提一世的石碑中,有两块能够表明塞提一世为保障和维护他对这一战略要地的掌控而发动过军事行动。第一块石碑显示出,伯善是埃及在这一地区的主要基地。利合王显然是这一谷地中的主要藩王,他附近的敌人要想向他发动进攻必须首先压制伯善的驻军。效忠于法老的迦特迦密的军队可能也驻扎在那里。因此,派雇佣兵驻守这座堡垒的惯例在非利士人没有占

neutralizing the garrison at Beth-shean. The troops from Gath-Carmel had probably been stationed there in the service of the pharaoh. Thus, the practice of manning this fortress by mercenary troops was well established before the Philistines appeared on the scene (cf. below). The other stele, on which the date is not preserved, records that the 'apiru of Yarmuth with the Tayaru have attacked the 'Amu (Asiatics) of Rhm. This Yarmuth is doubtless that belonging to Issachar (Josh. 19:21; cf. also 21:29; 1 Ch. 5:5-8). It is interesting to note that such disorders continued to take place among the tribes of Galilee at this time.

Level VIII also produced Egyptian-type artifacts. Level VII, which Mazar thinks lasted until ca. 1175, contained the commander's palace and another temple. In level VI another temple of similar plan was discovered and also a palace containing a stele of Ramses II and a statue of Ramses III. Beth-shean and its villages were in the territory of Issachar (Josh. 17:16) but were actually assigned to Manasseh (Josh. 17:11; 1 Ch. 7:29). However, not even this stronger tribe was able to conquer Beth-shean because the inhabitants were armed with "chariots of iron" (Josh. 17:12-16; Jdg. 1:27f.).

第 8 层中也出土了一些埃及的史前古物。马萨尔认为第 8 层的时间可以一直延续到约公元前 1175 年，人们在这个考古层中发现了这位指挥官的宅邸和另一座神庙。人们在第 6 层中发现了另一座布局相似的神庙和一座包含拉美西斯二世石碑和拉美西斯三世雕像的宫殿。伯善和属伯善的村庄位于以萨迦领地内（书 17:16），但实际上却被分给了玛拿西支派（书 17:11；代上 7:29）。但，就连这个更强大的支派也无法攻取伯善，因为当地人拥有装了铁刀的战车（书 17:12-16；士 1:27-28）。

这是人们在伯善发现的一位弹琴女子的青铜雕像（以色列文物和博物馆部）。

II. Iron Age.—The extent of Egyptian control during the early days of Israelite settlement (ca. 1200–1050) is difficult to determine. Level V at Beth-shean apparently represents this period, to which can be related the anthropoid coffins—pottery caskets bearing representations of faces, some of which have typically “Philistine” head-dress.

II. 铁器时代。人们很难确定在以色列定居在埃及地的前期（约公元前 1200–1050 年），埃及人控制地区的范围。伯善的第 5 层显然代表的是这一时期，因为该层中出土的人形棺这种陶棺上画有人的头像，有些头像上还配有典型的“非利士人”头饰。除了两个碗，人们在伯善没有再发现其他的非利士陶器。不过，人们发现了一些非常有趣的房屋

Except for two bowls, no Philistine ware was discovered at Beth-shean. However, there were some very interesting incense stands in the shape of houses, with human, animal, and reptile figures on them.

By the end of Saul's reign, Israel was trying desperately to break the Philistine stranglehold on the Valley of Jezreel. This was Saul's intention when he mustered his troops for his last fateful battle (1 S. 28:4). The Israelites gathered at Gilboa, the high ground above Beth-shean, and the Philistines assembled at Shunem nearby. Like so many passages from this period, the account of this battle (ch. 31) reads like a page out of Homer's Iliad. The heroes, Saul and Jonathan, were carried as trophies to the Philistine garrison at Beth-shean, and while the heads were sent to the main center of Philistia as an announcement of victory (31:9), the decapitated bodies were hung on the wall of Beth-shean. The men of Jabesh in Gilead (Tell el-Maqlub), whom Saul had once saved from disaster (ch. 11), came by night and rescued the bodies from their ignominious display and gave them a hero's burial (31:11-13). Scholars have often suggested that this passage is spurious because it does not conform to the usual burial customs of ancient Israel. However, the burial rites described here are those carried out in honor of heroes, e.g., Achille's friend Patroclus (Iliad xxiii), among the Homeric Greeks. It is no wonder that Aegean customs should be found at this time in which the Philistines (comprising several Aegean peoples) held sway at all the main centers of international commerce (cf. also 2 S. 21:12-14).

扫罗统治后期，以色列人极力要打破非利士人对耶斯列谷的控制。在《撒母耳记上》28:4中，扫罗集结军队要发起最后的决战，就是为了达到这一目的。以色列人在伯善上方的高地基利波聚集，非利士人在附近的书念集结。与描述这一时期的许多经文一样，这场战役的描述（撒上31章）与荷马的《伊利亚特》的故事相似。英雄扫罗和约拿单的尸首成为了非利士人的战利品，被送至非利士在伯善的驻地，非利士人为了炫耀胜利把他们的首级送到非利士的中心（撒上31:9），扫罗的尸身被钉在了伯善的城墙上。基列雅比（马卢比废丘[Tell el-Maqlub]）人走了一夜，将他们蒙羞的尸身从墙上取下来，并以英雄的礼遇埋葬了他们（撒上31:11-13），这是为了报答扫罗曾拯救他们脱离灾难的恩情（撒上11章）。学者们经常认为这段经文是不属实的，因为这与古代以色列的普遍的葬礼习俗不符。不过，这段经文中描述的葬礼是纪念英雄式的葬礼，如，在荷马时代的希腊人当中，阿喀琉斯的朋友帕特罗洛斯就举行火葬的葬礼（Iliad xxiii）。此时非利士人（包含多个爱琴海民族）统治着所有主要的国际商业中心（另参：撒下21:12-14），因此在这一时期发现爱琴海地区的风俗就不足为奇了。 wrote his great lament (2 S. 1:17–27), “to teach the men of Judah the bow.” Soldiers in training were to sing the chant about two mighty warriors who had fallen in battle. The hills of Gilboa were given the curse befitting the site of such tragic deaths: “no dew and no rain upon you!” The same curse is found in an Ugaritic legend about the death of a young warrior (Aqhat i.40–46).

The gateway of level V, which continued in use during much later periods, was doubtless that used by the garrison placed there later by Solomon (1 K. 4:12). Beth-shean was subject once more to destruction during the campaign of Pharaoh Shishak (ca. 920 B.C.). The period of Israelite occupation is represented by level IV, but the buildings were in such a ruined state due to the Assyrian and/or Babylonian onslaughts that the history of the period cannot be discerned in detail. Level IV seems to have lasted from ca. 815 to 700 B.C.

写下了伟大的哀歌(撒下 1:17–27),“把这首‘弓歌’教导犹太人”。士兵在训练时要唱这首赞颂两个勇士战死沙场的圣歌。因为这场悲剧性的死亡发生在基利波山,这座山遭到了诅咒:“愿你那里没有雨露!”这样的诅咒也出现在一个关于年轻勇士之死的乌加列传说当中(Aqhat i.40–46)。

第 5 层中发现的大门一直沿用到较晚时期,所罗门后来派遣到该地的驻军无疑也使用了这个大门(王上 4:12)。伯善在示撒法老征战期间(约公元前 920 年)曾遭到了破坏。第 4 考古层中的遗物反映出了以色列人在此定居的时间,但是由于亚述人和(或)巴比伦人的进攻,这里的建筑严重受损,因此人们无法认清这一时期的历史细节。第 4 层的时间跨度似乎是从约公元前 815 年至公元前 700 年。

III. Hellenistic Period.-Level III of the tell and the large city area enclosed by the circumference wall represent this period. A temple to Dionysos existed on top of the mound. In fact the city was sometimes called Nysa-Scythopolis, or Nysa, in honor of Dionysus' nurse and the town of his birth. The name Scythopolis probably dates back not to the Scythian invasion of the Near East (Herodotus i.103-05) but rather to the founding of a Ptolemaic city (perhaps in 254 B.C.) to be inhabited by hellenized descendants of Scythian mercenaries who had served in the Ptolemaic army.

III. 希腊化时期。该废丘的第3层和城市大部分区域都被这一时期修建的墙体包围着。该废丘的顶端是一座供奉狄厄尼索斯（希腊神话中酒神）的神庙。实际上，为了纪念酒神狄厄尼索斯的保姆和酒神出生的城邑，这座城市有时也被称为尼斯西多波利或尼斯。西多波利这个名字可能并不是由入侵古近东的塞西亚人命名的（Herodotus i.103-05），而是始于托勒密时期建造的一座城市（可能是公元前254年），托勒密军中塞西亚雇佣兵的希腊化后裔曾居住于此。

In 107 the city was occupied by the Jewish high priest John Hyrcanus, and it remained under Maccabean (Hasmonean) rule until 63 B.C. when Palestine became a Roman province. Under the Romans the city was one of the chief cities of the Decapolis (Josephus BJ ii.9.7), a league of ten cities with Greek culture and constitution (cf. Mt. 4:25; Mk. 5:20; 7:31). During the 1st cent. A.D. the population was therefore predominantly gentile (2 Macc. 12:30; BJ ii.18.1, 3f.; Vita 6), though a Jewish enclave remained. During the war against Rome (A.D. 68–70) the Jewish force raided Scythopolis several times, and the populace retaliated by attacking the Jewish residents there. The theater, now being restored, a hippodrome, an aqueduct and other public buildings, plus the great city wall and the ancient bridge, date back to this period. At the end of the 4th cent. the country underwent an administrative reorganization, and Scythopolis became the capital of Palaestina Secunda, a province that included the plain of Esdraelon, Galilee, and part of northern Transjordan.

座城市是低加波利的主要城市之一 (Josephus BJ ii.9.7)，低加波利是由十座拥有希腊文化和体制的城市组成的联盟 (参：太 4:25；可 5:20；7:31)。因此，在公元 1 世纪，尽管这里存在着一个犹太人聚集的飞地，但这座城市的的人口仍然以外邦人为主 (马二 12:30；BJ ii.18.1, 3-4；Vita 6)。在与罗马人争战期间 (公元 68–70 年)，犹太军队曾多次突袭西多波利，而该地民众通过袭击当地犹太居民实施报复。剧场 (现已修复)、竞技场、沟渠和其他公共建筑，以及重要的城墙和古桥都是这一时期的遗迹。公元 4 世纪末期，国家进行了行政改革，西多波利成为了“巴勒斯坦第二行省” (Palaestina Secunda) 的省会，“巴勒斯坦第二行省”的范围囊括了埃斯德赖隆平原、加利利和外约旦北部的部分地区。

IV. Byzantine Age.-This period is represented by level II, during which time Scythopolis was the see of a bishop. Among several churches erected here, the round church (no longer visible) found on top of the mound is worthy of note as being the same plan as the original Church of the Holy Sepulchre. Across the valley, N of the tell, a sixth-century monastery was excavated which contained lovely mosaic floors.

After the Arab conquest in A.D. 640 the old name Beisan came back into use. The town was utterly destroyed by the Crusaders and never regained its former prosperity. A mosque (the Mosque of the Forty Warriors) is located just outside of the town. The present structure is recent, but an inscription on the wall near the minbar or pulpit gives the year 1403 as the date of completion of the original mosque. The only traces of the Crusader period consist of a small castle called "the Old Serail," on a site now occupied by the girls' school. The original structure was destroyed by Saladin A.D. 1183.

BETH-SHEMESH 伯示麦

音译: beth-shem'ish 【希伯来语: bêt šemeš——“示麦(太阳神)之家”,而不是“太阳之家”,它的希伯来语形式应为 haš-šemeš】。《旧约》中有四个地方叫“伯示麦”,主要指的是犹太的伯

Beth-shemesh in Judah.

1. Judean Beth-shemesh was located on the northern border of the tribal allotment of Judah, named between Mt. Jearim (Chesalon) and Timnah in Josh. 15:10. If Beth-shemesh is to be equated with Ir-shemesh, it was originally allocated to Dan (Josh. 19:41), but was later considered to belong to Judah (2 K. 14:11). It is presently identified with Tell er-Rumeileh. (Earlier identification was with 'Ain Shems, which lies somewhat to the east, and preserves the ancient name.) The site is 18 mi. (29 km.) W of Jerusalem, 2 mi. (3 km.) SW of Eshta'ol, in the Valley of Sorek (Wâdī es-Sarâr) in the Shephelah (2 Ch. 28:18). Tell er-Rumeileh was excavated by the British in 1911/12, and by Haverford College in 1928–1932. It was settled before 2000 B.C., toward the end of the Early Bronze Age, and was occupied until the 6th cent. B.C. reaching its high point in the period of Egypt's 19th Dynasty.

1、犹大的伯示麦位于犹大支派分得之地的北部边境，《约书亚记》15:10 中说伯示麦位于耶琳山（基撒仑）与亭纳之间。如果伯示麦与伊珥示麦指的是同一个地方，那么它最初应该是但支派的分得之地（书 19:41），后来人们认为它归属于犹大支派（王下 14:11）。伯示麦就是今日的鲁迈利废丘（Tell er-Rumeileh）。（之前人们认为艾因夏姆斯[‘Ain Shems]就是伯示麦，该地位于伯示麦以东，现在仍然保留着古名。）该地位于耶路撒冷以西 18 英里（29 公里）处，以实陶西南 2 英里（3 公里）处，位于高原上的梭烈谷中（撒拉干河 [Wâdī es-Sarâr]）（代下 28:18）。1911 年或 1912 年，英国人对鲁迈利废丘进行了考古发掘，1928 年至 1932 年，哈佛大学再次对该地实施了挖掘。从公元前 2000 年以前至青铜时代初期结束时，直到公元前 6 世纪，始终有人类在该地生活，在埃及第十九王朝时期，这里的居住人口数量达到了历史最高值。

It seems likely that the Israelites occupied the city after the tribe of Dan relocated to the north, and it was designated as one of the cities of the Levites (Josh. 21:16; 1 Ch. 6:59). After the capture of the ark by the Philistines and the subsequent events, the ark was returned to Israel by the expedient of placing it in a cart drawn by two fresh (milch) cows, and letting the cows take the cart where they would—which was to Beth-shemesh (1 S. 6:1–14). At that time the city was beyond the border of Philistine territory (6:12), although the quantity of Philistine pottery recovered from the site indicates that it had been strongly influenced by, and possibly even under control of, the Philistines at the close of the Late Bronze Age.

In the reign of Solomon Beth-shemesh was in the second administrative (or commissary) district (1 K. 4:11). In the fifth year of Rehoboam (ca. 927 B.C.) Shishak (Sheshonq) the king of Egypt invaded Judah and plundered Jerusalem. This was probably the time of the destruction of Beth-shemesh of which the archeological exploration gave evidence, although the Bible is silent on this point (cf. 1 K. 14:25–28). When Amaziah was king of Judah (796–767 B.C.) he challenged Jehoash king of Israel (798–782 B.C.), and the two met in battle at Beth-shemesh (2 K. 14:8–11). Judah was defeated and Amaziah was captured, following which Jerusalem was plundered (14:12–14). The date had to be between 796 and 782 B.C., probably toward the end of the reign of Jehoash, as this would best account for Amaziah's loss of popular support and ultimately his assassination.

During the reign of Ahaz king of Judah (735–716 B.C.) the Philistines captured Beth-shemesh (2 Ch. 28:18), along with other cities. The Edomites also were taking advantage of the situation, and were raiding cities of Judah. Ahaz therefore sent to Tiglath-pileser III king of Assyria for help (28:16). Tiglath-pileser marched against the west in 734, plundering Phoenician cities and laying Ashkelon and Gaza under tribute, but it would seem that the capture of Beth-shemesh was somewhat later, and Tiglath-pileser was of no help, even though Ahaz had already become his vassal (cf. 28:19–21). Beth-shemesh thereafter is unmentioned in the biblical narratives, and we know nothing more of it except that it was destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar in the campaign of 588–587. The recovery of a jar handle bearing the name Yaukin (Jehoiachin) suggests that Beth-shemesh had once again come under the government of Judah, possibly at the time of Josiah’s expansion.

犹大王亚哈斯统治时期（公元前 735–716 年），非利士人占领了伯示麦（代下 28:18）等城市。以东人抓住有利形势，袭击了犹大的几座城市。因此，亚哈斯向亚述王提革拉毗列色三世求援（代下 28:16）。公元前 734 年，提革拉毗列色向西进军，掠夺了腓尼基的城市，并使亚实基伦和迦萨向其纳贡，但随后不久亚述王攻占了伯示麦，虽然亚哈斯已经臣服于提革拉毗列色（参：代下 28:19–21），但是这位亚述王并未向他提供帮助。此后，《圣经》中再未提到过伯示麦，我们只知道尼布甲尼撒在公元前 588 至 587 年的战役中摧毁了这座城市。该地出土的一个坛子的手柄上

2、以萨迦支派分得之地中提到了伯示麦这座城市, 位于分得之地的边境上, 在沙哈西玛与约旦河之间的经文中提到了这座城市 (书 19:22)。有三个地点可能指的是伯示麦: 伯善 (贝珊) 以南

three sites: ‘Ain esh-Shamsiyeh, about 7 mi. (11 km.) S of Beth-sham (Beisan); Khirbet Shemsin, 2 mi. (3 km.) NW of el-‘Abeidiyeh; and el-‘Abeidiyeh, a ford over the Jordan about 2 mi. (3 km.) S of the Sea of Galilee and E of Khirbet Shamsawi (which may preserve the ancient name). The last is the preferred identification at the present time.

See A. Saarisalo, The Boundary Between Issachar and Naphtali (1927), pp. 71–73, 119–120.

3. The Beth-shemesh allotted to Naphtali (Josh. 19:38) has not been identified. It would seem to lie N (and W?) of the Sea of Galilee. If the Beth-shemesh of Jgs. 1:33 is the same (note that Beth-anath is mentioned next to Beth-shemesh in both passages), it was occupied by the Canaanites, who became subject to Naphtali for forced labor. Some scholars identify this Beth-shemesh with 2, although the geographical details in the texts seem to support separate identities.

4. Jeremiah mentions a Beth-shemesh (translated “Heliopolis” in RSV) in the land of Egypt (Jer. 43:13). Since the Gk. hēliouópolis means “city of (the) sun,” this is a logical identification. See ON.

7 英里 (11 公里) 处的艾因沙姆斯伊 (‘Ain esh-Shamsiyeh); 阿贝迪亚 (el-‘Abeidiyeh) 西北 2 英里 (3 公里) 处的什姆辛废丘 (Khirbet Shemsin); 约旦河对岸的一片浅滩——阿贝迪亚, 位于加利利海以南 2 英里 (3 公里) 处, 沙姆萨维废丘 (Khirbet Shamsawi, 该废丘可能仍然保留着古名) 以东。现在最后一个地点得到了更广泛的认可。

3、 分给拿弗他利支派的伯示麦 (书 19:38) 的位置尚无法确定。该地似乎位于加利利海北面 (或西面[不详])。如果它与《士师记》1:33 中伯示麦指的是同一个地方 (注: 在这两段经文中都提及伯示麦时, 都同时提及了伯亚纳), 迦南人居住在该地, 但拿弗他利人迫使他们做劳工。虽然经文中的地理信息似乎表明这是两个不同的地方, 但是有些学者认为这个伯示麦与 2 中的伯示麦为同一个地方。

4、 耶利米提到过一个埃及地 (耶 43:13) 的伯示麦 (《修订标准译本》译为 “Heliopolis” [“赫利奥波利斯”])。因为希腊词语 hēliouópolis 的意思是“太阳城”, 所以认为这两个地名指的是同一个地方说法是合乎逻辑的。见 ON (安城)。 beth-sōō'rə (AV and NEB Apoc.). See BETH-ZUR.

BETH-TAPPUAH

beth-tap'ū-ə [Heb. bet-tappû(a)h—‘place of fruit trees’]. A town in the hill country of Judah (Josh. 15:53). Tappuah was a “son of Hebron” (1 Ch. 2:43). The site is identified with the village of Taffûh 3.5 mi. (5.5 km.) WNW of Hebron. It stands on the edge of a high ridge surrounded by very fruitful gardens; an ancient highway runs through the village, and there are many old cisterns and caves nearby. Beth-tappuah is to be distinguished from Tappuah.

The references indicate that it stood above a valley on a hilltop, at the foot of which was a spring. BETH-ZUR beth-zûr' [Heb. bêt-šûr—'house of rock']; AV and NEB Apoc. BETHSURA. A town in Judah (Josh. 15:58), the name of which survives in Burj eş-Şur, 4.5 mi. (7 km.) N of Hebron. The ancient town, however, has been found in Khirbet eṭ-Ṭubeiqah, 500 yds. [460 m.] to the northwest, where excavations were begun by W. F. Albright and O. R. Sellers in 1931 and resumed by Sellers in 1957. Traces from Early Bronze are scarce. Fortifications from the Middle Bronze period have been ascribed by the excavators to the Hyksos; after the defeat of the Hyksos in southern Palestine by the Egyptians the wall was destroyed.

Joshua 15:58 mentions Beth-zur as a town of Judah; 1 Ch. 2:45 reckons it part of the region of Caleb. Of the fortifications by Rehoboam (2 Ch. 11:7) no definite remains have yet been found. Beth-zur became very important as a fortress on the way from Hebron to Jerusalem in the Persian period, to which Albright now ascribes the "first citadel" with its water reservoir. It was the capital of one of the districts of the province Judah (Neh. 3:16).

《约书亚记》15:58中提到了犹太的城邑伯夙；《历代志上》2:45中称伯夙为迦勒领地的一部分。罗波安加固的堡垒（代下11:7）确切的遗址还没被找到。在波斯人统治时期，伯夙是希伯仑至耶路撒冷道路上一座非常重要的要塞，现在奥尔布赖特认为拥有水库的“第一城堡”就是伯夙。它是犹太行省中一个地区的省会（尼3:16）。

Judas Maccabeus fortified it again (1 Macc. 4:61; 6:7, 26) as a boundary fortress against Idumea. In 163 B.C. he left the town, and it soon capitulated to the Syrians (1 Macc. 6:31f., 49). The Syrian general Bacchides fortified it again in 161 (9:52), building what is called by the excavators the “third fortress.” According to 10:14 it was still a place of refuge for the Hellenistic Jews in 154 B.C. but in 144 B.C. it was conquered by Simon the Maccabee, who placed there a Jewish garrison (11:65f.; cf. 14:7).

犹大·马加比再次加固了这座边境堡垒（马一 4:61；6:7，26）以抵御以土买人的侵犯。公元前 163 年，马加比离开之后，这座堡垒很快落入了叙利亚人的手中（马一 6:31-32，49）。叙利亚将军巴克西于公元前 161 年再次加固了这座城邑（马一 9:52），他所修建的部分被发掘者命名为“第三堡垒”。根据《马加比一书》10:14 中的描述，在公元前 154 年，它仍是希腊化犹太人的避难之地，但是在公元前 144 年，马加比家族的西门攻克了这座堡垒，并派遣一支犹太军队驻扎在那里（马一 11:65-66；参：马一 14:7）。

bet'ə-nim, be-tōn'im [Heb. bēṭōnīm; Gk. Botanei]. On betrothal as a social custom see MARRIAGE IV.B.2.

Hosea, in his great parable of the prodigal wife (2:19f.), surpassed only by a greater Teacher's parable of the Prodigal Son, uses betrothal as the symbol of the Lord's pledge of His love and favor to penitent Israel.

The passage 1 Cor. 7:36–38 has been

给权威当局; 他由于背叛做出了卖主的事, 因此这一行为的性质发生了改变:

(1) 他利用自己是耶稣基督门徒的亲密关系把祂交到了敌人的手中; (2) 他在夜里偷偷出卖耶稣; (3) 他以亲吻这种表示喜爱和友好的行为出卖了基督; (4) 他为了金钱出卖耶稣; (5) 他知道耶稣基督是无罪之人 (太 27:4)。

司提反因犹太人卖了那义者而控告他们 (徒 7:52), 也就是说, 犹大所做的事就是他们所做的事; 参:《路加福音》6:16 中的同一词语 (prodótēs), “卖主的加略人犹大”和《提摩太后书》3:4 中“卖主的”。

BETROTH; BETROTHED 聘定、聘归; 许配、聘

【希伯来语: 'āraś, ḥārap (利 19:20); 希腊语: mnēsteuō, harmózomai (林后 11:2), parthénos (林前 7:36–38)】;《钦定版圣经》还译为 ESPOUSED (“许配”) (撒下 3:14; 太 1:18; 路 1:27; 2:5; 林后 11:2)、VIRGIN (“处女”) (林前 7);《新英文译本》还译为 ASSIGNED (“许配”)、PLEDGED (in marriage) (“[婚姻中的]起誓”)、“partner in celibacy” (“童真女儿”) (林前 7)。关于订婚这种社会风俗, 见 MARRIAGE IV.B.2 (婚姻、嫁娶 IV.B.2)。

interpreted in a number of ways, and presents crucial translation difficulties. The AV “virgin” for parthénos does not give a good sense here; the RV interprets it as “virgin daughter,” thus making the advice apply to fathers. The RSV, however, renders parthénos as “betrothed,” understanding Paul’s advice as applying to a suitor. The NEB (“partners in celibacy”) reflects the interpretation given by, among others, Delling in TDNT, V, s.v. παρθένος: “The reference is to women in the community who have agreed to set up house with a man in order that they may achieve the ideal of Christian asceticism in economic independence.” See also comms. in loc.; Bauer, p. 150.

bū'lə [Heb. bē'ûlâ—‘married’] (Isa. 62:4, AV, NEB). A name symbolically applied to Israel: “Thy land [shall be called] Beulah ... thy land shall be married ... so shall thy sons marry thee” (Is. 62:4f.). In this figure, frequently used since Hosea, the prophet wishes to express the future prosperity of Israel. The land once desolate shall again be populated. The RSV has “Your land [shall be called] Married ... and your land shall be married.”

BEULAH 有夫之妇

音译：bū'lə【希伯来语：bē'ûlâ——“已婚的”】（《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》，赛 62:4）。这个名字象征着以色列：“你的地也必称为有夫之妇……你的地也必归祂……你的众民（注‘民’原文作‘子’）也要照样娶你”（赛 62:4-5）。自何西阿开始，圣经作者频繁使用这种象征，先知何西阿希望展现出以色列未来的繁荣景象。过去荒废的土地必再次有人居住。《修订标准译本》译为“Your land [shall be called] Married ... and your land shall be married”（“你的地也必称为‘有夫之妇’……你的地也必归祂”）。

BEVELED WORK

[Heb. ma'āsēh mōrād—‘work of descent’]

BEVELED WORK 垂下的、细薄的

【希伯来语：ma'āsēh mōrād——“垂下

(1 K. 7:29); AV THIN WORK; NEB “hammered work of spiral design.” Scrollwork on the bronze stands of the laver in Solomon’s temple.

BEWAIL

[Heb. bākā—‘weep’; Gk. kóptō]. The Greek word (in the middle voice) has the thought of striking on the breast and of loud lamentation, so common among oriental people in time of great sorrow. It is used to express the most intense grief, a sorrow that compels outward demonstration (Lk. 8:52; 23:27). A poignant example of this grief is that of the daughter of Jephthah (Jgs. 11:37; Lev. 10:6).

See BURIAL II.C, D; IV.D–F; GRIEF.

BEWITCH

[Gk. baskainō] (Gal. 3:1). The meaning here is “captivate by falsehood.” Paul castigates the Galatians in strong terms for being so dazzled by the message of the Judaizers as to have strayed from the gospel of faith in the crucified Christ. The Greek word is colored by a background in magical evil incantations and spell-casting (see esp. TDNT, I, s.v. βασχάινω [Delling]).

In the AV “bewitched” appears also for existēmi in Acts 8:9, 11 (RSV “amazed”; NEB “swept off their feet,” “carried away”), referring to the people’s reaction to Simon the magician.

See also ENCHANTER; EVIL EYE; MAGIC.

的装饰”】(王上 7:29);《钦定版圣经》译为 THIN WORK (“细薄的”);《新英文译本》译为“hammered work of spiral design” (“花纹的浮雕”)。所罗门圣殿中铜盆座的漩涡形装饰。

【希伯来语：bākā——“哭泣”；希腊语：kóptō】。这个希腊语（中间语态）有哀哭捶胸的含义，东方人通常以这种方式表达他们极度悲伤的情绪。人们通常用这个词表达最强烈的悲痛之情，这种悲伤必须通过外在的情绪发泄出来（路 8:52；23:27）。耶弗他为女儿哀哭就是表达这种悲痛情绪的一个深刻例子（士 11:37；利 10:6）。

见 BURIAL II.C, D(埋葬 II.C, D); IV.D–F (IV.D–F); GRIEF (忧愁)。

BEWITCH 迷惑、使……惊奇

《钦定版圣经》中也用“bewitched”（使……惊奇）来翻译《使徒行传》8:9, 11 中的 existēmi（《修订标准译本》中译为“amazed”；《新英文译本》译为“swept off their feet”，“carried away”，汉译均为“惊奇”），它指的是人们对行邪术的西门的反应。

另见 ENCHANTER (法术、行法术的); EVIL EYE (恶眼、吝啬、红眼、嫉妒);

BEWRAY.

An archaic word in the AV meaning “reveal” or “disclose” (Heb. nāgaḏ, Prov. 29:24), “betray” (gālā, Isa. 16:3; Gk. poiēō délon, Mt. 26:73; cf. also Sir. 27:21; 2 Macc. 4:1). It occurs also for Heb. qārā, “call,” in Prov. 27:16, AV; “the ointment of his right hand which bewrayeth itself,” i.e., a contentious woman is said to be like oil held in the hand—she cannot be restrained. Cf. the RSV, “to restrain her is to restrain the wind or to grasp oil in his right hand”; and the NEB, “As well try to pick up oil in one’s fingers!”

In the RSV the Heb. bē‘ēber with hayyardēn, “the Jordan,” is generally rendered “beyond the Jordan.” The AV sometimes translates “beyond (the Jordan)” (Ge. 50:10f.; Dt. 3:20, 25; etc.), but in other contexts “on this side” (Dt. 1:1, 5; Jos. 1:14f.; 9:1; etc.), “on the other side” (Dt. 11:30; Josh. 12:1; etc.), “on the side ... westward” (Josh. 5:1). The NEB also varies according to the context: “beside” (Ge. 50:10f.), “in Transjordan” (Dt. 1:1, 5), “on the other side” (Dt. 3:20; 11:30), “east of” (Jos. 1:14f.; 9:10), “west of” (5:1), “district of” (1 S. 31:7).

The RSV also gives “beyond” for Heb.

BEWRAY. 显露、不言语

《钦定版圣经》中一古语用法，意思是“reveal”或“disclose”（“不显露”）（希伯来语：nāgaḏ，箴 29:24），“betray”（“显露”）（gālā，赛 16:3；希腊语：poiēō délon，太 26:73；另参：便 27:21；马二 4:1）。《钦定版圣经》《箴言》27:16 中还用这个词翻译希伯来词 qārā，意思是“显露”；“也是右手抓油，必显露自己”，也就是说，一个爱争论的女人就像是抓在手中的油一样——人们无法拦阻她。参：《修订标准译本》，“to restrain her is to restrain the wind or to grasp oil in his right hand”（“想拦阻她的，便是拦阻风，也是右手抓油”）；《新英文译本》译为“As well try to pick up oil in one’s fingers!”（“也像右手抓油”）。

BEYOND. 那边、河外

在《修订标准译本》中，当希伯来词语 bē‘ēber 与 hayyardēn（“约旦河”）连用时，意思是“约旦河那边”。《钦定版圣经》有时译为“beyond (the Jordan)”（“约旦河外”）（创 50:10-11；申 3:20, 25 等），但是在其他语境中则译为“on this side”（“这边”）（申 1:1, 5；书 1:14-15；9:1 等）、“on the other side”（“那边”）（申 11:30；书 12:1 等）、“on the side ... westward”（“在……西边”）（书 5:1）。《新英文译本》也根据不同语境采取了不同的翻译方法：“beside”（“河外”）（创 50:10-11）、“in Transjordan”（“约旦河外”）（申 1:1, 5）、“on the other side”（“那边”）（申 3:20；11:30）、“east of”（“……以东”）（书 1:14-15；9:10）、“west of”（“……以西”）（书 5:1）、“district of”（“那边”）（撒上 31:7）。

mē'ēber where it occurs in connection with the Jordan. The AV renders these passages “on this side” (Nu. 34:15; 35:14) or “on the other side” (Josh. 13:32; Jgs. 7:25); the NEB “beyond” (Nu. 34:15), “east of” (Nu. 35:14; Josh. 13:32), “across” (Jgs. 7:25).

Similarly, the RSV consistently has “Beyond the River” for Heb. 'ēber hannāhār or Aram ‘bar nah^arā, which occur frequently in Ezra and Nehemiah. The AV gives “beyond” or “on this side of” the river, the NEB always “Beyond-Euphrates.”

In the NT the Gk. péran, when used in connection with the Jordan, is generally rendered “beyond” by the RSV and AV. The NEB, however, gives a variety of readings: “Transjordan” (Mt. 4:25; Mk. 3:8), “across” (Mt. 19:1), “beyond” (Jn. 1:28), “the other side of” (3:26).

It is clear that in the RSV “beyond” may indicate either the eastern or the western side of the river and that it may refer to the side on which the writer stands (Josh. 5:1; 9:1; etc.); e.g., in Dt. 1:1, 5; 4:41, etc. the reference is to the country E of the Jordan, while in 3:20, 25; 11:30, the country W of the Jordan is indicated.

时,《修订标注译本》也将之译为“那边”。《钦定版圣经》则将这几段经文中这个希伯来词译为“on this side”(“在这边”)(民 34:15; 35:14)或“on the other side”(“那边”)(书 13:32; 士 7:25);《新英文译本》译为“beyond”(“那边”)(民 34:15)、“east of”(“……以东”)(民 35:14; 书 13:32)、“across”(“对岸”)(士 7:25)。

同样,《修订标准译本》一律采用“Beyond the River”(“约旦河那边”)翻译希伯来词语 'ēber hannāhār 亚兰语 ‘bar nah^arā, 这两个词在《以斯拉记》和《尼希米记》中经常出现。《钦定版圣经》则译为“beyond the river”或“on this side of the river”(汉译均为“河那边”),《新英文译本》常常译为“Beyond-Euphrates”(“幼发拉底河那边”)。

在《新约》中,当希腊词 péran 与“约旦河”一起出现时,《修订标准译本》和《钦定版圣经》中通常把这个希腊词译为“beyond”(“河外”)。然而,《新英文译本》却采用了多种译法:“Transjordan”(“约旦河外”)(太 4:25; 可 3:8)、“across”(“对岸”)(太 19:1)、“beyond”(“河外”)(约 1:28)、“the other side of”(“河外”)(约 3:26)。

“beyond”一词在《修订标准译本》中显然指的是约旦河的“东岸”或“西岸”,它可能指的是作者所站立的这一边(书 5:1; 9:1 等);如在《申命记》1:1, 5; 4:41 等经文中,这个词指的是约旦河以东地区,而在《申命记》3:20, 25; 11:30 中,它指的是约旦河以西地区。

BIBLE

[Gk. biblia—‘books’].

The word “Bible” designates the collection of the Scriptures of the OT and NT recognized and in use in the Christian churches. Different religions (such as the Zoroastrian, Hindu, Buddhist, Moslem) have their collections of sacred writings, sometimes spoken of as their “Bibles.” The Jews acknowledge only the Scriptures of the (Protestant) OT. Christians add the writings contained in the NT. The present article deals with the origin, character, contents, and purpose of the Christian Scriptures, regarded as the depository and authoritative record of God’s revelations of Himself and of His will to the fathers by the prophets, and through His Son to the Church of a later age (Heb. 1:1f.). Reference is made throughout to the articles in which the several topics are more fully treated.

I. Names.-A. Bible. The word “Bible” is the equivalent of the Gk. biblia (diminutive < biblos, the inner bark of the papyrus), meaning originally “books.” The expression “the books” (tá biblia) occurs in Dn. 9:2 (LXX) for prophetic writings. In the prologue to Sirach (“the rest of the books”) it designates generally the OT Scriptures; similarly in 1 Macc. 12:9 (“the holy books”). The usage passed into the Christian church for the OT (2 Clem. 14:2), and eventually (ca. 5th cent.) was extended to the whole Scriptures. Jerome’s name for the Bible (4th cent.) was “the divine library” (Bibliotheca Divina). Afterward came an important change from plural to singular meaning. “In process of time this name, with many others of Greek origin, passed into the vocabulary of the western church; and in the thirteenth century, by a happy solecism, the neuter plural came to be regarded as a feminine singular, and ‘The Books’ became by common consent ‘The Book’ (biblia, sing), in which form the word was passed into the languages of modern Europe” (Westcott, Bible in the Church, p. 5). Its earliest occurrences in English are in Piers Plowman, Chaucer, and Wyclif.

I. 名称。 A. 《圣经》。“圣经”一词相当于希腊词语 biblia (“小词”衍生自 biblos, 蒲草纸的内皮), 最初的意思是“书籍”。在先知作品《但以理书》9:2 (《七十士译本》)中出现了“the books” (tá biblia) 一词。在《便西拉智训》的前言中 (“the rest of the books” [“其他著作”]), “the books” 通常指的是《旧约》中的经卷; 《马加比一书》12:9 中的 “the holy books” 同样指的是《旧约》。后来基督教教会逐渐开始使用《旧约》(2 Clem. 14:2), 并最终 (约公元 5 世纪) 接受了整部《圣经》。耶柔米称《圣经》(4 世纪) 为 “神圣的丛书” (Bibliotheca Divina)。后来 “the books” 发生了重大转变, 它由复数形式变成了单数形式。“随着时间的推移, 这个拥有许多其他希腊词根的名词逐渐成为西方教会使用的词汇; 在 13 世纪, 由于一次巧妙的拼写错误, 这个中性复数名词变成了阴性单数名词, 人们一致认为应该是 ‘The Book’ (biblia, 歌颂) 而不是 ‘The Books’, 现代欧洲的语言也逐渐接受了该词的单数形式” (Westcott, Bible in the Church, 5 页)。该词的英语形式最早出现在《农夫皮尔卡斯》、乔叟作品和威克利夫 (Wyclif) 的作品中。

B. Other Designations. There is naturally no name in the NT for the complete body of Scripture, the only Scriptures then known being those of the OT. In 2 Pet. 3:16, however, Paul's Epistles seem brought under this category. The common designations for the OT books by Our Lord and His apostles were "the scriptures" (writings, Gk. hai graphai) (Mt. 21:42; Mk. 14:49; Lk. 24:32; Jn. 5:39; Acts 18:24; Rom. 15:4; etc.), "the holy scriptures" (Rom. 1:2); once "the sacred writings" (2 Tim. 3:15). The Jewish technical division (see below) into the Law, the Prophets, and the Hagiographa (holy writings) is recognized in the expression "in the law of Moses, and the prophets, and the psalms" (Lk. 24:44). More briefly the whole is summed up under "the law and the prophets" (Mt. 5:17; 11:13; Acts 13:15). Occasionally even the term "law" is extended to include the other divisions (Jn. 10:34; 12:34; 15:25; 1 Cor. 14:21). Paul uses the phrase "the oracles of God" as a name for the OT Scriptures (Rom. 3:2; cf. Acts 7:38; He. 5:12; 1 Pet. 4:11).

C. OT and NT. Special interest attaches to the names "Old" and "New Testament," now and since the close of the 2nd cent. in common use to distinguish the Jewish and the Christian Scriptures. "Testament" (lit "a will") is used in the NT (AV) to represent the Gk. daithékē, in classical usage also "a will," but in the LXX and NT employed to translate the Heb. b'rit, "a covenant." In the RV, accordingly, "testament" is, with two exceptions (Heb. 9:16f., RSV "will"), changed to "covenant" (Mt. 26:28; 2 Cor. 3:6; Gal. 3:15; He. 7:22; 9:15; etc.). Applied to the Scriptures, therefore, "Old" and "New

B. 其他名称。《新约》中自然没有整部《圣经》的名称，新约时期《旧约》是唯一的“经书”。不过，《彼得后书》3:16中似乎将保罗的书信也归为“经书”。我们的主和祂的使徒通常称《旧约》为“the scriptures”（“经书”）（作品，希腊语：hai graphai）（太 21:42；可 14:49；路 24:32；约 5:39；徒 18:24；罗 15:4等）、“the holy scriptures”（“圣经”）（罗 1:2），也有一次称为“the sacred writings”（“圣经”）（提后 3:15）。犹太人将《圣经》划分为律法和先知书两部分，他们认为“摩西的律法、先知的书和诗篇”（路 24:44）属于圣卷（圣著）。简而言之，整部《圣经》可以归纳为“律法和先知的书”（太 5:17；11:13；徒 13:15）。“律法”有时包括了其他的分类（约 10:34；12:34；15:25；林前 14:21）。保罗称旧约经卷为“神的圣言”（罗 3:2；参：徒 7:38；来 5:12；彼前 4:11）。

*C. 《旧约》和《新约》。*自 2 世纪末期至今，人们特别关注“旧约”和“新约”这两个名称，并且通常用这两个词区分犹太圣经和基督教圣经。《钦定版圣经》《新约》中的“Testament”（字面含义“遗嘱”）代表着希腊词 daithékē，这个词的传统用法中也有“遗嘱”的含义，但《七十士译本》和《新约》通常用这个词翻译希伯来词 b'rit，意思是“约”。因此，《修订译本》中将“testament”改为了“covenant”（太 26:28；林后 3:6；加 3:15；来 7:22；9:15 等），但也有两处经文例外（来 9:16-17，《修订标准译本》译为“will”[“遗嘱”]）。因此，在《圣经》中“Old Testament”和“New Testament” mean, strictly, “old” and “new covenant,” though the older usage is now too firmly fixed to be altered. The name is a continuation of the OT designation for the law, “the book of the covenant” (2 K. 23:2). In this sense Paul applies it (2 Cor. 3:14) to the OT law: “the reading of the old testament” (RV, RSV, “covenant”). When after the middle of the 2nd cent. a definite collection began to be made of the Christian writings, these were named “the New Testament,” and were placed as of equal authority alongside the “Old.” The name Novum Testamentum (also Instrumentum) occurs first in Tertullian (A.D. 190–220), and soon came into general use. The idea of a Christian Bible may be then said to be complete.

II. Languages.—The OT, it is well known, is written mostly in Hebrew; the NT is written in Greek. The parts of the OT not in Hebrew, viz., Ezr. 4:8–6:18; 7:12–26; Jer. 10:11; Dnl. 2:4–7:28, are in Aramaic (formerly called Chaldean), a related dialect which after the Exile gradually displaced Hebrew as the spoken language of the Jews (see ARAMAIC; HEBREW LANGUAGE). The ancient Hebrew text was “unpointed,” i.e., without the vowelmarks that came into use as a result of the labors of the Masoretic scholars (after 6th cent. A.D.).

The Greek of the NT, on which so much light was thrown by the labors of Deissmann and others from the Egyptian papyri, showing it to be a form of the “common” or koiné (Hellenistic) speech of the time (see GREEK LANGUAGE), still remains—from its penetration by Hebrew ideas, the influence of the LXX, peculiarities of training and culture in the writers, and above all the vitalizing and Testament” 的严格意义是“旧约”和“新约”，虽然旧时用法已经深入人心，很难去改变。这个名字沿用了旧约名称，指的是律法，“约书”（王下 23:2）。从这个意义上说，保罗用这个词（林后 3:14）指代旧约律法：“旧约”（《修订译本》和《修订标准译本》译为“covenant”[“约”]）。人们在 2 世纪中期之后开始收录基督徒的作品，并将之命名为“新约”，认为“新约”与“旧约”拥有同样的权威。特土良（190–220）的作品中首先出现了 Novum Testamentum 一词（也首次提到了 Instrumentum），很快这个词成为了通用词汇。基督教圣经的理念在这个时候才最终形成。

II. 语言。众所周知，大多数《旧约》经卷都是用希伯来语写成的；而《新约》则是用希腊语写成的。《旧约》中的非希伯来语经卷，即《以斯拉记》4:8–6:18；7:12–26；《耶利米书》10:11；《但以理书》2:4–7:28，是用亚兰语（之前被称为迦勒底语）写成的，犹太人被掳之后，亚兰语逐渐取代了希伯来语，成为了他们口头用语（见 ARAMAIC[亚兰语]；HEBREW LANGUAGE[希伯来语]）。古老的希伯来经文“没有注音”，也就是没有母音符号，但经过马所拉学者的不懈努力（公元 6 世纪之后），人们终于可以阅读这些经文。

transforming power of Christian conceptions in vocabulary and expression—a study by itself. “We impart this,” the apostle says, “in words not taught by human wisdom but taught by the Spirit” (1 Cor. 2:13). This is not always remembered in the search for parallels in the papyri. (For translations into other languages, see VERSIONS.)

III. Compass and Divisions.—The story of the origin, collection, and final stamping with canonical authority of the books that compose our present Bible involves many points still keenly in dispute. Before touching on these debatable matters, certain more external facts fall to be noticed relating to the general structure and compass of the Bible, and the main divisions of its contents.

A. Jewish Bible. 1. Josephus. A first step is to ascertain the character and contents of the Jewish Bible—the Bible in use by Christ and His apostles. Apart from references in the NT itself, an important aid is here afforded by a passage in Josephus (CAp i.8), which may be taken to represent the current belief of the Jews in the 1st cent. A.D. After speaking of the prophets as writing their histories “through the inspiration of God,” Josephus says: “For we have not myriads of discordant and conflicting books, but twenty-two only, comprising the record of all time, and justly accredited as Divine. Of these, five are books of Moses, which embrace the laws and the traditions of mankind until his own death, a period of almost three thousand years. From the death of Moses till the reign of Artaxerxes, the successor of Xerxes, king of Persia, the prophets who followed Moses narrated the events of their time in thirteen books. The remaining four books consist of hymns to God, and maxims of conduct for men. From Artaxerxes to our own age, the history has been written in detail, but it is not esteemed worthy of the same credit, on account of the exact succession of the prophets having been no longer maintained.” He goes on to declare that in this long interval “no one has dared either to add anything to [the writings], or to take anything from them, or to alter anything,” and speaks of them as “the decrees [dógmata] of God,” for which the Jews would willingly die. Philo (20 B.C.–ca. A.D. 50) uses similar strong language about the law of Moses (in Eusebius Praep. ev. viii.6).

III. 范围和分类。对于当前权威正典的起源、收录和最终成书，仍然存在很多激烈的争论。在讨论这些存有争议的问题之前，人们必须更多地关注那些与《圣经》总体结构、范围和主要内容分类相关的外部证据。

*A. 犹太人的《圣经》。1、约瑟夫斯的观点。*人们首先要做的是确定犹太人的《圣经》——基督和祂的使徒所使用的《圣经》的特点和内容。除了《新约》本身提供的参考，约瑟夫斯在其作品（CAp i.8）的段落中也提供了重要的参考，这些段落描述了公元 1 世纪犹太人的信仰。约瑟夫斯首先说先知“藉着上帝的默示”创作出他们的历史书，然后又说：“我们所拥有的并不是大量内容不一且相互矛盾的书卷，而是只有 22 部包含了所有时期历史记录’s 圣作’。其中 5 卷书为摩西所作，包括了摩西律法和他去世前约 3000 年间内人类的传统。从摩西去世至波斯王薛西斯的继任者亚达薛西统治时期，先知们仿效摩西，用 13 卷书记录了他们所生活年代的事件。其余的 4 卷经书包括颂扬上帝的赞美诗和规范人类行为的箴言。将亚达薛西时期至今的历史记录得非常详细，但是这些记录并不值得相信，因为这一时期不再拥有相互接续的先知。”隔了几段之后他继续写道，“没有人敢

In this enumeration of Josephus, it will be seen that the Jewish sacred books—thirty-nine in our Bible—are reckoned as twenty-two (after the number of letters in the Hebrew alphabet), viz., five of the law, thirteen of the Prophets, and four remaining books. These last are Psalms, Proverbs, Song of Solomon, and Ecclesiastes. The middle class includes all the historical and prophetic books, likewise Job, and the reduction in the number from thirty to thirteen is explained by Judges-Ruth, 1 and 2 Samuel, 1 and 2 Kings, 1 and 2 Chronicles, Ezra-Nehemiah, Jeremiah-Lamentations, and the twelve minor prophets, each being counted as one book. In his twenty-two books, therefore, Josephus includes all those in the present Hebrew canon, and none besides—not the books known as the APOCRYPHA, though he was acquainted with and used some of these.

2. Other Lists and Divisions. The statement of Josephus as to the twenty-two books acknowledged by the

根据约瑟夫斯的叙述,人们可以看出犹太人的《圣经》包括 22 卷书(按照希伯来字母进行编排),即 5 卷律法书、13 卷先知书和其余 4 卷经书,而我们的《圣经》包含 39 卷书。最后四卷书是《赞美诗》《箴言》《雅歌》和《传道书》。中间的 13 卷书包括历史书和先知书(如《约伯记》),这些经书由 30 卷减至 13 卷,它们包括《士师记》《路得记》《撒母耳记上》《撒母耳记下》《列王纪上》《列王纪下》《历代志上》《历代志下》《以斯拉记》《尼希米记》《耶利米书》《耶利米哀歌》和十二小先知书,所有这些书卷构成了一本书。因此,约瑟夫斯所说的 22 卷经书无一例外地全部收录在现在希伯来正典中——不包括《次经》(见 APOCRYPHA[次经]),虽然约瑟夫斯了解《次经》,并且引用了其中一些经文。

2、其他列表和分类。优西比乌 (HE vi.26) 保留下来的撒狄米主教墨利托 (约公元 172 年) 和俄利根 (公元 186 Jews is confirmed, with some variation of enumeration, by the lists preserved by Eusebius (HE vi.26) from Melito of Sardis (ca. A.D. 172) and Origen (A.D. 186–254), and by Jerome (Preface to OT, ca. 400)—all following Jewish authorities. Jerome knew also of a rabbinical division into twenty-four books. The celebrated passage from the Talmud (Baba Bathra 14b; see CANON OF THE OT; cf. Westcott, p. 35; Driver, Literature of the OT [1913], p. vi) counts also twenty-four. This number is obtained by separating Ruth from Judges and Lamentations from Jeremiah. The threefold division of the books, into Law, Prophets, and Writings (Hagiographa), is old. It is already implied in the prologue to Sirach (ca. 130 B.C.), “the law, the prophets, and the rest of the books”; is glanced at in a work ascribed to Philo (De vita contemplativa 25); and is indicated, as seen above, in Lk. 24:44. It really reflects stages in the formation of the Hebrew canon (see below). The rabbinical division, however, differed materially from that of Josephus in reckoning only eight books of the prophets, and relegating 1 and 2 Chronicles, Ezra-Nehemiah, Esther, Job, and Daniel to the Hagiographa, thus enlarging that group to nine (Westcott, p. 28; W. Smith, Dictionary of the Bible [1860–1864], I, s.v. “Canon”). When Ruth and Lamentations were separated, they were added to the list, raising the number to eleven. Some, however, take this to be the original arrangement. In printed Hebrew Bibles the books in all the divisions are separate. The Jewish schools further divided the “Prophets” into “the former prophets” (the historical books—Joshua, Judges, Samuel, and Kings) and “the latter prophets” (Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and the twelve minor prophets as one book).

至 254 年) 的旧约正典名单, 以及耶柔米保留下来的旧约正典名单 (Preface to OT, 约 400 年) 都证实了约瑟夫斯所说的犹太人只认可 22 卷经书的说法, 这些名单略有差异——但都遵循犹太人的权威记载。耶柔米也知道拉比将 24 卷书归为正典。《他勒目》(Baba Bathra 14b; 见 CANON OF THE OT[旧约正典]; 参: Westcott, 35 页; Driver, Literature of the OT [1913], vi 页) 中的著名段落也将 24 卷书归为正典。将《路得记》和《士师记》分开, 《耶利米哀歌》和《耶利米书》分开, 正好是 24 卷书。古时人们将《圣经》分为律法书、先知书和圣卷(犹太教《圣经》的第三部分)三部分。《便西拉智训》的前言(约公元前 130 年)中也暗含出这种划分方法,“律法书、先知书和其他著作”; 斐洛的作品 (De vita contemplativa 25) 中也提到了这种划分方法; 正如上文所说,《路加福音》24:44 中也给出了类似的暗示。这实际上反映出了希伯来正典形成的各个阶段(见下文)。然而, 拉比的划分方法与约瑟夫斯的划分方法有很大的差异, 拉比们认为只有 8 卷书属于先知书, 而《历代志上》《历代志下》《以斯拉记》《尼希米记》《以斯拉帖记》《约伯记》《但以理书》属于犹太教《圣经》的第三部分, 因此圣著增至 9 卷 (Westcott, 28 页; W. Smith, Dictionary of the Bible [1860–1864], I, 见词条 “Canon”)。当《路得记》和《耶利米哀歌》被分出来时, 这两本书也被归入圣著名单中, 因此圣著增至 11 卷。然而, 有些人仍然采取原来的编排方式。在出版的希伯来《圣经》中, 各卷单独成书。犹太学者将“先知书”分为“前先知书”(历史书——《约书亚记》《士师记》《撒母耳记》《列王纪》)和“后先知书”(《以赛亚书》《耶利米书》《以西结书》)和十二小先知书被视为一本书。

3. NT references. It may be concluded that the above lists, excluding the Apocrypha, represent the Hebrew Bible as it existed in the time of Our Lord (the opinion, held by some, that the Sadducees received only the five books of the Law rests on no sufficient evidence). This result is borne out by the evidence of quotations in Josephus and Philo (cf. Westcott). Still more is it confirmed by an examination of OT quotations and references in the NT. It was seen above that the main divisions of the OT are recognized in the NT, and that, under the name “Scriptures,” a divine authority is ascribed to them. It is therefore highly significant that, although the writers of the NT were familiar with the LXX, which contained the Apocrypha (see below), no quotation from any book of the Apocrypha occurs in their pages. One or two allusions, at most, suggest acquaintance with the book of Wisdom (e.g., Wisd. 5:18–21 par. Eph. 6:13–17). On the other hand, “every book in the Hebrew Bible is distinctly quoted in the NT with the exception of Joshua, Judges, Chronicles, Song of Solomon, Ecclesiastes, Ezra, Nehemiah, Esther, Obadiah, Zephaniah, and Nahum” (Westcott). Enumerations differ, but about 178 direct quotations may be reckoned in the Gospels, Acts, and Epistles; if references are included, the number is raised to about 700 (see QUOTATIONS IN THE NT). In four or five places (Lk. 11:49–51; Jas. 4:5; 1 Cor. 2:9; Eph. 5:14; Jn. 7:38) apparent references occur to sources other than the OT; it is doubtful whether most of them are really so (cf. Westcott, pp. 46–48; Eph. 5:14 may be from a Christian hymn). An undeniable influence of apocalyptic literature is seen

3、新约参考。人们可能总结说，上文的列表（不包括《次经》）表示的就是主耶稣时期的希伯来语《圣经》（有些人认为撒都该人只认可 5 卷律法书，但这种说法的证据不够充分）。约瑟夫斯和斐洛的引述证明了这个结论（参：Westcott）。对《旧约》中的引文和《新约》中的参考文献的研究更加证明了这一结论。从上文可以看出，新约作者接受《旧约》中的主要分类，将《旧约》经卷称为“圣经”，并认为这些经卷拥有神圣的权威。因此，最值得注意的是，虽然新约作者熟悉包括《次经》的《七十士译本》（见下文），但是《新约》经文中并没有引用《次经》中的内容。至少有一到两处经文暗示出新约作者熟悉《所罗门智训》（如，《所罗门智训》5:18–21，平行经文弗 6:13–17）。另外，“《新约》显然引用了除《约书亚记》《士师记》《历代志》《雅歌》《传道书》《以斯拉记》《尼希米记》《以斯帖记》《俄巴底书》《西番雅书》和《那鸿书》之外的所有希伯来《圣经》书卷”（Westcott）。虽然《新约》中的叙述有所差异，但《四福音书》《使徒行传》和《使徒书信》中直接引用《旧约》经文达 178 次；如果包括参考引证，《新约》总计引用《旧约》经文约 700 次（见 QUOTATIONS IN THE NT[新约引用]）。《新约》中有 4 或 5 处地方（路 11:49–51；雅 4:5；林前 2:9；约 7:38）引用的经文明显不是源于《旧约》。人们怀疑，是否绝大多数新约书卷都是如此（参：Westcott, 46–48 页；《以弗所书》5:14 可能源自一首基督教赞美诗）。不可否认，《犹大书》确实受到了启示文学的影响，《犹大书》1:14-15 直接引用了《以诺一书》中的内容。但这并不等于说，《犹大书》承认这本书也是《圣经》中的经卷（见 JUDE, EPISTLE OF V[《犹大书》]）。

in Jude, where vv. 14f. are a direct quotation from 1 Enoch. It does not follow that Jude regarded this book as a proper part of Scripture. (See JUDE, EPISTLE OF V.)

B. The LXX. Hitherto we have been dealing with the Hebrew OT; marked changes are apparent when we turn to the Septuagint, or Greek version current in the Greek-speaking world at the commencement of the Christian era. The importance of this version lies in its having been practically the OT of the early Church. It was used by the apostles and their converts, and is freely quoted in the NT, sometimes even when its renderings vary considerably from the Hebrew as we have it in the MT. Its influence was necessarily, therefore, very great.

1. Origin. The special problems connected with the origin, text, and literary relations of the LXX are dealt with elsewhere (see SEPTUAGINT). The version took its rise, under one of the early Ptolemies, because of the needs of the Jews in Egypt, before the middle of the 2nd cent. B.C.; it was gradually executed, and completed hardly later than ca. 100 B.C.; thereafter it spread into all parts of the diaspora. Its renderings reveal frequent divergence in MSS from the present MT, but show also that the translators permitted themselves considerable liberties in enlarging, abbreviating, transposing, and otherwise modifying the texts they had, and in the insertion of materials borrowed from other sources.

2. Apocrypha. The most noteworthy differences are in the departure from Jewish tradition in the arrangement of the

B. 《七十士译本》。迄今为止，我们一直在研究希伯来语《旧约》；当我们研究《七十士译本》或其他从基督纪元开始在希腊语世界流行的希腊语译本时，就可以从中看到明显的变化。《七十士译本》之所以非常重要，是因为它实际上是早期教会使用的《旧约》。使徒和他们的信徒都使用这个译本，新约作者也大量引用该译本中的经文，然而《七十士译本》中的翻译有时与我们在《马所拉文本》中看到的希伯来原文存在很大的差异。由此可见，《七十士译本》必定产生了很大的影响。

1、起源。对于《七十士译本》的起源、文本和文学关系等特殊问题，我们将在其他地方进行讨论（见 SEPTUAGINT[《七十士译本》]）。这一译本在托勒密王朝早期的一位统治者统治时期开始出现，因为在公元前 2 世纪中期之前，埃及的犹太人需要这样的译本；人们逐步进行翻译，约在公元前 100 年之前才译完；随后，该译本开始在离散的犹太人中传播。该译本中的翻译经常偏离当代《马所拉文本》抄本的内容，这也就表明译者在翻译时相当随意地对原稿进行了补充、删减、转换和修饰，还插入了其他来源的材料。

2、《次经》。《七十士译本》与《圣经》原稿最大的差异体现在，《七十士译本》在安排各卷书时违背了犹太人的传统

textbooks (this varies greatly; cf. Swete, IOTG, II, ch. 1), and in the inclusion in the list of the other books, unknown to the Hebrew canon, now grouped as the APOCRYPHA. These form an extensive addition. They include the whole of the existing Apocrypha with the exception of 2 Esdras and the Prayer of Manasseh. All are of late date, and are in Greek, though Sirach had a Hebrew original which has been partly recovered. They are not collected, but are interspersed among the OT books in what are taken to be their appropriate places. The Greek fragments of Esther, e.g., are incorporated in that book; Susanna, and Bel and the Dragon, form part of Daniel; Baruch is joined with Jeremiah; etc. The most important books are Wisdom, Sirach, and 1 Maccabees (ca. 100 B.C.). That Sirach, originally in Hebrew (ca. 200 B.C.) and of high repute, was not included in the Hebrew canon, has a weighty bearing on the period of the closing of that canon.

3. Ecclesiastical Use. It is, as already remarked, singular that, notwithstanding this extensive enlargement of the canon by the LXX, the books just named obtained no scriptural recognition from the writers of the NT. The more scholarly of the fathers (Melito, Origen, Athanasius, Cyril, Jerome, etc.) likewise adhere to the Hebrew list, and most draw a sharp distinction between the canonical books and the Greek additions, the reading of which is, however, admitted for edification (cf. Westcott, pp. 135f., 168, 180, 182f.). Where slight divergences occur (e.g., Esther is omitted by Melito, and placed by Athanasius among the Apocrypha; Origen and Athanasius add Baruch to Jeremiah), these are readily explained by doubts as to canonicity or by imperfect knowledge. On the other hand, familiarity with the LXX in writers ignorant of Hebrew could not but tend to break down the limits of the Jewish canon, and to lend a scriptural sanction to the additions to that canon. This was aided in the West by the fact that the Old Latin versions (2nd cent.), based on the LXX, included these additions (the Syriac Peshitta followed the Hebrew). In many quarters, therefore, the distinction is found broken down, and ecclesiastical writers (Clement, Barnabas, Irenaeus, Tertullian, Clement of Alexandria, Basil, etc.) quote freely from books like Wisdom, Sirach, Baruch, Tobit, 2 Esdras, as from parts of the OT.

C. Vulgate (OT). An important landmark is reached in the Vulgate or Latin version of Jerome (see VERSIONS). Jerome, on grounds explained in his Preface, recognized only the Hebrew Scriptures as canonical; under pressure he executed later a hasty translation of Tobit and Judith. Feeling ran strong, however, in favor of the other books, and ere long these were added to Jerome's version from the Old Latin. It is this enlarged Vulgate which received official recognition, under anathema, at the Council of Trent (1546), and, with revision, from Clement VIII (1592), though leading Roman Catholic scholars (Ximenes, Erasmus, Cajetan) had previously made plain the true state of the facts. The Greek Church vacillated in its decisions, sometimes approving the limited, sometimes the extended, canon (cf. Westcott, pp. 217–229). The churches of the Reformation (Lutheran, Swiss), as was to be expected, went back to the Hebrew canon, giving only a qualified sanction to the reading and ecclesiastical use of the Apocrypha. The early English versions (Tyndale, Coverdale, etc.) include, but separate, the apocryphal books (see ENGLISH VERSIONS). The Anglican Articles express the general estimate of these books: "And the other books (as Jerome saith) the Church doth read for example of life and instruction of manners; yet doth it not apply them to establish any doctrine" (Art. VIII). Modern Protestant Bibles often exclude the Apocrypha altogether.

者不得不冲破犹太人正典的范围,将非正典的经书纳入正典之中。西方人就犯了这样的错误,《古拉丁语译本》(2世纪)以《七十士译本》为依据,将后添加的作品收录进正典(叙利亚语《别西大译本》遵照希伯来语原稿)。因此,有些人打破了正典与《次经》的分界线,教父作者(革利免、巴拿巴、爱任纽、特土良、亚历山大革利免、巴西流等)大量引用《所罗门智训》《便西拉智训》《巴录书》《托比传》和《以斯拉二书》中的内容,并将它们作为《旧约》的一部分。

C. 《武加大译本》(旧约)。《武加大译本》或耶柔米的《拉丁语译本》是圣经翻译中的一座重要的里程碑(见 VERSIONS[译本])。根据耶柔米在他作品前言中的说明,他只认可《希伯来圣经》为正典;后来他迫于压力仓促地翻译了《托比传》和《犹滴传》。然而,认可这些作品正典地位的呼声越来越高,不久之后这些作品被收录进了耶柔米翻译的《古拉丁语译本》中。虽然主要的罗马天主教学者(西曼乃斯、伊拉斯谟和迦耶坦)已经将正典的真实情况陈述得非常清楚,但在天特会议(1546年)上,这本受到诅咒的《武加大译本》的扩展版本还是得到了正式的认可,革利免三世于公元1592年对该译本进行了修订。希腊教会在做决策时犹豫不决,有时认为限定的版本为正典,有时又认为扩展的版本为正典(参: Westcott, 217–229页)。正如人们所预料的,改革派的教会回归到希伯来正典中,只允许神职人员阅读和使用《次经》。早期的英语译本(丁道尔、科威对勒等)中收录了《次经》,但却将它们视为独立的经书(见 ENGLISH VERSIONS[英文译本])。“圣公法典”中

D. The NT. It has been seen that a Christian NT did not, in the strict sense, arise till after the middle of the 2nd century. Gospels and Epistles had long existed, collections had begun to be made, and the Gospels, at least, were read weekly in the assemblies of the Christians (Justin Apol. i.67), before the attempt was made to bring together, and take formal account of, all the books which enjoyed apostolic authority (see CANON OF THE NT). The needs of the Church, however, and especially controversy with gnostic opponents, made it necessary that this work should be done; collections also had to be formed for purposes of translations into other tongues. Genuine gospels had to be distinguished from spurious; apostolic writings from those of later date, or falsely bearing apostolic names. When this task was undertaken, a distinction soon revealed itself between two classes of books, setting aside those recognized on all hands as spurious: (1) books universally acknowledged—those named afterward by Eusebius the homologoumena; and (2) books only partially acknowledged, or on which some doubt rested—the Eusebian antilegomena (HE iii.25). It is on this distinction that differences as to the precise extent of the NT turned.

D. 《新约》。人们注意到,从严格意义上讲,直到2世纪中期之后才出现基督教《新约》。很早以前就已经有《四福音书》和《使徒书信》,那时人们把它们收录在一起,但把所有具有使徒权威的书籍收录成正典之前(见CANON OF THE NT[新约正典]),基督徒在每周团契时都要阅读《四福音书》(Justin Apol. i.67)。不过,由于教会的需要(尤其是与对手诺斯底教派论战的需要),应该有人来完成这项工作;为了把这些作品翻译成其他的语言,人们也需要把这些作品收录在一起。真假福音书必须区别开来;人们也必须将使徒的作品与后来冒充使徒之名创作的作品进行区分。这项工作完成后,两类作品之间的差异很快显示出来,所有人都拒绝伪作,这两类作品是:(1)优西比乌之后人们公认“没有争议的经卷”(homologoumena);(2)被某些人认可或存有一些争议的作品——优西比乌称这类作品为“引起争议的经卷”(antilegomen) (HE iii.25)。人们正是基于这样的区分严格地规定了《新约》的范围。

1. Acknowledged Books. The “acknowledged” books present little difficulty. They are enumerated by Eusebius, whose statements are confirmed by early lists (e.g., that of Muratori, ca. A.D. 170), quotations, versions, and patristic use. At the head stand the four Gospels and the Acts, then come the thirteen Epistles of Paul, then 1 Peter and 1 John. These, Westcott says, toward the close of the 2nd cent. “were universally received in every church, without doubt or limitation, as part of the written rule of Christian faith, equal in authority with the Old Scriptures, and ratified (as it seemed) by a tradition reaching back to the date of their composition” (p. 133). With them may almost be placed Revelation (as by Eusebius) and Hebrews, the doubts regarding the latter relating more to Pauline authority than to genuineness (e.g., Origen).

2. Disputed Books. The “disputed” books were the Epistles of James, Jude, 2 and 3 John, and 2 Peter. These, however, do not all stand in the same rank as regards authentication. A chief difficulty is the silence of the western fathers regarding James, 2 Peter, and 3 John. On the other hand, James is known to Origen and is included in the Peshitta; the Muratorian Fragment attests Jude and 2 John as “held in the Catholic Church” (Jude also in Tertullian, Clement of Alexandria, Origen); none of the books is treated as spurious. The weakest in attestation is 2 Peter, which is not distinctly traceable before the 3rd cent. (see CANON OF THE NT). It is to be added that, in a few instances, as in the case of the OT Apocrypha, early fathers cite as Scripture books not generally accepted as canonical

2、有争议的作品。“有争议的”作品包括《雅各书》《犹大书》《约翰二书》《约翰三书》和《彼得后书》。然而，从鉴别的角度讲，这些作品的级别并不完全相同。人们面对的主要困难就是，西方教父并没有提到过《雅各书》《彼得后书》和《约翰三书》。但是，俄利根知道《雅各书》这部作品，它被收录在《别西大译本》中；《穆拉多利残篇》证明“天主教教会认可”《犹大书》和《约翰二书》的正典地位(特土良、亚历山大革利免和俄利根也在各自的作品中提到了《犹大书》)；这些作品都没有被视为伪作。证据最不足的作品是《彼得后书》，这部作品的成书时间可能不早于公元3世纪(见CANON OF THE NT[新约正典])。还必须提到的一点是，在某些例子中，正如在《旧约》《次经》的例子中，早期的教父在引用《圣经》书卷时，通常并不认为它们就是正典(如，

(e.g., Barnabas, Hermas, Apocalypse of Peter).

《巴拿巴书》《黑马牧人书》《彼得启示录》)。

The complete acceptance of all the books in our present NT canon may be dated from the councils of Laodicea (ca. A.D. 363) and of Carthage (397), confirming the lists of Cyril of Jerusalem, Jerome, and Augustine.

可能从老底嘉会议(约公元 363 年)和迦太基会议(公元 397 年)之后,现在的《新约》才得到了完全的认可,这两次会议认可了耶路撒冷的济利禄、耶柔米和奥古斯丁的新约书卷目录。

IV. Literary Origin and Growth—Canonicity.—Thus far the books of the OT and NT have been taken simply as given, and no attempt has been made to inquire how or when they were written or compiled, or how they came to acquire the dignity and authority implied in their reception into a sacred canon. The field here entered is one bristling with controversy, and it is necessary to choose one's steps with caution to find a safe way through it. Details in the survey are left, as before, to the special articles.

IV. 文学起源和发展——圣经正典性。到目前为止,人们认可了现在的《旧约》和《新约》中的各书卷,没有人试图查明它们是怎样或何时创作或编辑成书的,或者它们是如何得到尊重和认可,成为神圣正典的一部分的。这一领域内充满了争论,人们必须谨慎地争论,找到解决问题的可靠方法。如从前一样,调查的细节将在专门的词条中进行讨论。

A. The OT. The OT, it is obvious and on all sides admitted, has a long literary history prior to its final settlement in a canon. As to the course of that history traditional and modern critical views differ widely. It may possibly turn out that the truth lies somewhere midway between them.

A. 《旧约》。显然,所有人都承认《旧约》在最终成为正典之前已经拥有很长的文学历史。对于这一历史的进程,传统批判观点和现代批判观点之间存在很大的分歧。真理可能介于两者之间。

1. OT Indications. If the indications furnished by the OT itself be accepted, the results are something like the following:

1、旧约指示。如果《旧约》自身提供的指示能够得到接受,那么人们可以得到如下的结论:

a. Patriarchal Age. No mention is made of writing in the patriarchal age, though it is now known that a high literary culture then prevailed in Babylonia, Egypt, and Palestine, and it is not improbable, indeed seems likely, that records in some form came down from that age, and are, in

a. 族长时期。虽然人们知道在族长时期,巴比伦、埃及和巴勒斯坦拥有高度发达的文学文化,《旧约》中并没有提及族长时期的作品,这一时期某种形式的记录或部分作品可能,或者说确实很有可能包含在《圣经》的历史中。有一种理论提出,《创世记》1:1–37:2 是由 parts, incorporated in the early history of the Bible. One theory has it that Gen. 1:1–37:2 consists of eleven tablets placed end-to-end, recording the history, in Mesopotamian fashion, of the period from Adam’s time.

b. Mosaic Age. In Mosaic times writing was in use, and Moses himself was trained in the learning of the Egyptians (Ex. 2:10; Acts 7:22). In no place is the composition of the whole Pentateuch (as traditionally believed) ascribed to Moses, but no inconsiderable amount of written matter is directly attributed to him, creating the presumption that there was more, even when the fact is not stated. Moses wrote “all the words of the Lord” in the “book of the covenant” (Ex. 21–23; 24:4, 7). He wrote “the words of this law” of Deuteronomy at Moab, “in a book, to the very end” (Dt. 31:9, 24, 26). This was given to the priests to be put by the side of the ark for preservation (vv. 25f.). Other notices occur of the writing of Moses (Ex. 17:14; Nu. 33:2; Dt. 31:19, 22; cf. Nu. 11:26), the Song of Miriam, and the snatches of song in Nu. 21, the first (perhaps all) quoted from the “Book of the Wars of the Lord” (Nu. 21:14ff.), plainly belong to Mosaic times. In this connection it should be noticed that the discourses and law of Deuteronomy imply the history and legislation of the critical JE histories (see below). The priestly laws (Leviticus, Numbers) bear so entirely the stamp of the wilderness that they can hardly have originated anywhere else, and were probably then, or soon after, written down. Joshua, too, is presumed to be familiar with writing (Josh. 8:30–35; cf. Dt. 27:8), and is stated to have written his farewell address “in the book of the law of God” (Josh. 24:26; cf. 1:7f.). These statements

*b. 摩西时期。*摩西时代已经出现了《圣经》作品，摩西是埃及人抚养长大的(出 2:10; 徒 7:22)。经文中并没有提到《摩西五经》是由摩西创作的(传统观点一直这样以为)，但是人们认为大量作品都是由摩西创作的，并推测摩西创作的作品可能更多，即使《圣经》中并没有陈述这样的事实。摩西在“约书”中写下了“耶和华的命令”(出 21–23; 24:4, 7)。他在摩押将《申命记》中的“这律法的话写在书上，及至写完了”(申 31:9, 24, 26)。他把这律法书给了祭司，吩咐他们把这书保存在约柜旁(申 31:25-26)。其他经文也提到了摩西创作的作品(出 17:14; 民 33:2; 申 31:19, 22; 参：民 11:26)，米利暗之歌和《民数记》21 章中的诗歌片段显然属于摩西时代的作品，《民数记》21 章中的诗歌片段可能是经文中第一次(可能也是最后一次)引用“耶和华的战记”中的内容(民 21:14 起)。因此，人们应该注意到，《申命记》中的话语和律法暗示出重要的 JE 底本故事中的历史和律法(见下文)。祭典(《利未记》和《民数记》)完整地记录了旷野行军，因此祭典几乎不可能引用了其他作品中的内容，可能是后来或之后不久记录下来的。据推测，约书亚也通晓写作(书 8:30–35; 参：申 27:8)，他曾把自己的告别的话写在“神的律法书上”(书 24:26; 参：书 1:7-8)。这些表述意味着《圣经》创作已经开始。 already imply the beginning of a sacred literature.

c. Judges. The Song of Deborah (Jgs. 5) is an indubitably authentic monument of the age of the judges; and the older parts of Judges, at least, must have been nearly contemporary with the events they record. A knowledge of writing among the common people seems implied in Jgs. 8:14. Samuel, like Joshua, wrote “in a book” (1 S. 10:25), and laid it up, evidently among other writings, “before the Lord.”

d. Monarchy. The age of David and Solomon was one of high development in poetical and historical composition: witness the elegies of David (2 S. 1:17–27; 3:33f.), and the finely finished narrative of David’s reign (2 S. 9–20), the so-called Jerusalem Source, admitted to date “from a period very little later than that of the events related” (Driver, Literature of the OT, p. 183). There were court scribes and chroniclers.

c. 《士师记》。“底波拉之歌”（士 5）无疑是士师时期一座真正的里程碑；至少《士师记》的古老记录与“底波拉之歌”中的故事几乎处于同一时期。《士师记》8:14 似乎暗示着，普通百姓都会书写。像约书亚一样，撒母耳把国法记“在书中”（撒上 10:25），显然将这本书和其他的书“放在耶和华的面前”。

*d. 君主制时期。*大卫和所罗门时期是诗歌和历史著作快速发展的时期：大卫的哀歌（撒下 1:17–27；3:33–34）、大卫统治时期的详细叙述（撒下 9–20）和所谓“稍迟于事件发生时间”的“耶路撒冷资料”（Driver, Literature of the OT, 183 页）都证明了这一点。君主制时期还出现了王室书记官和年代史编者。

Nash Papyrus, containing the Ten Commandments and the Shema (Dt. 6:4) (1st or 2nd cent. b.c.) (Biblical Archeologist) 纳西纸草古卷，其中包含了“十诫”和“施玛篇” (申 6:4)(公元前1或2世纪)。(Biblical Archeologist)

David, as befits his piety and poetical and musical gifts, is credited with laying the foundations of a sacred psalmody (2 Sa. 23:1ff. see PSALMS), and a whole collection of Psalms (1–72, with exclusion of the distinct collection, 42–50), once forming a separate book (cf. Ps. 72:20), are, with others, ascribed to him by their titles (Pss. 1, 2, 10 are untitled). It is hardly credible that a tradition like this can be wholly wrong, and a Davidic basis of the Psalter may safely be assumed. Numerous Psalms, by their mention of the “king” (as Pss. 2, 18, 20, 21, 28, 33, 45, 61, 63, 72, 101, 110), are naturally referred to the period of the monarchy (some, as Ps. 18, certainly Davidic). Other groups of Psalms are referred to the temple guilds (Sons of Korah, Asaph).

During the monarchy, the prophets would seem to have acted as the “sacred historiographers” of the nation. From their memoirs of the successive reigns, as the later books testify (1 Ch. 29:29; 2 Ch. 9:29; 12:15; etc.), are compiled most of the narratives in our canonical writings (hence the name “former prophets”). The latest date in 2 Kings is 562 B.C., and the body of the book is probably earlier.

e. Wisdom Literature. Solomon is renowned as founder of the wisdom literature and the author of Proverbs (1 K. 4:32; Prov. 1:1; 10:1; Eccl. 12:9; Ecclesiastes itself appears to be late), and of the Song of Solomon (Cant. 1:1). The “men of Hezekiah” are said to have copied out a collection of his proverbs (Prov. 25:1; see PROVERBS). Here also may be placed the book of Job. Hezekiah’s reign appears to have been one of literary activity: to it, probably, are to be referred certain of the Psalms (e.g., 46,

*e. 智慧文学。*所罗门是智慧文学的著名开山鼻祖,也是《箴言》(王上 4:32; 箴 1:1; 10:1; 传 12:9; 《传道书》成书时间似乎较晚)和《雅歌》(歌 1:1)的作者。据说,“希西家的人”誊录了所罗门的箴言(箴 25:1; 见 PROVERBS[《箴言》])。《约伯记》也是在这时创作出来的。希西家统治时期似乎是文学创作的一个活跃时期:关于这一点,我们可以参照某些诗篇(如,诗 46, 48)。

f. Prophecy. With the rise of written prophecy a new form of literature enters, called forth by, and vividly mirroring, the religious and political conditions of the closing periods of the monarchy in Israel and Judah (see PROPHECY). On the older view, Obadiah and Joel stood at the head of the series in the pre-Assyrian period (9th cent.), and this seems the preferable view still. On the newer view, these prophets are late, and written prophecy begins in the Assyrian period with Amos (Jeroboam II, ca. 750 B.C.) and Hosea (ca. 745–735). When the latter prophet wrote, Samaria was tottering to its fall (721 B.C.). A little later, in Judah, come Isaiah (ca. 740–690) and Micah (ca. 720–708). Isaiah, in the reigns of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, is the greatest of the prophets in the Assyrian age, and his ministry reaches its climax in the deliverance of Jerusalem from Sennacherib (2 K. 18f.; Isa. 36f.). It is a question whether some oracles of an Isaian school are not mingled with the prophet's own writings, and most scholars now regard the second part of the book (chs. 40–66) as exilic or (in part) postexilic in date. The standpoint of much in these chapters is certainly in the Exile; whether the composition of the whole can be placed there is extremely doubtful (see ISAIAH). Nahum, who prophesies against Nineveh, belongs to the very close of this period (ca. 660).

The prophets Zephaniah (under Josiah, ca. 630 B.C.) and Habakkuk (ca. 606) may be regarded as forming the transition to the next—the Chaldean—period. The Chaldeans (unnamed in Zephaniah) are advancing but are not yet come (Hab.

f. 预言书。随着预言书的出现,一种新的文学形式产生了,以色列和犹太君主制末期的宗教和政治环境催生出这种文学形式,这种文学形式又反过来折射出当时的宗教和政治环境(见 PROPHECY[预言书])。根据旧时观点,《俄巴底亚书》和《约珥书》是前亚述时期(公元前9世纪)的顶尖之作,这种观点似乎仍然很可取。根据较新的观点,这些先知是后期的先知,从亚述时期开始创作预言书、《阿摩司书》(Jeroboam II, 约公元前750年)和《何西阿书》(约公元前745–735年)。后来的先知进行创作时,撒玛利亚城危在旦夕(公元前721年)。不久以后,犹太出现了以赛亚(约公元前740–690年)和弥迦(约公元前720–708年)两位先知。生活于乌西雅、约坦、亚哈斯和希西家统治时期的以赛亚是亚述时期最伟大的先知,当神将耶路撒冷从西拿基立的围攻中拯救出来时(王下18-19; 赛36-37),以赛亚的传道工作达到了顶点。以赛亚学派所说的预言是否编入了这位先知的作品中,这是一个问题,现在大多数学者认为《以赛亚书》的第二部分(40-66章)是被掳时期或(部分作品)被掳后期的作品。从这些章节中的观点来看,它们应该属于被掳时期的作品;是否整部作品都是在这一时期创作的,这一点却非常值得怀疑(见 ISAIAH[以赛亚])。那鸿曾预言了尼尼微的陷落,他是这一时期末期的先知(约公元前660年)。

先知西番雅(约西亚时期,约公元前630年)和哈巴谷(约公元前606年)时期被视为走向迦勒底时期的过渡时期。迦勒底人(《西番雅书》中没有提到他们)正在赶往犹太的路上(哈1:6)。不过这一时期伟大的先知人物当属耶

1:6). The great prophetic figure here, however, is Jeremiah, whose sorrowful ministry, beginning in the thirteenth year of Josiah (626 B.C.), extended through the succeeding reigns till after the fall of Jerusalem (586 B.C.). The prophet elected to remain with the remnant in the land, and shortly after, troubles having arisen, was forcibly carried into Egypt (Jer. 43). Here also he prophesied (chs. 43f.). From the reign of Jehoiakim, Jeremiah consistently declared the success of the Chaldean arms, and foretold the seventy years' captivity (25:12-14). Baruch acted as his secretary in writing out and editing his prophecies (chs. 36, 45).

g. Josiah's Reformation. A highly important event in this period was Josiah's reformation in his eighteenth year (621 B.C.), and the discovery, during repairs of the temple, of "the book of the law," called also "the book of the covenant" and "the law of Moses" (2 K. 22:8; 23:2, 24f.). The finding of this book, identified by most authorities with the book of Deuteronomy, produced an extraordinary sensation. On no side was there the least question that it was a genuine ancient work. Jeremiah, strangely, makes no allusion to this discovery, but his prophecies are deeply saturated with the ideas and style of Deuteronomy.

h. Exilic and Postexilic. The bulk of Isa. 40-66 belongs, at least in spirit, to the Exile, but the one prophet of the Exile known to us by name is the priestly Ezekiel. Carried captive under Jehoiachin (597 B.C.), Ezekiel labored among his fellow exiles for at least twenty-two years (Ezk. 1:2; 29:17). A man of the strongest moral courage, his symbolic visions on the banks of the Chebar alternated with the most direct expostulation, exhortation, warning, and promise. In the description of an ideal temple and its worship with which his book closes (chs. 40–48), critics think they discern the suggestion of the Levitical code.

*g. 约西亚改革。*这一时期发生的重要事件就是约西亚在他统治第十八年(公元前 621 年)进行的改革,在他修理圣殿时,发现了“律法书”,也被称为“约书”和“摩西律法”(王下 22:8; 23:2, 24-25)。这一发现引起了极大的轰动,大多数权威认为这本书就是《申命记》中的“律法书”。毋庸置疑,这是一部古代的著作。奇怪的是,耶利米却没有提及这个发现,但是他的预言中充满了《申命记》的观点和风格。

h. 被掳和被掳巴比伦之后。《以赛亚书》40-66 章的大部分内容(至少在宗旨上)属于被掳时期的作品,而我们知道名字的被掳先知是祭司以西结。约雅斤作王时(公元前 597 年),以西结被掳到巴比伦,他与其他被掳之人至少劳作了 22 年(结 1:2; 29:17)。以西结是一个最具道义勇气的人,他在迦巴鲁河岸得见异象,这些异象中包含最直接的劝告、训诫、警告和允诺。在理想圣殿

i. Daniel. After Ezekiel the voice of prophecy is silent till it revives in Daniel, in Babylon, under Nebuchadnezzar and his successors. Deported in 605 B.C., Daniel rose to power, and “continued until the first year of King Cyrus” (539 B.C.; Dnl. 1:21). Criticism will have it that his prophecies are a product of the Maccabean age, but there are powerful considerations on the other side (see DANIEL, BOOK OF). Jonah may have been written about this time, though the prophet’s mission itself was pre-Assyrian (9th cent.). The rebuilding of the temple after the return, under Zerubbabel, furnished the occasion for the prophecies of Haggai and Zechariah (520 B.C.). Scholars are disposed to regard only Zec. 1–8 as belonging to this period—the remainder being placed earlier or later. Malachi, nearly a century after (ca. 430), brings up the rear of prophecy, rebuking unfaithfulness, and predicting the advent of the “messenger of the covenant” (Mal. 3:1f.). To this period or later belong, besides postexilic Psalms (e.g., Pss. 124, 126), the books of Ezra, Nehemiah, Chronicles, Esther, and apparently Ecclesiastes.

j. Preexilic Bible. If in this rapid sketch the facts are correctly represented, it will be apparent that, in opposition to prevalent views, a large body of sacred literature (laws, histories, Psalms, wisdom-books, prophecies) existed and was recognized long before the Exile.

的描述以及《以西结书》结篇的圣殿敬拜中(结 40-48), 批评家们认为他们看到了利未法典中的痕迹。

*i. 但以理。*以西结之后预言之声静默了一段时间, 后来随着但以理的出现, 以及在尼布甲尼撒和其继任者统治时期的巴比伦, 说预言的再度出现。但以理于公元前 605 年被流放, 但以理满有能力, 而且“直到居鲁士元年, 但以理还在”(公元前 539 年; 但 1:21)。考证者会认为但以理的预言是马加比时期的作品, 但另一方面还有一些重要的因素值得人们考量(见 DANIEL, BOOK OF [《但以理书》])。约拿可能曾记录了这一时期的情况, 虽然他是前亚述时期(公元前 9 世纪)的先知。被掳归回之后, 在所罗巴伯带领下, 人们开始重建圣殿, 这为哈该和撒迦利亚说预言提供了机会(约公元前 520 年)。学者们倾向于认为, 《撒迦利亚书》只有 1 至 8 章属于这一时期的作品, 其他的部分属于前一时期或后一时期的作品。约一个世纪后(约公元前 430 年), 最后一位先知玛拉基谴责人们的不忠行为, 并预言“立约的使者”快要到来(玛 3:1-2)。除了被掳后期的《诗篇》(如, 诗 124, 126), 《以斯拉记》《尼希米记》《历代志》《以斯帖记》, 显然还有《传道书》都属于这一时期或稍后时期的作品。

*j. 被掳之前的《圣经》。*如果这种简短的概述能正确地呈现出真实的情况, 那么人们显然可以得到与普遍观点相反的观点, 即大部分圣著(律法书、历史书、诗篇、智慧文学和预言书)在被掳之前早就已经存在, 并得到了人们的认可。上帝古代的子民拥有“经书”, 即

God's ancient people had "Scriptures"—had a Bible—if not yet in collected form. This is strikingly borne out by the numerous OT passages referring to what appears to be a code of sacred writings in the hands of the pious in Israel. Such are the references to, and praises of, the "law" and "word" of God in many of the Psalms (e.g., 1, 19, 119, 12:6; 17:4; 18:21f.), with the references to God's known "words," "ways," "commandments," "statutes," in other books of the OT (Job 8:8; Hos. 8:12; Dnl. 9:2). In brief, Scriptures, which must have contained records of God's dealings with His people, a knowledge of which is constantly presupposed, "laws" of God for the regulation of the heart and conduct, "statutes," "ordinances," "words" of God, are a postulate of a great part of the OT.

2. Critical Views. The account of the origin and growth of the OT above presented is in marked contrast with that given in the textbooks of the more critical schools. The main features of these critical views are sketched in the article CRITICISM; here a brief indication will suffice. Generally, the books of the OT are brought down to late dates, and regarded as highly composite; the earlier books, because of their distance from the events recorded, are largely deprived of historical worth. Neither histories nor laws in the Pentateuch belong to the Mosaic age: Joshua is a "romance"; Judges may embody ancient fragments, but in bulk is unhistorical. The earliest fragments of Israelite literature are lyric pieces like those preserved in Ge. 4:23f.; 9:25–27; Nu 21; the Song of Deborah (Jgs. 5) is probably genuine. Historical writing begins about the age of David or soon thereafter. The folklore of the Hebrews and traditions of the Mosaic age began to be reduced to writing about the 9th cent. B.C.

《圣经》，虽然这些经书当时还没有被收录在一起。《旧约》中的大量段落显然证明了这一点，这些段落中提到以色列的虔诚之人手中似乎有一本圣作的法典。这就是许多《诗篇》所引用和赞美上帝的“律法”和“言语”（诗 1, 19, 119, 12:6; 17:4; 18:21-22），《旧约》的其他经书还提到了上帝揭示给世人的“话语”、“道路”、“训诫”和“法令”（伯 8:8; 何 8:12; 但 9:2）。简而言之，《圣经》中一定包含了上帝与祂的子民交往的记录，而且经常假设上帝规范人们思想和行为的“律法”、“法令”、“条例”和“上帝的话语”是《旧约》大部分经书的基础。

a. Pentateuch. Our present Pentateuch (enlarged to a “Hexateuch,” including Joshua) consists of four main strands (themselves composite), the oldest of which (called J, from its use of the name Jehovah) goes back to ca. 850 B.C. This was Judean. A parallel history book (called E, from its use of the name ‘Elohim, God) was produced in the northern kingdom about a century later (ca. 750). Later still these two were united (JE). These histories, “prophetic” in spirit, were originally attributed to individual authors, distinguished by minute criteria of style; later they were regarded as the work of “schools.” Hitherto the only laws known were those of the (post-Mosaic) book of the covenant (Ex. 20–23). Later, in Josiah’s reign, the desire for centralization of worship led to the composition of the book of Deuteronomy. This, secreted in the temple, was found by Hilkiah (2 K. 22), and brought about the reformation of Josiah formerly mentioned. Deuteronomy (D), thus produced, is the third strand in the pentateuchal compilation. After the destruction of the city and temple, under the impulse of Ezekiel a new period of law-construction began, now priestly in spirit. Old laws and usages were codified; new laws were invented; the history of institutions was recast; finally, the extensive complex of Levitical legislation was brought into being, clothed with a wilderness dress, and ascribed to Moses. This elaborate Priestly Code (P or PC), with its accompanying history, was brought from Babylon by Ezra, and, united with the already existing JE and D, was given forth

a. 摩西五经。我们现在的摩西五经（已被增加到“六经”，包括《约书亚记》）包括四个主要部分（这四部分本身也是合成之作），最古老的部分（称为J底本，这个名字源自Jehovah[耶和華]）可以追溯到约公元前850年。这是一部由犹太人创作的作品。一部类似的历史著作（简称E底本，这个名字源自‘Elohim，意思是“神”）约在一个世纪之后（约公元前750年）创作于北部王国。后来这两部作品合成了一本书（简称JE底本）。这些历史著作从本质上看属于“预言书”，最初是由不同的作者创作而成的，根据风格上的细微差别，可以将它们区别开来；后来人们认为它们是“学派”之作。到目前为止，人们所知道的唯一的律法就是约书（出20-23）中的律法（摩西时代后期）。随后，在约西亚统治时期，集中敬拜的需要促成了《申命记》的创作。这本书被藏在圣殿中，后被希勒家发现（王下22），进而引起了上文所提到的约西亚改革。因此，《申命记》（简称D底本）构成了《摩西五经》第三部分。耶路撒冷和圣殿被毁之后，并且受以西结的推动，一个新的律法创作时期开始出现，这时的律法从本质上看属于祭典。旧律法和惯例被编成了法典；新的律法形成了；重塑了律法体系的历史；最终，形成了一部宏伟综合的利未法典，人们认为这部法典是摩西在旷野中写下的。以斯拉从巴比伦带回了这部精心创作的祭司法典（简称P底本或PC底本），也带回了这部法典的历史传说，并把它与已存在JE底本和D底本合在了一起，他向回归耶路撒冷的百姓介绍了这部合成之作（公元前444年；尼8），并称它为“摩西律法”。这部作品得到认可标志着“犹太教”开始兴起。 by him to the restored community at Jerusalem (444 B.C.; Neh. 8) as “the law of Moses.” Their acceptance of it was the inauguration of “Judaism.”

b. Histories. In its theory of the Pentateuch reconstructive criticism lays down the determinative positions for its criticism of all the remaining books of the OT. The historical books show but a continuation of the processes of literary construction exemplified in the books ascribed to Moses. The Deuteronomic element, e.g., in Joshua, Judges, Samuel, and Kings, proves them, in these parts, to be later than Josiah, and historically untrustworthy. The Levitical element in Chronicles demonstrates its pictures of David and his successors to be distorted and false. The same rule applies to the prophets. Joel, e.g., must be postexilic, because it presupposes the priestly law. The patriarchal and Mosaic histories being subverted, it is not permitted to assume any high religious ideas in early Israel. David, therefore, could not have written the Psalms. Most, if not practically all, of these are postexilic.

c. Psalms and Prophets. Monotheism came in—at least first obtained recognition—through Amos and Hosea. The prophets could not have the foresight and far-reaching hopes seen in their writings: these passages, therefore, must be removed. Generally the tendency is to put dates as low as possible, and very many books, regarded before as preexilic, postexilic, and even late Greek times (P, Psalter, Job, Proverbs, Song of Solomon, Ecclesiastes, Isaiah, Joel, Lamentations). Daniel is Maccabean and unhistorical (ca. 168–167 B.C.).

b. 历史故事。摩西五经的理论中的重构考证学说为其他《旧约》书的考证设定了限制性条件。历史书不过是文学创作过程的延续，摩西的作品就是典型的例子。《约书亚记》《士师记》《撒母耳记》和《列王纪》中引用的《申命记》中的内容表明这些作品是在约西亚时期之后成书的，而且是不具有历史价值的。《历代志》中的《利未记》元素表明其中有关大卫和他继任者的描述都是歪曲错误的。这一规则同样适用于先知的作品中。如，《约珥书》一定创作于被掳之后，因为它以祭司律法为先决条件。族长和摩西的故事都不是真的，早期的以色列不可能存在任何崇高的宗教思想。因此，大卫并没有创作《诗篇》。大多数诗篇（如若不是全部诗篇）都属于被掳之后的作品。

c. 《诗篇》和《先知书》。独一神论出现了——起码先在《阿摩司书》和《何西阿书》中得到了认可。先知不可能在他们的作品中体现他们的深谋远虑：因此，这些章节必须被删掉。考证者通常尽可能将这些作品的成书时间向后推，很多之前被认为是被掳之前的作品全部或部分被归到被掳时期、被掳之后、甚至是后来的希腊时期（P 底本、《诗篇》《约伯记》《箴言》《雅歌》《传道书》《以赛亚书》《约珥书》《耶利米哀歌》）。《但以理书》是马加比时期的作品，这部作品不符合历史事实（约公元前 168–167 年）。

It is not proposed here to discuss this theory, which is not accepted in the present article, and is considered elsewhere (see CRITICISM; PENTATEUCH). The few points calling for remark relate to canonical acceptance.

3. Formation of the Canon. The general lines of the completed Jewish canon have already been sketched, and some light has now been thrown on the process by which the several books obtained a sacred authority. As to the actual stages in the formation of the canon opinions again diverge widely (see CANON OF THE OT).

a. Critical Theory. On the theory outlined above, no collections of sacred books were made prior to the return from Babylon. The only books that had authority before the Exile were, perhaps, the old book of the covenant, and, from Josiah's time, Deuteronomy. Both, after the return, were embodied with the JE histories and P in Ezra's completed book of the Law (with Joshua?), in which, accordingly, the foundation of a canon was laid. The fivefold division of the Law was later. Subsequently, answering to the second division of the Jewish canon, a collection was made of the prophetic writings. As this includes books which, on the critical view, go down to Greek times (Jonah; Zec. 9-14), its completion cannot be earlier than well down in the 3rd cent. B.C. Latest of all came the collection of the "Hagiographa"—a division of the canon, on this theory, kept open to receive additions certainly till the 2nd cent., some think after. Into it were received such late writings as Ecclesiastes, Maccabean Psalms, Daniel. Even then one or two books (Ecclesiastes, Esther) remained

3、正典的形成。上文已经对完整犹太正典的大致内容进行了概括，也对一些作品获得宗教权威的过程进行了解释。关于正典形成的实际阶段，学者们的意见又出现了很大的分歧（见 CANON OF THE OT[旧约正典]）。

a. 批判理论。根据上文概括的理论，没有一卷经书是在被掳巴比伦之前创作出来的。被掳之前唯一具有权威的经书或许就是古老的约书和约西亚时期发现的律法书，即《申命记》。被掳归回之后，这两本书、JE 底本中的历史故事和 P 底本在以斯拉（与约书亚一起完成的[不详]）完成的律法书中得到了体现，因此，这本律法书奠定了正典的基础。后来律法被分为五部分。随后又根据犹太正典的第二部分收录了先知书。因为其中包括批判观点中提到的希腊时期的作品（《约拿书》；亚 9-14），所以成书时间应该不早于公元前 3 世纪。“圣卷（犹太教《圣经》的第三部分）”是成书时间最晚的，它是正典的一部分，根据这一理论，圣卷将那些显然处于公元前 2 世纪之前的作品（有些人认为是公元 2 世纪之后的作品）纳入了正典。后期的作品，如《传道书》、马加比家族的诗篇和《但以理书》也被纳入正典。即使是这样，人们还是对《圣经》中的一两卷书（《传道书》和《以斯帖记》）仍然存有争议。

b. More Positive View. It will appear from the foregoing that this theory is not here accepted without considerable modification. If the question be asked, What constituted a right to a place in the canon? the answer can hardly be other than that suggested by Josephus in the passage formerly quoted—a real or supposed inspiration in the author of the book. Books were received if men had the prophetic spirit (in higher or lower degree: that, e.g., of wisdom); they ceased to be received when the succession of prophets was thought to fail (after Malachi). In any case the writings of truly inspired men (Moses, the prophets, psalmists) were accepted as of authority. This article, however, has already sought to show that many of these books already existed from Moses down, long before the Exile (the law, collections of Psalms, of proverbs, written prophecies: to what end did the prophets write, if they did not mean their prophecies to be circulated and preserved?); and such writings, to the godly who knew and used them, had the full value of Scripture. A canon began with the first laying up of the “book of the law” before the Lord (Dt. 31:25f.; Josh. 24:26). The age of Ezra and Nehemiah, therefore, is not that of the beginning, but, as Jewish tradition rightly held (Josephus; 2 Macc. 2:13; Talmud), rather that of the completion, systematic delimitation, acknowledgment, and formal close of the canon. The divisions of “Law, Prophets, and holy Writings” would thus have their place from the beginning, and be nearly contemporaneous. The Samaritans accepted only the five books of the Law, with apparently Joshua (see PENTATEUCH, SAMARITAN).

b. 更积极的观点。从上文来看，如果未经重要修改，这一理论似乎在这里也不会得到认可。人们要问，什么样的作品才可以被纳为正典呢？上文引用的约瑟夫斯的话给出了唯一的答案——正典源自于作者得到的真正的或想象中的默示。如果作者有先知之灵（无论是较高等级或较低等级的灵：如，智慧之灵），他们的作品就可以被纳为正典；如果他们无法胜任先知的职分（玛拉基之后），那么他们的作品也就不再得到认可。总之，真正受圣灵感动之人（摩西、先知和诗篇作者）的作品都被认为是权威之作。然而，本文旨在说明，许多作品是从摩西时代流传下来的，在被掳之前很久就已经存在（律法、收录的《诗篇》和《箴言》、书面预言：如果先知们不是为了让人们知晓他们的预言并保存他们的预言，他们又为何要写下这些预言呢？）；这些作品是写给知晓和使用这些预言的圣洁之人的，具有完全的圣经价值。当人们首次将“律法书”放在耶和華的面前时（申 31:25-26；书 24:26），正典就开始出现了。因此，以斯拉和尼希米时期并不是正典开始出现的时期，而是正典形成、系统界定、得到认可和正式结束的时期，而这恰恰是犹太传统坚持的观点（Josephus；马二 2:13；《他勒目》）。因此，《圣经》从一开始就分为“律法书、先知书和圣著”，这种分类几乎与这些作品一同出现。撒玛利亚人只认可五本律法书，显然也接受《约书亚记》（见 PENTATEUCH, SAMARITAN[撒玛利亚五经]）。

c. Close of the Canon. There is no need for dogmatism as to an absolute date for the close of the canon. If inspired voices continued to be heard, their utterances were entitled to recognition. Books duly authenticated might be added, but the non-inclusion of a book such as Sirach (in Hebrew ca. 200 B.C.) shows that the limits of the canon were jealously guarded, and the onus of proof rests on those who affirm that there were such books. Calvin, e.g., held that there were Maccabean Psalms. Many modern scholars do the same, but it is doubtful if they are right. Ecclesiastes is thought on linguistic grounds to be late, but it and other books need not be so late as critics make them. Daniel is confidently declared to be Maccabean, but there are weighty reasons for maintaining a Persian date (see DANIEL VI). As formerly noticed, the threefold division into “the law, the prophets, and the rest [tá loipá, a definite number] of the books” is already attested in the prologue to Sirach.

B. The NT. Critical controversy, long occupied with the OT, has again keenly attached itself to the NT, with similar disturbing results (see CRITICISM II.E). More extreme opinions may be here neglected, and account be taken only of those that can claim reasonable support. The NT writings are conveniently grouped into the historical books (Gospels and Acts); Epistles (Pauline and other); and a prophetic book (Revelation). In order of writing, the Epistles, generally, are earlier than the Gospels, but in order of subject, the Gospels naturally claim attention first.

1. Historical Books. The main facts about the origin of the Gospels can perhaps be

c. 正典结篇。不要教条地认为正典在一个绝对的日期结篇。如果人们仍可以听到圣灵感动的声音,那么他们记录下来话语就应该得到认可。被充分认可的作品应该被纳入正典,但某些作品没有被收录在正典中,如约公元前 200 年的希伯来语《便西拉智训》,这表明人们必须谨慎地界定正典的范围,书卷作者需要用证据证明他们的作品属于正典。如,加尔文认为有些诗篇是马加比人写的。许多现代学者也持有相同观点,但这种观点的可信性是值得怀疑的。从语言学的角度看,《传道书》属于后期的作品,但这本书和其他经书的成书日期不可能像批判家所说的那样晚。《但以理书》确实属于马加比时期的作品,但很多有力证据表明这卷书是波斯时期的作品(见 DANIEL VI[《但以理书》VI])。正如前文中所提到的《便西拉智训》前言已经证明《圣经》分为“摩西律法、先知书以及其他[tá loipá, 一个确切的数字]著作”。

B. 《新约》。围绕着《旧约》的争论曾长期存在,而关于《新约》同样出现了激烈的争论,并产生了类似的不良影响(见 CRITICISM II.E[批判、考证 II.E])。本文可能会忽略那些更为极端的观点,仅讨论那些得到合理证明的观点。《新约》作品通常被划分为历史书(福音书和《使徒行传》)、使徒书信(保罗书信和其他使徒书信)和先知书(《启示录》)。从创作的顺序上看,使徒书信通常早于福音书,但从主题的次序上看,人们自然需要首先关注福音书。 distinguished from the complicated literary theories which scholars are still discussing (see GOSPELS, SYNOPTIC). The first three Gospels, known as the Synoptics, evidently embody a common tradition and draw from common sources. The Fourth Gospel—that of John—presents problems by itself.

a. The Synoptics. The Synoptic Gospels (Matthew, Mark, Luke) fall in date well within the apostolic age, and are, in the 2nd cent., uniformly connected with the authors whose names they bear. Mark is spoken of as “the interpreter of Peter” (Papias, in HE iii.39); Luke is the well-known companion of Paul. A difficulty arises about Matthew, whose Gospel is stated (by Papias and others) to have been written in Aramaic, while the Gospel bearing his name is in Greek. The Greek Gospel seems at least to have been sufficiently identified with the apostle to admit of the early Church always treating it as his.

[The oral tradition theory of Gospel origins capitalizes on the fact that these documents were written not at the close of Jesus’ earthly life but after an interval of several decades. Meanwhile, the apostles taught the Church what Jesus had said and done, and by repetition the instruction gradually assumed a fixed form. This approach helps to account for the agreements in the Synoptics but runs into trouble where the writers give differing reports of the same incident or the same address by our Lord.

Literary criticism, as the term suggests, uses a different approach. It postulates two written sources lying behind Matthew and Luke: Mark, the earliest Gospel, basically

a. 对观福音。对观福音（《马太福音》《马可福音》和《路加福音》）恰好是使徒时期的作品，即2世纪的作品，这些福音书都与马太、马可和路加有关。马可是“彼得的翻译”（Papias, in HE iii.39）；众所周知，路加是保罗的同工。马太是一个很难解释的人物，有人（帕皮亚等人）说，马太所作的福音书是用亚兰语写成的，而《马太福音》则是用希腊语写成的。至少似乎有充分的证据表明，《马太福音》是由这名早期教会的使徒创作的，而且早期的教会始终认为这本福音书是马太写的。

【福音书起源的口传理论利用了如下的事实，即这些文献不是在耶稣快要结束地上生命时写成的，而是在在祂死后的数十年间写成的。与此同时，使徒用耶稣的话语和行为教导教会，因为反复应用这些教导，后来渐渐形成了一种固定的教导形式。这种方法有助于解释对观福音中彼此相符合的描述，但是，当这些福音书作者对同一事件或我们的主说的相同话语给出不同的描述时，这种方法就无法奏效了。

文学批评，正如这一术语所暗示出的，采用不同的方法。它假设《马太福音》和《路加福音》源自两种不同的书面来源：最早的福音书——《马太福音》主

a record of the preaching of Peter; and a collection of the sayings and discourses of Jesus labelled by modern students Q (the initial letter of the German word for source). It is recognized, however, that both Matthew and Luke contain some unique material, leading some scholars to prefer a four-document hypothesis. The Q factor has proved the most elusive because of differences in the text of Matthew and Luke where this source is apparently used. Some have theorized that Q should be considered an oral rather than a written source.

Another approach reverses the position of Mark by placing his Gospel last in relation to Matthew and Luke (W. R. Farmer, The Synoptic Problem [1964]). On this assumption the difficulty is to account for the emergence of Mark's Gospel, since so much of it was already found in the other two Synoptics.

For further developments in the treatment of the Synoptics such as form criticism and redaction criticism, see GOSPELS, SYNOPTIC; CRITICISM.

E. F. HARRISON]

b. Fourth Gospel. The Fourth Gospel (John), the genuineness of which is assumed (see JOHN, THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO), differs entirely in character and style. It is less a narrative than a didactic work, written to convince its readers that Jesus is "the Son of God" (Jn. 20:31). The Gospel may be presumed to have been composed at Ephesus, in the last years of the apostle's residence there. With this its character corresponds. The other Gospels had long been known; John does not therefore traverse the ground

要是对彼得传道的记录; 以及耶稣的语录和演讲的收录集, 现代学者称之为 Q 字原材料 (Q 是德语中表示“来源”的单词的首字母)。但是, 人们认为, 《马太福音》和《路加福音》中都包含一些独特的材料, 从而使一些学者提出了四种文献来源的假设。Q 来源说法最难让人理解, 因为《马太福音》和《路加福音》对显然来自于这一来源的资料做出了不同记载。有人推论道, 人们应该将 Q 字原材料理解为一种口头来源而不是书面来源。

关于对观福音讨论的进一步发展, 如形式批判学和编辑批判学, 见 GOSPELS, SYNOPTIC (对观福音); CRITICISM (批判、考证)。

b. 《约翰福音》。“第四福音”（《约翰福音》）与其他福音书的特征和风格完全不同, 但这本福音书的真实性得到了人们的认可（见 JOHN, THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO[《约翰福音》]）。与其说这是一部叙事作品, 不如说它是一部教导作品, 这本福音书旨在让读者相信耶稣是“神的儿子”（约 20:31）。人们推测《约翰福音》可能是使徒约翰在以弗所居住的最后几年创作的。其他的福音书早已被人们知晓; 因此, 约翰不想重述其他福音书已经阐述的内容。他主要讨论了自己记忆中的问题: 犹太人的 already covered by them. He confines himself chiefly to matters drawn from his personal recollections: the Judean ministry, the visits of Christ to Jerusalem, His last private discourses to His disciples. John had so often retold, and so long brooded over, the thoughts and words of Jesus, that they had become, in a manner, part of his own thought, and in reproducing them he necessarily did so with a subjective tinge, and in a partially paraphrastic and interpretative manner. Yet it is truly the words, thoughts, and deeds of his beloved Lord that he narrates. His Gospel is the needful complement to the others—the “spiritual” Gospel.

职分、基督对耶路撒冷的访问、祂最后对门徒私下说的话。约翰常常重述并长期沉思耶稣的思想和话语，所以从某种程度上说，它们已经融入约翰的思想中，他必然以主观的视角重述耶稣的思想和话语，并且对某些部分进行解释说明。但是，他确实真实地叙述了他所爱戴的主的话语、思想和行为。他的福音书是其他福音书的必要补充——“属灵的”福音。

motif (cf. 1:8) being the extension of the gospel to the Gentiles through the labors of Paul. Its author is Luke, Paul's companion, whose Gospel it continues (1:1). Certain sections—the so-called we-sections (16:10–17; 20:5–15; 21:1–18; 27:1–28:16)—are transcribed directly from Luke's journal of Paul's travels. The book closes abruptly with Paul's two-year imprisonment at Rome (28:30f.; A.D. 60–61), and not a hint is given of the issue of the imprisonment—trial, liberation, or death. Does this mean that a 3rd “treatise” was contemplated? Or that the book was written while the imprisonment still continued? (thus Harnack). If the latter, the Third Gospel must be very early.

2. Epistles. a. Pauline. Doubt never rested in the early Church on the thirteen epistles of Paul. Following upon the rejection by the Tübingen school of all the Epistles but four (Romans, 1 and 2 Corinthians, Galatians), the tide of opinion has again turned strongly in favor of their genuineness. An exception is the Pastoral Epistles (1 and 2 Timothy, Titus), still questioned by some (see PASTORAL EPISTLES). The Epistles, called forth by actual needs of the churches, are a living outpouring of the thoughts and feelings of the mind and heart of the apostle in relation to his converts. Most are letters to churches he himself had founded (1 and 2 Corinthians, Galatians, Ephesians[?], Philippians, 1 and 2 Thessalonians): two are to churches he had not himself visited, but with which he stood in affectionate relations (Romans, Colossians); one is purely personal (Philemon); three are addressed to individuals, but with official responsibilities (1 and 2 Timothy, Titus). The larger number were written during his missionary labors and reflect his personal situation, anxieties, and companionships at the places of their composition; four are Epistles of the first Roman imprisonment (Ephesians, Philippians, Colossians, Philemon); 2 Timothy is a voice from the dungeon, in his second imprisonment, shortly before his martyrdom. Doctrine, counsel, rebuke, admonition, tender solicitude, ethical instruction, prayer, thanksgiving, blend in living fusion in their contents. So marvelous a collection of letters, on such magnificent themes, was never before given to the world.

在于，通过保罗传道向外邦人传播福音。该书的作者是保罗的同工路加，这本书接续了《路加福音》的内容（徒 1:1）。某些部分——所谓的“我们部分”（徒 16:10–17; 20:5–15; 21:1–18; 27:1–28:16）直接转录了路加记载的关于保罗传道之旅的日记。本书写到保罗在罗马被监禁两年时突然结篇（徒 28:30-31; 公元 60–61 年），没有给出任何关于保罗受监管情形的暗示——受审、释放和死亡。这到底意味着他正在构思第三部“著作”，还是意味着这本书是在保罗受监管期间写成的呢（哈纳克就持有这种观点）。如果是后一种情况，那么“第三福音书”的创作时间一定很早。

The earliest Epistles, in point of date, are generally held to be those to the Thessalonians, written from Corinth (A.D. 52, 53). The church, newly founded, had passed through much affliction (1 Thess. 1:6; 2:14; 3:3f.; etc.), and Paul writes to comfort and exhort it. His words about the Second Coming (4:13ff.) led to mistaken expectations and some disorders. These his second Epistle was written to correct (2 Thess. 2:1-3; 3:6; etc.).

Corinth itself received the next Epistles—the first called forth by reports received at Ephesus of grave divisions and irregularities (1 Cor. 1:11; 3:3; 11:18ff.; etc.), joined with pride of knowledge, doctrinal heresy (15:12ff.), and at least one case of gross immorality (ch. 5) in the church; the second, written at Philippi, expressing joy at the repentance of the offender, and removing the severe sentence that had been passed upon him (2 Cor. 2:1-10; cf. 1 Co. 5:3f.), likewise vindicating Paul's own apostleship (chs. 10-13). The date of both is A.D. 57. 1 Corinthians contains the beautiful hymn on love (ch. 13) and the noble chapter on resurrection (ch. 15).

哥林多人收到了第二封书信——保罗之所以给哥林多人写第一封信，是因为有人在以弗所向保罗报告哥林多教会出现了重大纷争和分门结党之事（林前 1:11; 3:3; 11:18 起等），并且有人以知识夸口，传播教义上的异端邪说（林前 15:12 起），至少在教会中出现了一庄恶劣的淫乱之事。第二封信写于腓利比，保罗在信中表达对犯错之人悔改和免于重罚的喜乐（林后 2:1-10；参：林前 5:3-4），他同样在信中为自己的使徒身份辩护（林后 10-13）。这两封信都写于公元 57 年。《哥林多前书》中包含了关于爱的优美诗篇（林前 13）和关于复活的优秀章节（林前 15）。

In the following year (58) Paul penned from Corinth the Epistle to the Romans—the greatest of his doctrinal Epistles. In it he develops his great theme of the impossibility of justification before God through works of law (chs. 1–3), and of the divine provision for human salvation in a “righteousness of God” in Christ Jesus, received through faith. He exhibits first the objective side of this redemption in the deliverance from condemnation effected through Christ’s reconciling death (chs. 3–5); then the subjective side, in the new life imparted by the Spirit, giving deliverance from the power of sin (chs. 6–8). A discussion follows of the divine sovereignty in God’s dealings with Israel, and of the end of these dealings (chs. 9–11); and the Epistle concludes with practical exhortations, counsels to forbearance, and greetings (chs. 12–16).

Closely connected with the Epistle to the Romans is that to the Galatians, in which the same truths are handled, but now with a polemical intent in expostulation and reproach. The Galatian churches had apostatized from the gospel of faith to Jewish legalism; and the apostle, sorely grieved, writes this powerful letter to rebuke their faithlessness, and recall them to their allegiance to the truth. It is reasonable to suppose that the two Epistles are nearly related in place and time. The question is complicated, however, by the dispute which has arisen as to whether the churches intended are those of northern Galatia (the older view; cf. Conybeare and Howson, Lightfoot, Kümmel) or those of southern Galatia (Wm. Ramsay, Ridderbos), i.e., the churches of Derbe, Lystra, Iconium, and Antioch, in Paul’s time embraced in the

《加拉太书》是与《罗马书》关系比较紧密的书信，因为它们都讨论了相同的真理，但是《加拉太书》中保罗的劝告和谴责是为了与加拉太人论战。加拉太教会背叛信心的福音，却遵守犹太人的律法；这位使徒非常悲伤，写信强烈谴责他们不忠实的行为，呼吁他们坚守真理。这两封书信被认为是在同一时间、同一地点创作出来的。但是，这个问题很复杂，至于这是写给北加拉太教会的信（旧时观点；参：Conybeare and Howson, Lightfoot, Kümmel），还是写给南加拉太教会的信（Wm. Ramsay, Ridderbos），也就是保罗时期罗马加拉太行省中的特庇、路司得、以哥念和安提阿教会（见 GALATIA IV[加拉太 IV]；GALATIANS, EPISTLE TO THE[《加拉太书》]），一直存在着争议，如果人们坚持后一种观点，那么就无法确定写信的时间和地点；如果坚持前一个观点，那么这份书信可能就是在以弗所写的（约

Roman province of Galatia (see GALATIA IV; GALATIANS, EPISTLE TO THE). If the latter view is adopted, date and place are uncertain; if the former, the Epistle may have been written from Ephesus (ca. A.D. 57).

The four Epistles of the imprisonment all fall within the years A.D. 60–61. That to the Philippians, warmly praising the church, and exhorting to unity, possibly the latest of the group, was sent by the hand of Epaphroditus, who had come to Rome with a present from the Philippian church, and had there been overtaken by a serious illness (Phil. 2:25–30; 4:15–18). The remaining three Epistles (Ephesians, Colossians, and Philemon) were written at one time, and were carried to their destinations by Epaphras. Ephesians and Colossians are twin Epistles, similar in thought and style, extolling the preeminence of Christ; but it is doubtful whether the former was not really a “circular” Epistle, or even, perhaps, the lost epistle to the Laodiceans (Col. 4:16; see APOCRYPHAL EPISTLES I.B.). The Colossian Epistle has in view an early form of gnostic heresy (cf. Lightfoot, comm. on Galatians). Philemon is a personal letter to a friend of the apostle at Colossae, whose runaway slave Onesimus, now a Christian, is being sent back to him with warm commendations.

Latest from Paul’s pen are the PASTORAL EPISTLES (1 and 2 Timothy, Titus), implying his liberation from his first imprisonment and a new period of missionary labor in Ephesus, Macedonia, and Crete. Timothy was left at Ephesus (1 Tim. 1:3), Titus at Crete (Tit. 1:5), for the regulation and superintendence of the churches. The Epistles, the altered style of which shows the deep impress of advancing years and changed conditions, contain admonitions to pastoral duty, with warnings as to perils that had arisen or would arise. 1 Timothy and Titus were written while the apostle was still at liberty (A.D. 63); 2 Timothy is from his Roman prison, when his case had been partly heard and the end was impending (2 Tim. 4:6, 16f.).

这四封狱中书信都是在公元 60 年至 61 年写的。保罗在《腓立比书》中热情地赞美了教会，告诫他们要团结一致，这封信可能是创作时间最晚的书信，以巴弗提带去了这封书信，以巴弗提之前曾带着腓立比教会的礼物来到了罗马，他在罗马时得了一场大病（腓 2:25–30；4:15–18）。其他的三封书信（《以弗所书》《歌罗西书》和《腓利门书》）是同一时间写的，由以巴弗送到了各个收信地。《以弗所书》和《歌罗西书》是两封“类似”书信，它们在思想和风格上很相似，都赞美基督的全能；但是《以弗所书》是真正的“通知”书信，还是丢失了的给老底嘉的书信，人们一直存有疑问（西 4:16；见 APOCRYPHAL EPISTLES I.B.[次经书信 I.B.]）。《歌罗西书》是针对早期诺斯底异端邪说的书信（参：莱特福特[Lightfoot]对《加拉太书》的注释）。《腓利门书》是这位使徒在歌罗西写给朋友的私人信件，保罗将从腓利门身边逃走的奴隶阿尼西谋送了回去，并在信中大力推荐他。

保罗创作最晚的作品就是教牧书信（见 PASTORAL EPISTLES[教牧书信]），这表明保罗已经从第一次监禁中释放出来，重新开始在以弗所、马其顿和克里特传道。提摩太留在了以弗所（提前 1:3），提多留在了克里特（多 1:5），因为那里的教会需要有人管理和监督。书信的风格的变化充分地显示出保罗年迈和处境的变化，保罗在这些书信中告诫牧师

b. Epistle to the Hebrews. Though ascribed to Paul in the title of the AV, it is not really his. It is an early writing (probably before the destruction of Jerusalem, A.D. 70) of some friend of the apostle (in Italy, cf. 13:23f.), designed, by a reasoned exhibition of the superiority of Jesus to Moses and the Levitical priesthood, and of the fulfillment of OT types and institutions in His person and sacrifice, to remove the difficulties of Jewish Christians who clung with natural affection to their temple and divinely appointed ritual. It was included by Eusebius, with others in the East (not, however, by Origen), among the Epistles of Paul; in the West the Pauline authorship was not admitted. Many, nevertheless, with Origen, upheld a connection with Paul (“the thoughts are Paul’s”). Ideas and style suggest an Alexandrian training: hence Luther’s conjecture of Apollos as the writer. There can be no certainty on the subject. The value of the Epistle is unimpaired, whoever was the author.

c. Catholic Epistles. Of the seven so-called Catholic Epistles, James and Jude are by “brethren” of the Lord (James, “the Lord’s brother,” was head of the church at Jerusalem, Acts 15:13; 21:18; Gal. 1:19; etc.); Peter and John, to whom the others were ascribed, were apostles.

们履行职责,并警告人们注意已经出现或将要出现的危险。《提摩太前书》和《提多书》是保罗还是自由人时创作的(公元63年);《提摩太后书》是他在罗马被监禁时写下的,他的案子还未审理完时,他离世的时候快到了(提后4:6, 16-17)。

b. 《希伯来书》。虽然《钦定版圣经》将《希伯来书》归为保罗的作品,但实际上这不一定是他的作品。它是这位使徒的某个朋友(写于意大利,参:来13:23-24)的早期作品(可能在耶路撒冷被毁前创作的,公元70年),这部作品理性地展示出耶稣的地位高过摩西和利未祭司,祂把自己献作祭物,实现了《旧约》的样式和指示,并解决了犹太基督徒的问题,他们与生俱来就对圣殿怀有好感,并且始终坚持神所命定的仪式。优西比乌和东方的其他学者(但不包括俄利根)把这部作品归为保罗的书信;西方人则不承认它是保罗的作品。然而,俄利根等人认为这部作品与保罗有关(“作品的思想源自保罗”)。这本书的思想和风格表明,作者可能是亚历山大学派的信徒;因此,路德猜想这本书的作者是亚波罗。人们无法确定本书的作者。但是,无论本书作者是谁,都不会减少这封书信的价值。

c. 大公书信。这七封所谓的大公书信中,《雅各书》和《犹大书》是由主耶稣的“弟兄”所作(“主的兄弟”雅各是耶路撒冷教会的领袖,徒15:13; 21:18; 加1:19等)。使徒彼得和约翰也被认为是其他书信的作者。《雅各书》和《彼得前书》是写给离散的犹太人的

James and 1 Peter are addressed to the Jews of the Dispersion (1 Pet. 1:1; Jas. 1:1). The doubts respecting certain of these writings have already been mentioned. The early date and acceptance of James is attested by numerous allusions (Clement of Rome, Barnabas, Hermas, Didache). Many regard it as the earliest of the Epistles—before Paul's. Its tone is throughout practical. The seeming conflict with Paul on faith and works, which led Luther to speak slightingly of it, is only verbal. Paul, too, held that a dead faith avails nothing (1 Cor. 13:2; Gal. 5:6). 1 John, like 1 Peter, was undisputed (if the Fourth Gospel is genuine, 1 John is), and, on internal grounds, the shorter Epistles (2 and 3 John) need not be doubted (see JOHN, EPISTLES OF). Jude, rugged in style, with allusions to Jewish apocalypses (vv. 9, 14), is well attested, and 2 Peter seems to be founded on it. But 2 Peter must rely for acceptance on its own claim (2 Pet. 1:1, 18), and on internal evidence of sincerity. It is to be observed that, though late in being noticed, it never appears to have been treated as spurious. The style certainly differs from 1 Peter; this may be due to the use of an amanuensis. If accepted, it must be placed late in Peter's life (before A.D. 65). 1 Peter and Jude, in that case, must be earlier (see CATHOLIC EPISTLES).

3. Book of Revelation. The one prophetic book of the NT—the apocalyptic counterpart of Daniel in the OT—is Revelation. The external evidence for the Johannine authorship is strong (see APOCALYPSE). Tradition and internal evidence ascribe it to the reign of Domitian (ca. A.D. 95). Its contents were given in vision on the isle of Patmos (Rev.

(彼前 1:1; 雅 1:1)。前文已经提到了关于这些作品的疑问。许多作品都提及了《雅各书》，这证明它是一部早期的作品，并得到了人们的认可（罗马的革利免、巴拿巴、黑马、《十二使徒遗训》）。许多人认为这本书是最早的使徒书信——比保罗书信还早。这部作品自始至终坚持实际的基调。从表面上看这本书似乎与保罗的作品和保罗所宣扬的信心相冲突，所以路德否定这本书的正典地位，但这只是文字上的冲突。保罗也坚持认为没有爱的信心毫无价值（林前 13:2; 加 5:6）。如同《彼得前书》一样，人们对《约翰一书》也不存在争议（如果《第四福音》属实，那么《约翰一书》同样属实），从内部论据来看，无需质疑较短的使徒书信（《约翰二书》和《约翰三书》）（见 JOHN, EPISTLES OF《约翰书信》）。《犹大书》风格粗犷，其中提到了犹太《次经》中的内容（犹 1:9, 14），人们已经充分证明了这本书的真实性，《彼得后书》似乎是根据《犹大书》创作出来的。但是，《彼得后书》一定是因为该作品中的内容（彼后 1:1, 18）和内部真实的证据而得到的认可。值得注意的是，虽然人们后来才注意到这部作品，但是人们似乎从未把它视为伪作。这部作品的风格显然与《彼得前书》不同；这可能是由于抄录导致的。如果人们认可这部作品，那么它一定是彼得在晚年创作的作品（公元 65 年之前）。如果是那样的话，《彼得前书》和《犹大书》的创作时间一定较早（见 CATHOLIC EPISTLES[大公书信]）。

3、《启示录》。《新约》中的唯一先知书就是《启示录》，这本书与《旧约》中的《但以理书》相似。外在证据有力地证明这本书是由约翰创作的（见 APOCALYPSE[启示录]）。传统说法和内部证据则表明这本书是在多米田统治时期（约公元 95 年）创作的。这本书展现了拔摩海岛的美景（启 1:9）。有人认为这本书的名字恰当地表示出了神

1:9). The theory connecting it with the reign of Nero through the supposed fitness of this name to express the mystic number 666 is entirely precarious (cf. G. Salmon, Historical Intro. to the Study of the Books of the NT [2nd ed. 1886], pp. 245–254). The main intent is to exhibit in symbolic form the approaching conflicts of Christ and His Church with anti-Christian powers—with secular world-power (Beast), with intellectual anti-Christianism (False Prophet), with ecclesiastical anti-Christianism (Woman)—these conflicts issuing in victory and a period of triumph, prelude, after a sharp, final struggle, the last scenes (resurrection, judgment), and the eternal state. When the visions are taken, not as poetic imaginings, but as true apocalyptic unveilings, the change in style from the Gospel, which may be regarded as already written, can readily be understood. These mighty revelations in Patmos brought about, as by volcanic force, a tremendous upheaval in the seer's soul, breaking through all previous strata of thought and feeling, and throwing everything into a new perspective. On the resultant high keynote: "Amen. Come, Lord Jesus" (Rev. 22:20), the NT closes.

4. Canonicity. The principal steps by which the books now enumerated were gradually formed into a NT "canon" have been indicated in previous sections. The test of canonicity here, as in the OT, is the presence of inspiration. Some would prefer the word "apostolic," which comes to the same thing. All the writings above reckoned were held to be the works of apostles or of apostolic men, and on this ground were admitted into the list of books having authority in the Church. Barnabas (ca. A.D. 100–120) already quotes Mt. 20:16 with the formula “it is written.” Paul quotes as “scripture” (1 Tim. 5:18) a passage found only in Luke (10:7). Paul’s Epistles are classed with “other scriptures” in 2 Pet. 3:16. Post-apostolic Fathers draw a clear distinction between their own writings and those of apostles like Paul and Peter (Polycarp, Ignatius, Barnabas). The fathers of the close of the 2nd cent. treat the NT writings as in the fullest degree inspired (cf. B. F. Westcott, Intro. to the Study of the Gospels [8th ed. 1895], appendix B). An important impulse to the formation of a definite canon came from the Gnostic Marcion (ca. 140), who made a canon for himself in two parts, “Gospel” and “Apostolicon,” consisting of one Gospel (a mutilated Luke) and ten Epistles of Paul (excluding Pastorals). A challenge of this kind had to be taken up, and lists of NT writings began to be made (Melito, Muratorian Fragment, etc.), with the results previously described. By the commencement of the 4th cent. unanimity had practically been attained as regards even the ANTILEGOMENA. At the Council of Nicea (325), “the Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments were silently admitted on all sides to have a final authority” (Westcott, Bible in the Church, p. 155). See CANON OF THE NT.

4、正典性。上面列举的书作是逐渐被纳入新约“正典”的,前文已经表明了新约正典形成的关键步骤。正如旧约正典的证明方法一样,上帝默示的存在证明了新约的正典性。有些人更喜欢用“使徒的”一词加以证明,但其实指的是同一回事。上面所提的所有作品都是由使徒或使徒时代的人创作的,因此,教会承认这些作品的权威性。巴拿巴(约公元 100–120 年)以如下的准则引用了《马太福音》20:16 中的内容——“经上说”。保罗以“经上说”(提前 5:18)引用了一段只在《路加福音》

V. Unity and Spiritual Purpose—Inspiration.—A. Scripture a Unity. Holy Scripture is not simply a collection of religious books: still less does it consist of mere fragments of Jewish and Christian literature. It belongs to the conception of Scripture that, though originating “in many and various ways” (He. 1:1), it should yet, in its completeness, constitute a unity, evincing, in the spirit and purpose that bind its parts together, the divine source from which its revelation comes. The Bible is the record of God's revelations of Himself to men in successive ages and dispensations (Eph. 1:8-10; 3:5-9; Col. 1:25f.), till the revelation culminates in the advent and work of the Son, and the mission of the Spirit. It is this aspect of the Bible that constitutes its grand distinction from all collections of sacred writings—the so-called “Bibles” of heathen religions—in the world. These, as the slightest inspection of them shows, have no unity. They are accumulations of heterogeneous materials, presenting in their collocation no order, progress, or plan. The reason is that they embody no historical revelation working out a purpose in consecutive stages from germinal beginnings to perfect close. The Bible, by contrast, is a single book because it embodies such a revelation and exhibits such a purpose. The unity of the book, made up of so many parts, is the attestation of the reality of the revelation it contains.

(10:7) 中出现的经文。在《彼得后书》3:16 中，保罗书信被归类为“别的经书”。使徒后期的教父严格区分他们自己的作品和使徒（如保罗和彼得）的作品（坡旅甲、伊格那丢和巴拿巴）。2 世纪末期的教父将新约作品视为完全源于上帝默示的作品（参：B. F. Westcott, Intro. to the Study of the Gospels [1895 年第八版], 附录 B）。诺斯底教派的马吉安（约 140 年）极大地推动了新约正典的确立，他将新约正典分为两部分，“福音书”和“使徒书信”，其中包含一本福音书（残缺不全的《路加福音》）和保罗的十封书信（不包括教牧书信）。教父们不得不应对这种挑战，于是开始制定新约作品的书名列表（墨利托、《穆拉多利残篇》等），进而形成了前文提到的书名列表。到 4 时期初期，人们实际上已对“有争议之新约正典”（见 ANTILEGOMENA[引起争议的经卷]）达成了共识。在尼西亚会议上（325 年），“各方都认为新约和旧约《圣经》都拥有最终的权威”（Westcott, Bible in the Church, 155 页）。见 CANON OF THE NT（新约正典）。

B. Purpose of Grace. This feature of spiritual purpose in the Bible is one of the most obvious things about it. It gives to the Bible what is sometimes termed its “organic unity.” The Bible has a beginning, middle, and end. The opening chapters of Genesis have their counterpart in the “new heaven and new earth” and Paradise restored of the closing chapters of Revelation (21f.). Man's sin is made the starting point for disclosures of God's grace. The patriarchal history, with its covenants and promises, is continued in the story of the Exodus and the events that follow, in fulfillment of these promises. Deuteronomy recapitulates the lawgiving at Sinai. Joshua sees the people put in possession of the Promised Land. Backsliding, rebellion, failure, do not defeat God's purpose, but are overruled to carry it on to a surer completion. The monarchy is made the occasion of new promises to the house of David (2 S. 7). The prophets root themselves in the past, but, at the very hour when the nation seems sinking in ruin, hold out bright hopes of a greater future in the extension of God's kingdom to the Gentiles, under Messiah's rule. A critical writer, E. F. Kautzsch, has justly said: "The abiding value of the OT lies above all in this, that it guarantees to us with absolute certainty the fact and the process of a divine plan and way of salvation, which found its conclusion and fulfilment in the new covenant, in the person and work of Jesus Christ" (Bleibende Bedeutung des AT [1902], pp. 22, 24, 28f., 30f.).

B. 恩典的旨意。圣灵的旨意是《圣经》最显著的一个特征。它赋予了《圣经》统一性,人们有时称它为“有机的整体”。《圣经》有开篇、中间部分和结尾。《启示录》最后章节中的“新天新地”和天堂(启 21-22)与《创世记》开篇章节中的“天地”和“天堂”相呼应。上帝的恩典从人类开始犯罪就揭示了出来。伴有圣约和上帝应允的族长的历史在《出埃及记》的故事和后续的事件,以及应允的兑现中得到了延续。《申命记》概述了在西奈山上制定的律法。从《约书亚记》中可以看到,神之子民来到了“应许之地”。堕落、背叛和失败并没有使上帝的旨意落空,反而更加坚定地成全了上帝的旨意。神在君主制时期做出了新的应允,祂要为大卫建造宫

How truly all that was imperfect, transitional, temporary in the OT was brought to realization and completion in the redemption and spiritual kingdom of Christ need not here be dwelt upon. Christ is the prophet, priest, and king of the new covenant. His perfect sacrifice, "once for all," supersedes and abolishes the typical sacrifices of the old economy (Heb. 9f.). His gift of the Spirit realizes what the prophets had foretold of God's law being written in men's hearts (Jer. 31:31-34; 32:39f.; Eze. 11:19f.; etc.). His kingdom is established on fixed foundations, and can have no end (Phil. 2:9-11; He. 12:28; Rev. 5:13; etc.). In tracing the lines of this redeeming purpose of God, brought to light in Christ, we gain the key that unlocks the inmost meaning of the whole Bible. It is the revelation of a "gospel."

C. Inspiration. "Inspiration" is a word

殿（撒下 7）。先知的历史已经过去，但是在以色列民族快要毁灭之际，先知们预言了更美好的未来，即在弥赛亚的统治下，神的国将囊括外邦人。批判作家考西(E. F. Kautzsch)公正地说：“《旧约》的永恒价值在于，它让我们完全相信神之计划的事实和过程，以及救赎的道路将会在新约、基督和基督的工作中最终成就”(Bleibende Bedeutung des AT [1902], 22, 24, 28-29, 30-31 页)。

《旧约》中所有不完美的、过渡的和暂时的事物都真实地藉着基督的救赎和基督属灵的王国得以实现和完成，而基督的救赎和王国却不依赖于前者。基督是先知、祭司和新约的君王。“基督一次永远的赎罪祭”完美地取代和废除了旧传统中的所有祭物（来 9-10）。祂赐予的圣灵应验了先知的预言，即神的律法写在人们的心里（耶 31:31-34；32:39-40；结 11:19-20 等）。祂的王国建立在坚固的基石之上，无穷无尽（腓 2:9-11；来 12:28；启 5:13 等）。天父的旨意藉着基督显明，当我们追寻这一旨意时，我们就获得了解读整本《圣经》最深层意义的钥匙。它就是“福音”的启示。

C. 默示。“默示”是一个存有很多争议

round which many debates have gathered. If, however, what has been said is true of the Bible as the record of a progressive revelation, of its contents as the discovery of the will of God for man's salvation, of the prophetic and apostolic standing of its writers, of the unity of spirit and purpose that pervades it, it will be difficult to deny that a quite peculiar presence, operation, and guidance of the Spirit of God are manifest in its production. The belief in inspiration, it has been seen, is implied in the formation of these books into a sacred canon. The full discussion of the subject belongs to a special article (see INSPIRATION).

1. Biblical Claim. Here it need only be said that the claim for inspiration in the Bible is one made in fullest measure by the Bible itself. It is not denied by any that Jesus and His apostles regarded the OT Scriptures as in the fullest sense inspired. The appeal of Jesus was always to the Scriptures, and the word of Scripture was final with Him. "Have you not read?" (Mt. 19:4). "You are wrong, because you know neither the scriptures nor the power of God" (Mt. 22:29). This is because God speaks in them (Mt. 19:4f.). Prophecies and Psalms were fulfilled in Him (Lk. 18:31; 22:37; 24:27, 44). Paul esteemed the Scriptures "the oracles of God" (Rom. 3:2). They are "inspired by God" (2 Tim. 3:16). That NT prophets and apostles were not placed on any lower level than those of the OT is manifest from Paul's explicit words regarding himself and his fellow apostles. Paul never faltered in his claim to be "an apostle of Christ Jesus by the will of God" (Eph. 1:1, etc.)—"set apart for the gospel of God" (Rom. 1:1)—who had received his message, not from man, but by "revelation" from heaven (Ga.

的词语。但是，如果《圣经》中真实记载了逐步揭示出来的启示，如果经文揭示了上帝救赎世人的旨意，如果先知和使徒是《圣经》的作者，如果《圣经》中充满了属灵的统一性和上帝的旨意，那么人们就很难否认，上帝之灵以一种特殊形式存在于《圣经》创作中，并干预和指引了这部作品的创作。正如人们所看到的，正典的形成过程暗示出作者信靠上帝的默示。专门词条会对这一话题进行完整的论述（见 INSPIRATION[默示]）。

1、圣经要求。这里只需要说，《圣经》对默示的要求就是《圣经》本身所有的要求。无可否认，无论是耶稣还是祂的使徒都认为《旧约》完全源自神的默示。耶稣常常引用《圣经》的内容，祂总是以《圣经》中的话语结束祂的谈话。“这经你们没有念过吗？”（太 19:4）。“你们错了，因为不明白圣经，也不晓得神的大能”（太 22:29）。这是因为神在经上说过（太 19:4-5）。预言和《诗篇》中的一切事都应验在祂身上（路 18:31; 22:37; 24:27, 44）。保罗认为《圣经》是“神的圣言”（罗 3:2）。《圣经》是“神所默示的”（提后 3:16）。从保罗对自己和他的使徒身份的评价中可知《新约》中的先知和传道者与《旧约》中的先知和传道者享有同样高的地位。保罗毫不犹豫地说，他是“奉神旨意，作基督耶稣的使徒”（弗 1:1 等），“特派传神的福音”（罗 1:1），他的知识不是从人那里领受的，乃是源自天上的“启示”（加 1:11-12）。“基督的奥秘”“如今藉着圣灵启示祂的圣使徒和先知”，因此人们宣称教会“被建立在使徒和先知的根基上，有基督耶稣自己为房角石”（弗 2:20; 3:5）。

1:11f.). The “mystery of Christ” had “now been revealed to his holy apostles and prophets by the Spirit,” in consequence of which the Church is declared to be “built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Christ Jesus himself being the corner-stone” (Eph. 2:20; 3:5).

2. Marks of Inspiration. It might be shown that these claims made by NT writers for the OT and for themselves are borne out by what the OT itself teaches of prophetic inspiration, of wisdom as the gift of God’s spirit, and of the light, holiness, saving virtue, and sanctifying power continually ascribed to God’s “law,” “words,” “statutes,” “commandments,” “judgments” (see above). This is the ultimate test of “inspiration”—that to which Paul likewise appeals—its power to “instruct you for salvation through faith in Christ Jesus” (2 Tim. 3:15)—its profitableness “for teaching, for reproof, for correction, and for training in righteousness” (v. 16)—all to the end “that the man of God may be complete, equipped for every good work” (v. 17). Nothing is here determined as to “inerrancy” in minor historical, geographical, chronological details, in which some would wrongly put the essence of inspiration; but it seems implied that at least there is no error which can interfere with or nullify the utility of Scripture for the ends specified. Who that brings Scripture to its own tests of inspiration will deny that, judged as a whole, it fulfils them?

D. Historical Influence. The claim of the Bible to a divine origin is justified by its historical influence. Regarded even as literature, the Bible has an unexampled place in history. Ten or fifteen MSS are

2、默示的标志。新约作者对《旧约》和《新约》本身的要求似乎已经被《旧约》中的教导证实，《旧约》中教导人们先知启示、圣灵赐予的智慧、光明、圣洁、美德和成圣的权柄始终源于上帝的“法度”、“话语”、“律例”、“命令”和“审判”(见上文)。这是“默示”的最终检验,保罗也曾呼求这种检验,“这圣经能使你因信基督耶稣有得救的智慧”(提后 3:15),“于教训、督责、使人归正、教导人学义,都是有益的”(提后 3:16),最终“叫属神的人得以完全,预备行各样的善事”(提后 3:17)。次要的历史、地理和年代细节不可能完全“无差错”,有些人错误地将默示的实质归到这些细节之中。然而这似乎表明至少这些错误不会干扰或废除《圣经》的真实性。如果以神的默示检验《圣经》,谁又能否认,从总体上来看,《圣经》经住了所有的检验?

D. 《圣经》的历史影响力。《圣经》的历史影响力证明了《圣经》源自神的默示。即使从文学角度讲,《圣经》的历史地位也是其他作品无法比拟的。对于一部历史经典作品而言,10 或 15 个原 thought a goodly number for an ancient classic; the MSS of whole or parts of the NT are reckoned by thousands, the oldest fragment going back to ca. A.D. 150 and several papyri dating from ca. 200. Another test is translation. The books of the NT had hardly begun to be put together before we find translations being made of them into Latin, Syriac, Egyptian, later into Gothic and other tongues (see VERSIONS). In the Middle Ages, before the invention of printing, translations were made into the vernacular of most of the countries of Europe. Today there is not a language in the civilized world into which this word of God has not been rendered. Thanks to the labors of Bible Societies, the circulation of the Bible in the different countries of the world in recent years outstrips all previous records. No book has ever been so minutely studied, has had so many books written on it, has founded so vast a literature of hymns, liturgies, devotional writings, sermons, has been so keenly assailed, has evoked such splendid defenses, as the Bible. Its spiritual influence cannot be estimated. To tell all the Bible has been and done for the world would be to rewrite in large part the history of modern civilization. Without it, in pagan lands, the arm and tongue of the missionary would be paralyzed. With it, even in the absence of the missionary, wondrous results are often effected. In national life the Bible is the source of the highest social and national aspirations. T. H. Huxley, though an agnostic, argued for the reading of the Bible in the schools on this very ground. "By the study of what other book," he asked, "could children be so much humanized, and made to feel that each figure in that vast historical procession fills, like themselves, but a momentary space in the interval between two eternities, and earns the blessings or the curses of all times, according to its effort to do good and to hate evil, even as they are also earning their payment for their work?" (Critiques and Addresses [1873], p. 61).

VI. Chapters and Verses.—Already in pre-talmudic times, for purposes of reading in the synagogues, the Jews had larger divisions of the Law into sections called pārāšōt, and of the Prophets into similar sections called hapṭārōt. They had also smaller divisions into p^esûqîm, corresponding nearly with our verses. The division into chapters is much later (13th cent.). It is ascribed to Cardinal Hugo de St. Caro (d. 1248); by others to Stephen Langton, archbishop of Canterbury (d. 1227). It was adopted into the Vulgate, and from this was transferred by R. Nathan (ca. 1440) to the Hebrew Bible (Bleek, Keil). Verses are marked in the Vulgate as early as 1558 and first appear in the NT in Robert Stephens' edition of the Greek Testament in 1551. Henry Stephens, Robert's son, reports that they were devised by his father during a journey on horseback from Paris to Lyons.

VI. 《圣经》的章和节。在前犹太教法典时代，为了便于在犹太会堂中阅读《圣经》，犹太人将大部分的律法书分成更小的部分，称之为 pārāšōt，并将先知书分为相似的部分，称作 hapṭārōt。他们把这些较小的部分进一步细分为 p^esûqîm，大致相当于我们所说的节。后来（13世纪）《圣经》又被分为章。有人认为章这种分类是由红衣主教雨果（Hugo de St. Caro, 1248年）完成的；其他人则认为是由坎特伯雷大主教斯蒂芬·兰顿（Stephen Langton, 1227年）完成的。《武加大译本》采用了这种分类，南森（R. Nathan, 约1440年）把《武加大译本》中的分类标准应用到了希伯来语《圣经》中（Bleek, Keil）。早在1558年，人们就给《武加大译本》中的各节加了编号，1551年罗伯特·斯蒂芬斯（Robert Stephens）编辑的希腊语《新约》中首先出现了节的编号。罗伯特的儿子亨利·斯蒂芬斯（Henry Stephens）说，各节编号是他父亲骑马从巴黎赶往里昂的旅途中完成的。

BIBLE DICTIONARIES AND ENCYCLOPEDIAS.

Reference works giving information about biblical terms, names, doctrines, history, and culture.

The first such work was probably that of Eusebius of Caesarea, a four-volume encyclopedia of which only one part is extant, Onomasticon, produced ca. A.D. 326. This dictionary lists and often describes approximately 600 names of towns, rivers, etc., of the OT and Gospels. Jerome, intimately acquainted with Palestine, translated this work into Latin, correcting some errors and adding much important material. Although within forty years, 1862–1904, German scholars produced three different editions of Eusebius' original Greek text together with Jerome's Latin version, no English translation has yet appeared. Around the end of the 4th cent., Augustine expressed in his "Rules for the Interpretation of Scripture" what must have been shared by many serious students of the Scriptures, a longing for a worthy biblical encyclopedia:

"What then some men have done in regard to all words and names found in Scripture in the Hebrew and Syriac and Egyptian and other tongues, taking up and interpreting separately such as were left in Scripture without interpretation; and what Eusebius has done in regard to the history of the past, with a view to the questions arising in Scripture that require a knowledge of history for their solution;—what, I say, these men have done in regard to matters of this kind, making it unnecessary for the Christian to spend his strength on many subjects for the sake of a few items of knowledge, the same I think might be done in regard to other matters, if any competent man were willing in a spirit of benevolence to undertake the labor for the advantage of his brother. In this way he might arrange in their several classes and give an account of the unknown places and animals and plants and trees and stones and metals and other species of thing that are mentioned in Scripture, taking up these only and committing his account to writing.... It might happen that some or all of these things have been done already (as I have found that many things I had no notion of have been worked out and committed to writing by good and learned Christians) but are either lost amid the crowds of the careless, or are kept out of sight by the envious” (De doctrina christiana ii.39).

第一部这类作品可能就是凯撒利亚的优西比乌约 326 年创作的四册百科全书,但是只有一部分 (Onomasticon) 保存至今。这本辞典列出并常常描述《旧约》和“福音书”中近 600 个城邑、河流等事物的名称。耶柔米非常熟悉巴勒斯坦,他把这部作品译成了拉丁语,并对作品中的一些错误进行了修正,还增加了许多重要的材料。根据优西比乌的希腊语原稿和耶柔米的拉丁语译本,德国学者在四十年的时间里 (1862–1904) 翻译出了 3 种不同译本,但是至今还没有英文译本。接近公元 4 世纪末期,由奥古斯丁制定的“圣经翻译准则”得到了许多虔诚的圣经学者的认可,他在这个准则中表达了编纂一本有价值的圣经百科全书的愿望:

“有些学者研究了 (希伯来语、叙利亚

Hebrew lexicons include that of F. Brown, S. R. Driver and C. A. Briggs, based on H. F. W. Gesenius' works (1833 and 1834), and the Lexicon in Veteris Testamenti Libros by L. Koehler and W. Baumgartner, with supplement (2nd ed. 1958). For NT Greek there are the indispensable volumes of H. Cremer (1872; Eng. tr. 1878), J. H. Thayer (1887), and W. Bauer (translated by W. F. Arndt and F. W. Gingrich, 1957).

Some valuable volumes that might be called indexes to the Bible include those of M. Pilkington (1749), R. Hitchcock (1869), N. West (1868), and A. J. Nave (1896).

Much material similar to that found in Bible dictionaries is often included in what may be called handbooks for Bible study, e.g., the excellent one by J. Angus, Bible Handbook (1865); the Illustrated Bible Treasury by W. Wright (new ed. 1897); The Cambridge Companion to Bible Studies; and the Oxford Helps to the Study of the Bible. Such works have frequently been revised and reprinted.

Some rich material relating to biblical subjects is included in theological encyclopedias, such as that by C. Buck (1802), followed by the huge volume by J. M. Brown (1836). Other important volumes include: J. H. Blunt, Dictionary of Doctrinal and Historical Theology (1872); L. Abbott (1871); S. Mathews

希伯来语辞典包括布朗 (F. Brown)、德赖弗 (S. R. Driver) 和布里格斯 (C. A. Briggs) 根据格塞纽斯 (F. W. Gesenius) 作品 (1833 年和 1834 年) 编纂的辞典, 以及科勒 (L. Koehler) 和鲍姆加特纳 (W. Baumgartner) 编纂的带有附录的辞典 (Lexicon in Veteris Testamenti Libros) (1958 年再版)。克莱莫 (H. Cremer) 的作品 (1872 年; 1878 年英译本)、泰勒 (J. H. Thayer) 的作品 (1887 年)、鲍尔的作品 (于 1957 年由阿恩特 [W. F. Arndt] 和金里奇 [F. W. Gingrich] 翻译) 是研究希腊语《新约》不可或缺的书藉。

一些有价值的作品可以被称为《圣经》索引, 这些作品包括皮尔金顿 (M. Pilkington) 的作品 (1749)、希契科克 (R. Hitchcock) 的作品 (1869)、韦斯特 (N. West) 的作品 (1868) 和内夫 (A. J. Nave) 的作品 (1896)。

许多与圣经辞典中的内容相似的材料通常包括在所谓的圣经研究手册中, 如, 安格斯 (J. Angus) 的杰出作品 Bible Handbook (1865); 赖特 (W. Wright) 的 Illustrated Bible Treasury (1897 年新版本); Cambridge Companion to Bible Studies 和 Oxford Helps to the Study of the Bible。这些书藉曾多次被修订和再版。

神学百科全书, 如布克 (C. Buck) 的百科全书 (1802) 和后来布朗 (M. Brown) 编纂的巨著 (1836) 中包含了许多与圣经主题相关的丰富材料。其他重要的书藉包括: J. H. Blunt, Dictionary of Doctrinal and Historical Theology (1872); L. Abbott (1871); S. Mathews (1921); Baker's Dictionary

(1921); Baker's Dictionary of Theology (1960); Concise Dictionary of Religious Knowledge, ed. S. M. Jackson (3rd ed. 1898); the New Schaff-Herzog Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge (2nd ed. 1949–1952, based on an 1882–1884 work); and an earlier work (1891), which has been reprinted in twelve volumes, by J. McClintock and J. Strong, Cyclopedia of Biblical, Theological and Ecclesiastical Literature. Here also belong the standard Jewish and Roman Catholic encyclopedias, as well as the remarkable Presbyterian Encyclopedia (1884) and the Baptist Encyclopedia (1889).

W. Patten published the first English work that might be regarded as a Bible dictionary. A two-hundred-page volume issued in London in 1575, it was called The Calendars of Scripture, wherein the Hebrue, Chaldean, Arabian, Phenician, Syrian, Persian, Greek, and Latin names of Contreys, Men, Weemen, Idols, Cities, Hills, Rivers, and of Other Places in the Holy Byble Mentioned by Order of Letters, is set and Turned into Our English Toung.

The first real Bible dictionary in English was that of T. Wilson, minister of St. George's, Canterbury (d. 1621). First appearing in 1612, his Complete Christian Dictionary enjoyed numerous editions; the 5th appeared in 1667, somewhat enlarged. The 3rd edition (1622), consisting of 948 unnumbered pages, includes a unique dictionary for the book of Revelation with 131 pages and a forty-nine-page dictionary of the Song of Solomon. The articles concern phrases as well as individual words.

During the following century no important of Theology (1960); Concise Dictionary of Religious Knowledge, S. M. Jackson 编 (1898 年第 3 版); the New Schaff-Herzog Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge (1949–1952 年第 2 版, 基于 1882–1884 年的一部作品) 和 J. McClintock 和 J. Strong, Cyclopedia of Biblical, Theological and Ecclesiastical Literature, 这是一部早期作品 (1891), 再版时编成了 12 册。这些作品也出现在犹太人和罗马天主教百科全书, 以及著名的 Presbyterian Encyclopedia (1884) 和 Baptist Encyclopedia (1889) 中。

在接下来的一个世纪里再未出现这种

English works of this nature appeared. To be comprehensive, however, the following volumes are noted.

The schoolmaster T. Hayne (1582–1645) published The General View of the Holy Scriptures; or, the Times, Places, and Persons of the Holy Scriptures (rev. ed. 1640). In 1642 a primarily theological work by R. Bernard (1568–1641) appeared, The Bibles Abstract and Epitome, the Capitale Heads, Examples, Sentences and Precepts of all the Principal Matters in Theologie, Collected Together for the Most part Alphabetically ... taken Out of the Best Moderne Divines.

F. Roberts, who wrote several apologetic works, published in 1648 Clavis Bibliorum: The Key of the Bible, which had at least four editions by 1675. A volume more lexicon than dictionary appeared in 1660, comprehensively entitled Scripture-Names Expounded, in this right profitable fruitfull, large, and ample, Alphabetical Table: Containing the Interpretation of about foure thousand Proper Names (but halfe a dayes Reading in Newcastle, July 16, 1649) in the Hebrew, Caldean, Greeke, and Latine Tongues, dispersed throughout the whole Bible. Collected by R. F. H. Now again re-Printed by S. D. for the benefit of all that would soon Reade and understand the Scriptures of Truth, in their Originall Tongues, especially Hebrew; these Names containe all, or the most of the Primitives in Hebrew, which being all known, with their Significations, make a firmer impression of them in the Memory, than anyway else I know, all Names being reduced to their Primitives, which in a Moneth one unlettered in the Hebrew may doe, by a few directions, with much ease, profit and delight.

校长海恩 (T. Hayne, 1582–1645 年) 发表了 The General View of the Holy Scriptures; or, the Times, Places, and Persons of the Holy Scriptures (1640 年修订版)。伯纳德 (R. Bernard, 1568–1641 年) 于 1642 年发表了一部主要的神学作品, The Bibles Abstract and Epitome, the Capitale Heads, Examples, Sentences and Precepts of all the Principal Matters in Theologie, Collected Together for the Most part Alphabetically ... taken Out of the Best Moderne Divines。

More in the nature of a true dictionary was F. Shaw's A Summary of the Bible; or the Principal Heads of Natural and Revealed Religion; alphabetically disposed in the Words of Scripture only (1730).

A truly great Bible dictionary appeared in 1732, a translation of a work originally published in French in 1722, by A. Calmet (1672–1757). The momentous Historical, Critical, Geographical, Chronological and Etymological Dictionary of the Holy Bible appeared in three volumes (six parts), and contained almost 2,500,000 words. One of the most intriguing yet almost entirely ignored works in biblical interpretation is the last section, the second part of vol. III. The first three hundred pages comprise an annotated “Bibliotheca Sacra, or a Catalog of the Best Books that can be Read in Order to Acquire a Good Understanding of the Scriptures.” Most sections on the books of the Bible and biblical subjects have been re-categorized in terms of Catholic and Protestant authors. Many books mentioned in this comprehensive bibliography are not likely to be found in any modern libraries of Europe or America. More than two thousand names are included in the alphabetical table of authors. Also included are a dissertation on Israelite military tactics by a noted French military expert, a survey of Hebrew coins, a chronological table of biblical history, and a remarkable “Preface to the Translation of the Hebrew, Chaldee, Syriac, and Greek Names in the Bible.” Publication of this work continued for more than a century until 1847. An abridged one-volume edition edited by T.

肖 (F. Shaw) 创作的 A Summary of the Bible; or the Principal Heads of Natural and Revealed Religion; alphabetically disposed in the Words of Scripture only (1730) 才是真正意义的圣经辞典。

真正的圣经大辞典于 1732 年问世，它是 1722 年卡尔梅特 (A. Calmet, 1672–1757) 发表的一部法语原著的译本。这本重要的圣经辞典 (Historical, Critical, Geographical, Chronological and Etymological Dictionary of the Holy Bible) 包含了 3 册 (6 部分)，约 2,500,000 词。最后一部分，即第 3 册的第二部分是最有趣的一部分，但这部分圣经解释完全被人们忽略了。前 300 页中包含了一个带有注释的“圣经总论或最好作品的目录，阅读这个目录可以让人们很好地理解《圣经》中的内容”。该书根据天主教和新教作者的意见将《圣经》中大部分经卷和圣经主题进行了重新归类。这部详尽的辞典中提到的一些书籍即使在欧洲和美国的现代图书馆中都不见得能找到。作者的字母表目录中包含了 2000 多个名称。一位著名法国军事家关于以色列战术的论文、希伯来硬币的调查、圣经历史的年代表和著名的“《圣经》中希伯来语、迦勒底语、叙利亚语和希腊语名称翻译的前言”都包含在这部辞典中。截止 1847 年，这部辞典的发行时间超过了一个世纪。1856 年，巴克利 (T. A. Buckley) 编纂了一部删减版，它要比法语原版的发行时间晚了 135 年。泰勒 (C. Taylor) 于 19 世纪初期补充了两册，并将之命名为 Fragments，这两册很好地解释了许多《圣经》段落。

A. Buckley appeared as late as 1856, 135 years after the first French edition. Two supplementary volumes entitled Fragments, edited by C. Taylor, provide a good view of the interpretation of many biblical passages at the beginning of the 19th century.

In 1749 M. Pilkington (1705–1765), Prebendary of Lichfield, published in Nottingham A Rational Concordance of an Index to the Bible. Ten years later a three-volume work was published in London with no indication of authorship. It was entitled A Dictionary of the Holy Bible ... Serving in a Great Measure as a Concordance to the Bible. Its nearly 1300 pages contain about 1,700,000 words. The work acknowledges the influence of Calmet's dictionary. Included are extensive quotations from Newton, Josephus, S. Bochart, H. Prideaux, and others. As in many contemporary dictionaries, various subjects receive disproportionate treatment. For example, more attention is devoted to "Ahab" than to either "Adam" or "Angel."

Perhaps the most frequently reprinted Bible dictionary of the latter half of the 18th cent. was edited by J. Brown of Haddington (1722–1787). It was called A Dictionary of the Holy Bible Containing Definitions of All Religious and Ecclesiastical Terms ... and a Biographical Sketch of Writers in Theological Science. First published in 1768, the 6th edition (1816) claimed in the title The Whole Comprising Whatever Important is Known Concerning the Antiquities of the Hebrew Nation and the Church of God. The 6th edition was enlarged by Brown's three sons and contained the author's biography. The two volumes number 1270 pages, about 860,000 words. Editions appear as late as W. Brown's 1866 revision. Among several interesting articles, that on the Hebrews traces their history to modern times and includes the following speculation: "About A.D. 1866 or 2016, we suppose the offspring of Judah, together with the remains of the ten tribes, will by the power of God and to the great joy and advantage of the Gentiles, be converted to the Christian faith. It seems they will resist the opposers of Antichrist at Armageddon and greatly rejoice in his ruin. The Turks and their allies will try to dispossess them but shall perish in their attempt. Thence forward the twelve Hebrew tribes shall in the greatest harmony, peace, piety and order reside in their country til the end of the millennium." A new edition was issued in a single volume of 746 pages in 1823 under the editorship of T. Smith. The preface notes that at least five "spurious editions of Brown's dictionary had already appeared."

利奇菲尔德的受俸牧师皮尔金顿 (M. Pilkington, 1705–1765) 于 1749 年在诺丁汉发表了一部作品 (A Rational Concordance of an Index to the Bible)。10 年之后一部未署名的 3 册作品在伦敦问世。该作品名为 A Dictionary of the Holy Bible ... Serving in a Great Measure as a Concordance to the Bible。全书将近 1300 页, 约 1,700,000 词。这部作品受到了卡尔梅特辞典的影响。还大量引用了牛顿、约瑟夫斯、博恰特 (S. Bochart)、普里多等人作品中的内容。当时的许多辞典对诸多话题进行了不同程度的论述。例如, 这些辞典更为详尽地阐述了“亚哈”, 而对“亚当”或“天使”的描述则相对较少。

In 1770 T. Tooley published a volume entitled Nomenclator Biblicus; or, An Index of Proper Names Occurring in the Old and New Testament; intended as a Supplement to the known defect of Concordances in that Necessary Article.

There appeared in 1774 the most extensive Bible dictionary by an English scholar before that of Kitto. Its author, J. Fleetwood, who wrote one of the most widely used works on Christ to be published in the 18th or early 19th cent., is otherwise unknown, and many have thought the name to be a pseudonym. The complete title of Fleetwood's dictionary is: The Christian's Dictionary; or, Sure

托利 (T. Tooley) 于 1770 年发表了一册书, 名为 Nomenclator Biblicus; or, An Index of Proper Names Occurring in the Old and New Testament; intended as a Supplement to the known defect of Concordances in that Necessary Article.

基托 (Kitto) 的辞典发表之前, 一位英国学者于 1774 年发表了一部内容最为丰富的圣经辞典。该辞典的作者弗利特伍德 (J. Fleetwood) 却是无名之辈, 很多人认为这个名字只是一个笔名, 但他在 18 世纪或 19 世纪早期发表的一部关于基督的作品是最流行的作品之一。弗利特伍德的辞典的全称是: The Christian's Dictionary; or, Sure Guide to Divine Knowledge. Containing a Full

Guide to Divine Knowledge. Containing a Full and Familiar Explanation of all the Words made use of in the Holy Scriptures, and Body of Divinity, as set forth in the Writings of the Most Eminent and Pious Divines; whether Ancient or modern ... to which is added a Brief Explication of all the Proper Names found in Scripture, including the senses wherein they were used by the Jews; etc. A quarto work (10¹/₂ × 8¹/₄ in.) of more than five hundred pages, the text contains approximately 200,000 words. The author describes his book as follows: “To make Christians acquainted with every term made use of in the sacred scriptures, and in the writings of the most eminent divines, both ancient and modern, this work was undertaken on a plan never yet offered to the public. The author ... has spent a great part of his time, during a course of nearly fifty years, in learning to acquire a perfect knowledge of these things. Few treatises on divinity, whether theological, polemical, critical or practical have escaped his notice.... The rise and progress of every heresy in the Christian church has been taken notice of.” His interpretations were often novel. Of course, he interpreted the antichrist as the pope and the beast out of the earth as Rome. The “Dictionary of Scriptural Proper Names” treats nearly 1500 items, several with considerable detail.

A Dictionary of the Bible Historical and Geographical, Theological, Moral and Ritual, Philosophical and Philological (1779), by A. Macbean, was the most important Bible dictionary edited by a British writer in the latter part of the 18th century. The first American edition (1798) was developed from the enlarged second London edition.

and Familiar Explanation of all the Words made use of in the Holy Scriptures, and Body of Divinity, as set forth in the Writings of the Most Eminent and Pious Divines; whether Ancient or modern ... to which is added a Brief Explication of all the Proper Names found in Scripture, including the senses wherein they were used by the Jews; etc. 一本 500 多页的四开本作品(10.5 英寸长, 8.25 英寸宽), 约 200,000 词。作者这样描述他的作品: “为了使基督徒熟悉《圣经》和古代与现代最杰出神学家作品中的每个词语, 我按计划创作这部作品, 但始终未能将它公之于众。我用大半生的时间, 在近 50 年的时间里, 为获得完备的知识一直在学习。关于神性的论文, 无论是神学论文、辩证论文、批判论文还是实用论文, 我无不涉猎……基督教教会中每个异端的兴起和发展过程也都在我的关注范围内。”他的诠释通常很新颖。他将敌基督者解释成教皇, 将地上来的野兽解释成罗马。“圣经专有名词辞典”中收录了近 1500 个词条, 其中一些词条的解释非常详细。

麦克冰恩 (A. Macbean) 编纂的圣经辞典 (A Dictionary of the Bible Historical and Geographical, Theological, Moral and Ritual, Philosophical and Philological [1779 年]) 是 18 世纪后期英国作者编纂的最重要的圣经辞典。第一部美国版本 (1789 年) 就是根据伦敦第二增补版编纂的。

An important Bible dictionary with no identification of its editor was published in 1792, entitled The Dictionary of the Bible. This was the first Bible dictionary to appear in America, published in Worcester, Mass. by I. Thomas in 1798.

A number of less important Bible dictionaries appeared toward the end of the 18th cent.: A Comprehensive Dictionary of the Holy Bible: Containing a Biographical History, etc. (1776), 504 pages; A. Fortescu, A Dictionary of the Holy Bible (1777, reprinted in 1792 and 1798); W. Button, A Comprehensive Dictionary of the Holy Bible (1796), based upon J. Brown's earlier work. Worthy of note is P. Oliver's Scripture Lexicon, or a Dictionary of above Four Thousand Proper Names Mentioned in the Bible, with their Derivation, Description, Accentuations (1787). New editions of this work of less than three hundred pages appeared in 1810 and 1818, both at Oxford, where it was used as a text. Oliver (1713–1791), a 1730 American graduate of Harvard, was judge of the Superior Court and Chief Justice before moving to England in 1776.

Bible dictionaries of the early 19th cent. reflected the influence of Calmet and Brown, as J. Wood (1751–1840) acknowledged in A New Dictionary of the Holy Bible Extracted from Brown, Calmet, etc., collated with other works of Like Kind with Numerous Additions from Various Authors and a Considerable Quantity of Original Matter (2 vols., 1804). A 12th edition was issued in 1863.

J. Morrison (1762–1809) is generally accepted as author of Bibliotheca Sacra or Dictionary of the Holy Scriptures (2 vols.,

一部未注明编写者的重要圣经辞典于1792年公开发行, 该辞典名为 The Dictionary of the Bible。这是美国的第一本圣经辞典, 于1798年由托马斯(I. Thomas)在马萨诸塞州的伍斯特发行。

许多次要的圣经辞典在18世纪末期发行: A Comprehensive Dictionary of the Holy Bible: Containing a Biographical History, etc. (1776年) 一共504页; 福特斯科(A. Fortescu)的 A Dictionary of the Holy Bible (1777年, 1792和1798年再版) 和巴顿(W. Button)的 A Comprehensive Dictionary of the Holy Bible (1796), 都是根据布朗(J. Brown)的早期作品改编的。值得一提的是奥利弗(P. Oliver)的一部作品 (Scripture Lexicon, or a Dictionary of above Four Thousand Proper Names Mentioned in the Bible, with their Derivation, Description, Accentuations [1787年])。这部作品的新版本只有不到300页, 分别于1810年和1818年在牛津大学公开发行, 它也成了牛津大学的教科书之一。奥利弗(1713–1791)是1730年美国哈佛大学的毕业生, 他在1776年搬到英格兰之前, 担任高等法院的法官和审判长。

正如伍德在他的作品中所承认的 (A New Dictionary of the Holy Bible Extracted from Brown, Calmet, etc., collated with other works of Like Kind with Numerous Additions from Various Authors and a Considerable Quantity of Original Matter [2册, 1804年]), 19世纪早期的圣经辞典都受到了卡尔梅特和布朗作品的影响。该作品的第12版于1863年发行。

人们通常认为莫里森(J. Morrison, 1762–1809)是 Bibliotheca Sacra or Dictionary of the Holy Scriptures (2 1806), an anonymous work that acknowledges its extensive borrowing from earlier writers.

In 1807 A. Arrowsmith published the first work of its kind, A Geographical Dictionary of the Holy Scriptures, with various editions appearing for the next fifty years. He also edited A Bible Atlas, and published more than 130 maps. In 1808 J. Creighton's Dictionary of Scripture Proper Names appeared, followed in 1810 by M. Martindale's two-volume Dictionary of the Holy Bible.

W. Jones (1762–1846), a Baptist minister at Finsbury, edited the famous two-volume Biblical Cyclopaedia; or Dictionary of the Holy Scriptures (1816). This unnumbered work, with 648 pages in the first volume and 564 in the second, includes beautiful steel engravings, excellent maps (for the period), and interesting bibliographies.

T. Hawker's A Concordance and Dictionary to the Holy Scriptures appeared in 1812, a work of some 880 pages, with later editions. In 1815 J. K. Whish published in Bristol The Cottager's Dictionary of the Bible, a small volume of 130 pages with definitions limited to one or two lines in length. Its purpose was "to facilitate the understanding of the Scriptures among the poor." Minor dictionaries published at this time include J. Robinson's A Theological, Biblical and Ecclesiastical Dictionary, etc. (1815–1816; rev. 1835). A small volume published in 1818, The Youth's Spelling, Pronouncing, and Explanatory Theological Dictionary of the NT, contained an introduction by E. Dowson.

册, 1806 年)的作者, 这是一部匿名的作品, 其中大量引用了早期作品中的内容。

阿罗史密斯 (A. Arrowsmith) 于 1807 年首次发行了这种类型的作品 (A Geographical Dictionary of the Holy Scriptures), 这部作品在之后的 50 年间出现了各种各样的版本。他还编辑了一本地图集 (A Bible Atlas), 其中包含 130 幅地图。克赖顿 (J. Creighton) 的 Dictionary of Scripture Proper Names 和 马丁代尔 (M. Martindale) 的 Dictionary of the Holy Bible 分别于 1808 年和 1810 年问世。

芬斯伯里的浸信会牧师琼斯 (W. Jones, 1762–1846) 编辑了一部两册的作品 (Biblical Cyclopaedia; or Dictionary of the Holy Scriptures [1816 年]), 这部作品没有标注页码, 第一册有 648 页, 第二册有 564 页, 书中含有精美的钢雕版画、(这一时期的) 精美地图和有趣的书目。

霍克 (T. Hawker) 的一部作品 (A Concordance and Dictionary to the Holy Scriptures) 于 1812 年发表, 这部作品约 880 页, 后来又发行了更多的版本。1815 年, 威士 (J. K. Whish) 在布里斯托尔发表了一部作品 (The Cottager's Dictionary of the Bible), 这本小册子有 130 页, 还有一些 1 或 2 行长的释义。这部作品是“为了帮助穷人理解《圣经》中的道理”。这一时期发行的小本辞典包括罗宾逊 (J. Robinson) 的 A Theological, Biblical and Ecclesiastical Dictionary, etc. (1815–1816; 1835 年修订版)。1818 年发表的一本小册子 (The Youth's Spelling, Pronouncing, and Explanatory Theological Dictionary of the NT) 收录了道森 (E. Dowson) 为这本书写的前言。

The first Bible dictionary by a recognized biblical geographer, E. Robinson's (1794–1863) A Dictionary of the Holy Bible, appeared in 1822 with numerous revisions as late as 1879. It was followed in 1826 by G. Wall's Domestic Dictionary of the Bible and H. J. G. Dwight's A Dictionary of the Proper Names in the NT with Other Helps (2nd ed. 1828). In the same decade H. Malcolm (1799–1899) published The Dictionary of the Bible, of which more than 130,000 copies were sold within its first twenty years. The author of Index to Religious Literature, Malcolm also published A New Bible Dictionary (1852); A Dictionary of the Most Important Names found in the Holy Scriptures (1831); and The Proper Names of the OT arranged Alphabetically (1859). Princeton Seminary professor A. Alexander (1772–1851) prepared the 546-page Pocket Dictionary of the Bible (1829; rev. ed. 1831) for the American Sunday School Union.

R. Watson (1781–1833), author of the famous Theological Institutes, produced a work with the comprehensive title A Biblical and Theological Dictionary: Explanatory of the History, Manners, and Customs of the Jews and Neighboring Nations. With an Account of the Most Remarkable Places and Persons Mentioned in Sacred Scripture; An Exposition of the Principal Doctrines of Christianity and Notices of Jewish and Christian Sects and Heresies (1831, 1068 pages). This popular volume had at least ten editions within twenty years.

Also in 1831 there appeared an 人们一致认为第一本圣经辞典是由圣经地理学者罗宾逊(E. Robinson, 1794–1863) 编纂的, 这本辞典(A Dictionary of the Holy Bible) 于 1822 年问世, 自此到 1879 年, 这本书出了很多的修订版。随后在 1826 年, 瓦尔(G. Wall) 创作了一部作品(Domestic Dictionary of the Bible), 德怀特(H. J. G. Dwight) 创作了一部作品(A Dictionary of the Proper Names in the NT with Other Helps[1828 年再版])。在同一个 10 年间, 马尔科姆(H. Malcolm, 1799–1899) 写了一本书(The Dictionary of the Bible), 这本书在发表前 20 年总计卖出了 130,000 多本。马尔科姆是 Index to Religious Literature 的作者, 他还创作了另外几部作品(A New Bible Dictionary [1852 年]; A Dictionary of the Most Important Names found in the Holy Scriptures [1831 年] 和 The Proper Names of the OT arranged Alphabetically [1859 年])。普林斯顿神学院的教授亚历山大(A. Alexander, 1772–1851) 为美国主日学协会创作了一部 546 页的作品(Pocket Dictionary of the Bible [1829 年; 1831 年修订版])。

沃森(R. Watson, 1781–1833) 是一部著名作品(Theological Institutes) 的作者, 他还创作另外一本书, 该书全称为 A Biblical and Theological Dictionary: Explanatory of the History, Manners, and Customs of the Jews and Neighboring Nations. With an Account of the Most Remarkable Places and Persons Mentioned in Sacred Scripture; An Exposition of the Principal Doctrines of Christianity and Notices of Jewish and Christian Sects and Heresies (1831 年, 1068 页)。这部流行版本在 20 年的时间里至少再版了 10 次。

anonymous work, A Dictionary of Important Names, Objects, and Terms Found in the Holy Scriptures intended principally for Youth. A small work by J. H. Cotton, A Short Explanation of Obsolete Words in Our Version of the Bible (1832), should also be noted. Other contemporary works were A Pocket Biblical Dictionary by D. Davidson (new ed. 1837); J. Covel's Bible Dictionary (1838); and a sixty-page volume by T. Rowland, An Exposition of the Names of Persons and Places Recorded in the Holy Scriptures.

S. Green's A Biblical and Theological Dictionary first appeared in 1840 and was published for more than twenty-five years. The 1868 edition was reputedly the 28th. In 1841 W. Goodhugh (1799–1842) published the two-volume Bible Cyclopaedia, or Illustrations of the Civil and Natural History of the Sacred Writings by Reference to the Manners, Customs, Rites, Traditions, Antiquities, and Literature of Eastern Nations. A universalist, S. B. Emmons, published his Bible Dictionary in 1841. In 1842 the American Sunday School Union published the widely circulated Union Bible Dictionary.

Also among the profusion of dictionaries released in the mid-19th cent. were the Concordance and Dictionary of the Holy Scriptures by R. Hawker (1753–1827) and J. Covel, Jr., A Concise Dictionary of the Holy Bible Designed for the Use of Sunday School Teachers and Families, both published in 1844. A 4th edition of S. Dunn, A Dictionary of the Gospels with Maps, etc. appeared in 1846. Also in 1846 J. R. Beard published his Household Important Names, Objects, and Terms Found in the Holy Scriptures intended principally for Youth)也在1831年问世。值得一提的还有科顿(J. H. Cotton)创作的一本小册子(A Short Explanation of Obsolete Words in Our Version of the Bible [1832年])。其他同时代的作品还有戴维森(D. Davidson)的作品(A Pocket Biblical Dictionary[1837年新版])、卡沃尔(J. Covel)的作品(Bible Dictionary [1838年])和罗兰(T. Rowland)的一本60页的作品(An Exposition of the Names of Persons and Places Recorded in the Holy Scriptures)。

格林(S. Green)的一部作品(A Biblical and Theological Dictionary)在1840年首次发表,这本书的发行时间超过25年。人们一般认为1868年版是第28个版本。古德林(W. Goodhugh, 1799–1842)在1841年发表了一本2册的作品(Bible Cyclopaedia, or Illustrations of the Civil and Natural History of the Sacred Writings by Reference to the Manners, Customs, Rites, Traditions, Antiquities, and Literature of Eastern Nations)。普救派信徒埃蒙斯(S. B. Emmons)在1841年出版了他的作品(Bible Dictionary)。美国主日学协会在1842年发表了一本广为流传的作品(Union Bible Dictionary)。

19世纪中期发行了大量的辞典,其中包括霍克(R. Hawker, 1753–1827)的著作(Concordance and Dictionary of the Holy Scriptures)和卡沃尔(J. Covel, Jr.)的著作(A Concise Dictionary of the Holy Bible Designed for the Use of Sunday School Teachers and Families),这两本书都在1844年出版。邓恩(S. Dunn)的一部作品(*A Dictionary of the Gospels with Maps*等)的第4版在1846年问世。博尔德(J. R. Beard)也在1846

Biblical Encyclopedia, followed by The People's Dictionary of the Bible (1847 and 1861). A three-volume work, The Bible Cyclopaedia Containing the Biography, Geography and Natural History of the Holy Scriptures, edited by J. P. Lawson, was issued in 1847. The first volume, devoted to biography, included "A List of Persons Mentioned in the Scriptures of Whom Little is Known," with about 2200 names. In 1869 Lawson joined J. M. Wilson to publish a two-volume work, A Cyclopaedia of Biblical Geography, Biography, Natural History, and General Knowledge. Its bibliography was the most comprehensive of its time. Lawson and Wilson also produced the two-volume Imperial Cyclopaedia of Biblical Knowledge in 1873.

The most important contribution of the period was the publication of the epochal Cyclopedia of Biblical Literature (1846) by J. Kitto (1804–1854). Acknowledging the increased information about ancient history and Palestinian geography, Kitto engaged the help of forty noted Bible scholars, such as G. Bush, J. Eadie, J. P. Smith, and the Germans E. W. Hengstenberg and F. A. G. Tholuck. Included were the first authoritative articles on geographical matters, as well as accounts of such topics as biblical criticism and Gnosticism. The 3rd edition of 1869, edited in three volumes by W. L. Alexander, incorporated the assistance of such additional scholars as F. W. Farrar, A. Geikie, R. S. Poole, H. Wace, and J. S. Candlish. Included was the first extensive article on biblical concordances and "Notices of the Life and Works of Biblical Scholars."

年发表了他的作品 (Household Biblical Encyclopedia), 并在随后发表了另一部著作 (The People's Dictionary of the Bible [1847 和 1861 年])。劳森 (J. P. Lawson) 在 1847 年出版了一本 3 册的著作 (The Bible Cyclopaedia Containing the Biography, Geography and Natural History of the Holy Scriptures)。第一册主要是传记, 其中包括“一份人们知之甚少的圣经人名列表”, 这份列表中大约出现了 2200 个名字。劳森和威尔逊在 1869 年合著了一部 2 册的作品 (A Cyclopaedia of Biblical Geography, Biography, Natural History, and General Knowledge)。这本书的参考文献最多。劳森和威尔逊还在 1873 年合著了另一本 2 册的书籍 (Imperial Cyclopaedia of Biblical Knowledge)。

dictionary of its time was The Biblical Cyclopedia by J. Eadie (1810–1876), a work of nearly 700,000 words, which first appeared in 1849 and was revised and reprinted as late as 1901.

In 1850 there appeared Bible dictionaries by I. Cobbin (1771–1851), W. M. Engles (1797–1867), and an American Presbyterian author, as well as J. Jameson's Glossary to the Obsolete and Unusual Words and Phrases of the Holy Scriptures in the Authorized English Version.

The Bible Dictionary for the Use of Bible Classes, Schools, and Families was published in 1851. The 3rd edition of Biblical and Theological Dictionary by J. Farrar (1802–1884) appeared in 1852. J. Booker published a small work in 1853, Obsolete Words and Phrases in the Bible, etc., followed a year later by The Pictorial Dictionary of the Bible and J. Gardner's Christian Cyclopedia or a Repertory of Biblical and Theological Literature. Edited in 1855 by F. A. Packard, The Union Bible Dictionary for the Use of Schools, Bible Classes and Families was a new edition of the 1844 American Sunday School Union publication mentioned above. In 1858 Davies published his Biblical Dictionary. In 1859 the American Tract Society published A Dictionary of the Holy Bible by W. W. Rand (1816–1909), based upon E. Robinson's work and revised in 1886. Also in 1859 appeared a three-volume, condensed version of J. A. Bastow's 1848 A Biblical Dictionary, etc.

卡宾 (I. Cobbin, 1771–1851)、恩格斯 (W. M. Engles, 1797–1867) 和一位美国长老会的作者编纂的圣经辞典, 以及詹姆士 (J. Jameson) 的著作 (Glossary to the Obsolete and Unusual Words and Phrases of the Holy Scriptures in the Authorized English Version) 都在 1850 年发表。

圣经辞典 The Bible Dictionary for the Use of Bible Classes, Schools, and Families 于 1851 年发行。法勒 (1802–1884) 圣经辞典 (Biblical and Theological Dictionary) 第 3 版在 1852 年出版。布克 (J. Booker) 1853 年出版了一部小著作 (Obsolete Words and Phrases in the Bible, etc.), 次年 The Pictorial Dictionary of the Bible 和加德纳 (J. Gardner) 的作品 (Christian Cyclopedia or a Repertory of Biblical and Theological Literature) 问世。帕卡德在 1855 年编辑了一部辞典 (The Union Bible Dictionary for the Use of Schools, Bible Classes and Families), 它是美国主日学协会在 1844 年发行的辞典的新版本, 上文提到过这本辞典。戴维斯在 1858 年出版了他的著作 (Biblical Dictionary)。美国福音传单协会在 1859 年出版了兰特 (W. W. Rand, 1816–1909) 的著作 (A Dictionary of the Holy Bible), 这部著作是根据罗宾逊的作品创作出来的, 并在 1886 年进行了修订。还有一部 3 册的著作也在 1859 年问世, 它是巴斯托 (J. A. Bastow) 在 1848 年发表的作品 (A Biblical Dictionary 等作品) 的简化版。

most important Bible dictionary of that generation appeared in 1860, the Dictionary of the Bible by W. Smith (1813–1893), which continued in publication for nearly fifty years. The most popular of its many editions was the American revision edited by H. B. Hackett, assisted by E. Abbot, a four-volume work totaling 3667 pages. The large editorial staff of the original edition was augmented by an additional twenty-seven American scholars.

Among the minor biblical dictionaries of this decade are Cassell's Bible Dictionary (1863, with frequent revisions); J. Ayre's Treasury of Bible Knowledge, Being a Dictionary of Books, Persons, Places ... in the Holy Scriptures (1866); J. Eastwood and W. A. Wright, Bible Word Book: A Glossary of Old English Bible Words (1866); and S. W. Barnum, A Comprehensive Dictionary of the Bible (1867), a work of 1,500,000 words by sixty-nine contributors. An exceptional contribution of this decade was the Imperial Bible Dictionary edited by P. Fairbairn (1805–1874). The new edition of 1885 was extended to six volumes.

Dictionaries appearing in the early 1870's included: W. Henderson (1810–1872), Dictionary and Concordance of the Names and Persons and Places in the Scriptures, etc. (1869); S. O. Beeton, Bible Dictionary (1870); W. Gurney, A Handy Dictionary of the Bible (1870); W. Nicholson, The Bible Explained; A Dictionary of the Names, Countries, etc. as Contained in the Old and New Testaments (1870); J. A. Wylie (1808–1890), The Household Bible Dictionary (1870, 2 vols.); C. Boutell (1812–1877), A

(W. Smith, 1813–1893) 编纂的辞典 (the Dictionary of the Bible), 这部辞典的首个版本于 1860 年问世, 在近 50 年的时间里一直不停地发行。这部辞典最流行的版本是哈克特 (H. B. Hackett) 在阿博特 (E. Abbot) 的帮助下编辑的美国修订版, 这个修订版分为 4 册, 共 3667 页。原版庞大的编纂队伍中又新增了 27 位美国学者。

这十年内出版的小本圣经辞典包括 Cassell's Bible Dictionary (1863 年, 多次被修订)、艾尔 (J. Ayre) 的一部著作 (Treasury of Bible Knowledge, Being a Dictionary of Books, Persons, Places ... in the Holy Scriptures [1866 年])、伊斯威特 (J. Eastwood) 和赖特 (W. A. Wright) 合著的一部作品 (Bible Word Book: A Glossary of Old English Bible Words [1866 年])、巴纳姆 (S. W. Barnum) 的一部作品 (A Comprehensive Dictionary of the Bible [1867 年]) 和 69 位编著者创作的一部 1,500,000 词的作品。费尔贝恩 (P. Fairbairn, 1805–1874) 编辑的一本辞典 (Imperial Bible Dictionary) 是这十年中的杰出贡献之作。1885 年发行的新版本增至 6 册。

19 世纪 70 年代初期出版的圣经辞典包括: 亨德森 (W. Henderson, 1810–1872) 的 Dictionary and Concordance of the Names and Persons and Places in the Scriptures 等作品 (1869 年)、比顿 (S. O. Beeton) 的 Bible Dictionary (1870 年)、格尼 (W. Gurney) 的 A Handy Dictionary of the Bible (1870 年)、尼克尔森 (W. Nicholson) 的 The Bible Explained 和 A Dictionary of the Names, Countries, etc. as Contained in the Old and New Testaments (1870 年)、怀利 (J. A. Wylie, 1808–1890) 的 The Household

Bible Dictionary etc. for Students of the Holy Scriptures (1871; later editions in 1876 and 1879); and the unsigned Dictionary of the Bible (1872). The most beautiful Bible dictionary ever published in the United States was by W. Blackwood, Potter's Complete Bible Encyclopedia, etc. (1873), two quarto volumes of two thousand pages with three thousand illustrations. The work encompassed almost every conceivable biblical, theological, and ecclesiastical subject, as well as Christian biography. Perhaps because its cost was high for that period, this encyclopedia never received wide recognition.

An anonymous work appeared in 1877, A New and Complete Pronouncing Bible Dictionary. The Handbook of Bible Words, with an introduction by J. J. S. Perowne, appeared in 1878. In 1880 the Presbyterian Board of Education of Philadelphia published The Westminster Bible Dictionary, later the title of a more famous work by J. Davis. Student's Illustrated Bible Dictionary appeared in 1881, a small work also entitled The Household Bible Dictionary. The Southern Methodist Publication Society published J. C. Granberry's Bible Dictionary (1883). In the same year R. Young issued his Dictionary and Concordance of Bible Words and Synonyms of the NT. The revised edition of the earlier work by Eastwood and Wright appeared in 1884, edited by Wright himself (1831–1914). Carrying the title The Bible Word Book, A Glossary of Archaic Words and Phrases in the Authorized Version of the Bible and the Book of Common Prayer, this volume of nearly seven hundred pages became a standard work of reference.

Bible Dictionary (1870 年, 2 册)、鲍特尔(C. Boutell, 1812–1877)的 A Bible Dictionary etc. for Students of the Holy Scriptures (1871 年; 1876 年 和 1879 年再版) 和一部匿名作品 Dictionary of the Bible (1872 年)。美国出版的最出色的圣经辞典是由布莱克伍德(W. Blackwood)编辑的(Potter's Complete Bible Encyclopedia, etc. [1873 年]), 这本四开本的辞典分为两册, 一共 2000 页, 包含了 3000 幅插图。这部作品几乎囊括了所有可能想到的圣经问题、神学问题和教会问题, 以及基督教的历史简介。当时可能因为这本辞典制作成本较高, 所以没有大量发行。

一部佚名著作 (A New and Complete Pronouncing Bible Dictionary. The Handbook of Bible Words) 于 1877 年问世, 佩罗恩(J. J. S. Perowne) 在 1878 年为它写了简介。费城长老会教育委员会在 1880 年出版了一本辞典 (The Westminster Bible Dictionary), 后来戴维斯(J. Davis) 创作的一部更著名的作品也采用了这个书名。一部小著作 (名为 Student's Illustrated Bible Dictionary, 又名 The Household Bible Dictionary) 在 1881 出版。南方卫理公会出版社在 1883 年出版了格兰伯里(J. C. Granberry) 编纂的一本辞典 (Bible Dictionary)。扬(R. Young) 于同年发表了他的作品 (Dictionary and Concordance of Bible Words and Synonyms of the NT)。伊斯伍德和赖特合著的早期作品的修订版在 1884 年发表, 这个修订版本是由赖特(1831–1914) 一人编辑的。这部作品的名称是 The Bible Word Book, A Glossary of Archaic Words and Phrases in the Authorized Version of the Bible and the Book of Common Prayer, 这部近 700 页的作品后来成了标准参考文献。

The anonymous New Biblical Dictionary for Students and Teachers, a work of 1200 pages, appeared in 1859. In 1890 J. P. Boyd (1836–1910) published his Self-Pronouncing Bible Dictionary, often included in Holman's Pronouncing Teacher's Bible. F. Bourazan published in 1890 his Sacred Dictionary and Explanation of Scripture Names and Terms, etc. In 1891 appeared T. R. Safe's Scriptural Dictionary of Personal Names Found in the OT, etc. Also that year A. R. Fausset (1821–1910) published The Englishman's Critical and Expository Bible Encyclopedia. Republished as late as 1949, the work contained approximately 950,000 words. A prolific author on prophecy, Fausset co-authored the famous Jamieson, Fausset, and Brown Commentary, first published in six volumes (1864–1870) and reissued in many editions, complete or abridged.

Other Bible dictionaries published in the final decade of the 19th cent. include: J. Macpherson, The Universal Bible Dictionary (1892); A Westcott and J. Watt, The Concise Bible Dictionary (1893), based on the Cambridge Companion to the Bible; N. G. Easton, Illustrated Bible Dictionary and Treasury of Biblical History, Doctrine, and Literature (1893); E. W. Rice, The People's Dictionary of the Bible, published by the American Sunday School Union (1893; rev. ed. 1904); and R. Hunter, Concise Bible Dictionary (1894). A new edition of this dictionary and index of the Bible was issued with the editorial help of A. J. P. McClure, under the title The International Teacher's Handy Bible Encyclopedia and 一部 1200 页的佚名之作 (New Biblical Dictionary for Students and Teachers) 在 1859 年首次发行。博伊德 (J. P. Boyd, 1836–1910) 在 1890 年发表了他的作品 (Self-Pronouncing Bible Dictionary)，这部作品经常被收录在霍尔曼 (Holman) 的著作 (Pronouncing Teacher's Bible) 中。布拉赞 (F. Bourazan) 在 1890 年发表了他的作品 (Sacred Dictionary and Explanation of Scripture Names and Terms 等作品)。萨菲 (T. R. Safe) 的作品 (Scriptural Dictionary of Personal Names Found in the OT 等作品) 于 1891 年问世。福塞特 (A. R. Fausset, 1821–1910) 于同年也发表了一部作品 (The Englishman's Critical and Expository Bible Encyclopedia)。这部作品近 950,000 字，直到 1949 年才进行再版。福塞特创作了大量的预言书，他还和著名作家贾米森 (Jamieson) 一起合著过作品，福塞特与布朗所作的注释首次发表时就有 6 册 (1864–1870)，后来又发行了许多完整版或删减版。

19 世纪最后 10 年发表的其他圣经辞典包括：麦克弗森 (J. Macpherson) 的 The Universal Bible Dictionary (1892 年)；威斯克 (A Westcott) 和瓦特 (J. Watt) 的 The Concise Bible Dictionary (1893 年)，这部作品是根据 Cambridge Companion to the Bible 编写的；伊斯顿 (N. G. Easton) 的 Illustrated Bible Dictionary and Treasury of Biblical History, Doctrine, and Literature (1893 年)；赖斯 (E. W. Rice) 的 The People's Dictionary of the Bible，由美国主日学协会出版 (1893 年，1904 年修订)，以及亨特 (R. Hunter) 的 Concise Bible Dictionary (1894 年)。这本辞典和圣经索引的新版本是由麦克卢尔 (A. J. P. McClure) 编辑的，新版本的名称为 The International Teacher's Concordance (1944). The earlier edition formed a part of the “Bible Readers’ Guide,” which appeared in several editions of the Bible.

This was followed by C. J. Ball, The Bible Student’s Encyclopedia (1897) and A New and Concise Bible Dictionary (1897–1900), edited by G. Morrish, approximately 600,000 words, originally issued in thirty-seven monthly parts, 1897–1900.

J. D. Davis (1854–1926) offered a significant contribution with his Dictionary of the Bible (1898). The 4th edition of 1924 was reprinted in 1954. Revised and rewritten by H. S. Gehman, the work was republished as The Westminster Dictionary of the Bible (1944), with more than 658 pages. Davis’ work has proved one of the most helpful conservative Bible dictionaries in English. Gehman’s revision was less conservative concerning the Scriptures. A completely revised edition was issued in 1970 (see below).

In 1899 the famous Encyclopedia Biblica, edited by T. K. Cheyne and J. S. Black, was published, embracing 5444 columns of text. Despite a vast amount of scholarly work by some of the writers, the book was drastically marred by its radical views. The Expository Times called it “not a dictionary of the Bible” but “a dictionary of the historical criticism of the Bible.” B. B. Warfield, in a long review, said the entire work appears as “the determined and tireless opponent of the supernatural.” Also in 1899, W. Baches edited the Keswick Bible Dictionary.

Handy Bible Encyclopedia and Concordance (1944 年)。早期的版本是“圣经读者指南”中的一部分，出现在多个版本的《圣经》中。

随后，鲍尔 (C. J. Ball) 创作了一部作品 (The Bible Student’s Encyclopedia[1897 年])，莫里什 (G. Morrish) 编辑了一部近 600,000 字的作品 (A New and Concise Bible Dictionary[1897–1900 年])，这部作品最初每月发表一期，从 1890 年至 1900 年共发表了 37 期。

戴维斯 (J. D. Davis, 1854–1926) 创作了一部重要的著作 (Dictionary of the Bible[1898 年])。1924 年发行的第 4 版在 1954 年再版。格曼 (H. S. Gehman) 修订并重写了这部作品，再版时的书名为 The Westminster Dictionary of the Bible (1944 年)，这个新版本超过 658 页。戴维斯的这部作品是最有用且最保守的英语圣经辞典之一。格曼的修订版对《圣经》的描述不太保守。完整的修订版在 1970 年发行 (见下文)。

切恩 (T. K. Cheyne) 和布莱克 (J. S. Black) 在 1899 年发表了一部著名的作品 (Encyclopedia Biblica)，其中包含 5444 个文本栏。虽然一些作者创作了大量学术著作，但这部作品因其激进的观点遭到了严重的诋毁。The Expository Times 称它“不是一本圣经辞典”，而是“一本关于圣经历史批判的辞典”。沃菲尔德 (B. B. Warfield) 在他的长篇评论中说，整本书“始终在坚决反对超自然力量”。巴凯斯 (W. Baches) 也在 1899 年编纂了一部辞典 (Keswick Bible Dictionary)。

C. R. Barnes published his Bible Encyclopedia in 1900 as two volumes; in 1910 as three volumes; and in 1913 as a single volume with a short archeological supplement by M. G. Kyle, entitled People's Bible Encyclopedia. Reissued in 1928, it was one of the most comprehensive works of this kind in that decade. E. F. Cavalier's Preacher's Dictionary (1901; 2nd ed. 1904) was a unique volume. Cavalier, then Rector of Wrampingham, Norfolk, arranged his material under eighty major headings, which, with their subdivisions, embraced 558 subjects. After defining each subject, he summarizes the biblical teaching on that topic, quotes in full most of the verses, and offers the thoughts of ancient and modern writers. This work was followed by W. W. Davies (1848–1922), The Universal Bible Encyclopedia (1903), two volume.

S. Fallows (1835–1922) was editor of the Popular and Critical Encyclopedia and Scriptural Dictionary (1901, 1904), three volumes totalling more than 1900 pages, including six hundred maps and engravings. There were 126 contributors, with C. A. Zenos and H. L. Willett as coeditors. This work was the basis for the International Standard Bible Encyclopedia.

In 1905 began the publication of the most important dictionary since that of W. Smith in 1860, A Dictionary of the Bible, edited by J. Hastings (1852–1922). This came out in five volumes, containing approximately 5,400,000 words. The fifth volume featured a series of important special articles as well as two hundred pages of index. W. Ramsay wrote two of the special articles, one on the religions of 黑斯廷斯 (J. Hastings, 1852–1922) 编撰的辞典 (A Dictionary of the Bible) 从 1905 年开始出版, 这是自史密斯 (W. Smith) 的辞典 (1860 年) 发行之后出现的最重要的辞典。这本辞典问世时有 5 册, 约 5,400,000 字。第 5 册的特点是, 其中包含了一些重要的专文和一个 200 页的索引。其中的两篇专文是由拉姆塞 (W. Ramsay) 写的, 一篇是关于希腊和小亚细亚宗教的专文 (47 页), Greece and Asia Minor (forty-seven pages), the other on the numbers, hours, and years, and roads and travel in the NT (twenty-eight pages). These, along with a forty-five page article on the Sermon on the Mount by C. W. Votaw, were exceptional. A one-volume Dictionary of the Bible, also edited by Hastings, appeared in 1909. Not a condensation of the earlier work, it contained new articles. Hastings added in 1908 his Dictionary of Christ and the Gospels; the two-volume Dictionary of the Apostolic Church in 1916–1918; and the twelve-volume Encyclopedia of Religion and Ethics from 1908 to 1926.

F. Vigouroux's five-volume Roman Catholic Dictionnaire de la Bible was issued from 1905–1912, with supplements beginning in 1928.

The volume that had extensive circulation was The Handy Bible Encyclopedia, edited by J. L. Hurlbut (1834–1930), published in 1908. Also issued in 1908, Murray's Bible Dictionary, edited in 1957 by M. F. Unger (3rd rev. ed.) was a thousand-page work with ninety-four contributors. In 1909 Funk & Wagnalls published their Standard Bible Dictionary, edited by E. E. Nourse and A. C. Zenos. This was followed by a 2nd edition in 1925. A further revision was published in 1936, entitled A New Standard Bible Dictionary. The Temple Dictionary of the Bible, published in 1910, was edited by W. Ewing and J. E. H. Thomson, long-time missionaries in Palestine. The Universal Bible Dictionary, edited in 1957 by M. F. Unger (3rd rev. ed. 1960), was based upon C. R. Barnes' Bible Encyclopedia, assistance of Canon L. Williams.

另一篇是关于《新约》中的数字、时刻、年代、道路和旅行的专文（28页）。这些专文和沃陶（C. W. Votaw）撰写的一篇关于“登山宝训”的45页文章都是非常杰出的作品。黑斯廷斯编纂的一本单册辞典（Dictionary of the Bible）于1909年问世。它不是早期作品的简化版，而是收录了一些新词条。黑斯廷斯在1908年又编纂了一本辞典（Dictionary of Christ and the Gospels），从1916年至1918年编纂了一本两册的辞典（Dictionary of the Apostolic Church），从1908年至1926年编纂了一本12册的百科全书（Encyclopedia of Religion and Ethics）。

The Handy Bible Encyclopedia 是一部发行量很大的作品，它是由赫尔巴特（J. L. Hurlbut, 1834–1930）编辑的，于1908年出版。还有一本辞典（Murray's Bible Dictionary）也在1908年出版，昂格尔（M. F. Unger）在1957年把这本辞典编辑成了一部1000页的作品（第3修订版），有94人参与了这部作品的编著。芬克（Funk）和瓦格纳尔（Wagnalls）在1909年出版了他们的作品（Standard Bible Dictionary），这本书是由诺斯（E. E. Nourse）和芝诺（A. C. Zenos）合编的。在1925年出版了这本辞典的第2版。再修订本在1936年出版，名为 A New Standard Bible Dictionary。巴勒斯坦的长期传教士尤因（W. Ewing）和汤姆森（J. E. H. Thomson）编纂的辞典（The Temple Dictionary of the Bible）在1910年出版。昂格尔在威廉姆斯（Canon L. Williams）帮助下在1957年编辑了一本辞典（The Universal Bible Dictionary, 1960年第3

修订版),这本辞典是根据巴尔内斯(C. R. Barnes)的作品(Bible Encyclopedia)编辑而成的。

The indispensable and consistently conservative International Standard Bible Encyclopedia, edited by J. Orr, first appeared in 1915. The five volumes, with hundreds of illustrations and exhaustive indexes, feature the efforts of more than two hundred contributors representing the best biblical scholarship of the English-speaking world. Many articles in this work, which totals more than four million words, and of which the present work is an extensive revision, remain the most comprehensive on many subjects. The most significant dictionary during the next thirty years was the revision of the 1909 Standard Bible Dictionary. Republished as A New Standard Bible Dictionary (1936), the work was edited by W. M. Jacobus, who was assisted by fifty-five contributors, and included nearly one million words. The Theological Word Book of the Bible, edited by A. Richardson (1950), is worthy of mention. The work includes articles on selective topics, with extensive bibliographies.

Harper's Bible Dictionary was published in 1952, edited by M. S. and J. L. Miller, who had published in 1944 their Encyclopedia of Bible Life. Heavy emphasis was placed here on sociology and natural history, and the sections on archeology included up-to-date work on pottery. The dictionary featured five hundred illustrations and the Westminster maps. The British edition bears the title Black's Bible Dictionary.

Stressing current evangelical scholarship, Unger's Bible Dictionary, edited in 1957

奥尔(J. Orr)编辑的一部不可或缺却又一贯保守的作品(International Standard Bible Encyclopedia)从1915年开始发行。这部5册的作品拥有几百张插图和详尽的索引,有200多位编著者为之付出了努力,他们是英语国家最谙熟圣经学识的代表。这部作品总计超过四百万字,现在的版本经过了大量的修改,该作品中的许多词条对一些主题的阐述仍然是最为详尽的。接下来30年中最重要的辞典就是*Standard Bible Dictionary*的1909年修订本。这部近100万字的辞典是由詹姆士(W. M. Jacobus)编辑的,有55位编著者向他提供了帮助,这部作品再版时更名为*A New Standard Bible Dictionary*(1936年)。值得一提的是理查森(A. Richardson)在1950年编辑的作品(The Theological Word Book of the Bible)。这部作品收录了关于选择性主题的词条,并参考了大量的文献。

by M. F. Unger (3rd rev. ed. 1960), was based upon C. R. Barnes' Bible Encyclopedia, which first appeared in 1900. As Unger's preface says, it was "revised and rewritten in the light of the latest historical, archaeological, and linguistic discoveries in Bible lands." Although most of the five hundred photographs and drawings are new, as much as three-fourths of the material in this volume is taken directly from Barnes' earlier work without accounting for a half century of scholarship. However, Unger's articles on archeology, including the Dead Sea Scrolls, Abraham, etc., are excellent.

A very interesting work, which originally appeared in French in 1954, was published in 1958 as A Companion to the Bible, edited by J. J. Von Allmen, with the assistance of several French and Swiss Protestant scholars. H. H. Rowley has called it "a dictionary of the major theological terms and ideas found in the Bible."

Seventh Day Adventist's Bible Commentary, a large volume published in 1960, was edited by S. H. Horn, biblical archeologist.

Of two notable Bible dictionaries published in 1962, New Bible Dictionary, edited by J. D. Douglas (1390 pages), is probably the most important one-volume Bible dictionary yet published in the 20th century. Consulting editors included F. F. Bruce and D. J. Wiseman, and the 135 contributors are from many lands. Especially valuable are Wiseman's articles entitled "Writing," "Assyria and Babylonia," and, most of all, "Archeology," which features "A List of the Principal Excavated Sites in

奥尔曼(J. J. Von Allmen)在1958年编辑出版了一部非常有趣的作品(A Companion to the Bible),他在编辑这部作品时得到了几位法国和瑞士的新教学者的帮助,这部作品最初于1954年在法国发表。罗利(H. H. Rowley)称它是“一本关于《圣经》中的主要神学术语和神学思想的辞典”。

圣经考古学家霍恩(S. H. Horn)编辑的一本大作品(Seventh Day Adventist's Bible Commentary)在1960出版。

1962年出版了两本著名的圣经辞典,其中一本1390页的辞典(New Bible Dictionary)是由道格拉斯(J. D. Douglas)编纂的,这本辞典可能是20世纪出版的最重要的单册圣经辞典。该辞典的顾问编辑有布鲁斯(F. F. Bruce)和怀斯曼(D. J. Wiseman),以及135位来自世界各地的编著者。怀斯曼编写的关于“著作”、“亚述和巴比伦”等(尤其是关于“考古学”的)词条具有特殊的价值,“已被发掘的巴勒斯坦地区主要遗址的名单”是“考古学”这个词条的一大特色。

Palestine.”

The four-volume Interpreter's Dictionary of the Bible also appeared in 1962, a typographically beautiful work with an extensively illustrated text exceeding four million words. Edited by G. A. Buttrick, the work includes the contributions of 253 Christian and Jewish scholars. On such topics as inspiration, predictive prophecy, historicity, and authenticity, the book is theologically inclined to a moderately liberal view. But conservative interpretations also occur, e.g., Bishop J. A. T. Robinson's long article on the Resurrection, which devotes three columns to the defense of the view that the tomb of Joseph of Arimathea was empty on Easter morning. The articles are often extensive, and many include practical bibliographies. A Supplementary Volume, published in 1976, contains many new articles as well as additions to the original articles.

In 1963 four quite dissimilar volumes of an encyclopedic nature were published. L. F. Hartman edited the large Encyclopedic Dictionary of the Bible, a translation of A. van den Born's Bijbels Woordenboek, a Roman Catholic work exceeding 2600 pages. The Zondervan Pictorial Bible Dictionary also appeared that year, edited by American NT scholar M. C. Tenney, a volume intended for those not interested in more exhaustive articles of the New Bible Dictionary. Of similar purpose is MacMillan's 1965 Pictorial Biblical Encyclopedia, A Visual Guide to the Old and New Testaments, edited by G. Cornfield. J. L. McKenzie's Dictionary of the Bible was also published in 1963.

四册迥然不同的百科全书性质的书籍在 1963 年出版。哈特曼 (L. F. Hartman) 编纂了一本大圣经辞典 (Encyclopedic Dictionary of the Bible), 这本辞典是博恩 (A. van den Born) 作品 (Bijbels Woordenboek) 的译本, 原作是一本超过 2600 页的罗马天主教作品。另一部作品 (The Zondervan Pictorial Bible Dictionary) 也在同年发表, 这部作品是由美国新约学者坦尼 (M. C. Tenney) 编辑的, 这部作品是专为那些对 New Bible Dictionary 中详尽解释的词条不感兴趣的读者设计的。麦克米伦在 1965 年发表的作品 (Pictorial Biblical Encyclopedia, A Visual Guide to the Old and New Testaments) 时, 也怀着相似的创作初衷。麦肯齐 (G. Cornfield. J. L. McKenzie) 的辞典也在 1963 年出版。

More than half a century after its original publications, a thoroughly revised edition of the one-volume Hastings Dictionary of the Bible was issued, edited by F. C. Grant and H. H. Rowley. This edition is based on the RSV and contains many new entries. In 1968 Rowley contributed two specialized works, his Dictionary of Bible Themes and Dictionary of Bible Personal Names, concise tools that make biblical texts easily accessible.

In 1970, more than seventy years after its first edition (1898), a New Westminster Dictionary of the Bible appeared, edited by H. S. Gehman, who had prepared the 1944 edition. Improved and increased by three hundred pages over earlier editions, this edition has approximately three hundred new entries and 450 illustrations and reflects the influence of recent archeological discoveries.

A lavishly illustrated non-technical work is Eerdmans' Handbook to the Bible, edited by A. and P. Alexander and released in 1973. This popularly oriented reference volume is arranged in four sections, encompassing general biblical information, OT and NT topics including articles on "Critical Methods and Findings," and key scriptural themes and doctrines. Also in 1973, a revised edition of X. Leon-Dufour's Dictionary of Biblical Theology appeared, a translation by E. M. Stewart of the French work first published in 1962.

The five-volume Zondervan Pictorial Encyclopedia of the Bible, edited by M. C. Tenney, was published in 1975, the first completely new evangelical biblical encyclopedia in nearly forty years. Also published in 1975, the two-volume

黑斯廷斯的原版辞典 (Dictionary of the Bible) 出版半个多世纪后, 格朗 (F. C. Grant) 和罗利 (H. H. Rowley) 编纂的单册完全修订版才开始发行。这个修订版以《修订标准译本》为依据, 收录了很多新的词目。罗利在 1968 年又出版了两部专著 (Dictionary of Bible Themes 和 Dictionary of Bible Personal Names), 这两本简洁的工具书使人们更容易理解圣经内容。

坦尼 (M. C. Tenney) 编辑的 5 册作品 (Zondervan Pictorial Encyclopedia of the Bible) 于 1975 年出版, 这是近四十年间第一部全新的福音派圣经百科全书。一部两册的作品 (Wycliffe Bible Encyclopedia) 也在 1975 年出版, 它是

Wycliffe Bible Encyclopedia is a companion project to the Wycliffe Bible Commentary and the Wycliffe Geography of Bible Lands and includes articles on the proper names and places mentioned in the Bible. More than two hundred scholars, primarily Americans, have contributed to the work, edited by C. F. Pfeiffer, H. F. Vos, and J. Rea.

One of the most significant theological projects of the century, the Theological Dictionary of the New Testament (1964–1976) is G. W. Bromiley's English translation of the monumental Theologisches Wörterbuch zum Neuen Testament initiated in 1928 by G. Kittel (1888–1948) and completed by G. Friedrich. The ten-volume series, which includes an index volume, examines the detailed linguistic character as well as the related theological meanings of significant terms, with extensive articles on the most important terms. Its counterpart is the Theological Dictionary of the Old Testament, English translation of the Theologisches Wörterbuch zum Alten Testament, edited by G. J. Botterweck and H. Ringgren. Volume one of the projected twelve-volume series appeared in 1974.

Smith, Fuller Library Bulletin (Sept. 1954) (includes theological and ecclesiastical dictionaries not discussed in this article).

另外两部作品（Wycliffe Bible Commentary 和 the Wycliffe Geography of Bible Lands）的同类之作，其中收录了关于《圣经》中提到的专有名词和地名的词条。超过 200 位学者，主要是美国学者为这部作品做出了贡献，法伊弗（C. F. Pfeiffer）、魏司道（H. F. Vos）和雷亚（J. Rea）是这部作品的编辑者。

布罗米利（G. W. Bromiley）的英语译作（the Theological Dictionary of the New Testament[1964–1976]）是 20 世纪最重要的神学作品之一，这部不朽之作（Theologisches Wörterbuch zum Neuen Testament）由基特尔（G. Kittel[1888 – 1948]）自 1928 年开始创作，并由弗里德里希（G. Friedrich）最终完成。这本 10 册的丛书有一个索引目录，仔细核对了重要词语的具体语言学特征和相关的神学含义，书中大量的词条对最重要的词语进行了解释。该书的对应之作是 the Theological Dictionary of the Old Testament，这个英语译作的原著是一部由伯特威（G. J. Botterweck）和凌格仁（H. Ringgren）编写的作品（Theologisches Wörterbuch zum Alten Testament）。筹划的 12 册丛书中的首卷于 1974 年问世。

书目——关于更多的讨论，见 T. H. Horne, Manual of Biblical Bibliography (1839), 369–372 页; MSt, II, 787–89; Jew.Enc., IV, 577–79; E. C. Richardson, 在 ISBE (1939)中, II, 843 起 (除了圣经作品, 该书还为大量百科全书做了注释); C. T. Fritsch, Interp., 1 (1947), 363–371; W. M. Smith, Fuller Library Bulletin (1954 年 9 月) (包括本词条中未讨论的神学和教会辞典)。

I. Middle Ages.-Biblical theology as such is a modern discipline. During the Middle Ages biblical study was almost completely subordinated to ecclesiastical dogma. The theology of the Bible was used to reinforce the dogmatic teachings of the Church, which were founded upon both the Bible and church tradition. Not the Bible alone, historically understood, but the Bible as interpreted by tradition was the source of dogmatic theology.

II. Reformation.-The Reformers reacted against the unbiblical character of dogmatic theology and insisted that theology must be founded upon the Bible alone. Dogmatics should be the systematic formulation of the teachings of the Bible. This new emphasis led to a study of the original languages of Scripture and to a recognition of the role of history in biblical theology. The Reformers also insisted that the Bible should be interpreted historically and not allegorically; and this led to the beginnings of a truly biblical theology. However, the Reformers' sense of history was undeveloped, and they did not pursue biblical theology as a distinctive discipline.

- IX. 圣经神学在当代的回归

I. 中世纪时期的圣经神学。圣经神学本身是一门现代学科。在中世纪,圣经研究几乎完全从属于教会的信条。圣经神学是用来强化教会信守的教义,建立在《圣经》和教会的传统之上。从历史学的角度讲,《圣经》和传统解读中的《圣经》都是教义神学的源泉。

II. 宗教改革中的圣经神学。改革派反对教义神学中偏离圣经的特征,并坚持认为,神学只能以《圣经》为依据。教义学应该是《圣经》教义的系统阐述。这个新的侧重点促使人们研究《圣经》的原始语言,并使人们承认圣经神学的历史地位。改革派也坚持认为,应该将《圣经》视为一部历史,而不是一则寓言。真正的圣经神学由此开始。但是改革派的历史感是不完善的,他们并没有将圣经神学当作一个与众不同的学科

III. Orthodox Scholasticism.-The gain in the historical study of the Bible made by the Reformers was partly lost in the post-Reformation period, and the Bible was once again used uncritically and unhistorically to support orthodox doctrine. The Bible was viewed not only as a book free from error and contradiction but also without development or progress. The entire Bible was looked upon as possessing one level of theological value. History was completely lost in dogma, and philology became a branch of dogmatics.

IV. Rationalist Reaction.-Biblical theology as a distinct discipline is a product of the impact of the Enlightenment (Aufklärung) upon biblical studies. A new approach to the study of the Bible emerged in the 18th cent. which gradually freed itself altogether from ecclesiastical and theological control and interpreted the Bible with what it claimed to be "complete objectivity," regarding it solely as a product of history. From this perspective, the Bible was viewed as a compilation of ancient religious writings preserving the history of an ancient Semitic people, and was studied with the same presuppositions with which one studies other Semitic religions. This conclusion was clearly articulated by J. P. Gabler, who in an inaugural address in 1787 distinguished sharply between biblical theology and dogmatic theology.

III. 正统的经院哲学。改革派在圣经的历史研究中所取得的成就在改教之后部分丧失，人们再次不加鉴别地、不依照史实地使用《圣经》来支持正统的信条。不仅认为《圣经》是完全无误、不容置疑的书籍，还认为《圣经》无需发展或改进。整部《圣经》被视为拥有同一层次的神学价值。历史完全迷失在教义中，哲学则变成了教义学的分支。

IV. 理性主义者的圣经神学的态度。作为一门独特的学科，圣经神学受圣经研究启蒙运动（德语：Aufklärung）的影响而产生。一种研究《圣经》的新方法在 18 世纪出现，并渐渐摆脱了教会和神学的束缚，这是一种所谓“完全客观地”研究《圣经》的方法，并被认为是历史的唯一产物。从这个角度上讲，《圣经》由记录了古闪族人历史的古代宗教作品编辑而成，因此人们应该以研究其他闪族宗教时所预设的相同前提来研究《圣经》。加布勒（J. P. Gabler）在 1787 年的就职演说中进行了清晰的总结，他严格区分了圣经神学和教义神学。圣经神学是完全符合史实的，可以独立于教义神学而存在，致力于探索以色列各种宗教思想兴起的痕迹，并陈述了圣经作者对宗教问题的看法。而教义神学要用到圣经神学，从圣经神学中借鉴具有普遍意义的理论，并借用哲学概念。教义神学就是某个神学家对神圣问

Biblical theology must be strictly historical and independent of dogmatic theology, tracing the rise of religious ideas in Israel and setting forth what the biblical writers thought about religious matters. Dogmatic theology, on the other hand, makes use of biblical theology, extracting from it what has universal relevance and making use of philosophical concepts. Dogmatic theology is that which a particular theologian decides about divine matters, considered philosophically and rationally in accordance with the outlook and demands of his own age; but biblical theology is concerned solely with what men believed long ago.

Gabler was essentially a rationalist, and his approach to biblical theology prevailed for some fifty years. Works on the theology of the Bible were written by Kaiser (1813), De Wette (1813), Baumgarten-Crusius (1828), and von Cölln (1836). Some scholars of this period were extremely rationalistic, finding in the Bible religious ideas that were in accord with the universal laws of reason. Others tried to reconcile Christian theology with the thought forms of the modern period. While this rationalistic perspective as such is long since passé, it is obvious that this historical approach to the study of the Bible is still the fundamental assumption of modern scholarship; and even Evangelical scholars employ the historical method, although with limitations.

V. Rise of the Philosophy of Religion.-Rationalism was superseded under the influence of the idealist philosophy of Hegel (d. 1813), who saw the Absolute Idea or Absolute Spirit eternally manifesting itself in the universe and in human affairs. Hegel taught that the movement of human thought followed the dialectic pattern from a position (thesis) to an opposite position (antithesis), from which interaction emerged a new insight or aspect of reality (synthesis). Hegel saw in the history of religion the evolution of spirit in its dialectical apprehension of the divine, from nature religions, through religions of spiritual individuality, to the Absolute Religion, which is Christianity.

题的观点, 无论从哲学上讲还是从理性上讲, 都必须与同时代人的观点和要求相一致。但圣经神学只关注很久以前人们所相信的事。

加布勒实际上是一个理性主义者, 他提出的圣经神学的研究方法流行了约 50 年。凯撒 (Kaiser, 1813 年)、戴维特 (De Wette, 1813)、克卢修斯 (Baumgarten-Crusius, 1828 年) 和科林 (von Cölln, 1836 年) 都创作了关于圣经神学的作品。这一时期的一些学者是极端的理性主义者, 他们认为《圣经》中的宗教思想都符合普遍的理性法则。其他人则极力调和基督教神学与现代思想形式之间的矛盾。虽然这种理性主义的观点早已过时, 但这种研究《圣经》的历史方法显然仍是现代学问的基本假设。甚至连福音学者都采用历史方法, 但是他们在使用时会加以限制。

V. 宗教哲学的兴起。受黑格尔 (1813 年) 唯心主义哲学的影响, 理性主义被取而代之, 黑格尔认为绝对观念或绝对精神永远显现在宇宙和人类事物中。他教导说, 人类的思想运动遵循从一面 (正题) 到对立面 (反题) 的辩证模式, 两者的相互作用产生了一个新思想或

Under the influence of Hegel, Vatke wrote a biblical theology in 1835 in which the emerging critical views about the OT were combined with Hegel's evolutionary philosophy. His interpretation of the history of Israel's religion was much in advance of his day and was passed over for some thirty years until it was taken up and popularized by Wellhausen.

Under the influence of Hegel, F. C. Baur abandoned the rationalistic effort to find timeless truth in the NT, and instead found in the historical movements in the early Church the unfolding of wisdom and spirit. The teachings of Jesus formed the point of departure. Jesus' teachings were not yet theology but the expression of his religious consciousness. Theological reflection began over the question of the law. Paul, the first theologian, took the position that the Christian was freed from the law (thesis). Jewish Christianity, represented particularly by James and Peter, took the opposite position, that the law was permanently valid and must remain an essential element in the Christian Church (antithesis). Baur interpreted the history of apostolic Christianity in terms of this conflict between Pauline and Judaistic Christianity. Out of the conflict emerged in the 2nd cent. the Old Catholic Church, which effected a successful harmonization between these two positions (synthesis).

受黑格尔的影响，鲍尔（F. C. Baur）放弃了以理性主义寻找《新约》中永恒的真理，而是在早期教会的历史运动中发现了智慧和思想的演变过程。这种演变从耶稣的教导开始。耶稣的教导还不能算神学，只是祂宗教意识的表达。神学反思开始于对律法问题的思考。第一位神学家保罗主张基督徒免受律法的束缚（正题）。以雅各和彼得为代表的犹太基督教则坚持相反的立场，他们认为律法是永久有效的，而且必须作为基督教的一个必不可少的要素（反题）。鲍尔根据保罗基督教义和犹太基督教义之间的这种冲突解释使徒时代基督教义的历史。公元 2 世纪，旧天主教会在这种冲突中诞生，在两种立场下成功实现了共融（合题）。

Baur was less concerned with the truth of the Scriptures than with the effort to trace historical development. He has made a lasting contribution, for the principle that biblical theology is rooted in history is sound, even though Baur's application of this principle is not. Baur's interpretation gave rise to the so-called Tübingen school, which had great influence in German NT studies.

VI. Conservative Reaction.-These new approaches to the study of the Bible naturally met with a strong resistance in orthodox circles, not only from those who denied the validity of a historical approach but also from those who tried to combine the historical approach with a belief in revelation. Influential was E. W. Hengstenberg's Christology of the OT (Eng. tr. 1829-1835) and History of the Kingdom of God under the OT (Eng. tr. 1869-1871). Hengstenberg saw little progress in revelation, made little distinction between the two Testaments, and interpreted the prophets spiritually with little reference to history. A more historical approach was structured by J. C. K. Hofmann in a series of writings beginning in 1841 (Verheissung und Erfüllung), in which he attempted to vindicate the authority and inspiration of the Bible by historical means, developing his Heilsgeschichte theology. Hofmann found in the Bible record of the process of holy or saving-history, which aims at the redemption of all mankind. This process will not be completed until the eschatological consummation. He tried to assign every book of the Bible to its place in this scheme of the history of redemption. This so-called Erlangen school (including also J. A. Bengel, J. T. Beck), did not regard the Bible primarily as a collection of proof texts or a repository of doctrine but as the witness to what God had done in saving-history. They held that the propositional statements in Scripture were not meant to be an end in themselves nor an object of faith, but were designed to bear witness to the redemptive acts of God.

VI. 保守态度。这些研究《圣经》的新方法自然遭到了正统学派的强烈抵制，不仅否定历史研究法的有效性的人抵制这些新方法，试图将历史方法与信仰结合在启示中也同样抵制它们。亨斯登伯(E. W. Hengstenberg)的 Christology of the OT (英译本, 1829-1835年)和 History of the Kingdom of God under the OT (1869-1871年英译本)是很有影响力的作品。亨斯登伯很少看到启示中的进程，也几乎没有区分两约之间的差异，他从属灵角度解读先知的预言，很少参考历史。霍夫曼(J. C. K. Hofmann)在他1841年开始创作的一系列作品中(Verheissung und Erfüllung)提出了一个更为基于历史的研究方法，在这些作品中，他试图采用历史的方法证明《圣经》的权威和启示，并发展了他的“救恩史”(Heilsgeschichte)神学。霍夫曼看到了《圣经》中有关神圣或救恩史过程的记载，救恩是为了拯救全人类。直至末世成全，这一历史过程才最终结束。他试图将《圣经》各书安排在救赎历史计划中的相应位置。这种所谓的埃尔朗根学派(还包括J. A. Bengel和J. T. Beck)并不认为《圣经》是证据经文的合集或教义的汇总，而是认为它见证了上帝在救恩史中的作为。他们认为《圣经》中的命题陈述本身不是一种结束，也不是信仰的对象，而是旨在见证上帝

The most important product of the conservative reaction for this discipline was G. F. Oehler's Theologie des AT (Prolegomena 1845, Theologie 1873; Eng. tr. 1883). Conservative in his critical views and holding to the revealed character of OT religion, Oehler also recognized that OT theology is a historical discipline which must describe the OT faith as a phenomenon in history. He criticized the older view, which limited theological exposition to the didactic contents of the Bible, insisting that the discipline must "exhibit properly the internal connection of the doctrine of Revelation with the revealing history" (p. 6). Thus he found the OT to be mediated through a series of divine acts and commands, and also through the institutions of a divine state. A condensation of Oehler's large work was made by R. F. Weidner (1896). Other conservative OT scholars were Baumgarten, C. A. Auberlen, and the commentator Franz Delitzsch.

The Erlangen school had great influence in conservative circles upon such scholars as Tholuck, T. Zahn, P. Feine, and is represented in the theologies of F. Büchsel (1937), A. Schlatter (1909), and Ethelbert Stauffer (1941; Eng. tr. 1955). Stauffer rejects the “systems of doctrine” approach and does not try to trace the development of the Christian understanding of the person and work of Jesus. Rather, he presents a “Christocentric theology of History in the NT,” i.e., the theology of the plan of salvation enacted in NT history. The book does not distinguish between canonical and noncanonical writings and ignores the variety of the several interpretations of the meaning of Christ in the NT.

的救赎行为。

对于这一学科持保守态度的人所创作的最重要作品就是厄勒 (G. F. Oehler) 的 Theologie des AT (Prolegomena 1845, Theologie 1873; 1883 年英译本)。厄勒持有保守的批评观点, 坚持旧约宗教的启示性特点, 他还认为旧约神学是一门历史学科, 必须将旧约信仰描述成一种历史现象。他批判旧有观点, 因为它将神学阐述局限在《圣经》的教诲中, 并坚持认为, 这一学科必须“恰当地展示启示教义与启示历史之间的内部联系”(6 页)。因此, 他发现《旧约》通过上帝的许多行为和命令, 以及神圣国家的制度被揭示出来。韦德纳 (R. F. Weidner) 于 1896 年发表了厄勒这部大作的简缩版。其他持有保守态度的旧约学者包括鲍姆加腾 (Baumgarten)、奥伯伦 (C. A. Auberlen) 和注释者德里慈 (Franz Delitzsch)。

A new form of the Heilsgeschichte theology has emerged in recent years, for there is a widespread recognition that revelation has occurred in redemptive history and that Heilsgeschichte is the best key to understand the unity of the Bible. This will be developed later.

VII. Liberal Historicism in NT Theology.-Bultmann has pointed out that the logical consequence of Baur’s method would have been a complete relativism (NT Theology, II [1955], 245), for the liberal mind could not conceive of absolute truth in the relativities of history. Under the influence of Ritschlian theology, the essence of Christianity was interpreted as a pure spiritual-ethical religion which was proclaimed by and embodied in the life and mission of Jesus. The kingdom of God is the highest good, the ethical ideal. The heart of religion is personal fellowship with God as Father.

This theological interpretation was reinforced by the solution of the Synoptic problem, with its discovery of the priority of Mark and the hypothetical document Q. Scholars of this “old liberalism” believed that in these most primitive documents historical science had at last discovered

学思想为代表。施陶费尔拒绝“信条体系”的研究方法，不去探究基督徒对耶稣其人和耶稣工作的理解的发展过程。相反，他提出了“新约历史中的基督中心论神学”，即新约历史中展示出的有关救赎计划的神学。该书中不再区分正典和非正典，并忽略了《新约》中对基督意义的各种解释。

近些年出现了一种新型的救恩史神学，因为学者们普遍认可，启示出现在救赎历史中，救恩史是理解《圣经》统一性的关键。后面还会继续探讨这一问题。

VII. 新约神学中的自由历史主义。布尔特曼指出，鲍尔方法的逻辑结论原本是一种彻底的相对注意 (NT Theology, II [1955], 245)，因为自由的思想者不可能认为在历史相对论中存在决定的真理。受立敕尔神学的影响，基督教的精髓被理解为一种纯粹属灵的和道德的宗教，这种宗教藉着基督的生命和使命得以彰显。神的王国是至善和道德理想。宗教的核心在于每个个体追随上帝，并认祂为父。

the true Jesus, freed from all theological interpretation. Biblical theologians of this school began with this “historical” picture of the ethical religion of Jesus and then traced the diverse systems of doctrine (Lehrbegriffe) that emerged as the result of later reflection and speculation. The great classic of this school is H. J. Holtzmann’s Lehrbuch der NT Theologie (1896/97). Paul Wernle’s The Beginnings of Our Religion (Eng. tr. 1903/04) is another example. Adolf von Harnack’s What Is Christianity? (Eng. tr. 1901) is a classic statement of this liberal view.

This “old liberal” approach influenced even conservative writers. Both B. Weiss (Theology of the NT [1868; Eng. tr. 1903]) and W. Beyschlag (1891; Eng. tr. 1895) interpreted Jesus primarily in spiritual terms, placing great emphasis upon the centrality of the Fatherhood of God. These men were conservative in that they recognized the reality of revelation and the validity of the canon; but their picture of Jesus shared the features of liberalism. They also employed the “systems of doctrine” method, Weiss going so far as to discover four different periods of theological development in Paul, which he treated separately. This approach is found in English in the writings of Orello Cone, The Gospel and Its Earliest Interpreters (1893), G. B. Stevens, Theology of the NT (1899), E. P. Gould, Biblical Theology of the NT (1900), and A. C. Zenos, Plastic Age of the Gospel (1927). The same method is used by even more conservative writers in Germany, such as T. Zahn, Grundriss der NT Theologie (1932), and P. Feine, Theologie des NT (1910).

VIII. Victory of Religion over Theology.-Along with liberalism

派的圣经神学家们首先展现了耶稣道德宗教的“历史”画面，然后描绘了各种信条体系 (Lehrbegriffe)，这些信条体系伴随着后期的沉思和猜想而产生。这一学派的经典之作是贺兹曼 (H. J. Holtzmann) 的 Lehrbuch der NT Theologi (1896 或 1897 年)。威仁勒 (Paul Wernle) 的 The Beginnings of Our Religion (1903 或 1904 年英译本) 也是一部经典作品。哈纳克 (Adolf von Harnack) 的 What Is Christianity? (1901 年英译本) 是这种自由主义观点的经典之作。

这种“旧自由主义”方法甚至影响到保守派作家。韦斯 (B. Weiss, Theology of the NT [1868 年; 1903 年英译本]) 和贝士拉革 (W. Beyschlag, 1891 年; 1895 年英译本) 都主要从属灵的角度解读耶稣，更为强调天父的中心地位。这些人是保守派，因为他们承认启示的真实性和正典的有效性。但是他们对耶稣的描述也具有自由主义的特点。他们也采用“信条体系”的方法，韦斯甚至发现了保罗作品中神学发展的四个不同阶段，并对这四个阶段分别进行研究。在以下英语作品采用了这种研究方法，科恩 (Orello Cone) 的 The Gospel and Its Earliest Interpreters (1893 年)，史蒂文斯 (G. B. Stevens) 的 Theology of the NT (1899 年)，古尔德 (E. P. Gould) 的 Biblical Theology of the NT (1900 年) 和芝诺的 Plastic Age of the Gospel (1927 年)。萨恩 (Grundriss der NT Theologie[1932 年]) 和法伊内 (Theologie des NT [1910]) 等更为保守的德国作家也采用了同一种方法。 developed the religionsgeschichtliche Schule. In 1883 appeared Julius Wellhausen's Prolegomena zur Geschichte Israels, which has been often called the most important work in OT criticism in the 19th century. Taking over Vatke's historico-philosophical interpretation, Wellhausen gave classic expression to the view that the story of Israel's religion was not to be interpreted in terms of divine revelation but in terms of evolutionary principles; the religious development of the OT period embodies particular examples of general religious laws manifesting themselves in history. Wellhausen popularized both the idea of evolutionary development of OT religion and the documentary hypothesis, illustrating how criticism and theology interact upon each other. In Wellhausen's reconstruction the religion of Israel began with Moses, not the patriarchs; the fundamental law of the Jewish community belongs to the postexilic community, not to Mosaic times; eschatology is a late postexilic development in the evolution of Hebrew religion; and the ethical monotheism of the prophets was the basic force that molded Israel's religion into a significant faith.

Wellhausen's work marks the beginning of the period that saw the apparent death of OT theology and the victory of the discipline called the "history of the religion of Israel." Even the name "theology of the OT" was seldom used; and when books were written with this title, as for instance by B. Stade (1905) and Kayser (1886), the contents were not theology but a history of Hebrew religion. Treatises on Hebrew religion were written by Smend (1893), K. Marti (Eng. tr. 1907), E. Kautzsch (HDB, V. 612-734),

威尔豪森的作品标志着一个时期的开始, 这一时期显然见证了旧约神学的终结和所谓“以色列宗教历史”学科的胜利。甚至连“旧约神学”这个名字都很少被使用。当有些书籍采用这个名字时, 如施塔德 (1905 年) 和凯塞 (1886 年) 的作品名, 书中的内容不是神学, 而是对希伯来宗教历史的描述。西蒙德 (Smend, 1893 年)、马蒂 (K. Marti, 1907 年英译本)、考西 (E. Kautzsch, HDB, 612-734 章)、卢瓦西 (A. Loisy, 1910 年英译本)、布德 (K. Budde, 1910 年)、凯尼格 (E. Koenig, 1915 年)、

A. Loisy (Eng. tr. 1910), K. Budde (1910), E. Koenig (1915), R. Kittel (Eng. tr. 1921), G. Hoelscher (1922), and M. Loehr (Eng. tr. 1936). In English the approach is found in the misnamed work of A. Duff, OT Theology (1891), and it appears clearly in W. O. E. Oesterley and T. H. Robinson, Hebrew Religion: Its Origin and Development (1930), A. C. Knudson, Religious Teaching of the OT (1918), G. A. Barton, Religion of Israel (1919), and in the widely used book of H. E. Fosdick, Guide to the Understanding of the Bible (1938; see Eichrodt's criticism in JBL, 65 [1946], 205–217). Although this approach has now given way before the revival in interest in the theology of the Bible, it persists in such works as I. G. Matthews, Religious Pilgrimage of Israel (1947), S. V. McCasland, Religion of the Bible (1960), and R. H. Pfeiffer, Religion in the OT (1961).

The interpretation of the OT as the story of the evolution of one Semitic religion naturally led to a comparison between Hebrew religion and other Semitic religions, and to the search for common patterns, particularly of ritual practice. W. R. Smith in Religion of the Semites (1889) emphasized the common elements shared by the Hebrews with the neighboring religions. The interpretation of biblical religion in terms of its religious environment is called the religionsgeschichtliche Methode.

This approach still persists in contemporary scholarship, particularly in what is called the “myth and ritual school,” which believes that a common culture pattern, at least in the sphere of religious belief and practice, had been diffused throughout the ancient Orient and is reflected in the OT. See S. H. Hooke, Myth and Ritual (1933); The Labyrinth (1935); E. O. James, Myth and Ritual in the Ancient Near East (1958). S. Mowinckel (Psalmstudien [1922–24]; He That Cometh [Eng. tr. 1956]) traced the origin of eschatology to a New Year Festival in which the return of the rainy season with its resultant renewal of fertility was celebrated as an annual accession of the divine King to His throne when He resumed His divine reign. The existence of such an enthronement festival is not explicit in the OT but is assumed from the analogy of the Babylonian New Year ritual and from alleged traces of a supposed cult-myth in the Psalms. See also A. R. Johnson, Sacral Kingship in Ancient Israel (1955).

基特尔 (R. Kittel, 1921 年英译本)、霍尔舍 (G. Hoelscher, 1922 年) 和勒尔 (M. Loehr, 1936 年英译本) 都写过关于希伯来宗教的论文。达夫 (A. Duff) 取名不当的英语作品 (OT Theology[1891]) 也采用了这种方法, 欧特里 (W. O. E. Oesterley) 和罗宾逊 (T. H. Robinson) 合著的 Hebrew Religion: Its Origin and Development (1930)、克努森 (A. C. Knudson) 的 Religious Teaching of the OT(1918)、巴顿 (G. A. Barton) 的 Religion of Israel(1919)和福斯迪克 (H. E. Fosdick) 的流行甚广的 Guide to the Understanding of the Bible (1938 年, 见艾希罗特在 JBL 中的批评, 65[1946], 205–217) 显然都采用了这种方法。尽管在人们对圣经神学重新燃起了兴趣之前, 这种方法已经逐渐被抛弃, 但是马修斯 (I. G. Matthews) 的 Religious Pilgrimage of Israel (1947 年)、麦卡斯兰 (S. V. McCasland) 的 Religion of the Bible (1960 年) 和法伊弗 (R. H. Pfeiffer) 的 Religion in the OT (1961 年) 仍然采用这种方法。

During the early part of this period, efforts were still made to interpret the religion of the OT from a theological point of view. A Dillmann (1895) rejected the Wellhausen hypothesis and argued that a comparative study of Semitic religions would demonstrate the uniqueness of OT religion. Other works accepted the Wellhausen hypothesis, but tried to give a systematic view of Israel's religious outlook. C. Piepenbring (1886) found elements of permanent value in the historical development. H. Schultz adopted the Wellhausen hypothesis in the 2nd edition of his OT theology (1878), and tried to solve the problem of history and theology by giving first a historical account of the development of Israel's religion and then a topical treatment in which the several theological concepts were traced through the various periods.

宗教风俗,这种共同的文化模式体现在《旧约》中。见 S. H. Hooke, Myth and Ritual (1933); The Labyrinth (1935); E. O. James, Myth and Ritual in the Ancient Near East (1958). S. Mowinckel, Psalmstudien (1922–24); He That Cometh (1956 年英译本) 将末世论起源追溯至一次新年的庆祝活动中,人们在这一天庆祝雨季的回归和随之而来的丰收季节,认为这是那位圣洁君王恢复神圣统治时所举行的年度登基典礼。《旧约》中并没有明确表示存在这样的庆祝登基典礼的节日,而是基于与巴比伦新年仪式的类比和《诗篇》中所谓的祭仪传说来假定存在这样一个节日。另见 A. R. Johnson, Sacral Kingship in Ancient Israel (1955)。

However, he felt that the diversity of religious ideas was so great that there were virtually different theologies in the different periods. In England, A. B. Davidson's Theology of the OT (1904) reflects the same uneasy truce between history and theology. Although he states that the proper subject of OT theology is the history of the religion of Israel (p. 11), he attempts to create a theology out of the religious beliefs and ideas in the OT, and in effect he has produced a theology of the OT. H. W. Robinson wrote a small book on The Religious Ideas of the OT (1913) in which he presented a few simple yet profound ideas which he found behind the variety of OT religion, and which he set forth with some indication of their theological value.

The works of Schultz and Davidson were the last efforts for a generation to attempt to set forth the theological significance of OT religion. The history-of-religion approach had triumphed. A philosophy of evolutionary naturalism was substituted for that of revealed religion. Many studies in the history of Israel's religion appeared, but even conservative writers did not attempt to write theologies of the OT.

This "comparative religions" approach also dominated NT study. Liberalism found the distinctive element of biblical theology in the simple ethical teaching of Jesus. While its representatives paid some attention to the influence of the religious environment of early Christianity (Holtzmann's Theologie devoted 120 pages to a sketch of Jewish and Hellenistic backgrounds), the essence of Christianity was treated as something unique, though Holtzmann recognized Hellenistic influences on Paul.

“比较宗教学”的研究方法也在新约研究中占据着主导地位。自由主义派在耶稣的简单道德教导中发现了与众不同的圣经神学元素。虽然自由主义的代表人物多少注意了早期基督教宗教环境的影响(贺兹曼在 Theologie 中用 120 页描绘犹太和希腊文化的背景),但是他们把基督教的精髓视为一种独一无二的事物,尽管贺兹曼意识到了希腊文化对保罗的影响。

Otto Pfleiderer presaged a new approach. The 1st edition of Das Urchristentum (1887) took the same position as Harnack and Holtzmann; but in the 2nd edition (1902; Eng. tr. 1906, Primitive Christianity) he interpreted many elements in NT theology in terms of their religious environment. The program for this new approach was presented by W. Wrede in 1897 in a little book entitled Über Aufgabe und Methode der sogenannten NT Theologie. He attacked the prevailing method of interpreting NT theology as a series of doctrinal systems, for the Christian faith is religion, not theology or a system of ideas. NT theology has the task not of formulating timeless truths, whether these be mediated by a supernatural revelation or discovered by rational thought, but of formulating expressions of the living religious experiences of early Christianity, understood in light of the religious environment. Therefore the theology of the NT must be displaced by the history of religion in primitive Christianity. (See also A. Deissmann in ZTK, 3 [1893], 126–139.)

This new approach had two distinct centers of interest: the interpretation of NT ideas in terms of expressions of religious experience, and the explanation of the rise of these religious experiences and ideas in terms of the religious environment. One of the first to attempt the former task was H. Weinel in his Biblische Theologie des NT (1913). Weinel was not primarily interested in the value or truth of Christianity but only in its nature in comparison with other religions. He set forth types of religions against which Christianity is to be understood as an ethical religion of redemption. Books in English that reflect this influence are S. J. Case, Evolution of Early Christianity (1914), E. W. Parsons, Religion of the NT (1939), and E. F. Scott, Varieties of NT Religion (1943).

The basic assumption of this approach led to very different treatments of Jesus and Paul. In 1892, J. Weiss published a booklet of sixty-seven pages on Die Predigt Jesu vom Reiche Gottes in which he interpreted Jesus' message of the kingdom in terms of the milieu of Jewish apocalyptic. This approach was made famous by Albert Schweitzer's Von Reimarus zu Wrede (1906; Eng. tr. QMJ), which gives a history of the interpretation of Jesus and then in a hundred pages interprets Jesus in terms of "Consistent Eschatology," i.e., as a Jewish apocalypticist who belongs to first-century Judaism and has little relevance for the modern man. This preacher of eschatology was diametrically opposed to the ethical teacher of the pure religion of the Fatherhood of God as sketched by Harnack and Holtzmann, and it became clear that the "old liberal" Jesus was a distinct modernization. Eschatology, instead of being the husk (Harnack), was shown by Schweitzer to be the very kernel of Jesus' message.

If Jesus was interpreted in terms of the milieu of Jewish apocalyptic, Paul was interpreted in terms of Hellenistic Judaism or the Hellenistic cults and mystery religions. Some scholars, like Bousset, still interpreted Jesus along the lines of liberalism but applied the religionsgeschichtliche Methode to Paul. Brückner argued that Paul found a ready-made doctrine of a heavenly man in Varieties of NT Religion (1943).

如果根据犹太启示录的环境来解读耶稣, 那么也应该根据希腊化犹太教或希腊化教派和神秘宗教的环境来解读保罗。有些学者 (如布瑟 [Bousset]) 仍以自由主义观点解读耶稣, 但却采用 "宗教历史方法" (religionsgeschichtliche Methode) 来解读保罗。布鲁克纳 (Brückner) 争论道, 保罗在犹太教中发现了一则关于神圣之人的现成教义, 并将这一教义应用在耶稣身上。贡克尔

Judaism, which he applied to Jesus. Gunkel held that there had sprung up in the Orient a syncretistic religion, gnostic in character, with faith in the resurrection as its central doctrine. This pre-Christian Gnosticism had penetrated Judaism, and through this medium influenced Christianity, even before Paul. W. Bousset put this view on a firmer basis by arguing that Gnosticism was not a heretical new formation in Christianity, as Harnack had supposed, but was a pre-Christian pagan phenomenon, oriental rather than Greek, and religious and mystical rather than philosophical. In his Kyrios Christos (1913) Bousset traced the history of belief in Jesus in the early Church, and sharply distinguished between the religious consciousness of Jesus, the faith of primitive Christianity, which held Jesus to be the transcendental Son of man of Jewish apocalyptic, and the view of the Hellenistic Church and of Paul, who held Jesus to be a divinity, like the Greek cult lords.

The most important NT theology embodying this approach is Rudolf Bultmann's. Bultmann differed from Bousset in that he interpreted Jesus in terms of Jewish apocalyptic; but he followed Bousset in his understanding of the Hellenistic Church and Paul. However, Bultmann added a new feature in his existential understanding of these NT "myths," which will be discussed below.

IX. Contemporary Return to Biblical Theology.-During the 1920's a new viewpoint began to make itself felt which resulted in a revival of biblical theology. Factors contributing to this revival included a loss of faith in evolutionary naturalism, a reaction against the purely historical method, which claimed complete objectivity and believed in the adequacy of bare facts to disclose the truth of history, and the recovery of the concept of revelation. This led to the conviction that the OT contained both history and a word concerning the ultimate meaning of history. Thus the study of biblical theology turned its attention to discovering what is of permanent value in OT religion.

体现出这种方法的最重要新约神学是由鲁道夫·布尔特曼提出的。布尔特曼与布瑟不同,他根据犹太启示文学来解读耶稣,但是他遵循了布瑟对希腊化教会和保罗的理解。然而,布尔特曼在他对这些新约“神话”的存在主义理解中添加了一个新特点,下文将对此进行讨论。

IX. 圣经神学在当代的回归。一种新的观点在20世纪20年代开始出现,并导致了圣经神学的复兴。推动这一复兴的因素包括对进化论自然主义失去了信心、对纯粹历史方法的反对(纯粹的历史方法宣称完全客观,相信简单明了的事实足以揭示历史的真相)和启示观念

The first theological work on the OT in this period was by E. König (1922). König, however, wrote as an old man who had defended the conservative view of Israel's history against Wellhausenism, and who opposed the evolutionary method. The new emphasis is seen in essays by R. Kittel, C. Steuernagel, O. Eissfeldt, and W. Eichrodt published in ZAW. Rudolf Kittel (1921) admitted the shortcomings of the purely critical approach and urged scholarship to recapture the study of the OT as a theological discipline. Steuernagel (1925) recognized that the other theological disciplines needed a systematic presentation of OT theology which the history-of-religion method could not provide. Eissfeldt (1926) urged that there were two different methods of studying the OT, standing side by side: the historical method, which deals empirically with the history of Hebrew religion, evaluating the objective data by reason and critical methodology; and the theological method, which recognizes by faith the timeless truths embodied in the OT.

Eichrodt (1933) rejected Eissfeldt's view of two different disciplines and held that a fruitful combination of the two methods is possible. The task of theology is to penetrate to the essence of the OT religion and throw light on the inner structure of its theological system. When Eichrodt later published his OT theology (1933–1938) he took the idea of the covenant from the OT itself as a center in terms of which all the theology of the OT was to be understood, and produced a systematic synthesis of the essential doctrines of the religion of Israel.

的恢复。这促使人们坚信,《旧约》中包含着历史和关于历史终极意义的道。因此,圣经神学的研究重点转移到探索旧约宗教中具有永恒价值的事物上来。

艾希罗特在 1933 年否定了艾斯斐德的两种不同学科的观点,认为将两种方法结合起来可能会取得丰硕的成果。神学

In the years that followed, a succession of OT theologies was produced in Europe. E. Sellin (1933) viewed the entire Bible as an essential unity and presented the major ideas of the OT in systematic form; but he selected only those basic doctrines such as God, man, and salvation which are common to the various parts of the OT and which give to its theology a consistent unity. The revived theological approach to the OT is more vividly seen in W. Vischer's Witness of the OT to Christ (1934; Eng. tr. 1949). Vischer to a large degree disregarded the distinction between the Testaments and used allegorical exegesis to discover in the OT what Christ is.

Although L. Koehler's OT theology (1936) was more historical in approach, it attempted a synthesis of the thoughts and concepts of the OT that are or can be important. E. Jacob (1955) defended the view that the OT is one book, presenting one religion whose strands come together in Christ. He held that both the "religion of Israel" and the "theology of the OT" are historical disciplines, the former showing the variety of the history and its evolution, the latter displaying its unity. OT theology is the systematic account of the specific religious ideas which can be found throughout the OT and which form its profound unity. O. Procksch (1949) was influenced by von Hofmann and viewed OT theology from the perspective of saving-history.

的任务是透过旧约宗教的本质,阐明其神学体系的内部结构。后来当艾希罗特发表他的旧约神学(1933–1938)时,他以《旧约》中的圣约观点为中心,认为必须根据圣约来理解《旧约》中的所有神学思想,并系统地综合了以色列宗教的本质教义。

虽然凯勒在旧约神学(1936年)中所采用的方法更基于史实,但是这部作品尝试综合《旧约》中的重要(或可能重要的)思想和观念。雅各布(E. Jacob)在1955年捍卫了如下的观点,即《旧约》是一本书,展示了一种宗教,这种宗教的所有部分都源于基督。他认为“以色列的宗教”和“旧约神学”都属于历史学科,前者展现了历史的多样性和演变,后者展示了历史的统一性。旧约神学是对遍布存在于《旧约》当中的具体宗教思想的系统阐述,这些宗教思想使《旧约》成为了一个深刻的统一体。帕克斯(O. Procksch)在1949年受到

T. C. Vriezen published an Outline of OT Theology in Dutch in 1949 which has been translated both into German and English (Eng. tr. 1958). OT theology has as its object not the religion of Israel but the OT; and the OT is not to be studied in isolated detachment but in its relationship to the NT. He therefore selected the central themes and materials that are important for Christian faith. A later German work, that of G. von Rad (1957, 1961), is a sort of Heilsgeschichte; yet it is not a theological interpretation of the modern historian's reconstruction of the events of Israel's history, but the theology of traditions that Israel held about its own history. He has therefore been criticized by critical scholars for placing a gulf between history and theology.

The new theological approach to the OT made a strong impact on Great Britain but by the mid-1970's had produced few full-scale OT theologies there. H. W. Robinson reflected the new trend in the second volume of essays by the Society for OT Study (Record and Revelation, ed. H. W. Robinson [1938]) in which he emphasized a heilsgeschichtlich (saving-history) approach to revelation. Revelation is not the communication of abstract truth but the gradual disclosure, through the concrete experiences of life, of a pattern of divine purpose steadily unfolding itself in history, and pointing to the climax in the NT without which it is incomplete. Later Robinson expanded this thesis in Inspiration and Revelation in the

新的旧约神学研究法对英国产生了极大的影响, 但到 20 世纪 70 年代中期, 英国几乎已经不存在全面的旧约神学。罗宾逊 (H. W. Robinson) 在旧约研究协会的第二卷论文中展示出一种新趋势 (Record and Revelation, H. W. Robinson 编 [1938]), 他在文中强调以救恩史方法研究启示。启示不是在传播抽象的真理, 而是通过具体的生活经历逐渐揭示神的旨意, 这旨意在历史中不断地自我揭示出来, 并在《新约》中达到了顶点, 没有《新约》, 这启示就是不完整的。后来, 罗宾逊于 1946 年在他的 Inspiration and Revelation in the OT 中扩展了他的论点, 这部作品是旧约神学的绪论, 但他在世时并没有写出旧约神学这本书。

OT (1946), which was designed to be a prolegomena to an OT theology that he did not live to write.

N. H. Snaith vigorously criticized the comparative-religions approach because it ignored any distinctive elements in the Bible. He found theology in the distinctive beliefs in the OT which set it apart from other religions and which are further developed in the NT. H. H. Rowley wrote many volumes dealing with the thought of the OT, and in The Faith of Israel (1956) he, like Snaith, argued that OT theology is to be found in the distinctive elements in the religion of Israel. He recognized evolution and borrowing from other religions but was unable to account for the essence of Israel's religion in these terms. He saw within OT history and religion a self-revelation of God which results in something timeless and of enduring validity; this constitutes OT theology. The most thoroughgoing theological treatment was that of G. A. F. Knight, A Christian Theology of the OT (1959), which studies the OT not in terms of Israel's religion or historical development but in terms of the OT message to the 20th cent. in light of the Christian revelation as a whole. N. W. Porteous in the third volume of essays by the Society for OT study (OTMS) differentiated between OT religion and theology, finding theology in a critical evaluation of the knowledge of God resulting from the human reaction to the Word spoken in the events of OT history. This thesis is unfolded in his essay in the revised edition of Peake's comm. on the Bible (1962).

The new theological concern also strongly influenced American scholarship. In 1940, W. F. Albright (FSAC) rejected positivistic historicism in favor of an “organismic” philosophy of history, defending the basic soundness of the main outlines of the OT tradition and tracing essential monotheism to Moses. This thesis was reinforced in ARI (1942). Millar Burrows in An Outline of Biblical Theology (1946) pointed out the loss of a note of authority in biblical preaching as a result of modern critical study of the Bible. Burrows then sketched the development of the several theological concepts throughout the entire Bible. He distinguished between history and theology by holding that theology asks for God’s judgment on the religion of Israel and of primitive Christianity and seeks its modern significance. O. J. Baab in his OT theology (1949) admitted the sterility and failure of the pure objective-historical study of Israel’s religion. He argued that we must interpret the biblical religion and history from the viewpoint of the faith by which the men of the Bible lived. R. C. Dentan in his Preface to OT Theology (1950) defined biblical theology as “that Christian theological discipline which treats the religious ideas of the OT systematically, i.e., not from the point of view of historical development, but from that of the structural unity of OT religion” (p. 48).

斯奈思 (N. H. Snaith) 严厉地批评比较宗教的方法, 因为这种方法忽略了《圣经》中的一些独特的元素。他在《旧约》中的不同信仰中发现了神学, 它是从其他宗教中分离出来的, 并在《新约》中得到了进一步的发展。罗利 (H. H. Rowley) 创作了许多关于旧约思想的书卷, 像斯奈思一样, 他在 The Faith of Israel (1956) 中论述道, 在以色列宗教的不同元素中可以发现旧约神学。他认可演变和对其他宗教的借鉴, 但无法从这些方面解释以色列宗教的本质。他在旧约历史和宗教中看到了上帝的自我揭示, 这种自我揭示产生了永恒的真理和持久的效力; 这构成了旧约神学。奈特 (G. A. F. Knight) 的 A Christian Theology of the OT (1959) 中包含了最全面的神学论述, 这部作品不是从以色列宗教或历史发展的角度来研究《旧约》, 而是将基督教的启示视为一个整体, 从《旧约》留给 20 世纪的信息的角度来研究《旧约》。波蒂厄斯 (N. W. Porteous) 在旧约研究协会的第三卷论文 (OTMS) 中对旧约宗教和旧约神学进行了区分, 在对上帝的知识的批评评价中发现了神学, 这种评价来自于人类对旧约历史事件中道的反思。他在论述皮克的修订版《圣经》注释时展现了这一论点 (《圣经》注释[1962])。

G. E. Wright showed that the OT teaching cannot be explained as a natural evolution resulting from environmental influences (The OT Against Its Environment [1950]). OT theology is neither a history of biblical ideas nor a systematic cross section of these ideas treated under the rubrics of dogmatic theology. It is rather a confessional recital of the redemptive acts of God in history together with their theological meaning (God Who Acts [1952]). This exposition Wright undertook in his essay on “The Faith of Israel” in the first volume of IB (1952).

Among modern Roman Catholic works is the Theologie des AT by Paul Heinisch (1940; Eng. tr. 1955). Heinisch does not make it his main purpose, as had earlier Roman Catholic writers, to use biblical theology as a tool for defending the doctrines of the Church. He interprets the OT in its historical setting. OT theology is the systematic presentation of what the OT leaders, who were raised up and inspired by God, required as to faith and morals; while the religion of Israel shows how the people responded to the directives of their religious teachers and how the environment and cultural progress affected the development of spiritual ideas.

In spite of this renaissance in biblical theology, conservative writers have had little to contribute to the dialogue, at least on the level of critical studies. R. B. Girdlestone’s OT Theology and Modern Ideas (1909) is not a theology of the OT but a series of essays on various theological themes. In 1948, G. Vos’ Biblical Theology was published posthumously. The work breaks off abruptly in the midst of a discussion of the revelation in Jesus’ ministry, and it is more an extended essay on revelation in the OT than a biblical theology. A contemporary writer in the same conservative tradition, E. J. Young, wrote an introductory study under the title The Study of OT Theology Today (1958). See also his remarks in EQ, 31 (1959), 52f., 136–142. Young assumed such a very conservative stance that he denied that the modern movement was really a resurgence of true biblical theology, for any theology that does not accept the complete trustworthiness of Scripture “is not taught by God, does not teach God and does not lead to God” (EQ, 31 [1959], 53). Young’s position has been criticized by other conservative scholars for “passing judgment by implication on all works on modern OT theology” (E. L. Ellison, EQ, 31 [1959], 52). J. B. Payne has produced a comprehensive Theology of the Older Testament (1962). Payne, like Eichrodt, takes the concept of the covenant as the integrating center for OT theology; but instead of finding the meaning of the covenant in the OT concept of b^erît, he turns to the Greek meaning of diathēkē as it is used in He. 9:16ff., and structures the entire pattern of OT theology around this Greek concept.

The new approach to theology changed the complexion of NT studies. The historical assurance of liberalism was challenged by Martin Kähler in a book that has proved to be crucial for the modern debate. Kähler structured the problem in terms of Der sogenannte historische Jesus und der geschichtliche biblische Christus (1898). The historische Jesus, i.e., the Jesus reconstructed by the liberal critical method, never really existed in history but only in the critical imagination of scholarship. The only Jesus who possesses reality is the Christ pictured in the Bible, whose character is such that he cannot be reconstructed by the methods of scientific historiography. The Gospels are not historical (historische) documents in the scientific sense of the term, but witnesses to the Christ. They are kerygma, not “history”; and it is impossible to get behind the kerygma. Indeed, the “historical Jesus” serves only to obscure from us the living biblical Christ. The real geschichtliche Christ is the Christ who is attested in the Gospels and who is preached by the Church.

Another signpost pointing in the same direction was the book by W. Wrede, Das Messiasgeheimnis in den Evangelien (1901). Wrede shattered the liberal portrait of the historical Jesus by showing that the Jesus of Mark was not the inspired prophet but a messianic (divine) being. Wrede differed from Kähler in that he did not accept the Markan portrait of Jesus as true but attempted to explain historically how the nonmessianic, historical Jesus became the messianic Christ of the Gospels.

In the years that followed, gospel criticism turned to the study of the oral stage of the gospel tradition (Formgeschichte) to try to discover the laws controlling the tradition which could explain the transformation of the “historical” Jesus into the kerygmatic Christ. One outstanding aspect of this study was the admission that form criticism could not find in any stratum of the gospel tradition a purely historical Jesus. The resultant “kerygmatic” approach has issued in two very different interpretations of the NT.

On the one hand, E. H. Hoskyns and Noel Davey in The Riddle of the NT (1931) show that all the evidence of the NT converges on a single point: that in Jesus, God revealed Himself for man’s salvation. The critical method has revealed most clearly the living unity of the NT documents. The historian is compelled to state that both the unity and uniqueness of this claim are historical facts. This claim, while occurring in history, transcends history, for it demands of the historian what he as a historian may not give: a theological judgment of ultimate significance.

在随后的几年中，福音批判转向对福音传统的口传阶段的研究（形式批判），试图找出掌控这一传统的规律，从而可以解释“历史上的”耶稣如何转变成福音传道中的基督。。这种研究的一个突出方面就是，它承认形式批评无法从福音传统的任何层面上找到一个纯粹基于史实的耶稣。由此产生的“福音传道”研究法对《新约》进行了两种截然不同的解读。

一方面，希金斯 (E. H. Hoskyns) 和戴维 (Noel Davey) 在 The Riddle of the NT (1931) 中指出，《新约》中的所有证据都指向一点：上帝在耶稣里揭示祂对人类的救赎。批判方法已经非常清晰地展现了新约文献鲜活的统一性。历史学家不得不说这种宣告的统一性和独特性都是史实。这种宣告虽然在历史中发生，却超越了历史，因为历史学家可能也无法做出解释：终极意义的神学审判。

This “kerygmatic” interpretation of NT theology received its greatest impetus through the writings of C. H. Dodd. In his inaugural lecture at Cambridge University, Dodd called for a new emphasis on the unity of NT thought in place of the analytic approach, which had prevailed throughout the preceding century. In the same year (1936) he implemented his own suggestion in Apostolic Preaching and Its Developments. Dodd finds the unity of the NT message in the kerygma, the heart of which is the proclamation that the new age has come in the person and mission of Jesus. Here for the first time, a single biblical concept was used to relate the NT materials to a unified development. Dodd has enlarged upon this thesis in The Parables of the Kingdom (1935) and The Interpretation of the Fourth Gospel (1935), interpreting both the message of Jesus and that of the Gospel of John in terms of the inbreaking of the age to come. While this approach is sound in principle, Dodd’s work has the defect of understanding the age to come in terms of Platonic thought rather than biblical eschatology. The age to come is the “wholly other,” the eternal breaking into the temporal, instead of the future age breaking into the present age.

This kerygmatic theology has produced an extensive literature. The outstanding American protagonist has been F. V. Filson. His One Lord, One Faith (1943) defends the unity of the NT message, and his Jesus Christ the Risen Lord (1956) argues that NT theology must understand

多德 (C. H. Dodd) 的作品为新约神学的“福音传道”解释提供了最大的推动力。他在剑桥大学的就职演讲中,提出了新约思想统一性的一个新重点,取而代之上世纪流行的分析方法。同年(1936年),他将他的建议写在了作品 Apostolic Preaching and Its Developments 中。多德在福音传道中发现了新约福音的统一性,福音传道的核心是向人们宣告,伴随耶稣的降临和传道,一个新的时代已经来到。他首次只采用一个圣经观念将新约材料与统一发展联系起来。多德在 The Parables of the Kingdom (1935)和 The Interpretation of the Fourth Gospel (1935)中详述了这个论点,并依据将来的世界即将临到来解释耶稣的福音和《约翰福音》中的信息。虽然从原理上讲,这一方法很合理,但是多德的作品也存有缺陷,他以柏拉图的思想而不是以圣经末世论来理解将来的世界。将来世界是“完全不同的时代”,永恒进入短暂,而不是将来的世界进入现世。

大量关于福音传道神学的文献被创作出来。美国福音传道神学的杰出代表是菲尔森 (F. V. Filson)。他在 One Lord, One Faith (1943) 中为新约福音的统一性辩护,并在 Jesus Christ the Risen Lord (1956) 中论证道,新约神学必须从神学角度,也就是从历史中行事的

NT history from the theological point of view, i.e., from the standpoint of the living God who acts in history, the most notable event being the resurrection of Christ. Filson interprets the entire NT theology in light of the Resurrection.

A. M. Hunter expounded The Unity of the NT (1944, American title The Message of the NT) in terms of One Lord, One Church, One Salvation. More recently, in a slim volume Introducing NT Theology (1957), he has expounded the “fact of Christ,”; he includes in this term “the totality of what Jesus Christ’s coming involved, his person, work and words, of course, but also the Resurrection, the advent of the Spirit and the creation of the new Israel ...” (p. 9).

Oscar Cullmann also follows the Heilsgeschichte interpretation, and provides an excellent corrective for Dodd’s Platonic approach. In Christ and Time (1946; Eng. tr. 1950, 1964) he argues that the NT finds its unity in a common conception of time and history rather than in ideas of essence, nature, eternal or existential truth. Theology is the meaning of the historical in time. In Cullmann’s work, Heilsgeschichte theology has emerged in a new form; and the principle of Heilsgeschichte as the unifying center of NT theology has been widely recognized. We can accept the basic validity of Cullmann’s approach without agreeing with him that the NT shows no interest in questions of nature and being but only in “functional Christology.”

神的角度来理解新约历史,其中最显著的事件就是耶稣的复活。菲尔森根据耶稣复活来解释全部新约神学。

亨特 (A. M. Hunter) 按照 “一个主、一个教会、一次救赎” 的原则解释了他的作品 The Unity of the NT (1944 年,在美国这部作品的名称是 The Message of the NT)。最近,他在一个简短作品 (Introducing NT Theology[1957]) 中解释了 “基督的真相”; 其中他还谈到, “耶稣基督的到来包括耶稣其人、耶稣的工作和祂的话语,当然还包括耶稣的复活、圣灵的降临和新以色列的建立……” (9 页)。

科尔曼 (Oscar Cullmann) 也遵循了救恩史解释,并极好地改善了多德的柏拉图式的哲学方法。他在 Christ and Time (1946; 1950 和 1964 年英译本) 中提出,《新约》在时间和历史的普遍概念上实现了统一,而不是在本质、自然、和永恒或存在主义的真理等方面实现统一。神学就是正在发生的历史的含义。在科尔曼的作品中,救恩史神学以新的形式出现;救恩史原则作为新约神学的统一中心,已经得到了普遍的认可。我们可以接受科尔曼方法的基本有效性,但不赞同他提出的《新约》毫不关注本质和存在问题、只关注 “实用基督论” 的观点。

Grant also recognized the validity of the concept in An intro. to NT Thought [1958], p. 41.)

Alan Richardson in his Intro. to the Theology of the NT (1958) assumed the kerygmatic approach by accepting the hypothesis that the “brilliant re-interpretation of the OT scheme of salvation which is found in the NT” goes back to Jesus Himself and is not the product of the believing community. In an essay on “Historical Theology and Biblical Theology,” Richardson argued that biblical theology cannot use a purely objective, scientific, neutral approach, but must interpret the biblical history from the standpoint of a biblical faith (Canadian Journal of Theology, 1 [1955], 157–167).

The exponents of this “kerygmatic” approach assume that the Christ proclaimed in the kerygma is continuous with the historical Jesus. The “kerygmatic” factor is the interpretative element that necessarily accompanies the event. A radically different use of the kerygmatic approach, on the other hand, is found in the writings of Bultmann, who found no continuity between the historical Jesus and the Christ of the kerygma. The historical Jesus, for Bultmann, has been quite obscured behind the layers of believing tradition, which reinterpreted the significance of Jesus in mythological terms. Historically, Jesus was only a Jewish apocalypticist who proclaimed the imminent apocalyptic end of the world and warned people to prepare for the catastrophe of judgment. He conceived of Himself neither as Messiah nor as Son of man. He did, however, possess an overwhelming sense of the reality of God, and He realized that He was the bearer of the Word of God for the last hour, which placed men under the demand for decision. His death was an incomparable tragedy, though this was redeemed from meaninglessness by the emergence of belief in His resurrection. The early Church reinterpreted Jesus, first in terms of the Jewish apocalyptic Son of man, and then in terms of a conflation of the apocalyptic Son of man, the Gnostic heavenly man, and the dying and rising cult deity of the mystery religions. The kerygma, i.e., the early Church's proclamation of Christ, is a historical fact in the life of early Christianity; and therefore there is continuity between the historical Jesus and the kerygma. If there had been no Jesus there would have been no kerygma. The Christ who is proclaimed in the kerygma, however, is a mythological construction and had no existence in history, for mythology by definition is nonhistorical. Therefore, there can be no continuity between the historical Jesus and the Christ of the kerygma.

Bultmann's interpretation of NT theology was controlled by his view of God and theology. God is the wholly Other who by definition cannot break into history or act objectively in history. The place where God acts is in human existence. Theology consists not of eternal truths or revealed doctrines, but of theological thoughts explicated from believing authenticity. Theology is faith interpreting itself, i.e., it is the theological formulation of the meaning of authentic existence. Therefore, the order is: the kerygma, authentic existence, theological interpretation of authenticity (Theology of the NT, II, 237ff.).

子。但是，祂确实深刻意识到了神是真实存在的，并在最后时刻意识到祂是神之道的载体，而这道要求世人决定是否悔改。耶稣的死是无比悲伤的，尽管耶稣复活这一信念出现，才令耶稣之死不再毫无意义。早期教会首先根据犹太启示文学中的人子重新诠释了耶稣，然后又结合启示文学中的人子、诺斯替教派的圣子和神秘宗教所崇拜的死后复生的神明再次诠释了耶稣。福音传道，也就是早期教会关于基督的宣教是早期基督教生活中的史实；因此，历史上的耶稣和福音传道之间存在延续性。如果没有耶稣，也就不存在福音传道。不过，福音传道中宣传的基督是一个神话人物，在历史上并不存在，因为神话显然不符合历史。因此，历史上的耶稣与福音传道中的基督之间不可能存在延续性。

布尔特曼对新约神学的诠释受到他的上帝和神学观点的支配。上帝是“全然他者”，从定义上看，祂不可能进入历史当中或在历史中客观存在。上帝在人类存在中行事。神学不是由永恒真理或揭示的教义构成，而是由信仰的真实性

Thus for Bultmann, NT theology was not the explication of what God has done in past history; it was the explication of what God does in man through the kerygma. The kerygma was a present fact, not an element of ancient history. Authentic existence must be faith in God and in God alone; it cannot rest upon objective events in past history. If it did, faith would be faith in history or in the historian, not faith in God. Therefore, the believer need not know much about the historical Jesus, only that this man lived and died and was the beginning point of the kerygma. Indeed, Jesus and His message were for Bultmann no part of NT theology, but only one of its presuppositions.

Bultmann's radical position stirred up a storm of discussion (see Der historische Jesus und der kerygmatische Christus, ed. H. Ristow [1960]), and even many of his followers have been disturbed by the extremeness of his position, which divorced the historical Jesus from the Christ of faith and removed Him from the orbit of NT theology. They have therefore initiated a "new quest for the historical Jesus" who will stand in a real measure of continuity with the Christ of the kerygma. The most notable products of this "post-Bultmannian" school to date have been Günther Bornkamm's Jesus of

因此,对于布尔特曼来说,新约神学不仅阐明了上帝在历史中的行为,也阐明了祂藉福音传道在人类中所行的事。福音传道是当前的事实,不是古代历史中的一个元素。真实的存在必须必须是对上帝的信心,且惟独对上帝保有信心;真实存在不依赖过往历史中的客观事件。否则,信心就是对历史或历史学家的信心,而不是对上帝的信心。因此,信徒无需对历史上的耶稣多了解,只要知道这个人在历史中的存在和死亡,并且福音传道始于这个人就足够了。实际上,对布尔特曼来说,耶稣和祂的福音不属于新约神学,而只是新约神学中的一个假设。

布尔特曼的激进立场引起了一场激烈的讨论(见 Der historische Jesus und der kerygmatische Christus, H. Ristow 编 [1960]),甚至很多他的追随者都因他的极端立场而感到不安,他将历史中的耶稣和信仰中的基督分割开来,并把祂排除在新约神学之外。所以,他们发起了“对历史上耶稣的新探索”,祂是福音传道中基督的延续性的真正标准。迄今为止,“后布尔特曼”学派创作的最著名作品包括邦坎(Günther Bornkamm)的 Jesus of Nazareth (1960年英译本)、詹姆斯·罗宾逊的 New Quest of the Historical Jesus (1959)和龚色曼(Hans Conzelmann)的 Outline of Nazareth (Eng. tr. 1960), James Robinson's New Quest of the Historical Jesus (1959), and Hans Conzelmann's Outline of the Theology of the NT (Eng. tr. 1969).

Two other notable works have appeared. In 1969, W. G. Kümmel published Die Theologie des NT (Eng. tr. 1973), a study of the theology only of the "major witnesses: Jesus—Paul—John," with a small section on the faith of the primitive community. For Kümmel, the message of the historical Jesus is essential for Christian faith. Kümmel is concerned primarily with the unity and diversity of the major witnesses. While fully recognizing their diversity, he finds a central unity in that all the major witnesses give common testimony to the fact that, in Jesus, God has initiated His eschatological salvation, and in the Christ event God encounters men. Thus we encounter in the canonical Scriptures the uniform witness to God's revelation in Jesus Christ.

In 1971 Joachim Jeremias published Volume I of his NT Theologie (Eng. tr. 1971). Jeremias' position is almost exactly opposite to that of Bultmann so far as the historical Jesus is concerned. By the use of Formgeschichte, Jeremias has attempted to recover the main outlines of the teaching of the historical Jesus. Furthermore, in his view it is in the ipsissima vox of Jesus that men stand face to face with God. The Epistles are not revelation but are the response of men to the revelation confronting them in the historical Jesus. (See Jeremias' important statement in The Problem of the Historical Jesus [Eng. tr. 1964].)

the Theology of the NT (1969 年英译本)。

耶利米亚 (Joachim Jeremias) 于 1971 年发表了他的 NT Theologie 的第一卷 (1971 年英译本)。在历史上的耶稣这个问题上, 耶利米亚的立场与布尔特曼的立场几乎完全对立。耶利米亚采用了形式批评的方法, 尝试概述历史上的耶稣的教导。此外, 他认为正是因为耶稣亲口称呼天主, 世人才站在了天父的面前。使徒书信不是启示, 而是世人对天父在历史上的耶稣里赐予他们的启示的回应。(见耶利米亚在 The Problem of the Historical Jesus [1964 年英译本] 中重要论述)。

A position somewhat analogous to that of Bultmann was espoused by the American scholar John Knox in his Criticism and Faith (1952) and his books on Christology. Knox was concerned to make faith independent of historical criticism, and he did this by interpreting the “Christ event” as the historical Jesus plus the responses made to Him and the meanings found in Him by the Church. In his view, it is therefore not important what the historical Jesus said or thought, for what the Church thought about Him is included in the “Christ event” as the object of faith; and this area of meaning is independent of the findings of historical criticism. The “event” of Jesus Christ was the totality of fact and meaning—of fact responded to, remembered, and interpreted by the believing community.

One of the few NT theologies written in America is by F. C. Grant, entitled Intro. to NT Thought (1950). Grant’s purpose was not primarily historical or descriptive; rather he tried to set forth the central concepts in the NT, such as God, man, Christ, salvation, and the Church. Although Grant found many different theologies, i.e., interpretations of the “divine event,” he also recognized an underlying unity in the NT view of God, revelation, salvation, and the finality of Christ. Grant felt that we could not recover the historical facts about Jesus. He admitted that for the NT the risen Christ is identical with Jesus.

As in OT theology, Evangelical writers have made limited contributions to NT Theology. Vos’s Biblical Theology (1948) breaks off abruptly in the middle of Jesus’ ministry. His Self-Disclosure of Jesus (1926), although long out of date, has some excellent chapters on the christological problem in the Synoptic Gospels. Frank Stagg's NT Theology (1962) is a topical study designed more for pastors than for scholars. The present author has published his own Theology of the NT (1974), designed to be a seminary textbook, which views the NT as the trustworthy record by various witnesses, and the normative interpretation, of the redeeming revelatory event in Jesus Christ.

美国为数不多的新约神学著作中有一部是由格兰特 (F. C. Grant) 创作的，名为 Intro. to NT Thought (1950)。格兰特主要不是为了阐述历史或描述事实；而是试图提出《新约》的核心理念，如神、人、基督、救赎和教会。虽然他发现了许多不同的神学思想，即对“神圣事件”的诠释，但是他也承认《新约》在神、启示、救赎和基督的最终命运等观点上存在根本的一致性。格兰特认为，我们无法还原关于耶稣的史实。他承认《新约》中升天的基督与历史上的耶稣更相符。

福音书中基督论的问题做出了精彩的论断。弗兰克·斯塔格的 NT Theology (1962)更像是供牧师而不是学者使用的专题研究作品。这位当代作家已经出版了他的 Theology of the NT (1974),这本书被计划用作神学院的教科书,他认为《新约》是不同见证者写下的可靠记录,是对耶稣基督里救赎启示事件的标准解释。

I. Introduction.—Biblical theology is first of all a descriptive discipline. Its purpose is to set forth in its own historical and religious categories the teaching of the several parts of the Bible about God, man, redemption, ethics, and eternal destiny. This principle was long ago set forth by Gabler, and was more recently insisted on by Stendahl (IDB, I, 418f.). It is finally the task of systematic or dogmatic theology to decide what is normative for Christian theology.

I. 简介。圣经神学首先是一门描述性学科。它的目的是在该学科的历史和宗教分类中阐述《圣经》多个章节中关于神、人、救赎、道德和永恒命运的教义。加布勒(Gabler)在很久以前就提出了这个原则,史天达(Stendahl)最近又重申了这一原则(IDB, I, 418-419)。最后要由系统神学或教义神学来决定何为标准的基督教神学。 biblical theology would appear to be a great achievement, in that it set men free from dogmatic presuppositions so that they could interpret the Bible in an objective fashion. However, such “objectivity” has proved to be an illusion, for it has led some to interpret the Bible from the perspective of modern, rationalistic, naturalistic categories instead of in the Bible’s own thought forms. The most vivid illustration of this is the “search for the historical Jesus.” “The historical Jesus” is a technical term designating a Jesus capable of being explained in naturalistic, rationalistic categories. Modern criticism recognizes that the Gospels represent Jesus as a divine man, having an innate consciousness of an intimate personal relationship with His Father. Rationalism, however, has no room for divine men. The historian qua historian has no category of divine transcendence. Therefore, modern scholars have tried to reconstruct a Jesus who would be completely compatible with the categories of critical historiography—i.e., a Jesus who is only human. In other words, the modern “historical-critical method” is not neutral and “objective”; it is utterly prejudiced against anything supernatural.

Recognition of the descriptive character of

The entire NT regards Jesus as a supernatural being, and biblical theology must set the teachings of the Bible in its own thought categories and forms. The idea of a divine man may be unpalatable to the modern critic; but if he is true to the task, he will not try to dilute the biblical teaching to suit modern presuppositions.

The main theme of the Bible is the self-revelation of God. The Bible may be viewed exclusively as a record of historical people and events; however, the Bible itself is not interested in history for its own sake but only as it is the vehicle for the divine self-revelation. History is recorded, but the chief concern of the Bible is the God who acts in history.

整部《新约》将耶稣描述成一个超自然的存在，圣经神学必须将《圣经》中的教义放在它本身的思想范畴和形式中。现代批评家可能很难接受神圣之人的观点；但是如果他忠实于这个任务，那么他将不会试图削弱圣经教义来适应现代的假设。

《圣经》的主题是上帝的自我启示。《圣经》仅仅可以被视为对历史上的人和事件的记录；然而，《圣经》本身并不关

The biblical theologian must ask: Is this claim true? Did God actually reveal Himself to me? The answer to this question transcends the tools of the historian qua historian. It can be answered only on the basis of faith. Only if the critic believes that there is a personal sovereign God who is Lord of both nature and history can he accept the Bible's witness. Furthermore, whether he accepts it or not will be a major determining factor in the way he writes biblical theology. This is why the present author has rejected the rationalistic "historical-critical method" and opted for the "historical-theological method" (see NT and Criticism [1967], pp. 14, 40), which approaches the task of biblical theology with the presupposition that such a God does exist.

In other words, if God does exist and has really revealed Himself in a series of historical events, only the critic who starts with this presupposition will be able to write biblical theology as it really is.

For the critic who takes this stance, biblical theology is both a descriptive and a normative discipline. What the theologian finds in Scripture of the self-revelation of God, he believes to be true. This is the stance from which the present article is written.

II. Theology.-Biblical theology has to do with theology, i.e., with the knowledge of the person and the creative and redeeming

注历史,历史只是上帝进行自我揭示的工具。历史被记录了下来,但是《圣经》的主要关注点是在历史中行事的上帝。

圣经神学家一定会问:这都是真的吗?上帝真会向我显现吗?历史学家凭借有限的方法不足以回答这个问题。这个问题的答案建立在信心之上。只有当批评家相信一位至高无上的神主宰着自然和历史,他才可能接受《圣经》的见证。此外,他是否接受这种见证将是在他创作圣经神学作品时的主要决定性因素。这就是当代作家拒绝理性主义“历史批判方法”,选择“历史神学方法”的原因(见 NT and Criticism [1967], 14, 40 页),该方法假设确实存在这样一位神,进而以这种途径进行圣经神学的研究。

换言之,如果上帝确实存在并在一系列历史事件中自我解释,那么只有以此预设为起点的批评家才能写出真正的圣经神学。

对于坚持这一立场的批评家来说,圣经神学既是一门描述性学科也是一门规范性学科。不论这位神学家在上帝自我启示的《圣经》中发现了什么,他都相信那是真实的。本文就采取了这样的立场。

II. 神学。圣经神学不得不研究神学,也就是,关于上帝本身、上帝创造和救赎行为的知识,根据上帝的知识所看到 acts of God, of man seen in light of the knowledge of God, and of human destiny or salvation. Biblical theology therefore is to be distinguished from the religion of Israel and early Christianity. Much confusion has been caused by the frequent use of the term "biblical theology" by modern scholars synonymously with the history of the religion of Israel and of the early Church. The religion of Israel and of the early Church, however, included many elements of which the Bible disapproves. Israel frequently lapsed into the worship of pagan deities, for which the prophets rebuked a backsliding people. The early Church included Judaizers and Gnosticizers, who are reproved by the apostles. Historically speaking, the theology of the Bible represents only one strand, or rather several selected strands from a very complex religious situation; but theologically speaking it embodies the normative interpretation of God's redemptive acts.

At this point, however, another historical fact must be recognized. It is an altogether too simple and unhistorical solution to suggest that biblical theology stands at every point in contrast with its religious environment. Here is an involved historical and theological problem that Evangelical scholars need to take far more seriously. The extreme religionsgeschichtliche school in both the OT and NT regards biblical religion as a syncretistic product of the religious environment. An outstanding illustration is Bultmann, who believed that, historically, NT Christology reflects the interpretation of Jesus of Nazareth in terms of a synthesis of the Jewish apocalyptic Son of man, the mystery religions' dying and rising nature deity, and the Gnostic heavenly Lord who descends and ascends. The extreme conservative view, under the influence of supernaturalism, is that biblical theology is strictly unique at every point.

Little reflection is required to demonstrate that God's self-revelation in history has often caught up elements from the religious milieu and incorporated them in Heilsgeschichte, so that they become instruments of revelation. For instance, one of the most common names for God in the OT, 'El ('Elohim), is shared with Israel by its Semitic neighbors as the name of the chief God in the pagan pantheon. Again, the rite of sacrifice, providing the background for the meaning of the death of Christ, is not distinctive to OT religion but is common to most religions. The rite of circumcision, which in the OT is the sign of God's covenant with Israel, was practiced by most Semitic people. The sudden unexplained appearance of elders in the NT (Acts 11:30) appears to be nothing but the adaptation of the Jewish synagogue structure; and the pattern of early Christian worship was undoubtedly taken from the Jewish synagogue.

This points to the conclusion that the revelatory element in Heilsgeschichte is accompanied by ordinary historical development and interaction with the religious milieu. There is no evidence that the primitive "Christian communism" pictured in Acts 2 and 4 was occasioned by revelation or is a part of revelation; it was a historical manifestation of Christian love. Evangelical scholarship needs to devote far more attention than it has previously to the problem of the relation of history to revelation. The revelatory character of biblical theology is truly unique; but objective scholarship must freely recognize the degree to which revelation has made use of secular historical factors.

If biblical theology is the normative interpretation of God's redemptive acts, the question must be raised: What is theology? If theology is the permanent and normative element in biblical religion, tested by human reason and religious experience, or if theology is man's theological reflections based on authentic self-understanding (Bultmann), or if theology is the explication, the scientific self-consciousness of faith (Ott), we will have a very different understanding of biblical theology from that of those who regard theology as the theological truth in the inspired Word of God. One of the central doctrines of the Bible is revelation; and biblical theology must rest upon a biblical view of revelation. Traditionally, orthodox theology has tended to regard the Bible as the main vehicle of revelation. Since the entire Bible is equally inspired, it must be of equal theological worth; and theology has the sole task of synthesizing the many statements in the Bible into a coherent whole. However, the Bible is not primarily a book of theology but of history—the history of Israel, of Jesus, of the early Church. This leads to the insight that the divine revelation has occurred in historical events, the most important being the total event of Jesus of Nazareth. Heilsgeschichte designates the theology that sees the self-revelation of God in a select stream of historical events.

The events themselves, however, are not self-explanatory; there was always a divinely initiated prophetic or apostolic word of interpretation. That Jesus died is an objective fact that even the Pharisees could affirm. That Jesus died for our sins is no less an “objective” fact; but it is a theological event occurring within the historical fact which could be understood only from the prophetic word of interpretation. Revelation, therefore, occurred in the complex of event-Word. The normative, interpretative words giving the meaning of the redemptive events were sometimes immediately deposited in written form (the NT Epistles); but sometimes they were first given orally, preserved as an oral tradition, and finally committed to writing (the Gospels). Most of the references in the NT to the “Word of God” designate the spoken word, the gospel, the kerygma, not the written word of the Bible. An Evangelical theology believes that the Holy Spirit superintended the entire process. The Bible is, therefore, both the record of God’s revealing redemptive acts and the final, normative, authoritative deposit of the divinely given word of interpretation. Thus revelation includes both the self-disclosure of God to men, and the disclosure of the theological meaning of God’s revealing acts.

III. Biblical.-Our discipline has to do not only with theology, but with biblical theology in the stricter sense. This term can, of course, designate any theology that is consistent with biblical truth. Such diverse theologies as Calvinism and Dispensationalism consider themselves thoroughly “biblical.” Our discipline, however, designates the theology of the Bible viewed in its own biblical and historical perspective.

III. 圣经神学。我们的学科不只讨论神学，还讨论更严格意义上的圣经神学。当然，这个词语也可以指任何符合圣经真理的神学。加尔文主义、时代主义等多种神学都自称是完全的“圣经”神学。但是，我们的学科指的是从《圣经》和历史角度研究的圣经神学。

Theologies that do not regard the Bible itself as the Word of God and the authoritative interpretation of God's redemptive acting, tend to distinguish sharply between biblical and dogmatic theology. The former is viewed in strictly historical terms as the theology or theologies found in the Bible, and is often indistinguishable from the history of religion. Biblical theology may also be regarded as a cross section of the theological ideas in the Bible which may or may not have normative value. Dogmatic theology is the theology that the modern theologian regards as normative. Such theologies often find their normative element in some modern philosophy such as rationalism, Hegelianism, Ritschlianism, or existentialism. The theological statements of the Bible are used to give greater or lesser support for what each theologian feels to be theologically true.

An Evangelical theology recognizes biblical and dogmatic (or systematic) theology to be equally normative. There are, however, distinct differences between the two disciplines. Biblical theology recognizes progressive revelation in the course of redemptive history and therefore traces the stages of revelation in the Bible to its fulfilment and consummation in Christ. In the course of this historical development, biblical theology must distinguish between that which is contingent and temporary and that which is permanent even though expressed in contingent forms. Systematic theology, on the other hand, is a systematic arrangement of the end product of the history of revelation. Biblical theology is primarily historical; systematic theology is primarily synthetic. Biblical theology, as we have seen, may be defined as the theology of the Bible viewed in its own biblical and historical setting.

A second difference between the two disciplines results from the systematizing principle of dogmatic theology. In pursuing this end, it must ask questions biblical theology does not ask. These questions admittedly come often from a Greek way of thinking. Some scholars insist that a theology that is biblical in any sense ought to be biblical in its form, and that a theology structured in terms of Greek categories must ipso facto be unbiblical. This does not follow. The very word “theology” is a Greek, not a biblical word. Since the theological materials in the Bible are not arranged systematically, any topical arrangement is in a sense artificial, for the Bible is a book of history and not a theology of the covenant. Biblical theology will endeavor so far as possible to retain the biblical order and its structure, while systematic theology may neglect the biblical form in favor of a synthetic or logical arrangement.

To illustrate: there cannot be said to be a “doctrine” of the trinity in the Bible. The very word “trinity” belongs to systematic theology. However, raw materials of a trinitarian theology are to be found in the Bible, for the Bible clearly teaches that the Father is God, that the Son is God, and that the Holy Spirit is God. Thus the Bible demands a trinitarian theology; but the Bible does not itself reflect on the problem of how there can be three persons in a single Godhead. The task of biblical theology is to discover what the various stages of redemptive history teach about God and Christ and the Holy Spirit and to go as far as the Bible itself goes.

举例说明：《圣经》中不可能存在三位一体的“教义”。“三位一体”这个词属于系统神学中的词汇。不过，在《圣经》中一定可以找到三位一体神学的原始材料，因为《圣经》中明确地教导说，天父是上帝，圣子是上帝，圣灵也是上帝。因此，《圣经》需要三位一体神学；但是，《圣经》并没有反映出三个位格是如何在一个神性中实现统一的。圣经神学的任务，是找出救赎历史的各个阶段中关于上帝、基督和圣灵的教导，并尽可能得出符合《圣经》的结论。系统神学于是采用圣经神学的最终结果，然后在此基础上提出其它的神学和哲学问题，其神学构想和表述远远超出了《圣经》，但是它仍然忠实于圣经中的

Systematic theology then takes the end product of biblical theology and asks additional theological and philosophical questions, going farther than the Bible goes in the formulation and expression of theology, yet remaining true to the biblical data.

A third difference is that systematic theology will often organize its materials around some single principle or scheme that may reflect the problems facing men at the time. Many diverse systems of theology appeal to the Bible, e.g., Calvinistic theology, Arminian theology, dispensational theology, and even dialectical and existential theology. Thus systematic theology deals with many questions that do not come within the purview of the biblical theologian, who is concerned with the theology of the Bible seen in its own biblical and historical setting.

IV. Historical.-That revelation has occurred in historical events and that biblical theology must therefore be primarily historical in character and arrangement require further exposition; for the historical nature of revelation is the modern "scandal" of the gospel. Since G. E. Lessing, the modern mind has found it difficult to accept the view that eternal absolute truth can be embodied in the particular, contingent events of history. History by definition involves relativity, particularity, caprice, arbitrariness, whereas revelation must convey the universal, the absolute, the ultimate. History has been called "an abyss in which Christianity has been swallowed up quite against its will."

Further, God and history belong to two

资料。

第三个差异是,系统神学经常围绕某个单一的原则或架构组织材料,这个原则或框架可以反映出当时的人所面临的问题。许多不同的神学体系依赖于《圣经》,如加尔文主义神学、亚米约神学、时代主义神学,乃至辩证神学和存在主义神学。因此,系统神学研究的许多问题都超出了圣经神学家的研究范围,圣经神学家们关注的是圣经和历史背景下的圣经神学。

IV. 历史特性。启示发生在历史事件中,因此圣经神学首先必然在特征和编排上与历史相符,这需要进一步的阐释,这两点还需要进行深入的阐述;因为启示的历史性是福音的现代“丑闻”。自莱辛(G. E. Lessing)开始的现代思想者,他很难接受绝对真理体现在历史中的特殊和偶然事件上这个观点。从定义上讲,历史中包含了相对性、特殊性、善变性和任意性,而启示必须传达普世、绝对和终极的真理。历史被称为“吞噬基督教深渊,虽然这相当违背它的意志”。 different categories. History is concerned with the observable, the natural, the human, while God belongs to the invisible, the supernatural, the spiritual. The historian, as a historian, feels that he can make no statement about God. He can observe what people have thought about God, but he does not feel he can observe God or the acts of God, because God stands above and outside human history and belongs to the realm of faith and spiritual experience.

It is for this reason that scholars like Bultmann have taken offense. It is to them incredible that God could act in history in the terms in which the Bible represents it. To Bultmann, "mythology" included not only ideas of angels, demons, heaven, hell, miracles, etc., but also every attempt to objectify God and His acts, to find the acts of God within the phenomena of world history. Bultmann thought that "we must speak of God as acting only in the sense that He acts with me here and now." For Bultmann, by definition, there could be no Heilsgeschichte in the sense in which we have described it; and he tried to reinterpret the meaning of God's redemptive activity in terms of personal human existence. He did this, however, only at the sacrifice of the gospel itself, which proclaims a redemptive history of which Christ is the end term. The fundamental issue at stake is not the nature of history but the nature of God: whether God is indeed Lord of history or stands quite apart from history.

A second difficulty must be faced. Not only is the Bible conscious that God has been redemptively active in one stream of history in a way in which He is not active in general history; it also is conscious that, at given points, God has acted in history in ways that transcend ordinary historical experience.

历史关注的是看得见的事物、自然和人类，而上帝是无形的、超自然的和属灵的。历史学家认为以他的立场无法谈论上帝。他可以评论人们对上帝的想法，但是，他认为他不能评论上帝或上帝的作为，因为上帝凌驾于人类历史之上，在人类历史之外，祂属于信仰的国度和灵性的体验。

为此，布尔特曼等学者发表了相反的观点。他们难以相信上帝可以按照《圣经》中的描述在历史中行事。对于布尔特曼来说，“神话”不仅包括关于天使、魔鬼、天堂、地狱、神迹等事物的观点，还包括客观地展现上帝和祂的行为的每次尝试，从而在世界历史奇迹中找到上帝的作为。布尔特曼认为“只有上帝此时此地与我一同行事，我们才可以谈论祂”。对于他来说，从定义上讲，不存在我们描述的救恩史；他试图从个人存在的角度重新解释上帝救赎行为的意义。但是，他仅以牺牲福音为代价完成了这种解释，而福音向世人宣布了一段以基督为结局的救赎历史。至关重要的根本问题不是历史的本质，而是上帝的本质：祂主宰着历史还是远远地站在历史之外。

还必须面对另一个难点。《圣经》不仅意识到，上帝在某段历史中救赎世人，却不在一般历史中救赎世人，而且意识到，从某些方面讲，上帝在历史中作为超越了普通历史的经验。

This can best be appreciated by a brief consideration of the nature of “history.” The layman thinks of history as the totality of past events; but a moment’s reflection will show that we have no access whatever to vast areas of past human experience. There can be no history unless there are documents—records of past events. Ancient records, however, do not themselves constitute “history.” The writings of Herodotus are a sort of history, but they are replete with fancy, imagination, and errors. “History” therefore must be understood as the modern historian’s reconstruction of the events of the past by the critical use of ancient documents. In such a reconstruction there must be accepted critical procedures, “ground rules.” When one reads in Greek literature of the activities of the gods among men, he understands this not as history but as mythology.

Many historians feel that this same critical definition of history must be applied to the study of biblical history. This, however, runs head-on into a difficult problem. Frequently the Bible represents God as acting through “ordinary” historical events. The events that brought Israel into captivity in Babylon and later effected their restoration to Palestine were “natural” historical events. God used the Chaldeans to bring defeat to the chosen people and banishment from the land; but it was nonetheless a divine judgment. He also used Cyrus, “his anointed” (Isa. 45:1), as an agent to accomplish the divine purpose of restoring His people to the land. In such events, God was active in history, carrying forward His redemptive purposes through the nation Israel. This one stream of history carries a meaning that sets it apart from all others in the river of history. Within the historical events, the eye of faith can see the working of God.

许多历史学家认为,必须将这个对历史的批判定义应用到圣经历史研究中。但是,这却直接面对着一个难点。《圣经》中经常描述一个在“普通”历史事件中行事的神。以色列被掳巴比伦的事件和后来促使他们归回巴勒斯坦的事件都是“自然的”历史事件。神用迦勒底人打败了祂的选民,把他们从自己的土地中驱逐出去;但这是神的审判。祂还用“祂所膏的”居鲁士(赛 45:1),作为实现神圣旨意的代理人,使祂的子民回到自己的土地上。在这些事件中,神在历史中行事,藉着以色列民族实现祂救赎的旨意。这段历史被赋予了意义,从而让它有别于历史长河中的其他历

Frequently, however, God is represented as acting in unusual ways. Sometimes the revelatory event assumes a character that the modern secular historian calls unhistorical. The God who reveals Himself in redemptive history is both Lord of creation and Lord of history, and He is therefore able not only to shape the course of ordinary historical events but to act directly in ways that transcend usual historical experience.

The most vivid illustration of this is the resurrection of Christ. From the point of view of scientific historical criticism, the Resurrection cannot be “historical,” for it is an event uncaused by any other historical event, and it is without analogy. Indeed God, and God alone, is the cause of the Resurrection. It is therefore causally unrelated to other historical events. Furthermore, nothing like it ever occurred elsewhere. The resurrection of Christ is not the restoration of a dead man to earthly, mortal life but the emergence of a new order of life—resurrection life. If the biblical record is correct, there can be neither “historical” explanation nor analogy of Christ’s resurrection. In fact, its very offense to scientific historical criticism is a kind of negative support for its supernatural character.

The underlying question is a theological one. Is such an alleged supernatural event

史。信心之眼可以在历史事件中看到神的作为。

不过，上帝经常被描述成以不寻常方式行事的神。启示性事件有时具备现代世俗历史学家称之为不符合史实的特点。在救赎历史中显现的神既是造物之主，也是历史之主，因此祂不仅能决定普通历史事件的进程，还能以超越寻常历史经验的方式直接做工。

对此，最为生动的一个例证就是基督的复活。从科学历史批判的角度讲，基督复活不可能是“基于史实的”，因为这一事件不是由其他任何历史事件引起的，不存在可以与之类比的事件。实际上，上帝，也唯独只有上帝是基督复活的原因。因此，从因果关系上讲，基督复活与其他历史事件没有关联性。此外，其他地方也没有发生过类似的事件。基督复活不是一个死人重新获得了尘世上的凡人的生命，而是出现了一种新的生命秩序——复活的生命。如果《圣经》中的记录是正确的，那么不可能存在“基于史实的”解释，也不可能存在与基督复活类似的事件。实际上，基督复活事件因对其超自然特征的消极支持而与科学历史批判的观点相斥。

consistent with the character and objectives of the God who has revealed Himself in holy history? Is history as such the measure of all things, or is the living God indeed the Lord of history? The biblical answer to this question is not in doubt. The Lord of history is transcendent over history yet not aloof from history. He is therefore able to bring to pass in time and space events that are genuine events yet that are “suprahistorical” in their character. This merely means that such revelatory events are not produced by history but that the Lord of history, who stands above history, acts within history for the redemption of historical creatures. The redemption of history must come from outside of history—from God Himself. This does not mean the abandonment of the historical method in studying the Bible. It does mean that at certain points the character of God’s acts is such that it transcends the historical method, and that the historian qua historian can say nothing about them.

V. Revelation.—That revelation has occurred in history leads to the important fact that revelation is progressive. We have said that theology must be concerned with that which is normative and permanently true; but this statement does not imply a static view of revelation. Not all truth was given at one time; and the truth was often conveyed in vehicles that were temporary and transitory. Animal sacrifice and circumcision embodied a permanent theological truth but were not themselves permanent. God in the OT shows Himself to be a God of wrath in ways that violate our modern sense of humanity. That God is a God of wrath is a permanent theological truth emphasized in the NT; but the historical forms in which this truth is conveyed to Israel are temporary.

V. 启示。在历史中出现的启示引出了启示是渐进性的这个重要事实。我们已经说过，神学一定与标准的、永恒的真理有关；然而，这种表述并不意味着启示是静止不动的。并非所有真理都是一次性揭示出来的；真理经常藉着临时而又短暂的媒介被传达出来。燔祭和割礼体现了一则永恒的神学真理，但它们本身并不是永恒的。《旧约》中的耶和华是一个忿怒的神，这有违现代的人道主义。耶和华是忿怒的神，这是《新约》中强调的永恒神学真理；但是传达给以色列的这则真理的历史形式却是暂时的。

Because revelation is progressive, the OT cannot be finally understood by itself but must be interpreted in light of the completed revelation in Christ and the NT. The OT is itself conscious of being incomplete and of looking forward to something beyond itself to provide its fulfillment. While God rules over Israel as His people, the OT constantly looks forward to a day when the kingdom of God will be brought to consummation and God's rule over His people will be realized in its perfection. The institution of the written law is recognized as inadequate, for the prophets looked forward to a day when the law shall be written on the hearts of men (Jer. 31:33). The OT cult is not an end in itself, for the prophets anticipated a day when a true cleansing of the heart will be provided (Zec. 13:1; Ezk. 36:35). Even the OT covenant is not the final form of God's relationship with His people; a new covenant will be required which will accomplish what the old covenant could not do (Jer. 31:31). All these elements in which the theology of the OT looks beyond itself are fulfilled in the NT.

While there is progression in revelation, which comes to fulfillment in Christ, the OT must nevertheless be interpreted in its own historical setting. The meaning of the OT covenant must be interpreted in terms of OT history, not in terms of the Greek idea of a last will and testament, which is made use of by the book of Hebrews (G. B. Payne).

Progressive revelation explains the abolition of the OT cult in the NT, the discontinuance of circumcision, the substitution of the Church for a nation as the people of God, the transition from law to grace. Each stage of biblical theology must first be interpreted in terms of its own historical setting and then the difference discovered between the permanent and the contingent elements in every stage of revelation. This is even true of the NT and the revelation in Christ, for the NT repeatedly teaches that the revelation accomplished in the historical Jesus is yet to assume a different form at the eschatological consummation. Then, that which has accomplished as a mystery in Christ will be publicly displayed to all the world. "Christ" is the fulfillment of revelation, but the term "Christ" includes His parousia and the establishment of the kingdom in glory, as well as His life, death, and resurrection. Revelation still awaits its final consummation.

因为启示是渐进式的, 所以通过《旧约》本身不可能最终读懂《旧约》, 而应当根据在基督里和《新约》中的完整启示来解读《旧约》。《旧约》本身意识到了自身的不完整性, 并希望超越自身的作品达到完整。虽然上帝统治着以色列, 并把以色列视为祂的子民, 但是《旧约》中始终期盼着那一天的到来, 那时神国将实现圆满, 上帝对祂子民的统治将尽善尽美。先知们认为成文律法制度是不完善的, 因此他们希望在那一天到来时, 律法将写在人们的心上(耶 31:33)。《旧约》中的祭仪本身并不是结束, 因为先知们预言, 在那一天到来时, 人的内心将会得到真正的净化(亚 13:1; 结 36:35)。甚至连《旧约》中的约都不是上帝和祂的子民之间关系的最终形式; 那时将另立新约, 从而实现旧约无法做到的事情(耶 31:31)。所有这些超出旧约神学研究范围的元素都在《新约》中得到了阐述。

It simply is not true that the acceptance of the Bible's claim to inspiration means that everything in the Bible must be viewed on the same level of truth (H. Gunkel, RGG [2nd ed.], I, col. 1090). Inspiration means that the Scriptures are a faithful record of redemptive history and an authoritative interpretation of the revelatory meaning of this history. It does not mean that all Scripture is of the same theological value. It leaves room for progressive revelation and historical interpretation.

VI. Hermeneutics.-We have taken the stance that biblical theology is primarily a descriptive historical discipline, but that for the evangelical Christian, who believes that the Bible is the Word of God written, the findings of biblical theology are also of a normative character. This obviously does not mean a one-to-one equivalence.

教会代替国家来作上帝的子民, 神的百姓从守律法过渡到蒙恩。圣经神学的各个阶段必须依据其历史背景来予以解读, 然后根据每个启示阶段中发现的永恒元素和偶然元素之间的差异再次进行解释。《新约》和基督里的启示同样要采用这样的方法, 因为《新约》一再教导, 在历史上的耶稣里完成的启示将在末世成就时呈现出不同的形式。到那时, 现在在基督里成就的奥秘之事将公开地展现给全世界。“基督”是启示的实现, 但是“基督”这个词包括基督复临、荣耀王国的建立, 还包括基督的生平、死亡和复活。启示仍然等待着最终的完满。

VI. 释经学。我们认为圣经神学主要是一门描述性的历史学科, 但却是供福音派基督徒研究的学科, 他们认为《圣经》是成文的神之道, 圣经神学的研究成果也具有规范性的特点。这显然指的不是一种一对一的等价性。《新约》作品受到历史和文化因素的制约, 因此必须对其进行“解读”。在我们西方文化中,

The writings of the NT are historically and culturally conditioned and therefore must be interpreted. No one in our western culture is troubled by the problem of meats offered to idols. Most modern Christians do not apply literally what Peter says about female dress (1 Pet. 3:3f.). Paul's instruction about the role of women is culturally conditioned. In fact, if Paul is taken literally, the evangelical Christian can have little interest in questions of social ethics. Paul explicitly commands his reader to "remain in the state in which he was called" (1 Cor. 7:20), even in slavery. Paul seems to regard all social institutions—whether of slavery or the family—as belonging to "the form of this world [which] is passing away" (1 Cor. 7:31). In such instances, the law of love must take precedence over the letter of Scripture. Scripture must be seen as a whole, not as a collection of legalistic proof texts.

Obviously this raises difficult questions, for equally devout and learned men will come to different conclusions as to the meaning of Scripture for us. Therefore it must be remembered that while the inspired Scripture is the only infallible rule of faith and practice, interpretation is a human discipline, which must be carried out in humility and in love.

VII. Unity and Diversity.—The study of biblical theology must bring out both the diversity and unity in the various portions of the Bible. Authors of several recent works in the field, e.g., F. C. Grant, E. Stauffer, A. Richardson, use the thematic or topical approach, which obscures the rich diversity of the NT. In this respect the historical approach, which studies NT theology in the Synoptics, John, Primitive

没有人会被献给偶像的肉这类问题困扰。大多数现代基督徒不会“按照字面意思”解释彼得关于女性妆饰的话语（彼前 3:3-4）。保罗关于女性地位的教导受到了文化背景的制约。实际上，如果照字面意思理解保罗的话，福音派基督徒并不太关心社会道德问题。保罗明确要求他的读者“蒙召的时候是什么身分，仍要守住这身份”（林前 7:20），即使是奴隶也要守住他们的奴隶身份。保罗似乎认为所有的社会体制——无论是奴隶制还是家族制，都属于“将要过去世界的样子”（林前 7:31）。在这些例子中，爱的律法要比《圣经》中的文字更重要。必须把《圣经》视为一个整体，而不是一部律法证据经文的合集。

VII. 一致性和差异性。在圣经神学研究的过程中，《圣经》各部分之间必然会呈现出差异性和一致性。该领域近期几部作品的作者，如格兰特（F. C. Grant）、施陶费尔（E. Stauffer）和理查森（A. Richardson）采用了主题或论题研究的方法，这种研究方法掩盖了《新约》中的大量差异。从这一点上讲，历史研究法更为可取，神学家们采用这种方法研究了对观福音、《约翰福音》、原

Church, Paul, etc., is to be preferred.

An older approach to biblical theology was content to study the many diverse theologies in the Bible, but the modern approach seeks for some center of unity. The unity may be found in the stream of redemptive history. The Bible reveals one and the same God acting in the course of redemptive history to fulfil His purpose of salvation. "That which brings together indivisibly the two realms of the Old and New Testament—different in externals though they may be—is the irruption of the Kingship of God into this world and its establishment here" (Eichrodt). This is another way of describing the redemptive activity of God in history, which has as its goal the final establishment of the kingdom of God. There is therefore a common purpose running throughout the diversity of the Bible. There are vast differences between a small nomadic patriarchal family, a nation with a king, temple, and priestly cult, and the loose fellowship of believers, largely gentile, who welcomed Paul in Rome. Underlying all the diversity is a single redemptive purpose which unfolds itself throughout the history of Israel and of the Church.

VIII. Methodology.-This leads to the question of the method of structuring biblical theology. Should the approach be historical or topical? The older approach used a severe historical method because it found contradictory theologies, which of necessity must be analyzed separately. The modern method tends to use the topical approach, and to study the theology of both Testaments in a topical manner to bring out the basic unity.

始教会、保罗书信等研究对象中的新约神学。

VII. 方法论。这就引出了系统组织圣经神学研究方法的问题。应该采用历史研究法还是主题研究法？较旧的方法使用了一种严格的历史研究法，因为通过这种研究方法发现，对于那些自相矛盾的神学，必须进行单独分析。现代方法往往使用主题研究法，以分主题的方式研究两约中的神学，从而找出基本的一致性。

Either method is valid; but when the topical approach is used, the historical development involved in the progressive revelation of the several theological concepts must be included. Because the historical period covered by the OT writings is so long and the historical problems are so difficult, it may be convenient to employ the topical method in studying the OT to seek out the underlying concepts of God, man, and salvation. The NT writings, however, have a much more explicit theological content than the OT, and the diversity is more patent. Therefore, lest the variety of interpretation of the meaning of Christ and His work be obscured, it may be preferable to structure NT theology historically along the traditional divisions of Synoptic, Johannine, Primitive Christian, Pauline, etc. In either method, biblical theology must preserve the diversity while showing how the diverse theologies illustrate the central theme of the divine redemptive purpose.

IX. Goal.-If biblical theology is the study of the meaning of God's redeeming acts in Heilsgeschichte, and if the purpose of God's redeeming acts is to disclose Himself to men and thus to bring men to Himself, it follows that biblical theology is far more than an intellectual discipline; it has a spiritual goal, namely, personal knowledge of God. When biblical theology becomes only an intellectual discipline, it is not really theology but the study of the history of religion. In other words, biblical theology cannot be the subject of purely objective neutral study. The historian can observe what the ancients, both in the OT and the NT, thought about God and God's redeeming works; but when the historian takes his task seriously, he “must state that the New Testament demands what he, as an historian, may not give, a judgment of the highest possible urgency for all men and women” (E. C. Hoskyns and F. N. Davey, The Riddle of the NT [1931], p. 263)—a decision for or against God in His self-revelation. This means that faith cannot be compartmentalized and made aloof from historical study; it means also that historical study must be carried on from the perspective of faith. The historian qua historian cannot talk about God; but the biblical student must be both historian and theologian, who recognizes God’s redemptive acts in history, who hears the call of God in the interpretative Word of God, and who responds to God’s self-revelation in faith. Biblical theology therefore has as its goal the description and the interpretation of God’s redeeming acts in history, whereby God desires to bring men into fellowship with Himself. “Objectivity” means neutrality, noncommitment; biblical theology demands commitment, faith, or it is not true to its essential character. “In fact, New Testament scholarship fails in its task when the scholar precisely in his capacity as scholar thinks he has to exclude this claim” (W. G. Kümmel, The NT: The History of the Investigation of its Problems [Eng. tr. 1972], p. 405).

IX. 目标。如果圣经神学研究的是救恩史中上帝救赎行为的意义,而上帝的救赎旨意是为了向世人揭示祂自己,从而将世人引向祂,那么圣经神学就远不止是一门知识学科;它有属灵的目标,也就是,个人对上帝的认识。当圣经神学仅是一门知识学科时,它不是真正的神学,而是对宗教历史的研究。换言之,圣经神学不可能是纯粹客观、中立的研究学科。历史学家可以评论《旧约》和《新约》中的古人对上帝的认识和上帝救赎工作的想法;但是当历史学家认真对待这项研究时,他“迫于《新约》的严格要求,必须做出一个作为历史学家无法做出判断,这一判断对全人类来说具有最高的紧迫性”(E. C. Hoskyns 和 F. N. Davey, The Riddle of the NT [1931], 263 页),即是否承认自我揭示的上帝。这

意味着信心和历史研究是不可分割的整体,同时意味着必须从信心的角度展开历史研究。历史学家本身不能谈论神;但是圣经学者必须既是历史学家也是神学家,他们可以看到上帝在历史中的救赎行为,听到上帝在经过解释的神之道中的召唤,并且以信心回应上帝的自我启示。因此,圣经神学的目标是,描述和解释上帝在历史中的救赎行为,上帝想要借此使世人与祂相交。“客观性”意味着中立和不做承诺;圣经神学需要承诺和信心,否则将有悖圣经神的本质特征。“实际上,当学者的科研能力完全胜任,却认为应当排除以上准则时,才会导致新约学术研究的失败”(W. G. Kümmel, The NT: The History of the Investigation of its Problems [1972年英译本], 405页)。

bik'rī [Heb. bikrī]. Father of Sheba who rebelled against David. Bichri is of the house of Benjamin; the word probably means a "descendant of Becher" (2 S. 20:1ff.). Cf. BECHER 1.

BICHRITES

bik'rīts (2 S. 20:14); AV BERITES; NEB "clan of Bichri." The family or descendants of BICHRI. The RSV and NEB follow Klostermann's suggested emendation of the doubtful MT bērīm to bikrīm. The Vulgate presupposes baḥurīm, "choice young men."

BID.

The word occurs often in the AV, and rather less often in the RSV, for "command," "order," "tell," "invite." The NEB uses instead such words as "tell,"

BICHRI 比基利

音译: bik'rī 【希伯来语: bikrī】。反叛大卫的示巴的父亲。比基利来自便雅悯支派; 比基利这个词的意思可能是“比结的子孙”(撒下 20:1 起)。参: BECHER 1 (比结 1)。

BICHRITES 比利人

音译: bik'rīts (撒下 20:14); 《钦定版圣经》译为 BERITES; 《新英文译本》译为 "clan of Bichri" (汉译同为“比利人”)。比基利(见 BICHRI [比基利]) 家族或比基利的子孙《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》采纳了克劳斯特曼的建议, 将《马所拉文本》中存在争议的 bērīm 修订为 bikrīm。《武加大译本》中假设 baḥurīm 是正确的, 意思是“年富力强的男子”。

BID. 吩咐、叫

这个词经常出现在《钦定版圣经》中, 在《修订标准译本》中出现的次数较少, 它可以表示“吩咐、嘱咐”、“指示”、“告诉”和“请”的含义。《新英文译

“command,” “urge.” In Zeph. 1:7 the AV has “bid” for Heb. qādaš, for which the RSV more properly has “consecrate” (NEB “hallow”).

BIDE.

A variant of “abide,” rendering Gk. periménō, in Wisd. 8:12, AV (RSV “they will wait for me”). In Acts 1:4 the same word is translated “wait for” in both the AV and RSV.

BIDKAR

bid'kār [Heb. bidqar—‘son of Deker’ (?)]. An aide in the service of Jehu, probably an adjutant or the carrier of Jehu’s shield (2 K. 9:25).

BIER

[Heb. miṭṭâ—‘place of reclining,’ ‘bed’] (2 S. 3:31); [miškāb—‘place of lying,’ ‘bed’] (2 Ch. 16:14); AV BED; [Gk. sorós] (Lk. 7:14); COFFIN [Heb. ʾrôn—‘ark,’ ‘chest’ (once meaning the Egyptian type of sarcophagus or mummy case)] (Gen. 50:26).

The Hebrew terms miṭṭâ, miškāb, and ʾrôn indicate “bier” or “coffin” only in contexts involving burials. In classical contexts (according to LSJ, p. 1621), the Gk. sorós was the vessel used for holding human remains—either a cinerary urn, a coffin (sometimes of stone), or a simple bier (Lk. 7:14).

本》中译为“tell”（“吩咐”）、“command”（“吩咐”）和“urge”（“劝、吩咐”）这类词。《钦定版圣经》的《西番雅书》1:7中，用“bid”翻译希伯来词语 qādaš，而《修订标准译本》更为恰当地译作“consecrate”（“使……分别为圣”）（《新英文译本》中译作“hallow”[“使……成圣”]）。

BIDE. 等候

“abide”（“等候”）的一种变体形式，在《钦定版圣经》的《所罗门智训》8:12中，用这个词来翻译希腊词语 periménō（《修订标准译本》译为“they will wait for me”[“他们会等我开口”]）。在《钦定版圣经》和《修订标准译本》的《使徒行传》1:4中，这个词均译为“wait for”（“等候”）。

BIDKAR 毕甲

音译：bid'kār 【希伯来语：bidqar——“底甲的子孙”（不确定）】。耶户军中的一位军长，可能是耶户的副官或是帮他拿盾的人（王下 9:25）。

BIER 棺材、床、杠

【希伯来语：miṭṭâ——“躺靠之地”、“床”】（撒下 3:31）；【希伯来语：miškāb——“躺靠之地”、“床”】（代下 16:14）；《钦定版圣经》译为 BED（“床”）；【希腊语：sorós】（路 7:14）；COFFIN（“棺材”）【希伯来语：ʾrôn——“柜”、“箱子”（有一次用来指埃及的一种石棺或人形棺）】（创 50:26）。

希伯来词语 miṭṭâ、miškāb 和 ʾrôn 只在涉及到“葬礼”的语境中才表示“棺材”的含义。在传统语境中（根据 LSJ, 1621 页），希腊词语 sorós 指的是用来装人体残骸的器皿——可能是骨灰罐，也可能是棺材（有时是石棺），还有一种简易的杠（路 7:14）。

That the bier was portable is seen from David's following Abner's bier (2 S 3:31) and from the fact that the young man's bier touched by Jesus was being carried out of the city of Nain for burial (Lk. 7:12-14). These portable biers may have been like the wooden slabs used in Moslem funerals today. King Asa's funeral bier (2 Ch. 16:14, Heb. miškāb; LXX klīnē), which was filled with various kinds of spices and placed in the tomb he had carved out in the city of David, must have been more impressive in construction.

In times subsequent to the NT the Gk. sorós could indicate a symbolic bier or coffin carved on an altar erected at a family vault, with a warning against intruders (CBP, II, 717, no. 651 [mid-3rd cent. A.D.]). It could also be used in this general period to indicate a sarcophagus (W. M. Calder, Expos. 7th series, 6 [1908], 387, inscr. 4th cent. A.D.).

big'thə [Heb. big'ṭā'; Gk. Barazi, B Bōrazē, A Oarebōa]. One of the seven eunuchs or chamberlains having charge of the harem of King Xerxes (Ahasuerus) and commanded to bring Vashti to the king's banquet (Est. 1:10).

大卫跟在押尼珥的棺后 (撒下 3:31), 还有耶稣所按的那个年轻人的杠当时正准备抬到拿音城外安葬 (路 7:12-14), 这都表明这种棺材是可以搬运的。这些可搬运的棺材可能很像现代穆斯林葬礼中使用的木板。亚撒王的葬棺 (代下 16:14, 希伯来语: miškāb; 《七十士译本》译为 klīnē) 堆满了各样馨香的香料, 他被葬在了大卫城他自己所凿的坟墓里, 这个葬棺的建造一定给人留下了更为深刻的印象。

在继新约之后的时期, 希腊词语 sorós 可以用来指家族墓穴中祭坛上雕刻的象征性的杠或棺材的图案, 上面还刻着禁止闯入的警示语 (CBP, II, 717, 651 号 [3 世纪中期])。这个词也可以用来指大致这一时期使用的一种石棺 (W. M. Calder, Expos. 第 7 期, 6 [1908], 387, 4 世纪铭文)。

音译: big'thə 【希伯来语: big'ṭā'; 希腊语: Barazi, 《梵蒂冈抄本》中译作 Bōrazē, 《亚历山太抄本》中译作 Oarebōa】。薛西斯王 (亚哈随鲁) 的七个负责管理后宫的太监或管家之一, 薛西斯命他们请瓦实提到王的宴会中来 (斯 1:10)。

BIGTHAN 辟探

音译: big'thən; BIGTHANA (“辟探”)

big^etān, bigetānā']. One of the two chamberlains or eunuchs of Xerxes (Ahasuerus) who conspired against the king's life and were hanged after the conspiracy was detected by Mordecai (Est. 2:21; 6:2). Possibly these men had been partially superseded by the degradation of Vashti and were thus prompted to take revenge on Xerxes. Some have identified him with the BIGTHA of Est. 1:10.

1. AV Apoc., NEB Apoc., ENENIUS, BAGOI, BAGO. The head of one of the families who returned from Babylon with Zerubbabel (Ezr. 2:2; Neh. 7:7; cf. 1 Esd. 5:8; see also NAHAMANI). The household was a large one (2,056 according to Ezr. 2:14; 2,067 according to Neh. 7:19; 2,066 according to 1 Esd. 5:14), besides the seventy-two males who returned later under Ezra (Ezra 8:14; cf. 1 Esd. 8:40).

BIGVAI 比革瓦依

音译: big'vī 【希伯来语: bigway; 希腊语: Enēnios, Bogoi, Bago (拉一 5:8, 14; 8:40)】。

1、《钦定版圣经》的《次经》和《新英文译本》的《次经》译为 ENENIUS(“埃尼纽斯”)、BAGOI(“比革瓦依”)、BAGO(“比革瓦依”)。与所罗巴伯一同从巴比伦归回的部族首领之一(拉 2:2; 尼 7:7; 参: 拉一 5:8; 另见 NAHAMANI[拿哈玛尼])。这是一个人口众多的部族(根据《以斯拉记》2:14 中的记载,该部族有 2,056 人;根据《尼希米记》7:19 中的记载,该部族有 2,067 人;根据《以斯得拉一书》5:14 中的记载,该部族有 2,066 人),不包括后来跟随以斯拉一同归回的 72 名男丁(拉 8:14; 参: 拉一 8:40)。

2、与尼希米一起在约上签名的人之一(尼 10:16)。

音译: bil'dad 【希伯来语: bildad】。约伯的第二个朋友,这三个朋友“为他悲伤,安慰他”(伯 2:11)。我们不能确定

no certain meaning to his name—“Bel has loved” is most improbable—and that we do not know where Shuah his home was, beyond the reasonable certainty that it was somewhere in Transjordan, is reasonable evidence that neither he nor his friends are to be understood in any typical sense.

Though he was evidently a rich chief, Bildad is presented like his friends primarily as one of the wise, and hence no details of his family are given, in contrast to Elihu. We gain the impression that he was somewhat younger than Eliphaz, and he was clearly above all a traditionalist (8:8–10). Hence he had far less sympathy with Job, for he considered the traditional teaching that suffering is the immediate outcome of sin to be an adequate explanation of what had come upon him.

He speaks three times (chs. 8, 18, 25). Already in his first speech he clearly hinted at the cause of Job’s troubles (8:11–13), and he did not hesitate to refer to the fate of Job’s children (8:4; 18:5f., 19). In his second speech he clearly used Job’s own experience in his picture of the fate of the wicked. His third speech is very brief and is an appeal to the omnipotence of God and the depravity of man. Its brevity may be a sign that he no longer considered Job worth arguing with, or it may be due to textual corruption (see ZOPHAR). Bildad is so bound by tradition that he is hardly concerned with Job as a man; note the almost perfunctory promise of restoration in 8:20–22 in contrast to that by Eliphaz (5:17–26; 22:21–30).

bil’ē-əm [Heb. bil’ām; Gk. Iblaam]. A

这个名字的确切含义——“彼勒所爱的”最不可能是这个名字的含义——我们也不能确定他的家乡书亚的位置，有种说法认为书亚在外约旦的某个地方，但这超出了合理推断的范围，这两个不能确定的因素可以证明，比勒达或他的朋友都不具有任何特定含义。

虽然比勒达显然是一个富有的首领，但是他像他的朋友们一样首先是智慧的人，因此，经文中给出了以利户家族的细节，却没有给出比勒达家族的细节。我们印象中的比勒达要比以利法年轻一些，最重要的是，他显然是一个传统主义者（伯 8:8）。因此，他对约伯的同情远不及其他的朋友那样深，因为他认为苦难是罪的直接后果这一传统教义足以解释发生在约伯身上的事。

比勒达曾三次发言（8、18 和 25 章）。早在他的第一次发言中，他明显暗示出约伯所遇麻烦的原因（伯 8:11-13），并且毫不犹豫地指出了约伯儿女的命运（伯 8:4; 18:5-6, 19）。在他的第二次发言中，他显然用约伯的亲身经历描绘了恶人的命运。他的第三次发言非常简短，他在这次发言中指出了上帝的无所不能和人类的堕落。这个简短的发言可能表明，他认为不值得与约伯争论或可能是由于经文删减造成的（见 ZOPHAR[琐法]）。比勒达固守传统，以致于他几乎不把约伯当人对待；与以利法的回答（伯 5:17–26; 22:21–30）相比，比勒达只是敷衍地许诺说，神会恩待约伯（伯 8:20-22）。

BILEAM 比连

音译：bil’ē-əm 【希伯来语：bil’ām；希

town in the territory of Manasseh assigned to the Kohathite Levites (1 Ch. 6:70), probably the same as Ibleam (Josh. 17:11; etc.), and identical with the modern Tell Bel'ameh, half a mile S of Jenîn.

BILGAH

bil'gə [Heb. bilgâ—'cheerfulness,' 'brightness']. A priest or priestly family (1 Ch. 24:14); the fifteenth of twenty-four divisions of priests who officiated in the temple. A chief of the priests by this name is listed among those who returned from exile with Zerubbabel (Neh. 12:5, 18); he is probably the same as Bilgai (Neh. 10:8).

BILGAI

bil'gī [Heb. bilgay] (Neh. 10:8). See BILGAH.

BILHAH

bil'hə [Heb. bilhâ]. A slave girl whom Laban gave to Rachel (Gen. 29:29), and whom the latter gave to Jacob as a concubine (30:3f.). Bilhah was the mother of Dan and Naphtali (30:4, 7; 35:25; 46:25; 1 Ch. 7:13). Reuben committed incest with her (Gen. 35:22).

BILHAH

bil'hə [Heb. bilhâ; Gk. A Balaa, B Abella]. A city in Simeon (1 Ch. 4:29), probably identical with BAALAH (2) (Josh. 15:29), Balah (19:3), and perhaps Baalath (19:44). The site is unknown.

BILHAN

bil'han [Heb. bilhān].

腊语: Iblaam】。歌辖族的利未人在玛拿西支派的地中得到的一座城邑(代上 6:70),可能是以伯莲(书 17:11 等),也就是现代的贝拉米废丘(Tell Bel'ameh),位于杰宁以南半英里处。

音译: bil'gə【希伯来语: bilgâ——“高兴”、“愉快”】。一个祭司或祭司家族(代上 24:14);在圣殿中侍奉的 24 个祭司班次中的第 15 个班次。与所罗巴伯一同从被掳归回的一个做祭司的首领也叫璧迦(尼 12:5, 18);他可能就是璧该(尼 10:8)。

BILGAI 璧该

音译: bil'gī【希伯来语: bilgay】(尼 10:8)。见 BILGAH (璧迦)。

BILHAH 辟拉

音译: bil'hə【希伯来语: bilhâ】。拉班给拉结的一个婢女(创 29:29),后来她又送给雅各作了他的妾(创 30:3-4)。辟拉是但和拿弗他利的母亲(创 30:4, 7; 35:25; 46:25; 代上 7:13)。流便和她曾作出乱伦之事(创 35:22)。

BILHAH 辟拉

音译: bil'hə【希伯来语: bilhâ; 希腊语《亚历山太抄本》作 Balaa,《梵蒂冈抄本》作 Abella】。西缅支派的一座城市(代上 4:29),可能是 BAALAH (见 BAALAH [2])(书 15:29)、Balah(书 19:3)或 Baalath(书 19:44),汉译均为“巴拉”。尚不能确定该地的位置。

BILHAN 辟罕、比勒罕

音译: bil'han【希伯来语: bilhān】。

1. A Horite chief, son of Ezer (Gen. 36:27; 1 Ch. 1:42).

2. A descendant of Benjamin, son of Jediel, father of seven sons who were heads of houses in their tribes (1 Ch. 7:10).

BILL

[Heb. sēper] (Dt. 24:1, 3; Isa. 50:1); NEB NOTE, DEED; [Gk. grámmata (pl. of grámma—‘letter, document’)] (Lk. 16:6f.); NEB ACCOUNT.

The Heb. seper k^erítút is used four times in the OT to indicate a “bill of divorce” (cf. Jer. 3:8, “decree of divorce”). In this usage the meaning is merely “certificate.” See DIVORCE.

The two NT uses of the word refer to a notation of a commercial transaction, a certificate of indebtedness (Lk. 16:6f.). Elsewhere in the NT grámma is translated “letter,” “scripture,” “writing,” “learning.” It is used in Koine Greek to refer to letters of the alphabet and then to any letter or written document. MM give examples of usage in contemporary papyri in the sense of “bond” or “contract” (p. 131). Josephus used the word of a promissory note for money loaned to Herod Agrippa as his written bond and security (Ant. xviii.6.5 [156]).

The content of the contract of Lk. 16:6f. has been discussed but can hardly be determined because of lack of evidence. It could have been a note with a promise to repay the debt in kind at some future date, in accordance with the examples above. The other suggestion is that the contract

1、辟罕：何利人的一位族长，以察的儿子（创 36:27；代上 1:42）。

2、比勒罕：便雅悯支派的子孙，耶叠的儿子，比勒罕的七个儿子分别是他们所在支派的族长（代上 7:10）。

BILL 书、账

【希伯来语：sēper】（申 24:1，3；赛 50:1）；《新英文译本》中译为 NOTE 和 DEED（汉译均为“书”）；【希腊语：grámmata（grámma 的复数形式——“字母、文件”）】（路 16:6-7）；《新英文译本》译为 ACCOUNT（“账”）。

《旧约》中曾 4 次使用希伯来词语 seper k^erítút 来表示“休书”（参：耶 3:8，“decree of divorce”，“休书”）。在这个用法中，bill 仅为“certificate”（“字据”）。见 DIVORCE（休妻）。

《新约》中曾 2 次用这个词表示一种商业交易的凭证、一种借据（路 16:6-7）。在《新约》的其他经文中，grámma 被译为“letter”（“字母”）、“scripture”（“经”）、“writing”（“著作”）和“learning”（“知识”）。在通用希腊语中，这个词指的是字母表中的字母，进而可以表示任何信件或书面文件。莫尔顿和米利根举例说明了，同一时期的一份蒲草纸中采用了这个词的“契约”的含义（131 页）。约瑟夫斯使用这个词表示书面契约和借款的借据，证明他把钱借给了希律亚基帕（(Ant. xviii.6.5 [156])）。

《路加福音》16:6-7 中的契约内容一直在被讨论，但因缺乏证据，很难最终定论。根据上面的例子推测，它可能是一种保证未来某天一定以实物还债的票据。还有人认为这个契约可能是一种地租契约，规定每年所需交出的收成。 was a rental contract specifying so much produce to be paid per year.

It is also questioned whether the debtor was to write a new bond or to alter the existing one. We may suppose he did the latter, which was easier and had less chance of being discovered. (See also BOND.)

bil’shan [Heb. bilšān; Gk. Apoc. Beelsarus (1 Esd. 5:8)]; AV and NEB Apoc. BEELSARUS. An Israelite who returned with Zerubbabel (Ezr. 2:2; Neh. 7:7). The rabbis understood Bilshan as a surname of the preceding Mordecai, though this interpretation is questionable.

BIMHAL

bim’hal [Heb. bimhāl]. A descendant of Asher (1 Ch. 7:33).

BIND.

An important figurative usage occurs in Mt. 16:19; 18:18: “Whatever you bind (Gk. déō) on earth shall be bound in heaven,” spoken by Jesus to His disciples. Necessarily certain powers for administration must be conferred on the company of men to carry out the purpose of Christ. That this power was not

BILLOWS 波浪

【希伯来语：gallîm——“波浪”】。比喻不断遭遇灾祸：“你的波浪洪涛漫过我身”（诗 42:7；参：拿 2:3）。

BILSHAN 必珊

音译：bil’shan 【希伯来语：bilšān；希腊语《次经》作 Beelsarus（拉一 5:8）】；《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》的《次经》中译为 BEELSARUS（“必珊”）。与所罗巴伯一同归回的一个以色列人（拉 2:2；尼 7:7）。拉比认为必珊是前面的末底改的别名，但是这种解释值得怀疑。

BIMHAL 宾哈

音译：bim’hal 【希伯来语：bimhāl】。亚设的子孙（代上 7:33）。

出现在《马太福音》16:19 和 18:18 中的一个重要的比喻用法：耶稣对祂的门徒说，“凡你在地上所捆绑的（希腊语：déō），在天上也要捆绑”。为达成基督的旨意而传道的人们一定被赋予了某些权柄。根据《马太福音》18:18 中的描述，不是只有彼得被赋予了这种权柄，这权柄显然被赐给了所有的使徒 conferred on Peter alone is evident from Mt. 18:18, where clearly it is given to all the apostles. The use of the word in the NT is to declare a thing to be binding or obligatory (Jn. 20:23). In this sense this authority is used by some denominations in the service in preparation for the Lord's Supper, in which after the confession of sin by the people the minister says, "I declare to you who have sincerely repented of your sins and believe on the Lord Jesus Christ the entire forgiveness of your sins." This statement is followed by the further declaration that if any have not so repented God will not forgive them, but will retain them and call them to account. The claim of the Roman Catholic Church that these statements of Our Lord confer on the priests and bishops, or primarily on the pope, special power to retain or forgive sins, is without historical or scriptural validity. See FORGIVENESS; KEY; PETER.

BINDERS

(2 Ch. 34:11); CLAMPS (1 Ch. 22:3) [Heb. m^eḥabb^erôṭ]; AV COUPLINGS, JOININGS; NEB also RAFTERS (2 Ch. 34:11). Both references are to the temple. The "clamps" used in building it were of iron, whereas the "binders" employed in its rebuilding were timber, probably connecting beams running perpendicular to the main beams.

bin'ē-ə [Heb. bin'ā]. A name in the genealogy of Benjamin (1 Ch. 8:37; 9:43).

bin' 00-ī [Heb. binnûy—'a building up'].

的。《新约》中使用这个词来宣布捆绑的事或义务(约 20:23)。从这个意义上说,一些教派在为主的晚餐做准备时使用这个权柄,人们在完成告解之后,牧师说道,“我宣布,真心悔罪并信奉主耶稣基督的人啊,你们的罪过得到完全赦免。”然后进一步说道,如果人们不这样悔改,那么神就不会宽恕他们,让罪留在他们身上,并为之付出代价。罗马天主教教会宣称我们主的这些话语赋予了祭司和主教,或主要赋予教皇保留或赦免罪的特殊权柄,但这种宣称没有任何历史或圣经根据。见 FORGIVENESS (赦免); KEY (钥匙); PETER (彼得)。

LITERATURE

VI. IN APOCALYPTIC LITERATURE AND VISIONS

VII. IN THE TEACHING OF JESUS

I. Origin.-It is agreed that birds appeared on this planet before man and in connection with the fish, whether one argues the case for the theory of evolution, which places the origin of birds at ca. 125,000,000 years ago, or for the doctrine of a creation in seven literal days. Just as the Bible associates the fashioning of the luminaries on the fourth day with the making of light on the first day, and the creation of land creatures, beasts, and man on the sixth day with the making of land and vegetation on the third day, so also it parallels the bringing forth of the fish and fowl on the fifth day with the separation of the water from the atmosphere on the second day. The fossils Archeopteryx and Archaeornis are often regarded as connecting links in the evolution of the reptile to the bird. However, they must be classified as birds because they had feathers, wings for flying, feet for perching, and were warm-blooded. Their lizardlike tails, teeth, and claws on wings may be features only of extinct species of birds.

Because birds were created by God (Gen. 1:20f.) and continue to owe their fecundity to His blessings (v. 22), they are both owned and known by Him (Ps. 50:10f.; Mt. 10:29), and they are called upon to praise Him along with all His creation (Ps. 148:1-14).

Because God's spokesman in Genesis refused to reduce Yahweh to a nature deity, but rather insisted that He was the Creator of the cosmos, the Israelites

VI. 启示文学和异象中的鸟

VII. 基督教导中的鸟

I. 起源。对于鸟类的起源，无论是从进化论角度(这种观点认为鸟类大约起源于一亿两千五百万年前)还是从神七天创世这个教义的角度来论证，学者们都认同鸟在地球上的出现的时间比人类早，且与鱼类存在着一定关联。正如《圣经》中第四天光体的创造与第一天光的创造是相关联的，第六天地上生物、野兽和人的创造与第三天土地和植物的创造是相关联的，那么相应地，第五天鱼和鸟的创造与第二天神分开空气和水也同样是相关联的。始祖鸟化石和古鸟化石常被认为是爬行动物向鸟类进化过程中的连接环节。但是，它们必须被归类为鸟，因为它们有羽毛，有赖以飞翔的翅膀和栖息停驻所需的爪子，而且它们属于恒温动物。它们蜥蜴般的尾巴、牙齿和翅膀上的爪子可能只是鸟类中灭绝物种的特征。

因为鸟是由神创造的(创 1:20-21)，并且始终得到神的赐福(创 1:22)，滋生繁多，它们属于神，祂也知道它们(诗 50:10-11；太 10:29)，它们应该和其他受造物一起赞美神(诗 148:1-14)。

avoided the folly of the priests of the surrounding nature religions, who reduced man to the point of worshiping birds (Ex. 20:3f.; Rom. 1:23). Moreover, by separating the Creator from His creation, the Hebrews described birds not as gods empowered to act in unpredictable, magical ways, but as creatures of an orderly, predictable universe. The modern ornithologists R. C. Murphy and D. Amadon have said: “To judge from the Old Testament, the inheritors of the Land of Canaan were extraordinarily good naturalists” (cited by Parmelee, p. 20). Concerning the description of the behavior of an ostrich in Job 39:13–18 they note: “Few readers of the Bible realize how exact is this passage” (ibid., p. 204).

II. Identification.—Created in the image of the eternal Ruler, man is given the mandate by Him to “have dominion” over the creation, including the birds (Gen. 1:26–28). To achieve this aim, God brought the creatures to man, and by labeling them, presumably according to their unique qualities, man began the process of reducing the world to a conceptual order (G. von Rad, OT Theology, I [Eng. tr. 1962], 158). Unfortunately this catalogue by the first naturalist, whose powers of observation were not jaded by the Fall, could not be recorded. But modern ornithologists of Palestinian birds resumed the task, beginning with Frederick Hasselquist in 1750. His list of fifteen birds was considerably expanded by Henry B. Tristram in his classic work, Flora and Fauna of Palestine (1884), to include 348 species. F. S. Bodenheimer (1953) listed 413 species and subspecies (cf. Ps. 104:24).

的错误,这些祭司堕落到让人崇拜鸟类(出 20:3-4; 罗 1:23)。此外,通过把造物主和受造物分开,希伯来人没有把鸟描绘成变幻莫测、精通法术的神明,而是把它们描绘成可预知宇宙中的寻常生物。现代鸟类学者墨菲(R. C. Murphy)和阿马登(D. Amadon)曾说过:“从《旧约》中的描述来判断,迦南地的继承者是极为杰出的自然主义者”(Parmelee 的引用, 20 页)。关于《约伯记》39:13–18 中对鸵鸟行为的描述,两位学者评论道:“很少有圣经读者意识到这段经文是多么的准确”(出处同上, 204 页)。

II. 鉴别。人类是按照永世的君王形象创造出来的,神授予人类“管理”受造物的权柄,包括鸟类(创 1:26–28)。为了实现这个目的,神把走兽飞鸟都带到人的面前,让人为它们分类——或许依据它们各自的特性,人在此过程中将世界万物简化成了一个概念序列(G. von Rad, OT Theology, I [1962 年英译本], 158)。遗憾的是,这位自然主义者在堕落之前所创建的分类目录没能被记录下来。但是,1750 年,自弗雷德里克·哈塞尔奎斯特起,研究巴勒斯坦鸟类的现代鸟类学家重新肩负起了这项任务。崔斯特瑞姆(Henry B. Tristram)在他的经典作品 Flora and Fauna of Palestine (1884) 中极大地扩充了弗雷德里克所创建的 15 种鸟类的列表,扩充之后的列表中包含 348 种鸟类。博登海默(F. S. Bodenheimer)于 1953 年列出了 413 种鸟类和鸟类亚种(参:诗 104:24)。

But the exegete's task of relating the birds mentioned in the Bible to these known species is complicated by two facts. First, the biblical writers speak of only some fifty birds, and therefore must have classified more than one species in some instances under one label. Second, the names mentioned once or twice with little clue as to their identity will always remain a difficulty. For G. R. Driver's identification of the birds listed in Lev. 11:13-19, see ABOMINATION, BIRD OF.

III. In Legal Literature.-The divine law specified that those too poor to offer animals from the herd or flock be allowed instead to offer turtledoves (Heb. tōr) or young pigeons (Heb. yōnâ, covering all species of the large family designated Columbidae) as a burnt offering (Lev. 1:14; 14:22)—either as a sin offering or in connection with the reparation offering (Lev. 5:7), in the ritual cleansing of the leper (Lev. 14:22, 30), and for other purifications (Lev. 12:6, 8; 15:14, 29; Nu. 6:10). The turtledove and young pigeons are cousins, but their habits are different. The turtledove is a wild bird, never domesticated like the pigeon, for it has strong migratory habits (cf. Cant. 2:12). Only from April to October can turtledoves be obtained, for they spend the winter in Africa. Therefore the pigeon had to be authorized for winter sacrifices. The adjective “young” has significance. The common rock doves are extremely wary, fly fast, and cannot easily be trapped. But at any time of the year a search among the rocks discovers nests of these abundant birds with helpless young. In the rituals for cleansing a leper or a house, two birds (sippor, meaning any little bird) were used (Lev. 14:4-7, 49-53). In each case one

但是，有两个事实导致将《圣经》中的鸟类与目前已知的鸟类物种相关联变得格外复杂。首先，圣经作者仅提到了约 50 种鸟类，因此，在某些情况下，一个名称下必定包含了多个物种。其次，《圣经》中提到过一两次却没有给出特别线索的鸟类始终难以鉴别。关于德赖弗 (G. R. Driver) 识别出的《利未记》11:13 - 19 中的鸟类，见 ABOMINATION, BIRD OF (可憎的鸟)。

III. 律法书中的鸟。神圣的律法规定，那些太贫穷而不能拿牲畜献祭的人可以献斑鸠（希伯来语：tōr）或雏鸽（希伯来语：yōnâ，包括“鸠鸽科”这个大科下的所有鸟类物种），（利 1:14；14:22）为燔祭，这两种鸟既可以用在赎罪祭或与赎愆祭相关的燔祭上（利 5:7），也可以用在麻风病人的洁净仪式（利 14:22, 30）和其他洁净仪式上（利 12:6, 8；15:14, 29；民 6:10）。斑鸠和雏鸽是近亲，但是它们的习性不同。斑鸠是一种野生的鸟类，不能像鸽子一样被驯养，因为它们有强烈的迁徙习性（歌 2:12）。仅在四月到十月之间可以捕获斑鸠，因为它们在非洲过冬。因此，鸽子被指定为冬天的祭物。形容词“young”（“年轻的”）拥有重要的意义，普通的原鸽非常机警，飞行速度很快，不太容易捕获。但一年四季都可以在岩石中间的鸟巢中找到这种数量众多的鸟类和它们的雏鸟。在麻风病人或房屋的洁净仪式中，要用到两只鸟（sippor，可以指任何小鸟）（利 14:4-7, 49-53）。在上面的两种洁净仪式中，要杀死其中一只鸟，放生另一只鸟。这其中可能预表着“耶稣被交给人，是为我们的过犯；复活，是为叫我们称义”（罗 4:25）。 was killed and the other let go. Perhaps this is a picture of the one “who was put to death for our trespasses and raised for our justification” (Rom. 4:25).

The law also distinguished the cultically acceptable birds from those cultically unacceptable (Lev. 11:13–19, 46; 20:25; Dt. 14:11–18). Israel was enjoined to eat clean birds (Dt. 14:11), i.e., those that fed on grain; but they were forbidden to eat BIRDS OF PREY that fed on carrion or blood, because both were cultically unclean (Lev. 17:10–14; see ABOMINATION, BIRDS OF).

Finally, the law forbade robbing a nest and taking the mother bird as well (Dt. 22:6–7). This commandment, like the fifth of the Decalogue (Ex. 20:12), also has the promise “that it may go well with you, and that you may live long.” This law was not only humane but also prudent, for it helped to conserve Israel’s natural heritage.

IV. In Narrative Literature.—The accuracy with which birds are described in the historical literature is striking. The book of Genesis says that Noah used first the raven and then the dove to determine whether the water had subsided (Gen. 8:6–13). Whereas the raven continued flying to and fro from the ark until the water subsided, the dove returned quickly to the ark the first time she was let go, returned with a newly plucked olive leaf in her beak the second time, and did not return the third time. A. Heidel noted the superiority of the biblical account to the parallel account in the Babylonian Gilgamesh Epic where Utnapishtim, called “the exceedingly wise,” first sent a dove, then a swallow, and finally a raven

律法也从宗教信仰上将可吃的鸟和不可吃的鸟分别出来（利 11:13–19, 46; 20:25; 申 14:11–18）。律法规定以色列人吃洁净的鸟（申 14:11），即那些以谷物为食的鸟；但是禁止他们吃那些食腐肉或血的鸷鸟（见 BIRDS OF PREY[鸷鸟]），因为从宗教信仰上讲，腐肉和血都是不洁净的（利 17:10–14；见 ABOMINATION, BIRDS OF[可憎的鸟]）。

最后，律法禁止他们将鸟窝中的雏鸟和母鸟一并取去（申 22:6–7）。这个条例，像摩西十诫中的第五诫一样（出 20:12），也应许“这样你可以享福，日子得以长久”。这一律法不仅是仁慈的，也是明智的，因为它有利于使以色列的自然遗产的保护。

IV. 叙事文学中的鸟。历史文献中对鸟类的描述非常准确。《创世记》中记载，挪亚首先放出一只乌鸦和一只鸽子来确定水从地上退了没有（创 8:6–13）。乌鸦在方舟上方来回盘旋，直到水退去；而鸽子第一次被放出去时，很快回到了方舟那里，鸽子第二次被放出时，嘴里叼着一个新拧下来的橄榄枝叶子，鸽子第三次被放出去后，就不再回来。海德尔（A. Heidel）认为与巴比伦吉尔伽美什史诗中的描述相比，《圣经》中的记载更具优越性，根据前者的描述，乌特纳比西丁（史诗中称他为“极其智慧之人”）首先放出了一只鸽子，然后放出了一只燕子，最后放出了一只乌鸦（A. Heidel, Gilgamesh Epic and OT Parallels [1963], 252–253 页）。虽然任何地方都没有提及过挪亚的智慧，但这

(A. Heidel, Gilgamesh Epic and OT Parallels [1963], pp. 252f.). Noah, whose wisdom is nowhere mentioned, showed much more knowledge about birds. Parmelee wrote: "In selecting the raven as his first scout Noah made an excellent choice, for [the raven] is a powerful and unusually astute bird.... With a wing spread of four feet and great strength and endurance, ravens survive where smaller, weaker birds perish.... they can fly without rest for long periods of time, covering immense distances.... Because they have heavy beaks and can eat almost anything including carrion, Noah's raven would have found enough to eat in the floating wreckage of a flooded world" (Parmelee, pp. 54f.). The dove, believed to be the ancestor of the message-carrying homer pigeon, was an excellent second selection. "When it flies it attains remarkable speed in its first moments and can cover long distances very rapidly. It nests in cliffs and on ledges, preferring pleasant valleys to barren wastes or wind-swept mountains" (Parmelee, p. 55).

In the episode where Yahweh confirmed His promise to give Abram the land of Israel, the relatively defenseless turtledove and fledgling lay exposed under the birds of prey that characteristically swooped down upon them (Gen. 15:9-12). The attack probably continued until night-fall, for the sudden dive of one is a signal to the others, who in turn transmit the signal until hungry birds from miles around gather at the feast. Their arrival, however, would have ceased at sunset, for recent experiments have shown that carrion-feeding birds locate their food by sight rather than smell (Parmelee, p. 63.). Throughout the attack Abram "blew" them away. Perhaps this incident is a cameo of Israel's future history in which foreign powers attempt to frustrate God's promise to give Israel the land, but by His vigilant care Israel possesses it.

耶和華曾印證賜亞伯拉罕以色列地為業的應許, 在這段經文中, 有鸚鵡俯衝下來, 相對無防禦能力的斑鳩和剛會飛的雛鳥暴露在鸚鵡的視線之下 (創 15:9-12)。這次進攻可能一直持續到夜幕降臨, 因為一只鸚鵡的俯衝動作對其他鸚鵡來說是一個信號, 這種信號被依次傳遞出去, 直到周圍幾英里內飢餓的鳥都來享用這頓美餐。但直到日落時, 它們不再向這裡趕來, 因為最近的實驗證明, 食腐肉的鳥類用視力而不是嗅覺來定位它們的食物 (Parmelee, 63 頁)。在它們撲向食物時, 亞伯蘭把它們“吓飛了”。這個事件可能預示著後來以色列的歷史, 在這段歷史中, 外邦勢力試圖阻撓上帝實現賜予以色列地業的應許, 但是藉著祂警惕的看顧, 以色列得

The description of the very edible quail (undoubtedly the common quail, Coturnix communis or C. dactylisonans) that provided meat for the Israelites in the wilderness also corresponds accurately to modern observation in its details—the great multitude of the birds, their use of wind in their migration (during March and April, and August and September), the lowness of their flight, the ease with which they are netted when weary. “Pliny told the story of a boat crossing the Mediterranean on which so many quails alighted that it sank” (Parmelee, p. 76).

Both references to birds in the description of Solomon's glory are of uncertain derivation and meaning. The “fatted fowl” (Heb. barburîm^a*hûsîm*, 1 K 4:23 [MT 5:3]) may be derived from a root meaning “be white.” L. Köhler proposed that it is cognate with Arab. abu burbur (“the cuckoo”), presumably referring to a tidbit like the Roman dish of larks' tongues. J. Gray suggested “geese.” G. R. Driver offered the best suggestion in deriving it from Arab. birbir, “chicken.” This prolific bird, valuable for its eggs, originated as a wild, red, jungle fowl in India, Burma, and Malaya and is believed to have become domesticated before 2700 B.C. It was carried from its original home to all parts of the world and has become the world's most valuable bird (Parmelee, p. 122). The peacocks (Heb. tukkiyîm) mentioned in 1 K. 10:22 may be baboons, according to W. F. Albright (J. B. Gray, I & II Kings [OTL, 1970], pp. 142f., 262–68).

对于可食用鹌鹑（无疑是常见的鹌鹑，拉丁语：Coturnix communis 或 C. dactylisonans）的描述也非常符合现代的详细观察结果，旷野中的以色列人就吃鹌鹑的肉，这种鸟类数目众多，借助风力迁徙（三月和四月之间，以及八月和九月之间），它们飞行高度较低，在它们疲惫时很容易捕捉到。“蒲林尼讲述了一艘船在横渡地中海时，因有太多鹌鹑落在船上导致船沉没的故事”（Parmelee, 76 页）。

描述所罗门荣耀的经文中提到了两种鸟类，它们的起源和意义尚无定论。“肥禽”（希伯来语：barburîm^a*hûsîm*，王上 4:23[《马所拉文本》5:3]）可能源自一个含义为“使变白”的词根。科勒(L. Köhler)认为这个词和阿拉伯词语 abu burbur (“布谷鸟”)同源，可能是少量美食，类似于罗马人的云雀舌这道菜。格雷(J. Gray)认为是“鹅”。德赖弗(G. R. Driver)提出了最佳观点，他认为这个词源自阿拉伯语 birbir，意思是“鸡”。这种繁育力很强的鸟类因为它的蛋而有价值，它生长于印度、缅甸和马来亚的野生红色原鸡，据说在公元前 2700 年前就已经被人类驯养。它从原产地被带到世界各地，已经成为世界上最有价值的鸟类 (Parmelee, 122 页)。根据奥尔布赖特(W. F. Albright)的描述，《列王纪上》10:22 中提到的孔雀(希伯来语：tukkiyîm)可能指的是狒狒(J. B. Gray, I & II Kings [OTL, 1970], 142-143 页, 262–68)。

Rizpah had to protect the carcasses of her sons from the birds of prey only by day, for, as stated, birds of prey depend on sight. At night she had to protect them from the beasts of the field (2 S. 21:10).

The ravens in the Elijah pericope (1 K. 17:3–6) are also depicted according to the facts of their natural history. “It has been noted that ravens and other members of the crow family often store surplus food in rocky crevices or beneath a covering of leaves,” and this habit may explain their action when commanded by Yahweh to feed Elijah (Parmelee, p. 149).

In accordance with the law (Lev. 12:6, 8; 15:14) Mary and Joseph, after the birth of Jesus, offered for Mary’s purification two turtledoves or two young pigeons (Lk. 2:24). This information indicates that Mary and Joseph had to avail themselves of the provision for those too poor to offer a lamb with a bird.

It is also noteworthy that when Jesus cleansed the temple, the unscrupulous dealers and money changers—who were issued licenses by the Sadducees—were involved in the sale of pigeons, the sacrifice of the poor (Mt. 21:12; Mk. 11:15; cf. Lk. 19:45f. and Jn. 2:14–16).

The Holy Spirit descended on Jesus at His baptism “in bodily form like a dove” (Lk. 3:22) to symbolize His character. The dove, as indicated above, is wise and strong (cf. Isa. 11:2) but at the same time guileless (Gk. akéraitos, lit “unmixed,” Mt. 10:16).

The cock, which since the days of Solomon had become common in 利斯巴不得不保护她的儿子的尸体，日间不容鸷鸟落在尸身上，因为，如上所述，鸷鸟依靠视力寻找食物。夜间她不让田间的走兽前来践踏（撒下 21:10）。

《列王纪上》中有关以利亚的这段经文中（王上 17:3-6），对乌鸦（王上 17:3-6）的描写也符合自然史中的事实。“值得注意的是，乌鸦和其他乌鸦科的鸟类经常在岩石缝或树叶下面储存剩余的食物”，正是因为它们有这样的习性，耶和華才吩咐乌鸦供养以利亚（Parmelee, 149 页）。

耶稣出生之后，马利亚和约瑟遵照主的律法（利 12:6, 8; 15:14），或在洁净的日子，用一对斑鸠或用两只雏鸽献祭（路 2:24）。这一信息表明，不得不遵照律法书上关于贫困献不起羔羊的人的规定，献一只鸟作代替。

另一个值得注意的地方是，当耶稣洁净圣殿时，无耻的买卖人和兑换银钱之人经撒都该人许可，正在卖鸽子，因为这是供穷人献祭用的祭物（太 21:12；可 11:15；参：路 19:45-46；约 2:14-16）。

耶稣受洗时，圣灵降临在祂身上，“形状仿佛鸽子”（路 3:22），从而证明了祂的身份。正如上文所述，鸽子是有智慧和能力的（参：赛 11:2），同时也是一种驯良的鸟类（希腊语：akéraitos，字面意思“纯洁的”，太 10:16）。

从所罗门时期开始，鸡就是巴勒斯坦地区一种常见的家禽，在彼得不认主的经

Palestine, appears in the account of Peter's denial of Christ (Mk. 14:30, 66-72). True to its character, this bird welcomed the light of day on the morning mankind revealed the depth of its own darkness.

V. In Prophetic and Poetic Literature.-The preachers and poets in the Bible made frequent use of the habits and habitat of birds to illustrate their message.

One of the most frequently mentioned birds is the griffon-vulture or golden eagle (Heb. nešer). The superb protection and care of Yahweh for His people is likened to that of a nešer (Ex. 19:4-6; Dt. 32:11-13). The nests of these birds are built in inaccessible places with great skill. The parent bird guards the nest with great ferocity, incubates the eggs by shielding them from too much sun and from cold winds, and feeds the nestlings until they are large enough to fly. Then the parent stirs up the nest and lures the fledglings out of it for their first flight. Sometimes the adult birds hover over them and flutter encouragingly around them. Although there is no reliable report of any bird actually flying with a smaller bird on its back, the fledglings sometimes appear to be carried, so that the poet speaks of the nešer bearing the young on its wings. The Hebrew poets also saw in the wings of these majestic birds a symbol of God's redeeming activity and of His care and protection of His people (Parmelee, pp. 99f.; cf. Ps. 17:8; 91:4; cf. Isa. 31:5). (The wings of God probably refer to the protective wings of the cherubim [Ps. 36:7; 57:1; 61:4; 63:7; Ruth 2:12].) See also EAGLE.

In likening the speed of Saul and Jonathan to the nešer David may have had in mind

文中提到了鸡（可 14:30, 66-72）。在人类显露出自身的无限阴暗的那个早上, 公鸡依然忠于本性迎着清晨的阳光报晓。

V. 先知文学中和诗歌中的鸟。《圣经》中的传道者和诗人经常利用鸟类的习性和栖息地来阐明所要表达的信息。

他们最常提到的一种鸟是秃鹰或金雕（希伯来语：nešer）。耶和华对祂的子民的完美保护和看顾就如同老鹰对雏鹰一般（出 19:4-6；申 32:11-13）。这种鸟以高超的技艺将巢筑在人类难以接近的地方。母鸟凶悍地守护着它的鸟巢，孵化鸟蛋，保护它们免受烈日和寒风的侵袭，并哺育雏鹰，直到它们能够展翅飞翔。然后母鹰搅乱巢穴，逗引雏鹰离开巢穴，尝试第一次飞行。有时，成鸟在雏鸟头顶盘旋，在它们周围振翅飞翔，以此来鼓励雏鸟起飞。虽然没有可靠证据表明任何一种鸟背着雏鸟飞翔，但是有时成年鹰似乎背着羽翼未丰的雏鹰，所以诗人说鹰在翅膀上载着雏鹰。希伯来诗人认为这种威严的鸟的翅膀象征着上帝的救赎行为，以及祂对祂的子民的看顾和保护（Parmelee, 99-100页；参：诗 17:8；91:4；参：赛 31:5）。（上帝的翅膀可能指的是基路伯护翼 [诗 36:7；57:1；61:4；63:7；得 2:12]。）另见 EAGLE（鹰）。

the golden eagle, which, pressing its wings against its sides, dives from great heights upon its victim, “usually taking it by surprise and striking it dead in an instant with its powerful, sharp talons” (Parmelee, p. 118; cf. 2 S. 1:23). “Jeremiah warned of a foe that would approach with an eagle’s speed” (Parmelee, p. 157; cf. Jer. 4:13; cf. Hab. 1:8), and Job lamented that his days go by like an eagle swooping on its prey (Job 9:25f.).

The flight of other birds is also used in comparisons (cf., e.g., Jer. 48:9; Ezk. 13:20; Hos. 9:11). Birds’ nests are used to illustrate security (Ps. 104:16f.; Prov. 27:8; Isa. 16:2; Jer. 49:16). “Birds were quick to notice that nests built within the sacred area of the Temple ... were inviolate. Here both man and bird found peace and security in God’s house” (Parmelee, p. 161; cf. Ps. 84:3f.). The proverb that compares the one who “gets riches but not by right” to “the partridge that gathers a brood which she did not hatch” (Jer. 17:11) refers to an erroneous popular belief widespread among the Israelites, without saying anything about its accuracy. The migratory habit of birds illustrates the return of Israel from the Diaspora (Hos. 11:11) and contrasts sharply with the ignorance of Israel (Jer. 8:7). Birds of prey feeding on carrion illustrate the fate of Israel (Dt. 28:26), of the northern kings (1 K. 14:7–11; 16:4; 21:22–24), of the house of the Lord (Hos. 8:1), of Egypt (Ezk. 29:5; 32:4), of Babylon at the hands of Cyrus (Isa. 46:11), of Gog (Ezk. 39:4), and of God’s enemies at the end of time (Ezk. 39:17–20).

Birds, as part of the ecology, also illustrate

体两侧, 从高空俯冲向猎物, “经常突然袭击, 用强壮的尖爪瞬间将猎物掐死”(Parmelee, 118 页; 参: 撒下 1:23)。

“耶利米曾警告说, 仇敌将如鹰一般迅速地赶来”(Parmelee, 157 页; 参: 耶 4:13; 参: 哈 1:8), 约伯曾哀叹道, 他的日子过去如急落抓食的鹰 (伯 9:25-26)。

经文中也用其他鸟类的飞行作比喻 (参: 如, 耶 48:9; 结 13:20; 何 9:11)。用鸟窝来表明安全 (诗 104:16-17; 箴 27:8; 赛 16:2; 耶 49:16)。“鸟迅速地注意到, 建在神殿的圣地内的窝是不会受侵犯的。耶和華殿中的人和鸟都感到太平和安全”(Parmelee, 161 页; 参: 诗 84:3-4)。有句谚语将“不按照正道得财的”人比作“鸕鷀抱不是自己下的蛋”(耶 17:11), 这谚语指的是以色列人普遍持有的错误观念, 但对于这种观念的准确性却只字未提。鸟类迁徙的习性表明以色列将从大流散中回归 (何 11:11), 并与以色列的无知形成了鲜明的对比 (耶 8:7)。以腐肉为食的鸕鷀的例子阐明了以色列 (申 28:26)、北方诸王 (王上 14:7–11; 16:4; 21:22–24)、耶和華的家 (何 8:1)、埃及 (结 29:5; 32:4)、居鲁士统治下的巴比伦 (赛 46:11)、歌革 (结 39:4) 和末日到来时神的仇敌 (结 39:17–20) 的命运。

the physical conditions of Israel. Songbirds suggest a well-cared-for land (mentioned only in Ps. 104:1-12; Cant. 2:11f.), but the absence of such birds indicates desolation (Jer. 4:25; 9:10; 12:4; Zeph. 1:3) and birds of prey indicate a state of chaos (Isa. 34:11, 13-15; Ps. 102:6f.). Likewise, the sounds of a dove or a raven suggest a melancholy or ominous situation (Isa. 59:11; Ezk. 7:16; Zeph. 2:14). Conditions during the times of the writing prophets can be inferred by their failure to refer to songbirds.

Job, an astute naturalist, saw the wisdom of the Creator in the ways of birds (12:7; 39:26-30). Job's poor opinion of the ostrich and the raven as parents was based on appearance rather than reality (39:14f.; 38:41).

The use of about a dozen different words for "net," "snares," "gins," and "traps" shows the popularity of this figure for destruction (cf. Hos. 9:8; Jer. 5:26-28). "Egyptian wall paintings illustrate the method of suddenly lowering a net over ducks resting on the water. Flocks of quails were often captured in nets thrown over the bushes in which they had taken refuge. When the birds flew up they became entangled in the meshes of the net" (Parmelee, p. 193). Birds were also hunted with bows and arrows (Ps. 11:1f.). When out in the wilderness David likened Saul's pursuit of him to the hunt for a partridge (1 S. 26:20), he probably had in mind Hey's sand partridge whose range is almost confined to this area. Deliverance is portrayed as an escape from the fowler either by flight (Ps. 55:6), breaking his snare (Ps. 124:7; cf. Ps. 91:4), or by being let loose (Prov. 6:5).

了以色列的实际状况。鸣叫的鸟暗示土地得到了很好的照顾（只有在《诗篇》104:1-12 和《雅歌》2:11-12 中提到了这种鸟），而没有鸣叫的鸟表明土地将荒芜（耶 4:25； 9:10； 12:4； 番 1:3），鸷鸟预示着一种混乱的状态（赛 34:11, 13-15； 诗 102:6-7）。同样，鸽子或乌鸦的叫声暗示一种悲哀或不祥的境况（赛 59:11； 结 7:16； 番 2:14）。先知书中并没有提到啼叫的鸟，从中可以推断出先知创作时的情况。

约伯这位敏锐的自然学家通过观察鸟类认识到了造物主的智慧（伯 12:7； 39:26-30）。约伯对鸵鸟和乌鸦母鸟的较低评价基于他的观察而不是现实（伯 39:14-15； 38:41）。

《圣经》中使用许多不同的词语来表达 "net"（“网”）、"snares"（“网罗”）、"gins"（“网”）、"traps"（“网”）的含义，这表明布网是制造破坏的一种常见手段（参：何 9:8； 耶 5:26-28）。“埃及的壁画中展示出一种通过突然撒网捕获水中鸭子的方法。埃及人还在灌木丛上方布下网罗，捕获在那里避难的成群的鹌鹑。当这些鸟飞起的时候，它们就被网眼缠住了”（Parmelee, 193 页）。人们还用弓箭捕鸟（诗 11:1-2）。大卫比喻说，当他在旷野中时，扫罗像猎取鹧鸪一样追赶他（撒上 26:20），大卫所说可能是一种生活在干草沙上的沙鹑，这种鸟几乎只在这片区域内活动。神的拯救被描绘成通过飞去（诗 55:6）、网罗破裂（诗 124: 7； 参：诗 91:4）或挣脱（箴 6:5）从捕鸟人的手中逃脱。

VI. In Apocalyptic Literature and Visions.

Birds appear in visions as symbols. The majestic, high flying eagle symbolizes heavenly beings (Ezk. 1:5-11; 10:14; Rev. 4:7). The wings of the eagle and stork symbolize great speed and/or strength (Dnl. 7:4; Zec. 5:9; Rev. 12:13f.). “Actually, even larger birds are able to lift only a little weight in addition to their own. It is believed that if the strongest eagles can lift as much as ten pounds, they cannot carry it far” (Parmelee, p. 156).

Birds in a tree symbolize the subject people in the kingdom and empire (Ezk. 31:6; Dnl. 4:11f.). God’s command to Peter to eat unclean birds in the vision in the house of the tanner (an unclean trade) at Joppa, the Jewish port, teaches him that he should no longer consider unclean the Gentiles he is about to meet at Caesarea, the Roman port (Acts 10).

VII. In the Teaching of Jesus.

Like the prophets and poets of the OT, Jesus used the birds to illustrate His teachings. He described the care He desired to provide by comparing it to the protection given by the wings of a hen over her brood (Mt. 23:37). He illustrated a disciple’s life without earthly comfort by contrasting it with that of the bird who has a nest (Mt. 8:20). W. M. Thomson noted that the bushes in the area around Capernaum where He taught this lesson “are stuffed full of bird’s nests” (Land and the Book, II [1882], 410). Jesus also likened the destruction of the last day to the gathering of vultures (Mt. 24:28), and illustrated the day of judgment by a fowler’s net (Lk. 21:35).

He deduced God’s care for man and the value He placed upon him from His care

VI. 启示文学和异象中的鸟。异象中的鸟是一种象征。翱翔在高空中的雄鹰象征着神圣的圣灵（结 1:5-11； 10:14； 启 4:7）。鹰和鹤的翅膀象征着极快的速度和（或）巨大的力量（但 7:4； 亚 5:9； 启 12:13-14）。“实际上，大鸟在负担自身体重之外，只能承受一点重量。据说，即使是最强壮的鹰，就算它能够提起 10 磅重的物体，也飞不了太远的距离”（Parmelee, 156 页）。

树上的鸟象征着王国和帝国的人民（结 31:6； 但 4:11-12）。神在异象中命令在约帕（犹太的港口）的硝皮匠（一种不洁净的买卖）家中的彼得吃不洁净的鸟，并教导他不应该认为他将在罗马港口遇见的外邦人是不洁净的（徒 10）。

VII. 耶稣教导中的鸟。

耶稣与《旧约》中的先知和诗人一样，用鸟来阐明祂的教导。祂把祂愿意赐予的看顾比喻成母鸡对翅膀下小鸡的看顾（太 23:37）。祂把不依赖世俗慰藉的信徒的生命比喻成有窝的飞鸟的生命（太 8:20）。汤姆森（W. M. Thomson）注意到，耶稣的传道之地迦百农附近地区的灌木丛中，“塞满了鸟窝”（Land and the Book, II [1882], 410）。祂还把末世的毁灭比喻成鹰的聚会（太 24:28），并把审判日比喻成网罗（路 21:35）。

祂从天父对飞鸟的喂养和对普通麻雀的估价（路 12:6-7），推断出天父对世

for the birds (Mt. 6:25f.) and from the value He placed on the common sparrow (Lk. 12:6f.). His teaching contrasts markedly with Cicero's statement: "the gods care for the great, but they neglect the lowly" (cited by Parmelee, p. 245).

[Heb. 'ayit] (Gen. 15:11; Job 28:7; Isa. 18:6; 46:11; Jer. 12:9; Ezk. 39:4); AV FOWL, RAVENOUS BIRD; ['ayit šābū(a)] ("speckled bird of prey," Jer. 12:9); AV SPECKLED BIRD; NEB "hyena's lair." In its translation of ha'ayit šābū(a) the NEB follows the LXX, which gives spēlaion hyainēs. The meaning of the phrase is disputed. KoB (p. 699) deletes ha'ayit and renders šābū(a) as "hyena." The NEB retains ha'ayit but translates it as "lair," linking it with the Arab. ghāṭa ("enter to hide oneself") and ghāṭa ("garden, lowland"). Elsewhere, however, the NEB (along with the RSV) translates 'ayit as "bird of prey." The RSV would judge the root of šābū(a) to be šāba ("dip, dye"; cf. Jgs. 5:30) and accordingly understands the passage in Jer. 12:9 to describe an attack upon an unfamiliar bird by those whose territory it had invaded.

Birds of prey were undoubtedly the first birds noticed by the compilers of biblical records. They were camp followers, which also swarmed over villages and perched on the walls of cities. They were offensive in manner and odor, and of a boldness unknown to us in birds. When they flocked in untold numbers there was small defense against them, and the largest and strongest not only carried away meat prepared for food and sacrifice but also preyed upon the much-prized house pigeons, the newly born of the smaller animals, and even at times attacked young children. Cf. Gen. 15:11, "And when birds of prey came down upon the carcasses, Abram drove them away." Because they were attracted from above the clouds by anything suitable for food, people recognized that these birds had unusual vision. When Job wanted to tell how perfectly the path to the gold mine was concealed, he wrote, "That path no bird of prey knows" (Job 28:7). The inference is that if the path were so perfectly concealed that it escaped the piercing eyes of these birds, it was not probable that man would find it.

【希伯来语: 'ayit】(创 15:11; 伯 28:7; 赛 18:6; 46:11; 耶 12:9; 结 39:4); 《钦定版圣经》中译为 FOWL ("雀鸟、飞鸟") 和 RAVENOUS BIRD ("鸷鸟"); 【希伯来语: 'ayit šābū(a)】("鸷鸟", 耶 12:9); 《钦定版圣经》中译为 SPECKLED BIRD ("鸷鸟"); 《新英文译本》中译为 "hyena's lair" ("鸷鸟")。《新英文译本》遵循了《七十士译本》中的译法, 将 ha'ayit šābū(a) 译为 spēlaion hyainēs。这个词组的含义还存有争议。KoB (699 页) 中删掉了 ha'ayit, 将 šābū(a) 译作 "hyena" ("豺狼")。《新英文译本》中保留了 ha'ayit, 但将之译为 "lair" ("巢穴"), 并把这个词语阿拉伯词语 ghāṭa ("进入躲藏") 和 ghāṭa ("花园、低地") 联系起来。然而, 在其他经文中, 《新英文译本》(和《修订标准译本》) 将 'ayit as 译为 "鸷鸟"。《修订标准译本》中认为 šāba 是 šābū(a) 的词根 ("蘸、染"; 参: 士 5:30), 于是将《耶利米书》12:9 中的经文理解鸷鸟攻击侵入其领地的毛色不同的鸟。

These birds were so strong, fierce, and impudent that everyone feared them, and when the prophets gave warning that the people would be left for birds of prey to ravage, they fully understood what was meant, and they were afraid (Isa. 18:6). In His complaint against His heritage, Yahweh questions, "Is my heritage to me like a speckled bird of prey? Are the birds of prey against her round about?" (Jer. 12:9). And when he prophesied the destruction of Jerusalem, Jeremiah painted a dreadful picture, but one no doubt often seen in that land of pillage and warfare: "I will give their dead bodies for food to the birds of the air and to the beasts of the earth" (19:7).

队地穿过村庄，在城墙上栖息。它们生性凶猛，散发着腐臭的气味，具有鸟类不多见的勇猛无畏。当数不清的鸢鸟聚集时，几乎无法抵挡它们的掠食，最大、最强壮的鸢鸟不仅带走供食用或献祭的肉，还捕食极珍贵的家鸽、较小的幼崽，甚至有时攻击儿童。参：《创世记》15:11，“有鸢鸟下来，落在那死畜的肉上，亚伯兰就把它吓飞了。”因为它们可以在高空中看到地上所有可供食用的猎物，所以人们认识到这种鸟的视力非常好。当约伯想要描述前往金矿的道路隐藏得多么隐秘时，他写道“矿中的路鸢鸟不得知道”（伯 28:7）。可以从中推论出，如果矿中的路隐藏得如隐秘，甚至连这些具有敏锐视力的鸟都不得知道，那么人类可能就更无法发现这座金矿了。

这些鸟非常地强壮、凶猛和粗鲁，因此所有人都怕它们，当先知警告说，世上一切的居民将遭受鸢鸟的蹂躏时，他们明白先知所表达的意思，并且都很害怕（赛 18:6）。耶和华在悲哀的诉说祂的产业的罪恶时，反问道：“我的产业向我岂如斑点的鸢鸟呢？鸢鸟岂在她四围攻击她呢？”（耶 12:9）。当耶利米预言耶路撒冷将遭受毁灭时，他描绘了一幅可怕的画面，但在这片充满掠夺和战争的土地上，无疑经常出现这样的场景：“他们的尸首，我必给空中的飞鸟和地上的野兽作食物”（耶 19:7）

BIRDS, UNCLEAN.

Whereas the birds proscribed for Israel's diet in Lev. 11:13–19, are “to be had in abomination” (Heb. šāqas), meaning that they were cultically unacceptable, in the synoptic passage in Dt. 14:12–18 they are called by inference “unclean” (tāmē’, cf. vv. 10f.) and “abominable” (tô’ēbā, cf. v. 3), here meaning “loathsome to one's sensibilities.” The latter term in Deuteronomy suggests that the flesh of these birds is distasteful, while the statement in Leviticus indicates that they were ritually unclean either because they eat blood or have contact with carcasses.

These lists, however, differ in two particulars. Whereas Lev. 11:14 reads haddā’ā, “the kite,” and omits haddayyā after hā’ayyā, “the falcon,” Dt. 14:13 reads hārā’ā, “the buzzard,” and includes haddayyā, “the kite,” after hā’ayyā. The text is probably corrupt and cannot be restored with certainty.

BIRDS, UNCLEAN. 不洁净的鸟

《利未记》11:13–19 中禁止以色列人吃的雀鸟, 被称作“可憎恶的”(希伯来语: šāqas), 这意味着, 从宗教仪式上说, 它们是不可接受的, 在观点相同的段落《申命记》14:12–18 中, 推理可知, 它们是“不洁净的”(tāmē’, 参: 申 14:10-11) 和“可憎的”(tô’ēbā, 参: 申 14:3), 意思是“令人憎恶的”。后一个《申命记》中的词暗示这些鸟的肉是味道不佳的, 而《利未记》中的表述表明从仪式上讲, 它们是不洁净的, 可能是因为它们吃血, 或是因为它们与尸体有接触。

然而, 这些清单存在着两处细节上的差异。《利未记》11:14 中可以读到 haddā’ā 一词, “the kite”, (和合本作“鸢鹰”), 省略了 hā’ayyā (“鹰、隼”) 后面的 haddayyā, “the falcon” (和合本作“小鹰”), 而《申命记》14:13 中可以看到 hārā’ā 这个词, “the buzzard” (和合本作“鸢”), 并包括了 hā’ayyā 后面的 haddayyā (“鸢鹰”), “the kite”, (和合本作“鸢鹰”)。这段经文可能有些错误的, 但是又无法准确地对其进行还原。

The command to procreate is found in the creation story (Gen. 1:28), and giving birth was a primary role of the Israelite wife, as seen in passages such as Gen. 24:60: “And they blessed Rebekah, and 在创世的故事中可以上帝命人类生养众多 (创 1:28), 在《创世记》24:60 等经文中可以看出, 生育子女是以色列人妻子的主要职分: “他们就给利百加祝福说: ‘我们的妹子啊, 愿你作千万 said to her, ‘Our sister, be the mother of thousands of ten thousands...’” For a woman to be barren was considered a curse (1 S. 1:3ff).

The mother was probably usually assisted by a midwife (Ex. 1:15; Gen. 35:17; 38:28), and giving birth was regarded as a painful experience (Gen. 3:16). The mother delivered squatting, or sitting on two “birthstones” (Ex. 1:16; see BIRTHSTOOL), and the newborn was perhaps placed on the knees of the father (Gen. 50:23) or mother (Job 3:12). This may reflect an adoption rite, however, in the case of Gen. 30:13; 48:13 (de Vaux). The cord would be cut, the baby washed with water, rubbed with salt, and wrapped in cloths (Ezk. 16:4). Often the child was named at birth. According to Lev. 12:1–8, the mother was cultically “unclean” for forty to eighty days following the birth.

Since the birth of a child, especially a male, was so eagerly welcomed, a stillbirth or the birth of a deformed child (Heb. nepel, “untimely birth,” means “a fallen thing”) was a tragic occurrence. To “curse the day of one’s birth” is an idiom reflecting extreme displeasure with one’s life, i.e., in effect, wishing one had never been born (Job 3:11, 16).

The importance of birth, its defining the relationship between child and mother, and the tragedy of stillbirth form the background for the figurative use of the term in the OT. When the psalmist says of Yahweh, “upon thee was I cast from my birth” (Ps. 22:10; 71:6), he refers to God’s care of him throughout his entire life. The wicked, on the other hand, “go astray from the womb, they err from their birth” (Ps. 58:3; cf. Ezk. 16:3f.). In Dt. 32:18 it

人的母……’”因为不能生育的女子被认为是遭到了诅咒（撒上 1:3 起）。

通常会有收生婆为准母亲收生（出 1:15；创 35:17；38:28），分娩被认为是一次痛苦的经历（创 3:16）。准母亲蹲坐着分娩或坐在两个“诞生石”上分娩（出 1:16；见 BIRTHSTOOL[分娩凳]），刚出生的婴儿可能放在父亲的膝上（创 50:23）或母亲的膝上（伯 3:12）。不过，这可能反映出了《创世记》30:13 和 48:13 中的一种收养仪式（de Vaux）。剪掉脐带，用水为婴儿清洗，在婴儿身上擦盐，然后再用布包裹好（结 16:4）。通常在婴儿出生时就给他（她）取名。根据《利未记》12:1–8 中的记载，从宗教信仰上说，分娩之后 40 天至 80 天，母亲是“不洁净的”。

出生后的婴儿，尤其是男婴会受到热烈的欢迎，而如果产下了死胎或畸形胎（希伯来语：nepel，“不到期而落的胎”，也就是“坠落的胎”）则是一件令人悲痛的事。“诅咒某人的生日”这句习语，反映出人们极为讨厌某人的诞生，即希望这个人从未出生过（伯 3:11, 16）。

is Yahweh who is credited with giving birth to Israel, hence when the Israelites say to the tree “You are my father,” and to the stone “you gave me birth” (Jer. 2:27), their crime is apostasy. When Hosea pronounces judgment upon Israel, he uses language that describes starkly the fate of the nation: “No birth, no pregnancy, no conception” (Hos. 9:11). In Isa. 66:7–9, Zion is in labor and will “deliver.” Here the birth will be that of the restored community of Israel. Yahweh has brought things to the point of birth, and He will complete the course of events, according to the prophet. Finally, God’s role as creator is presupposed by Job 38:29: “Who has given birth to the hoarfrost?”

The NT has both literal and figurative uses of the term. It is used literally in referring to the birth of Jesus (Mt. 1:18; Lk. 2:7) and that of John the Baptist (Lk. 1:14—as a cause for rejoicing). In Acts 3:2; 14:8, the phrase “from birth” (to describe a lifelong lameness) is parallel to the OT usage of Heb. min-beṭen, literally “from the womb.”

Figurative usage is found in Jas. 1:15, where “desire” (Gk. epithymía) “gives birth” (tiktō) to sin, which in turn “brings forth” (apokyédō) death; and in Rev. 12:2, where the woman suffers the “birth pangs” of the Messiah (see S. Mowinckel, He That Cometh [1954], p. 272). See also BIRTH PANGS.

木头说：“你是我的父”，向石头说：“你是生我的”（耶 2:27），他们就犯了背叛神的罪。当何西阿宣布以色列将面临的审判时，他措辞严厉、直截了当地揭示了民族的命运：“必不生产、不怀孕、不成孕”（何 9:11）。在《以赛亚书》66:7–9 中，锡安在临盆中，她将要“生产”，而她的儿子是充满活力的以色列民族。根据这位先知的描述，这生产是藉着耶和华的帮助，有一天祂必会完成。最后，《约伯记》38:29 中说“天上的霜是谁生的呢？”这里假定了上帝是造物主。

《新约》中既运用了这个词的字面含义，也运用了这个词的比喻含义。在提及耶稣的降生（太 1:18；路 2:7）和施洗约翰的降生（路 1:14——这也是人们喜乐的原因）时，用了这个词的字面含义。《使徒行传》3:2 和 14:8 中短语“生来”（描述一个生来瘸腿的人）类似于《旧约》中希伯来词语 min-beṭen 的用法，字面含义是“从母胎中”。

《雅各书》1:15 中用到了这个词的比喻义，其中说道，“私欲”（希腊语：epithymía）“生出”（tiktō）罪来，而罪则“生出”（apokyédō）死来；在《启示录》12:2 中，有一个妇人忍受着生产弥赛亚的“疼痛”（见 S. Mowinckel, He That Cometh [1954], 272 页）。另见 BIRTH PANGS（生产之难、灾难）。

BIRTHDAY

[Heb. yôm hulledet; Gk. genésia]. The term occurs in Gen. 40:20 (“birthday” of Pharaoh) and in Mt. 14:6; Mk. 6:21 (“birthday” of Herod Antipas). There is evidence for birthday celebrations in Greece and Persia. Herodotus refers to the birthday celebrations of individuals, a special meal (Persian Wars i.133); and of the king, an annual royal banquet with the dispensing of gifts to his subjects (ix.110). The pre-Hellenistic Greeks celebrated the birthdays of gods and prominent men. Gk. genéthlia designated these celebrations, while genésia meant a celebration commemorative of the birthday of a deceased important individual. In 2 Macc. 6:7 we find reference to a monthly genéthlia of Antiochus IV, during which the Jews were forced to “partake of the sacrifices.” Josephus (BJ vii.3.1) refers to Titus’ celebration of his brother’s and father’s birthdays (genéthlia) by slaughtering Jewish captives. By the time of the NT, genésia could be used to designate the birthday celebration of a living prominent person, hence Mt. 14:6; Mk. 6:21. When Herod celebrated his birthday he was acting in accord with a Hellenistic custom; there is no evidence for the celebration of birthdays in Israel in pre-Hellenistic times.

Likewise, other than Gen. 40:20, there is no evidence for a birthday celebration of a pharaoh in pre-Hellenistic times. Procksch suggests that the annual celebration of the pharaoh's enthronement in which he was "born as a god" might lie behind the tradition of Gen. 40:20. In the Ptolemaic period the pharaoh's birthday was celebrated, an amnesty being granted to prisoners. Josephus refers to a celebration (Gk. genésia) at the birth of a son to Ptolemy (Ant. xii.4.7-9).

BIRTHDAY 生日

【希伯来语: yôm hulledet; 希腊语: genésia】。这个词出现在《创世记》40:20 (法老的“生日”)、《马太福音》14:16和《马可福音》6:21中(希律安提帕的“生日”)。有证据表明,希腊和波斯都举行生日庆典。希罗多德认为普通人的生日庆典是一顿特别的大餐(Persian Wars i.133),而国王的生日庆祝会是每年皇室举办的盛宴,国王会在这一天向国民分发礼物(ix.110)。前希腊化时期的希腊人庆祝神明和杰出人物的生日。希腊语 genéthlia 特指这些生日庆典,而 genésia 指的是一位已故的重要人物的诞辰庆典。《马加比二书》6:7提到了安提阿哥四世每月都会庆祝生日,并且在此期间强迫犹太人“食用献祭动物的肠子”。约瑟夫斯(BJ vii.3.1)提到提图斯通过杀害犹太俘虏庆祝他的兄弟和父亲的生日(genéthlia)。到新约时期, genésia 可以用来指一位在世的杰出人物的生日庆典,《马太福音》14:6和《马可福音》6:21就采用了这种用法。希律王庆祝生日,是遵循希腊化时期的风俗;没有任何证据可以证明,前希腊化时期的以色列人庆祝生日。

同样,除了《创世记》40:20,也没有其他证据可以证明,前希腊化时期的法

BIRTH-PANGS

[Gk. ōdín] (Mk. 13:8 par. Mt. 24:8); AV SORROWS; earlier RSV SUFFERINGS. Literally the physical pain accompanying childbirth. Strict literal usage of Gk. ōdín and its cognates ōdínō and synodínō is not found in the NT; rather the terms have symbolic meanings or appear in figurative expressions, e.g., the pains of the symbolic apocalyptic woman in Rev. 12:2, and Paul's application of Isaiah's metaphor of the barren woman who bore children without labor pains (Isa. 54:1) to the Gentiles who have become true Israelites (Gal. 4:27). Elsewhere, ōdín (and cognates) is to be understood figuratively of pain or anguish that is related to some anticipated or hoped-for event. The pain of childbirth was apparently among the more dreaded experiences in the ancient world; hence, to the claim that women's life is free from danger, Euripides has Medea respond that she would rather go to war three times than bear a child once (Medea 248-251).

老举办生日庆典。普慈 (Procksch) 认为,《创世记》40:20 中的生日庆祝传统可能源于法老的登基典周年庆典,法老子登基之日起,就“重生为神”。在托勒密王朝时期,举国庆祝法老的生日,并且此时会大赦囚犯。约瑟夫斯在《犹太古史》中提到了托勒密的一个儿子出生时的庆祝会(希腊语: genésia) (Ant. xii.4.7-9)。

BIRTH-PANGS 生产之难

【希腊语: ōdín】(可 13:8; 平行经文: 太 24:8); 《钦定版圣经》中译为 SORROWS; 较早的《修订标准译本》中译作 SUFFERINGS (汉译均为“灾难”)。从字面意思理解,指的是分娩时身体的疼痛。在《新约》中没有找到希腊词 ōdín 绝对的字面意义的用法,也位找到与这个词同源的 ōdínō 和 synodínō; 这个词组有象征意义,也出现在比喻的表达方式中,例如《启示录》12:2 大异象中妇人的产前阵痛,以及保罗引用《以赛亚书》54:1 的预言,用不生养、未经产难的妇人将会儿女众多的比喻,表明外邦人(加 4:27)。在其他各处经文中出现的 ōdín (和它的同源词) 要从其比喻义的角度,理解成与预期或盼望发生的事件有关的疼痛或痛苦。在古代世界,忍受分娩之痛显然是更为可怕的经历之一; 因此,针对男人说女人安处在家中,全然没有危险的这种说法,欧里庇得斯笔下的美狄亚回应道,她宁愿提着盾牌打三次仗,也不愿生一次孩子 (Medea 248-251)。其他地方似乎暗示出,由于分娩的结果,“生

Elsewhere the point seems implicit that the “birth-pangs” are worth enduring because of the result: so (figuratively) Socrates serves as midwife for a student who agonizes (ōdínō) his way from ignorance to knowledge (Plato Theaetetus 148e, 151a, 210b). A similar notion is found in Gal. 4:19, but here Paul himself undergoes the agony (ōdínō) on behalf of the Galatian Christians in whom he wishes to see “Christ formed.”

In several passages the birth-pangs result in the new situation brought about by Christ’s return, and the pangs themselves correspond to the sufferings or tribulation expected to precede that event (Mk. 13:8 par.). The whole creation is already involved in this agony (synōdínō, Rom. 8:22). And for those who find “peace and safety” in the empire, the return of Christ will mean sudden judgment, as labor pains come suddenly to an expectant mother (1 Thess. 5:3). These eschatological birth-pangs are determined by the resurrection of Christ, whose death as inevitably led to resurrection as birth-pangs signal that a child is on the way (Acts 2:24; cf. TDNT, IX, s.v. ὠδίνω [Bertram]; cf. 4 Ezra 4:42 for a similar emphasis on the immediateness of birth after the beginning of labor, in an eschatological context).

产之难”是值得忍受的:苏格拉底以“精神助产术”帮助在无知中挣扎 (ōdínō) 的学生抛弃谬见,催生真理,从比喻意义上讲,他也是他学生的收生婆 (Plato Theaetetus 148e, 151a, 210b)。《加拉太书》4:19 中也表达了相似的观点,但在这里,保罗为了看见“基督成形”在加拉太基督徒心里,他亲自为他们再受生产之苦。 concubine. Such a person ultimately became the head of the family, the line being continued through him. As firstborn he inherited a double portion of the paternal estate.

多段经文中,经历生产之苦后,就出现基督复临带来的新局面,这种身体上的剧痛相当于基督复临之前将要遭受的苦难或磨难(可 13:8 平行经文)。宇宙万物都在忍受着苦痛 (synōdínō, 罗 8:22)。对于那些在帝国中感到“平安稳妥”的人来说,基督复临意味着突然的审判将临到他们,如同产难临到怀胎的妇人一样(帖前 5:3)。这些末世论中的生产之难是由基督复活决定的,基督死后必然会复活,如同生产之难标志着孩子马上就要降生一般(徒 2:24; 参: TDNT, IX, 见词条 ὠδίνω [Bertram]; 参: 拉四 4:42, 这段经文在末世论的语境下,同样强调分娩开始之后婴儿马上就会降生)。

Discoveries at Mari, Nuzi, and Alalakh, however, show that the father could disregard the law of primogeniture and divert the birthright to a younger son, as in the case of Reuben (Gen. 48:22; 49:3f.), of Shimri (1 Ch. 26:10), and of Joseph's children as they were blessed by Jacob (Gen. 48:13–20). They also indicate that the firstborn son by a concubine could be displaced if the father subsequently had a son by his legal wife (cf. Gen. 21:10). In the Deuteronomic version of the law, a provision is made prohibiting the father from making the younger son the possessor of the birthright just because his mother was especially beloved (Dt. 21:15ff.). At Mari and Nuzi, possession of the ṯrāpīm or household images generally attested to ownership of the birthright, while texts from these localities show that, as with Jacob and Esau, the birthright could be traded for certain considerations among members of the same family.

On succeeding to the family property, the firstborn was responsible for maintaining the younger sons, the widow or widows, and any unmarried daughters, as well as exercising authority over the household as a whole. As the firstborn of God, Israel was accorded the protection of a loving and provident heavenly Father (Ex. 4:22f.; Jer. 31:9).

In the NT prōtotokia occurs once only (He. 12:16) in reference to Esau, while in Acts 22:28 Paul treated the privilege of Roman citizenship as a birthright.

是妾生的儿子。这个人最终将成为家族的首领，由他来继续统领整个家族。作为长子， he 可以从父亲的产业中继承双份的份额。

然而，马里、努斯和亚拉勒的发现表明，父亲可以忽视长子身份的律法，将长子的名分转给小儿子，如，流便（创 48:22; 49:3-4）、申利（代上 26:10）和被雅各祝福的约瑟的儿子（创 48:13–20）原都不是长子。这几处经文发现还表明，如果正室后来生了儿子，妾生的长子可以被取代（参：创 21:10）。《申命记》中的律法规定，男人不可因为所爱之妻，让小儿子得到长子的名分（申 21:15起）。在马里和努斯，长子拥有家庭画像（ṯrāpīm）的所有权，而这些地方的文献表明，出于某些考量，长子的名分可以卖给同一家族中的其他成员，就像以扫将长子的名分卖给雅各那样。

长子继承家庭的财产，负责抚养年幼的儿子、寡妇和其他未婚的女儿，还拥有管理整个家族的权柄。以色列是上帝的长子，慈爱和拥有先见的天父保护着他（出 4:22-23；耶 31:9）。

在《新约》中，prōtotokia 只在提及以扫时出现了一次（来 12:16），而保罗在《使徒行传》22:28 中说，他生来就有罗马民籍的特权。

BIRTHSTOOL

Found only in Ex. 1:16, in connection with Hebrew women in Egypt when they were oppressed by Pharaoh. The Heb. 'obnāyim, here rendered “birthstool,” is used also in Jer. 18:3, where it is rendered “potter’s wheel.” The word is used in both places in the dual form, which points, no doubt, to the fact that the potter’s wheel was composed of two discs, and suggests that the birth stool was similarly double.

这个词只在《出埃及记》1:16 中出现过, 与受到埃及法老压迫的希伯来妇人有关。希伯来词 'obnāyim 在这里可以译为“分娩凳”, 《耶利米书》18:3 中也使用了这个希伯来词, 并将之译为“窑匠轮”。这两处经文中都采用了这个词的复数形式, 这无疑表明这样一个事实, 即窑匠轮是由两个圆盘组成的, 也表明分娩凳也同样是双层的。

I. Use in the LXX and Classical Greek.-The LXX gives epískopos the generic meaning of “superintendency, oversight, searching” (Nu. 4:16; 31:14) in matters pertaining to the Church, the state, and the army (Jgs. 9:28; 2 K. 12:11; 2 Ch. 34:12, 17; 1 Macc. 1:54; Wisd. 1:6). Nor is it unknown to Classical Greek. Thus Homer in the Iliad applied it to the gods (xxii.255), as did Plutarch (Camillus 5). In Athens the governors of conquered states were given this title.

II. NT Use.-The word is once applied to Christ Himself, “the Shepherd and Bishop [RSV Guardian] of your souls” (1 Pet. 2:25, AV). It abounds in Pauline literature and is used as an alternative for presbýteros, “elder” (Tit. 1:5, 7; 1 Tim. 3:1; 4:14; 5:17, 19). The earliest ecclesiastical offices instituted in the Church were those of elders and deacons, or rather the reverse, inasmuch as the latter office grew almost immediately out of the needs of the Christian community at Jerusalem (Acts 6:1-6). The presbyterial constitution of Jerusalem must have been very old (11:30) and was distinct from the apostolate (15:2, 4, 6, 22f.; 16:4). As early as A.D. 50 Paul appointed “elders” in every church, with prayer and fasting (14:23), referring to the Asiatic churches before established. But in writing to the Philippians (1:1) he speaks of “bishops”

I. 《七十士译本》和古典希腊语中的用法。《七十士译本》中的 epískopos 一般含义是, 在与教会、国家和军队(士 9:28; 王下 12:11; 代上 34:12, 17; 马一 1:54; 智 1:6)相关的事务中进行“监督、看守或搜查”(民 4:16; 31:14)。在古典希腊语中也可以看到这种用法。因此, 荷马在《伊利亚特》中用这个词指代神明(xxii.255), 普鲁塔克也曾这样使用这个词(Camillus 5)。在雅典, 赐给被征服国家的总督这一头衔。

II. 《新约》中的用法。这个词有一次用来指代基督本人, “你们灵魂的牧人和监督[《修订标准译本》中译为 Guardian]”(彼前 2:25,《钦定版圣经》)。保罗的作品中经常出现这个词, 用它来替代 presbýteros 这个词, 意思是“长老”(多 1:5, 7; 提前 3:1; 4:14; 5:17, 19)。教会中最早的神职就是长老和执事的职分, 或者说是执事和长老的职分, 因为执事的职分几乎是伴随着耶路撒冷基督教会众的需求而产生的(徒 6:1-6)。耶路撒冷的长老制度一定非常地古老(徒 11:30), 与使徒地位截然不同(徒 15:2, 4, 6, 22-23; 16:4)。早在公元 50 年, 保罗就在各教会选立了“长老”, 又禁食祷告(徒 14:23), 这里的教会指的是亚细亚教会建立之前的教会。保罗给腓立比人的信中(腓 1:1)中提到了“监督”和“执事”。外邦基督教教会显然也采用了这个头衔; 我们只能在《教牧书信》中看到

and “deacons.” In the gentile Christian churches this title evidently had been adopted; and it is only in the Pastoral Epistles that we find the name “presbyters” applied. The name “presbyter” or “elder,” familiar to the Jews, signifies their age and place in the church, while the other term “bishop” refers rather to their office; both evidently refer to the same persons. Their office is defined as “ruling” (Rom. 12:8), “overseeing” (Acts 20:17, 28; 1 Pet. 5:2), caring for the flock of God (Acts 20:28). But the Gk. archein, “to rule,” in the hierarchical sense, is never used. Each church had a college of presbyter-bishops (Acts. 20:17, 28; Phil. 1:1; 1 Tim 4:14). During Paul’s lifetime the Church was evidently still unaware of the distinction between presbyters and bishops.

Of a formal ordination, in the later hierarchical sense, there is no trace as yet. The word “ordained” used in the AV (Acts 1:22) is an unwarrantable interpolation, rightly emended in later versions. Neither the word cheirotónēsantes (Acts 14:23, RSV “appointed”) nor katastésēs (Tit. 1:5, RSV “appoint”) is capable of this translation. In rendering these words invariably by “ordain,” the AV shows a vitium originis. No one doubts that the idea of ordination is extremely old in the history of the Church, but the laying on of hands mentioned in the NT (Acts 13:3; 1 Tim. 4:14; 2 Tim. 1:6; cf. Acts 14:26; 15:40) points to the communication of a spiritual gift or to its invocation, rather than to the imparting of an official status.

III. Later Development of the Idea.-According to Rome, as finally expressed by the Council of Trent, and to the episcopal idea in general, the “presbyters” (“长老”)这个名字。犹太人知晓“长老”这个名字，这显示出他们在教会中的资历和地位，而另一个词语“bishop” (“监督或主教”)指的是他们的职分；这两个词指代同一类人。他们的职分是“治理” (罗 12:8), “监督” (徒 20:17, 28; 彼前 5:2) 和“照管”神的群羊 (徒 20:28)。但是《新约》在表达等级意义时，从未采用过希腊词语 archein (“治理”)。每个教会都有众多的长老或监督 (徒 20:17, 28; 腓 1:1; 提前 4:14)。在保罗生活的年代，教会显然仍然没有意识到长老和主教 (或监督) 之间的差异。

后期等级体系中的正式神职授任含义仍然无法追溯。《钦定版圣经》中的“ordained” (“设立、选立”) 这个词 (徒 1:22) 是一个不能被认可的篡改，后期的译本进行了修正。cheirotónēsantes (徒 14:23, 《修订标准译本》中译为“appointed” [“选立”]) 和 katastésēs (多 1:5, 《修订标准译本》中译为“appoint” [“设立”]) 都不能作为这个词的翻译。《钦定版圣经》中把这些词一律译为“ordain” (“设立、选立”), 这可能是一种出处错误。没有人会怀疑选立长老的想法在教会的历史中拥有极为古老的渊源，但是《新约》中提到的按手 (徒 13:3; 提前 4:14; 提后 1:6; 参: 徒 14:26; 15:40) 指的是一种属灵恩赐的沟通或祈求，而不是授职。

III. 这一观念的后期发展。根据罗马的情况、特兰托公会议的最终决议和普通的主教思想，起源于3世纪的等级结构从新约教会初期开始就已经存在。但 hierarchical organization, which originated in the 3rd cent., existed from the beginning in the NT Church. But besides the NT as above quoted, the early testimony of the Church maintains the identity of “presbyters” and “bishops.” Thus: 1Clem. 42:4f.; 44:1, 5; 57:1; Did. 15; perhaps Apos. Const. ii.33f., in the use of the plural form; Irenaeus (Adv. haer. iii.2f.); Ambrosiaster (on 1 Tim. 3:10; Eph. 4:11); Chrysostom (Hom. II in 1 Tim.), in an unequivocal statement, the “presbyters of old were called bishops ... and the bishops presbyters”; just as unequivocally Jerome (comm. on Tit. 1:7), “the same is the presbyter, who is also the bishop.” Augustine and other fathers of the 4th and 5th cents held this view, and even Peter Lombard, who preceded Aquinas as the great teacher of the Church of the Middle Ages. Hatch and Harnack, in the face of all this testimony, maintain a distinction between the presbyters, as having charge of the law and discipline of the church, and the bishops, as being charged with the pastoral care of the church, preaching, and worship. This theory is built upon the argument of prevailing social conditions and institutions, as adopted and imitated by the Church, rather than on sound textual proof. The distinction between presbyters and bishops can be maintained only by a forced exegesis of the Scriptures. The later and rapid growth of the hierarchical idea arose from the accession of the Ebionite Christian view of the Church as a necessary continuation of the OT dispensation, a view that has so largely influenced the history of the inner development of the Church in the first six centuries of her existence.

是，正如上文所述，除了《新约》中的证据，教会的早期证据也证明了“长老”和“主教”的同一性。如，《革利免一书》42:4-5; 44:1, 5; 57:1; 《十二使徒遗训》15; 或许 Apos. Const. ii.33-34 中都采用了复数形式; 爱任纽 (Adv. haer. iii.2-3)、安波罗修 (对《提摩太前书》3:10 和《以弗所书》4:11 的注释)、赫里索斯托姆 (《提摩太前书》中的布道 11) 明确地说道, “古时的长老被称作主教……和主教长老”; 耶柔米也明确地说过 (对《提多书》1:7 的注释), “长老也就是主教”。奥古斯丁和 4 世纪与 5 世纪的其他教父坚持这种观点, 甚至连彼得·伦巴都这位阿奎奈之前的中世纪教会的伟大教师也坚持这一观点。哈奇 (Hatch) 和哈纳克 (Harnack) 不理睬所有这些证据, 仍然坚持认为长老和主教 (监督) 是有区别的, 长老负责执行教会的律法和信条, 而主教 (监督) 则负责教会的教牧关怀、讲道和礼拜。这一被教会采纳和仿效的理论以一般社会条件和体系的论据为基础, 而不是建立在确凿的经文证据之上。只有牵强的《圣经》注释才能证明长老和主教 (监督) 之间的差异。教会中伊比奥派观点促使等级观念在稍后的历史时期迅速发展, 这种观点是《旧约》中神的恩赐的一种延续, 并对前 6 个世纪教会的内部发展史产生了极大的影响。

I. Episcopacy Defined.-Episcopacy is the government of the church having bishops as the chief ministers. According to the Eastern Orthodox, Roman Catholic, and Anglican churches, bishops can be consecrated only by existing bishops; presbyters and deacons are not to be ordained without bishops; bishops have the oversight of all spiritual functions; and a historical line of episcopal succession is traced back to apostolic or subapostolic times. Two points, however, should be remembered. First, episcopacy as such does not necessarily imply the monarchical form that has become customary from at least the end of the 2nd century. Second, a distinction is to be made between the dogmatic Episcopalianism which insists that there can be no valid ministry apart from (monarchical) bishops and the practical episcopacy which sees here only a matter of the most suitable order and administration.

II. Offices in the Early Church.-In the NT the office of bishop is not clearly defined. Indeed, there seem to have been many degrees or functions of ministry, which merge into one another. Some of these contribute more to a ministry of evangelism than to the settled pastoral ministry. We have perhaps to learn from the NT that function is more important than office and that the ministry has been perpetually hampered by the tendency to give to the pastoral ministry a primacy it ought not to have.

The apostles were undoubtedly first in the NT. In them rested a final and divinely

I. 明确的主教制度。主教制度是教会的治理方式，而主教是教会中的主要牧师。按照东正教、罗马天主教和英国国教教会的说法，主教只有藉着现有的主教才能成圣；没有主教，不能选立长老和执事。他负责监督所有属灵的活动；主教制继承权的历史脉络可以追溯到使徒时期或十二门徒之后的时期。不过，必须牢记两点。第一，主教制度本身并不一定意味着君主政治，这种政体至少从 2 世纪末期就已经成为一种惯例。第二，教条的主教制度主义和实际的主教制度之间存在着差异，前者认为（君主制）主教之外不存在合法的职分，而后者仅在这里见证了最合适的秩序和管理。

II. 早期教会中的职位。《新约》中的主教职位并没有给出明确的定义。实际上，似乎存在着多种层次或职责的职分，它们彼此合二为一。其中一些职分比固定的牧师职分更有益于福音传道。我们或许从《新约》中可以得知，职责比职位更重要，给予牧师职分它本不该拥有的总助教职的倾向已经永久地妨碍了这一职分。

conferred authority. On the other hand, while the apostles consisted of more than the Twelve, the apostolate could hardly be perpetuated in the full NT sense. In close proximity to the apostles we read of the prophets (Acts 11:27). Many important prophets seem to have resided at Antioch (Acts 13:1), and it is worth noting that Saul and Barnabas were set aside for their missionary work by the prophets and teachers. Judas and Silas are called prophets in Acts (15:32), and in the Pauline lists (1 Cor. 12:28 and Eph. 4:11f.) the prophets come second to the apostles. Prophecy is closely linked with the laying on of hands in 1 Timothy (1:18; 4:14). In Revelation the prophet is associated with saints and apostles (cf. 18:20). The exact function of the prophet is hard to determine. It can include foretelling, but is probably a more general ministry of exhortation and instruction. Prophetesses are also mentioned (cf. Miriam and others in the OT).

Elders or presbyters quickly appear as the men commissioned to supervise the early Christian congregations. They were probably modeled on the synagogue of Judaism, and seem to have discharged their responsibilities corporately rather than individually (cf. Acts 15:4, 6, 22; 16:4; 20:17; Jas. 5:14). There is no evidence for their popular appointment, though they may have been approved by the churches and then ordained or commissioned by the apostles, their delegates, or existing elders.

Teachers are most likely the equivalents of the “doctors” or catechists among whom the Lord was found as a boy in the temple. As distinct from evangelists with their office of proclamation, their task was to instruct in the faith. Paul calls himself a teacher in the Pastorals, just as Peter styles himself an elder in 1 Peter. This indicates not merely fluidity in usage but a conception in terms of function rather than office.

是只有十二个使徒，从完整的新约意义上说，使徒的地位几乎不能长存。先知与使徒的地位很接近（徒 11:27）。许多重要的先知似乎都住在安提阿（徒 13:1），值得一提的是，扫罗和巴拿巴因为像先知和教师那样传道而被提及。《使徒行传》中称犹大和西拉为先知（徒 15:32），在保罗的排位中（林前 12:28；弗 4:11-12），先知位居使徒之后。《提摩太前书》中，预言与按手礼存在着密切的联系（提前 1:18；4:14）。在《启示录》中，先知和圣体和使徒一同被提及（参：启 18:20）。很难确定先知的准确职责。他们的职责可能包括说预言，可能还包括更为普通的劝勉和教导的职分。《旧约》中还提到了女先知（参：《旧约》中米利安和其他女先知）。

长老很快被选立为监督早期基督徒的人。他们可能以犹太教的会堂为榜样，似乎共同卸任，而不是分别卸职（参：徒 15:4, 6, 22; 16:4; 20:17; 雅 5:14）。虽然他们可能首先得到了教会的认可，然后被使徒、他们的代表或现有的长老选立为长老，但是没有任何证据可以证明他们得到了大众的任命。

Whether the bishops referred to in the NT constitute a separate group or again denote a function that might be exercised by others is much debated. Some contend that according to Paul's address in Acts 20 all the Ephesian elders are obviously bishops, or exercise an episcopal function (v. 17). Others argue that, while all bishops are elders, not all elders are necessarily bishops. This seems, however, to be an artificial refinement. The word episkopos, as already noted, simply means "overseer" and might well be used of anyone who fulfils a task of oversight. Thus "bishopric" is used of the apostolic office in Acts 1:20; and in Acts 20:28 there is more general reference to the Ephesian ministry, which on any reading must include more than one "bishop." The Pastorals speak more fully of bishops, though there are hints (e.g., in Tit. 1:5) that these include the elders. The Pastorals show plainly that the two functions of episcopate and diaconate have established themselves as the main essentials of the settled pastoral ministry.

The seven men appointed to supervise the daily administration in Acts are usually regarded as the first deacons. Certainly, the later deacons came to fulfil this particular form of ministry, although after the pattern of the seven they were not excluded from more spiritual administration. By the time of the Pastorals we can see a more definite emergence of deacons (and possibly in some sense deaconesses), though again we do well to think primarily in terms of function rather than office.

彼得在《彼得前书》中自称为长老。这不仅说明教师的用法很多变,也说明这是一种职责概念,而不是一种职位概念。

《新约》中的监督(主教)到底是构成了一个单独的群体,还是指示着一种可能由他人完成的职责,这是一个很有争议的问题。有些人认为,根据《使徒行传》20章中保罗所说的话,显然,所有的以弗所长老都是监督,或者承担着主教的职责(徒20:17)。其他人认为,虽然监督是长老,但是并不一定所有的长老都是监督。不过,这似乎是一种人为的提炼。正如前文说说, Episkopos 这个词只有“监督”的含义,有可能用来指代任何肩负监督任务的人。因此,在《使徒行传》1:20中,“主教职位”指的是使徒的职分;《使徒行传》20:28中更为宽泛地提及了以弗所人的职分,不论怎样解读,其中一定包括多个“监督”。虽然《教牧书信》中暗示出监督包括了长老(如,在《提多书》1:5),但是这些书信更为全面地谈论了监督。《教牧书信》表明,主教和执事的两个职责使他们成为固定牧师职分中要员。

III. Episcopacy in the NT.—The term episkopos appears so rarely that we may enumerate the occurrences. In Acts 20:17, 28 the elders of Ephesus are addressed as bishops. In Phil. 1:1 Paul and Timothy salute the bishops and deacons. In 1 Tim. 3:1f. and Tit. 1:7 there are references to the appointment and qualifications of bishops. In 1 Pet. 2:25 Christ Himself is called the “bishop of your souls.”

From the NT we may rightly deduce that, under Christ the head, there is a ministry or function of pastoral oversight for the nurture of the churches. No clear information is given, however, on the many questions raised in subsequent discussion, e.g., whether there is a distinct order of bishops, whether this inherits the authority of the apostolate, what is its relation to the eldership, how many bishops there ought to be in one place, how they should be appointed and ordained, etc. The probability seems to be that as yet there is only the function of oversight, which might be exercised by apostles, prophets, elders, etc. On the other hand, there is a distinct NT tendency (1) for one man to emerge as at least the supreme overseer, possibly on the model of the ruler of the synagogue (cf. James, Timothy, Titus), and (2) for the various functions of prophecy, teaching, and even perhaps evangelism to be assimilated to that of oversight in more settled congregational conditions.

A dogmatic Episcopalianism would go much further, arguing that the apostles deliberately instituted the order of bishops

III. 《新约》中的主教制度。 Episkopos 这个词出现的次数非常少,所以我们可以一一列举。在《使徒行传》20:17, 28 中,以弗所的长老被称为监督(主教)。在《腓立比书》1:1 中,保罗和提摩太向诸位监督和执事问安。《提摩太前书》3:1-2 和《提多书》1:7 中提到了监督的选立和资格。在《彼得前书》2:25 中,基督自称为“灵魂的监督”。

我们可以根据《新约》得出这样的正确推论,教会的头基督为了教会的发展,担起了牧人的职分或职责。然而,随后讨论中提出的许多问题却没有给出明确的答案,如,是否存在明确的主教(监督)顺序? 这是否继承了使徒的权柄? 主教(监督)和长老之间存在怎样的关系? 一个地方有多少个主教(监督)? 应该怎样任命和选立他们? 等等。似乎存在这样一种可能性,即到目前为止,只有一项监督的职责,这项职责可以由使徒、先知、长老等人完成。此外,出现了一种独特的新约趋势,(1) 出现这样一个人,他至少是最高的监督,并可能仿效犹太教会堂中的管理者(参:《雅各书》《提摩太书》《提多书》), (2) 在更为稳定的会众环境下,各种不同的职责,如预言和教导的职责,甚至可能包括福音传道的职责都变成了监督的职责。

教条的主教制度主义表现得更为离谱,论述道,为了永存使徒职分中永恒元素,特别是为了对负责基督教传道、教

(presiding elders or apostolic delegates) in order to perpetuate the permanent elements in their own ministry and especially to exercise supreme control over all branches of Christian preaching, teaching, sacramental administration, and congregational discipline. In fact, however, this is as difficult to establish from the NT as any other doctrinaire system. It thus seems best to keep to the incontestable fact that there is a function of episcopacy which may be exercised by many leaders, which is in a true sense the responsibility of every minister but which is important enough to require the appointment of specially qualified bishops and which seems to find its focus increasingly in a single figure in the church.

IV. Apostolic Fathers.-The data in the immediate post-apostolic age are as uncertain and almost as contradictory as in the NT. Thus in the Didache we still have reference to itinerant apostles and prophets, though apparently this ministry was falling into disrepute through self-seeking impostors, and worthy prophets might be invited to settle. There is also evidence of a more local ministry of bishops and deacons, which tends to be less glamorous but is still to be honored and gives signs of outlasting the itinerant form.

In 1 Clement we hear again of bishops and deacons, as also of elders. Some scholars argue that Clement refers to bishops and elders interchangeably, while others think that there is a selection of bishops from among the elders. There is, of course, the famous passage in 1Clem. 44 that has been taken as the basis for an apostolic succession. But here again there is much doubt as to the true meaning. Does Clement really mean that the apostles arranged for successors to the bishops already appointed by them? Either way, his concern is not with the transference of grace and prerogatives, but with orderly continuation in ministry.

IV. 使徒教父。紧随其后的使徒后期的资料与《新约》中的资料一样含糊不清,而且几乎一样自相矛盾。因此,在《十二使徒遗训》中,因为一些冒名顶替者的出现,使徒和先知的职分已经变得声名狼藉,但是我们仍然可以在其中看到巡回传道的使徒和先知,受人尊敬的先知还会被邀请定居下来。也有证据表明存在更为地方性的主教(监督)和执事职分,虽然他们不如巡回传道的使徒和先知那样富有魅力,但是他们仍然受到人们的尊敬,而且迹象表明他们比后者存在的时间更长。

Ignatius of Antioch poses a more difficult problem, for in six of his epistles he presents us rather suddenly, as it were, with a developed threefold structure of one bishop supported by elders and deacons, rather after the manner of the high priest, priests, and Levites of the OT. It should be noted that the bishop does not stand alone. It should also be noted that some Presbyterians see here no more than an example of the pastor, ruling elders, and deacons of their own order. On the other hand, there now seems to be (1) a clear differentiation of terms and (2) the emergence of a single bishop as head of the church and true focus of its unity.

Rather strangely, the picture presented by Ignatius is not uniformly supported by other writings of the 2nd century. Justin refers only to the president and deacons. Even Polycarp, to whom Ignatius wrote, mentions only two orders of ministers, and the same is true of Hermas. Nevertheless, there can be little doubt that Ignatius depicts what was already emerging as a normal development of the NT pattern, any remaining confusion of terminology being probably because of the influence of NT usage and because the bishop was a presiding elder rather than a completely isolated and exalted successor of the apostles.

V. Later Development.-From the end of the 2nd cent. the common episcopal

的主教（监督）安排了继任者？不管怎样，革利免关心的不是恩典和特权的转移，而是传道的有序延续。

安提阿的伊格那丢提出了一个更困难的问题，他在 6 封书信中相当突兀地向我们展现了多位长老和执事辅佐一位主教（监督）的完善三重结构，从某种程度上说，这一结构仿效了《旧约》中大祭司、祭司和利未人之间的关系。值得注意的是，主教（监督）不是独一无二的。还应该注意到，在这里的看到一些长老会教徒只是牧师、管理教会的长老和同级别执事的楷模。另一方面，（1）现在主教的任期似乎有明确的划分，（2）主教开始成为教会的唯一领袖和凝聚教会的核心。

非常奇怪的是，伊格那丢描绘的画面并没有得到 2 世纪其他作品的一致支持。游斯丁仅仅提到了会长和执事。甚至连坡旅甲（伊格那丢曾写信给他）和黑马也只提到两种级别的牧师。不过，毋庸置疑，伊格那丢描绘的是已经出现的新约模式的正常发展，有关这一术语的其他疑惑可能是受到了《新约》中用法的影响，也可能是因为主教（监督）是一位监督长老，而不是完全孤立的、被卓拔的使徒继承者。

V. 后期发展。从 2 世纪末期开始，虽然在亚历山大港似乎存在一种有趣的

pattern established itself more or less universally, although there seems to have been an interesting form of presbyterianism in Alexandria which may have influenced the curious relationship of the monasteries to the bishops in the great age of Celtic evangelism. Even with the more uniform development, however, the interrelationship of bishops, elders, and deacons was still a subject of inquiry and debate. It could be generally admitted that deacons ought not to exercise spiritual functions except by special delegation from the bishop. But what about presbyters? Were they simply delegates of the bishops, in whom alone true ministry was thus invested? Or were they ministers in their own right, although under episcopal supervision for the sake of good order? Serious attempts were made to enforce the former view, e.g., at the Council of Vern in A.D. 755. The great Jerome, however, perhaps disappointed at his failure to attain to the Roman bishopric, emerged as a strong champion of the parity of essential ministry, and this was the view that finally seemed to prevail in medieval theology, in spite of the feudal exaltation of bishops and probably with the connivance of the papacy in its desire to depreciate all rival bishops. Thus presbyters and bishops together came to constitute the supreme and final order of ministry, and presbyters retained their historic right to participate in the ordination of new presbyters.

VI. The Reformation.-A great outcry arose against bishops from many Reformers. This was directed primarily against prelacy rather than episcopacy as such, i.e., against the worldliness and tyranny of bishops and their hostility to attempts at dogmatic and practical reform according to the Scriptures. Among the original leaders there was little opposition in principle to the episcopalian type of order. Calvin, for example, believed that he had reconstructed the ministry in Geneva on the NT pattern, but he would also allow that the original episcopal order was a tolerable and effective form of NT ministry. It was in an attempt to restore the episcopate to its original purity as a pastoral and preaching office that the Anglican leaders, many of whom were themselves bishops, retained episcopacy, for what they took to be good biblical, historical, and practical reasons, not claiming it as the exclusive NT form of government, nor investing it with doctrinal significance, but seeing in it a potentially effective form of church order which embodied the essential features of NT ministry and for which there were good historical precedents.

VI. 宗教改革。许多改革者对主教表示了强烈的抗议。这种抗议首先指向主教,而不是主教制度本身,也就是,反对主教的世故和专制,以及他们对根据《圣经》进行教义改革和实用性改革所表示出的敌意。最初的宗教改革领袖基本上都不反对主教制度。例如,加尔文

In its classical form as represented by Cranmer, Jewel, Whitgift, Hooker, and even many of the Carolines, Anglicanism does not deny a parity of essential ministry. It makes no claim that bishops have inherited apostolic authority or prerogatives. It does not dismiss nonepiscopal ministries as invalid. It makes no attempt to enforce Episcopalianism on all other churches as the only acceptable NT form. It stresses above all the pastoral and spiritual nature of the office and the basic humility and simplicity essential in the one who occupies it. If it retains episcopacy, this is because it finds in the structure a historically grounded and satisfactory mode of discharging the genuine NT function, not of autocratic rule, but of pastoral care and spiritual leadership. It thus exercises its right as a Church to take order according to the Scriptures and its own estimate of the needs of the situation.

正如克栏麦、维特吉夫特、胡克(Hooker),甚至连加罗林群岛的许多人呈现的那样,基督教圣公会的古典教义并不否定基本职分是平等的。圣公会教义没有宣称主教继承了使徒的权柄或特权,也没有将非主教职分视为无效的职分,更没有试图强迫其他所有教会接受主教制度主义,并将之作为唯一的可以接受的新约形式。圣公会教义首先强调主教之职的牧师和属灵本质,以及所有处在这个职位上的人必须具有谦卑和质朴的基本素质。如果圣公会教义保存了主教职位,那是因为它找到了这一职位的历史依据和卸掉真正新约职责的满意模式,这种模式不是独裁统治,而是教牧关怀和属灵的领导。因此,教会应当按照《圣经》中教导和形式需要来行使权柄。

Since the time of the Reformation there have been Anglican movements, especially Anglo-Catholicism, which have tried to go beyond this classical understanding to a dogmatic Episcopalianism that depreciates the presbyterate and invalidates nonepiscopal ministries and ministrations. Thus far, however, such movements have never been able to establish themselves in the Anglican world as more than private or partisan schools of thought, often influential, but not in any genuine way representative of the teaching of the church. The views enshrined in the formularies are still those of the classical Anglicanism of the Reformers, which accepts episcopacy as a matter of good order, which is prepared to see a historical succession of ministry from early days, but which denies apostolic succession in any dogmatic sense, and divests the external mode or structure of doctrinal significance.

REFORMED VIEW

The Reformed churches stress that the word “bishop” in the NT is interchangeable with “presbyter.” Both words seem to denote the same office.

Calvin believed that in NT times the distinct office of a bishop, as it was later established within the Catholic Church, had not emerged (cf., e.g., his comm. on 1 Tim. 3:1). He believed, however, that the form and order of the Church’s life was not so fixed as to leave no room for good

改革宗的观点

改革宗教会强调,《新约》中的“监督(主教)”一词与“长老”一词是可以互换使用的。这两个词似乎指的是同一个职位。

加尔文认为新约时期还未出现监督(主教)的独特职位,事实上后来在天主教教会中出现了这个职位(参:如,加尔文对《提摩太前书》3:1的注释)。他认为,教会的生活形式和秩序还没有完全固定,因此没有留下良好发展的空间,他似乎并不反对在教会内设立监督(主

developments, and he seems to have had little objection to the emergence of such a bishop within the Church: “All those to whom the office of teaching was enjoined they called “presbyters.” In each city these chose one of their number to whom they specially gave the title “bishop” in order that dissensions might not arise (as commonly happens) from equality of rank. Still, the bishop was not so much higher in honor and dignity as to have lordship over his colleagues. But the same functions that the consul has in the senate—to report on business, to request opinions, to preside over others in counseling, admonishing, and exhorting, to govern the whole action by his authority, and to carry out what was decreed by common decision—the bishop carried out in the assembly of presbyters” (Inst. iv.4.2). Accordingly Calvin wrote to the king of Poland recommending the setting up of an episcopal form of church government there.

Calvin did stress, however, that episcopacy was the custom of the Church rather than the Lord’s actual arrangement, and in his letter to the king of Poland he can be interpreted as expressing a hope that episcopacy there would be only temporary. He often expresses disapproval of power resting in the hands of one man (cf., e.g., Inst. iv.11.4). He admits that the episcopal bishops have a “godly and excellent office, if only they would fulfil it” (Inst. iv.5.11). But he points out that in the course of church history the bishops have tended to forsake their true pastoral office, have neglected their duty to preach the Word, and have instead immersed themselves in administration and have loved power.

教) 一职: “一切担任教导职分的人都被称为 ‘长老’。在每一座城市里, 从众长老中特选一位做 ‘监督’, 好避免因为有许多同等地位的人, 就彼此纷争。然而, 监督的地位并非高到能吩咐其他的长老。他所担任的就如立法院中主席的职分——报告重要的事项, 请其他长老提出建议、警戒、劝勉, 以自己的权威主持大会, 并执行长老共同的决定, 监督在长老当中也同样担任这职分” (Inst. iv.4.2)。因此, 加尔文写信给波兰国王, 建议他在教会设立主教一职, 并由主教来管理教会。

然而, 加尔文确实强调过, 主教制度是教会的习俗, 而不是上帝实际的安排, 他在给波兰国王的信中希望主教制度只是暂时的。他经常反对权力集中于一人之手 (参, 如, Inst. iv.11.4)。他承认, 主教制中主教 “是圣洁、高贵的本分, 只要他们尽本分” (Inst. iv.5.11)。但他指出, 在教会历史发展过程中, 主教倾向于放弃他们的真正牧师职位, 忽视他们传播神的道的职责, 而是沉迷于管理和受人爱戴的权力之中。

Calvin himself, however, seems to have fulfilled the role of a bishop in Geneva, and his teaching and activity seem to leave room for the emergence in the Reformed churches of a bishop who holds and exercises his distinctive episcopate only along with and in the midst of his fellow bishops in presbytery (cf. T. F. Torrance, Conflict and Agreement in the Church [1959], I, 97). Such a bishop would refrain from any show of dignity, would be a preacher and local pastor rather than an administrator. He would have no independent right to create presbyters (Inst. iv.5.4), and the people should have some say in his election. He might be permanent moderator of a presbytery (cf. Calvin's comm. on Tit. 1:7).

The Reformed churches did not follow up these hints in Calvin's practice and teaching. Beza ignored Calvin's suggestion that he should succeed him as the permanent moderator of the Consistory in Geneva, and the office was rotated. In Scotland, a tentative effort by Knox to have "superintendents" in synodical areas was not followed up, and "bishop" later on became an ugly word. More recently in Scotland the church has rejected the idea of a Reformed "bishop in presbytery." In France, the name "superintendent" occurs in the Gallican Confession (arts. 2, 30), but this was later defined as not implying any ministerial superiority of one pastor over another (cf. J. L. Ainslie, Doctrine of Ministerial Order in the Reformed Church [1940], pp. 90ff.).

CONGREGATIONAL VIEW

不过,加尔文似乎在日内瓦充当着主教的角色,他的教导和行为似乎为改革宗教会中主教的出现埋下了伏笔,主教只有和长老会的其他同僚主教一起,才能拥有并行使他独特的主教之职(参:T. F. Torrance, Conflict and Agreement in the Church [1959], I, 97)。这样的主教没有任何高贵可言,不过是一位传道者和地方的牧师,而不是一位管理者。他没有选立长老的独立权柄(Inst. iv.5.4),当选主教的人应该在当选时发表就职演说。他可能成为长老会的永久主席(参:加尔文对《提多书》1:7的注释)。

改革宗教会并没有遵循加尔文实践和教导中的这些提示。加尔文建议伯撒接替他作日内瓦长老法庭的永久主席,并由他们二人轮流任职,但是伯撒没有采纳他的建议。诺克斯在苏格兰的会议区设立“监督人”的尝试也没有被延续下去,“主教”后来成为了一个令人厌恶的词汇。近来苏格兰的教会拒绝了改革宗的“长老会中的主教”的理念。在法国,“监督人”这个词出现在加利亚信条中(第2和30信条),但是后来这个词不再有一位牧师优于其他牧师的含义(参:J. L. Ainslie, Doctrine of Ministerial Order in the Reformed Church [1940], 90页起)。

I. The NT Church a Spiritual

Democracy.-As a spiritual and social democracy, Congregationalism finds no warrant or precedent in the NT for the episcopal conception of the words “bishop,” “presbyter,” and “elder.” It interprets episkopos literally as “overseer”—not an ecclesiastical dignitary but a spiritual minister. It finds the Roman Catholic view of Peter’s primacy, founded alone on Mt. 16:18, contradicted by the entire trend of Christ’s teaching, as, e.g., when referring to the Gentiles exercising lordship and authority Christ says, “It shall not be so among you” (Mt. 20:26ff.). He set the precedent of official greatness when He said, “the Son of man came not to be served but to serve,” and that “whoever would be first among you must be your slave.” Paul’s testimony confirms this in suggesting no primacy among the apostles and prophets, but making “Christ ... himself ... the cornerstone” (Eph. 2:20). The organization and history of the early Christian Church establish this view of its simplicity and democracy. In Acts 1:20 the RSV corrects the rendering “bishoprick” (given by the King James translators, who were officers in the Episcopal Church) to “office,” thus relieving the verse of possible ecclesiastical pretensions.

The Church formed on the day of Pentecost was the spontaneous coming together of the original 120 disciples and the 3000 Christian converts, for fellowship, worship, and work, under the inspiration and guidance of the Holy Spirit. Its only creed was belief in the risen Christ and the renewing power of the Holy Spirit; its only condition of membership was repentance and baptism.

I. 新约教会一种属灵的民主政体。公理制作为一种属灵和社会的民主政体，在《新约》中找不到“bishop”（“监督[主教]”）、“presbyter”（“长老”）和“elder”（“长老”）这些词汇表示主教概念的证据或先例。按照字面意思将 episkopos 译为“overseer”（“监督”）——监督不是教会中的显要人物，而是一个属灵的牧师。罗马天主教仅仅基于《马太福音》16:18 就确立了彼得的大主教职位，这种观点与基督教导的整体倾向相矛盾，因为，当提到外邦人的“治理”和“操权”时，基督说道，“只是在你们中间不可这样”（太 20:26 起）。当祂说“人子来，不是要受人的服侍，乃是要服侍人”和“谁愿为首，就必做你们的仆人”时，祂已定下伟大官员的先例。保罗的证言表明在使徒和先知中间没有首位之说，但要让“基督自己为房角石”（弗 2:20）。早期基督教教会的组织和历史证实了这种观点的朴素性和民主性。在《使徒行传》1:20 中，《修订标准译本》将“bishoprick”（《钦定版圣经》的译者给出的翻译，他们是苏格兰圣公会的官员）改译为“office”（汉译均为“职分”），因此这节经文不能成为教会夸口的证据。

II. Election of Officers by Popular Vote.-The apostles naturally took leadership but, abrogating all authority, committed to the Church as a whole the choice of its officers and the conduct of its temporal and spiritual affairs. Judas' place in the apostolate was not filled by succession or episcopal appointment (Acts 1:23-26). The seven deacons were elected by popular vote (Acts 6:1-6). One of the Seven—Philip—preached and, without protest, administered the rite of baptism (Acts 8:12f.).

The churches in the apostolic era were independent and self-governing, and the absence of anything like a centralized ecclesiastical authority is seen in that the Council of Jerusalem, called to consider whether the church at Antioch should receive the uncircumcised into membership, was a delegated body, composed in part of lay members, and having only advisory power (Acts 15:1-29).

III. The Epistles Not Official Documents.-The apostolic letters, forming so large a part of the NT, are not official documents but letters of loving pastoral instruction and counsel. The terms bishops, elders, pastors, and teachers are used synonymously and interchangeably, thus limiting the officers of the early Church to two orders: pastors and deacons. See also CHURCH GOVERNMENT.

IV. Restoration of Primitive Ideals.-Under the spiritual tyrannies of the Church of England, during the reigns of Henry VIII, Edward VI, "bloody" Mary, and Queen Elizabeth, the Dissenting

II. 通过普选选出官员。使徒们本来就具有领导的权柄,但是他们废除了所有的权柄,并把选立教会官员和管理世俗和属灵事件的权柄移交给了整个教会。使徒中犹太人的位分不是通过继承或主教任命而获得的(徒 1:23-26)。七位执事是由大众普选选出的(徒 6:1-6)。其中一位执事腓利执行受洗仪式——人们都接受他所传的福音(徒 8:12-13)。

使徒时代的教会实行独立自主,没有任何集权的教会权威,因为耶路撒冷大公会议是一个得到授权的机构,其中一部分与会者是教外人士,只有“劝告”的权柄,此次会议所讨论的内容是,安提阿的教会是否应该让未受割礼的人入教(徒 15:1-29)。

III. 使徒书信不是官方文件。占据《新约》大量篇幅的使徒书信不是官方的文件,而是有关教牧关怀、教导和商议的书信。监督(主教)、长老、牧师和教师是同义且可互换使用的词语,因此,早期的教会只有两种级别的管理者:牧师和执事。另见 CHURCH GOVERNMENT (教会管理)。

IV. 本原理想的回归。在亨利八世、爱德华六世、“残忍的”玛丽女王和伊丽莎白女王的统治下,英国国教推行了精神专制,反对派,主要是公理宗派却回归到初期教会的朴素和属灵的自由上 bodies, chiefly the Congregationalists, returned to the simplicity and spiritual freedom of the primitive Church. The issue was forced by two arbitrary acts of Parliament under Elizabeth: the Act of Supremacy and the Act of Uniformity. Emancipation from the intellectual and religious tyranny of these acts was won at the cost of many martyrdoms. These struggles and persecutions wrought into the successors of Robert Browne, the father of modern Congregationalism, a deep-seated and permanent resentment against all forms of autocratic power in church and state. They challenged, at the cost of life, the divine right both of kings and of bishops. They believed that in Christ Jesus all believers are literally and inalienably made "kings and priests unto God" (Rev. 1:6, AV), actual spiritual sovereigns, independent of all human dictation and control in matters of belief and worship. The Pilgrims expatriated themselves to secure this spiritual liberty; and to their inherent antagonism to inherited and self-perpetuated power, whether civil or ecclesiastical, must be credited the religious freedom and civil democracy of America.

来。伊丽莎白统治时期，两部专制的议会法案被强行颁布出来：至尊法案和统一法案。许多殉道者以牺牲生命为代价使人们从文士和这些法案的暴政中解放出来。这些抗争和迫害锤炼了现代公理制之父罗伯特·布朗的继任者，公理制对教会和国家中所有专制权力怀有根深蒂固的仇恨。他们以生命为代价向国王和主教（监督）的神授权力发起了挑战。他们认为，所有的信徒确实都在基督耶稣里成为了“神的国民和祭司”（《钦定版圣经》，启 1:6），这是不可剥夺的，他们实际成为了属灵的君王，在信仰和敬拜的事务上不再受所有人类独裁和权势的支配。清教徒为了获得属灵的自由，移居国外；他们与生俱来就对世俗和教会中的继承权和永世长存的权力怀有敌意，他们认为美洲拥有宗教自由和世俗民主。

Some early types of bits in the Near East had spiked wheels on each end which rested against the horses’ lips, while others were simply jointed.

BIT 嚼环

【希伯来语：meteg——“嚼环”、“辔头”；希腊语：chalinós (雅 3:3)】；《钦定版圣经》还译为 BRIDLE (“辔头”)；《新英文译本》还译作 HOOK (“钩子”)、BRIDLE (“辔头”)；BRIDLE (“辔头”)【希伯来语：resen (诗 32:9; 赛 30:28), maḥsôm——“muzzle” (“嚼环”) (诗 39:1)；希腊语：chalinós (启 14:20), chalinagōgēō (雅 1:26; 3:2)】；《新英文译本》还译为 BIT (“嚼环”)、MUZZL (“罩子”)等。在《诗篇》32:9 中，这两个词同时出现“你不可像那骡马……必用嚼环辔头勒住它”。嚼环是一根固定在马缰绳罩子末端的金属条，在给马戴上辔头时将嚼环插入马的牙齿中间来控制马。近东地区的一些早期嚼环的两端各有一个带尖的轮子，它们紧靠着马嘴，其他的嚼环则是分节的。

The natural functions of the bit and bridle were applied metaphorically in both Testaments to refer to different forms of control; e.g., James says, “If any one thinks he is religious, and does not bridle his tongue ... this man's religion is vain” (1:26), and “if any one makes no mistakes in what he says he is a perfect man, able to bridle the whole body also” (3:2; cf. 2 K. 19:28; Isa. 37:29).

两约都使用嚼环和轡头的天然功能来比喻不同形式的约束；如，雅各说，“若有人自以为虔诚，却不勒住他的舌头……这人的虔诚是虚的”（雅 1:26），“若有人在话语上没有过失，他就是完全人，也能勒住自己的全身”（雅 3:2；参：王下 19:28；赛 37:29）。

bi-thī'ə [Heb. biṭyā—‘daughter (worshiper) of Yahweh’]. An Egyptian woman married to Mered, a descendant of Judah (1 Ch. 4:17). The RSV and NEB “daughter of Pharaoh” need only reflect a MT euphemism for “Egyptian lady,” without necessarily implying that Mered had married a person of royal descent. The name Bithiah seems to designate one who had become converted to the worship of Yahweh.

BITHIAH 比提雅

音译：bi-thī'ə【希伯来语：biṭyā——“耶和華的女儿（敬拜者）”】。嫁给米列的一名埃及女子，犹大的子孙（代上 4:17）。《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》中的“法老女儿”只是《马所拉文本》中“埃及女子”的委婉说法，并不一定意味着米列娶了皇族的女子。比提雅这个名字似乎指的是一名归信耶和華的人。

bi-thin'ē-ə [Gk. Bithynia]. The coastal province in northwestern Asia Minor on the Propontis and Black Sea. It adjoined Paphlogonia on the east and Mysia on the west and southwest. It was a mountainous area watered by the river Sangarius (modern Salcaria) with a fertile plain sloping toward the Black Sea coast.

The earliest recorded immigrants were Thracians. Herodotus (i.24) mentions the existence of Thyni and Bithyni, of whom the latter became the more important. They were incorporated by Croesus with the Lydian monarchy, and when this fell they also came under Persian control in 546 B.C. After the conquest of Persia by Alexander the Great, Bithynia became independent and the dynasty founded by Nicomedes I in 278 B.C. governed for more than two hundred years. In 74 B.C. BITHYNIA 庇推尼 against Mithradates of Pontus, bequeathed his kingdom to the Roman republic.

As a Roman province Bithynia was often united with Pontus, and this was the situation when Pliny the Younger was appointed legatus pro praetore by Trajan A.D. 111–113. As in other maritime provinces in Asia Minor, the social and cultural life of Bithynia depended upon the Greek cities, among the most important of which were Nicaea, Nicomedia, Prusa, Chalcedon, and Heraclea. These and other smaller cities administered the whole area as their separate civic territories. It was to investigate the serious financial and administrative difficulties into which these had fallen that Pliny had been given special powers by Trajan.

When Pliny reached Amisus in the east of the province (autumn, 112) he encountered Christians. These were denounced to him as undesirables; the success of their mission was causing a serious decline in the trade of sacrificial animals. When Christianity reached Bithynia is not precisely known. “The Spirit” suffered Paul and Silas not to enter the province (Acts 16:7), but Bithynia was among the provinces addressed in 1 Pet. 1:1, and some of those who were brought before Pliny claimed to have lapsed from Christianity as much as twenty years before. Pliny’s correspondence with Trajan concerning the Christians (Ep. x.96f.) is a landmark in the relations between the Church and the Roman empire. Christianity was not a legally sanctioned religion (religio licita) and Christians, if denounced as such, were liable for punishment; but Trajan states, “they are not to be sought out”

当普林尼抵达该行省东部的阿米苏斯 (公元 112 年秋) 时，他遇到了基督徒。他宣布他们是不良份子；基督徒成功传道促使祭牲贸易严重下滑。基督教传入庇推尼的准确时间不得而知。“圣灵”不许保罗和西拉前往庇推尼行省 (徒 16:7)，但是庇推尼是《彼得前书》1:1 中彼得去信的行省之一，被带到普林尼前的一些人宣称他们早在 20 年之前就已经背离了基督教。普林尼给图拉真的信中谈到了基督徒 (Ep. x.96-97)，这封信是教会与罗马帝国关系的一座里程碑。基督教不是合法的宗教 (拉丁语: religio licita)，如果一个人被指控为基督徒，那么他就面临着惩罚；但是图拉真说，“不应该找出这些基督徒” (拉丁语: conquirendi non sunt)，只能通过自诉人 (控告者或告密者) 以适当的方式控告他们。应该忽视那些匿名控告。因此，虽然基督徒虽不是合法组织中的成员，但是对待他们却不能像普通罪犯那样，他们也不容易“被抓到”；如果控诉人撤回了控告，他们必须被释放。

(conquirendi non sunt) and they could only be charged in proper form by a private prosecutor (an accusator or delator). Anonymous accusations were to be disregarded. Christians, therefore, though members of an illegal organization, were not to be treated as common criminals liable to be “sought out”; and if they recanted they were to be freed. This remained the policy of successive emperors down to Constantine.

At the end of the 3rd cent. Diocletian fixed his capital at Nicomedia, and Hierocles the governor of Bithynia played a prominent part in the Great Persecution (303–312). Constantine chose Nicea as the site of the First Ecumenical Council in 325, and the province’s proximity to Constantinople ensured its continued prominence in ecclesiastical affairs. In 451 the emperor Marcian convened the Fourth Ecumenical Council, devoted to Christology, at Chalcedon, immediately across the Bosphorus from the capital.

Bithynia remained part of the Byzantine empire for a thousand years, being finally overrun in the 1320’s, when the Turkish Sultan Orchan selected Brousa (Prusa) as his capital.

戴克里先于公元 3 世纪末期建都尼科米底亚，庇推尼的总督希罗克勒斯在“大逼迫”中发挥了重要作用（公元 303 至 312 年）。公元 325 年，君士坦丁选择尼西亚作为第一次大公会议的开会地点，因为该行省靠近君士坦丁堡，所以他们在教会事务上扮演着突出的角色。皇帝马西安于公元 451 年在迦克墩召开了第四次大公会议，此次会议致力于宣传基督论，从罗马穿过博斯普鲁斯海峡就是迦克墩。

拜占庭帝国统治庇推尼达一千年之久，于 14 世纪 20 年代被最终推翻，而此时土耳其的苏丹·鄂坎选择普鲁萨作为他的都城。

BITTER HERBS

[Heb. m'rorim; Gk. pikrides]. The references to bitter herbs in the first Passover (Ex. 12:8; Nu. 9:11) were probably to a salad as an accompaniment to the roasted lamb, and would include lettuce, endive, chicory, and dandelion. The use of the term in Lam. 3:15 to parallel “wormwood” has led some to suggest the inclusion of the colocynth (Citrullus colocynthis [L.] Schrad.) or the squirting cucumber (Ecbalium elaterium). However, these two plants were renowned for their noxious effects, and would not knowingly be eaten as food.

BITTER HERBS 苦菜

【希伯来语：m'rorim；希腊语：pikrides】。第一次逾越节中提到的苦菜（出 12:8；民 9:11）可能是一种与烤羔羊同食的凉拌菜，其中可能包括生菜、苦苣、菊苣和蒲公英。《耶利米哀歌》中用“茵陈”指代苦菜，这致使有些人认为苦菜包括药西瓜（拉丁学名：Citrullus colocynthis [L.] Schrad.）或喷瓜（Ecbalium elaterium）。但众所周知，这两种植物都是有毒的，不可以食用。

BITUMEN

[Heb. ḥēmār]; AV SLIME (Gen. 11:3; 14:10; Ex. 2:3); NEB also CLAY (Ex. 2:3). Heb. ḥēmār (LXX ásphaltos) stands for the more viscous natural hydro-carbons, also called asphalts. One such bitumenous material is found in solid black lumps in the cretaceous limestone on the west bank of the Dead Sea. Other, sometimes less viscous, examples can be seen at various points along the Euphrates and in the Levant.

In Gen. 11:3 the baked bricks of the “tower of Babel” are to be set in bitumen. The verse contains a pun, since the Hebrew word for mortar (ḥômer) has the same consonants as the word for bitumen. Herodotus (i.179) refers to the same practice in building the walls of the city of Babylon. The outer courses of the ziggurat at Ur also were set in this way.

Gen. 14:10 refers to bitumen pits, into which some of the kings of Sodom and Gomorrah are said to have fallen, in the Valley of Siddim. The location of the Valley of Siddim is usually thought to be the southern part of the Dead Sea, which Josephus calls Lake Asphaltites (Ant. i.9).

The caulking of the ark prepared for the infant Moses (Ex. 2:3) with bitumen was a common practice in the ancient Near East. The Legend of Sargon I, which is an older story based on the same epic paradigm,

BITUMEN 石漆、沥青

【希伯来语：ḥēmār】；《钦定版圣经》中译为 SLIME (“石漆”) (创 11:3; 14:10; 出 2:3)；《新英文译本》还译为 CLAY (“石漆”) (出 2:3)。希伯来词语 ḥēmār (《七十士译本》中译为 ásphaltos) 代表着一种很有粘性的天然碳化氢，也称为沥青。死海西岸白垩纪石灰岩的坚固黑煤块中可以找到这种沥青质的材料。在幼发拉底河沿岸和黎凡特境内随处可见其他的石漆，有的石漆粘性较弱。

在《创世记》11:3 中，建造“巴别塔”的烧砖上涂上了石漆。这节经文包含一个双关语，因为希伯来语中表示灰泥 (ḥômer) 的词语与表示石漆的词语拥有相同的辅音。希罗多德 (i.179) 认为建造巴比伦城墙时采用了相同的材料。吾珥庙塔的外墙也涂了石漆。

《创世记》14:10 中提到了西订谷的石漆坑，据说所多玛和蛾摩拉的一些国王就掉进了这些坑里。西订谷通常被认为位于死海南部，约瑟夫称死海为“沥青湖” (Ant. i.9)。

装婴儿摩西的蒲草箱的堵缝处上抹上了石漆 (出 2:3)，这是古近东地区一种惯例。关于撒珥根一世的传说中提到，装撒珥根一世的石漆密封草箱被放在了河里，这是一个基于相同史诗般范例

biz'ē-ō-thi'ə [Heb. bizyōtyā; Gk. hai kōmai autōn—lit. 'their villages']; AV BIZJOTHJAH; NEB "its villages." Following the MT, a town in the Negeb near Beer-sheba (Josh. 15:28). The LXX reading, followed by the NEB, is based on a very slight change in the MT, to b^enōteyhā, "her daughters," i.e., the villages surrounding Beer-sheba. This reading is almost certainly correct (cf. Neh. 11:27).

The RSV frequently has “revile” for AV “blaspheme,” and also uses “curse,” “defame,” “despise,” “discredit,” “scorn,” “slander,” “abusive.”

BLASPHEME; BLASPHEMY 亵渎、毁谤；凌辱、亵渎、僭妄

【希伯来语：nāqab, n^e’āšâ, qālal, gādap；希腊语：blasphēmēō, blasphēmía, blásphēmos】；《钦定版圣经》中还译为 PROVOCATION (“怒气”) (尼 9:18, 26)、“make vile” (“作孽”) (撒 3:13)；《新英文译本》中还译为“utter (the Name)(in blasphemy)” (“亵渎神的名”)、INSULT (“凌辱”，动词)、SLANDER (“谗谤”，名词和动词)、DISHONOUR (“轻慢”，动词)、ABUSE (“辱骂”，名词)，“renounce one’s faith” (“撇下信心”)和“pour contempt on” (“轻慢”)。在希腊词语 blasphēmía 的传统用法中，它的含义主要是“诽谤”或“中伤”，还有“恶言相加”的含义。在《新约》中，它后来通常表示说亵渎神的话。《修订标准译本》经常采用“revile” (“毁谤”)来翻译《钦定版圣经》中的“blaspheme” (亵渎、毁谤)，另外还采用“curse” (“诅咒”)、“defame” (“毁谤”)、“despise” (“藐视”)、“discredit” (“毁谤”)、“scorn” (“受辱”)、“slander” (“谗谤”)。

和“abusive”（“谤讟”）来翻译这个词。

(1) In the OT the penalty for blasphemy against God is death by stoning (Lev. 24:16; cf. Jn. 10:33; Acts 6f. [Stephen]). According to 1 S. 3:13, Eli's sons blasphemed God (RSV and NEB, following LXX; the AV has “made themselves vile,” following MT). In Neh. 9:18, 26, Ezra refers to the “great blasphemies” of the Israelites of old. And Ezk. 20:27ff. speaks of the blasphemy of ancient Israel in sacrificing on the high places.

(1) 在《旧约》中，褻渎神者将面临的惩罚是被石头打死（利 24:16；参：约 10:33；徒 6-7[司提反]）。根据《撒母耳记上》3:13 中的描述，以利儿子褻渎了神（《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》采用了《七十士译本》中的译法，而《钦定版圣经》遵照《马所拉文本》中的文本，将之译为“made themselves vile”[“作孽”]）。在《尼希米记》9:18 和 9:26 中，以斯拉提到了古时的以色列人“大大地惹动了神的怒气”。《以西结书》20:27 起中提到古以色列因在远处献祭而褻渎了神。

(2) In the NT, Jesus is accused by the Jews of blasphemy (Mt. 9:3; Lk. 5:21; Jn. 10:33), as is Stephen (Acts 6:11). But the Jews who boast of the law and yet fail to keep its basic precepts are themselves accused of blasphemy (Rom. 2:24). Paul confesses that before his conversion he tried to force Christians to blaspheme Christ (Acts 26:11), and himself blasphemed (1 Tim. 1:13). Others accused of blasphemy in the NT are Hymenaeus and Alexander (1 Tim. 1:20), and the rich who oppress the poor (Jas. 2:7). The blasphemy referred to in Acts 19:37 is not against God but against Diana (Artemis), goddess of the Ephesians. The beast of Rev. 13 bore blasphemous names and uttered blasphemies (cf. 17:3).

(2) 在《新约》中，犹太人指责耶稣说僭越的话（太 9:3；路 5:21；约 10:33），他们也曾这样指责司提反（徒 6:11）。而那些以律法夸口且不遵守律法中基本诫命的犹太人也犯了褻渎神的罪（罗 2:24）。保罗坦白地说道，在他归信之前，他曾强迫基督徒说褻渎基督的话（徒 26:11），而他自己也是褻渎神的（提前 1:13）。《新约》中其他被指控褻渎神的人还有许米乃、亚历山大（提前 1:20）和欺压穷人的富人（雅 2:7）。《使徒行传》19:37 中提到的谤讟不是指谤讟神，而是指谤讟以弗所人的女神狄安娜（亚底米）。《启示录》13 章中曾有褻渎的名号，说了褻渎的话（参：启 17:3）。

(3) Blasphemy against the Holy Spirit: “... every sin and blasphemy will be forgiven men, but the blasphemy against the Spirit will not be forgiven. And whoever says a word against the Son of man will be forgiven; but whoever speaks against the Holy Spirit will not be forgiven, either in this age or in the age to come” (Mt. 12:31f. par Mk. 3:28f.; Lk.

(3) 褻渎圣灵：“……人一切的罪和褻渎的话，都可得赦免。惟独褻渎圣灵，总不得赦免。凡说话干犯人子的，还可得赦免。惟独说话干犯圣灵的，今世、来世总不得赦免”（太 12:31-32，平行经文可 3:28-29；路 12:10）。在《旧约》中，“那擅敢行事的”和褻渎神的名的遭受了死刑，所以褻渎圣灵的就犯了不可被赦免的罪。这些段落至少用铁一样

12:10). As in the OT “to sin with a high hand” and to blaspheme the name of God incurred the death penalty, so the blasphemy against the Holy Spirit remains the one unpardonable sin. These passages at least imply beyond cavil the personality of the Holy Spirit, for sin and blasphemy can be committed only against persons. In Matthew and Mark a particular case of this blasphemy is the allegation of the Pharisees that Jesus Christ casts out devils by Beelzebub. The general idea is that to attribute to an evil source acts that are clearly those of the Holy Spirit, to call good evil, is blasphemy against the Spirit, and sin that will not be pardoned. “A distinction is made between Christ’s other acts and those which manifestly reveal the Holy Spirit in Him, and between slander directed against Him personally as He appears in His ordinary acts, and that which is aimed at those acts in which the Spirit is manifest” (Gould, comm. on Mark [ICC, 1896], in loc.). Luke does not refer to any particular instance, and seems to connect it with the denial of Christ, although he too gives the saying that “every one who speaks a word against the Son of man will be forgiven.” See HOLY SPIRIT II.B.

的事实表明了圣灵的特点，因为只可对人犯罪和亵渎人，不可亵渎圣灵。在《马太福音》和《马可福音》中，法利赛人的指控就是亵渎神的行为的一个特例，他们说耶稣靠着别西卜赶鬼。这段经文的大意是，将那些显然来自圣灵的行为归为魔鬼的作为，或称善为恶就亵渎了圣灵，这种罪是不能被赦免的。“基督的其他行为和基督里显明圣灵的行为是有区别的，同样，直接毁谤基督平常的行为和直接毁谤在祂里面的圣灵的行为也是有区别的”（Gould，对《马可福音》的注释 [ICC, 1896]，见本段）。路加没有给出任何特例，虽然他也说过“凡说话干犯人子的，还可得赦免”，但是他似乎把这种亵渎与不认基督联系在一起。见 HOLY SPIRIT II.B.（圣灵 II.B.）。

BLAST

【希伯来语：nešāmā, rû(a)ḥ, māšaḳ（出 19:13；书 6:5），qôl-šôpār（出 19:16），šôpār（亚 1:16），ṯrû‘â（利 23:24）】；《钦定版圣经》中还译为 SOUNDETH（声音）、“voice of the trumpet”（“角声”）等；《新英文译本》中还译为 SOUNDS（“声音”）、ACCLAIMS（“角声”）。

The Hebrew words nēšāmā, “breath” (2 S. 希伯来词 nēšāmā 意思是“气”（撒下 22:16; Job 4:9; Ps. 18:15), and rû(a)h, “wind,” “spirit,” “breath” (Ex. 15:8; Isa. 25:4; 27:8), mean in these contexts the hot wind generated by God’s anger that wreaks destruction. In Isa. 25:4 rû(a)h is used also to depict man’s anger. The two words occur together in Ps. 18:15, “at the blast [n^ešāmā] of the breath [rû(a)h] of thy nostrils,” and in parallel statements in Job 4:9. This depiction of God’s anger and its destructive force is associated principally with the motif of Yahweh as the Divine Warrior (Ex. 15:1–21; Jgs. 5:4–23). As Divine Warrior, Yahweh comes to destroy His enemies who are also Israel’s enemies, and thus to save His people. The battle is invariably portrayed in heightened—and often cosmic—imagery (Ps. 18:15; Ex. 15:8). Isa. 27:8 looks back to the time when Yahweh in His anger turned upon His people, who had been faithless and forsaken Him.

The Hebrew words māšaḳ, to “give a sound” with the ram’s horn (qeren-hayyôbēl) and qôl-šôpār, “voice of trumpet,” describe the loud sounds that announced the call to assemble either for worship (Lev. 25:9) or for war (Jgs. 6:34). (See also BLOW 1.) Where the RSV translates “blast” the text announces that the people should be ready to go to Mt. Sinai (Ex. 19:13), or it signals the appearance of God (Ex. 19:16; cf. 20:18f.). The Heb. l^erû‘â used in Lev. 23:24, translated “proclaimed with the blast of trumpets” by the RSV (NEB “acclaim”), usually means the shouting that accompanied the sound of trumpets. It is the SHOUT that is raised on the “day of trumpet blast [yôm-šôpār] and battle cry [l^erû‘â]” (Zeph. 1:16; cf. Josh. 6:5), and often heralds the coming of God to fight for His people (1 S. 4:5ff.). It is also the

22:16; 伯 4:9; 诗 18:15), rû(a)h 的意思是“风”、“灵”、“气”(出 15:8; 赛 25:4; 27:8), 这两个希伯来词在这些语境中指的是上帝因愤怒而降下的具有摧毁力的热风。《以赛亚书》25:4 中还用 rû(a)h 描绘人类的怒火。这两个词语同时出现在《诗篇》18:15 和《约伯记》4:9 的平行经文中, “at the blast [n^ešāmā] of the breath [rû(a)h] of thy nostrils” (“你鼻孔的气一出”)。上帝的怒气和其摧毁力主要与耶和华的旨意有关, 祂是神圣的战士(出 15:1-21; 士 5:4-23)。耶和华作为神圣的战士, 要摧毁祂的敌人, 也就是以色列的敌人, 拯救祂的子民。两处经文都用突出的意象描绘了这场大战, 通常将这场大战描绘成宇宙大战(诗 18:15; 出 15:8)。《以赛亚书》27:8 中回顾了耶和华震怒的日子, 那时, 耶和华将对不忠实于祂和悖逆祂的子民发下震怒。

希伯来语 māšaḳ 的意思是吹角 (qeren-hayyôbēl) “发声”, qôl-šôpār 的意思是“角声”, 这两个希伯来词语都表示宣布敬拜(利 25:9)或战争(士 6:34)开始的巨大声响。(另见 BLOW 1[吹 1])《修订标准译本》中译为“blast” (“角声”), 此经文说明以色列人应该准备好前往西奈山(出 19:13), 或者说角声是神显现的信号(出 19:16; 参: 出 20:18-19)。《修订标准译本》把《利未记》23:24 中的希伯来词 l^erû‘â 译为 “proclaimed with the blast of trumpets” (“吹角作纪念”), 这个希伯来词通常指的是伴随号角声的欢呼声。正是欢呼声(见 SHOUT[欢呼、喊叫])宣布了“吹角 [yôm-šôpār] 呐喊 [l^erû‘â] 的日子”(番 1:16; 参: 书 6:5) 的到来, 也预示着神要为祂的子民争战(撒上 4:5-6)。当神在圣殿中显现时, 万民同样会送上欢呼声(诗 47:5)。

[Heb. šiddāpôn—‘scorching’] (Dt. 28:22); NEB BLACK BLIGHT. Dt. 28:22–24 describes the fiery east winds which still blow irregularly across Palestine for days at a time, drying up vegetation, ruining the crops, and damaging property. As reported by travelers the heat is fiery; it dries up the vegetation and blasts the grain; the sky is hazy and there is a glare as if the sun were reflected from a huge brass tray. Woodwork cracks and warps; the covers of books curl up. Instead of rain, the wind brings dust and sand which penetrate into the innermost corners of the dwellings. This dust fills the eyes and inflames them. The skin becomes hot and dry. To one first experiencing this storm it seems as though some volcano must be belching forth heat and ashes. No other condition of the weather can cause such depression. Such a pestilence, prolonged beyond endurance, was to be the fate of the disobedient.

Elsewhere in the RSV (1 K. 8:37 par. 2 Ch. 6:28; Am. 4:9; Hag. 2:17) šiddāpôn is translated as “blight.”

The adjective tāmîm, translated “without blemish,” really represents a positive condition. The Hebrew root tmm has the idea of completeness or wholeness. Thus tāmîm can be translated “whole,” as in Josh. 10:13. But when it is used to describe the type of animal to be used in sacrifice, the RSV translates “without blemish” to signify no physical imperfections.

Another Hebrew word, mûm, represents the negative condition, which can be translated “blemish” or “defect,” usually referring to physical imperfections. Both words are used in Lev. 22:21 (mûm with a negative) to indicate animals that are acceptable for sacrifice. According to Lev. 22:22–25 animals that are blind, disabled, mutilated, or have a discharge, scab, or eruption are considered blemished, as are deformed animals and those whose testicles have been damaged. Finally, animals coming from a foreigner are also considered blemished.

This last item may indicate that the real concern in each of these prohibited cases is ritual impurity. Among the Hittites the king was a special object of purity, and he had an entourage of palace officials employed to protect his purity. In a text describing the duties of these officials (ANET, p. 207), the leatherworkers were specifically forbidden to use any hides except those from the royal kitchen, because only those were controlled to make certain they were pure. The king could send other hides abroad where the laws of purity might not be so stringent. Similarly, if Israel were the recipient of any foreign animals, she could not know for sure whether the animals were ritually pure by her own standards. Consequently, “blemishes” may have been associated with ritual impurity, and offering a ritually impure animal to God would be an affront to Him. The postexilic community of Malachi’s day was guilty of just such a practice (Mal. 1:13f.).

形容词 tāmîm 被译为“没有残疾”，实际上表示一种正面积极的情况。希伯来词根 tmm 拥有完全或完整的含义。因此，正如《约书亚记》10:13 中所示，tāmîm 可以被译为“完整的”。但当用这个词描述祭物的类型时，《修订标准译本》中将其译为“without blemish”（“没有残疾的”），表示身体上毫无瑕疵的状态。

另一个希伯来词 mûm 表示一种消极的情况，可以将之译为“瑕疵”或“缺点”，通常指的是身体上的缺陷。《利未记》22:21 中同时使用这两个词来表示可以用来献祭的祭物。根据《利未记》22:22–25 中的记载，那些瞎眼的、残废的、有瘤子的、长癣的、长疥的、肢体有余的或缺少的，或是被骗了的动物都是有残疾的动物。最后，从外人手中得来的动物也是有残疾的动物。

最后一条规定可能表明，所有这些被禁止献给耶和华的祭物在仪式上都是不洁净的。在赫人的心目中，国王是一位特殊的洁净人物，他命宫中的一名随从

Similar physical imperfections or defects also excluded a man from priestly service (Lev. 21:17f., 21, 23; on v. 20 see DEFECT). A man with blemishes would profane the sanctuaries of the Lord (Lev. 21:23). Here again the physical imperfections seem to be best explained as associated with ritual impurity.

In 2 S. 14:25 Absalom is pictured as the perfect physical specimen without blemishes. The same is true of the three young men in Dnl. 1:4. In Dt. 32:5 the context seems to require that mûm be taken in a figurative sense of “moral blemish.” Still, the interpretation is difficult. Probably it means that Israel’s iniquity has made them God’s children no more.

In the NT, Christ is the antitype of the perfect sacrifice (He. 9:14; 1 Pet. 1:19). The Gk. ámōmos used here is used in the 官员来保护他的纯洁。一个描述这些官员职责的文献 (ANET, 207 页) 中特别规定, 皮匠只能使用御膳房中的兽皮, 因为只有那些兽皮才是洁净的。国王可以把其他的兽皮送到国外, 那里的洁净律法可能不那么严格。同样, 如果以色列想要接受任何外邦的动物, 依据她个人的标准无法确定这些动物洁净的祭物, 还是不洁净的祭物。因此, “有残疾的” 动物可能是不洁净的祭物, 将不洁净的祭物献给神是在冒犯神。玛拉基时期, 被掳巴比伦后的会众就曾因献上 “有残疾的” 祭物而犯罪 (玛 1:13-14)。

同样, 那些身体上有缺陷或瑕疵的人也不可以承担祭司的职分 (利 21:17-18, 21, 23; 关于利 21:20, 见 DEFECT[毛病、残疾])。有残疾的人会褻渎耶和華的圣所 (利 21:23)。这种身体上的缺陷似乎最应当解释为关乎仪式上的不洁净。

《撒母耳记下》14:25 将押沙龙描述成一个毫无瑕疵的完人。《但以理书》1:4 中的三个年少之人也是毫无瑕疵的。根据《申命记》32:5 的语境来推测, mûm 似乎是在比喻 “道德污点”。但是, 仍然很难做出解释。它可能意味着, 以色列所犯的罪孽已使他们不配作神的儿女。

在《新约》中, 基督是无瑕无疵祭物的原型 (来 9:14; 彼前 1:19)。《七十士译本》中也用希腊语 ámōmos 来翻译

LXX to translate tāmīm. Here and elsewhere in the NT the meaning goes beyond the cultic and ritual sphere to the moral and religious. This is clear also in Eph. 5:27—Christ’s sacrifice was intended to sanctify the Church and remove all blemishes. The children of God are to be without blemish (Phil. 2:15; 2 Pet. 3:14). By contrast, false teachers are blemishes (mōmos) among God’s people (2 Pet. 2:13). The Gk. amómētos refers to the lack of moral blemishes which should characterize believers in the divine judgment (2 Pet. 3:14).

The use of spilás in Jude 12 causes difficulty. This context and a similar context in 2 Pet. 2:13 (spilos, “blot”) seem to require something like “blemishes,” though the translation “reef” is possible.

tāmīm. 在这里和《新约》中的其他经文中, 这个词的含义超出了敬拜和仪式的范围, 拥有了道德和宗教上的意义。《以弗所书》5:27 中也清楚地表明了这一点——基督献祭是为了洁净教会, 去除教会内所有的瑕疵。上帝的儿女应该是毫无瑕疵的 (腓 2:15; 彼后 3:14)。相比之下, 假师傅是上帝的子民中间有瑕疵的 (希腊语: mōmos) 的人 (彼后 2:13)。希腊语 amómētos 指的是没有道德污点, 信徒们在接受上帝审判时, 应该是没有玷污, 无可指摘的 (彼后 3:14)。

《犹大书》1:12 中使用的 spilás 是一个难点。虽然这个词可以译为“暗礁”, 但根据这个语境和《彼得后书》2:13 中类似语境 (spilos, “玷污”), 似乎应该将这个字译为“瑕疵”。

BLESS 赐福、祝福、称颂

【希伯来语: bārak——“屈膝”(不确定); 亚兰语: b^eraḵ; 希腊语: eulogéō——“称赞”】; 《新英文译本》中还译为 GIVE (“赐福”)、GRANT (“赐福”)、BRING (“赐福”)、INVOKE (“祝福”)、SAY (“祝福”) 或 SHARE A BLESSING (“祝福”)、WORSHIP (“敬拜”)、PRAISE (“赞美”)、GREET (“问安”)、CONGRATULATE (“祝福”) 等; BLESSED (“蒙福”)【希伯来语: ’ašrê, bārûḵ; 亚兰语: b^eriḵ (但 3:28), m^ebārak (但 2:20); 希腊语: eulogētós、makários、makarizō——“称……有福” (路 1:48)、eneulogéō (徒 3:25; 加 3:8)】; 《新英文译本》还译为 HAPPY

meanings occur, including “worship or praise,” “bestow favor and goodness (sufficient to warrant adoration),” and “invoke such benefits upon other.” (Cf. Akk. karābu, which encompasses these meanings.) Substantively, blessing is praise or favor, the act of bestowing such, or statement accompanying or recommending worship or beneficence.

When a human blesses God, the literal sense “bend the knee (in homage or adoration)” is expressed, indicating gratitude. Expressions of praise are especially frequent in the poetry and include appeals for worship by the speaker (Ps. 103:1f.; 104:1, 35) and others (Jgs. 5:2; AV “offered themselves”; Ps. 66:8; 67:5; 68:26 [MT 27]), as well as pledges of praise (Ps. 26:12; 63:4 [MT 5]; 115:18). These acts are often accompanied by relative clauses indicating the basis for the adulation (Gen. 24:48). Such statements often occur in liturgical settings (Dt. 11:29; NEB “pronounce the blessing”; 2 Ch. 20:26; Sir. 50:20). In wisdom literature, the author praises the source of his inspiration (Sir. 39:35; 50:22; 51:12). Isaiah reproves those who worship idols (66:3; RSV “bless a monster”).

Statements of adoration or praise frequently follow a standard pattern or formula of blessing, as “blessed is” or “blessed be [someone],” usually expressed by passive participles, Heb. bārûk and Gk. eulogēmos (Ruth 4:14; 1 S. 25:32; 1 Ch. 29:10; Neh. 9:5; Mt. 25:34). When applied to God, they have the jussive sense “let us praise” or “let be praised” (Gen. 14:20; Ps. 28:6). NT utterances apply similarly to Jesus (“he who comes in the name of the Lord,” Mt. 2:19; 23:39; Mk. 11:9; Lk. 19:38; Jn. 12:13), Mary (Lk. 1:42), and the kingdom of God (Mk. 11:10). God is often so cited in statements using Gk. eulogētós (Lk. 1:68; 2 Cor. 1:3; Eph. 1:3; 1 Pet. 1:3).

当一个人赞美神，他会“（怀着敬畏或崇拜之心）屈膝”，以此表达他的感激之情。赞美的语句在诗歌中频频出现，其中包括诗篇作者（诗 103:1-2; 104:1, 35）和其他人（士 5:2; 《钦定版圣经》中作 “offered themselves” [“牺牲自己”]; 诗 66:8; 67:5; 68:26 [《马所拉文本》27]) 发出的敬拜神的呼求和赞美的誓言（诗 26:12; 63:4 [《马所拉文本》5]; 115:18）。这些行为之后通常紧跟着一个关系从句，表明这人赞颂神的依据（创 24:48）。在礼拜仪式中经常出现这些表述（申 11:29; 《新英文译本》作 “pronounce the blessing” [“将祝福的话陈明”]; 代下 20:26; 便 50:20）。在智慧文学中，作者赞美他们灵感的源泉（便 39:35; 50:22; 51:12）。以赛亚谴责那些崇拜偶像的人（赛 66:3; 《修订标准译本》中译为 “bless a monste” [“称颂偶像”]）。

More frequently, to bless means to grant prosperity or well-being (“fortunate power,” KoB, p. 153), and God is generally the subject, bestowing physical and spiritual grace upon man in the form of long life, affluence, and power (Gen. 39:5; Ps. 3:8 [MT 9]; 24:5; 129:8). He blesses mankind in creation (Gen. 5:2) and throughout history (26:3; Ex. 18:10). Such acts often provide fertility for man (Gen. 1:28; 17:16; 20; 22:17; 48:4), animals (1:22), and various forms of produce (Ex. 23:25; Dt. 7:13; Ps. 65:10 [MT 11]; 132:15). God blesses man for keeping His laws, implying sanction (Dt. 7:12–14; cf. Ex. 23:25).

People often bless each other, as when a father transfers goods and authority to his children prior to his death (Gen. 27; 31:55 [MT 32:1]; 48:9, 15, 20; 49:28; Dt. 33:1ff.; He. 11:20). This is accompanied by an invocation of God’s favor upon one’s descendants (Gen. 49:25f.; Dt. 33). Division of one’s power and property among several children may have been possible, as suggested by Esau’s request (Gen. 27:38). A family blesses members embarking on a journey (Gen. 24:60). Charismatic leaders bless the people (Lev. 9:23), as priests bless individuals (1 S. 2:20) and the entire congregation (Nu. 6:23–27; 2 Ch. 30:27). Balaam, the non-Israelite seer, blesses Israel (Nu. 23:11, 20) by announcing good fortune.

的含义“let us praise”或“let be praised” (“让我们赞美”)(创 14:20; 诗 28:6)。《新约》中还将这些表达形容耶稣(“奉耶和華名來的”,太 2:19; 23:39; 可 11:9; 路 19:38; 约 12:13)、马利亚(路 1:42)和神的国(可 11:10)。经文中在提到上帝时,经常使用希腊语 eulogētós 来表达“神是应当称颂的”(路 1:68; 林后 1:3; 弗 1:3; 彼前 1:3)。

通常来说,赐福意味着赐予成功或幸福(“幸运的权柄”, KoB, 153 页),一般都是由上帝来赐福,祂通过赐予长寿、富足和权柄赐给世人物质的和属灵的恩惠(创 39:5; 诗 3:8[《马所拉文本》9]; 24:5; 129:8)。祂在创世时(创 5:2)和历史中(创 26:3; 出 18:10)赐福给人类。神的赐福行为通常使人(创 1:28; 17:16; 20; 22:17; 48:4)和动物(创 1:22)生养众多,并恩赐给人类各种产品(出 23:25; 申 7:13; 诗 65:10[《马所拉文本》11]; 132:15)。神因人类谨遵祂的律法而赐福给他们,这也暗指如果人类不遵守祂的律法,神将降下审判(申 7:12-14; 参:出 23:25)。

人们经常彼此祝福,父亲会在去世前,把他的财产和权柄遗赠给他的儿女们(创 27; 31:55[《马所拉文本》32:1]; 48:9, 15, 20; 49:28; 申 33:1 起; 来 11:20)。然后他会祈求神赐福给他的子孙(创 49:25-26; 申 33)。正如以扫对他父亲的请求,父亲会把他的权柄和财产分给他的多个儿女(创 27:38)。家族会为即将远行的家族成员祝福(创 24:60)。蒙受神恩的领袖会为百姓祝福(利 9:23),正如祭司会为个人(撒上 2:20)和所有会众(民 6:23-27; 代下 30:27)祝福。非以色列人的预言家巴兰祝福以色列,宣布以色列将交好运(民 23:11, 20)。

When people bless one another, they commend the recipient to God through laudatory petitions (Ruth 2:20; 1 S. 23:21; 2 S. 2:5; cf. Gen. 49:26; Ps. 72:15). Such petitions may include the formula “blessed be [someone]” or such variants as “may you be blessed” (Ruth 3:10) and “let ... be blessed” (Prov. 5:18). God is recognized as the source of such benefits (cf. 1 S. 2:20), indicated by Heb. bārak b’šēm, “bless by (or in) God’s name” (Dt. 10:8; 21:5; 1 Ch. 23:13; Sir. 45:15; cf. Nu. 6:27). Such intercessory activity may include praying for another person (Mt. 5:44, RSV; cf. He. 11:20). Jesus instructs His followers to “bless those that curse you” (Lk. 6:28; Rom. 12:14; 1 Cor. 4:12). Invocation of God’s blessing upon others may have been standardized in expressions of greeting or congratulation (1 S. 13:10; 2 S. 8:10 par. 1 Ch. 18:10; 2 K. 4:29; 10:15); the content of such statements may be indicated by Ruth 2:4; Ps. 129:8.

The sense “praise, do homage” may be indicated when men bless those of higher status (Gen. 47:7, 10; cf. Ex. 12:32). This is apparent when it is reported that Joab “fell on his face, did obeisance, and blessed the king” (2 S. 14:22). A debtor may bless a creditor (Dt. 24:15) and a subject bless his king (1 K. 8:66), perhaps seeking a blessing in return. The king’s servants bless David (1 K. 1:47), asking God to make Solomon greater than David.

Men also bless themselves. In such instances, they may either “count themselves happy” (Ps. 49:18 [MT 19], AV “blessed his soul”), priding themselves on having been favored (cf. Dt. 29:19; NEB “inwardly flatter”), or invoke God’s blessing upon themselves (Gen. 12:3, NEB “pray to be blessed”).

当人们为另一个人祝福时，他们会通过赞美祈愿让神悦纳他们所祝福之人（得 2:20；撒上 23:21；撒下 2:5；参：创 49:26；诗 72:15）。这种祈愿可能使用这样的惯用语“……是有福的”或采用它的变体形式“愿……蒙耶和华赐福”（得 3:10）和“要使……蒙福”（箴 5:18）。如希伯来语 bārak b’šēm 表明上帝是所有恩惠的源泉（参：撒上 2:20），这两个词的意思是“奉神的名祝福”（申 10:8；21:5；代上 23:13；便 45:15；参：民 6:27）。这种代求行为可能包括代人祈祷（太 5:44，《修订标准译本》；参：来 11:20）。耶稣教导祂的信徒，“诅咒你们的要为他祝福”（路 6:28；罗 12:14；林前 4:12）。祈求上帝赐福给他人可能已经成为一种问候或祝贺他人的标准用语（撒上 13:10；撒下 8:10，平行经文代上 18:10；王下 4:29；10:15）；《路得记》2:4 和《诗篇》129:8 中可能有类似的表述。

当人们为更高身份的人祝福时，其中可能含有“赞美和祝谢”的含义（创 47:7, 10；参：出 12:32）。约押“面伏于地叩拜，祝谢于王”显然体现了这一点（撒下 14:22）。借债人可能为债主祝福（申 24:15），臣民为国王祝福（王上 8:66），他们这么做可能是为了换来祝福。王的仆人为大卫祝福（王上 1:47），希望神让所罗门成为比大卫更伟大的人物。

人们也为自己祝福。这时，他们或“自夸为有福”（诗 49:18[《马所拉文本》19]，《钦定版圣经》中译为“blessed his soul”[自夸为有福]），或夸自己是蒙恩

Both God and men occasionally bless nonhuman objects. God blesses the sabbath (Gen. 2:3; Ex. 20:11) and Samuel blesses the sacrifice (1 S. 9:13), but they may thereby indirectly bless those who observe these occasions. God blesses work performed by men (Dt. 28:8, 12; Job 1:10; cf. Dt. 28:4f.) and “the latter days of (Job’s) life” (Job 42:12). He also favors the abode of the righteous (Prov. 3:33) and the habitation of righteousness, the land of Judah (Jer. 31:23). Objects of blessing may include qualities, such as discretion (1 S. 25:33). Jesus blesses fish (Mk. 8:7) and, in the sense of giving thanks, bread (Mk. 6:41). Cf. also BLESSING, CUP OF (1 Cor. 10:16).

The state of being blessed, designated by a passive verb, may indicate receipt of both favor (Gen. 27:33; 2 S. 7:29) and adoration (Job. 1:21; Ps. 113:2). Gk. eneulogēthēsontai is used to indicate the universal application of Abraham’s blessing (Acts 3:25; Gal. 3:8; cf. LXX Gen. 12:3; 18:18). Heb. ’ašrē and Gk. makários occur primarily with the sense “happy, fortunate,” illustrating the joy of life unmarred by care, labor, or death. Generally found in blessing formulas, these expressions indicate the subject’s having fulfilled certain obligations or stipulations. In the OT these include coming to Zion (Ps. 65:4 [MT 5]; 84:4 [MT 5]), being blameless in behavior (Ps. 119:1f.), seeking God’s wisdom (Prov. 8:13, 33f.), and executing God’s judgment against His enemies (Ps. 137:8). 之人 (参: 申 29:19; 《新英文译本》中译为“inwardly flatter”[“心里自夸”]), 亦或祈求上帝赐福给他们(创 12:3,《新英文译本》中译为“pray to be blessed”[“为你祝福”])。 extension of this principle, children of “a righteous man who walks in integrity” are blessed (Prov. 20:7). In the NT the blessed exhibit the traits of the faithful (Mt. 5:11; Lk. 11:28; Rev. 16:15), particularly suffering (Jas. 1:12; Lk. 6:20–22). The condition may be shared by parts of the body (Mt. 13:16; Lk. 10:23; 11:27). Generally applied to God with the sense “praised” or “praiseworthy” (1Tim. 1:11; 6:15), Gk. makários occurs in the same sense with reference to actions (Acts 20:35) and qualities (Tit. 2:13). The rewards that accompany such favor are often reserved for the future (Ps. 128:2–4). See also BEATITUDES.

上帝和世人有时会为非人类对象赐福。上帝为安息日赐福(创 2:3; 出 20:11), 撒母耳为祭物赐福(撒上 9:13), 不过他们可能因此间接为守这节日或祭礼的人赐福。上帝为人类的劳作赐福(申 28:8, 12; 伯 1:10; 参: 申 28:4-5), 祂“后来赐福给约伯比先前更多”(伯 42:12)。上帝为义人的居所赐福(箴 3:33), 并为犹大地那公义的居所赐福(耶 31:23)。人的品质, 如见识(撒上 25:33)可能也是蒙福的对象。耶稣为鱼祝福(可 8:7), 还为天父赐予的饼而感恩(可 6:41)。参: BLESSING, CUP OF (祝福的杯)(林前 10:16)。

A related concept is a person’s being named or called blessed (Heb. ’āšār; Gk. makarízō). A woman’s children call her blessed (Prov. 31:28) and the nations call God blessed (Ps. 72:17; Mal. 3:12); all generations will call Mary blessed (Lk. 1:48). Such acts may illustrate the close relationship between word and fact in the ancient Near East whereby making a statement establishes the fact (see CURSE). They may also indicate use of the blessing formula. A person can “be a blessing” if his acts warrant his being named in such a formula (Gen. 12:2; Ps. 37:26; Prov. 10:7; Isa. 19:24; Zec. 8:13; cf. Ps. 21:6 [MT 7]).

“Blessed” occurs substantively as a substitute for God’s name, as in the use of “Lord,” to prevent defilement of the name Yahweh. In Mk. 14:61, Jesus is called “son of the Blessed.” The substantive also designates one who adheres to God’s commandments and has received His favor, as “the blessed of the Lord” (Gen. 24:31; 26:29; Isa. 65:16) or “the blessed of my father” (Mt. 25:34).

《新约》中，有福的人都展现出忠信的品质（太 5:11；路 11:28；启 16:15），尤其是在忍受着苦难时（雅 1:12；路 6:20-22）。身体的某个部分可能也是有福的（太 13:16；路 10:23；11:27）。当用“the blessed”形容上帝时，通常有“赞美”或“称颂”的含义（提前 1:11；6:15），希腊词语 makários 同样具有这个含义，经文中在提及世人施和受的行为（徒 20:35）和基督的品质（多 2:13）时，使用了这个希腊词语。有福的人通常会在将来得到伴随恩惠而来的奖赏（诗 128:2-4）。另见 BEATITUDES（赐福、祝福）。

称某人有福是与之相关的一个观念（希伯来语：’āšār；希腊语：makarízō）。女人的女儿称她有福（箴 31:28），万国称上帝有福（诗 72:17；玛 3:12）；万代称马利亚有福（路 1:48）。这些行为都表明了古近东地区话语和事实的紧密关系，因此一句话可以确立一个事实（见 CURSE[诅咒]）。这些表述可能也指出了当地使用的一种祝福惯用语。如果一个人的行为配得祝福，那么他可能“叫别人得福”（创 12:2；诗 37:26；箴 10:7；赛 19:24；亚 8:13；参：诗 21:6[《马所拉文本》7]）。

《圣经》中实质上使用“Blessed”（“当称颂的”）来代替上帝的名，正如《圣经》中使用“Lord”（“耶和华”）来表示上帝，以免玷污了耶和华的名。在《马可福音》14:61 中，耶稣被称为“那当称颂者的儿子”。这个名词性实词还可以用来表示那遵守上帝诫命和领受上帝恩惠的人，如“你这蒙耶和华赐福的”（创 24:31；26:29；赛 65:16）或“你们这蒙我父赐福的”（太 25:34）。

“Blessing” may designate the actual words spoken (“blessed be [someone]” or similar phrases), the gift that is given, or the act by which it is bestowed. Dt. 33:1 indicates that the following statement contains Moses’ very words and also outlines the nature of the blessing. Both the words uttered and the power or gifts evoked by their pronouncement are implied in the fathers’ blessings (Gen. 48:15f.; 49) and elsewhere (Dt. 28:2; Prov 10:6; 11:11, 26; 24:25; cf. Nu. 6:23–27), as when a person blesses “with a blessing” (Gen. 27:41; 49:28). The act of blessing and the powers that emanate from it are indicated in Prov. 10:22 and when God commands a blessing (Lev. 25:21; Dt. 28:8; Ps. 133:3). God’s power and its effect may be identical (Ezk. 34:26; Sir. 40:27). Apparently in some instances a token gift or present accompanied the pronouncement of a blessing (AV Gen. 33:11; Josh. 15:19; Jgs. 1:15; RSV “gift, present”; cf. 2 K. 5:15). The words alone are designated in Prov. 10:7 (cf. Ps. 37:26; Mal. 2:2).

Blessing is common in Israelite liturgy, generally paired with the pronouncement of curses (Dt. 11:29; Josh. 8:34; cf. Dt. 27:12f.). God’s favor is a positive sanction of one who follows His commandments as stipulated in the laws of the pertinent covenant. Man may choose to follow the law or not and thereby determine his reward (Dt. 11:26; 30:1, 19). Similar sanctions are found in ancient Near Eastern treaties. Occasionally Heb. bāraḳ is used euphemistically for ’ārar and qālal, “curse” (1 K. 21:10, 23; Job 1:5, 11; 2:5, 9; Ps. 10:3; RSV “curses the Lord”; AV “blesses the covetous”; NEB “gives wickedness his blessing”). A negative form of the blessing formula occurs in Jer.

“blessing” (“祝福、赐福”)可能指的是实际说出的话(“……是应当称颂的”或类似的话)、送出的礼物或祝福的行为。《申命记》33:1中的经文表明,以下都是摩西所说的话,同时概括了祝福的本质。说出的话和由这话语赐予的权柄或礼物都隐含在天父的赐福中(创48:15-16; 49)和其他表述中(申28:2; 箴10:6; 11:11, 26; 24:25; 参:民6:23-27),如一个人“用祝福的话”为他人祝福(创27:41; 49:28)。《箴言》10:22和上帝所命的福(利25:21; 申28:8; 诗133:3)中都表明了赐福的行为和源自该行为的权柄。上帝的权柄和这权柄的效果可能是完全相同的(结34:26; 便40:27)。显然在某些情况下,应许的礼物和祝福的话语同时出现(《钦定版圣经》创33:11; 书15:19; 士1:15; 《修订标准译本》中译为“gift, present”[“礼物”]; 参:王下5:15)。《箴言》10:7中只给出了祝福的话语(参:诗37:26; 玛2:2)。

20:14, “let it not be blessed.”

Although the blessing granted by Isaac to Jacob is irrevocable (Gen. 27:33–35), a curse may be transformed into a blessing (Dt. 23:5 [MT 6]; Jgs. 17:2; Neh. 13:2). Blessings may be cursed (Mal. 2:2).

“Blessedness” (Gk. makarismós) is rendered only by the AV in Rom. 4:6, 9 (RSV “pronounce a blessing,” “the blessing pronounced”; NEB “happiness”) and Gal. 4:15 (RSV “satisfaction”; NEB “how happy you thought you were”).

“Most blessed” (AV Ps. 37:26; Prov. 10:6) translates Heb. librākā, lit. “for a blessing.”

虽然以撒对雅各的祝福是不可改变的（创 27:33-35），但是诅咒可以转变成祝福（申 23:5[《马所拉文本》6]；士 17:2；尼 13:2）。祝福也可能变成诅咒（玛 2:2）。

只有《钦定版圣经》的《罗马书》4:6, 9（《修订标准译本》中译为“pronounce a blessing”、“the blessing pronounced”[汉译均为“这福是给……的”]；《新英文译本》中译为“happiness”[“福”]）和《加拉太书》4:15（《修订标准译本》中译为“satisfaction”[“福气”]；《新英文译本》中译为“how happy you thought you were”[“你们当日所夸的福气在哪里呢”]）中提到了“Blessedness”（福，希腊语：makarismós）这个词。

“Most blessed”（“洪福”，《钦定版圣经》诗 37:26；箴 10:6）翻译了希伯来词 librākā，字面意思是“蒙福”。

BLESSING, CUP OF

[Gk. tó potérion tés eulogías—‘the consecrated cup’] (1 Cor. 10:16). A technical term from the Jewish meals transferred to the Lord’s supper, and signifying the cup of wine upon which a blessing was pronounced. The succeeding words, “which we bless,” are equivalent to “for which we give thanks,” for it was consecrated by thanksgiving and prayer. It is possible that the term here has a further significance, as a cup that brings blessing. See also CUP.

BLINDNESS

[Heb. ‘iwwēr, ‘iwwārōn, ‘āwar, ‘awweret, ‘ālam; Gk. typhlós, typhlóō]. Blindness, defects of sight, and diseases of the eye are frequently mentioned in the Bible and were common maladies in the ancient world. In the Papyrus Ebers (1500 B.C.) several diseases of the eye are enumerated and nearly one hundred prescriptions are given for their treatment. That some diseases occurred in children and caused destruction and atrophy of the eyeball is attested by numerous mummy heads in which there is marked diminution in size of one orbit.

【希腊语: tó potérion tés eulogías——“圣餐杯”】(林前 10:16)。这一源自犹太人膳食的术语后来用在主的晚餐中,指的是一种蒙祝福的酒杯。接下来的词语“which we bless”意思等同于“for which we give thanks”(“我们所祝福的”),因为通过祝福和祷告使这个杯子变得神圣。这个词可能还有更深远的意义,它可能是一个带来福分的杯子。另见 CUP (杯)。

【希伯来语: ‘iwwēr, ‘iwwārōn, ‘āwar, ‘awweret, ‘ālam; 希腊语: typhlós, typhlóō】。《圣经》中经常提到眼瞎、视力缺陷和眼疾,它们也是古代很常见的疾病。《爱柏氏纸草纪事》(公元前 1500 年)列举了多种眼部疾病和近百种治疗这些疾病的处方。很多木乃伊的头骨上的眼眶缩小,这证明逝者年幼时染上了一些眼部疾病,致使他视力丧失、眼球萎缩。

Palestine and Egypt was probably a purulent ophthalmia, a highly infectious inflammation of the conjunctivae, a malady that affected people of all ages, but especially children. It was propagated largely by flies that settled upon a diseased person's discharging eyes and transmitted the infection to others, especially sleeping infants. (In Egypt there is still a superstition that it is unlucky to drive away the flies.) Even when internal injury to the eye was avoided, the margins of the lids would exhibit chronic inflammation, and the cornea might become opaque. In cases of granular conjunctivitis, a viral keratoconjunctivitis (trachoma or Egyptian ophthalmia), the inflammation would be accompanied by hypertrophy of the conjunctivae and the growth of small granules of adenoid (lymphoid) tissue. When pustular conjunctivitis occurred, the conjunctivae would manifest small red nodules of lymph-type cells which would ulcerate at their extremity. Minor forms of the disease destroy the eyelashes and produce the unsightly "tender eyes" (not necessarily intended in Gen. 29:17, however, where Heb. raḳ may mean simply "weak" or "dull-eyed"). These conditions and others, which doubtless included glaucoma, leucoma (albugo), retinitis, cataract, cortical blindness, membranous conjunctivitis, and inflammation of the iris, must have been prevalent in biblical times. While no firm OT evidence can be adduced, it is highly probable that pannus, iridocyclitis, and other ophthalmic conditions were an accepted part of life in ancient Israel.

Blindness from birth is the result of a form of ophthalmic neonatorum. This is commonly due to an infectious gonococcal discharge with which the child comes into contact while in the birth canal; subsequently the infection results in an acute suppurating conjunctivitis which produces blindness. Sometimes ophthalmia accompanies malarial fever (Lev. 26:16, “sudden terror, consumption, and fever that waste the eyes”). The situation was worsened by environmental factors such as blowing dust and sand and the intense glare of the sun, which could be ruinous for eyes after some years.

化脓性眼炎,这是一种极具传染性的结膜炎,各个年龄层的人都可能染上这种疾病,尤其是小孩。苍蝇是这种疾病主要的传染媒介,它落在病人化脓的眼睛上,然后将这种疾病传染给其他人,尤其是熟睡的婴儿。(埃及流传着这样一种迷信,赶走苍蝇要倒霉。)即使可能避免眼睛内部感染,但是外眼皮还是可能染上慢性炎症,角膜可能变得不透明。如果染上了颗粒性结膜炎这种病毒性角膜结膜炎(沙眼或埃及眼炎),除了发炎,还会出现结膜肿大,腺状(淋巴)组织上会长出很多小颗粒。当得了脓包结膜炎,结膜上会显示出一些红色的小淋巴型细胞瘤,最终形成溃烂。当病人感染这种疾病较轻时,眼睫毛被损毁,形成难看的“没有神气的眼”(《创世记》29:17中指的不一定是这种疾病,而希伯来词语 raḳ 可能仅仅指“眼睛没有神气”)。这种疾病和其他的疾病必定是圣经时代的流行疾病,其中必定包括青光眼、角膜白斑、视网膜炎、白内障、皮质盲、膜性结膜炎和虹膜发炎。虽然无法举出非常有力的旧约证据,但是在古代以色列,血管翳、虹膜睫状体炎和其他的眼部疾病可能是常见的疾病。

出生就眼瞎可能是由一种新生儿眼炎导致的。这通常是由一种传染的淋球菌分泌物所致,产道中的婴儿可以接触到

Blindness incapacitated a man from serving in the priesthood (Lev. 21:16ff.), and blindness in an animal rendered it unfit to be offered as a sacrifice to the Lord (Lev. 22:22; Dt. 15:21; Mal. 1:8). Because poverty and hardship characterized their plight, care for the blind was enjoined in the law (Lev. 19:14; cf. Rom. 2:19), and mistreatment of them caused one to be accursed (Dt. 27:18).

The widespread incidence of blindness in NT times is indicated by the importance which the restoration of sight had in Christ’s ministry of healing (cf. Mt. 9:27; 11:5 [par. Lk. 7:22]; Mt. 12:22; 15:30f.; 20:30–34 [par. Mk. 10:46–52; Lk. 18:35–43]; 21:14; Mk. 8:22–25; etc). In the 1st cent. A.D. blindness was generally regarded, in accordance with the OT tradition (cf. Ex. 4:11; Dt. 28:28; 2 K. 6:18; Ezk. 6:9), as a divine punishment for sin without any reflection on its possible incidence from purely physical and external causes. Jesus did not subscribe to the punitive view of blindness, however (Jn. 9:2f.), but instead used the condition from time to time as a means of manifesting divine love to an underprivileged segment of the community. The methods which He used in healing the blind differed somewhat from those applied to people suffering from other ailments, yet at the same time they were meant to elicit faith and trust in God's healing power. Consequently they were always symbolic rather than remedial in nature. Christ made a paste of saliva and dust for the congenitally blind man in Jerusalem (Jn. 9:6f.), and having anointed his eyes He commanded him to wash off the material. The response of obedience and faith resulted in restoration of the man's sight. A blind man at Beth-saida (Mk. 8:23) also was anointed with saliva as a means of eliciting his trust and arousing his expectation of divine healing. The restoration of this man's sight by stages enabled him to make a proper accommodation to the bright sunlight and to the flood of new sensory stimuli without experiencing concomitant psychic traumata. What appears to have been a case of ophthalmia is seen in the blind beggar Bartimaeus (Mk. 10:46-52), who in being healed demonstrated his faith in Christ's restorative powers. Two blind beggars near Jericho (Mt. 20:29-34) prayed for mercy as well as for the gift of sight and were similarly healed. Just as the miracles of Jesus, among which the curing of blindness held a prominent place, were regarded as manifestations of the kingdom of God (cf. Mt. 12:28), so OT prophecy saw the imparting of sight to the blind as one of the events which would occur in the day of the Lord, when His kingdom is established in Israel.

瞎眼使一个人无法担任祭司的职分 (利 21:16 起), 瞎眼的动物不可以献给神作为祭物 (利 22:22; 申 15:21; 玛 1:8)。因为瞎眼之人面临着贫困和苦难的困境, 所以律法要求人们照顾他们 (利 19:14; 参: 罗 2:19), 苦待他们的人必受诅咒 (申 27:18)。

基督传道过程中使瞎子复明的重要事件表明, 瞎眼是新约时期很常见的疾病 (参: 太 9:27; 11:5[平行经文路 7:22]; 太 12:22; 15:30-31; 20:30-34[平行经文可 10:46-52; 路 18:35-43]; 21:14; 可 8:22-25 等)。在公元 1 世纪, 瞎眼通常被认为是因罪遭受了神的惩罚, 并不能说明纯粹由身体和外部原因而诱发了这种疾病, 这符合《旧约》中的记载 (参: 出 4:11; 申 28:28; 王下 6:18; 结 6:9)。但耶稣并没有说瞎眼是因遭受了惩罚 (约 9:2-3), 相反, 认为这种疾病体现了神对会众中弱势群体的怜爱。祂治愈瞎子的方法与祂治愈染上其他疾病的人的方法略有不同, 但两者都引出要相信和依靠神治愈的大能。因此, 这两种治愈常常具有象征意义, 不是真的在治愈疾病。耶稣用吐沫和泥制成的糊状物来治愈耶路撒冷城中生来瞎眼的人 (约 9:6-7), 祂把吐沫和泥抹在他的眼睛

The foregoing cases appear to have represented organic diseases of the eyes, as distinct from certain other NT instances of blindness that are clearly psychogenic in nature. The most celebrated of these was the temporary amaurosis which Paul experienced at the time of his conversion (Acts 9:3–9). His recognition of the wrong that he had been doing to God’s work came with blinding suddenness, and the intense emotional conflict which resulted from his inability to see his immediate future clearly expressed itself somatically in a temporary form of blindness that was independent of any lesion in the eye or the optic nerve. Once Paul’s turbulent emotions had been calmed and his mind reoriented through spiritual assurances and the imposition of hands, his sight was restored. The “scales” (Acts 9:18), a rare word (Gk. lepidēs) occurring nowhere else in the NT, were doubtless the initial imperfect visual impressions which he received as the physiological portion of the retina began to interpret stimuli once again. The affliction left behind a weakness of the eyes, evidence of which is attested by some in Paul’s inability to recognize the high priest (Acts 23:5) and his employing an amanuensis to transcribe his Epistles (Rom. 16:22), as well as his writing in characters of a large size (Gal. 6:11). Another case of temporary amaurosis occurred in the case of Elymas, the sorcerer of Paphos (Acts 13:10), who was rebuked by Paul for his perfidy and wrongdoing. The degree of emotional tension and guilt involved in being exposed and denounced in the presence of the proconsul was so severe that he lost his sight for a time. The ability of his retinal cells to respond to sensory impressions was impaired dramatically, the process of degeneration being likened to a “mist and darkness.” There are numerous clinical cases on record of people who have become blind temporarily for purely psychogenic reasons because under stress they have been unable to cope with a situation. Thus

上, 并命他将这些物质洗去。瞎子对耶稣的顺服和信心回应致使他恢复了视力。伯赛大的一个瞎子(可 8:23)被抹了吐沫, 以此表现出他信靠耶稣, 并希望神医治他。这人的视力逐渐恢复, 从而使他能够适应明亮的日光和大量新感官的刺激, 却不必经历随之而来的心灵创伤。讨饭的瞎子巴底买似乎得了眼炎(可 10:46-52), 在耶稣治愈他的瞎眼时, 他相信基督拥有医治的大能。耶利哥附近的两个讨饭的瞎子(太 20:29-34)祈求耶稣怜悯他们, 并希望耶稣使他们的眼睛能看见, 他们也同样得到了医治。耶稣所行的神迹被认为是神国的显现(参: 太 12:28), 耶稣治好瞎子在祂所行的神迹中占据了突出的地位, 所以《旧约》中预言, 使瞎子复明是耶和華的日子里必然发生的事件之一, 此时神将在以色列建立祂的王国。

上述情况似乎都描述的是眼部器官的疾病, 它们与《新约》中其他瞎眼病症有所不同, 从本质上讲, 《新约》中的瞎眼显然是一种心因性瞎眼。其中最著名的一个事件就是保罗悔改时经历的暂时性失明(徒 9:3-9)。他意识他过去

对神的工作所做的错事，他的眼睛突然失明，内心中产生了剧烈的情感冲突，从而使他无法看到未来，而那时他在肉体上必经历了暂时的瞎眼，这瞎眼不是由任何眼部或视神经损伤造成的。当保罗澎湃的内心平静下来后，藉着圣灵的应许和神的帮助，他重新恢复了理智，并恢复了视力。“鳞”（徒 9:18）是一个很罕见的词汇（希腊语：lepidēs），《新约》的其他经文中没有再出现这个词，它必定指的是，当视网膜的生理机能再次感受到刺激时，保罗所看到的不完整的视觉画面。苦难致使保罗的视力减弱，他不认得大祭司（徒 23:5），代笔写信（罗 16:22），以及他亲手写的字很大（加 6:11）都证明了这一点。另一个曾暂时失明的人是帕弗的术士以吕马（徒 13:10），他因背信弃义和过错行为而遭到保罗的指责。他情绪高度紧张，加上被方伯揭露和谴责后深感愧疚，致使他一时看不见东西。他的视网膜细胞感知景象的能力受到了极大地损伤，视力衰退的过程就像处在“昏蒙黑暗”中。有很多临床病例记录了一些人完全由于心理原因而暂时失明，他们因为无法应对自身处境而感到压力。因此，只有当以吕马的精神紧张和心内冲突得到缓解时，他才能重新恢复视力，才能恢复之前的肉体感官。

Elymas' sight would return only when the emotional tensions and conflicts had been resolved, thereby reversing the earlier somatic expression.

Though blindness was not necessarily a concomitant of senility, Isaac (Gen. 27:1), Eli (1 S. 3:2; 4:15), and Ahijah the prophet (1 K. 14:4) lost their sight in old age. Leah seems to have suffered from blepharitis or mucopurulent conjunctivitis (Gen. 29:17).

The most accurate description of a specific eye disease occurs in the Apocrypha. Tobit was evidently afflicted with a dense white opacity of the cornea (leucoma), caused usually by ophthalmia. According to the narrative, fish gall was applied to the cornea, presumably as an attempt at pigmentation, and this therapy resulted in healing (Tob. 11:4ff.).

Figuratively, blindness is used to represent spiritual imperceptiveness, inability to discern and heed the will of God (cf. Isa. 42:16ff.; 2 Cor. 4:4; 2 Pet. 1:9), and inability to perceive moral distinctions (Mt. 15:14; 23:16ff.). In Ex. 23:8; Dt. 16:19; 1 S. 12:3, blindness is used of the biased judgment that results from accepting bribes and subverts the cause of justice. Blindness is also used to refer to the spiritual imperception that makes one unable to understand the voice of prophecy (Isa. 29:9; cf. Jn. 12:40).

《次经》中对具体的眼疾进行了最为准确的描述。托比显然因角膜带有深厚的白色不透明物(角膜白斑)而遭受着折磨,这种疾病是由眼炎引起的。据记载,鱼胆可以敷在角膜上,大概是为了给角膜染色,这种治疗方法可以治愈角膜白斑(比 11:4 起)。

瞎眼可以用来比喻缺乏属灵的感知力,不能领悟和听到上帝的旨意(参:赛 42:16 起; 林后 4:4; 彼后 1:19),并且无法分清道德界限(太 15:14; 23:16 起)。在《出埃及记》23:8;《申命记》16:19 和《撒母耳记上》12:3 中,瞎眼指的是因收受贿赂而进行不公正的审判,这种审判颠覆了司法的公正。瞎眼还用来指缺乏属灵的感知力,它使人无法理解预言的话语(赛 29:9; 参:约 12:40)。

BLOOD

[Heb. dām, prob. < 'ādam—‘be red’; Gk. haíma]. Blood in the OT is the life principle, both animal (Lev. 17:11) and vegetable (Dt. 32:14, the “blood” of the grape). Its atoning power in the OT sacrifices foreshadows the ultimate atonement by the blood of Christ. The word has a figurative sense in both the OT and NT for bloodshed or murder (Gen. 37:26; Hos. 4:2; Rev. 16:6).

I. Primitive Ideas.—Although the real function of the blood in the human system was not fully known until the fact of its circulation was established by William Harvey in 1615, nevertheless from the earliest times a singular mystery has been attached to it by all peoples. Blood rites, blood ceremonies, and blood feuds are common among primitive tribes. It came to be recognized as the life principle long before its function was scientifically proved. Naturally a feeling of fear, awe, and reverence would be attached to the shedding of blood. With many uncivilized peoples scarification of the body until blood flows is practiced. Blood brotherhood or blood friendship is established by African tribes by the mutual shedding of blood and either drinking it or rubbing it on one another’s bodies. Thus and by the intertransfusion of blood by other means it was thought that a community of life and interest could be established.

II. Hebrew and OT Customs.—Notwithstanding the ignorance and superstition surrounding this suggestively beautiful idea, it grew to have more than a merely human

【希伯来语：dām，可能衍生自 'ādam——“红色的”；希腊语：haíma】。《旧约》中的血是动物（利 17:11）和植物（申 32:14，葡萄汁酿的酒）的生命源泉。《旧约》中祭物的血的赎罪能力预表最终基督的血将为世人赎罪。两约中的流血或谋杀都有比喻的含义（创 37:26；何 4:2；启 16:6）。

I. 血的原始观念。威廉·哈维于 1615 年确立血液循环的事实之前，人们尚未完全理解血液在人类系统中的真正功能，但是从最早时期开始，所有民族都拥有一个关于血的奥秘。血祭、血礼和血仇在原始部落中很常见。早在科学证明血的功能之前，它就被认为是一种生命源泉。流血自然会产生恐惧感、敬畏感和虔诚感。许多野蛮的民族会划破人的身体，直到血液从中流淌出来。非洲的部落通过双方歃血，然后饮血或将血涂在双方的身体上来建立血盟关系。因此，他们认为通过其他手段相互输血可以建立生命共同体和利益同盟。

II. 希伯来和旧约习俗。尽管这个非常美好的观念中充满了蒙昧和迷信思想，但是血已经超出了单纯的人类意义和人类应用范畴。因为这种原始的相互输送人血的风俗象征着点或涂动物血的

significance and application. For this crude practice of intertransference of human blood there came to be symbolic substitution of animal blood in sprinkling or anointing. The first reference in the OT to blood (Gen. 4:10) is figurative, but highly illustrative of the reverential fear manifested upon the shedding of blood, and the first teaching regarding it.

The rite of circumcision is an OT form of blood ceremony. Apart from the probable sanitary importance of the act is the deeper meaning in the establishment of a bond of friendship between the one upon whom the act is performed and the Lord Himself. In order that Abraham might become “the friend of God” he was commanded that he should be circumcised as a token of the covenant between him and God (Gen. 17:10f.; see CIRCUMCISION).

It is significant that eating blood was prohibited in earliest Bible times (Gen. 9:4). The custom probably prevailed among heathen nations as a religious rite (cf. Ps. 16:4). This and its unhygienic influence together doubtless led to its becoming taboo. The same prohibition was made under the Mosaic code (Lev. 7:26; see SACRIFICE).

Blood was commanded to be used also for purification or for ceremonial cleansing (Lev. 14:5-7, 51f.; Nu. 19:4), provided, however, that it be taken from a clean animal (see PURIFICATION).

In all probability there is no trace of the superstitious use of blood in the OT, except perhaps in 1 K. 22:38; but everywhere it is vested with cleansing, expiatory, and reverently symbolic

风俗已经被取代。《旧约》中第一次提到的血(创 4:10)具有比喻意义,它详细地阐述了流血中所体现的敬畏之心和关于流血的第一个教义。

割礼是《旧约》中的一种血礼。这一行为除了可能具有洁净的意义之外,还有更深层的意义,它使受割礼的人与主耶和華立下了友好的约。为了使亚伯拉罕成为“神的朋友”,神命亚伯拉罕受割礼,以此作为双方立约的记号(创 17:10-11; 见 CIRCUMCISION[割礼])。

值得注意的是,在圣经时代初期吃血是被禁止的(创 9:4)。这种习俗可能被视为异教中盛行的宗教仪式(参:诗 16:4)。吃血和吃血对健康造成的不良影响使这种行为成为了一种禁忌。摩西律法中也禁止人吃血(利 7:26; 见 SACRIFICE[献祭、祭])。

耶和華吩咐道,如果血来自洁净的动物(见 PURIFICATION[洁净]),还可将血用在洁净或洁净礼上(利 14:5-7, 51-52; 民 19:4)。

可能除了《列王纪上》22:38,《旧约》中再未提到血的迷信用途;不过,各处经文中提到的血被赋予了洁净、赎罪和虔诚的象征意义。 qualities.

III. NT Teachings.—As in the transition from ancient to Hebrew practice, so from the OT to the NT we see an exaltation of the conception of blood and blood ceremonies. In Abraham's covenant his own blood had to be shed. Later an expiatory animal was to shed blood (Lev. 5:6; see ATONEMENT), but there must always be a shedding of blood. "Without the shedding of blood there is no forgiveness of sins" (He. 9:22). The exaltation of this idea finds its highest development then in the vicarious shedding of blood by Christ Himself (1 Jn. 1:7). As in the OT "blood" was used also to signify the juice of grapes; the most natural substitute for drinking blood would be the use of wine. Jesus takes advantage of this, and introduces the beautiful and significant custom (Mt. 26:28) of drinking wine and eating bread as symbolic of the primitive intertransfusion of blood and flesh in a pledge of eternal friendship (cf. Ex. 24:6f.; Jn. 6:53–56). This is the climactic observance of blood rites recorded in the Bible.

III. 《新约》中关于血的教导。从古代习俗过渡到希伯来习俗的过程中,我们看到《旧约》和《新约》都提高了血的概念和血礼的地位。亚伯拉罕必须在他的约中流自己的血。后来则必须献上赎罪的牲畜(利 5:6; 见 ATONEMENT[赎罪]),但总是需要流血。“若不流血,罪就不得赦免了”(来 9:22)。基督代为流血是这种观念的最高发展阶段(约壹 1:7)。在《旧约》中,“blood”也可以用来表示葡萄汁;代替吃血最好的方式是喝酒。耶稣就以酒代替了血,祂引入了喝酒吃饼这种美好而又重要的习俗(太 26:28),酒和饼象征着当初上帝与以色列确立友好的永恒之约时所饮的血、所吃的肉(参:出 24:6-7; 约 6:53-56)。这就是《圣经》中记载的最高血祭仪式。

BLOOD AND WATER 血和水

【希腊语: haíma kaí hýdōr】。《约翰福音》19:34 中提到的与基督受难有关的异象。当兵丁走到耶稣面前处死耶稣时,也就是打断祂的腿时,他们看到耶稣已经死了,就没动手打祂。“惟有一个兵拿枪扎祂的肋旁,随即有血和水流

already dead and omitted the act. “But one of the soldiers pierced his side with a spear, and at once there came out blood and water.” Two things seem to be startling to the writer: the flow of blood and water, and the fact that it took place immediately, indicating that the fluids had accumulated prior to the piercing with the spear. In v. 35 he emphasizes that he was an eyewitness and not mistaken or lying about the remarkable event.

The fact that “dead bodies don’t bleed” has often been thought to make this passage problematical, but physicians seem agreed that a flow of accumulated blood—as the “at once” seems to indicate—from a wound inflicted shortly after death is not impossible. The real difficulty is to understand how and why the water (sometimes thought to have been serum) and blood were so clearly separated and distinguishable.

One way of solving the problem has been to view the phenomenon as a miracle and to seek a mystical interpretation. Origen recognized that the blood is clotted in dead bodies and that water does not flow from them, and therefore he interpreted the blood and water as a miracle (Contra Celsum ii.36). Others have followed this line of reasoning and insisted that, since Jesus’ body did not see corruption (Acts 2:31), it therefore did not undergo the changes that follow an ordinary human death.

The romantic notion that Jesus died literally of a broken heart—first advanced by Stroud in 1847—has fallen from favor. Spontaneous rupture of the heart is not unknown, but it does not occur under the pressure of mental or emotional stress. It

出来。”有两件事似乎让作者很吃惊：一个是有血和水流出来，另一个是这个事实随即发生，这表明在兵拿枪扎耶稣之前，血和水已经积聚在了一起。在《约翰福音》19:35中，作者强调说，他见证了这一奇异的事件，并没有弄错或撒谎。

“死尸不能流血”的事实通常使人们质疑这段经文的真实性，但是医生们似乎认为，“随即”表明刚死之人的伤口处可能会不断地流血。真正的难点是，怎样理解水（有时认为是血清）和血明显分开、清晰可辨，为什么会这样。

解决这个难题的一个方法是，将这一现象看作是一个奇迹，并进行神秘的解释。俄利根认为，血会在死者的身体内凝结，水不会从中流出来，所以他将血和水流出视为一个神迹(Contra Celsum ii.36)。其他人遵循这个推理路线，并认为因为耶稣的肉身不见朽坏（徒2:31），所以祂的肉身不会像普通死人那样发生变化。

斯特劳德（Stroud）在1847年提出的耶稣实际死于心脏衰竭的空想已经得不到人们的支持。心脏自然衰竭并非陌生的事，但是在精神紧张或情绪紧张的情况下不会发生这样的事。血和水流出可能是由先天心脏疾病引起的，但我们

is the result of preexisting heart disease, for which, in the case of Jesus, we have no indication.

Pierre Barbet (A Doctor at Calvary [1953]) and others have argued that the blood came from within the heart and the water from the pericardial sac. A. F. Sava (CBQ, 19 [1957], 343–46) has taken issue with this on technical grounds and suggests that the blood and water were accumulated in the pleural cavity between the rib cage and the lung. He shows that severe nonpenetrating chest injuries are capable of producing such an accumulation, and suggests that a scourging such as Jesus received several hours before His death was sufficient to account for the accumulation that flowed forth when the chest wall was pierced. Also, there was enough time between the scourging and the piercing to allow the red blood cells to separate from the lighter clear serum.

John considered the event to be of considerable importance, but he does not state explicitly its theological significance. Perhaps he was concerned to refute early Docetic heresies by stressing the real death and true humanity of Jesus, as he does in his first Epistle. This was the view of Irenaeus (Adv. haer. iii.22.21).

Various interpretations have been given to the symbolism in this passage (for an excellent overview of these interpretations, along with a good bibliography, see R. E. Brown, Gospel According to John, XIII–XXI [AB, 1970], pp. 945–956). Brown recommends that the symbol of blood and water be interpreted in the light of their use elsewhere in the Johannine works. The

无法证明耶稣有先天心脏疾病。

皮尔·巴倍特 (A Doctor at Calvary [1953]) 等人认为, 血来自于心脏内部, 水来自于围心囊。萨瓦 (A. F. Sava) (CBQ, 19 [1957], 343–46) 以科学依据来解答这个问题, 他认为血和水在肋骨和肺之间的胸腔内积聚。他解释道, 非穿透性的严重胸伤可能造成血和水积聚, 并认为耶稣受难前数小时所遭受的鞭打足以导致血和水在体内积聚, 当胸壁遇刺时, 血和水就会流出来。另外, 鞭打和遇刺的时间足以让红色血细胞和颜色较浅的透明血清分离开。

约翰认为这一事件具有重要意义, 但他并没有明确阐述这一事件的神学意义。或许正像他在第一封书信中所说的, 他关心的是, 怎样用耶稣实际的死亡和祂的真实人性来驳斥早期的基督幻影邪说。这是爱任纽的观点 (Adv. haer. iii.22.21)。

人们对这段经文中的象征意义做出了各种解读(对于这些解读的综述和参考书目, 见 R. E. Brown, Gospel According to John, XIII–XXI [AB, 1970], 945–956 页)。布朗 (Brown) 建议, 应参照约翰作品中其他地方的用法来解释血和水的象征意义。流血可能表明耶稣实际上已经死了, 并因此获得了荣耀, 流出的水是圣灵的记号; 因此按照预期应验了耶稣在《约翰福音》7:38-39 中所说

shedding of blood would then be a sign that Jesus was actually dead—and therefore glorified—and the flow of water a sign of the Spirit; thus Jesus' prophecy concerning the Spirit in Jn. 7:38f. was proleptically fulfilled. "The soldier's lance thrust was meant to demonstrate that Jesus was truly dead; but this affirmation of death is paradoxically the beginning of life, for from the dead man there flows living water that will be a source of life for all who believe in him in imitation of the Beloved Disciple" (p. 950).

The Heb. dām is rendered "bloodguilt" six times in the RSV, the AV giving "blood" and the NEB "murder," "bloodshed," etc. "Bloodguiltiness" (dām) is found only in Ps. 51:14 in the AV and RSV, the NEB rendering it "bloodshed." Ezk. 18:13 seems to indicate that these terms do not necessarily signify bloodshed, but any grievous sin which, if it remains, will block God's favor to His land and people (cf. BLOODGUILTINESS. 流人血的罪

《修订标准译本》中七次将希伯来词 dām 译为“bloodguilt”（“流人血的罪”），《钦定版圣经》中译为“blood”（“血”），《新英文译本》中译为“murder”（“杀人”）、“bloodshed”（“流人血”）等。“Bloodguiltiness”（“流人血的罪”）仅在《钦定版圣经》和《修订标准译本》的《诗篇》51:14 中出现过，《新英文译本》中译为“bloodshed”（“流人血”）。《以西结书》18:13 中似乎表明，这些词不一定都表示流血，还可以表示很严重的罪，倘若继续犯这种罪，上帝的土地和祂的子民就无法得到祂的恩惠（参：申 21:8；赛 1:15）。

BLOODY

[Heb. dām]; NEB MURDEROUS, BLOOD-STAINED, etc. Where the Hebrew employs the noun in construct form, “of blood,” the RSV sometimes renders with the adjective “bloody,” as with ’îr haddāmîm, rendered “bloody city” (Ezk. 24:6). In 1 K. 2:32 the requiting of Joab’s murderous deeds is at issue, while in Ezk. 7:23; 22:2; 24:6–9 the allusion is to the capital crimes committed by the wicked rulers of Jerusalem, and hence to the city itself. Nineveh is described in the same manner in Nah. 3:1.

A similar construction occurs in Ex. 4:25f., where the AV renders as “bloody husband” the Heb. h^atan-dāmîm, which the RSV translates “bridegroom of blood.” The reference here is to the circumcision of the son of Moses, when his wife Zipporah threw the prepuce into his lap (AV, RSV, “feet”; NEB “touched him”).

BLOODY 流人血的

【希伯来语: dām】; 《新英文译本》中译为 MURDEROUS (“好流人血的”)、 BLOOD-STAINED (“流人血的”) 等。当经文中这个希伯来词采用它的名词的构词形式时, “of blood” (“血的”), 《修订标准译本》中有时将这个形容词译为 “bloody” (“流人血的”), 当它和 ’îr haddāmîm 连用时, 译为 “bloody city” (“流人血的城”) (结 24:6)。《列王纪上》2:32 中讨论了约押流人血的罪的偿还问题, 而在《以西结书》7:23; 22:2 和 24:6-9 中, 流人血的罪暗指耶路撒冷的邪恶统治者所犯的死罪, 因此耶路撒冷也犯了流人血的罪。在《那鸿书》3:1 中, 尼尼微也被描述成流人血的城。

在《出埃及记》4:25-26 中也出现了类似的构词方式, 《钦定版圣经》将希伯来词语 h^atan-dāmîm 译为 “bloody husband”, 而《修订标准译本》中译为 “bridegroom of blood”, 汉译均为 “血郎”。这里指的是摩西的儿子受割礼, 此时摩西的妻子西坡拉把她儿子的阳皮丢在摩西的脚下 (《钦定版圣经》和《修订标准译本》中译为 “feet” [“脚”]; 《新英文译本》中译为 “touched him” [“丢在摩西的脚下”])。

BLOW 伤、鞭伤、打伤

【希伯来语：makkâ（耶 14:17；30:14），maḥaṣ（赛 30:26）】；《钦定版圣经》中还译为 WOUND（“伤、伤痕”）、STROKE（“鞭伤”）；《新英文译本》中还译为 STRIKE（“打、刺”）等；【naḥat】（“他降罚的[膀臂]”赛 30:30）；《钦定版圣经》中译为“lighting down”；《新英文译本》中译为“sweeping down”，汉译均为“降罚”；【māḥaq（士 5:26），nākā（民 35:21），šānā（撒下 20:10）】；《钦定版圣经》中译为 SMITE（“打伤”）、STRIKE（“打、刺”）；《新英文译本》中译为 STRIKE（“打、刺”）等。

这些名词和动词指用手或武器击打。

BLOW.

1. [Heb. tāqa', ḥ^ašōšēr (1 Ch. 15:24)]; NEB also SOUND, etc.; [ṯrū'ā] (“blow the trumpets,” Nu. 29:1); NEB ACCLAMATION; [Gk. salpizō] (Rev. 8:6, 13); AV SOUND. These terms are used with reference to sounding trumpets (ḥ^ašōšēr and salpizō are used only in this connection) or alarms. Where the AV and RSV translate the Heb. ṯqa'tem ṯrū'ā as “blow an alarm” (Nu. 10:5f.), the NEB gives “signal for a shout.” The term ṯrū'ā can refer to a signal or to shouting—either for joy or in alarm (cf. Nu. 29:1). The alarm of Nu. 10:5f. was probably some sort of military call (cf. Am. 1:14) which could be distinguished from the blowing of trumpets that summoned the congregation (Nu. 10:7). See also BLAST; SHOUT.

2. [Heb. pu(a)ḥ]; NEB also “breathe out”; [ḥārar]; AV “are burned”; [napaḥ]. These terms are used with reference to fire and the wrath of God. The verb ḥārar is used by Jeremiah in a figurative description of God’s judgment against Israel: “The bellows blow fiercely, the lead is consumed by the fire” (6:29). The verb pu(a)ḥ sometimes means “blast,” as in Ezk. 21:31, “I will blow upon you with the fire of my wrath” (cf. 22:20f.), where napaḥ is used as a synonym for pu(a)ḥ; but it can also be used of a breeze, as in Cant. 4:16: “Blow upon my garden, let its fragrance be wafted abroad.”

3. [Heb. āḥar] (“blow over,” Gen. 8:1); AV, NEB, “pass over”; [nāšap] (Ex. 15:10); [nāšab] (Ps. 147:18); [nāsa] (Ps. 78:26); NEB “let loose”; [Gk. pnéō] (Rev.

BLOW. 吹

1、【希伯来语：tāqa', ḥ^ašōšēr（代上 15:24）】；《新英文译本》中还译为 SOUND（“吹”）等；【ṯrū'ā】（“吹角”，民 29:1）；《新英文译本》中译为 ACCLAMATION（“吹角”）；【希腊语：salpizō】（启 8:16, 13）；《钦定版圣经》中译为 SOUND（“吹”）。这些词语都表示吹角（ḥ^ašōšēr 和 salpizō 只用来表达这一含义）或吹出大声。《钦定版圣经》和《修订标准译本》将希伯来语 ṯqa'tem ṯrū'ā 译为“blow an alarm”（民 10:5-6），而《新英文译本》则译为“signal for a shout”，汉译均为“吹出大声”。ṯrū'ā 一词可以表示信号或喊叫声——不论是出于喜悦，还是因为惊慌（参：民 29:1）而发出的喊叫。《民数记》10:5-6 中的大声可能指的是某种争战时的呐喊（参：摩 1:14），这种呐喊声可能不同于召聚会众的号声（民 10:7）。另见 BLAST（声、气）；SHOUT（欢呼、喊叫）。

2、【希伯来语：Heb. pu(a)ḥ】；《新英文译本》中还译为“breathe out”（“口吐”）；【ḥārar】；《钦定版圣经》中译为“are burned”（“吹火、焚毁”）；【napaḥ】。这些词语用来指火和神的忿怒。耶利米用希伯来动词 ḥārar 的比喻含义来描述神对以色列的审判：“风箱吹火，铅被烧毁”（耶 6:29）。希伯来语动词 pu(a)ḥ 有时表达“喷”的含义，如在《以西结书》21:31 中，“将我烈怒的火喷在你身上”（参：结 22:20-21），其中，napaḥ 是 pu(a)ḥ 的同义词；但它也可以用来指微风，如在《雅歌》4:16 中：“吹在我的园内，使其中的香气发出来。”

3、【希伯来语：āḥar】（“吹”，创 8:1）；《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》中均译为“pass over”（“吹”）；【nāšap】（出 15:10）；【nāšab】（诗 147:18）；【nāsa'】

7:1). These terms are used of the blowing of the wind, as is pu(a)ḥ in passages such as Cant. 4:16 (2).

BLUSH

[Heb. kālam—‘feel humiliated’] (Ezr. 9:6; Isa. 1:29; Jer. 6:15; 8:12). In contrast to Ezra, the people of God mentioned by Isaiah and Jeremiah were not ashamed of their iniquities as they ought to have been. Thus the Lord determined to teach them the shame of their acts by humiliating them in the eyes of their neighbors by means of a foreign conqueror.

bō-ā-nūr’jēz [Gk. Boanērges < Aram. < Heb. bēnē regeš—‘sons of thunder’]. The surname bestowed by Jesus upon James and John, the sons of Zebedee, when they were ordained to the apostleship (Mk. 3:17). See JAMES 1. It has also been regarded as an equivalent of the “Heavenly Twins,” the Sons of Zeus or Thunder. According to this interpretation, the name Boanerges would represent the Dioscuri in some form or other of their varied presentation in the cults of the Mediterranean (cf. J. R. Harris, Expos., 7th series, 3 [1907], 146–152).

BLUSH 蒙羞、羞耻

【希伯来语: kālam——“感到羞愧”】(拉 9:6; 赛 1:29; 耶 6:15; 8:12)。以赛亚和耶利米提到上帝的子民不为他们行的可憎的事抱愧蒙羞, 这与以斯拉的描述形成了对照。因此, 耶和华让外邦人征服他们, 让他们在邻邦的眼中蒙羞, 从而让他们为自己的行为感到羞耻。

BOANERGES 半尼其

音译: bō-ā-nūr’jēz【希腊语: Boanērges, 衍生自亚兰语, 衍生自希伯来语: bēnē regeš——“雷子”】。当西庇太的儿子雅各和约翰被选为使徒时, 耶稣给他们起的绰号(可 3:17)。见 JAMES 1 (雅各 1)。半尼其也被认为是“双子座”、宙斯之子或雷子。根据这种解释, 半尼其这个名字可能代表了丢斯双子的某种形式, 或代表了地中海地区的崇拜偶像的其他不同形式(参: J. R. Harris, Expos., 第 7 系列, 3 [1907], 146–152)。

The concomitant relation of form to being is fundamental to the biblical concept of the body. Man is viewed as a psychophysical unity in which, contrary to Greek philosophy and to some modern psychology, the body is not separated from the spiritual aspect of man.

I. OT.-Properly speaking, the OT has no formal term for the body, although several words are so translated. Heb. g^ewiyyā sometimes means living body (Ezk. 1:11, 23; Dnl. 10:6; cf. Aram. g^ešēm, Dnl. 3:27f.; etc.), though more normally dead body, i.e., a corpse (cf. nepeš, Lev. 21:11; Nu. 6:6; etc.; n^ebēlā, Dt. 21:23).

Occurring 266 times in the Hebrew OT, bāsār basically denotes bodily flesh, composed of ‘āpār (dust) and n^ešāmā (breath), the material element of man (Gen. 2:21-24; Ezk. 37:6; cf. š^e’ēr, Prov. 5:11), but bāsār also is used for animal flesh (Gen. 6:17; 7:15, 21). Other terms occasionally translated “body” in the RSV basically designate specific parts, including beṭen (“belly” or “womb,” Dt. 28:4, 11, 18, 53; etc.), gūpā (“back,” 1 Ch. 10:12), and ‘ešem (“bone,” Lam. 4:7).

Yet, man’s bāsār is conjoined with his rū(a)h (spirit) and nepeš (soul) in ways that refer to the whole man, not only as fleshly, but as rational, soulish (cf. Ps. 63:1 [MT 2]; 84:2). Body and soul are used almost interchangeably, soul to indicate man as a living being, and body (flesh) to denote him as a corporeally visible creature (Ps. 16:9; Isa. 10:18). This unity of body and soul have led some writers to conclude that the OT lacks a view of the physical body as a discrete entity, that “man is an animated body rather than an incarnated soul” (H. W. Robinson, The People and the Book [1925], p. 362; also, The Religious Ideas of the OT [1949], p. 90). More properly, however, the OT sees body and soul as coordinates interpenetrating each other in function to form a single whole.

II. NT.-The NT uses two distinct words

I. 《旧约》中的身体。虽然很多词语都被译为“身体”，但确切的说，《旧约》中没有关于身体的正式用语。希伯来词 g^ewiyyā 有时可以表示活物（结 1:11, 23; 但 10:6; 参：亚兰语：g^ešēm, 但 3:27-28 等），然而大多数情况下它表示死尸，如尸体（参：nepeš, 利 21:11; 民 6:6 等；n^ebēlā, 申 21:23）。

Bāsār 在希伯来语《旧约》中出现了 266 次，基本上指的是肉身，肉身由 ‘āpār（尘土）和 n^ešāmā（气）这两种人类物质元素组成（创 2:21-24; 结 37:6; 参：š^e’ēr, 箴 5:11），但 bāsār 还可以用来表示动物的肉体（创 6:17; 7:15, 21）。在《修订标准译本》中，其他词语有时也译为“身体”，它们主要指的是具体的肢体，这些词包括 beṭen（“腹”或“母胎”，申 28:4, 11, 18, 53 等）、gūpā（“背部”，代上 10:12）和 ‘ešem（“骨头”，哀 4:7）。

但是，人的肉体 (bāsār) 与精神 (rū(a)h) 和灵魂 (nepeš) 结合在一起时，就构成了一个完全的人，他不仅有血有肉，还有理性和精神（参：诗 63:1 [《马所拉文本》 2]; 84:2）。身体和灵魂几乎可以互换使用，灵魂表示一个活着的人，身体（血肉）表示具有有形肉体的人（诗 16:9; 赛 10:18）。身体和灵魂的统一性使有些作者总结道，《旧约》中没有将肉体视为分散的肢体，“人是一个具有生气的身体，而不是一个具有肉身的灵魂” (H. W. Robinson, The People and the Book [1925], 362 页; The Religious Ideas of the OT [1949], 90 页)。然而，更准确的说，《旧约》中认为身体和灵魂在功能上相互协调、相互贯通，从而形成了一个整体。

II. 《新约》中的身体。《新约》中使用

for body: sárx and sóma. The LXX writers uniformly used sárx (flesh) to translate bāsār, so its use in the NT builds upon the meaning of bāsār in the OT. Consequently, its basic NT meaning is bodily substance (Mt. 24:22; Jn. 3:6). Paul uses the word ninety-one times, and, while he accepts the basic connotation, he adds immeasurably to its meaning. For Paul, sárx has two principal meanings.

First, sárx designates the external, physical aspect of man's bodily existence (1 Cor. 15:50; Gal. 4:13). As sárx, man is mortal and subject to death (2 Cor. 4:11). Second, sárx represents flesh as a part of the natural human order in contrast to the divine order. As body, sárx is worldly, human nature under control of fleshly powers, obedient to the lust of the flesh rather than the power of the Spirit (Rom. 8:5-8). To be "in the flesh" is to be subject to the powers that control the flesh (cf. Gal. 4:3; Col. 2:8, 20). Hence, sárx is the aspect of man that is a part of the world-order that stands in opposition to God (Rom. 8:7f.).

Sóma both identifies and expands the concept of the body as designated by sárx. As does sárx, sóma also refers to the external physical aspect of man's bodily existence (Mt. 27:59; Jn. 19:31; 1 Cor. 9:27; Gal. 6:17) and that of an animal (Lk. 17:37). It is virtually equivalent to sárx in that it connotes the whole man in human weakness (Mk. 5:29) and is subject to the reign and judgment of sin (Rom. 7:22-25). Like sárx, the sóma is mortal (Rom. 6:12; 8:11), and has its lusts (Rom. 6:12). But the use of sóma uniquely expresses some essential differences.

To understand these differences, attention

两个不同的词来表示身体：sárx 和 sóma。《七十士译本》的作者一律采用 sárx（肉体）来翻译希伯来词 bāsār，所以《新约》中这个词的用法基于《旧约》中 bāsār 的含义。因此，sárx 在《新约》中的基本含义是肉身（太 24:22；约 3:6）。保罗使用这个词 91 次，他认可这个词的基本涵义的同时，还赋予了这个词更多的含义。对保罗来说，sárx 有两个主要含义。

首先，sárx 可以指人的血肉外身（林前 15:50；加 4:13）。因为人类具有血肉之躯（sárx），所以他们必死（林后 4:11）。其次，sárx 可以表示属血气的肉身，它与圣洁的身体截然相反。Sárx 在表示身体时，指的是世俗的、受肉体权柄掌控的人性，它服从于肉欲，而不是圣灵的权柄（罗 8:5-8）。“随从肉体”就是让控制肉体的权柄掌权（参：加 4:3；西 2:8, 20）。因此，sárx 指的是从属于世界秩序与神为仇的人类方面（罗 8:7-8）。

sárx 指定了身体的含义，而 Sóma 确定并扩展了身体的概念。sóma 和 sárx 一样，也可以指人类的血肉外身（太 27:59；约 19:31；林前 9:27；加 6:17）和动物的身体（路 17:37）。这个词实际上等同于 sárx，因为它指的是具有人性弱点的人（可 5:29）和服从罪的支配和审判的人（罗 7:22-25）。sóma 和 sárx 一样，是必死的（罗 6:12；8:11），它顺从身子的私欲（罗 6:12）。sóma 的用法特别呈现了一些本质的区别。 must be given to the distinctively Pauline use of sōma. As J. A. T. Robinson states, "... the concept of the body forms the keystone of Paul's theology.... For no other New Testament writer has the word any doctrinal significance" (The Body, p. 9). It would be significant if a source of this aspect of Paul's theology could be identified. Several suggestions have been made: a carry-over from the rabbinic Adam-speculation (W. D. Davies, Paul and Rabbinic Judaism [2nd ed. 1955]), and the Stoic doctrine of the organic unity of the universe (S. Hanson, Unity of the Church in the NT [1946]). More probably, however, the concept arose out of Paul's own creative thinking, as F. W. Dillistone (Structure of Divine Society [1951]), among others, suggests.

The unique aspect of Paul's sōma concept is his use of it to indicate that man has both physical and spiritual existence, and that his spiritual existence is an integral part of his total being. As J. A. T. Robinson states, "Sōma ... does not mean simply something external to a man himself, something he has. It is something he is" (The Body, p. 28). A. M. Hunter similarly describes Paul's use of body as "the organic principle of identity which persists through the years and all changes of substance" (Interpreting Paul's Gospel [1960], p. 54).

Paul uses this concept in at least five ways. First, sōma, in a way impossible for sárx, expresses the identity of the whole person as an entity before God. It identifies bodily form with the inner person and as such is tantamount to being personality or the essential self (Rom. 12:1; 1 Cor. 9:27; 13:3; Phil. 1:20). Sōma is an essential aspect of human personality, not just accidental as bodily form. Sóma, as body, is therefore essential to the understanding of the self.

注保罗对 sōma 的使用。正如罗宾逊 (J. A. T. Robinson) 所说, ".....身体观念是构成保罗神学的基石.....因为其他的新约作者并没有赋予这个词任何的教义意义" (The Body, 9 页)。如果可以追溯到保罗神学中这个方面的始源, 那将是很有意义的。学者们给出了以下几个建议: 保罗神学中的身体观念可能源自拉比对亚当的推测 (W. D. Davies, Paul and Rabbinic Judaism [1955 年再版]), 也可能源自斯多亚派关于宇宙有机统一的教义 (S. Hanson, Unity of the Church in the NT [1946])。不过, 正如德里斯通 (F. W. Dillistone) 等人所认为的, 这一观念更有可能是保罗的创造性思维的产物 (Structure of Divine Society [1951])。

保罗的身体 (sōma) 观念的一个独特方面是, 他使用这个词来表示人具有肉体 and 属灵存在, 人的属灵存在是完全的人不可缺少的组成部分。正如罗宾逊 (J. A. T. Robinson) 所说, "Sōma.....并不是简单地用来指人所 '拥有' 的外在肉体。外在肉体就 '是' 这个人" (The Body, 28 页)。亨特 (A. M. Hunter) 同样将保罗对身体的应用描述成 "历经岁月变迁和物质转化而亘古不变的根本原则" (Interpreting Paul's Gospel [1960], 54 页)。

保罗至少在五个方面用到这个概念。第一, sōma 在某种程度上包含了 sárx 所不具备的含义, 它表达了完全的人作为一个实体出现在上帝面前。它将身体形态与内在的人视为等同之物, 这个词本身就等同于人的特征或本质特征 (罗 12:1; 林前 9:27; 13:3; 腓 1:20)。 Sōma 是人的特征的必要方面, 而不是像身体那样, 只是人的特征的附属方面。因此,

Second, as the body/self, sóma is the locus of the spiritual in man. As sárx is the seat of man's bodily (fleshly) enmity toward God, so sóma is the seat of man's spirituality. Since sóma denotes both the body and the whole person, all spiritual relations must be in and through his somatic existence (Rom. 6:12). The body is the coordinate of the spirit in that it provides the spirit its agency of expression. Man is fully himself in the unity of body and spirit as both function within the integral whole. Neither takes precedence over the other, while each gains in relation to the other.

Third, as body sóma means the whole man as destined for membership in God's kingdom. As sárx man is destined for death and destruction, but as sóma, man as he is meant to be, he is in confrontation with God. As sóma man serves God as a total being, not as divided into body and soul.

Fourth, the sóma provides the vehicle for the resurrection. Since the body is not just an accidental part of the human personality to be detached at death, the whole person, not just a disembodied soul, is to be resurrected. At death the individual will not escape from his body, but will find it changed and glorified. Therefore, the sóma must first die, for the resurrection is "of the dead" (cf. 1 Cor. 15:21). That the body is to be transformed is evidence that its fleshly form is not essential (Phil. 3:20f.). Yet Rom. 8:11 indicates that God will raise up "mortal" bodies and 1 Cor. 6:14 confirms this (cf.

Sóma 是自我认知的要素。

第二，作为身体或自身，sóma 是人的灵的载体。因为 sárx 是与上帝为仇的肉体的载体，所以 sóma 是人的灵性载体。因为 sóma 既可以指身体也可以指整个人，所以所有属灵的关系必须藉着身体并存在于身体中（罗 6:12）。身体是灵的载体，身体让灵作为表达的代理。具有身体和灵的人才是一个完全的人，身体和灵都要在这个整体内做工。两者之间没有优劣之分，都从彼此的关系中受益。

第三，sóma 在表达身体的含义时，指的是有资格进入神的国的完全的人。根据对 Sárx 的理解，人终将面临死亡和毁灭，而根据对 sóma 的理解，人注定要与上帝为仇。sóma 所表示的人以一个整体侍奉神，而不是被分成了身体和灵两部分。

第四，sóma 是复活的载体。因为身体不只是渴望摆脱死亡的人性的附属部分，所以完全的人，而不只是空洞的灵魂必将复活。灵魂在死亡时无法摆脱身体，但灵魂将发生改变并得到荣耀。因此，sóma 必须首先死亡，因为“死人”将会复活（参：林前 15:21）。身体的形状将改变证明了，肉体并不是必不可少的（腓 3:20-21）。《罗马书》8:11 中的经文表明，神将让“必死的”身体从死里复活，《哥林多前书》6:14 中也证明了这一点（参：罗 6:12）。此外，《罗马书》8:23 中称，“我们的身体”将被复活，而不是从我们的身体上复活。

Rom. 6:12). Moreover, Rom. 8:23 asserts that the resurrection will be “of our bodies,” not from our bodies.

Therefore, fifth, since the resurrection is associated with judgment, the body, in its earthly existence, is viewed as the site of spiritual testing, in terms of which the judgment will take place (2 Cor. 5:1–10). Consequently, the spiritual life, with the body/self as its locale, is regarded as a firstfruit of participation in Christ’s own resurrection (Phil. 3:20f.).

Thus, it is clear that the body is used to represent the whole man, and militates against any idea of the biblical view of man as existing apart from bodily manifestation, unless it be during the intermediate state.

III. Related Concepts.-A. Spiritual Body of 1 Cor. 15. The interrelation of body and the totality of man’s being is illustrated by the contrast between the physical and the spiritual body in 1 Cor. 15:44, 46: “It is sown a physical body; it is raised a spiritual body. If there is a physical body, there is also a spiritual body.... But it is not the spiritual which is first but the physical, and then the spiritual.”

In response to a question about the nature or quality of the body to be raised in the resurrection (1 Cor. 15:35), Paul relates the body to be raised to that which is buried in death. His implicit answer is that the dead have a body that is altered in the resurrection. The body that is sown is the body that is raised. It is sown in one quality and raised in another, but it remains the same body. The physical body can be sown because it is subject to death. The body that is raised is spiritual, that is,

第五, 因此, 既然复活与审判有关, 世俗的身体被视为接受属灵检验的载体, 并将接着属灵检验的结果进行审判(林后 5:1-10)。所以, 属灵的生命被认为是因参与基督复活而得到的初熟的果子, 而身体或自身是属灵生命的载体(腓 3:20-21)。

因此, 身体显然用来代表完全的人, 除了肉身显现, 身体并不违背《圣经》中任何关于人的观点, 除非身体处于中间状态。

III. 相关概念。 A. 《哥林多前书》15章中的属灵身体。《哥林多前书》15:44和 46 通过对比属血气的身体和有灵性的身体阐明了身体和完全的人之间的相互关系: “所种的是有血气的身体, 复活的是灵性的身体。若有血气的身体, 也必有灵性的身体……但属灵的不在先, 属血气的在先, 以后才有属灵的。”

保罗为了回答人们提出的关于复活时身体的性质或特征问题(林前 15:35), 将复活的身体与死亡时被埋的身体关联起来。他以一种含蓄的方式回答道, 死者的身体在复活时将会发生改变。所种的身体就是复活的身体。所种的是一种性质的身体, 复活的是另一种性质的身体, 但是它们仍然是同一个身体。肉体能够被种, 因为它必死。复活的身体是灵性的身体, 也就是说, 身体已经被圣灵更新和支配。 renewed and governed by the Spirit.

The contrast between physical and spiritual has to do not with the substance of which the bodies are made but with the relation of the bodies. The spiritual body is related to the physical as Adam is a “living soul” and Christ is a “quickenning spirit.” This means that as a living soul Adam had a body. Body and soul are intertwined as one entity. The existence of a physical body presupposes the existence of a spiritual body, just as the spiritual body does not come into being unless there is a physical body. The spiritual body follows the physical, and is not only the evidence of the resurrection, but shares the fruits of Christ’s work (cf. 2 Cor. 3:18; 4:16f.; Phil. 3:21).

The spiritual body can be understood only against the background of Paul’s understanding of the physical body. Paul does not claim, as was the Hebraic belief, that the physical body as such is to be raised. Paul’s use of the word sárx (seventy times, thirty-six of which refer to man simply as a physical entity, and thirty-four to his sinfulness, under the domination of the “flesh”) suggests his attitude toward the physical body. It is perishable, mortal, and weak (1 Cor. 15:44; cf. Rom. 8:21; 1 Cor. 15:50; 2 Cor. 4:16). Since “flesh and blood” cannot inherit the kingdom, it is not flesh that is to be raised but a body.

Furthermore, man’s present weak and sinful body does not constitute the totality of his being, which is rather the “inner nature [which] is being renewed every day” (2 Cor. 4:16). Intrinsic to this is Paul’s understanding of man’s psyché and pneúma. Psyché, used only thirteen times by Paul, and always in relation to the present life (with 1 Thess. 5:23 a possible exception), is inextricably related to man's fleshly existence as the focus of his personality. Pneúma, used 110 times, clearly refers to the spirit of man, which is capable of relating to God, but which is also in danger of falling under control of the flesh.

肉体与灵之间的明显差异与身体的组成成分无关，与身体之间的关系有关。灵性的身体与属血气的身体有关，因为亚当成了“有灵的活人”，而基督成了“叫人活的灵”。这意味着，作为有灵的活人，亚当有身体。身体和灵相互交织，构成了一个整体。属血气的身体的存在以属灵的身体的存在为先决条件，正如属灵的不在先，属血气的在先。属灵的身体在属血气的身体之后出现，不仅是复活的确据，而且分享了基督工作的成果（参：林后 3:18；4:16-17；腓 3:21）。

只有以保罗对属于血气的身体的理解为背景，才能明白属灵的身体的真正含义。保罗没有像希伯来人信仰的那样宣称，属血气的身体同样会被复活。他用 sárx 一词表明他对属血气的身体的态度 (sárx 共出现了 70 次，其中 36 次仅仅将人归为一种实体，另外 34 次用来表示受“肉体”统治的人的罪)。属血气的身体是容易腐坏的、必死的和软弱的(林前 15:44; 参: 罗 8:21; 林前 15:50; 林后 4:16)。既然“血肉之体”不能承受神的国，那么复活的就不是肉体，而是身体。

此外，人目前软弱和有罪的身体不能构成完全的人，而“内心却一天新似一天”（林后 4:16）。这层含义蕴含在保罗关于人的 psyché 和 pneúma 理解之中。Psyché 一词仅被保罗使用了 13 次，而且都是与现世相关（《帖撒罗尼迦前书》5:23 可能是个例外），这个词与构成人

In this age man is under both flesh and spirit. The struggle within man is not between body and spirit, but between flesh and spirit. Flesh may overcome the body (Rom. 8:10) but "he who raised Christ Jesus from the dead will give life to your mortal bodies also through his Spirit" (Rom. 8:11). The body is essential to the spirit. Consequently, Paul may boldly assert that what is "sown in dishonor [will be] raised in glory" (1 Cor. 15:43).

Paul makes no attempt, however, to explain the substance of the spiritual body. He is content to assert that in the resurrection that which is essential to man's being, i.e., his somatic existence, is raised, yet changed into its primary essence, i.e., spiritual. This seems to be the intention of the antithetical terms of 1 Cor. 15:42-44: imperishable/perishable, glory/weakness, physical body/spiritual body. The two primary emphases of these antitheses are individual and body. Body is indissolubly a part of the total being. Consequently, Paul sees the resurrection as a continuance of that total being, bodily in form, freed from the rule of the flesh, with spirit in triumph. This is accomplished through the transforming work of redemptive grace in this age, and completed in the resurrected spiritual body.

类性格核心的肉体存在密不可分。Pneúma 一词被使用了 110 次，显然指的是人的灵，可能与神有关，但因受肉体的控制也面临着堕落的危险。

人在这个时代既要受肉体的管控，也要受灵的指引。人内心的挣扎不是发生在身体和灵之间，而是发生在肉体 and 灵之间。肉体可能战胜身体（罗 8:10），但“那叫基督耶稣从死里复活的，也必借着住在你们心里的圣灵，使你们必死的身体又活过来”（罗 8:11）。对于灵来说，身体是必不可少的。所以，保罗可以大胆地断言，“所种的是羞辱的，复活的是荣耀的”（林前 15:43）。

然而，保罗没有试图解释属灵身体的实质。他认为，对于人类来说，复活是必不可少的，也就是说，肉体存在被复活，变成了它最初的本质，即属灵的本质。这似乎是《哥林多前书》15:42-44 中使用对立词语的目的：朽坏的和不朽坏的、荣耀的和软弱的、属血气的身体和属灵的身体。其中两个重要的对立是个人与身体的对立。身体是完全的人必不可少的组成部分。因此，保罗认为复活延续了有形的完全的人的生命，使之摆脱了肉体的掌控，得着属灵的身体。这是通过这个时代救恩的转变工作实现的，并藉着属灵身体的复活最终完成。

The spiritual body of 1 Cor. 15:44 is the proof of the spiritual life begun in Christ. In Rom. 6:5 Paul states, “For if we have been incorporated with him in a death like his, we shall certainly be incorporated with him in a resurrection like his.” This incorporation speaks of identity. As Christ died “in the likeness of sinful flesh” (Rom. 8:3) yet not being sinful, so mankind, being sinful, died also to sin, hence must share the same resurrected life as Christ. This likeness is not just a symbolic conformity, but a redemptive-historical likeness by virtue of its oneness with Christ. The old man has been crucified, judged, with Him, so that the sinful body might be rendered powerless (6:6). The resurrection of Christ’s own body assures the believer that, as this identifies with Christ’s redemptive work, man’s physical body (his soma-self) will share in His resurrection as a spiritual body.

B. The Body of Christ. This phrase has three uses in the NT.

1. The Physical Body of Jesus Christ. That the NT writers accepted the true humanity of Jesus is clearly indicated by Rom. 7:4, in which salvation is said to have come in dying to the law “through the body of Christ” (cf. He. 10:10). This is confirmed in references to His physical body at the time of His death (Mt. 27:58f.; Lk. 24:3, 23; Jn. 19:38, 40; 20:12). Col. 1:22 refers to “his body of flesh” (cf. Eph. 2:13–15). Though not using the exact phrase, Phil. 3:21 and 1 Cor. 15:12–28 affirm Christ’s resurrection as bodily (cf. 35–58). This assurance of His bodily resurrection is the hope of believers in that it is presented as a prototype of their own resurrection.

《哥林多前书》15:44 中属灵的身体证明，属灵的生活在基督里开始。保罗在《罗马书》6:5 中说道，“我们若在祂死的形状上与祂联合，也要在祂复活的形状上与祂联合。”这种结合说的是同一性。因为基督无辜受难“成为罪身的形状”（罗 8:3），所以有罪的世人也要因罪而死，因此，他们也必会向基督一样，得到复活的生命。这种形状不只是象征性的同一性，而且是凭借基督一人完成了历史性救赎的形状。旧人和基督同钉十字架、同被审判，所以他们不再作罪的奴仆（罗 6:6）。基督身体的复活使得信徒相信，因为基督救赎的工作，世人属血气的身体（他们的肉体）也将被复活，变成属灵的身体。

B. 基督的身体。这个短语在《新约》中出现过 3 次。

1、基督的肉身。《罗马书》7:4 清晰地表明新约作者认可耶稣真实的人性，世人“藉着基督的身体”，在律法上死了，从而得到了救赎（参：来 10:10）。在耶稣受难时提到了祂的肉身，这证明了这一点（太 27:58-59；路 24:3, 23；约 19:38, 40；20:12）。《歌罗西书》1:22 中提到了“基督的肉身”（参：弗 2:13-15）。虽然《腓立比书》3:21 和《哥林多前书》15:12-28 中没有使用这一短语，但是这两处经文都证明基督的身体复活了（参林前 15:35-38）。基督身体复活的可靠凭据是信徒们的盼望，因为这表明他们自己也会像基督一样从死里复活。

2. Eucharistic Use. At the institution of the memorial meal Jesus broke the bread, saying, “This is my body” (Mt. 26:26; Mk. 14:22; Lk. 22:19; 1 Cor. 11:24; cf. 10:16). There is a double reference here: (1) sōma, as “my body,” referring to the totality of the person of Jesus, hence He says, “This is my total self, which I give to you”; and (2) the element of sacrifice, which is indicated both by the setting of the supper, at the Passover feast, and the reference to “broken” (cf. 1 Cor. 10:16; 11:24 mg.). Jesus joined the element of sacrifice, which was essential to the Passover celebration, with His earlier statements about Himself as the Bread of Life: “I say to you, it was not Moses who gave you the bread from heaven; my Father gives you the true bread from heaven. For the bread of God is that which comes down from heaven, and gives life to the world... I am the bread of life” (Jn. 6:32f., 35). This act of sacrifice is confirmed by the interpretation given by later writers (e.g., He. 10:5, 10) as being efficacious for mankind.

3. Community of Believers. The term “body” is applied to the Church as the body “in Christ” (Rom. 12:5), “of Christ” (1 Cor. 12:27), or simply as “his body” (Eph. 1:23).

Since this is a term unique to Paul, it is important to understand its development. The basic idea is the collective solidarity of Christ and believers. Assuming that 1 Corinthians is its earliest use, a progression can be at least tentatively suggested.

In 1 Cor. 6:15–17, Paul introduces the concept of body as participation: “Do you not know that your bodies are members of

2、在圣餐中的用途。耶稣在逾越节晚餐上掰开饼，说“这是我的身体”（太 26:26；可 14:22；路 22:19；林前 11:24；参：林前 10:16）。这里是双重所指：（1）sōma，“我的身体”，指的是完全的人耶稣，因此祂说，“我给你们的是完整的我”；（2）祭物的基本组成部分，逾越节筵席中晚餐的背景和经文中提到的“掰开的”都证明了这一点（参：林前 10:16；林前 11:24 旁注）。祭物是逾越节筵席中必不可少的，耶稣把祭物的基本组成部分与祂之前所说的祂是生命的粮结合在了一起：“我实实在在地告诉你们，那从天上来的粮，不是摩西赐给你们的，乃是我父将天上来的真粮赐给你们。因为 神的粮，就是那从天上降下来赐生命给世界的。……我就是生命的粮”（约 6:32-33, 35）。后期作者的解释（如，来 10:5, 10）证明，这种献祭行为对全人类都有效。

3、信徒的共同体。“身体”这个词可以用来表示教会，它在“在基督里”（罗 12:5）成为一身，是基督的身子（林前 12:27），或简单地说，教会是“祂的身体”（弗 1:23）。

因为保罗认识这个独特的词语，所以了解这个词的发展很重要。它的基本意思是基督和信徒团结成为一体。假设《哥林多前书》中最早使用了这个词，至少暗示出了这个词的发展过程。

在《哥林多前书》6:15-17 中，保罗引入了同领身体的概念：“岂不知你们的身子是基督的肢体吗？”他借鉴了《旧

Christ?” Borrowing from the OT image of marriage as constituting “one flesh” (Gen. 2:24), he uses the sexual union (even with a prostitute) to conclude that “he who is united to the Lord becomes one spirit with him” (v. 17).

The first use of the phrase “body of Christ” (1 Cor. 10:16f.) furthers the idea of both collective solidarity and participation. Breaking of bread, symbolic of new-covenant concepts, is participating in the body of Christ. Just so, unworthy participation (without discernment) profanes the “body and blood of the Lord” (1 Cor. 11:27). This is followed by the enumeration of gifts emanating from the Spirit (ch. 12) and their direct application to “the body” (12:12–26) with its unity and diversity. Paul immediately proceeds to his next use of the term by concluding, “now you [emphatic hymeis] are the body of Christ and individually members of it.” (While it may be argued that this refers primarily to the church at Corinth, this does not preclude its universal application.) This same sense of interrelatedness within the church is repeated in Rom. 12:3–8 where the term becomes “one body in Christ” (v. 5).

It may well be that since Paul in several places resorts to an analogical use of the marriage relation to illustrate his body-of-Christ concept (1 Cor. 6:15–17; Eph. 5:21–33) he has in mind the concept of Israel as the bride of God (Jer. 2:2), and through new-covenant theology develops the “body of Christ” as its parallel for the new Israel, the Church. Whether or not this concept developed in this way, the use of the term clearly emphasizes both corporate solidarity and participation.

“基督的身体”这一短语的首次使用（林前 10:16-17）增强了整体团结和同领的观念。掰饼（新约观念的象征符号）是同领基督的身体。正是因为这样，不按理吃喝（不分辨）就是“干犯主的身、主的血了”（林前 11:27）。保罗之后论到了属灵的恩赐（林前 12），以及身体和肢体一同受苦，一同得荣耀（林前 12:12-26）。保罗随即再次用这个词总结道，“你们[强调的 hymeis]是基督的身子，并且各自作肢体。”（虽然可能有人认为，这主要指的是哥林多的教会，但这并不阻碍这个词的普遍应用。）《罗马书》12:3-8 中复述了上述的这种在教会内相互关联的意识，而“基督的身体”这个词变成了“在基督里成为一身”（林前 12:5）。

保罗很可能会在多处经文中用婚姻关系的类似用法来阐述“基督的身体”的概念（林前 6:15-17；弗 5:21-33），保罗始终铭记以色列是神的新娘的概念（耶 2:2），并藉着新约神学将这个概念进一步发展成教会是“基督的身体”和新妇。无论这个概念是否这样发展，这个词的用法显然强调了团结一体和同领的观念。

The conceptual use of the body in relation to the Church is developed in three ways. First, the Church is the body of Christ as a community of fellowship “in Christ.” The Church is understood in its pneumatic (spiritual) mode of existence as communion with the risen Christ. It is the body of Christ as the fellowship in which He dwells by His Spirit and which by His Spirit He sustains. The Church is not constituted merely by the assembly of believers, but is the community created by the incorporation of believers into Christ. 1 Cor. 12:13 makes it plain that Christians are baptized “into one body,” which exists in Christ’s redemptive work not merely as the totality of believers, but as the community created by the risen Christ Himself (v. 27).

This community exists as more than mere human fellowship. Paul uses the metaphor of the body to portray the correlation between the Church as a concrete entity on earth and the eschatological dimension of His redemptive person and work. The crucified body of Christ, risen now and actual within history, is at work in and through the Church. The community created by the presence of this earthly aspect of the risen Lord is the “body” into which believers are incorporated.

Second, as the body of Christ, the Church is a corporate unity in the relationship of believers to each other. Great stress is laid upon this unity in Paul’s metaphor of the Church in Romans and 1 and 2 Corinthians. Its unity refers to both mutuality of identity and mutuality of service. Both Rom. 12:5 and 1 Cor. 12:12f. assert this mutuality: as Christians are one body in Christ, so they are individually members one of another. As members of the one body they stand in mutual relation with each other in the service of the kingdom of God.

身体的概念上用法与教会的关系以三种方式发展。首先，教会是基督的身体，它是“在基督里”的团契团体。以属灵形式存在的教会是与复活的基督同在的宗教团体。教会是基督的身体，基督藉着祂的灵住在教会里，并藉着祂的灵支撑着教会。教会不仅仅由信众组成的，而是由同领基督的信徒构成的。《哥林多前书》12:13 中明确地说道，基督徒受洗，“成了一个身体”，这个身体不仅仅以全体信徒的形式存在于基督的救赎工作中，而且是由复活的基督创造的团体（林前 12:27）。

这个团体不只是为人们聚会而存在。保罗用身体的比喻来描绘教会（地上的实体）与祂赎回的人和救赎工作的末世论之间的关系。被钉十字架的基督的身体现在已经复活，这也是真实的历史，基督的身体在教会中并藉着教会做工。复活的主在地上的显现创造了这个团体，并使之成为信徒们同领的“身体”。

其次，教会作为基督的身体是体现信徒之间相互关系的统一体。保罗在《罗马书》《哥林多前书》和《哥林多后书》中运用的关于教会的比喻极为强调这种统一性。这种统一性指的是身份和侍奉上的相互关系。《罗马书》12:5 和《哥林多前书》12:12-13 中说出了这种相互关系：基督徒在基督里成为一身，并且各自作肢体。作为肢体，他们通过在神国中侍奉建立了相互关系。

Precisely in this unity lies the great truth about the nature of the Church as the body of Christ. The pronouncements of these passages confirm that underlying the unity into which the many are incorporated is an objective, historical entity into which they are individually baptized. The fundamental idea here is that the body of Christ exists in its concrete “objectivity” as the presence of Christ in the world into which believers are incorporated and by which they, through their corporate existence in Christ, exist in unity with each other. While the term may be metaphorical in use, it connotes a realistic understanding of the corporate unity among believers.

Third, as the body of Christ, the Church is the eschatological entity of which He is the Head. This imagery of Christ’s headship is developed in both Colossians and Ephesians and adds a dimension to Paul’s understanding of the Church not seen in Romans or Corinthians. The Church is still the body (Eph. 1:23; 4:12); believers are members of the body (Eph. 5:30), which is maintained through the work of the Spirit (Eph. 4:3; Col. 3:15); and unified in Christ (Eph. 2:14ff.). But a new concept is introduced: Christ as the Head of the body. As Head, He has been given the Church as His Body (Eph. 1:22ff.). As Head, He has all spiritual gifts at his disposal (4:8ff.). The Church, as body, has fellowship with Him as its Head (Eph. 5:23; Col. 1:18; 2:19; cf. v. 10). The Church is to understand itself as His body and grow into fulness of its position in Him (Eph. 4:12f.).

再次，作为基督的身体的教会是一个末世论的实体，而基督是这个实体的头。基督作教会头的比喻在《歌罗西书》和《以弗所书》中进一步得到发展，而且增加了保罗对教会理解的范围，而在《罗马书》和《哥林多书》中没有提到这部分。教会仍是身体(弗 1:23; 4:12); 信徒是这个身体的肢体(弗 5:30)，藉着圣灵的工作归为一体(弗 4:3; 西 3:15)，并且在基督里合一(弗 2:14 起)。但是这里引入了一个新的概念：基督是这身体的头。祂是教会的头，并让教会作祂的身体(弗 1:22 起)。作为教会的头，基督将所有属灵的恩赐赏给人(弗 4:8 起)。教会作为身体，要追随基督，让祂作教会的头(弗 5:23; 西 1:18; 2:19; 参：西 2:10)。教会要明白它是基督的身体，要满有基督长成的身量(弗 4:12-13)。

The full meaning of headship is developed in Eph. 1:22f. and illustrated analogically in 5:21–33. After delineating the exalted position of the risen Lord “far above all rule and authority and power and dominion ... not only in this age but also in that which is to come,” Christ is declared to be “head over all things for the church, which is his body, the fulness of him who fills all in all” (1:21–23). Moreover, that headship is illustrated by the analogy of the marriage relationship—the husband is the head of the wife as Christ is the head of the Church. The emphasis here is the unity of the one flesh of husband and wife. Just so, the unity of Christ as Head with the Church as body is the identification of the Church with Christ’s mission in the world.

Paul treats this identification in two ways. In Ephesians the purpose of Christ’s redemptive work is the creation of “one new man” (2:15) and the joining of two into “one flesh” (5:31), of which Paul says, “This is a great mystery, and I take it to mean Christ and the church” (v. 32). Moreover, in Colossians Christ is said to have “fulness of life in him, who is the head of all rule and authority” (2:10). This “head” undoubtedly refers to the same headship of the body, the Church, mentioned in 1:18.

Consequently, three concepts emerge in Paul’s extended treatment of the Church: the Head as the source and sustenance of the body; His rule over “all rule and authority and power and dominion”; and consequently, this rule in and through His presence in the world as His body, the Church. The Church may be said, then, to be the self-manifestation of Christ in the world, the body through which the Spirit extends the presence of Christ.

《以弗所书》1:22-23 中揭示了基督是教会的头的完整含义，《以弗所书》5:21-33 中也给出了类似的阐述。该书中描述了复活的主被高举，“远超过一切执政的、掌权的、有能的……不但是今世的，连来世的也都超过了”，而后，基督被称为“为教会作万有之首。教会是祂的身体，是那充满万有者所充满的”（弗 1:21-23）。此外，婚姻关系的类比也证明了基督是教会的头——丈夫是妻子的头，正如基督是教会的头。这里强调的是，丈夫和妻子亲密地结为一体。因此，基督是这个统一体的头，教会是身体，并可以以此评判世俗中的教会是否履行了基督的使命。

保罗用两种方式对这种身份进行区分。在《以弗所书》中，基督的救赎工作旨在创造“一个新人”（弗 2:15），并使二人“成为一体”（弗 5:31），保罗说，“这是极大的奥秘，但我是指着基督和教会说的”（弗 5:32）。此外，在《歌罗西书》中，基督被描述成“你们在祂里面得了丰盛。祂是各样执政掌权者的元首”（西 2:10）。这里的“头”无疑指的是《歌罗西书》1:18 中所提到的“教会全体之首”。

因此，在保罗对教会的进一步论述中涌现出了三个概念：头是身体的来源和寄托；基督统治着“一切执政的、掌权的、有能的和主治的”；所以，祂以祂的身体在世上存在，在祂的身体里并通过祂的身体进行统治。于是，教会可以被称为基督在世上的自我显现，圣灵藉着教会扩大基督存在的范围。

This concept is strengthened by a consideration of the meaning of “fulness” (plērōma) in Eph. 1:23, “the fulness of him who fills all in all.” While subject to much debate, the passage seems to teach that it is Christ who “fills all in all” and that He does this through “His body.” This establishes a dynamic unilateral relation between Christ as Head and the Church as body. This relation establishes Christ as the power who works in the world to subdue all things and also the cosmic role ascribed to the Church. The Church is to do the work of Christ, to stand against the attacks of the evil powers (Eph. 4:15f.). This it can do only as Christ fills it with His presence and power by the Spirit to do His redemptive work.

As surely as Christ is seen working cosmically in the world, so He works through His body, the Church. He who gave His body for the world now through His body still works redemptively in the world. As Christ’s kingdom in the world in the present age must be viewed proleptically as eschatological, so must His “agency” of penetration of the evil age, His body the Church, be viewed as an eschatological entity.

Care must be taken, however, not to confer on the Church an inborn authority or nature that it does not have. The Church is always the body of Christ, always conjoined with Christ as His body. Its dynamic character as the activity of Christ is always functional, and always as the present ministry of Christ.

思考一下“充满”（希腊语：plērōma）在《以弗所书》1:23“那充满万有者所充满的”中的含义，就会加强这个概念。虽然这段经文引起了许多争议，但它似乎在教导人们，是基督“那充满了万有者”，祂藉着“祂的身体”完成了这事。这就在作元首的基督和作身体的教会之间建立起了一种动态的单边关系。这种关系确立了基督在世上统治万有的权柄，并让教会肩负起一个普世的任务。教会要做基督所作的工作，抵抗邪恶势力的进攻（弗4:15-16）。只有当基督以祂的存在并藉着圣灵权柄完成的救赎工作充满教会时，教会才能完成这项任务。

教会确实在地上按照宇宙法则做工，祂也藉着祂的身体（教会）做工。祂把祂的身体赐予这个世界，现在仍藉着祂身体救赎这个世界。正如当今世上的基督王国必须被视为预言中的末世王国，应该将基督的突破邪恶时代的“代理”——基督的身体（教会）视为一种末世论的存在。

然而，应该注意的是，不要赋予教会本来没有的权柄和性质。教会一直是基督的身体，因此始终与基督联合。教会的动态特征代表着基督的行为，它一直在起作用，始终代表着基督现在的事工。

BODY OF DEATH

(Rom. 7:24). At the end of his description of man's predicament in relation to sin and the law, Paul writes, “Wretched man that I am! Who will deliver me from this body of death?” (Gk. tis me rhýsetai ek tou sōmatos tou thanátou toutou). The expression “body of death” seems to be equivalent to “body of sin” in 6:6. “Body” here is used as Paul elsewhere uses the term “flesh,” as the locus of the effect of sin, made known through the law.

The Greek syntax allows “this” to refer either to “body” or to “death,” resulting in differing translations. The AV has “the body of this death,” the NEB “this body doomed to death,” mg “the body doomed to this death.” In spite of disagreement about the placement of “this,” it is generally agreed that the expression as a whole denotes humanity as subject to sin, and therefore to death, until redeemed by Christ.

BODY OF DEATH 取死的身體

(罗 7:24)。关于世人在罪和律法中的困境, 保罗最后描述道, “我真是苦啊! 谁能救我脱离这取死的身體呢?” (希腊语: tis me rhýsetai ek tou sōmatos tou thanátou toutou)。“取死的身體”这一表达似乎等同于《罗马书》6:6 中的“罪身”。保罗在这里使用的“身體”一词, 相当于他在其他经文中使用的“肉体”一词, 他通过律法阐明了罪的结果体现在肉体上。

根据希腊语句法, 这句中的“this”可以指“身體”, 也可以指“死亡”, 从而产生了不同的译文。《钦定版圣经》中译为“the body of this death” (“这样取死的身體”), 而《新英文译本》中译为“this body doomed to death” (“这取死的身體”), 旁注为“the body doomed to this death” (“注定要这样死的身體”)。虽然人们对于“this”的位置还存在着争议, 但普遍认为, 这个表达大致表示基督救赎之前那属乎罪因而必取死的人类。

BODY OF HEAVEN. 天色

《钦定版圣经》中将希伯来文 ‘ešem haššāmayim 译为“the body of heaven”

heaven” (Ex. 24:10). The RSV gives a more correct rendering, “the very heaven,” taking ‘ešem in its idiomatic use as an intensive, which is derived from its literal meaning, “bone,” as “strength,” “substance,” and then as “self” (cf. Job 21:23). The reference is to the substance of the blue, unclouded sky, hence the clear sky itself.

BODYGUARD

[Heb. mišma‘at] (1 S. 22:14; 2 S. 23:23; 1 Ch. 11:25); AV BIDDING (1 S. 22:14), GUARD; NEB STAFF, HOUSEHOLD; [šōmēr l̄rō‘šî] (1 S. 28:2); AV “keeper of mine head”; [ṭabbāhîm] (2 K. 25:8; Jer. 52:12); AV GUARD; [Gk. hoi sōmatophylakes] (1 Esd. 3:4); AV GUARD. It appears that soldiers were favored with the position of bodyguard on account of feats of bravery; e.g., David defeats Goliath for Saul (1 S. 17) and the inhabitants of Shur for Achish, King of Gath (1 S. 27:8–12), and Benaiah kills a lion in the snow and an Egyptian (2 S. 23:20f.). The noun mišma‘at is derived from the root šāma‘, “hear,” and indicates one in a position of obedience. The LXX translates šōmēr l̄rō‘šî by the word archisōmatophylaka—the same word used as the title for the chief of the royal bodyguard of the Ptolemies. The term sōmatophylax (<Gk sōma—“body” + phylax—“watcher, guard”) is applied to three young men who guarded the life of the Persian king Darius (1 Esd. 3:4). One of these highly trusted officers was the Jew ZERUBBABEL. (Cf. Josephus Ant. xi.3.2.)

（“天色”）（出 24:10）。《修订标准译本》中给出了更准确的翻译，译为“the very heaven”（“天色”），这里采用了 ‘ešem 加强语气的习惯用法，这种用法源于 ‘ešem 的字面含义“骨头”，这个词可以表示“力量”、“物质”，因此也可以表示“自己”（参：伯 21:23）。body of heaven 指的是蓝天的基本构成，即无云的天空，因此指代晴朗的天空。

BODYGUARD 参谋、护卫长、护卫

【希伯来语：mišma‘at】（撒上 22:14；撒下 23:23；代上 11:25）；《钦定版圣经》中译为 BIDDING（“参谋”）（撒上 22:14）和 GUARD（“护卫长”）；《新英文译本》中译为 STAFF（“参谋”）和 HOUSEHOLD（“护卫长”）；【šōmēr l̄rō‘šî】（撒上 28:2）；《钦定版圣经》中译为 “keeper of mine head”（“护卫长”）；【ṭabbāhîm】（王下 25:8；耶 52:12）；《钦定版圣经》中译为 GUARD（“护卫”）；【希腊语：hoi sōmatophylakes】（拉一 3:4）；《钦定版圣经》中译为 GUARD（“卫士”）。士兵似乎因为英勇善战而常担当护卫的职位；如，大卫为扫罗打败了歌利亚（撒上 17），为迦特王亚吉击杀了书珥的居民（撒上 27:8-12），比拿雅在下雪时杀死了一只狮子和一个埃及人（撒下 23:20-21）。名词 mišma‘at 源自表示“听见”的词根 šāma‘，表明一个人很顺服。《七十士译本》中将 šōmēr l̄rō‘šî 译为 archisōmatophylaka（“护卫长”）——托勒密的护卫长的头衔也用这个词来表示。Sōmatophylax 这个词（衍生自希腊词根 sōma（“身体”）和 phylax（“护卫”））指的是保护波斯王大流士生命安全的三个年轻人（拉一 3:4）。犹太人所罗巴伯就是一个深受国王信任的护卫（见 ZERUBBABEL[所罗巴伯]）。（参：Josephus Ant. xi.3.2.）

bō'han [Heb. bōhan—‘thumb,’ ‘stumpy’]. A son of Reuben according to Josh. 15:6; 18:17. No mention is made in the genealogies of Reuben. “The stone of Bohan” ('eben bōhan) was a boundary mark on the northeast frontier of Judah, separating it from Benjamin. A site SE of Jericho has been suggested, but is at best uncertain.

BOHAN 波罕

音译: bō'han 【希伯来语: bōhan——“拇指”、“粗短的”】。根据《约书亚记》15:6 和 18:17 中的记载,波罕是流便的一个儿子。流便的族谱中没有提到这个名字。“波罕的磐石”('eben bōhan)是犹大东北境界上的界标,它把犹大和便雅悯分隔开。有人认为波罕是耶利哥东南部的一个地方,但这不过是一种含糊的猜测。

BOIL

[Heb. šēhîn; Gk. hélkē; Ugar. šhn—‘burn’; Akk. šahānu—‘grow hot’; Egyp shn]. Furunculus, an inflamed swelling of tissue surrounding a skin follicle, often followed by discharge of pus and necrosis of the core. The Hebrew term appears to have described a variety of swellings, not all of which were staphylococcal.

【希伯来语: šēhîn; 希腊语: hélkē; 乌加里特语: šhn——“燃烧”; 阿卡德语: šahānu——“变热”; 埃及语: shn】。疔是皮肤毛囊周围组织的一种炎症,通常在长疔之后,会出现排脓和细胞核坏死。这个希伯来词似乎可以用来描述各种各样的肿胀,这些肿胀并不是都由葡萄球菌引起的。

The boils of the sixth Egyptian plague (Ex. 9:9–11) were associated with blains (Heb. ʾābaʾbuʾā, an inflammation of the skin), and followed an infectious disease that ravaged Egyptian herds and flocks. The symbolic sprinkling of ashes in the air (Ex. 9:10) demonstrated the helplessness of the Egyptian air-deity (Shu) in the face of coming events. The modern concept of the atmospheric dissemination of germs and viruses was probably not envisaged. Some have regarded the affliction as elephantiasis, since Pliny (Nat. hist. xxvi.5) recorded that the disease was peculiar to Egypt. A less probable suggestion is that of confluent smallpox.

埃及的第六次疮灾(出 9:9-11)与起水泡(希伯来语: ʾābaʾbuʾā, 一种皮肤炎症)有关,随后爆发了一种毁灭埃及牲畜的传染病。象征性的向天扬灰(出 9:10)显示出埃及风神(休)在面对即将到来的灾难时的无能为力。他可能没有认识到空气可以传播细菌和病毒的现代观念。有些人认为这种传染病是象皮病,因为根据蒲林尼(Nat. hist. xxvi.5)的记载,只有埃及爆发过这种疾病。还有一种不太可能成立的观点认为,这是一种融合性天花。

Some writers have seen it in terms of infection by the microscopic streptococcus pyogenes, which results in the common furuncle. These conjectures fail to notice that the affliction was visited upon animals as well as human beings. Therefore the most probable diagnosis is not a staphylococcal infection so much as cutaneous anthrax, characterized by small red papules surrounded by white vesicles.

Hezekiah's boil (2 K. 20:7; Isa. 38:21) was more localized, and was probably a furuncle or a carbuncle. The latter is a more extensive inflammation of the skin, usually attended by a lowering of bodily resistance, and it can prove fatal. Ugaritic tablets have shown that the fig poultice prescribed by Isaiah was both popular and effective for such conditions in contemporary therapeutics.

The malady from which Job suffered is difficult to pinpoint. His symptoms included irritating sores which were apparently invaded by larvae (7:5), and a general debility of the nervous system (3:26). The "oriental" or "Baghdad" boil, known in Algeria as "Biskra button," has been the diagnosis of some authorities. The affection, epidemic in parts of North Africa, Asia Minor, and India, consists of a localized infectious papule which enlarges and subsequently breaks down into an ulcer. The sores are irritating, and in multiple proportions on the upper extremities can be very disfiguring. Some form of variola (smallpox) has also been suggested, although the infectious nature of this disease does not accord very well with the conditions described in the book of Job. The boils may have been the result of infection by the pathogenic Treponema pertenue, producing framboesia (yaws).

希西家的疮(王下 20:7; 赛 38:21)分布的面积较小,这种疮可能是一种疖或痈。痈是一种分布更为广泛的皮肤炎症,通常因身体抵抗力下降而染上这种病,而且它能致人死亡。乌加列的石碑上显示,以赛亚所开的无花果膏状药是当时治愈这种疾病的常见有效药物。

约伯所染上的疾病却很难诊断。他的症状包括由幼虫叮咬引起的刺激性疮肿(伯 7:5)和神经系统的亏损(伯 3:26)。“东方”疮或“巴格达”疮在阿尔及利亚被称为“皮肤利什曼病”,某些权威人士已经可以诊断这种疾病。北非的部分地区、小亚细亚和印度流行的传染病包括局部的传染性红疹,这种红疹会逐渐增大,随后变成溃疡。这种疮疡令人感觉十分疼痛,可能会对多发疮疡的上肢造成重度损毁。有人认为它是某种形式的天花,然而天花的传染性与《约伯记》中描述的病症不太相符。这种疮可能是由致病性雅司螺旋体感染引起的,之后长出了印度痘(雅司病)。这种热带病症状包括发热和风湿性疼痛,并且皮肤表面会出现圆疹或扁平疹,疹冠处出现似干酪状的痂皮。

This tropical disease is marked by fever, rheumatic pains, and rounded or flattened eruptions of the skin crowned by a cheeselike crust.

Wyclif used the term “boil” (bylis) for the sores of Lazarus (Lk. 16:20), although these were more probably old varicose ulcers, such as are found on the legs of the old and poor alike throughout the world.

BOLD; BOLDNESS

[Heb. bāṭah, ‘āz; Gk. parrhēsia, parrhēsiázomai, tharrhēō, tolmáō, tolmētēs, tolmērōteron, apotolmáō]; AV also FIERCE, HARDEN, “plainness of speech,” PRESUMPTUOUS; NEB also “in repose” (Prov. 28:1), HARSH, OUTSPOKEN, DARING, BRAVE, BRAVERY, CONFIDENCE, COURAGE, RECKLESS. Many of the references are to boldness of speech; indeed the root of Gk. parrhēsia and tharrhēō implies a flow of words. Such boldness was one of the results of discipleship (Acts 4:13, 29, 31; Eph. 3:12). It was a necessary qualification for the work assigned them. They not only were subject to violent persecutions, but also were the constant subject of ridicule and contempt. In He. 10:19; 1 Jn. 2:28; 4:17, where the RSV has “confidence,” parrhēsia has the sense of freeness resulting from trust. In Philem. 8, the reference is to the authority Paul claims in this case.

威克利夫 (Wyclif) 用 “疮” (bylis) 来描述拉撒路的褥疮 (路 16:20), 但是这些褥疮更有可能是一种初期静脉曲张性溃疡, 例如, 在全世界的老年人和穷人的腿上都有可能看到这种溃疡。

BOLT

[Heb. man'ûl]; AV LOCK; [vb. nā'al—‘tie’]. The ancient Hebrews had fastenings of wood or iron for the doors of houses (2 S. 13:17f.; Cant. 5:5), city gates (Neh. 3:3, 6, 13–15), prison doors, etc. (cf. Isa. 45:2), which were in the form of bolts. These were sometimes pushed back from within; but there were others which, by means of a key, could be unfastened and pushed back from without (Jgs. 3:23ff.). These were almost the only form of locks known. See BAR; LOCK.

BOND 绳、锁链

【希伯来语: 'ēsûr, mosēr, māsoret ('āsar 的所有同源词——“系住, 捆绑”), 'ašûr, harsubbâ (赛 58:6); 希腊语: desmós, sýndesmos, cheirógraphon (西 2:14)】; 《钦定版圣经》中还译为 BAND (“绳”); 《新英文译本》中还译为 FETTERS (“镣锁”)、COLLAR (“链”)、CORDS (“绳、链”)、TRACES (“绳”)。《圣经》中使用了这个词的字面意思和比喻义, 形容受奴役或欠债的情况, 也

可以表示束缚或捆绑的工具。

In the OT, subjugation is literal in the phrase “bond (Heb. ‘ašûr; AV “shut up”; NEB “not [under the protection of the family]”) or free” (Dt. 32:36; 1 K. 14:10; 21:21, 2 K. 9:8; 14:26; cf. KoB, p. 729). Devices for restraining or confining the body, such as chains or shackles, are used to bind men (Jgs. 15:14; 2 K. 23:33; Ps. 107:14; Jer. 27:2) and animals (Job. 39:5).

在《旧约》中，短语“bond or free”（希伯来语：‘ašûr；《钦定版圣经》中译为“shut up”；《新英文译本》中译为“not [under the protection of the family]”（申 32:36；王上 14:10；21:21，王下 9:8；14:26；参：KoB，729 页）的字面含义是抑制约束。这个短语可以表示束缚或限制人（士 15:14；王下 23:33；诗 107:14；耶 27:2）和动物（伯 39:5）的工具，如链子或镣铐。

Figurative uses include bonds of oppression or imprisonment (Ps. 116:16; Isa. 52:2; Jer. 30:8; Nah. 1:13; cf. Ps. 69:33 [MT 34]), affliction (Isa. 28:22), royal authority (Ps. 2:3), and loyalty (Jer. 5:5). Job 12:18 seems to be a reference to symbols of royal office.

这个词的比喻用法包括压迫或囚禁的绑索或锁链（诗 116:16；赛 52:2；耶 30:8；鸿 1:13；参：诗 69:33[《马所拉文本》34]）、苦难的绑索（赛 28:22）、皇室权柄的捆绑（诗 2:3）和忠诚的绳索（耶 5:5）。《约伯记》12:18 中的这个词似乎是君王的象征。

In Ezk. 20:37, the “bond of the covenant” (Heb. māsoret; NEB “muster”) is a contractual agreement. The AV infers a similar undertaking of moral obligation from Heb. ‘issār (Nu. 30:3ff. [MT 4ff.]; RSV “pledge”; NEB “binding obligation”).

在《以西结书》20:37 中，“约的拘束”（希伯来语：māsoret；《新英文译本》中译为“muster”[“拘束”]）是一种契约协议。《钦定版圣经》将希伯来词 ‘issār 理解为一种类似于道德义务的许诺（民 30:3 起[《马所拉文本》4 起]；《修订标准译本》中译为“pledge”[“许愿”]；《新英文译本》中译为“binding obligation”[“约束自己的话”]）。

In the NT, Gk. desmós and syndesmos mean, literally, the condition of imprisonment (Philem. 13; cf. Acts. 22:5), prisoner’s shackles (Lk. 8:29), or the sinews that knit together the body (Col. 2:19).

在《新约》中，希腊词语 desmós 和 syndesmos 的字面含义是捆锁的状态（门 1:13；参：徒 22:5）、囚犯脚镣（路 8:29）或联络身体的筋节（西 2:19）。

Figuratively, these terms indicate any hindrance that restricts use of the body or its members, such as infirmity (Lk. 13:16); or a uniting force, such as love (Col. 3:14; cf. 1 Clem. 49:2), peace (Eph. 4:3), or sin (Acts 8:23).

这些词语可以用来比喻约束身体或部分肢体活动的障碍，如疾病（路 13:16）；或凝聚力，如爱心（西 3:14；参：1 Clem. 49:2）、和平（弗 4:3）或罪（徒 8:23）。

In the imagery of Col. 2:14, cheirógraphon (lit “handwritten [document]”) refers to a certificate of indebtedness (cf. Lk. 16:6f.), usually written by the debtor (cf. MM, p. 687; Bauer, p. 889).

See also BAND; BILL; CHAIN; FETTER; IMPRISONMENT; PLEDGE.

在《歌罗西书》2:14 的比喻中, cheirógraphon (字面意思“手写的[字据]”)指的是一种通常由借方出具的债务凭证(参:路16:6-7), (参:MM, 687页; Bauer, 889页)。

另见 BAND (敌军、捆绑); BILL (书、账); CHAIN (链); FETTER (镣锁); IMPRISONMENT (囚禁、捆锁); PLEDGE (起誓、保证、凭据)。

BONDAGE

[Heb. ^a*bôdâ*, ^a*bādîm*, ^a*abdût* (Ezr. 9:8f.; Neh. 9:17), hiphil of ^a*abad* (Ex. 6:5); Gk. douleía (Rom. 8:21; Heb 2:15), douleúō (Jn. 8:33; Gal. 4:8), katadoulōō (Gal. 2:4)]; AV also BOND MEN, SERVANTS, SERVICE; NEB also SLAVERY, ENSLAVED, SHACKLES; SLAVES, SERVITUDE. This has in Scripture both a literal and a metaphorical sense. The literal bondage of the Hebrews, in Egypt, Babylonia, and Persia, was not so much personal as national. As a rule individuals were not subject to individuals, but the whole Hebrew people were subject to the Egyptian, Babylonian, and Persian states. They were forced to labor on public works, and otherwise, and were denied their own freedom when the exigencies of the state seemed to demand it.

BONDAGE 辖制、奴役、苦待

【希伯来语: ^a*bôdâ*, ^a*bādîm*, ^a*abdût* (拉 9:8-9; 尼 9:17), ^a*abad* 的使役主动干(出 6:5); 希腊语: douleía (罗 8:21; 来 2:15), douleúō (约 8:33; 加 4:8), katadoulōō (加 2:4)】; 《钦定版圣经》中还译为 BOND MEN (“奴仆”)、SERVANTS (“奴仆”)、SERVICE (“用、使用”); 《新英文译本》中还译为 SLAVERY (“辖制”)、ENSLAVED (“奴役”)、SHACKLES (“脚镣”); SLAVES (“奴仆”)、SERVITUDE (“辖制”)。《圣经》中既使用了这个词的字面意思也使用了这个词的比喻义。希伯来人在埃及、巴比伦和波斯所遭受的苦待(字面意思)与其说是对个人的奴役,不如说是对整个民族的奴役。通常来说,个人不会服从于个人,但所有的希伯来人都臣服于埃及、巴比伦和波斯这些国家。他们在国家有紧急状况时被迫为社会工程和类似的工程卖苦力,且被剥夺了人身自由。

It is used in the metaphorical sense only in the NT. Gk. douleia is the power of physical corruption as against the freedom of life (Rom. 8:21), the power of fear as over against the confidence of Christian faith (He. 2:15; cf. Rom. 8:15), and especially the bondage of the letter, of the elements, of a ceremonial and institutional salvation that must be scrupulously and painfully observed, as contrasted with the freedom of the children of God, emancipated by faith in Jesus Christ. This metaphorical usage is particularly characteristic of the apostle Paul, who was an advocate for Christian freedom (Gal. 2:4; cf. 4:3–11, 21–31; 5:1).

只有《新约》中使用了这个词的比喻义，希腊词语 douleia 指的是与生命的自由相对立的败坏的辖制（罗 8:21），与基督徒的信心为敌的怕死的奴役（来 2:15；参：罗 8:15），尤其是必须小心谨慎地遵守文字、世俗小学、仪式和律法救赎的辖制，这些辖制与神的儿女的自由形成了对比，并因信靠耶稣基督而得到了解放。只有使徒保罗使用了这个词的比喻义，他是基督徒自由的提倡者（加 2:4；参：加 4:3-11，21-31；5:1）。

BONDMAID

[Heb. 'āmā]. This term occurs only once in the RSV in the phrase “son of your bondmaid” (Ex. 23:12), which the AV renders as “son of thy handmaid” and the NEB as “your home-born slave.” Whether the allusion is to a native Hebrew woman or a foreigner is unknown. Elsewhere the RSV renders 'āmā by “female slave,” “maid,” “maidservant.” See SLAVE.

This term occurs in the RSV only once in the singular (Dt. 15:17) and once more in the plural (Ezr. 9:9); elsewhere the RSV usually renders “servant.” While the reference is to the Israelites, voluntary servitude was a common feature of ancient Near Eastern life. Thus the expression “rotteness of the bones” (Prov. 12:4, 14:30) signifies the feelings

【希伯来语：'āmā】。这个词只在《修订标准译本》的短语“son of your bondmaid”中出现过一次（出 23:12），《钦定版圣经》中译为“son of thy handmaid”，而《新英文译本》则译为“your home-born slave”，以上英文汉译均为“婢女的儿子”。尚不能确定这里指的是一个希伯来本族的女子，还是一个外邦人。《修订标准译本》在其他经文中将 'āmā 译为“female slave”（“婢女”）、“maid”（“使女”）和“maidservant”（“婢女”）。见 SLAVE（奴仆）。

BONDMAN 奴仆

【希伯来语：'ēbed】；《钦定版圣经》中还译为 SERVANT；《新英文译本》中译为 SLAVE，汉译均为“奴仆”。这个词在《修订标准译本》中以单数形式出现过一次（申 15:17），以复数形式出现过一次（拉 9:9）；在其他经文中，《修订标准译本》通常译为“servant”（“奴仆”）。虽然这里指的是以色列人，但自愿服从却是古近东人的一个普遍特征。见 SERVANT（奴仆、仆人）；SLAVE（奴仆）。 of a man whose wife causes him shame and confusion, or is equivalent to “envy,” “jealousy.” The translation of the LXX in these passages by skōlēx, “worm,” and sēs, “maggot,” “moth,” is incorrect. The same phrase is used in Hab. 3:16 for utter dejectedness in the anticipation of approaching evil. Similarly the “shaking of the bones” (Job. 4:14) is expressive of fear, and denotes dejection and sadness in Jer. 23:9. The “burning of the bones” is found as a symptom of Job’s disease (Job. 30:30), and stands for grief, depression of spirits in Ps. 102:3 and Lam. 1:13, and also for the feeling of Jeremiah when he attempted to hold back the Divine message (Jer. 20:9). “Dryness of bones” (Prov. 17:22) is the opposite of “good health.”

Other similar expressions of mental distress are the “racking of the bones” (Job 30:17), the bones are “troubled” (Ps. 6:2), “out of joint” (Ps. 22:14), “waste away” (Ps. 31:10), are “broken” (Ps. 51:8; Lam. 3:4), “having no health” (Ps. 38:3). “Bone of my bones” (Gen. 2:23) can mean having the same nature, and being the nearest relation (2 S. 5:1). In Eph. 5:30 the RSV omits “of his flesh, and of his bones” as an interpolation from Gen. 2:23. The figures in Mic. 3:2f. are expressive of the most cruel oppression and murder.

其他表示精神苦闷的表达包括“骨头刺痛”（伯 30:17）、骨头“发战”（诗 6:2）、“骨头脱节”（诗 22:14）、“骨头枯干”（诗 31:10）、“压伤”骨头（诗 51:8；哀 3:4）、“骨头不安宁”（诗 38:3）。“骨中的骨”（创 2:23）可能指拥有相同的性质和最为亲近的关系（撒下 5:1）。在《以弗所书》5:30 中，《修订标准译本》省略了 “of his flesh, and of his bones” (“肉中的……和骨中的……”)，认为这是后人篡改的《创世记》2:23 的经文。《弥迦书》3:2-3 中描述的是一种最为残忍的压迫和杀害。

BOOK OF LIFE.

The ancient practice of keeping various kinds of records has an analogy in the concept of heavenly record books. Although the only OT use of the complete expression “book of the living” (Heb. sēper hayyîm) is in Ps. 69:28, God’s “book” in Ex. 32:32f. is part of the same concept. To be blotted out of this book means an (untimely) end of life. The use of the concept in Ps. 139:16 includes an expression of predestination, and in Isa. 4:3 it refers to those who will live in an ideal future state. The related idea of a record of deeds, found in Ps. 56:8 and perhaps 40:7, is associated with the “book of the living” in 69:28. There is more of a future reference in the similar BOOK OF REMEMBRANCE in Mal. 3:16. A further development is the conception of a book or books upon which the final judgment is to be based, in the apocalyptic writings (Dnl. 7:10; 12:1; Jub. 30:20, 22; 36:10; 39:6; 1 En. 47:3; 108:3; cf. also the BOOK OF TRUTH, apparently God’s plan for history, Dnl. 10:21).

All NT uses of “book of life” (Gk. hē biblos [tō biblîon] tēs zōēs), except for the mention of it in Phil. 4:3, are found in Revelation, where it refers to the enrollment for eternal life (21:27),

BOOK OF LIFE. 生命册

古代有保持各种记录的风俗,而《圣经》中也有类似的观念。虽然《旧约》只在《诗篇》69:28中使用过一次“生命册”(希伯来语: sēper hayyîm)这个完整表述,但是《出埃及记》32:32-33中的神的“册”与生命册属于相同的概念。从这本册子中涂掉名意味着生命的(最终)终结。《诗篇》139:16中所运用的这个概念包含了一种预定论的表达,《以赛亚书》4:3中的“生命册”指的是那些将生活在理想未来中的人。《诗篇》56:8,可能还有《诗篇》40:7表达了将行为记在册上的相关概念,这种相关的概念与《诗篇》69:28中的“生命册”存在一定的联系。在《玛拉基书》3:16类似的纪念册(BOOK OF REMEMBRANCE[纪念册])中有更多备查的信息。启示作品中称最后的审判以这个册子为依据,这是生命册概念的进一步发展(但7:10; 12:1; Jub. 30:20, 22; 36:10; 39:6; 1 En. 47:3; 108:3; 另参:BOOK OF TRUTH[真确书、真理书、真理之圣经],显然是神对历史的谋划,但10:21)。

除了《腓立比书》4:3中提到过“生命册”,《新约》中“生命册”(希腊语: hē biblos [tō biblîon] tēs zōēs)的其他用法都出现在《启示录》中,它表示在生命册上签名的人才能获得永生(启

It is related to, but not the same as, the books of records on which judgment is based (20:12, 15). The expression is also used in Shep. Herm. Vis. 1:3:2; Sim. 2:9; and the concept is referred to in Lk. 10:20; He. 12:23; 1Clem. 45:8; Shep. Herm. Mand. 8:6; Sim. 9:24:4.

BOOTHES, FEAST OF.

This festival, known variously as the Feast of Booths, (Lev. 23:34; Dt. 16:13), Tabernacles (2 Ch. 8:13; Jn. 7:2), or Ingathering (Ex. 34:22), was one of the three major feasts in which all Hebrew males were required to participate each year. It began on the fifteenth day of the seventh month (Tishri), i.e., mid-October, five days after the Day of Atonement (Tishri 10). It continued for one week, and was associated with the end of the year (Ex. 34:22) when agricultural work concluded. It was a “pilgrim” festival, the intent of which was to emphasize the nomadic character of the wilderness period (Lev. 23:43).

On the first day the congregation ceased from all normal activities and presented burnt offerings to the Lord, a procedure that was repeated on the eighth day, after the festival proper had terminated. Lev. 23:39–43 describes the ritual procedures that the Israelites were commanded to observe, and that gave the occasion its particular designation. The booths, which were simple shelters made of interlaced branches, were the people's living quarters during the festival. In each seventh year occurred a special ceremony, a public recitation of the covenant provisions agreed to on Mt. Sinai by the Israelites in time of Moses. This served the extremely important function of keeping at the forefront of the people's minds the obligations assumed on that occasion, as well as reminding them of the blessings that would follow as long as the provisions of the covenant were honored.

BOOTHES, FEAST OF. 住棚节

住棚节也被称为 Feast of Booths (“住棚节”) (利 23:34; 申 16:13)、Feast of Tabernacles (“住棚节”) (代下 8:13; 约 7:2) 或 Feast of Ingathering (“收获节”) (出 34:22), 住棚节是希伯来所有男人每年必须守的三大节日之一。住棚节从第七个月（提市黎月）第十五天开始，也就是十月中旬，赎罪日（提市黎月 10 号）之后 5 天。这个节日持续一周，并与年底有关（出 34:22），此时农业劳动已经结束。住棚节是一个“朝圣的”节日，设立这个节日是为了强调旷野时期的流浪特征（利 23:43）。

在集会的第二天，要停下一切的工，向神献上燔祭，在这个节日过后的第八天仍要重复这个仪式。《利未记》23:39-43 中描述了这个仪式的程序，以色列人必须遵守这个程序，并为这个节日取了一个特殊的名字。棚是由树枝交错搭建而成的简陋住所，人们在守住棚节期间住在棚里。每七年举行一次特殊的仪式，人们要诵读摩西时期以色列人在西奈山上所立的约。这个仪式极为重要，它

The feast was celebrated against a background of rejoicing for divine blessings, represented by the bounty of the year's harvest. This was reflected in its occasional designation as the "Feast of Ingathering" (Ex. 23:16; 34:22). The feast seems to have lapsed during the monarchy, so that the observance which occurred in Jerusalem during the time of Ezra was of particular significance. On that occasion a celebration of a character unknown since the time of Joshua took place (Neh. 8:13-18). The popularity of the feast was maintained throughout the postexilic period, and it became the occasion on which Jews from the eastern Diaspora visited Jerusalem for worship and celebration. In at least one instance Christ Himself was in the city when the festival was being observed (Jn. 7:2). By NT times it had become a custom on that feast for a procession to visit the Pool of Siloam and return with water, which was then poured out as a libation of thanksgiving to God. It may well have been as a result of witnessing this ceremony that Jesus was prompted to make His observations about living water and eternal life (Jn. 7:37-39).

以色列人会在神祝福的欢乐氛围中庆祝这个节日,当年的丰收代表着神的祝福。因此有时也称这个节日为“收藏节”(出 23:16; 34:22)。以色列人在君主制时期似乎不再守这个节日,所以以斯拉时期在耶路撒冷守住棚节就有很特殊的意义。这个节日的庆祝活动出现了一个自约书亚时期就无人知晓的特点(尼 8:13-18)。在被掳之后,以色列人普遍守这个节日,来自于东方的离散的犹太人会借这个机会访问耶路撒冷,并在那里举行敬拜和庆祝仪式。至少有一次,当犹太人守住棚节时,耶稣就在耶路撒冷城中(约 7:2)。到新约时期,游行的队伍来到西罗亚水池并带回池中的水,带回的水随后会被倒掉,当作感谢神的献祭仪式,至此守住棚节成为了一种习俗。可能正是因为耶稣看到了这个节日的仪式,祂才发表了有关活水和永生的言论(约 7:37-39)。

The borders of the Promised Land were described as being: “the Great Sea” (Mediterranean) on the west (cf. Nu. 34:6; Ezk. 47:20); a line from Aphek through the “entrance to Hamath” (=Lebo-Hamath; cf. Aharoni, pp. 65f.) to Zedad on the north (cf. Nu. 34:7-9; Ezk. 47:15-17; 48:1); the Jordan River and the Dead Sea (“east sea”) on the east (cf. Nu. 34:10-12; Ezk. 47:18); a line from the southern tip of the Dead Sea through Tamar along the edge of the Wilderness of

“应许之地”的边界被描述为: 西边以“大海”(地中海)为界(参: 民 34:6; 结 47:20); 北界从亚弗划到“哈马口”(即 Lebo-Hamath; 参: Aharoni, 65-66 页), 直通西达达(参: 民 34:7-9; 结 47:15-17; 48:1); 东界从约旦河到死海(“东海”)(参: 民 34:10-12; 结 47:18); 南界沿着寻的旷野边缘从死海南角穿过他玛, 直通埃及小河(参: 民 34:3-6; 结 47:19; 48:28; 书 15:1-4, 这些章节描述了犹太支派的南界)。《约书亚记》13-19 中描述了十二支派的边境。

Zin to the Brook of Egypt on the south (cf. Nu. 34:3–6; Ezk. 47:19; 48:28; and Josh. 15:1–4, which describes the southern border of the tribe of Judah). Borders of the twelve tribes are found in Josh. 13–19.

Heb. pē'ā (Ugar. p'ī; Akk. pātu) refers to the edge of a grain field intended for the relief of the poor and the sojourner (cf. Dt. 24:19–22; Ruth 2:15f.). Šāpā (lit. “lip”) can refer to (1) the edge of a valley (cf. Dt. 2:36; 4:48; Josh. 12:2; 13:9, 16), or (2) the lip of a wadi or stream (Ezk. 47:6f.). But in Jgs. 7:22, where it occurs in combination with a place name (Abel-meholah=Tell Abu Šūš [?]), it appears to be equivalent to another combination, q'šēh plus a place name (cf. Josh. 18:15; 1 S. 14:2), which in turn refers to the borders of a city's territory (see GTTOT, p. 293).

G'ḥûl (Ugar. gbl), in combination with the preposition 'al (Nu. 20:23), is equivalent to 'el-g'ḥûl (“bordering on”); thus, Mt. Hor borders the west side of Edom (cf. bîqšēh, Nu. 33:37). Dahood suggests reading “mountain” instead of “border” at 1 S. 13:18. Meek suggests “bottomland” at Dt. 3:17; Josh. 13:23, 27, since g'ḥûl in these cases indicates the area bordering the Jordan River. The LXX reads “border of the Edomites” in Jgs. 1:36 (cf. Josh. 15:1ff.).

The “enlarging of the borders” of Israel was part of the patriarchal promise (Gen. 15:18; cf. Ex. 34:24; Dt. 12:20; 19:8) fulfilled in the reign of David and Solomon (1 K. 4:21). Under Jeroboam II (793–753 B.C.) the border of Israel once again reached Lebo-Hamath (2 K. 14:25). Concomitantly, Uzziah (791–739 B.C.) extended the border of Judah once again

希伯来词语 pē'ā (乌加列语: p'ī; 阿卡德语: pātu) 指的是用于救济穷人和寄居者的粮田的边界 (参: 申 24:19–22; 得 2:15–16)。 Šāpā (字面含义 “边缘”) 可以指 (1) 谷的边缘 (参: 申 2:36; 4:48; 书 12:2; 13:9, 16), 或 (2) 河边或溪边 (结 47:6–7)。但在《士师记》7:22 中, 这个词与一个地名结合在一起 (亚伯米何拉可能就是阿布苏斯遗址 [不确定]), 这种结合方式似乎与另一种结合方式相同, 即 q'šēh 和一个地名结合在一起 (参: 书 18:15; 撒上 14:2), 指的是一个城市的边界 (见 GTTOT, 293 页)。

G'ḥûl (乌加列语: gbl) 与介词 'al 结合在一起 (民 20:23), 相当于 'el-g'ḥûl (“结界”); 因此, 何珥山与以东西界接壤 (参: bîqšēh, 民 33:37)。达户 (Dahood) 认为应该将《撒母耳记上》13:18 中 “border” (“边界”) 理解成 “山脉”。米克 (Meek) 认为《申命记》3:17 和《约书亚记》13:23, 27 中的 “border” 应理解成 “洼地”, 因为这些经文中的 g'ḥûl 指的是邻近约旦河的区域。《七十士译本》中将整个词理解为 “以东的交界” (参: 书 15:1 起)。

以色列 “广阔的境界” 是族长的应许之地的一部分 (创 15:18; 参: 出 34:24; 申 12:20; 19:8), 这个应许在大卫和所罗门统治时期完全兑现 (王上 4:21)。在耶罗波安二世统治时期 (公元前 793 至 753 年), 以色列的境界再次扩展到哈马口 (王下 14:25)。同时, 乌西雅 (公元前 791 至 739 年) 将犹太的境界再次扩展到埃及 (代下 26:8)。亚述帝国的

to Egypt (2 Ch. 26:8). A period of internal chaos in the Assyrian empire permitted this expansion; even Ammon gave tribute to Judah. On previous occasions, Ammon had manifested a penchant for “enlarging her borders” (cf. Jgs. 10:7f.; 11:4f.; 1 S. 11:1–11; 14:47f.); the opportunism mentioned by Am. 1:13–15 probably occurred during Hazael’s campaign against Israel (ca. 825–815 B.C.) in the days of Jehu (841–814 B.C.); cf. 2 K. 10:32.

El-paran (Gen. 14:6) is apparently an old name for Elath, on the edge of the desert of Paran.

The border of Zebulun (Gen. 49:13; cf. Dt. 33:19; Josh. 19:10–16) did not actually reach the Mediterranean, though commerce may have flowed through the territory from coastal ports (cf. Isa. 9:1). The prepositions (lʿhōp ... ‘al) may mean “toward”; thus, “toward the seashore” and “his border toward Sidon” (Gen. 49:13).

[Heb. rāsa ‘—‘pierce’]. According to the Book of the Covenant (Ex. 20:20–23:33) a slave whom his master had purchased was to be released after six years. Should he choose to remain in his master’s service a religious ceremony was necessary to ratify his decision (Ex. 21:6). Ancient Near Eastern slaves, including some Habiru, were usually marked or branded in some way for purposes of identification. In Dt. 15:17 the ceremony followed voluntary [Heb. nō'd] (Ps. 33:7; 56:8); AV also HEAP; NEB GOATSKIN, FLASK. The RSV and NEB readings at Ps. 33:7 are based on the reading nōd for MT nēd (cf. Gk. askós, “wineskin,” and other ancient versions). Except for Ps. 56:8, the RSV elsewhere translates nō'd as “skin” or “wineskin,” though the AV has “bottle” (e.g., Josh. 9:4, 13; Jgs. 4:19; Ps. 119:83). “Bottle” is used in the AV also for Heb. 'ôb, baqbûq, hēmâ (Hos. 7:5; RSV “heat”), hēmet, nēbel; Gk. askós. See FLASK; JAR; WINESKIN. Ancient bottles were almost invariably made of animal skins, tanned or untanned (kid, goat, cow, camel, buffalo), since they were more easily carried about than earthenware vessels.

BOTTOM.

The AV translates as “bottom” the Heb. m^ešullâ in Zec. 1:8: “the myrtle trees that were in the bottom.” The term denotes “depths” or “shadowy place.” Thus, it probably refers to a valley of some sort, and the RSV’s “glen” or the NEB’s “hollow” would be a preferable translation.

The AV also translates as “bottom” the Heb. qeseb in Jonah 2:6 (MT 7); “I went down to the bottoms of the mountains.” The Hebrew term connotes a “cutting off” or “extremity.” The RSV renders the phrase “roots of the mountains” and the

BOTTLE 皮袋、瓶、壘

【希伯来语：nō'd】(诗 33:7; 56:8); 《钦定版圣经》中还译为 HEAP (“壘”); 《新英文译本》中译为 GOATSKIN (“羊皮”)、FLASK (“瓶”)。《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》的《诗篇》33:7 将《马所拉文本》中的 nēd (参：希腊语：askós, “皮酒袋”和其他古代译本) 理解为 nōd, 并在此基础上进行翻译。除了《诗篇》56:8, 《修订标准译本》在其他经文中将 nō'd 译为 “skin” (“皮”) 或 “wineskin” (“皮酒袋”), 而《钦定版圣经》中则译为 “bottle” (“皮袋”) (如, 书 9:4, 13; 士 4:19; 诗 119:83)。《钦定版圣经》中还用 “bottle” 翻译希伯来词 'ôb, baqbûq, hēmâ (何 7:5; 《修订标准译本》中译为 “heat” [“烈性”]), hēmet 和 nēbel, 以及希腊语 askós。见 FLASK (瓶); JAR (瓶); WINESKIN (皮酒袋)。古代的皮袋几乎都是用经过鞣制或未经鞣制的动物皮 (小山羊皮、山羊皮、牛皮、骆驼皮、野牛皮) 制成的, 因为它们比陶器器皿更便于携带。

BOTTOM. 洼地、根

《钦定版圣经》将《撒迦利亚书》1:8 中的希伯来词 m^ešullâ 译为 “bottom” (“洼地”): “洼地番石榴树”。这个词可以指 “深渊” 或 “黑暗处”。因此, 它可能指的是某种峡谷, 《修订标准译本》中译为 “glen”, 《新英文译本》中译为 “hollow”, 汉译均为 “洼地”, 这两种译法可能更好。

在《约拿书》2:6 (《马所拉文本》7) 中, 《钦定版圣经》也将希伯来词 qeseb 译为 “bottom” (“根”); “我下到山根。” 这个希伯来词有 “切断” 或 “末端” 的含义。《修订标准译本》中译成了一个短语 “roots of the mountains”, 《新英文

BOUNTIFUL EYE

[Heb. tōb-‘ayin] (Prov. 22:9); NEB KINDLY. The expression here refers to generosity; cf. the LXX rendering, Gk. ho eleōn ptōchón, “he who shows a beggar mercy (or pity).”

BOUNTIFULLY

[Heb. gāmal; Gk. eulogía] (Ps. 13:6; 116:7; 119:17; 142:7; 2 Cor. 9:6); NEB OT variously (see below). The Heb. gāmal is translated “deal bountifully” by the AV and RSV in the four passages in the Psalms. In other passages it is translated “reward,” “recompense,” “do (good or evil to),” etc.; it has the generalized meaning “deal” with someone, often “pay” or “pay back”; and the precise meaning must be gathered from the context.

The NEB renders the passages as follows: Ps. 13:6, “has granted all my desire”; 116:7, “has showered gifts upon you”; 119:17, “Grant this to me”; 142:7, “thou givest me my due reward.”

For eulogía in 2 Cor. 9:6, cf. Bauer, p. 323.

BOUNTIFULNESS

还译作“overpass” (“过甚”) (ābar)、 “break out” (“打破”) (pāraṣ); 《新英文译本》中译为 “put barriers” (“定界限”) 等。然而, gābal 有 “围绕” 的含义, g^ebūl 可以表示一个边界, hōq 指的是律法、命令或规则。

BOUNTIFUL EYE 眼目慈善

【希伯来语: tōb-‘ayin】(箴 22:9); 《新英文译本》中译为 KINDLY (“慈善的”)。这个表达在这节经文中表示慷慨; 参: 《七十士译本》中的翻译, 希腊语: ho eleōn ptōchón, “他展示对待乞丐的怜悯 (或同情)”。

BOUNTIFULLY 慷慨地、丰富地

【希伯来词: gāmal; 希腊语: eulogía】(诗 13:6; 116:7; 119:17; 142:7; 林后 9:6); 《新英文译本》的《旧约》中采用了各种不同的译法 (见下文)。《钦定版圣经》和《修订标准译本》的《诗篇》的四个段落中将希伯来语 gāmal 译为 “deal bountifully” (厚恩对待)。在其他的段落中, 这个词被译为 “赏赐”、“报应”、“行善或作恶” 等; 它的广义是 “恩待” 某人, 通常有 “偿还” 或 “报答” 的含义; 必须根据语境来推测这个词的准确含义。

《新英文译本》对经文的翻译如下: 《诗篇》13:6 中译为 “has granted all my desire” (“厚恩待我”); 《诗篇》116:7 中译为 “has showered gifts upon you” (“用厚恩待你”); 《诗篇》119:17 中译为 “Grant this to me” (“厚恩待你”); 《诗篇》142:7 中译为 “thou givest me my due reward” (“你用厚恩待我”)。

BOUNTY.

In Gen. 49:26 the RSV has “bounties,” the NEB “bounty,” for Heb. ta^awâ, which the AV renders “utmost bound.” Philologically either meaning is possible, though most commentators today take it in the sense “desirable things” (cf. Gen. 3:6; Prov. 10:24; etc.; and see KoB, p. 1016; BDB, pp. 16, 1063).

Other words translated “bounty” in the RSV are Heb. yād, “hand” (1 K. 10:13; Est. 1:7, AV “state,” cf. NEB “as befitted a king”), tôb (Ps. 65:11; AV “goodness,” NEB “good gifts”), tagmûl (Ps. 116:12; AV “benefits,” NEB “gifts”).

In addition, the AV and NEB have “bounty” for Gk. eulogía in 2 Cor. 9:5, where the RSV has “gift,” referring to the offering of the Christians of Judea.

BOUNTY. 厚意、美物、恩典、厚恩、乐意

《修订标准译本》中用 “bounties” 一词翻译《创世记》49:26 中的希伯来词 ta^awâ，《新英文译本》将之译为 “bounty” (汉译均为 “美物”)，而《钦定版圣经》则译为 “utmost bound” (“至极的美物”)。从语言学上讲，这几种含义都有可能成立，但当今的大多数注释者采纳了 “可喜爱的” 这个含义 (参：创 3:6; 箴 10:24 等; 见 KoB, 1016 页; BDB, 16、1063 页)。

《修订标准译本》中其他译成 “bounty” 的希伯来词包括 yād (意思是 “手”，王上 10:13; 斯 1:7, 《钦定版圣经》中译为 “state” [“厚意”]; 参：《新英文译本》中 “as befitted a king” [“尽显王的厚意”])、tôb (诗 65:11; 《钦定版圣经》中译为 “goodness”，《新英文译本》中译为 “good gifts”，汉译均为 “恩典”)、tagmûl (诗 116:12; 《钦定版圣经》中译为 “benefits”，《新英文译本》中译为 “gifts”，汉译均为 “厚恩”)。

此外，《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》还用 “bounty” (“乐意”) 来翻译《哥林多后书》9:5 中的希腊词 eulogía，而《修订标准译本》中译为 “gift” (“赏赐、礼物”)，指的是犹太基督徒献上的祭物。

[Heb. mē'îm; Gk. splánchna]; NEB also BODY, ENTRAILS. In the RSV the term literally means “intestines,” but in the AV it refers more generally to various other organs, such as the heart or the womb. Used psychosomatically the term “bowels” symbolized powerful emotional forces, as in the AV Col. 3:12 “bowels of mercy” (RSV “compassion”) or the AV Cant. 5:4 (RSV “heart”). In the RSV “bowels” occurs only once in the NT, in reference to the death of Judas (Acts 1:18).

BOWELS 肠子、心肠、心

【希伯来语：mē'îm；希腊语：splánchna】；《新英文译本》中还译为 BODY (“身体”)、ENTRAILS (“肠子”)。《修订标准译本》采用了这个词的字面意思，即“肠子”，但是在《钦定版圣经》中，这个词可以广泛地指代其他身体器官，如心脏或母腹。当“bowels” (“肠子”) 表示“心身”时，象征着强大的情感力量，如《钦定版圣经》的《歌罗西书》3:12 中的“bowels of mercy” (“怜悯的心肠”，《修订标准译本》中译为“compassion” [“怜悯”]) 或《钦定版圣经》的《雅歌》5:4 中的“bowels” (“心”，《修订标准译本》中作“heart” [“心”])。在《修订标准译本》中，“bowels” 只在《新约》中出现过一次，与犹大的死亡有关 (徒 1:18)。

The RSV uses “bowl” for various types of containers made from wood, metal, or ceramics. J. L. Kelso has identified the various Hebrew terms in his monograph, The Ceramic Vocabulary of the OT, BASOR (1948), Supplementary Studies, nos. 5f.

《修订标准译本》用 “bowl” 表示各种由木头、金属或陶瓷制成的容器。凯尔索 (J. L. Kelso) 在他的专题论文中指明了这些不同希伯来词的含义 (The Ceramic Vocabulary of the OT, BASOR [1948], 补充研究, 5-6 号)。

The sēpel of Jgs. 5:25 (actually sēpel'addîrîm) and 6:38 may be a species of large banquet bowl, although the cognate spl (Ugaritic; cf. Akk. saplu) of the Râs Shamrah tablets indicates a vase (cf. Syria, 28 [1951], 30f. 1.17). The “lordly dish” of 5:25 may not be a bowl at all; Kaplan (PEQ, 97 [1965], 144–152), 《士师记》5:25 (实际上是 sēpel'addîrîm) 和 6:38 中的 sēpel 可能指的是一种宴会用的大碗, 但拉斯姆拉泥版上的同源词 spl (乌加列语; 参: 阿卡德语: saplu) 指的是一种瓶子 (参: Syria, 28 [1951], 30-31, 1.17)。《士师记》5:25 中的 “宝贵的盘子” 可能根本就不是一种盘子。卡普兰 (PEQ, 97

following Tur-Sinai, believes 'addîrîm may also mean rō'îm (herdsmen). Thus, "lordly dish" becomes "herdsmen's container" and actually signifies a skin-bottle used for storing milk.

The š^elōhîṭ is a small bowl for salt; Kelso argues that it is not a flask because salt (a deliquescent) would cake in such a container.

The gullôṭ (Akk. gullatu or gullu; Sum. gal; Ugar. gl) of Solomon's temple were bowl-like or bowl-shaped capitals on the pillars Jachin and Boaz. A similar construction is found in an incense stand from Megiddo (Early Iron Age) where the bowl forms the cresset (BASOR, 88 [Dec. 1942], 23ff.; cf. 85 [Feb. 1942], 25). The bowls on the lampstands (Zec. 4:2f.) contained oil for light. In Ecc. 12:6, the gullâ may be a lamp-like structure (silver chain and golden bowl signifying a hanging lamp) or a cup (cf. VT, 19 [1969], 158–160).

The 'aggān (Assyr. agan(n)u) was probably a large bowl used for mixing water with wine. Other drinking vessels are kôs and sap (wine cup?).

The "tossing-bowl" (mizrāq) was used to splash the blood of the sacrifices against the altar (cf. Ex. 27:3; 29:16). It was also used for meal or cereal offerings (Nu. 7:13ff.). Other containers used for sacrifices were the m^enaqqîṭ (for drink offerings) and the k^epôr.

Flour for bread was mixed in the miš'eret. The Gk. skeúos at the foot of the cross was a drinking vessel. The phiálē was a common household bowl.

[1965], 144–152) 遵照图尔西奈 (Tur-Sinai) 的意见, 认为 'addîrîm 可能与 rō'îm ("牧人") 意思相同。因此, "宝贵的盘子" 变成了 "牧人的器皿", 实际上指的是一种用来装牛奶的皮袋。

š^elōhîṭ 指的是装盐的小瓶; 凯尔索认为它指的不是小瓶, 因为盐 (易潮解) 放在这种容器中会结块。

所罗门圣殿的 gullôṭ (阿卡德语: gullatu 或 gullu; 苏美尔语: gal; 乌加列语: gl) 指的是雅斤和波阿斯柱上的碗形柱顶。在米吉多 (铁器时代早期) 的香几上也发现了类似的结构, 这种碗制成了灯盏 (BASOR, 88 [1942 年 12 月], 23 起; 参: 85 [1942 年 2 月], 25)。灯台上的灯盏 (亚 4:2-3) 中装着灯油。在《传道书》12:6 中, gullâ 可能指的是一种灯形的结构 (银链和金碗表示吊灯) 或一种杯子 (参: VT, 19 [1969], 158–160)。

'aggān (亚述语: agan(n)u) 可能是一种用来混合酒和水的大碗。其他酒器包括 kôs 和 sap (这两个词可能表示酒杯)。

用 "大碗" (mizrāq) 将祭物的血洒在坛的周围 (出 27:3; 29:16)。它也可以用来盛饭或素祭 (民 7:13 起)。其他用来盛祭物的器皿还有 m^enaqqîṭ (用来装祭酒) 和 k^epôr。

做饼的面粉要在 miš'eret 中搅拌。希腊语 skeúos 指的是十字架脚下的酒器。Phiálē 指的是常见的家用碗。

The boy occupied a place of special importance in the family life of all ancient peoples. As is true among all oriental peoples, the father had absolute control in the Jewish household, yet the boy received a consideration and advantages not accorded to the daughter. His religious life began at the fourth year. He was expected to learn the Scriptures at five, the Mishnah at ten, and to fulfil the whole law at thirteen. At twelve years he was expected to learn a trade, and attained to something of independence at that age, though he did not come into full rights as a citizen until he was twenty. Among many nations there was special rejoicing at the birth of the boy, and sometimes a feast. See CHILD; FAMILY; SON.

BOY 孩子、童子、儿子

【希伯来语: yeled——“孩子”, na‘ar——“少年”、“青年”; 希腊语: ho pais】; 《钦定版圣经》中还译为 CHILD (“孩子”)、YOUNG (“年幼”) (代下 34:3); 《新英文译本》中还译为 YOUNG (“年幼”) (撒下 2:26)、CHILD (“孩子”)。“boy”这个词可以指任何年龄段的孩子(见, 如: 珥 3:3; 太 17:18; 路 2:43; 9:42)。在东方, 这个词还可以表示作奴仆的成年人。

男孩在所有古代民族的家族生活中都拥有极为重要的地位。所有的东方民族亦是如此, 在犹太家庭中, 父亲拥有绝对的掌控权, 而儿子得到了家族不曾给予女儿的关心和优势。男孩从四岁开始他的宗教生活。预计在五岁时学习《圣经》, 在十岁时学习《米示拿》, 在十三岁时学习完整的律法。他会在十二岁时学习贸易, 虽然他在二十岁时才会享有完全的公民权利, 但是他会在十二岁时获得部分自主权。很多民族都会为男婴的降生而感到特别高兴, 有时还为此举办宴会。见 CHILD (孩子); FAMILY (家庭、家族); SON (儿子)。

boz'rə [Heb. boṣrā—‘sheepfold’; Gk. Bosorra, Bosor].

1. An oasis city of great antiquity, the capital and northern metropolis of Edom, through which ran the principal highways (Gen. 36:33; 1 Ch. 1:44; Isa. 34:6; 63:1; Jer. 49:13; Am. 1:12; [Mic. 2:12?]). It was noted for its weaving industry and its export of dyed garments. It may be modern Buṣeirah, 30 mi. (48 km.) SE of the Dead Sea.

2. A city in Moab mentioned in Jer. 48:24. It is probably identical with Bezer (GAB) the Levitical city of refuge, 15 mi. (24 km.) E of the point where the Jordan enters the Dead Sea. It cannot be identified with any certainty.

A Nabatean city in Herodian times, Bostra fell to the Romans in A.D. 105 and became capital of the province of Arabia. Alexander Severus declared it a colony, and Philip the Arab (Roman emperor, A.D. 244–249), a native of Bostra, made it a metropolis. Origen presided there at a council disciplining Beryllius the Monarchian. It became a bishop's see in the 4th century.

波斯拉是希律时期纳巴泰的城市, 它在公元 105 年落入罗马人之手, 成了阿拉伯行省的省会。亚历山大·塞维鲁宣布该地是罗马的殖民地, 阿拉伯人腓力 (罗马皇帝, 公元 244 至 249 年) 是波斯拉本地人, 他使波斯拉成为了一座大都会。俄利根在波斯拉主持了一次宗教会议, 并在会上谴责了信奉上帝一体论的贝里尤斯 (Beryllius)。该地在公元 4 世纪成为主教教区。

[Heb. šāmîd] (Gen. 24:22, 30, 47; Nu. 31:50; Ezk. 16:11; 23:42); [šērôṭ] (Isa. 3:19); NEB BANGLES. The “bracelets” referred to in these OT passages were decorative articles, usually gold, of female dress. Heb. šāmîd signifies jewelry worn on the lower arm or wrist; in Gen. 24 it is part of the bridal offering presented to Rebekah. Šērôṭ is similar to the Akkadian cognate šemêru, šewêru, which also means “bracelet”; whether it signifies jewelry for the arm or the neck (cf. Isa. 3:16) is not clear.

BRACELET 镯子、手镯

【希伯来语：šāmîd】（创 24:22, 30, 47; 民 31:50; 结 16:11; 23:42）；【šērôṭ】（赛 3:19）；《新英文译本》中译为 BANGLES（“手镯”），《旧约》中的“手镯”通常指的是女人衣服上的金饰。希伯来词 šāmîd 表示戴在小臂或手腕上的珠宝；在《创世记》24 章中，手镯是献给新娘利百加的物品之一。Šērôṭ 与阿卡德语同根词 šemêru 和 šewêru 类似，也可以表示“镯子”，但无法确定它指的是戴在手臂上的珠宝还是戴在脖子上的珠宝（参：赛 3:16）。

Most of the references are to literal branches of various kinds, but many figurative uses are included: e.g., Heb. qāneh in Ex. 25 and 37 refers to the “branches” of the golden candlesticks; y^e'ôr in Isa. 19:6 is a river branch; šemaḥ is the “branch” of messianic prophecy.

BRANCH; BOUGH 枝子; 树枝

【希伯来语: ānāp (结 17:8; 但 4; 玛 4:1 等), 动词 ʾānēp (结 19:10), z^emôrâ (民 13:23; 结 8:17 等), pō'râ (结 31), pu'râ (赛 10:33), daliyyâ (耶 11:16; 结 17:6 等), šemaḥ (赛 4:2; 耶 23:5; 亚 3:8 等), kippâ (伯 15:32; 赛 9:14 等), kap (利 23:40), qāšîr (伯 18:16 等), nēšer (赛 11:1; 但 11:7), baḏ (结 17:6; 19:14), šārîgîm (创 40:10, 12; 珥 1:7), š^erûqqîm (赛 16:8), s^e'appâ (结 31:6, 8), sar'appa (结 31:5), sa'îp (赛 27:10), n^etîšôṭ (赛 18:5; 耶 5:10), qāneh (出 25:31 起; 37:17 起), amîr (赛 17:6), baṭ, bēn (创 49:22), y^e'ôr (赛 19:6), yōneqet (诗 80:11), salsillâ (耶 6:9), sansinnîm (歌 7:8), 'abōṭ (诗 118:27), 'āleh (尼 8:15), 'pā'im (诗 104:12), 动词 pā'ar (申 24:20), p^erî (结 17:9), sōbek (撒下 18:9), šibbōlet (亚 4:12); 希腊语: kládos (太 13:32; 可 4:32; 路 13:9; 罗 11:16 起; 等), klēma (约 15:2, 4-6), baíon (约 12:13), stibás (可 11:8), phoinix (启 7:9)】; 《钦定版圣经》中还译为 “principal plants” (“美好的枝子”) (赛 16:8)、 “battlements” (“枝子”) (耶 5:10)、 “plants” (“枝子”) (耶 48:32)、 “brooks” (“河水”) (赛 19:6)、 “baskets” (“筐子”) (耶 6:9)、 “cords” (“绳索”) (诗 118:27)、 “fruit” (“果子”) (结 17:9)、 “palms” (“棕树枝”) (启 7:9); 《新英文译本》中还译为 “new growth” (“长枝条”) (伯 14:9)、 “red grapes” (“红葡萄”) (赛 16:8)、 “streams” (“河水”) (赛 19:6)、 “fronds” (“枝子”) (歌 7:8)、 “pilgrims” (“绳索”) (诗 118:27)、 “fruit” (“果子”) (结 17:9)、 “palms” (“棕树枝”) (启 7:9)。上面大多数词的字面含义指的是各种树枝, 但还包括许多比喻义, 如: 《出埃及记》25 和 37 中的希伯来词 qāneh 指的是金灯台的 “枝子”; 《以赛亚书》19:6 中的 y^e'ôr 指的是一条河汉; šemaḥ 指的是弥撒亚

Vine branches are designated by Heb. z'ôrâ (Nu. 13:23; Ezk. 8:17; 15:2; Nah. 2:2). The references in Ezk. 8:17; Isa. 17:10 are apparently to some idolatrous practice. Other words for vine branches include Heb. sārîgîm, n'îšôṭ, and Gk. klēma, a vine cutting ready for grafting. In Jer. 5:10, Heb. n'îšôṭ is translated “battlements” in the AV, perhaps owing to the obscurity of the form sārôṭe(y)hâ which precedes. Emended to šurôṭe(y)hâ, it becomes a form of either šûrâ (“vine-rows,” RSV) or šûr (“wall”) (see BDB, p. 1004). The AV, choosing the latter, which gives the figure of a city rather than a vineyard, perhaps conjectures “battlements” for n'îšôṭ in terms of the context (although it renders “branches” and “plants” in the other two uses of this term, Isa. 18:5 and Jer. 48:32).

希伯来语 z'ôrâ 指的是葡萄枝（民 13:23；结 8:17；15:2；鸿 2:2）。《以西结书》8:17 和《以赛亚书》17:10 中的树枝显然指的是某些拜偶像的习俗。其他表示葡萄枝的词语还有希伯来语 sārîgîm 和 n'îšôṭ，以及希腊语 klēma，这个希腊语指的是为嫁接砍掉的葡萄枝。《耶利米书》5:10 中的希伯来词 n'îšôṭ 在《钦定版圣经》中被译为“battlements”（“枝子”），这种翻译可能是由于人们不理解 n'îšôṭ 前面的希伯来语 sārôṭe(y)hâ 的含义造成的。后来这个希伯来语被修订为 šurôṭe(y)hâ，它是 šûrâ（“葡萄园的墙”，《修订标准译本》）或 šûr（“墙”）的某种形式（见 BDB, 1004 页）。《钦定版圣经》选择了后一种译法，可能结合语境推测 n'îšôṭ 就是“battlements”（“枝子”），这个词可以用来形容城市，而不是葡萄园（虽然这个词在《以赛亚书》18:5 和《耶利米书》48:32 中被译为“branches”[“枝子”]和“plants”[“枝条”]）。

The Heb. kap and kippâ indicate palm branches, as do Gk. baïon and phoînix.

希伯来语 kap、kippâ 和希腊语 baïon、phoînix 都表示棕树枝。

Plant sprouts or shoots are intended by Heb. yōneqet (Job 14:7, and figuratively in Ps. 80:11; Ezk. 17:22, AV; Job 8:16; etc.), šemaḥ, nēšer (Dnl. 11:7; Isa. 11:1; 14:19; 60:21); Gk. kládos. Twigs are perhaps meant by Heb. zāmîr, sā'îp, šibbōlet, n'îšôṭ, ʿpā'îm; Gk. stibás.

希伯来语 yōneqet（伯 14:7，比喻用法见诗 80:11；结 17:22，《钦定版圣经》；伯 8:16 等）、šemaḥ 和 nēšer（但 11:7；赛 11:1；14:19；60:21），以及希腊语 kládos 指的是植物的嫩芽或嫩枝；希伯来语 zāmîr、sā'îp、šibbōlet、n'îšôṭ、ʿpā'îm 和希腊语 stibás 可能指的是小枝子。

Most of the other references are to ordinary branches, of the olive (e.g., Jer. 11:16) and other trees.

其他经文大多指的是常见的橄榄枝（如，耶 11:16）和其他类树木的枝子。

BRASS; BRASEN

[Heb. n^eḥōšet]. The term n^eḥōšet is translated “brass” by the RSV only where it describes tensile strength or symbolizes spiritual obduracy (Lev. 26:19; Dt. 28:23; Isa. 48:4); elsewhere, where the AV renders “brass” the RSV generally renders “bronze.”

See BRONZE.

BRAWLER

[Heb. hāmā]; AV RAGING; NEB “makes an uproar.” The term is used once in the RSV: “Wine is a mocker, strong drink a brawler” (Prov. 20:1). The Hebrew verb literally means to make a noise or uproar.

BRASS; BRASEN 铜

【希伯来语：n^eḥōšet】。《修订标准译本》只有在描述抗张强度或象征圣灵的能力时才把 n^eḥōšet 译为 “brass” (“铜”，利 26:19；申 28:23，赛 48:4)；在其他的经文中，《钦定版圣经》将这个词译为 “brass”，而《修订标准译本》则译为 “bronze”，汉译均为 “铜”。

见 BRONZE (铜)。

BRAWLER 喧嚷者

【希伯来语：hāmā】；《钦定版圣经》中译为 RAGING (“发狂”)；《新英文译本》则译为 “makes an uproar” (“使人喧嚷”)。这个词只在《修订标准译本》中用过一次：“酒能使人褻慢，浓酒使人喧嚷”(箴 20:1)。这个希伯来动词的字面含义是吵闹或喧嚣。

BRAY 叫唤

[Heb. nāhaq]; NEB also HOWL (Job. 30:7). The strident cry of a donkey is referred to in Job 6:5, and the term is used figuratively in 30:7 of those who mocked the afflicted patriarch.

【希伯来语：nāhaq】；《新英文译本》还译为 HOWL（“叫唤”，伯 30:7）。《约伯记》6:5 中提到了驴刺耳的叫声，而《约伯记》30:7 中则用这个词比喻那些嘲笑这位遭受磨难的长者的人。

伯 30:14)、“be broken up” (“被攻破”, 王下 25:4; 耶 39:2; 52:7); 《新英文译本》还译为 LAW-BREAKING (“过犯”, 出 22:9)、LEADER (“开路的”, 弥 2:13)、GAP (“破口”, 士 21:15)、“broken wall” (“破口的墙”, 赛 58:12)、“be thrown open” (“被攻破”, 王下 25:4; 耶 39:2; 52:7) 等。

The verbal form of the root prš (pāraš), meaning to “break through,” is only once rendered “breach” by the RSV. The noun form, perēš, literally means a “bursting through” or a “gap.” Apart from peša’, “breach of trust,” and ma’al (see BREACH OF FAITH), perēš is the only noun translated as “breach” by the RSV.

词根 prš (pāraš) 的动词形式的意思是 “突破”, 《修订标准译本》只有一次将该词译为 “breach” (“破口”)。这个词的名词形式 perēš 的字面含义是 “猛然打开” 或 “破口”。除了 peša’ (“breach of trust” (“过犯”) 和 ma’al (见 BREACH OF FAITH [犯罪、干犯、不忠实]), perēš 是《修订标准译本》中译成 “破口” 的唯一的名词。

Gen. 38:29 has an etiology of the name Perez (i.e., Perēš, one of the sons of Judah and Tamar). Because he had pushed his way out of the womb ahead of his brother, he was called Perez (“a bursting through”).

《创世记》38:29 提到了法勒斯 (即 Perēš, 犹大和他玛的一个儿子) 名字的由来。因为他抢在他的兄弟的前面出生, 因此他被称为法勒斯 (“破口”)。

Perēš can also refer to a literal gap or hole in a wall structure (1 K. 11:27; Neh. 6:1; Job. 30:14). “Repairing the breach” in Isa. 58:12 probably means both a literal repairing of broken walls and a figurative repairing of the broken relationship between Yahweh and His people.

Perēš 的字面含义还可以表示墙体上的破口或洞 (王上 11:27; 尼 6:1; 伯 30:14)。《以赛亚书》58:12 中的 “补破口” 可能既有 “修补破墙” 的字面含义, 又有 “恢复耶和华和祂的子民之间的关系” 的比喻义。

In Ezk. 22:30 the phrase “stand in the breach” indicates that Yahweh looked for one worthy man to stand in the righteousness-gap between a sinful people and Himself. If this righteous one could have been found, the disaster of the Exile could have been avoided. Related to this passage in thought is Ps. 106:23: Moses is that one who stands “in the breach,” or righteousness-gap, between God and people.

《以西结书》22:30 中的短语 “站在破口防堵” 指的是, 耶和华在罪人和祂自己之间寻找一个配得上的人, 让他站在义的破口防堵。如果能找到这位义人, 那么就能避免被掳的灾难。在思想上与这节经文有关的是《诗篇》106:23: 摩西就是 “站在破口防堵” 的人或站在神与祂的子民之间义的破口防堵的人。

The noun pereš can also be used as a figurative description of the “breaking forth” of God’s wrath upon man (Job 16:14; Jgs. 21:15).

The verb bāqa ‘, used in the niphāl and the hophāl with the meaning “be burst in upon,” describes the condition of Jerusalem at the time of her fall (Jer. 52:7 uses 2 K. 25:4; cf. Jer. 39:2).

名词 pereš 的比喻义还可以用来描述神向人类发怒的“破口”（伯 16:14；士 21:15）。

动词 bāqa ‘的使役主动干和使役被动干表示“突然来到”，描述了耶路撒冷沦陷时的情况（《耶利米书》52:7 借鉴了《列王纪下》25:4 中的经文；参：耶 39:2）。

BREACH OF FAITH 犯罪、干犯、不忠实

【希伯来语：ma‘al, mā‘al】（利 5:15; 6:2; 书 22:22）；《钦定版圣经》译为 TRESPASS（“犯罪”，利 5:15; 6:2）、TRANSGRESSION（“干犯”，书 22:22）；《新英文译本》译为 OFFENCE（“犯罪”，利 5:15）、GRIEVOUS FAULT（“犯罪”）（利 6:2）、TREACHERY（“背叛”，书 22:22）。

The noun ma‘al means “an unfaithful or treacherous act.” It is found twice (Lev. 5:15; 6:2) in a cognate accusative relationship with the verb of the same root (mā‘al, “act treacherously”). The act of treachery could be either planned or unplanned. An example of the latter is found in Lev. 5:15, where it is made clear that if anything is found wrong with the holy things of Yahweh (those things connected with the worship and sacrifice), and the act was an unknowing one, then it was pardonable by the payment of a fine plus restitution for the offence. If the deceit was planned, death was the judgment for the offender.

名词 ma‘al 的意思是“不忠实或背叛的行为”。《圣经》中使用这个词两次（利 5:15; 6:2），它是拥有相同词根的动词（mā‘al，“背叛”）的同根宾格。背叛的行为可能是有意的，也可能是无意的。在《利未记》5:15 中可以看到无意背叛的例子，这节经文清楚地阐述道，人若在耶和华的圣物（那些与敬拜和祭物有关的事物）上误犯了罪，有了过犯，若这种行为是无意的，他可以通过受罚和赔偿得到宽恕。如果罪人有意犯罪，那么他将面临死亡的审判。

The deceit did not have to be against holy things, however, to be classified as a ma'al. Acting treacherously with regard to a fellow Israelite's property is also classified here (Lev. 6:2). This offence is obviously planned; but even so, it is remediable by the payment of a fine plus restitution (6:5b-6).

An important clue for our understanding of ma'al is gained in Josh. 22:22. Here "a treacherous act" (ma'al) is contrasted with open rebellion (mereḏ). It would seem that ma'al is something plotted in the secret recesses of the heart as opposed to open rebellion against authority.

然而，不干犯圣物的欺骗被归为“ma'al”（“背叛”）。在邻舍以色列人交付的物上行了诡诈也被归为背叛行为（利 6:2）。这种背叛显然是故意的；尽管如此，通过受罚和赔偿也可以得到宽恕（利 6:5b-6）。

《约书亚记》22:22 为我们理解 ma'al 提供了重要的提示。这节经文对比了“背叛的行为”（ma'al）与公然背叛（mereḏ）。ma'al 似乎是内心深处密谋的行为，与公然背叛权威截然相反。

BREAD 饼

【希伯来语：leḥem；希腊语：ártos】。

- I. 制作饼的历史
- II. 饼在饮食中的突出地位
- III. 饼的配料
- IV. 制作饼
- V. 吃饼

I. 制作饼的历史。制饼这门技艺拥有非常悠久的历史。例如，新石器时代耶利哥的会众已经了解农业生产。粮食作物最初可能用来煮粥。可是，烘烤的技艺从史前时期开始就出现了，因为人类最古老的文献中提到了饼。《圣经》中

but the art of baking must date from prehistoric times, for bread is mentioned in the oldest literatures of mankind. The first mention of bread in the Bible is in Gen. 3:19. The Heb. lehem is generally connected with an Arabic and Syriac root meaning “make solid”; the word indicates “solid food” in general. Among the nomadic population of the desert the most common form of solid food is meat, so the cognate word in Arabic (lahm) means “meat”; but among a sedentary population bread becomes the staple diet, and therefore is called lehem. We find the same word in Ugaritic, many Aramaic dialects, and Phoenician, but not in Akkadian (though cf. the verb lahāmu, “to eat” and “to drink”).

II. Prominence in Diet.-Among the peasants in Palestine and elsewhere, bread is primary, other articles of solid food merely accessory. Many days will pass in the life of a peasant without any taste of meat, which is considered a festival dish among the sedentary population. “Bread” therefore often stands for solid food in general, not only because this is the original meaning of the word but also because bread is food par excellence. When people went out on a journey they took bread along with them (Josh. 9:5, 12). Nowadays the laborer in the Near East often wraps other kinds of food such as olives, cheese, or eggs in thin loaves of bread, or even inserts them within the crust of his bread; and it is quite possible that the same was done in biblical times; about this, however, we have no available information.

III. Ingredients.-From earliest times, several kinds of grains were well known in Palestine. Wheat, however, is most common today and there is no reason to suppose that it was otherwise in biblical times. When bread is mentioned without any further qualification, we may safely suppose that it was made of wheat. Palestine has excellent wheat varieties with great nutritive value.

首次提到饼是在《创世记》3:19中。希伯来语 lehem 通常与阿拉伯语和叙利亚语中表示“使……成为固体”的词根有关；这个词通常用来表示“固态食物”。沙漠中的游牧民族最常吃的固态食物是肉，所以这个词的阿拉伯语同根词 (lahm) 的意思是“肉”；而饼成为定居人口的主食，因此被称为 lehem。我们在乌加列语、许多阿拉伯方言和腓尼基语中发现了相同的词，但没有在阿卡德语中找到相同的词（虽然可以参考动词 lahāmu，“吃”和“喝”）。

III. 饼在饮食中的重要地位。巴勒斯坦等地的农民以饼为主食，其他的固态食物只是副食。农民长时间吃不到肉，定居的人将肉视为一种节日食品。因此，“饼”通常代表着常见的固态食物，不仅仅因为饼是这个词的原始含义，而且因为饼是一种极佳的食物。当人们踏上旅途时，他们随身带着饼（书 9:5, 12）。如今，近东的劳动者通常在烘烤过的薄饼中卷入其他的食物，如橄榄、奶酪或蛋，或者将这些食物夹在饼皮中；这很有可能就是圣经时代吃饼的方法；但我们没有关于这方面的信息。

III. 饼的配料。从历史最早期开始，有几种谷物在巴勒斯坦非常有名。不过，小麦是今天最常见的谷物，但并不能就

Bread of other grains was not much appreciated, though the poor sometimes had to resort to it; and because barley was harvested a few weeks earlier in the year than wheat, there may have been a time of year when only barley flour was available. In the sanctuary it is only in connection with the offering of jealousy that barley is mentioned (Nu. 5:15). Barley bread is a symbol of the Israelite army in Jgs. 7:13, because the logic of the dream asks for a thick and heavy cake (see below); in 2 K. 4:42 and Jn. 6:9, 13 barley bread is mentioned in connection with the early season. The witches of Ezk. 13:19 sell their offices even for “handfuls of barley.” Nevertheless barley is recognized as human food, but it takes the second place after wheat (2 S. 17:28; 2 Ch. 2:15 [MT 14]) and has only half its price (2 K. 7:18).

In Ezk. 4:9 millet is mentioned; this word occurs as a name for a kind of grain in Babylonian literature. It is doubtful whether it occurred in Palestine. The same text mentions also spelt (AV “fitches”), a cereal like wheat, which according to Ex. 9:32 (AV “rie”) ripened at about the same time, and which was cultivated in Palestine (Isa. 28:25).

Apart from different kinds of grains, Ezk. 4:9 mentions also beans and lentils as ingredients for bread. This must be

此认为小麦在圣经时代也很常见。如果没有特指哪种饼,我们可以默认为这种饼是小麦做成的。巴勒斯坦的小麦种类丰富,营养价值很高。

虽然其他谷物做成的饼不太受欢迎,但穷人有时不得不以这种饼为食;因为一年中大麦的收割时间比小麦早几周,所以一年中一段时间里只能吃大麦粉。在至圣所中,只有当与疑恨的祭物有关时,才会提到大麦(民 5:15)。在《士师记》7:13 中,大麦饼象征以色列军队,因为梦中梦到了厚重的饼(见下文);在《列王纪下》4:42 和《约翰福音》6:9, 13 中,大麦饼与初熟的季节一同被提及。《以西结书》13:19 中的女巫甚至为了“两把大麦”而背叛她们的职分。虽然大麦被认为是人类食物,但是它的地位仅次于小麦(王下 17:28; 代下 2:15[《马所拉文本》14]),而只有小麦一半的价格(王下 7:18)。

《以西结书》4:9 中提到了小米;在巴比伦的文献中,这个词是一种谷物的名字。尚不能确定巴勒斯坦是否有小米。这节经文中还提到了粗麦(《钦定版圣经》中译为“fitches”[“粗麦”]),这是一种类似于小麦的谷物,根据《出埃及记》9:32(《钦定版圣经》中译为“rie”[“粗麦”])的记载,粗麦和小麦的成熟时间大致相同,巴勒斯坦种植粗麦(赛 28:25)。

除了各种谷物,《以西结书》4:9 中还提到豆子和红豆是作饼的配料。这必定是个特例,因为这节经文中的象征行为预

considered an exceptional case, as the symbolic action ordered in this verse is meant as a prefiguration of the hardships to be suffered during the siege of Jerusalem. Flour will become so scarce that people will not only put together the last remnants of different grains, but also mix it with crushed beans and lentils. There is no reason to suppose that these things happened in normal times.

Three different kinds of flour may be distinguished: (1) The flour or meal of ordinary use (1 S. 28:24; 2 S. 17:28; 1 K. 17:12, 14, 16; etc.) was made by rubbing grains between two stones and sifting the product in such a way that all larger pieces were removed. (2) Groats (AV often “fine flour”), as distinguished from common flour (cf. 1 K. 4:22 [MT 5:2]), were used for sacrificial purposes (Lev. 2:1, 4, 7; 5:11; 6:20 [MT 13]; etc.). In order to make groats one had to sift two times: once for removing the large pieces, and once in order to separate the groats from meal in powder form. Kings and honored guests were offered groats (Gen. 18:6); it was considered a luxury (Ezk. 16:13, 19). (3) Groats from fresh ears are mentioned in Lev. 2:14, 16 only. Though this kind of groats is used for making porridge nowadays, the mention of oil and of the burning in fire show that a kind of bread or cake could be made of it.

IV. Bread-Making.-After the flour had been provided it was mixed with cold or warm water and kneaded to dough; the use of this as an offering is prescribed in Nu. 15:20f.; Ezk. 44:30; Neh. 10:37 (MT 38). The “kneading bowl” (Ex. 8:3 [MT 7:28]; Dt. 28:5, 17) must have been a small, light wooden box, for it could be bound up in clothes and carried on the

从《圣经》中可以区分出三种不同种类的面粉：(1) 通过在两块石头间研磨谷物并筛去所有大面块制成的普通面粉或谷物粗粉（撒上 28:24；撒下 17:28；王上 17:12, 14, 16 等）。(2) 细面（《钦定版圣经》经常译为 “fine flour”），细面与普通面粉不同（参：王上 4:22[《马所拉文本》5:2]），是一种专门用于献祭的面粉（利 2:1, 4, 7; 5:11; 6:20[《马所拉文本》13]等）。必须筛两次才能得到细面：一次是为了筛去大面块，另一次是为了将细面从谷物粗粉中分离出来。细面可以献给国王和贵宾（创 18:6）；它被视为一种奢侈的食物（结 16:13, 19）。(3) 只有《利未记》2:14 和 16 中提到了新穗子制成的细面。虽然现在人们用这种细面煮粥，但是经文中提到的油和火中烘烤说明这种细面可以用来制作饼或饼状食物。

IV. 制作饼。研磨好面粉后，将面粉与冷水或热水混合，揉成面团；《民数记》15:20-21；《以西结书》44:30 和《尼希米记》10:37（《马所拉文本》38）中提到了用这种方法制作的祭物。“抻面盆”（出 8:3[《马所拉文本》7:28]；申 28:5, 17）应该是一种小巧的木盆，因为它可以包在衣服中，扛在肩头上（出 12:34）。常见的制作方法是，将烘烤前一天发酵 shoulders (Ex. 12:34). For common use a piece of leavened dough of the preceding day's baking, preserved for the purpose, was mixed with the dough; the whole was then set aside and left standing until it was thoroughly leavened (see LEAVEN). For sacrificial use unleavened bread was the rule, and cakes of unleavened bread (Heb. maṣṣôṭ) were the only form of bread allowed for any Israelite during the Passover season. Leavened bread as an offering to the sanctuary is mentioned, however, in Lev. 7:13; 23:17, 20; Am. 4:5.

过的生面团与生面团混合在一起; 然后把整个面团放起来, 保持不动, 直到整个面团完全发酵 (见 LEAVEN[酵])。用无酵饼献祭是一种习俗, 以色列人在逾越节期间只可献无酵饼 (希伯来语: maṣṣôṭ)。但《利未记》7:13; 23:17, 20 和《阿摩司书》4:5 中提到在圣殿中献上有酵的饼作为祭物。

Every dough was mixed with salt; sometimes olive oil was added to the unbaked dough (Lev. 2:4f.; 7:12), but in other cases it was added only after the baking process. After the leavening process was finished, the dough was made into cakes. Thick and thin forms are distinguished, the choice being determined both by the material (it is not possible to bake “wafers” from barley flour) and by the method of baking: “ash-bread” (see below) cannot be as thin as oven-bread. Moreover, several varieties are possible, e.g., “ring-bread,” often seen nowadays in the Near East, and perhaps intended by the frequent word hallâ (Lev. 2:4, etc.; see KoB); bread in the form of a heart (Heb. l'bibôt, 2 S. 13:6, 8, 10), and others. The most common shape, however, is that of a disk (kikkâr, Ex. 29:23) 7 in. (18 cm.) or more in diameter and half an inch thick. Thin disk-shaped bread is called râqîq (Ex. 29:23, etc.). Unleavened bread is often very thin (cf. Ex. 29:2; Lev. 2:4; etc.).

Three methods of baking are indicated. The first could be called the direct way: a fire is built on some stones, and when these are well heated the cinders are raked off; the cakes are laid on the stones and ashes are heaped upon them. After some time the cakes are turned. Such a cake is called an 'ugâ. This is the sort of bread baked by Sarah (Gen. 18:6) and by the Israelites after they left Egypt (Ex. 12:39). Elijah found such ash-bread ready when he awoke from his sleep (1 K. 19:6). Though this is certainly the most primitive way of baking bread, we find it also in NT times (Jn. 21:9) and even today among bedouin and travelers. The turning of the bread is mentioned in Hos. 7:8.

公元前 15 世纪的拉吉神庙中出土的用于为无酵饼塑形或烤制无酵饼的圆型大浅盘。陶器盘底面的孔不是钻通的（右图）。（以色列文物和博物馆部）

每个生面团都要拌入盐；有时会在未烘烤的生面团中加入橄榄油（利 2:4-5; 7:12），但在其他情况下，烘烤后才会加入橄榄油。生面团在发酵好之后制成了饼。饼分为厚饼和薄饼，材料（用大麦粉不能制成“薄饼”）和烘烤的方法决定了饼的厚薄：“炭火烧的饼”（见下文）不可能和烤炉烤出的饼一样薄。此外，可能还有其他种类的饼，如“饼圈”，这种饼在当今的近东很常见，可能用常用词汇 hallâ 来表示（利 2:4 等；见 KoB）；心形饼（希伯来语：l'bibôt，撒下 13:6, 8, 10）等。不过，最常见的饼是圆盘形的（kikkâr，出 29:23），这种饼直径 7 英寸（18 厘米）或更大，厚半英寸。圆盘形状的饼被称为 râqîq（出 29:23 等）。无酵饼通常很薄（参：出 29:2；利 2:4 等）。

有三种烘烤饼的方法。第一种方法被称为直接方法：在若干块石头上生火，待石头完全加热后，将灰烬耙去；把饼放在石头上，灰铺在饼上。过一段时间，再把饼翻面。这种饼被称为 'ugâ。撒拉（创 18:6）和出埃及后的以色列人（出 12:39）曾烘制过这种饼。以利亚醒来时发现炭火烧的饼已经烤好（王上 19:6）。虽然这确实是烘制饼的最原始的方法，但我们发现，新约时期的人（约 21:9），甚至连当今的贝多因人和旅行者仍然采用这种方法烘烤饼。《何西阿书》7:8 中提到了为饼翻面。

The second method is baking on a plate or in a pan. The baking plate (maḥ^abaṭ) is sometimes made of iron (Ezk. 4:3) but may be of earthenwork like those found in Gezer. It is a flat bowl, put with the convex side up over a fire; and the cakes are thrown on the outside. This instrument, mentioned in Lev. 2:5; 6:21 (MT 14); 7:9; 1 Ch. 23:29, is probably the same as that of 1 Ch. 9:31, though some scholars understand the word used there (Heb. ḥ^abittîm) as an indication of the product, namely, flat cakes baked on the baking plate (so RSV, NEB). Those cakes are hard and thin. Softer and thicker are those made with the help of the frying pan or marḥešet (Lev. 2:7; 7:9), a deeper bowl which may have a lid. A variant of this is maśrēt, probably also a bowl or frying pan with a lid, but with a hole in the lid. It is mentioned in 2 S. 13:9 only. The frying pan in its two variants supposes the use of oil.

第二种方法是把饼放在盘子或平底锅中进行烘烤。有铁制的烤盘 (maḥ^abaṭ) (结 4:3), 也有陶制的烤盘, 也有可能是陶制的, 如基色发现的烤盘。烤盘是一种凸面向上放在火上的扁平盘; 饼放在烤盘的外面进行烘烤。《利未记》2:5; 6:21 (《马所拉文本》14); 7:9 和《历代志上》23:29 中提到的这种烤制工具可能就是《历代志上》9:31 中的煎盘, 但是有些学者认为该节经文中用到的这个词 (希伯来语: ḥ^abittîm) 指的是一种烤制品, 即煎盘中的烤饼 (《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》就是这样翻译的)。这种饼很硬、很薄。煎盘或浅锅 (希伯来语: marḥešet, 利 2:7; 7:9) 烘烤的饼更软也更厚, 煎盘或浅锅是一种更深的碗状物, 可能有一个盖子。这个词一种变形形式是 maśrēt, 指的可能也是一种盘子或带盖的煎盘, 但盖子上有一个孔。只有《撒母耳记下》13:9 提到过这种煎锅。两种不同形式的煎锅可能都要用油煎烤。

The third method is baking bread in an oven (tannûr), a cylinder of earthenwork, which might be dug into the soil but might also stand on the ground. A small hut of stones and clay is built around it. The oven is heated by grass (Mt. 6:30), stubble (Mal. 4:1 [MT 3:19]), thorns, and other dry twigs (Nah. 1:10), or dung (cf. Ezk. 4:15, where, however, the first method is probably meant). Cow dung is very frequently used as a fuel today. The tannûr has two openings: one at the bottom, from the side, through which the ashes may be removed, and one at the top, through which after the flames have died down the dough-cakes are stuck on the hot inside walls. The cakes are not turned. When ready they are taken out by hand. Such bread-cakes are rather thin and soft. It is impossible to break them, but they are torn by hand. The rule is that one person, sometimes assisted by a servant, makes use of one tannûr. It is a sign of dire need when there is so little dough that ten wives make use of one oven (Lev. 26:26). In such a case food is rationed by weight; in ordinary times an adult needs (according to Mish. Kelim as understood by Dalman) one-third of a kab, i.e., slightly over one pint, of flour a day. The three measures of flour mentioned in Gen. 18:6 and Mt. 13:33 are sufficient for fifty-four persons a day, or, if they take one meal only, for 162 persons. One needs a rather large tannûr to prepare such a quantity of bread; but as we have seen, Sarah as the wife of a tent-dweller probably baked in ashes.

底比斯的麦克特瑞墓（埃及第 11 王朝，公元前 2135 年至 2000 年）中发现的一个房子模型，其中包括一个酒窖（上方）和一个烘房。13 个男人和女人（图中不能全看到）在研磨谷物，拌入生面团，制作饼和照看烤炉。（大都会艺术博物馆，发掘于 1919 年至 1920 年）

Special kinds of bread were, in the first place, the unleavened bread of the Passover season, the maššôṭ (see above). Ex. 16:31 mentions the šappihit, according to the etymology of the word a flat cake, which was served with honey. We may suppose that the varieties of special bread and cake mentioned in the Talmud were also known in biblical times, but as a luxury only. The addition of oil or honey or several kinds of spices to the dough or to the baked cake allows an unending list of variations. The “bread of affliction” mentioned in 1 K. 22:27 and 2 Ch. 18:26 is not a special kind of bread but rather a small quantity (cf. the “water of affliction” mentioned alongside it, and Isa. 30:20). In the same way “bread of mourners” (Hos. 9:4; cf. Ezk. 24:17, 22) is not a special kind of bread but ordinary bread used in extraordinary circumstances. In mourning Daniel ate no “pleasant bread” (Dnl. 10:3), i.e., no bread that in any way was made more tasty, but simple bread without any addition of oil, honey, or spices.

配食物；根据达尔曼对《米示拿》《论器皿》篇的理解，在平常时期，一个成年人每天需要三分之一 kab，即略微超出一品脱的面粉。《创世记》18:6 和《马太福音》13:33 中提到的三斗面足以满足 54 人一天的食物需求，如果每个人一天只吃一顿饭，则可以满足 162 人一天的食物需求。人们需要一个相当大的炉来制作这么多的饼；但是据书中记载，住帐幕人的妻子撒拉可能在灰中烤饼。

特殊的饼首推逾越节的无酵饼，maššôṭ（见上文）。《出埃及记》16:31 中提到了 šappihit（“吗哪”），从这个词的词源上讲，这是一种掺蜜吃的扁饼。我们可以认为，圣经时代的人们已经知道了《他勒目》中提到的特殊的饼和饼状食物，但他们仅仅将这些食物看做奢侈品。通过在生面团或烤饼中抹油、蜜或其他的调味料可以制作出各种各样的饼。《列王纪上》22:27 和《历代志下》18:26 中提到的“bread of affliction”（“使他受苦，吃不饱”）不是一种特殊的饼，而是指食物供应不足（参：同这个词组一起出现的“water of affliction”[“喝不足”]和《以赛亚书》30:20）。同样，“bread of mourners”（“居丧者的食物”，何 9:4；参：结 24:17, 22）也不是指特殊的饼，而是指一种在特殊情况下使用的普通的饼。但以理悲伤的时候不吃“美味”（但 10:3），即味道更可口的饼，而是吃一种不抹油、蜜或调味料的简单的饼。

Every oriental household used to make its own bread, and bread-making for the most part in the hands of the women. Handmaids were often employed to grind the grains (Ex. 11:5; Job 31:10); Sarah kneaded and baked (Gen. 18:6), and so did the woman of Endor (1 S. 28:24). Jeremiah considers it the rule that children gather wood, fathers kindle fire, and women knead the dough to make cakes (Jer. 7:18). Even today this is the rule not only among nomadic people but also among sedentary peasants.

In a very large household, such as the king's, it might happen that some persons had baking as their sole task. 1 S. 8:13 assumes that even in such a case the baker will be a female; but at the court of the Egyptian king we find a male "chief of the bakers" (Gen. 40:2, etc.), and the form of the Hebrew word for "bakers" indicates that his helpers were male. Also the baker of Hos. 7:4, 6 is a man. Jer. 37:21 shows that in the metropolis Jerusalem there was a "bakers' street." Most commentators consider this an indication that there were private professional bakers in Jerusalem, brought together on one street as members of one guild, as were the goldsmiths and the traders in later times (Neh. 3:31f.). But Zedekiah's ordering a disk of bread to be delivered daily to Jeremiah, who was a prisoner in the king's palace, suggests direct authority of the king over these bakers. So they are to be considered workers in the royal household, which consumed large quantities of flour (1 K. 4:22), enough for the daily meals of 1620 persons. For such a multitude a fair number of bakers was needed, and it is evident that they needed a street, if not for their dwelling then certainly for the location of their ovens, each in its own shelter.

每个东方家庭过去常常自己制作饼,而且制饼的大多数工序由女人负责。他们通常雇佣婢女来研磨谷物(出 11:5; 伯 31:10); 撒拉调面做饼(创 18:6), 隐多珥的女人也是一样(撒上 28:24)。耶利米认为一般由孩子捡柴, 父亲生火, 女人和面做饼(耶 7:18)。甚至到今天, 游牧民族和定居的农民还保持着这样的习俗。

V. Eating Bread.-The thin, brittle forms of bread, especially the maṣṣôṭ, were broken; the softer and thicker varieties were torn apart. Sometimes oil was poured on the bread; we have no information of the use of butter in connection with bread. Bread was usually carried in a basket (Gen. 40:16f.; Ex. 29:3; Mt. 14:20; 15:37; etc.); when traveling one carried bread in a sack (1 S. 9:7, etc.). When bread was eaten by a group, the head of the household or the master of the community broke it or tore it and gave a portion to everybody present. If meat, fish, or other food was offered together with the bread, it was often handed out from the common cooking pot with the help of a piece of bread. The bread was folded into a kind of spoon and used to dip in the common dish without touching the broth or whatever with the fingers. So Mt. 26:23 is to be understood (cf. Jn. 13:26). After the meal the pieces that had not been consumed were gathered carefully into the basket again (Mt. 14:20, etc.) These remains are to be distinguished from the crumbs that fall on the ground and are left to be devoured by animals, and from the crumbs (niqqûdîm, Josh. 9:5, 12) to which bread is reduced when it is kept too long. The same word also denotes a special kind of cake, probably of very small size (1 K. 14:3; AV “cracknels”).

Bread is considered a gift from God, by whose blessing the grain grows. Its sanctity therefore should always be respected. No oriental will tread on a piece of bread. When he sees it lying on the street, he will pick it up and give it to a dog or put it somewhere where a bird may get it. The general sanctity of bread makes

V. 吃饼。薄而脆的饼，尤其是 maṣṣôṭ 很易碎；更软和更厚的饼需要掰开吃。有时会在饼上抹油；我们尚未找到关于在饼上抹油的记载。饼通常装在篮子里（创 40:16-17；出 29:3；太 14:20；15:37 等）；旅行者则用囊装饼（撒上 9:7 等）。当一群人分吃一张饼时，户主或群落的首领把饼切碎或掰开，分给每一个人。如果肉、鱼或其他食物同饼一同被呈上来，通常用饼来盛锅里的食物。饼被叠成勺子似的形状，然后用手蘸在共同的盘子里，这样手指就不会沾上汤或其他食物。应该这样理解《马太福音》26:23 中的描述（参：约 13:26）。吃完饭后，把剩下的饼块小心地收拾起来，重新装进篮子里（太 14:20 等）。这些剩下的饼不同于掉在地上的碎渣、留给动物的饼渣和因长时间保存而风干的碎饼（niqqûdîm，书 9:5，12）。这个词还可以表示一种尺寸可能非常小的特殊的饼（王上 14:3；《钦定版圣经》中译为 “cracknels” [“薄饼”]）。

it one of the most common forms of offering. Every burnt offering and many other kinds of sacrifices are accompanied by a minhâ, the principal element of which is some form of bread (cf. Lev. 2). There were also offerings of bread independently from animal sacrifice: the oblation of two leavened disks of bread at Pentecost (Lev. 23:17), and the ‘shewbread’ (AV) or “bread of the Presence” (RSV), twelve cakes according to tradition arranged in two rows, each of them consisting of six large rectangular cakes, with “horns” at their corners. After the replacement of this bread the old cakes were to be eaten by priests only; but note 1 S. 21:3–6 and Mt. 12:3f.

Bread became a symbol of different things, first of all one of hospitality. The stranger is to be offered bread and water (Neh. 13:1f.), and one should not send people away without having given them bread (Mt. 14:15–21, etc.). The disciples of Jesus could reckon on such hospitality and therefore were not to bring along their own bread (Mt. 10:10). The host will break off a piece of the cake he has in hand and give it to his guest; in such a way they partake of the same bread, and this becomes a symbol of community and mutual responsibility. By eating bread one becomes bound to his host. Prophets who ate from Jezebel’s table were bound to speak their mistress’ word (1 K. 18:19); the man of God sent to protest against Jeroboam’s illegal worship was not allowed to eat bread in Jeroboam’s realm (1 K. 13:9).

Both symbolic meanings of bread-eating have been taken over in Christian worship. The idea of hospitality developed into the ancient Christian custom of connecting the agápē (Jude 12; cf. 1 Cor. 11:21) with the Lord's Supper. Community by partaking of the same bread is expressed by Paul in 1 Cor. 10:17. But the first idea in the Lord's Supper is still another symbolism: the conception of the bread of life, the spiritual food given to mankind when Christ surrendered Himself unto death in order that His followers might find life eternal. This symbolism, expressed in the words of Christ at the institution of holy communion (Mt. 26:26), has been expanded largely in Jn. 6:32-58, words spoken when "the Passover ... was at hand" (Jn. 6:4), and when Christ had shown Himself the divine host by the multiplying of bread. So the symbolism of bread in Israel's religion and the symbolism of bread in the common life of the eastern countries were joined to the central theme of the Lord's Supper: the sacrifice of Christ as the life-bread for His people.

饼是素祭的主要组成部分（参：利 2）。可以单独用饼献祭：在五旬节献上的两个有酵饼（利 23:17）和“陈设饼”（《钦定版圣经》中译为“shewbread”，《修订标准译本》中译为“bread of the Presence”），按照传统，12 张饼摆列两行，每行摆着 6 张带“角”的长方形的饼。这张饼被更换之后，只有祭司可以吃掉旧饼；但参：撒上 21:3-6 和太 12:3-4。

饼成为不同事物的象征，首先象征着好客。主人应该拿供饼和水迎接来客（尼 13:1-2），不应该不给他们饼就把他们送走（太 14:15-21 等）。耶稣的门徒可以依靠这种款待，因此他们不用随身带饼（太 10:10）。主人将把他手中的饼掰开，然后分给客人；他们以这种方式分享了同一张饼，这也成为他们团结一心和相互负责的象征。客人藉着吃饼与主人联合。吃了耶洗别桌上的食物的先知一定可以说这位女主人所说的话（王上 18:19）；受神差遣去谴责耶罗波安偶像崇拜的人不可以吃耶罗波安国内的饼（王上 13:9）。

在基督徒的敬拜中，吃饼被赋予了两个象征意义。好客逐渐发展成将神的爱（agápē，犹 1:12；参：林前 11:21）与主的晚餐联系在一起的古老基督教习

BREAK.

The most common word is Heb. šābar, which is nearly always used literally, for breaking objects, e.g., a door (Gen. 19:9), bones (Ex. 12:46; Job. 29:17), images and altars (Dt. 7:5; 2 K. 11:18; 2 Ch. 23:17; Jer. 43:13), weapons (Ps. 76:3; Hos. 1:5), yokes (Jer. 28; Nah. 1:13), bread (Lev. 26:26; Ezk. 5:16; 14:13). Occasionally it is used more abstractly, e.g., Lev. 26:19, "I will break the pride of your power,” and Ps. 69:20, “Insults have broken my heart.” The word most often used for breaking covenants is Heb. pārar (e.g., Gen. 17:14; Lev. 26:15, 44; Dt. 31:16, 20; Isa. 24:5; Ezk. 16:59).

俗。保罗在《哥林多前书》10:17中提到了众人分享同一张饼。但主的晚餐中蕴含的第一层思想是另一种象征意义：当基督为了让祂的信徒获得永生而受难时，人类被赐予了生命之饼和属灵的食物。主在圣餐仪式上所说的话（太26:26）体现出了这个象征意义，《约翰福音》6:32-58进一步详述了这个象征意义，当“逾越节近了……”（约6:4），当基督藉着五个大饼使五千人吃饱这件事显示祂是圣洁的主时，祂说了话。所以，饼在以色列宗教中的象征意义和在东方普通百姓生活中的象征意义与主的晚餐这个中心主题联系在了一起：基督的祭物成了祂的子民的生命之饼。

BREAK. 攻破、折断、打碎、折断、断绝

最常见的词语是希伯来词 šābar，这个词几乎总是表示打坏东西，如攻破房门（创19:9）、折断骨头（出12:46；伯29:17）、拆毁邱坛和打碎柱像（申7:5；王下11:18；代下23:17；耶43:13）、折断武器（诗76:3；何1:5）、折断轭（耶28；鸿1:13）和断绝粮（利26:26；结5:16；14:13）。有时会用到这个词更抽象的含义，如在《利未记》26:19中，

In the AV “break up” is used for “break in (to),” in Ex. 22:2 (Heb. maḥteret); 2 Ch. 24:7 (pāraṣ); Mt. 24:43 (Gk. dioryssō). Other AV usages of “break” that are replaced by more accurate expressions in the RSV or NEB include: Job. 13:25, RSV “frighten,” NEB “chase” (Heb. āras); 38:10, RSV “prescribed,” NEB “established” (šābar); 39:15, RSV and NEB “trample” (dūš); Ps. 119:20, RSV “is consumed,” NEB “pines” (gāras); 141:5, RSV and NEB “anoint” (nō); Lam. 3:16, RSV “made my teeth grind” (gāras).

Important NT words include Gk. klāō (of breaking bread, e.g., Mt. 14:19 par.; Acts 20:7; 1 Cor. 10:16), diarrhēgnymi (Lk. 5:6; 8:29), katágnymi (Mt. 12:20; Jn. 19:31–33), syntribō (Mk. 5:4; 14:3 [see ALABASTER]).

重要的新约词汇包括希腊词 klāō (擘开饼，如，太 14:19 平行经文；徒 20:7；林前 10:16)、diarrhēgnymi (路 5:6；8:29)、katágnymi (太 12:20；约 19:31–33)、syntribō (可 5:4；14:3[见 ALABASTER])。

BREAKFAST 早饭

[Gk. aristáō—“eat breakfast”] (Jn. 21:12, 15); AV DINE. The regular morning meal, although in later times the term was applied to the main meal. Lk. 14:12 distinguishes between this meal and dinner, the evening meal.

While there is discussion as to whether the noun áriston always means breakfast or may mean the noon meal (see MEALS), there can be little doubt the instance mentioned in Jn. 21 is an early morning meal (cf. v. 4). If the word does relate to breakfast alone, the meal Jesus ate with the Pharisee (Lk. 11:37) should also be interpreted as a breakfast. It may have been a customary meal that took place immediately after the morning prayer in the synagogue. Some have argued that the parable of the wedding feast (Mt. 22:4ff.) is more meaningful if this is interpreted as breakfast, as this would have called those invited from their daily work and would have meant loss to them.

The meal Jesus cooked on the shore of the Sea of Galilee is described as fish roasting on a charcoal fire. While we do have record of more humble meals (Ruth 2:14), the Jew normally preferred to have meat or fish with his meal. The fish would be roasted either directly on the coals or on flat rocks that had first been heated by a charcoal fire.

【希腊语：aristáō——“吃早饭”】(约 21:12, 15);《钦定版圣经》中译为 DINE (“吃早饭”)。这个词表示每天早上吃的饭，但后来指主餐。《路加福音》14:12 中区分了早饭、中饭和晚饭。

虽然对于名词 áriston 是始终表示早饭，还是也可以表示午饭(见 MEALS[饭])，人们还存有争议，但是《约翰福音》21 章中一定指的是早饭(参：约 21:4)。如果这个词只表示早饭，那么耶稣与法利赛人同吃的饭也应该理解成早饭。早饭可能是在每天犹太会堂晨祷之后吃的一顿饭。有些人认为如果将婚筵译为早饭，那么关于婚筵的比喻更加意味深长，因为那些受邀的人需要放下日常工作来赴席，这对他们来说是一种损失。

经文中描述了耶稣在加利利海岸边做饭的情境——在木炭中烤鱼。虽然经文中还记载了更简单的饭食(得 2:14)，但犹太人通常更喜欢吃带肉或鱼的饭。鱼可能直接放在木炭上烤，或者放在事先用炭火加热过的平岩石上烤。

Either of the two milk-producing glands located on the upper torso of the female, the frontal area of the chest or thorax of both male and female, and the seat or location of the emotions and affections, i.e., the consciousness: all are designated in the Bible at different times by the one word “breast.”

Hāzeh occurs only in priestly material, where it refers solely to the breast meat of animals to be used in sacrifices. These sacrifices were always of the wave offering type and were connected with priestly ordination services (Ex. 29:26f.; Lev. 8:29), peace offerings (Lev. 7:29f.; 9:18, 20f.), and the concluding rites of a Nazirite vow (Nu. 6:20). This portion of the sacrifice was to be consumed exclusively by the priests (Ex. 29:26; Lev. 7:31).

The breasts are frequently associated with the blessing of God on life and motherhood (Gen. 49:25; Ps. 22:9; 131:2; Lk. 11:27). In keeping with this line of thought, they are also considered a feature of feminine charm (Cant. 4:5-7; 7:7f.; 8:10; Ezk. 16:7). Conversely, however, dry or unfulfilled breasts are sometimes marks of sin and judgment (Hos. 9:14; Lk.

希腊语: kólpos (约 13:23), mastós (路 11:27; 23:29; 启 1:13), stéthos (路 18:13; 23:48; 约 13:25; 21:20; 启 15:6)]; 《钦定版圣经》还译为 BOSOM (“胸、怀”)、BOWELS (“腹、心肠”)、“the caul of their heart” (“心膜”)、PAPS (“怀”)、TEATS (“乳”)等; 《新英文译本》还译为 BOSOM (“胸、怀”)、RIBS (“肋骨”)、TEAT (“乳”)等。在《诗篇》131:2 中, 《修订标准译本》中译为 “breast” (“怀”), 而希伯来语原型仅为 ’ēm, 意思是 “母亲”。

Hāzeh 仅在 P 底本中被提到过一次, 指的仅仅是献祭时用到的动物的胸肉。这些祭物通常属于摇祭, 与祭司的职分 (出 29:26-27; 利 8:29)、平安祭 (利 7:29-30; 9:18, 20-21) 和拿细耳人最后的许愿仪式 (民 6:20) 有关。祭物的这个部分 (胸) 是祭司所得的分 (出 29:26; 利 7:31)。

胸或乳房通常与神对生命和母亲的祝福有关 (创 49:25; 诗 22:9; 131:2; 路 11:27)。从这个思路上讲, 胸或乳房也被认为是女性魅力的一个特征 (歌 4:5-7; 7:7-8; 8:10; 结 16:7)。但反过来讲, 乳干有时候是罪和审判的标志 (何 9:14; 路 23:29); 引申开来, “捶胸” (抒发情感的部位) 则是在表达疼痛、悲伤和痛苦 (赛 32:12; 鸿 2:7; 路

23:29); and by extension, “to beat one’s breast,” the seat of the emotions, is to express pain, grief, and anguish (Isa. 32:12; Nah. 2:7; Lk. 18:13; 23:48; cf. Ps. 22:14).

In the Gospel of John, the disciple “whom Jesus loved” is distinguished by having lain close to Jesus’ breast at the Last Supper (13:23, 25; 21:20). This was the place of honor, at the right hand of the host. Furthermore, this designation is meant to indicate the identity of the Gospel’s author (21:24).

The term also used figuratively. Israel is described allegorically as a beautiful, fully developed maiden whose “breasts were formed” when Yahweh betrothed Himself to her (Ezk. 16:7). But she had already practiced harlotry—i.e., idolatry—in Egypt and continued to do so later with the Assyrians and Babylonians, who also fondled her breasts (Ezk. 23:3–21). For this unfaithfulness, Judah is to be judged so horribly that she will be moved to tear off her breasts (23:24, NEB). But there is also a future hope for Jerusalem; she will be nourished again and draw strength from the nations by sucking at the “breast of kings” (Isa. 60:16). Then her own breasts will supply the milk of consolation to all who are needy; and then all may “drink deeply with delight from the abundance of her glory” (Isa. 66:11).

经文中还采用这个词的比喻义。当耶和华与以色列订婚时，以色列被比喻成发育成熟的美丽少女，她的“两乳成形”（结 16:7）。但她却在埃及行淫，即崇拜偶像，后来又与亚述和巴比伦行淫，也让他们抚摸她的乳（结 23:3-21）。犹大因不忠于神将受到可怕的审判，被切掉两乳（《新英文译本》，结 23:24）。但耶路撒冷在未来还有希望；她将再次被哺育，藉着“吃君王的奶”从万国汲取力量（赛 60:16）。到那时，贫困的能在她那安慰人的怀里吃奶得饱；他们都“得她丰盛的荣耀，犹如挤奶，满心喜乐”（赛 66:11）。

Of obscure nature, it seems to have been a multicolored embroidered fabric square (Ex. 28:15f.), and was attached to the ephod by four golden rings. In or on it were twelve semi-precious stones symbolizing the Israelite tribes, as well as the Urim and Thummim, the latter used in the casting of lots. The pouch or bag was worn by the high priest as the representative of the Israelites when he entered the holy place, thereby bringing the nation vicariously into the divine presence (cf. Ex. 28:29).

BREATHE.

The enemies of the psalmist “breathe out violence” (Ps. 27:12, Heb. yāpah, “breathe hard,” “snort”); and Saul of Tarsus was prior to his conversion “breathing threats and murder against the disciples of the Lord” (Acts 9:1, Gk. empnéō).

In Lam. 3:56 the AV has “hide not thine ear at my breathing [Heb. r^ewāḥā], at my cry.” The RSV reads, “Do not close thine ear to my cry for help!” with the marginal note “Heb. uncertain”; the NEB has: “Do not turn a deaf ear when I cry, ‘Come to my relief.’” The AV “breathing” (cf. rû[a]ḥ) is least likely; see Ex. 8:15, where the same word is translated “respice.” Many commentators emend the text (see BDB, p. 926; IB, in loc.; BH; LXX). The Hebrew word order casts some doubt on the RSV and NEB readings.

在《耶利米哀歌》3:56 中，《钦定版圣经》中译为“hide not thine ear at my breathing [希伯来语：r^ewāḥā], at my cry”。《修订标准译本》中译为“Do not close thine ear to my cry for help!”，旁注为“原希伯来语不详”；《新英文译本》则译为“Do not turn a deaf ear when I cry, ‘Come to my relief’”，汉译均为“我求你解救，你不要掩耳不听”；《钦定版圣经》中的“breathing”（“呼吸”，参：rû[a]ḥ）是最不合适的翻译；见《出埃及记》8:15，在这节经文中，同一个词却被译为“respice”（“松解”）。许多注释者修订了这节经文（见 BDB, 926 页；IB，见本段；BH；《七十士译本》）。

这个希伯来词的词序使人们对《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》中的译文产生了怀疑。

Ex. 20:26). They “reached to the knees” (J. H. Hertz on Ex. 28:42). Josephus described them as worn in his time; they are “in the nature of breeches” with the upper half cut off, ending at the thighs and there tied fast (Ant. iii.7.1).

It is sometimes thought that one of the three articles of dress mentioned in Dnl. 3:21 may have been a trouserlike garment. The RV translates Aram. sarbāl as “hosen,” and the NEB has “trousers”; but J. A. Montgomery (ICC on Daniel) thinks it more likely that his means “mantles” (as does the RSV; cf. AV “coats”) and that the second article, paṭṭīš, refers to trousers. (See also S. A. Cook, Journal of Philology, 26 [1899], 306–313.)

《但以理书》3:21 中提到的三件衣服中有一件有时被认为可能指的是裤子。《修订版圣经》将亚兰语中的 sarbāl 译为 “hosen” (“长裤”), 而《新英文译本》中则译为 “trousers” (“裤子”); 但蒙哥马利 (J. A. In Dt. 28:54, 56; Jer. 6:2 the RSV supplies “bred,” rendering Heb. 'ānōg “delicately bred” (AV “delicate”; NEB “delicate,” “lovely”). The thrust of these passages is that these people are so pampered that even at a time of trouble they can think only of themselves. The RSV also supplies “bred” in Est. 8:10, rendering “bred from the royal stud” for b^enē hārammākīm, which the NEB translates “from the royal stables.”

Used in the piel form yāham means “conceive,” while in the qal it means “be in heat.” Gen. 30:37–43 describes the trickery to which Jacob resorted in order to get the better of Laban. Ancient belief in magic held that the visual characteristics of certain objects placed in the sight of the mother at the time of intercourse would be reflected in the offspring. yāham 的加强主动干的意思是“怀孕”, 而这个词的简单主动干的意思是“配合的时候”。《创世记》30:37–43 中描述了雅各为胜过拉班所使用的诡计。古代的巫术信仰认为, 母亲在配合时看到某种事物的特征将体现在后代的身上。《新英文译本》中交替使用了 “be on heat” (“在配合的时候”) 和 “feel a longing for” (“渴望”) 两个词组, 这似乎表明希伯来语 yāham 最初可能是个双关语。rāba ‘的使役主动干的字面含义是 “使躺下”。以色列人不可叫动物与异类配合 (利 19:19)。《出埃及记》16:20 用希

rāba’ literally means “cause to lie down.” The Israelites were not allowed to mate together two different kinds of animals (Lev. 19:19). Heb. rûm, literally meaning “rise up,” is used in Ex. 16:20 to describe the manna that had become full of worms.

The term is used only once in the NT, in 2 Tim. 2:23. Gk. gennáō, which literally means to “beget” or “bear,” is here used figuratively with the sense of “produce” or “bring forth.”

伯来语 rûm (字面意思“升起、起来”) 形容长满虫子的吗哪。

《新约》只在《提摩太后书》2:23 中使用过这个词。希腊词 gennáō 的字面意思是“产生”或“生”，这节经文用这个词的比喻义来表达“产生”或“引起”的含义。

BRICK

[Heb. l̥bēnâ]. I. Mesopotamia.-The Tower of Babel episode (Gen. 11:1-9) is set in stoneless southern Mesopotamia, where bricks have always been the primary building material. Baked bricks (11:3) were used for foundations, drains, pavements, etc. Walls were generally of sun-dried brick, which, although less permanent than the baked brick, had the advantage of making buildings cooler in summer and warmer in winter.

II. Egypt.-Prisoners were used for government building projects. The tomb painting of Rekhmire shows Egyptian taskmasters carrying sticks and supervising the making of bricks for workshops at Karnak. Water is brought from a pool; mud is mixed with a hoe and then carried to a spot convenient for the brickmaker. This mud is pressed into a wooden mold which the brickmaker holds to the ground. The mold is then lifted off, leaving a newly shaped brick to dry in the sun. Rows and rows of bricks are molded and, when dry, stacked preparatory to use. This procedure is still followed in the Near East.

The tomb painting is of special interest since it is nearly contemporary to the events in Ex. 5. The Israelites were, like prisoners, made to build the store-cities of Pithom and Ramses. They found it necessary to add straw and stubble to their bricks. Straw acts as a binder when the mud is poor in clay. Conversely, straw is added when the mud is too rich in clay, to prevent the bricks from warping and cracking while drying.

【希伯来语：l̥bēnâ】。I. 美索不达米亚的砖。巴别塔（创 11:1-9）建在平坦的美索不达米亚南部，那里没有石头，只能将砖作为主要的建筑材料。烘干的砖（创 11:3）用于打地基、建排水沟、铺路，还有其他的用途。墙体通常是由晒干的砖建成的，虽然这种砖不如烘干的砖坚固，但是它们可以使建筑冬暖夏凉。

II. 埃及的砖。埃及政府用囚犯建造工程。雷克密尔墓中的壁画描绘了埃及监工的形象，他们拿着棍子，在卡纳克对砖窑中的制砖过程进行监督。埃及人从水池中提水；用锄头和泥，然后把这些泥运到方便制砖工人使用的地方。制砖工人把泥压进一个木制模具里，然后拿着模具扣在地上。然后拿开模具，让刚成形的砖在太阳下晒干。一排排的砖被放进模具中，砖被晒干之后，堆放在一起以备使用。近东地区仍然使用这种制砖工序。

墓葬中的壁画尤为引人注目，因为这个壁画几乎与《出埃及记》5章中的事件处于同一时期。如囚犯般的以色列人被迫建造比东和兰塞两座积货城。他们发现需要在砖中加入稻草和麦茬。当泥土粘性不够时，稻草充当着粘合剂。相反，当泥土粘性太强时，要在泥中加入稻草来防止晒干的砖弯曲、破裂。

虽然在雷克密尔墓壁画中看不到稻草，

Rekhmire tomb painting, preserved Egyptian brick structures attest to its use. The importance of straw is also evident in the statement of an Egyptian official that, in his outpost, “there are neither men to make bricks nor straw in the neighborhood.”

Throughout Egyptian history sun-dried brick was the chief building material. Stone was reserved for temples and other monumental constructions. Baked bricks were not generally employed until Roman times.

III. Palestine.—As in Egypt, the baked brick was not common until Roman times. Houses were usually built of sun-dried bricks set on stone foundations. Although stone was recognized as a superior building material (Isa. 9:10), the superstructures of city walls and their gateways were generally of brick. Towers and glacis were designed to compensate for any lack of strength.

See also CLAY.

Bibliography.—A. Lucas, Ancient Egyptian Materials and Industries (4th ed. 1962); R. A. Caminos, Late-Egyptian Miscellanies (n.d.).

但遗留下来的埃及砖体建筑证明，砖中使用了稻草。一位埃及官员的话也清楚地证明了稻草的重要性，他说，在他的前哨“附近地区既没有人制砖，也没有稻草”。

纵观埃及历史，晒干的砖一直是主要的建筑材料。石头则用来建造寺庙和其他不朽的建筑。直到罗马时期才开始普遍使用烧制的砖。

III. 巴勒斯坦的砖。巴勒斯坦和埃及一样，直到罗马时期才开始普遍使用烧制的砖。巴勒斯坦的房屋通常是用晒干的砖建成，用石头作地基。虽然石头被认为是上等的建筑材料（赛 9:10），但城墙的上部结构和门道通常是砖质的。并设计了塔和缓坡来加固建筑。

[Heb. malbēn]. Since Palestinian bricks were normally sun-dried in the OT period, the Hebrew word in 2 S. 12:31 is better translated “brick-mold” (Amer. Tr.) than “brickkiln” (AV, RV, RSV, NEB; cf. Nah. 3:14, where RSV has “brick mold,” NEB “brick-work”). Making bricks was considered the task of prisoners. The ancestors of the new taskmasters had themselves been put to similar toil. The sense of the word is problematic in Jer. 43:9. “Pavement” (RSV, NEB) and “brick-work” (RV) have been suggested.

BRICKKILN 砖窑

【希伯来语：malbēn】。因为在旧约时期，巴勒斯坦的砖通常是晒干的，所以《撒母耳记下》12:31 中的这个希伯来词最好译为“砖模”（美国译本），而不是“砖窑”（《钦定版圣经》《修订译本》《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》；参：鸿 3:14，《修订标准译本》中译为“brick mold”[“砖模”]，《新英文译本》中译为“brick-work”[“砖窑”]）。制砖被认为是囚犯的任务。新督工的祖先也曾卖过类似的苦力。《耶利米书》43:9 中这个词的词义尚未确定。学者们认为这个词可以理解成“砌砖”（《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》）和“砖窑”（《修订版圣经》）。

BRIDE OF CHRIST

[Gk. nymphē—‘bride’] (Jn. 3:29; Rev. 21:2, 9; 22:17); [gynē—‘wife’] (Rev. 19:7; 21:9); [parthénos—‘virgin’] (2 Cor. 11:2); [kyria—‘lady’] (2 Jn. 1, 5). An image for the Church which emphasizes the ideas of purity, subjection, faithfulness, and intimate communion with Christ her bridegroom-husband; one constituent feature of a larger complex of nuptial imagery symbolizing the relationship between Christ and the Church (see MARRIAGE). While the OT is the primary source of this imagery, its application to the relationship between Christ and His Church in the NT was facilitated by (1) the messianic interpretation of some features of OT nuptial imagery in Judaism, (2) the tendency in Judaism to depict the messianic age as a wedding feast, (3) early Christianity’s functional substitution of Jesus for Yahweh, and (4) the Greco-Roman penchant for personifying corporate bodies with feminine imagery.

The OT occasionally used the image of a bride (Heb. kallā, k^llūlā), together with other aspects of nuptial imagery, to depict Israel’s relationship to Yahweh (2 S. 17:3 [var. adopted by RSV, NEB]; Isa. 49:18; 61:10; 62:5; Jer. 2:2, 32). Other OT references of particular interest, in view of later Jewish and early Christian allegorical interpretation, are found in Cant. 4:8–12; 5:1. This bridal imagery primarily emphasizes devotion (Jer. 2:2) and the joy of the bride (Isa. 61:10; 62:5); the voice of the bridegroom and the bride were proverbial for mirth and gladness (cf. Jer. 7:34; 16:9; 25:10; 33:11). In view of Israel’s recrudescing tendency to seek illegitimate foreign alliances and to participate in the fertility rites of Canaanite religion, an even more frequent—though pejorative—image is that of the harlot or adulteress (Hos. 2:2–3:5; 4:14f.; Jer. 3:1; Ezk. 16:6–63; 23:1–49). These prophets use this negative image to condemn Israel’s behavior as a heinous violation of the covenant relationship between Yahweh and Israel.

BRIDE OF CHRIST 基督的新娘

《旧约》中有时会用新娘(希伯来语：kallā, k^llūlā)的意象和婚姻意象的其他角色来描述以色列与耶和華的关系(撒下 17:3[《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》中译法不同]; 赛 49:18; 61:10; 62:5; 耶 2:2, 32)。根据后期犹太教和早期基督教的寓意解经，在《雅歌》4:8-12 和 5:1 中可以看到《旧约》中的其他特别值得关注的婚姻意象。新娘的意象主要强调了恩爱(耶 2:2)和新娘的欢喜(赛 61:10; 62:5); 众所周知，新郎和新娘的声音代表着喜乐(参：耶 7:34; 16:9; 25:10; 33:11)。由于以色列人再次寻求与外邦人建立不合乎律法的婚姻，并参加迦南宗教中的生育仪式，娼妓或淫妇是更经常被提及且具

In interpreting the giving of the covenant at Sinai, later Judaism used the imagery of a marriage between Yahweh and Israel, with the Torah as the marriage contract, and Moses as the best man (TDNT, I, 654). Beginning with the 1st cent. A.D., the rabbis had interpreted the nuptial imagery of Canticles in terms of the love of God (=bridegroom) for Israel (=bride); cf. SB, I, 516f., 844, 898, 969f.; III, 501, 822. While it is technically correct to claim that the allegory of the bridegroom (=Yahweh) was never applied to the Messiah by Judaism (TDNT, IV, 1102), the messianic interpretation of the Royal Wedding Song preserved in Ps. 45 (which contains a wealth of nuptial imagery) saw the Messiah in the figure of the king-bridegroom (SB, III, 679f., quoting the Targum on Ps. 45). The Israelite king is rather astonishingly addressed as “God” in Ps. 45:6, and the NT applies the statements made in Ps. 45 to Christ in Heb. 1:8f. (cf. Justin, Dial. 56, 63, 86). Since Judaism also compared the Day of the Messiah to a wedding feast (SB, I, 517f.), these factors undoubtedly facilitated the application of the bride-bridegroom imagery to Christ and the Church.

In the NT, Jesus used the parables of the wedding feast (Mt. 22:2–14; cf. Lk.

有轻蔑意义的意象（何 2:2-3:5；4:14-15；耶 3:1；结 16:6-63；23:1-49）。这些先知用这些反面意象谴责以色列的行为是对耶和华与以色列圣约关系的可憎的背叛。

后来犹太教用耶和华和以色列的婚姻意象来解释在西奈山所立的约，将律法解释成婚约，将摩西理解成伴郎（TDNT, I, 654）。从1世纪开始，拉比根据上帝（新郎）对以色列（新娘）的爱来解释《雅歌》中的婚姻意象；参：SB, I, 516-517, 844, 898, 969-970；III, 501, 822。虽然确切地说，犹太教从未用新郎（耶和华）比喻弥赛亚（TDNT, IV, 1102），《诗篇》45（其中包含大量婚姻意象）在王的爱慕歌做出了弥赛亚式的解释，弥撒亚被比喻成作君王和新郎（SB, III, 679-680，引自《他尔根》中的《诗篇》45）。令人惊奇的是，这位以色列人的王在《诗篇》45:6 中被称为“神”，《新约》《希伯来书》1:8-9 用《诗篇》45 中的话来描述基督（参：Justin, Dial. 56, 63, 86）。因为犹太教也将弥赛亚降临的日子比喻成一场婚筵（SB, I, 517-518），所以这些因素无疑促成了经文中用新郎和新娘的意象来比喻基督和教会。

在《新约》中，耶稣用婚筵的比喻（太 22:2-14；参：路 12:35-38）和聪明与愚

12:35–38), and the wise and foolish virgins (Mt. 25:1–13) to depict the coming kingdom of God; in neither parable does He refer to Himself as the bridegroom. Jesus never refers to the redeemed community as bride, but rather as wedding guests, as in Mt. 22:2–10, 11–14; 25:1–13; Mk. 2:19a. Jesus does refer to Himself as the bridegroom in Mk. 2:19 (par. Mt. 9:15); Lk. 5:34f. In a closely related passage, John the Baptist refers to Jesus as the bridegroom and to himself as the friend of the bridegroom (Jn. 3:29).

The earliest NT reference to the Church as the bride of Christ is 2 Cor. 11:2, where Paul consciously functions as the best man: “I betrothed you to Christ to present you as a pure bride to her one husband.” Since the context refers to the serpent’s deception of Eve as an analogy to the possibility that the Corinthians may stray after a deviant form of the gospel, it is clear that two aspects of the OT background have influenced Paul: (1) the faithfulness/unfaithfulness aspects of nuptial imagery emphasized by Hosea, Jeremiah, and Ezekiel, and (2) the Adam-Eve typology which involves the notion of Jesus as husband (=Adam) and the Church as bride (=Eve); cf. Minear, p. 55. Paul further elaborates the Adam-Eve typology in Eph. 5:22–31, and he interprets the “mystery” of Gen. 2:24 (“the two shall become one flesh”) as a reference to Christ and His Church (Eph. 5:32), thereby implying that the union of the first couple (as well as all subsequent monogamous unions) foreshadows the marriage of Christ and His Church (Chavasse, p. 75). This same typological interpretation is explicated in the early 2nd cent. in 2 Clem 14:2. Gnostic Christianity evolved a sacrament of mystical marriage by taking such ideas to their extreme (Grant, pp. 183–194). The central ideas conveyed through Paul’s use of nuptial imagery in Eph. 5:22–31 include the wife’s (=Church’s) role of subjection and obedience, together with the husband’s (=Christ’s) role of self-sacrifice and authority (Minear, p. 55).

拙的童女的比喻（太 25:1-13）来描绘即将到来的神国；祂在两个比喻中都没有把自己比作新郎。耶稣从未将被救赎的会众比作新娘，而是把他们比作宾客，如在《马太福音》22:2–10, 11–14; 25:1–13 和《马可福音》2:19a 中。耶稣确实在《马可福音》2:19（平行经文：太 9:15）和《路加福音》5:34-35 中将自己比作新郎。在一段密切相关的段落中，施洗约翰将耶稣比作新郎，并将他自己比喻成新郎的朋友（约 3:29）。

Other marginal Pauline uses of the bride image reveal the vitality of the metaphor in his thought. In Rom. 7:1–6 he observes that a married woman is bound by the law to her husband so long as he lives. The nuptial analogy is then applied by Paul to Christians who are now free to belong to another, i.e., to Christ who has been raised from the dead. In another allusion to Gen. 2:24 Paul tells the Corinthian congregation that he who joins himself to a prostitute becomes one body with her, “but he who is united to the Lord becomes one spirit with him” (1 Cor. 6:15–17). Throughout the rest of the NT letters, only in 2 Jn. 1, 5 (cf. 1 Pet. 5:13) is feminine imagery applied to the Church, in the expression “elect lady.”

The most frequent reference in the NT to the Church as the bride of Christ occurs in Revelation. John applies the image not to the redeemed community directly, but rather to the heavenly Jerusalem which descends from heaven to a transformed earth. The heavenly Jerusalem is itself a symbol for the Church (Aune, pp. 146–48). The appropriateness of the bridal imagery in the context of the eschatological consummation lies in the fact that Judaism compared the messianic age to a marriage of God and Israel (SB, I, 500ff.), as well as to a wedding feast. The fine clothing of the bride symbolizes the righteous deeds of the saints (Rev. 19:8), and the comparison of the heavenly Jerusalem with a bride adorned for her husband (alluding to Isa. 61:10) emphasizes the readiness and anxious anticipation of the Church for Christ (Rev. 21:2; 22:17).

保罗所使用的其他不重要的新娘意象显示出这个比喻在他思想中的活力。在《罗马书》7:1–6中，他注意到，只要丈夫还活着，已婚的女人就始终被律法约束。随后保罗将婚姻的比喻用到基督徒身上，他们现在归于别人，即那从死里复活的基督。保罗告诉哥林多会众，与娼妓联合的，便是与她成为一体，“但与主联合的，便是与主成为一灵”（林前 6:15-17），这再一次暗指了《创世记》2:24 中的经文。在《新约》的其他书信中，只有《约翰二书》1:1 和 1:5（参：彼前 5:13）用女性意象指代教会，称教会为“蒙拣选的太太”。

That the inhabitants of the land had experienced the terrors of burning sulphur is very probable. Once one of these deposits took fire it would melt and run in burning streams down the ravines spreading everywhere suffocating fumes such as come from the ordinary brimstone match. No more realistic figure could be chosen to depict terrible suffering and destruction. It is not at all unlikely that during some of the disastrous earthquakes which took place in this part of the world, the hot lava sent forth ignited not only the sulphur but also the bitumen, and added to the horrors of the earthquake the destruction caused by burning pitch and brimstone.

The term “brimstone” is used figuratively to denote divine punishment of the wicked in Dt. 29:23; Job 18:15; Ps. 11:6; Isa. 30:33; Ezk. 38:22; Lk. 17:29.

《申命记》29:23 ;《约伯记》18:15;《诗篇》11:6;《以赛亚书》30:33 ;《以西结书》38:22 和《路加福音》17:29 都用“硫磺”这个词来比喻神对恶人的惩罚。

BROAD PLACE 宽阔之处、宽阔之地

【希伯来语: merhāb (撒下 22:20; 诗 18:19[《马所拉文本》20]; 31:8), rahāb (伯 36:16)】;《钦定版圣经》中译为 LARGE PLACE (“宽阔之处”);《新英文译本》中译为 OPEN PLACE (“宽阔之地”)、“free to range” (“宽阔之处”, broad, roomy place. Wherever merhāb and rahāb occur, a context of salvation is implied: freedom from oppression and anxiety. The same suggestion is carried in places where the translation “broad place” is not employed; e.g., Ps. 118:5, “The Lord answered me and set me free [merhāb].” The metaphor gains its vividness from the figure of a person who understands himself to be already in the power or realm of death, imploring God that he be delivered (e.g., Ps. 30:1–3, 8–10). This does not necessarily imply any idea of a resurrection from the dead.

Dahood (Psalms, I [AB, 1966], 111) argues that merhāb is a poetic name for the nether world, and therefore the realm from which one sought to be delivered rather than to which one should be delivered. However, his interpretation is not very convincing. Rather, in the contexts in which it occurs (except Hab. 1:6), merhāb is more easily interpreted as referring to a place or situation that is good, safe, and unrestricted.

In Ps. 18:4f. the sufferer sees death holding him within its power. He appeals to God, and God hears his cry (v. 6) and sets him in a broad place, where he is no longer surrounded or threatened by his enemy (vv. 16–19; cf. 31:4, 7f.).

达奥特 (Psalms, I [AB, 1966], 111) 认为 merhāb 是阴间富有诗意的名字, 因此表示人们希望被拯救“出”的领域, 而不是被送“入”的领域。然而, 他的解释不太令人信服。相反, 在用到 merhāb 语境中(除了《哈巴谷书》1:6), 这个词更容易被理解成美好、安全和自由的地方或处境。 were subsequently introduced into Egypt, probably from Sumer. At a later period the Egyptians made the alloy themselves, bringing their copper from Sinai, Cyprus, or northern Syria (see COPPER), and their tin from the Balkan regions or from Spain or the British Isles (see TIN). When the Israelites came into the Promised Land, they found the Canaanites already skilled in the making and use of bronze instruments. This period marked the transition from the Bronze Age to the Iron Age in Palestine. Museums possessing antiquities from Bible lands have among their collections many and varied bronze objects. Among the most common are nails, lamps, hand mirrors, locks, cutting instruments, etc. Within comparatively recent times brass, an alloy of copper and zinc, has been introduced into Syria. Bronze is practically unknown in the modern native arts (see CRAFTS).

在《诗篇》18:4-5 中, 受苦的人看到死亡的权柄掌控着他。他呼求神, 神听到了他的声音(诗 18:6), 把他领到宽阔之处, 他在那里不再受到劲敌的围攻或威胁(诗 18:16-19; 参: 诗 31:4, 7-8)。

BROOCH

[Heb. ḥāḥ]. The term is used in the plural by the RSV (AV “bracelets”; NEB “clasps”) to denote a class of jewelry brought as offerings by both men and women of Israel (Ex. 35:22). The golden pins of the wilderness period were replaced at a later time by bow-shaped ones of bronze or iron, specimens of which have been recovered from Palestine.

BROOK OF EGYPT

[Heb. nahal miṣrayim—‘torrential stream (or valley) of Egypt,’ best rendered by ‘wadi,’ which indicates both a stream and its valley]; AV RIVER OF EGYPT; NEB TORRENT OF EGYPT. The Brook of Egypt is mentioned five times in the OT (Nu. 34:5; Josh. 15:4, 47; 1 K. 8:65; Isa. 27:12), and since its correct identification is still far from clear it is necessary to distinguish certain related Hebrew terms with considerable care. The expression yē’ôr miṣrayim, the “river of Egypt,” refers exclusively to the Nile proper, while the term nēhar miṣrayim occurs once only (Gen. 15:18), in a passage describing the Promised Land in general terms as lying in an area between the two great rivers of the Nile and Euphrates.

The phrases yē’ôr miṣrayim and nēhar miṣrayim must therefore be kept separate from the Brook of Egypt, which is more accurately the “torrent-wadi of Egypt.” Whether this wadi was actually part of the Nile, or was instead a separate desert stream near the borderland of Egypt, has been a matter of considerable debate. Adherents of the former view have associated the identification of the Brook of Egypt with that of Shihor, which for some of the OT prophets formed part of the Nile. Thus Isaiah drew a parallelism between Shihor and the Nile (Isa. 23:3), while Jeremiah envisaged Shihor as the Egyptian Nile corresponding to the great Assyrian river Euphrates (Jer. 2:18).

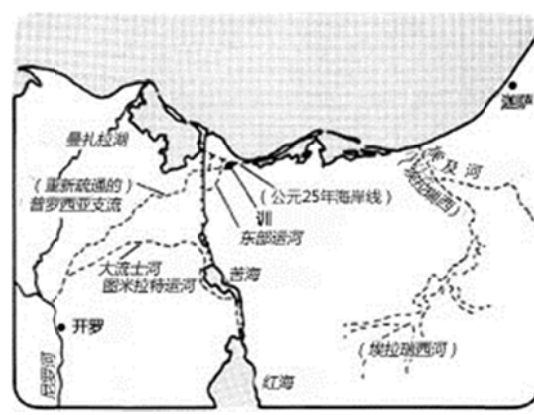

BROOK OF EGYPT 埃及河

【希伯来语: nahal miṣrayim——“埃及的急流(或山谷)”,最好将之译为“溪谷”,既指溪流,也指山谷】;《钦定版圣经》中译为 RIVER OF EGYPT;《新英文译本》中译为 TORRENT OF EGYPT, 汉译均为“埃及河”。《旧约》中共提及埃及河五次(民 34:5; 书 15:4, 47; 王上 8:65; 赛 27:12),既然人们现在仍然无法确定埃及河的确切身份,所以必须谨慎地区分某些相关的希伯来语。yē’ôr miṣrayim 的意思是“埃及的河流”,专门用来指尼罗河,而 nēhar miṣrayim 仅在经文中出现一次(创 15:18),这段经文将应许之地笼统地描述为位于尼罗河和幼发拉底河两条大河之间的地区。

因此,必须将短语 yē’ôr miṣrayim 和 nēhar miṣrayim 与埃及河区别开来,更确切地说,埃及河指的是一条“埃及的急流”。这条溪谷到底是尼罗河的支流,还是埃及境界附近一条独立的沙漠甘泉,这仍是一个存有很大争议的问题。前一种观点的拥护者认为埃及河就是西曷河,因为《旧约》中的一些先知认为埃及河是尼罗河的支流。因此,以赛亚将西曷河与尼罗河进行类比(赛 23:3),而耶利米认为西曷河是埃及的尼罗河,与亚述的大河幼发拉底河相对应(耶 2:18)。根据《约书亚记》13:3 中的描述,西曷河构成了应许之地最西南面的境界,这说明西曷河在“埃及前面”。所以,西曷河是尼罗河最东边古支流普罗西亚河(Pelusiatic)上海拔最

According to Josh. 13:3, Shihor marked the extreme southwestern boundary of the territory to be occupied in the Promised Land, and specified it as being “before Egypt.” Shihor could thus be identified with the lowest extent of the Pelusiatic, the most easterly ancient branch of the Nile River, which flowed into the Mediterranean Sea just E of Pelusium (Tell Faramâ). The name Shihor (š-ḥr) was Egyptian in origin, and meant “Waters of Horus.” Such references to it as have survived in Egyptian sources confirm the location attributed to it by OT writers insofar as they mention that Shihor produced salt and rushes for the delta capital of Tanis (Avaris), and that it was the official “river” of the fourteenth nome (province) of Lower Egypt. Arguing against the identification of the naḥal mišrayim with the Shihor, the easternmost branch of the Nile, the Shihor is never designated in the OT by the Heb. naḥal but always by the word y^e’ôr (which is applied on one occasion to the Tigris, Dnl. 12:5–7).

低的一段，它注入训（法拉玛废丘[Tell Faramâ]）正东面的地中海。西曷(š-ḥr)这个名字源自埃及语，意思是“[神祇]荷鲁斯的水”。埃及遗留下来的文献中也提到了西曷河，这证实了旧约作者所描述的西曷河的位置，他们提到西曷河产盐，流经三角洲上的都城坦尼斯(阿瓦里斯)，是隶属于下埃及第十四省(行省)的“河流”。《旧约》中从未用希伯来语 naḥal 指代西曷河，而是用 y^e’ôr (有一次用这个词指代底格里斯河，《但以理书》12:5–7) 来表示这条河，这驳斥了 naḥal mišrayim 是尼罗河最东边的支流西曷河的说法。

If the Brook of Egypt cannot be identified with either a portion or the whole of the Nile, the best alternative suggestion is that of the Wādī el-‘Arīsh. This wadi comes down from a plateau at the foot of the central mountain group of the Sinai Peninsula. The upper portion of the wadi is some 400 ft. (120 m.) above sea level, and its course, apart from one sharp bend to the west in the upper portion, runs almost due N along the western slope of the plateau. Its entire length of about 140 mi. (225 km.) runs through predominantly desert terrain, being situated about 90 mi. (145 km.) E of the ancient Egyptian Nile-oriented civilizations, at its northern extremity, about 50 mi. (80 km.) W of the Gaza region. Only barren desert and a little scrub can be seen lying westward toward Egypt, but this prospect is somewhat more relieved on the eastern side of the wadi, where there are some meadows and arable land of passable productivity. Most of the streams on the Sinai Peninsula are in fact dry watercourses for much of the year, and only when they are in flood do they assume the character of a torrent-wadi. Such flooding is apt to come with little or no warning when cloudbursts occur in the mountainous region drained by the particular wadi. From the above it will be apparent that the Brook of Egypt would constitute a practical southwestern boundary for the Promised Land in that it excluded the desert areas to the west and included the tolerably fertile land E of the Wādī el-‘Arīsh.

如果埃及河不是尼罗河的一部分，也不是整条尼罗河，那么它最有可能是埃拉瑞西河(Wādī el-‘Arīsh)。这条河流沿着西奈半岛中部山脉脚下的高原向下游流淌。这条河流上游的海拔约为400英尺(120米)，除了河流上游有一个向西的急转弯道，整条河流几乎沿着高原的西坡向正北方向流淌。该河流全长

In extrabiblical texts the Brook of Egypt was mentioned in inscriptions from the time of Sargon II and Esarhaddon of Assyria. In 716 B.C. Sargon marched as far westward as the “Wadi (or Brook) of Egypt” (naḥal muṣur) and opened up the “sealed harbor of Egypt” for purposes of trade and commerce. The same inscription also mentioned the “border of the City of the Brook of Egypt,” over which Sargon appointed an Assyrian governor. The description aligns well with the assumption that the naḥal muṣur was the

约 140 英里 (225 公里), 主要流经沙漠地带, 位于古埃及尼罗河灌溉文明以东 90 英里 (145 公里) 处, 在沙漠地带的北端, 迦萨以西约 50 英里 (80 公里) 处。从埃及河向西直到埃及只能看到土壤贫瘠的沙漠和一些灌木, 河流东岸的景色稍好一些, 这里有一些草地和尚可耕种的土地。实际上, 西奈半岛的大多数河流在一年的大部分时间里不过是些干涸的河道, 只有当河水泛滥时, 它们才称得上急流。当大暴雨降临到被特定河流排干的山区时, 河水很容易毫无预兆地泛滥起来。根据上面的描述, 埃及河显然构成了应许之地的西南面的实际境界, 因为它不包括西部的沙漠地区, 却包括埃拉瑞西河东部土壤相当肥沃的良田。

在《圣经》之外的其他文献中, 亚述的撒珥根二世和以撒哈顿时期的铭文中提到了埃及河。公元前 716 年, 撒珥根向西进军, 一直打到“埃及河” (naḥal muṣur), 为了进行贸易和商业活动, 他打开了“封闭的埃及港口”。同一份铭文中还提到“埃及河城市的边境”, 撒珥根曾任命亚述总督管辖这里。这个描述很符合 naḥal muṣur 就是埃拉瑞西河的假设, 坐落于埃拉瑞西河沿岸的这座“城市”(亚述语: Arzâ) 实际上就是埃里斯 (el-‘Arīsh) 定居点。如果撒珥根侵略埃及领土时, 一直打到尼罗河的

Wādī el-‘Arīsh, and that the “City” located there (Assyr. Arzā) was in fact the settlement of el-‘Arīsh. Had Sargon penetrated Egyptian territory as far as the easternmost arm of the Nile, his “City” would then have been Pelusium, which seems improbable from the cuneiform evidence. The inscriptions of Esarhaddon also spoke of the “City” as Arza (ni), and again its locale corresponds better with el-‘Arīsh than with Pelusium. While the Egyptians of the 19th Dynasty generally regarded the Pelusiatic region as the borderline of Egypt proper, this has no necessary bearing upon Israel’s concept of her own boundaries. At this time the Egyptians maintained wells along the entire coastal strip from Silē (modern Qantara), a few miles SE of the ancient Pelusiatic, up to Gaza in Palestine, and for convenience defined the latter as stretching from Silē to ‘Upa (Damascus). But this again says nothing about the view Israel held concerning her borders, and as far as the southern extremity is concerned has little bearing upon the problem, since the area from the el-‘Arīsh to Qantara is desolate in any event, and as such would hardly be included in a catalog of fertile territory.

At present, therefore, the Wādī el-‘Arīsh seems better suited to be considered the Brook of Egypt than the Pelusiatic branch of the Nile.

BROOM TREE

[Heb. rōṭem] (1 K. 19:4f.; Job 30:4; Ps. 120:4); AV JUNIPER; NEB also BROOM-BUSH (1 K. 19:4), lacking in Psalms (“charcoal”).

最东边，那么属撒珥根的“城市”应该是训，但是楔形文字证据表明，这似乎不太可能。以撒哈顿的铭文中也称这座“城市”为亚杂（尼）(Arza [ni])，这再一次说明这座城市很有可能是埃里斯，而不是训。虽然第十九王朝的埃及人通常认为普罗西亚地区是埃及的边界线，但这与以色列人的边境观念没有必然的联系。此时，埃及人掌控着从斯勒（Silē，现代坎塔拉）至巴勒斯坦迦萨的整个海岸地带的水井，斯勒位于普罗西亚东南几英里处，并且为了方便起见，他们将后者定义为从斯勒延伸到乌巴（大马士革）。但这也与以色列的边境观念没有关系，而南部边境与这个问题关联甚小，因为从埃里斯到坎塔拉的区域在各个时期都是荒凉之地，几乎算不上土壤肥沃的地区。

因此，目前看来，埃及河更有可能是埃拉瑞西河，而不是尼罗河的普罗西亚支流。

【希伯来语：rōṭem】（王上 19:4-5；伯 30:4；诗 120:4）；《钦定版圣经》中译为 JUNIPER（“杜松”）；《新英文译本》中还译为 BROOM-BUSH（“罗腾树”，王上 19:4），在《诗篇》中省略了这个

词（“炭火”）。

The references in 1 Kings and Psalms are to the white broom, Retama raetam (Forsk.) Webb. and Berth., known to the Arabs as ratam (cf. Gk. rathmén, 1 K. 19:4). A beautiful shrub widely distributed in Palestine, Sinai, and Egypt, it can attain a height of 12 ft. (3.5 m.). Though its sparse leaves afford scant shade, it is often used for this purpose by desert travelers (cf. 1 K. 19:4). The wood burns vigorously, furnishing excellent charcoal (Ps. 120:4; cf. NEB).

The roots in Job 30:4 are not those of the white broom, which are nauseous and slightly poisonous. Some botanists have suggested instead the edible parasitic plant Cynomorium coccineum, which grows in salt marshes. Following the RV mg. and RSV, AV “their meat” should be rendered rather “to warm themselves,” from a verb hmm (Ug. hmm; Akk. emmu).

这个词在《列王纪上》和《诗篇》中指的是白金雀花，拉丁学名：Retama raetam (Forsk.) Webb. and Berth.，阿拉伯人称之为 ratam（参：希腊语：rathmén，王上 19:4）。巴勒斯坦、西奈和埃及地区分布广泛的一种漂亮的灌木，它可以长到 12 英尺（3.5 米）高。虽然它稀疏的叶子不能提供多少阴凉，但沙漠中旅行者经常在这种树下纳凉（参：王上 19:4）。罗腾木燃烧旺盛，是很好的炭火材料（诗 120:4；参：《新英文译本》）。

《约伯记》30:4 中的树根不是白金雀花的树根，罗腾树的树根令人感到恶心，略带有毒性。有些植物学家认为这节经文中提到的树根是一种生长于盐沼中可食用的寄生植物锁阳（Cynomorium coccineum）。按照《修订版圣经》的旁注和《修订标准译本》中的翻译，根据动词 hmm（乌加列语：hmm；阿卡德语：emmu），《钦定版圣经》中的“their meat”（“他们的食物”）应该译为“to warm themselves”（“使他们自己温暖”）。

BROTHER

[Heb. 'āh; Gk. adelphós]. Besides the usual literal meaning, “brother” is used extensively in both the OT and NT of other relations and relationships. Abram’s nephew Lot is termed “brother” (Gen. 14:14); Moses’ fellow countrymen are “brethren” (Acts 3:22; cf. He. 7:5). It may indicate a member of the same tribe (2 S. 19:12); an ally (Am. 1:9); or an allied or cognate people (Nu. 20:14). It is used of common discipleship (Mt. 23:8); of moral likeness or kinship (Prov. 18:9); or friends (Job 6:15); an equal in rank or office (1 K. 9:13); one of the same faith (Acts 11:29; 1 Cor. 5:11). It is a favorite oriental metaphor used to express likeness or similarity (Job 30:29, “I am a brother to jackals”). It can indicate a fellow priest or office bearer (Ezr. 3:2). Paul called Sosthenes “brother” (1 Cor. 1:1) and Timothy his spiritual son and associate (2 Cor. 1:1). It may signify spiritual kinship (Mt. 12:50). Finally, it is a term adopted by the early disciples and Christians to express their fraternal love for each other in Christ, and universally adopted as the language of love and brotherhood in His kingdom in all subsequent time (2 Pet. 3:15; Col. 4:7, 9, 15).

Jesus made “brother” and “neighbor” in a sense equivalent terms (Mt. 7:3f.), as though to extend the love and care expected within the family unit to those with whom His people have contact. Brotherhood was to become a hallmark of the Lord’s people, His Church. The rabbis distinguished between “brother” and “neighbor,” applying “brother” to Israelites by blood, “neighbor” to proselytes, but allowing neither title to the Gentiles. Christ and the apostles gave the

【希伯来语：'āh；希腊语：adelphós】。除了通常的字面含义，《旧约》和《新约》大量使用“brother”一词表示其他的关系和人际关系。亚伯兰的侄儿罗得被叫做“弟兄”（创 14:14）；摩西的同胞被称为“弟兄”（徒 3:22；参：来 7:5）。这个词可以表示同一支派中的一个成员（撒下 19:12）、一个同盟（摩 1:9）、结盟或同族的人（民 20:14）。它可以表示共同的门徒身份（太 23:8）、德行相似或亲密关系（箴 18:9）、朋友（伯 6:15）、同样的级别或官职的人（王上 9:13）和同样信仰的人（徒 11:29；林前 5:11）。东方人最喜欢用这个比喻表达相似性或相似点（伯 30:29，“我与野狗为弟兄”）。它可以表示同伴的祭司或官员（拉 3:2）。保罗称所提尼为“兄弟”（林前 1:1），称提摩太为他属灵的儿子和同工（林后 1:1）。“兄弟或弟兄”可以表示一种属灵的亲密关系（太 12:50）。最后，早期的门徒和基督徒采用这个词表达在基督里的相互友爱，后期基督王国中的人都用这个词表达爱和兄弟关系（彼后 3:15；西 4:7, 9, 15）。

耶稣认为“弟兄”和“邻舍”的含义相同（太 7:3-4），就好像那些与神之子民有联系的人也将得到了神家成员所得到的怜爱和看顾。兄弟关系是主的子民，即祂的教会的一个印记。拉比认为“弟兄”和“邻舍”是两个不同的词，“弟兄”是对有血缘关系的以色列人的称谓，而“邻舍”是对归信者的称谓，但不能称外邦人为“弟兄”或“邻舍”。基督和使徒称所有的基督徒为“弟兄”。毋庸置疑，纵观整个基督纪元，教会内的兄弟之情唤起了世人对这份情谊的

BROTHERHOOD 弟兄的情谊

【希伯来语: ’ah^awa (亚 11:14); 希腊语: adelphótēs (彼前 2:17; 5:9); 有时(《修订标准译本》)也用来翻译希伯来语 ’āh (摩 1:9) 和希腊语 adelphoi (林前 6:5)】; 《钦定版圣经》还译为 BROTHERN (“弟兄”) 和 “brotherly” (“弟兄的”); 《新英文译本》还译为 KINSHIP (“弟兄情谊”) 和 “brother Christian” (“弟兄基督徒”)。与经文中频繁出现的 “brother” (“兄弟、弟兄”) 和 “brethren” (“弟兄”) 相比, 这个词出现的次数非常少, 这似乎表明这种生死攸关的关系自然需要用最准确的词来表达: “弟兄”。但在《彼得前书》2:17 中, 这个抽象词用作具体词。《旧约》中强调了所有以色列人之间的弟兄情谊; 但在《新约》中, 在基督里的弟兄情谊是一种更深、更浓的关系, 这种关系超越了其他所有的关系。另见 BROTHER (兄弟、弟兄)。

BROTHERLY LOVE 弟兄的爱

【希腊语: philadelphia】(来 13:1); 还译为 BROTHERLY AFFECTION (“弟兄的爱”, 罗 12:10; 彼后 1:7); LOVE

BRETHREN (1 Thess. 4:9); AV also BROTHERLY KINDNESS (2 Pet. 1:7); NEB LOVE FOR OUR BROTHERHOOD, BROTHERLY KINDNESS, “love your fellow-Christians.” These terms, more than any others, set forth the distinctive character of the relationship between Christians. Whereas the term “love” (Gk. agápē) can be used for the attitude of believers both toward one another (Jn. 15:12) and toward society in general (1 Thess. 3:12; cf. Mt. 5:44), philadelphia is restricted to love of the brotherhood of believers (adelphótēs). This is especially apparent when the two terms occur in the same context, as in 2 Pet. 1:7. See LOVE III.

The insistence that all men are children of God simply by virtue of creation tends to depreciate or even obliterate the distinctiveness of philadelphia. All are indeed the offspring of God (Acts 17:28) and by virtue of that fact can be regarded as potential children of God, but the new birth is necessary for this to become a reality (Jn. 1:12f.).

The Mosaic law made its demand, “You shall love your neighbor as yourself” (Lev. 19:18), which was to be realized not merely in sentiment but in seeking the neighbor’s good, by refusing to lie to him or bear false witness against him, and by resisting the temptation to covet his possessions. The term “neighbor” was understood to apply in a local or at most a national sense. Jesus broadened the frame of reference to include anyone who is near and in need of help. In similar fashion He enlarged the content of the word “brother,” refusing to restrict it to fellow Israelites, but instead giving it a spiritual dimension by acknowledging that His brethren were those who did the will of God (Mt. 12:50). The Church is heir to this reinterpretation, for while the term “brother” continues to be used in the familiar nativistic sense it is far more often used of both men and women (“brethren”) who have become believers.

OF THE BRETHREN (“兄弟们相爱”，帖前 4:9)；《钦定版圣经》还译为 BROTHERLY KINDNESS (“爱弟兄的心”，彼后 1:7)；《新英文译本》中译为 LOVE FOR OUR BROTHERHOOD (“爱弟兄”)、BROTHERLY KINDNESS (“爱弟兄的心”)、“love your fellow-Christians” (“爱弟兄”)。与其他词相比，这些词最能表达基督徒之间关系的显著特点。但一般来说，“love” (“爱”，希腊语：agápē) 既能表达信徒之间的态度 (约 15:12)，又能表达他们对社会的基本态度 (帖前 3:12；参：太 5:44)，philadelphia 只能表达信徒 (adelphótēs) 间的弟兄般的爱。当这两个词同时出现在一个语境中时，这一点体现得尤为明显，如在《彼得后书》1:7 中。见 LOVE III (爱 III)。

摩西律法中作出了规定，“你却要爱人如己” (利 19:18)，不仅要在情感上爱他们，还要不对邻舍撒谎，不作假见证反对他们，并抵制觊觎邻舍财产的诱惑，从而做到与邻为善。可以按照地域意义，甚至按照国家意义来理解“邻舍”一词。耶稣扩大了这个词的含义，祂所说的邻舍包括所有临近的人和所有需要帮助的人。祂同样扩大了“兄弟、弟兄”的含义，这个词不再单纯指所有以色列人，祂承认凡遵行天父旨意的人都是祂的弟兄 (太 12:50)，从而赋予了这个词属灵的含义。教会是这种重新解释的继承者，因为虽然教会继续使用“弟兄”的常见的先天论含义，但是更经常

A high note in the use of terminology is sounded when the NT records Jesus’ willingness to speak of His followers as His brethren (Jn. 20:17; cf. Rom. 8:29; He. 2:11, 17). This is love in magnificent condescension, calculated to remove all barriers of station and attainment in the exercise of mutual love among His followers.

Apostolic teaching frankly acknowledges the danger that brotherly love may be allowed to degenerate into a profession of word unsupported by the reality of deed (1 Jn. 3:18; cf. 1 Cor. 6:8). One’s refusal to give aid to a brother in need raises a serious question as to whether God’s love really dwells in him (1 Jn. 3:17). On the other hand true brotherly love produces a willingness even to sacrifice one’s life for another (1 Jn. 3:16).

At times one detects a deliberate use of “brethren” in direct address when an apostle or church leader feels the need of admonishing his readers and wishes to assure them in so doing that he loves them and has their best interests at heart (e.g., 1 Cor. 1:11; Jas. 2:1, 5, 14). This serves to soften the sharpness of necessary criticism.

According to Jesus, brotherly love is the badge of true discipleship and has the potential to reflect His love for the world

当《新约》中记载道,耶稣主动承认祂的所有追随者都是祂的弟兄时(约 20:17; 参:罗 8:29; 来 2:11, 17),这个词的用法得到了有力地证明。这是耶稣屈尊的爱,旨在消除身份的障碍,成就信徒之间的互爱。

使徒教义中坦言弟兄的爱可能会只在言语和舌头上,而不表现在行为和诚实上(约壹 3:18; 参:林前 6:8)。如果一个人拒绝帮助穷乏的弟兄,这就提出了一个严肃的问题,爱神之心是否在他里面呢(约壹 3:17)。从另一个方面说,真正的弟兄的爱甚至会让人愿意为别人舍命(约壹 3:16)。

人们有时会发现,当一个使徒或教会领袖感觉需要教诲读者,并希望读者明白他这样做是因为他爱他们,心里关切他们的最大利益时(如,林前 1:11; 雅 2:1, 5, 14),他会故意称他们为“弟兄”。这会使不可避免的批评变得不那么尖锐。

根据耶稣的表述,弟兄之爱是真正门徒身份的标志,可能因此彰显出祂对世人,甚至对那些不知道祂或未曾看到过

even to those who have not known Him or seen Him (Jn. 13:34f.). No wonder Paul challenged his converts to love one another more and more (1 Thess. 4:9f.). The manifestation of this Christian virtue amazed pagan society, as Tertullian testifies: “See, they say, how they love one another ... how they are ready even to die for one another” (Apol. 39).

BROTHERS OF THE LORD

In Mt. 12:46ff.; Mk. 3:31ff.; Lk. 8:19ff., while Jesus was in the midst of an earnest argument with scribes and Pharisees, His mother and brothers sent a message evidently intended to end the discussion. In order to indicate that no familial ties should interfere with the discharge of the duties of His messianic office, He stretched His hands toward His disciples, and said: “Whoever does the will of my Father in heaven is my brother, and sister, and mother.” In Mt. 13:54ff.; Mk. 6:2ff., while He was teaching in His own town Nazareth, His neighbors, who, since they had watched His natural growth among them, could not comprehend the extraordinary claims that He was making, declared in an interrogative form that they knew all about the entire family & mother, brothers, and sisters—and they named the brothers.

In Jn. 2:12, His brothers are said to have accompanied Jesus and His mother and disciples from the wedding at Cana. In Jn. 7:3ff., they are described as unbelieving, and ridiculing His claims with bitter sarcasm. This attitude of hostility has disappeared when, at Jerusalem, after the Resurrection and Ascension (Acts 1:14), in the company of Mary and the Eleven

祂的人的爱 (约 13:34-35)。难怪保罗劝诫他的归信者要彼此相爱,更加勉励 (帖前 4:9-10)。基督徒所展示出的这种美德让异教社团非常吃惊,正如特士良所证明的:“看,他们说,他们多么地爱彼此……他们甚至准备好了为对方舍弃生命” (Apol. 39)。

BROTHERS OF THE LORD 主的弟兄

在《马太福音》12:46起;《马可福音》3:31起和《路加福音》8:19起中,当耶稣与文士和法利赛人激烈辩论时,祂的母亲和弟兄送来了消息,显然是为了终止争论。耶稣为了表明任何家庭关系都不应妨碍祂履行弥赛亚的职分,祂伸手指着门徒说:“凡遵行我天父旨意的人,就是我的弟兄、姐妹和母亲了”。在《马太福音》13:54起和《马可福音》6:22起中,当耶稣在自己的家乡拿撒勒教训人时,祂的邻舍因为看着耶稣长大,所以不能理解祂所说的令人惊奇的话,他们质问道,他们熟悉耶稣的所有家庭成员,即祂的母亲、弟兄和姐妹——他们提到了耶稣弟兄的名字。

在《约翰福音》2:12中,耶稣的弟兄自迦拿娶亲的筵席起就与耶稣、祂的母亲和门徒在一起。在《约翰福音》7:3起中记载道,他们不信耶稣,并用辛辣的讽刺嘲笑耶稣说的话。当耶稣在耶路撒冷复活升天后 (徒 1:14),他们对耶稣不再怀有敌意,并同马利亚、十一个门徒和几个忠诚的妇人“恒切祷告”,等待圣灵应许的恩赐。《哥林多前书》9:5

and the faithful group of women, they “devoted themselves to prayer,” awaiting the promise of the gift of the Holy Spirit. Their subsequent participation in the missionary activity of the apostolic Church appears in 1 Cor. 9:5: “Do we not have the right to be accompanied by a wife, as the other apostles and the brothers of the Lord and Cephas?”

In Gal. 1:19, James, bishop of the church at Jerusalem, is designated “the Lord’s brother,” thus harmonizing with Mt. 13:55, where their names are recorded as James, Joseph, Simon, and Judas. When, then, “Jude, ... brother of James” is mentioned (Jude 1), the possibility is raised that Jude is another brother of the Lord.

In reading these passages, the natural inference is that these “brothers” were the sons of Joseph and Mary, born after Jesus, living with Mary and her daughters in the home at Nazareth, accompanying their mother on her journeys, and called the “brothers” of the Lord in a sense similar to that in which Joseph was called His father. They were brothers because of their common relationship to Mary. This impression is strengthened in that Jesus is called her prōtōtokos, “firstborn son” (Lk. 2:7), as well as by the very decided implication of Mt. 1:25. Even though each particular, taken separately, might be explained otherwise, the force of the argument is cumulative. There are too many items to be explained away in order to establish any other inference. This view is not the most ancient. It has been traced to Tertullian, and was more fully developed by Helvidius, an obscure writer of the 4th century.

在《加拉太书》1:19中，耶路撒冷教会的主教雅各被称为“主的兄弟”，因此这与《马太福音》13:55中的描述一致，这节经文中记载了主的弟兄的名字，他们分别是雅各、约西、西门和犹大。《犹大书》1:1中提到了“雅各的弟兄犹大”，犹大可能是主的另一个弟兄。

通过这些段落，很自然地推论出这些“弟兄”是约瑟和马利亚的儿子，他们在耶稣之后出生，在拿撒勒的家中与马利亚和她的女儿们生活在一起，并在他们母亲的旅途中陪伴着她，他们被称为主的“弟兄”，从某种意义上讲，这与约瑟被称为耶稣的父亲的表达类似。他们是兄弟，因为他们都是马利亚的儿子。《路加福音》2:7中耶稣被称为马利亚“头胎的儿子”(prōtōtokos)，此外，《马太福音》1:25中也给出了非常明确的暗示，这两段经文进一步强化了这种印象。虽然分别讨论每个细节时可能得出不同的解释，但这种论证的力量在不断累积。要想得出其他的推论，则需要解释更多的问题。这个观点并不是最古老的观点。特土良首先提出了这个观点，然后4世纪的一位不著名的作家赫尔维乌斯更为全面地阐述了这个观点。

Two other views have been advocated with much learning and earnestness. The earlier, which seems to have been prevalent in the first three centuries and is supported by Origen, Eusebius, Gregory of Nyssa, and Ambrose, Epiphanius being its chief advocate, regards these "brothers" as the children of Joseph by a former marriage, and Mary as his second wife. Joseph disappears from sight when Jesus is twelve years old. We know nothing of him after the narrative of the child Jesus in the temple. That there is no allusion to him in the account of the family in Mk. 6:3 indicates that Mary had been a widow long before she stood by the cross without the support of any member of her immediate family. In the apocryphal gospels, the attempt is made to supply what the canonical Gospels omit. They report that Joseph was over eighty years of age at his second marriage, and the names of both sons and daughters by his first marriage are given. As Lightfoot (comm. on Galatians) has remarked, "they are pure fabrications." Theophylact even advanced the theory that they were the children of Joseph by a levirate marriage, with the widow of his brother Clopas. Others regard them as the nephews of Joseph whom, after the death of his brother Clopas, he had taken into his own home, and who thus became members of his family and were considered as though they were the children of Joseph and Mary. According to this view, Mary excepted, the whole family at Nazareth were no blood relatives of Jesus. It is a docetic conception in the interest of the dogma of the perpetual virginity of Mary. All its details, even that of the advanced age and decrepitude of Joseph, start from that premise.

学者们通过大量的认真研究提出了另外两种观点。较早的一个观点似乎盛行于主后前 300 年，并且得到了俄利根、优西比乌、女撒的贵格利和安波罗修的支持，伊皮法纽是这种观点的主要拥护者，他认为这些“弟兄”来自于约瑟的前一段婚姻，马利亚是他的第二任妻子。耶稣十二岁时，约瑟就消失在大众视野中。经文在描述完少年耶稣在圣殿之后，再未提及约瑟。《马可福音》6:3 的家庭描述中也没有提到约瑟，这表明马利亚站在十字架旁边之前早就已经是一个得不到任何直系亲属支持的寡妇。次经福音书试图提供正典福音书中遗漏的内容。次经福音书中称约瑟在第二次结婚时已经年逾 80，并给出了约瑟在第一次婚姻中所生的儿子和女儿的名字。正如莱特福特所评论的（《加拉太书》的注释），“他们纯粹是捏造的人物”。提奥非拉克图斯甚至提出这样一个理论，即他们是约瑟收继婚中的孩子，由约瑟的兄弟革罗罢的遗孀所生。还有人认为他们是约瑟的侄子，约瑟的兄弟革罗罢死后，他把他们带到家中，他们因此成为了约瑟家中的成员，就像是约瑟和马利亚的孩子。根据这种观点，除了马利亚，拿撒勒家中的其他所有成员都与耶稣没有血缘关系。这是一种基督幻影说，旨在宣传马利亚永远是童贞女的教义。所有的细节，甚至包括约瑟年迈和衰老的描述都基于这个前提。

Another view was first propounded by Jerome when a very young man, while antagonizing Helvidius, but afterward qualified by its author. This view was followed by Augustine and the Roman Catholic writers generally. At the Reformation it was accepted—though not urged—by Luther, and later by Chemnitz, Bengel, et al. This view understands the word “brother” in the general sense of “kinsman,” and interprets it here as equivalent to “cousin.” Thus these brothers would be blood relatives of Jesus, and not of Joseph. They were the children of Alphaeus, otherwise known as Clopas (Jn. 19:25), and the sister of Mary. This Mary, in Mt. 27:56, is described as “the mother of James and Joseph,” and in Mk. 15:40, “the mother of James the younger and of Joses, and Salome.” This theory as completely developed points to the three names, James, Judas, and Simon, found both in the list of the apostles and in that of the “brothers,” and argues that it would be a remarkable coincidence if they referred to different persons, and if the two sisters, both named Mary, had found the very same names for their sons. The advocates of this theory argue also that the expression “James the younger” shows that there were only two persons of the name James in the circle of those who were closely connected with Jesus. They say, further, that after the death of Joseph Mary came to live at the home of her sister, and, with the families so combined, the presence and attendance of her nephews and nieces can be explained without much difficulty, and the words of the people at Nazareth can be understood.

But this complicated theory labors under many difficulties. The identity of Clopas and Alphaeus cannot be established, resting as it does upon obscure philological resemblances of the Aramaic form of the two names (see ALPHAEUS). The most that such argument affords is a mere possibility. Nor is the identity of “Mary the wife of Clopas” with the sister of Mary the mother of Jesus established beyond a doubt. Jn. 19:25, upon which it rests, can with equal correctness be interpreted as teaching that four women stood by the cross, of whom “Mary of Clopas” was one, and His mother’s sister was another. The decision depends upon the question as to whether “Mary” be in apposition to “sister.” If the verse be read so as to present two pairs, it would not be a construction without precedent in the NT, and would avoid the difficulty of finding two sisters with the same name—a difficulty greater yet than that of three cousins with the same name. Nor is the identity of “James the younger” with the son of Alphaeus beyond a doubt. Any argument concerning the comparative “younger” as above explained, fails when it is found that in the Greek there is no comparative, but only “James the little,” the implication being probably that he was unusually short of stature. Nor is the difficulty less when it is proposed to identify three of these brothers of Jesus with apostles of the same name. For the “brothers” and the apostles are repeatedly distinguished. In Mt. 12:49, while the former stood outside, the latter are gathered around Jesus. In Jn. 2:12, we read: “his mother and his brothers and his disciples.” In Acts 1:13 the Eleven are mentioned, including James the son of Alphaeus, and Simon the Zealot, and Judas the son of James, and then it is said that they were accompanied by “his brothers.” But the crowning difficulty of this hypothesis of Jerome is the record of the unbelief of the brothers and of their derision of His claims in Jn. 7:3-5.

另一种观点是耶柔米年轻时与赫尔维乌斯争论时提出来的,后来耶柔米完善了这种观点。奥古斯丁和罗马天主教作家普遍接受这种观点。宗教改革时期,路德认可但并不提倡这种观点,但克姆尼茨、本哥尔等人却支持这种观点。这种观点从广义上理解“弟兄”的含义,认为“兄弟”指的是“亲属”,也就是“堂(表)兄弟”。因此,这些兄弟都是耶稣的血亲,而不是约瑟的血亲。他们是亚勒腓(《约翰福音》19:25 称其为革罗罢)和马利亚姊妹的孩子。《马太福音》27:56 中的这个马利亚被称为“雅各和约西的母亲”,在《马可福音》15:40 中,她被描述为“小雅各和约西的母亲,并有撒罗米”。这一完善的推论指向三个名字,雅各、犹大和西门,使徒和“弟兄”的名单中也提到了这几个人,这证明,如果这两段经文指的是不同的人,如果两姊妹(都叫马利亚)给她们的儿子取了相同的名字,那将是惊人的巧合。这一推论的拥护者还认为,“小雅各”证明在与耶稣关系密切的圈子中,只有两个人名叫雅各。他们进一步说道,约瑟死后,马利亚住在她姊妹的家中,在这个后组合的家庭中,有她的外甥和外甥女在场并不稀奇,拿撒勒人说的话也可以理解了。

但这一复杂的推论也存在很多难点。无法确定革罗罢和亚勒腓就是同一个人,虽然从语言学上讲,这两个名字的亚兰

On the other hand, the arguments against regarding them as sons of Mary and Joseph are not formidable. When it is urged that their attempts to interfere with Jesus indicate a superiority which, according to Jewish custom, is inconsistent with the position of younger brothers, it may be answered that those who pursue an unjustifiable course are not models of consistency. When an argument is sought in that Jesus on the cross commended His mother to John, implying that she had no sons of her own to whom to turn in her grief and desolation, the answer need not be restricted to the consideration that unknown domestic circumstances may explain the omission of her sons. A more patent explanation is that as they did not understand their brother, they could not understand their mother, whose whole life and interests were bound up in her firstborn. And no one of the disciples understood Jesus and appreciated His work and treasured up His words as did John. A bond of fellowship had thus been established between John and Mary that was closer than her nearer blood relationship with her own sons, who up to this time had regarded the course of Jesus with disapproval, and had no sympathy with His mission. In the home of John she would find consolation for her loss, as the memories of the wonderful life of her son would be recalled, and she would converse with him who had rested on the bosom of Jesus and whom Jesus loved. Even with the conversion of these brothers within a few days into faithful confessors, provision was made for her deeper spiritual communion with her risen and ascended son through the testimony of

但驳斥他们是马利亚和约瑟的儿子的观点也不能成立。有人提出他们之所以试图干扰耶稣传道,是因为他们具有优势地位,根据犹太传统,这不符合弟弟的身份,可能有人会说,那些追求不义道路的人不会墨守成规。耶稣暗地里向约翰引荐自己的母亲,表明她没有自己的儿子,所以向约翰来表达自己的悲痛和忧伤,这是一个证据,我们不能满足于这样的回答——默默无闻的家庭环境可能是此处省略马利亚的儿子们的原因。还有一种更为新奇的解释,即他们不能理解他们的弟兄,也不能理解他们的母亲,她一生中的所有希望竟都寄托在她头胎的孩子身上。没有一个门徒像约翰那样理解耶稣,感激祂的工作,且牢记祂所说的话。因此,马利亚和约翰之间建立了一种友好的关系,这种关系比她与自己儿子的关系更近,他们此时不赞同耶稣的教导,也不赞同祂的传道。马利亚在约翰的家得到了丧子的安慰,她在那里可以回忆起儿子美妙的人生,可以与曾躺在耶稣怀中且被耶稣所爱的约翰交谈。即使这几个弟兄在几天内纷纷悔改,成为忠实的忏悔者,马利亚仍然准备藉着耶稣的见证与复活升天的儿子进行更为深入的属灵交流,对此,约翰始终铭记于心。马利亚和约翰的性格非常相似。这可能与他们之间的关系有关,有人认为约翰的母亲撒罗米是耶稣母亲的姊妹。

Jesus which John treasured in his deeply contemplative spirit. There was much similarity in the characters of Mary and John. This may have had its ground in relationship, as many regard his mother Salome as the sister of the mother of Jesus.

The interpretation that they are the Lord's real brothers ennobles and glorifies family life in all its relations and duties, and sanctifies motherhood with all its cares and trials as holier than a selfish isolation from the world, in order to evade the annoyances and humiliations inseparable from fidelity to our callings. Not only Mary, but Jesus with her, knew what it was to grieve over a house divided concerning religion (Mt. 10:35ff.). But that this unbelief and indifference gave way before the clearer light of the resurrection of Jesus is shown by the presence of these brothers in the company of the disciples of Jerusalem (Acts 1:14). The reference to His postresurrection appearance to James (1 Cor. 15:7) is probably connected with this change in their attitude. 1 Cor. 9:5 shows that at least two of these brothers were active as missionaries, undoubtedly within the Holy Land and to Jews, according to the agreement into which James entered in Gal. 2 and his well-known attitude on questions pertaining to the Gentiles. Zahn regards James as an ascetic and celibate not included in 1 Cor. 9:5, which is limited then to Jude and Simon. Their marriage indicates "the absence in the Holy Family of that pseudo-asceticism which has so much confused the tradition concerning them" (Alford). See also JAMES.

他们是主的真正弟兄这种解释赞美了这个家庭生活中的关系和职责，使之变得高贵，并使马利亚母亲的身份变得更为圣洁，她倾注了自己所有的爱，并接受了主的试验，没有选择以自私的逃离来躲避因忠于恩召所带来的烦恼和屈辱。因此耶稣和马利亚都知道哀悼一个因宗教信仰而变得生疏的家庭意味着什么（太 10:35 起）。这些弟兄后来同耶路撒冷的门徒一起祷告（徒 1:14），这说明他们在清晰地看见耶稣复活之前，就放弃了不信和冷漠。经文后来提到耶稣复活后向雅各显现（林前 15:7），这可能与他们态度的转变有关。《哥林多前书》9:5 表明，至少有两个弟兄成为了积极的传道者，根据《加拉太书》2 章所描述的雅各同意使徒到外邦人那里去和他对外邦人问题的著名态度，他们肯定来到圣地和犹太人中间传道。扎恩（Zahn）认为雅各是奉行禁欲独身生活的人，《哥林多前书》9:5 中提到的有妻子的“主的弟兄”不包括雅各，仅包括犹大和西门。他们的婚姻表明“圣洁的家庭中不乏伪禁欲主义，但这严重违背了关于他们的传说”（Alford）。另见 JAMES（雅各）。

The right to inherit the widow soon became a duty to marry her if the deceased had left no sons, and in case there was no brother-in-law, the duty of marriage devolved on the father-in-law or the agnate who inherited, whoever this might be. The first son of the levirate marriage was regarded as the son of the deceased.

While the law limited the matrimonial duty to the brother and permitted him to decline to marry the widow, such a course was attended by public disgrace (Dt. 25:5ff.). By the law of Nu. 27:8, daughters were given the right to inherit, in order that the family estate might be preserved, and the levirate became limited to cases where the deceased had left no children at all.

BRUISE

[Heb. šúp (Gen. 3:15), dākā' (Isa. 53:5, 10), mā'aḳ (Lev. 22:24), rāṣaṣ (Isa. 42:3), ḥabbûrâ (Isa. 1:6); Gk. syntribō (Mt. 12:20), katakóptō (Mk. 5:5)]; AV also CUT (Mk. 5:5); NEB also STRIKE AT (Gen. 3:15), TORTURE (Isa. 53:5, 10), SNAP OFF (Mt. 12:20), CUT (Mk. 5:5).

财产被分割和被陌生人占有，同时永远延续了他所属的家庭。虽然律法仅规定弟兄须肩负起与婚姻有关的职责，允许他屈尊娶逝者的遗孀为妻，但会众普遍认为这是丢脸的事（申 25:5 起）。根据《民数记》27:8 中的律法，女儿被赋予了继承权，以便保存家庭的财产，只有当逝者没有子嗣时，才会出现收继婚。

BROW 额、头顶

【希伯来语：qoḏqōḏ, mēṣah；希腊语：orphrýs】；《钦定版圣经》还译为“crown of the head”（“头顶”）、FOREHEAD（“额”）；《新英文译本》还译为 HEAD（“头”）。《创世记》49:26 中用 qoḏqōḏ 这个词来表示“头顶”；mēṣah 指的是额头。在《路加福音》4:29 中，orphrýs 指的是一块突出的土地。

BRUISE 伤、压伤

【希伯来语：šúp（创 3:15），dākā'（赛 53:5，10），mā'aḳ（利 22:24），rāṣaṣ（赛 42:3），ḥabbûrâ（赛 1:6）；希腊语：syntribō（太 12:20），katakóptō（可 5:5）】；《钦定版圣经》还译为 CUT（“砍”，可 5:5）；《新英文译本》还译为 STRIKE AT（“伤”，创 3:15）、TORTURE（“压伤”，赛 53:5，10）、SNAP OFF（“压伤”，太 12:20）、CUT（“砍”，可 5:5）。

KoB suggests two meanings for Heb. šûp: “bruise” and “snatch” (p. 956), the second meaning more adequately describing the serpent’s action toward man and the first describing man’s trampling upon the serpent. The ḥabbûrâ in Isa. 1:6 are wounds made by stripes, the blows Judah has received as chastisement from God. The term “bruise, bruised” occurs three times in the Servant Songs. The Servant of the Lord will not crush those who are weak and oppressed, but will establish justice (Isa. 42:3); in Mt. 12:15–21 Jesus’ healing of the sick and maimed is interpreted as a fulfillment of this Servant Song. The Servant will himself be crushed (dākā’, “crush, break in pieces”) for the sake of sinners (Isa. 53:5, 10).

KoB 中给出了希伯来词 šûp 的两个含义：“压伤”和“抢夺”（956 页），第二个含义非常恰当地描述了蛇攻击人的行为，而第一个含义描述了人踩蛇的动作。《以赛亚书》1:6 中的 ḥabbûrâ 指的是鞭子抽打出的伤口，上帝曾用鞭子打伤犹大作为惩罚。“压伤”这个词在“仆人的歌”中出现了 3 次。主的仆人不会压伤那些弱小和受压迫的人，却将建立起公义（赛 42:3）；在《马太福音》12:15–21 中，主治愈那些生病和残疾的人，这被理解成应验了“仆人的歌”。“仆人”因罪人的缘故被压伤（dākā’，“压伤，使……成碎片”）（赛 53:5, 10）。

BUCKLE

[Gk. pórpē]; NEB CLASP. The buckle was used for fastening the mantle or outer robe on the shoulder or chest. As a mark of favor Jonathan Maccabeus was presented by Alexander Balas with a buckle of gold (1 Macc. 10:89), the wearing of which was restricted to rulers and their close relations or friends.

BUCKLER

[Heb. šinnâ, soḥērâ, magēn]; AV also TARGETS (2 Ch. 14:8); NEB also SHIELD. The buckler was a small rounded shield usually worn on the arm, comprising part of the defensive armor of the warrior (cf. Ps. 35:2; 91:4; Jer. 46:3; Ezk. 23:24; 38:4). See WEAPONS OF WAR.

BUFFET.

The AV for Gk. kolaphizō, “beat with the fist.” In Mt. 26:67; Mk. 14:65 the RSV has “strike,” the NEB “strike with fists.” “Buffeted” occurs in both the AV and RSV at 1 Cor. 4:11 (NEB “roughly handled”). Elsewhere the RSV has “harass” (2 Cor. 12:7; NEB “bruise”) and “beaten” (1 Pet. 2:20).

赛亚书》40:15 和《民数记》24:7 中提到了这个词。水桶很可能指的是一种革制水袋，上方有两个用来提水的横木，巴勒斯坦地区现在仍使用类似的水桶。

BUCKLE 扣子、臂章

【希腊语：pórpē】；《新英文译本》中还译为 CLASP (“扣子”)。扣子或臂章用来将披风或外袍系在肩上或胸前。亚历山大·巴拉斯送给约拿单·马加比一幅金质的臂章作为恩待后者中的一个标志(马一 10:89)，只有统治者、他们的亲人或朋友才可以佩戴这种臂章。

BUCKLER 小圆盾

【希伯来语：šinnâ, soḥērâ, magēn】；《钦定版圣经》还译为 TARGETS (“盾牌”，代下 14:8)；《新英文译本》还译为 SHIELD (“盾牌”)。小圆盾是一种通常戴在胳膊上的圆形小盾牌，是勇士所穿的防护铠甲的一部分(参：诗 35:2; 91:4; 耶 46:3; 结 23:24; 38:4)。见 WEAPONS OF WAR (战争武器)。

BUFFET. 用拳头打

《钦定版圣经》中用这个词来翻译希腊语 kolaphizō (“用拳头打”)；在《马太福音》26:67 和《马可福音》14:65 中，《修订标准译本》译为“strike”(“打”)，《新英文译本》译为“strike with fists”(“用拳头打”)。《钦定版圣经》和《修订标准译本》的《哥林多前书》4:11 中都用到了“buffeted”一词(《新英文译本》中作“roughly handled”[“挨打”])。在其他经文中，《修订标准译本》译为“harass”(“攻击”，林后 12:7；《新英文译本》中译为“bruise”[“压伤”])和“beaten”(“责打”，彼前 2:20)。

BUGLE

[Gk. sálpinx] (1 Cor. 14:8); AV, NEB, TRUMPET. All other uses of this word are rendered “trumpet” in the RSV. See MUSIC II.A.

BUILD; BUILDING

[Heb. bānā, binyān, binyā (Ezk. 41:13); Aram. b^enā; Gk. oikodoméō, kataskeuázō]. During Iron I, from the conquest till the end of the united monarchy (1200–900), Israelite building was inferior to that of the preceding Canaanite period; and it is highly significant that Solomon had to make use of Phoenician artisans in order to effect his building program. During Iron II the art of building, as attested for example by the ruins of Ahab’s palace in Samaria and the so-called Solomonic stables of Megiddo (actually from Ahab’s time), rose considerably. After the Exile the economic conditions were not favorable for any intensive building activity; a definite change came with Hellenistic and Roman times, culminating in Herod’s sumptuous buildings.

I. Houses.—Throughout the whole of biblical times the common man built his own house, perhaps with the help of his family and neighbors. Trenches were dug for foundations of undressed stones. These trenches seldom reached bedrock; often they cut partially through the remains of older walls. On such stone foundations walls were erected from sun-dried clay, often whitewashed in order to protect them against the rain. The roof consisted of beams on which twigs were laid, and the whole was made impermeable by a layer of clay and whitewash.

BUILD; BUILDING 建造、建立；建筑

【希伯来语：bānā, binyān, binyā（结 41:13）；亚兰语：b^enā；希腊语：oikodoméō, kataskeuázō】。铁器时代 I 期，即从以色列人征服迦南至统一的以色列王国结束（公元前 1200 至 900 年）时期，以色列人的建筑一直不如之前迦南时期的建筑；所罗门为了实施他的建筑计划，不得不雇佣腓尼基的工匠，此举意义非凡。建筑艺术在铁器时代 II 期得到了极大的发展，亚哈在撒玛利亚的宫殿废墟和所谓的所罗门建在米吉多的马厩（实际上从亚哈时期开始兴建的）的遗迹都证明了这一点。被掳巴比伦之后，经济形势不利于大兴土木；这一状况在希腊化和罗马时期明显发生了变化，希律的奢华建筑标志着以色列的建筑活动进入鼎盛时期。

I. 房屋。纵观整个圣经时代，普通百姓可能在家人和邻居的帮助下建造自己的房屋。他们挖沟并将未加工的石块摆放在沟里作地基。这些壕沟很少有挖到基岩的；这些壕沟通常从部分古城墙遗址中切开。在这些石块地基之上是由晒干的泥土垒起来的墙体，这些墙通常被刷上石灰水，以防雨水的冲刷。房顶由梁组成，梁上铺上树枝，整个屋顶上抹了一层泥和石灰水，所以不会渗水。

Succession of structures, probably water tanks or storage areas, built against the Pre-pottery Neolithic stone tower (left) at Jericho (7th–6th millennia B.C.). Later inhabitants built houses upon these foundations. (A. C. Myers)

In the course of Iron II the wealthier people were not content with such simple houses. Although a light superstructure could be erected on the roof of an ordinary house (2 K. 4:10), for taller buildings stronger foundations and walls were needed. So the rich started to build the walls of their houses from stone instead of from clay, to the indignation of the prophets (Isa. 9:9; Am. 5:11). Such stones had to be dressed in regular shapes; hence they were called gāzīt. This could be done with the help of hammer and chisel; sometimes a stone saw (m^egērâ, 2 S. 12:31; 1 K. 7:9; 1 Ch. 20:3) was used. But probably most often for erecting state buildings, not private houses. The need for stronger foundations is expressed in the word for houses of at least two stories: 'armôn (“palace”), the root of which suggests special care for foundations. Excavations have revealed foundations and a few layers of the ground floors only; but several houses show definite indications of a staircase leading to the upper story.

图为一系列建筑物的遗迹，可能是水槽或储藏区，这些建筑物建在耶利哥石塔（左）的旁边，这些石塔建于陶器出现以前的新石器时代（公元前7000年至6000年）。后来的居民在这些地基上建造了房屋。（A. C. Myers）

在铁器时代 II 期，相对富有的人不再满足于这种简陋的房屋。虽然可以在普通房屋的屋顶上再建一个较轻的上层建筑（王下 4:10），但建筑越高，房基和墙体就要越坚固。所以，这些富人开始用石头代替泥土建造墙体，这引起了先知的愤怒（赛 9:9；摩 5:11）。这些石头必须被修成规则的形状；因此它们被称为 gāzīt。用锤子和凿子可以修出规则的形状；有时会用到石锯（m^egērâ，撒下 12:31；王上 7:9；代上 20:3）。但大多数情况下，石锯被用于修建国家建筑，而不是私人房屋。对两层以上的房屋（'armôn [“宫殿”]）的描述体现出，这种建筑需要更坚固的房基，这种房子的屋顶表明地基经过了特殊的处理。房基已经被发掘出来，但在地下只有几层；但一些房屋确实有可以通向顶层的楼梯。

Doors were of wood, and thus have perished; some stone imitations show what they were like at least in Roman times. Openings in the wall for letting in air and light have not been found, so they must have been small and high. In some ivories from Samaria the face of the “goddess looking through the window” obstructs the whole opening. Tiles for covering roof first came into use in Hellenistic times (Lk. 5:19). As a rule every house had its own court surrounded by a wall; the “door of the house” is the door giving access to the courtyard (Acts 12:12–16). On one side of this courtyard the main buildings are to be found; often it is not a door but a large opening supported by columns that gives access to the main room, especially in more spacious houses where three or four column bases are no rarity. The seven columns of the house of Lady Wisdom (Prov. 9:1) show her to be a grand lady indeed. From the main room a door leads to a smaller room, the “inner chamber” (lit. “room in room”) of 1 K. 20:30; 22:25; 2 Ch. 18:24, where one sleeps and should retire for prayer (Mt. 6:6).

II. Fortifications.—When it is said of someone that he “built” a town, the meaning is that he built or rebuilt the fortifications. They consist primarily of a huge wall of stones, often protected by a sloping glacis, on strong and deep foundations. Sometimes a dry moat is added. In the wall there are one or more gates, elaborate structures with defensive bulwarks on both sides, the “towers” of the OT, which were, however, only slightly higher than the walls, but by their protruding position gave opportunity of enflanking the wall. Such migdōlīm are known both from excavations and from Egyptian and Assyrian reliefs. Sometimes a migdōl was not part of a city but an independent structure erected at some strategic point, e.g., to protect trading routes. The “building” of towns, though in former times the responsibility of local authorities, was in the time of the Israelite monarchies the prerogative of kings. Joshua’s building of Timnath-serah (Josh. 19:50) is an isolated case.

门是木质的，所以已经腐化了；一些石头的仿制品至少显示出了罗马时代门的样式。尚没有在墙上找到供空气和光线穿过的窗口，所以这些窗口一定很小，位置很高。从撒玛利亚的一些象牙制品可以看出，“女神探出窗外”的脸遮挡住了整个窗口。希腊化时期首次出现了用来覆盖屋顶的瓦片（路 5:19）。一般来说，每个房屋都有庭院，庭院四周是围墙；“房门”可以通向庭院（徒 12:12–16）。在庭院的一边是主建筑；通常来说，要穿过柱子支撑的大开口而不是房门进入主室，尤其是那些常有三四根柱基的大房子。智慧妇人的房屋中有七个柱子（箴 9:1），这说明她实际上是一个贵妇。主室中有门可以通向更小的房间，即《列王纪上》20:30；22:25和《历代志下》18:24 中提到的“严密的屋子”（字面意思：“房间内的房间”），这个房间是睡觉的地方，可能也是祷告的地方（太 6:6）。

II. 防御工事。当说一个人“建造”了一座城邑时，这意味着他建造或重建了防御工事。防御工事主要由拥有坚固和较深地基的巨大石墙组成，这石墙通常受斜坡的保护。有时还有一条干涸的城壕。城墙上有一个或多个城门、一些精心设计的、两侧为防御性壁垒的建筑结

We do not hear of building activities by Saul, though Albright ascribed to him the fortifications of Tell el-Fûl (Gibeah). David built part of Jerusalem (1 Ch. 11:8); Solomon’s building activities in Jerusalem and elsewhere are described in 1 K. 6:1–7:12; 9:15–19. Traces of his fortifications have been identified in Hazor. Fortification of towns is ascribed to Rehoboam (2 Ch. 11:5–12), Jeroboam (1 K. 12:25), and their successors, e.g., Omri (16:24) and Ahab (22:39). Hiel probably acted as an official of Ahab when he restored Jericho (16:34), just as Nehemiah rebuilt Jerusalem’s walls as a governor of the Persian king (Neh. 3).

III. Other Royal Buildings.—Owing to the peculiar circumstances in Jerusalem, archeological research could not reveal anything of Solomon’s temple, palace, and related buildings. The excavation of Ezion-geber, however, gives us some idea of the technique of his time. The impressive stables of Megiddo probably

构和《旧约》中的“城楼”，这些城楼略高于城墙，但城楼的突出部分构成了城墙的侧翼。考古发掘与埃及和亚述的浮雕上都发现了这种防御工事 (migdōlīm)。防御工事有时不是城市的一部分，而是建造在战略要地上的独立建筑结构，如为保护商路而建造的塔 (migdōl)。虽然从前地方当局负责“建造”城邑，但在以色列君主制时期，“建造”城邑是国王的特权。约书亚建造亭拿西拉城 (书 19:50) 是个例外。

虽然奥尔布赖特认为是扫罗建造的豆子山 (基比亚) 的防御工事，但我们并没有听说过扫罗的建筑行动。大卫建造了部分耶路撒冷 (代上 11:8)；《列王纪上》6:1-7:12；9:15-19 中描述了所罗门在耶路撒冷和其他地方的建筑活动。在夏琐发现了所罗门建造的防御工事的遗迹。罗波安 (代下 11:5-12)、耶罗波安 (王上 12:25) 和他们的继任者，如暗利 (王上 16:24) 和亚哈 (王上 22:39) 都修筑了城邑的防御工事。当希伊勒重修耶利哥城时 (王上 16:34)，他可能是亚哈的一名官员，正如尼希米在担任波斯王的总督时，重修了耶路撒冷 (尼 3)。

III. 其他皇家建筑。由于耶路撒冷的特殊环境，考古研究无法揭示出所罗门圣殿、宫殿和相关建筑的模样。然而，以旬迦别的发掘让我们了解了所罗门时期的一些建造技术。令人印象深刻的米吉多的马厩可能不是源自所罗门时期，而是亚哈时期。在撒玛利亚挖掘出的部分皇家建筑是属于耶罗波安二世时期 date not from his time but from Ahab's. The excavated parts of the royal complex in Samaria are to be ascribed to Jeroboam II. Such royal buildings were entirely of gāzîl, dressed stones. Typical are the irregular use of stretchers and layers, and the use of the so-called proto-Aeolic capitals. If one compares the findings in Egypt and Assyria, one is struck by the absence of building inscriptions in Israel. Mesha's inscription found in neighboring Moab ends with an enumeration of this king's building activities, but it is probable that Israelite kings from a sense of religious humility abstained from this self-glorifying kind of literature. Even Herod, the greatest royal builder of later times, seems to have spared his subjects' sensitivities in this regard.

IV. Building Implements.-Simple buildings could be erected with the help of

IV. 建筑设备。工匠用工具可建造简单的建筑。修琢石头可能要用到锤子和凿

the carpenter's instruments. For dressing stones, hammer and chisel could be used; the stone saw was used only for elaborate buildings. For such buildings also a plumbline (Am. 7:7f.) was needed, as well as measuring rods (Ezk. 40:3, etc.) of reed and measuring lines of flax (Job 38:5). In Megiddo red ochre traces of such a line have been found. A leveling instrument is mentioned in 2 K. 21:13; Isa. 28:17. Builders made use of a model of a building they were to erect (Ex. 25:9, 40; 2 K. 16:10; Ps. 144:12). The same word (tabnîṭ) in 1 Ch. 28:19 (cf. vv. 11f., 18) seems to indicate an architectural drawing.

V. Building as a Symbol.-In the OT "to build" with God as subject, often means "to give offspring" (Gen. 16:2; 2 S. 7:27; etc.; cf. Ex. 1:21); and in Dt. 25:9 a man is the subject of this verb used in the same sense. Similes are taken from the laying of foundations, especially in descriptions of creation (Ps. 24:2, etc.), and from the use of the best stones for corners (Ps. 118:22; 144:12). A headstone as a crowning piece seems to be intended in Zec. 4:7, perhaps above the main entrance. In the NT "to build" is a metaphor for the work of God and His servants in order to establish the Church on earth. One should not look for allegoric consistency. Christ is called both the foundation (1 Cor. 3:11) and the cornerstone (Eph. 2:20-22); but elsewhere also the apostles and prophets are described as the foundation (Mt. 16:18; Eph. 2:20; cf. Rev. 21:14). There is no contradiction in this when we consider that Christ is known to us by the authoritative testimony of the apostles and prophets.

子；只有复杂的建筑才会用到石锯。建造这种建筑还要用到准绳（摩 7:7-8）、芦苇测量杆（结 40:3 等）和亚麻准绳（伯 38:5）。在米吉多发现了这种准绳的红赭石痕迹。《列王纪下》21:13 和《以赛亚书》28:17 中提到了一种水准仪。建筑者利用建筑模型来建造建筑（出 25:9, 40；王下 16:10；诗 144:12）。这个词 (tabnîṭ) 在《历代志上》28:19（参：代上 28:11-12, 18）中似乎表示一种建筑图纸。

V. 建立是一种象征。在《旧约》中，神的“建立”通常指的是“得孩子”（创 16:2；撒下 7:27 等；参：出 1:21）；在《申命记》25:9 中，人做这一动词的主语时，表达的是相同的含义。打地基（尤其在描述创世时，诗 24:2 等）和选用最好的房角石（诗 118:22；144:12）都具有比喻义。《撒迦利亚书》4:7 中似乎表明，安在殿顶的石头或许应放在主要入口的上面。《新约》中用“建立”比喻神和祂的仆人为了在地上建立教会所做的工。不要以为两约中的“建立”表示相同的含义。基督既被称为根基（林前 3:11），又被称为房角石（弗 2:20-22）；但在其他经文中，使徒和先知被说成是根基（太 16:18；弗 2:20；参：启 21:14）。如若能想到我们是在使徒和先知的权威见证下认识了基督，那么这种表述就不存在矛盾之处。

BUILDER

[Heb. bānā; Gk. kataskeuázō, oikodoméō, technítēs]; NEB also FOUNDER (He. 3:3f.), ARCHITECT (He. 11:10); MASTER BUILDER [Gk. architēktōn] (1 Cor. 3:10). Beyond the literal significance (see BUILD) are several figurative applications, notably to God as the divine Builder (1) as establishing, e.g., the nation (Ps. 69:35; 102:16; Jer. 12:16), the throne of David (Ps. 89:4), Jerusalem (147:2); (2) in restoration—rebuilding (Isa. 58:12; 61:4; 65:21; Jer. 31:4, 28; 42:10; Ezk. 36:36; Am. 9:11; cf. Acts 15:16); (3) as establishing in prosperity (Job 22:23; 1 S. 2:35; Jer. 24:6; cf. Gen. 16:2, NEB). Other figurative uses include: (4) the firm establishment of the divine attributes (Ps. 89:2); (5) divine opposition (Lam. 3:5, “He hath builded against me”); cf. Job 19:8; (6) the choosing of a corner-stone which the builders rejected (Ps. 118:22f.; quoted by Christ [Mt. 21:42; Mk. 12:10; Lk. 20:17]; by Peter [Acts 4:11; 1 Pet. 2:7]).

In the NT Christians are represented as being (1) built by God (1 Cor. 3:9, 16) on Christ as the one foundation (Mt. 16:18, on Jesus as the Christ; 1 Pet. 2:5f.; Acts 9:31; Rom. 15:20; 1 Cor. 3:10, 12, 14 [epoikodoméō]; Eph. 2:20); (2) as being continuously and progressively built up in their faith and life (Acts 20:32; 1 Cor. 8:1; 10:23; 14:4, 17; 1 Thess. 5:11; cf. BUILDER 建造房屋的人、匠人

【希伯来语: bānā; 希腊语: kataskeuázō, oikodoméō, technítēs】;《新英文译本》中还译为 FOUNDER (“建造者”, 来 3:3-4)、ARCHITECT (“建筑师”, 来 11:10); MASTER BUILDER (“工头”),【希腊语: architēktōn】(林前 3:10)。除了字面意义(见 BUILD[建造、建立]),这个词还有几个比喻用法,尤其是将神比作神圣的建造者,祂(1)建立民族(诗 69:35; 102:16; 耶 12:16)、大卫的王权(诗 89:4)和耶路撒冷(诗 147:2);(2)重修——重建(赛 58:12; 61:4; 65:21; 耶 31:4, 28; 42:10; 结 36:36; 摩 9:11; 参:徒 15:16);(3)使人得以建立(伯 22:23; 撒上 2:35; 耶 24:6; 参:创 16:2,《新英文译本》)。其他比喻用法包括:(4)牢固地建立神圣的属性(诗 89:2);(5)神筑垒攻击(哀 3:5,“祂筑垒攻击我”);参:《约伯记》19:8;(6)拣选匠人所弃的石头作房角石(诗 118:22-23; 基督引述[太 21:42; 可 12:10; 路 20:17]);彼得引述[徒 4:11; 彼前 2:7])。

在《新约》中,基督徒被描述成(1)神所建立的(林前 3:9, 16),建在基督上成为一个根基(太 16:19; 建在基督上就是建在耶稣上;彼前 2:5-6; 徒 9:31; 罗 15:20; 林前 3:10, 12, 14[epoikodoméō]; 弗 2:20);(2)神在他们的信心和生活中持续不断地建立他们(徒 20:32; 林前 8:1; 10:23; 14:4; 帖前 5:11; 参:犹 1:20);(3)他们在

20); (3) they are “buildded together” (synoikodoméō) in Christ (Eph. 2:22; Col. 2:7 [epoikodoméō]; cf. 1 Cor. 3:9). In He. 3:4 God is represented as the Builder of all things, and in 11:10 as the Builder (technitēs) of the New Jerusalem. In 1 Cor. 3:10–14; Gal. 2:18, “building” means constructing a system of teaching; Paul speaks of himself as “a wise master builder.”

Isaiah 49:17 gives a better sense if emended as in the RSV, “Your builders outstrip your destroyers” (NEB “those who are to rebuild you”), instead of the AV “Thy children shall make haste.” The emendation (Heb. bōnāyik for bānāyik) has the support of ancient versions, including 1QIsa.

基督里“同被建立”(synoikodoméō)(弗 2:22; 西 2:7[epoikodoméō]; 参: 林前 3:9)。《希伯来书》3:4 将神描述成万物的建造者, 在《希伯来书》11:10 中, 祂被描述成新耶路撒冷的建造者 (technitēs)。在《哥林多前书》3:10-14 和《加拉太书》2:18 中, “建造”指的是建立一套教导体系; 保罗称他自己为“聪明的工头”。

如果按照《修订标准译本》中的修订, 《以赛亚书》49:17 中做出了更好的解释, “Your builders outstrip your destroyers” (“建立你的胜过毁灭你的”, 《新英文译本》中译为“those who are to rebuild you” [重建你的]), 而《钦定版圣经》中译为“Thy children shall make haste” (“你的儿女必急速归回”)。

《修订标准译本》中的修订(希伯来词 bānāyik 修订为 bōnāyik)得到了包括《以赛亚书注释》在内的古译本的支持。

bukī [Heb. buqqî—‘proved of god’].

1. A Danite, son of the tribal prince Jogli (Nu. 34:22); he was one of the representative chiefs who assisted in the division of the land.

2. [Gk. Bokki, Bokka (1 Esd. 8:2)]. Son of Abishua and father of Izzi, a priest, fourth in descent from Aaron, in the line of Eleazar (1 Ch. 6:5, 51), and ancestor of Ezra (Ezr. 7:4). In 1 Esd. 8:2 the name is rendered “Boccas” by the AV and “Bocca” by the NEB. In 2 Esd. 1:2 the name appears as BORITH.

BUKKI 布基

音译: bukī【希伯来语: buqqî——“上帝已证明”】。

1、但人, 但支派首领约利的儿子(民 34:22); 他是帮助分地的主要首领之一。

2、【希腊语: Bokki, Bokka (拉一 8:2)】。亚比书的儿子, 乌西的父亲, 亚伦的第四代后裔中的一名祭司, 以利亚撒的子孙(代上 6:5, 51), 以斯拉的祖先(拉 7:4)。在《以斯得拉一书》8:2 中, 《钦定版圣经》将这个名字译为“Boccas”, 《新英文译本》则译为“Bocca”, 汉译均为“布基”。在《以斯得拉二书》1:2 中, 这个名字似乎被写成波拉兹(见 BORITH[波拉兹])。

bək-ī'ə [Heb. buqqīyāhū—‘proved of God’]. A Levite, son of Heman (1 Ch. 25:4, 13).

BUL

bul [Heb. bûl]. The name of the eighth month of the Jewish year (1 K. 6:38). It is of Phoenician origin and signifies the month of rain, the beginning of the rainy season. See CALENDAR II.A.

BULL

[Heb. par] (cf. Ex. 29; Lev. 4; Nu. 29; Ezk. 43:21f.); AV often BULLOCK; RSV also STEER (Isa. 34:7). Frequently in the OT a sacrificial victim: in the peace offering (e.g., Ex. 24:5; RSV “oxen”), in the burnt offering (e.g., Jgs. 6:25), and in the sin offering (e.g., Ezk. 43:19). So often is it a term for a sacrificial animal that it becomes a figure for warriors killed in battle (Isa. 34:7; Ezk. 34:8) and a metaphor for praise to God (Hos. 14:2). The psalmist sees in the bull a figure for his enemies (Ps. 22:12).

BUKKIAH 布基雅

音译: bək-ī'ə 【希伯来语: buqqīyāhū——“上帝已证明”】。利未人, 希幔的儿子 (代上 25:4, 13)。

BUL 布勒月

音译: bul 【希伯来语: bûl】。犹太历中第八个月的名字 (王上 6:38)。这个词起源于腓尼基语, 表示降雨的月份, 是雨季的开始。见 CALENDAR II.A. (历法 II.A.)。

BULL 公牛

【希伯来语: par】(参: 出 29; 利 4; 民 29; 结 43:21-22); 《钦定版圣经》中通常译为 BULLOCK (“公牛犊”); 《修订标准译本》还译为 STEER (“牛犊”, 赛 34:7)。在《旧约》中, 公牛通常是祭牲: 用于献平安祭 (如, 出 24:5; 《修订标准译本》中译作 “oxen” [“牛”])、燔祭 (如, 士 6:25) 和赎罪祭 (如, 结 43:19)。因为公牛通常用来表示祭牲, 所以变成了战死勇士的象征 (赛 34:7; 结 34:8) 和赞美神的一个比喻 (何 14:2)。诗篇作者将他的敌人比作公牛 (诗 22:12)。

BULWARK. 外郭、根基

这个词可以表示多个希伯来词。《诗篇》8:2 中用这个词的单数形式翻译 'ōz (《钦定版圣经》中译为“strength”[“能 “strength”; NEB “mighty”); in the plural for hēl in Isa. 26:1 (NEB “ramparts”); ’ošyôṭ in Jer. 50:15 (AV “foundations”; NEB “bastions”), ’gammîm in Jer. 51:32 (AV “reeds”; NEB “guardtowers”). It is found only once in the NT for Gk. hedraiōma, where it is used figuratively of the Christian Church as “the pillar and bulwark [AV “ground”] of the truth” (1 Tim. 3:15). See FORTIFICATION.

BUNAH

bōō’nə [Heb. bûnâ]. A son of Jerahmeel (1 Ch. 2:25).

BUNCH.

The term occurs in the singular only once in the RSV for Heb. ’guddâ in reference to a bunch of hyssop (Ex. 12:22). It occurs also once in the plural in 2 S. 16:1 of dried clusters (Heb. šimmûq) of raisins.

BUNAH 布拿

音译：bōō’nə【希伯来语：bûnâ】。耶拉篾的儿子（代上 2:25）。

BUNCH. 把、个

这个词在《修订标准译本》中以单数的形式出现过一次，用于翻译希伯来语 ’guddâ，表示一把牛膝草（出 12:22）。这个词还在《撒母耳记下》16:1 中以复数形式出现过一次，表示上百张葡萄干饼（希伯来语：šimmûq）。

BURDEN 担当、重担、默示

【希伯来语：massā', sēbel, sōbel, y^ehāb, ṭōrah (赛 1:14)】；《钦定版圣经》还译为 TROUBLE (“苦难”，ṭōrah)；《新英文译本》还译为 LOAD (“重担”)、HINDRANCE (“绊脚的”)、TARGET (“靶子”，伯 7:20)、FORTUNES (“命定的收场”，诗 55:22)、LABOUR (“重担”)；【nāśa'】 (“当此任”，出 18:22)；【sābal】；《新英文译本》中译为 HAULIERS (“担当”)、“carrying loads” (“分担此事”)；【kābēd】 (“加重……的担子”，尼 5:15)；《钦定版圣经》中译为 “be chargeable” (“使……受累”)；【希腊语：báros, phortíon】；《新英文译本》还译为 LOAD (“重担”)、PACKS (“包袱”)；【katabarēō, epibarēō, katanarkāō】 (“使……不成为负担”)；《钦定版圣经》还译为 “not be burdensome” (“不累着”)、“not be chargeable” (“免得受累”)；《新英文译本》还译为 “not sponge” (“不累着”)。

In the OT, any kind of load was described as a burden, whether of the literal sort (Ex.

23:5; 2 K. 5:17; Jer. 17:21; etc.) or the moral figurative variety (Nu. 11:11, 17; Dt. 1:12; etc.), where massā' was employed. The massā' of prophetic responsibility was translated "burden" in the AV (cf. Isa. 15:1; 17:1) but "oracle" by the RSV and NEB (cf. Isa. 13:1; 15:1; Zec. 9:1; 12:1; Mal. 1:1). A man's iniquities could be burdensome to himself (Ps. 38:4). Nouns derived from the root sābal, "bear a load," are used to convey the idea of burden in Ps. 81:6; Isa. 10:27; 14:25, and occur in the plural in Ex. 1:11; 2:11; 5:4; etc. In Ps. 55:22, y^hhāb, "lot," is rendered "burden" by the AV and RSV and "fortunes" by the NEB.

In the NT, báros, "something heavy," is used of daily burdens (Mt. 20:12), of difficult requirements (Acts 15:28; Rev. 2:24), or of one's moral infirmities (Gal. 6:2). Phortion, "something to be borne," is used of the obligation which Christ imposes (Mt. 11:30) or the legal ordinances of the Pharisees (Lk. 11:46). The difference between these two terms is difficult to understand, since their use in the papyri parallels that in the NT.

BURDEN-BEARERS

[Heb. sabbālim] (2 Ch. 34:13; cf. 1 K. 5:15; Neh. 4:10). Laborers in the construction and restoration of the temple at Jerusalem, apparently engaged in transporting or clearing away building material. Those who worked on the original temple were slaves or foreign captives (cf. 1 K. 9:15; 2 Ch. 2:18).

BURGLARY

(出 23:5; 王下 5:17; 耶 17:21 等), 还是道德比喻义的重担 (民 11:11, 17; 申 1:12 等), 都用 massā' 来表示。在《钦定版圣经》中, 先知的责任 massā' 被译为 "burden" ("重担", 参: 赛 15:1; 17:1), 但《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》中译为 "oracle" ("默示", 参: 赛 13:1; 15:1; 亚 9:1; 12:1; 玛 1:1)。一个人的罪如同重担, 叫他担当不起 (诗 38:4)。《诗篇》81:6; 《以赛亚书》10:27; 14:25 采用从词根 sābal ("承担重担") 衍生出的多个名词来表达重担的观念, 在《出埃及记》1:11; 2:11; 5:4 等经文中使用了这些名词的复数形式。在《诗篇》55:22 中, 《钦定版圣经》和《修订标准译本》将 y^hhāb ("阍") 译为 "重担", 而《新英文译本》译为 "所命定的收场"。

《新约》中用 báros ("沉重的东西") 一词表示每日的劳苦 (太 20:12)、困难需求 (徒 15:28; 启 2:24) 和一个人的道德弱点 (加 6:2)。 Phortion ("必须承担的事") 用来表示基督分配的职责 (太 11:30) 或法利赛人的律例 (路 11:46)。很难理解这两个词之间的差异, 因为它们在蒲草纸中的用法与它们在《新约》中的用法极为相似。

I. Importance.—In contrast to the Greeks and the Romans, whose custom was to cremate the dead (see CREMATION), the Jews “bury rather than burn dead bodies” (Tacitus Hist. v. 5). Burial constituted the biblical procedure from the days of the earliest patriarchs onward (Gen. 23:4; 25:9; Dt. 10:6; 34:6). For a corpse to remain unburied or to be exhumed subsequent to burial, and thus become

I. 埋葬的重要性。希腊人和罗马人习惯于为逝者举行火葬（见 CREMATION[火葬]），而犹太人“埋葬死尸，而不是焚烧死尸”（Tacitus Hist. 5 节）。从最早的族长时期开始，埋葬就成为一种依据圣经的习俗（创 23:4；25:9；申 10:6；34:6）。因为，未被埋葬的尸体或埋葬后被掘出的尸体将成为猛兽的食物，这也是最大的侮辱或最严厉的惩罚（王上 14:11；16:4；王下 9:37； food for beasts of prey, was the climax of indignity or judgment (1 K. 14:11; 16:4; 2 K. 9:37; Ps. 79:3; Jer. 7:33; 8:1; 16:4, 6; 22:19; Ezk. 29:5; Rev. 11:9). Uncovered blood cried for vengeance (Ezk. 24:8; 39:12) and brought defilement upon the whole land (Dt. 21:1-9). Even criminals were to be allowed burial (Dt. 21:22f.); and it was an obligation resting upon all to bury the dead found by the way (Tob. 1:18; 2:8); but note the exceptional denial of it to the sons of Rizpah (2 S. 21:10).

In the Orient burial takes place, if possible, within twenty-four hours after death. Moslems bury their dead on the day of death, if the death takes place in the morning; but if in the afternoon or at night, not until the following day. Haste is required because of the rapidity of decomposition, the excessive violence of grief, a reluctance to allow the dead to remain long in the houses of the living—perhaps through fear of harboring the body of one dying under divine judgment (Lev. 10:4; Acts 5:6, 10)—and the defilement to which contact with a dead body gave occasion (Nu. 19:11-16; Ezk. 43:7; Hag. 2:13; cf. Gen. 23:4, burial “out of my sight”). Even hanged corpses were not allowed to remain exposed after nightfall (Dt. 21:23); note the burial of Jesus on the day of His crucifixion (Mt. 27:57-59; Gal. 3:13).

II. Preparations.-A. Duties of the Family.

While the ceremonies preparatory to burial must have varied somewhat from period to period, the following features appear normal. Death was announced by a shrill cry, followed by a tumult of lamentation (2 S. 1:12; 18:33; cf. Mk. 5:38). As an expression of affection, loved ones might kiss or embrace the body

诗 79:3; 耶 7:33; 8:1; 16:4, 6; 22:19; 结 29:5; 启 11:9)。未被掩盖的血要施行报应 (结 24:8; 39:12), 并将玷污全地 (申 21:1-9)。甚至连罪犯的尸体都要埋葬 (申 21:22-23); 所有人都有义务埋葬在路上发现的尸体 (比 1:18; 2:8); 但要注意利斯巴拒绝埋葬她的儿子是个例外 (撒下 21:10)。

在东方, 如果条件允许, 葬礼要在死者逝去 24 小时内举行。如果人在早上去世, 穆斯林教徒会在死者逝去当天就将其安葬; 但如果人在下午或晚上去世, 就要在第二天安葬尸体。埋葬要迅速完成, 因为尸体很快就会腐烂, 也为了避免哀悼者过度悲痛, 人们不愿意让死尸在活人的房内逗留太久——或许是害怕存留尸体将受到神的惩罚 (利 10:4; 徒 5:6, 10), 而且尸体有时会玷污圣名 (民 19:11-16; 结 43:7; 该 2:13; 参: 创 23:4, 埋葬, “不在我眼前”)。甚至连吊死的尸体都不可留在木头上过夜 (申 21:23); 值得注意的是, 耶稣被钉十字架当天就被埋葬了 (太 27:57-59; 加 3:13)。

II. 葬前的准备。A. 家人的职责。

虽然各个时期葬礼前的准备有所不同, 但以下特征似乎很常见。首先以哭喊声宣布死亡, 之后哭号着哀悼死者 (撒下 1:12; 18:33; 参: 可 5:38)。亲人可能会亲吻或拥抱逝者来表达他们对逝者的感情 (创 50:1)。长子要闭上逝者的眼睛, 如果没有儿子, 那么由最亲近的人来完成 (参: 创 46:4), 这可能象征着“逝

(Gen. 50:1). The oldest son or, failing him, the nearest of kin present would then close the eyes of the dead (cf. Gen. 46:4), perhaps symbolic of the “sleep of death” (Acts 7:60; 1 Thess. 4:13f.; Ps. 17:15). Those responsible would wash the body (Acts 9:37), anoint it with aromatic ointments (Jn. 12:7; 19:39), clothe it as in life (cf. 1 S. 28:14), swathe hands and feet in grave-bands, usually of linen (Sir. 38:16; Jn. 11:44a), and cover the face or bind it about with a napkin or handkerchief (Jn. 11:44b). Such ministries ordinarily devolved upon loving relatives and friends, mostly women (cf. Lk. 23:54–24:1).

B. Embalming. True embalming was not practiced in Israel, as evidenced by the bodily remains that have been recovered (see IV below for significance); the “sweet odors and spices” (2 Ch. 16:14) seem to have been utilized more for purification than for preservation. The quantity employed at the burial of Jesus, both by Nicodemus and by the women (Jn. 19:39; Mk. 16:1), indicate honor rather than a desire to embalm (cf. ICC on Jn. 19:39). Embalming (Heb. hānaṭ, “to give the color of ripeness”; cf. Cant. 2:13) is mentioned in Scripture only in the cases of Jacob and Joseph (Gen. 50:2f., 26). It was a distinctly Egyptian invention and method of preserving the bodies of men and animals (cf. the descriptions by Herodotus and Diodorus Siculus). The embalming of Jacob occupied forty days (Gen. 50:2; seventy days was also common) and was performed by Joseph’s “servants the physicians” (v. 3). These notices serve primarily to demonstrate the importance of the individuals concerned, as well as to evidence their faith in the ultimate return of the Hebrew people to

者睡着了”（徒 7:60；帖前 4:13-14；诗 17:15）。有人负责洗净尸体（徒 9:37），在尸体上抹香膏（约 12:7；19:39），就像为活人穿衣一样为死者穿衣（参：撒上 28:14），给死者的手脚裹上布，通常是亚麻布（便 38:16；约 11:44a），用手巾盖住或包住逝者的脸（约 11:44b）。这些工作通常由逝者的亲人、朋友（通常由妇女）来完成（参：路 23:54-24:1）。

B. 薰尸。 目前发现的遗体证明，以色列不存在真正的薰尸（关于薰尸的意义，见下文 IV）；以色列人似乎用“馨香的香料”（代下）洁净尸体，而不是为了保存尸体。尼哥底母和妇人安葬耶稣时所用到的香料的数量（约 19:39；可 16:1）彰显出了耶稣的荣耀，并不是为了使尸体不腐（参：ICC 对《约翰福音》19:39 的注释）。《圣经》仅在描述安葬雅各和约瑟时（创 50:2-3, 26）提到了薰尸（希伯来语：hānaṭ，“染上成熟的颜色”；歌 2:13）。薰尸显然是埃及人的发明，是一种保存人和动物尸体的方法（参：希罗多德和西西里的狄奥多罗斯的描述）。约瑟的“医生”（创 50:3）用香料薰雅各四十天（创 50:2，七十天薰尸也很常见）。这些介绍主要是为了证明逝者的重要性，也证明他们相信希伯来人最终将归回巴勒斯坦（创 50:25；出 13:19；书 24:32；来 11:22）。

Palestine (Gen. 50:25; Ex. 13:19; Josh. 24:32; He. 11:22).

C. Mourners. For the pagans surrounding Israel, death was a calamity, unalleviated by hope (1 Thess. 4:13); and their corresponding acts of bitter mourning are illustrated both in Scripture (Isa. 15:2; Jer. 47:5; 48:37) and by ancient monuments. But while such excess was subject to question in both the OT and NT (2 S. 12:21–23; Mk. 5:39), it nevertheless came to be widely assimilated into Israelitish culture. Weeping, so natural in itself (Jer. 9:18), was supplemented by cries of “Alas, alas” (Am. 5:16), “Alas, my brother” (1 K. 13:30; cf. Jer. 22:18; 34:5), and similar phrases, until self-control vanished. An initial action of rending the garments (2 S. 1:11; 13:31; Job 1:20) was followed by the donning of sackcloth (Gen. 37:34; 2 S. 3:31), disheveling or tearing one’s hair and beard (Jer. 7:29; Mic. 1:16), holding the hands over one’s head (?) (2 S. 13:19; Jer. 2:37, as supported by archeological data), scattering dust and ashes on one’s head, or wallowing in it (2 S. 13:31; Ezk. 27:30), and by fasting (2 S. 1:12), especially at times of extraordinary grief, as at the death of an only son (Jer. 6:26; Am. 8:10; Zec. 12:10); see GRIEF. Family members, such as wives, might mourn in separate groups (Zec. 12:12–14), while professional mourners came to occupy a prominent place (Eccl. 12:5). These latter consisted primarily of women (Jer. 9:17), “skilled in lamentation” (Am. 5:16), with dirge singers and flute players (Mt. 9:23; Mk. 5:38). The most pagan features of mourning, such as cutting the flesh (Jer. 47:5) or tearing the hair (Isa. 15:2) for the dead, were forbidden by the Mosaic law (Lev. 19:28; Dt. 14:1), though Israel’s

C. 哀悼者。对于以色列周围的异教徒来说，死亡是一场灾难，意味着失去指望（帖前 4:13）；《圣经》中（赛 15:2；耶 47:5；48:37）和古迹上都记载了他们悲痛地哀悼死者的行为。虽然《旧约》和《新约》都反对过度为逝者哀悼（撒下 12:21–23；可 5:39），但这种习俗渐渐广泛地融入以色列的文化之中。哭泣是悲痛之情的自然流露（耶 9:18），后被“哀哉，哀哉”（摩 5:16）、“哀哉，我兄啊”（王上 13:30；参：耶 22:18；34:5）等类似的表述所取代，直到哀悼者无法自控。在哀悼时，尤其是在哀悼者极其悲伤的时候，如唯一的儿子死去的时候（耶 6:26；摩 8:10；亚 12:10），他们首先撕裂衣服（撒下 1:11；13:31；伯 1:20），然后腰间围上麻布（创 37:34；撒下 3:31），使头发凌乱或剪掉头发和胡须（耶 7:29；弥 1:16），以手抱头（不确定）（撒下 13:19；耶 2:37，考古资料证明了这一点），把灰尘撒在头上或在灰中打滚（撒下 13:31；结 27:30），禁食（撒下 1:12）；见 GRIEF（愁苦、忧愁）。家人，如妻子可能在不同的队伍中吊丧（亚 12:11–14），而专业的吊丧者占据着很突出的地位（传 12:5）。专业吊丧者主要由妇女组成（耶 9:17），“善唱哀歌”（摩 5:16），其中包括唱挽歌的和吹长笛的（太 9:23；可 5:38）。虽然以色列人的顺从值得大加赞赏（耶 16:6），但摩西律法禁止服丧中有这些最明显的异教特征（利 19:28；申 14:1），如用刀割身（耶 47:5）或剃光头（赛 15:2）。由于死人可能沾染祭司，所以祭司条例中明确规定，祭司不可参加哀悼仪式（利 21:1–4）；大祭司和拿细耳人也不可挨近死尸（利 21:10–11；民 6:7）。 obedience appears to have been far from commendatory (Jer. 16:6). Because of the defilements involved, priests were specifically restricted in their observance of mourning (Lev. 21:1–4); and for high priests and Nazirites it was prohibited altogether (Lev. 21:10f.; Nu. 6:7).

D. Processions. When the other preparations had been made and the time came, the corpse was lifted onto a bier, or litter (Heb. mittâ; 2 S. 3:31; cf. Lk. 7:12–14). The mittâ seems to have rested on poles, by which it was carried by shoulder to the tomb. Chief mourners followed the bier (2 S. 3:31), accompanied by the specially robed professional lamenters (2 S. 14:2). As a particularly notable

D. 送葬的队伍。当其他的工作已经准备就绪，埋葬的时间就到了，尸体被抬到棺中或棺架上（希伯来语：mittâ；撒下 3:31；参：路 7:12-14）。棺似乎放在杠上，用杠将棺扛在肩膀上，然后抬到坟墓中。丧主跟在棺后（撒下 3:31），丧主的后面是穿着特殊孝衣的专业吊丧的（撒下 14:2）。有一个例子尤其值得一提，《创世记》50:7-11 中详细地描述了一支送葬队伍将雅各的遗体从埃

III. Interment.-A. Earthen Graves. For groups without a settled abode, interment must have taken the form of roadside burials, marked perhaps by a tree (Gen. 35:8) or a pillar (v. 20). Coffins were not employed in ancient Israel. The only one mentioned in the Bible is the sarcophagus (Heb. 'ārôn, “box, chest,” Gen. 50:26) in which the embalmed body of Joseph was preserved in Egypt. For the majority of Israelites, without the means to afford even a simple grave marker, burial must have continued to consist simply of placing the corpse in a shallow depression. After the body had been let down into the ground, the bier, of course, was set aside; and the earth was replaced, followed by a heap of stones to preserve the dead from depredations of beasts or thieves. Achan’s grave in Achor and Absalom’s in the wood of Ephraim had “great heaps of stones” raised over them (Josh. 7:26; 2 S. 18:17), in these cases, however, not for honor but for dishonor. Excavation at Canaanite sites has demonstrated the frequency of burials within houses, particularly of infants. These include both normal burials, in broken jars beneath floors, and child sacrifices, beneath foundations (cf. 1 K. 16:34). But among the Hebrews house burials appear to have been exceptional, reserved for major leaders such as Samuel (1 S. 25:1), Joab (1 K. 2:34), and the kings (see III.B.2 below); and even in these references the precincts or garden of the house may be what is intended (cf. 2 Ch. 33:20 with 2 K. 21:19 and Jn. 19:41).

III. 葬礼。A. 土坟。对于居无定所的人来说，死人就葬在路边，埋葬处可能有一棵树（创 35:8）或一块碑（创 35:20）。古代的以色列人不使用棺材。《圣经》中仅提到过装约瑟的薰尸的石棺（希伯来语：'ārôn，“箱子或柜子”，创 50:26），这个棺材停在了埃及。大多数以色列人甚至买不起简单的墓碑，埋葬死人不过是将尸体放在一个浅洼地中。当然，尸体入土之后，棺材也留在了那里；然后将土填回，随后再堆放一堆石头，以防猛兽或盗贼破坏尸体。亚割亚干的坟上和以法莲林中押沙龙的坟墓上都堆放了“一大堆石头”（书 7:26；撒下 18:17），但这并不是在荣耀他们，而是在羞辱他们。迦南遗址的发掘已经证明，希伯来人通常将死人（尤其是死婴）葬在屋子内。这不仅包括将死人葬在地下破碎坛中的常规葬礼，也包括将孩子葬在根基下的献祭式葬礼（参：王上 16:34）。但希伯来人将死人埋在房中似乎只是特殊情况，只有主要的领袖，如撒母耳（撒上 25:1）、约押（王上 2:34）和国王（见下文 III.B.2）才采用这种埋葬方式；但即使经文中提到这种埋葬方式，仍有可能指的是将死人葬在房子的围地或花园中（参：代下 33:20；王下 21:19；约 19:41）。

B. Tombs. 1. Pre-Israelite. The earliest constructed tombs in Palestine are the dolmens or “stone tablets,” found particularly in Transjordan. They consist of great slabs of stone, set on edge with a covering slab, and are relics of an otherwise unknown prehistoric nomadic people (c.f. WBA, pp. 29f.). With the coming of the Early Bronze Age (3000–2000 B.C.), interment in natural or artificially enlarged caves predominates, those of Jericho being the most significant. The burial of Sarah (Gen. 23:19) and later of the other members of Abraham’s family, in the Cave of Machpelah at Hebron (Gen. 25:9; 49:31; 50:13), follow this pattern. Excavations such as Macalister’s at Gezer have revealed the inclusion of a few small food vessels in tombs of this period. Shaft tombs, hewn out of the soft limestone of Palestine and entered by a vertical well sunk to one side, characterize Middle Bronze Canaanite culture (2000–1500 B.C.). Each wealthy household would seek to possess a family tomb, prepared with stone shelves or benches to receive the bodies. Among the Canaanites of the Late Bronze Age (1550–1200 B.C.), both before and after Joshua’s conquest of Palestine, chamber tombs cut from hillsides became the predominant form. Entered by a few descending steps cut into the rock, their actual doorways were sealed by heavy stones. Beneath the shelves or niches, a further cavity was customarily cut into the tomb’s floor, so that when tissue disintegrated the skeletal remains could be swept into the pit and the niches reused. Many generations of a family could thus be placed in the ancestral tomb; note the biblical phrase, “gathered unto his people” (Gen. 25:8; 49:33). With the deceased, the Late Bronze Canaanites buried ornaments,

B. 坟墓。1、以色列人出现之前的坟墓。巴勒斯坦最早的坟墓是石板墓或“石碑墓”，这种坟墓在外约旦尤为常见。这些坟墓由一些立着放的大块石板构成，坟墓上还有一块掩盖的石板，它们是史前某个游牧民族的遗迹（参：WBA，29-30 页）。在青铜器时代初期（公元前 3000 年至 2000 年），天然洞穴或人工凿出的洞穴是主要的埋葬地，耶利哥的这种洞穴坟墓最值得关注。埋葬在希伯伦麦比拉洞中的撒拉（创 23:19）和亚伯拉罕后来的家族成员（创 25:9；49:31；50:13）都以洞穴为坟墓。例如，麦卡利斯特在基色考古发掘时在墓中发现了一些这一时期的小型食器。竖井式坟墓体现了青铜器时代中期迦南文明（公元前 2000 年至 1500 年）的特征，这种坟墓是用巴勒斯坦的软石灰岩雕凿而成，可以经过一侧的竖井进入坟墓。每个富有的家庭都要建造一座家族墓穴，墓穴中有一些用来摆放尸体的石架或石凳。约书亚征服巴勒斯坦之前和之后，青铜器时代晚期（公元前 1550 年至 1200 年）的迦南人的主要墓穴是在山坡中凿出的墓室。通过岩石中凿出的下行台阶可以进入墓室，墓室的实际入口已经被巨石封住。在石架或壁龛的下面，通常在坟墓的底部再凿出一个洞，所以当身体组织分解后，骨骼残骸可以落入坑内，壁龛可以重复使用。因此家族中的多代人可以安葬在祖先的坟墓中；注意《圣经》中的表述，“归到他列祖那里”（创 25:8；49:33）。青铜器时代晚期的迦南人除了在墓中安葬逝者，还埋葬一些装饰品、武器（如，刀剑，结 32:27）、各种陶瓷灯具、油壶和食器。《圣经》中禁止向死人献贡的规定正是为了反对这些习俗（申 26:14）。见彩图 8。 weapons (e.g., swords, Ezk. 32:27), and an assortment of pottery lamps, oil jugs, and food containers. It is in opposition to such practices that Scripture prohibits offerings for the dead (Dt. 26:14). See Plate 8.

2. Israelite. Under the later judges and early kingdom (Iron I, 1200–900 B.C.), Israel adopted much of the Canaanite “family tomb” procedure, though with a marked decrease in accompanying articles; note the OT notices of burials “in the sepulchre of his father” (Jgs. 8:32; 16:21; 2 S. 2:32; 17:23). Egyptian influence early in Iron I led to the utilization for a period of pottery coffins, in the well-known mummy-case pattern. Such anthropoid sarcophagi have appeared in Dibon, Bethshan, and even in the Egyptian delta with twelfth- and eleventh-century Philistine pottery, which suggests sponsorship by this latter people (AP, pp. 115–17). Foreign coffins, however, were not adopted by the Hebrews. Scripture frequently refers to the Iron II (900–600 B.C.) burials of the kings of divided Israel. The southern rulers from David to Ahaz were buried in “the sepulchres of the kings of Israel” within the City of David, the old south-eastern hill of Jerusalem, presumably in two galleries, long since denuded and now partially cut away, above the Pool of Siloam (2 Ch. 28:27). The mention of King Asa’s funerary “bed” (2 Ch. 16:14)

2、以色列人的坟墓。在后来的士师时期和王国初期（铁器时代 I 期，公元前 1200 年至 900 年），以色列人借鉴迦南人建造“家族坟墓”的许多步骤，但墓中的陪葬品明显少了许多；注意《旧约》中对埋葬的规定“在他父亲的坟墓里”（士 8:32；16:21；撒下 2:32；17:23）。铁器时代 I 期初期，受埃及人的影响，以色列人进入使用陶制棺材的时期，这种棺材仿照了著名的木乃伊箱。在底本、伯善、甚至埃及三角洲都发现了人形棺，并发现了公元前 12 世纪至 11 世纪非利士的陶器，这表明这个后兴起的民族也采用这种棺材（AP，115–117 页）。不过，希伯来人未借鉴外邦人棺材的样式。《圣经》中经常提到铁器时代 II 期（公元前 900–600 年）分裂后的以色列众王的葬礼。从大卫到亚哈斯的南国统治者都埋葬在大卫城内的“以色列诸王的坟墓中”，这些坟墓位于耶路撒冷古老的东南山上，西罗亚水池的上方，可能介于两个水平巷道之间，它们经过长久的侵蚀，目前只剩一部分（代下 28:27）。经文中提到的亚撒王的葬“床”（代下 16:14）显然指的是他在岩石中凿出的壁龛“安歇之处”（参：ICC，见本段）。铁器时代 III 期（波斯时期）的各种坟墓中经常藏有昂贵的家具（AP，145 页）。富人在去世前就开 is apparently in reference to his rock-cut niche “resting place” (cf. ICC, in loc.). The varied tombs of Iron III (Persian period) often came to include rich furniture (AP, p. 145). Special efforts were taken by the rich to prepare tombs for themselves in advance of death (Isa. 22:16; cf. Job 3:14; Mt. 27:60), with hewn stones and sometimes costly pillars set up as memorials (2 K. 23:17; Ezk. 39:15). A number of Israelite tombs have now been identified on the east side of the Kidron Valley in the village of Silwan.

始用雕凿石头为自己建造坟墓（赛 22:16；参：伯 3:14；太 27:60），有些人还耗费巨资建造墓碑（王下 23:17；结 39:15）。目前已在西尔万村汲沦谷的东岸发现了以色列人的大量坟墓。

3. Classical. Under Greco-Roman influence, Palestine tombs took on the exterior forms and ornamentation of classic architecture, e.g., the elaborate Tombs of the Sanhedrin or the so-called Tombs of the Kings, in Jerusalem. Exposed areas were whitewashed to obviate uncleanness through accidental contact at night (Mt. 23:27). In Roman times the entrance was often closed with a large circular stone, set up on edge and rolled in its groove to the mouth of the tomb so as to close it securely. This stone could then be further secured by a strap, or by sealing. Pilate thus directed that the tomb of Joseph of Arimathea, in which the body of Jesus was laid, should be carefully sealed and made as inviolable as possible (Mt. 27:66). Within might be excavated whole complexes of rooms, in which the former benchlike wall niches were changed into squared burial tubes, going back in directions perpendicular to the faces of the tomb walls. Such tombs might number more than a dozen per room. The monumental Silwan tombs of “Absalom,” “Jehoshaphat,” “Zechariah,” and “St. James,” on the east side of the Kidron Valley, date from approximately the 1st cent. B.C.

From the 3rd cent. B.C. onward, a further innovation was that of the bone chests or ossuaries. Patterned on Roman cremation chests, these consisted of stone boxes about 3 ft. long, with covers, in which bones were placed after a body’s decomposition. Ossuaries were frequently marked with elaborate geometrical designs and with Aramaic name inscriptions, such as the famous “Simon bar Jonah” identification found on an ossuary from the early Christian cemetery under the Dominus Flevit Church on the Mt. of Olives.

C. Cemeteries. From the earliest times, community cemeteries existed outside Palestinian towns, especially in caves, as found at Jericho, Megiddo, and Tell en-Naşbeh (Mizpah?); note the village burials in the NT (Lk. 7:12; Jn. 11:30) and the public provision made for the burial of strangers (Mt. 27:7). In the closing days of the monarchy there was a common burying ground at Jerusalem (2 K. 23:6; Jer. 26:23), probably where it is to this day between the city wall and the Kidron Valley. Thousands of Jewish and Islamic tombs on both sides of the valley bear witness today to the belief that associates the coming of the Messiah with a blessed resurrection, when He will descend upon the Mt. of Olives and pass through these graves as He enters the Holy City.

*C. 墓地。*从远古时期开始,巴勒斯坦城邑外围,尤其是洞穴中就存在公共墓地,如耶利哥、米吉多和纳斯比丘(可能是米斯巴)的公共墓地;《新约》中记载了乡村的葬礼(路 7:12; 约 11:30)和长老用银两买户田埋葬外乡人(太 27:7)的故事。君主制末期的耶路撒冷有公共墓地(王下 23:6; 耶 26:23),如今该墓地可能位于城墙和汲沦谷之间。汲沦谷两岸数以千计的犹太和穆斯林坟墓见证着这样一个信仰,即当弥撒亚临到橄榄山,穿越这些墓地进入圣城时,墓地中的死人将会蒙福复活。

D. Mourning. Lamentation reached its peak at the tomb (Jn. 11:31). Additional rites included “a great burning” (2 Ch. 16:14; 21:19–20; Jer. 36:5), i.e., of spice and incense, not of the corpse. A seven-day fast was regularly enforced (1 S. 31:13; Gen. 50:11; Sir. 22:12), though the period might be less (Sir. 38:17) or more (cf. the thirty days of mourning observed for great leaders, Nu. 20:28f.; Dt. 10:6; 34:5–8, and the corresponding period for women captives prior to remarriage, Dt. 21:11–13). Literary laments might be composed for such occasions (2 S. 1:17–27; 2 Ch. 35:25), often in a qînâ or “limping” meter (see POETRY, HEBREW). It is disputed whether the “bread [broken] for the mourner” and the “cup of consolation” (Jer. 16:7; cf. Ezk. 24:17, 22; Hos. 9:4) were concerned with a meal served to the mourners at the conclusion of the rites, or with food brought by neighbors to the nearest of kin, prior to the interment, perhaps because of the immediate family’s inability to prepare meals for themselves in a house polluted by death. There is no record of committals or other religious services at the tomb; similarly, archeological indications of funerary shrines, or of any other cult practices for the dead, are conspicuous by their absence.

IV. Significance.—As noted above, haste in Palestinian burial, as well as the subsequent sealing of tombs, was conditioned in part by the ceremonial impurity that the Mosaic law associates with death in any form (cf. Lev. 11:39; 12:2; 13:45; 15:19). Death is the result of sin, a disturbing of God’s original order for man (Gen. 2:17; Rom. 3:23; 5:12); and

D. 哀悼。在坟墓前哀哭是对逝者最大的哀悼(约 11:31)。其他的哀悼仪式包括“烧许多的物件”(代下 16:14; 21:19-20; 耶 36:5), 如烧香料和香, 而不是烧尸体。哀悼者通常会禁食七天(撒上 31:13; 创 50:11; 便 22:12), 但实际上禁食的时间可能短于七天(便 38:17) 或超过七天(参: 为伟大的领袖哀悼三十天, 民 20:28-29; 申 10:6; 34:5-8, 这个时间与被掳女子再婚前的服丧时间相同, 申 21:11-13)。哀悼时可能会创作挽歌(撒下 1:17-27; 代下 35:25), 这些挽歌通常采用“缓慢”(qînâ)的韵律(见 POETRY, HEBREW[希伯来诗歌])。“为哀悼的人[掰开的]饼”和“安慰的酒”(耶 16:7; 参: 结 24:17, 22; 何 9:4)到底是哀悼者在哀悼仪式结束时的饭食, 还是埋葬逝者前邻舍带给逝者的至亲的食物, 尚存在争议, 邻舍为逝者的至亲带来食物, 这可能是因为逝者的直系亲属无法在被死亡玷污的房间内做饭。目前尚没有关于代为服丧或坟前其他宗教仪式的记载; 关于埋葬壁龛的考古证据或其他任何关于死者的宗教习俗的考古证据都表明不存在代为服丧或坟前其他宗教仪式。 its handiwork is therefore unnatural and to be put away (cf. Isa. 25:8; Rev. 21:4). Yet the biblical insistence upon proper burial, as well as its general opposition to cremation, bears inherent testimony to the continuing significance of the human body after death. This significance derives ultimately from the doctrine of the bodily resurrection “of those who sleep in the dust of the earth” (Dnl. 12:2; cf. 1 Cor. 15:52; Rev. 20:13). But even when this truth of resurrection had not yet been as clearly revealed as it was in the days of the eighth-century prophets (Isa. 26:19; but cf. Job 19:26, AV; He. 11:19), care for a corpse would still have been suggested by the Hebrews’ knowledge of the immortality of the soul (1 S. 28:14f.; He. 11:16). Thus Jacob described his death in terms of a personal meeting, of “going to his son” Joseph (Gen. 37:35, which cannot refer to a reunion in the grave, for Joseph had supposedly been eaten by a wild beast). Similarly Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob were “gathered to their people” in life after death: for in all three instances this phrase is contrasted with, and precedes, the statement of their burial (Gen. 25:8f.; 35:29; 49:33); in the cases of Abraham and Jacob, moreover, it was spoken in lands far distant from their ancestral tombs. It is true that the Heb. nepeš, “soul,” often signifies the whole man, body and spirit, so that even a corpse may be called a dead nepeš (Nu. 6:6; 23:10; it is still “somebody”). But while at death a man’s body returns to dust (Gen. 3:19; Ps. 103:14), his spirit returns to the presence of God (Eccl. 12:7 [contrast that of animals, 3:21]; Phil. 1:23) and, for believers, to a conscious life in glory (Ps. 73:24; 49:14f.; Lk. 16:23; Acts 7:59). Since the term “soul” is used interchangeably with that of spirit (Isa.

IV. 埋葬的意义。正如上文所述, 摩西律法中将各种形式的死与不洁净联系起来(参: 利 11:39; 12:2; 13:45; 15:19), 这可能是巴勒斯坦人匆忙地举行葬礼和随后匆忙地封闭坟墓的部分原因。死亡是罪的结局, 并扰乱了上帝最初为他们建立的秩序(创 2:17; 罗 3:23; 5:12), 因此, 死亡不是自然的结果, 且必被吞灭(参: 赛 25:8; 启 21:4)。但《圣经》

支持恰当地埋葬死者，并普遍反对火化，这是人死后肉体仍然具有意义的内在见证。从根本上来讲，这一意义源于“睡在尘埃中的”身体将会复活的教义（但 12:2；参：林前 15:52；启 20:13）。但是即使复活的真理还没有像公元前八世纪的先知所揭示的那样清晰（赛 26:19；只参：《钦定版圣经》，伯 19:26；来 11:19），但希伯来人关于灵魂不朽的知识仍然暗示出他们照顾尸体（撒上 28:14-15；来 11:16）。因此，雅各将自己的死亡描述成私人的会面，“到他的儿子”约瑟那里去（创 37:35，这不可能指的是坟墓中的重聚，因为约瑟可能已经被野兽吃掉了）。同样，亚伯拉罕、以撒和雅各在死后都“归到他们的列祖那里”：在这三个人的例子中，“归到列祖那里”这个短语与关于埋葬他们的表述形成了对比，且先于后者出现（创 25:8-9；35:29；49:33）；此外，在亚伯拉罕和雅各的例子中，说这话的地方离他们列祖的坟墓很远。的确，希伯来词 nepeš（意思是“灵”）通常可以表示完全的人，即人的身体和灵魂，所以甚至连尸体也可以被称为死去的灵（nepeš）（民 6:6；23:10；它也可以表示“某个人”）。但是，当一个人死后，他的身体归于尘土（创 3:19；诗 103:14），而他的灵仍归于赐灵的神（传 12:7[对比动物的魂，传 3:21]；腓 1:23），而对于信徒来说，死亡意味着得到荣耀里有意识的生命（诗 73:24；49:14-15；路 16:23；徒 7:59）。因为“soul”与“spirit”是可以互换使用的两个词（赛 26:9；出 6:9；民 21:4）。灵（nepeš）的存在状态可以并且确实与身体的存在状态不同（创 35:18；太 10:28；启 6:9；参：王上 17:22，在极为罕见的情况下，灵归于身体）。大多数人都相信人的生命在死后仍然可以延续，这种信仰可以用来解释迦南人的招魂术风俗（申 18:11-12）。但是，以色列的异教邻邦认为逝者的灵仍然存在于身体周围，灵下到阴间（参：《撒母耳记上》28:11 中妇

26:9; Ex. 6:9; Nu. 21:4), the nepeš can, and does, exist in a state separate from that of the body (Gen. 35:18; Mt. 10:28; Rev. 6:9; cf. 1 K. 17:22 on the rare case of a soul's return to its body). Belief in the continuance of personal life after death is, of course, common to most men and serves to explain the Canaanite practice of spiritism (Dt. 18:11f.). Israel's pagan neighbors, however, felt that the soul of the departed continued to live in proximity to the body, underground (cf. 1 S. 28:11, the witch's statement, "Whom shall I bring up?"), perhaps with physical needs; hence the Canaanite grave offerings. Scripture, on the contrary, while conceiving of hell as subterranean (Job 26:5; Ps. 63:9), makes clear the heavenly abode of the spirits of the just (Prov. 15:24; 2 Cor. 12:2-4; He. 12:23). No food offerings were to be left in the grave (Dt. 26:14), a prohibition verified by archeology; for tomb vessels show a marked decrease with the Israelite occupation of Palestine. They taper off in time to but a few vases and lamps, perhaps of mere sentimental import or, at the most, as meaningless survivals of pre-Israelite customs (see WBA, pp. 245-47). Indeed, the only effect of the grave upon biblical teaching lies in the coloring it occasionally gives to descriptions of the state of bodily death, as "the land of darkness ... without any order" (Job 10:21f.), or of the state of those lost in hell (Isa. 14:18f.; Ezk. 32:18-32).

Negatively, the significance of biblical burial practice lies in its opposition to the paganism surrounding Israel. Thus, despite their belief in bodily resurrection the Hebrews resisted all trends toward bodily preservation through embalming or the use of coffins. This seems to have been occasioned not simply by Israel's relative poverty and lack of resources but by its conscious antipathy to Egyptian belief and practice (cf. Ps. 114:1). Morbid otherworldliness is the antithesis of biblical faith (Isa. 38:18-20; Jn. 10:10); and, while immortality and resurrection occupy a vital place within Scripture (Ps. 17:14f.; 1 Cor. 15:14, 19), the faith of the saints lay in God's intervention, not in man's preservation of mummies within pyramids (Ps. 73:26; Phil. 3:21; cf. Dt. 11:10-12). In contrast, then, to Canaanite superstition, the OT makes clear that the dead exercise no active influence over the affairs of this world (Eccl. 9:6). Canaanite wizardry and spiritism are condemned (Lev. 19:26; 20:27), not simply as suggestive of rivalry against the only God of revelation (Isa. 47:12f.), but as frankly spurious. The dead do not possess knowledge of what goes on among the living (Job 14:21; 1 S. 28 is explicitly unique [v. 12]); they cannot draw on a treasury of merit or pray for the living (contrast 2 Macc. 15:12-15); and what is more, they do not even care (Job 21:21)! It is better for both: for the living, freed from fear of ghosts; and for the dead, freed from contact with the sin and sorrows of earth.

人的话，“我为你招谁上来呢？”），并且可能还有肉欲；因此，迦南人在坟墓前献祭。然而，虽然《圣经》中承认阴间在下面（伯 26:5；诗 63:9），却阐明了义人的灵住在天上（箴 15:24；林后 12:2-4；来 12:23）。耶和华禁止在坟墓中摆放祭品（申 26:14），这一禁令得到了考古学的证实；因为以色列人占领迦南地之后，坟墓中器皿的数量明显减少。随着时间的推移，坟墓中器皿的数量逐渐减少，只剩下了一些花瓶和灯具，它们可能只是一种情感的寄托，或者是以色列人占领迦南前毫无意义的遗俗（见 WBA, 245-247 页）。实际上，坟墓对圣经教导的唯一影响是它偶尔渲染了关于身体死亡状态的描述，坟墓被描述成“死荫混沌之地”（伯 10:21-22），或者被扔到阴府之人的国度（赛 14:18-19；结 32:18-32）。

Scripture is particularly adamant in its opposition to any cult of the dead or worship involving the deceased (Lev. 19:28), hence the complete lack of funerary shrines at biblical Palestinian sites; the concept of prayers for the dead appears only in apocryphal writings (2 Macc. 12:44f.). The Bible insists rather that the eternal destiny of one's soul is fixed by his response to Christ in this life (Eccl. 9:4f., 10; Lk. 16:26): "It is appointed for men to die once, and after that comes judgment” (He. 9:27). But for those who follow Jesus, “Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord ... that they may rest from their labors, for their deeds follow them!” (Rev. 14:13).

信仰和风俗(参:诗 114:1)。可怕的阴间有违《圣经》中的信仰(赛 38:18-20; 约 10:10);永生和复活在《圣经》中占据着至关重要的地位(诗 17:14-15; 林前 15:14, 19),圣人的信心源于上帝的教导,而不是源于人类在金字塔中保存的木乃伊(诗 73:26; 腓 3:21; 参:申 11:10-12)。《旧约》中明确指出死人不能对这个世界上产生积极的影响(传 9:6),这与迦南人的迷信截然不同。迦南人的法术和招魂术受到了谴责(利 19:26; 20:27),因为它们不仅与神唯一的启示相悖(赛 47:12-13),而且是公开的骗术。死人不了解发生在活人身上事(伯 14:21;《撒母耳记上》28章中的表述很清晰,也很独特[撒上 28:12]);死人不能建立功绩,或为活着的人祈祷(对比马二 15:12-15);此外,死人甚至不能看顾活着的人(伯 21:21)!所以,活着的人最好不要惧怕鬼,而死人不再沾染罪恶,并远离了地上的伤心之事。

The Heb. s^eneh (Ex. 3:2-4; Dt. 33:16) refers to Moses' burning bush, as does the Gk. bâtos, in Mk. 12:26; Lk. 20:37; Acts 7:30, 35. Of several varieties of bramble (cf. Lk. 6:44) found in Palestine, Rubus discolor is the commonest, but is not a native. Probably the bush was one of the thorny acacias such as A. nilotica (L) Forsk., the Egyptian mimosa. Some

BURSTING 碎块

《钦定版圣经》对《以赛亚书》30:14 中希伯来词 m^ekittâ 的翻译；《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》中译为“fragments”（“碎块”）。

BUSH 小树、蒺藜、荆棘

【希伯来语：seneh, sî(a)h；希腊语：bâtos】；《钦定版圣经》中还译为 SHRUB（“小树”）（创 21:15）；《新英文译本》中还译为“wormwood”（“艾草”，伯 30:4）、“brambles”（“蒺藜”，路 6:44）。

希伯来词 s^eneh（出 3:2-4；申 33:16）指的是摩西看到的燃烧的荆棘，与《马可福音》12:26、《路加福音》20:37 和《使徒行传》7:30, 35 中的希腊词 bâtos 含义相同。巴勒斯坦有很多种蒺藜（参：路 6:44），黑莓（拉丁学名：Rubus discolor）是最常见的，但它不是巴勒斯坦本土的灌木。这种灌木可能是一种刺槐，如埃及的荆树，学名 A.

authorities have suggested that the “flame” was actually a covering of the crimson mistletoe Loranthus acaciae Zucc., which grows profusely on shrubs in Palestine and Sinai. Others have regarded the bush as a species of gasplant (Dictamnus albus L) from which a volatile, easily ignited vapor escapes.

The Heb. sî(a)h (Gen. 21:15; cf. 2:5; Job 30:4, 7) refers principally to the low desert bushes or scrub.

BUSH, THE BURNING

[Heb. seneh; Gk. bátos]. The shrub at the locale of a theophany on Mt. Horeb (Ex. 3:2–4; cf. Dt. 33:16). Moses’ attention was attracted by the phenomenon of a bush apparently on fire and yet not being consumed. Modern attempts at identifying the supposed species of shrub are unconvincing. The blackberry (rubus collinus) grown at St. Catherine’s monastery was imported originally from Syria, and is not native to Sinai. Most probably the bush was some species of thorn. The divine messenger in Ex. 3:2 is a surrogate for the deity of 3:4.

The description of the whole incident is of an untechnical character, which makes an explanation in modern terms rather difficult. However, Louis Golding has described an analagous event which he witnessed in one of the wadis close to Mt. Sinai. Apparently the winds which were swirling down two or three confluent nilotica (L) Forsk. 一些权威认为 “flame” (“火焰”) 实际上是深红色槲寄生 (拉丁学名: Loranthus acaciae Zucc.) 的叶片, 这是在巴勒斯坦和西奈地区生长茂盛的灌木。其他人认为这种灌木是一种白鲜 (拉丁学名: Dictamnus albus L), 从这种植物上很容易散发出一种易挥发、易燃的气体。

希伯来词 sî(a)h (创 21:15; 参: 创 2:5; 伯 30:4, 7) 大部分情况下指的是沙漠中低矮的灌木丛或矮树。

BUSH, THE BURNING 燃烧的荆棘

【希伯来语: seneh; 希腊语: bátos】。何烈山神的显现之地的荆棘 (出 3:2-4; 参: 申 33:16)。摩西被荆棘似乎被火烧着, 却没有烧毁的现象所吸引。现代学者对这种荆棘种类的推测都不足以令人信服。生长在圣凯瑟琳修道院的黑莓 (拉丁学名: rubus collinus) 最初是从叙利亚引进的, 这种植物的原产地并不是西奈。这种灌木很有可能是一种荆棘类植物。《出埃及记》3:2 中神的使者代表了《出埃及记》3:4 中的神。

整个事件的描述不具有技术特点, 因此很难用现代术语作出解释。然而, 路易斯·戈尔丁描述过一个他亲眼在西奈山附近的一条干谷中看见的类似的事件。沿着两三条干谷旋动的风凝聚成了飓风, 当风柱聚起时, 卷起了干河床的沙子。就在这些沙子穿过附近的刺槐树时, 一大片乌云背后的光束照亮了那

【希伯来语: tāltāl; 阿卡德语: taltallū; 希腊语: elátai】(歌 5:11); 《修订标准译本》中译为 WAVY (“厚密的”); 《新英文译本》中译为 “like palm-fronds” (“如棕榈树枝”)。这个词可以指枣椰的花序, 所以可以指卷发。

【希伯来语: dābār, m^élā'kâ, ma^áśeh (撒上 25:2), 'inyān; 希腊语: emporía (太 22:5), ergasia (徒 19:24-25); 另参: 士 18:3, 《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》; 约 2:14, 《修订标准译本》]; 《钦定版圣经》还译为 POSSESSIONS (“产业”, 撒上 25:2)、TRAVAIL (“劳苦”, 传 1:13; 3:10; 4:8)、MERCHANDISE (“买卖”, 太 22:5)、GAIN (“生意”, 徒 19:24)、CRAFT (“生意”, 徒 19:25); 《新英文译本》中还译为 PUBLIC DUTY (“公事”, 申 24:5)、LIVING (“事务”, 诗 107:23)、EMPLOYMENT (“生意”, 徒 19:24)、INDUSTRY (“生意”, 徒 19:25), 参: 《以斯帖记》3:9 中 “officials” (“掌管国帑的人”)。根据《修订标准译本》, 拿八住在玛云, 但他的 “business——产业 (ma^áśeh) 在迦密”。《钦定版圣经》用 “possessions” 代替了 “business”, 而《新英文译本》仅简单地说成: “There was man at Carmel in Maon” (“在玛云有一个人, 他的产业在迦密”)。(参: 《七十士译本》, 希腊语: tá poímnia。)

在《新约》中, 希腊词 emporía (太 22:5) 指的是 “商业地”, 很像英语中的 “emporium” (“商场”), 而不是 “merchandise” (“商品”); 与之相关的

词，参：《雅歌》4:13；《约翰福音》2:16。

For AV “business” the RSV has also “work,” “dealings,” “matter,” “service,” “stores” (2 Ch. 17:13), “house” (Lk. 2:49), “duty” (Gk. chreía, Acts 6:3), “zeal” (spoudé, Rom. 12:11), etc.

《修订标准译本》用“work”（“事”）、“dealings”（“买卖”）、“matter”（“事务”）、“service”（“职分”）、“stores”（“工程”，代下 17:13）、“house”（“家”，路 2:49）、“duty”（“事”，希腊语：chreía；徒 6:3）、“zeal”（“殷勤”，spoudé，罗 12:11）等词来表示《钦定版圣经》中“business”的含义。

BUSYBODY

[Gk. periergázomai, periergos] (2 Thess. 3:11; 1 Tim. 5:13); NEB also “minding everybody’s business but their own” (2 Thess. 3:11); cf. 1 Pet. 4:15, AV (alotrioepiskopos); RSV “mischief-maker”; NEB “infringing the rights of others.” If these passages are coupled with such others as Jas. 3:2–10; 4:11; Eph. 4:29, 31; Tit. 3:2, it becomes evident that sins against the eighth commandment were as common in the apostolic Church as they are today. It is this sin which is so repeatedly warned against by the apostles as in direct conflict with the ethics of Christianity, and in violation of that spirit of brotherly love and mutual trust which Christ has enjoined on His followers, and which is the very marrow of the outward revelation of the Christian faith (1 Cor. 13).

BUSYBODY 专管闲事、好管闲事

【希腊语：periergázomai, periergos】（帖后 3:11；提前 5:13）；《新英文译本》还译为“什么工都不作，反倒专管闲事”（帖后 3:11）；参：《彼得前书》4:15，《钦定版圣经》(alotrioepiskopos)；《修订标准译本》译为“mischief-maker”（“离间者”）；《新英文译本》还译为“infringing the rights of others”（“干预别人的事”）。如果将这些段落与《雅各书》3:2-10；4:11；《以弗所书》4:29，31；《提多书》3:2 同读，明显可以看出，在使徒教会时代，违反第八诫犯偷盗之罪像今天一样常见。使徒们一再提醒教会不要犯这种罪，因为它与基督教的道德直接冲突，也违背弟兄的爱和相互信任的精神，这是基督吩咐信徒保有的精神，也最能彰显出基督徒的信心（林前 13）。

《钦定版圣经》中希伯来词 kí'im（摩 3:7，《修订标准译本》中译为“without”[没有]）的古语表达。参：《创世记》24:38 中的希伯来习语 'im-ló'，另外注意《钦定版圣经》《马太福音》24:48；《路加福音》12:45；20:6 中的古语“but

[Heb. mašqeh]. The butler was an officer in households of kings or other dignitaries, having charge of wines and other potables. The term maqšeh, “one who gives drink,” is rendered “butler” in Gen. 40:1–23; 41:9, “cupbearer” in 1 K. 10:5; 2 Ch. 9:4; Neh. 1:11. The office was one of considerable importance in oriental courts because of the danger to the king’s life through plots of poison, etc. Nehemiah held this position to King Artaxerxes. Wealthy courts, as that of Solomon, usually had more than one such officer (1 K. 10:5); over these cupbearers or butlers was the šar hammašqîm, or chief butler (Gen. 40:9).

Isaiah’s symbolic act of appearing naked, a portent of the defeat of Egypt and Ethiopia, served as a warning to those who placed their hopes for deliverance from the Assyrian menace in that quarter. As the prophet walked about in shameful nudity, so Egypt and Ethiopia—and those who trusted in them—would be humiliated.

I. Definition.-The acquisition of the ownership of something (the object of sale) by one party (the buyer) from another (the seller) by the buyer's handing over to the seller some other object (the price) acceptable to the seller and agreed by both to be equal in value to the object of sale. Buying is thus but one side of a necessarily bilateral transaction that always has selling as its counterpart (cf. the term for "sale" in Roman law, Lat. emptio venditio [lit. "buying-selling"], and note the occurrence of "buyer" and "seller" in an enumeration of necessarily paired, contrasting terms in Isa. 24:2).

I. 买的定义。买方用双方认为价值相当的物品来换取卖方所售物品的所有权, 这种行为称之为买。因此, 买是双向交易的一个必要方面, 而卖则是交易的另一个方面(参: 罗马律法中的“卖”, 拉丁语: emptio venditio[字面含义: “买卖”], 注意《以赛亚书》24:2 中列举的必然成对反义词之一, “买物的”和“卖物的”)。

Strictly speaking, buying (sale) should be distinguished from barter, as it was in Roman law, although the distinction was not normally made in biblical Hebrew, which lacked simple contrasting terms for the two activities. For a transaction to be one of sale, the price must be something recognised within that society as a money of exchange (although today accountancy and the use of checks often obviate the physical handling of the coins and bank notes [bills] that constitute our normal moneys of exchange). Roman law required that the price be at least partly in money (coin), to distinguish the price from the object of sale. The use of a money of account, specifically silver measured by weight, was customary throughout Israelite history (i.e., the value of goods and services was regularly expressed in terms of an equivalent amount of silver), but the use of a money of exchange was not necessarily also customary. However, before the introduction of coinage to the area, probably in the 6th cent. B.C., for which silver, gold and, later, bronze were used, silver was also used as money of exchange for true sale transactions; the use of gold in 1 Ch. 21:25 is exceptional.

Barter, the permutatio of Roman law, is the direct exchange of objects without the intervention of a money of exchange. Barter almost certainly played an important role in at least the ancient Israelite economy (no instance is discernible in the NT), and it must be included within the purview of this article.

II. In the OT.-A. General Considerations. Sale transactions were much less frequent in the simple economy of ancient Israel than in our own, especially before cities assumed an important place in the nation's life. As in any peasant society, each family (Heb. bēt'āb) was largely self-sufficient for its material needs, few and simple as these were, and there was little need to acquire goods by purchase from outside. Such items as pottery or metal tools, obtained from local craftsmen, were probably as often paid for in kind, i.e., by barter, as in precious metal. Kinship ties are very strong in a patriarchal society, and a lively sense of community and mutual obligation must have existed among the members of a clan (Heb. mišpāhâ) who grazed their livestock on

他们并不总是使用交换货币。不过，该地区引入货币制度之前，还是使用银子进行真实的出售交易，该地区可能是在公元前 600 年引入了货币制度，此时他们使用金银进行交易，后来又使用铜进行交易；《历代志上》21:25 中提到的金子交易是一个例外情况。

实物交易，即罗马律法中的以物易物，是不采用交换货币直接进行物品交换。至少在古代以色列的经济中，实物交易近乎无疑占据着重要的地位（《新约》中没有实物交易的例子），因此它必然在本文的讨论范围内。

II. 《旧约》中的买。A. 概述。 相对于我们的经济模式，出售交易在古代以色列的简单经济模式下出现得不太频繁，尤其是城市在以色列民族生活中占据重要地位之前。在任何一个农业社会中，每个家族（希伯来语：bēt'āb）的物质需求在很多程度上自给自足，这些需求也很少，很简单，完全不需要从外界购买商品。陶器或金属工具等物品可以从当地的工匠那里获得，可能以实物进行交换，也就是实物交易的频率，与者用贵金属进行支付的频率相当。宗法社会中的血缘关系非常牢固，宗族（希伯来语：mišpāhâ）成员之间必然存在着一种浓厚的社群意识和相互责任感，他们在共有的牧场上放牧，照料葡萄园，并在祖辈世代相传的土地上耕种。由于这个宗族成员间关系密切，现代社会中的商品和服务交易在古代的以色 common pasturelands and tended vineyards or tilled the soil in neighboring hereditary plots that had been worked by their fathers for generations. Because of this clan solidarity, many exchanges of goods and services that would take the form of sale or hire in modern society must have occurred as acts of simple gift-giving in ancient Israel. Such gifts would eventually be roughly reciprocated by those able to make a counter contribution, to judge from the cases of gift-exchange known to anthropologists as an integrative principle of pre-modern or non-Western economies. In the case of those unable to reciprocate—the poor, the widows, and the orphans—Israelites were expected to accept the moral obligation of helping them without thought of return (cf. Lev. 25:35; Dt. 15:7–11).

The institution of tithing was another factor that limited the frequency of sale transactions. Tithes and similar cultic dues (e.g., firstfruits, firstlings, freewill offerings) accounted for a considerable proportion of the exchange of goods and (priestly) services in Israelite society; but these exchanges bypassed the forms of sale and hire, except for the situation envisaged in Dt. 14:22–27 (this provision applied only when the offering of sacrifices was limited to the central sanctuary).

B. Terminology. The words rendered “buy” in translations of the OT may refer as much to barter as to purchase with a money of exchange. The most common verb so rendered (Heb. qānā; [Aram. qēnā, Ezr. 7:17]) means simply “become owner (of something), acquire,” as in Gen. 4:1 where Eve says of Cain, “I have gotten a man with the help of the Lord” (it

十一奉献的制度是另一个限制出售交易频率的因素。十分之一奉献和类似的宗教税赋(如,初熟的果子、头生的牲畜、甘心献的祭物)在以色列历史的货物和(祭司)服务交换中占据很大的比例;但除了《申命记》14:22-27中所提出的情况(只有当将祭物献给在圣殿中心时了,才遵循这个规定),这些交换都没有采用出售和雇用的形式。

B. 有关“买”的用词。《旧约》中译为“买”的词既可以指实物交易,也可以指交换货币来购买。采用这种译法的这个最常见的动词(希伯来语: qānā; [亚兰语: qēnā, 拉 7:17]) 仅仅表示“成为某物的所有者, 购买”, 如在《创世记》4:1 中, 夏娃生下该隐, 便说, “耶和华使我‘得’了一个男子”(这里无需使用一个单独的动词 qānā, 意思是 is not necessary to posit a separate verb qānā, “bring into being, create,” for which see KoB, p. 843), or Gen. 14:19, “God Most High, owner of heaven and earth” (a semantic parallel of Akk. bēl šamē u eršetim), or Isa. 11:11, “the Lord will extend his hand ... to recover the remnant which is left of his people”; cf. also Prov. 1:5, “acquire”; 4:5, “get.” The verb qānā needed to be qualified by “with silver” (Heb. b^ekesep) if the unequivocal meaning “acquire ownership by payment of silver as a money of exchange” was to be expressed; thus Jer. 32:25 (cf. v. 9); Am. 8:6.

The second most common verb rendered “buy” is Heb. šābar, but this means specifically “acquire grain” (Heb. šeber). Except for Am. 8:5 and Prov. 11:26 where the causative stem is used, meaning “sell grain,” šābar is always found in contexts showing explicitly that silver was used as a money of exchange (the purchase of grain by Joseph’s brothers in Egypt in Gen. 42–44, and by the Israelites from the Edomites during the wandering in the wilderness in Dt. 2:6 [cf. v. 28, causative]; those “who have no silver” are, because of God’s grace, exceptionally invited to “come, get grain, and eat” in Isa. 55:1). But even this verb apparently does not necessarily specify the purchase of grain by means of a money of exchange; in Gen. 42–44 and Dt. 2:6, payment with a precious metal, silver, is determined more by the circumstances of the transactions—trade far from home in a distant country and travel through foreign territory, respectively—than by the nature of the transaction itself.

Nor does the verb kārā, “acquire by commerce” (Dt. 2:6; Hos. 3:2) or “do business” (Job 6:27; 41:6 [MT 40:30]; RSV “bargain”; AV “dig a pit”; NEB “hurl yourselves”), necessarily imply purchase with a money of exchange. The same is true of Heb. lāqah, “take, receive,” which is occasionally rendered “buy” (e.g. Neh. 10:31 [MT 32]; Prov. 31:16); it may be noted that the antonym of this verb, nātan, “hand over, give,” has the sense of “sell” in Gen. 23:4, 9 (so, regularly, the Akk. cognate nadānu). The normal verb “sell” is mākar.

“使……产生，创造”，见 KoB, 843 页)，或《创世记》14:19，“天地的‘主’，至高的神”（与阿卡德语中的 bēl šamē u eršetim 语义相同），或《以赛亚书》11:11，“主必二次伸手‘救回’自己百姓中所余剩的。”；另参：《箴言》1:5 中“得着”；《箴言》4:5 中“得”。如果动词 qānā 想要表达“通过支付银子这种交换货币获得某物的所有权”这个明确的含义，它就必须加上“用银子”这个补语；《耶利米书》32:25（参：耶 32:9）；《阿摩司书》8:6 就是这样表述的。

另一个最常被译为“买”的动词是希伯来词 šābar，但它专门用来表示“买粮”（希伯来语：šeber）。《阿摩司书》8:5 和《箴言》11:26 中采用了使役语干，意思是“卖粮”，除此之外，šābar 在语境中总是明确表示使用银子作为交换货币（《创世记》42–44 章中，约瑟的兄弟在埃及买粮，在《申命记》2:6[参：申 2:8，使役动词]中，旷野中的以色列人向以东人买粮；在《以赛亚书》55:1 中，由于上帝恩待那些“没有银子”的人，特别邀请他们“都来，买了吃”）。但就连这个动词也不一定明确说明，是用交换货币来买粮；在《创世记》42–44 和《申命记》2:6 中，那些人用银子这种贵金属进行支付，这在更大程度上是由交易的环境决定的，而不是由交易的本质决定的——他们在远离家的地方进行交易，行走在外邦的领地上。

C. Barter. Unequivocal references to barter are nonetheless uncommon, Joseph paid one hundred lambs (Heb. q^ešitā; NEB “sheep,” following LXX Tg.; AV, RSV, “pieces of money”) for a plot of land according to Gen. 33:19. Judah’s arrangement to pay Tamar a kid for her services as a prostitute (Gen. 38:16f.) suggests the practice of barter, and also perhaps that silver was not the customary means of payment for small purchases of the necessities of life for which a prostitute, often a destitute widow, probably needed her earnings. Judah’s contract with Tamar, however, was properly one of hire, not sale. Although the situation described in Gen. 47:18f. was unusual (famine conditions in which the Egyptians gave the government their cattle, land, and even their own persons in return for food), there was probably nothing unusual about the barter attested there. The conditions described in Joel 3:3 (MT 4:3) are again abnormal (pillage by foreign troops), but there is no reason to think that the barter alluded to was commercially irregular. Prov. 27:26 states that “goats (will provide) the price of a field,” suggesting the direct exchange of land for livestock. Taxation in kind (e.g., 1 41:6 [《马所拉文本》40:30]; 《修订标准译本》译为“bargain”; 《钦定版圣经》译为“dig a pit”; 《新英文译本》中译为“hurl yourselves”, 汉译均为“当货物”), 这个动词也不一定表示用交换货币购买。希伯来词 lāqah 同样如此, 它的意思是“获得、接受”, 有时也被译为“买”(如, 尼 10:31 [《马所拉文本》32]; 箴 31:16), 值得注意的是这个动词的反义词 nātan 在《创世记》23:4 和 23:9 中有“卖”的含义(阿卡德语中的同根词 nadānu 通常也表示这个含义), 表示“卖”的含义的常用动词是 mākar。

C. 实物交易。尽管明确表示实物交易的经文不常见, 但根据《创世记》33:19 中的描述, 约瑟用一百银子(希伯来语: q^ešitā; 《新英文译本》遵照《七十士译本》《他尔根》, 将这个希伯来词译为“sheep” [“羊”]; 《钦定版圣经》和《修订标准译本》译为“pieces of money” [“银子”]) 买了一块地。犹大答应给她玛一只山羊羔, 想与她同寝(创 38:16-17), 这可能是一种实物交易的例子, 也可能表明银子不是购买生活中小额必需品的习惯性支付方式, 因为妓女通常是贫穷的寡妇, 她们可能需要赚取一定的收入。不过, 犹大和她玛所立的约实际上是一种雇用, 而不是购买。虽然《创世记》47:18-19 中描述的情况不同寻常(在饥荒时, 埃及人用他们的牛、土地, 甚至用他们自己换取政府的食物), 但是其中的实物交易却并无异常。《约珥书》3:3 (《马所拉文本》4:3) 中描述的情况也很反常(外邦军队拿掠夺物作交换), 但是没有理由认为这种实物交易指的是一种不正常的商业活动。《箴言》27:26 中描述道, “山羊是为作田地的价值”, 这表明直接用牲畜换取土地。实物赋税(如, 撒上 8:14-17; 王上 4:7, 22-23, 27-28; 尼 10:32-39)、通常的实物支付(如, 十分之一贡献)、实物纳贡(如, 摩押的米沙每年将十万羊羔的毛和十万公绵

S. 8:14–17; 1 K. 4:7, 22f., 27f.; Neh. 10:32–39), customary payments in kind (e.g., tithes), tribute in kind (e.g., Mesha of Moab paid the king of Israel an annual tribute of 100,000 lambs and the wool of 100,000 rams, 2 K. 3:4), and the direct exchange of commodities by governments (Hiram supplied Solomon with timber in return for wheat and oil, 1 K. 5:10f. [MT 24f.]) also suggest that moneys of exchange played a more limited role in the early Israelite economy than in Hellenistic-Roman times. The requirement that a Hebrew slave was not to be sent away empty-handed at his manumission—“you shall furnish him liberally out of your flock, out of your threshing floor, and out of your wine press” (Dt. 15:13f.)—again points to an economy in which payments were commonly made in kind.

The definition of a fine in terms of silver, as in Ex. 21:32, need not require payment in silver. Silver may be used in such a context simply as a money of account, to define the value of the fine, and the object actually paid may have been subject to negotiation between the wrong-doer and the injured party. The imposition of a fine is in any case not a commercial transaction, and no necessary inferences about the conditions of sale may be drawn from the amounts and means of payment fixed by tradition in such situations as the payment of fines or “bride price” (cf. Ex. 22:16f. [MT 15f.]; 1 S. 18:25).

D. Sale. Despite the practice of barter, sale transactions involving a money of exchange, normally silver, were familiar long before the introduction of coinage. Abraham, who was “very rich in cattle, in silver, and in gold” (Gen. 13:2), is 羊的毛进贡给以色列王，王下 3:4) 和政府间直接的商品交换(希兰用木材换取所罗门的麦子和油，王上 5:10-11[《马所拉文本》 24-25]) 都表明，与希腊和罗马时期相比，交换货币在早期以色列经济中发挥的作用更为局限。律法中规定，释放希伯来奴仆时不可让他空手而去——“要从你羊群、禾场、酒榨之中多多地给他”(申 15:13-14)，这进一步指出，在当时的经济模式下通常用实物进行支付。

用银子定义的罚款，如《出埃及记》 21:32 中的描述，并不一定要用银子来支付。这个语境中的银子可能只是一种记账货币，用来确定罚款的价值，犯错方和受害方实际上会通过协商来确定支付的方式。总之，征收罚款不是一种商业交易，传统中规定了支付数额和方式，如支付罚款或“聘礼”，但从中并不一定能推断出销售的条件(参：出 22:16-17[《马所拉文本 15-16》]; 撒上 18:25)

explicitly said to have weighed out (Heb. šāqal) for the parcel of land at Machpelah four hundred shekels of silver of a kind acceptable (because of its purity?) to a merchant (Heb. kesep 'ōbēr lassōhēr, Gen. 23:16; cf. 2 K. 12:4 [MT 5]). The silver is described as “full” (mālē) in v. 9, meaning that it was of full quality, without an excessive admixture of impurities (lead), or that it constituted the full quantity due (RSV, NEB, “full price”), or that the price was to be entirely in silver, not partly in silver and partly in kind (cf. 1 Ch. 21:24 for a price partly in silver, partly in kind; cf. also Hos. 3:2; Jgs. 17:10). The sons of Jacob, setting out from Canaan to buy grain in Egypt, each took as payment a package of silver, tied up and fastened (Heb. š'ôr-kesep, Gen. 42:25–28, 35). An imperishable treasure item like silver, a quite small quantity of which may be equivalent in value to a very large quantity of a staple commodity like grain, is obviously a highly convenient means of payment for heavy, bulky goods that must be purchased far from where they are required. The Hebrews paid with silver for the grain and water they bought from the Edomites during the trek to Canaan (Dt. 2:6). The grain was probably bought in bulk, and the payment for water permitted the Hebrews to use specific wells and watering holes for a prescribed period. David bought Araunah's threshing floor (Heb. gōren) and oxen for a price (m'êhîr) of fifty shekels of silver, unless the key phrase in 2 S. 24:24 specifies only the value, not the species, of payment (1 Ch. 21:25 gives the price of the site [māqôm] as six hundred shekels of gold, perhaps including the value of adjacent land acquired later). Omri bought the site of Samaria for a price of two talents of silver, lassōhēr, 创 23:16; 参: 王下 12:4[《马所拉文本》5]) 通用的银子(由于银子的纯度[不确定]), 称了(希伯来语: šāqal) 四百舍客勒, 用来购买麦比拉的一块田。在《创世记》23:9 中, 银子被描述为“十足的”(mālē), 这表明它是纯度很高, 没有过多杂质(铅), 或者表明它是足量的(《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》中译为“full price” [“足价”]), 亦或表明这个价格完全用银子来衡量, 而不是部分价格用银子衡量, 部分价格用实物衡量(参: 代上 21:24, 部分价格用银子来表示, 部分价格用实物来表示; 另参: 何 3:2; 士 17:10)。雅各的儿子从迦南启程前往埃及买粮时, 各带着一包银子作为支付手段, 他们把银包扎紧、固定好(希伯来语: š'ôr-kesep, 创 42:25-28, 35)。像银子这样不朽的财宝, 很少的数量就相当于大量主要商品(如粮食)的价值, 它们显然是买方从远方购买所需品的极为便捷的支付方式。希伯来人向迦南艰苦跋涉时, 他们可能用银子购买以东人的粮食和水(申 2:6)。他们购买了大量的粮食, 用银子买水后, 他们可以在规定的时间内使用特定的井和水坑。根据经文中的描述, 大卫以五十舍客勒银子的价格 (m'êhîr) 购买了亚劳拿的禾场(希伯来语: gōren) 和牛, 除非《撒母耳记下》24:24 中的关键词组仅仅表示价值, 不表示支付的方式(《历代志上》21:25 中称, 那块地 [māqôm] 的价格是六百舍客勒金子, 这可能包括了他后来购买的毗邻土地的价值)。暗利用二他连得银子买了撒玛利亚的一个地方, 但是经文中并没有说他实际用银子进行支付(王上 16:24)。然而, 但《耶利米书》32:9 中明确指出耶利米像《创世记》23 中的亚伯拉罕那样, 平了十七舍客勒银子, 买下堂弟的土地。

although again the text does not state that he actually paid the price in silver (1 K. 16:24). Like Abraham in Gen. 23, however, Jeremiah is explicitly said to have weighed out the seventeen shekels of silver that he paid for his cousin's field (Jer. 32:9).

Perhaps the best example of the use of silver as a money of exchange occurs in Dt. 14:22–27, a passage that prescribes the consumption of agricultural tithes and the firstborn of livestock at the central shrine. If the shrine was too far away for it to be reasonable to expect an Israelite to take his tithes and firstlings there, he was to convert their value into silver (Heb. nātan bakkesep), tie up the silver in a bag, take it to the shrine, and there spend it (nātan hakkesep) on whatever he wanted for the sacral meal—oxen or sheep, wine or strong drink. This provision presupposes either that a peasant farmer would have enough silver on hand to make the conversion from his own resources, or that there would be a demand for the produce and animals on the part of neighboring farmers, even though they would want to convert their own dues into silver, and that these buyers would be able to pay in silver. The passage sheds precious light on the general economic institutions of the period when the laws were drawn up.

E. Diffusion of Silver in Society. The ownership of silver, the most common precious metal in ancient Israel, was found at all social levels; there is nothing to suggest it was a “prestige commodity” restricted to people of a certain minimum social status. Saul's servant had with him a quarter-shekel of silver when his master, seeking information from Samuel regarding the whereabouts of his father's missing donkeys, wondered what gift he might offer the seer (1 S. 9:8). But it is remarkable that Saul himself, the son of a wealthy man (Heb. gibbôr hayil, v. 1), had no silver with him, and that the first thing he thought of as a gift for Samuel was not precious metal but bread (v. 7). Was it because transactions involving the transfer of silver were so uncommon in the daily life of the countryman that he would not ordinarily carry any with him?

使用银子作为一种交换货币的最佳例子可能出现在《申命记》14:22-27中，这段经文描述道，田地中所出的十分取一分，并牲畜中头生的献于至圣所。若至圣所距离这个以色列人太远，无法把十分之一奉献和头生的牲畜带到那里，他可以换成银子（希伯来语：nātan bakkesep），将银子包起来，往圣地去，然后用这银子随心所欲地购买圣礼上的祭物，或买牛羊，活埋清酒浓酒。这一规定有两个先决条件，其一，农民手中有足够的可以换成实物的银子，其二，尽管附近的农民想要将十分之一奉献换成银子，这些买者也有能力用银子进行支付，但他们对于土地中的产物和牲畜也有需求。这段经文对于解释拟定律法时期的一般经济制度具有极为宝贵的价值。

E. 银子在社会中的流通。银子是古以色列最常见的贵金属，各个社会阶层的人都使用银子；没有任何证据可以表明，银子是一种仅限于少数社会阶层使用的“名贵的商品”。当扫罗想要向撒母耳询问他的父亲所丢失的驴的去向，并询问仆人应该给予这位先知怎样的礼物时，他的仆人手里就有一客舍勒的银子的四分之一（撒上 9:8）。不过，值得注意的是，保罗这位大财主（希伯来

Silver was apparently acceptable as payment in all sale transactions; there are no grounds for thinking that its use was limited to “prestige transactions” such as the purchase of land, wives, or slaves. Isa. 55:1f. (admittedly poetry) implies that silver could be used to buy water (cf. also Lam. 5:4), wine, milk, and bread.

The story of Micah the Ephraimite who purloined 1100 shekels belonging to his mother (Jgs. 17:1f.) indicates the amount of silver that a wealthy individual could amass in the early period of the settlement in Canaan. The annual salary that the same Micah offered a Levite to act as his domestic priest consisted of ten (shekels) of silver, an outfit of clothes, and his keep (v. 10; cf. also 1 S. 2:36). The compiler of 1 Kings records, with obvious hyperbole, that silver “was not considered as anything in the days of Solomon,” and that this king “made silver as common in Jerusalem as stone” (1 K. 10:21, 27). Much of this wealth that entered the country via the palace must have been diffused downward through society and so entered general circulation, probably stimulating a wider use of silver as a money of exchange. 2 K. 12 shows that a little over a century later, in the reign of Jehoshaphat of Judah, worshipers at the 语: gibbôr hayil, 撒上 9:1) 的儿子却身无分文, 他首先想到送给撒母耳的礼物不是贵重的金属, 而是饼(撒上 9:7)。难道是因为涉及银子交换的交易在这位乡下人的日常生活中非常罕见, 所以通常情况下, 他不随身携带银子?

用银子支付显然是所有买卖中均被认可的支付方式; 没有理由认为银子只用于“重要交易”中, 如购买土地、妻子和奴仆。《以赛亚书》55:1-2 (人们公认这节经文是诗歌) 中表明, 银子可以用来买水 (另参: 哀 5:4)、酒、奶和食物。

在以法莲米迦的故事中, 他偷了母亲的一千一百舍客勒银子 (士 17:1-2), 这反映了定居迦南之初一个富人能够积攒的银子的数量。这个弥迦每年给一个利未人十客舍勒银子、一套衣服和度日的食物, 让这个利未人担任他家中的祭司 (士 17:10; 另参: 撒上 2:36)。《列王纪上》的编著者以明显的夸张手法记载道, “所罗门年间, 银子算不了什么”, 这位王 “在耶路撒冷使银子多如石头” (王上 10:21, 27)。从王宫中下拨的银子必定流入全社会, 进入各领域流通, 这可能促使银子作为交换货币的使用更加广泛。《列王纪下》12 章中表明, 一个多世纪之后, 在犹大的约阿施统治时期, 耶路撒冷圣殿内的信徒已经习惯于向祭司支付银子, 根据王室的命令, 这些银子当中的一部分要用来维修圣殿的建筑。当王室不颁布这样的命令时, 这些银子要储存在一个箱子里, 箱上有一个盖子, 盖子上有一个孔 (另参: 王下 22:3-7)。这个故事的前提是很多人拥有银子。八世纪的后半叶, 提革拉

Jerusalem temple were in the habit of paying the priests silver, some of which was to be set aside, by royal command, for the upkeep of the temple's fabric. A chest with a hole bored in the lid was set up for the deposit of these gifts when the royal command was ignored (cf. also 2 K. 22:3-7). The story presupposes the widespread ownership of silver. In the second half of the 8th cent. B.C. when Tiglath-pileser III demanded tribute of Israel, Menahem was able to extract fifty shekels of silver from every wealthy man (Heb. gibbôr hayil) to raise the one thousand talents demanded (2 K. 15:19f.; cf. 23:35).

Nevertheless, we should beware of overestimating the extent to which silver was used as a money of exchange before the introduction of coinage. Although excavation reports often record the finding of silver coins in Hellenistic and Roman levels of Palestinian sites, rarely do they mention the discovery of silver in earlier levels, be it in strips, rings, or unwrought form. Yet silver, whatever its form, is no less resistant to oxidation when unminted than when minted, and the only good reason why little silver is found in early levels is that comparatively little was passed in the daily transactions of the masses.

F. Objects Bought and Sold. Objects of sale mentioned in the OT are land (e.g., Gen. 23; Ruth 4:3-9; Jer. 32:6-15; Prov. 31:16); houses (Lev. 25:29-33; Isa. 5:8); male and female slaves, both Hebrew (e.g., Ex. 21:2, 7; Lev. 25:39-41; cf. Am. 2:6; 8:6) and foreign (e.g., Dt. 21:14; Lev. 25:44f.); wives (Gen. 31:15); livestock (Ex. 21:35; 22:1; Dt. 14:21; Ezr. 7:17); timber and stone (2 K. 12:12; 22:6); (fire)wood (Lam. 5:4); grain (Gen.

毗列色三世向以色列征收贡物,米拿现向一切大富户(希伯来语:gibbôr hayil)索要五十客舍勒的银子,从而凑足了一千他连得的贡银(王下 15:19-20; 参:王下 23:35)。

F. 买卖的物品。《圣经》中提到的出售的物品包括土地(如,创 23; 得 4: 3-9; 耶 32:6-15; 箴 31:16)、房屋(利 25:29-33; 赛 5:8)、希伯来男仆和女仆(如,出 21:2, 7; 利 25:39-41; 参:摩 2:6; 8:6)、外邦男仆和女仆(如,申 21:14; 利 25:44-45)、妻子(创 31:15)、牲畜(出 21:35; 22:1; 申 14:21; 拉 7:17)、木材和石头(王下 12:12; 22:6)、柴(哀 5:4)、粮食(创 41:56-57; 申 2:6; 王下 7:1; 尼 10:31; 摩 8:5)、面(王下

41:56f.; Dt. 2:6; 2 K. 7:1; Neh. 10:31; Am. 8:5); flour (2 K. 7:1); sweet cane (Isa. 43:24); linen (Prov. 31:24); vegetables (2 K. 6:25; NEB “locust beans”; AV, RSV, “dove’s dung”); general merchandise (Heb. meḵer) and food (ṣayid), including fruit and fish (Neh. 13:15f.; cf. 10:31); water (Dt. 2:6, 28; Lam. 5:4); wine and milk (Isa. 55:1f.); oil (2 K. 4:7); and the rights of primogeniture (Gen. 25:31).

The sense of solidarity with the clan and, more vaguely, the tribe and nation set certain restrictions on what could be bought and sold. Thus there was no “free market” in land. To prevent land being alienated from the clan, a landowner who wished to sell his patrimony was required to offer it first to his “next-of-kin” (Heb. gō’ēl), normally a brother but sometimes, as the incident of Naomi and Boaz shows, a more distant relative (Lev. 25:25; Ruth 4). In the case of Naomi, a widow, one may wonder to what extent she held clear title to the land acquired by Boaz; note that no price or payment is mentioned, even though the terms of sale are used (Heb. māḵar, qānâ). If land was sold to a non-kinsman, the seller retained the right to buy it back later (Lev. 25:26f.). In any case, land had to be returned to its original owner in the year of jubilee, and the proximity or remoteness of the next such year affected the price paid by a purchaser, who in reality bought no more than the usufruct for a limited period (Lev. 25:13–16). Similar restrictions applied in varying degrees to houses and Hebrew male slaves (Lev. 25:29–33, 39–55; Ex. 21:2). But these laws may well have remained a dead letter at some periods; note that Isaiah inveighed against “those who join house to house, who add field to field, until there is no more room” (Isa. 5:8).

7:1)、菖蒲 (赛 43:24)、细麻布 (箴 31:24)、蔬菜 (王下 6:25; 《新英文译本》中译为 “locust beans” [“槐豆”]; 《钦定版圣经》和《修订标准译本》中译为 “dove’s dung” [“鸽子粪”])、日用商品 (希伯来语: meḵer) 和食物 (ṣayid), 包括水果和鱼 (尼 13:15-16; 参: 尼 10:31)、水 (申 2:6, 28; 哀 5:4)、酒和奶 (赛 55:1-2)、油 (王下 4:7) 和长子的名分 (创 25:31)。

宗族的团结观念, 更模糊地讲, 宗族和国家在一定程度上限制了可买卖的东西。因此, 在地上没有 “自由市场”。为了避免土地脱离宗族的掌控, 想要卖掉自己的产业的田主必须先把它卖给他 “至近的亲属” (希伯来语: gō’ēl), 通常卖给他的弟兄, 但有时也卖给他的远亲, 拿俄米和波阿斯的例子就体现了这一点 (利 25:25; 得 4)。在寡妇拿俄米的例子中, 有人可能会疑惑她在何种程度上拥有波阿斯赎回的土地; 注意, 虽然经文中使用了关于卖 (希伯来语: māḵar, qānâ) 的词语, 但并没有提及这块土地的价格或支付方式。如果这块土地卖给至亲以外的人, 卖方有权将其赎回 (利 25:26-27)。总之, 土地必须在禧年回到原来所有者的手中, 距离下一个禧年的长短影响到买方支付的价格, 他实际上只在有限的时间内拥有土地的使用权 (利 25:13-16)。类似的限制条件在不同程度上也适用于房屋和希伯来男仆 (利 25:29-33, 39-55; 出 21:2)。但是这些律法在某些时期很可能是形同虚设; 应该注意的是, 以赛亚曾痛斥 “那些以房接房、以地连地, 以致不留下余地的” (赛 5:8)。

G. Forms of Sale. The account of Abraham’s purchase of the cave of Machpelah (Gen. 23) suggests the polite but shrewd etiquette of a sale transaction in the ancient Orient, with its exaggerated assertions of generosity and indifference to personal gain (cf. also 2 S. 24:21–24). But the avowals of the parties were not to be taken at face value. “‘It is bad, it is bad,’ says the buyer; but when he goes away, then he boasts” (Prov. 20:14). The laws against false weights and measures (Dt. 25:13–15) attest the practice of fraud and deception (cf. Am. 8:5).

Jeremiah 32:6–15 gives details of the conveyancing of a field. The price of seventeen shekels of silver was weighed out on a balance in the presence of witnesses. A deed of sale (Heb. sēper miqnā) was drawn up (this is the only biblical reference to such a document), and the witnesses “wrote in the document,” i.e., added their signatures. The deed evidently had two parts, one sealed and one open (v. 11). Verse 14 suggests that more than one copy was made, but the smoother reading of the LXX, with its reference to only one deed, is preferable. The document was apparently of a kind represented by examples from the time of Bar Cochba found in an excellent state of preservation in the Cave of Letters in the Naḥal Hever. In these the text was closely written on the upper half of a sheet of papyrus, which was then rolled down and tied with strings that pierced the sheet near the witnesses’ signatures; the text, sometimes in abbreviated form, was then repeated on the lower half of the sheet, which was not

G. 卖的形式。亚伯拉罕购买麦比拉洞的描述（创 23）表明，古东方存在一种礼貌而又精明的销售交易礼节，这种礼节夸张地表现人们的慷慨大方，不计较私利（另参：撒下 24:21-24）。但是不要从表面理解买卖双方的声明。“买物的说‘不好，不好！’及至买去，他便自夸”（箴 20:14）。律法严禁缺斤短两这种欺骗行为（申 25:13-15），这表明当时存在诡诈和欺哄的行为（参：摩 8:5）。

tied up or sealed but left open for reference.

III. In the NT.-A. General Considerations. By the time of the Roman empire, a much more active and complex commercial life had developed than that found in OT Israel. Two developments in particular had affected the manner and frequency of buying. The first was the introduction to the Near East some time after 600 B.C. of coinage, which had become entirely commonplace by NT times (the first reference to coins in the Bible is Ezr. 2:69). The wide circulation of coins, available in several small denominations from the statér (Mt. 17:27) to the lowly leptón given by the widow of Mk. 12:42 (to mention only coins that occur in the NT), facilitated lively commercial intercourse, (See also MONEY.)

The second development that had favored a marked increase in commerce, and in particular petty sale transactions, was the rapid growth of cities, a feature of the hellenization of the Near East. The almost entirely self-sufficient life of the peasant was impossible in the city, so city dwellers acquired their daily food from commodity dealers in from the country, paying for it in coin. Barter, however, did not fall entirely into disuse, as post-NT rabbinic literature still knew of the practice (see S. Krauss, Talmudische Archäologie, II [1911], 351). As a result of these two developments, the sale transactions mentioned in the NT seem to us, as indeed they are, essentially no different from modern sale transactions.

B. Terminology. A standard feature of all the new cities founded under Hellenistic

III. 《新约》中的买。A. 概述。与《旧约》中的以色列相比，罗马帝国时期的商业生活发展得更为活跃和复杂。主要有两个发展影响了购买的方式和频率。第一个发展是，近东在公元前 600 年之后的某一时间引入了货币，到新约时期，货币已经随处可见（《圣经》在《以斯拉记》2:69 中首次提及了钱币）。从一块钱（statér，太 17:27）到《马可福音》12:42 中的寡妇使用面额更小的小钱（leptón）（《新约》中只有这两节经文提到了钱币），钱币能够以多种小面值广泛流通，促使贸易往来更加活跃（另见 MONEY[钱]）。

第二个发展促进了商业尤其是个别小额交易的显著增长，这种发展就是城市的迅速崛起，这是近东希腊化的一个特征。城市居民无法过上农民那种几乎自给自足的生活，所以他们用钱币购买来自农村的商贩手中的日常食物。然而，实物交易并未完全消失，因为新约后期的拉比文献中仍然可以看到实物交易惯例（见 S. Krauss, Talmudische Archäologie, II [1911], 351）。由于这两个发展，《新约》中的提到的买卖在我们看来，与现代的买卖没有本质的差异，事实也确实如此。

B. 关于“买”的用词。市集是受希腊化影响建立起的新城市的一个标准特 influence was the marketplace, the agora, and it is from this term that is derived the usual word for “buy” in the NT, Gk. agorázō. Other words meaning “buy” are ōnéomai, found only in Acts 7:16, and ktáomai, as in Acts 1:18; 8:20; 22:28 (elsewhere it retains its simple meaning “acquire”; cf. Heb. qānā). The usual word for “sell” is pōléō. Other words with this meaning are apodídōmi, lit. “hand over,” as in Acts 5:8 (note that pōléō is used in v. 1), and pipráskō, as in Mt. 13:46 (note that pōléō is used in v. 44). In Jas. 4:13 emporeúomai is used, meaning “trade, act as a merchant” (émporos).

C. Objects Bought and Sold. Things mentioned as bought or sold in the NT include fields (Mt. 13:44; 27:7; Lk. 14:18; Acts. 1:18; 4:34; 5:8); houses (Acts 4:34); oxen and sheep (Lk. 14:19; Jn. 2:14); pigeons and sparrows (Jn. 2:14; Mt. 10:29; Lk. 12:6); food (Mt. 14:15; Mk. 6:36f.; Lk. 9:13; Jn. 4:8; 13:29; 1 Cor. 10:25); oil (Mt. 25:9); linen (Mk. 15:46); spices (Mk. 16:1); a pearl (Mt. 13:46); a cloak and a sword (Lk. 22:36). The small-scale retailing of fresh, cooked food, first alluded to in the Bible in Jer. 37:21, is indicated by the availability in the villages of fresh food for the casual wayfarer (Mt. 14:15; Mk. 6:37).

IV. Prices.—Prices (Heb. mehîr; Gk. timé) are mentioned too infrequently in the Bible for any general statements to be made about their level, their fluctuations, and the way they were determined. However, the fact that Lev. 27:1–7, 16–18 specifies a tariff of values for the redemption of persons or land vowed to God (e.g., fifty shekels of silver, measured by the temple standard, for a male aged

征，其希腊词为 agora，《新约》中用来表示“买”的常见希腊词 agorázō 就源自这个词。其他表示“买”的词语包括《使徒行传》7:16 中的 ōnéomai 和《使徒行传》1:18、8:20 和 22:28 中的 ktáomai（在其他经文中，仅取这个词的简单含义“获得”；参：希伯来语：qānā）。通常用来表示“卖”的词是 pōléō。其他用来表示这个含义的词还有《使徒行传》5:8 中的 apodídōm，字面含义“交出”（注：《使徒行传》5:1 中使用了 pōléō 一词），以及《马太福音》13:46 中的 pipráskō，（注：《马太福音》13:44 中采用了 pōléō 一词）。《雅各书》中使用了 emporeúomai，意思是“做一名商人”（émporos）。

C. 买卖的物品。《新约》中提到的买卖的对象包括田（太 13:44; 27:7; 路 14:18; 徒 1:18; 4:34; 5:8）、房屋（徒 4:34）、牛和羊（路 14:19; 约 2:14）、鸽子和麻雀（约 2:14; 太 10:29; 路 12:6）、食物（太 14:15; 可 6:36-37; 路 9:13; 约 4:8; 13:29; 林前 10:25）、油（太 25:9）、细麻布（可 15:46）、香料（可 16:1）、珠子（太 13:46）、衣服和刀（路 22:46）。《圣经》的《耶利米书》37:21 中初次提到了售卖生鲜和熟食的小型零售业，这表明农村可以为途径的行人提供新鲜的食物（太 14:15; 可 6:37）。

IV. 价格。《圣经》中关于价格（希伯来语：mehîr；希腊语：timé）的概述很少，因此很难看出价格水平、价格波动和决定价格的因素。然而，《利未记》27:1-7 和 16-18 中规定，还愿的人要按照赎回的人或土地的价值归给耶和华（如，从二十岁到六十岁的男人，要按照圣所的平，估定价银五十舍客勒；从禧年周期开始，撒大麦一贺梅珥，要估价五十客舍勒），这表明至少在古以色列

twenty to sixty; fifty shekels of silver, at the beginning of the jubilee cycle, for a field requiring a homer of barley for sowing) suggests that, at least in ancient Israel, values were expected to remain stable. 2 K. 6:25 shows that, as would be expected, famine boosted prices.

V. Buying as a Theological Metaphor.—Buying is used as a metaphor of God’s saving activity for His people in the NT (1 Cor. 6:20; 7:23; 2 Pet. 2:1; see also REDEEMER, REDEMPTION), and perhaps also in some passages in the OT (e.g., Ex. 15:16; Ps. 74:2) if qānā is understood as “buy” rather than simply “acquire.”

Bibliography.—Although not directly concerned with the Bible, several of the essays in G. Dalton, ed., Primitive, Archaic and Modern Economies: Essays of Karl Polanyi (1968) are helpful for the study of the economic institutions of the ancient Mediterranean world.

1、亚伯拉罕的兄弟拿鹤的次子（创 22:21）。

2、一个迦得人（代上 5:14）。

BUZ 布斯

音译: buz 【希伯来语: bûz】; BUZITE (“布西人”) 音译: buz’it 【bûzî】。《耶利米书》25:23 中提到的一个地名, 布西人以利户的父亲就来自这里（伯 32:2, 6）。

bu'zī [Heb. būzī]. Father of Ezekiel the prophet (Ezk. 1:3).

BUZZARD

[Heb. dā'ā] (Dt. 14:13); AV GLEDE; NEB KITE. A bird of prey, unclean to the Israelites; perhaps the kite, of which both red and black species are still common in Palestine.

BY.

Archaic for “against,” translating the Gk. dative emautō, in 1 Cor. 4:4, AV. “By that” in Ex. 22:26, AV, is archaic for “by the time that” or “before”; and “by the space of two years” in Acts 19:10, AV, means simply “for two years.”

BY AND BY.

Archaic for “immediately” as the AV translation of Gk. exautēs (Mk. 6:25), of euthýs (Mt. 13:21), and of euthéōs (Lk. 17:7; 21:9).

BYWAYS

[Heb. n^etībōt]; NEB DEVIIOUS PATHS. The term is rendered “byways” by the RSV only in Jgs. 5:6. Cf. Jer. 18:15,

BUZI 布西

音译: bu'zī 【希伯来语: būzī】。先知以西结的父亲 (结 1:3)。

BUZZARD 鸱

【希伯来语: dā'ā】(申 14:13); 《钦定版圣经》中译为 GLEDE (“鸱”); 《新英文译本》中译为 KITE (“鸱”)。对于以色列人来说,鸱这种猛禽是一种不洁净的鸟。这种鸱,不论是红色还是黑色的品种,现在在巴勒斯坦地区可能仍然很常见。

BY. 藉、靠

“against” (“反对、靠”)的古语词,《钦定版圣经》的《哥林多前书》4:4 中用这个词翻译希腊语中的与格 emautō。《钦定版圣经》《出埃及记》22:26 中的 “By that” 是 “到……时候” 或 “在……之先” 的古语表达; 《钦定版圣经》的《使徒行传》19:10 的 “by the space of two years” 的意思仅仅是 “两年之久”。

BY AND BY. 立刻、急忙、立时

“immediately” (“立即、马上”)的古语表达,《钦定版圣经》将希腊词 exautēs (可 6:25)、euthýs (太 13:21) 和 euthéōs (路 17:7; 21:9) 都译为 “by and by”。

BYBLOS 比布鲁斯

音译: bib'lus。见 GEBAL 1 (迦巴勒 1)。

BYPATHS. 绕道而行

见 BYWAYS (绕道而行)。

BYSTANDERS. 旁边站着的人

BYWAYS 绕道而行、斜路

【希伯来语: n^etībōt】; 《新英文译本》中译为 DEVIIOUS PATHS (“斜路”)。《修订标准译本》仅在《士师记》5:6

which the RSV renders “bypaths,” the NEB “byways.” Elsewhere n^etībôt is generally rendered PATH.

BYWORD

[Heb. š^enînâ, millâ, m^ešôl]; [māšāl]; AV also PROVERB; [herpâ]; AV REPROACH; [šēm]; AV FAMOUS; [q^elālâ] (“byword of cursing,” Zec. 8:13); AV CURSE; NEB “symbol of a curse”; [š^emû‘â]; AV “mentioned”; NEB “hear and talk much.” The term š^enînâ refers to a “sharp taunt” (Dt. 28:37; 1 K. 9:7; 2 Ch. 7:20); millâ to an “object of talk” (Job 30:9); māšāl or m^ešôl to a “proverb” or “satire”; herpâ to a “disgrace” (Dnl. 9:16; Joel 2:17); šēm to a “reputation,” in this case a stained reputation (Ezk. 23:10); š^emû‘â to “news” or “report” (Ezk. 16:56).

中将这个词译为 “byways” (“绕道而行”)。参：《耶利米书》18:15，《修订标准译本》将之译为 “bypaths” (“斜路”)，而《新英文译本》中译为 “bypaths” (“斜路”)。在其他经文中，n^etībôt 通常被译为 PATH (道、路)。

BYWORD 笑谈、讥诮

【希伯来语：š^enînâ, millâ, m^ešôl】；【māšāl】；《钦定版圣经》还译为 PROVERB (“笑谈”)；【herpâ】；《钦定版圣经》译为 REPROACH (“羞耻、责备”)；【šēm】；《钦定版圣经》中译为 FAMOUS (“有名望的、有名的”)；【q^elālâ】 (“可诅咒的”，亚 8:13)；《钦定版圣经》中译为 CURSE (“诅咒”)；《新英文译本》还译为 “symbol of a curse” (“可诅咒的”)；【š^emû‘â】；《钦定版圣经》中译为 “mentioned” (“所记的、被记念”)，《新英文译本》中译为 “hear and talk much” (“所记的、被记念”)。š^enînâ 这个词指的是一种 “讥诮” (申 28:37；王上 9:7；代下 7:20)；millâ 指的是 “笑谈” (伯 30:9)；māšāl 或 m^ešôl 指的是 “笑谈” 或 “讽刺”；herpâ 指的是 “羞辱” (但 9:16；珥 2:17)；šēm 指的是 “名声”，这里指的是臭名 (结 23:10)；š^emû‘â 指的是 “笑谈” 或 “笑柄” (结 16:56)。

CAB

kab (2 K. 6:25, AV). See KAB; WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

CABBON

Kab'ən [Heb. kabbôn; Gk. Chabra]. A place in the Shephelah of Judah near Eglon (Josh. 15:40). Possibly it is to be identified with Hebra E of Lachish; it may be the same as MACHBENAH.

CABIN

[Heb. ḥ^anuyyôṭ] (Jer. 37:16, AV). Obsolete term for “cell,” as it is rendered by the RSV.

CABUL

kā'bəl [Heb. kābûl; Gk. B Chōbamasomel, A Chabōl apó aristerón].

1. A city in the territory assigned to Asher following the conquest under Joshua (Josh. 19:27). Represented by modern Kabul, the hill town is located about 10 mi. (16 km.) ENE of Mt. Carmel, overlooking the maritime plain.

2. The name given by Hiram king of Tyre to a Galilean district containing twenty cities given to him by Solomon (1 K. 9:13). Cabul may have been the governing city of the district; or by popular etymology (k^ebal, “as old, as worn out”), Hiram was complaining about Solomon’s gift when compared with the 120 talents of gold he had sent Solomon (1 K. 9:14). Present evidence does not locate this district with certainty.

CABIN 牢房

【希伯来语: ḥ^anuyyôṭ】(《钦定版圣经》, 耶 37:16)。“cell”的过时术语,《修订标准译本》译为“cell”(“牢房”)。

CABUL 迦步勒

音译: kā'bəl 【希伯来语: kābûl; 希腊语《梵蒂冈抄本》中作 Chōbamasomel, 《亚历山大抄本》中作 Chabōl apó aristerón】。

1、约书亚征服该地之后, 亚设支派分得的一座城邑 (书 19:27)。这座山城就是现代的喀布尔, 位于迦密山东北偏东约 10 英里 (16 公里) 处, 从这里可以俯瞰沿海平原。

2、推罗王希兰将所罗门送给他的包含二十座城市的加利利地区命名为迦步勒 (王上 9:13)。迦步勒可能是该地区的支配性城市; 或从通俗词源上讲 (k^ebal, “陈旧的、破旧的”), 相对于希兰送给所罗门的一百二十他连得金子, 所罗门的礼物让希兰感到不满 (王上 9:14)。根据现在的证据尚不能确定该地的位置。 sē'zər [Gk. Kaisar]. Originally the surname of the Julian gens (thus, Caius Julius Caesar); afterward a name borne by the Roman emperors. In the NT the name is definitely applied to Augustus (Lk. 2:1, “Caesar Augustus”), to whom it belonged by adoption, and to Tiberius (Lk. 3:1, “Tiberius Caesar”; cf. Mt. 22:17, 21). The “Caesar” to whom Paul appealed (Acts 25:11f., 21) was Nero. The form is perpetuated in “Kaiser” and “Czar.”

CAESAR 凯撒

音译: sē'zər 【希腊语: Kaisar】。最初是尤利安宗族的姓氏 (因此, 该尤·尤里乌斯·凯撒); 后来成为罗马皇帝的统称。《新约》中的凯撒显然指的是亚古士督 (路 2:1, “凯撒奥古斯都”), 他是凯撒的养子, 《新约》中凯撒还可以表示提庇留 (路 3:1, “凯撒提庇留”; 参: 太 22:17, 21)。保罗上告的那个“凯撒” (徒 25:11-12, 21) 是尼禄。这个名字以 “Kaiser” 和 “Czar” 两种形式长久地保存了下来。

CAESAREA

ses-ə-rē'ə [Gk. Kaisar(e)ia]. A city on the Palestinian coast about 23 mi. (37 km.) S of Mt. Carmel and about 65 mi. (105 km.) NW of Jerusalem. The ancient name

CAESAREA 凯撒利亚

音译: ses-ə-rē'ə 【希腊语: Kaisar(e)ia】。迦密山以南约 23 英里 (37 公里) 巴勒斯坦海岸上一座城市, 在耶路撒冷西北约 65 英里 (105 公里) 处。这个名字的

in its Arabic form is still associated with the ruined site of Qeishâriyeh.

Caesarea was originally a Phoenician fortification or city known as Strato's tower, and seems to have been built in the 4th cent. B.C. by a Sidonian king of that name (Josephus Ant. xiii.15.4). During the Maccabean war it was captured from Zoilus by Alexander Janneus ca. 96 B.C. (Ant. xiii.12.4; 15.4). The city fell to the Roman forces under Pompey in 63 B.C., and was subsequently given to Herod the Great by Augustus (Ant. xv.7.3). Herod then named the city Caesarea and its seaport Sebastos, in honor of the Roman emperor (Ant. xvi.5.1).

In a display of lavishness Herod erected sumptuous palaces and public buildings over a twelve-year period: and it was not until 10 B.C. that construction was completed and the city dedicated amid magnificent games in the amphitheater.

The harbor at Caesarea was particularly noteworthy, because the whole coastline was inhospitable to shipping. Herod constructed a huge breakwater 200 ft. (60 m.) wide and about 120 ft. (37 m.) in depth, the enormous stones of which can still be seen extending some 150 ft. (46 m.) from the shore. Elaborate buildings surrounded part of the harbor, and there were statues of the emperor at the entrance. Not all of the site has been excavated, but work there has uncovered a synagogue dating from the 4th or 5th cent. A.D.

阿拉伯语形式仍然与该撒利亚 (Qeishâriyeh) 废墟有关。

凯撒利亚原来是腓尼基人的防御工事或城市，被称为斯特拉托塔，它似乎是公元前 4 世纪由西顿王凯撒利亚建造的城市 (Josephus Ant. xiii.15.4)。马加比战争期间，亚历山大·杨纽约在公元前 96 年从佐伊卢的手中夺取了这座城市 (Ant. xiii.12.4; 15.4)。庞培领导的罗马军队于公元前 63 年攻占了这座城市，后来亚古士督把它送给了希律大帝 (Ant. xv.7.3)。希律为了表达他对这位罗马皇帝的敬意，将这座城市命名为凯撒利亚，并将它的海港命名为色巴斯托 (Ant. xvi.5.1)。

希律为了展示他的奢华在超过十二年的时间里建造了华丽的宫殿和一些公共建筑：他的建造活动直到公元前 10 年才最终完成，并且在城市中的竞技场举行了盛大的比赛。

尤其值得关注的是凯撒利亚港，因为整个海岸线不适宜船只航行。希律建造了 200 英尺 (60 米) 宽、约 120 英尺 (37 米) 深的巨大防浪堤，距离海岸约 150 英尺 (46 米) 的延伸区域仍然可以看到很多巨石。海港四周的部分地区建起了精心设计的建筑，在海港的入口处建有一尊凯撒亚古士督的雕像。该遗址尚未被完全挖掘出来，但一个始建于公元 4 世纪或 5 世纪的犹太会堂被挖掘了出来。

Like most coastal communities in NT times, Caesarea had a mixed population. When Pilate was procurator of Judea he lived in the governor's residence at Caesarea. Philip preached in the city (Acts 8:40), which was also his home (Acts 21:8); and it was here that Peter was sent to minister to the Roman centurion Cornelius (10:1, 24; 11:11). Herod Agrippa resided in the city and died there (12:19, 23). Paul passed through Caesarea several times, making it his port of landing on his return from his second and third missionary journeys (18:22; 21:8). At Caesarea he made his fateful decision to visit Jerusalem (21:13), and to that city he returned under guard prior to his appearance before Felix (23:23ff.). After two years of imprisonment Paul made his defense before Festus and Agrippa II in Caesarea, and sailed from there as a prisoner when sent by Festus to Rome on his own appeal (25:11).

Josephus described the riots that broke out between Jews and Gentiles in Caesarea (BJ ii.13.7; 14.4f.), and recorded the atrocities practiced on the Jews under Felix and Florus. In Caesarea Titus celebrated the birthday of his brother Domitian by setting 2500 Jews to fight with beasts in the huge amphitheater. Eusebius was bishop in the city from A.D. 313 to 340. Caesarea passed into Moslem hands in 638, was held by the Christians for a time during the Crusades, and was finally overthrown by Sultan Bibars in A.D. 1265.

凯撒利亚同新约时期大多数沿海地区一样，是个多民族混居之地。当彼拉多做犹太行省的执政官时，他居住在凯撒利亚行政长官的住宅中。腓利曾在凯撒利亚传道（徒 8:40），他的家就在这里（徒 21:8）；凯撒利亚的百夫长哥尼流曾派人邀请彼得来凯撒利亚传道（徒 10:1, 24; 11:11）。希律亚基帕居住在这座城市，并死在这里（徒 12:19, 23）。保罗曾多次途径凯撒利亚，他结束第二次传道之旅和第三次传道之旅回程时，都曾来到这里（徒 18:22; 21:8）。他在凯撒利亚做出了访问耶路撒冷的重大决定（徒 21:13），面见腓力斯之前，保罗被解往凯撒利亚（徒 23:23 起）。保罗被囚禁了两年后，在凯撒利亚非斯都和亚基帕二世面前为自己辩护，腓力斯派人将保罗从凯撒利亚押往罗马，让他上告于罗马的凯撒（徒 25:11）。

约瑟夫斯描述了在凯撒利亚发生的犹太人与外邦人之间的暴乱（BJ ii.13.7; 14.4-14.5），并记载了腓力斯和弗洛鲁斯领导犹太人所行的暴行。在凯撒利亚，提图斯让 2500 个犹太人在巨大的竞技场与野兽搏斗，以此庆祝他的兄弟图密善的生日。从公元 313 年至 340 年，优西比乌担任凯撒利亚的主教一职。公元 638 年，凯撒利亚落入穆斯林信徒之手，十字军东征期间基督徒攻取了这座城市，公元 1265 年苏丹巴尔斯最终摧毁了这座城市。

fil'i-pī, fə-lip'ī [Gk. Kaisareia hē Philippou]. A city at the southwest base of Mt. Hermon on a rocky terrace 1150 ft. (350 m.) above sea level, on the main source of the Jordan River. The site was important for its strategic nature, since it guarded the fertile plain to the west. A nearby cave, from which one of the springs feeding the Jordan emerged, also housed a shrine in antiquity, which may have been dedicated to the rites of Baal-gad or Baal-hermon in OT times (cf. Josh. 11:17f.; Jgs. 3:3; 1 Ch. 5:23). Greek settlers in the area dedicated the shrine to “Pan and the Nymphs,” and in NT times the name of the cave was Paneion, the surrounding territory being known as Paneas (Josephus Ant. xv.10.3; xvii.8.1).

CAESAREA PHILIPPI 凯撒利亚腓立比

音译: fil'i-pī, fə-lip'ī【希腊语: Kaisareia hē Philippou】。黑门山西南麓的一座城市，位于海拔1150英尺（350米）的岩石区，在约旦河的主源头上。凯撒利亚腓立比是战略要地，因为它扼守着土壤肥沃的西部平原。附近的洞穴中摆放着一个古老的神龛，在旧约时期，这个神龛可能用在崇拜巴力迦得或巴力黑们的宗教仪式中（参：书 11:17-18；士 3:3；代上 5:23），滋养着约旦谷的一眼泉水就发源于这个洞穴。希腊定居者将这个神龛献给“潘和宁芙”，这个洞穴在新约时期的名字是潘尼翁，附近的地区被称为潘尼亚（Josephus Ant. xv.10.3；xvii.8.1）。

In 20 B.C. the district was given by Augustus to Herod the Great, who erected at Paneas a splendid temple of white marble in honor of the emperor. After the death of Herod in 4 B.C. the area became part of the tetrarchy of Philip, who rebuilt and beautified the town, naming it Caesarea as a compliment to the emperor Augustus. Philip added his own name in order to distinguish the city from Caesarea on the coast of Sharon (Ant. xviii.2.1; BJ ii.9.1).

公元前 20 年，亚古士督把这个地区送给了希律大帝，希律为了表达对亚古士督的敬意，在潘尼亚用白色大理石建造了一座金碧辉煌的神庙。公元前 4 年希律死后，这一地区变成了分封王腓力的领地的一部分，腓力重新修复并美化了这座城邑，腓力为了表达他对亚古士督皇帝的敬意，腓力把这座城邑命名为凯撒利亚。腓力为了将这座城市与沙仑沿岸的凯撒利亚区分开来，将自己的名字添加到这个地名中 (Ant. xviii.2.1; BJ ii.9.1)。

Shrine at Caesarea Philippi, possibly dedicated to Baal-gad or Baal-hermon (W. S. LaSor)

Jesus and His disciples went to Caesarea Philippi from Bethsaida; on the way Peter made his celebrated confession of Christ, after which Jesus began to speak of His coming passion (Mt. 16:13ff.; 8:27ff.). Some have thought that the transfiguration of Christ occurred on an elevation near Philippi (see TRANSFIGURATION, MOUNT OF [4]). In the time of Christ Caesarea Philippi was a center of Greco-Roman civilization, with a largely pagan population. The environs of the city were spoken of as “the district” (Mt. 16:13) or “the villages” (Mk. 8:27).

上图为凯撒利亚腓立比的神龛，可能用于崇拜巴力迦得或巴力黑们的宗教仪式中。(W. S. LaSor)

耶稣和他的门徒从伯赛大来到了凯撒利亚腓立比；彼得认基督这个著名的事件就发生在从伯赛大至凯撒利亚腓立比的途中，彼得认基督之后，耶稣开始诉说祂将要受难(太 16:13 起; 8:27 起)。有些人认为基督登山变像发生在腓立比附近的高地上(见 TRANSFIGURATION, MOUNT OF [4]登山变像[4])。在基督生活的年代，凯撒利亚腓立比是希腊罗马文明的一个中心，大量的异教徒生活在这座城市中。《马太福音》16:13 中称这座

About A.D. 50 the city formed part of the kingdom of Agrippa II, who renamed it Neronias in honor of Nero (Ant. xx.9.4). During the Jewish war of A.D. 66–70 Caesarea Philippi served as a stopping-place for the Roman armies under Titus and Vespasian (BJ iii.9.7; vii.2.1). However, the ancient name of Paneas outlived both the names Caesarea and Neronias, being preserved in the Arabic name of the village Bâniyâs, built on the same site. Most of the remains date from the time of the Crusades.

CAESAR'S HOUSEHOLD

[Gk. Kaisaros oikia] (Phil. 4:22); NEB IMPERIAL ESTABLISHMENT. These words occur in the Epistle Paul wrote from Rome near the end of his first imprisonment there, probably late A.D. 61, to the church in Philippi. They give us most interesting information in regard to the progress made in the propagation of the gospel in Rome.

I. What Does the Phrase Designate?.—“Caesar’s household” meant the whole of the persons, slaves and freemen alike, composing the establishment of the emperor in his palace on the Palatine Hill at Rome. The slaves of the imperial household formed a host in themselves. On the character and constitution of this household we possess more information than on perhaps any other department of social life in Rome. “In Rome itself, if we may judge by these

城市的郊区为“凯撒利亚腓立比的境内”，《马可福音》8:27中称之为“凯撒利亚腓立比的村庄”。

约公元 50 年，凯撒利亚腓立比成为亚基帕二世王国的一部分，亚基帕二世为了纪念尼禄，将这个城市重新命名为尼禄尼亚斯 (Ant. xx.9.4)。公元 66 年至 77 年犹太战争期间，凯撒利亚腓立比是提图斯和维斯帕先率领的罗马军的驻扎之地 ((BJ iii.9.7; vii.2.1)。但是，潘尼亚这个古名比凯撒利亚和尼禄尼亚斯两个名字使用的时间更长，建在同一地点的巴尼亚斯 (Bâniyâs) 村的阿拉伯语名就沿用了潘尼亚这个名字。该遗址的大多数遗迹可以追溯到十字军东征时期。

CAESAR'S HOUSEHOLD 凯撒家里的人

【希腊语：Kaisaros oikia】(腓 4:22)；《新英文译本》译为 IMPERIAL ESTABLISHMENT (“凯撒家里的人”)。保罗第一次被囚将要结束时，可能是在公元 61 年年末，他在罗马给腓利比的教会写了一封信，这封信中提到了“凯撒家里的人”。最令我们关注的是，这个短语向我们介绍了福音在罗马的传播情况。

I. 这个短语的含义是什么？“凯撒家里的人”指的是凯撒家里所有的人，包括仆人和自由人，这些人负责在罗马帕拉蒂尼山上的宫殿中服侍这位皇帝。凯撒家里的仆人形成了一支军队。可能相对于罗马社会生活中的其他任何机构，我们更为了解这个家庭的性质和组成。“单在罗马，如果我们从铭文来判断，‘亚古士督家里的人’ (domus Augusta) 一定在整个罗马人口中占很大的比例；但它同样包括服侍这位皇帝的所有的人，无论他们是仆人还是自由人，这些 inscriptions, the domus Augusta must have formed no inconsiderable fraction of the whole population; but it comprised likewise all persons in the emperor's service, whether slaves or freedmen, in Italy and even in the provinces" (J. B. Lightfoot, in loc.). To belong to Caesar's household would secure to even the lowest grade of slaves substantial privileges and immunities, and would give a certain social importance, which made this position a valued one. An office in the emperor's household, however mean, was thought of so highly that in the monumental inscriptions such a fact is recorded with scrupulous care.

II. How Did the Gospel Reach Caesar's Household?.-There is no need to suppose that the gospel was unknown, even in the palace, previous to the arrival of Paul in Rome. For in that numerous household of the emperor there would be Jews, perhaps many of them. This was a period when the city of Rome and the court of the Caesars swarmed with Asiatics, many of whom were Jews, and many of them would be in slavery or employment in the imperial court. It cannot be forgotten that Poppaea, Nero's consort, was a proselyte to Judaism and that she continued to advocate successfully the cause of the Jews before the emperor as occasion arose.

Therefore as soon as the gospel entered Rome and was proclaimed in the many synagogues there, these members of Caesar's household could not fail to hear the story of Jesus Christ and of His cross and resurrection. This probability would be quite sufficient to account for the fact that the gospel was known in Caesar's palace.

人来自于意大利，甚至来自于罗马的行省” (J. B. Lightfoot, 见这一章)。如果一个人是凯撒家里的人，那么即使他是最为卑微的奴仆也将拥有大量的特权和豁免权，并且拥有一定的社会地位，这使凯撒家里的人成为受人尊重的人。而这位皇帝家里的官员不论地位多么低微都被给予了高度的评价，碑文中就详细地记载了这种评价。

II. 福音是如何传播到凯撒家里的？没有必要认为，保罗到达罗马之前，当地的人，甚至连宫殿中的人都不知晓福音。因为在这位皇帝的众多家室中有犹太人，可能犹太人的数量还很多。这一时期罗马城中和凯撒的朝中有很多亚细亚人，其中很多亚细亚人是犹太人，许多犹太人在凯撒的朝中作仆人或佣人。不要忘了，尼禄的妻子波皮亚是犹太教的归信者，她一直借机在这位皇帝面前表达对犹太人事业的支持，并且成功地支持了犹太人的事业。

因此，当福音刚传入罗马，在很多犹太会堂中传播时，凯撒家里的很多人一定听到了关于耶稣基督的故事，听到了关于耶稣受难和复活的故事。这种可能性足以说明凯撒家里的人知晓福音。

But the propagation of the gospel received a great impetus when Paul arrived in the city. For although he was a “bound prisoner,” his wrist fastened day and night to the soldier who guarded him, he was able to preach and to teach without hindrance (Acts 28:31). Immediately after his arrival in Rome he put himself in communication with “the local leaders of the Jews”—probably the rulers of the synagogues in Rome—and many of them came to him, desiring to hear his views regarding “the hope of Israel” (vv. 20–22). Naturally all the Jews in Rome would be eager to gain this information from a man of Paul’s position and character; for this community had for years been permeated with messianic hopes. Indeed, successive rumors of messiahs had kept them in such a fever of excitement that on one occasion at least they had started a riot. Thus it would come about as a matter of course that the gospel would reach all the Jews in Rome, including those in Caesar’s household.

But besides this, Paul’s daily contact with the soldiers who guarded him could not fail to lead to the introduction of the gospel into the regiment. And as part of the praetorian guard was quartered in buildings on the Palatine Hill, attached to the emperor’s palace there, here was one other channel through which the gospel would be made known to some of those who resided in the palace of Caesar.

不过，保罗来到罗马极大地推动了福音的传播。因为虽然保罗是一个“囚犯”，而且看守他的兵丁整日整夜地捆绑着他的手腕，但是他能够“放胆传讲神国的道，将主耶稣基督的事教导人，并没有人禁止”（徒 28:31）。保罗一到罗马就与“犹太人的首领”取得了联系，这些首领可能是罗马犹太会堂的领袖，他们中很多人来到保罗身边，关于“以色列人所指望的”，他们想要听听保罗的观点（徒 28:20-22）。罗马所有的犹太人自然希望从保罗这样身份和品质的人那里了解这些信息；因为多年来弥赛亚救赎的希望一直在这些人中间传播。实际上，关于弥赛亚的持续传言激发了他们的热情，以至于他们至少有一次借机发动了暴乱。因此，罗马所有的犹太人，包括凯撒家里的人一定知晓福音。

但除此之外，保罗还每日与看守他的兵丁保持联系，因此福音一定也传入军队中。因为部分禁卫军驻扎在帕拉蒂尼山的建筑中，这些建筑与皇帝的宫殿连在一起，因此，住在凯撒宫殿中的一些人获得了解福音的另一个渠道。

CAGE

[Heb. sûgar] (Ezk. 19:9); AV WARD. The context indicates that the “cage” of Ezk. 19:9 was a portable enclosure for holding a captive en route to a stationary prison. The AV and NEB have “cage” also at Jer. 5:27 (Heb. k^lûb, RSV BASKET), and the AV at Rev. 18:2 (Gk. phylakē, RSV and NEB “haunt”).

The earliest known form of cage made to confine a bird, for the pleasure of its song or the beauty of its coloring, was a crude affair of willows or other pliable twigs. Later cages were made of pottery. References in the Bible make it clear that people were accustomed to confine birds in cages as pets, or to detain them for market purposes. James indicated that cages were common when he wrote (3:7): “For every kind of beasts and birds ... is tamed, and has been tamed by humankind.” In Job (41:5) we find these lines: “Will you play with him as with a bird? Or will you put him on a leash for your maidens?” The sale of sparrows as an article of food still continues in Eastern markets (Mt. 10:29); and Jesus entered the temple and overthrew “the seats of those who sold pigeons” (21:12). Cf. also Sir. 11:30, “Like a decoy partridge in a cage” (Gk. kartállos).

CAIAPHASCAGE 笼子、巢穴

【希伯来语: sûgar】(结 19:9); 《钦定版圣经》译为 WARD (“监房”)。上下文语境表明,《以西结书》19:9 中的“笼子”是将囚犯押解到固定监狱途中要用到的一种移动装置。《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》的《耶利米书》5:27 和《钦定版圣经》的《启示录》18:2 (希腊语: phylakē, 《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》译为 “haunt” [“巢穴”]) 使用了 “cage” 一词 (“笼子、巢穴”, 希伯来语: k^lûb, 《修订标准译本》译为 BASKET[见 BASKET 箱子、筐子、篮子])。

最早用来关鸟的笼子是用粗糙的杨柳或其他柔韧的枝条编织成的, 将鸟关在笼中是为了欣赏它悦耳的叫声或美丽的羽毛。后来的笼子是用陶器制成的。《圣经》中提及的笼子清晰地表明, 人们习惯将鸟关在笼中作为宠物, 或囚在笼中买卖它们。雅各指出笼子在当时很常见, 他在《雅各书》3:7 中写道: “各类的走兽、飞禽……本来都可以制伏, 也已经被制伏了”。我们可以在《约伯记》41:5 中看到这样的经文: “你岂可拿它当雀鸟玩耍吗? 岂可为你的幼女将它拴住吗?” 东方的市场上仍然将鸟雀当作食物来买卖 (太 10:29); 耶稣进了神的殿, 推翻“卖鸽子之人的凳子” (太 21:12)。另参:《便西拉智训》11:30, “装模作样乃是一种诱你上钩的诱饵” (希腊语: kartállos)。 kā'ə-fəs, kī'ə-fəs [Gk. Kaiaphas, some MSS also Kaiḗphas]. The name of Joseph, a son-in-law of Annas (cf. Jn. 18:13), who filled the post of high priest ca. A.D. 18–36, and then was deposed by Vitellius (cf. Josephus Ant. xviii.2.2; 4.3). He is mentioned by Luke as holding office at the time of John the Baptist's preaching in the wilderness (Lk. 3:2).

Caiaphas took a leading part in the trial and condemnation of Jesus. It was in his court or palace that the chief priests (Sadducees) and Pharisees, who together constituted the Sanhedrin, assembled "in order to arrest Jesus by stealth and kill him" (cf. Mt. 26:3f.; Jn. 11:49). The regal claims of the new Messiah and the growing fame of His works had made them dread both the vengeance of imperial Rome upon their nation, and the loss of their own personal authority and prestige (cf. Jn. 11:48). But Caiaphas pointed a way out of their dilemma: let them bide their time till the momentary enthusiasm of the populace was spent (cf. Mt. 26:5), and then by the single sacrifice of Jesus they could at once get rid of a dangerous rival and propitiate the frowns of Rome (cf. Jn. 11:49f.; 18:14).

The commentary of John upon this (Jn. 11:51f.) indicates how the death of Jesus was indeed to prove a blessing not only for Israel but also for all the children of God; but not in the manner which the cold-blooded state-craft of Caiaphas intended. The advice of the high priest was accepted by the Sanhedrin (v. 53), and they succeeded in arresting Jesus. After being led "to Annas first" (18:13), Jesus was conducted thence in bonds to Caiaphas (v. 24). According to Matthew He was led immediately upon His arrest to Caiaphas (Mt. 26:57). Mark and Luke do not refer to Caiaphas by name. The conduct of Caiaphas at this preliminary trial of Jesus (Mt. 26:57–68), its time and its procedure, were almost entirely illegal from the standpoint of the Jewish law (see JESUS CHRIST, ARREST AND TRIAL OF I.A.2). False witnesses were first called, and when Jesus refused to reply to their charges, Caiaphas asked of Him if He were “the Christ, the son of God” (v. 63). Upon Our Lord’s answering “You have said so” (v. 64), Caiaphas “tore his robes, and said, ‘He has uttered blasphemy. Why do we still need witnesses? You have now heard his blasphemy’ ” (v. 65). It was upon this charge that Jesus was found worthy of death (v. 66).

该亚法在审判耶稣和为耶稣定罪时起到了主要作用。祭司长（撒督该人）和法利赛人聚集在该亚法的院里，他们组成了犹太公会，商议“要用诡计拿住耶稣杀祂”（参：太 26:3-4；约 11:49）。新弥赛亚降临的信息已经被庄严地宣告出来，同时越来越多的人了解到了耶稣的神迹，这使得祭司长和法利赛人害怕罗马帝国会报复他们，也使他们害怕丢掉个人的权柄和威望（参：约 11:48）。不过，该亚法指出了一条摆脱困境的方法：让他们要耐心等待，直到民众对基督的短暂热情消退（参：太 26:5），通过牺牲耶稣一人，他们立刻可以摆脱敌人的威胁，并平息了罗马人的怨气（参：约 11:49-50；18:14）。

Caiaphas is also mentioned in Acts 4:6 as being among those who presided over the trial of Peter and John.

CAIN

kān [Heb. qayin]. The firstborn son of Adam and Eve (Gen. 4:1). The expression of gratitude offered by his mother at his birth might imply that the name Cain was associated with a root qānâ, “obtain,” “acquire.” An alternative suggestion regards the name as related to a noun qayin, meaning “worker in metal,” “smith” (Arab. qayn). The narrative, however, seems to indicate a simple play on words (cf. Gen. 2:5, 23, etc.), whereby the name Cain, whatever it may have meant to Eve under other circumstances, was linked with the verb qānâ. The Greek (Kain) and Latin Vulgate (Cain) are mere transcriptions, and thus throw no additional light on the provenance or meaning of the name.

判的时间和步骤几乎完全不合乎律法（见 JESUS CHRIST, ARREST AND TRIAL OF I.A.2[耶稣被捕和受审 I.A.2]）。祭司长和全公会首先找假见证控告耶稣，当耶稣拒绝回答他们的指控时，该亚法问耶稣是否是“神的儿子基督”（太 26:63）。当我们的主回答说“你说的是”（太 26:64），该亚法就“撕开衣服，说：‘祂说了僭妄的话，我们何必再用见证人呢？这僭妄的话，现在你们都听见了’”（太 26:65）。正是因为这个指控，耶稣才被认为是该死的（太 26:66）。

《使徒行传》4:6 中也提到了该亚法，他是负责审判彼得和约翰的人之一。

音译：kān【希伯来语：qayin】。亚当和夏娃的头生的儿子（创 4:1）。该隐出生时他的母亲夏娃向耶和华表达了感激之情，这暗示出该隐这个名字与词根 qānâ 有关，意思是“获得”、“得着”。另一种意见认为这个名字与名词 qayin 有关，意思是“金属工”、“铁匠”（阿拉伯语：qayn）。这段经文的叙述似乎仅仅是文字游戏（参：创 2:5, 23 等），在其他环境下该隐这个名字无论对夏娃有什么意义，这个名字都与动词 qānâ 有关。希腊语译本 (Kain) 和拉丁《武加大译本》 (Cain) 只是抄本，因此不能解释这个名字出处或意义提供任何帮助。

The birth of Cain marked a fresh development in the life of Eve, who for the first time fulfilled the designation “mother of all living” (Gen. 3:20). It is significant that Eve’s first child was male, and she acknowledged freely God’s help in conceiving and bringing it to birth. Though now in a subordinate role to her husband, she exercised new responsibilities as a mother. After a time she bore a second child, also male, and she named him Abel.

A sedentary form of culture seems to be indicated by the narrative, since it speaks of Cain becoming a cultivator of the ground, while Abel tended flocks and herds. Religion has its place in this culture. The mention of Cain and Abel presenting offerings to God presupposes a knowledge of divine worship and its significance. It also gives clear indications of a rudimentary sacrificial schedule.

Both brothers made an offering to God from the fruits of their labor at some specific period, perhaps one that was prescribed, since they presented their offerings together. Whereas Abel’s sacrifice pleased God, Cain’s did not, and in consequence Cain was very annoyed and depressed. God challenged him about his attitude, pointing out that if he were following a proper way of life he would have no occasion to be indignant at God, but instead would feel uplifted spiritually. Since he was apparently not living as God desired, sin was already crouched beside him like a demon, presenting temptations that must be overcome if he desired future blessings from God (Gen. 4:5-7).

叙述中似乎提及了一种定居的文明，因为经文中提到了该隐是种地的，亚伯是牧羊的。宗教在这种文明中占有一定的地位。经文中提到该隐和亚伯向神献上了供物，这预示着他们都崇拜神，并且认识到了崇拜神的重要性。这也清晰地表明献祭的风俗已初步形成。

两兄弟都在某段时间把他们的劳动果实献给了神，可能这一天是神所规定的献祭时间，因为他们在这一天同时向神献上了供物。由于神悦纳亚伯的供物，却看不中该隐的供物，所以该隐就大大地发怒，感到沮丧。当耶和华因为该隐的态度询问他时，祂指出，该隐若行得好，没有必要对祂感到愤慨，而应该感到精神振奋。他若行的不好，罪就会像魔鬼一样伏在他身旁，如果他想要在未来得到神的祝福，那么他必须抵住诱惑（创 4:5-7）。

That he was not able to master the demonic impulses of temptation is seen in his continuing jealousy of his brother Abel, whom he later lured out to a piece of land, presumably one which he was cultivating. The versions have preserved a clause that has either fallen out of the MT or was included in a different type of Genesis text, from which the Samaritan Pentateuch, the LXX, and some other versions were made. Gen. 4:8 should therefore be emended to read (with the RSV and most modern English versions): "Cain said to Abel his brother, 'Let us go out to the field'" (See C. A. Simpson, IB, I, 519).

In mounting jealousy Cain killed Abel in the open country and presumably buried his body. This act constituted premeditated murder, and Cain was questioned subsequently about this heinous crime. He compounded his earlier offense by lying concerning Abel's whereabouts, and was told bluntly that his brother's blood was crying out to God from the very ground where he had been murdered.

Cain was cursed by being banished from his own property, and was warned that the soil would never again yield its produce to him. Instead, he would become a fugitive, wandering far from home and straying into potentially dangerous situations. Cain still seems to have been rebellious rather than contrite, for he remonstrated with God, claiming that the punishment imposed was too severe. His dread of being set upon and killed by those he might meet implies group solidarity, an indication of the existence of community life.

该隐一直嫉妒他的兄弟亚伯，后来他把亚伯诱骗到一块土地上，可能就是他耕种的那块土地上，这说明该隐未能制伏魔鬼的引诱。很多译本保留了一个分句，这个分句被《马所拉文本》省略了或者包含在不同的《创世记》经文中，《撒马利亚五经》、《七十士译本》和其他的译本翻译出了这个分句。因此《创世记》4:8 应该修订为（《修订标准译本》和大多数现代英语译本也作出了修订）：“该隐对他的兄弟亚伯说，‘咱们到田间去’”（见 C. A. Simpson, IB, I, 519）。

该隐越来越嫉妒亚伯，最终在田间杀死了亚伯，并且可能将他的尸体埋在了那里。这一行为构成了谋杀罪，后来耶和华就这一十恶不赦的罪行质问了该隐。由于该隐在亚伯的去向问题上向神撒了谎，所以他罪加一等，神坦率地告诉他，他的兄弟的血从地里向他哀告。

该隐遭到了诅咒，他将从自己的产业上被驱逐出去，并且被告知，地不再为他效力。他反而要成为逃亡者，在远离家乡的地方流离飘荡，可能面临危险的处境。该隐似乎选择了反抗，而不是悔罪，因为他向神抗议道，他的刑罚太重，过于他所能当的。该隐对被袭击和可能被杀的惧怕暗示出群体的团结性，也表明群居此时已经存在。

God forestalled Cain's death by murder, telling Cain that He was placing upon him a mark which would signify to those who met him during his wanderings in the land of Nod that he was not to be harmed. The exact nature of this mark is unknown, but it may have been some type of clan marking, or else a form of brand which some Sumerians placed upon their slaves, particularly if the slave was likely to run away. Other protective signs are referred to in Ex. 13:16; 28:36; Dt. 6:8; 11:18; Ezk. 9:4, 6.

The land of Nod (lit. "wandering") was located E of Eden, which appears to have been in the vicinity of the Babylonian plain of Shinar. The territory evidently contained settlements, from one of which Cain obtained a wife who is unnamed in the OT. They subsequently had a son, Enoch (Gen. 4:17), after whom Cain named a settlement ("city") that he established in Nod; no site answering to this modest description has been excavated to date. Enoch himself married and had a son named Irad, as recorded in the Cainite genealogy (vv. 18–24). The inclusion of such material in the Genesis narrative is paralleled by the antediluvian king lists from Sumer. If the genealogy of Cain was actually written on tablets and incorporated with similar tablet material to form the bulk of the book of Genesis, it would be natural to expect genealogical sections to occur in it, as with tablets recovered from Nuzi and other sites.

In the account of human technological developments given in Gen. 4:20–22, the mention of the use of iron is often assumed to be anachronistic. But discoveries by Russian archeologists at the northern base of Mount Ararat have revealed the existence ca. 2500 B.C. of some sophisticated smelters that manufactured iron ore, as well as some other metals and alloys. These discoveries demonstrate the antiquity of the tradition regarding technology as the Cainite line knew it, and place the narrative in new historical perspective.

耶和华预先阻止了该隐被杀的事情发生，祂告诉该隐，将给他立一个记号，免得该隐在挪得之地流浪时人们遇见他就杀他。尚无法知晓这个记号的准确性，但它可能是某个宗族的记号，或者是苏美尔人在他们的奴仆身上所作的一种记号，这种记号尤其是为了防止奴仆逃跑。《出埃及记》13:16; 28:36, 《申命记》6:8; 11:18 和《以西结书》9:4, 6 中还提到了其他的保护记号。

挪得之地（字面意思“流浪”）位于伊甸东边，似乎在巴比伦示拿平原附近。这片土地显然包括了很多定居点，该隐从其中的一个定居点中得到了一个妻子，《旧约》中没有给出这个妻子的名字。他们随后生了一个儿子以诺（创 4:17），该隐就按这个儿子的名字将他在挪得之地建立的这个定居点（“那城”）命名为以诺；迄今为止发掘出的遗址都不太符合这种描述。以诺结婚后，生了一个儿子以拿，该隐的家谱中记录了以拿这个名字（创 4:18-24）。《创世记》故事中的这些资料与大洪水之前的苏美尔列王表极为相似。如果该隐的家谱实际上写在了石碑上，并且与其他的碑文材料一起构成了《创世记》的主体内容，那么正如努斯和其他遗址中的碑文所记载的，自然也可以在《创世记》中看到一些家谱的片段。

《创世记》4:20–22 中描述了人类科技的发展，这段经文中提到了使用铁器，人们通常被认为这里存在年代的错误。但是俄国的考古学家在亚拉腊山北麓发现了一些约处于公元前 2500 年的复

The identity of the group from which Cain secured his wife is unknown. The setting is obviously in southern Mesopotamia and possibly the settlement involved flourished in the Ubaid period. Alternatively, Cain's wife may have come from some such group as the Rephaim or the Nephilim, both of which lived before the Flood. Certain writers have suggested the presence in southern Mesopotamia of pre-Adamic species, perhaps dating from the Neolithic period, which were subsequently drowned by the Flood, but this is speculative. Gen. 6:1 certainly conveys the impression that mankind was increasing numerically, and it may be that Cain had married a person who came into the category of the "daughters of men." While there are insufficient data upon which to base an opinion, subsequent discoveries at former Sumerian sites may aid in understanding this problem.

In the NT Cain was stigmatized as being "of the evil one" (1 Jn. 3:12), and Christians were exhorted not to follow his example. To "walk in the way of Cain" (Jude 11) was to be wilful, rebellious, and disobedient, all of which were alien to the spirit of the new covenant, as they had been to the old. Instead, the way of life embraced by Abel was to be followed by the believer (He. 11:4).

尚无法确定该隐获得妻子的那个群体的身份。显然，这个故事发生在美索不达米亚的南部，这个定居点可能在奥贝伊德时期繁荣一时。或者说，该隐的妻子可能来自于利乏音人或伟人中的某个群体，他们都生活于大洪水之前的时代。某些作家认为，在美索不达米亚的南部在亚当之前生活着一些人类，他们生活的年代或许可以追溯至新石器时期，后来，大洪水淹死了这些人，但这只是推测。《创世记》6:1 中无疑表达了这样一种观点，即人类的数量在增长，该隐可能娶了“人的女子们”中的一个女人。虽然尚且没有充分的证据可以证明这个观点，但前苏美尔人遗址上的后期考古发现可能有助于理解这个难题。

在《新约》中，该隐被贬称为“属那恶者”（约壹 3:12），基督徒被告诫不要效法该隐的例子。“走了该隐的道路”（犹 1:11）的人是任性的、反叛的和悖逆的，这些品质都与新约的精神相悖，因为它们属于旧习。相反，基督徒要效法亚伯的生活方式（来 11:4）。

In later antiquity the city was known by its present name Nimrūd.

CALAH 迦拉

音译: kā'lə 【希伯来语: kālah; 希腊语: Chalach, Chalak, Kalach; 亚述语: Kalhu, Kalḥa, Kalḥi, Kalah】。宁录的大城之一 (《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》, 创 10:11), 迦拉、尼尼微、尼尼微与迦拉之间的利鲜和利河伯 (可能是更靠北的一座城) 构成了亚述的四座大都城。尚不知晓迦拉这个词的含义, 但如果认为这个词源于苏美尔语, 那么它的含义可能是 “圣洁之门” (Ka-lah)——相当于 Ka-dingir-ra, 也就是 Bāb-īlī, 意思是 “神的门” (见 BABYLON[巴比伦])。在古代历史后期, 迦拉被称为尼姆鲁德 (现名)。

I. Foundation and Early

References.-Excavations conducted from 1949 to 1963 by the British School of Archaeology in Iraq indicate that Calah was inhabited by ca. 2500 B.C. As Nineveh is mentioned by Hammurabi, who reigned in the 18th cent. B.C., it is clear that that city was already in his time an important place; and the passage in Gen. 10:11 implies, though it does not actually prove, that Calah was of about the same period. The Assyrian king Ashurnasirpal (ca. 883–859 B.C.) states that Calah was “made” by Shalmaneser (I) ca. 1300 B.C., but possibly this is simply an indication that he rebuilt it. Later on the site seems to have become neglected, for Ashurnasirpal states that, the city having fallen into ruin, he rebuilt it. Thereafter it became practically the capital of the country, for he not only reerected or restored its shrines and temples—the temple of Ninurta, with the god’s image, the temple of “the Lady of the Land,” and the temples of Sin, Gula, and Enlil—but he also received tribute there. Among his other works may be mentioned the water-channel Pati-ḥengala; the plantations, whose fruits he apparently offered to the god Ashur; and the temples of the city. It also became a favorite place of residence for the later kings of Assyria, who built palaces and restored the city’s temples from time to time. The city is mentioned by Tiglath-pileser III and Sargon II as the base for their campaigns against Judah and Israel. It fell in the Median invasions

I. 建立和早期的参考。

不列颠考古学院于1949年至1963年在伊拉克的挖掘结果表明，约公元前2500年迦拉就有人类居住。因为公元前18世纪的统治者汉谟拉比提到了尼尼微城，所以这座城市显然此时已经成为一个重要的地方；虽然还不能证明《创世记》10:11中的记载，但这段经文的描述暗示出，迦拉大约建于同一时期。亚述王亚述纳西尔帕（约公元前883年至859年）说道，迦拉是撒幔以色列一世在公元前1300年前后“修建”的城市，但这可能仅仅意味着撒幔以色列重建了这座城市。后来这座城市似乎未得到重视，因为亚述纳西尔帕说，这座城市变成了废墟，他重建了该城。因此，迦拉实际上成为了亚述的都城，因为亚述纳西尔帕不仅重建或修复了迦拉的神龛和神庙——带有尼努尔塔神像的神庙、土地女神庙，辛、古拉和恩利尔神庙，而且接受迦拉的贡物。亚述纳西尔帕建造的其他工程可能还包括帕蒂汉戈拉(Pati-ḥengala)水道、种植园和城中的多座神庙，亚述纳西尔帕显然将种植园中出产的水果献给阿舒尔神。迦拉也成为后期亚述王最喜爱的居住地，他们曾在这座城市建造宫殿，并修复城中的神庙。提革拉毗列色三世和撒珥根二世也曾提到过这座城市，迦拉是他们进军犹太和以色列的军事基地。玛代于公元前612年攻陷了这座城市。

II. The Site.-Calah occupied the roughly triangular tract formed by the junction of the upper Zab with the Tigris. The ancient Tigris flowed rather closer to the western wall than it does now and seems to have separated the small town represented by Selamiyeh from the extensive ruins of Calah, which now bear the name of Nimrûd. The main ruins are situated on a large, rectangular platform on the bank of the old bed of the Tigris. The site is 22 mi. (35 km.) S of Tell Kuyunjik (Nineveh), and is surrounded by narrow mounds still having the appearance of walls. Traces of no less than 108 towers, the city's ancient defenses, are visible on the north and east, where the walls were further protected by moats. The enclosed area is about 2331 by 2095 yds. (2130 by 1915 m.), or 1000 acres (408 hectares).

III. Buildings.-The most prominent edifice was the great temple tower at the northwest corner—a step-pyramid (ziqqurratu) like the Babylonian towers, constructed of brick faced with stone, and rising in stages to a height of about 126 ft. (38 m.), probably with a sanctuary at the top (see Babel, TOWER OF X.A). A long vault occupies the basement-stage of this structure, and caused its discoverer A. H. Layard to regard it as the probable traditional tomb of Ninus, under whose shadow the tragedy of Pyramis and Thisbe took place. Ovid (Metamorphoses iv.98) describes the tomb of Ninus as having been situated “at the entrance of Nineveh,” and, if this be correct, Calah must have been regarded as the southern portion of that great city. On a preaching journey Nineveh may well have taken three days (Jonah 3:3) to traverse,

II. 遗址。迦拉大致是一个三角地带，处于上扎卜河与底格里斯河的交汇处。与现在相比，古时底格里斯河距离西城墙更近，这条河流似乎将以塞拉米耶（Selamiyeh）为代表的小城与迦拉巨大的废墟分割开来，这些废墟现名为尼姆鲁德。主要的废墟位于底格里斯河古老河床沿岸的一个大长方形平台上。该遗址位于库云吉克遗址（尼尼微）以南 22 英里（35 公里）处，尚可以看见城墙的狭窄废丘包围着这个遗址。在迦拉遗址的北面 and 东面仍可以看到多达 108 座塔和该城的古代防御工事，北面 and 东面的城墙甚至还有护城河保护着。迦拉城大致是一个 2331 码（2130 米）长，2095 码（1915 米）宽的区域，或者说占地 1000 英亩（408 公顷）。

III. 建筑物。迦拉最杰出的建筑是其西北角的巨大庙塔——与巴比伦的塔相似的金子形庙塔，这座庙塔是由砖砌成的，塔的表面由石头组成，塔高约 126 英尺（38 米），塔顶可能还建有一个至圣所（见 Babel, TOWER OF X.A[巴别塔 X.A]）。塔的底部是一个狭长的地下室，其挖掘者莱亚德（A. H. Layard）认为这个地下室可能是传说中尼努斯的坟墓，皮拉缪斯和忒斯彼的悲剧就发生在尼努斯执政时期。奥维德（Metamorphoses iv.98）描述道，尼努斯的坟墓位于“尼尼微的入口处”，如果这种描述是正确的，那么迦拉应该被认为是尼尼微城的南区。如果豪尔萨巴德真位于尼尼微的北端，那么约拿在传道时，可能用了三天的时间才穿越了尼尼微城（拿 3:3）。 provided Khorsabad was in reality its northern extremity.

The platform upon which the temple tower of Calah was situated measures about 700 by 400 yds. (640 by 365 m.), which left room for temples and palaces. In the center of the east side of this platform lie the remains of the palace of Ashurnasirpal. Its chambers and halls were paneled with sculptured and inscribed slabs, and the principal doorways were flanked with finely carved winged and human-headed lions and bulls. In the southeast corner are the remains of the palace of Esarhaddon, built at least in part with material taken from the palace of Tiglath-pileser IV, which was situated in the south portion of the platform. The remains of this last are, as a result of this spoliation, exceedingly meager. The southwest corner of the platform contains the remains of the last palace built on the site—a very inferior construction for Ashur-etil-ilani (ca. 636 B.C.). One of the temples on this platform was that dedicated to Ninurta, situated at the southwest corner of the temple tower. The left-hand entrance was flanked by man-headed lions, while the sides of the right-hand entrance were decorated with slabs showing the expulsion of the evil spirit from the temple—a spirited sculpture now in the British Museum. On the right-hand side of the entrance was an arch-headed slab with a representation of Ashurnasirpal in low relief, standing in the conventional attitude. Before it stood a stone tripod altar, implying that divine honors were paid to this king. (Both these are now in the British Museum.) The remains of another temple were found E of this, and there are traces of further buildings at other points of the platform.

迦拉庙塔所处的平台是一个约 700 码（640 米）长、400 码（365 米）宽的区域，这就为建造神庙和宫殿留出了空间。这个平台东侧的中心区是亚述纳西尔帕的宫殿遗址。宫殿的卧室和大厅中镶嵌着雕刻石板，主门廊的侧面是一尊精心雕刻的人首翼狮像和人首翼牛像。东南角是以撒哈顿宫殿的遗址，这个宫殿至少有一部分是用提革拉毗列色四世宫殿内的建筑材料建成的，提革拉毗列色四世的宫殿位于平台的南部。平台的其余部分由于遭受了掠夺，历史遗迹非常少。平台的西南角是该地最后一座宫殿的遗址——这是一个为亚述埃提尔伊兰尼（约公元前 636 年）建造的非常劣等的建筑。这个平台上一座神庙是献给尼努尔塔神的，这座神庙位于庙塔的西南角。左侧的入口的两侧各有一个 人首狮身像，右侧入口装饰着厚石板雕塑，上面描绘着将魔鬼赶出神庙的画面——这个活灵活现的雕塑现保存在大英博物馆。右侧入口处是一个拱顶厚石板，浅浮雕上描述着传统观念中的亚述纳西尔帕。浅浮雕的前面是一个石质的三脚祭坛，这表明这位国王极受人们的尊敬。（这两件文物现都保存在大英博物馆。）在平台的东部还发现了另一个神庙的遗迹，在平台的其他地方还发现了更多建筑遗迹。

The slabs from Ashurnasirpal's palace show this king's warlike expeditions, but as descriptive lettering is lacking, the campaigns cannot be identified. Notwithstanding this disadvantage, however, they are of considerable importance, for they show incidents of his various campaigns—the crossing of rivers, the march of his armies, the besieging of cities, the reception of tribute, the life of the camp, and hunting the lion and the wild bull. The reliefs from the temples, which are much larger and finer, show the king engaged in various religious ceremonies and ritual acts, and are among the most striking examples of Assyrian sculpture. The site is renowned for its many ivories, which include plaques and figurines, as well as its inlaid furniture. The Black Obelisk of Shalmaneser III (see JEHU) was discovered there.

亚述纳西尔帕宫殿的石板上描绘了这位国王远征的画面，但上面却没有描述性刻字，因此，不能确定是否存在这些远征。虽然这些雕塑存在这样的缺点，但是它们仍具有重要的价值，因为它们描绘了亚述纳西尔帕的各种活动——穿越河流、行军、围困城市、接受贡物、营地生活、猎狮和猎取野牛。神庙中的浮雕更大，更为精致，这些浮雕描绘了这位国王参加的各种宗教仪式和典礼的场面，这些浮雕属于最引人注目的亚述雕塑。该遗址因出土了很多象牙制品和镶嵌家具而闻名于世，这些象牙制品包括象牙饰板和象牙雕像。还在该遗址中发现了撒缙以色列三世(见 JEHU[耶户])的黑方尖碑。

CALAMITY

[Heb. 'ēḏ, rā'ā, hawwā, behālā (Isa. 65:23), 'āwen (Prov. 22:8), massā (Job 9:23), ḥatat (Job 6:21); Gk. stenochōria (2 Cor. 6:4; 12:10)]; AV also DESTRUCTION, EVIL, ADVERSITIES (1 S. 10:19), HURT (Ps. 35:26), MISCHIEF (Prov. 17:20; 24:16; 28:14), etc.; NEB also DOWNFALL, DISASTER, RUIN, MISFORTUNE, DOOM (Prov. 1:26f.; Ezk. 35:5), FALL (Ps. 35:26), etc.

“Calamity” denotes an unfortunate event. It is frequently used in the phrase yôm 'ēḏ, “day of calamity” (Dt. 32:35; Jer. 18:17; etc.), which suggests not merely an event but a period of misfortune or ruin. The prophets warn of the calamity that will befall apostate Israel (Ezk. 35:5; Ob. 13) and Israel's neighbors (Jer. 46:21; 48:16). In wisdom literature calamity is frequently the deserved punishment of the wicked (Prov. 6:15; 22:8), although the righteous also suffer calamity (Job 6:21; 9:23).

CALAMOLALUS

kal-ə-mol'ə-ləs, -mol-ā'ləs (AV, RSV mg., NEB, 1 Esd. 5:22). This name (Gk. A Kalamōlalos, B Kalamōkalos) is corrupt. It has evidently arisen through combining the two names “Lod and Hadid” (RSV), which occur in the parallel lists of Ezra (2:33) and Nehemiah (7:37).

CALAMITY 灾害、灾祸、惊吓的事

【希伯来语: 'ēḏ, rā'ā, hawwā, behālā (赛 65:23), 'āwen (箴 22:8), massā (伯 9:23), ḥatat (伯 6:21); 希腊语: stenochōria (林后 6:4; 12:10)】; 《钦定版圣经》还译为 DESTRUCTION (“灾难”)、EVIL (“灾祸”)、ADVERSITIES (“灾难”, 撒上 10:19)、HURT (“遭难”, 诗 35:26)、MISCHIEF (“祸患”, 箴 17:20; 24:16; 28:14) 等; 《新英文译本》还译为 DOWNFALL (“灾难”)、DISASTER (“灾祸”)、RUIN (“灾难”)、MISFORTUNE (“灾祸”)、DOOM (“灾难”, 箴 1:26-27; 结 35:5)、FALL (“遭难”, 诗 35:26) 等。

“Calamity”表示的是一个不幸的事件。短语 yôm 'ēḏ 中经常用到这个词, 这个短语的意思是“遭灾的日子”(申 32:35; 耶 18:17 等), 这个短语不仅表示了一个事件, 还表示遭受灾难的时期。先知们警告说, 灾祸将临到背叛神的以色列(结 35:5; 俄 13) 和以色列的邻邦(耶 46:21; 48:16)。在智慧书中, 灾祸通常是邪恶之人应得的惩罚(箴 6:15; 22:8), 但义人也会遭受灾祸(伯 6:21; 9:23)。

CALAMOLALUS 第二以拦

音译: kal-ə-mol'ə-ləs, -mol-ā'ləs (《钦定版圣经》和《修订标准译本》旁注, 《新英文译本》, 拉一 5:22)。这个名字(希腊语《亚历山太抄本》作 Kalamōlalos, 《梵蒂冈抄本》作 Kalamōkalos) 是一种变形。这个词显然是由“罗德和哈第”(《修订标准译本》)这两个名字组合而成的, 《以斯拉记》2:33 和《尼希米记》7:37 的类似名单中也提到了这两个名字。

kal'ə-məs [Heb. qāneh; Gk. kálamos] (Cant. 4:14; Ezk. 27:19); NEB SWEET-CANE; AROMATIC CANE [Heb. q^enēh-bōsem; Gk. kálamos euōdēs] (Ex. 30:23); AV SWEET CALAMUS; SWEET CANE [Heb. qāneh (haṭṭōb, Jer. 6:20); Gk. thymíama (Isa. 43:24), kinnámomon (Jer. 6:20)]; NEB also “fragrant spices” (Jer. 6:20).

Although some writers believe all these substances to be identical, there is at least a distinction between the sweet-tasting cane of Isaiah and the sweet-smelling substance(s) of the other passages. The former plant is perhaps the sugarcane, Saccharum officinarum L., while the other passages refer probably to the ginger-grass, Andropogon aromaticus Roxb., native to northern India and highly aromatic (see MPB, pp. 39–41).

kal'kol [Heb. kalkōl]; AV also CHALCOL (1 K. 4:31); NEB KALCOL. Mentioned in 1 K. 4:31 as one of the wise men with whom Solomon was compared. “Chalcol” is probably better orthography, since it is a genuine Canaanite name, appearing on some ivories at Megiddo, probably from the 13th cent. B.C. In 1 K. 4:31 the designation “sons of Mahol” means “members of the orchestral guild.”

CALAMUS 菖蒲

音译: kal'ə-məs 【希伯来语: qāneh; 希腊语: kálamos】(歌 4:14; 结 27:19); 《新英文译本》译为 SWEET-CANE (“菖蒲”); AROMATIC CANE (“菖蒲”)【希伯来语: q^enēh-bōsem; 希腊语: kálamos euōdēs】(出 30:23); 《钦定版圣经》译为 SWEET CALAMUS (“菖蒲”); SWEET CANE (“菖蒲”)【希伯来语: qāneh (haṭṭōb, 耶 6:20); 希腊语: thymíama (赛 43:24), kinnámomon (耶 6:20)】; 《新英文译本》还译为 “fragrant spices” (“菖蒲”, 耶 6:20)。

虽然有些学者认为所有这些词都表示同一种植物, 但是《以赛亚书》中尝起来有点甜的植物茎与其他经文中闻起来有点甜的物质至少存在一个区别。前者可能是甘蔗, 拉丁学名是 Saccharum officinarum L., 其他经文中所提到的菖蒲可能是姜草, 拉丁学名是 Andropogon aromaticus Roxb., 这种植物原产于印度北部, 具有很浓的香味(见 MPB, 39–41 页)。

CALCOL 甲各

音译: kal'kol 【希伯来语: kalkōl】; 《钦定版圣经》还译为 CHALCOL (王上 4:31); 《新英文译本》还译为 KALCOL (“甲各”)。《列王纪上》4:31 中提到的智慧的人之一, 这节经文还将所罗门与这些智慧之人进行比较。从拼写上理解 “Chalcol” (“甲各”) 这个词更好, 因为它是迦南的一个真实存在的名字, 米吉多的很多象牙上发现了这个名字, 这些象牙可能源自于公元前 13 世纪。《列王纪上》4:31 中的 “玛曷的儿子” 指的是 “管弦乐协会的成员”。

CALDRON

[Heb. qallahat, sîr, dûd]; NEB CAULDRON, STEWPOT. Qallahat is found only in 1 S. 2:14; Mic. 3:3. It was a pot for cooking, of undefined size and characteristics, in the former passage for sanctuary use and in the latter for domestic. The sîr (Ezk. 11:3, 7, 11) was distinctly a large pot, employed both for domestic use and in the sanctuary. The dûd (2 Ch. 35:13) was also a pot for cooking.

CALEB

kā'ləb [Heb. kālēb]; CALEBITE [Heb. kālībī] (1 S. 25:3); CHELUBAI [Heb. k^ēlūbāy] (1 Ch. 2:9). A personal name employed for various individuals in OT texts dealing with the occupation of Canaan, the distribution of territory, and genealogies. Comparative Semitic onomastica show "Chelubai" to be a variant of "Caleb."

These onomastica also indicate that the meaning of the name is "dog." It is used either as a name of affection that stresses the quality of faithfulness or strength (like that of a dog to his master), or as a name employed for a servant or slave either with positive emphasis on the humble and faithful relationship of the inferior to the superior, or with derogatory emphasis on the disobedient and rebellious character of the subordinate. It appears that the Masoretic pointing of this common Semitic personal name reflects an attempt to avoid the negative overtones usually associated

【希伯来语: qallahat, sîr, dûd】; 《新英文译本》还译为 CAULDRON (“锅”)和 STEWPOT (“锅”)。 Qallahat 只在《撒母耳记上》2:14 和《弥迦书》3:3 中出现过。它指的是一种用来做饭的锅,大小和特性都不明确,前面的段落中提到至圣所中使用锅,后面的段落中提到锅也可以作家用。 Sîr (结 11:3, 7, 11) 明显是一种大锅,可以家用也可以用在至圣所内。 dûd (代下 35:13) 也可以表示做饭的锅。

CALEB 迦勒

音译: kā'ləb 【希伯来语: kālēb】; CALEBITE (“迦勒族”)【希伯来语: kālībī】(撒上 25:3); CHELUBAI (“基路拜”)【希伯来语: k^ēlūbāy】(代上 2:9)。很多人都使用的一个人名,《旧约》在描述占领迦南、划分领地和宗谱的经文中都提到了迦勒这个名字。大量的闪族语专有名词显示,“基路拜”是“迦勒”的一种变形。

这些专有名词也表明,这个名字的含义是“狗”。这个词可以用作爱称,用来强调忠诚的品质或优点(如一只狗对主人的忠诚),也可以用作仆人或奴隶的名字,可能从褒义角度强调下级对上级的谦卑和忠诚,也可能从贬义角度强调下级不顺从和反叛的品质。《马所拉文本》中提到了这个普通的闪族语人名,这似乎是为了防止出现消极的暗示,在《旧约》中,这种暗示通常与狗(希伯来语: keleb) 有关。 with the dog (Heb. keleb) in the OT.

Some scholars (e.g., Noth, North) have maintained that Caleb was originally a clan name for the Calebites (cf. 1 Ch. 2:50–52 in the NEB and NAB) who helped the Judahites to take the southern part of Palestine. Later the ancestor of the Calebites was depicted as a Judean hero. Along with this view often goes the notion that the name Caleb is evidence of primitive totemism. However, the frequency with which the common Semitic personal name Caleb appears in the ancient Near East militates against the hypothesis of a clan name. In each known instance it is the name of an individual. Beltz has shown that the name Caleb does not contain any trace of totemism, and the current evidence supports the OT view that Caleb is singularly a personal name.

1. The son of Jephunneh. At Kadesh-barnea Moses chose Caleb the son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite (Nu. 32:12; Josh. 14:6, 14; cf. Gen. 15:19; 36:11) as Judah's representative to spy out the land of Canaan (Nu. 13:6). Among the twelve spies only he and Joshua returned with an encouraging report, while the others counseled not to attack Canaan (13:25–14:38). Accordingly only Caleb and Joshua were permitted to survive (14:38), because they "followed Yahweh" (Nu. 32:12; Dt. 1:36; Josh. 14:9). Some forty years later Caleb took part in the conquest of the land, and by driving out the Anakim he received Hebron as his inheritance (Josh. 14:6–15). Othniel, a younger relative of Caleb (Josh. 15:17; Jgs. 1:13; 1 Ch. 4:13), distinguished himself by capturing Debir (or Kiriath-sepher) and receiving as a reward Achsah, Caleb's daughter, who was promised to the conqueror of that city (Josh. 15:15–19; Jgs. 1:11–15). Caleb was also chosen as the “leader” (nāśî) and “head” (rō'š) of the tribe of Judah, to be in charge with other leaders in the distribution of the land (Nu. 34:18f.). The capture of Hebron and Debir with its surrounding territories (1 S. 30:14) explains how the Kenizzites came to have a portion in the tribe of Judah. Already in Jgs. 1:10f. they were reckoned as a part of the tribe of Judah, which is said to have taken both Hebron and Debir.

有些学者（如诺特和诺斯）认为迦勒最初是迦勒族的族名（参：《新英文译本》和《新美国圣经》，代上 2:50-52），迦勒族帮助犹太人攻占了巴勒斯坦南部的地区。后来迦勒族的祖先被视为犹太人的英雄。与这种观点同时存在的一种观念认为，迦勒这个名字就是原始图腾崇拜的证据。然而，迦勒这个普通的闪米特语人名在古近东地区频繁地出现，这驳斥了迦勒是族名的假设。在所有已知的例子中，迦勒都是个人的名字。贝尔茨（Beltz）已经证明，迦勒这个名字中不包括任何图腾崇拜的痕迹，现有的证据支持了《旧约》中的观点，即迦勒仅仅是一个人名。

2. The son of Hezron. This Caleb is consistently designated as the son of Hezron of the line of Judah (1 Ch. 2:9, 18, 42). Among his descendants were Hur, Aaron's associate during Moses' absence on Mt. Sinai, and Hur's grandson Bezalel, the master craftsman who played a major role in the construction of the wilderness tabernacle and its furniture (Ex. 31:2–11; 35:30–35; 1 Ch. 2:19f.). Although attempts have been made to identify Caleb the son of Hezron with Caleb the spy, there can scarcely be any question that they were two separate individuals. Since Caleb the son of Hezron had a great-grandson Bezalel who helped to build the tabernacle at Sinai, he cannot be identical with Caleb the spy, who was only about forty years old when he was appointed as one of the twelve spies to reconnoiter the land—an event that took place in the year following the building of the tabernacle (Josh. 14:6–12). It has been held that if Caleb's daughter (or female descendant) Achsah of 1 Ch. 2:49 is the well-known daughter of Caleb the spy (Josh. 15:15–19; Jgs. 1:11–15), then Caleb the son of Jephunneh the Kennizite would be a

34:18-19)。希伯仑和底璧以及底璧附近的领地被侵夺（撒上 30:14），从而使基尼洗人成为了犹太人。在《士师记》1:10-11 中，基尼洗人已经被认为是犹太人，根据经文中的记载，犹太人攻取了希伯仑和底璧。

2、希斯仑的儿子。这个迦勒一直被认为是犹太支派希斯仑的儿子（代上 2:9, 18, 42）。犹太支派的子孙包括户珥和户珥孙子比撒列，摩西不在西奈山时户珥陪伴着亚伦，比撒列是一个熟练的工匠，他在旷野中建造会幕和会幕中的家具时起到了重要的作用（出 31:2–11; 35:30–35; 代上 2:19-20）。虽然有人认为希斯仑的儿子迦勒与密探迦勒指的是同一个人，但是毫无疑问，他们是两个不同的人物。因为希斯仑的儿子迦勒有一个曾孙比撒列，这人在西奈山上帮着建造会幕，这个迦勒不可能是密探迦勒，密探迦勒被选为十二密探之一，去窥探迦南地时，他仅仅四十来岁——建造会幕之后的一年里发生了窥探迦南地这件事（书 14:6–12）。有人认为，如果《历代志上》2:49 中迦勒的女儿（女性后裔）押撒就是密探迦勒众所周知的女儿（书 15:15–19; 士 1:11–15），那么基尼洗族耶孚尼的儿子迦勒可能是希斯仑的儿子迦勒的子孙。

3. The son of Hur. According to the punctuation of some versions, 1 Ch. 2:50 refers to Caleb the son of Hur, who would be a grandson of Caleb the son of Hezron. However, more recent versions place a period after “Caleb” so as to make the beginning of v. 50 the closing phrase of the preceding pericope: “These were the descendants of Caleb” (RSV), i.e., Caleb the son of Jephunneh. The following pericope would list the family of Hur, the son of Ephratah (vv. 50–52).

3、户珥的儿子。根据某些译本中的标点符号，《历代志上》2:50 中的迦勒被认为是户珥的儿子，他应该是希斯仑的儿子迦勒的孙子。不过，较新的译本在“迦勒”后面用了一个句号，从而使第 50 节经文的开始部分成为了上一节经文的结束语：“以上就是迦勒的子孙”（《修订标准译本》），这里所说的是耶孚尼的儿子迦勒。下一节经文列出了以法他的长子户珥的儿子（代上 2:50-52）。

CALENDAR. 历法

The various methods of calendrical reckoning found in the OT and NT, and the numerous references to them, reflect the importance of the calendar at all times in Israelite and early Christian history. Without presupposing a sophisticated theory of “historical consciousness” in early Israel, the necessity of having a method by which time is organized in a more or less systematic manner is obvious. In the everyday life of the community and state the political and legal systems need some definable notion of time in order to legitimate and carry out their various functions. In the cultic sphere (often overlapping or totally subsuming the “everyday”) every moment is “filled with salvation” (van der Leeuw). There arises the need to control the tempus and out of this need is born liturgical time, referred to in terms of calendrical notations and presupposing various organizational schemata of time.

It is impossible to speak of one normative biblical calendar. The OT reflects the use of many different calendrical systems and the precise chronological period when each system was used is nearly impossible to determine. Moreover, more than one calendrical system was often in use at the same time in ancient Israel, demonstrating that different methods of reckoning were required for different activities (cf. our fiscal, academic, church years).

An understanding of the calendar in biblical times is very important for serious biblical study. The calendar is used to organize and refer to those aspects of life that were important to the communities that used them. This is especially true of matters pertaining to

在《旧约》和《新约》中可以看到各种不同的历法计算方法，并且其中多次提及了历法，这表明历法对于各个时期的以色列人和早期的基督教历史具有重要的意义。不需要假定在早期的以色列存在“历史意识”这样复杂的理论，早期的以色列人显然需要以一种近乎系统的方法来安排时间。在社区和国家的日常生活中，为了证明各种职能的合理性，也为了实施这些职能，政治和法律体系需要某种确定的时间观念。在宗教领域（通常与“日常生活”重叠或完全包括在“日常生活”中），每个瞬间都“充满了救赎”（van der Leeuw）。因此，需要掌控时间，礼拜时间应这种需求而产生，这种时间用历法符号表示出来，并以存在多种安排时间的方法为前提。

《圣经》中不存在一种标准的历法。《旧约》中使用了很多不同的历法体系和精确的纪年周期，但几乎不能确定使用每个历法体系的时间。此外，古代的以色列经常同时使用多种历法体系，这说明，不同的活动需要不同的时间计算方法（参：我们的财政年度、学年和教会年历）。

理解圣经时代的历法对于谨慎的圣经研究非常重要。对于使用历法的会众来说，历法很重要，他们用历法来安排和参照生活的方方面面。祭仪尤其是敬拜特别需要历法。此外，古以色列人按照历法安排生活，理解历法体系能使我们更加充分地了解圣经时期的世界观，从

I. Methods of Reckoning Time in the Ancient Near East.-All calendars used in the ancient Near East are dependent in some way on the movements of extraterrestrial bodies. While an agricultural year may be defined in terms of seasons and a liturgical year in terms of festivals, the overarching system, the rationale behind the nomenclature, is invariably connected to the movements of the sun, the moon, the stars, or some combination of these. Moreover, all

I. 古近东地区计算时间的方法。古近代地区的所有历法都在某种程度上依赖于宇宙天体的运动。虽然农历年可能是根据季节来定义的，礼拜仪式年份可能是根据节日来定义的，但是首要的历法体系，这些命名法背后的基本原理都与太阳、月亮、星星或其中多个天体的运动有关。另外，古近东的所有历法都预先设定了一个周期，最基本的周期单位是年（见 II.A.1）。虽然当时的天文学还不像今天的天文学这样发达，但敏锐的观测保证了古近东历法计算的规律性 ancient Near Eastern calendars and consistency. presuppose a cycle, with the year (see II.A.1) the most fundamental cyclical unit. Though astronomical science certainly was not as highly developed as today, keen observation assured a regularity and uniformity of calendrical reckoning in the ancient Near East.

The earliest calendars known are Egyptian in provenance. An original lunar (-stellar) cultic calendar, based in large measure on the heliacal rising of Sirius (Gk. Sothis) in Egyptian myth, was soon found to be inadequate and a solar civil calendar was instituted alongside the religious calendar to assure regularity in state affairs. By the middle of the 3rd millennium B.C. both lunar and solar calendars were used in Egypt, with the latter ultimately achieving priority to the extent that even religious festivals were fixed by the civil calendar (cf. Parker, pp. 57–60).

In Mesopotamia the distinction between civil and religious calendars was not made. The Sumerian (3rd millennium B.C.), Babylonian (2nd millennium) and Assyrian (1st millennium) calendars are best designated lunisolar calendars. As essentially religious calendars, they reflected in their broadest outlines two great mythical cycles (culminating at the equinoxes) controlled by and seen in terms of solar movements. The internal division of the solar year, however, was regulated by the moon, and the lunar months are derived therefrom. There was in Mesopotamia, therefore, a fusion of calendrical reckoning methods in one calendar in contrast to the juxtaposition found in Egypt.

已知的历法最早起源于埃及。礼拜仪式中最初用到的阴历（星团历）以埃及神话中天狼星（希腊语：Sothis）偕日升为主要依据，古埃及人很快发现了这种历法的不足，他们又制定了与宗教历法一起被使用的民间的太阳历，从而保证了国家事务的有序进行。到公元前 3000 年中叶，阴历和阳历同时在埃及被使用，阳历最终成为了优先使用的历法，甚至依据民用历来确定宗教节日的时间（参：Parker, 57–60 页）。

在美索不达米亚，民用历与宗教历法之间没有区别。苏美人（公元前 3000 年）、巴比伦人（公元前 2000 年）和亚述人（公元前 1000 年）的历法是最典型的阴阳历。它们作为基本的宗教历法以最概要的方式体现了两大虚拟周期（以春分和秋分为起点），这两大周期受到太阳运动的限制，并以太阳运动显示出来。然而，太阳年的月份是由月亮划分的，太阴月就源于这种划分。因此，在美索不达米亚，多种历法计算方法融合成了一种历法，而在埃及，多种历法同时并存。

In Syria-Palestine (Ugarit and Phoenicia in particular) the pertinent textual evidence witnesses to a year defined primarily in terms of agricultural seasons and months (see II.B.1) reflecting lunar, perhaps lunisolar, methods of calendrical reckoning. It is clear that at Ugarit the Mesopotamian calendar was “official” for state affairs, but the integration of indigenous mythical cycles certainly provided a potentially different rationale and structure for the religious year.

The earliest references to methods of calendrical reckoning in ancient Israel (e.g., Ex. 23:14–17; 34:18–26) demonstrate the influence of both lunar and solar phenomena. The major festivals occur at the equinoxes (solar) while the organization of the year is based on a lunar month pattern. It would be extremely tenuous to posit direct influence, either Egyptian or Mesopotamian, upon the calendar of ancient Israel, but a few important observations should be made. The Israelite calendar is lunisolar, thereby resembling the Mesopotamian calendar closely. On the other hand, the existence in Egypt of two different calendars with different purposes may be an important precedent to note when the religious and regnal years of Israel are examined.

In all societies, ancient and modern, calendrical methods of reckoning time and the resultant calendars produced are dependent upon, and reflect in their structure, cycles important in their everyday life. In ancient Israel no distinction was made between “church” and “state,” “religious” and “political.” The conceptions of Yahweh as a God very much associated with nature and the natural cycle as seen in the annual seasonal year (cf., e.g., Ps. 29), and as the God of the Exodus and Settlement, were not separated. Both provided important rationales and guidelines for the shape of the Israelite calendar. To the extent that this reflects a common process in ancient Near Eastern societies and that many seasonal and theological elements associated with the calendar are similar in respective myths and epics, the calendar of Israel has a heritage upon which it is dependent. To the extent that Israel's historical experiences and perception of Yahweh acting in nature and history are different and special, Israel's calendar is unique. Israel's calendar therefore reflects both the common and the unique—in both seasonal organization and the theological superstructure that provides its rationale.

古以色列最早记载的历法计算方法（如，出 23:14–17；34:18–26）显示出了月亮和太阳现象对历法产生的影响。主要的节日都集中在春秋分（太阳历），而一年的活动安排却以太阴月为依据。埃及或美索不达米亚的历法不太可能对古以色列的历法产生了“直接”的影响，但还是应当特别关注这两地的历法。一方面，以色列的历法是阴阳历，因此很像美索不达米亚的历法。另一方面，埃及存在两种不同用途的历法，它们可能是研究以色列宗教年份和登基年份的一个重要先例。

在古代和现代的所有社会中，计算时间的历法方法和由此产生的历法依赖于并体现了历法的结构和周期，历法结构和周期对人们的日常生活很重要。在古以色列，“教会”与“国家”，“宗教”与“政治”没有区别。耶和华是与自然和自然周期存在着密切联系的神，从年复一年的四季更替可以看出这一点（参：诗 29），祂也是出埃及和定居迦南时的神，这是两个不能分割的观念。

II. Calendrical Systems In Ancient Israel.-A. Terminology. An examination of the various terms used to designate calendrical time in Israel reveals not simply the influence of method (cf. I above, solar and lunar phenomena), but also specific concerns in the life of the people, e.g., cultic and economic terms.

1. Year (Heb. šānā). The Israelite year was the most basic unit of the calendar. The individual components of the year might fluctuate, but all of these terms were inevitably linked to the conception of an annual cycle. Sometimes the year was a part of an even larger calendrical sequence, as in the notion of a Sabbatical Year (Ex. 23:10f.; Lev. 25:3-7; 1 Macc. 6:49, 53), a seven-year cycle, or the Jubilee Year (Lev. 25:8ff.; Nu. 36:4; Ezk. 46:17; Isa. 61:2 [Lk. 4:19]), based on a forty-nine-year cycle. In general,

这两个观念为以色列历法的形成提供了重要的理论基础和参考。这反映出古近东社会所经历的共同历程，埃及和迦南神话和史诗中的很多与历法相关的季节性和神学元素很相似，以色列的历法代代相传，并且依赖于这种传承。以色列的历史经历和他们对自然和历史中行奇事的耶和华的认知是与众不同的，以色列的历法是独特的。因此，以色列的历法既体现出了共性，又体现出了独特性——它为季节性组织和神学上层建筑提供了理论基础。

II. 古以色列的历法体系。A. 术语。对各种表达历法时间的词语进行研究不仅可以揭示出时间计算方法的影响（参：上文 I，太阳和月亮现象），还可以反映出以色列人的具体生活关注点，如祭仪用语和经济术语。

1、年（希伯来语：šānā）。以色列人的年是他们历法的最基本单位。年的各个组成要素可能会发生变化，但这些术语必然都与年周期有关。有时候，年是更大历法顺序中的一部分，如安息年（出 23:10-11；利 25:3-7；马一 6:49, 53），就是七年或四十九周期之后的禧年（利 25:8 起；民 36:4；结 46:17；赛 61:2[路 4:19]）。然而，《圣经》中的历法术语通常以阴阳年的某种单数形式作为最大的历法单位，历法参照也没有脱离这个概念框架。

however, the biblical calendrical terminology uses some singular form of the lunisolar year as the largest unit and calendrical references are made within this conceptual framework.

2. Month (yeraḥ, ḥōdeš). The two words commonly used to designate “month” in Hebrew both have lunar referents and etymologies. Yeraḥ is derived from a root meaning “moon” (compare other Semitic languages where this root and its lunar referents are common). Ḥōdeš may be used to refer to either the month proper (Ex. 23:15; 34:18; Dt. 16:11) or the day of the new moon (Nu. 28:11; Hos. 2:13; Am. 8:5). Textual evidence seems to indicate that both words were used as a designation for month from an early period in the history of Israel, thus reflecting the lunar nature of the calendar. Also reflective of the lunar influence upon the calendar are the “new moon” days (Nu. 28:11; etc.), which were celebrated regularly and which designated the first day of each lunar month (Gen. 38:24; Nu. 9:22; 11:20f.; Jgs. 11:37; 1 S. 6:1; Am. 4:7; etc.).

The OT uses three different systems of nomenclature in referring to months: Canaanite, numerical, and Babylonian. An etymological study of the Canaanite month names reveals that these designations are derived at least in part from the agricultural functions or phenomena associated with the particular time of the year to which each name refers. There are only four Canaanite months referred to in the OT: Abib (“fresh ear” [of grain], Ex. 13:4; 23:15; 34:18; Dt. 16:1); Ziv (“beauty”—a time of flowers[?], 1 K. 6:1, 37); Ethanīm (“permanent streams[?],” 1 K. 8:2); and

2、月 (yeraḥ, ḥōdeš)。希伯来语常用这两个希伯来词语来表示“月”，它们都以月亮为参照对象，并以月亮作为词源。Yeraḥ 源于一个表示“月亮”的词根（其他的闪米特语也都有这个词根，也都以月亮为参照对象）。Ḥōdeš 既可以用来表示月份本身（出 23:15；34:18；申 16:11），也可以用来表示朔月中的一天（民 28:11；何 2:13；摩 8:5）。经文中的证据似乎表明，从以色列早期开始，这两个词就可以用来表示月，因此这反映出以色列历法具备阴历的基本特征。“月朔”体现出月亮对历法产生的影响（民 28:11 等），以色列人会在月朔定期举行庆祝活动，月朔指的是每个太阴月的第一天（创 38:24；民 9:22；11:20-21；士 11:37；撒上 6:1；摩 4:7 等）。

《旧约》中使用不同的体系来为月份命名：迦南名称月份、数字月份和巴比伦名称月份。迦南月份名称的词源研究显示，至少其中有一些月份名源于农业功能或发生在一年中特定时间（该月）的天文现象。《旧约》中仅提到了四个迦南月份：亚笔月（[谷物的]“新穗”，出 13:4；23:15；34:18；申 16:1）、西弗月（“美丽”——花期[不确定]，王上 6:1, 37）、以他念月（“永恒的溪流[不确定]”，王上 8:2）和布勒月（“雨[不确定]”，王上 6:38）。人们常常注意到，这四个名称与一年中最重要的农业时节有关，可能也说明了当地人的生存状况。然而，还应该注意的，与这些月

Bul (“rain[?],” 1 K. 6:38). It has often been noted that these four names are to be associated with the most important agricultural periods in the year, perhaps explaining their survival. It should also be noted, however, that all the activities associated with these months are cultic in character, thus providing at least partial evidence of a very early admixture of Israelite cult with Canaanite nomenclature and custom. When Canaanite month names are used, the sequence always begins in the spring.

The numerical system of referring to months is the most common one in the OT. This method of reference, which occurs in many places in the OT, also begins with the first month in the spring.

The Babylonian month names comprise the third system in use in Israel and are found in relatively late texts: Nisan (Neh. 2:1); Sivan (Est. 8:9); Elul (Neh. 6:15); Chislew (Neh. 1:1); Tebeth (Est. 2:16); Shebat (Zec. 1:7); and Adar (Ezr. 6:15). Sometimes these month names are found alone and sometimes preceded by an explanatory numerical reference (e.g., Est. 3:7; Zec. 7:1; etc.).

In each of the three systems a twelve-month schema is presupposed and the months are counted from the spring. In addition, the lunisolar character of the year and the means by which the months are calculated or reckoned are clear.

份相关的所有活动都具有宗教特点，因此，至少为以色列宗教信仰与迦南月份命名法和迦南习俗的早期融合提供了一些证据。当采用迦南月份命名法时，通常以春季的第一个月作为第一个月。

《旧约》中最常见的命名月份的方法是数字命名法。《旧约》的多处经文中提到了数字月份，数字月份也以春季的第一个月为起始月。

巴比伦月份名由以色列的第三套历法体系构成，在相对较晚的经文中可以看到这些月份的名称：尼散月（尼 2:1）、西弯月（斯 8:9）、以禄月（尼 6:15）、基斯流月（尼 1:1）、提别月（斯 2:16）、细罢特月（亚 1:7）和亚达月（拉 6:15）。有时这些月份名称单独出现，有时前面有一个解释性的数字月份（如，斯 3:7；亚 7:1 等）。

这三套历法体系中的每个历法体系都将一年分为十二个月，起始月从春季开始。此外，年份中阴阳历的特征和月份的计算方法是清楚的。

3. Week (šābû[a]‘). The origin of the seven-day week is continually debated (cf., e.g., RSV and NEB on Gen. 29:27). While reference to the week in the OT is relatively rare and confined primarily to cultic occasions (Ex. 34:22; Lev. 12:5; Nu. 28:26; Dt. 16:9f., 16; etc.), the week appears to have been an important calendrical unit from an early period in Israel (Ex. 34:22). The most important reference to the week-system is in conjunction with the feast of weeks (ḥag šēbû‘ōt), indicating a cultic and agricultural source for its usage. Theories proposing that the week was derived originally from a lunar phase may be valid but have no supporting biblical evidence.

4. Sabbath (šabbāt). The sabbath, regardless of its origin, was a significant factor in the ancient Israelite calendrical system. Whether or however the sabbath and the week are to be related etiologically, by the time of the composition or Gen. 1, the sabbath was considered the seventh day of the week (cf. also Ex. 16:26; 20:10; 31:15; Lev. 23:3; etc.). The important point to be noted here is the use of the sabbath as a punctuation mark for various events in the Israelite cultic calendar. The sabbath could mark the end of a weekly cycle (e.g., a rest/feast day, cf. Lev. 23:3), a stopping-point from which calendrical reckoning could begin anew (Lev. 23:15), or even a numerical collection of years. In any case, the sabbath and the seven-day cycle associated with it became the most important means of calendrical reference in Israel from the monarchical period onward.

3、星期 (šābû[a]‘)。七天一周的起源一直是人们争论的话题 (参:《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》, 创 29:27)。虽然《旧约》提到星期的次数相对较少, 主要集中在宗教礼拜场合 (出 34:22; 利 12:5; 民 28:26; 申 16:9-10, 16 等), 从以色列历史早期开始, 星期似乎就是重要的历法单位 (出 34:22)。《圣经》在提及七七节 (ḥag šēbû‘ōt) 时提到了星期制度, 这是《圣经》中对星期的最重要阐述, 表明星期是应宗教崇拜和农业的需求产生的。有些理论提出星期最初源于月相, 这些理论可能是正确的, 但在《圣经》中找不到相关证据。

5. Day (yôm). The day is the smallest, most consistent unit of the Hebrew calendar. Idioms using the Hebrew word for day often indicate longer periods of time (compilations of days). Though there is evidence that in early Christian times the day was divided into hours of quite specific and regular length (Jn. 11:9; Mt. 20:1–12), in general the primary divisions are morning and evening, day (light) and night (dark). There is evidence of calculation for the beginning of the day from both the rising of the sun (Gen. 19:34) and its setting (Lev. 23:27), though the latter appears to be the most common and the later development. The morning-evening distinction and division of Heb. yôm was often very important for the ritual instructions with calendrical notations (e.g., Nu. 28f.; Dt. 16; etc.).

In summary, the day in the Hebrew calendar is referred to in two basic ways. On the one hand, the day, as the unit of time that was constantly and continually repeated, is symbolic of the process of time reckoning, and thus of time itself, to the ancient Israelite. On the other hand, the relative brevity of the day allows specificity of both time reckoning and those ritual requirements, et al., which went with it. This notion of speciality and specificity was possible throughout the ancient Near East, but Israel developed and used the historical consciousness that went with this calendrical precision in a unique way.

5、天 (yôm)。天是希伯来历法的最小单位，也是最一致的单位。希伯来语中的天通常表示更长的时间（数天时间）。虽然证据表明，在基督教早期天被分割成十分具体和固定的时长（约 11:9；太 20:1–12），通常来说，主要可以分为早晨和傍晚，白天（亮光）和黑夜（黑暗）。有证据表明，一天可以从太阳升起（创 19:34）开始算起，也可以从太阳落下（利 23:27）开始算起，但后一种计算方法似乎最为常见，并且后来得到了进一步的发展。早晚的区别和天（希伯来语：yôm）的划分通常对于借助历法标记时间的宗教仪式非常重要（如，民 28-29；申 16 等）。

6. Other Terms. In addition to the specific terminology referring to the units and subunits of the year, there are several other terms used in conjunction with calendrical concerns. The notion of “special,” or “appointed,” times is carried by Heb. mô‘ēd. The ḥāg, pilgrimage feast, is one of these special times. These feasts are celebrated regularly, on a particular cycle, regulated and controlled calendrically, each year. Moreover the specific time of the year can be referred to not only by month names, but also by the agricultural activity that characterizes that period and the festival associated with it (‘āsîp, “in-gathering”; qāšîr, “harvesting” [Ex. 23:16, etc.]). The notion of an annual cycle is clearly indicated by the enigmatic phrases b^eš-ē’î haššānā (Ex. 23:16) and l^eqûpaṭ haššānā (Ex. 34:22; see III below).

B. Sequences. The shape of the calendrical cycle is partially determinable by the terminology applied to it, but the sequence or order of the cycle is often dependent on factors not always immediately recognizable in the terminology. The ancient Israelite community had two different sequences for the year. Economic, political, and religious concerns combined in a variety of ways to produce these sequences. At a later period the sectarian communities devised still other calendrical sequences, and the calendars of Greece and Rome also became important in certain areas of community and national life.

1. Seasonal. The best example of a calendrical sequence shaped by seasonal

B. 顺序。历法周期的形成部分决定于相应的历法术语，但周期的顺序通常是由术语中不易识别的元素决定的。以色列会众使用两种不同的年代顺序。经济、政治和宗教诉求以多种方式结合在一起，从而形成了这些顺序。后来，宗派团体制定了其他的历法顺序，希腊历和罗马历在百姓生活和国家生活的某些领域中起到了重要的作用。

1、季节性顺序。所谓的基色历是季节塑造历法顺序的最佳例子。这份较短的

concerns is the so-called Gezer Calendar. Dating from the early monarchy (10th cent. B.C.), this short text presents the sequence of the year in terms of the agricultural work done in the various months, beginning in the fall with the harvest.

His two months are (olive) harvest,
His two months are planting (grain),
His two months are late planting;
His month is hoeing up of flax,
His month is harvest of barley,
His month is harvest and feasting.
His two months are vine tending,
His month is summer fruit.

(W. F. Albright, BASOR, 92 [Dec. 1943], 16–20; ANET, p. 320.)

Although there are continual debates over the precise dating of this text as well as its intended function, there is no question that it witnesses to a calendrical sequence important in the life of early Israel: the agricultural cycle beginning in the fall. It should be noted that the rationale behind this type of sequence, seasonal tasks, can be found in OT cultic texts such as Ex. 23:14–17; 34:18–26; etc., but the OT sequence begins in the spring. The cultic sequence, though very much influenced by regularly recurring seasonal phenomena, is ultimately governed by other important considerations to which we must now turn.

2. Cultic. The sequence of the Israelite cultic year is always presented as a cycle beginning in the spring (Ex. 23:14; Lev. 23; Nu. 28; Dt. 16; etc.). Both seasonal and astronomical elements seem to be important in determining the shape of the sequence. The ancient festivals are often

文献可以追溯到君主政治早期（公元前10世纪），它按照各个月份所从事的农业劳动来展示一年的顺序，并以收获的季节秋天作为一年的开始。

两个月收藏（橄榄），
两个月撒种，
两个月春季萌芽；
一个月拔亚麻，
一个月收割大麦，
一个月收割其他一切农作物。
一个月修理葡萄树，
一个月收夏果。

(W. F. Albright, BASOR, 92 [1943年12月], 16–20; ANET, 320页。)

虽然人们一直在争论写下这段文字的准确时间和它的预期作用，但毫无疑问，它证明了以色列早期生活中的一个重要历法顺序：农业周期从秋季开始。值得注意的是，可以在《旧约》的《出埃及记》23:14–17和34:18–26等与宗教崇拜有关的经文中看到季节性顺序和季节性任务背后的理论基础，但是旧约历法顺序始于春季。虽然敬拜顺序深受定期发生的季节性现象的影响，但这种顺序最终受到其他重要因素的支配，现在我们必须关注这些因素。

2、祭典顺序。以色列人的祭典年份总是以春节作为一年的开始（出 23:14；利 23；民 28；申 16 等）。季节性元素和天文元素似乎都对这一顺序的形成产生了重要影响。古代的节日通常是用农业术语来命名的，一年中两个最重要的日子是春分和秋分。 referred to with agricultural terminology and the two most important times of the year are the spring and fall equinoxes.

The most important occasions of worship for the entire Israelite community, the major festivals, significantly influenced the shape and nature of the calendar. The year was organized around the three major pilgrimage festivals: Passover and the Feast of Unleavened Bread (March/April); Feast of Weeks (May/June); and Feast of Tabernacles/Booths (September/October). Each of these occasions has seasonal elements reflecting agricultural antecedents. In addition, ancient ritual is associated with many of these festivals pointing to early mythological conceptions behind these transformed rites (e.g., Ex. 23:18f.). In the primary OT witnesses to the festival year it is important to note the focus on worship, on obligation, on commitment, within the context of a cult-centered relationship between Israel and Yahweh. In the postexilic period the festivals of Purim and Hanukkah, each in very different ways witnessing to the diaspora nature of Judaism, were added to this cultic liturgical year.

主要的节日是所有以色列会众敬拜神的最佳时机，这些节日深刻地影响了历法的形成和特征。围绕着三大朝觐节来安排一年的时间：逾越节和除酵节（3月/4月）、七七节（5月/6月）和住棚节（9月/10月）。每个时机都有一些反映农业前事的季节性元素。此外，古代的仪式与其中的一些节日有关，这些节日表明了这些已改变的仪式背后所隐藏的早期神话观念（如，出 23:18-19）。在《旧约》对节期的主要见证中，在以色列与耶和华之间以崇拜为中心的关系中，特别需要关注敬拜、责任和信守承诺三个方面。在被掳巴比伦以后的时期，祭典年份中增加了普林节和光明节两个节日，这两大节日各自以截然不同的方式说明了犹太人的离散特征。

3. Regnal/Civil Years. The sequence of the civil year, if it is possible to speak of such an entity as separate from the religious year, was dependent upon the same methods of reckoning time and used the same terminology. Often the “state” records would identify the year in question in reference to the reign of a particular monarch, but the lunisolar conception of the year and calendrical terminology remained fairly consistent whether cult or monarchy was involved. The only substantive issue concerning the regnal year is the starting point of the sequence, i.e., whether a fall or spring New Year is involved, and this will be discussed below (III).

3、登基年份和日历年。如果日历年可以与宗教年区别开来，那么日历年的顺序也取决于与宗教年相同的计算方法，并且也采用与宗教年相同的术语。“国家”记载通常根据某位君王登基的时间来确定那些存有疑问的年份，但无论是否包括祭仪或君主政治，年份中的太阴太阳概念和历法术语仍然相当一致。关于登基年份的唯一的实质性问题是这个顺序的起点在哪里，即新年在秋天还是在春天开始，下文将讨论这个问题（III）。

4. Jubilees and Qumrân. In the book of Jubilees and among the texts found at Qumrân there is evidence of a calendrical system significantly different from those discussed above. The texts demonstrating this calendar may be dated to approximately 200 B.C. This calendar was definitely used by the Qumrân community, among other sectarian groups. The most noticeable characteristic of this calendar is the fixed relationship between days of the week and days of the month. Thus, e.g., a religious observation on the fifteenth of the first, fourth, seventh or tenth months would always be on a Wednesday. This was made possible by a strict 364-day solar year with four quarters of thirteen weeks each (three months, two of thirty days, one of thirty-one days; cf. Jub. 6:23-32). The year began in the fall, and its strictly solar method of organization appears to be a reaction against the lunar (actually lunisolar) months of the Babylonians and other ancient Hebrew calendrical systems (Jub. 6:36f.). The Qumrân community used the Jubilee calendar only for the determination of festivals in the cultic year. It is uncertain whether the antagonism of this sectarian community concerning the calendar originated from a bias against Babylonians (foreigners) or against normative Judaism.

4、《禧年书》和昆兰文献中的历法。在《禧年书》和昆兰文献中发现了一种历法体系，与上文讨论的历法体系明显不同。这两个文献证明，这套历法或许可以追溯到约公元前 200 年。昆兰社区和其他宗派团体显然都使用这套历法。它

5. Greek and Roman. Evidence of the use of the Syro-Macedonian calendar may be found in the apocryphal literature (2 Macc. 11:30, 33, 38) and Josephus (e.g., Ant. i.3.3; iii.10.5; etc.). No real influence of the Julian calendar is found in biblical material, though the system clearly must have played some part in Palestine during Roman occupation.

6. New Testament. Dating in the NT is by reference to the reign of particular Roman officials and to the Jewish cultic calendar. It was a common practice to refer to the regnal year as one means of dating events

最值得注意的一个特征就是，周的天数和月的天数存在着固定的关系。因此，一月、四月、七月或十月第 15 天的宗教仪式总是在星期三举行。这套历法的一太阳年可能恰好有 364 天，每个太阳年分为四个十三周（3 个月，其中有 2 个月每月 30 天，另外 1 个月有 31 天；参：《禧年书》6:23-32）。秋季是一年的开始，并且严格按照太阳活动来安排一年的时间，这种方法似乎与巴比伦和古希伯来的其他历法体系中的太阴月（实际上是阴阳月）形成了对比（《禧年书》6:36-37）。昆兰社区仅使用禧年历来确定祭典年份的节日。这个宗派社区在历法上的对立是否源于他们对巴比伦人（外邦人）或正统犹太教的偏见，这一点尚不能确定。

5、希腊和罗马历法。在《次经》（马二 11:30, 33, 38）和约瑟夫斯的作品（Ant. i.3.3; iii.10.5 等）中可以找到使用叙利亚和马其顿历法的证据。在圣经资料中找不到儒略历的真正影响，但在罗马占领巴勒斯坦时期，这套历法必然对巴勒斯坦产生了一定的影响。

6、《新约》中的历法。《新约》采用某些罗马官员的任期和犹太人礼拜历法来记录日期。《新约》常用即位年份作为记录事件日期的一种方法（路 3:1，“凯撒提庇留在位第十五年”）。大多数

(Lk. 3:1, “in the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius Caesar”). Most such NT citations are general, providing a reference only to the reign, but not to the year, of the emperor Augustus (Lk. 2:1), the king Herod (Mt. 2:1; Lk. 1:5), the governor Quirinius (Lk. 2:2), or the proconsul Gallio (Acts 18:12). Nevertheless, the confluence of these citations and other data makes reasonably precise dating possible (cf. Finegan, pp. 215ff.). Most dating in the NT is with reference to the Jewish cultic calendar. The sabbath (cf. also “the Lord’s day,” Rev. 1:10), Passover (Jn. 2:13), Tabernacles (7:2), Pentecost (Acts 2:1), Unleavened Bread (20:6) are all used in referring to times and events in the life of Jesus and the early Church. See also CHRONOLOGY OF THE NT.

7. Intercalation. In the biblical texts there is no clear evidence of intercalation, though it must have been done in some way at all times in Israel. The Babylonian system of inserting seven intercalary lunar months in a nineteen-year cycle was probably used, though with certain local adaptations. Various other methods may have been adopted, but the texts that discuss intercalation explicitly are postbiblical.

III. The Israelite New Year.—Any conclusions about the time and function of the New Year and its celebration in Israel are subject to criticism. One must always make some kind of judgment concerning this issue, but the direct evidence is so sparse and so ambiguous that consensus is never possible. Two initial points should be made concerning the New Year in Israel. First, from the postexilic period to the present day it appears that the New Year (Rosh Hashanah) has been celebrated in the fall, in conjunction with Yom Kippur and Sukkoth, the latter of which probably was the original celebration. Second, there is good evidence that from the earliest periods of Israelite occupation and settlement the cult organized its year sequentially, beginning in the spring. Opinion is divided concerning the explanation for this. Some maintain that a fall New Year existed from the period of the earliest settlement, with the spring-oriented sequence being a later development imposed on the older system. Others maintain that a spring New Year was the earliest and most common in Israel. Variations and qualifications of these two positions abound in the literature of OT scholarship.

新约引文都是很笼统的，仅仅提到了亚古士督（路 2:1）、希律王（太 2:1；路 1:5）、巡抚居里扭（路 2:2）或方伯迦流（徒 18:12）的统治时期，却没有提到年份。然而，这些引文与其他资料的交叉部分有可能帮助确定准确的年代（参：Finegan, 215 页起）。《新约》中的大多数日期都参照了犹太人的礼拜历法。安息日（另参：“主日”，启 1:10）、逾越节（约 2:13）、住棚节（约 7:2）、五旬节（徒 2:1）和除酵节（徒 20:6）都用来表示耶稣和早期教会生活中的时代或事件。另见 CHRONOLOGY OF THE NT（新约年表）。

7、置闰。在《圣经》中找不到关于置闰的明显证据，但是以色列应该一直在置闰。虽然巴比伦的某些地方置闰的方法有所不同，但巴比伦历法体系可能每十九年就在历法中插入七个朔望月。可能也使用其他置闰的方法，但只有《圣经》后期的文献中才明确地讨论了置闰问题。

III. 以色列人的新年。关于以色列新年的时间和功能以及新年庆祝仪式的总结总是受到人们的批评。人们一直在对这个问题做出某种判断，但直接证据却很少且很不明确，因此，不可能达成共识。关于以色列的新年必须首先明确两点。第一，从被掳巴比伦之后的时期至今，以色列人似乎在秋天庆祝新年（犹太新年），也在秋天庆祝犹太人的赎罪日和结茅节，结茅节的庆祝活动可能是最早的庆祝活动。第二，确凿的证据表

Those who maintain a fall New Year celebration rely primarily upon the evidence of: (1) the sequence found in the Gezer Calendar; (2) the much debated phrases in Ex. 23:16 and 34:22, which by themselves cannot indicate a fall starting point (cf. Clines); (3) hypothetical reconstructions of the nature and function of the Feast of Booths; (4) a few chronological references that may point to the reckoning of regnal years from the fall (cf. Thiele, MNHK). Those who maintain a spring New Year point to the sequence of the cultic year as witnessed by texts from all periods, and recently have noted the probability of a spring New Year among the Canaanites (cf. F. M. Cross), regardless of the questionable evidence of the Gezer "Calendar." It must be observed that the debates over the time and function of the Israelite New Year are motivated by far more than mere concern with chronological and calendrical knowledge of ancient Israel. For example, the fall date is often advocated as much to show that Israel was “different” as that the evidence warrants it. Moreover, one’s view of the function of the festival itself is always tied quite closely to one’s conception of the nature and development of Israelite religion (cf., e.g., Weiser and Mowinckel). In any case the evidence remains conflicting, though it would be fair to assess the current opinion as advocating (1) that a spring New Year at an early period in Israelite history is quite probable; (2) that the fall New Year is not necessarily operative in the monarchical period (contra Thiele, et al.) but may indeed be a reaction against Babylonian and Persian hegemony in the early postexilic period.

那些认为以色列人在秋天庆祝新年的人主要依靠以下证据:(1)基色历中发现的顺序;(2)《出埃及记》23:16和34:22中那些被激烈争论的时期,这些时期本身并不能证明秋天是一年的开始(参:Clines);(3)对住棚节性质和功能的假设还原;(4)一些年表中的证据,其中可能指出,从秋天开始计算即位年份(参:Thiele, MNHK)。那些坚持新年从春天开始的人不考虑“基色历”中可疑的证据,用各时期文献证明了礼拜年份的顺序,最近他们发现,迦南人可能也在春天庆祝新年(参:F. M. Cross)。必须注意的一点是,对古以色列年代和历法知识的兴趣激起了人们对以色列新年时间和功能的讨论,但刺激因素远不止这一个。例如,经常有人认为,新的一年从秋天开始,这证明了以色列的“与众不同”,这种想法也是有据可循的。此外,关于这个节日的功能的观点总是与对以色列宗教的性质和发展的观念紧密地联系在一起(参:Weiser和

IV. Historical Development of the Calendar.-Possible antecedents of the calendrical systems and rationales of calendars are to be sought in Egypt, Mesopotamia, and Canaan. Egyptian influence is difficult to pinpoint, while the lunisolar calendar of Mesopotamia has clear parallels with that of early Israel. The most important antecedents, however, were the calendrical systems in use in Canaan, still only vaguely known. Calendrical reckoning in Canaan demonstrated the heavy influence of the seasonal, agricultural cycle and the mythological conceptual framework which explicated this cycle in the cultic life of the people. These influences manifest themselves both in early calendrical material (e.g., Ex. 23; 34) and in conceptual motifs and patterns used of Israel’s God (Ex. 15; Jgs. 5; Isa. 51; etc.). The early Israelite calendar had an essentially cultic provenance, with nomenclature associated with both month names and religious occasions that reflected seasonal agricultural concerns (Ex. 23; 34; etc.). During the monarchy the system of referring to months by number developed, in all probability to replace the Canaanite nomenclature, which gradually came to have “pagan” associations as a result of orthodox, anti-pluralistic movements such as that of Elijah. The sequence of the year remained the same for the cult, however.

IV. 历法的历史发展。在埃及、美索不达米亚和迦南有可能找到这些历法体系的先例和理论基础。很难准确地描述埃及历法的影响，美索不达米亚的历法显然与以色列早期的历法很相似。然而，最重要的历法是迦南的历法，但人们对这些历法先例知之甚少。迦南历法计算方法显示出，迦南历法深受季节与农业周期和神话基本概念的影响，这说明迦南人的宗教崇拜生活也存在这样的周期。早期的历法资料（出 23； 34）和关于以色列神的概念主题和图案（出 15； 士 5； 赛 51 等）都体现出了这些影响。从本质上说，以色列早期的历法源于宗教崇拜，历法的命名与月份名称和宗教仪式有关，月份名称和宗教仪式则体现了不同季节的农事关注点（出 23； 34 等）。君主制时期出现了以数字命名月份的历法体系，数字命名法很可能取代了迦南命名法，由于受到正统的、反多神崇拜运动的影响，如以利亚的发起的运动，这种历法体系逐渐与“异教”发生了关联。不过，一年的顺序仍然与

Shortly before or after the fall of Judah the Babylonian system was probably used alongside the numerical method, although it was not until very late in the OT period that the names actually appeared. It was this numerical Babylonian system that functioned for both civil and religious occasions in the remainder of the biblical period. Other systems, e.g., the Macedonian and Roman, were surely also in use, but the evidence points to a fairly consistent usage of the Jewish calendar in the religious life of the people through the late OT and the NT periods. The calendar was essentially lunisolar from its origins, though specific concerns and times would allow the emphasis to be more on solar than lunar phenomena, or vice versa. In this way the rise of the sectarian calendar of Jubilees used in the religious life of Qumrân is easily explainable.

While precise dating, exact parallels to show the antecedents, or even a complete “calendar,” are not given us, the general development of the calendar is fairly clear. It is a growth that reflects not only a more sophisticated calendrical science, but a different and expanding conception of worship and religion.

犹太王国陷落之前或之后不久，巴比伦历法体系和数值纪年法可能一起在被使用，但实际上，直到旧约时期的晚期才出现历法名称。在圣经时期的剩余时间里，民间和宗教场合都使用巴比伦的这种数字历法体系。其他的历法体系，如马其顿和罗马历法必定也在使用中，但证据表明，从旧约晚期至新约时期，人们的宗教生活始终离不开犹太历。虽然犹太历在一些细节上和具体时代中更为关注太阳现象或月亮现象，但从本质上说，这种历法源于阴阳历。这样一来，就很容易解释为何宗派的禧年历会越来越地应用于昆兰的宗教生活中。

虽然我们不知道准确的日期，也不知道与前事极为类似的事，甚至没有完整的“历法”，但是我们显然可以看到历法的总体发展历程。这一发展不仅显示出一个更为复杂的历法科学，而且显示出一种关于崇拜和宗教的不寻常的概念，这也是一种延伸的概念。

V. Problems of Interpretation.—Since many crucial areas of biblical study are inseparably related to questions or areas concerning the calendar, it is important to recognize some basic problems that remain. First, despite many references to different calendrical systems, the biblical texts do not provide a detailed, clear “calendar” that will explain the calendrical science of ancient Israel at all times and in all places. The evidence is disparate, and any reconstruction must rely on presuppositions the validity of which are not verifiable. Another problem that arises in studying the calendar is the relationship of the calendrical systems of Israel and Judah. Much work has been done in this area, but there is not yet enough evidence and/or convincing theoretical explanation to provide consensus on the issues of regnal year reckoning, New Year, etc. Finally, the chronological overlapping of the references to particular calendrical systems and the limited pertinent textual material, biblical and extrabiblical, cause much difficulty for any study of the calendar. All of these problems, however, witness to one widely known datum: the calendar in the biblical period, as everything else, was in constant flux.

V. 历法解释问题。因为圣经研究的很多重要领域与历法问题或历法领域密不可分，所以必须承认还存在一些基本问题。首先，虽然经上多次提到了不同的历法体系，但是《圣经》中并没有提供一种可以解释古以色列各个时期和各个地方历法科学的明确且详细的“历法”。证据都是迥然不同的，要想还原这些历法，就必须假设这些尚未得到证实的证据是正确的。其次，历法研究面临的另一个难题是以色列历法和犹太历法之间的关系问题。学者已经在这方面做了很多工作，但是没有足够的证据和（或）令人信服的理论解释可以使他们在即位年份计算和新年等问题上达成共识。最后，《圣经》中和《圣经》之外提到的某些历法体系存在着年代上的重叠，相关的文献资料又很有限，这就为历法研究增添了很大的障碍。然而，所有这些难题都证实了一个广为人知的事实：圣经时期的历法和其他事物都在不断地发生变化。

In 1 K. 10:19 the RSV and NEB emend the vocalization of Heb. ‘āgōl (“round”) to ‘ēgel in accordance with the LXX, which uses móschos, the Greek term for calf. See CATTLE.

CALF 牛犊

【希伯来语: ben-bāqār——“牧人的儿子”, ‘ēgel, ‘ēglā (何 10:5), pārā (伯 21:10)】; 《钦定版圣经》还译为 BULLOCK (“牛犊”, 耶 31:18)、“round” (“圆的”, 王上 10:19); 《新英文译本》还译为 BULL-CALF 和 CALFGOD, 汉译均为“牛犊”; 【yālad——“生产” (耶 14:5)】; 【希腊语: móschos, moschopoiēō (“造了一个牛犊”, 徒 7:41)】; 《新英文译本》还译为“make a bull-calf” (“造了一个牛犊”)。‘Ēgel 这个词用来表示金牛犊, ‘ēgel marbēq 表示“肥牛犊”, 字面意思是“畜栏里的牛犊”(撒上 28:24)。《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》根据《七十士译本》中的翻译, 将《列王纪上》10:19 中希伯来语 ‘āgōl (“圆的”) 的发音变成了 ‘ēgel, 《七十士译本》中译为 móschos, móschos 在希腊语中表示牛犊。见 CATTLE (牛、牲畜)。

CALF, GOLDEN

[Heb. ‘ēgel massēkâ-‘molten calf,’ ‘ēgel zāhāb-‘golden calf’]; NEB also BULL-CALF (Ex. 32), CALF-GOD (Hos. 10:5). A representation of a young bull, used in Israelite worship first under Aaron at Sinai and later in the northern kingdom under Jeroboam I.

CALF, GOLDEN 金牛犊

【希伯来语: ‘ēgel massēkâ——“铸造的牛犊”, ‘ēgel zāhāb——“金牛犊”】; 《新英文译本》还译为 BULL-CALF (出 32) 和 CALF-GOD (何 10:5), 汉译均为“牛犊”。亚伦领导下的以色列百姓首次在西奈山上将牛犊当做神来敬拜, 后来耶罗波安一世统治下的北方王国也崇拜金牛犊。

 - A. Aaron's Golden Calf
 - B. Jeroboam's Golden Calves
- III. Bull Worship in Amos and Hosea

I. The term.—The term 'ēgel is the ordinary Hebrew name for a male (or female, 'ēglā) calf, and is as flexible as the English name, applying to any animal of the bovine family from one (Mic. 6:6) to three (Gen. 15:9; cf. Jer. 34:18f.) years old. It has been suggested that the habitual use of this diminutive term (instead of Heb. par, “bull”) for the golden bulls Aaron and Jeroboam set up—especially as it is once made feminine (Hos. 10:5)—was a reference to their small size, expressing contempt for them. But although this is plausible, it is by no means certain. It was not their size that made these bulls contemptible in the eyes of the prophets but rather what they had come to represent in the life and worship of Israel. By the time of Hosea and Amos calf or bull worship was obviously connected with apostasy, not only at those centers where bulls were recorded as having been erected, but quite possibly in connection with other centers such as Gilgal and Gilead (Hos. 4:15; 12:11; Am. 4:4; 5:5), Samaria (Hos. 8:6; 10:5; 13:2, 16), and Beer-sheba (Am. 5:5; 8:14).

II. Biblical Examples of Calf Worship.—A. Aaron's Golden Calf. Just what transpired and what meaning is to be assigned to each action in the Sinai account of the golden calf (Ex. 32) is by no means settled. Some of the words and phrases in that chapter are a verbal

 - A. 亚伦的金牛犊
 - B. 耶罗波安金牛犊
- III. 《阿摩司书》和《何西阿书》中的公牛崇拜

I. 金牛犊这个词语。'ēgel 这个词是表示公(或母, 'ēglā)牛犊的常见希伯来语, 它和其英语名一样灵活, 可以用来表示一岁(弥 6:6)至三岁(创 15:9; 参: 耶 34:18-19)的所有牛科动物。有人认为, 这个指小词(而不是希伯来语 par, “公牛”)用来表示金牛犊较小的身躯, 以及对它们的鄙视, 而这个词习惯上用来表示亚伦和耶罗波安设立金牛犊——尤其是有一次它还用来表示母牛犊(何 10:5)。虽然这种说法貌似合理, 但不能确定这种说法是否正确。先知们并不是因为牛犊身体较小, 而是因为它们以色列生活和敬拜中的象征意义才鄙视它们。到何西阿和阿摩司时期, 牛犊或公牛崇拜显然与背叛神联系在了一起, 不仅在那些已经建起了金牛犊的崇拜中心可以看到金牛犊, 也可能在其他地方看到金牛犊, 如吉甲、基列(何 4:15; 12:11; 摩 4:4; 5:5)、撒马利亚(何 8:6; 10:5; 13:2, 16)和别是巴(摩 5:5; 8:14)。

II. 《圣经》中崇拜金牛犊的例子。A. 亚伦的金牛犊。尚不能明确西奈山崇拜金牛犊的每个行为(出 32)给出了怎样的暗示, 表达了怎样的含义。从字面上看, 这段经文中的一些词语和短语复制了描述耶罗波安铸造金牛犊的经文(参: 出 32:4, 王上 12:28), 很多学者认为这

duplication of the narrative of Jeroboam's calf worship (cf. Ex. 32:4 with 1 K. 12:28), and there is no lack of scholars who consign most of the details of the story to a secondary reading back of the Jeroboam material (e.g., M. Noth, Exodus [Eng. tr. 1962], p. 246). The motivation for the story, in that case, would be to discredit further the bull worshipers of Bethel. However, it seems clearly unreasonable to suppose that a Hebrew writer at any time would so fiercely abuse his own ancestors without some firm traditional basis for his statements, merely for the sake of adding a little more reproach to his northern neighbors. Thus, even the more radical critics now accept the historicity of a core of the material, if not all the details.

Exodus 32:1 indicates that the projected gods were to function as a surrogate for Moses in his role as leader of the people rather than as a substitute for the God of Israel. If this is the case, it explains the action of Aaron (v. 5) in proclaiming a feast to Yahweh in the midst of the proceedings. It has been suggested also that the calf was merely a platform of some kind, on which the God of Israel would ride, analogous to the platform or throne concept of the ark and illustrated by the common Syrian motif of a god standing atop a lion or a bull (ANEP, nos. 500f.; ANEP supp., no. 830). In either case, there is no need to insist that the original intention was to introduce a cult so totally foreign as the Apis-bull of Memphis, the Mnevis-bull of Heliopolis, or even one of the less remote syncretistic bull-cults of the Delta (see E. Otto, Beiträge zur Geschichte der Stierkulte in Aegypten [1938])—although the continuation of any bull-oriented worship would most certainly have led to some form of syncretism.

个故事中大多数细节重述了关于耶罗波安的经文，属于辅助性描述（如 M. Noth, Exodus [1962 年英语译本]，246 页）。因此，这个故事旨在使那些伯特利公牛崇拜者更加名声狼藉。然而，显然没有理由认为，任何时期的希伯来的作家都在没有稳固的传统证据的情况下，仅仅为了多谴责一下北方的邻邦，而严厉谴责他的祖先。因此，就连那些更为偏激的评论家现在都承认这个故事的基本史实性，但他们并不承认所有的细节都符合史实。

《出埃及记》32:1 表明，亚伦铸造的神明代替了以色列人的领袖摩西，而不是代替了以色列的神。如果情况是这样的话，那就解释了在整个事件过程中亚伦宣告向耶和华守节的行为（出 32:5）。也有人认为金牛犊仅仅是一种坛，以色列的神会降临在这个坛上，它就像是约柜上的施恩座，例如，在叙利亚的神祇图案中经常可以看到站立在狮子或公牛之上的神祇（ANEP, 500-501 号；ANEP supp., 830 号）。在其中任何一个例子中，虽然随着各种公牛崇拜的发展，它们几乎必定融为一种崇拜形象，但是，没有必要认为，最初是为了引入一种完全外来的孟斐斯神牛崇拜和黑利奥波勒斯的姆奈维斯公牛崇拜的崇拜对象，或是引入一种与德尔塔公牛崇拜相差不多的崇拜对象（见 E. Otto, Beiträge zur Geschichte der Stierkulte in Aegypten [1938]）——尽管持续的公牛崇拜很有可能带来某种形式的宗教融合。

Bronze calf statuette of Apis, worshiped in Egypt as a fertility-god. Such foreign cults always represented a threat to Israelite religion. (Trustees of the British Museum)

The actual calf of Ex. 32 was formed of molten gold and fashioned with an engraving tool (v. 4); probably, however, it was an overlay of some sort rather than pure gold, inasmuch as Moses was later able to burn it with fire and grind it to powder (v. 20)—neither of which would have been possible with pure gold. Aaron’s own statement that the calf just appeared from the fire, apparently full-grown (v. 24), is usually considered to be simple fabrication; but the suggestion has been made that perhaps the calf was nothing more than a generally calf-shaped mass of molten metal which caught the imagination of the Israelites upon its emergence from the fire. Whatever the origin of the image, it was quickly identified by the people with the words, “These are your gods, O

上图为青铜神牛犊雕像，埃及人将其奉为生育之神。这种外邦的崇拜对象始终对以色列的宗教产生着威胁。(大英博物馆理事会)

《出埃及记》32章中的牛犊实际上是用熔化的金子铸成的，是用雕刻器具做成的（出 32:4）；然而，金牛犊可能只是表面镀了一层金，而不是纯金的，因为后来摩西烧毁了它，并将它磨成了粉末（出 32:20）——这两点都说明金牛犊不可能是纯金的。亚伦说，牛犊从火中出来显然已经完全成型（出 32:24），这通常被认为纯属捏造；但是有人认为，金牛犊可能仅仅是大致为牛犊形状的熔化金属块，当这个熔化的金属块从火中出来时，它引发了以色列人的联想。不论这一形象起源于哪里，以色列人很快便认出了它，并说道“以色列啊，这就是领你出埃及地的神。”（出 32:8）。这句话，以及其中使用的名词“神”和名词之后的复数动词通常被认为是次要的；但上下文语境却提供了金牛犊（单数）崇拜和向牛犊献祭的自然环境。这句话很可能被改写了，从而在字

Israel, who brought you up out of the land of Egypt!” (v. 8). It is this statement, with both the noun “gods” and the verb following it in the plural, that is often considered secondary; but the context provides a natural setting in the worship of, and sacrifice to, the calf (singular). Quite possibly that statement was altered to create a verbal correspondence with the Kings passage, but this should not cause us to reject the well-attested fact that the calf was identified with Yahweh in some form. In fact, it was precisely this identification of the calf with Yahweh, possibly a result not expected by Aaron, for which the entire nation was called to account. Just what Aaron expected we cannot tell with any degree of certainty, but the tradition is relatively mild in its censure of Aaron himself when compared with its attitude toward the people at large. Undoubtedly a factor in the harshness with which the calf-worship was received was not only the calf itself, but the accompanying orgiastic rites (note the use of the same verb ṣahaq in Gen. 26:8, RSV “fondling”). Whatever the original intent, the matter had clearly gotten out of hand and any possibility of rescuing an element of pure Yahwistic worship was gone.

B. Jeroboam's Golden Calves. In the case of Jeroboam I (1 K. 12:28–33) it is even less plausible to hold that the two calves were intended to represent a foreign cult. Jeroboam was himself apparently a Yahwist (cf. the name of his son, Abijah, “my father is Yahweh”; but cf. also 14:31 and 2 Ch. 13:1), and the text of 1 K. 12 is full of the features of normative Yahwism and totally lacking in elements of Canaanite religion. Since his concern was to gain the allegiance of the Yahwists to whom Solomon's foreign religious adventures were offensive (1 K. 11:28-40), any major departure in favor of Canaanite religion would have been self-defeating. We are left with the conclusion that in some sense the bull symbols erected in Dan and Bethel were meant to represent Yahweh or something connected with Yahweh. A current hypothesis holds that the bulls were pedestals, like those known from Syrian sculpture as supports for the storm-god Baal-hadad (cf. J. Gray, I & II Kings [1964], p. 290). This is not the only possibility. The incident is clearly connected with that of Aaron's calf, and it is not impossible that both were attempts at some physical representation of Yahweh; against this hypothesis, however, is the legal proscription of images, particularly images that might serve as objects of worship (Ex. 20:4f.). Unless we are prepared to relegate the Decalogue in its entirety to a later period, we are forced to acknowledge that, even in Jeroboam's time, making an image of Yahweh would have created division, not elicited support. With evidence so plentiful for the bull-pedestal concept (see above), it would seem best to accept this solution to the problem.

面上使它与《列王纪》中的描述一致，但这不应该使我们拒绝一个已被充分证明的事实，即从某种形式上讲，金牛犊被认为是耶和华。实际上，恰恰因为百姓将金牛犊视为耶和华，这个让亚伦意都意想不到的结果导致整个以色列都被追究责任。我们不能确定亚伦的期望之事，但传统上，与对以色列百姓的严厉谴责相比较，经文对亚伦的谴责相对比较温和。经文中无疑不仅仅严厉谴责了牛犊崇拜，还谴责了伴随着这种崇拜的狂欢仪式（需要注意的是，《创世记》26:8 中使用了相同的动词 ṣahaq，《修订标准译本》译为“fondling”[“戏玩”]）。不论亚伦怀最初怀有怎样的意愿，整件事显然已经失控，纯粹敬拜耶和华的因素已经完全消失了。

*B. 耶罗波安金牛犊。*从耶罗波安的例子（王上 12:28–33）来看，也不太可能用两个牛犊来代表一种外邦的崇拜对象。耶罗波安显然是敬拜耶和华的人（参：他的儿子名字，亚比雅，“我的父是耶和华”；另参：王上 14:31 和代下 13:1），《列王纪上》12 章显然充满了标准的耶和华崇拜的特征，完全没有迦南宗教的元素。因为耶罗波安想要获得敬拜耶和华者的效忠，对他们来说，所罗门信奉外邦宗教的行为是在亵渎神（王上 11:28–40），任何支持迦南宗教背叛

What the calves were originally, and what they became eventually, are two different things. There is little doubt that as early as Hosea's time the more licentious worship of Canaanite fertility religion had been added to the official Yahwism (Hos. 10:5; 13:2). Such a development might well have been expected, for the bull-symbol had a natural affinity for the fertility element in the cult of the Canaanite Baals. That this was a gradual process and not an immediate development is clear in that Elijah, the great champion of Yahwism, seems to have been totally silent concerning this element of the religion of the north. Add to this the surprising fact that only a few years later Jehu, when viciously obliterating the cult of Baal (2 K. 10:28f.), did nothing to attack the calves, and it becomes easy to see that the calves were still identified with Yahweh and were not Baal-symbols.

神的主要行为都必将失败。我们可以作出如下总结，从某种意义上说，但和伯特利铸造公牛像是为了代表耶和华或与耶和华有关的事物。最近有一种假设认为，公牛是基座，就像叙利亚雕像上基座，它支撑着风暴神巴力哈达（参：J. Gray, I & II Kings [1964], 290 页）。这并不是唯一的解释。这件事显然与亚伦铸造金牛犊的事有关，两者有可能都在尝试作耶和华的有形代表；然而，律法中有禁止雕刻偶像的规定，尤其是禁止崇拜偶像的规定（出 20:4-5）正好与这一假设对立。除非我们认为整个摩西十诫是后期才出现的，否则我们不得不承认，即使在耶罗波安时期，雕刻代表耶和华偶像可能会引发分歧，并会遭到律法的禁止。大量的证据证明了公牛基座的概念（将上文），我们似乎不得不承认这就是解决问题的方法。

牛犊最初是什么，最终又变成了什么，这是两件事。毫无疑问，早在何西阿时期，更为放纵地崇拜迦南生育之神的宗教已经冲击到了正统的耶和华崇拜（何 10:5; 13:2）。这一发展很可能处于意料之中，因为公牛象征符号与迦南巴力崇拜中的生育能力存在着天然的密切关系。耶和华崇拜的大力拥护者以利亚对北方宗教的牛犊崇拜似乎完全保持沉默，从中可以看出牛犊崇拜的发展是一个渐变的过程，并非一蹴而就。令人更为惊讶的一个事实是，仅隔数年之后，

III. Bull Worship in Amos and Hosea.—It is not impossible to see why Hosea might fiercely condemn a ritual that Elijah might have tolerated. Hosea lived at a time when he could trace the history of this experiment for nearly two centuries, and could see clearly that these images had not helped but greatly hindered the development of the religion of Yahweh. Even if at first recognized as symbols, these images had become common idols (Hos. 12:11; 13:2). “This thing became a sin” (1 K. 12:30; 13:34). As Baal worship involved associations with bulls (cf. ANEP no. 490, in which the Baal wears the bull horns), and as Yahweh Himself was at times called “Baal” (meaning simply “Lord” or “Master,” Isa. 54:5; Jer. 31:32 [MT 31]; Hos. 2:13 [MT 16]), this syncretistic tendency would naturally be accelerated. It is certain that by the middle of the 8th cent. the worship at Dan and Bethel had lost its uniquely Yahwistic character and become so closely affiliated with a host of heathen deities as to be practically indistinguishable from idolatry in the nations surrounding Israel. The calf was now an idol and not just a symbol (Hos. 8:5f.; 11:2; 13:2), the worship of which—evil enough in itself—was expanded to include veneration of an

当耶户无情地除去巴力崇拜时（王下 10:28-29），他并没有除去金牛犊，很容易看出金牛犊仍然被认为是耶和華的代表，而不是巴力的象征物。

III. 《阿摩司书》和《何西阿书》中的公牛崇拜。为什么何西阿严厉地谴责以色列容忍的一个仪式呢，似乎不难指出其中的理由。在何西阿生活的年代，他能将这一仪式的历史向前追溯近两个世纪，他清楚地看到这些偶像不能促进耶和華宗教的发展，反而极大地阻碍了它的发展。虽然这些意象最初被视为一种象征，但是它们后来变成了常见的偶像（何 12:11；13:2）。“这事叫百姓陷在罪里”（王上 12:30；13:34）。随着巴力崇拜与公牛联系在一起（参：ANEP 490 号，巴力长着公牛角），耶和華有时也被称为“巴力”（意思仅仅是“耶和華”或“主”，赛 54:5；耶 31:32[《马所拉文本》31]；何 2:13[《马所拉文本》16]），这种融合的趋势自然在不断加速。毫无疑问，到公元前 8 世纪中期，但和伯特利不再唯独崇拜耶和華，这两地的崇拜对象与大量异教神祇存在着密切的关系，实际上它们已经与以色列周围民族崇拜的偶像别无二致。牛犊现在变成了偶像，不再仅仅是一种象征（何 8:5-6；11:2；13:2），牛犊崇拜本身已经足够邪恶，这种崇拜后来还包括对亚舍拉、天体和推罗巴力的崇拜（王下 17:16-17）。

Asherah and the host of heaven, as well as the Tyrian Baal (2 K. 17:16f.).

Quite clearly it is this reduction of the ethical religion of Yahweh to the level of just another heathen sacrificial system that caused both Hosea and Amos to condemn even sacrifices themselves (Hos. 6:6; Am. 5:21–24). Just it was the orgiastic rites accompanying Aaron's calf that called forth Moses' condemnation, so it was the heathen ritual associated with Jeroboam's calves that elicited prophetic rejection. In neither case could there be any pure Yahweh worship. Hosea therefore prophesied the impending destruction of the system (8:5f.), and 2 Kings records the sad fulfillment of Hosea's utterance in the removal of the ten tribes to exile (17:7–18).

显然，耶和华神的伦理性宗教沦落成另一种异教献祭仪式，这种堕落甚至导致何西阿和阿摩司谴责祭祀（何 6:6；摩 5:21–24）。这种伴随着亚伦的金牛犊而产生的狂欢仪式遭到了摩西的谴责，与耶罗波安的金牛犊有关的异教仪式也遭到了先知的抵制。这两种仪式都不是单纯的耶和华崇拜。因此，何西阿预言这种仪式必将灭亡（何 8:5-6），《列王纪下》17:7–18 记载了何西阿预言的悲惨应验，耶和华从自己面前赶出了十个支派。

CALL; CALLING 呼召、召唤、求告、起名；蒙召、恩召、呼召、圣召

【希伯来语：qārā'；希腊语：kaléō 与其同根词：klésis 和 klētós；还有 légō, phōnéō, chrēmatizō 也译为此意】。这个词在两约中都很常见，在旧约和新约中 seven hundred instances of the verb, noun, or adjective.

I. In the OT. Five main uses are to be discerned in the OT. First, “to call” means “to summon or invite.” Thus God called to Adam in Gen. 3:9. Moses called the elders together in Ex. 19:7. God called an assembly against Judah in Lam. 1:15. Joel issued the command to call a solemn assembly in Joel 1:14.

Second, the verb can have the sense of “calling on God.” Men began to call on the name of the Lord in Gen. 4:26. All who call on the name of the Lord shall be delivered (Joel 2:32). Invocation of this kind obviously has as its purpose the summoning of divine help or protection, usually with the expectation that it will be given. In this sense “to call” has much the same force as “to pray” (cf. Ps. 31:17; 50:15; 53:4; 86:5; 102:2).

Third, “to call” is used for “to call by name,” i.e., “to name.” This use appears already in the creation story. God called the light day and the darkness night. He called the firmament heaven and the dry land earth (Gen. 1:5ff.). Since names are not mere identifications but also descriptions (cf. Gen. 17:19; 32:28), this calling has more than ordinary significance. Man can name as well as God; we see this very early in the naming of Eve (Gen. 2:23; cf. 22:14).

Fourth, God calls by name with a view to service. The story of Moses offers a good example. God called Moses by name out of the bush and laid upon him the task of liberating Israel from Egypt (Ex. 3:4ff.). The call of Samuel follows a similar pattern (1 S. 3:1ff.). Although the word

有七百多次以动词、名词或形容词的形式出现。

I. 在《旧约》中的含义。这个词在《旧约》中主要有 5 个含义。第一个含义，“to call”意思是“召唤或邀请”。在《创世记》3:9 中，上帝呼唤亚当，《出埃及记》19:7 中，摩西召了长老来，《耶利米哀歌》1:15 中，主召聚多人攻击犹大，《约珥书》1:14 中，约珥命令祭司宣告严肃会，都用到了这层含义。

第二个含义，这个动词有“求告上帝”的含义。在《创世记》4:26 中，人求告耶和华的名。凡求告耶和华名的就必得救（珥 2:32）。这种祈祷显然是为了寻求神的帮助或庇护，通常期望神能够应允。从这个意义上讲，“to call”（“求告”）与“to pray”（“祈祷”）基本具有同等效力（参：诗 31:17；50:15；53:4；86:5；102:2）。

第三个含义，“to call”用来表示“用名字称呼”，也就是“命名”。创世的故事中就已经出现了这种用法。神称光为昼，称暗为夜。祂称空气为天，称旱地为地（创 1:5 起）。既然名字不仅仅指明某人，更是形容（参：创 17:19；32:28），这种称呼具备了超乎寻常的意义。人可以像上帝那样取名；这一点从最初亚当称夏娃为女人就可以看出来（创 2:23；参：创 22:14）。

第四个含义，上帝为了让某个人侍奉祂呼召这个人。摩西的故事就是一个很好的例子。神从荆棘里呼召摩西，让他肩负起带领以色列走出埃及的任务（出 3:4 起）。神还以类似的形式呼召撒母耳（撒上 3:1 起）。虽然《圣经》在记述神派定其他人的事（如，阿摩司，以赛亚

“call” is not used for what happened to others whom God appointed (e.g., Amos, Isaiah, Jeremiah), undoubtedly one may validly speak of their prophetic calling.

Fifth, “to call” may be used in the sense of “to call one’s own.” Actively God calls Israel His people (Isa. 43:7; 45:4), and for this reason Israel may be described as called by the name of the Lord (Dt. 28:10; Isa. 43:1; cf. the temple in Jer. 7:30). This calling of Israel stands closely related to its election (Isa. 45:4). It thus points to the covenant relation in which Israel is called to salvation, is given its name, has the function of a divine witness, and receives the possibility and privilege of calling on God’s name with the assurance of prior response (Isa. 65:24).

II. In the NT.-All the senses found in the OT appear again in the NT. An instance of summons occurs in Acts 4:18; cf. also 24:2 and the call to the wedding in Mt. 22:3. Calling on the name of the Lord is found in the quotation from Joel in both Acts 2:21 and Rom. 10:13. Significantly, the cry for help may now be addressed to the Lord Jesus (cf. Acts 7:59; 22:16). Calling in the sense of naming has particular importance in the Infancy stories (Mt. 1:21; Lk. 1:60; 2:21); Jesus’ name clearly implies service. The appointing of the disciples can be expressed in terms of calling: when Jesus saw James and John, “immediately he called them” (Mk. 1:20). Finally, Christ’s people are those whom He has called and who are rightly called by His name, so that there is no shame in suffering for Christ’s name, or as a Christian (1 Pet. 4:14, 16). But merely calling Jesus Lord is to no avail if His word is not also done

和耶利米)时,没有用到“call”一词,但毫无疑问,他们是按照神的呼召发出的预言。

第五个含义,“to call”还可以表示“呼召某人归于自己名下”。神主动说以色列是属祂的子民(赛 43:7; 45:4),因此,以色列便可以被称为归在神的名下(申 28:10; 赛 43:1; 参:《耶利米书》7:30中的“殿”)。呼召提名以色列与拣选以色列之间存在着密切的联系(赛 45:4)。因此,呼召指明了圣约关系,以色列藉着这约而得救赎,被赋予了为神作见证的使命,从而在求告神时,享有预先得到垂听和应允的特权(赛 65:24)。

II. 在《新约》中的含义。这个词在《旧约》中的所有含义也在《新约》中出现过。《使徒行传》4:18 中有一个提名呼召的例子;另参:《使徒行传》24:2 和《马太福音》22:3 中“召人来赴席”。《使徒行传》2:21 和《罗马书》10:13 中都引用了约珥的话,提到了求告耶和華的名。值得注意的是,《新约》里对神的求告可能是呼求主耶稣(参:徒 7:59; 22:16)。为婴儿起名具有特殊的意义(太 1:21; 路 1:60; 2:21); 耶稣的名显然意味着侍奉神。耶稣可能以呼召的方式选定门徒:当耶稣看见雅各和约翰的时候,“耶稣随即招呼他们”(可 1:20)。最后,基督的子民就是那些蒙召之人和那些在基督里得名的人,因此,彼得说若为基督的名或作基督徒受苦,不要羞耻(彼前 4:14, 16)。但如果不遵从主耶稣的话行,只是称呼祂为主,那将是毫无用处的(路 6:46)。另外,耶稣本不是召义人,乃是召罪人(太 9:13)。

(Lk. 6:46). On the other hand it is sinners, not the righteous, whom Jesus came to call (Mt. 9:13).

The noun “calling” takes on added significance in the NT, especially in the Pauline writings. It becomes almost a technical term for what has happened to those who through the Father’s love are now called the children of God in Christ (1 Jn. 3:1). The christological reference has plainly given the term new force and depth, making possible the wealth and comprehensiveness with which the term is now employed.

One result is that the goal of calling now finds more specific definition. We are called to salvation, holiness, and faith (2 Thess. 2:13f.), to the kingdom and glory of God (1 Thess. 2:12), to an eternal inheritance (He. 9:15), finally to fellowship (1 Cor. 1:9), and to service (cf. Gal. 1).

The means of calling also is clearly stated. Calling is through grace (Gal. 1:15) and comes through the hearing of the gospel (2 Thess. 2:14; cf. 1 Thess. 1:4f.; Rom. 10:14ff.). Since God, or Christ, is the author of the call, one might also refer to the Holy Spirit as the mediator of calling through the gospel (cf. 1 Thess. 1:5).

The ground of calling is specifically established in 2 Tim. 1:9. Not works but the purpose and grace of God in Christ Jesus form the starting point for the divine calling.

The nature of God’s calling is described as well. Along with God’s gifts, it will not be revoked (Rom. 11:29). It is a high or

名词“calling”在《新约》中（尤其在保罗的作品中）具有更多的意义。这个词几乎变成了一个术语，用于指那些因天父的慈爱在基督里得称为神的儿女的人所经历的事（约壹 3:1）。基督论的引用显然赋予了这个词新的力量和深刻的含义，从而可能使这个词在现今有了丰富而又全面的含义。

因此，恩召的“目标”现在拥有了更为具体的含义。我们因蒙召，“被圣灵感动，成为圣洁，能以得救”（帖后 2:13-14），进入神的国，得祂的荣耀（帖前 2:12），得着永远的产业（来 9:15），最后与主耶稣一同得分（林前 1:9），侍奉神（参：加 1）。

经文中也阐明了恩召的“途径”。神施恩召世人（加 1:15），藉所传的福音召世人（帖后 2:14；参：帖前 1:4-5；罗 10:14 起）。因为恩召由神或基督发出，人们也可以认为，圣灵藉所传的福音，成为了恩召的中保（参：帖前 1:5）。

《提摩太后书》1:9 中明确地指出了恩召的“依据”。神的呼召，不是按人的行为，乃是按祂的旨意和恩典；这恩典是在万古之先在基督耶稣里赐给我们的。

《新约》中还描述了恩召的“本质”。和神的恩赐一样，祂的恩召也不会被撤回（罗 11:29）。恩召是崇高的或向上的 upward calling (Phil. 3:14), heavenly (He. 3:1) and holy (2 Tim. 1:9), associated with hope (Eph. 4:4). Believers are exhorted to lead lives that are worthy of their calling (Eph. 4:1; cf. 2 Thess. 1:11). If not all the called are chosen, the link with election holds fast. The chosen of 2 Thess. 2:13 are the called of v. 14. Believers are exhorted to confirm their calling and election (2 Pet. 1:10). The “called and chosen and faithful” are with the Lamb in Rev. 17:14. Those whom God predestined He called, and those whom He called He justified and glorified (Rom. 8:30).

Some commentators (cf. Lietzmann) have found a distinctive use of “calling” in 1 Cor. 7:17ff, and a few even in 1 Cor. 1:26, referring the term to the state or occupation of believers, or to their condition of insignificance. This has been hotly contested, e.g., by K. L. Schmidt in TDNT, III, 491ff. Here as always Paul seems to be speaking of the calling to salvation and faith. This has come to people who are of little account socially (1 Cor. 1:26ff.), and it has come to them in given circumstances (slavery, marriage, circumcision, etc.) which do not have to be changed as a condition or consequence of the calling (1 Cor. 7). No basis exists in these passages for the equation of calling with status or with that which is now often designated by the term “vocation.”

III. The Church.-In Christian history calling has been worked out more specifically in the two areas of calling to salvation and calling to sanctification and service. Calling to salvation, which is also calling into the divine community, is accomplished by the Holy Spirit through the administration of the word and sacraments. Within this generally accepted understanding a debate has arisen due to the fact that not all who are called are observed to be chosen. Perhaps the most common view here is that calling carries with it the possibility of response, which in some cases may be negative. In Reformed theology, as represented, e.g., by Calvin or the Westminster Confession, a different interpretation is espoused. The equation of calling and election is here upheld by a distinction between general calling, which applies to all who hear the gospel, and effectual calling, by which the God who calls, or the Holy Spirit, infallibly brings to faith those whom He has chosen. Either way salvation is by divine calling and by the ensuing human calling on the name of the Lord.

(腓 3:14), 天上的 (来 3:1), 圣洁的 (提后 1:9), 并且是有指望的 (弗 4:4)。《以弗所书》4:1 中劝诫信徒, “既然蒙召, 行事为人就当与蒙召的恩相称” (参: 帖后 1:11)。即便不是所有蒙召的人都会被拣选, 至少蒙召与拣选之间存在密切的联系。《帖撒罗尼迦后书》2:13 中的蒙拣选之人就是《帖撒罗尼迦后书》2:14 中的蒙召之人。《彼得后书》1:10 中劝勉信徒要殷勤, 使他们所蒙的恩召和拣选坚定不移。《启示录》17:14 中提到“同着羔羊的, 就是蒙召、被选、有忠心的”。“预先所定下的人又召他们来, 所召来的人又称他们为义, 所称为义的人又叫他们得荣耀” (罗 8:30)。

有些注释者 (参: Lietzmann) 在《哥林多前书》7:17 起发现了 “calling” (“呼召”) 的一个独特用法, 有些人甚至在《哥林多前书》1:26 中也发现了这种独特用法, 在这些经文中, 这个词用来表示信徒的生存状态、职业或是卑微的身份。这个问题存在着极大的争议, 例如, 施密特 (K. L. Schmidt, TDNT, III, 491 起) 认为, 保罗在这里所说的呼召, 似乎和往常一样, 还是指救恩的呼召。而当社会地位不太高的人蒙神的召唤 (林前 1:26 起) 时, 各人蒙召的时候是什么身份 (奴隶身份、婚姻状况以及是否受过割礼等状况), 仍要守住这身份 (林前 7)。这些经文都不能证明蒙召等同于社会地位或现在通常所说的 “职业”。

III. 教会。在教会的历史中, 恩召在蒙召得救赎和蒙召成圣与侍奉这两个领域内发挥出更为具体的作用。蒙召得救赎, 也就是蒙召进入神的国, 是在圣灵的指引下, 通过遵从神之道并奉行圣礼得以实现的。这个被普遍接受的观点中

The call to service or sanctification has often been regarded as an additional call to believers either to dedicate themselves to Christian discipleship or to engage in a particular form of ministry. Sacralizing and institutionalizing tendencies have given rise to problems in this area. On the one hand we find a clericalism which insists that only ordained persons are truly called to service. On the other hand the call to dedication has been identified with a monastic vocation. Thus a false distinction between clergy and laity or religious and secular has resulted. Luther demolished these distinctions with his apparently revolutionary teaching that any sphere of work may be calling in which Christians glorify God, live dedicated lives, and engage in ministry. Unfortunately, the implied equation of calling with occupation had unforeseen consequences. In a rigidly structured society it fostered the reactionary idea that people should stay in divinely ordered stations in life. In a looser societal order it led to a secularizing of the concept of calling which has all but emptied it of its true sense.

Perhaps the underlying problem in the historical outworking has been the tendency to separate what God has joined together. It seems to have been assumed too easily that there are two callings, a first to salvation and then another (or two others) to service and sanctification. Exegetical and dogmatic theology, however, have combined to bring the biblical nature of this distinction under suspicion. Thus K. L. Schmidt insists that in the NT there is just the one calling, namely, to be a Christian; and Karl Barth argues in CD, IV/3, that the callings in Scripture are never to salvation alone to the exclusion of sanctification and service. Certainly there may be calls to special forms of service, as one might see in the sending out of Paul and Barnabas on their first missionary journey. Nevertheless, ministry and dedication form no less an integral part of calling than does salvation. All believers are called to be God's children, disciples, and servants, whether in the state of life in which the calling comes or in new possibilities which God opens up for them. The calling itself does not change, only the form or sphere in which it is exercised.

Bibliography.—CD, III/4; IV/3; K. Holl, Gesammelte Aufsätze, III (1928); TDNT, III, s.v. καλέω χτλ. (Schmidt).

kə-lis'thə-nēz [Gk. Kallisthenēs]. An officer of Nicanor who was charged with the burning of the sacred portals of the temple at the time of the desecration under Antiochus Epiphanes (168 B.C.). After the decisive defeat of Nicanor's army at Emmaus (165 B.C.) the Jews celebrated the victory in the city of their fathers and burned Callisthenes, who had fled into a little house with others who had set the sacred gates on fire; "so these received the proper recompense for their impiety" (2 Macc. 8:33).

kal'ne [Heb. kalneh, kalnê; Akk. kullanî, kulnia?; Gk. Chalannē]; CALNO kal'no [Heb. kalnô] (Isa. 10:9). In the AV the name of the fourth city founded by Nimrod in the land of Shinar (Gen. 10:10), the three preceding ones being Babel, Erech, and Akkad; and in all English versions, a city mentioned in Am. 6:2 and Isa. 10:9. Because no city named Calneh is known from ancient Babylonia, it has been proposed that the Heb. klnh of Gen. 10:10 should be pointed to read kullānā or "all of them," as in Gen. 42:36, a reading adopted by the RSV and NEB. This would then serve as a comprehensive designation of the cities in the plain of Shinar, which also included Ur and Nippur.

The Babylonian Talmud identified Calneh with Nippur, probably because of the antiquity of the site, which went back to ca. 4000 B.C. While Nippur was the undisputed cultural and religious center of Sumeria from the early 3rd millennium B.C. to the time of Hammurabi, it did not exercise political power and was never

CALLISTHENES 考尔利森

音译: kə-lis'thə-nēz 【希腊语: Kallisthenēs】。尼迦挪的一位指挥官,他被指控在安提阿古·伊皮法尼褻渎神的时候烧毁了圣殿的大门(公元前168年)。当尼迦挪在以马忤斯一败涂地之时(公元前165年),犹太人在祖先的城里庆祝胜利,烧死了考尔利森,他和那些曾烧毁圣殿大门的家伙曾躲在一所小房子里藏身;“他干尽坏事,得到了应有的惩罚”(马二8:33)。

CALNEH 甲尼

音译: kal'ne 【希伯来语: kalneh, kalnê; 阿卡德语: kullanî, kulnia (不确定); 希腊语: Chalannē】; CALNO (“迦勒挪”) 音译: kal'no 【希伯来语: kalnô】 (赛10:9)。在《钦定版圣经》中,甲尼是宁录在示拿地建造的第四座城市(创10:10),前三座城市是巴别、以力和亚甲;在所有的圣经英译本中,甲尼是《阿摩司书》6:2和《以赛亚书》10:9中提到的一座城市。因为古巴比伦没有叫甲尼的城市,所以有些人提出,应该将《创世记》10:10中希伯来语 klnh 理解成 kullānā 或是像《创世记》42:36那样理解为“all of them” (“这些事”),《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》就采用了这种译法。这样一来,这个词就用来泛指示拿地的城市,包括吾珥和尼普尔。

《巴比伦他勒目》中将甲尼等同于尼普尔,可能因为它是一个可以追溯至约公元前4000年的古代遗址。虽然从公元前3000年初期起到汉谟拉比时期,尼普尔毫无疑问始终是苏美尔人的文化和宗教中心,但它不具有政治权力,从来都不是苏美尔王朝的统治中心。在汉谟拉比执政时期,文化中心从尼普尔转

the seat of a Sumerian dynasty. In the reign of Hammurabi, Nippur yielded its cultural supremacy to Babylon but still continued as an important city down to the time of the Parthians. However, there is insufficient evidence for identifying it with Calneh, and it must be concluded that to the present the site of Calneh remains unidentified.

Some scholars locate the land of Shinar in northern Mesopotamia, and on this basis would identify Calneh with the Akkadian town named Kullanî, which was mentioned in tribute lists from Assyrian sources. Kullanî was apparently associated politically with Arpad, a city first captured by the Assyrians in 754 B.C. in their attempts to control the trading route to Hamath and Damascus. Arpad, the modern Tell Erfâd, was located about 20 mi. (32 km.) NW of Aleppo, while Kullanî has been identified with the modern Kullanköy, some 12 mi. (19 km.) SE of ancient Arpad. In Am. 6:2 Calneh was mentioned in association with Hamath and Gath, which suggests a northerly location for Calneh. If this is so, the discrepancy between the location in the plain of Shinar (if indeed the Hebrew actually refers to a city) and that contemplated by Amos may be because the Calneh known to the prophet was a northern commercial colony which derived its name from the mother city to the southwest. This practice was as familiar in antiquity as in more modern times.

If CANNEH of Ezk. 27:23 is an assimilated form of this Calneh, then its location between Haran and Eden upholds the tradition of Amos. Isaiah also mentions Calneh under the designation

移到了巴比伦，但是，直到帕提亚人统治时期，尼普尔始终是一座重要的城市。然而，证据不足以证明尼普尔就是甲尼，因此目前得出的结论是甲尼的现址仍然不确定。

有些学者认为示拿地处于美索不达米亚的北部，据此判断，甲尼可能是一座名为谷拉尼（Kullanî）的阿卡德城邑，亚述文献的纳贡城邑名单中提到了这座城邑。谷拉尼显然与亚珥拔存在着政治联系，亚述曾于公元前 754 年在试图控制哈马至大马士革之间的商路时，首次攻占了亚珥拔。亚珥拔，也就是现代的俄法特（Tell Erfâd）约位于阿勒坡西北 20 英里（32 公里）处，谷拉尼被认为是现代的谷拉科依（Kullanköy），约位于古代亚珥拔东南 12 英里（19 公里）处。《阿摩司书》6:2 中提到了甲尼，同时还提到了哈马和迦特，这表明甲尼在北边。如果情况真是如此，甲尼在示拿地的位置（如果这个希伯来语真的指的是这座城市）与阿摩司所估计的不符，但这可能是因为这位先知所了解的甲尼是一个北方的商业据点，它的名字源于它西南方的母城。这种情况在古代和近代都很常见。

如果《以西结书》27:23 中的干尼一词（见 CANNEH[干尼]）是甲尼的变形，那么甲尼位于哈兰与伊甸之间的地点与《阿摩司书》相符。以赛亚也提到了甲尼，他称之为迦勒挪，并认为它很像迦

Calno, associating it with Carchemish (Isa. 10:9). This would seem to support a northern location also, pointing in the general direction of Aleppo. However, the LXX translators of Am. 6:2 rendered Calneh by Gk. pántes, “all,” reflecting the Hebrew text of Gen. 42:36; 1 K. 7:37, and casting doubt on the identity of Calneh as a city.

kam-bī'sēz. The second in the line of Achaemenid kings of Persia, and eldest son of Cyrus II the Great by Cassandane daughter of Pharnaspes, an Achaemenid Persian. Technically he is known as Cambyses II to distinguish him from his paternal grandfather, who was king of Anshan. He is mentioned in both the Nabonidus Chronicle and the Cyrus Cylinder as “son of Cyrus” in Babylon shortly after the conquest of the city of Cyrus in October, 539 B.C. (cf. ANET, pp. 306, 316).

He was formerly thought to be the “Ahasuerus” of Ezr. 4:6, but the latter is now identified as Xerxes (vv. 6–23 constituting a parenthetical history of opposition to the Jews down to Ezra's time). Thus, Cambyses does not appear in

CAMBYSES 冈比西斯

音译: kam-bī'sēz。波斯帝国阿垦米尼王朝的第二任君王, 居鲁士二世 (《圣经》中的居鲁士) 的长子, 阿契美尼德王朝波斯人帕尔那斯佩斯的女儿卡桑达涅是他的母亲。从严格的意义上讲, 为了将他与其祖父安珊王区别开来, 他通常被称为冈比西斯二世。巴比伦的拿波尼度年代志和居鲁士圆柱记载了居鲁士在公元前 539 年 10 月征服巴比伦, 随后很快提到了冈比西斯, 称他为“居鲁士之子” (参: ANET, 306 页, 316 页)。

冈比西斯之前被认为是《以斯拉记》4:6 中的“亚哈随鲁”, 亚哈随鲁现在被认为是薛西斯 (《以斯拉记》4:6-23 补充了以斯拉时期反对犹太人重建的历史)。因此, 除了《但以理书》11:2 中的暗示, 《旧约》中没有提到过冈比西

the OT except by implication in Dnl. 11:2, where he must be the first of three kings that followed Cyrus.

After turning the administration of Babylonia over to Gubaru his governor (see DARIUS 1), Cyrus departed for Ecbatana toward the end of his accession year, leaving his son Cambyses as his personal representative to carry on the ritual prescribed for the king at the New Year Festival of 4 Nisan (Mar. 27), 538 B.C. In this way, Cyrus was able to receive by proxy the approval of the Babylonian god Marduk, and was able to prefix the title “king of Babylon” to his former title, “king of the lands” (cf. A. T. Olmstead, History of the Persian Empire [1948], p. 86).

Cambyses, however, was not permitted to use the title “king of Babylon” while Cyrus was in power. Instead, he was known simply as “the king’s son.” Furthermore, he did not stay in Babylon, but moved 40 mi. (60 km.) N to Sippar, where he carried on the routine duties of a crown prince. Only at New Year festivals did he appear in Babylon, and then only to act as his father’s representative. The real ruler of “Babylon and the Region Beyond the River” during these years was Gubaru. Not until eight years after the fall of Babylon, when Cyrus left for his final (and fatal) campaign against nomadic peoples beyond the Jaxartes River on the far northeast frontier, was Cambyses permitted to use the formal title “king of Babylon” at the New Year Festival of Mar. 26, 530 B.C., while Cyrus retained the broader title “king of lands” (cf. W. H. Dubberstein, AJSL, 55 [1938], 417–19). In the autumn of the same year news reached Babylonia that Cyrus had died on the field of battle. Cambyses was now the sole ruler of the great Persian empire.

斯这个人, 在《但以理书》11:2中, 冈比西斯一定是在居鲁士之后兴起的三位王中的第一位王。

居鲁士把巴比伦的统治权交给总督古巴鲁之后(见 DARIUS 1[大流士 1]), 他在执政末期前往埃克巴坦那, 并让他的儿子代表他参加公元前 538 年尼散月 4 日(3 月 27 日)为国王准备的新年庆祝仪式。因此, 他可以通过代理得到巴比伦玛尔杜克神的认可, 并可以在他的昔日头衔“诸国之王”之前增加一个头衔, 即“巴比伦王”(参: A. T. Olmstead, History of the Persian Empire [1948], 86 页)。

然而, 居鲁士在位时期, 他不允许冈比西斯使用“巴比伦王”这个头衔。因此, 冈比西斯仅仅被称为“王的儿子”。此外, 冈比西斯不住在巴比伦, 而是移居至西巴尔以北 40 英里(60 公里)的地方, 他在那里履行王储的日常职责。他只在新年这一天出现在巴比伦, 仅仅作为他父亲的代表。在这一时期“巴比伦和河西地区”的真正统治者是古巴鲁。直至巴比伦陷落八年后, 当居鲁士最后一次远征偏居东北边境贾克撒特斯河对岸的游牧民族时(此次远征他一败涂地), 他才允许冈比西斯在公元前 530 年 3 月 26 日的新年庆祝仪式上正式使用“巴比伦王”这个头衔, 而他自己仍然保留“诸国之王”这个含义更为宽泛的头衔(参: W. H. Dubberstein, AJSL, 55 [1938], 417–419)。同年秋天, 居鲁士死于战场的消息传到了巴比伦。冈比西斯此时成为了波斯帝国的唯一统治者。

After securing his position on the throne by having his brother Smerdis (or Bardiya) murdered, Cambyses completed preparations for the long-awaited invasion of Egypt, which began in 525 B.C. The pharaoh, Amasis, had long attempted to curb the growth of the Persian empire by alliances with Croesus of Lydia, Nabonidus of Babylon, and finally with the tyrant of Samos. The commander of his Greek mercenaries betrayed his defense plans to the Persians, and six months after his death the Egyptian armies under Psamtik III were totally defeated at the Battle of Pelusium in the eastern delta (525 B.C.). Cambyses took the throne as the first king of the 27th Dynasty, and organized the land as a satrapy of the Persian empire. However, his efforts to conquer Carthage, Ethiopia, and the Oasis of Ammon in the Egyptian desert failed.

To gain favor with his new subjects, Cambyses took the Egyptian royal name and titulary, wore the royal costume, and antedated his rule in Egypt to the very beginning of his rule in Persia (cf. K. M. T. Atkinson, JAOS, 76 [1956], 167–177). He even prostrated himself before the goddess Neit and protected her temple at Sais from desecration by Greek mercenaries (Olmstead, p. 91). However, he considerably reduced the offerings of animals to other temples, and thus incurred the reputation of a destroyer of temples, which is reflected in the Jewish Elephantine papyri of the following century. “Now our forefathers built this temple in the fortress of Elephantine back in the days of the kingdom of Egypt, and when Cambyses came to Egypt he found it built. They knocked down all the temples of the gods of Egypt, but no one did any damage to this temple” (ANET, p. 492).

冈比西斯为了确保顺利继承王位而谋杀了他的兄弟司美尔迪斯（巴尔迪亚），为了入侵埃及，他筹谋已久，此时终于做好了准备，并于公元前 525 年入侵埃及。法老阿玛西斯长久以来都在试图遏制波斯帝国的发展，他先与吕底亚的克里萨斯王、巴比伦的拿波尼度结盟，最后与萨摩斯暴君结盟。阿玛西斯的希腊雇佣兵统领把他的防御计划透露给了波斯人，在他死后 6 个月，普萨姆提克三世统领下的埃及军队在三角洲东部的培琉喜阿姆战役中被波斯人彻底打败（公元前 525 年）。冈比西斯成为埃及第 27 王朝的首位国王，并使埃及成为波斯帝国的一个总督辖地。但他征服迦太基、埃塞俄比亚和埃及沙漠中亚扛绿洲的尝试都失败了。

为了获得新臣民的支持，冈比西斯接受了埃及王室的名字和头衔，穿上王室的服饰，他对埃及的统治远早于他对波斯的统治（参：K. M. T. Atkinson, JAOS, 76 [1956], 167–177）。他甚至跪拜埃及女神奈特，并保护位于塞斯的奈特神庙，以免波斯雇佣兵亵渎了这位女神（Olmstead, 91 页）。不过，他还极大地减少了其他神庙的燔祭，因此招来了破坏神庙的骂名，下一个世纪象岛的犹太蒲草纸文献中记录了这些事。“在埃及王国时期，我们的祖先在象岛的堡垒内部建造了这座神庙，当冈比西斯抵达埃及时，他发现这座神庙已经建成了。波斯人摧毁了埃及其他所有的神庙，但这座神庙却幸免于难”（ANET, 492 页）。

On his way back to Babylon in 522, Cambyses received news that one Gaumata (who claimed to be his murdered brother Smerdis) had usurped the throne and had been widely accepted in eastern provinces. He died near Mt. Carmel in Palestine, possibly by suicide, leaving no heirs. Darius Hystaspes, a Persian officer of a collateral royal line, succeeded in killing the pseudo-Smerdis within a few months, and consolidated the empire. The reign of Cambyses (530–522) fell within the period of gentile opposition to the building of the second temple (Ezr. 4:5; Hag. 1:4).

CAMEL 骆驼

【希伯来语：gāmāl】；《钦定版圣经》还译为 DROMEDARY（耶 2:23）；《新英文译本》还译为 SHE-CAMEL（耶 2:23）；【beḱer】（“小骆驼”，赛 60:6）；《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》译为 DROMEDARIES，以上英语汉译均为“独峰驼”；【希腊语：kāmēlos】。骆驼可以分为两种，第一种骆驼是阿拉伯骆驼，也就是独峰驼或单峰驼，拉丁学名 Camelus dromedarius，第二种骆驼是巴克特里亚骆驼，也就是双峰驼，拉丁学名 Camelus bactrianus。双峰驼生活在中亚气候温和和寒冷的地区，《以赛亚书》21:7 和《犹滴传》2:17 中所提到的骆驼可能就是双峰驼。 great claws. The toes are not completely separated and the main part of the foot applied to the ground is a large pad that underlies the proximal joints of the digits. It may be that this incomplete separation of the two toes is a sufficient explanation of the two words “do not part the hoof” in Lev. 11:4 and Dt. 14:7. Otherwise these words present a difficulty, because the hoofs are completely separated though the toes are not. The camel is a ruminant and chews the cud like a sheep or ox, but the stomach possesses only three compartments instead of four, as in other ruminants. The first two compartments contain in their walls small pouches, each of which can be closed by a sphincter muscle. The fluid retained in these pouches may account in part for the power of the camel to go for a relatively long time without drinking.

阿拉伯骆驼的蹄子不具有蹄类动物的典型特征，却很像两个大爪子。它的蹄

The Arabic camel furnishes hair for spinning and weaving, milk, flesh, and leather, as well as being an invaluable means of transportation in the arid desert. There are many Arabic names for the camel, the commonest of which is jamal (in Egypt gamal), the root being common to Arabic, Hebrew, and other Semitic languages. From it the names in Latin, Greek, English, and various European languages are derived. There are various breeds of camels, as there are of horses. The riding camels or dromedaries, commonly called hajîn, can go, even at a walk, much faster than the pack camels. Usually the males are used for carrying burdens, the females being kept with the herds. Camels are used to a surprising extent on the rough roads of the mountains, and one finds in the possession of fellahin in the mountains and on the littoral plain larger and

并不是完全分瓣的，与地面接触的蹄子中间部分是一个很大的蹄掌，蹄掌位于邻近蹄尖关节的下面。或许，骆驼并不完全分开的两个脚趾尖足以解释《利未记》11:4 和《申命记》14:7 中“不分蹄”这个词。否则就很难解释这个词，因为骆驼的蹄子是完全分开的，但脚趾却不是完全分开的。骆驼与羊或牛一样，属于反刍倒嚼类动物，但骆驼的胃仅仅分成三个隔室，而不是像其他反刍动物那样分为四个隔室。前两个隔室的周围分生出一些小水囊，这些水囊开口处均有括约肌闭锁住与胃的通路。储存在水囊中的水在一定程度上解释了为什么骆驼可以在相当长的时间里不喝水。

阿拉伯骆驼的毛发可以用来纺纱和编织，它们的奶、肉和皮都有大用处，骆驼还是干旱沙漠中的重要运输工具。骆驼有很多阿拉伯语名字，最常用的阿拉伯语名是 jamal（埃及语为：gamal），jamal 这个词根在阿拉伯语、希伯来语和其他闪米特语中很常见。拉丁语、希腊语、英语和各种欧洲语言中的骆驼名都源于这个词根。马的品种很多，同样骆驼也有很多品种。可以骑的骆驼或单峰驼通常被称为 hajîn，它们要比驮东西的骆驼快得多，即使行走也比后者快很多。雄性骆驼通常用来驮运货物，雌性骆驼是圈养的牲畜。骆驼在崎岖山路上的用途非常广，住在阿拉伯或埃及山区和沿海平原的农夫用来驮运货物的骆驼通常比贝多因人的骆驼体型大，且更强壮。

Bedouin camel, invaluable for transportation and various domestic uses. The camel was domesticated by at least the 3rd millennium B.C. (W. S. LaSor)

Camels were apparently not much used by the Israelites after the time of the patriarchs. They were taken as spoil of war from the Amalekites and other tribes, but almost the only reference to their use by the later Israelites was when David was made king over all Israel at Hebron, at which time camels are mentioned among the animals used for bringing food for the celebration (1 Ch. 12:40). David had a herd of camels, but the herdsman was Obil, an Ishmaelite (1 Ch. 27:30). Nearly all other Biblical references to camels are to those possessed by Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, Ishmaelites, Amalekites, Midianites, Hagrites, and the “people of the East” (see EAST, PEOPLE OF THE).

It is no longer necessary to regard the mention of camels in the patriarchal narratives as anachronisms, since there is ample archeological evidence for the domestication of the camel before the time of the patriarchs. Camel bones from the pre-Sargonid era (ca. 2400 B.C.) were excavated at Mari by Parrot, while similar remains at least a millennium older have been recovered from sites on the island of Bahrein. Camel bones dating back to the 3rd millennium B.C. have also been recovered from India and southeastern Persia, while a relief from Byblos in Phoenicia, dated in the 18th cent. B.C., depicts a camel in a kneeling position. Cylinder seals from northern Mesopotamia dating from the Middle Bronze Age show riders seated upon camels, indicating that the camel was by then a well-attested feature of Near Eastern domestic life.

上图为贝多因人的骆驼，它们是很重要的运输工具，也有很多家庭用途。这种骆驼至少是公元前 3000 年被驯养的动物。(W. S. LaSor)

在族长时期之后，以色列人显然不太使用骆驼这种动物。亚玛力人和其他宗族将骆驼当作战利品，献给以色列人，但是后期的以色列人唯一一次提及骆驼的用途是大卫在希伯仑作以色列王的时候，以色列人用骆驼驮来庆祝会上的食物（代上 12:40）。大卫有一群骆驼，但是掌管驼群的人是以实玛利人阿比勒（代上 27:30）。几乎《圣经》中提到的其他所有骆驼都归亚伯拉罕、以撒、雅各、以实玛利人、亚玛力人、米甸人、夏甲人和“东方人”所有（见 EAST, PEOPLE OF THE[东方人]）。

不必再认为族长时代提及骆驼是年代错误，因为充足的考古证据证明，驯养骆驼在族长时期之前就已经出现。派诺

CAMEL'S HAIR

[Gk. triches kamēlou]. Hair from the back and hump of the camel was woven into a harsh material, and a softer cloth was produced from the finer hair taken from underneath the animal. The natural variations in the color of the hair could be woven into a pattern.

The garment worn by John the Baptist in his austere life in the desert was of camel's hair (Mt. 3:4; Mk. 1:6). Opinion varies about the exact nature of the garment. Alford (Alf) suggests that it was of woven material on the ground that the skin itself would be too heavy. Others incline to the view that it was of skin, suggesting that the more expensive woven material would not be consistent with John's austerity (ISBE [1929]). It may be that the cloak worn by Elijah,

CAMEL'S HAIR 骆驼毛

【希腊语: triches kamēlou】。从骆驼背部和驼峰处取下的毛可以织成粗糙的绒布, 从骆驼腹部取下的毛可以织成更为柔软的布料。骆驼毛有多种天然色, 因此可以织出图案。

施洗约翰在旷野中过简朴的生活时, 他穿着骆驼毛的衣服 (太 3:4; 可 1:6)。对于这件衣服的确切材质, 人们持有不同的观点。奥尔福德 (阿尔夫) 认为, 这件衣服是用骆驼毛织成的, 因为骆驼皮太重了, 不适合做成衣服。其他人倾向于认为, 这是一件用骆驼皮制成的衣服, 因为驼绒更昂贵, 不符合约翰朴素的生活方式 (ISBE [1929])。约翰的先驱以利亚所穿的毛衣可能是用与骆驼毛 (或骆驼皮, BDB) 类似的材料或羊毛织成的, 以利亚因此被称为“穿毛衣

John's forerunner, which earned for him the description of "a hairy man" (Heb. ba'al sé'ār, 2 K. 1:8), was similarly of camel's hair (or skin, BDB), or else of goat's hair.

The hairy garment (Heb. 'adderet sé'ār, Zec. 13:4) seems to have been a distinguishing mark of a prophet. By wearing such a garment John may have indicated that he, too, was a prophet. Alternatively, G. M. Mackie (HDB) suggests that he was wearing merely the common and therefore inconspicuous dress of the desert folk.

equivalent meaning but is sometimes used figuratively. In He. 13:11–13 the author writes that as the bodies of animals sacrificed for sin were burned outside the camp, so also “Jesus suffered outside the gate in order to sanctify the people through his own blood,” and adds the appeal: “Therefore let us go forth to him outside the camp, bearing abuse for him.” In v. 11 the reference is clearly to the Day of Atonement, when sacrificed animals were carried outside of the Israelite camp and burned. In v. 13, however, “camp” refers figuratively to the community and ordinances of Judaism, which Jesus’ followers are exhorted to leave in order to follow Him.

以表示这个含义，但有时也使用这个词的比喻义。《希伯来书》的作者 在 13:11–13 中写道，作赎罪祭的牲畜的身子被烧在营外，“所以耶稣要用自己的血叫百姓成圣，也就在城门外受苦”，并补充道：“这样，我们也当出到营外，就了他去，忍受他所受的凌辱”。《希伯来书》13:11 中显然是关于赎罪日的，在这一天，献祭的牲畜要被带到营外烧掉。不过，《希伯来书》13:13 中的“营”用来比喻会众和犹太教的条例，作者劝勉耶稣的信徒抛弃它们，从而追随耶稣。

In Rev. 20:9 the term parembolē is used of “the camp of the saints,” possibly an allusion to the Israelite march through the wilderness, denoting here the body of Christian martyrs.

在《启示录》20:9 中，parembolē 一词用来表示“圣徒的营”，可能暗指以色列人穿过旷野这件事，这里指基督教殉道者的身体。

kā'nə [Gk. Kana, prob. < Heb. qāneh-‘reed’]. A town in Galilee where Jesus performed His first recorded miracle, turning water into wine (Jn. 2:1–11). It was also where He did His “second sign,” the healing of the son of the official from Capernaum (4:46–54). It was the home of Nathanael (21:2). Some Greek MSS designate the disciple Simon (not Peter) as “the Cananite” (man from Cana) in Mt. 10:4; Mk. 3:18, although the preferred reading is Gk. kananaíos, “Cananean,” which comes from an Aramaic word meaning “enthusiast, zealot.” The Lukan parallel has zēlōtēs, “zealot” (6:15). In all four occurrences the full name, Cana in Galilee, is used, probably to distinguish it from other places of the same name.

Apart from the mention that Jesus “went down” from Cana to Capernaum (Jn. 2:12; cf. also 4:47) there is no direct evidence for the location of Cana. Several places have been suggested:

(1) Ecclesiastical tradition has favored Kefr Kennā, a town located some 4 mi. (6.5 km.) NE of Nazareth on the road to Tiberias. The Greek and Roman churches have properties there; the Greek church displays a stone jar said to have been used in the miracle. The traditional house of Nathanael is also pointed out. This site, however, appears to have been chosen because of its accessibility for pilgrims. The doubling of the middle “n” makes it highly improbable that kennā was derived from qānā (the probable Hebrew

CANA 迦拿

音译: kā'nə【希腊语: Kana, 可能源自希伯来语: qāneh——“芦荻”】。加利利的一座城邑, 根据《约翰福音》2:1–11 中的记载, 耶稣在这里行了第一件神迹, 变水为酒。同样是在这里, 祂行了“第二件神迹”, 在迦百农治好了大臣儿子的病 (约 4:46–54)。迦拿是拿但业的家 (约 21:2)。有些希腊语手稿将《马太福音》10:4 和《马可福音》3:18 中的“迦拿人” (来自于迦拿的人) 认定为耶稣的门徒西门 (而不是彼得), 但学者们更倾向于将西门解读为希腊语 kananaíos, 译为英文是 “Cananean” (奋锐党), 源自一个亚兰语词, 含义是 “狂热者、激进分子”。《路加福音》的平行经文中使用了 zēlōtēs 一词, 译作 “zealot” (奋锐党) (路 6:15)。迦拿的全称 “加利利的迦拿” 在《圣经》中出现了四次, 这种称谓可能是为了将它与其他同名的地点区别开。

除了耶稣从迦拿 “下” 迦百农去的描述 (约 2:12; 另参: 约 4:47), 没有任何直接证据可以证明迦拿的地理位置。关于迦拿的位置有如下几种说法:

(1) 教会传统上认为迦拿是拿撒勒东北约 4 英里 (6.5 公里) 的城邑克弗尔坎纳 (Kefr Kennā), 坐落在通向提比哩亚的道路上。希腊和罗马教会在那里拥有产业; 希腊教会展示了一个石缸, 据说耶稣行神迹时用到了这个石缸。同时还指出了传说中拿但业的家。然而, 人们之所以认为克弗尔坎纳就是迦拿, 似乎是因为朝圣者能够到达这里。 Kennā (“坎纳”) 这个词中间有两个 “n”, 所以这个词极不可能衍生自 qānā (可能是迦拿的希伯来语拼写形式)。这个地方也没有芦荻, 这也说明这个地方不是迦 spelling). That there are no reeds in the area is also against the identification. 拿。

(2) Conder suggested a spot near Nazareth, ‘Ain Qânā, located about 1.5 mi. (2.5 km.) from Nazareth along the road to Tabor (PEF, 1, p. 288). Apparently W. Sanday supported this identification (Sacred Sites of the Gospels [1903], p. 24 n.), but few others have followed the suggestion.

(2) 康德认为迦拿可能在拿撒勒附近，位于拿撒勒通往他泊的道路上约 1.5 英里(2.5 公里)处的艾因加纳(‘Ain Qânā)就是迦拿(PEF, 1, 288 页)。桑迪(W. Sanday)显然也支持这种观点(Sacred Sites of the Gospels [1903], 注释 24)，但是很少有其他人支持这种观点。

(3) The most probable site is Khirbet Qânā, an ancient ruin about 8 mi. (13 km.) NE of Nazareth. It lies on the northern edge of el-Battauf, the ancient plain of Asochis. Josephus seems to have been living here (Vita 41) when he wrote, “... my abode was in a village of Galilee, which is named Cana” (Vita 16). The full Arabic title for the site, Qânā el-Jelīl, is an exact equivalent of “Cana of Galilee,” although this designation may have been influenced by the Gospel story. The site overlooks a marshy plain where reeds are still very much in evidence, thus explaining the name Cana, “place of reeds.” The area has not yet been excavated but cisterns and the remains of buildings are visible. Nearby are tombs cut into the rocks. Some first-century coins are said to have been found on the site.

(3) 迦拿的最可能位置是加纳废墟(Khirbet Qânā)，这一古代废墟约位于拿撒勒东北 8 英里(13 公里)处。该地位于巴杜夫(古代的阿索奇斯平原)的北部边缘。当约瑟夫斯创作《生平自述》时，他可能住在这里(Vita 41)，他写道，“……我住在一个叫迦拿的加利利村庄里”(Vita 16)。这个阿拉伯语地名的全称是加纳耶利(Qânā el-Jelīl)，与“加利利的迦拿”的意思完全相同，但这个称谓可能受到了福音书中故事的影响。从该遗址可以俯瞰一片沼泽地，在这片沼泽地中仍然可以看到很多芦苇，这就是迦拿被称为“芦苇之地”的原因。这片区域尚未经过考古挖掘，但在这里可以看到水池和建筑的遗迹。附近岩石中有一些坟墓。据说在该遗址中发现了一些 1 世纪的钱币。

(4) Eusebius evidently identified Cana with Kanah in the tribe of Asher (Josh. 19:28), modern Qânah, a village 8 mi. (13 km.) SE of Tyre. Lying some 40 mi. (64 km.) N of Khirbet Qânā, this location of

(4) 优西比乌显然认为迦拿是亚设支派的加拿(书 19:28)，现代的卡那哈(Qânah)，推罗东南 8 英里(13 公里)的一个村庄。该地约位于加纳废墟以北 40 英里(64 公里)，不太可能是迦拿。

I. Name.-The origin and meaning of the name Canaan has yet to be satisfactorily explained. The etymon closest at hand is the Semitic kn' ("be humble, bow down"; Aram., Heb. only in derived stems). The ending -an is quite common in Semitic names, though it remains unexplained. However, attempts to derive the name on this basis (e.g., traditional "lowlands"; cf. also M. Astour's suggestion "West" in JNES, 24 [1965], 346-350) have been forced to postulate unattested extensions of the root's known meaning and must remain hypothetical.

CANAAN 迦南

音译: kā'nən CANAANITES ("迦南人")【希伯来语: kēna'an, kena^anî】。迦南是古代的一个地名,包括约旦河和叙利亚以西、黎威以南的那片土地(见下文 II.B)。“迦南人”指的是以色列占领迦南之前定居在这片土地上的居民和迦南文明的传承者;这个词还用来称呼商人。

I. 迦南这个名字。迦南这个名字的起源和意义都尚未得到圆满的解释。首先有一种可能是该词源自闪语词根 kn' ("谦卑,鞠躬"; 亚兰语和希伯来语的“迦南”仅仅是派生词根)。“迦南”词尾 -an 在闪米特语名字中很常见,但无法解释其中的原因。然而,如果想要据此探究这个词的词源(如,传统的“低地”;另参: M. Astour, "West", JNES, 24 [1965], 346-350)就不得不假设这个词根拥有更多在未经证实的含义,同时必须依赖于这种假设。

The once attractive derivation from a word for blue-colored cloth, kinahḫu, has been shown to be linguistically problematic. This word, found at Nuzi, probably represents a Hurrian version (*q[i]naḡḡu) of the culture-word found, among other languages, in Akkadian as uqnû and Greek as kyános (B. Landsberger, JCS, 21 [1967], 166f.). As such it has nothing to do with Canaan.

Besides the question of etymology, it would be helpful to know when and where the name originated, and whether it originally designated the land or the people. No answers to these questions are presently available, but a hint lies in an early documentation of the name in a Mari text of the Assyrian interregnum (G. Dossin, Syria, 50 [1973], 277–282). This text is a general's report on his activities in an unidentified area, possibly the Balikh Valley. He mentions a group of "thieves and Canaanites" (^{li}ḫa-ab-ba-tum u ^{li}ki-na-aḫ-nu) with which he is "eyeball to eyeball." In parallel with "thieves," "Canaanite" might well designate an occupational class—specifically, merchants. "Merchants and thieves" is not an unlikely collocation. The earliest Egyptian reference to Canaanites, in the Memphis stele of Amenhotep II (ANET, pp. 245–47), presents a similar picture. In a list of captives Canaanites are found between maryannu (nobility associated with chariot warfare) and the children of princes. These are only hints, but it may not be far from the truth that the use of the word "Canaanite" for a merchant class is older than its use for the land and its population (cf. B. Maisler [Mazar], BASOR, 102 [Apr. 1946] 7–12).

曾经多有学者“迦南”源自 kinahḫu 一词，这个词意为“蓝色的布料”，但从语言学上分析，这个来源经不起推敲。kinahḫu 在努斯的泥版中出现过，它可能代表在其他语言中意为“蓝色布料”的词（如阿卡德语的 uqnû 和希腊语的 kyános）的胡里安语形式 (*q[i]naḡḡu) (B. Landsberger, JCS, 21 [1967], 166-167)。如果是这样的话，这个词本身就与与“迦南”毫无关系了。

除了词源问题，弄清楚这个词最初指的是迦南地还是迦南人，以及这个词出现的时间和地点都是很有用的。目前还无法回答这些问题，但亚述过渡期马里文献中的一份早期姓名资料给出了一个线索 (G. Dossin, Syria, 50 [1973], 277–282)。这是一个将军对他在未知地区活动的报告，该未知地区可能是拜利赫河。他提到了一伙“盗贼和迦南人” (^{li}ḫa-ab-ba-tum u ^{li}ki-na-aḫ-nu)，这位将军曾与他们发生了“直接冲突”。“迦南人”与“盗贼”同时被提及，“迦南人”有可能指的是一个职业阶层——特别是商人。“商人和盗贼”很可能是一组搭配词。埃及语中首先提到迦南人，是在孟斐斯阿蒙霍特普二世的石碑上 (ANET, 245-247 页)，碑文中的描述与上文类似。碑文中列出了迦南俘虏的名单，他们的名字位于上层贵族战士（驾驶二轮战车的贵族）和王公子女之间。虽然这仅仅是一些线索，但可能与事实相差不远，也就是说用“Canaanite”表示商人的历史比用这个词表示迦南地和迦南人的历史更早（参：B. Maisler [Mazar], BASOR, 102 [1946年4月] 7–12）。

If this is true, then the later biblical use of k^ena^anî for “merchant” or “trader” may have very ancient roots (Job 41:6 [MT 40:30]; Prov. 31:24; Isa. 23:8; Zec. 14:21; cf. also 11:7, 11, reading [li]k^ena^aniyyê for MT [lā]kēn^aniyyê; similarly k^ena’an at Ezk. 16:29; 17:4; Hos. 12:7 [MT 8]; Zeph. 1:11). In any case, the name became identified with the people who were the merchants par excellence of the ancient world.

II. Land.-The name Canaan as a designation of the land was current, according to established records, only in the Late Bronze Age (ca. 1550–1200). By the time of the establishment of the monarchy in Israel it was clearly archaic and no longer corresponded to any political reality. Similarly, the use of the term for Phoenicia in Hellenistic texts was archaic, a nostalgic revival.

A. Extrabiblical Sources. A very early reference to the land of Canaan is found in an inscription of Idrimi king of Alalakh (15th cent.). He reports that during a period of exile, assuming the throne, he had gone to Ammia in the “land of Canaan” (ma-at ki-in-a-nim^{ki}). Ammia can be located near present-day Enfe, SW of Tripoli. Probably this is at or near the northern boundary of the land.

Ugarit was quite clearly not part of the land of Canaan in any period. An alphabetic cuneiform tablet (UT 311:7) lists a Canaanite (kn’ny) among other foreign merchants. An Akkadian text, unfortunately broken, describes the settlement of a dispute between some citizens of Ugarit and of Canaan (TUR.MEŠ KUR-ki-na-hi; in Ugaritica, 5 [1968], 112 [36:6, 8]).

如果事实如此，后来《圣经》中用来表示“商人”或“交易者”的词语 k^ena^anî 可能源自非常古老的词根（伯 41:6【《马所拉文本》40:30】；箴 31:24；赛 23:8；亚 14:21；另参：《撒迦利亚书》11:7 和 11 中译为 [li]k^ena^aniyyê，《马所拉文本》中译为 [lā]kēn^aniyyê；类似的词还有《以西结书》16:29，17:4 中的 k^ena’an，何 12:7【《马所拉文本》8】；番 1:11）。总之，这个名字后来等同于古代世界最杰出的商人。

II. 迦南地。根据确定的记载，迦南这个名字用于指迦南地时仅在青铜时代晚期通用（约公元前 1550–1200 年）。到以色列建立君主政体的时期，迦南显然变成了一个过时的词，不再对应任何政体。同样，希腊化时期的文献中用它来表示腓尼基也是一种过时用法和怀旧用法。

A. 经外文献中的迦南。亚拉拿王伊德米的铭文中很早就提到了迦南地（公元前 15 世纪）。他说，他在流亡期间登上了王位，并来到了“迦南地”的阿美亚（ma-at ki-in-a-nim^{ki}）。阿美亚可能位于今天恩弗（Enfe）附近，在的黎波里西南方。阿美亚可能位于迦南地的北部边境上或在北部边境附近。

很明显，乌加列在任何时期都不属于迦南地。字母楔形文字石碑上（UT 311:7）将迦南人与其他外邦人列举在一起。一份阿卡德语文献记载了一些乌加列居民与迦南居民之间纷争的解决，遗憾的是这份文献已经残缺不全（TUR.MEŠ KUR-ki-na-hi; Ugaritica, 5 [1968], 112 [36:6, 8]）。

The Amarna Tablets make the picture more precise. In the period represented (14th cent.) the Syro-Palestinian area was divided for Egyptian administration into three regions: the northern coastal region, including Byblos, with the administrative center at Šumur; the inland area from the upper Orontes south, including Damascus, with an administrative center at Kumidi; and the southern region excluding Transjordan, with its center at Gaza. To these three areas the names Amurru, Upe, and Canaan would seem to correspond (W. Helck, Mitteilungen der deutschen Orient-Gesellschaft, 92 [1960], 1–13); however, the evidence is not decisive. Although the king of Alašia (Cyprus) does on one occasion refer to a “province of Canaan,” the word may have had a more general reference to the land under Egyptian control. This is suggested by 109 where Rib-Addi includes Amurru in Canaan. Another text (Am. Tab. 151), in which the king of Tyre responds to the pharaoh’s question about Canaan by talking about the whole of upper Syria including Amurru, Danuna, Ugarit, and Kadesh, is clearly not germane to the question here. The king, who is in Canaan, is merely describing the events that impinge on his and the pharaoh’s interests.

The heartland of Canaan was the coastal area from Byblos to Carmel and the Jezreel Valley. A number of Amarna references to Canaan center in this area (Am. Tab. 8; 131; 137; 148; 367). Some scholars have argued that this narrower region is the original land of Canaan. That, however, goes beyond the evidence.

A most interesting Egyptian source is the

迦南的中心地带是从比布鲁斯至迦密的沿海地区和耶斯列谷。大量亚玛拿泥版中提到了迦南的中心地带（亚玛拿泥版 8; 131; 137; 148; 367）。有些学者认为这个比较狭窄的区域是最初的迦南地。但证据尚不能证明这一点。

satirical letter, Papyrus Anastasi I (ANET, pp. 475–79), which refers to the old military road from Sile to Gaza as the “end of the land of Canaan.” This fixes the southern boundary of Canaan in the area of Wādī el-‘Arīsh precisely as in the biblical lists. The reference to the town of Canaan (p-kn‘n) in the illustrated inscription of Seti I at Karnak (ANET, pp. 254f.) also is probably to Gaza, the first important city in Canaan.

Thus, the general picture that emerges from the scattered data is remarkably consistent. Canaan is a general name for the Asian holdings of Egypt. While in the earlier sources it may have been limited by Upe and Amurru, after the battle of Kadesh it becomes synonymous with Ḫurru, a general word for the area of Egyptian hegemony including Upe. (Amurru was by this time part of the Hittite area of influence.) The famous “Israel Stela” of Merneptah (ANET, pp. 376–78) uses these two terms to form an inclusion around several Palestinian place names (cf. Papyrus Anastasi IV, 16:4). At the end of the Late Bronze Age, therefore, Canaan includes all of Cisjordan from Wādī el-‘Arīsh in the south, the Mediterranean coast to the borders of Amurru in the north, and the inland area from Lebweh to Bashan.

B. Biblical Sources. The biblical descriptions of the land of Canaan correspond to the Late Bronze Age usage in a way that can be explained only by the existence of a list of the principal boundary points. The persistence of this tradition is quite remarkable in view of the fact that the territory of Israel never included the whole of Canaan.

它是埃及的阿纳斯塔西第一蒲草纸文献 (ANET, 475–479), 这份文献称从希莱至迦萨的古代军事道路为“迦南地的尽头”。这也就把迦南地的南部边界准确地定位在埃拉瑞西河地区, 这与《圣经》中的描述一致。卡纳克遗址中发现了塞提一世的带有插图的铭文 (ANET, 254-255 页), 铭文中提到的迦南地城邑 (p-kn‘n) 也有可能是迦南的第一座重要城市迦萨。

这些分散数据透露出的大致情况是非常一致的。迦南是埃及控制的亚细亚地区的统称。虽然早期文献中的迦南可能仅指乌派和阿姆茹, 但加低斯战争之后, 迦南变成了何鲁 (Ḫurru) 的同义词, 泛指埃及人霸占的地区, 包括乌派。(阿姆茹此时属于赫人的势力范围。) 著名的麦伦普塔赫“以色列石碑” (ANET, 376–378 页) 用这两个词表示巴勒斯坦的多个地名 (参: 阿纳斯塔西第四蒲草纸, 16:4)。因此, 在青铜时代晚期末, 南起埃拉瑞西河, 北至阿姆茹边界的地中海海岸, 与黎威到巴珊的内陆构成的整个外约旦地区, 是迦南的地域范围。

B. 《圣经》中的迦南。只有从《圣经》对迦南地界的一系列记载中可以看出《圣经》对迦南地域范围的描述与青铜时代晚期的一致。由于以色列的领地从未包括整个迦南, 所以这份留存下来的名单非常值得注意。

The two principal boundary lists are Nu. 34:1–12 and Ezk. 47:15–20; 48:1–28, supplemented at various points with other materials. These lists include several sites that cannot be identified with certainty. They differ somewhat in the number and names of the sites, but the boundary lines they describe are very similar.

The southern boundary is fixed, just as in Egyptian sources, by the Brook of Egypt (Wādī el-‘Arīsh) in the west. The course of this boundary toward the east is most completely described in Josh. 15:1–4, which traces it from the southeast corner of the Dead Sea (cf. Gen. 10:19), through the Scorpion pass (exact site unknown), the wilderness of Zin, the oasis of Kadesh, to the brook of Egypt. The Sinai is not part of Canaan.

The western boundary is the Mediterranean Sea up to the southern boundary of the state of Amurru (cf. Josh. 13:4).

The northern boundary is fixed principally by the “entrance of Hamath” (Heb. l̥bō’ h̄māt; see HAMATH), which is probably modern Lebweh (Egyp. r-b-3, Amarna labana; Akk. lab’u; cf. LBHG, pp. 65f.). To the west the border runs to Mt. Hor (Nu. 34:7) or Hethlon (Ezk. 47:15; 48:1), neither of which can be positively identified. To the east it runs through Zedad (Šadād), NE of Lebweh on the edge of the desert, and out to Hazar-enan, probably an oasis E of Zedad (Aharoni [LBHG, p. 67] suggests Qaryatein).

The eastern boundary is the most difficult to define precisely. Many of the sites are unknown, but the general picture is clear.

《圣经》对迦南地界的两处主要记载是《民数记》34:1–12 和《以西结书》47:15–20。《以西结书》48:1–28 从很多方面用其他材料补充说明了迦南的地界。这些地名中包括一些无法确定位置的地点。这些描述在地点的名称和数目上存在一些差异，但它们对地界的描述非常相似。

正如埃及文献中的记载，西面的埃及小河（埃拉瑞西河）确定了迦南的南界。《约书亚记》15:1–4 最为完整地描述了南界向东的走向，南界始于死海的东南角（参：创 10:19），绕到亚克拉滨坡（准确位置不详），连到寻的旷野，直通加低斯的绿洲，通到埃及小河。西奈不属于迦南地。

地中海直到阿姆茹南界的地区构成了迦南地的西界（参：书 13:4）。

“哈马口”（希伯来语：l̥bō’ h̄māt；见 HAMATH[哈马]）大体上确定了迦南的北界，“哈马口”可能是现代的黎威（埃及语：r-b-3, Amarna labana；阿卡德语：lab’u；参：LBHG, 65-66 页）。西界划到何珥山（民 34:7）或希特伦（结 47:15；48:1），无法确定这两个地点的位置。向东经过西达达（萨达达[Šadād]），西达达位于沙漠边缘黎威的东北方向，直到哈萨以难，哈萨以难可能是西达达东面的一个绿洲（阿哈罗尼认为该地是盖尔亚坦[LBHG, 67 页]）。

最难准确地判断迦南的东界。很多地点的位置尚不能确定，但边界的大致走向是明确的。东界从哈萨以难向南到巴珊

It runs S from Hazar-enan to the area of Mt. Bashan and then westward to the southeastern shore of the Sea of Galilee. There it turns S again to follow the Jordan River. The Bible clearly excludes the area E of the Jordan from the land of Canaan, a fact that lies behind Josh. 22; there the Transjordanian tribes are said to have built an altar at the Jordan because they feared later generations would say, “you have no portion in the Lord” (v. 25).

The promise that the land of Canaan would be theirs gave rise to the idea that the people of Israel had claim to all of it. Thus in Ezekiel’s vision (47:13–20) the tribes are distributed across the whole territory; cf. the concept of the “land that remains” in Josh. 13:2. But this ideal was never confused with another, even more extravagant claim of all the land to the Euphrates (Dt. 1:7; contrast Gen. 15:18–20 [J] with Gen. 17:8 [P]).

See Map V; Plate 12.

III. People.—The Canaanites may best be described as the inhabitants of the land of Canaan. They should not be thought of as a race in modern terms. People in ancient times were identified by the political group to which they belonged—city, tribe, clan, or state. The land of Canaan, which was never politically unified in the historical period, contained citizens of various political groups living side by side with aliens (Heb. gērîm) and stateless persons called ‘apiru. The term Canaanite is a rather vague reference to these people who could be more precisely identified with their city or tribe. The use of the term in the Amarna Tablets and the records of Ugarit suggests that the scribes preferred the designation Canaanites (or

山脉地区，然后向西通向加利利海的东南海岸。从这里向南下到约旦河。《圣经》中的迦南地显然不包括约旦河的东岸地区，这是根据《约书亚记》22章描述得出的事实；据说，生活在外约旦的很多支派在约旦河筑了一座坛，恐怕日后以色列的子孙对他们的子孙说，“你们与耶和华无份了”（书 22:25）。

神应许赐予以色列人迦南地，这使得以色列人认为整个迦南地都归他们所有。因此以西结认为（结 47:13–20），以色列支派的地业分布在整个迦南地区；参：《约书亚记》13:2 中的“剩下的地”的概念。但是不要将这一理想疆域与另一个更为辽阔的理想疆域混为一谈，也就是将埃及河到幼发拉底河都归为以色列人的疆域（申 1:7；对比《创世记》15:18–20[J 底本]与《创世记》17:8[P 底本]）。

见地图 V；彩图 12。

III. 迦南的民族。最好将迦南人描述成居住在迦南地的居民。不应该认为他们是一个现代种族。在古代，民族是按照所属的政治组织来划分的，也就是城市、支派、宗族或国家。在历史上，迦南地从未实现政治上的统一，迦南地居住着从属于很多政治组织的居民，他们与外邦人（希伯来语：gērîm）和无国籍的阿比鲁人（‘apiru）比邻而居。迦南人是表示这些人的一个相当模糊的词语，更准确地说，这些人的身份可以依靠他们所居住的城市或他们的支派来确定。亚玛拿泥版中的迦南人和乌加列语的记载都表明，当文士考虑到地区利益而不是本地利益时，他们更愿意使用迦南人（或迦南王或迦南居民）这种称谓。 kings and citizens of Canaan) when they had regional rather than local interests in mind.

With the end of Egyptian domination of the area of Canaan and the rise of nation-states like Israel and Aram in the Iron Age, the term lost its political significance and came to be applied to the people who were the cultural heirs of the Late Bronze Age civilization. This change is reflected in uses of the term “Canaan” for Phoenicia (cf. Hecateus of Miletus Periegesis fragment 272, in F. Jacoby, ed., Fragmente der griechischen Historiker, I/A [1923], 36; Eusebius Praep.ev. i.10; ix.17).

The Bible shows familiarity with both the L.B. and Iron Age uses of the word. The two earliest references, for example, Ex. 15:15 and Jgs. 5:19, follow the L.B. pattern. The former distinguishes between the inhabitants of Canaan and those of Transjordan and Philistia (cf. G. Steindorff, JEA, 25 [1939], 30–37, for an Egyptian inscription left by a “messenger of Canaan and Philistia”). The latter describes the northern coalition of kings as “kings of Canaan,” much in the manner of the Amarna Tablets. These are simply generalized uses of the term without reference to more specific ethnic relationships. Particularly illustrative of this is the notation in Gen. 36:2f. (P?) that among the “Canaanite” wives of Esau is a Hittite, a Hivite (later Horite), and an Ishmaelite. Note also Ezekiel who says of Israel, “Your origin and your birth are of the land of the Canaanites; your father was an Amorite, and your mother a Hittite” (16:3).

随着埃及人结束对迦南地的统治，以及在铁器时代以色列和亚兰等单一民族国家的建立，迦南人这个词失去了它的政治意义，开始用来表示青铜时代晚期文明的传承人。这种改变也体现在用“迦南”可以表示腓尼基（参：Hecateus of Miletus Periegesis fragment 272, F. Jacoby 编, Fragmente der griechischen Historiker, I/A [1923], 36; Eusebius Praep.ev. i.10; ix.17)。

青铜时代晚期和铁器时代对“迦南”这个词的用法在《圣经》中都很常见。例如，《出埃及记》15:15 和《士师记》5:19 中最早提到了迦南这个词，并且遵循了青铜时代晚期该词的用法。《出埃及记》15:15 对迦南居民、外约旦居民和非利士居民加以区分（参：G. Steindorff, JEA, 25 [1939], 30–37 页，一份埃及铭文中提到了“迦南和非利士的信使”）。《士师记》5:19 中称北方诸王的联盟为“迦南诸王”，与亚玛拿泥版中的表述非常相似。这些仅仅是这个词的广义上的用法，没有提及更为具体的种族关系。《创世记》36:2-3（可能是 P 底本）的注释详细地阐明了这种用法，以扫的“迦南”妻子有一个赫人、一个希未人（后来的何利人）和一个以实玛利人。另外还要注意的，以西结对以色列说，“你根本，你出世，是在迦南地；你父亲是亚摩利人，你母亲是赫人”（结 16:3）。

Tablets of the palace library as discovered at Tell Mardikh (ancient Ebla). Identified by the epigrapher as "Paleo-Canaanite," these administrative texts document an extensive commercial empire. (Biblical Archeologist)

A special case of the generalized use of Canaan is found in the index of political and geographical relationships in Gen. 10. Canaan is included in the Hamitic family as part of the Egyptian empire (v. 6). His sons are Sidon and Heth (the Hittites). This recalls the collocation of Ezekiel, Amorites and Hittites, and is in the same way a memory of the ethnic mixture of Semitic and non-Semitic elements that composed the Canaanite culture of the Late Bronze Age. There follows (vv. 16–18) a list of peoples, mostly of cities, in a rough order of south to north, representing the peoples of Canaan at its greatest possible extension. In its present position this list is quite probably secondary.

Alongside these general uses of the word are found frequent biblical references to the Canaanites as one people among others. These lists vary in length and complexity. The simplest have only two terms, like the Amorites and Canaanites of Dt. 1:7 (cf. Josh. 5:1), or the Canaanites and Perizzites of Gen. 34:30.

上图为马尔迪赫丘（古代埃勃拉）出土的王室图书馆的石碑。碑铭研究家认为这些石碑是“古迦南”的遗迹，这些行政碑文记载了一个庞大的商业帝国（《圣经考古学家》）。

《创世记》10章列邦列国谱中给出了“迦南”一词广义用法的一个特例。迦南属于含家族，是埃及帝国的一部分（创 10:6）。迦南的儿子是西顿和赫。这会让人想起《以西结书》中的亚摩利人和赫人与迦南人的关系，同样会令人记住青铜时代晚期的迦南文明融合了闪米特人和非闪族人文明的元素。《创世记》10:16-18中大致以从南到北的顺序列出了迦南的民族，这呈现出迦南各民族的最大可能的分布范围。对于确定迦南现在的位置来说，这个列表很可能是次要的。

除了该词的常见用法之外，《圣经》中还经常用“迦南人”表示众多民族中的一个。这些列表的长度和复杂程度有所不同。最简短的列表只有两个词，如《申命记》1:7中仅提到了亚摩利人和迦南人（参：书 5:1），《创世记》34:30中仅提到迦南人和以利洗人。最长的列表（《创世记》15:19–21）详细地列出了

The longest list (Gen. 15:19–21) specifies ten different groups. Several of the lists also indicate the area occupied by the various groups (Nu. 13:29; Dt. 1:7; Josh. 5:1; 13:3; 17:15–18; Jgs. 1:1–36). These not surprisingly locate the Canaanites in the area that was always the heartland of the culture, the coastal region including its natural extension into the Jezreel Valley and the Jordan area.

Clearly the lists contain names of very different types. Some probably were originally social classifications (e.g., the Perizzites and Rephaim), other ancient tribal groups (the Kenites, Kadmonites, and Kenizzites), still others remnants of great cultures (the Hittites and Horites). What they have in common is their antiquity at the time of the writing of the Bible.

Despite the broad diversity of the origins of the people who inhabited Canaan, one can speak of a Canaanite culture. This cultural unity extended generally to language, religion, political forms, legal institutions, architecture, and the domestic arts. Groups that arrived in Canaan with different customs, like the Philistines, were soon drawn into the dominant culture while adding to it their own special contributions.

The cultural heirs of the Bronze-Age Canaanites were the Phoenicians. While the Greeks knew them by the latter name, they apparently called themselves Canaanites (cf. Augustine Epistolae ad Romanos inchoata expositio 13 [PL, XXXV, 2096]; sources cited by Z. Harris, Grammar of the Phoenician Language [American Oriental Series, 8, 1936], p. 7). Thus the woman who in Mk. 7:26 is

10 个不同的宗族。其中一些列表还指明了各族居住的地区（民 13:29；申 1:7；书 5:1；13:3；17:15–18；士 1:1–36）。这些经文果然将迦南人的生活区域定位在文明的中心地带，从沿海地区延伸到耶斯列谷和约旦地区。

虽然迦南人的起源多种多样，但是可以说迦南拥有统一的文化。这种文化一致性通常扩展到语言、宗教、政治形式、法律制度、建筑和民间艺术这些方面。不同的人群，如非利士人带着不同的风俗来到了迦南，但他们很快融入了当地的主流文化，同时为主流文化做出了特殊的贡献。

青铜时代迦南文化的传承者是腓尼基人。虽然希腊人是通过腓尼基人才认识迦南人，但是显然腓尼基人称自己为迦南人（参：Augustine Epistolae ad Romanos inchoata expositio 13 [PL, XXXV, 2096]；资料引自 Z. Harris, Grammar of the Phoenician Language [American Oriental Series, 8, 1936], 7 页）。因此，《马可福音》7:26 中那个妇人被称为“属叙利亚腓尼基族”（希腊

The latter term (Chananaios) must be distinguished from Kananaios, “Zealot” (from Aram. qan an; cf. F. C. IV. History.-When and how the dominant culture known as Canaanite first appeared is not directly answerable from the data now available. The most important transition points in the early history of this area are marked by the changes in the material culture that have given rise to the present, somewhat inaccurate, division of time into ages identified with specific metals—copper, bronze, and iron. Customarily the Bronze Age (ca. 3200–1200 B.C.) is designated as the Canaanite period, though that should not prejudice the question of when the culture known from the latest phase of this period was formed.

IV. 迦南历史。 现有的数据还无法直接回答迦南的主流文化是何时开始出现、又是怎样产生的这一问题。迦南地早期历史中最重要的转捩点以物质文化的变化为特征, 这种变化引起了现在不太准确的年代划分——红铜时代、青铜时代和铁器时代。青铜时代(约公元前 3200–1200 年)通常被称为迦南时期, 但不应该对这一时期最后阶段文化的形成时间这一问题持有偏见。

Late Bronze period can the political history be written with any confidence, observations about the earlier periods must be limited to general and largely hypothetical statements. The evidence is mostly archeological with occasional help from Egyptian and Mesopotamian documents. The enormous archive of Ebla holds great promise for clarifying matters for the later part of the Early Bronze Age.

The transition from the Chalcolithic Age to the Early Bronze Age was one of the most important and formative periods in the history of Canaan. Considerable disagreement still exists about the details of the transition and even about the terminology to be employed. Apparently ca. 3200 B.C. several groups of a distinctively new people entered Palestine and pushed out or suppressed the Ghassul-Beer-sheba culture that had preceded them. These groups, who had their origins in the north (Syria and Anatolia), are especially important because they appear to have brought with them the seeds of the first truly urban culture in Canaan. Partly for that reason some archeologists (Kenyon, Hennessy) prefer to call this period Proto-Urban (others call it E.B. I; still others Late Chalcolithic). The picture is not simply one of linear development, however. Along with successive population increments of divergent types (and importation of new techniques) came an increase of population density. Undoubtedly there were other now unknown factors. But, whatever the catalyst, in the early years of the 3rd millennium occurred the formation first of villages and then of fortified cities.

从红铜时代向青铜时代早期过渡的时期是迦南最重要的时期，也是迦南历史的形成期。关于过渡时期的很多细节，甚至关于很多术语，仍然存有大量的分歧。显然，大约在公元前 3200 年，一个崭新民族中的多个群体来到了巴勒斯坦，他们排挤并抑制之前的迦苏别是巴文化。这些来自于北方（叙利亚和安纳托利亚）的群体非常重要，因为他们似乎首次为迦南带来了真正的城市文明。部分出于这个原因，一些考古学家（凯尼恩和亨尼西）更喜欢称这一时期为原始城市时期（有些人称这一时期为青铜时代早期 I 期；还有一些人称这一时期为红铜时代晚期）。然而，迦南的情况不仅仅包括它的直线发展。不同民族人口的不断增加（和新技术的引进）提高了迦南的人口密度。遗憾的是，现在还有其他尚不知晓的因素。但是，不论刺激因素是什么，第一批村庄在公元前 3000 年早期开始形成，之后又出现了坚固城。

These were small settlements by modern standards, typically about 25 acres (10 hectares) within the walls. The fortifications were hefty, however, with walls as much as 25 ft. (8 m.) thick. Some of the towns, like Arad (cf. R. Amiran in Sanders, ed., Near Eastern Archaeology in the Twentieth Century, pp. 83–96), show evidence of careful planning. Houses were in one part of the city, public buildings in another; the various buildings were arranged along streets and plazas.

Why these fortifications were erected cannot be known with certainty. Egyptian interests in the area were already established and their raiding parties may have contributed to this development. Narmer of the 1st Dynasty apparently took and held Gath for a few years in the Proto-Urban period. But probably a more important factor was protection from a numerically superior non-urban population that surrounded these cities.

从现代的标准看, 这些都是很小的聚落, 通常面积在 25 英亩 (10 公顷) 左右, 四周为城墙。然而, 该地建有坚固的防御工事, 防御城墙的厚度可达 25 英尺 (8 米)。一些城邑, 如亚拉得 (参: R. Amiran in Sanders 编, Near Eastern Archaeology in the Twentieth Century, 83–96 页) 显然经过了精心的设计。房屋位于城市的一片区域, 公共建筑位于城市的另一片区域; 各种建筑沿着街道和广场布局。

不能确定为什么要建造这些防御工事。埃及人已经在这一地区确立了自己的利益, 入侵迦南的军队可能为该地的发展做出了贡献。显然, 第一王朝的那尔迈在原始城市时期占领了迦特很多年。但更为重要的一个因素可能是, 禁止这

In view of the later pattern one might expect that these cities were small, competing city-states, needing protection from each other. Some evidence, however, suggests that these urban folk were unified on a broader basis (P. W. Lapp in Sanders, ed., p. 114). On analogy with the large commercial empire of Ebla, as well as with the movement toward unification in Egypt earlier and in Mesopotamia under Sargon, this is not unlikely.

This culture existed without major interruption for a very long time, about 700 years. It came to an end quite quickly with the destruction of the cities and a reversion to village life (ca. 2300). Who brought about this destruction is a matter of controversy. Egyptian raids are documented, especially for the 6th Dynasty, which overlaps this period of destruction. But this is also the time of the Amorite movements, so some have attributed these destructions primarily to them. Still others look to non-Semitic invaders from Anatolia. The question need not be decided for one of these options to the exclusion of others. What happened in Canaan is part of a large pattern of destruction which eventually enveloped every civilization of the ancient world. Many factors must have been at work, and migrations were as much the result of these destructions as the cause of them.

B. Middle Bronze Age. The first part of 些城市周围的非城市人口数量超过城市的人口数量。

从后期的城市形态来看，这些城市可能被视作一些相互竞争的小城邦，并且需要彼此间的保护。然而，有证据显示，这些城市中的人基于更多的原因团结在一起（P. W. Lapp in Sanders 编，114 页）。与埃勃拉的巨大商业帝国相比，以及与早期埃及和撒珥根统治时期的美索不达米亚的联合相比，这种联合似乎是可能的。

迦南文明持续了很长时间，大约 700 年，没有出现过长时间的文明中断。随着这些城市被毁和人们重新回到乡村生活（约公元前 2300 年），这种文明很快走向衰落。到底是谁摧毁了这些城市尚存在争议。根据文献记载，埃及人尤其是第 6 王朝的埃及人侵略了这些城市，埃及人的侵袭时间与这些城市的毁灭时间重叠。但这些城市遭受毁灭的时期也是亚摩利人入侵的时期，所以有些人认为这些城市的毁灭主要是由亚摩利人造成的。还有一些人认为是来自于安纳托利亚的非闪族入侵者毁灭了这些城市。城市的毁灭不一定是单一因素所致。迦南的灭亡是古代世界文明陷落的一部分。这是很多因素共同作用的结果，而人口迁移与城市衰落则互为因果。

B. 青铜时代中期的迦南。青铜时代中

the Middle Bronze Age (M.B. I, ca. 2200–1950) is largely a continuation of the last part of the E.B. period (E.B. IV). The characteristics of this period are regionalism of the material culture, lack of fortifications, abandonment of the E.B. urban sites, and extension of occupation, at least seasonally, into fringe areas. The inhabitants of the land were primarily herdsmen, organized very likely by village and tribe. It is conventional to call this culture (or cultures) Amorite (Sum. mar-tu, Akk. amurru[m]), which means “Westerners.” This was the designation given by the Mesopotamians to similar groups who seem to have had the same origin (the Syrian steppe) and who penetrated the Mesopotamian area in the late 3rd and early 2nd millennia. That they were a West Semitic people is clear from their names.

With the second phase of the M.B. period (M.B. IIA, ca. 1950–1800) begins the development that led to the next great urban age in Canaan. It is owed in part to new influences, again from the north. The people who brought this new culture have been called “urbanized Amorites” (cf. Kenyon, Amorites and Canaanites). That expresses both the continuity and the discontinuity of this culture and the preceding phase. The newcomers were, in contrast to the people of M.B. I, city folk. Where they learned urban ways is a matter of dispute, but Kenyon’s hypothesis, which centers attention on Byblos, must likely be abandoned in favor of an inland site. Once again, the materials from Ebla (Tell Mardikh) should be extremely important.

Many reflections on this period are found in Egyptian literature. Among the most important are the Tale of Sinuhe (ANET, pp. 18–22) and the Execration Texts (ANET, pp. 328f.). Although both of these sources must be used with caution, they indicate strong Egyptian interest in Asia. Numerous objects of trade and diplomacy that supplement the literary materials argue for some Egyptian hegemony during the 12th Dynasty (ca. 1991–1786). In fact, the commercial and diplomatic ties that link Egypt and Asia in this period are similar to those known from the Amarna period some five centuries later (cf. G. Posener, CAH, I/2, 532–558).

期第一个阶段（青铜时代中期 I 期，约公元前 2200 至 1950 年）大致上属于青铜时代早期最后阶段（青铜时代早期 IV 期）的延续期。物质文化呈现出地区性，缺乏防御工事，青铜时代早期的城邑被废弃，边缘地区至少周期性地被占领，这些都是这一时期的特点。迦南地的居民主要是牧人，他们很可能生活在乡村，形成了支派。传统上称这种文明（或文化）为亚摩利文明（或文化）（苏美尔语：mar-tu，阿卡德语：amurru[m]），即“西方人”的文明。美索不达米亚人也这样称呼起源相同（叙利亚干草原）的类似民族和公元前 3000 年末期和 2000 年早期入侵美索不达米亚的人。从他们的名字来看，他们显然属于西闪米特民族。

进入青铜时代中期第二阶段（青铜时代中期 IIA 期，约公元前 1950–1800 年），迦南再次出现了一个城市发展的时期。这在某种程度上源于再次受到了来自北方的新的影响。带来新文明的民族被称为“城市化亚摩利人”（参：Kenyon, Amorites and Canaanites）。这既体现出该文明与之前文明的连续性，又体现出两者的间断性。与青铜时代中期 I 期的人相比，新来的人是城市居民。他们在哪里学到了城市的生活方式，这是一个存有争议的问题，但凯尼恩基于假设，将关注点集中在比布鲁斯的观点看来势必应当予以排除，而支持一个内陆的地点。此外，埃勃拉（马尔迪赫丘）的资料应该非常重要。

埃及文献中有多处反应了这一时期的情况。最重要的文献是《辛努亥故事》

The pattern of political organization in this period appears to be a complex dimorphism of village and tribe. What little can be made out from the Execration Texts indicates that power was becoming more centralized toward the end of the period. Undoubtedly some of the more powerful centers exercised control over smaller ones, creating regional blocs. This pattern, though modified by subsequent developments, was responsible for the shape of Canaanite culture for the rest of the Bronze Age.

The remainder of the Middle Bronze Age could be considered the “golden age” of Canaanite culture. Out of the villages of the M.B. IIA period grew powerful cities, a distinctive feature of which was their fortification. Great ramparts of beaten earth were built around the city. The largest, that of the lower city of Hazor, was more than 100 ft. (30 m.) wide at the base and enclosed an area of more than 175 acres (70 hectares). This reflects the importance of Hazor, remembered in biblical times as “formerly ... the head of all those kingdoms” (Josh. 11:10; cf. A.

(ANET, 18–22 页) 和《诅咒祷文》(ANET, 328-329 页)。虽然必须谨慎地使用这两个文献，但它们都表明，埃及人在亚细亚有巨大的利益。大量的贸易和外交物品对文献记载进行了补充，是第 12 王朝的埃及人在亚细亚取得一定霸权的有力证据（约公元前 1991–1786 年）。实际上，这一时期埃及与亚细亚之间的贸易和外交关系类似于约 500 年后亚玛拿时期两者之间的贸易和外交关系（参：G. Posener, CAH, I/2, 532–558）。

这一时期的政治组织形式似乎呈现出一种乡村和支派并存的复杂状况。《诅咒祷文》仅存的少量信息表明，接近这一时期末期时，权力越来越集中。毋庸置疑，某些较为强大的中心掌控着较为弱小的中心，从而产生了地区性联盟。虽然这种模式在后来发展过程中被改变，但它却塑造了青铜时代剩余时期的迦南文明。

青铜时代中期的余下的时间里可以视为迦南文明的“黄金时期”。青铜时代中期 IIA 期的乡村发展成强大的城市，这些强大城市的一个显著特点就是它们建有防御工事。城市的周围用夯土建起了巨大的围墙。夏琐下城的围墙规模最大，围墙底部的宽度有 100 多英尺（30 多米），围墙包围区域的面积超过 175 英亩（70 公顷）。这反映出夏琐是一座重要的城市，在圣经时期“素来夏琐在诸国中是为首”（约 11:10；参：A. Malamat, JBL, 79 [1960], 12–19）。

Malamat, JBL, 79 [1960], 12–19).

Toward the end of the Middle Bronze Age, Egypt came under the control of the Hyksos (Egyp. ḥkꜣ ḥꜣswt, “foreign chiefs”). Until recently scholarship had considered them an intrusive element, responsible for fortifications in Palestine as well as disruptions in Egypt. It seems now that the fortifications must be dated independently and that the Hyksos were primarily the product of the flowering of Canaanite culture. They were Asiatics (mostly Semitic) who took advantage of the weakening of Egyptian power to take control of the Delta.

The 16th cent., in which the Middle Bronze Age ends, saw two developments of far-reaching significance. The first was the renaissance of native Egyptian power with the consequent expulsion of the Hyksos. The second was the increasing importance of a non-Semitic population in the south, mostly Hurrian (a people known from much earlier times in the north) but with rulers who possessed Indo-Aryan names. These two movements, one from the north, the other from the south, largely established the character of the subsequent centuries in Canaan.

C. Late Bronze Age (ca. 1550–1200). The resurgence of Egyptian power began with the campaigns of Ahmose (ca. 1570–1546), who, as part of his effort to rid Egypt of the hated Hyksos, ventured into Canaan. Considerable violence accompanied the change of orders and many cities were destroyed. Of more lasting importance were the campaigns of Thutmose III (ca. 1504–1450), detailed in a series of royal inscriptions, which 接近青铜时代中期末时，希克索斯人（埃及语：ḥkꜣ ḥꜣswt，“外来的统治者”）掌控着埃及。直到最近，学者们才将他们视为一股入侵势力，并且认为他们是巴勒斯坦建造防御工事和埃及遭受袭扰的原因。现在看来似乎必须独立追溯这些防御工事所处的年代，从根本上说，希克索斯人是迦南文明兴盛的产物。他们是亚细亚人（大多数是闪米特人），利用埃及政权衰落的时机，占领了三角洲地区。

青铜时代中期结束于公元前 16 世纪，此时出现了两个具有深远意义的新发展。第一个发展是随着希克索斯人被驱逐出埃及，埃及的本土势力再度兴起。第二个发展是南方非闪米特人的重要性与日俱增，大部分非闪米特人是胡里安人（在更早时期生活在北方的一个民族），但他们的领袖都有印度雅利安人名。这两大变化，一个来自于北方，另一个来自于南方，基本上确定了随后几个世纪迦南的特征。

*C. 青铜时代晚期（约公元前 1550–1200 年）的迦南。*随着雅赫摩斯（约公元前 1570–1546 年）远征迦南，埃及人的势力再度兴起，他颠覆了希克索斯人在埃及的统治，又大胆挺进迦南。大规模的暴力冲突改变了迦南的秩序，很多城市被毁。图特摩斯三世（约公元前 1504–1450 年在位）远征迦南产生了更为长远的影响，一些王室铭文中详细记载了这种影响，图特摩斯三世远征将埃及人的统治范围扩展到迦南，并且巩固了他们

extended and stabilized Egyptian rule in Canaan. 在迦南的统治。

But almost from the death of Thutmose Egyptian power began to diminish, partly because Egyptian hegemony permitted the numerous small kingdoms of Canaan to continue to exist. Revolts and petty conflicts were the result. But the Egyptian decline was due mainly to the rise of a major power in the north, Hatti, and a general, though not uniform, weakening of the will or the ability of Egyptian rulers to police their holdings in Canaan. 但几乎从图特摩斯三世逝世开始，埃及政权开始衰落，部分原因在于霸主埃及允许大量迦南小王国的存在。结果出现了反叛和小规模的冲突。但是，北方出现了一个大国——哈提，埃及统治者管辖迦南产业的意愿或能力都在不同程度上有所下降，这些是造成埃及衰落的主要原因。

The 14th cent. was an era of change in the Middle East. At the end of the 15th cent. there were three great powers on the periphery of Canaan: Egypt, its fortunes declining; Hatti, dormant in its Anatolian homeland, beleaguered by the Kaska; and Mitanni, a Hurrian kingdom in Upper Mesopotamia. Mitanni and Egypt were nominal allies and seem to have come to tacit agreement about holdings in Syria. But all this changed drastically in the 14th century. The Hittites, under the vigorous and ambitious Šuppiliuma I, began a series of expansionist wars. The result was an empire that included Mitanni, the small states of southern Asia Minor, and Syria as far south as Kadesh. Egypt, in the throes of the Amarna revolution, was unable or unwilling to help. 公元前 14 世纪是中东的转折时期。公元前 15 世纪末期，迦南的周边有三大势力并存：国运渐衰的埃及、潜伏在安纳托利亚并遭到卡斯卡（Kaska）围困的哈提和上美索不达米亚的胡里安王国米坦尼。米坦尼和埃及是名义上的同盟国，它们似乎就双方在叙利亚的势力范围上达成了秘密协议。但所有的一切在公元前 14 世纪发生了巨大的变化。精力充沛、野心勃勃的苏庇路里乌玛一世领导下的赫人开始发动一系列的领土扩张战争。结果建立起了一帝国，包括米坦尼、小亚细亚南部诸多小城邦和南至加低斯的叙利亚领土。陷于亚玛拿革命中的埃及无力或不愿向迦南提供帮助。

This period in Canaan is brilliantly illumined by the Amarna correspondence. The letters, written from the vassal kings in Canaan to the pharaoh, show Canaan in turmoil. Particularly plaintive are the letters of Rib-Addi king of Byblos, who appealed for help against the 亚玛拿书信阐明了迦南在这一时期的情况。这些迦南诸侯王写给埃及法老的信件表明，迦南处于动乱之中。比布鲁斯王利布阿迪的信件写得尤为哀伤，他请求埃及法老帮助他对抗阿姆茹王的侵略——但毫无结果。示剑的拉巴犹（Lab'ayu）在迦南南部兴起，这使更加 encroachments of the kings of Amurru—to no avail. In the southern part of Canaan arose Lab'ayu of Shechem, much to the distress of those more loyal to Egypt. Gangs of men who had lost their citizenship ('apiru) roamed the land. This is, however, probably only part of the picture. Allowance must be made for the tendency of the letter writers' to overstate the case when asking for military assistance and for the fact that Canaan remained an Egyptian territory throughout this period.

Attempts to solidify the Egyptian hold on Canaan and to retake territory lost to the Hittites were made by Seti I and Ramses II. A campaign in the latter's fifth year led to a decisive confrontation with Hatti at Kadesh (ca. 1300). Both sides claimed victory, but the Egyptians seem fortunate to have escaped. A peace treaty followed, which established the boundary between the two great powers approximately on the line described by the northern boundary of Canaan in the biblical lists.

The battle of Kadesh was, however, the beginning of the end for both great powers' domination in the area. Soon both had a much greater problem. Already at the battle of Kadesh (and earlier) various Indo-Aryan groups of Western origin were present as mercenaries. They are a symptom of the great incursion of Western peoples that reached its peak at the end of the 13th century. These Sea-peoples, as they were known to the Egyptians, were the catalyst for a general collapse of the Bronze Age culture. Only Egypt was able to resist and throw back the invaders. As the result of that Egyptian victory, the most famous of the Sea-peoples, the Philistines, came to occupy Palestine.

忠实地埃及的人感到非常悲痛。一群失去国籍的人(阿比鲁人)在迦南地流浪。然而,这可能只是部分情况。去信者寻求埃及的军事援助时必然夸张了迦南的遭遇,事实上,在此期间迦南仍然属于埃及的版图。

塞提一世和拉美西斯二世试图稳固埃及在迦南的统治,并为他们重新夺回赫人侵占的领土而发动战争。拉美西斯二世在位的第5年,他在加低斯与哈提决战(约公元前1300年)。双方都声称取得了战役的胜利,但埃及人似乎是侥幸脱险。之后双方签订了和约,从而确定了《圣经》中迦南北部边界线附近的两个大国之间的疆界。

然而,加低斯之战成为两国在迦南统治终结的开端。不久之后,两国都遇到了更大的难题。在加低斯之战时(和战役之前),大批来自西方的印度雅利安人充当雇佣兵。这是西方民族大举入侵迦南的一个征兆,这种入侵在公元前13世纪末期达到了顶峰。正如埃及人对他们的了解,这些海上民族促使青铜时代文明普遍走向衰落。只有埃及能够抵御和击退这些侵略者。埃及虽然取得了战争的胜利,但海上民族中最著名的一支——非利士人却在迦南定居了。

In the midst of this confusing time Moses and his followers left Egypt, and Joshua with a second generation entered Canaan. They were not alone. It was a time of change, of migration, of destruction and turmoil—a dark age that ended 200 years later with the emergence of nation-states like Israel. It marked the effective end of the history of the Canaanites.

V. Society.-Direct information about the social structure is scarce from Canaan itself. The texts of Ugarit and Alalakh are very informative, however, and with due caution against too much generalizing they may be used to fill the gaps in knowledge of Canaan.

Essentially Canaanite society was in two tiers. The more fundamental of these was the society of the agricultural villages. The production of the villages was the basis for the state's economy. The villages themselves were small and organized into one or more clans, governed by the heads of the clans, the elders. In some instances the clans were organized into tribes. A leading example of the symbiosis of tribe and state can be found at Mari.

On this simple village economy was imposed the palace. In contrast to the villages, the state was highly centralized and in the case of Ugarit reached bureaucratic proportions. In theory the king was the central authority in all areas of life. In the smaller states this was probably true in practice as well, but in the larger states the actual exercise of this authority was left to his administrative personnel (Ugar. bnš mlk). These

摩西和他的追随者在这个混乱时期离开了埃及，约书亚带领着追随者的第二代子孙来到了迦南。他们并不是唯一进入迦南的人。这是一个变革时期、移民时期、毁灭时期和动乱时期——这一黑暗时期直到 200 年后才结束，伴随着以色列等单一民族国家的出现。这实际上标志着迦南人历史的结束。

V. 社会。从迦南本身可以得到很少关于迦南社会结构的直接信息。然而，乌加列和亚拉勒的文献却提供了大量的信息，如果谨慎使用这些信息，它们可以填补我们对迦南认知的许多空白。

从本质上讲，迦南社会分为两个层级。较为基本的社会层级是农业乡村社会。乡村的产品构成了国家经济的基础。乡村很小，其中包含一个或多个宗族，宗族的首领和长老是乡村的管理者。有时多个宗族组成了支派。在马里可以看到支派和国家共生的典型例子。

王室对这种简单的乡村经济施加着影响。与乡村相比，国家高度中央集权，乌加列甚至确立了官僚政治体制。从理论上说，国王是生活所有领域的中央集权者。在较小的国家中，国王可能真正是行使中心权力的人，但在较大的国家中，实际上由行政人员（乌加列语：bnš mlk）行使这个权力。这些行政人员包括一位经过专业培训的神职人员、一个职业化的军队、一个宫廷审判体系和经济生活各领域的监督者。 included a technically trained clergy, a professional army, a palace judicial system, and overseers of the various aspects of economic life.

The economy itself was largely a state monopoly. The palace regulated trade and controlled the production of artisans. At Ugarit the artisans were organized by trade. In addition, large tracts of state land were worked by tenant farmers. A military aristocracy that bore the title maryannu was supported in return for certain services to the state. The maryannu were a feature of the Hurrian Indo-Aryan overlordship that was imposed on Canaan in the middle of the 2nd millennium.

Slavery, both for debtors and prisoners of war, existed in Canaanite culture, but it seems not to have been very common. More important was the corvée imposed on the citizens and used for various state projects. The state also collected taxes. The result of this heavy state machinery was the steady alienation of persons and groups who became 'apiru, officially stateless people who typically formed bands of freebooters and when sufficiently numerous became a danger to the state itself.

VI. Language.-The term Canaanite is used to describe the non-Aramaic group of first-millennium languages that are part of the Northwest Semitic family, principally Phoenician and Hebrew (cf. Isa. 19:18). It is also used for the postulated ancestor of these languages.

For the ancestral language the sources are chiefly Ugaritic texts (generally considered a Canaanite dialect), glosses

迦南文明中也有令欠债者和囚犯充当奴隶制度，但这种情况似乎不太普遍。更为重要的是，强制市民劳役和建造各种各样的国家工程。国家也征税。这个沉重的国家机器使得人们逐渐疏远它，变成阿比鲁人，这部分人没有国籍，并且常常结成多股强盗，当这种人数足够多时就危及了国家的安全。

VI. 语言。迦南人这个词用来表示在公元前 1000 年讲非亚兰语的人群，他们属于西北闪米特家族，主要是腓尼基人和希伯来语人（参：赛 19:18）。这个词还可以用来表示假说中讲这些语言的祖先。

乌加列文字（通常被认为是迦南方言）、亚玛拿泥版上的注释和其他独特的东西，以及大多数从埃及文献中获悉的名

and other peculiarities in the Amarna Tablets, and names, mostly from Egyptian sources. Another, very large, group of names culled mostly from Mesopotamian sources is classified as Amorite, a West Semitic language whose position vis-à-vis Canaanite and Aramaic is still a matter of dispute. The preliminary reports on the language of Ebla (Tell Mardikh) of the 3rd millennium indicate that it falls outside the usual classification of early Semitic languages. It exhibits important isoglosses with later Canaanite (as well as major differences) and on the strength of those similarities has been tentatively labeled as Paleo-Canaanite (G. Pettinato, Orientalia, N.S. 44 [1975], 361–374).

Obviously the resources for reconstructing West Semitic dialect-geography in the 2nd millennium are very meagre. It can be said, however, that some of the features that distinguish the Iron Age Canaanite dialects had begun to form at a relatively early date (e.g., $\bar{a} > \bar{o}$, ca. 1500). It is likely that some dialectic specificity characterized Canaan even earlier.

The greatest Canaanite contribution to civilization was the alphabet. The forms of writing used at that time (Egyptian hieroglyphic and Sumerian-Akkadian cuneiform) were very cumbersome, because the hundreds of signs had both ideographic and syllabic values. The simple phonetic alphabet was a great improvement, which developed into the alphabet now used in Western and Near Eastern cultures. The earliest known attempt at simplification is found in the inscriptions from Byblos, still largely undeciphered, dating to the early 2nd millennium. They use a syllabic script that has far fewer signs than the scripts of either Egypt or Mesopotamia. Far more important are a group of middle-second-millennium inscriptions that use an alphabetic script retaining some of its original pictographic features. The largest and best-known group is from Serabit el-Khadem in the Sinai. The step forward that these writings represent was probably taken under the influence of Egyptian, but it is clearly a West Semitic invention. No attempt to derive the alphabet directly from Egyptian has been successful (cf. K. A. Kitchen, in M. Liverani, ed., La Siria nel tardo bronzo, pp. 85–87).

Another alphabet, in cuneiform, is found at Ugarit. The cuneiform system (wedges formed by pressing a stylus into soft clay) was far better suited to the clay tablets used by Ugaritic scribes. An innovation of this alphabet is its use of three signs for the glottal stop, one for each of three principal Semitic vowels ('a, 'i, 'u).

VII. Influences on Israel.—The people of Israel clearly thought of themselves as separate from their Canaanite neighbors. In fact, they were repeatedly enjoined to maintain that separateness (cf. Dt. 7). But the distinctiveness of Israel was built upon a basic commonality that runs through Canaanite culture.

This can be most easily seen in language and literature. The Canaanites and Hebrews spoke a common tongue. They used, as the Ugaritic texts reveal, a common stock of literary conventions. Even the language they used in the cult—the names for sacrifices, the divine titles—are similar (cf. F. M. Cross,

2000 年中期的大量铭文使用了字母文字，但这些字母文字仍然保留着原始象形文字的一些特征。数量最大、最著名的文字是在西奈山的沙拉别艾卡锭 (Serabit el-Khadem) 发现的。这些文字可能因为受到了埃及语的影响才取得了这样的进步，但它显然是西闪米特人的发明。直接从埃及语探究这种字母起源的尝试都没有取得成功 (参: K. A. Kitchen, 见 M. Liverani 编, La Siria nel tardo bronzo, 85–87 页)。

在乌加列发现了另一种字母，它是用楔形文字书写的。楔形文字系统 (将尖笔压入软泥中形成楔形) 更适宜制成乌加列书吏所使用的泥版。这种字母的一大创新是，它使用三种符号来表示喉塞音，这三个符号分别代表着三个主要闪米特语母音 ('a, 'i, 'u)。

VII. 迦南对以色列的影响。以色列人显然认为自己不同于他们的迦南邻邦。实际上，他们一再被告诫要保持他们的独立性 (参: 申 7)。但以色列的特殊性是建立在迦南文明共性的基础之上的。

这一点从语言和文学上很容易看得出来。迦南人和希伯来人使用共同的语言。正如乌加列文献所显示的，他们使用相同的文学惯例。甚至连他们在祭仪中所使用的语言——祭物的名字和神的名字都很相似 (参: F. M. Cross, Canaanite Myth and Hebrew Epic [1973], 1–75 页)。

Canaanite Myth and Hebrew Epic [1973], pp. 1–75).

Canaanite influence is evident also in the structures of society. The monarchy in Israel largely follows the patterns of Canaanite kingship, especially during and after the time of Solomon. In matters of material culture, architecture, and the like, they are virtually indistinguishable.

All this does not diminish the distinctiveness of Israel. Nor can one trace a direct line of development between the cultures of Canaan and Israel. But the distinctiveness of Israel's conception of God, society, and time are most clearly seen against the backdrop the Canaanite culture in which they shared.

迦南对以色列社会结构的影响也很明显。以色列王国，尤其是所罗门时期和所罗门之后的以色列王国仿效了迦南王国的模式。在物质文化、建筑等领域，几乎看不出两者的差异。

这一切都不能减少以色列的特殊性。迦南文化和以色列文化之间也不存在一脉相承的关系。但两者共享的迦南文化背景最能体现出以色列对神、社会和时间所持有的独特观念。

STREAMS, CHANNELS. The branches of the Nile. The Heb. y^e'ōr is from a common Egyptian word for the Nile, and also for the waters of Egypt in general, all of which are of the Nile, including the entire irrigation system. In Egyptian usage the plural came to mean in particular the slower-moving lesser channels, as opposed to the n^ehārōt or “flowing streams,” the main channels.

CANANEAN

kā-nə-nē'ən [Gk. ho Kananaíos] (Mt. 10:4; Mk. 3:18); AV CANAANITE; NEB “a member of the Zealot party.” A designation of the disciple Simon, distinguishing him from Simon Peter. It comes from an Aramaic word meaning “zealot,” and the parallel Lk. 6:15 has Gk. zēlōtēs. See CANA; SIMON; ZEALOT.

CANDACE

kan'də-sē, kan-dā-sē [Gk. hē Kandakē] (Acts 8:27); NEB “the Kandake.” The title of the queen-mother of ETHIOPIA. According to Bion of Soli (Aethiopica 1), the Ethiopians regarded the sun as the father of their kings, and gave the title Candace to the mother. Her treasurer, “a eunuch of great authority,” was baptized by Philip the evangelist on his return from worshiping in Jerusalem.

为 RIVERS; 《新英文译本》译为 STREAMS 和 CHANNELS, 汉译均为“河”。尼罗河的支流。希伯来语 y^e'ōr 源自于一个表示尼罗河的常见埃及语词汇, 通常还用来泛指埃及尼罗河的全部水域, 包括整个灌溉系统在内。在埃及语中, 这个词的复数形式特指流速较慢的次要水道, 而 n^ehārōt, “溪流”表示主水道。

CANANEAN 奋锐党

音译: kā-nə-nē'ən 【希腊语: ho Kananaíos】(太 10:4; 可 3:18); 《钦定版圣经》译为 CANAANITE; 《新英文译本》译为 “a member of the Zealot party”, 汉译均为 “奋锐党”。对门徒西门的称呼, 将他与西门彼得区分开。这个词源自于一个亚兰语词汇, 意为 “狂热者或激进派”。平行经文《路加福音》6:15 中使用了希腊语 zēlōtēs 表示相同的含义。见 CANA (迦拿); SIMON (西门); ZEALOT (奋锐党)。

CANDACE 干大基

音译: kan'də-sē, kan-dā-sē 【希腊语: hē Kandakē】(徒 8:27); 《新英文译本》译为 “the Kandake” (“干大基”)。埃提阿伯 (见 ETHIOPIA [埃提阿伯、古实]) 女王的称号。根据索利比翁 (Bion of Soli) 的描述 (Aethiopica 1), 埃提阿伯人奉他们的国王为太阳神之子, 王太后的称号为干大基。协助干大基总管银库的 “有权的太监” 在耶路撒冷结束礼拜回程时受了传道者腓利的洗。

This is the only reference to Canneh, and the site is unknown. However, its association with Haran and Eden suggests that it was located in the Mesopotamian area. Some think it is probably the same as CALNEH of Am. 6:2; Gen. 10:10, AV; and Calno of Isa. 10:9. According to the Targums, Eusebius, and Jerome, it is identical with Ctesiphon on the Tigris River, N of Babylon. Others have suggested Kulunu and Nippur.

I. Introduction.-The problem of how we came by thirty-nine books known as OT Scripture is a purely historical investigation. The question involved is not who wrote the several books, but who made them into a collection; not their origin or contents, but their history; not God's part, but man's. Our present aim, accordingly, must be to trace the process by which the various writings came together as Scripture.

I. 简介。这 39 卷书是如何成为《旧约》正典的，这完全属于历史考察的范畴。问题不在于谁写了这几卷书，而在于谁将他们收录成书；不在于这些书的出处或内容，而在于这些书的历史；不在于上帝的默示，而在于人类的收录。因此，我们现在的目标必定是追溯这些作品收录成《圣经》的过程。

A. Concept of Canonicity. The word "canon" is of Christian origin, from the Gk. kanón, which is derived from a Semitic root (Assyr. qanû; Heb. qāneh; Ugar. qn) borrowed from the Sum. gi-na, "reed." From this came the idea of a measuring rod, later a rule or norm of faith, and eventually a catalogue or list. In present usage it signifies a collection of religious writings divinely inspired and hence authoritative, normative, sacred, and binding. The term kanón occurs in

A. 正典观念。“正典”一词源于基督教，源自于希腊语 kanón，这个希腊语衍生自一个闪米特语词根（亚述语：qanû；希伯来语：qāneh；乌加列语：qn），这个闪米特语词根源自于苏美尔语的 gi-na，意思是“芦苇”。由此产生了量杆这个含义，后来又用来表示信仰准则或标准，最后用来表示正典目录。现在，“正典”指的是受上帝默示创作而成的一系列宗教作品，因此它们是权威、标准、神圣和有约束力的作品。《加拉太书》6:16 和《哥林多后书》10:13-16 中

Gal. 6:16; 2 Cor. 10:13–16; but it is first employed of the books of Scripture in the technical sense of a standard collection or body of sacred writings by the church fathers of the 4th cent.; e.g., in the fifty-ninth canon of the Council of Laodicea (A.D. 363), in the Festal Epistle of Athanasius (367), and by Amphilocheus, archbishop of Iconium (395).

How the ancient Hebrews expressed the concept of canonicity is not known; but it is safe to say that the idea existed long before there was any special phrase invented to express it. In the NT the word “scriptures” conveys unquestionably the notion of sacredness (Mt. 21:42; Jn. 5:39; Acts 18:24). From the 1st cent. A.D. and following, however, according to the Talmud, the Jews employed the phrase “defile the hands.” Writings which were suitable to be read in the synagogue were designated as books which “defile the hands.” What this very peculiar oriental expression may have originally signified no one definitely knows. Probably Lev. 16:24 gives a hint of the true interpretation. According to this passage the high priest on the great Day of Atonement washed not only when he put on the holy garments of his office, but also when he took them off. Quite possibly, therefore, the expression “defile the hands” signified that the hands which had touched the sacred writings must first be washed before touching anything else, in order that conditions of ceremonial purity might be maintained.

Various other and somewhat fanciful explanations of it, however, have been given: e.g., to prevent profane use of worn-out synagogue rolls (Buhl); or to prevent placing consecrated grain alongside of the sacred rolls in the synagogues that it might become holy, as the grain would attract the mice and the mice would gnaw the rolls (Strack, Wildeboer, and others); or to prevent the sacred, worn-out parchments from being used as coverings for animals (Graetz): or to “declare the hands to be unclean unless previously washed” (Fürst, Green). But no one of these explanations satisfies.

使用了 kanón 这个词; 但公元 4 世纪的教会教父首次使用“正典”这个词来表示可以收录在《圣经》中的标准作品或圣著; 如, 老底嘉会议 (公元 363 年) 的第 59 卷正典, 亚大纳西的节期书信 (公元 367 年), 和以哥念的主教安非罗西 (公元 395 年) 都用到了“正典”的这层含义。

古代的希伯来人如何表达正典观念却不得而知; 但可以说, 在希伯来人创造出表达正典的特殊短语之前正典的观念就早已存在了。《新约》中的“圣经”一词无疑表达了神圣的概念 (太 21:42; 约 5:39; 徒 18:24)。然而, 根据《他勒目》的记载, 从公元 1 世纪开始, 犹太人就开始使用“使双手不洁净”这个短语。适宜在犹太会堂诵读的作品被称为“使双手不洁净”的作品。没有人知道这种独特东方表达的最初含义。《利未记》16:24 可能为正确理解这种表达提供了暗示。根据这段经文的记载, 在赎罪日, 大祭司不仅要在穿上圣衣前用水洗身, 而且在脱掉祭司衣服前也要用水洗身。因此, “使双手不洁净”很可能表示在触摸其他东西之前, 必须首先用水洗净触摸《圣经》的双手, 从而保持仪式的圣洁。

然而, 另外还有几种颇为奇特的解释: 如, 禁止褻读在犹太会堂中用过的破旧经卷 (Buhl); 禁止将准备献为素祭的谷物与会堂中的圣书放在一起, 因为谷

The rabbis invented a special phrase to designate rolls that were worn-out or disputed. These they called g^enûzîm, meaning “hidden away.” Cemeteries filled with Hebrew manuscripts which have long been buried are frequently found today in Egypt in connection with Jewish synagogues. Such rolls might first be placed in the g^enîzâ or rubbish chamber of the sanctuary. They were not, however, apocryphal or uncanonical in the sense of being extraneous or outside the regular collection. For such the Jews had a special term, s^epārîm hîṣōnîm, “books that are outside.” These could not be read in the synagogues. “Hidden books” were rather worn-out parchments, or canonical rolls which might by some be temporarily disputed. See APOCRYPHA II.A.

B. Determining Principle in the Formation of the Canon. The idea of a norm or rule for life goes far back into Hebrew history. Specific commandments from God which were to constitute guides for holy living were given to Adam, Noah, and Abraham. These commands were enshrined in written form at an early period, and preserved in the family histories which comprise much of the book of Genesis. During the 2nd

物可能引来老鼠，而老鼠可能咬坏经卷（Strack, Wildeboer 等人）；禁止用破旧的圣卷遮盖动物（Graetz）；或“认为只有刚洗过的手才是洁净的”（Fürst, Green）。但这些解释都不太令人满意。

拉比发明了一个特殊的短语来表示破旧或存有争议的经卷。他们称这些书卷为 g^enûzîm，意思是“隐藏的”。在今天的埃及，经常能在与犹太会堂相关的墓地中发现埋藏已久的希伯来语手稿。这些书卷可能最初被放置在 g^enîzâ，即至圣所的垃圾间中。它们不属于与正典无关或被排除在正典之外的次经或非正统作品，因为对于这样的作品，犹太人用一个特殊的词语——“s^epārîm hîṣōnîm”来命名，这个词的意思是“典外文献”。典外文献不会在犹太会堂内诵读。更确切地说，“隐藏的书卷”是破旧的羊皮纸手稿或暂时存在争议的正典之作。见 APOCRYPHA II.A.（次经 II.A.）。

B. 正典形成的决定性因素。希伯来人的历史上很早就存在着生活的准则和律令这样的观念。上帝指引人过圣洁生活的诫命曾传给了亚当、挪亚和亚伯拉罕。这些诫命在历史早期就已经收录成书，它们在家族历史中被保存了下来，构成了《创世记》的主体内容。公元前 2000 年，摩西颁布了几部律法，这些律法包括约书（出 24:4 起）和《申命记》的基本要点（申 31:9-13）。 millennium B.C. collections of legislative material were promulgated by Moses, including the Book of the Covenant (Ex. 24:4ff.) and the essentials of Deuteronomy (Dt. 31:9–13).

All major world religions have treasured some indigenous literary deposit as containing authoritative norms for belief and daily living, and in the case of the Hebrews the Torah fulfilled these requirements. The legislation given through Moses was unique in binding a nation in a spiritual relationship to a living God, and setting out the terms in the manner of second-millennium B.C. suzerainty treaties. The Law thus claimed supreme authority as the revealed will of God, and from the first was regarded as normative alike for Israelite behavior and spiritual destiny. While the prophets accepted the primacy of the Law, they also believed that their own words, spoken under divine inspiration, were of equal authority with the Law, coming as they did from the same spiritual source.

Thus from an early period the Hebrews believed that God could and did reveal Himself by means of a holy book, and in practice whatever written or oral matter conformed to the spirituality of the Torah was regarded as canonical by general consent. No formal declaration of canonicity was thus needed, since from the beginning the devout believed the material to be divinely inspired, and therefore obligatory for faith and life. Each book that issued from a person acknowledged to be a prophet of God was accepted as the divine Word as soon as it appeared, because it had been written with the intention of upholding faith in God and regulating behavior in conformity with the spiritual traditions of the Torah. Thus the canon derived its authority from its consonance with the nature and will of God as revealed to man from Adam to Moses.

因此，希伯来人在很久以前就认为，上帝可以并且确实藉着一部圣书来自我揭示，实际上所有符合律法书精神的书面作品或口传作品都被普遍认为是正典。因此不需要正式宣布这些作品是正典，因为虔诚的信徒从一开始就认为这些材料源于神的默示，因此它们是信仰和生活的必需品。每部作品都是由上帝所立的先知创作出来，每部作品一经问世就被认为是记录了上帝的话语，因为先知创作这些作品是为了支撑世人对上帝的信心，规范世人的行为，使他们的行为符合律法书中的属灵传统。因此，正典的权柄源自于它符合上帝的本性和意志，这些都已向从亚当到摩西的世人显明。

In the making of canonical Scripture two parties are necessarily involved—the original writers and the Church. The former wrote under divine interpretation, while the latter, whether Jewish or Christian, accepted the compositions for what they purported to be, venerating them as authoritative. Holy Scripture itself, however, must always have pride of place over any ecclesiastical or cultic judgments concerning the canon, if only because the Church necessarily stands under the judgment of the Word, written and incarnate alike.

C. Tripartite Division of the OT. The Jews early divided the OT writings into three classes: (1) the tôrâ, or Law; (2) the n^ehî'im, or Prophets; and (3) the k^etûbîm, or Writings, called in Greek the Hagiographa. The tôrâ included the five books of the Pentateuch (Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers, Deuteronomy), which were called “the Five-fifths of the Law.” The n^ehî'im embraced (a) the four so-called Former Prophets (Joshua, Judges, 1 and 2 Samuel, counted as one book, 1 and 2 Kings, also counted as one book) and (b) the four so-called Latter Prophets (Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, the Twelve Minor Prophets, counted as one book), a total of eight books. The k^etûbîm or Writings were eleven in all, including Psalms, Proverbs, Job, the five m^egillôt or Rolls (Canticles, Ruth, Lamentations, Ecclesiastes, Esther), Daniel, Ezra-Nehemiah (counted as one book),

C. 《旧约》的三部分。犹太人在早期将《旧约》分为三部分：(1) 律法书 (tôrâ); (2) 先知书 (n^ehî'im); (3) 圣卷，希腊语也称之为犹太教《圣经》的第三部分。律法书包括摩西五经中的 5 卷书 (《创世记》《出埃及记》《利未记》《民数记》和《申命记》)，也被称为“五个五分之一的律法”。先知书包括 (a) 4 卷所谓前先知书 (《约书亚记》《士师记》《撒母耳记上》《撒母耳记下》《列王纪上》和《列王纪下》，《撒母耳记上》和《撒母耳记下》算作 1 卷书，《列王纪上》和《列王纪下》算作 1 卷书)，(b) 4 卷所谓后先知书 (《以赛亚书》《耶利米书》《以西结书》和十二小先知书，十二小先知书算作 1 卷书)，先知书总计 8 卷书。圣卷总计 11 卷书，包括《诗篇》《箴言》《约伯记》和其他 5 部“弥基录”或“节庆书卷” (《雅歌》《路得记》《耶利米哀歌》《传道书》和《以斯拉记》)，还包括《但以理书》《以斯拉记与尼希米记》(算作 1 卷)、《历代志上》与《历代志下》(也算作 1 卷); 《旧 and 1 and 2 Chronicles (also counted as one book); in all twenty-four books, exactly the same as those of the Protestant canon. This was the original count of the Jews as far as we can trace it back. Later certain Jewish authorities appended Ruth to Judges, and Lamentations to Jeremiah, and thereby obtained the number twenty-two, which corresponded to the number of letters in the Hebrew alphabet; but this manner of counting was secondary and fanciful. Still others divided Samuel, Kings, Chronicles, Ezra-Nehemiah, and Jeremiah-Lamentations into two books each and thereby obtained twenty-seven books, which they fancifully regarded as equivalent to the twenty-two letters of the Hebrew alphabet plus five, the number of letters having a peculiar final form when standing at the end of a word. Jerome states that twenty-two is the correct reckoning, but he adds, "Some count both Ruth and Lamentations among the Hagiographa, and so get twenty-four." 4 Esdras, which is the oldest (A.D. 85-96) witness to the number of books in the OT, gives twenty-four.

To answer the question of how to account for the tripartite division we must investigate the whole process by which the canon actually took shape. If the process of canonization was gradual and extended over a period of time, some books would obviously be separated from others because one section of the canon would be closed before certain other books of similar character were written. If, on the other hand, the divisions were based entirely on material differences in their contents, it is difficult to see why Kings and Chronicles were not included in the same division, and especially why

为了回答如何解释《旧约》三部分这个问题，我们必须研究正典真实形成的整个过程。如果正典是经历了一段时间而逐渐形成的，那么某些书卷显然会从其他书卷中分离出来，因为在创作其他具有类似特征的书卷之前，正典中的一部分已经完成。另一方面，如果完全基于书卷内容的实质性差异对《旧约》进行分类，那么就很难解释为什么《列王纪》和《历代志》不属于同一个分类，尤其是很难解释为什么《但以理书》不属于先知书。为了解开这个谜，中世纪的犹太人说道，“先知书是受预言之灵感感动而写出来的，而圣书是受圣灵感动而写出来的”，这暗示出两者灵感来源的不

Daniel does not stand among the prophets. To explain this mystery, medieval Jews said that “the Prophets were inspired by the spirit of prophecy, whereas the Writings by the Holy Spirit,” implying different degrees of inspiration. But this is a distinction without a difference, the Holy Spirit and the spirit of prophecy being one and the same. Modern Protestants distinguish between the donum propheticum and the munus propheticum, i.e., between the gift and the office of prophecy. They allow that Daniel possessed the gift of prophecy, but they deny that he was divinely appointed to the office of prophet. But cf. Mt. 24:15, which speaks of “Daniel the prophet,” and on the other hand, Am. 7:14, in which Amos resents being considered a prophet.

The true solution probably is that the process was gradual. When all the witnesses have been examined, we shall probably discover that the Law was canonized first, the Prophets considerably later, and the Writings last of all. And it may further become evident that the two last divisions were collected synchronously, and hence that the tripartite divisions of the canon are due to material differences in their contents as well as to chronology.

II. Examination of the Witnesses.-A. The OT's Witness to Itself. Though the OT does not tell us anything about the processes of its own canonization, it does furnish valuable hints as to how the ancient Hebrews preserved their writings. Thus in Ex. 40:20 it is stated that the “testimony,” by which is meant the two tables of the law containing the Ten Commandments, was put into the ark of

真正的答案可能是，正典是逐渐形成的。当我们检验所有的证据时，我们会发现律法书是最先被视为正典的，隔了很长时间后先知书才被视作正典，圣卷最后被视为正典。《旧约》的最后两部分显然是同时被收录成书的，因此，由于内容和年代的实质性差异，正典被分为三部分。

II. 见证研究。A. 旧约本身的见证。虽然《旧约》没有告诉我们旧约正典的形成过程，但它却为我们了解古希伯来人如何保存他们的作品提供了重要的线索。因此，《出埃及记》40:20 中提到，“法版”，也就是包含十诫的两块法版保存在约柜中。《申命记》31:9 和 24-26 中提到，律法交给了利未的子孙，由他们“将这律法书放在……约柜旁，可以在那里见证以色列人的不是”。在赫人 the covenant for safekeeping. In Dt. 31:9, 24–26, the laws of Deuteronomy are said to have been delivered to the sons of Levi, and by them deposited “by the side of the ark ... that it may be for a witness against you.” Such language was also found in Hittite suzerainty treaties, which contained a clause requiring deposition of the text in some secure location so that in subsequent generations the treaty would be available for public reading. According to 1 K. 8:9, when Solomon brought the ark up from the city of David to the temple, the two tables were still its only contents, and they continued to be carefully preserved. According to 2 K. 11:12, when Joash was crowned king, Jehoiada the high priest is said to have given (lit. “put upon”) him “the testimony,” which constituted the summary of the covenant stipulations. Likewise in Prov. 25:1, it is stated that a large number of proverbs were copied out by Hezekiah’s men. Now all these, and still other passages which might be summoned, witness to the preservation of certain portions of the OT. But preservation is not synonymous with canonization. A writing might easily be preserved without being made a standard of faith and conduct. Nevertheless the two ideas are closely related; for when religious writings are sedulously preserved it is natural to infer that their intrinsic value was regarded as correspondingly precious.

Two other passages of paramount importance remain to be considered. The first is 2 K. 22:8ff., which describes the finding of the “book of the law” and how Josiah the king on the basis of it instituted a religious reformation and bound the people to obey its precepts. Here is an instance in which the Law, or some portion of it (how much no one can say), is regarded as of normative authoritative character. The king and his assistants recognize at once that it is ancient and that it contains the words of Yahweh (2 K. 22:13, 18f.). Its authority is undisputed. Yet nothing is said of its “canonicity,” or that it would “defile the hands”; consequently there is no real ground for speaking of it as “the beginnings of the canon,” for in the same historic sense the beginnings of the canon are to be found in Ex. 24:7. The other passage of paramount importance is Neh. 8:8f., according to which Ezra is said to have “read from the book, from the law of God, clearly.” Not only did Ezra read the Law; he accompanied it with an interpretation. This seems to imply, almost beyond question, that in Ezra’s time (444 B.C.) the Law, i.e., the Pentateuch, was regarded as canonical Scripture. This is practically all that the OT says about itself, though other passages, such as Zec. 7:12 and Dnl. 9:2, might be brought forward to show the deep regard which the later prophets had for the writings of their predecessors. The former of these is the locus classicus in the OT, teaching the inspiration of the Prophets; it is the OT parallel to 2 Tim. 3:16.

的宗主条约中也可以看到这样的语言，宗主条约中有一个条款规定，要在某个安全的位置上宣誓作证，从而使后代可以公开地诵读这个条约。根据《列王纪上》8:9 的描述，当所罗门把约柜从大卫城运入圣殿时，约柜里唯有两块石板，它们继续被谨慎地保存。根据《列王纪下》11:12 中的描述，当约阿施作王时，祭司耶何耶大把“律法书”交给（字面意思：“放在……上面”）他，律法书中总结了圣约的条款。同样《箴言》25:1 中提到，大量的箴言是由希西家的人誊录的。所有这些段落和其他的经文段落都证明，《旧约》的某些部分被保存了下来。但旧约的保存并不等同于正典的形成。一部作品很容易被保存下来，但它不能作为信仰和行为的标准。不过，这两个观念之间存在着密切的联系；因为，当宗教作品被妥善保存时，自然可以推断出它们具有相当宝贵的内在价值。

B. Other Pre-Christian Witnesses. Chronologically the OT is of course our most ancient witness. It brings us down to 444 B.C. The next in order is the Samaritan Pentateuch.

1. Samaritan Pentateuch. The history of the Samaritan Pentateuch is as follows: ca. 432 B.C., as we know from Neh. 13:28 and Josephus (Ant. xi.7.2–8.4),

分) 被视为标准性和权威性的作品。王和他的仆人立即意识到, 这是古时的律法书, 其中包含了耶和華的话语(王下 22:13, 18-19)。律法书的权威性是不容置疑的。但经文对其“正典性”只字不提, 或者说, 经上没有提到正典将“使双手不洁净”; 因此, 没有理由说律法书是“正典的开端”, 因为从相同的历史意义上讲, 在《出埃及记》24:7 中可以看到正典的开端。另一段极为重要的经文是《尼希米记》8:8-9, 根据这段经文的描述, 以斯拉“清清楚楚地念 神的律法书”。以斯拉不仅念律法书, 还讲解了律法书。这似乎暗示出, 在以斯拉时期(公元前 444 年), 律法书, 即摩西五经几乎毫无疑问地被视作《圣经》中的正典。这几乎是《旧约》对自身的全部表述, 但其他的经文段落, 如《撒迦利亚书》7:12 和《但以理书》9:2 可能说明, 后期的先知们非常重视从前先知的作品。《撒迦利亚书》7:12 是《旧约》中最具权威的章节, 激发了先知书的创作灵感; 它是与《提摩太后书》3:16 相对应的《旧约》平行经文。

B. 基督以前的其他见证。按照年代次序, 《旧约》当然是我们获得的最古老的见证。它带我们追溯至公元前 444 年。按顺序, 下一个见证就是撒马利亚人的摩西五经。

1. 撒马利亚人的摩西五经。撒马利亚人的摩西五经的历史如下: 正如我们从《尼希米记》13:28 和约瑟夫斯作品(Ant. xi.7.2–8.4) 中了解到的, 约在公

Nehemiah expelled Manasseh, the polygamous grandson of Eliashib the high priest and son-in-law of Sanballat, from the Jewish colony in Jerusalem. Manasseh founded the schismatic community of the Samaritans, and instituted on Mt. Gerizim a rival temple-worship to that at Jerusalem. To this day there is a small Samaritan community at Nâblus that still follows the ancient traditions of worship.

From an early period the Samaritans had their own version of the Hebrew Pentateuch, and this was the only canonical material they recognized. According to Jewish tradition (2 K. 17:26ff.) it became prominent after 722 B.C. when the newly established inhabitants of Samaria asked for a deported Hebrew priest to be sent to them to instruct them in the Law. The Samaritans claim that their oldest pentateuchal manuscript goes back to the great-grandson of Aaron (cf. 1 Ch. 6:3f.), and while this is obviously exaggerated it is certainly clear that the canon of the Samaritan Pentateuch long antedated the schism under Nehemiah (ca. 432 B.C.). Any remaining doubts have been dispelled by the manuscript discoveries at Qumrân, which have demonstrated conclusively the antiquity of the Samaritan Pentateuch's archetype. Some have inferred from the Samaritans' acceptance of only the Pentateuch as canonical that at the time of Manasseh's expulsion the Jewish canon included only the Pentateuch. This conclusion, however, is unwarranted. The reason for the Samaritans' refusal to acknowledge other literature as canonical apparently lay in their inherent conservatism, which demanded that the text of their bible be preserved much as it was from the very beginning.

从历史早期开始，撒马利亚人就有他们自己版本的希伯来语摩西五经，这是他们唯一认可的正典资料。根据犹太人的传说 (王下 17:26 起)，公元前 722 年之后，当新定居的撒马利亚人要求亚述王派遣一位被掳的希伯来祭司给予他们律法的指导时，撒马利亚人的摩西五经的地位显得突出起来。撒马利亚人称，他们最古老的摩西五经手稿可以追溯至亚伦的曾孙生活的年代 (参：代上 6:3-4)，虽然这显然是一种夸张的说法，但撒马利亚人的摩西五经正典显然比尼希米时期的分裂 (约公元前 432 年) 早很多年。在昆兰发现的手稿使剩下的疑问都烟消云散了，并最终证明了撒马利亚摩西五经原型的悠久历史。因为撒马利亚人只承认摩西五经为正典，有些人据此推测，在玛拿西从犹太人中被赶出来时，正典只包括摩西五经。不过，这一结论却没有任何根据。撒马利亚人之所以拒绝承认其他作品为正典，显然是因为他们固有的保守主义，这要求他们手中的圣经要尽可能地与最原始的圣经版本相似

2. Septuagint Version. The LXX version in Greek is the first translation of the OT ever made. The work of translation was inaugurated by Ptolemy Philadelphus (285–247 B.C.), and probably continued for nearly a century (ca. 250–150 B.C.). Aristeeas, a distinguished officer of Ptolemy, records how it came about. It appears that Ptolemy was exceedingly fond of books, and set his heart on adding to his famous collection in Alexandria a translation of the Hebrew Pentateuch. In order to obtain it, so the story goes, the king set free 198,000 Jewish slaves, and sent them with presents to Jerusalem to ask Eleazar the high priest for their Law and Jewish scholars capable to translating it. Six learned rabbis from each tribe (i.e., seventy-two in all) were sent. They were royally feasted; seventy questions were asked them to test their wisdom, and after seventy-two days of cooperation and conference they gave the world the OT in the Greek language, which is known as the LXX version. To this fabulous story, Christian tradition adds that the rabbis did the work of translating in seventy-two (some say thirty-six) separate cells on the island of Pharos, all working independently of each other, and that it was found at the expiration of their seclusion that each had produced a translation exactly word for word alike, hence supernaturally inspired. Justin Martyr of the 2nd cent. A.D. says that he was actually shown by his Alexandrian guide the ruins of these LXX cells.

2. 《七十士译本》。希腊语《七十士译本》是《旧约》的第一个译本。多利买·费拉德尔甫斯（公元前 285–247 年）首次命人进行《旧约》的翻译工作，这项工作可能持续了将近一个世纪（约公元前 250 年至 150 年）。多利买的著名官员亚里斯提亚记载了《七十士译本》的翻译过程。多利买似乎酷爱书籍，他决心在著名的亚历山大图书馆中添置一本希伯来语摩西五经的译本。据传说，为了得到这个译本，多利买王释放了十九万八千名被掳的犹太人，让他们带着礼物送给耶路撒冷的大祭司以利亚撒，从而换来律法书，并让以利亚撒派遣一些可以翻译律法书的犹太学者。每个支派派出了 6 个博学的拉比（总计 72 人）。多利买款待了他们，并用 70 个问题考察了他们的智慧，在 72 天的时间里，拉比们彼此协作，最终向世人呈现了一部希腊语的《旧约》，也就是《七十士译本》。基督教传说对这个让人难以置信的故事进行了补充，称拉比在法老岛的 72 个人（有人说是 36 个）在隔间内独立进行翻译工作，到他们隔离结束时，每个人都翻译出一本完全相同的译本，因此他们一定受到了超自然力量的感动。公元 2 世纪的殉道者游斯丁说道，亚历山大港的向导实际上向他展示了用于翻译《七十士译本》的隔间的遗址。

Samaritan manuscript of Deuteronomy, written on paper and bound in brown leather (ca. 18th cent. A.D.) (Royal Ontario Museum, Toronto)

The story is obviously a fable. The kernel of truth in it is probably that Ptolemy Philadelphus about the middle of the 3rd cent. B.C. succeeded in obtaining a translation of the Law. The other books were translated subsequently, perhaps for private use. The lack of unity of plan in the books outside the Law indicates that probably many different hands at different times engaged upon them. There is a subscription, moreover, at the close of the translation of Esther which states that Lysimachus, the son of Ptolemy in Jerusalem, translated it. But the whole was apparently completed before Jesus ben Sirach the younger wrote his prologue to Sirach (ca. 132 B.C.).

Now the LXX version, which was the Bible of the early Church, is supposed to have included originally many of the apocryphal books. Furthermore, in our present LXX, the canonical and apocryphal books stand intermingled and in an order which shows that the translators knew nothing of the tripartite division of later Judaism, or if they did they quite ignored it. The order of the books in our English OT is of course derived from the LXX through the Vulgate of St. Jerome. The books in the LXX are arranged as follows: Pentateuch, Joshua, Judges, Ruth, 1 and 2 Samuel, 1 and 2 Kings, 1 and 2 Chronicles, 1 and 2 Esdras, Nehemiah, Tobit, Judith, Esther, Job, Psalms, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, Wisdom, Sirach, Hosea, Amos, Micah, Joel, Obadiah, Jonah, Nahum, Habakkuk, Zephaniah, Haggai, Zechariah, Malachi, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Baruch, Lamentations, Epistle of Jeremy, Ezekiel, Daniel, 1, 2, and 3 Maccabees.

这显然是一则寓言故事。这则寓言的真实核心可能是多利买·费拉德尔甫斯约在公元前3世纪中期成功获得了律法书的译本。其他的作品后来也被翻译出来，可能是为了供私人使用。律法书之外的作品缺乏统一的安排，这说明这些作品可能是在不同年代由不同的人翻译的。此外，翻译完《以斯帖记》后，结篇处出现了这样一个签名，本书是由耶路撒冷多利买的儿子利西马科斯翻译的。但西拉的儿子耶数写下《便西拉智训》的前言之前（约公元前132年），整部作品显然已经译完了。

《七十士译本》是早期教会使用的《圣经》，最初的《七十士译本》包括很多次经作品。此外，在现在的《七十士译

On the basis of the LXX, Catholics advocate what is known as the “larger” canon of the Jews in Alexandria; Protestants, on the other hand, deny the existence of an independent canon in Alexandria in view of the “smaller” canon of the Jews in Palestine. The actual difference between the Catholic and Protestant OT is a matter of seven complete books and portions of two others, viz., Tobit, Judith, Wisdom, Sirach, Baruch, 1 and 2 Maccabees, together with certain additions to Esther (10:4–16:24) and to Daniel (3:24–90, Song of the Three Holy Children; ch. 13, Susanna; ch. 14, Bel and the Dragon). These portions Protestants reject as apocryphal because there is not sufficient evidence that they were ever reckoned as canonical by the Jews anywhere. The fact that the present LXX includes them is far from conclusive that the original LXX did, for the following reasons: (1) The design of the LXX was purely literary; Ptolemy and the Alexandrians were interested in building up a library. (2) All the extant MSS of the LXX are of Christian, not Jewish, origin. Between the actual translation of the LXX (250–150 B.C.) and the oldest MSS of the LXX extant (ca. A.D. 350) there is a chasm of fully five hundred years, during which it is highly possible that the so-called apocryphal books crept in. (3) In the various extant MSS of the LXX, the apocryphal books vary in number and name. For example, the great Vatican MS, which is probably “the truest representative which remains of the Alexandrian Bible,” and which comes down to us from the 4th cent. A.D., contains no book of Maccabees whatever, but does include 1 Esdras, which St. Jerome and Catholics generally treat as apocryphal. On the other hand, the Alexandrian MS, another of the great MSS of the LXX, dating from the 5th cent. A.D., contains not only the extracanonical book of 1 Esdras, but 3 and 4 Maccabees, and in the NT 1 and 2 Clement, none of which, however, is considered canonical by Rome. Likewise the great Sinaitic MS, hardly less important than the Vatican as a witness to the LXX and like it dating from the 4th cent. A.D., omits Baruch (which Catholics consider canonical), but includes 4 Maccabees and in the NT the Epistle of Barnabas and the Shepherd of Hermas, all of which are excluded from the canon by Catholics. In other MSS, 3 Maccabees, 3 Esdras, and Prayer of Manasses are occasionally included. The problem as to how many books the original LXX version actually included is a very complicated one. It probably included none of these variants.

根据《七十士译本》中收录的作品，天主教徒认为，亚历山大港的犹太人使用“更多的”正典；而新教徒根据巴勒斯坦犹太人所使用的“更少的”正典，否认亚历山大港存在一本单独的正典。天主教徒和新教徒对《旧约》的真正争执点在于，七本完整的书卷和其他两本书卷的一些部分，也就是《多比传》《犹滴传》《所罗门智训》《便西拉智训》《巴录书》《马加比一书》《马加比二书》《以斯帖记》的某些补篇（斯补 10:4–16:24）和《但以理书》的某些补篇（但补 3:24–90，《三童歌》；《苏撒拿传》13 章；《彼勒与大龙书》14 章）是否属于正典。新教徒认为这些作品属于《次经》，因为任何证据都不足以证明它们属于犹太人认可的正典。虽然现在的《七十士译本》收录了这些作品，但这远不足以证明最初的《七十士译本》也收录了这些作品，原因如下：（1）《七十士译本》

Isaiah Scroll (1QIsa^a) from Qumrân, cols. 32f. Although all OT books except Esther are represented in the Qumrân discoveries, the scrolls indicate that neither the canon nor text had been fully standardized by the 1st cent. B.C. (J. C. Trever) See also Plate 16.

(4) Still another reason for thinking that there never existed in Egypt a separate or “larger” canon is the fact that during the 2nd cent. A.D. the Alexandrian Jews adopted Aquila’s Greek version of the OT in lieu of their own, and it is known that Aquila’s text excluded all apocryphal books. Add to all this the fact that Philo, who lived in Alexandria from ca. 20 B.C. till A.D. 50, never quotes from one of these apocryphal books though he often does from the canonical, and that Origen, who also resided in Alexandria (ca. A.D. 200), never set his imprimatur upon them, and it becomes reasonably convincing that there was no “larger” canon in Alexandria. The value of the evidence derived from the LXX, accordingly, is largely negative.

上图为在昆兰发现的以赛亚书第一古卷的第 32-33 栏。虽然在昆兰考古发现中可以看到除《以斯帖记》之外的所有旧约书卷，但这些古卷表明，到公元前 1 世纪，既没有完全形成正典，也没有完全标准的经文 (J. C. Trever)。另见彩图 16。

(4) 认为埃及不存在单独的或“更多的”正典的另一个原因是公元 2 世纪亚历山大港的犹太人用亚居拉的《旧约》希腊译本取代了他们自己的《旧约》，众所周知，亚居拉的译本中没有收录任何次经作品。此外还有一个事实，斐罗生活的年代是公元前 20 年至公元 50 年，而他虽从未引用过以上这些次经作品，却引用过正典，同样居住在亚历山大港的俄利根（约公元 200 年）也从来没有承认过这些作品为正典，因此亚历山大港不存在“更多的”正典这一点是值得信服的。那么，从《七十士译本》中得出的证据也就大多是负面的。

The MSS discovered at Qumrân make it evident that no canonical book of the OT was written later than the Persian period, a consideration that also extends to Daniel and those Psalms that were formerly regarded as Maccabean. Whatever stage the work of translation had reached in Alexandria, the Hebrew canon in Palestine was already complete in all its essentials by that period.

3. Sirach. Our next witness is Jesus ben Sirach who lived in Jerusalem (ca. 180 B.C.) and wrote in Hebrew. His book (Sirach or Ecclesiasticus) is a book of Wisdom resembling Proverbs; some of his precepts approach the high level of the gospel. In many respects Sirach is the most important of all the apocryphal books; theologically it is the chief monument of primitive Sadduceism. In chs. 44–50 the author signs a “hymn to the fathers,” eulogizing the mighty heroes of Israel from Enoch to Nehemiah, in fact from Adam to Simon, including the most famous men described in the OT, and making explicit mention of the Twelve Prophets. These facts would indicate that the whole or, at least, the most of the OT was known to him, and that already in his day (180 B.C.) the so-called Minor Prophets were regarded as a special group of writings by themselves.

The value of Sirach as a witness, however, depends upon the interpretation one places on 24:33, which reads: “I will again pour out teaching like prophecy and leave it to all future generations.” From this it is inferred by some that he feels himself inspired and capable of adding to the canon already in existence, and that, though he knew the full prophetic canon, he did not draw any very definite line of demarcation between his own work and the inspired writings of the prophets. For example, he passes over from the patriarchs and prophets of Israel to Simon the son of Onias, who was probably the high priest in his own time, making no distinction between them. But this may have been partly due to personal conceit; cf. 39:12, "I have yet more to say, which I have thought upon, and I am filled, like the moon at the full." While in the 2nd cent. B.C. the canon was already complete, to Sirach the Law was everything. He identified it with the highest wisdom; indeed, all wisdom in his judgment was derived from a study of the Law (cf. 19:20-24; 15:1-18; 24:23; 2:16; 39:1).

昆兰发现的手稿表明，所有旧约正典的创作时间都不晚于波斯时期，《但以理书》和《诗篇》从前被认为是马加比时期的作品，现在也被认为是在波斯时期之前完成的。无论亚历山大港的翻译工作处于哪个时期，巴勒斯坦希伯来语正典的主体部分在此时已经全部创作完成。

3. 《便西拉智训》。另一个见证者是生活在耶路撒冷（约公元前 180 年）的耶数·便·西拉，他用希伯来语创作了《便西拉智训》。他的作品《便西拉智训》是类似于《箴言》的智慧之书；他的一些训言可以与福音相媲美。从很多方面讲，《便西拉智训》都是《次经》中最重要作品；从神学的角度讲，《便西拉智训》是原始撒督主义的不朽作品。作者在第 44 章至 50 章写下了一首“献给祖先的赞美诗”，他在诗中赞美了从以诺到尼希米的以色列的勇士，实际上是从亚当直到所罗门的勇士，其中包括了《旧约》中的著名人物，并且明确提到了“十二先知书”。这些事实表明，他知晓整部《旧约》或至少了解《旧约》中的大部分作品，而且在他生活的年代（公元前 180 年），所谓的“小先知书”已经被小先知们自己视为独特的作品。

然而，《便西拉智训》作为见证的价值实际上取决于人们对该书 24 章 33 节的理解，该节经文中写道：“我毫无保留地讲出自己的思想，以便有益子孙后代。”一些人根据这句话推测，作者认为自己也受到了启示，可以在已存在的正典中添加一部作品，虽然他知晓所有

The prologue or preface to Sirach was written by the grandson of Jesus ben Sirach, who bore his grandfather's name (ca. 132 B.C.). Jesus ben Sirach the younger translated in Egypt his grandfather's proverbs into Greek and in doing so added a preface or prologue of his own. In this prologue he thrice refers to the tripartite division of the OT. In fact, the prologue to Sirach is the oldest witness we have to the threefold division of the OT books. He says: "Whereas many great teachings have been given to us through the law and the prophets and the others that followed them ... my grandfather Jesus, after devoting himself especially to the reading of the law and the prophets and the other books of our fathers ... Not only this work, but even the law itself, the prophecies, and the rest of the books...."

先知创作的正典，但是他并不认为自己的作品与先知的启示之作存在明显的差异。例如，他忽略了从以色列族长和先知至阿尼亚的儿子西门之间的所有人物，西门可能是作者生活年代的大祭司，作者没有对这些人物进行区分。但这可能部分是由于他的自负造成的；参：《便西拉智训》39:12，“我月满如月——饱含思想，可供探讨。”虽然在公元前2世纪，正典已经全部完成，但对便西拉来说，只有律法书是正典。他认为律法书中包含了最高的智慧；确实，在他看来，所有的智训都源自对律法书的研究（参：便 19:20-24；15:1-18；24:23；2:16；39:1）。

《便西拉智训》的序言是由作者的孙子耶数所作，他与他的祖父同名（约公元前132年）。西拉的儿子耶数将他的祖父创作的埃及语箴言翻译成了希腊语，在进行翻译时，他续写了一篇前言。他在前言中三次提及《旧约》的三部分。实际上，《便西拉智训》的前言是我们将《旧约》分成三部分的最古老的依据。作者说道：“摩西、先知和后来的著书立说者，给我们留下了宝贵的教义……这就是我的祖父热衷于阅读摩西律法、先知书和祖先其他著作的原因所在……不仅本书如此，即使摩西律法、先知书以及其他著作的翻译，也都如此……”

These are explicit and definite allusions to the three-fold division of the OT writings, yet only the titles of the first and second divisions are the technical names usually employed; the third is especially vague because of his use of the terms, “the other books of our fathers,” and “the rest of the books.” However, he evidently refers to writings with religious contents; and by “the other books of our fathers” he can hardly be supposed to have meant an indefinite number, though he has not told us which they were or what was their number. From his further statement that his grandfather, having immersed himself in the law and the prophets, and other books of the fathers, felt drawn on also himself to write something for the profit of others, it may be inferred that in his time there was as yet no definite gulf fixed between canonical writings and those of other men, and that the sifting process was still going on (cf. W. R. Smith, pp. 178f.).

4. 1 and 2 Maccabees. 1 Maccabees was written originally in Hebrew, 2 Maccabees in Greek, somewhere between 134 and 70 B.C. The author of 1 Maccabees is acquainted, on the one hand, with the deeds of John Hyrcanus (134 to 105 B.C.) and knows nothing, on the other, of the conquest of Palestine by Pompey (63 B.C.). The value of this book as a witness to the history of the canon centers on his allusions to Daniel and the Psalms. In 1 Macc. 1:54 he tells how Antiochus Epiphanes “erected a desolating sacrilege” upon the altar at Jerusalem, referring most likely to Dnl. 9:24–27; and in 1 Macc. 2:59f. he speaks of Hananiah, Azariah, and Mishael, who by believing were saved from the fiery furnace, and of Daniel, who was delivered from the mouths of the lions (cf. Dnl 1:7; 3:26; 6:23). From these allusions it would appear that the book of Daniel was at that time regarded as normative or canonical. This is supported by 1 Macc. 7:16f., which introduces a quotation from Ps. 79:2 with the solemn formula, “in accordance with the word which was written”; which would suggest that the Psalms also were already canonical, a conclusion amply supported by the Qumrân MSS.

4. 《马加比一书》和《马加比二书》。《马加比一书》最初是用希伯来语写成的，《马加比二书》最初是用希腊语写成的，这两本书的创作时间大致介于公元前 134 年至公元前 70 年之间。一方面，《马加比一书》的作者知晓约翰·许尔堪的事迹（公元前 134 至 105 年），另一方面，他却完全不了解庞培征服巴勒斯坦这件事（公元前 63 年）。这本书之所以可以作为正典历史的见证，主要是因为作者提及了《但以理书》和《诗篇》中的内容。作者在《马加比一书》1:54 中提到，安提阿哥·伊皮法纽在耶路撒冷祭坛上“架起邪物”，这很可能暗指了《但以理书》9:24–27 的内容；作者在《马加比一书》2:59-60 中提到，哈拿尼亚、亚撒利亚和米沙利由于具有信仰而被拯救于火海，但以理被从狮子口中解救出来（参：但 1:7; 3:26; 6:23）。

2 Maccabees, written ca. 70 B.C., also contains several passages of considerable importance to this investigation. Both, however, are found in a spurious letter purporting to have been sent by the inhabitants of Judea to their fellow countrymen residing in Egypt. The first passage (2 Macc. 2:13) tells how Nehemiah “founded a library and collected the books about the kings and prophets, and the writings of David, and the letters of kings about votive offerings.” These words throw no special light upon the formation of the canon, but they do connect with the name of Nehemiah the preservation of public documents and historical records of national interest, and relate how he, as a lover of books, founded a library. This is in perfect agreement with what we know of Nehemiah’s character, for he compiled the genealogy in Neh. 7.

The other passage (2 Macc. 2:14) reads: “In the same way Judas also collected all the books that had been lost on account of the war which had come upon us, and they are in our possession.” Though found in a letter supposed to be spurious, there is every reason for believing this statement to be true. For when Antiochus, the archenemy of the nation, sought to stamp out the religion of the Jews by destroying their books (cf. 1 Macc. 1:56f.), what would have been more natural for a true patriot like Judas than to attempt to re-collect their sacred writings? Though it yields nothing definite as to the number of the books recovered, it is obvious that the books collected were the most precious documents the nation possessed. They were doubtless religious, as was the age.

从提到的这些内容中似乎可以看出,《但以理书》此时已被视为标准之作或正典。《马加比一书》7:16-17的描述证明了这种说法,这段经文以庄严的语句引述了《诗篇》79:2,“正如经上所说的那样”;这说明《诗篇》在当时也已经被视为正典,昆兰发现的手稿足以证明这一结论。

约创作于公元前70年的《马加比二书》同样包含了多个与旧约正典调查研究相关的非常重要的段落。然而,在一封伪造的犹太居民给生活于埃及的同乡的信件中可以看到两段相关的经文段落。第一段经文(马二2:13)讲述了,尼希米如何“修建了一个图书馆并收集了大卫的著述、列王有关的祭品的书信和关于诸王及先知们的书籍”。这些描述不能为解释正典的形成过程提供特殊的帮助,但它们却把尼希米这个名字与保存公共文献和符合国家利益的历史记录联系起来,并描述了这位酷爱图书的人是如何修建图书馆的。这完全符合我们对尼希米性格的了解,因为他在《尼希米记》7章中编辑了家谱。

另一段经文(马二2:14)记载道:“犹太也收集了由于战乱而散落各处的书籍,我们仍然保存着它们。”虽然这些描述是在一封伪造的书信中看到的,但有充分的理由证明这些描述是真实的。当安提阿哥这个犹太民族的死敌试图用销毁犹太人书籍的办法来消灭犹太人的宗教时(参:马一1:56-57),一个

5. Philo. Philo is our next witness. He flourished in Alexandria between ca. 20 B.C. and A.D. 50, leaving behind him a voluminous literature. Unfortunately, he does not yield much of positive value for our present purpose. His evidence is largely negative. True, he nowhere mentions the tripartite division of the OT, which is known to have existed in his day. Nor does he quote from Ezekiel, the Five Megilloth (Canticles, Ruth, Lamentations, Ecclesiastes, Esther), Daniel, Chronicles, or from the Twelve Minor Prophets, except Hosea, Jonah, and Zechariah. Moreover, he held a loose view of inspiration. According to Philo, inspiration is by no means confined to the sacred Scriptures; all truly wise and virtuous men are inspired and capable of expressing the hidden things of God. But nowhere does he place other writers on the same level of inspiration as the writers of Scripture.

Philo's reverence for the Law is unbounded. In this respect he is typical of other Alexandrians. He quotes predominately from the Law. Moses is to him the source of all wisdom, even the wisdom of the Gentiles. Concerning the laws of Moses, he is reported by Eusebius as saying: “They have not changed so much as a single word in them. They would rather die a thousand deaths than detract anything from these laws and statutes.” On the other hand, Philo never quotes any of the apocryphal books. Hence it may safely be assumed that his canon was essentially ours.

像犹大这样的真正爱国者重新尝试收集圣著岂不是再自然不过的事情？虽然这段经文并没有描述收集的书籍的准确数量，但这些收集起来的书籍显然是这个民族最宝贵的文献。毋庸置疑，它们一定是古老的宗教书籍。

5. 斐罗的见证。斐罗是我们的另一个见证者。约公元前 20 年至公元 70 年，他在亚历山大港享有盛名，并且留下了大量的作品。遗憾的是，他的作品对于我们目前的推断没有多少积极的价值。他提供的证据多是负面的证据。他的确没有提到过《旧约》的三部分，而在他生活的年代已经存在着这样的分类。他没有引用过《以西结书》、五圣卷（《雅歌》《路得记》《耶利米哀歌》《传道书》《以斯帖记》）、《但以理书》和《历代志》的内容，除了《何西阿书》《约拿书》和《撒迦利亚书》，他也没有引用过十二小先知书中的内容。此外，他对默示的观点也很宽松。根据斐罗的观点，神的默示绝不仅仅局限于《圣经》；所有真正拥有智慧和道德的人都受到了神的启示，都可以表达神隐藏的道。但他未将其他作者放在与《圣经》作者同等受启示的地位上。

斐罗非常推崇律法书。在这一点上，他与其他亚历山大港人持有相同的观点。他主要引用了律法书中的内容。他认为摩西律法书是所有智慧的源泉，甚至是外邦人智慧的源泉。优西比乌曾引用过他的话：“律法书中的话语只字未改。犹太人宁愿经历一千次的毁灭，也

C. The NT as a Witness. The evidence furnished by the NT is of the highest importance. When summed up, it gives the unmistakable impression that when the NT was written (ca. A.D. 50–100) there was a definite and fixed canon of OT Scripture, to which authoritative appeal could be made. First, it is hardly possible to exaggerate the importance of the names or titles ascribed to the OT writings by the authors of the NT: thus, “scripture” (Jn. 10:35; 19:36; 2 Pet. 1:20), “the scriptures” (Mt. 22:29; Acts 18:24), “holy scriptures” (Rom. 1:2), “sacred writings” (2 Tim. 3:15), “law” (Jn. 10:34; 12:34; 15:25; 1 Cor. 14:21), “law and prophets” (Mt. 5:17; 7:12; 22:40; Lk. 16:16; 24:44; Acts 13:15; 28:23). Such names or titles, though they do not define the limits of the canon, certainly assume the existence of a complete and sacred collection of Jewish writings that are already marked off from all other literature as separate and fixed.

One passage (Jn. 10:35) in which the term “scripture” is employed seems to refer to the OT canon as a whole: “and scripture cannot be broken.” In like manner the expression “law and prophets” is often used in a generic sense referring to much more than merely the first and second divisions of the OT; it seems rather to refer to the old dispensation as a whole; but the term “the law” is the most general of all. It is frequently applied to the entire OT, and apparently held in Christ’s time among the Jews a place akin to that which the term “the Bible” does with us. For example, in Jn. 10:34; 12:34; 15:25, texts from the prophets or even from the Psalms are quoted as part of “the law”; in 1 Cor. 14:21 also, Paul speaks of Isa. 28:11 as a part of “the law.” These names and titles, accordingly, are exceedingly important; they are never applied by NT writers to the Apocrypha.

坚决不对这些律法和条例做任何的删改。”此外，斐罗从未引用过《次经》的内容。因此可以大胆地假设说，斐罗认可的正典都属于我们今天的正典。

C. 《新约》的见证。《新约》提供的证据是最为重要的证据。当把这些证据总结在一起时，就可以得到这样一个准确无误的观点，当《新约》被创作时（约公元 50 年至 100 年），《旧约》中的正典已经完全确立了，它们都是具有权威的作品。首先，新约作者几乎无法夸大《旧约》中作品名字或名称的重要性：因此，有了“scripture”（“经”，约 10:35; 19:36; 彼后 1:20）、“the scriptures”（“圣经”，太 22:29; 徒 18:24）、“holy scriptures”（“圣经”，罗 1:2）、“sacred writings”（“圣经”，提后 3:15）、“law”（“律法”，约 10:34; 12:34; 15:25; 林前 14:21）、“law and prophets”（“律法和先知”，太 5:17; 7:12; 22:40; 路 16:16; 24:44; 徒 13:15; 28:23）这几种名称。虽然名称不能确定正典的范围，但它们显然可以说明存在一部完整的犹太《圣经》，这部作品已经从其他的文学作品中分离出来，成为了独立固定的作品。

《约翰福音》10:35 这节经文中提到的“经”似乎指的是整个旧约正典：“经上的话是不能废的。”类似的表达如“律法和先知”通常用来泛指远超过《旧约》第一部分和第二部分的大量作品；“律法和先知”似乎泛指古时的旧约分类；但“律法”是含义最宽泛的一个词。它通常用来表示整部《旧约》，基督时期“律法”在犹太人心目中的位置相当于今天“圣经”在我们心目中的位置。例

One passage (Lk. 24:44) furnishes clear evidence of the threefold division of the canon. Usually the NT writers mentioned the first two sections only (cf. Mt. 5:17; Lk. 16:16), but quite obviously included the Hagiographa with the prophets just as the Talmudic teachers did, due no doubt to the lack of a proper term for the Hagiographa.

Another passage (Mt. 23:35; cf. Lk. 11:51) seems to point to the final order and arrangement of the books in the OT canon. It reads: “that upon you may come all the righteous blood shed on earth, from the blood of innocent Abel to the blood of Zechariah the son of Barachiah, whom you murdered between the sanctuary and the altar.” Now in order to grasp the bearing of this verse upon the matter in hand, it must be remembered that in the modern arrangement of the OT books in Hebrew, Chronicles stands last; and that the murder of Zechariah is the last recorded instance in this arrangement, being found in 2 Ch. 24:20f. But this murder took place under Joash king of Judah in the 9th cent. B.C. There is another that is chronologically later, viz., that of Uriah son of Shemaiah who was murdered in Jehoiakim's reign in the 7th cent. B.C. (Jer. 26:23). Accordingly, the argument is this: unless Chronicles already stood last in Christ's OT, why did He not say, "from the blood of Abel to the blood of Uriah"? He would then have been speaking chronologically and would have included all the martyrs whose martyrdom is recorded in the OT. But He rather says, "from the blood of innocent Abel to the blood of Zechariah," as though He were including the whole range of OT Scripture, just as we would say "from Genesis to Malachi." Hence it is inferred, with some degree of justification also, that Chronicles was in Christ's time, as it is today, in the Hebrew Bible of the Masoretes, the last book of an already closed canon. Of course, in answer to this, there is the possible objection that in those early days the Scriptures were still written by the Jews on separate rolls.

如,《约翰福音》10:34、12:34和15:25中引用的先知书和《诗篇》中的章节被称作“律法”的一部分;在《哥林多前书》14:21中,保罗也称《以赛亚书》28:11为“律法”的一部分。因此,这些名称极其重要;新约作者从未用这些名字和名称来称呼《次经》中的作品。

另一段经文(太23:35;参:路11:51)似乎指出了旧约正典中各书卷的最终顺序和编排方法。这段经文中写道:“叫世上所流义人的血,都归到你们身上。从义人亚伯的血起,直到你们在殿和坛中间所杀的巴拉加的儿子撒迦利亚的血为止。”为了弄清这节经文与所研究问题的关系,必须牢记一点,《历代志》是现代希伯来《旧约》的最后一卷书;按照这种编排方法,撒迦利亚被杀这件事被最后记录在《历代志下》24:20-21中。但这宗血案发生在公元前9世纪约西亚作犹大王时期。从年代上讲,另一宗血案也发生的后来的历史中,即示玛雅的儿子乌利亚被杀于公元前7世纪约雅敬执政时期(耶26:23)。因此,论点如下:除非《历代志》是基督时期《旧约》的最后一卷书,否则基督为什么不说“从亚伯的血起,直到乌利亚的血为止”?如果祂这样说,就按照年代顺序

Another ground for thinking that the OT canon was closed before the NT was written is the numerous citations made in the NT from the OT. Every book is quoted except Esther, Ecclesiastes, Canticles, Ezra, Nehemiah, Obadiah, Nahum, and Zephaniah. But these exceptions are not serious. The Twelve Minor Prophets were always treated by the Jews en bloc as one canonical work; hence if one of the twelve was quoted all were recognized. And the fact that 2 Ch. 24:20f. is quoted in Mt. 23:35 and Lk. 11:51 presupposes also the canonicity of Ezra-Nehemiah, as originally these books were one with Chronicles, though they may possibly have already been divided in Jesus' day. As for Esther, Ecclesiastes, and Canticles, it is easy to see why they are not quoted: they probably failed to furnish NT writers material for quotation. The NT writers simply had no occasion to make citations from them. What is much more noteworthy is that they never quote from the apocryphal books, though they show an acquaintance with them.

囊括了《旧约》中记载的所有的殉道者。而祂却说，“从义人亚伯血起，直到撒迦利亚的血为止”，祂似乎囊括了整部《旧约》，正如我们所说的“从《创世记》起，直到《玛拉基书》为止”。因此，我们有一定的理由推测，在基督时期，在马所拉学者编纂的《希伯来圣经》中，《历代志》与现今一样，是旧约正典的最后一卷书。当然，可能会有人反驳说，在历史初期，犹太人仍然将《圣经》写在不同的书卷中。

认为旧约正典在《新约》成书前完成的另一个原因是《新约》大量引用了《旧约》中的内容。除了《以斯帖记》《传道书》《雅歌》《以斯拉记》《尼希米记》《俄巴底亚书》《那鸿书》和《西番雅书》外，《新约》引用了剩下的所有《旧约》书卷。但即使这些书卷未被引用也不要紧，犹太人始终将十二小先知书视为正典中一卷书；因此，如果《新约》中引用了十二小先知书中的任意一卷书，也就相当于承认所有的小先知书都是正典。实际上，《马太福音》23:35和《路加福音》11:51中引述了《历代志下》24:20-21的内容，这也就预示着《新约》的这两卷书承认《以斯拉记》与《尼希米记》的正典地位，因为《以斯拉记》和《尼希米记》最初可能与《历代志》是一部书，但是在耶稣生活的年代，它们可能已经从《历代志》中分离出来。很容易解释为什么《新约》中没有引用

As a matter of fact, NT writers felt free to quote from any source; for example, Paul on Mars Hill cites to the learned Athenians an astronomical work of the Stoic Aratus of Cilicia, or perhaps from a hymn to Jupiter by Cleanthes of Lycia, when he says, “For we are indeed his offspring” (Acts 17:28). And Jude 14f. almost undeniably quotes from Enoch (1:9; 60:8)—a work that is not recognized as canonical by any except the Church of Abyssinia. But in any case, the mere quoting of a book does not canonize it; nor, on the other hand, does failure to quote a book exclude it. Quotation does not necessarily imply sanction, any more than reference to contemporary literature is incompatible with strict views of the canon. Everything depends upon the manner in which the quotation is made. In no case is an apocryphal book cited by NT authors as Scripture, or as the work of the Holy Spirit. As a witness, therefore, the NT is of paramount importance. For, though it nowhere tells us the exact number of books contained in the OT canon, it gives abundant evidence of the existence already in the 1st cent. A.D. of a definite and fixed canon.

D. Other Witnesses from the 1st to the 5th cent. A.D. 1. 4 Esdras. 4 Esdras in Latin (2 Esdras in English) is a Jewish apocalypse written originally in Greek toward the close of the 1st cent. (ca. A.D. 81–96). The passage of special interest to us is 14:19–48, which relates in most fabulous style how Ezra was given spiritual illumination to reproduce the Law, which had been burned; and how at the divine command he secluded himself for a period of forty days, after which he went with five skilled scribes to the open country. There a cup of water was offered him; he drank, and then dictated to his five amanuenses continuously for forty days and nights, producing ninety-four books of which seventy were kept secret and twenty-four published. The most significant section reads as follows: "And when the forty days were ended, the Most High spoke to me, saying, 'Make public the twenty-four books that you wrote first ... but keep the seventy that were written last, in order to give them to the wise among your people'" (2 Esd. 14:45f.).

实际上，新约作者可以随意引用任何来源的资料；例如，站在亚略巴古的保罗引用了博学的雅典人、基利家的斯多葛派学士亚拉图的天文学作品，或者通过引用吕家的克里安西斯献给朱庇特神的赞美诗，说，“我们也是祂所生的”（徒 17:28）。《犹大书》1:14-15 几乎无疑引用了《以诺书》（《以诺书》1:9；60:8）的内容——除了阿比西尼亚教会，所有教会都不认可这本书为正典。但无论如何，仅凭一部书被引用无法确定这部书就是正典；换言之，没被引用的作品也不见得就不是正典。引用并不一定意味着某部作品得到了认可，这仅仅是因为引用当世文学不符合严谨的正典观念。一切取决于典籍的引用方式。新约作者从未将次经书卷当作圣经正典来引用，也没有将其视为受圣灵感动的作品。因此，《新约》是《旧约》最为重要的见证。因为，尽管《新约》并没有明确告诉我们旧约正典的数目，却充分说明了在公元 1 世纪旧约正典已经完全确立。

D. 公元 1 世纪至公元 5 世纪的其他见证。1. 《以斯拉四书》。拉丁语《以斯拉四书》（英语《以斯得拉二书》）公元 1 世纪末期（约公元 81 年至 96 年）用希腊语写成的犹太启示作品。在这部作品中，我们最感兴趣的段落是 14:19 至 14:48，这段文字以最让人难以置信的方

The story is obviously pure fiction. It is no wonder that a new version of it arose in the 16th cent., according to which the canon was completed not by Ezra alone, but by a company of men known as the Great Synagogue. From the legend of 4 Esdras, however, it is commonly inferred that the twenty-four books that remain after subtracting seventy from ninety-four are the canonical books of the OT. This would make it the first witness we have to the number of books contained in the OT canon. This number corresponds exactly with the usual number of sacred books according to Jewish count, as we saw above (I.C.). The legend is therefore not without value. Even as legend it witnesses to a tradition that existed as early as the 1st Christian cent., to the effect that the Jews possessed twenty-four specially sacred books. It also points to Ezra as the chief factor in the making of Scripture and intimates that the OT canon has long since been virtually closed.

式讲述了以斯拉在圣灵的启示下,重抄了已被烧毁的律法书,描述了以斯拉在上帝的命令下隐居 40 天,之后他与其他五位有技能的文书来到旷野抄写经书的经过。他们在那里喝下了一杯水,上帝命令这五个文书连续抄写四十天,他们创作了 94 卷书,将其中 70 卷隐藏起来,并将另外的 24 卷书公之于众。最为重要的段落中写道:“现在你把你写的前二十四卷书公之于众……但带回你所写的后七十卷书,只把它们送给你们民众中的那些智者”(拉二 14:45-46)。

显然,这个故事纯属虚构。难怪在 16 世纪时,它又出现了一个新版本,根据该版本,正典并非由以斯拉一人所著,而是他与“会堂大会”合作完成的。根据《以斯拉四书》的传说通常可以作出如下推测,这九十四卷书除去其中的七十卷书,剩余的二十四卷书都是旧约正典。这首次向我们证明了旧约正典书卷的数目。正如我们从上文所看到的(I.C.),这个数目与犹太人通常计算的圣著数目完全一致。因此,这个传说不是毫无价值的。即使作为传说,它也证明了早在第一个基督纪元就存在犹太人拥有二十四卷特别神圣的作品的传说。它也表明以斯拉是《圣经》成书的主导因素,同时暗示出旧约正典实际上很久以前就已经完成了。

2. Josephus. Flavius Josephus, the celebrated Jewish historian, was born A.D. 37. He was a priest and a Pharisee. About the year 100 he wrote a controversial treatise, known as Contra Apionem, in defense of the Jews against their assailants. Apion, a famous grammarian who in his lifetime had been hostile to the Jews (he died some fifty years before Contra Apionem was written), is taken as a leading representative of these assailants. Josephus writes in Greek to Greeks. The important passage in his treatise (i.8) reads as follows: "For it is not the case with us to have vast numbers of books disagreeing and conflicting with one another. We have but twenty-two containing the history of all time, books that are justly believed in. And of these, five are the books of Moses, which comprise the laws and the earliest traditions from the creation of mankind down to the time of his [Moses'] death. This period falls short but by a little of three thousand years. From the death of Moses to the reign of Artaxerxes, king of Persia, the successor of Xerxes, the prophets who succeeded Moses wrote the history of the events that occurred in their own time, in thirteen books. The remaining four documents comprise hymns to God and practical precepts to men. From the days of Artaxerxes to our own time every event has indeed been recorded. But these recent records have not been deemed worthy of equal credit with those which preceded them, because the exact succession of the prophets ceased. But what faith we have placed in our own writings is evident by our conduct; for though so great an interval of time [i.e., since they were written] has now passed, not a soul has ventured either to add, or to remove, or to alter a syllable. But it is instinctive in all Jews at once from their very birth to regard them as commands of God, and to abide by them, and, if need be, willingly to die for them.”

2. 约瑟夫斯。著名的犹太历史学家约瑟夫斯 (Flavius Josephus) 生于公元 37 年。他既是一个祭司也是一个法力赛人。大约在公元前 100 年, 他创作了一篇存有争议的论文, 题为 Contra Apionem (《斥阿皮昂》), 这是一篇捍卫犹太人的文章。著名文法家阿皮昂毕生敌视犹太人 (约在 Contra Apionem 完成前 50 年去世), 是攻击犹太人的代表人物。约瑟夫斯用希腊语回应希腊人。这篇论文的重要段落中写道 (i.8): “我们没有成千上万前后不一、自相矛盾的经书。我们那些正确地受认可的经书, 只有二十二卷, 记载了古往今来的事。其中五卷是摩西写的, 包含了律法, 以及从创造人类到立法人去世的早期历史。这一时期接近 3000 年。从摩西去世直到亚达薛西 (继薛西斯后成为波斯王) 的日子, 摩西以后的先知们记下自己时代的历史, 共计十三卷。另有四卷是赞美上帝的诗歌和人类生活行为的准则。从亚达薛西到我们时代的历史, 已经完整地记下来。只是在可信性方面不能跟之前的记载相提并论, 因为这个时期的先知不能够传承不断。但我们的实际行为, 可以证明我们多么尊崇自己的圣经。虽然过了这么长的时间, 还是没有人胆敢增删或修改一个字。每个犹太人从出生的那天起, 就本能地把这些经书视为上帝的法令, 谨守遵行, 有需要的话, 甚至乐于为《圣经》舍命。”

The value of this remarkable passage for our study is obviously very great. In the first place, Josephus fixes the number of Jewish writings that are recognized as sacred at twenty-two, probably joining Ruth to Judges and Lamentations to Jeremiah. He also classifies them according to a threefold division that is quite peculiar to himself: five of Moses, thirteen of the prophets, and four hymns and maxims for human life. The five of Moses were of course the Pentateuch; the thirteen of the prophets probably included the eight regular n^eḥi'îm plus Daniel, Job, Chronicles, Ezra-Nehemiah, and Esther; the “four hymns and maxims” would most naturally consist of Psalms, Proverbs, Canticles, and Ecclesiastes. There is little doubt that his twenty-two books are those of our present Hebrew canon.

Another remarkable feature of Josephus' statement is the standard he gives of canonicity, viz., antiquity; because, as he says, since Artaxerxes' age the succession of prophets had ceased. It was the uniform tradition of Josephus' time that prophetic inspiration had ceased with Malachi (ca. 445–432 B.C.). Hence, according to him, the canon was closed in the reign of Artaxerxes (465–425 B.C.). He does not pause to give any account of the closing of the canon; he simply assumes it. Prophecy had ceased, and the canon was accordingly closed; the fact did not require official proclamation. As remarked above, the value of Josephus as a witness is very great. But just here an important question arises: How literally must we interpret his language? Was the OT canon actually closed before 425 B.C.? Were not books and parts of books composed and added to the canon subsequent to the reign of Artaxerxes? Josephus is not always reliable in his chronology. For example, in his Antiquities (xi.6.13) he dates the story of Esther as occurring in the reign of Artaxerxes I (whereas it belongs to Xerxes' reign), while in the same work (xi.5.1) he puts Ezra and Nehemiah under Xerxes (whereas they belong to the time of Artaxerxes).

这段话对于我们的研究极为重要。首先，约瑟夫斯认为犹太人的圣卷总计二十二卷，他可能将《路得记》与《士师记》合为一卷书，将《耶利米哀歌》与《耶利米书》合为一卷书。他还根据他独有的旧约三分法对这些书卷进行了分类：摩西的五卷书，十三卷先知作品和四卷赞美诗与关于人类生活的箴言。摩西的五卷书显然就是摩西五经；十三卷先知作品可能包括通常所说的八卷先知书，再加上《但以理书》《约伯记》《历代志》《以斯拉记》与《尼希米记》和《以斯帖记》；“四卷赞美诗和箴言”最有可能包括《诗篇》《箴言》《雅歌》和《传道书》。毫无疑问，这二十二卷书就是我们现在的希伯来语正典。

约瑟夫斯的陈述的另一大特点就是 he 给出了正典，也就是古卷的标准；因为正如他所说，从亚达薛西时代开始就不再先知。约瑟夫斯时代流传着相同的传说，即玛拉基（约公元前 445 年至 432 年）之后再没有人得到先知的启示。因此，根据约瑟夫斯的观点，正典在亚达薛西时期（公元前 465 年至 425 年）就已经完成。他只是这样认为，但没有对正典完成做出解释说明。预言已经终止，因此正典也随之完成；这个事实是不言而喻的。正如上文所述，约瑟夫斯的见证具有极为重要的价值。不过这里也出现了一个重要的问题：如何正确地

On the whole, it seems safer on internal grounds to regard Josephus' statements concerning the antiquity of the Jewish canon as the language not of a careful historian, but of a partisan in debate. Instead of expressing absolute fact in this case, he is reflecting the popular belief of his age. Reduced to its lowest terms, the element of real truth in what he says was simply this, that he voiced a tradition that was at that time universal and undisputed; one, however, that had required a long period, perhaps hundreds of years, to develop. Hence we conclude that the complete OT canon, numbering twenty-two books, was no new thing in A.D. 100.

3. Councils of Jamnia. According to the traditions preserved in the Mishnah, two councils of Jewish rabbis were held (A.D. 90 and 118 respectively) at Jabne, or Jamnia, not far S of Joppa, on the Mediterranean coast; at these councils the books of the OT, notably Ecclesiastes and

解释约瑟夫斯的语言？旧约正典实际上在公元前425年就已经完成了吗？其中的一些经卷或经卷中的部分内容就不可能是亚达薛西统治时期过后写成并添加到旧约当中的吗？约瑟夫斯的年代描述并不总是可靠的。例如，《犹太古史》(xi.6.13)中记载的以斯帖的故事发生在亚达薛西统治时期（实际上发生在薛西斯统治时期），同样根据这本书(xi.5.1)，以斯拉和尼希米生活在薛西斯时期（实际上他们生活在亚达薛西时期）。

3. 詹尼亚会议。根据《米示拿》中的记载，犹太拉比在地中海沿岸约帕以南不远处的雅伯尼或詹尼亚召开了两次会议（公元90年和公元118年）；拉比们在会议围绕旧约书卷展开了讨论，特别是《传道书》和《雅歌》，并确立了这些书卷的正典地位。然而，严格的说，

Canticles, were discussed and their canonicity ratified. However, it is far from certain that there ever were such “councils” in the strictest sense, and very little is known about the actual occasions of meeting. While Jamnia became a center of Jewish study and learning under Rabbi Johanan ben Zakkai after A.D. 70, there is nothing to indicate that anything formal or binding was decided in connection with the OT canon, even though certain books such as Esther, Canticles, and Ecclesiastes may have been discussed in this regard.

4. Talmud. The Talmud consists of two parts: (1) The Mishnah (compiled A.D. 200), a collection of systematized tradition; and (2) the Gemara, gēmār’y (completed about A.D. 500), a “vast and desultory commentary on the Mishnah.” A Baraitha’, or unauthorized gloss, known as the Baba Bathra 14b, a talmudic tractate, relates the “order” of the various books of the OT and who “wrote” or edited them. But it says nothing of the formation of the canon. To write is not the same as to canonize, though to the later Jews the two ideas were closely akin. As a witness, therefore, this tractate is of little value, except that it confirms the tripartite division and is a good specimen of rabbinic speculation. (For the full text of the passage, see Ryle, pp. 273ff.)

5. Jewish Doubts in the 2nd cent A.D. During the 2nd cent. doubts arose in Jewish minds concerning four books, Proverbs, Canticles, Ecclesiastes, and Esther. In a certain talmudic tractate it is related that an attempt was made to withdraw (gānaz, “conceal,” “hide”) the book of Proverbs on account of

很难确定是否真正召开了这样的“会议”，对于召开会议的真实原因，人们也知之甚少。虽然公元 70 年之后约翰·本·撒该作拉比时期，詹尼亚成为了犹太人的学术研究中心，但是没有证据可以表明，在这两次会议上形成了有关旧约正典的正式或有约束力的决议，尽管会议上可能讨论了《以斯帖记》《雅歌》和《传道书》等书卷的正典性。

4. 《他勒目》。《他勒目》包括两部分：(1)《示米拿》(编于公元 200 年)，其中包括很多系统化的传说；(2)《革马拉》(gēmār’y) (约完成于公元 500 年)，其中包括“大量对《示米拿》的不连贯注释”。《巴莱他》或非权威注释也被称为《论最后一道门》14b，这是《他勒目》中的一个篇目，这个篇目提到了旧约各书的“顺序”与作者或编辑者。但是其中没有提及正典的形成。某部作品被创作出来并不等于说它可以被奉为正典，尽管后来的犹太人认为这是两个非常相似的概念。因此，作为正典的见证，这个篇目的价值不大，它只是证实了旧约可以分为三部分，并可以作为拉比推测的典范。(该篇全文，见 Ryle, 273 页起。)

5. 公元 2 世纪犹太人的质疑。公元 2 世纪时期，犹太人开始质疑《箴言》《雅歌》《传道书》和《以斯帖记》四卷书的正典性。《他勒目》的某个篇目中提到，犹太人试图撤销 (gānaz, “隐藏”或“掩盖”)《箴言》的正典资格，因为这卷书中包括很多矛盾之处(参：箴 26:4-5)，但是基于更深入的研究，《箴 contradictions that were found in it (cf. 26:4f.), but on deeper investigation it was not withdrawn. In another section of the Mishnah (Yadaim iii.5), Rabbi Akiba is represented as saying concerning Canticles: “God forbid that any man of Israel should deny that the Song of Songs defileth the hands, for the whole world is not equal to the day in which the Song of Songs was given to Israel. For all Scriptures are holy, but the Song of Songs is the holiest of the holy.” Such extravagant language inclines one to feel that real doubt must have existed in the minds of some concerning the book. But the protestations were much stronger against Ecclesiastes. In Shabbath 30b it is stated, “The wise men desired to hide it because its language was often self-contradictory [cf. Eccl. 7:3 and 2:2; 4:2 and 9:4], but they did not hide it because the beginning and the end of it consist of words from the Torah [cf. 1:3; 12:13f.]” Likewise Esther was vigorously disputed by both the Jerusalem and Babylonian Gemaras, because the name of God was not found in it; but a Rabbi Simeon ben Lakkish (ca. A.D. 300) defended its canonicity, putting Esther on an equality with the Law and above the Prophets and the other Writings.

Other books, e.g., Ezekiel and Jonah, were discussed in post-talmudic writings, but no serious objections were ever raised by the Jews against either. Jonah was really never doubted until the 12th century. In the case of none of these disputed books were there serious doubts; nor did scholastic controversies affect public opinion.

E. Summary and Conclusion. This brings

言》的正典资格没有被撤销。拉比阿基巴在《示米拿》的另一个篇目（《论手》iii.5）中对《雅歌》评论道：“上帝禁止所有以色列人否认《雅歌》玷污了他们的双手，因为神赐予以色列《雅歌》的那一天最为神圣，所有的圣经书卷都是圣洁的，但是《雅歌》是最为圣洁的书卷。”这么华丽的语言使人们认为，某些犹太人一定怀疑《雅歌》的正典地位。但犹太人更反对将《传道书》视为正典。《论安息日》30b 中写道“智者想要撤销《传道书》的正典资格，因为该书中的语言经常自相矛盾[参：传 7:3 和 2:2；传 4:2 和 9:4]，但他们并没有这么做，因为《传道书》的开头和结尾引用了摩西五经中的内容[参：传 1:3；12:13-14]。”同样，耶路撒冷和巴比伦的《革马拉》中都包含了关于《以斯帖记》正典性的激烈争论，因为这卷书中没有提到神的名字；但是，拉比西蒙·本·拉克西（约公元 300 年）捍卫了该书的正典性，他将《以斯帖记》置于与律法书同等地位，并认为这本书的地位高于先知书和其他圣书。

《他勒目》之后的作品中讨论了其他书卷的正典性，如《以西结书》和《约拿书》，但犹太人并未强烈反对将这两卷书视为正典。直到 12 世纪才开始有人怀疑《约拿书》的正典地位。这些有争议的书卷都未遭到严重的质疑；学者的争论也未影响到公众的观点。

E. 综述和结论。我们来总结一下对旧

us to the end of our examination of the witnesses. In our survey we have discovered (1) that the OT says nothing about its canonization, but does emphasize the manner in which the Law was preserved and recognized as authoritative; (2) that the fact that the Samaritans admit of the Law alone as the true canon, does not warrant the conclusion that the Jews possessed the Law only when the renegade Manasseh was expelled by Nehemiah from Jerusalem; (3) that the LXX version as we know it from the Christian MSS extant is by no means a sufficient proof that the Alexandrians possessed a “larger” canon which included the Apocrypha; (4) that Jesus ben Sirach is a witness to the fact that the Prophets in his day (180 B.C.) were not yet acknowledged as canonical; (5) that his grandson in his prologue is the first witness to the customary tripartite division of OT writings, but does not speak of the third division as though it were already closed; (6) that the books of Maccabees seem to indicate that the Psalms and Daniel are already included in the canon of the Jews; (7) that Philo’s testimony is negative, in that he witnesses against the apocryphal books as an integral part of Holy Scripture; (8) that the NT is the most explicit witness of the series, because of the names and titles it ascribes to the OT books it quotes; (9) that 4 Esdras is the first witness to the number of books in the OT canon—viz., twenty-four; (10) that Josephus also fixes the number of books, but in arguing for the antiquity of the canon speaks as an advocate, voicing popular tradition, rather than as a scientific historian; (11) that the councils of Jamnia may, with some ground, be considered an occasion on which the Jews pronounced upon the limits of their canon; but that (12) doubts existed in the 2nd cent. concerning certain books; which books, however, were not seriously questioned.

约正典证据的研究结果。我们在调查中发现 (1) 《旧约》中没有提及自身的正典性, 但确实强调详述了律法书是如何流传下来并视作权威的; (2) 撒马利亚人只承认律法书为正典, 但仅凭这一事实并不能证明只有当尼希米将背叛神的玛拿西赶出耶路撒冷时, 犹太人才拥有了律法书; (3) 正如我们从现存的基督教手稿中了解到的, 《七十士译本》不足以证明亚历山大港人拥有包括《次经》在内的“更多的”正典; (4) 西拉的儿子耶数见证了在他生活的年代 (公元前 180 年) 先知书尚未成为正典; (5) 西拉的孙子在《便西拉智训》的前言中首次证明了通常所说的《旧约》三分法, 但是他没有提到《旧约》的第三个部分, 似乎当时第三部分尚未完成; (6) 《马加比书》似乎表明《诗篇》和《但以理书》已经被收录进犹太人的正典中; (7) 斐罗提供了反面的证据, 他的证据驳斥了《次经》是《圣经》不可分割的一部分的说法; (8) 基于《新约》对所引用的《旧约》书卷的称呼, 可以看出《新约》为《旧约》提供了最明确的证据; (9) 《以斯拉四书》首次证明了旧约正典的数目——即二十四卷; (10) 约瑟夫也确定了旧约正典的数目, 但是他是为了拥护旧约正典都是古卷的说法, 并且只是为了阐述一个世人普遍接受的传说, 而不是以科学的历史学家的身份阐述这个观点; (11) 出于某些原因, 犹太人在詹尼亚会议上宣布了正典的范围; 但是 (12) 在 2 世纪有人开始怀疑部分书卷的正典地位, 不过, 这些书卷并未遭到严重的质疑。

From at least the time of Samuel the Torah was considered authoritative because it contained the divine revelation to Moses, and it represented the standard by which other potentially canonical writings were to be assessed. The evidence from Qumrân shows clearly that no canonical OT composition could have been compiled later than the Persian period, regardless of when it was deemed canonical. The fact that some parts of the Hagiographa are older than certain prophecies may only mean that the second section of the canon remained “open” until much of the Hagiographa had been written. Probably the canon was essentially completed by 300 B.C.

III. The Canon in the Christian Church.-In making the transition from the Jewish to the Christian Church, we find the same canon cherished by all. Christians of all sects have always been disposed to accept without question the canon of the Jews. For centuries all branches of the Christian Church were practically agreed on the limits set by the Jews, but eventually the Western Church became divided, some alleging that Christ sanctioned the “larger” canon of Alexandria, including the Apocrypha, while others adhered, as the Jews have always done, to the canon of the Jews in Palestine.

A. In the Eastern Church. Taking the Eastern or Oriental Church first, the evidence they furnish is as follows. The Peshitta or Syriac version, dating from

摩西五经至少从撒母耳时期开始就被视为权威作品，因为其中包含了神给摩西的启示，它也是评价其他作品是否是正典的标准。昆兰发现的证据清楚地表明，不论《旧约》中的书卷何时成为正典，旧约经卷的编纂不可能晚于波斯时期。犹太教《圣经》第三部分中的某些章节比某些预言还要古老，但这仅仅意味着，犹太教《圣经》第三部分的很多书卷成书之前，正典的第二部分尚未完成。到公元前 300 年，正典可能已经基本完成。

III. 基督教会的正典。我们发现从犹太会堂向基督教会过渡的阶段，所有人都珍视同一部正典。各个教派的基督徒都毫不怀疑地接受了犹太人的正典。数百年来，基督教会的所有分支实际上都同意犹太人为正典设定的范围，但最终西方教会开始出现分歧，有些人认为基督认可亚历山大港的“更大的”正典，其中包括《次经》，其他人则像犹太人一贯坚持的那样，只认可巴勒斯坦犹太人的正典。

A. 东方教会的正典。首先以东方教会为例，他们提供的证据如下。可追溯至公元 150 年的《别西大译本》或叙利亚译本《圣经》删除了《历代志》。殉道

A.D. 150, omits Chronicles. Justin Martyr (A.D. 164) held to a canon identical with that of the Jews. The canon of Melito, bishop of Sardis, who (ca. 170) made a journey to Palestine in order carefully to investigate the matter, omits Esther; his list, the earliest Christian list we have, has been preserved by Eusebius in HE iv.26. Origen (d. 254), educated in Alexandria and one of the most learned of the Greek fathers, also set himself the task of knowing the “Hebrew verity” of the OT text. In his list (preserved by Eusebius in HE vi.5) he reckons the number of books as twenty-two (thus agreeing with Josephus); inadvertently he omits the Twelve Minor Prophets, but this is manifestly an oversight on the part of either a scribe or of Eusebius, as he states the number of books is twenty-two and then names but twenty-one. The so-called canon of Laodicea (ca. 363) included the canonical books only, rejecting the Apocrypha. Athanasius (d. 365) gives a list in which Esther is classed as among the noncanonical books, though he elsewhere admits that “Esther is considered canonical by the Hebrews”; however, he also includes Baruch and the Epistle of Jeremiah with Jeremiah. Amphilocheus, bishop of Iconium (ca. 380), speaks of Esther as received only by some. Cyril, bishop of Jerusalem (d. 386), gives a list corresponding with the Hebrew canon, except that he includes Baruch and the Epistle of Jeremiah. Gregory of Nazianzus in Cappadocia (d. 390) omits Esther. But Anastasius, patriarch of Antioch (500), and Leontius of Byzantium (580) both held to the strict Jewish canon of twenty-two books. The Nestorians generally doubted Esther. This was due doubtless to the influence of Theodore of Mopsuestia (ca. A.D. 390–

者游斯丁（公元 164 年）所认可的正典就是犹太人的正典。撒狄主教墨利托删除了《以斯帖记》，他为了仔细研究旧约正典这个问题，曾前往巴勒斯坦（约公元 170）；他列出的正典书卷保存在优西比乌的作品中（HE iv.26），这也是最早的基督教正典书目。俄利根（卒于 254 年）在亚历山大港接受的教育，是最博学的希腊教父之一，他致力于查明《旧约》中“真正的希伯来正典”。他认可的旧约正典书目（保存在优西比乌的 HE vi.5 中）总计二十二卷（因此与约瑟夫斯的观点一致）；他不经意地遗漏了十二小先知书，但这显然是文书或优西比乌的疏忽，因为俄利根说过旧约正典总计二十二卷，但这个书目清单中只列出了二十一卷书。所谓的老底嘉正典（约公元 363 年）仅收录了正典，抛弃了《次经》。亚大纳西（卒于 365 年）也给出了旧约正典的书目清单，在这份清单中《以斯帖记》被归类为非正典作品，但他在其他地方又承认“《以斯帖记》是希伯来人认可的正典”；不过，他还将《巴录书》和《耶利米书信》收录进《耶利米书》中。以哥念的主教安非罗西（约 380 年）提到，《以斯帖记》只是被某些人认可的正典。耶路撒冷的主教区利罗（卒于 386 年）给出的正典清单包含了希伯来人的正典书目，除此之外他还收录了《巴录书》和《耶利米书信》。卡帕多家拿先斯的贵格利（卒于 390 年）删除了《以斯帖记》。而安提阿主教亚拿斯大修（500 年）和拜占庭的利安迪（580）都认为，严格的犹太人的正典只有二十二卷书。涅斯多留教派通常怀疑《以斯帖记》的正典地位。这无疑是由于受到了摩普绥提亚的狄奥多诺（约公元 390 年至 457 年）的影响，狄奥多诺质疑《历代志》《以斯拉记》《尼希米记》《以斯帖记》和《约伯记》的权威性。但总的来说，东方教会从未将《次经》归为正典。

457), who disputed the authority of Chronicles, Ezra, Nehemiah, Esther, and Job. The oriental churches as a whole, however, never canonized the Apocrypha.

B. In the Western Church. Between A.D. 100 and 400 the NT writings became canonical, occupying in the Christian Church a place of authority and sacredness equal to those of the OT. The tendency of the period was to receive everything that had been traditionally read in the churches. But the transference of this principle to the OT writings produced great confusion. Usage and theory were often in conflict. A church father might declare that the apocryphal books were uninspired and yet quote them as Scripture, and even introduce them with the accepted formula, "As the Holy Ghost saith." Theologically they held to a strict canon, homiletically they used a larger one. But even usage was not uniform. 3 and 4 Esdras and the Book of Enoch are sometimes quoted as "Holy Writ," yet the Western Church never received these books as canonical. The criterion of usage, therefore, is too broad. The theory of the fathers was gradually forgotten, and the prevalent use of the LXX and other versions led to the obliteration of the distinction between the undisputed books of the Hebrew canon and the most popular apocryphal books; and being often publicly read in the churches, they finally received a quasi-canonization.

Tertullian of Carthage (ca. 150–230) is the first of the Latin fathers whose writings have been preserved. He gives the number of OT books as twenty-four, the same as in the Talmud. Hilary, bishop of Poitiers in France (350–368), gives a

B. 西方教会的正典。新约作品在公元100年至400年之间成为了正典,此后,《新约》在基督教会中的权威性和神圣地位与《旧约》等同。在这一时期,倾向于接受传统上教会中诵读的所有作品。但当将这一原则应用到旧约作品中时,就产生了极大的混乱。应用与理论通常是矛盾的。教会教父可能宣称过次经作品不是受圣灵启示所作的,却将它们当作《圣经》来引用,甚至用“正如圣灵所说”这样的惯用语来介绍这些作品。从神学角度讲,他们坚持严格的正典,但他们在传道时却使用更大的正典。但是,即便是对《次经》书卷的用法也不尽相同。《以斯拉三书》《以斯拉四书》和《以诺书》有时被当作“圣经”来引用,但是西方教会从未认可它们的正典地位。因此,用法标准太过于宽泛。教父的理论逐渐被遗忘,西方教会对《七十士译本》和其他译本的广泛使用,消除了无争议的希伯来语正典与最流行的《次经》作品之间的差异;教会通常公开地诵读这些《次经》作品,并导致他们最终成为了准正典。 catalogue in which he speaks of “Jeremiah and his epistle,” yet his list numbers only twenty-two. Rufinus of Aquileia in Italy (d. 410) likewise gives a complete list of twenty-two books. Jerome also, the learned monk of Bethlehem (d. 420), gives the number of canonical books as twenty-two, corresponding to the twenty-two letters of the Hebrew alphabet, and explains that the five double books (1 and 2 Samuel, 1 and 2 Kings, 1 and 2 Chronicles, Ezra-Nehemiah, Jeremiah-Lamentations) correspond to the five final letters of the Hebrew alphabet. In his famous Prologus Galeatus or “Helmed Preface” to the books of Samuel and Kings, he declares himself for the strict canon of the Jews, rejecting the authority of the deuterocanonical books in the most outspoken manner, even distinguishing carefully the apocryphal additions to Esther and to Daniel.

迦太基的特土良(约150年至230年)是拉丁教父中作品唯一传世的人。他认可的《旧约》正典总计二十四卷书,这个数字与《他勒目》中书卷的数目相同。法国波提亚的希拉流(350年至368年)给出了旧约正典的书卷目录,其中谈到

Contemporaneous with Jerome in Bethlehem was Augustine of North Africa (354–430). He was the bishop of Hippo, renowned as thinker, theologian, and saint. In the three great councils of Hippo (393) and Carthage (397 and 419) of which he was the leading spirit, he closed as it were the great debate of the previous generations on the subject of the extent of the canon. In his essay De doctrina christiana he catalogues the books of Scripture that had been transmitted by the fathers for public reading in the Church, giving their number as forty-four, with which he says “the authority of the OT is ended.” These forty-four books probably correspond with the present canon of the Catholic Church. But it is not to be supposed that Augustine made no distinction between the protocanonical and deuterocanonical books. On the contrary, he limited the term “canonical” in its strict sense to the books that are inspired and received by the Jews, and denied that in the support of doctrine the books of Wisdom and Sirach were of unquestioned authority, though long custom had entitled them to respect. And when a passage from 2 Maccabees was urged by his opponents in defense of suicide, he rejected their proof by showing that the book was not received into the Hebrew canon to which Christ was witness.

At the Third Council of Carthage (397), however, a decree was ratified, probably with Augustine’s approval, which in effect placed all the canonical and deuterocanonical books on the same level, and in the course of time they actually became considered by some as of equal authority (see APOCRYPHA). A few years later another council at Carthage (419) took the additional step of voting that their own decision concerning the canon should be confirmed by Boniface, the bishop of Rome; thereafter, the question of how large the Bible should be became a matter to be settled by authority rather than by criticism.

From the 4th to the 16th cent. A.D. the process of gradually widening the limits of the canon continued. Pope Gelasius (492–496) issued a decretal or list in which he included the OT Apocrypha. Yet even after this official act of the papacy the sentiment in the Western Church was divided. Some followed the strict canon of Jerome, while others favored the larger canon of Augustine without noting his cautions and the distinctions he made between inspired and uninspired writings.

来捍卫《马加比二书》中的一段话时，他拒不接受他们的证据，并表示《马加比二书》不属于基督见证过的希伯来正典。

然而，在第三次迦太基会议（397年）上通过了一条可能得到奥古斯丁认可的教令，这条生效的教令将所有的正典和《次经》摆在相同的高度上，最后，它们实际上被认为具有相同的权威（见 APOCRYPHA[次经]）。几年之后在迦太基召开的另一次会议（419年）上，与会者通过进一步的投票决定，他们关于正典的决议应该得到罗马主教法尼法修的认可；从那以后，《圣经》的范围的问题不再通过考证决定，而是由权威人士决定。

从4世纪至16世纪，正典范围持续扩大。教皇格拉修（492年至496年）颁布了一条教令，这条教令将《次经》包括在《旧约》中。不过，即使在教皇正式颁布了这一教令后，西方教会还是出现了意见分歧。有些人坚持耶柔米主张的严格正典，而其他人则赞成奥古斯丁承认的更多的正典，但他们没有留意奥古斯丁的告诫和他对受到启示作品和非启示作品的区分。迦修多儒（556年）和塞维利亚的伊西多尔（636年）不加取舍地将耶柔米和奥古斯丁的正典目

Cassiodorus (556) and Isidore of Seville (636) place the lists of Jerome and Augustine side by side without deciding between them. Two bishops of North Africa, Primasius and Junilius (ca. 550), reckon twenty-four books as strictly canonical and explicitly state that the others are not of the same grade. Popular usage, however, was indiscriminate. Outside of Judaism there was no sound Hebrew tradition. Accordingly, at the Council of Florence (1442), “Eugenius IV, with the approval of the Fathers of that assembly, declared all the books found in the Latin Bibles then in use to be inspired by the same Holy Spirit, without distinguishing them into two classes or categories” (cf. Gigot, p. 71). Though this bull of Eugenius IV did not deal with the canonicity of the apocryphal books, it did proclaim their inspiration. Nevertheless, down to the Council of Trent (1546) the apocryphal books possessed only inferior authority; and when men spoke of canonical Scripture in the strict sense, these were not included.

Luther, the great German Reformer of the 16th cent., marks an epoch in the history of the Christian OT canon. In translating the Scriptures into German, he gave the deuterocanonical books an intermediate position between the OT and the NT. The Lutheran Church, also, while it does not expressly define the limits of the canon, yet places the apocryphal writings by themselves as distinct and separate from Holy Scripture. This indeed was the attitude of all the early Reformers. In the Zürich Bible of 1529, as in the Genevan version in English of 1560, the apocryphal books were placed apart with special headings by themselves. Thus the early Reformers did not entirely reject the apocryphal writings, for it was not an easy task to do so in view of the usage and traditions of centuries.

德国 16 世纪伟大的改教者路德开辟了基督教旧约正典历史的新纪元。他将《圣经》译成了德语，认为《次经》的地位介于《旧约》与《新约》之间。路德教派虽未明确界定正典的范围，但也次经与《圣经》相分离，将其视为不同于《圣经》的作品。这实际上是早期所有改教者的观点。在 1529 年的苏黎世《圣经》和 1560 年的日内瓦英语《圣经》中，为了区分出次经作品，给它们加了特殊的标题。因此，早期的改教者并不完全排斥次经作品，因为鉴于数百年来使用和传统，很难完全排斥它们。

Rome had vacillated long enough and now realized that something must be done. Accordingly the Council of Trent decreed at its fourth sitting (April 8, 1546) that the apocryphal books were equal in authority and canonical value to the other books of sacred Scripture; and to make this decree effective it added: "If, however, anyone receive not as sacred and canonical the said books entire with all their facts, and as they have been used to be read in the Catholic church, and as they are contained in the Old Latin Vulgate edition ... let him be anathema." The Vatican Council of 1870 not only reiterated the decree but in addition canonized tradition.

Repeated endeavors were made during the 16th and 17th cents to have the apocryphal books removed from the Scriptures. The Synod of Dort (1618–1619), Gomarus, Deodatus, and others sought to accomplish it, but failed. The only success achieved was in getting them separated from the truly canonical writings and grouped by themselves, as in the Gallican Confession of 1559, the Anglican Confession of 1563, and the Second Helvetic Confession of 1566. The Puritan Confession went farther, and declared that they were of a purely secular character. The various continental and English versions of the Bible then being made likewise placed them by themselves, apart from the acknowledged books, as a kind of appendix; e.g., the Zürich Bible of 1529, the French Bible of 1535, Coverdale's English translation of 1536, Matthew's of 1537, the second edition of the Great Bible in 1540, the Bishops' of 1568, and the AV of 1611. The first English version to omit them altogether was an edition of King James's Version published in 1629; but the custom of printing them by themselves, between the OT and the NT, continued until 1825, when the Edinburgh Committee of the British and Foreign Bible Society protested that the Society should no longer translate these apocryphal writings and send them to the heathen. The Society finally yielded and decided to exclude them (May 3, 1827).

16世纪至17世纪之间曾多次出现将次经作品移除《圣经》的尝试。多特（1618年至1619年）、戈马拉斯、迪奥达多斯等会议都曾试图完成这件事，但都以失败告终。唯一成功的举措是将次经经卷从正典作品中分离出来，独立编排，正如1559年《加利亚信条》、1563年《安立甘信条》和1566年《第二瑞士信条》中所显示的那样。《清教徒信条》进一步做出了阐述，称次经作品完全属于世俗之作。多版欧洲大陆圣经译本和英语译本都将次经作品从公认的正典书卷中分离出来，单独收录在一起作为附录；例如，1529年的苏黎世《圣经》、1535年的法语《圣经》、1536年的《科威对勒圣经》、1537年的《马太译本圣经》、1540年的《大圣经》第二版、1568年的《主教版圣经》和1611年的《钦定版圣经》。第一个删去次经作品的英语《圣经》是1629年出版的《钦定版圣经》；但直到1825年，各版本《圣经》习惯上将次经单独印刷在《旧约》和《新

Since 1850 in Europe the tendency has been to exclude the Apocrypha from the sacred Scriptures. The 1881 ERV included it, however, and it has since formed part of such modern translations as the RSV and the NEB.

从 1850 年开始，欧洲人往往将《次经》排除在《圣经》之外。然而，1881 年的《英语修订译本》收录了《次经》，从此以后，现代译本，如《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》都将《次经》作为《圣经》的一部分。

I. Introduction.-The NT canon is that collection of twenty-seven early Christian writings which, together with the OT canon, is recognized by the Christian Church as its Holy Scripture, containing the final, authoritative deposit of divine revelation. These writings, as “canon,” are normative for every aspect of the life of the Church, be it creed, worship, or its life in the world. (For derivation of the term “canon” see CANON OF THE OT I.A.) Although the development of the canon extends into the province of church history, for an adequate understanding of the nature of the Bible one must be clear as to the manner in which the canon assumed its present shape.

There is a considerable corpus of Christian literature covering the first three postapostolic centuries, which provides the source material for this historical study. However, the gaps in the material and the ambiguity of many of the witnessing passages—in short, our uneven knowledge of early church history—mean that there will always be individual variations in the selection and interpretation of the data.

It is obviously of particular importance to know when and where and why the NT canon came to be united with the OT canon as Holy Scripture. Why did just these twenty-seven books, out of a very extensive body of early Christian writings, come to be received as divinely authoritative—even though they generally make no claim of special inspiration for themselves? The first official recognition of the twenty-seven books of the present NT canon as being the NT canon of the Church did not occur until A.D. 367. Until then the whole process of collection and ultimate canonization was one that often saw a given book accepted in some churches and rejected in others, with verdicts often hanging in the balance or changing as time moved on. How did the Church come to recognize as divine unity just these twenty-seven writings, some of which had been now rejected, now accepted, now disputed, in the course of church history? As a matter of fact, one will not find a final satisfactory answer to this question within church history. Rather, it will be seen that the NT itself generates the insights that point to the final solution.

I. 简介。新约正典是一部基督教早期作品集，包含二十四卷经书，与旧约正典一同被基督教教会视作《圣经》，蕴含了终极的权威启示。这些作品，作为“正典”，为教会生活奠定了各方面的规范，无论是教义信条、礼拜规则还是教会在这世上的生命。（关于“正典”一词的起源，见 CANON OF THE OT I.A.[旧约正典 I.A.]）虽然正典的发展延伸至教会历史领域，但是要想充分理解《圣经》的本质就必须弄清今天的正典是如何形成的。

显然，尤为重要的是弄清楚“何时”、“何地”和“为什么”新约正典和旧约正典组合成了《圣经》。为什么在早期基督教的大量作品中只有这二十七卷书被认为具有神圣的权威——尽管这些作品通常并没有宣称它们源自特殊的启示？直到公元 367 年，这二十七卷书才首次被教会认可为新约正典。直到那时，在收录新约书卷和最终形成正典的过程中通常可以看到某个书卷得到某些教会的认可，却被其他的教会摒弃，这一裁决通常是悬而未定的或随着时间的改变而改变。在教会历史中，《新约》中的一些书卷有时遭到抵制，有时

II. Sources of Authority for Primitive Christianity.-There were four focal points of authority in the earliest Church, all of which were ultimately important as factors cooperating to produce the substance of our present canon. These were the prior position of the OT canon, the “Word of the Lord,” the place of the Spirit, and the authoritative position of the apostles.

A. Place of the OT. Prior to the existence of the Christian Church, Judaism, from whose bosom the earliest Church emerged, already possessed what was essentially a “canon” (see CANON OF THE OT I). Jesus Himself paved the way for the Church’s acceptance of the “Jewish” canon by His constant appeal to the OT (see INSPIRATION). His basic affirmation was that of the OT Scripture as a whole and in its parts had come to fulfillment in Himself (see esp. Mt. 5:17; cf. Lk. 24:27; Jn. 5:39; Rom. 3:31). By continuing this “christological” interpretation of the OT the Church thereby proclaimed that it, and not Judaism, was the proper

得到认可，有时又引发争议，那么教会是如何意识到仅有这二十七卷书属于神合而为一的正典的？实际上，无法在教会历史中找到这个问题的满意答案。更准确地说，《新约》本身蕴含了这个问题的答案。

II. 早期基督教权威的来源。最早期的教会内拥有四个核心的权威因素，每个都至关重要，它们串联起来一同构成了我们现在的正典的主旨。这四个权威因素分别是旧约正典的首要地位、“主的道”、圣灵的地位和使徒的权威性地位。

A. 旧约的地位。在基督教会出现之前，犹太人就已经拥有一部基本的“正典”，最早期的教会就是在犹太人中间产生的（见 CANON OF THE OT I[旧约正典 I]）。耶稣本人经常引用《旧约》中的内容，祂为教会接受“犹太人”的正典铺平了道路（见 INSPIRATION[默示、启示]）。祂的基本主张是，整部旧约和其中的各个部分都要通过祂成全（尤见太 5:17；参：路 24:27；约 5:39；罗 3:31）。教会藉着继续解释《旧约》中的“基督论”而宣告，教会而不是犹太人，才是旧约正典的合适保管者和诠释者。在使徒保罗看来，只有根据耶稣基督在历史中的显现来阅读《旧约》才是有意义的（林后 3:6 起；参：林前 10:1 起）。 custodian and interpreter of the OT canon. For the apostle Paul the reading of the OT could be meaningful only in the light of the historical appearance of Jesus Christ (2 Cor. 3:6ff.; cf. 1 Cor. 10:1ff.).

B. The Spirit. It is perhaps conceivable that the earliest Church, possessing the basic certainty that it lived “in the Spirit,” could have abandoned an appeal to the letter, i.e., to any kind of Scripture: “For the written code kills, but the Spirit gives life” (2 Cor. 3:6). However, the Church experienced the Spirit as “the Spirit of Christ” (2 Cor. 3:17b)—and it was to Christ that all the Scripture testified. Indeed, the Spirit gave to holy men of old the inspiration (see esp. 2 Pet. 1:21; 2 Tim. 3:16) that led to the production of the components of the OT canon. So understood, the age of the Spirit is rather to be seen as a catalyst for the production and recognition of new scriptures. If inspired men of old pointed forward to Messiah’s coming, how much more could Christians filled with the Spirit use the written word to point back to Messiah’s advent. If the old covenant had its book, how much more should the new have its own “spiritual” word (Harnack).

C. The Lord; The Word of the Lord. The ultimate authority for the primitive Church was the living authority of the risen Lord Himself. On a number of occasions Paul appeals directly to a “word of the Lord” (1 Thess. 4:15; 1 Cor. 7:10; 9:14; 11:23; cf. Acts 20:35). Similar direct appeal to the teaching of Jesus continued into the postapostolic age (cf., e.g., 1 Clem. 13:2; 46:8; Didache 8:2; 9:5; Ign. Smyrn. 3:2; Polyc. Phil. 2:3; Barn. 5:9).

B. 圣灵的地位。可以想象最早期的教会可能基本都相信它们凭着“精意”而活，所以可以抛弃字句，也就是所有的圣经书卷：“因为那字句是叫人死，精意是叫人活”（林后 3:6）。然而，教会领受的灵是“基督的灵”（林后 3:17b）——基督见证了所有的经卷。实际上，古时的圣人因受到了圣灵的感动（尤见彼后 1:21；提后 3:16），从而创作出了旧约正典。按照这种理解，圣灵的时代加速了《新约》的创作和认可。如果古时受圣灵感动的人预言弥赛亚将要到来，那么被圣灵充满的基督徒又怎会不用字句印证弥赛亚的降临呢？如果《旧约》已经成书，那么《新约》就更应该包含“属灵的”话语了（Harnack）？

C. 主和主的道。早期教会最高权威就是复活的主的永恒权柄。保罗多次直接用“主的话”教导人（帖前 4:15；林前 7:10；9:14；11:23；参：徒 20:35）。使徒时代后期的作品同样直接引述耶稣的教导（参：1 Clem. 13:2；46:8；Didache 8:2；9:5；Ign. Smyrn. 3:2；Polyc. Phil. 2:3；7:2；Barn. 5:9）。

Even after A.D. 130, Papias bishop of Hierapolis expresses his preference for the living “word of the Lord”: “For I supposed that things out of books did not profit me so much as the utterance of a voice which liveth and abideth” (Eusebius HE iii.39.4). His testimony is also valuable in that his actual recall of these living utterances reveals the rapid deterioration of the oral tradition by that time in Asia Minor. The Church as a whole did well to rely upon the written Gospels for its source of knowledge of the Lord’s words, even in the period prior to Papias.

The exact historical background of the “words of the Lord” is given in the Gospels, and is very important in relation to any discussion of the canon. Jesus is clearly pictured as the teacher of a select group of disciples, who undoubtedly learned His sayings and other teachings and treasured them far more than the sayings of a Jewish rabbi were normally treasured by his disciples. For “No man ever spoke like this man!” (Jn. 7:46). It should be noted too that even the deeds of Jesus had a didactic thrust. As “acted parables” they would likewise be treasured.

The first elements of the canon’s substance must be seen as the direct result of the conscious exercise of authority by Jesus. In calling disciples and teaching them, He further provided a vehicle for the preservation of this all-important core of the canon. Studies in the Gospels have demonstrated the very early existence of the Passion narratives, of the short stories about Jesus (pericopes) embedded in the Gospels, and of some kind of collection (probably written) of the sayings of Jesus. The very existence of these collected words of Jesus and collected stories about Jesus is already an index of the essential “canonicity” of the material for the collecting community.

甚至在公元 130 年之后，希拉波利的主教帕皮亚说，他更偏爱活泼的“主的话”：“因为我认为经卷之中的内容不能像活的长存的声音那样使我受益匪浅” (Eusebius HE iii.39.4)。他的见证的价值还体现在他对耶稣语录的记载，由此揭示了当时在小亚细亚日渐衰落的口传传统。当时所有教会都能通过福音书这种写下的著作来顺利获取主的话语，甚至在帕皮亚时代以前也是这样。

福音书中给出了“主的话”的准确历史背景，这一历史背景对于讨论任何正典书卷都非常重要。耶稣显然被描述为拣选门徒的教师，毋庸置疑，门徒肯定知晓祂的话语和其他的教导，与犹太拉比的门徒相比，耶稣的门徒必然更重视自己师傅的话。因为“从来没有像祂这样说话的” (约 7:46)。值得注意的是，甚至连耶稣的行为都具有教导作用。祂的行为是“有喻意的行为”，因此同样得到重视。

正典本质的首要因素直接来源于耶稣对祂的权柄的自觉行使。耶稣通过呼召门徒并教导他们，为保护这个重要的正典的核心进一步提供了工具。福音书研究已经证明，在很早时期就流传着耶稣受难的故事，嵌入在福音书中的关于耶稣的简短故事（章节）和某种形式的耶稣语录集（可能是以书面形式存在）。对于整理书卷的人来说，这些语录集和收集来的关于耶稣的故事已经构成了必不可少“正典”材料的索引。

D. The Apostles. The apostles constituted a fourth source of authority for the Church from its earliest days. The authority of the apostles was already granted to them by Jesus before Easter (cf. Mk. 3:14; 6:7). After Easter the apostles manifested this authority in their dual witness to the resurrection of Jesus Christ and to His work and words (cf. Acts 1:21ff.; 1 Cor. 9:1ff.). For this task they received the gift of the Spirit. Although it is true that most of our knowledge of the NT apostolate centers in the utterances of the unique apostle Paul, it is unlikely that the bearing of the other apostles was radically different. Paul compared himself with them as a group and as individuals (see esp. 1 Cor. 9:1ff.).

Studies on the canon have traditionally pointed to the occasional nature of Paul’s letters and have observed that the great apostle hardly anticipated that his collected writings should someday be accepted by the whole Church as canon. True though this observation be, it is not the most profitable vantage point for viewing the apostle’s work. Rather, it is important to observe the actual basis of the apostolic work in all its expressions.

The work of Paul may be positively characterized as consciously divinely authoritative. Paul’s authoritative position constitutes the basis for his whole epistolary activity. Likewise, it is the

D. 使徒的权柄。从最早历史时期开始，使徒就是教会权威的第四大来源。耶稣在复活之前就赋予了使徒权柄（参：可 3:14； 6:7）。耶稣复活之后，使徒开始行使他们的权柄，他们为耶稣基督复活和耶稣的工作与话语作了双重的见证（参：徒 1:21 起；林前 9:1 起）。他们因肩负起这一任务而领受了圣灵。虽然我们对《新约》中使徒地位的绝大多数了解确实主要源自使徒保罗的描述，但是其他使徒的地位不大可能完全不同。保罗既把自己和其他使徒视为一个整体，又把每个使徒视为独立的个体（尤见林前 9:1 起）。 necessary postulate for the churches' acceptance of Epistles that would otherwise be overbearing. This authority is general. Paul can adjure the Thessalonian community to read his letter "to all the brethren" (1 Thess. 5:27). Or he can direct that a letter be circulated to other communities beyond the original destination (Col. 4:16). This would tend to support the assumption that Paul would have deemed any given letter as generally authoritative. For he preached, as he affirmed, the same gospel to all (1 Cor. 4:17).

正典研究通常指明了保罗书信的特殊性，并且可以注意到，这位伟大的使徒几乎不会预料到他收录的作品在某一天会成为所有教会认可的正典。虽然这种评论是正确的，但是这并不是研究使徒工作最有用的重点。更准确地说，重要的是研究所有表述中使徒工作的真实根据。

保罗的工作显然得到了神的有意授权。保罗的权威性地位构成了他全部书信活动的基础。同样，保罗的权柄也是教会接受保罗书信的必要前提，否则教会可能会否定这些书信的地位。这是一种

The depth of the Pauline authority is illustrated by his blunt demand that fellowship be withdrawn from those who refuse to obey the injunctions of his letter (2 Thess. 3:14; cf. v. 6). If his own command is secondary to the "word of the Lord" (cf., e.g., 1 Cor. 7:12ff.; 9:17ff.), it is nonetheless a command that may stand alongside the command of the risen Lord. Paul always acts as one whose apostolate is of God and unto Jesus Christ. So clearly does Paul hear the word of God and teach and write it, that rejecting his message is tantamount to rejecting Christ Himself (cf. Mk. 8:38) and can only result in damnation (Gal. 1:8).

That is not to say, of course, that all apostolic writings must have been preserved (as authoritative and then as canonical). It seems that at least three of the Pauline letters did not find their way into the canon (cf. 1 Cor. 5:9; 2 Cor. 2:4; Col. 4:16). It has been argued with some force in recent years that 2 Cor. 6:14–7:1 corresponds to the letter Paul refers to in 1 Cor. 5:9 (see CORINTHIANS, FIRST IV.D), and that 2 Cor. 10–13 may represent the “painful” letter mentioned in 2 Cor. 2:4 (see CORINTHIANS, SECOND II.B). However, even though a work stood as authoritative, it is possible that it could be superseded or simply not included in a collection. It is obvious that the Evangelists in collecting their material—all of which was authoritative as an account of Jesus Christ—did not include all the tradition available to them. Indeed, John’s Gospel affirms (21:25) that a “world” of material was not included.

普遍的权柄。保罗可以嘱咐帖撒罗尼迦人把这信“念给众弟兄听”(帖前 5:27)。他也可以命令收信地之外的其他人念这封书信(西 4:16)。这往往证明了这样一个假设,即保罗可能认为所有信件都具有普遍的权威。正如保罗所说,因为他向所有人传相同的福音(林前 4:17)。

保罗直截了当地要求远离那些不遵守他书信中禁令的弟兄(帖后 3:14; 参:帖后 3:6),即使保罗的话分量不及“主的道”(参:林前 7:12 起; 9:17 起),但仍可将他的训诫与复活的主的训诫相提并论。保罗的行为总是体现出他的使徒地位源于神,是耶稣基督赐予的。保罗显然听见了神的话语,用神的话语教导人,并将之记录下来,因此拒绝保罗的教导就相当于拒绝基督(参:可 8:38),而且得到结果只能是被咒诅(加 1:8)。

当然,这并不是说所有的使徒作品都必然被(当做权威著作,后被视作正典)保存了下来。似乎至少有三封保罗书信没有被收录为正典(参:林前 5:9; 林后 2:4; 西 4:16)。近些年来,《哥林多后书》6:14–7:1 存在着一定的争议,《哥林多后书》6:14–7:1 就是《哥林多前书》5:9 中保罗提到的书信(见 CORINTHIANS, FIRST IV.D[《哥林多前书》IV.D]),《哥林多后书》10–13 可能描述了《哥林多后书》2:4 中提到的“痛苦”书信(见

Neither does the picture of the apostolate presented above adjudge in advance that all twenty-seven NT writings must be of immediate apostolic origin. Rather, the known apostolicity of a writing must have stood as a preferred, if not the sole, basis for inclusion in any authoritative collection. After this it would be, particularly in light of the Church’s teaching on the Spirit, but a short step to acceptance of works deemed to be essentially apostolic in their teaching. Such writings could be the work of someone close to an apostle or be of such quality that their essential apostolicity was universally recognizable.

III. The NT in the Early Church.—It has long been an honored hypothesis among scholars that the early Church’s belief in the imminent return of Christ naturally stood as an important bar to the production of Christian literature and the formation of a canon. There are two factors involved here that must be considered separately. First of all, eschatological convictions did not in fact stand in the way of literary activity. They were the basis for Paul’s letters to the Thessalonians and, in part, to the CORINTHIANS, SECOND II.B[《哥林多后书》II.B])。不过，即使一个权威之作也有可能被取代或根本不被纳入正典。福音传教士在收集材料时——都是有关耶稣基督的权威材料，并没有将所有可以收集到的传说都收录为正典。实际上，《约翰福音》中指出，有一“世界”都容不下的书未被收录成正典。

不能根据上文对使徒地位的描述就过早判断《新约》的二十七卷书都是为使徒创作的。更准确地说，一部作品的使徒性（出自使徒手笔或与使徒有密切关联）即便不是将该作品纳入正典的唯一依据，也是其首要依据。有了这个依据，又辅以教会关于圣灵的教导，接受那些被认为是本质上属于使徒教导的作品，不过一步之遥。这些作品可能是与使徒关系密切的人创作的，或者作者的使徒性是受到广泛认可的。

III. 早期教会的《新约》。学者们长久以来推崇这样一个假说，早期教会对基督即将复临的信仰必定是创作基督教作品和形成正典的重要障碍。其中有两个必须分别予以考虑的因素。首先，末世论信仰实际上不会阻碍文学创作活动。末世论信仰也是保罗给帖撒罗尼迦人去信的原因，从某种程度上说，也是保罗给哥林多人写信的原因（参：林前15）。没有合理的理由将使徒书信与其他不同形式的作品完全区别开来。

Corinthians (cf. 1 Cor. 15). And there is no just reason to make an absolute division here between epistles and other literature of a different form.

Second, so far as the formation of canon is concerned, the evidences of early exchange and collection of the Pauline letters, as well as the wide dissemination of the Gospels, demonstrate that eschatology cannot be assumed as a barrier on abstract grounds alone. The most that could be affirmed is that eschatological convictions might have excluded a conscious movement toward a canonical collection. Clearly, however, even after eschatological tensions had abated, the process of canon formation continued in the same slowly evolving manner.

A. From the Primitive Church to A.D. 140. Before a large and scattered Church can have any canon, the individual components (the documents) must become known and disseminated. Even when authoritative documents have been gathered into collections, one cannot yet speak of a canon. Attainment of canonical status consists in the recognition (from internal value and apostolic origin) and affirmation (by the Church acting officially) that only certain documents in use by the Church, perhaps a smaller number than those actually collected as authoritative, are absolutely unique and normative for the Church. However, the very presupposition for original dissemination and collection is that the documents in question are in some way authoritative.

其次，就正典的形成而言，早期的保罗书信的往来和收集，以及福音书的广泛传播都表明，不能单独基于抽象的依据将末世论视为一个障碍。最多可以断言，末世论信仰可能阻碍了有意识地进行正典收录的活动。然而，显而易见，即使在末世论营造的紧张气氛得到缓解后，正典形成的过程仍然同样缓慢。

A. 从早期教会道公元 140 年。一个大而分散的教会如果要拥有正典，那么这些作品在成为正典之前必须是众所周知、广泛传播的。甚至当权威作品被收录成集时，人们仍然不能称之为正典。要想取得正典地位，必须首先得到认可（从内在价值上和使徒出处上得到认可）和肯定（教会的正式肯定）因此只有教会使用的某些作品对教会来说才是独一无二的而且是规范的，这样的作品在被归为权威作品的书籍中可能只占一小部分。但起初人们传播和收集这些作品，还是因为他们一定程度上具有权威性。

1. Pauline Collection. The NT canon itself, and then the earliest postapostolic writings, already bear witness to collection of the documents. The letters of Paul were the first Christian writings to be collected, so far as historical evidence is available. Although such passages from the Pauline writings as Col. 4:16 may suggest the early practice of disseminating a given letter to various Christian communities, 2 Peter assumes a familiar, and perhaps considerable (cf. 3:16, "all") collection of Pauline letters. However, some have assigned 2 Peter a much later date than the bulk of the NT writings (see PETER SECOND V). Marcion (see below) provides us with the first official or canonical list of the Pauline letters (ca. 140–150). Long before this time, near the close of the 1st cent., Clement bishop of Rome was acquainted with Paul's letter to the church at Corinth. After him, the letters of both Ignatius bishop of Antioch and Polycarp bishop of Smyrna attest the dissemination of the Pauline letters by the second decade of the 2nd century. In fact, Polycarp apparently was acquainted with all except three of the Pauline letters (1 Thessalonians, Philemon, Titus), and recognized them as authoritative. The combined testimony of the postapostolic fathers points to a general dissemination of the Pauline letters at the beginning of the 2nd century.

When and where was the collection of the Pauline letters first completed? Unfortunately, no finally clear answer exists. One may seek the answer, in the absence of clear evidence, along two lines. It may be supposed that Paul's authoritative position and the desire of the churches to acquire all possible Pauline Epistles led to an early exchange. The relative ease of communications in the Roman empire, the movement of Christians from province to province, and the increasing popularity and general availability of written matter all underline the probability that Paul's letters would soon have become known in, and then collected by, the Christian communities.

As an alternative to the theory of a gradual churchwide gathering of the Pauline corpus, some have believed that it is better to see the collecting as the work of an individual. Edgar J. Goodspeed, rejecting the Pauline authorship of Ephesians, has suggested that the author of this letter was likewise the collector and publisher of the Pauline corpus (see EPHESIANS II.A). John Knox has found in Onesimus (Philem. 10) the logical candidate for the completion of such a collection (see PHILEMON IV). The strength of the “individual” solution is that it is easy to suppose that any work of collecting must have been an individual work at some point. Even if it were accomplished by a church, an individual (a bishop?) must have been prominent in the execution of its publication. However, if this were the case, church history bears no early witness to such an act. Therefore, individualistic solutions remain speculative, and in some forms unacceptable.

多教会的书信。在他之后，安提阿主教伊格那丢和士每拿主教坡旅甲的书信都证明保罗的书信在 2 世纪 20 年代广为传播。实际上，除了其中的三封书信（《帖撒罗尼迦前书》《腓利门书》《提多书》），坡旅甲显然熟悉其他所有的保罗书信，并且认为它们是权威之作。使徒后期的教父共同见证了保罗书信在 2 世纪前期广为流传。

保罗书信是在何时，又是在何地首次被收录成书的？遗憾地是，还找不到这个问题的最终的明确答案。人们可能沿着两个不同的方向搜寻这一问题的答案，但都缺乏清晰的证据。保罗的权威性地位和教会想要获得所有保罗书信的愿望可能使得这些书信在早期被不同地区的人传念。罗马帝国时期的交通相对比较方便，基督徒在各个行省之间来往，而且这些书卷越来越流行，书中这种信息传播形式的使用范围也越来越广，这些因素都预示着保罗书信可能很快就为人们所熟知，然后被基督徒收录成书。

有些人认为与其说保罗书信是在教会范围内逐渐收录成书的，不如将其视为由某个人收集而成的。古德斯皮德（Edgar J. Goodspeed）不认可保罗是《以弗所书》的作者，他认为这封书信的作者也是保罗书信的收录者和公布者（见 EPHESIANS II.A[《以弗所书》

2. Early History of the Four Gospels. Without doubt the most important early collection was that of the four canonical Gospels. However, the actual time and place of their union are unknown to us. Indeed, details concerning their early collection are by no means as clear as in the case of the Pauline letters.

The Gospels were originally intended for specific sectors of the Christian community. Many reasons exist for their creation. The crucial purpose they fulfilled was, of course, to provide the missionary Church with a fuller witness to the mission and teaching of Jesus. The limited group of original witnesses could not carry out the mission Christ had authorized without having recourse to every available means of promulgating the “gospel.” Even the marvelous facility of the ancient memory was no decisive guarantee for the reliable preservation of the oral tradition. As already indicated, the presupposition of a gospel is that it contains tradition about Jesus Christ which is thereby authoritative tradition. Many heretical gospels arose within the Church, but they never occupied a place alongside the canonical four.

II.A]). 约翰·诺克斯认为阿尼西谋(门1:10)才是完成保罗书信收录工作的合适人选(见 PHILEMON IV[《腓利门书》IV])。“个人”收录这种说法的一大优势在于由此能够轻而易举的假定在某一时对某个作品的收集属于个人行为。即使教会最终将它们收录在了一起,但是某个人(可能是主教)一定为这些作品的发表做出了突出的贡献。然而,即使情况如此,教会历史却不能为个人收录成书的说法提供早期的证据。因此,个人将保罗书信收录成书的说法仍然只是推测,而且从某些方面来讲,仍然是不能被接受的。

2. 四福音书的早期历史。毋庸置疑,早期被收录的最重要的作品是四部正典福音书。不过,我们并不知道将它们收录在一起的准确时间和地点。实际上,早期收录四福音书的具体情况并不比收录保罗书信的细节清晰。

四福音书最初是供某些基督徒团体阅读的作品。创作这些福音书的原因很多。当然,其目的主要是为了让传道的教会更充分地见证耶稣的使命和教导。如果不利用所有传播“福音”的手段,最初得见证者有限,不足以完成基督所授予的使命。口传传统即使借助世代代人的记忆,也不能保证切实可靠的保存所传递的信息。正如之前所说,一部作品能够成为福音书的前提是其中包含了关于耶稣基督的传统,因此也就变成了有权威的传统。教会内出现过许多异端福音书,但它们的地位从来不能与四部正典福音书相提并论。

Although the Gospels were at first directed to particular Christian communities (or persons standing within them; cf. Lk. 1:1–4), there is evidence of their very early circulation. This is more remarkable than the circulation of the Pauline letters, considering the similarity of their content. Of course, any account of the Lord's mission would be eagerly sought after. Study of the structure of the Synoptic Gospels points to the dependence of Matthew and Luke upon Mark's Gospel. And the compiler of the longer ending of Mark apparently used tradition from the other three Gospels.

There are some evidences of the authoritative stature of the four Gospels in the period prior to A.D. 140. Notable are several instances where a saying of Jesus is introduced with the formula normally assigned to OT quotations in the NT. Barn 4:14 is a probable quotation of Mt. 22:14: "As it stands written, 'Many are called, but few are chosen.'" 2 Clem 2:4 is a clear reference to Mt. 9:13: "Another scripture says, 'I came not to call the righteous, but sinners.'" One may also note 2 Clem 14:1, which speaks of "the Scripture which says, 'My house became a den of thieves'" (cf. Mk. 11:17). By and large it is not until the next main period that the collection of four Gospels came to be recognized as possessing full canonical stature.

B. From A.D. 140 to 180. The dates A.D. 140–180 mark off a second main period

虽然四福音书最初是为特定的基督徒团体（或其中的基督徒；参：路 1:1-4）准备的，但是证据表明它们很早就开始流传。四福音书的传播比保罗书信的传播更为值得关注，因为它们的内容非常相似。当然，基督徒急切地想要从中找出关于主的使命的描述。对观福音书的结构研究表明，《马太福音》和《路加福音》都依赖于《马可福音》。更长版本《马可福音》的编辑者显然使用了其他三卷福音书中的传说。

有证据可以表明公元 140 年之前四福音书的权威地位。其中几个证据值得注意，这些证据在引述耶稣的话语时会用到一个惯用语，《新约》在引用《旧约》的内容时通常会用到这个惯用语。《巴拿巴书信》4:14 可能引用了《马太福音》22:14 中的经文：“正如经上说，‘被召的人多，选上的人少。’”《革利免二书》2:4 显然引用了《马太福音》9:13 中的经文：“另一处经上说，‘我来本不是召义人，乃是召罪人。’”人们可能还会注意到《革利免二书》14:1 中提到，“经上記着说，‘我的殿成为贼窝了’”（参：可 11:17）。总的来说，直到下一个主要时期，四福音书的正典地位才被完全认可。

*B. 从公元 140 年到 180 年。*从公元 140 年至 180 年是正典发展的第二个主要时

in the development of the canon. In this period a number of leading personalities in the Church provide a fuller and more concrete witness to the ongoing development of the canon. Their testimony is especially valuable because of their acquaintance with widely scattered areas of the Church in the Roman empire.

1. Place of Marcion. At the beginning of this period stands one whose role in the formation of the canon is unique. Marcion of Sinope in Pontus (Asia Minor) came to Rome in A.D. 139, and by 144 he was expelled from that church because of his gnostic-tinged heretical views. In conjunction with his rejection of the OT as the product of a God inferior to the God of Jesus (the Christian God), Marcion himself established a distinctively “Christian” canon. This is the first list or canon of exclusively Christian scriptures of which we have any knowledge. Of particular importance was the bipartite formal structure of this hyper-Paulinistic canon. Marcion himself designated the two parts as “gospel” and “apostle” (Gk. euangélion, apóstolos). Luke merited inclusion in this canon—the sole Gospel included—because of his association with Paul; and the apostolic section was limited to ten Pauline Epistles (the Pastorals are missing). Marcion purged from Luke’s Gospel any passages incompatible with his own doctrine, and in the apostolic section he gave Galatians a leading position because of its anti-Judaizing thrust.

The work of Marcion, though heretical, is important because it represents a direct, unique attempt by an individual to establish a Christian canon. Many scholars (esp. Harnack) are of the opinion that it was in conscious reaction to the work of this very influential heretic (Marcionitic churches sprang up in alarming number from East to West) that the Church established the basic dimensions of the present canon. It is questionable, however, whether Marcion's role was anything more than catalytic. For the Church did not immediately counter with an orthodox canon. In fact, it is not until the Muratorian Canon (see III.C.2 below) of a half-century later that we actually find an official list produced for the Christian community. Moreover, prior to Marcion the Gospels were already accepted as Scriptures, and the letters of Paul had long since been available in collected (and for some, authoritative) form. In her struggle with Marcion, the Church, unlike Marcion, did not seek to satisfy her immediate need by sudden reduction and fixation. Rather, the recognition of many non-Pauline writings continued to remain an open question. The production of the Muratorian Canon, both as and when it appeared, is entirely conceivable had Marcion never existed. At the most, Marcion's canon may have hastened the day when the Church officially accorded the apostolic writings the same full authority as the four Gospels.

期。在这一时期，教会中很多主要人物为正典的继续发展作了更充分、更具体的见证。他们的见证是极有价值的，因为他们熟悉广泛分布于罗马帝国各地的教会。

1. 马吉安的地位。这一时期初期的一个 人物在正典的形成过程中发挥了独特的作用。本都（小亚细亚）西诺普的马吉安于 139 年来到了罗马，并于 144 年被赶出了罗马教会，因为他传扬诺斯替教派的异端教训。他否认《旧约》的地位，认为它是一位地位低于耶稣父神（基督教的神）的神默示的作品，同时还创造了一个与众不同的“基督教”正典。这是我们知道的第一个正典目录或唯一的基督教圣经正典。尤为重要的是，这部高于保罗神学的正典分成两部分。马吉安本人将这两部分命名为“福音书”和“使徒书信”（希腊语：euangélion 和 apóstolos）。由于路加与保罗的关系，《路加福音》理所当然被收录为正典——这也是唯一一部被收录为正典的福音书；使徒部分仅包括十封保罗书信（不包括教牧书信）。马吉安删除了《路加福音》中所有不符合他的教义的段落，他认为《加拉太书》在使徒书中居于主导地位，因为《加拉太书》反对信奉犹太教。

马吉安的作品虽然属于异端作品，却是很重要的作品，因为它体现出个人为构建一部基督教正典所作的直接而独特

2. Added Threat of Montanism. Shortly after Marcion's removal from the Church at Rome, a new heresy sprang up in Asia Minor and worked its way westward. Montanus, a converted pagan priest, and his prophetess-disciples Prisca and Maximilla claimed to be the bearers of a new divine revelation. This tendency to expand the "canon," coupled with

2. 孟他努主义带来的威胁。在马吉安被赶出罗马教会之后不久，小亚细亚出现了一种新的异端邪说，这一学说逐渐向西方传播。孟他努原是异教祭司，后改信基督教，他和他的女先知门徒百基拉和马克西米拿自称得到了神新的启示。这种扩大“正典”范围的趋势和马吉安减少正典书卷的做法立即促使教会做出确定正统正典范围的首次尝试。

Marcion's narrowing of what was acceptable, immediately preceded the first efforts of the Church to fix the canon officially.

3. Justin Martyr. Justin Martyr, an orthodox contemporary of Marcion, wrote his famous Apology and Dialogue with Trypho in Rome between 150 and 160. Here, Justin reports that the Church in its Sunday worship reads "the memoirs of the apostles or the prophetic writings" (Apol. i.67.3). These "memoirs" are the "Gospels" (Dial. 66.3, the first instance in which the term "Gospel" clearly designates a book). Although Justin surely knew all four Gospels, there is no absolutely clear instance of a citation from John's Gospel in his works (but see Apol. i.61.4; Dial. 63; 88). That his pupil Tatian later compiled the famous Diatessaron, using all four Gospels (but only the four), is some evidence of a similar regard by Justin. While other NT writings do not appear as Scripture in Justin, he does appeal to the Apocalypse as authoritative. He also knows the letters of Paul, as well as Hebrews and Acts.

4. Other Christian Writers. Other significant testimony appears in this period. Melito of Sardis (prior to 180) speaks of the "books of the Old Covenant"; these pre-suppose "books of the New Covenant" (likewise authoritative) as a counterpart. Athenagoras of Athens (also prior to 180), in his treatise on the resurrection, appeals to the work of Paul (1 Cor. 15) as if it were canonical. The Scillitan Martyrs (180) in their trial prior to being sentenced to death by the Carthaginian proconsul, answered that the books they were treasuring were "the books and

3. 殉道者游斯丁。游斯丁是与马吉安同时代的正统基督徒，他于公元 150 年至 160 年在罗马创作了著名的《护教书》和《与特来弗对话录》。游斯丁在他的作品中记录了，教会在星期日礼拜时诵读“使徒的回忆录或先知书”(Apol. i.67.3)。这些“回忆录”是“福音书”(Dial. 66.3, 首次明确用“福音书”来命名一卷书)。虽然游斯丁显然知晓四福音书，但是没有确凿的证据可以证明他的作品中引用了《约翰福音》中的内容(另见 Apol. i.61.4; Dial. 63; 88)。他的门生他提安后来编著了著名的《四福音合参》，其中引用了四卷福音书的内容(但只引用了这四卷福音书)，这也为游斯丁推崇福音书提供了一些证据。虽然在游斯丁的著作中新约的其他经卷未被视作圣经，但他确实认为《启示录》是权威之作。他也知晓保罗书信、《希伯来书》和《使徒行传》。

4. 其他基督教作家。这一时期还出现了其他的重要证据。撒狄的墨利托(公元 180 年之前)提及了“旧约”和与之相对应的假想中的“新约”(同样具有权威)。雅典的雅典那歌拉(也是在公元 180 年之前)在他的论文《论复活》中引用了保罗的作品(林前 15)，他将保罗的这部作品当做正典来引用。殉道者西利坦(公元 180 年)在被迦太基总督处死前，在一次审判中说，他们珍藏的书卷是“圣书和义人保罗的书信”。如果这些“圣书”被认为是《旧约》和福音书，那么保罗书信至少在该地尚未完全被认可为圣经正典。

Epistles of Paul a just man.” If it be supposed that the “books” are the OT Scriptures and the Gospels, then it would appear that the Pauline Epistles had not quite attained the full status of Scripture, at least in that locality.

C. A.D. 180 and After. From this time on there is an entirely new situation. Lists of accepted books appear. The concreteness of the canon is such that it can become an object of theological reflection. Leading personalities from East to West attest a fuller (but not complete) and generally uniform canon.

1. Irenaeus. In his principal work, Against Heresies, Irenaeus gives a comprehensive picture of the situation that must have prevailed in both Rome and south Gaul from A.D. 180. If one assumes his recognition of Philemon (not cited because of its brevity), then Irenaeus cites twenty-two writings as canonical. These are the Gospels, Acts, thirteen Pauline Epistles, 1 Peter, 1 and 2 John of the Catholic Epistles, and the Apocalypse. Although he knew Hebrews, in keeping with the current practice of the Western Church he did not accord it full recognition. His citation of the Shepherd of Hermas with the formula “Scripture says” is noteworthy in that it shows that Christian writings other than our canonical twenty-seven were often accepted as Scripture during this period.

2. Muratorian Fragment. The Muratorian Fragment is named after its discoverer, the Italian historian Muratori, who published it in 1740. Written in barbarous Latin, the record is important because it contains a list of books which are for “the whole Church” (lines 55ff.) and which are deemed “apostolic” (line 80), and may therefore be “publicly read in the Church” (lines 77, 73). The Fragment also gives details concerning the author, destination, occasion, and purpose of the books listed. Although in fragmentary condition, it is clear that it listed twenty-two of the present twenty-seven canonical books, as well as the Apocalypse of Peter; the writer of the Fragment notes that many object to the public use of this book in the Church. Not included in the list are Hebrews, 1 and 2 Peter, 3 John, and James. The author’s lengthy argument against the inclusion of the Shepherd of Hermas indicates that the work was in fact accorded something approximating canonical status by some (cf. Irenaeus, above). It has been suggested that Hippolytus, an antipope in Rome after 217, was the author of the Fragment. In the known writings of Hippolytus, he includes at least twenty-one books as having canonical status. Unlike the Fragment, he includes 1 and 2 Peter, but omits Philemon, 2 John, and Jude.

C. 公元 180 年及其后。从公元 180 年开始出现了一个截然不同的新形势。公认的正典书目出现了。正典的具体性体现在它可以成为神学的研究对象。东方和西方的重要人物都能证明此时出现了一部更加完整（但未彻底确立）且得到普遍接受的正典。

1. 爱任纽。爱任纽在他的主要作品《驳异端》中全面阐述了公元 180 年之后罗马和南高卢的主流形势。如果说爱任纽认可《腓利门书》的正典地位（因为这卷书比较简短，所以把他没有引用这卷书中的内容），那么他总共将二十二卷书当作正典来引用。这二十二卷书包括四福音书、《使徒行传》、十三封保罗书信、《彼得前书》、大公书信中的《约翰一书》与《约翰二书》和《启示录》。虽然他知晓《希伯来书》，但为了与西方教会的当时的惯例保持一致，他并不完全认可这部书的地位。值得注意的是，他用“经上記着说”这样的惯用语引用了《黑马牧人书》中的内容，这说明除了《新约》的二十七卷正典之外，这一时期也通常将基督教作品视为《圣经》。

2. 《穆拉多利残篇》。《穆拉多利残篇》以他的发现者意大利历史学家穆拉多利的名字来命名，这位历史学家于 1740 年公布了这部作品。这份记录是用不规范的拉丁语写成的，它是一部重要的作品，因为其中包含了供“所有教会”（55 行起）使用的书卷目录，也因为这些书

3. Tertullian and the African Church. Tertullian also bears witness to a rather clearly fixed canon, which he divides into an evangelical and an apostolic “instrument.” For him also a writing must be by an apostle or composed under apostolic authority in order to be acceptable. His canon of twenty-two books includes the four Gospels, Acts, thirteen Pauline Epistles, 1 Peter, John, Jude, and Revelation.

4. Egypt and Palestine. Clement of Alexandria and his illustrious successor in the Alexandrian catechetical school, Origen, give the earliest extensive

3. 特土良和非洲教会。特土良也为一部相当明确的正典作了见证,他将新约正典分为福音“部分”和使徒“部分”。在他看来,只有使徒创作的作品或具有使徒权威的作品才能被认可为正典。他列出的二十二部正典包括四福音书、《使徒行传》、十三封保罗书信、《彼得前书》《约翰书信》《犹大书》和《启示录》。

4. 埃及和巴勒斯坦。亚历山大的革利免和他的著名继任者亚历山大港教理学院院长俄利根最早为正典在帝国东部地区的形成过程提供了大量的证据。革

testimony to the progress of the canon in the Eastern area of the empire. Clement apparently knew and used all twenty-seven books of the present NT canon, as well as a number of other Christian writings which he held to be inspired in some instances. He follows the general course of the Church in according canonical status to only the four Gospels.

We can thank Origen (185–255) for his particular concern to present the status of the canon in the many churches with which he was acquainted. His influential position meant that his findings and own evaluation of them were to influence the Church in the following generations. He notes three classes of “Scripture.” The first consists of those books which are not subject to dispute or are “acknowledged.” These were the four Gospels, thirteen Pauline letters, 1 Peter, 1 John, Acts, and Revelation. Those which were disputed constituted the second class: 2 Peter, 2 and 3 John, Hebrews, James, and Jude. The position of the Shepherd of Hermas, Barnabas, and the Didache was authoritative, but it is doubtful whether he recognized any of the three as possessing the full canonical status of the first class. In the third group he sets books that are “false.” These were the heretical gospels still being circulated.

5. Eusebius. The great church historian Eusebius of Caesarea (ca. 260–340) conducted a similar investigation, and he likewise divided the books into three categories (acknowledged, disputed, heretical). His “acknowledged” category differs from Origen’s in that Hebrews is included (as Pauline—though it is noted that the church at Rome does not accept it) and Revelation is set forth as a book that is not fully accepted by all. The second class is really divided into two groups, those whose canonicity is disputed, and those which are spurious. Disputed are James, Jude, 2 Peter, and 2 and 3 John. Among the spurious writings are the Didache, Barnabas, and the Shepherd of Hermas. The “acknowledged” books and the “disputed” writings of the second class actually constitute the twenty-seven books of the present canon. Heretical gospels and heretical acts made up the third class of writings.

利免显然知晓并引用过现在全部的二十七卷新约正典和其他大量基督教作品，他有时认为这些基督教作品也是受圣灵感动创作的作品。他遵循教会的普遍观点，仅承认四福音书的正典地位。

我们要感谢俄利根（185 年至 255 年）对正典地位的特殊关注，许多俄利根熟悉的教会因为他才开始关注正典的地位。他是很有影响力的人物，这意味着他的研究结果和对正典的评价会对接下来几代教会产生深远影响。他特别提到了“圣经”的三大类。第一类由那些不存在争议或“公认的”书卷组成。它们是四福音书、十三封保罗书信、《彼得前书》《约翰一书》《使徒行传》和《启示录》。第二类由那些存在争议的书卷组成，它们是《彼得后书》《约翰二书》和《约翰三书》《希伯来书》《雅各书》和《犹大书》。《黑马牧人书》《巴拿巴书信》和《十二使徒遗训》也拥有权威地位，但不能确定俄利根是否认为这三部作品拥有与第一类作品同等的正典地位。他称第三类为“伪书”。它们是当时仍在传播的异端福音书。

5. 优西比乌。凯撒利亚伟大的教会历史学家优西比乌(约公元 260 年至 340 年)也展开了类似的调查研究，他也将这些书卷分成三部分（公认的书卷、有争议书卷和异端书卷）。优西比乌的“公认”书卷与俄利根的“公认”书卷的不同点在于其中收录了《希伯来书》（将其归为保罗的作品——但需要注意的是罗马教会不承认这卷书），并将《启示录》

6. Some Final Landmarks. The extant works of the fathers provide a rich store of testimony to the status of the canon in the late 3rd and 4th centuries. The various national churches, as time passed, came to occupy increasingly similar points of view. (However, the Syrian Church long constituted an exception to this general agreement.) Most significant for us is the thirty-ninth Easter letter (367) of the great Alexandrian theologian Athanasius. Here for the first time stands a list in which the twenty-seven books of the present NT canon are declared to be the canonical collection, to which nothing is to be added, from which nothing may be taken away. The decree undoubtedly was an influential instrument for fixing opinion in the Eastern Church. Jerome’s translation of the Greek Scripture into Latin at the request of the Roman bishop Damasus was likewise a notable landmark; in it (the present Vulgate) are included the canonical twenty-seven books. In Africa the Third Council of Carthage (397), of which Augustine was an influential member, likewise acknowledged the present twenty-seven books as the canon. Thus, we see at approximately the same time in churches throughout the empire a unified decision fixing the limits and contents of the canon. Their common action is a testimony both to the varied history of the canonical books until that time and to the Church's recognition that it could best serve Christ through the instrument of a Word in all parts of which the whole Church could hear Christ speaking.

6. 最后的里程碑。现存的教父作品为公元3世纪末期和4世纪的正典地位提供了丰富的证据。随着时间的推移，很多国家的教会逐渐持有类似的观点。（然而，叙利亚教会长久以来一直持有不同的观点。）最值得我们关注的是亚历山大港神学家亚他那修的第三十九封复活节书信（367年）。这封书信首次列出了现在新约正典中的二十七卷书，并承认它们是正典，不能再添加一卷书，也不能减少其中任何一卷书。颁布这条教令无疑是统一东方教会观点的有力举措。耶柔米应罗马主教达玛苏的要求将希腊语《圣经》译成了拉丁语，这同样是一座引人注目的里程碑；这个译本（现在的《武加大译本》）中收录了二十七卷正典。在非洲，迦太基第三次会议（397年）上同样承认现在的这二十七卷书为正典，奥古斯丁是本次会议中的一个很有影响力的人物。因此，我们看到，帝国范围内的教会几乎在同一时间一致确立了正典的范围和内容。他们的一致行动是那一时期之前的正典的沧桑历史的见证，同时也证明教会一致认识到，只有藉着饱含基督教导的道，才能最好地事奉基督。

IV. Conclusion.-The course of church history, so far as the NT canon is concerned, seems to render problematic the belief of the Protestant Church that here in just these twenty-seven books is the final and authoritative Word of God. Indeed, the general unanimity reached at the end of the 4th cent. has been clouded time and again by collective and individual questioning of the canon. No less a person than Martin Luther relegated certain books (Hebrews, James, Jude, Revelation) to a distinctly inferior place at the end of his German translation of the NT. Voices have been raised, and are being raised, that suggest that the NT canon should be reopened for church evaluation. Is the Protestant Church to accept the (apparent) legacy of historical development or to call this history into question?

In answer, we can only point again to the christological foundation of the canon. Jesus Christ Himself chose those who should bear authoritative witness to His Word, a Word they were privileged to hear as no other generation. From the first the apostle emerges as one who makes the high claim to utter the authoritative Word of God. The earliest collections were of apostolic writings (Paul's letters).

IV. 结论。新教教会认为只有这二十七卷新约正典中包含了上帝的终极权威之道，但在教会的历史进程中似乎也存在质疑的声音。的确，四世纪末在正典问题上达成的普遍共识常常受到群体或个人的质疑。正是马丁路德本人在他的德语《新约》译本的末尾降低了部分经卷（《希伯来书》《雅各书》《犹大书》《启示录》）的地位。因此长久以来始终有人主张教会应该重新考证《新约》的范围。新教教会到底应该接受这个历史发展的（明显）产物，还是应该质疑这段历史？

我们只能再次用正典中的基督论来回答这一问题。耶稣基督拣选那些会为祂的道作权威见证的人，除了他们之外，其他人都听不到祂的道。从一开始，使徒就是那些能够宣扬权威的上帝之道的人。最早收录的《新约》作品都是使徒的作品（保罗书信）。但福音书最有助于回答我们的问题。我们可以看到，教会显然认为福音书是使徒的证据，但教会毫不怀疑这个证据是由福音作者

But the Gospels are most significant for our answer. Here we have what the Church clearly regarded as the apostolic testimony—and yet the Church had no qualms about attributing this testimony to Evangelists who were not themselves apostles (i.e., Mark and Luke). No doubt the primitive Church possessed a similar conviction regarding Epistles whose authorship is not always clearly discernible today.

The earliest Church has paved the way for us by adopting an elastic measure or norm of apostolicity. The apostolicity of the NT canon in its entirety cannot be historically proved. The Christian can only believe that this history, set in motion by the earthly Lord, has been superintended by the risen Lord, who will not lead His Church into error. We believe that He has built His Church upon this Scripture, and that all future development must spring from the grateful obedience exercised by a Church that may hear its Lord speak in the OT and the NT canon.

提供的，尽管这些作者本身并不是使徒（如马可和路加）。毋庸置疑，早期的教会对使徒书信持有类似的观点，而现在并不总是可以明确分辨出这些书信的作者。

最早期的教会通过采用一种灵活的方法或使徒传统的标准而为我们确定新约正典铺平了道路。我们无法从历史观点上证明整部新约正典的使徒传统。基督徒只能相信，复活的主一直主宰着这段由世上的主开启的历史，祂不会让祂的教会走入歧途。我们相信祂在《圣经》之上建立了祂的教会，教会可以听见主在《旧约》和《新约》正典中的教导，只有当教会满怀感恩地顺服神，才能在未来取得新的发展。

In 2 S. 22:12 and the closely parallel Ps. 18:11, it is clear that sukkâ (the plural in the MT of 2 S. 22:12 is properly emended to a singular), literally “booth,” designates some kind of covering, but it is not clear whether that covering is constituted by the darkness (2 Samuel, AV, RSV) or by what follows: in the NEB of both passages, “dense vapour”; in Ps. 18, AV, “dark waters and thick clouds of the skies,” RSV “thick clouds dark with water.” See comms. in loc.

CANOPY 行宫、台阶、槛、飞檐、遮蔽、蚊帐、宝帐

【希伯来语: sukkâ】(撒下 22:12; 诗 18:11); 《钦定版圣经》译为 PAVILION(S) (“行宫”); 【‘āb】(王上 7:6; 结 41:25); 《新英文译本》译为 THICK BEAM (“台阶”)和 PLANKS (“槛”); 《新英文译本》译为 CORNICE (“飞檐”); 【huppâ】(赛 4:5); 《钦定版圣经》译为 DEFENCE; 《新英文译本》译为 COVERING, 汉译均为“遮蔽”; 【希腊语: kōnōpeion】(滴 10:21; 13:9, 15; 16:19); 《新英文译本》译为 MOSQUITO-NET 和 NET, 汉译均为“蚊帐”; ROYAL CANOPY (“光华的宝帐”) 【希伯来语: šaprîr】(耶 43:10); 《钦定版圣经》译为 ROYAL PAVILION; 《新英文译本》译为 CANOPY, 汉译均为“光华的宝帐”。在翻译《旧约》中的这个词时遇到了一些困难。在《撒母耳记下》22:12 和内容相似的平行经文《诗篇》18:11 中, sukkâ (《马所拉文本》《撒母耳记下》22:12 中的复数形式应当改为单数形式) 指的是某种遮盖物, 这个词的字面含义是“棚”, 但尚不清楚的是, 到底是以黑暗(《钦定版圣经》和《修订标准译本》, 撒下) 还是以后文中的“聚集的水”为行宫, 《新英文译

本》将这两段经文中的“聚集的水”都译为“dense vapour”；在《诗篇》18章中，《钦定版圣经》译为“dark waters and thick clouds of the skies”，《修订标准译本》译为“thick clouds dark with water”，汉译均为“水的黑暗，天空的厚云”。见这一章的评论。

The Heb. ‘āb in 1 K. 7:6 describes a part of the Hall of Pillars in Solomon’s palace, and ‘āb ‘ēš in Ezk. 41:25 is a wooden piece in front of or over the vestibule of the nave in Ezekiel’s vision of the restored temple; “cornice” is a likely translation. The huppâ of Isa. 4:5 is a protective cover. In Jth. 10:21, etc., the Gk. kōnōpeion over the bed of Holofernes may be either a mosquito net or a decorative canopy.

In Jer. 43:10 the Heb. šaprîr, perhaps related to an Assyrian word for “spread out,” is probably a large cloth canopy, or possibly a royal carpet.

《列王纪上》7:6 中的希伯来语 ‘āb 指的是所罗门圣殿中一段有柱子的廊子，《以西结书》41:25 中的 ‘āb ‘ēš 指的是以西结在异象中看到的修复圣殿廊前的木槛；“飞檐”可能是这个词的翻译。《以赛亚书》4:5 中的 huppâ 指的是防护盖。在《犹滴传》10:21 等经文中，希腊语 kōnōpeion 指的是何乐弗尼床上的蚊帐或装饰性帐子。

在《以西结书》43:10 中，希伯来语 šaprîr 可能指的是一种较大的布质天篷，也有可能指的是王室的地毯，这个词可能与亚述语中表示“铺开”的词有关。

CANTICLES 《雅歌》

【希伯来语：šîr haššîrîm——“歌中之歌”；希腊语：aîsma asmátōn；拉丁语：canticum canticorum】；《钦定版圣经》和《修订标准译本》译为 SONG OF SOLOMON；《新英文译本》译为 SONG OF SONGS，汉译均为“雅歌”。在罗马天主教和新教的《圣经》中，《雅歌》在《传道书》后面。“Canticles”这个词源自于拉丁语。《雅歌》是五圣卷中的第一卷，守逾越节时要诵读这卷书。

I. Title.-The Hebrew title is “the best (or most beautiful) song which is Solomon’s,” the expression “Song of Songs” (Heb. šîr haššîrîm) being a superlative. The phrase “šer lišlômôh can be translated in different ways: “of Solomon”; “by Solomon”; “to Solomon”; “for Solomon.” In any event, the phrase was taken early to refer to Solomonic authorship. It is clear that the title is from a later hand, for “šer is used only here while the rest of the book uses the relative particle šê’.

II. Methods of Interpretation.-As G. Fohrer has remarked, “The history of interpretation of the Song of Songs is no feather in the cap of biblical exegesis” (Intro. to the OT [Eng. tr. 1968], p. 300). Historically, interpretations have fallen into four categories: allegorical, liturgical, dramatic, lyrical.

A. Allegorical. The allegorical interpretation has been the dominant one in Judaism and Christianity for most of the last two millennia. The earliest possible evidence for this interpretation is 2 Esd. 5:24ff.; 7:26, in which the dove, lily, and bride as figures for the chosen people may reflect the influence of Cant. 2:9; 6:9. However, other figures that do not come from Canticles (vine, river, sheep) are used in 2 Esd. 5:24ff., and the bride figure in 7:26 need not come from Canticles. The Talmud (Abodah Zarah 29a) and the Targum to Canticles treat the book as an allegory that symbolically

I. 书名含义。这卷书的希伯来语名称是“所罗门所有歌中最好的一首”，“歌中之歌”（希伯来语：šîr haššîrîm）是最高级表达。短语 “šer lišlômôh 可以有多种翻译：“属所罗门的”、“所罗门所写的”或“献给所罗门的”。无论如何，这个短语最初用来表示所罗门是这卷书的作者。书名显然是后来添加的，因为只有这里用到了 “šer 这个词，其他的书卷则用到了关系词 šê’。

II. 解经方法。弗勒（G. Fohrer）曾评论道，“解释《雅歌》的历史不是圣经释义中值得夸耀的事”（Intro. to the OT [1968年英译本]，300页）。从历史的观点看，解经方法可以分为四类：寓言解经、礼拜式解经、戏剧解经和抒情诗解经。

A. 寓言解经。寓言解经已经成为犹太教和基督教在过去两千年的大部分时间里使用的主要解经方法。最早使用寓言解经的证据可能是《以斯得拉二书》5:24起和7:26，这两段经文用鸽子、百合和新娘来比喻选民，这种比喻可能体现出《雅歌》2:9和6:9的影响。不过，《以斯得拉二书》5:24起中使用的其他比喻（葡萄树、江河、羔羊）却不是源自于《雅歌》，《以斯得拉二书》7:26中新娘的比喻也不一定源自于《雅歌》。《他勒目》（《论偶像崇拜》29a）和《他尔根》中将《雅歌》视为一则寓言，这则寓言以象征的手法描绘了上帝和以色列之间的爱。阿基巴阿（Akiba）、萨 depicts the love between God and Israel. This view was held by Akiba, Saadya, Rashi, and Ibn Ezra. As Gerleman (pp. 141f.) has mentioned, all clear examples of the allegorical interpretation presuppose the canonical status of the book.

The Church took over the allegorical interpretation, substituting Christ for God, and the Church for Israel. The earliest evidence for this is in Hippolytus, but Origen wrote in more detail, even denying the validity of any other interpretation. However, the “bride” has been seen by some as other than the Church: the individual believer, the human soul, all mankind, the Virgin Mary. Luther took the bride to be symbolic of the state. The allegorical interpretation is still used by some Roman Catholic scholars, and is a teaching of their Church.

Some Scripture passages could be taken to justify allegorical interpretation. The figure of the bride is used for Israel in Hosea and Ezekiel, and for the Church in Rev. 21f. Metaphor, however, is not allegory. Neither does Canticles have to do with prophetic speech or apocalyptic. Moreover, there are the same difficulties as raised by the allegorizing of any other book of Scripture: (1) there is no hint that Canticles understands itself as allegory; (2) allegorizing is the result either of the interpreter’s failure to find what he seeks in the literal understanding of the text, or his finding elements that may be offensive or embarrassing. In the first case, the allegorical interpreter sees profound hidden spiritual truths, in the second he covers what he regards as embarrassments. Allegorizing is therefore always highly subjective, often resulting in “eisegesis.”

德雅 (Saadya)、拉希 (Rashi) 和伊 בני以斯拉 (Ibn Ezra) 也持有这种观点。正如葛勒曼 (Gerleman, 141-142 页) 所提到的, 所有寓言解经的例子都以该书的正典地位为前提。

教会采纳了寓言解经的方法, 用基督代替神, 用教会代替以色列。希坡律陀提供了寓言解经的最早证据, 俄利根提供了更为详尽的证据, 他甚至否定了其他解释的有效性。但有些人认为“新娘”除了可以用来比喻教会, 还可以用来比喻每个基督徒、人类的灵魂、全人类和童贞女马利亚。路德认为新娘是国家的象征。寓言解经仍然是一些罗马天主教学者使用的解经方法, 也是天主教会的一个教义。

一些经文段落可能能够用来证明寓言解经的正确性。《何西阿书》和《以西结书》都将以色列比喻成新娘, 《启示录》21-22 中也将教会比喻成新娘。不过, 比喻不是寓言。《雅歌》也与预言或启示无关。此外, 如果从寓言的角度来解释其他的经卷, 也会产生相同的困难: (1)《雅歌》并没有暗示出它可以被视为一则寓言; (2) 可能因为经文并未从字面意思上体现出解经者想要寻找的真意, 或者因为他发现了一些让他感觉讨厌或尴尬的内容, 所以才将《雅歌》解释成了一则寓言。在第一种情况下, 寓言解经者体会到了隐藏于其中的深奥的属灵真理, 在第二种情况下, 他掩盖了那些令他感觉尴尬的内容。因此, 寓言解经总是非常主观, 通常还会产生“牵强附会”的错误。

The view that Canticles was allegorized to allow it entrance into the canon is not germane if, as seems likely, allegorizing presupposes the canonical status of the book (Gottwald, pp. 421f.).

B. Dramatic. There are marginal glosses in the Sinaiticus and Alexandrinus LXX MSS, indicating speaker and addressee. While this need not indicate that the book was understood as a drama, but merely that the identities of the speaker and addressee are sometimes unclear, there have been dramatic interpretations, which have taken two basic forms. One sees in the book two characters (Solomon and the Shulammitite [6:13; LXX Shunammite]), plus a chorus, the “daughters of Jerusalem.” The other view sees an additional character, the girl’s lover, a shepherd. In the two-character interpretation, the loving couple, after being separated, are finally reunited. The drama praises marital love. According to the three-character view, the girl rejects Solomon’s attempts to win her and remains true to her pastoral swain. Here the lesson is loyalty: love triumphs over wealth and luxury.

The difficulties with the dramatic interpretation are several: (1) there is no other evidence of drama in ancient Hebrew literature; (2) there is no movement, development, or plot in the present form of Canticles, so the parts of the book must be rearranged; (3) according to the three-character interpretation, Solomon is portrayed as the “villain,” hardly conducive to acceptance by Judeans, nor to an explanation of the title. In sum, the dramatic interpretation creates more problems than it solves.

即使寓言解经似乎是《雅歌》获得正典地位的前提，但是，认为将《雅歌》寓言化是为了将其收录为正典的观点也不是恰当的（Gottwald, 421-422 页）。

B. 戏剧解经。《西奈抄本》和《亚历山大抄本》中收录的《七十士译本》在旁注中指明了说话者和听话者。虽然这不一定表明《雅歌》可以看成是一个戏剧，而仅仅表明，通常无法确定说话者和听话者的身份，目前有两种形式的戏剧解经。第一种戏剧解经指出了书中的两个人物（所罗门和书拉密女[歌 6:13; 《七十士译本》译为 Shunammite (“书拉密女”)]，再加上一个合唱队，“耶路撒冷的众女子”。第二种戏剧解经还指出了另外一个人物，书拉密女的恋人牧羊人。在两个人物解经中，这对恋人在经历分离后最终团聚了。这个戏剧歌颂了夫妻间的恩爱。根据三人物解经的观点，所罗门试图赢取少女的芳心，却因少女对牧羊人少年的忠贞不渝而失败。这是关于忠诚的教导：爱超越了财富和享乐。

戏剧解经也遇到了几个问题：(1) 古代希伯来文学中找不到关于戏剧的其他证据；(2) 从《雅歌》目前的叙述形式中看不到戏剧的进展、发展或情节，所以必须重新编排书中的某些内容；(3) 根据三人物解经的说法，所罗门被描述成了一个“反派人物”，这难以令犹太人接受，对解释书名的含义也没有帮助。总之，戏剧解经产生的问题比它解决的问题还多。

C. Liturgical. This interpretation maintains that Canticles is a survival of an old originally pre-Israelite New Year Festival liturgy. As such, it contains remnants of an old fertility myth, which depicts the male deity (dôd) and his divine consort. His disappearance and her search for him are paralleled in Mesopotamian and Canaanite mythology. The search culminates in reunion and the hierôs gámos (sacred marriage), which ensures the life of the earth for another year. The prophetic use of the marriage metaphor to depict the relationship of Yahweh and Israel gives early evidence for the existence of this theology in an Israelite context. Although the book became secularized, it showed its cultic origins by its use in the festivals of Maṣṣot (Unleavened Bread) and Sukkot (Booths). Also liturgical is its use in the festivities in the vineyards on the 15th of Ab and the Day of Atonement (Mish. Taanith iv.8). It was this liturgical usage that provided the basis for canonization.

In favor of this interpretation is the fact that Baal, the Canaanite fertility-god, is described as a shepherd in the Râs Shamrah mythological texts, which also contain explicit erotic language, including a description of Baal's glorious appearance (L. Fisher and F. B. Knutson, JNES, 28 [1969], 157–167).

However, there are many problems with the liturgical interpretation: (1) it is really a type of allegorical exegesis; (2) while Israelite folk religion was undoubtedly syncretistic, there is little evidence that a

C. 礼拜仪式解经。这种解释方法认为，《雅歌》是源自以色列建国以前的一种古老的新年仪式的祷告文。其中存留了古老的生育神话的遗迹，这个古老的生育神话描述了男性神祇 (dôd) 和他的妻子。美索不达米亚和迦南都流传着关于该神祇的失踪和他妻子寻找他的神话。他的妻子最终找到了他，二人重新团聚，这个神圣的婚姻 (hierôs gámos) 确保下一年地上的生命可以继续延续。先知用这个婚姻比喻来描述耶和华和以色列之间的关系，这说明在很早以前以色列人中间就存在这种宗教信仰。虽然这本书变成了世俗之作，但除酵节和住棚节要诵读这卷书，这说明该书源于宗教礼拜。亚布月 15 日和赎罪日在葡萄园中举行礼拜仪式时也要诵读这卷书（《米示拿》《论斋戒》iv.8）。这卷书在礼拜仪式中的用途为该书的正典性提供了根据。

迦南的丰收神巴力在拉斯姆拉神话文献中被描绘成一个牧羊人，这支持了这种解释经文的方法，拉斯姆拉神话文献中还使用了露骨的色情语言，并且描述了巴力英俊的外表 (L. Fisher 和 F. B. Knutson, JNES, 28 [1969], 157–167)。

然而，礼拜仪式解经也遇到了一些问题：(1) 它实际上是一种寓言式的释经方法；(2) 虽然以色列民间的宗教确实在融合，但几乎没有证据可以证明，迦南、以色列的丰收节日和神婚曾在以色列

Canaanite/Israelite fertility festival, complete with hierós gámos, ever reached a significant degree of acceptance in Israel; (3) the prophetic use of the marriage metaphor is more easily seen as coming from the sphere of the family rather than the cult, especially since its origin is found in Hosea, no friend of the Baal cult; (4) as a whole, the book gives a definite impression of secularity. Love songs can be used in the cult—the Râs Shamrah texts show that—but they do not originate there.

D. Lyrical. According to this view, Canticles is a collection of love songs and epithalamia (wedding songs praising the bride and sometimes also the groom). The first theologian to take this position was Theodore of Mopsuestia. Some anonymous medieval Jewish commentators, as well as a few men in the Reformation period, called the book secular; thus Sebastian Castellio incurred the wrath of Calvin. Herder in 1778 maintained that Canticles was folk poetry.

The lyrical interpretation is the most favored among scholars today. In the end of the 19th cent. Budde's commentary used the writings of J. G. Wetzstein (Zeitschrift für Ethnologie, 5 [1873], 270–302), who had observed wedding festivities of Syrian peasants. In the festivities, which last for a week, the bride and groom play the role of king and queen. The villagers sing songs before them, including the wasf, a description of the physical beauty of the bride. Budde maintained that the origin of Canticles was to be found in a similar situation in Israel.

The primary problem with the 列得到了普遍的认可; (3) 更容易看到先知们在家族范围内, 而不是在礼拜仪式中使用婚姻的比喻, 尤其是自何西阿开始, 先知们都反对巴力崇拜; (4) 总的来说, 这卷书给人一种明确的世俗主义印象。拉斯姆拉文献表明, 爱歌可以用在礼拜仪式中, 但并不起源于礼拜仪式。

D. 抒情诗解经。 根据这种解经方法, 《雅歌》是爱歌和新婚颂诗(赞美新娘的婚礼颂诗, 有些是赞美新郎的颂诗)的收录集。第一个采用这种解经方法的神学家是摩普绥提亚的狄奥多若。中世纪的一些匿名的犹太注释者和改教时期的一些人称这本书为世俗之作; 因此, 卡斯泰利奥(Sebastian Castellio)惹恼了加尔文。赫德在 1778 年仍然认为《雅歌》是民谣诗歌。

现代学者最支持抒情诗解经的方法。19 世纪末期, 布德(Budde)用魏次坦的作品(J. G. Wetzstein, Zeitschrift für Ethnologie, 5 [1873], 270–302)进行了注释, 魏次坦曾参加过叙利亚农民的结婚庆典。结婚庆典持续一周, 婚礼中的新郎和新娘扮演着国王和王后的角色。村民们在他们前面唱着歌, 其中包括描述新娘美貌的歌曲(wasf)。布德认为, 应该在以色列类似的情境中找到《雅歌》的起源。

wedding-cycle interpretation is that nothing in Canticles suggests the couple was married, with the exception of 3:9–11, a reference to the wedding day of Solomon. What is more likely is that love songs were used in wedding celebrations. It is possible, as some suggest, that there are genuine epithalamia in the book; but the rest of the texts are love songs. This interpretation has one great advantage—one need not contort the text; it is understood literally, i.e., as lyrical poetry.

III. Canonical Status.—There are several opinions on why Canticles was accepted into the canon. Interestingly, the raising of this issue presupposes a specific understanding of the book, i.e., it seems to be a collection of love and wedding songs, and therefore its place in the canon requires justification. Such issues never arise with regard to, e.g., Genesis or Isaiah.

One view is that the book's association with Solomon's name earned it a place in the canon. However, while this may have helped, it was insufficient in itself, for Wisdom of Solomon is not canonical. Other factors must have been involved.

Another view is that the book won acceptance on the basis of an allegorical interpretation. This assumes that the liturgical or lyrical understanding would not, in the opinion of the rabbis, warrant its inclusion in the canon. Against this is the fact that the earliest clear evidence for an allegorical interpretation is in the period after Jamnia (i.e., after ca. A.D. 90). Gottwald is probably correct in suggesting that canonical status preceded allegorizing.

题是，除了《雅歌》3:9-11中提到了所罗门举行婚礼的日子，《雅歌》的其他章节中并没有提及这对恋人结婚了。这些爱歌更有可能是在婚礼庆典中使用的爱歌。正如一些人所认为的，这卷书中可能包括一些真正的新婚颂诗；其他部分则是爱歌。这种解释具有一大优势——人们不需要通过转义来分析经文的含义；而应按照字面意思来理解，也就是将其理解成抒情诗。

III. 正典地位。关于《雅歌》被视为正典的原因，存在着多种观点。有趣的是，这一问题的提出是以对该作品的具体理解为前提的，也就是说，《雅歌》似乎是爱歌和婚礼颂歌的合集，因此需要证明这卷书的正典地位。《创世记》或《以赛亚书》就没有出现这样的问题。

其中一种观点是，因为这卷书的书名与所罗门有关联，所以它赢得了正典的地位。然而，虽然这一点可能会有所帮助，但这并不是《雅歌》成为正典的充分条件，因为《所罗门智训》就不是正典。其中必然还有其他原因。

另一种观点是，这卷书是基于寓言解经而被认可的。理所当然地认定，《雅歌》通过礼拜仪式解经或抒情诗解经不能被拉比视作正典。但詹尼亚会议之后（即，约公元90年之后）才出现了寓言解经最早的确凿证据，这一事实驳斥了这种观点。哥特瓦尔德认为，在寓言解经出现之前这卷书已经确立了正典地位，他的这种观点可能是正确的。

A third position is based on the liturgical interpretation, i.e., the book was judged canonical because of its association with the feasts of Maṣṣot and Sukkot. Against this is the fact that it is not clear that the book was associated with these feasts in the period before Jamnia.

None of the views need be exclusive. Nor should other factors be neglected, e.g., the supposed age of the book and its popularity. The references to Solomon were likely taken as evidence of the age of the book. References to quotations from the book by the people, in different contexts, suggest its popularity (Mish. Taanith iv.8; Tosephta Sanhedrin xii.10). In the 2nd cent. the canonical status was debated, and championed by Akiba (Mish. Yadaim iii.5). Solomonic authorship was not universally believed (T.B. Baba Bathra 15a, in which Rav holds Hezekiah and his “party” to be the authors). As the discussions above suggest, the question of canonicity cannot be considered apart from that of interpretation. If, as seems likely, the lyrical interpretation was prevalent at the time of Jamnia, then several factors were significant in securing its acceptance. One was Solomonic authorship, and related to this, antiquity. Another was its popularity. Third, as Gerleman points out, the book is secular, i.e., it desacralizes sex, and thus might serve as an argument against fertility cults. Fourth, the book was perhaps also seen as a corrective to asceticism.

IV. Author and Date.-The traditional view has ascribed authorship to Solomon, based on the title. As we have seen, the title need not indicate Solomonic

第三种观点是基于礼拜仪式解经的，即这卷书之所以被视为正典，是因为守除酵节和住棚节时要诵读这卷书。然而对于这一点，尚不清楚詹尼亚会议之前，在守这些节日时是否要诵读这卷书。

上述观点都不是排他的观点。不应该忽略其他的因素，如这卷书可能所处的年代和它的受欢迎程度。提及所罗门可能证明了这本书的写作年代。人们在不同语境中引用这本书的内容，可能表明了这卷书的受欢迎程度（《米示拿》《论斋戒》iv.8；《土西他》《论公会》xii.10）。公元2世纪这卷书的正典地位引发了争论，阿基巴阿拥护它的正典地位（《米示拿》《论手》iii.5）。所罗门的作者身份没有得到普遍认可（《巴比伦他勒目》《论最后一道门》15a，拉比认为希西家和他的“文士”是该书的作者）。正如上文讨论所示，不能撇开解经方法而考虑正典性问题。如果抒情诗解经是詹尼亚时期盛行的解经方法，情况似乎也是如此，那么其他几个因素对于确保《雅歌》的正典地位具有重要的意义。第一个因素是所罗门的作者身份，这说明它是一部古卷。第二个因素是《雅歌》的受欢迎程度。第三，正如葛勒曼所指出的，《雅歌》是一部世俗之作，也就是说，它使性世俗化，因此可以作为驳斥生育崇拜的论据。第四，《雅歌》还可能被视为禁欲主义的修正之作。

IV. 作者和写作年代。传统观点基于这卷书的书名，认为所罗门是该书的作者。正如已经证实的那样，书名不一定表明所罗门是该书的作者。除了在书名 authorship. Apart from the title, Solomon's name occurs six times (1:5; 3:7, 9, 11; 8:11f.). Of these, 1:5 and 8:11f. are references to the wealth of Solomon. The other references are in the passage describing Solomon's procession and his "palanquin," and have little to do with the rest of the book.

Thus, besides the title, no passages in the book specifically suggest Solomonic authorship. This notion, or the dedication of the book to Solomon, may have resulted from a recognition of the units of which the book consists—songs. Songs were associated with wisdom. Gordis has drawn attention to Jer. 9:17 (MT 16), where the women who sing funeral dirges are called "wise ones" (Heb. h^akāmôṭ, RSV "skillful women"). He also notes 1 K. 4:31 (MT 5:11), where Solomon is said to be wiser than Ethan and Heman, who were temple singers. Also important here is 1 K. 4:32 (5:12): "He also uttered three thousand proverbs, and his songs were a thousand and five." Thus, the key to the association of the book with Solomon: the association of songs of wisdom, wisdom with Solomon, and of Solomon with songs. Here then, we have an analogy to Proverbs; probably the collecting and editing of the songs culminated in wisdom circles, which attributed the book to the patron of wisdom, Solomon.

Dating the book is more difficult. Many scholars have seen a date in the postexilic or even Hellenistic period reflected in the use of Aramaisms (1:6, 17; 2:11; 7:2; etc.) and foreign loanwords. "Nard" (1:12; 4:13f.) and "garden" (4:13, Heb. pardēs) are Persian, and "palanquin" (3:9, Heb. 'appiryôn) is Greek. Another argument for lateness is the use of the relative particle š^e -. Others have attempted to counter this view. The Aramaisms reflect a northern dialect, not necessarily indicative of lateness. The loanwords are not Persian and Greek, but Sanskrit (Gerleman sees “palanquin” as Egyptian), i.e., coming from India (possible in Solomon’s time). Gerleman suggests that use of foreign loanwords is characteristic of formal lyric poetry, and refers to Egyptian love poetry as an analogy (pp. 141f.). As for š^e -, the word occurs elsewhere in preexilic passages.

中, 所罗门这个名字在《雅歌》中出现了六次(歌 1:5; 3:7, 9, 11; 8:11-12)。其中《雅歌》1:5 和 8:11-12 中提到了所罗门的富有。在描述所罗门的队伍和“轿”的段落中也提到了所罗门, 但本书的其余部分基本没有再提到过他的名字。

因此, 除了书名, 书中没有任何章节明确表示所罗门是本书的作者。这卷书被公认为是由诗歌组成的, 因此认为它是所罗门的作品或是献给所罗门的作品。诗歌和智慧联系在一起。戈迪斯关注了《耶利米书》9:17 的内容(《马所拉文本》16), 在这节经文中, 会唱哀歌的妇女被称为“智慧的妇女”(希伯来语: h^akāmôṭ, 《修订标准译本》译为“skillful women”[“善哭的妇女”])。他还注意到了《列王纪上》4:31(《马所拉文本》5:11), 其中称所罗门的智慧胜过圣殿的歌者以探和希幔。《列王纪上》4:32(王上 5:12)也非常重要:“他作箴言三千句, 诗歌一千零五首。”因此, 所罗门与本书的关系在于所罗门与智慧之歌和智慧的关系, 以及所罗门与诗歌的关系。我们在这里看到了箴言与诗歌的类比; 这些诗歌有可能是智慧之人收录和编辑的, 所以这卷书被认为是由智慧之人所罗门所作。

该书的写作年代更难以确定。由于书中使用了亚兰语化的语言(歌 1:6, 17; 2:11; 7:2 等)和外来词, 许多学者认为《雅歌》创作于被掳巴比伦之后, 甚至是希腊化时期。“Nard”(“哪哒”, 歌 1:12; 4:13-14)和“garden”(“园子”, 歌 4:13; 希伯来语: pardēs)是波斯语, “palanquin”(“华轿”, 歌 3:9, 希伯来

The arguments for lateness have greater weight. Without putting any interpretation on the Aramaisms, Persian and Greek loanwords are found in other late books in the OT, so their occurrence in Canticles should not be considered exceptional. Probably the poet(s) used these loanwords without recognizing them as such; they had become part of the Hebrew vocabulary. The relative particle š^e - does occur in preexilic passages; but of a total of 139 occurrences in the OT, 32 are in Canticles and 68 in Ecclesiastes; its use here represents a late development.

Another argument for an early date is the spirit expressed in the poems—a graphic appreciation of the sexual. Gerleman suggests this would be most at home in the period of “Solomonic humanism.” This may be valid, but we have insufficient evidence about the Israelite world view to suggest that graphic sensual language was appreciated only in the Solomonic period. The people enjoyed it still in the time of Akiba.

Some of the songs may very well be

关于本书是后期之作的论据更加有力。不必解释《雅歌》中的亚兰语化的语言,由于《旧约》的其他后期书卷中也可以看到源自波斯语和希腊语的外来词,所以《雅歌》中使用亚兰语化的语言不应该被视为一种特例。这位诗人可能没有将它们当作外来词来使用;它们已经成为希伯来语词汇的一部分。关系词 š^e - 在被掳巴比伦之前的文章中确实出现过;但在《旧约》中一共出现了 139 次,其中有 32 次出现在《雅歌》中, 68 次出现在《传道书》中;这种用法体现出该词用法的后期发展。

诗歌中体现的精神——对描述性的形象语言的欣赏也证明这是一部早期的作品。葛勒曼认为在“所罗门人文主义”时期这种关于性的形象语言很常见。这种说法可能是正确的,但是我们没有关于以色列人世界观的充分证据,从而可以证明只有所罗门时期的人们才欣赏这种形象的世俗语言。阿基巴阿时期的人们也欣赏这种描述。

early, but others seem to be postexilic. The songs were probably collected and edited in the Hellenistic period.

V. Language and Genre.—The language of Canticles is unique in the Hebrew Bible—the book is full of hapax legomena and rare words, including foreign loanwords, and several Aramaic words. Meek suggests that the language of Canticles represents a dialect. Even the casual reader is impressed by the striking quality of the language: sensitive, sometimes bold, sometimes subtle, sensuous, powerful. Some have seen Canticles as folk poetry: repetitious, disorderly, simple, naive, yet with “freshness and charm” (Meek). Others view the book as formal lyric poetry. Gordis sees both kinds of poetry in the book.

The book is not a unity. It is rather a collection of songs, the number of which is debated (some have seen more than thirty). Various geographical locations are mentioned, most in the north (Damascus, Lebanon, Carmel, Tirzah, etc.), but also some in the south (Jerusalem, En-Gedi). The songs vary considerably in structure and content: speeches by each of the lovers to the other, speeches by the girl to the “daughters of Jerusalem” and their replies, speeches with no hearer indicated, a “dream narrative,” a narrative poem about Solomon, etc. Some passages praise the physical appearance of the loved one, others are general observations on love: its power, its sweetness, its pain, etc. If “love song” is a genre, it is clear that there are several sub-types within this genre. Besides the “love-songs,” 3:6–11 has been seen by many interpreters as an epithalamium.

诗歌似乎是被掳巴比伦之后创作的。这些诗歌可能是在希腊化时期被收录和编辑成书的。

V. 语言和类型。在《希伯来圣经》中，《雅歌》的语言是很特别的——本书中充满了独现词和罕见词，其中包括外来词和一些亚兰语词汇。米克认为《雅歌》的语言属于方言。这种语言的显著特质甚至会给一般读者留下深刻印象，这种语言很敏感，有时很大胆，有时又很巧妙，充满美感又富有力量。有些人将《雅歌》视为民谣诗歌：用词重复、杂乱无序、内容简单、自然天真，但又充满“新鲜感和魅力”（Meek）。其他人将本书看成规整的抒情诗。戈迪斯认为《雅歌》既是民谣诗歌，也是抒情诗。

一方面，本书不是一个整体。它是一部汇编的诗歌的集，关于其中诗歌的数量，人们还存在争议（有些人认为其中收录了30多首诗）。书中提到了很多地点，大多在北方（大马士革、黎巴嫩、迦密、得撒等），也提到了一些南方的地名（耶路撒冷和隐基底）。这些诗歌在结构和内容上有很大的差异，如：每对恋人之间的对话、少女对“耶路撒冷的众女子”所说的话和她们的回答、没有指明听众的讲话、“梦中的讲述”、关于所罗门的叙述诗等。有些诗歌赞美了所爱之人的美貌，其他的诗歌则是对爱情的一般描述：爱情的力量、爱情的甜蜜、爱情的痛苦等。如果“爱歌”属于一种文学类型，那么显然这一文学类型还包括很多子类型。除了“爱歌”，很多解经者将《雅歌》3:6-11理解成一首祝婚诗。

On the other hand, even though the book is a collection, there are unifying factors. One is the theme—love. Another is provided by the repetition of phrases and verses: “I adjure you, O daughters of Jerusalem ...” (2:7; 3:5; 5:8; 8:4); “whom my soul loves” (1:7; 3:1–4); “the day breathes” (2:17; 4:6); “your hair is like a flock of goats” (4:1f.; 6:5f.); “your eyes are doves” (1:15; 4:1). A third factor is the vocabulary. A number of words found rarely or not at all in the Bible outside of Canticles occur in different songs within the book, e.g., “henna” (1:14; 4:13; 7:12); “choicest” (fruits) (4:13, 16; 7:13); “locks” (of hair) (5:2, 11), etc. No doubt, some of this consistency in vocabulary is due to the subject matter. Also, the book is consistent in its use of the relative particle šē.

VI. Theological Significance.—It is noteworthy that the 20th cent. is the first one since the pre-Christian era in which the understanding of Canticles as love songs and epithalamia has gained general acceptance. The theological significance of Canticles for this period is perhaps similar to what it was in the period before canonization. In Canticles, the songs are resolutely secular—there is no place for the divinization of sex or fertility. On the other hand, the physical, sensual, even erotic element in life is neither evil nor a “lower” aspect of human beings. It is a gift of God. This book’s place in the Scriptures frustrates any attempt to denigrate the sensual aspect of human life. The poems of Canticles express in artistic, colorful, joyful terms what is expressed in the creation story—“male and female he created them.... and it was very good.”

另一方面，即使这卷书是一本收录集，其中也包含一些统一因素。其中一个统一因素就是爱情这个主题。重复使用的短语和诗句给出了另一个统一因素：“耶路撒冷的众女子啊……嘱咐你们”（歌 2:7; 3:5; 5:8; 8:4）；“我心所爱的啊”（歌 1:7; 3:1–4）；“天起凉风”（歌 2:17; 4:6）；“你的头发如同山羊群……”（歌 4:1-2; 6:5-6）；“你的眼好像鸽子眼”（歌 1:15; 4:1）。第三个统一因素是词汇。在本书的不同诗歌中可以看到大量罕见词或《雅歌》之外的其他经卷从未使用过的词汇，如“凤仙花”（歌 1:14; 4:13; 7:12）；“佳美的”（果子）（歌 4:13, 16; 7:13）；“头发”（歌 5:2, 11）等。毫无疑问，由于本书的主题一致，所以书中所使用的很多词汇也很一致。另外，本书从始至终一直在使用关系词 šē。

VI. 神学意义。值得注意的是，从基督以前的时代开始，直到 20 世纪人们才开始普遍承认《雅歌》是爱歌和新婚颂诗。《雅歌》在这一时期的神学意义可能类似于它成为正典之前的神学意义。一方面，《雅歌》中的诗歌完全是世俗的诗歌——没有将性或生育神圣化。另一方面，人生中的物质欲望、肉欲甚至连性欲都不是邪恶的，也不是人类的“卑劣”方面。它们都是上帝的恩赐。这卷书在《圣经》中的地位挫败了所有贬低人类肉欲的企图。《雅歌》中的诗歌以富有美感、华丽又喜乐的词汇表达了创世故事中所要表达的内容——“祂造男造女……一切所造的都甚好。”

CAPER-BUD

[Heb. ^a*ḥiyyonâ*; Gk. kápparis] (Eccl. 12:5, NEB); AV, RSV, DESIRE. The greenish bud or berry of the caper, a low Mediterranean shrub (Capparis sicula Duham.). The general nature of the common caper accords well with a picture of human senility. The plant usually spreads itself weakly over the ground, and has large white flowers reminiscent of hoary heads. The fruit hangs down on long stalks, suggesting the drooping figure of an aged man. The berries, prized for many centuries as a condiment, excite hunger and thirst, thus stimulating the appetite, which in old age tends to diminish through degeneration of the taste buds. In antiquity the caperberry was prized as a sexual stimulant.

CAPER-BUD 催情果

CAPERNAUM 迦百农

音译: kə-pûr'nə-um 【希腊语: Kapernaoum】。加利利海北岸最重要的城市。耶稣以迦百农作为祂大部分公开传道工作的基地(太 4:13)。在《马太福音》9:1 中, 迦百农被称为耶稣“自己的城”。至少有三个耶稣的门徒来自于迦百农。彼得和安德烈最初是伯赛大 disciples came from there. Peter and Andrew, originally from Bethsaida (Jn. 1:44), had apparently moved to Capernaum (Mk. 1:29). It was from a tax office in the same city that Matthew rose to follow Jesus (Mt. 9:9). Many miracles were performed in and around Capernaum: e.g., the paralyzed servant of the centurion was healed (Mt. 8:5-13); a paralytic, carried to Jesus by four friends and let down through the roof, picked up his bed and walked (Mk. 2:1-12); and Peter's mother-in-law was cured of a fever (Mk. 1:29-31).

While we know Capernaum as an important place in Jesus' Galilean ministry, its larger significance is indicated by the presence of a Roman centurion and detachment of troops (Mt. 8:5-9), a customs station (Mt. 9:9), and a high officer of the king (Jn. 4:46). That Capernaum is not mentioned in the OT is no argument against its prominence at a later period, since it may have been settled after the Captivity. Its importance is reflected in Jesus' pronouncement of doom: "And you, Capernaum, will you be exalted to heaven? You shall be brought down to Hades" (Mt. 11:23).

There is no certain evidence that the name bears any relationship to the prophet Nahum, although an inscription found near the mouth of the Yarmuk refers to Kephar Nahum, "the village of Nahum."

The question of exact location has been a matter of prolonged discussion. Mt. 4:13

人 (约 1:44), 显然后来搬到了迦百农 (可 1:29)。马太也是从迦百农的税关上起来, 跟从了耶稣 (太 9:9)。耶稣在迦百农城内和周边地区行了很多神迹, 例如, 祂在迦百农治愈了百夫长患瘫痪病的仆人 (太 8:5-13); 四个人将一个瘫子从房顶缒下来, 把他抬到耶稣的面前, 这个瘫子最后拿起褥子, 走了出去 (可 2:1-12); 耶稣也是在这里治好了彼得岳母的热病 (可 1:29-31)。

虽然我们不知道迦百农是耶稣在加利利传道的重要地点, 但罗马百夫长、一支军队 (太 8:5-9)、税关 (太 9:9) 和王的大臣 (约 4:46) 的出现更加凸显了它的重要性。《旧约》中没有提及迦百农, 这并不能作为驳斥它后期拥有重要地位的论据, 因为被掳巴比伦之后人们有可能在该地定居。耶稣宣告了迦百农的厄运: “迦百农啊, 你已经升到天上, 将来必坠落阴间” (太 11:23), 这体现了迦百农的重要性。

虽然耶尔穆克河河口发现的铭文中提到了 Kephar Nahum, 意思是“那鸿的村庄”, 但是没有确凿的证据可以证明迦百农这个地名与先知那鸿有联系。

迦百农的准确位置一直以来是人们持续争论的话题。《马太福音》4:13 中指 identifies the site as “Capernaum by the sea” and Jn. 6:16–24 with Mk. 6:53 places it in or near the well-known plain of Gennesaret. Only two sites can lay serious claim to the identification: Khan Minyeh 5 mi. (8 km.) W of the Jordan River on the northeast edge of plain of Gennesaret, and Tell Hûm about 2.5 mi. (4 km.) NE of Khan Minyeh. Khan Minyeh lies inland along the great caravan road leading N at the junction of the eastern road heading toward Bethsaida Julias. Tell Hûm is immediately adjacent to the sea.

In an earlier period most scholars favored Khan Minyeh. Among the various reasons proposed were: (1) The account of the disciples and Jesus crossing the Sea of Galilee to Capernaum (Jn. 6:16–24) and coming to shore in Gennesaret (Mt. 14:34) favors Khan Minyeh. (2) Its tollhouse (Mk. 2:14) would be near the great trade route from Damascus to Egypt so as to collect revenue from the passing caravans. (3) Josephus tells us that the plain of Gennesaret was watered by the fountain of Capernaum (BJ iii.10.8), and this must surely be the fountains at eṭ-Ṭâbghah 0.5 mi. (0.8 km.) E of Khan Minyeh. Water from this source was led by an aqueduct around a rock cliff and into the plain at Minyeh. (4) Remains of an ancient city have been discovered between the site and the sea. (5) It is possible to find the name Minyeh in the designation of Christians as Minim, a group the Talmud associated with Capernaum.

More recently scholars have identified Capernaum with the ruins at Tell Hûm. Among the more important reasons are: (1) The extensive ruins at Tell Hûm are

出“迦百农靠海”，《约翰福音》6:16–24和《马可福音》6:53将迦百农的位置定位在著名的革尼撒勒平原或这一平原附近。严格地讲，只有两个地方可能是迦百农：革尼撒勒平原东北边缘、约旦河以西5英里（8公里）处的汉敏耶（Khan Minyeh）和汉敏耶东北2.5英里（4公里）的胡姆废丘（Tell Hûm）。汉敏耶位于内陆地区，位于一条重要贸易通道上，这条向北延伸的贸易通道与一条通往伯赛大犹流亚斯的东方道路相连。胡姆废丘近邻加利利海。

在早期，绝大多数学者认为汉敏耶就是迦百农。理由如下：（1）耶稣和祂的门徒过加利利海往迦百农去（约6:16-24），来到革尼撒勒（太14:34），这一描述支持了汉敏耶是迦百农的说法。（2）为了便于向途径的商队收税，迦百农的税关（可2:14）可能建在从大马士革通向埃及的重要贸易通道附近。（3）约瑟夫斯告诉我们，迦百农的泉水灌溉了革尼撒勒平原（BJ iii.10.8），这些泉水一定指的是汉敏耶以东0.5英里（0.8公里）处塔布加（eṭ-Ṭâbghah）的泉水。悬崖周围的水渠把该地的泉水引入敏耶（Minyeh）的平原。（4）汉敏耶与加利利海之间的地区发现了这座古城的遗迹。（5）《他勒目》在将基督徒命名为 minim 时提到过 minyeh，而在《他勒目》中基督徒又与迦百农有关联。

最近学者们认定迦百农就是胡姆废丘。更重要的原因如下：（1）胡姆废丘的大片废墟显然属于古代遗迹，其中还出土了罗马时期的陶器，而汉敏耶的考古发

demonstrably ancient, with pottery from the Roman period, while the excavations at Khan Minyeh show it to be an Arab site of a much later date. (2) The name Tell Hûm may well be a corruption of Tankhum, a Jewish rabbi who is said to have been buried there. Less convincing is the etymology that sees Tell as the designation of Kephar after its fall, and Hûm as all that remains of the name Nahum. (3) The customs house would be appropriate at Tell Hûm as a place of levying taxes on the produce of the area as well as for collecting revenue from the traffic that moved eastward along the road to Bethsaida Julias. (4) Although the fountain of Capernaum was closer to Khan Minyeh, it was connected topographically to Tell Hûm. As each town in antiquity had its "territory," that of Capernaum would be sufficiently large to include either or both of the sites. (5) Eusebius' Onomasticon (a fourth-century work on biblical topography) places Chorazin 2 mi. (3 km.) from Capernaum. If Chorazin is best identified with Kerâzeh, Tell Hûm must be Capernaum. (6) The pilgrim Theodosius (ca. A.D. 530) coming from the west arrived at the spring before he came to Capernaum. This would be far less likely if the city were situated at Khan Minyeh.

掘证明该地是更晚时期的一个阿拉伯遗址。(2) Tell Hûm 可能是 Tankhum 的讹用, Tankhum 据说是葬于该地的一个犹太拉比的名字。有一种说法认为,从词源学上看, Tell 指的是衰落之后的 Kephar (“村庄”), 而 Hûm 是那鸿这个名字中的一部分, 但这种说法不太可信。(3) 税关可能恰好位于胡姆废丘上, 是对该地农产品征税的地方, 也是向那条通往东面伯赛大犹流亚斯的贸易通道征收贸易税的地方。(4) 虽然迦百农的泉水距离汉敏耶更近, 但从地形上看, 迦百农的泉水与胡姆废丘相连。因为古代的每座城邑都有自己的“领地”, 迦百农可能的地域可能足以覆盖汉敏耶或胡姆废丘, 亦或将这两地都包含在内。(5) 优西比乌在他的作品 (Onomasticon, 一部关于圣经地形学的 4 世纪作品) 中指出, 哥拉汛距离迦百农 2 英里 (3 公里)。如果哥拉汛就是克拉沙 (Kerâzeh), 那么胡姆废丘就是迦百农。(6) 来自于西方的朝圣者狄奥多田 (约公元 530 年) 去迦百农 “之前” 来到了这眼泉旁边。如果迦百农位于汉敏耶, 这件事就不太可能发生。

Ruins of the Capernaum synagogue, a basilica with a gabled roof. On three sides of the second story were galleries for women. (Consulate General of Israel in New York)

The Franciscans procured the site at Tell Hûm in 1894. To prevent continuous pillaging of the ruins for building stones, they covered the area with earth. Partially excavated, it has revealed a wealth of material. One of the more important ruins is a third-or fourth-century synagogue, which may well occupy the same site as the synagogue mentioned in Lk. 7:5. It measures 65 ft. (20 m.) in length, is two stories high, and is constructed of white limestone rather than the black basalt found in abundance in the area. The "chief seats" are along the side and are still to be seen. At the south end an ark of the law is represented in stone. The ornamentation, which includes animals and mythological figures, is not in accord with the strict interpretation of Jewish law. An Aramaic inscription reads "Alphaeus, son of Zebedee, son of John, made this column; on him be blessing."

方济会修道士于 1894 年买下了这个遗址。为了阻止人们不断偷盗该遗址的石头作建筑石材，他们用土掩埋了这片区域。该遗址已经被部分挖掘出来，并且在其中发现了大量的材料。其中一个较为重要的遗迹是一座公元 3 世纪或 4 世纪的会堂，这座会堂的位置与《路加福音》7:5 中提到的会堂的位置相同。这座会堂长 65 英尺（20 米），分为两层，是用白石灰岩而不是该地大量存在的黑色玄武岩建成的。现在仍然可以看到位于会堂的一侧“高位”。会堂南端有一个石质的法柜。会堂内的装饰物不符合犹太律法中的严格解释，这些装饰物包括动物雕像和神话雕像。一份亚兰语铭文中记载道，“亚勒腓、西庇太的儿子和约翰的儿子建造了这根圆柱；愿他蒙神的祝福。”

From the middle of the 2nd cent. the region around the lake became the citadel of rabbinic Judaism. Because Christians were not tolerated in the area there was a serious break in tradition, which makes the specific identification of places such as Peter's house highly unlikely. In the 4th cent. large numbers of Christian pilgrims began visiting Capernaum.

从公元 2 世纪中期开始，湖边的地区成为拉比犹太教的避难所。由于这个存在严重传统分歧的地方不肯容纳基督徒，因此不太可能确定某些地方的具体位置，如彼得的家的位置。在公元 4 世纪，大批的基督教朝圣者开始拜访迦百农。

CAPHTOR

Kaf'tôr; CAPHTORIM kaf'tə-rēm [Heb. kaptôr, kaptôrîm; Gk. Gaphtorieîm, Kaphtorieim; LXX also Kappadokía].

I. Biblical Evidence.—It is clear from Am. 9:7 and Jer. 47:4 that in biblical tradition Caphtor is the country from which the Philistines came. Since Dt. 2:23 speaks of “the Caphtorim, who came from Caphtor,” it would seem that “Philistines” and “Caphtorim” are synonymous terms.

On the other hand, a series of texts seems to distinguish between the Philistines and the Caphtorim. In Gen. 10:13f. (repeated in 1 Ch. 1:11) it is stated that Egypt was the source of “Casluhim (whence came the Philistines), and Caphtorim.” It has generally been accepted that the phrase “whence came the Philistines” is misplaced and belongs after Caphtorim. However, Dt. 2:23 states that the Caphtorim, “who came from Caphtor,” displaced the “Avvim, who lived in villages as far as Gaza.” This places the Caphtorim in the same vicinity as the Philistines, yet not apparently in the identical area, since Josh. 13:3 distinguishes between the area occupied by the Avvim and that occupied by the Philistines.

CAPHTOR 迦斐托

音译: Kaf'tôr; CAPHTORIM (“迦斐托人”) 音译: kaf'tə-rēm 【希伯来语: kaptôr, kaptôrîm; 希腊语: Gaphtorieîm, Kaphtorieim; 《七十士译本》还译为 Kappadokía】。

I. 《圣经》中的证据。一方面, 根据《阿摩司书》9:7 和《耶利米书》47:4 中的记载, 在圣经传统中, 非利士人显然从迦斐托被神领了出来。因为《申命记》2:23 中提到“从迦斐托出来的迦斐托人”, 所以“非利士人”和“迦斐托人”似乎是同义词。

另一方面, 一些经文似乎区分了非利士人和迦斐托人。《创世记》10:13-14 中描述道 (《历代志上》1:11 中重复了这一描述), “迦斯路希人 (从那里出来的非利士人) 和迦斐托人”来自于埃及。人们普遍认为“从那里出来的非利士人”这个短语放错了位置, 应该放在迦斐托人之后。然而, 《申命记》2:23 中写道, “从迦斐托出来的迦斐托人, 将先前住在乡村直到迦萨的亚卫人除灭, 接着居住。”这说明迦斐托人住在非利士人附近的地区, 但是他们显然不住在同一个地区, 因为《约书亚记》13:3 区分了亚卫人居住的地区和非利士人居住的地区。

Finally, one must take into account the “Negeb of the Cherethites” mentioned in 1 S. 30:14, located apparently in approximately the same area as the territory of the Avvim. The poetic parallelism of Zeph. 2:4f. and Ezk. 25:15f. strongly suggests that “Cherethites” and “Philistines” refer to either identical or very closely related peoples. No theory in our present state of knowledge adequately accounts for all the evidence, but it is clear that “Caphtorim” and “Philistines” refer, at the very least, to closely related peoples.

The word “caphtorim” is also used to describe an ornamental feature common to the golden lampstand in Ex. 25:31–36 and some part of a pillar (possibly the capital) in Am. 9:1 and Zeph. 2:14. This usage is likely due to the influence of the art and architecture of that part of the biblical world called Caphtor.

II. Location.—Although in the course of modern biblical interpretation numerous localities have been suggested as the site of biblical Caphtor, three identifications have been prominent in recent discussion: the island of Crete, the western part of Cilicia in southeastern Anatolia, and the north Syrian coast. Although the evidence does not permit a definitive solution, current scholarship points to the island of Crete (or perhaps Crete plus the Aegean Isles, which culturally belong together) as by far the most probable site. In cuneiform literature the word Kaptara occurs in a late geographical text referring to Sargon of Akkad and in economic texts from Mari. An Akkadian text from Ugarit speaks of a ship arriving from Kapturi, while the Ugaritic texts refer to the place Kptr. In none of these

最后, 必须考虑《撒母耳记上》30:14中提到的“基利提的南方”, 这一地区显然靠近亚卫人的领地。《西番雅书》2:4-5 和《以西结书》25:15-16 中富有诗意的平行经文明显暗示出, “基利提人”和“非利士人”可能指的同一种族或者关系极为密切的两个民族。据我们目前的了解, 没有哪个假说能够与所有的证据相吻合, 但至少“迦斐托人”和“非利士人”显然指的是关系极为密切的两个民族。

“caphtorim”这个词还可以用来描述《出埃及记》25:31–36 中金灯台和《阿摩司书》9:1 与《西番雅书》2:14 中柱子的某个部分(可能是柱顶)的常见装饰特征。这种用法很可能是因为受到圣经世界中迦斐托艺术和建筑的影响。

II. 位置。虽然根据现代解经有很多地方可能是《圣经》中迦斐托, 但有三个地方在最近的讨论中格外引人注目: 克里特岛、安纳托利亚东南基利家的西部地区 and 叙利亚海岸的北部地区。虽然目前的证据还无法证明迦斐托的准确位置, 但当代学者指出, 从目前来看, 克里特岛(或者是克里特岛和爱琴海的岛屿, 从文化上看, 这两地属于一个地区)最有可能是迦斐托。在楔形文字资料中, 一份提及阿卡德撒珥根的晚期地理学文献和马里的很多经济文献中都出现了 Kaptara 这个词。乌加列出土的阿卡德语文献提到了来自于 Kapturi 的船只, 而乌加列语文献中称 Kapturi 为 Kptr。这些参考文献都未明确指出迦斐托的位置。不过, 新王国时期的埃及文献经常称一地区为 Keftiou (Kftyw), 根据已经确定的埃及语“语音衰退”原则, Keftiou 的原形应该是 Kaftaru。因此, references is there any certain indication as to locality. However, Egyptian texts from the New Kingdom period refer frequently to a country known as Keftiou (Kftyw), a name that reflects an original form Kaftaru by a well-established principle of “phonetic decay” in Egyptian. It is thus generally assumed that Egyp. Keftiou and Sem. Kaptara/Caphtor are identical. If this identity is correct—and the evidence in its favor seems strong—the identification of Caphtor with Crete seems certain in the light of a recent topographical list from the time of Amenhotep III (ca. 1400 B.C.). In this text the name Keftiou is clearly linked with four certain localities on Crete. Hence, the evidence makes it highly probable that Caphtor refers to Crete, or Crete plus the Aegean Isles, and that “Caphtorim” and “Philistines” are synonymous terms or two closely related peoples.

The problem is further complicated, however, by the fact that little, if any, relationship between the Philistines and Crete specifically can be deduced from archeological or literary sources. It may well be that Caphtor had become a term for the general Aegean area, including Crete, by the late 2nd millennium B.C., or that Crete was not the original home of the Philistines but simply a stopover point on their migration, as Egypt was for Israel.

Bibliography.—G. Dossin, Syria, 20 (1939), 111–113; A. H. Gardner, Ancient Egyptian Onomastica, I (1947), 201*–203*; J. Vercoutter, L'Égypte et le monde égéen préhellénique (1956)—contains full bibliography and history of the discussion; J. Nougayrol, Le Palais Royal d'Ugarit, III

人们普遍认为埃及语中的 Keftiou 和闪米特语中的 Kaptara 或 Caphtor 意思相同。如果这三个词真的含义相同——证据似乎也有力地证明了这一点，那么根据阿蒙霍特普三世时期（约公元前 1400 年）地图的记载，迦斐托似乎就是克里特岛。在这份文献中，Keftiou 这个名字显然与克里特岛的四个确定的地点有关。因此，证据表明，迦斐托很可能就是克里特岛或克里特岛与爱琴海的岛屿，“迦斐托人”和“非利士人”是同义词，或是两个密切相关的民族。

但是，通过考古发现或文献资料几乎无法推断出非利士人和克里特之间有任何关系，这一事实让问题变得更加复杂。迦斐托可能泛指爱琴海地区，包括公元前 2000 年末期之前的克里特岛，或者克里特岛不是非利士人的发祥地，而仅仅是他们迁徙途中的一站，正如埃及是以色列迁徙途中栖息地一样。

Cuneiform tablets from a colony at Kültepe (Kanish), near Caesarea, have shown the presence of Assyrian merchants there about the 19th cent. B.C. Cappadocia was part of the empire of the Hittites, and remained under their influence until the fall of Carchemish in 717 B.C. Hittite remains have been found at many sites. The country became a Persian satrapy, and later an independent kingdom under native kings. Hellenization was slow, and the land long continued in a feudal condition under priestly domination. Comana was famous for its temple of the goddess Ma-Enyo, who had six thousand priestesses. Tiberius constituted Cappadocia a Roman province on the death of King Archelaus in A.D. 17, and Vespasian enlarged it as an important frontier bulwark after A.D. 70.

Until Roman times there were few cities apart from Caesarea and Tyana, near

到罗马帝国时期, 除了凯撒利亚和提亚安那, 现代波尔 (Bor) 附近几乎没有

modern Bor; but important trade routes crossed the country, and the letter to King Ariarathes V in 1 Macc. 15:22 indicates the presence of a Jewish community by about 139 B.C.

Jews from Cappadocia were in Jerusalem at Pentecost (Acts 2:9). Christianity probably spread northward from Tarsus by the route through the Cilician Gates. Peter includes converts of the Dispersion in Cappadocia in the address of his First Epistle (1 Pet. 1:1).

Caesarea became one of the most important early centers of Christianity despite the former strength of paganism. Here Gregory the Illuminator was instructed in the faith to which he later won the formal assent of his Armenian nation. Basil, his brother Gregory of Nyssa, and Gregory of Nazianzus were from Cappadocia. The land passed with the rest of Asia Minor into the Byzantine empire, and was exposed early to the Seljuk Turks, who conquered it in 1074.

The LXX and Vulgate of Dt. 2:23 and Am. 9:7 render Caphtor as Cappadocia, and Josephus (Ant. i.6.1) refers Meshech (Gen. 10:2, etc.) to this land. These identifications are very doubtful.

来自于加帕多家的犹太人在五旬节来到了耶路撒冷（徒 2:9）。基督教可能从大数沿着通往基利家山口的道路向北传播。彼得在写第一封书信时提到了分散在加帕多家的寄居者（彼前 1:1）。

虽然之前凯撒利亚深受异教影响，但是它仍然转变成了基督教重要的早期中心之一。宣教士贵格利在加帕多家转信基督教，并且他后来使亚美尼亚民族接受了基督教。女撒贵格利的兄弟巴西流和拿先斯的贵格利都来自于加帕多家。加帕多家和小亚细亚的其他地方后来都并入了拜占庭帝国，加帕多家早期曾受到了塞尔柱土耳其人的攻击，并于 1074 年被塞尔柱土耳其人征服。

《七十士译本》和《武加大译本》的《申命记》2:23 和《阿摩司书》9:7 将“迦斐托”译成“加帕多家”，约瑟夫斯 (Ant. i.6.1) 认为米设（创 10:2 等）就是加帕多家。但这些说法都是非常值得怀疑的。

等。另见 PRINCE (王子、君王、首领)。

Nebuzaradan, captain of Nebuchadnezzar's bodyguard (2 K. 25:8ff.; Jer. 39:9ff.; 52:12ff.), is always called rab, as is Arioch (Dnl. 2:14), no doubt because the closely related Babylonian word was part of the title of these men. The Heb. šālīš, "third," meant originally the third man in the chariot, who, when the main occupant was the king or commander-in-chief, had the rank of captain (1 K. 9:22; 2 K. 7:2, 17, 19; 15:25) or lieutenant (NEB).

In 2 K. 18:24 par. Isa. 36:9 the AV and RSV have "captain" for Heb. pehâ, a word of Akkadian origin elsewhere rendered "governor" (e.g., 1 K. 10:15; Jer. 51:23, 28, 57), but here denoting an Assyrian official in Sennacherib's court.

In the NT, Gk. chiliarchos is the Lat. tribunus militum, of which there were six to a legion, commanding the six cohorts of which it was composed. The literal meaning is "commander of a thousand," and it is so used in Acts (e.g., 21:31ff.; cf. Jn. 18:12), where it designates the commander of the Roman garrison in Jerusalem, consisting of a cohort (see TRIBUNE). It is used more vaguely in the sense of "military officer" in Mk. 6:21; Rev. 6:15; 19:18. Gk. stratēgós is used only by Luke in the NT, and almost exclusively of officials in charge of the temple (Lk. 22:4, 52; Acts 4:1; 5:24, 26). The captain of the temple had the superintendence of the Levites and priests who were on guard in and around the temple, and under him were stratēgoí, who were also captains of the temple

尼布甲尼撒的护卫长尼布撒拉但(王下 25:8 起; 耶 39:9 起; 52:12 起)经常被称为 rab, 亚略也常被称为 rab (但 2:14), 这无疑是因为这些密切相关的巴比伦词是这些人头衔的一部分。希伯来语 šālīš 意为“第三”, 这个词最初用来表示在车兵中居于第三位的长官, 但当他们作王或主将的主要官员时, 他们就相当于军长(王上 9:22; 王下 7:2, 17, 19; 15:25) 或副官(《新英文译本》)。

在《列王纪下》18:24 和平行经文《以赛亚书》36:9 中,《钦定版圣经》和《修订标准译本》将希伯来语 pehâ 译为“captain”(“军长”), pehâ 这个词源自阿卡德语, 其他地方译为“governor”(“省长”, 如王上 10:15; 耶 51:23, 28, 57), 这里指的是西拿基立朝中的一位亚述官员。

在《新约》中, 希腊语 chiliarchos 指的是军团长官(拉丁语: tribunus militum), 每个军团有 6 个军团长官, 他们负责指挥军团中的 6 个营。这个词的字面含义是“千夫长”,《使徒行传》(如, 徒 21:31 起; 参: 约 18:12) 也用它表示驻守在耶路撒冷的罗马军队的长官, 这支军队由 1 个营组成(见 TRIBUNE[千夫长])。《马可福音》6:21、《启示录》6:15 和 19:18 中用这个词泛指“军官”。《新约》中只有《路加福音》中用到了希腊语 stratēgós, 几乎专门用它表示守殿官(路 22:4, 52; 徒 4:1; 5:24, 26)。守殿官负责监督在圣殿内或圣殿四周事奉的利未人和祭司, 地位低于守殿官的是 stratēgoí, 虽然 stratēgoí 听从守殿官的指挥, 但是他们也是守殿官。守殿官不仅是祭司, 而且地位仅低于大祭司。除了《路加福音》中这个词的一般用法, 它还可以表示管理腓立比民政事务的

police, although they took their instructions from him as their head. He was not only a priest but second in dignity only to the high priest himself. The exception to Luke's general usage is where the word is used of the chief authorities in civil affairs at Philippi; here "the magistrates," as the word is rendered (Acts 16:20f.), called themselves "praetors" (stratēgoi). They placed themselves in peril of removal from their office by ordering the beating of Paul and Silas, who were Romans and had not been condemned. See ARMY, ROMAN.

The AV has "captain" in a great many other passages, where the RSV has replaced it with such terms as "leader" (Heb. nāšî), "commander" (esp. śar, in historical books), "chief," "chief men," "officer," "prince," "marshal," "Carite." See separate articles.

CAPTIVE; CAPTIVITY

[Heb. šābâ, gālâ, and derivatives; Gk. aichmalōtízō and derivatives]. The frequent references in the OT to taking captives, especially in the sense of deporting or removing peoples to another land, reflect the universal practice of the ancient world. The treatment of captives was sometimes barbarous (2 S. 8:2) but not always so (2 K. 6:21f.). See WAR.

In the AV "captivity" sometimes means "captive," e.g., Jgs. 5:12; Ps. 68:18; Hab. 1:9; Eph. 4:8.

主要官员；《使徒行传》16:20-21 中将这个词译为“官长”，“官长”称自己为“执政官”(stratēgoi)。他们冒着被革职的危险，下令棍打未被定罪的罗马人保罗和西拉。见 ARMY, ROMAN (罗马军队)。

《钦定版圣经》的其他许多章节中用到了“captain”一词，而《修订标准译本》将这个词译为“leader”（“首领”，希伯来语：nāšî）、“commander”（“军长、省长”，尤其是历史书中的 śar）、“chief”（“族长、首领”）、“chief men”（“尊者、勇士、首领”）、“officer”（“护卫长、官长”）、“prince”（“王子、君王”）、“marshal”（“军长”）、“Carite”（“亲兵”）。见各自的词条。

CAPTIVE; CAPTIVITY 被掳的；被掳

【希伯来语：šābâ, gālâ 及其他派生词；希腊语：aichmalōtízō 及其派生词】。在《旧约》中，尤其是在表达将某些民族被放逐或迁移到其他地方时，经常提到被掳，这反映了古代世界人口迁移的一种惯例。被掳之人有时会被残酷虐待（撒下 8:2），但情况并不总是这样（王下 6:21-22）。见 WAR（争战、打仗）。

在《钦定版圣经》中，“被掳”有时表示成为“俘虏”，如，《士师记》5:12；《诗篇》68:18；《哈巴谷书》1:9；《以弗所书》4:8。

Figurative usage of the words is mostly in the NT (but cf. Job 42:10, AV), where Paul speaks of captivity to the law and sin (Rom. 7:6, 23), and also of taking “every thought captive to obey Christ” (2 Cor. 10:5).

CAPTIVITY

[Heb. usually šēbī, also šābā (2 Ch. 6:38), šēbūt (Dt. 28:41), šibyā (Jer. 48:46), gālā (Jgs. 18:30; Jer. 1:3; Ezk. 39:23), gōlā (2 K. 24:15), gālūt (Jer. 52:31)]; NEB also EXILE; [Gk. aichmalōsia] (Rev. 13:10); NEB PRISONER. See also DISPERSION; EXILE.

As a cursory examination of modern translations reveals, the term “captivity” no longer receives the widespread usage found in the AV. Nevertheless, the notion of captivity is still found in the various verbal idioms used to describe this period in the history of Israel. In many ways the more modern usage of “exile” is more appropriate, since the notion of captivity can be included in this term. In addition, “captivity” does not necessarily refer to deportation to a foreign land, so much a part of the experience referred to by the Hebrew words above.

The captivity of Israel and Judah was a critical and crucial period. It evoked a variety of responses, many of them expressed in the literary activity of that time, so its impact is felt, directly or indirectly, in almost all of the OT and

CAPTIVITY 被掳

【经常使用希伯来语：šēbī，还有 šābā（代下 6:38），šēbūt（申 28:41），šibyā（耶 48:46），gālā（士 18:30；耶 1:3；结 39:23），gōlā（王下 24:15），gālūt（耶 52:31）】；《新英文译本》还译为 EXILE（“被掳”）；【希腊语：aichmalōsia】（启 13:10）；《新英文译本》译为 PRISONER（“被囚的”）。另见 DISPERSION（分散、散居）；EXILE（被掳）。

粗略地研究下现代译法就会发现《钦定版圣经》已不再大量使用“被掳”一词。然而，在各种描述以色列这段历史的习语中仍然可以发现被掳的概念。从许多方面看，“exil”这个词的现代用法更为恰当，因为这个词包含了被掳的概念。此外，“captivity”不一定表示被放逐到异国他乡，仅仅能够表达上述希伯来词语的部分含义。

以色列和犹大被掳时期是一段关键而又重要的时期。它在当时引发了各种各样的反响，并通过文学作品体现出来，几乎在所有的旧约书卷和许多新约书卷都可以直接或间接地感受到被掳的影响。在这一时期必须根据新的经历

much of the NT. This was a period when the promises of the past and the shape of the future had to be evaluated in terms of a new experience without the traditional self-validifying structures: e.g., the monarchy and the state, the temple and the institutional cult.

I. Historical Background.-An introduction to the historical events is important for an understanding of this traumatic, but formative, event in the life of Israel. Unfortunately, the biblical record is incomplete concerning the actual events within the captivity itself. Much of our knowledge is based on Assyrian and Babylonian records of the time and generally known facts concerning the way of life at this time in Mesopotamia and Palestine.

A. North (Israel). It has often been noted that the success and longevity of Israel and Judah as nations were at least partially dependent upon a power vacuum in the remainder of the ancient Near East. Conversely, the periods leading up to the captivity of both Israel and Judah are characterized by the emergence of one or more superpowers. Thus the prehistory of Israel's captivity begins in the 9th cent. B.C. with the growing power and ambitions of the Assyrian nation.

With initial military successes under Aššur-dân II (935–913 B.C.), Assyria had clearly reemerged as a military power to be reckoned with by lesser and vulnerable

- III. 被掳的重要性

I. 被掳的历史背景。对于理解以色列历史上的这个痛苦但具有持续重要影响的事件来说，对这个历史事件的介绍是很重要的。遗憾的是，《圣经》对被掳的事实记载是不完整的。我们主要根据同时期亚述语和巴比伦语记录来了解这一事件，并大致了解了这一时期美索不达米亚和巴勒斯坦地区的生活方式。

*A. 北国以色列被掳。*学者们常常会注意到，以色列和犹大之所以能够以国家的形式长期存在，至少部分取决于古近东地区其他国家的政权真空。相反，一个或多个超级大国的出现，是以色列和犹大被掳之前时期的一个特点。因此，公元前9世纪随着亚述的权力和野心日渐增长，以色列开始进入被掳前的时期。

随着亚述但二世（Aššur-dân II，公元前935–913年）初期的军事行动取得了成功，亚述显然重新崛起，成为巴勒斯坦和叙利亚北部诸多弱小国家需要面对 nations in Palestine and northern Syria. It was Ashurnasirpal II (884–860) who founded the Neo-Assyrian empire, and it was his methods of warfare and his conception of domination that characterized the actions of Assyria (and Babylon) in the next three and a half centuries.

Unlike their smaller rivals, the Assyrians had a standing army, which was an enormous advantage. The Assyrians were famous for their ruthlessness in dealing with adversaries—massacres and/or deportation were used both to curb resistance and rebellion and to assure obedience and the prompt payment of tribute. A distinct pattern or plan lay behind their methods of consolidation. States within the empire had various degrees of dependence. At the outer limits of the empire the requirement was initially a vow of allegiance and loyalty, with the result that tribute was given to Assyria and a vassal status to the particular state. If any resistance to these conditions was made by the state, the Assyrians would reduce it by military means into a province and appoint another vassal state to govern it. If resistance still occurred, the final step of extermination of the state and deportation took place. This pattern is important, for it helps to explain the history of Israel and its captivity.

The importance of the Syrian and Palestinian states to any power that wished to control trade routes, as well as to tap any indigenous prosperity that could provide tribute, was clear. It appears that Israel was under the influence of Assyria from the time of Shalmaneser III (859–825 B.C.), but that this king and his immediate successors were not able to maintain this sphere of influence. Instead, the history of this period is filled with struggles among the states of Israel, Judah, Damascus, and other border states (cf. 2 K. 8ff.).

的军事强敌。亚述纳西尔帕二世（公元前 884–860 年）建立了新亚述帝国，他的战术策略和统治思想成为后来三个半世纪亚述（和巴比伦）军事行动的一大特色。

与亚述人的弱小对手不同的是，亚述人拥有自己的常备军，这是亚述人的一个巨大的优势。亚述人以对敌人冷酷著称——他们用大屠杀和（或）放逐来消灭抵抗和反叛，并确保其他国家服从亚述的统治，立即向亚述纳贡。亚述采用了独特的兼并手段。亚述帝国范围内的国家都在一定的程度上依赖于亚述。亚述帝国之外的国家首先必须宣布效忠于亚述，然后向亚述进贡，变成亚述的一个附庸国。如果某个国家抵抗亚述的兼并行动，亚述人就会用军事手段削弱这个国家，将其降低为亚述的一个行省，并让另一个附庸国管辖这个行省。如果这个国家继续抵抗，亚述人最后将消灭这个国家，放逐它的百姓。这种兼并模式很重要，因为它有助于解释以色列的历史和以色列被掳。

如果一个国家想要控制商路，并让当地富庶的民族向其纳贡，那么叙利亚和巴勒斯坦地区国家的重要性是显而易见的。似乎从撒曼以色列三世（公元前 859–825 年）统治时期开始，以色列就受到了亚述的影响，但撒曼以色列三世和他的直接继承人无法维持亚述的势力范围。而在这一时期，亚述与以色列、犹太、

With the accession of Tiglath-pileser III (745–727) the sequence of weaker Assyrian kings was broken and a strong and systematic policy of empire-building began. The states in Syria and Palestine were no real match for Assyria with its standing army and superior military technique and prowess.

From the end of the reign of Jeroboam II, the political situation in Israel was unstable. Leadership was not always characterized by a pragmatic and knowledgeable policy of action in view of Israel's difficult position vis-à-vis Assyria. Rather, futile attempts at independence brought on by nationalistic motivations, as well as contradictory attempts by other rulers to remain in Assyria's favor, created a chaotic and dangerous situation. Menahem of Israel (745–738) is reported to have paid Pul (Tiglath-pileser III) tribute, thus placing Israel under the Assyrian sphere of influence. But in 733 Pekah of Israel joined with Rezin of Damascus in an attempt to gain independence from Assyria. Ahaz of Judah refused to join this coalition, and the subsequent Syro-Ephraimite war occurred (cf. 2 K. 15:37; 16:5; Isa. 7; etc.). Assyria was quick to quell this rebellion. Israel was reduced and many of its inhabitants were deported. With the exception of Samaria and its immediate environs, the state of Israel was partitioned into three provinces (2 K. 15:29f.).

大马士革和其他的国家之间经常爆发战争（参：王下 8 起）。

自提革拉毗列色三世（公元前 745–727 年）起，亚述王不再软弱，提革拉毗列色三世开始奉行强硬系统化的扩张疆域政策。亚述拥有一直常备军，起高超的战术和强大的武装力量使叙利亚和巴勒斯坦的诸国无法与之抗衡。

耶罗波安三世的统治结束之后，以色列的政治局势一直处于动荡状态。面相对于亚述，处于困境中的以色列，其统治者并未始终奉行务实有远见的政策。相反，争取独立的民族主义运动以失败告终，而其他的以色列王又却试图屈服于亚述统治，最终导致局势混乱，国家陷于危险境地。据说，以色列王米拿现向普尔（提革拉毗列色三世）纳贡，因此将以色列置于亚述的势力范围内。但公元前 733 年，以色列的比加与大马士革的利汛联合，企图从亚述帝国中独立出来。犹大的亚哈斯拒绝与他们结盟，随后犹大与亚兰人和以法莲人之间爆发了战争（参：王下 15:37; 16:5; 赛 7 等）。亚述人很快镇压了这次反叛。以色列被削弱，许多以色列百姓被掳走。除了撒马利亚及其附近的地区之外，以色列被分割成了亚述的三个行省（王下 15:29-30）。

With the death of Tiglath-pileser there was another attempt in Israel to break the vassal relationship by withholding tribute. This ultimately resulted in the siege and final fall of Samaria in 722, effected most probably by Shalmaneser V. At this point Assyria deported vast numbers of Israelites and brought into Israel many foreign peoples from other places in their empire. The upper class and those in power were deported to assure the crippling of the state. The territory of Israel was given no political status at all, and for all intents and purposes it disappeared from the scene until the postexilic period.

One footnote to this extermination of the state of Israel should be made. Although details of the actual fall of Samaria and Israel are almost nonexistent, clearly some inhabitants of the northern kingdom came into Judah. The Deuteronomic reform (see below) certainly reflects the influence of a theology and cult from Israel. Although the precise identification of this reforming element continues to be debated (Levites, prophets, etc.), its existence does not. In addition, the well-known influence of Hosea upon Jeremiah, to cite one example, also demands recognition of a circle that continued to be influenced by ideas and concerns originating in Israel.

B. South (Judah). The captivity of Judah is to be understood primarily by an examination of the political movements of the three superpowers (Assyria, Babylonia, and Egypt) and Judah's reactions to them in the last half of the 7th century. From the time of the Syro-Ephraimite war, Judah had been in a vassal relationship with Assyria. Although the ruler during most of this period (Manasseh, 687–642) was condemned soundly for his sanction of syncretistic practices (cf., however, 2 Ch. 33:10–13), his only other option was a rebellion surely doomed to failure and a complete destruction of the state. In the last years of Ashurbanipal (668–627), however, Assyria grew weaker. At this time also Babylon rose to the status of an independent power beginning with Nabopolassar (626–605), and Egypt reemerged as a power to be reckoned with (especially with the 26th Dynasty, beginning in 664).

提革拉毗列色死后，以色列拒绝向亚述纳贡，再次尝试打破这种臣属关系。很可能最终导致撒曼以色列五世包围撒马利亚，并于公元前 722 年摧毁了这座城市。亚述在这个时候掳走了大批以色列人，让很多来自于亚述帝国其他地方的外邦人定居在这里。为了削弱以色列，亚述将上层阶级和有权力的人掳走。以色列地完全被剥夺了政治地位，总而言之，以色列销声匿迹了，直到被掳之后的时期。

关于以色列被除灭还必须做出一个补充说明。虽然关于撒马利亚和以色列实际被攻陷的详细资料几乎不存在，但是北方王国的一些居民显然来到了犹大。《申命记》中的改革（见下文）显然体现出以色列神学和宗教信仰的影响。虽然对于这个改革因素的准确辨别还存在着争议（利未人和先知等），但毋庸置疑，这个改革因素确实存在。此外，拿众所周知的何西阿对耶利米的影响为例，这说明有一部分人仍然受到起源于以色列的思想和观点的影响。

*B. 南国犹大被掳。*要充分理解犹大被掳，就必须首先分析公元前 7 世纪后半叶亚述、巴比伦和埃及这三个超级大国的政治运动，以及犹大对这些政治运动的反应。从与亚兰人和以法莲人交战时起，犹大就已经变成了亚述的附庸国。虽然这段时期犹大的主要统治者（玛拿西，公元前 687–642 年）因热衷于偶像

At this time the Deuteronomic reform of Josiah (ca. 621) occurred. (It is now recognized that the account of the Chronicler [2 Ch. 34f.] has a sequence of actions more historically accurate than that of the “Deuteronomist” [2 K. 22f.] Cultic reform was but a small part of a greater movement in Judah to emancipate the state from Assyrian influence. To this end, developments such as the weakening of the Assyrian state and the emergence of a strong king of Judah were requisite.

Temporary successes at both political independence and cultic reform stopped suddenly when Josiah died by the hand of Pharaoh Neco at Megiddo in 609. From 609 until 605 Egypt controlled Judah, having replaced Josiah’s successor, Jehoahaz (609), with Jehoiakim (609–598), who was more amenable to Egyptian vassalage. In 605 Egypt and a remnant of the Assyrian empire were defeated at Carchemish by Babylon. This was followed by a declaration of obeisance by Jehoiakim to Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon.

崇拜而彻底陷在罪里（参：代下 33:10-13），但他还必须别无选择地面对一场注定失败的叛乱和一个被彻底毁灭的国家。然而，在亚述巴尼帕执政的最后几年（公元前 668–627 年），亚述逐渐衰落。巴比伦也在此时崛起，由那波帕拉萨尔（公元前 626–605 年）建立了独立的政权，埃及再次成为一个可以与亚述匹敌的国家（尤其是始建于公元前 664 年的第 26 王朝）。

《申命记》中的约西亚改革（约公元前 621 年）发生在这一时期。（现在人们认为，从历史的观点分析，《历代志》中事件的顺序比《申命记》作者描述的事件的顺序[王下 22-23]更准确。）宗教改革只是犹太摆脱亚述影响的更大运动的一部分。要想达成这一目的，就必须出现新的发展，势必需要亚述走向衰落，且犹太出现一位强硬的国王。

公元前 609 年当约西亚在米吉多被法老尼哥杀害时，犹太短暂的政治独立和宗教改革突然中止。从公元前 609 年至 605 年，埃及一直控制着犹太，约雅敬（公元前 609–598 年）取代了约西亚的继位者约哈斯（公元前 609），因为约雅敬更愿意效忠于埃及人。公元前 605 年，巴比伦人在迦基米施打败了埃及人和亚述的残余势力。随后，约雅敬宣布效忠于巴比伦王尼布甲尼撒。这一行为暗示出犹太正式成为了巴比伦的诸侯国，但这一行为到底发生在公元前 601 年埃及人打败尼布甲尼撒之前，还是发生在这件事情之后，这是一个存有争议的问题。

Whether this action with its implications for a formal vassal status came before or after Nebuchadrezzar's defeat by the Egyptians in 601 is debated. In any case, with the death of Jehoiakim in 598 the Babylonians made a concerted effort to establish their influence permanently. Jehoiachin (598–597) was deposed and Zedekiah (Mattaniah) was placed upon the throne. The temple was plundered and the first deportation occurred. A substantial number of artisans and upper-class citizens from Jerusalem and the countryside were taken to Babylon. Foolishly, Zedekiah rebelled against Babylon. In 587, despite hopes for help from Egypt, the besieged city of Jerusalem fell, and the period of Judean captivity began. Jerusalem and much of the Judean countryside were plundered and destroyed. The temple and palace were razed, more of the populace deported, and the upper classes punished (2 K. 25:18ff.). All of the tangible institutions and powerful people were gone or crippled. The state of Judah, its long history so closely associated with Yahweh and His servant David, was no longer. In 582 a third and final deportation took place (Jer. 52:28–30).

Little is known of the life of the Judeans during the Captivity, in Palestine or Babylon. Jeremiah's account of Gedaliah's short-lived control of Judah is all the scriptural information available. Surely the conditions in Palestine were difficult (cf. Lamentations), with little or no success at establishing regular worship or other community functions. The deportees in Babylon seem to have fared better than those in Assyria. No policy separated the deportees from each other; in fact, they were placed together at the periphery of the city. Sources originating there witness to worship and other aspects of community identification and affirmation.

题。总之，随着公元前 598 年约亚敬去世，巴比伦人同心协力要确立他们持久的影响力。约雅斤（公元前 598–597 年）被掳，西底家（玛探雅）登上了王位。圣殿遭到洗劫，第一次被掳发生了。耶路撒冷城区和郊区的大批工匠和上层市民被掳到了巴比伦。西底家却在此时愚蠢地背叛了巴比伦。虽然耶路撒冷寄希望于埃及的援助，但公元前 587 年这座遭到围困的城市沦陷，犹太人被掳时期从此开始。耶路撒冷城区和大片犹太乡村都遭到了洗劫和破坏。圣殿和王宫被夷为平地，更多的人被掳走，上层阶级受到了惩罚（王下 25:18）。所有的实体机构都遭到了严重的破坏，有权势的人消失不见了。犹太曾拥有悠久的历史，这段历史与耶和华和耶和华的仆人大卫密切相关，然而至此为止，这个王国不复存在了。公元前 582 年，第三次也是最后一次被掳发生了（耶 52:28–30）。

With the death of Nebuchadrezzar in 562 the future of Babylon as an independent power was in jeopardy. The rise of the Persian king Cyrus, and the reign of Nabonidus with all of its difficulties, spelled the end of Babylon and the beginning of Persian domination of Judah. The Persian policies for governing subject peoples were considerably different from those of Assyria and Babylonia. The Persians had no desire to erase the old order and to deport native populations. They were concerned to allow the institutions of the subject territory to control social life, especially religious life. Thus the famous edict of Cyrus in 538, only one year after the fall of Babylon, proclaimed that the temple should be rebuilt and its treasures restored (Ezr. 6:2-5). Although it is certain that the exiles were allowed to return, the precise details are unclear. Nevertheless, with this edict the historical period of the Judean captivity is usually concluded and the postexilic period begun.

II. Theological Response.-While sparse and incomplete sources limit the historical recounting of the Captivity, the great theological activity in this period is indicated by various OT books. Indeed, scholars increasingly are recognizing that much of the motivation and rationale for the formation of the OT as a whole resulted from the Captivity and the many theological responses to it.

公元前 562 年尼布甲尼撒逝世时，巴比伦这个独立的政权岌岌可危。波斯王居鲁士（《圣经和合本》中的居鲁士）兴起，拿波尼度的统治遇到了各种问题，巴比伦最终走向灭亡，波斯开始掌控犹太。波斯人统治臣属民族的政策与亚述和巴比伦的统治政策截然不同。波斯人不想破坏旧秩序，也想放逐当地的人口。他们允许用臣服之地的体制来控制当地的社会生活，尤其是宗教生活。因此，公元前 538 年巴比伦陷落之后仅一年，居鲁士就颁布了一条著名的命令，宣布要重建圣殿，并要带回圣殿中的金银器皿（拉 6:2-5）。虽然波斯人肯定允许被掳之人回到家园，但是尚不清楚准确的情况。不过，通常来说，随着这条命令的颁布，犹太人被掳的历史结束了，被掳回归时期开始了。

II. 被掳的神学解释。虽然现存的有关被掳时期历史的文献既少又不完整，限制了对这一时期历史的叙述，但《旧约》中多个书卷表明，这一时期出现了大量关于被掳的神学解释。的确，学者们正在逐渐意识到整个《旧约》的创作动机和理论基础源自于被掳和对被掳的神学解释。

Babylonian Chronicle for 605–594 B.C., recording the capture of Jerusalem in 597 B.C., the appointment of Zedekiah as king, and the exile of Jehoiachin and others to Babylonia (6th cent. B.C.) (Trustees of the British Museum)

The Captivity was at once the cause and the subject of necessary theological reformulation. The loss of many legitimizing institutions (the temple, the monarchy, the state) and the crippling of many others (the cult, the societal class structures, etc.) forced the Israelites to ask why, and, more importantly, to contemplate the future and its shape. Thus, it became increasingly necessary to include the phenomenon of the Captivity itself in discussing the future of Israel, for surely the changes wrought by this experience were inescapable and were to form some of the defining lines for Judaism to the present day.

The Captivity was a pluralistic age. A pluralistic age is characterized by variety and diversity, yet also by a common matrix to which all positions and stances may be related. The opposite of pluralism, orthodoxy, is characterized by at least a superficial homogeneity and also by a power base that is capable of regulating, controlling, and enforcing one perspective or position for a particular society. With the Captivity, a necessary prerequisite for orthodoxy, a power base capable of molding and controlling public opinion, no longer existed. On the other hand, the many responses to the Captivity indicate existence of a common theological matrix capable of making this period one of pluralistic creativity rather than anarchistic chaos.

上图为公元前 605 年至 594 年的巴比伦年代志，其中记载了公元前 597 年夺取耶路撒冷、任命西底家为犹大王、约雅斤和其他人被掳巴比伦（公元前 6 世纪）的经过。（大英博物馆理事会）

被掳是必要神学重述的直接原因和主题。很多合法的机构（圣殿、君主政体、国家机关）和其他方面（祭仪、社会阶层结构等）所遭受的严重破坏，迫使以色列人想要知道这其中的原因，更重要的是，他们开始思索未来和自身的命运。因此，在讨论以色列的未来时，越来越需要考虑被掳这件事，因为被掳必然给他们带来了改变，在一定程度上为今天的犹太教立定了界限。

被掳时期是一个多元化时代。多元化时代具有差异性和多样性的特征，但又依赖于共同的社会环境，所有的观点和立场都与这个共同的社会环境有关。与多

The Captivity produced a variety of responses, each with its own spheres of influence and its own hopes about the future. As in all pluralistic periods, a great deal of tension and friction existed between many of the exponents of the groups trying to comprehend the Captivity. Faced with a new situation, all of Israel drew on old patterns to describe the new situation. All of Israel necessarily spoke of a new thing that Yahweh was doing, for the special mix of old and new created a new vision. Each new vision had its own vested interests, more or less closely tied to the realities that the experience of captivity created. For some the Captivity, despite its hardships, provided the hope for a reversal of previous social and religious structures. For others it was a fall from power, and the sooner a restoration of previous status and conditions could be effected, the better.

First among those realities that would have to be dealt with was the Diaspora. New conceptions of who and what Israel was, legitimation of this identity in view of the demise of older institutions—these and many other theological questions needed to be answered because of the new nature of the people Israel. The loss of statehood, of a monarchical power base, of a central and politically (monarchically) legitimized cult—all of these realities needed to be discussed in speaking of Israel's future.

元主义相对的是正统观念，正统观念的特点是，至少从表面上看具有同质性，而且还有一个权力基础，这个权力基础可以调节、掌控某种观点或立场，还可以将其强加给特定的社会。一方面，被掳是正统观念形成的必要先决条件，可以形成和掌控公众意见的权力基础已不存在。另一方面，被掳的很多解释表明，这一时期存在着一个共同的神学社会环境，它可以使这一时期成为一个多元的时代，而不是无政府的混乱时代。

出现了很多关于被掳的解释，每个解释都有各自的影响范围和对未来的希望。正如在所有的多元时代里，很多试图理解被掳的解释者之间产生了大量的分歧和摩擦。面对新的形势，以色列众人利用旧有模式来描述新形势。他们必然提到了耶和华正在行的新的神迹，因为新旧模式的特殊融合创造出了新视野。每个新视野都包括各自的既得利益，这些既得利益或多或少都与被掳经历造成的现实紧密相连。对于某些人来说，虽然被掳时期充满了艰难，但被掳使他们有了回到之前社会和宗教结构的希望。对于其他人来说，被掳意味着失去了权位，越快回到之前的地位和状态越好。

第一个要面对的现实就是犹太人的离散。此时出现了一些新的观念，如以色列是谁，是什么？由于旧体系已经消亡，以色列如何找到身份认同？——由

Scholars have often noted that in the period of the Captivity a fundamental change was made from a community characterized by a corporate, nationalistic focus to one more individualistically oriented. In a very real sense the Captivity, as a new and devastating event in Israel's history, was responsible for this shift with its resultant theological changes (BHI). On the other hand, one may also validly state that the events of the Captivity and the theological responses found there are integrally related to a long historical process that began much earlier (Noth). The pluralism of the 6th cent. in Palestine, Babylon, or Egypt was created and informed not only by the fall of Judah and its aftermath but also by the patterns and concepts that had formed and framed the Hebrew mind from the patriarchal period on. Thus, while the agenda and form of any particular theological response to the Captivity would be controlled by the vested interests of the particular person or group, the way in which that message was expressed would draw upon a continuum of theological activity stretching back into the earliest periods of Israelite history. Ultimately the new postexilic community would choose one or more theological responses as the rationale for its framework of existence, preserving the others as legitimate but

III. Importance.-The period of the Captivity is receiving increasing attention in biblical scholarship. No doubt some is attributable to the exemplary pluralistic religious model found in this period and a desire to learn how such a pluralism works and is maintained. But, of course, that pluralism was not maintained in Israel, as Ezra-Nehemiah demonstrates. Perhaps another reason is the analogous questions that every society must answer, questions attempting to discern God's working in circumstances that seem, at first, quite hostile to such a conception.

The primary importance of the Captivity is the effect it had upon Israel's theological development. The tension between particularism, so often associated with the hierarchical interests, and universalism, associated not simply with the exiles but also with the visionaries, became an important characteristic of Judaism and Christianity. The development of a religion of the book, and therefore more focus on "word" than on outward institutional and national signs such as temple and palace, was also an important legacy of the Captivity. The focus on the individual and his response was also a new feature and one that continued. Yet all of these important developments are seen by the various groups as ongoing actions of God, not man, developments whose roots are deep within a history of God's action to and for Israel. Perhaps this pluralistic heritage and witness, ultimately canonized, provides the greatest importance for contemporary man by its challenge to find God at work and its affirmation that in many ways and places

III. 被掳的重要性。被掳时期越来越受到圣经学者的关注。毫无疑问，某些学术研究是围绕这一时期的多元的宗教模式展开的，旨在了解这种多元宗教如何运作又是如何并存的。但是，当然，正如《以斯拉记》和《耶利米书》中所展示的，以色列没有始终坚持多元主义。另一个理由可能是每个社会都必须回答的类似问题，即试图在那些起初明显敌视这一概念的环境中认识神的工作。

被掳最重要的意义是它影响了以色列神学的发展。特殊神宠论和普救论之间的分歧成为犹太教和基督教的一个重要特征，特殊神宠论通常与等级利益联系在一起，而普救论不仅与被掳有联系，还和宗教异象联系在一起。《圣经》中的宗教发展因此更加地关注“神的话语”，而不是外部的制度符号和国家符号，如圣殿和宫殿，宗教发展也是被掳的重要遗产。另一个新特征是开始并且持续关注个体和个体对被掳的解释。许多组织将所有这些重要的发展视为神的持续性的工作，而不是人的持续性工作，这些发展深植于神试验以色列和救赎以色列的历史中。这种多元化遗产和见证最终被收录成了圣经正典，或许对于当时的人来说，它们具有最重要的意义，因为这种多元化遗产和见证向只有当神工作时才能找到神的说法发起了挑战，并且证明在很多方面和地方都可以看到神的作为。

The inhabitants of Palestine were familiar with the caravans (the goods trains of the Semitic world), for the main routes connecting Babylonia, Syria, Egypt, and Arabia passed through Canaan. Isaiah refers to “caravans of Dedanites”—a trading Arabian tribe who conveyed their wares to Babylon. Job compares his would-be friends to a deceitful brook, full in the rainy season but dry in summer, which entices caravans to turn aside from the main route in the hope of a plentiful supply of water but fails the thirsty travelers when they need it most.

CARCHEMISH 迦基米施

音译：kār'kəmiş【希伯来语：kark^emīš；阿卡德语通常为：karkamiš, gargamiš，但在《新巴比伦编年史》中译为 galgameš；希腊语：Charcham(e)is 和 Charmeis】。迦基米施是幼发拉底河上游的一座重要的叙利亚赫人城市，位于阿勒坡东北约 63 英里（100 公里）处。乔治·史密斯正确地指出，迦基米施是土耳其的一个巨大的废丘，位于现代叙利亚边境村庄哲拉布鲁斯的北侧。1879 年代表大英博物馆的科考队在这里展开了考古发掘，并且挖掘出了象形文字赫梯语铭文和其他的遗迹。从公元 1911 年至 1914 年，贺加斯（D. G. Hogarth）在伍利（C. L. Woolley，后来的伦纳德爵士）和劳伦斯（T. E. Lawrence，后来被称为“阿拉伯的劳伦斯”）的帮助下，指导大英博物馆的考古人员再次进行了考古研究，此次挖掘出了更多的遗迹和铭文。1920 年之前，大英博物馆又资助了几次考古挖掘。 auspices continued until 1920.

Remains from the mound itself indicate that habitation there reaches back at least to the Chalcolithic period. Several of the eighteenth-century B.C. Mari Letters refer to Carchemish in terms that attest to its independent status in the early 2nd millennium. During the “Hyksos” period the fortifications of the city included an enormous rectangular enclosure surrounded by a beaten earth (terre pisée) wall, probably as a defense against the battering ram. In the 15th cent. Pharaoh Thutmose III of Egypt conquered Carchemish, presumably during his eighth Asiatic campaign in the thirty-third year of his reign. Amenhotep III in the 14th cent. and Ramses III in the 12th cent. also claim to have captured the city, but their accounts contain more of propaganda than of actual historical fact. The Hittite king Šuppiluliuma captured Carchemish after an eight-day siege ca. 1340 B.C. and thus turned Syria into a Hittite dependency. He installed one of his sons, Piyassilis, as king of Carchemish.

After the eclipse of Hittite power, Assyrian rulers, especially in the 9th and 8th cents, conquered and plundered Carchemish almost at will. Ashurnasirpal II received tribute from San(a)gara, the Hittite king at Carchemish, ca. 876 B.C. In the first year of his reign Shalmaneser III defeated the same king and in his sixth year extorted tribute from him. Tiglath-pileser III later received tribute from Pisiri(s) of Carchemish. The accession of Sargon II to the Assyrian throne ca. 722 was a signal for the dependent provinces to rebel. The revolt was fomented by Midas king of the 该废丘中出土的遗迹表明，至少从铜石并用时代开始就有人类在此地居住。公元前 18 世纪马里的几封信中明确地提到了迦基米施，这证明早在公元前 2000 年该地就是一个独立的地区。“希克索斯王朝”统治时期迦基米施的防御工事包括一个巨大的长方形围地，围地的四周是一个土质夯实(terre pisée)的围墙，该围墙可能是为了抵御破城锤。公元前 15 世纪埃及法老图特摩斯三世征服了迦基米施，这事可能发生在他执政第 33 年第 8 次进军亚细亚时。阿蒙霍特普三世和拉美西斯三世也分别在公元前 14 世纪和公元前 12 世纪声称征服了这座城市，但他们的描述更像是一种政治宣传，而非真实的历史。约在公元前 1340 年，赫人的国王苏庇鲁流马什(Šuppiluliuma)在包围迦基米施 8 天后攻克了这座城市，因此使叙利亚成为迦基米施的一个属国。苏庇鲁流马什任命他的一个儿子皮亚斯里斯(Piyassilis)为迦基米施的国王。

赫人帝国衰落后，亚述统治者，尤其是公元前 9 世纪和 8 世纪的亚述统治者征服了迦基米施，并且肆意地掠夺了这座城市。约公元前 876 年，迦基米施的赫人国王桑革拉(San[a]gara)向亚述纳西尔帕二世纳贡。撒幔以色列三世在他执政的第一年就打败了这位赫人国王，并且在其执政第六年命令这位赫人国王向他纳贡，后来迦基米施的皮斯利(Pisiri[s])的向提革拉毗列色三世纳贡。约在公元前 722 年，撒珥根二世登基作亚述的国王，这成为依附于亚述的行省发动叛乱的导火索。弗吕家穆什基(Mushki)的国王迈达斯(Midas)和迦基米施王皮斯利煽动了这场叛乱。撒

珥根于公元前 717 年摧毁了迦基米施，掳走了当地人，并让亚述人定居在迦基米施。（关于公元前 8 世纪后 50 年亚述人践踏迦基米施的事，见《以赛亚书》10:5–11。）

The last decade of the 7th cent. B.C. witnessed the demise of both Assyrian and Egyptian imperial ambitions and influence in Syro-Palestine. The resurgent Neo-Babylonians had already dealt a fatal blow to Assyria by destroying her capital, Nineveh, in 612. By 609 Ashurballit, the last king of Assyria, had disappeared completely from the political and military scene. In that same year Pharaoh Neco II of Egypt marched northward in one last desperate attempt to help the tattered Assyrian armies stop the Neo-Babylonian juggernaut. King Josiah of Judah, perhaps preferring the Neo-Babylonian presence in Palestine to that of Assyria and Egypt, came out to block the advance of Neco (2 Ch. 35:20; 1 Esd. 1:25). The two armies joined battle in the plain of Megiddo, and Josiah was slain (2 K. 23:29f.; 2 Ch. 35:21–27). Neco then marched on to garrison Carchemish in company with the remnant of the Assyrian forces.

公元前 7 世纪最后 10 年，亚述和埃及侵吞叙利亚巴勒斯坦的野心逐渐消失，它们在该地区的影响也随之消失。重新崛起的新巴比伦人于公元前 612 年摧毁了亚述的都城尼尼微，这给亚述致命的一击。到公元前 609 年，亚述的最后一位国王亚述乌巴列完全退出了政治和军事舞台。同年，埃及法老尼哥二世向北进军，支援亚述残部，为抵挡新巴比伦的强大攻势做最后一次绝望的尝试。犹太的约西亚可能更愿意让新巴比伦

The year 605 B.C. was decisive in ancient Near Eastern history. Nebuchadnezzar II, crown prince of the Neo-Babylonian empire, became commander-in-chief of the Babylonian armies. His own court records detail subsequent events of that year in one of the tablets of the Neo-Babylonian Chronicle (British Museum Tablet no. 21946). In the spring he marched at the head of his assault forces up the Euphrates to Carchemish, and in May/June he engaged the Egyptians in hand-to-hand fighting within the city. There is no indication that Neco himself was with his army at the time. At any rate, the Neo-Babylonian victory was complete and marked the end of Egyptian power in Syria and Palestine. Nebuchadnezzar pursued the Egyptians to Hamath and perhaps also down the Mediterranean coast, as Jer. 46:2–12 seems to suggest. In due time Jehoiakim son of Josiah, whom Neco had installed as king of Judah, became tributary to Nebuchadnezzar (2 K. 23:34–24:1; 2 Ch. 36:4–6), who, as a result of the Battle of Carchemish, was able to march at will throughout all the Syro-Palestinian provinces.

人而不是让亚述人和埃及人存在于巴勒斯坦，所以他出兵抵御尼哥的先头部队（代下 35:20；拉一 1:25）。两军在米吉多平原交战，约西亚被尼哥的军队杀死（王下 23:29-30；代下 35:21–27）。尼哥随后率军继续前行，与亚述的残余部队一起驻守在迦基米施。

CARE.

The OT uses several expressions for the various meanings of the English word “care,” and the AV often translates them literally. Thus the AV has “are with me” for “are a care to me” (Gen. 33:13); “in the hand (Heb. yād) of” for “in the care of” (Gen. 39:22f.; 1 Ch. 26:28; 29:8); “feed” (rā’ā) for “care for” (Jer. 23:2, 4); “visitation” (p^equddā) for “care” (Job 10:12), and “visit” (pāqad) for “care for” (Ps. 8:4; Zec. 11:16); also “seek” (dāraš, 1 Ch. 15:13; Jer. 30:14), “instruct” (bīn, Dt. 32:10). “Take care” is often “take heed” in the AV (e.g., šāmar, Josh. 22:5; cf. in the NT Gk. proséchō, Acts 5:35; blépō, 1 Cor. 3:10; 8:9; He. 3:12). In 2 S. 18:3 the Hebrew expression is literally “set the heart to” (šūm lēb’el).

In the NT, “care for” in the sense of 考古发掘表明，早在公元前 3000 年末期，埃勃拉的人就崇拜摩押的民族之神基抹（见 CHEMOSH[基抹]）。基抹在埃勃拉被称为“卡米苏”（Kamišu）（这与《纪土宾》《耶利米书》48:7 中的拼写形式一致，其中写为 k^emīš），他与迦基米施这座城市有关，迦基米施现在可以暂时地理解成“基抹之城”。

CARE. 照顾、牧养、眷顾、看顾

《旧约》中使用不同的词语来表达英语单词“care”的不同含义，《钦定版圣经》通常按照字面含义来翻译这个词。因此，《钦定版圣经》将“are a care to me”译为“are with me”（创 33:13），汉译均为“正在乳养”；将“in the care of”译为“in the hand（希伯来语：yād）”（创 39:22-23；代上 26:28；29:8），汉译均为“在……手中、由……掌管”；将“care for”译为“feed”（rā’ā，耶 23:2，4），汉译均为“牧养”；将“care”译为“visitation”（p^equddā，伯 10:12），汉译均为“眷顾”；将“care for”译为“visit”（pāqad，诗 8:4；亚 11:16），汉译均为“眷顾、看顾”；还译为“seek”（“刑罚”，dāraš，代上 15:13；耶 30:14）和“instruct”（“看顾”，bīn，申 32:10）。《钦定版圣经》经常将“Take care”译为“take heed”，汉译均为“遵守”（如，šāmar，书 22:5；参：《新约》中希腊语 proséchō，徒 5:35；blépō，林前 3:10；8:9；来 3:12）。在《撒母耳记下》18:3 中，将希伯来语 šūm lēb’el 按照字面意思译为“set the heart to”（“介意”）。

在《新约》中，通常用希腊语 epimeléomai

nurture or aid is usually expressed by Gk. epimeléomai (Lk. 10:34f.; 1 Tim. 3:5; cf. epimeleías, Acts 27:3), and also by thálpō (1 Thess. 2:7, AV “cherish”). For the sense “anxious concern” are used merimnáo (1 Cor. 12:25; see also ANXIETY, on 1 Cor. 7:32ff.; Phil. 2:20) and spoudé (2 Cor. 8:16). Gk. mélō is used in the sense of “concern” (Mk. 4:38; Lk. 10:40; Jn. 12:6), and also in the sense of partiality (Mt. 22:16 par., NEB “truckle”).

The RSV has “children of their tender care” in Lam. 2:20, for Heb. ’ōl’lê tippuhîm. The AV translates “children a span long,” following the more common (and perhaps related) root tāpah (BDB, p. 381; cf. v. 22, “dandling”); the reference is to children fully formed at birth, implying that they are born healthy (cf. KoB, pp. 355f.); thus the NEB “the children they have brought safely to birth.”

CAREAH

CAREFUL; CAREFULLY; CAREFULNESS.

The AV often uses these words in such now obsolete senses as “anxious” or “anxiety,” i.e., “full of care” (Heb. dā’ag, Jer. 17:8; Gk. merimnáo, Lk. 10:41; Phil. 4:6; cf. amérimnos, 1 Cor. 7:32), “fearfulness” (Heb. d’āgā, Ezk. 12:18f.), “concerned for” (Heb. hārad, 2 K. 4:13; Gk. phronéō, Phil. 4:10), “thinking to be

(路 10:34-35; 提前 3:5; 参: epimeleías, 徒 27:3) 和 thálpō (帖前 2:7, 《钦定版圣经》译为 “cherish” [“乳养”]) 来表示 “牧养” 和 “看顾” (“care for”) 的含义。用 merimnáo (林前 12:25; 另见 ANXIETY[挂虑、挂念], 林前 7:32 起; 腓 2:20) 和 spoudé (林后 8:16) 来表示 “挂念” (“anxious concern”) 的含义。希腊语 mélō 可以表示 “关心” (“concern”) 的含义(可 4:38; 路 10:40; 约 12:6), 也可以表示偏袒的含义(太 22:16 平行经文, 《新英文译本》译为 “truckle” [“顾忌”])。

《修订标准译本》将《耶利米哀歌》2:20 中希伯来语 ’ōl’lê tippuhîm 译为 “children of their tender care” (“手里所摇弄的婴孩”)。《钦定版圣经》遵照更常见(或许是相关)的词根 tāpah, 将之译为 “children a span long” (“手里所摇弄的婴孩”) (BDB, 381 页; 参: 哀 2:22, “dandling” [“养育的”]); “手里所摇弄的婴孩” 指的是完全长成的婴孩, 意味着婴孩出生时是健康的(参: KoB, 355-356 页); 故《新英文译本》在此处译为 “the children they have brought safely to birth” (“手里所摇弄的婴孩”)。

CAREAH 加利亚

音译: kə-rē’ə。见 KAREAH (加利亚)。

CAREFUL; CAREFULLY; CAREFULNESS.

挂虑、思虑、忧虑、思念、忧愁

《钦定版圣经》通常用某些词语的过时含义来翻译这些词, 如 “anxious” 或 “anxiety” (“挂虑”), 也就是 “充满忧虑” (希伯来语: dā’ag, 耶 17:8; 希腊语: merimnáo, 路 10:41; 腓 4:6; 参: amérimnos, 林前 7:32), 或 “fearfulness” (“忧虑”, 希伯来语: d’āgā, 结 12:18-19)、“concerned for” (“思念”, necessary” (Aram. ḥ^ashah, Dnl. 3:16), and “eager” (Gk. spoudaiotérōs, Phil. 2:28), “eagerness” (spoudē, 2 Cor. 7:11).

CARELESS.

In Prov. 14:16 the participial form of the Hebrew verb bāṭaḥ (“trust”) expresses carelessness through a false sense of security. In Mt. 12:36 the Greek adjective argós (AV “idle”; NEB “thoughtless”) is used of the type of utterance that will bring judgment.

CAREM

kā'rēm [Gk. Karem]. A city of Judah interpolated by the LXX (Josh. 15:59, NEB); probably BETH-HACCHEREM.

kār'ē-ə [Gk. Karia]. A country in the southwest of Asia Minor extending on the north to Lydia, on the east to Phrygia, on the south to Lycia, and west to the Aegean Sea. Its borders, however, like those of most of the ancient countries of Asia Minor, were never definitely fixed; hence the difficulty presented by the study of the political divisions. The general surface of the country is rugged, consisting of mountainous ridges running across it and terminating as promontories jutting into the sea.

Its history consists chiefly of that of its practically independent cities, of which 希伯来语: ḥārad, 王下 4:13; 希腊语: phronēō, 腓 4:10)、“thinking to be necessary” (“需要”, 亚兰语: ḥ^ashah, 但 3:16)、“eager” (“忧愁”, 希腊语: spoudaiotérōs, 腓 2:28) 和 “eagerness” (“忧愁”, spoudē, 林后 7:11)。

CARELESS. 自恃、无用的

在《箴言》14:16 中, 希伯来语动词 bāṭaḥ (“信任”) 的分词形式表示因粗心大意而错误的相信。在《马太福音》12:36 中, 希腊语形容词 argós (《钦定版圣经》译为 “idle”; 《新英文译本》译为 “thoughtless”, 汉译均为 “无用的”) 用来表示那些会招致审判的闲话。

CAREM 加伦

音译: kā'rēm 【希腊语: Karem】。《七十士译本》中添加的一座犹太城市(《新英文译本》, 书 15:59), 可能就是 BETH-HACCHEREM (伯哈基琳)。

CARIA 卡里亚

音译: kār'ē-ə 【希腊语: Karia】。小亚细亚西南部国家, 该地区北至吕底亚, 东至弗吕家, 南至吕家, 西至爱琴海。然而, 像小亚细亚古代的大多数地区一样, 卡里亚的边界从未明确划定; 因此, 在研究它的政治区划时遇到了一些困难。卡里亚的整体地势高低不平, 山脉横贯四境, 一直延伸如海。

卡里亚的历史主要就是它作为独立城市的历史, 这些事实上独立的都市主要

Miletus (Acts 20:15–20) and Cnidus (27:7) are the chief. For some time previous to 168 B.C. it had lost its independence and belonged to the island of Rhodes; but in that year Rome freed it again. According to 1 Macc. 15:23, Caria was one of several places to which the Roman senate in 139/138 B.C. sent letters in favor of the Jews, a fact showing that its population was mixed. Its coastal cities, however, were people chiefly by Greeks. In 129 B.C. Caria became a part of the Roman province of Asia, and from that date its history coincides with that of the province. Though Paul and others of the apostles traversed Caria in their missionary journeys, only its cities are mentioned by name in that connection.

Many Jewish settlements were established in Caria as elsewhere in western Asia Minor. Christianity made comparatively slow progress and in the reign of Zeno (477–491) the rebellion of Illus and Pamphilius, partly pagan-inspired, found support in the province.

包括米利都(徒 20:15–20)和革尼土(徒 27:7)。公元前 168 年之前的某一段时期, 卡里亚曾丧失独立地位, 隶属于罗德岛; 但公元前 168 年罗马使卡里亚重新获得独立。根据《马加比一书》15:23 中的描述, 卡里亚是公元前 139 年或 138 年罗马元老院去信表示罗马支持犹太人的多个地区之一, 这一事实表明卡里亚是一个多民族聚居的地区。然而, 卡里亚海岸城市的主要居住者是希腊人。公元前 129 年, 卡里亚成为罗马亚西亚行省的一部分, 从那时起, 卡里亚的历史就与该行省的历史一致。虽然保罗和其他的使徒在传道旅程时经过了卡里亚, 但是经文中仅提到了使徒传道时经过的卡里亚城市。

许多犹太人定居在卡里亚和亚西亚西部的其他地区。芝诺统治时期(公元 477 至 491 年)卡里亚的基督教发展得相对比较缓慢, 伊鲁斯(Illus)和庞普里皮尤斯(Pamphilius)一定程度上因受到异教的怂恿而发动了反对芝诺的叛乱, 他们发动的叛乱得到了卡里亚的支持。

CARMEL 迦密

音译：kār'məl【希伯来语：hakkarmel——“果园”；希腊语（约瑟夫斯）：ho Karmēlos, Karmēlion óros】。

1、地中海沿岸的一个著名的树木繁茂的山脉，该山脉西北东南走向，全长约 30 英里（48 公里），从亚柯湾南岸延伸到多坍平原。迦密山岬角处的海拔为 470 英尺（143 米），最高峰位于伊斯菲亚（Esfia），海拔为 1742 英尺（530 米）。

While the steep slopes on the north and east afford little scope for the growth of anything other than scrub and brushwood, the south and west of the mountain, which gives way more gradually to the coast, still justifies its fame in antiquity as the “garden with fruit trees.” Although there were a few springs of water there, the cultivation of crops required the natural resources to be supplemented by means of cisterns. These, along with the oil and wine presses cut into the surface of the porous limestone rock, furnish evidence of the ancient husbandry that made Carmel famous. 2 Ch. 26:10 may refer to the viticulture of the area; elsewhere Carmel was regarded as the symbol of beauty (Cant. 7:5), fruitfulness (Isa. 35:2), majesty (Jer. 46:18), and a prosperous, happy life (Jer. 50:19). The languishing of Carmel pointed to divine vengeance on the land (Nah. 1:4), and her decay indicated complete desolation (Am. 1:2; Isa. 33:9).

Roughly triangular in form, with plains extending from its base on each of the three sides, this imposing mountain was visible from a great distance. It had little strategic value in antiquity, however, since it was a wedge-shaped barrier dividing the Palestinian coastal plain into the plain of Acco to the north and the plains of Sharon and Philistia to the south. It was penetrated by two main passes, one of which emerged at Jokneam

虽然迦密山北面 and 东面地势陡峭，只适宜矮树和草丛的生长，但迦密山南面和西面足以配得上“果园”的美名，这两面的山麓较为平缓，一直延伸到海岸边。虽然该地有许多泉水，但农作物的生长还需要蓄水池中自然水源的补给。这些条件和迦密多孔渗水的石灰岩表面凿出的油榨和酒榨证明，在古代迦密就是著名的耕种区。《历代志下》26:10可能提到了这一地区的葡萄栽培；在其他经文中，迦密被称为是美（歌7:5）、丰收（赛35:2）、威严（耶46:18）和富足幸福生活（耶50:19）的象征。迦密的树木衰残表明神在向这片土地复仇（鸿1:4），也表示彻底的荒芜（摩1:2；赛33:9）。

迦密大致呈长方形，迦密山的三面山脚下都是平原，从很远处就能看见这条壮观的山脉。然而，在古代迦密没有多少战略价值，因为它是楔形屏障，将巴勒斯坦海岸平原分割成了北面的亚柯平原和南面的沙仑与非利士平原两部分。迦密有两个主要的关口，一个位于约念和米吉多，另一个位于他纳。在古代，很多商队和军队从这两个关口穿越迦密山。因为该地是一个与外界隔离的地区，虽然从石器时代开始，迦密的山洞

In the lists of Thutmose III, Ramses II, and Ramses III of Egypt, a Palestinian site known as Rosh Qidshu or “holy peak” was mentioned, and if this is identical with Mt. Carmel it might indicate that the place was a sanctuary or a holy locale from an early period. Here stood an ancient altar of Yahweh, and probably a sanctuary of Baal also, since the worshipers of these deities chose the place as common ground for the great contest of faith (1 K. 18). On that occasion the gods of Jezebel were discredited; and since she came from Tyre the vanquished deity was almost certainly Baal Melqart, the chief Tyrian god. The site of the contest was located by tradition at el-Maharakah, which was near to a flowing spring (1 K. 18:33ff.). From the crest of Carmel Elijah observed the coming storm, and preceded the chariot of Ahab to the gate of Jezreel (vv. 42ff.). Elijah may have used the mountain as a spiritual retreat, and Elisha was a familiar visitor to Carmel also.

埃及图特摩斯三世、拉美西斯二世和拉美西斯三世的城市名单中提到了巴勒斯坦地区一个被称为 Rosh Qidshu 或“圣峰”的地点，如果这个地方指的是迦密山，那么这可能表明迦密地区在很早期就是至圣所。这里有一座耶和华的古代祭坛，可能还有一座巴力的神殿，这是因此以利亚和巴力的四百先知才在这里呼求各自的神，让世人知道哪一位是真神（王上 18）。此时，人们不再相信耶洗别所崇拜的神，因为耶洗别来自于推罗，这位被打败的神几乎无疑是推罗的主神巴力美耳刻。传说以利亚挑战假神先知的地点位于马哈卡（el-Maharakah），马哈卡在一条溪流附近（王上 18:33 起）。以利亚在迦密山顶观测到了暴风雨将至，他在亚哈的战车之前抵达了耶斯列的城门（王上 18:42 起）。以利亚可能将迦密山作为属灵的休憩所，以利沙也经常来到迦密山。

Carmel was in the territory allotted to Asher, and according to Josephus (BJ iii.3.1) it subsequently came under the control of Tyre.

2. A town in Judah (Josh. 15:55) in the uplands near Hebron named in association with Maon and Ziph. It is identified with the present-day Kermel, about 8 mi. (13 km.) SSE of Hebron; and ruins at the site include a tower dating from the 12th cent. A.D. At Carmel Saul erected a monument after defeating the Amalekites (1 S. 15:22). From this area (see BUSINESS) came Nabal, the churlish alcoholic husband of Abigail, whom David married after Nabal died (1 S. 25:2–40). One of David's heroes, Hezro, also came from Carmel (2 S. 23:35).

CARMELITE

kär'mə-līt [Heb. karmelî; Gk. Karmēlios, Karmālītēs]. An inhabitant of the town of Carmel in Judah. NABAL the husband of Abigail (1 S. 25:2, 4; 30:5; 2 S. 2:2; 3:3), and HEZRO, one of David's mighty men (2 S. 23:35; 1 Ch. 11:37), bear this name. 2、犹大的一座城邑名叫迦密，位于希伯仑附近的高地上，《约书亚记》15:55在玛云和西弗之间提到迦密这个名字。迦密可能就是今天的克米勒 (Kermel)，约位于希伯仑东南偏南 8 英里 (13 公里) 处；该地的遗址中有一座建于公元 12 世纪的塔。扫罗打败亚玛力人之后，在迦密立起了一个一座纪念碑 (撒下 15:22)。拿八就来自于这一地区 (见 BUSINESS[产业、买卖、生意、公事、事务])，拿八是亚比该的丈夫，他性情暴躁，是个酒鬼，拿八死后，大卫娶亚比该为妻 (撒下 25:2-40)。大卫的一名勇士希斯莱也来自迦密 (撒下 23:35)。

2. A Judahite (1 Ch. 2:7), son of Zabdi (according to Josh. 7:1) and father of Achan (given the name of “Achar” in 1 Ch. 2:7). In “the sons of Carmi” (1 Ch. 2:7), Carmi is probably to be taken as the son of Zimri (=Zabdi, Josh. 7:1). The Targum, however, has “Carmi who is Zimri.” The LXX identifies Zimri and Zabdi.

3. In 1 Ch. 4:1 Carmi is probably an alternative form of Caleb.

The Heb. hārāš, a general word for a graver or craftsman, is translated “carpenter” in 2 K. 22:6; 2 Ch. 24:12; 34:11; Ezr. 3:7. The same word is rendered “craftsman” in the RSV of 1 Ch. 29:5; Jer. 24:1; 29:2, and “smith” of Zec. 1:20. In 2 S. 5:11; 2 K. 12:11; 1 Ch. 14:1; 22:15; and Isa. 44:13, hārāš occurs with 'ēš (wood) and is more exactly translated “carpenter” or “worker in wood.” Téktōn, the corresponding Greek word for artificer, is translated “carpenter” in Mt. 13:55 and Mk. 6:3. See CARVING; CRAFTS.

CARNION 卡奈姆

音译: kär'nē-ən (《钦定版圣经》, 马二 12:21, 26)。见 CARNAIM (卡奈姆)。

CAROUSING 荒宴、坐席

【希腊语: kómoi】(加 5:21); 《钦定版圣经》译为 REVELLINGS; 《新英文译本》译为 ORGIES; 【pótoi】(彼前 4:3); 《钦定版圣经》译为 BANQUETINGS; 《新英文译本》译为 TIPPLING, 以上英语汉译均为“荒宴”; 【syneuōchéō】(彼后 2:13; 犹 1:12); 《钦定版圣经》译为 FEAST; 《新英文译本》译为“sit at table”和“eat and drink”, 汉译均为“坐席”。这些词语都表示饕餮盛宴, 显然, 外邦人有时认为, 他们成为基督徒后仍很难戒掉这种嗜好。kómos 最初表示宗教游行(参: MM, 367 页; Bauer, 462 页), 后来可以来表示充满欢乐的筵席; pótos 的严格意义是酒宴。保罗警告他的读者, 对于等待基督复临的基督徒来说, 荒宴醉酒是不当的行为(罗 13:13), 属于人类较为低级的本性(加 5:21)。

CARPENTER 木匠、匠人、工匠

【希伯来语: hārāš; 希腊语: téktōn】; 《钦定版圣经》还译为“workers in timber”和 ARTIFICERS; 《新英文译本》还译为 WOODWORKER (赛 44:13), 汉译均为“木匠”。希伯来语 hārāš 通常用来表示雕刻师或工匠, 在《列王纪下》22:6、《历代志下》24:12、34:11 和《以斯拉记》3:7 中, 这个希伯来语被译为“carpenter”(“木匠”)。《修订标准译本》在《历代志上》29:5、《耶利米书》24:1 和 29:2 中将这个希伯来词译为“craftsman”(“匠人、工匠”), 在《撒迦利亚书》1:20 中则译为“smith”(“匠人”)。在《撒母耳记下》5:11、《列王纪下》12:11、《历代志上》14:1、22:15 和《以赛亚书》44:13 中, hārāš 与 'ēš (“木

材”)一起出现,更准确的翻译应该是“木匠”。希腊语中表示“工匠”的词语是 Téktōn,《马太福音》13:55 和《马可福音》6:3 将这个词译为“carpenter”(“木匠”)。见 CARVING(雕刻); CRAFTS(工艺、手艺)。

CARPETS

[Heb. middîn < maq̄] (Jgs. 5:10); AV JUDGMENT; NEB SADDLE-CLOTHS; [g^enāzîm] (Ezk. 27:24); AV CHESTS; NEB STORES. The Heb. maq̄ can mean both “measure” and “cloth” or “garment” (cf. BDB, p. 551). In Jgs. 5:10 it is evidently a cloth for sitting on, either on the ground (a carpet), or covering a throne or chair, or most plausibly from the context, on the back of an ass (NEB).

The Heb. g^enāzîm in Ezk. 27:24 is even less certain. See CHEST.

kār'pəs [Gk. Karpos] (2 Tim. 4:13). The friend with whom Paul left his cloak at Troas. From the prison in which he was confined (cf. 2 Tim. 1:8), Paul asks Timothy, among several other requests, to return the cloak to him. The incident indicates that Paul must have been well acquainted with the family of Carpus. He was presumably one of Paul's converts; and the apostle must have lodged with him and also have had considerable confidence in him, since he committed to his care not only the cloak but also his books and parchments.

CARPETS 毯子、箱子

【希伯来语: middîn, 衍生自 maq̄】(士 5:10);《钦定版圣经》译为 JUDGMENT;《新英文译本》译为 SADDLE-CLOTHS 汉译均为“绣花毯子”;【g^enāzîm】(结 27:24);《钦定版圣经》译为 CHESTS;《新英文译本》译为 STORES, 汉译均为“箱子”。希伯来语 maq̄ 可以表示“尺寸”、“布”或“衣服”(参: BDB, 551 页)。在《士师记》5:10 中,这个词显然指的是供人坐的一块布,可能是地毯或是用来铺在王座或椅子上的布,但根据语境分析最有可能是驴被上的锦垫(《新英文译本》)。

不太确定《以西结书》27:24 中希伯来语 g^enāzîm 的含义。见 CHEST(柜子、箱子、怀、胸)。

CARPUS 加布

音译: kār'pəs【希腊语: Karpos】(提后 4:13)。保罗的朋友,保罗曾在特罗亚把外衣留个了他。保罗被囚时曾吩咐提摩太几件事(参: 提后 1:8),其中一件事就是帮他把手外衣带回来。这件事说明保罗一定非常熟悉加布的家人。加布可能是在保罗劝导下归信主的信徒之一;使徒保罗曾住在他家,并且非常地相信他,因为保罗不仅让加布保管他的外衣,还让加布保管他的书籍和皮卷。

CARRIAGE

[Heb. kēlī, kēbūddā, nesū'ā; Gk. episkeuasámenoi]. All of these terms have been translated in the AV by “carriage” in its obsolete meaning (Jgs. 18:21; 1 S. 17:22 [twice]; Isa. 10:28; 46:1; Acts 21:15). In the RSV and NEB these are translated by more modern expressions, e.g., “goods,” “baggage,” “valuables.”

CARRION VULTURE

[Heb. rāhām, rāhāmā] (Lev. 11:18; Dt. 14:17); AV GIER EAGLE; NEB OSPREY. An unclean bird, perhaps the black and white Egyptian vulture. See BIRDS, UNCLEAN.

CARSHENA

kār'shə-nə, kār-shē'nə [Heb. karšēnā]. The first named among the “seven princes of Persia and Media” under Ahasuerus (Est. 1:14). See PRINCES, THE SEVEN.

CART

[Heb. gālā < gl-‘to be round’]. Whereas Heb. rekeb (a collective) and merkābā (a single exemplar) denote the chariots used in war and by the highest officials in the state, gālā denotes a cart or wagon used mainly for carrying objects too heavy for beasts of burden or, in exceptional cases, for carrying women, children, and invalids.

The oldest examples of vehicles—clumsy, open wagons with four massive wheels and drawn by four asses (see the mosaic on the so-called standard-monument in the British

CARRIAGE 财物、食物、辎重、物件、行李

【希伯来语：kēlī, kēbūddā, nesū'ā；希腊语：episkeuasámenoi】。《钦定版圣经》将上述词语翻译为“carriage”，采用的“carriage”已经过时的词义（士 18:21；撒上 17:22[两次]；赛 10:28；46:1；徒 21:15）。《修订标准译本》和《新英文译本》用更现代的词语来翻译上述词，如“goods”（“财物”）、“baggage”（“物件、食物”）、“valuables”（“辎重”）。

CARRION VULTURE 秃雕

【希伯来语：rāhām, rāhāmā】（利 11:18；申 14:17）；《钦定版圣经》译为 GIER EAGLE；《新英文译本》译为 OSPREY，汉译均为“秃雕”。一种不洁净的鸟，可能是黑白羽毛的埃及秃鹰。见 BIRDS, UNCLEAN（不洁净的鸟）。

CARSHENA 甲示拿

音译：kār'shə-nə, kār-shē'nə【希伯来语：karšēnā】。亚哈隋鲁统治时期“波斯和玛代的七个大臣”之一，经文中排在第一位（斯 1:14）。见 PRINCES, THE SEVEN（七个大臣）。

CART 车

【希伯来语：gālā 衍生自 gl——“轮的转动”】。希伯来语 rekeb（集合名词）和 merkābā（单数形式）可以表示战车或国家高官所坐的车，而 gālā 主要用来表示驮畜驮运沉重物体的车或篷车，在特殊情况下，还可以表示妇女、儿童和残疾人的车或篷车。

在苏美尔人的遗迹中发现了最古老的车辆，这种敞篷货车很笨重，有四个巨大的轮子，由四头驴拉一辆车（见大英博物馆所谓标准历史遗迹中的镶嵌图案）。后来山区中出现了带辐条的两轮

It is remarkable that the Egyptian words for carts and chariots are of Semitic origin. Nevertheless the Semitic nomads immigrating into Egypt as depicted on the well-known tomb painting in Beni-hasan seem not to have had carts. Pharaoh commanded Joseph's brothers to return to their father with their beasts of burden and with "carts out of the land of Egypt" (Gen. 45:19) for carrying their invalid father and their families. The very unusual sight of the carts was proof to Jacob of the veracity of his sons' report (Gen. 45:27). In later times Assyrian reliefs depict families from conquered towns starting out into exile on small open carts drawn by two oxen.

值得注意的是，埃及语中表示车或战车的词源自于闪米特语。不过，根据便尼哈珊（Beni-hasan）著名坟墓壁画的描绘，迁入埃及地的闪米特游牧民族似乎尚未使用车。法老命令约瑟的兄弟带着驮畜，并“从埃及地带着车辆”（创 45:19）回到他们的父亲那里，然后把他们病弱的父亲和家人都搬来。当雅各看到这些不同寻常的车辆，他相信了自己儿子的话（创 45:27）。后期的亚述浮雕上描绘了被征服城邑的家族乘着两牛拉动的小敞篷车四处流亡的景象。

Closed carts are mentioned in Nu. 7:3 and 《民数记》7:3 和《以赛亚书》66:20 中

Isa. 66:20 (ṣāb; cf. Bab. ṣumbu). In the first case the sanctity of the objects carried by them is the reason the use of this special kind of cart (Nu. 7:5–8); in the second case it is the comfort of the travelers. A closed four-wheeled wagon is known from Ashurnasirpal's obelisk (B. Meissner, Babylonien und Assyrien, I [1920], 249). The Philistines sent the ark to Israel on a cart drawn by two cows (1 S. 6:7, etc.). In the same way David tried to bring the ark to Jerusalem (2 S. 6:3–6; 1 Ch. 13:7–9).

Amos 2:13 mentions the use of a cart when bringing the sheaves of grain from the field to the threshing floor; in Isa. 28:27f. two words for a cartwheel are mentioned, both in connection with threshing: the cart with its oxen is driven over the ears strewed on the threshing floor. The reading “horses” in 28:28 is uncertain; some ancient versions read “(divided) hoofs,” and cf. the NEB. So the rule that in Israel carts were drawn by cows may still stand. Isa. 5:18 mentions a cart rope—probably a plaited leather thong attached to the pole, forming a loop around the cow's neck. The metaphor seems to point to its strength. In Ps. 46:9 (MT 10) one should vocalize, with the LXX and Targum, “gîlôṭ, “shields.”

The “chariot” (Gk. hárma) of the Ethiopian minister of finances (Acts 8:28f.) must have been an open vehicle with a standing place for the driver and at least two seats; it was therefore a traveling vehicle probably drawn by horses or mules.

See also CHARIOT.

Bibliography.—A. Erman, Aegypten und

提到了“篷子车”(ṣāb; 参: 巴比伦语: ṣumbu)。首先, 因为驮运的是圣洁的祭物, 所以才选择这种特殊的车辆 (民 7:5-8); 其次是, 为了让旅行者感觉舒适, 才选择的这种车。亚述纳西尔帕的方尖碑上提到了四轮篷子车 (B. Meissner, Babylonien und Assyrien, I [1920], 249)。非利士人用套着两头牛的车把约柜送回了以色列 (撒上 6:7 等)。大卫试图用同样的方式把约柜运到耶路撒冷 (撒下 6:3–6; 代上 13:7–9)。

《阿摩司书》2:13 中提到, 使用车辆将禾捆运到打谷场; 《以赛亚书》28:27-28 中提到了两个表示车轮的词, 这两个词都与打谷有关: 套着牛的车辆将铺在打谷场的谷穗打散。无法确定《以赛亚书》28:28 中是否提到了“马”; 有些古代译本译为“(divided)hoofs”(“用马打散”), 参:《新英文译本》。所以在以色列用牛来拉车还是有根据的。《以赛亚书》5:18 中提到了“套绳”, 它似乎是一种拴在杆上的编织皮带, 一圈一圈地套在牛的脖子上。这个比喻似乎表明了套绳的牢固性。应该解释一下《诗篇》46:9 (《马所拉文本》10) 中的“战车”一词, 《七十士译本》和《他尔根》中作“gîlôṭ, 意思是“战车”。

《使徒行传》8:28-29 中总管银库的挨提阿伯太监所坐的“车”(希腊语: hárma) 应该是一种敞篷的车辆, 车上留有供车夫站立的位置, 并且至少有两个座位; 因此, 这可能是一种套在马或驴身上的行驶车辆。

CARVING

The OT references to carving are in descriptions of Solomon’s temple (1 K. 6:18ff.; 2 Ch. 3:7), in Ezekiel’s vision of the restored temple (Ezk. 41:17ff.), and in describing the work of the craftsmen Bezalel and Oholiab (Ex. 31:5; 35:33), who were put in charge of the skilled work on the tabernacle and its furnishings. The use of ḥ^arōšet in the latter passages alludes to the skills of carpentry.

Carving, or engraving, was extensively used among the peoples of Bible lands. There were no materials used in the arts which were not subjected to the graver's skill. Carved objects of wood, stone, ivory, clay, bronze, gold, silver, and glass discovered today show how skilful the ancient carvers were. Carving was principally done in bas-relief, although Ex. 28:11 shows that incised lines were also used. The signets and scarabs are examples of this class of carving.

雕刻或版画，在圣经地区的各民族间应用广泛。当地所使用的工艺品材料无不经雕刻师之手。今天发现的木雕、石雕、象牙雕刻、泥雕、青铜雕刻、金雕、银雕和玻璃雕刻都显示出古代雕刻者的精湛技艺。虽然《出埃及记》28:11 表明雕刻者也使用雕刻线，但雕刻术主要应用在浅浮雕上。图章和圣甲虫雕刻就是这类雕刻的典范。

The only NT reference is to the Decalogue carved on tablets of stone (2 Cor. 3:7).

《新约》只有在谈到将摩西十诫刻在石头上时，提到了雕刻（林后 3:7）。

kash'-ə.

1. [Heb. qiddâ; Gk. iris] (Ex. 30:24; Ezk. 27:19). An ingredient of the holy anointing oil along with myrrh, cinnamon, calamus, and olive oil. According to Ezk. 27:19 it was one of the commodities Damascus traded with Tyre. Cassia comprised the fragrant inner bark of the Cinnamomum cassia Blume, a shrub native to the East Indies, imported into Palestine at a very early period. While related to the true cinnamon it is decidedly inferior in flavor and quality.

CAST

The verb is used archaically in the AV in several expressions. In Jer. 41:14 “cast about” (Heb. sāḇāḇ) means “turned around”; “thine olive shall cast his fruit” (Dt. 28:40, nāšal) means the olives will drop from the tree; “casteth her calf” (Job

CASSIA 桂皮、肉桂

音译: kash'-ə.

1、桂皮: 【希伯来语: qiddâ; 希腊语: iris】(出 30:24; 结 27:19)。圣膏油的原料之一, 膏油的其他原料还有没药、肉桂、菖蒲和橄榄油。根据《以西结书》27:19 中的描述, 桂皮是大马士革与推罗之间兑换的货物之一。桂皮是由肉桂树 (拉丁学名: Cinnamomum cassia Blume) 的芳香内皮构成的, 肉桂树是原产于东印度群岛的一种灌木, 这种植物在很早时期就进口到了巴勒斯坦。虽然桂皮与真正的肉桂有关, 但是桂皮的香味和品质显然不如肉桂。

2、肉桂: 【希伯来语: q'šî'â; 希腊语: kasía】(诗 45:8 [《马所拉文本》9]); 《新英文译本》译为 “powder” (“肉桂”)。很有可能指的是多年生的云木香 (拉丁学名: Saussurea lappa [Decaisne] Clarke) 或印度鸢尾草。在古代, 印度大量出口这种植物, 它普遍用来入药, 制成壮阳药。在巴勒斯坦肉桂主要用来制作香水。

CAST 转身、落下、掉下、碎的、扔

《钦定版圣经》中多处都用到了这个词的古体词义。在《耶利米书》41:14 中, “cast about” (希伯来语: sāḇāḇ) 的意思是 “转身”; “thine olive shall cast his fruit” (申 28:40, nāšal) 的意思是 “树上的橄榄不熟自落了”; “casteth her

21:10, šākōl; also RSV) means “miscarries” (cf. Gen. 31:38; Ex. 23:26; also, of a vine and its fruit, Mal. 3:11); “cast in her mind” (Lk. 1:29, Gk. dialogízomai) means “pondered.” In Jer. 38:11f., AV “cast clouts” are thrown-out rags.

Elsewhere the usual meaning of “cast” is either “throw” (esp. Heb. šālak; Gk. bállō) or “form in a mold” (esp. Heb. yāšaq, Ex. 25:12; 26:37; 36:36; 37:3, 13; 38:5; cf. 1 K. 7:15ff.). To be cast down is to be prostrate in grief or humility (e.g., 1 K. 18:42; Ezr. 10:1), and anguish or depression is portrayed as a cast down soul (Ps. 42:5f., 11; 43:5, Heb. šāḥaḥ).

CASTANETS

[Heb. m^ena’an’im]; AV CORNETS. Castanets are mentioned in 2 S. 6:5 among the musical instruments upon which David and the house of Israel played while bringing the ark from the house of Abinadab. This word is incorrectly translated “cornets” in the AV. The castanet was probably about the same kind of instrument as the Egyptian sistrum, a loop-shaped metal frame through which were passed loose rods with rings at the ends. The instrument was held by a long handle and was rattled during songs and dances. It was used in Egypt in religious worship or to scare away evil influences.

The AV rendering of Gk. adókimos in 1 Cor. 9:27; the RSV has “disqualified,” the calf” (伯 21:10, šākōl; 另见《修订标准译本》)意思是“掉抬”(参: 创 31:38; 出 23:26; 另见: 葡萄树掉果子, 玛 3:11); “cast in her mind” (路 1:29, 希腊语: dialogízomai)意思是“反复思想”。《钦定版圣经》《耶利米书》38:11-12 中的“cast clouts”的意思是“碎布”。

在其他经文中, “cast”的通常含义是“扔”(尤其是希伯来语: šālak; 希腊语: bállō)或“铸造”(尤其是希伯来语: yāšaq, 出 25:12; 26:37; 36:36; 37:3, 13; 38:5; 参: 王上 7:15 起)。“To be cast down”是指因悲伤或谦卑而伏地(如, 王上 18:42; 拉 10:1)。经文中将痛苦或沮丧描述成“a cast down soul”(“忧闷”)(诗 42:5-6, 11; 43:5, 希伯来语: šāḥaḥ)。

CASTANETS 钹

【希伯来语: m^ena’an’im】: 《钦定版圣经》译为 CORNETS (“钹”)。《撒母耳记下》6:5 中提到了“钹”和其他的乐器, 当约柜从亚比拿达的家中抬出来的时候, 大卫和以色列全家弹奏着这些乐器。《钦定版圣经》错误地将这个词译为“cornets”(“短号”)。钹可能类似于埃及的叉铃, 叉铃是一种环状的金属架, 中间插着几根分散的金属棒, 金属架两端各有一些环。演奏者用长柄举着这种乐器, 当人们唱歌跳舞时, 演奏者摇动叉铃伴奏。叉铃用在埃及人的宗教礼拜中, 或用来驱邪。

CASTAWAY. 被弃绝的

《钦定版圣经》《哥林多前书》9:27 中将希腊语 adókimos 翻译为 castaway;

NEB “rejected.” The literal implication of the word is “tested and proved to be false or unacceptable.”

CAT

[Gk. ailouros]. The only mention of this animal is in Bar. 6:22, where cats are mentioned with “bats, swallows, and birds” as sitting with impunity on the images of the heathen gods which are unable to drive them off. In biblical times cats were not kept as pets in Palestine; however, they were considered sacred by the Egyptians (cf. Herodotus ii.66f.; Strabo Geog. xvii. 1.40).

CATARACT

[Heb. šinnôr; Gk. katarráktēs] (Ps. 42:7 [MT]); AV WATERSPOUT. The precise meaning of the word is uncertain; it may have alluded to some familiar Palestinian waterfall connected with the Jordan. In 2 S. 5:8 (AV “gutter”; RSV “water shaft”; NEB “grappling-iron”) the same term may have referred either to the underground water-tunnels of Jebusite Jerusalem, or to some device for scaling

《修订标准译本》译为 “disqualified”，《新英文译本》译为 “rejected”，汉译均为 “被弃绝的”。这个词的字面含义是 “被验证和证明为错误的或不可接受的”。

CASTLE 营楼、要塞

【希伯来语：bîrâ】(尼 7:2)；《钦定版圣经》译为 PALACE；《新英文译本》译为 CITADEL，汉译均为 “营楼”；【'armôn】(箴 18:19)。见 FORTIFICATION (防御工事)。

CAT 猫

【希腊语：ailouros】。只有《巴录书》6:22 中提到了这种动物，同时还提到了 “蝙蝠、燕子和其他鸟雀”，它们安然无恙地栖息在异教神明的身上，但这些神明却无法赶走它们。在圣经时代，巴勒斯坦未将猫当作宠物来饲养；但埃及人认为猫是圣洁的动物 (参：Herodotus ii.66-67; Strabo Geog. xvii. 1.40)。

CATECHIST; CATECHUMEN

A catechist is a teacher who instructs pupils in the elements of his or her own religion. In the OT the catechist teaches the rudiments of OT truth, in the NT the principles of the Christian faith. A catechumen is one whom the catechist instructs or catechizes, in preparation for the ceremony of baptism.

The words are derived from Gk. katēchéō, “give a sound,” “answer,” “echo,” as the students echo the words of their instructor. It came to mean familiar verbal instruction, a free informal discussion between teacher and pupil. Luke informs Theophilus (Lk. 1:4) that he intends to give him a succinct and orderly account of those things which he had previously received by word of mouth (perí hōn katēchéthēs). See also Acts 18:25; 21:21, 24; Rom. 2:18; 1 Cor. 14:19; Gal. 6:6, all using katēchéō.

We do not find in the NT an organized catechumenate, such as existed in the 3rd and 4th centuries. The apostles preached mainly to synagogue-instructed Jews who were familiar with the Law and the Prophets and the Psalms, or to Gentiles who had learned from the Jews and had become proselytes. The purpose of the first apostolic, preaching and teaching was to convince the hearers that Jesus

这个词可能指耶布斯耶路撒冷的地下水道，也有可能指用来攀墙的装置，如钩子。另外，苏格聂（E. L. Sukenik）认为这个词指的是盔甲上的三叉戟。考古人员在拉吉大卫时期的考古地层中发现了这种武器。

CATECHIST; CATECHUMEN 传道人；学道者

传道人是把他的宗教知识传授给学生的教师。《旧约》中的传道人教授《旧约》中的基本真理，《新约》中的传道人教授基督教信仰的要义。学道者则是为了参加洗礼仪式而接受传道人教导的人。

两个词语源自希腊语 katēchéō，这个希腊词语的意思是“发声”、“回答”、“模仿”，如学生模仿老师的话语。后来这个词常用来表示口头传授，即老师和学生之间自由、非正式的讨论。路加告诉提阿非罗大人（路 1:4），他将简要地按照顺序描述那些他之前通过口传（perí hōn katēchéthēs）学来的道。另见《使徒行传》18:25；21:21，24；《罗马书》2:18；《哥林多前书》14:19；《加拉太书》6:6，这些经文都用到 katēchéō 这个词。

我们在《新约》中看不到公元 3 世纪和 4 世纪那种系统的慕道班。使徒主要在会堂中教导那些熟悉律法书、先知书和《诗篇》的犹太人，或在会堂内教导那些效法犹太人归信基督教的外邦人。使徒进行第一次传道和教导是为了让听众相信耶稣就是神应许的弥赛亚和救世主。随着信徒数量的增加，信徒与拒绝教导的人之间的差异进一步凸显出来。信徒遭遇了越来越猛烈和严酷的敌 was the promised Messiah, the Savior of the world. As believers multiplied, the contrast between them and those who rejected the teaching became more and more marked. Opposition, scorn, and persecution became bolder and more bitter. The Christians were compelled to set forth and defend their beliefs more clearly. They had to meet and answer keen and persistent objections. And so the necessity for clear, systematic teaching led more and more to an ordered catechumenate. The Apostolic Constitutions, from the latter part of the 3rd cent., show the institution in a fair state of development. A Jew, pagan, or heretic of good moral standing, upon application to the deacon, presbyter, or bishop, was admitted into the state of catechumen by the sign of the cross and the imposition of hands (Sch.-Herz.).

We find the basis for the Christian catechumenate in the Great Commission (Mt. 28:19f.), which had the aim of making disciples, i.e., believing followers, by means of baptizing and teaching. Those who have become disciples are to observe all the things that Christ has commanded. Jesus Himself at twelve years of age had become a child of the law, a catechumen. He became the great Catechist, instructing His disciples, other private individuals, and the multitudes. For an example of His catechizing, see Mt. 16:13ff. Paul was a master in the catechetical method, which appears frequently in the Epistles (see 1 Cor. 3:1f.; He. 5:11, 14; 6:1f.; 1 Pet. 2:2; 1 Jn. 2:13). Examples of his use of the pedagogical method of apperception are found in Acts 14:14ff.; 17:16ff.; 19:8f. Thus the idea of religious nurture and instruction is found throughout the NT.

我们在“大使命”（太 28:19-20）中找到了组织基督教慕道班的依据，组织慕道班是为了让万民作耶稣的门徒，即通过受洗和接受教导成为信徒。成为基督门徒的人要遵守基督的所有教训。耶稣在十二岁变成了律法的孩子和学道者。祂成为了伟大的传道人，教导祂的门徒、个人和众人。关于耶稣传道，见《马太福音》16:13起。保罗善于运用教义问答的方法传道，这种传道方法在保罗书信中十分常见（见林前 3:1-2；来 5:11, 14；6:1-2；彼前 2:2；约壹 2:13）。在《使徒行传》14:14起、17:16起和 19:8-9中可以看到保罗利用感知方法传道的例子。因此，整部《新约》中都贯穿着信仰培养和宗教教导的思想。

Yet the catechetical method was not something new in the NT. Its roots are found throughout the OT. The narrative of God's first communication with man inside the gates of Eden, concerning commandment, law, sin, its consequences, its remedy, takes a catechetical form. The importance of systematic instruction, both public and private, is emphasized throughout the OT and NT, although it might not always take the form of catechizing in the modern pedagogical sense. In the patriarchal age the father was the prophet, the teacher, and the catechist in his house, which often included several families with their servants (see Gen. 18:19; also Ex. 12:26; Dt. 6:1-9; Josh. 4:6f.; 24:15; Ps. 34:11). In addition to their sacerdotal functions, priests and Levites were catechists (instructors) among the people (Lev. 10:11; Dt. 33:10; 2 Ch. 15:3; Ezk. 44:23). In later times the synagogues had regular instruction in the Law and the Prophets.

然而，教义问答的传教方法并不是《新约》的首创。这种方法源自于《旧约》。上帝首次就诫命、律法、罪、罪的结果和赎罪问题与伊甸园中的人交流时，就采用了教义问答的方法。《旧约》和《新约》中的问答法的形式虽然不一定符合现代教学法，虽然但它始终强调系统教义教导的重要性，无论是对公众还是对个人。在族长时期，族长是家中的先知、教师和传道人，一个家族通常包括多个家庭和各家庭的仆人（见创 18:19；另参：出 12:26；申 6:1-9；书 4:6-7；24:15；诗 34:11）。祭司和利未人除了肩负着神职，还是以色列人中的传道人（教师）（利 10:11；申 33:10；代下 15:3；结 44:23）。后来，传道人通常在会堂中教授律法书和先知书中的知识。 fathers to the seven Epistles written by James, Peter, John, and Jude. As early as the 3rd cent. the term came to be used in the sense of “encyclical,” since, as Theodoret says later, “they are not addressed to single churches, but generally [kathólou] to the faithful, whether to the Jews of the Dispersion, as Peter writes, or even to all who are living as Christians under the same faith.” Three other explanations of the term have been given, viz., (1) that it was intended to indicate a common apostolic authorship (only a few support this view); (2) that it signifies that the seven Epistles were universally received as genuine; (3) that it refers to the catholicity of their doctrine, i.e., orthodox and authoritative v. heretical epistles, in harmony with Christian truth. By some misconception of the word “catholic” the Western Church interpreted it as signifying “canonical” and sometimes called these Epistles epistolae canonicae. That it was originally used in the sense of “general” Epistles is now commonly agreed.

【希腊语: hai epistolai katholikai】。大公书信与使徒书信或保罗书信不同，它是写给个别教会或个人的书信，俄利根和其他教会的教父用 "catholic" ("全体基督教徒的") 一词的一般含义来表示雅各、彼得、约翰和犹大所写的七封书

This is evident from their form of address. James wrote to all Jews “of the dispersion” who had embraced the Christian faith. In his First Epistle Peter addressed the same Christians, including also gentile converts, resident in five provinces of Asia Minor; “exiles of the dispersion.” His Second Epistle is to all Christians everywhere. John’s first letter was evidently written to a group of churches and intended for universal use. Jude also had in mind all Christians when he wrote “to those who are called, beloved in God.” The seeming exceptions are 2 and 3 John, which are addressed to individuals but included with the Catholic Epistles as properly belonging with 信。早在公元 3 世纪就用这个词来表示“罗马教皇的通谕”，因为正如狄奥多田后来所说，“这些书信不是写给个别教会的，而是写给所有信主的人的，无论他们是离散的犹太人，还是彼得所说的怀有相同的信仰像基督徒一样生活的人”。这个词还有其他三种解释，即（1）它表明这些信都由使徒写的（只有几个人支持这种观点）；（2）它说明这七封信普遍被认为是真实的书信；（3）它指出了使徒教义的大公性，也就是说，正统和权威书信与异端书信在基督教信仰中和谐共存。西方教会有时误解了“catholic”的含义，认为这个词的含义是“正典的”，有时称这些书信为 epistolae canonicae（“正典书信”）。现在人们通常认为它指的是“大公”书信。

从信中的称呼方式显然表明了这一点。雅各写信给所有“散住各地的”、怀有基督教信仰的犹太人。彼得的第一封书信也是写给这些基督徒的，其中还包括归信主的外邦人和分散在小亚细亚的五个行省中“寄居的”。彼得的第二封书信写给世界各地的所有基督徒。约翰的第一封信显然是写给一些教会的，但其中的教导对所有信徒都适用。当犹大写信给“那被召、在父神里蒙爱的人”，他想到的是所有的基督徒。《约翰二书》和《约翰三书》似乎是个例外，这两封信是写给个人的，但它们也属于大公书信，这两封书信应该归入《约翰一书》，对一般读者来说，它们是有价值的。

At least ten Hebrew and three Greek terms can be referred to in English by the generic word “cattle.” The English term “cattle” is in many instances far less precise than the various Hebrew and Greek terms. Cattle may refer to wild and domesticated animals, livestock, beasts of burden, and animals trained for a variety of other purposes.

至少有 10 个希伯来语和 3 个希腊语可以表示英语中的通用词汇“cattle”(“牛、牲畜”)。在很多情况下, 英语单词“cattle”的含义远不如各种希伯来语和希腊语词汇准确。“Cattle”可以表示野生和驯养的动物、牲畜、驮畜和其他用途的驯畜。

I. Biblical Terms.-A. Hebrew Terms. The most common designation for cattle in Hebrew is the generic term b^ehēmā, which appears 185 times in the OT. In the creation account of Gen. 1, “cattle” (b^ehēmā) is a designation for the first subdivision of the created “living creatures” and is distinguished from “creeping things,” or small (crawling) things, and “beasts of the earth,” or animals that roam in the wilds (vv. 24–26; cf. Ps. 148:10). “Cattle” here refers to large animals that lend themselves to domestication. In Gen. 2:20 the “cattle” are a division of the animal kingdom separated from the birds of the sky and the wild animals of the earth (cf. 3:14). The distinct division of “cattle” is present

I. 《圣经》中表示“牲畜”的词。 A. 希伯来语中表示“牲畜”的词。希伯来语中最常用来表示“牲畜”的词语是 b^ehēmā, 这个词在《旧约》中出现了 185 次。在《创世记》第一章关于神创世的描述中, “cattle” (b^ehēmā) 指的是神创造出的第一类“有生命的物”, 它与“昆虫”或小型爬行动物, 以及“野兽”或地上的野兽不同 (创 20:24-26; 参: 诗 148:10)。“Cattle”在这里表示大型动物和被驯养的动物。《创世记》2:20 中的“牲畜”指的是从空中飞鸟和野地走兽中分离出来的一类动物 (参: 创 3:14)。关于洪水的经文也将“牲畜”描述成一种有别于飞鸟、野兽和昆虫的独特动物 (创 7:14, 21; 8:1; 9:10)。 also in the flood narrative as a group of animals distinguished from birds, beasts, and creeping (swarming) creatures (Gen. 7:14, 21; 8:1; 9:10).

After the creation and flood accounts the generic term b^ehēmā is employed for the first time for domesticated animals (Gen. 34:23; 36:6) of large and small kinds (Lev. 1:2), such as horses (Gen. 47:17), donkeys (asses) (47:17; Dt. 5:14), herds of bovine cattle (Gen. 47:17f), oxen (bāqār; Lev. 1:2; 27:26, Dt. 5:14), and flocks of sheep (Gen. 47:17; Lev. 27:26) and goats (Lev. 1:2; 27:26). In one postexilic passage b^ehēmā designates a beast of burden (Neh. 2:12, 14). In Lev. 11:2 b^ehēmā is a subdivision of “living things” (RSV) or land “animals” (NEB, NAB) and designates the animals that are classified as clean and edible (Lev. 11:3). In four passages b^ehēmā appears in the fixed phrase “birds of the air [heaven] and beasts of the earth” (Dt. 28:26; Jer. 7:33; 19:7; 34:20); here it clearly means wild animals (cf. Dt. 32:24). Whereas the most common meaning of b^ehēmā is the domesticated animal, in a number of contexts the word carries quite different meanings.

Another generic term for “cattle” in Hebrew is miqneh, which appears seventy-five times in the OT. This word is employed most frequently for “possessions” of livestock either purchased or otherwise acquired. Whenever it is translated as “cattle” it has the general meaning of “livestock,” a term sometimes preferred by the NEB, NAB, and NASB. Miqneh can be made up of flocks of goats (Gen. 31:10), of sheep and goats (30:32; 31:9f.; Ex. 12:38; Job 1:3), herds of bovine cattle and flocks of sheep and goats (Gen. 46:32, 34; Nu. 32:26; 1 S. 30:20; Eccl. 2:7), horses (Gen. 47:16f.; Ex. 9:3-7), donkeys (Gen. 47:16f.; Ex. 9:3-7; 34:19; Job 1:3), camels (Ex. 9:3-7; Job 1:3), oxen (Gen. 34:19; Job 1:3), and possibly pack animals (2 K. 3:17, KoB, p. 561; J. Gray, I & II Kings [2nd ed. 1970], p. 483 n. g). In one instance the term miqneh is used interchangeably with b^ehēmā (cf. the cultic law of Ex. 13:12 with 34:19). A clear distinction between the terms is found in the MT of 2 K. 3:17 (RSV “your cattle [miqnēkem], and your beasts [b^ehemē-kem]; NEB follows the Lucianic recension of the LXX with “your army and your pack-animals”).

描述完创世和洪水之后，经文中首次用通用词汇 b^ehēmā 来表示驯养的大型或小型家畜（创 34:33; 36:6; 利 1:2），如马（创 47:17）、驴（创 47:17; 申 5:14）、牛科牲畜（创 47:17-18）、牛（bāqār; 利 1:2; 27:26, 申 5:14）、羊（创 47:17; 利 27:26）和山羊（利 1:2; 27:26）。在一个描述被掳归回之后时期的段落中，b^ehēmā 表示驮畜（尼 2:12, 14）。《利未记》11:2 中的 b^ehēmā 属于一种“有生命的物”（《修订标准译本》）或陆地“动物”（《新英文译本》和《新美国圣经》），它指的是一种洁净的、可以吃的动物（利 11:3）。在《申命记》28:26、《耶利米书》7:33、19:7 和 34:20 中，b^ehēmā 用在“空中的飞鸟和地上的走兽”这个固定短语中；这个词在这里显然指的是野兽（参：申 32:24）。尽管 b^ehēmā 最经常用来表示驯养的动物，但这个词在很多语境中还可以表达完全不同的含义。

希伯来语中另一个用来表示“牲畜”的通用词汇是 miqneh，这个词在《旧约》中出现了 75 次。《旧约》最经常用这个词表示购买或通过其他途径获得的“牲畜”。这个词被翻译为“cattle”时，它的一般含义是“livestock”（“牲畜”），《新英文译本》《新美国圣经》和《新美国标准译本》更愿意将 Miqneh 译为“livestock”。Miqneh 可以表示山羊（创 31:10）、山羊和绵羊（创 30:32; 31:9-10; 出 12:38; 伯 1:3）、牛和羊（创 46:32, 34; 民 32:26; 撒上 30:20; 传 2:7）、马（创 47:16-17; 出 9:3-7）、驴（创

The collective term for bovine cattle is bāqār, a term that can include adult male or bull (Gen. 32:6; Ex. 20:17; 22:3, 8f., 29; 23:4, 12; Dt. 5:14, 21; etc.), the adult female or cow (usually pārā) (Gen. 33:13; Job 1:14), the calf in the generic sense (Gen. 18:7; Ex. 29:1; Nu. 7:15; 28:11; 29:13; 1 S. 14:32), the male calf (usually ‘ēgel), and the female calf or heifer (‘eglā). Bovine cattle (bāqār) could be used for pulling (2 S. 6:6), plowing (Job 1:14; Am. 6:12), as beasts of burden (1 Ch. 12:40), and as cattle to be fattened (1 K. 1:9), as well as for sacrifice (Nu. 7:88; 2 Ch. 7:5; Ps. 66:15).

The Heb. b^e‘ir always has a collective meaning and is best translated as “livestock” (Gen. 45:17; Ex. 22:5 [MT 4]; Nu. 20:4, 8, 11; Ps. 78:48). The word ‘elep appears with the meaning of cattle only seven times (Dt. 7:13; 28:4, 18, 51; Ps. 8:7 [MT 8]; Prov. 14:4; Isa. 30:24). The term ‘allūp is employed once with the meaning of cattle (Ps. 144:14; cf. Sir. 38:25). The AV and RSV translate the 47:16-17; 出 9:3-7; 34:19; 伯 1:3)、骆驼(出 9:3-7; 伯 1:3)、牛(创 34:19; 伯 1:3)组成的牲畜群,还可能表示驮畜(王下 3:17, KoB, 561 页; J. Gray, I & II Kings[1970 年第 2 版], 483 页)。在一个例子中, miqneh 这个词可以与 b^ehēmā 互换使用(参:《出埃及记》13:12 和 34:19 中的献祭律法)。在《马所拉文本》的《列王纪下》3:17 中可以看到这两个词的明显区别(《修订标准译本》译为“your cattle [miqnēkem], and your beasts [b^ehemē-kem];《新英文译本》遵循《七十士译本》的《路迦诺校订本》中的译法,译为“your army and your pack-animals”, 汉译均为“牲畜”)。

表示牛的集合名词是 bāqār, 这个词可以表示成年的公牛(创 32:6; 出 20:17; 22:3, 8-9, 29; 23:4, 12; 申 5:14, 21 等)、成年的母牛(通常用 pārā 表示)(创 33:13; 伯 1:14)、一般意义上的牛犊(创 18:7; 出 29:1; 民 7:15; 28:11; 29:13; 撒上 14:32)、公牛犊(通常用 ‘ēgel 表示)和母牛犊(‘eglā)。牛(bāqār)可以用来拉车(撒下 6:6)和耕地(伯 1:14; 摩 6:12),还可以作为驮畜(代上 12:40)、宰杀的肥犊(王上 1:9)和祭物(民 7:88; 代下 7:5; 诗 66:15)

希伯来语 b^e‘ir 常用作集合名词,最佳翻译为“牲畜”(创 45:17; 出 22:5[《马所拉文本》]; 民 20:4, 8, 11; 诗 78:48)。在经文中, ‘elep 一词只有七次用来表示“牛”这个含义(申 7:13; 28:4, 18, 51; 诗 8:7[《马所拉文本》8]; 箴 14:4; 赛 30:24)。‘allūp 有一次用来表示“牛”(诗 144:14; 参: 便 38:25)。《钦定版圣经》和《修订标准译本》将《创世记》33:14 中的 m^elā’kâ 译为“cattle”, 但《新

term m^elā'kâ as “cattle” in Gen. 33:14, 英文译本》和《新美国圣经》将之译为 but the NEB and NAB have “livestock.” “livestock”，汉译均为“群畜”。

The Hebrew term for small livestock is śeh, which designates sheep and goats (Gen. 30:33f.; Ex. 12:5; Dt. 14:4; Isa. 7:25). In a number of passages śeh is contrasted with the ox (śôr, Ex. 34:19; Lev. 22:23; Dt. 17:1; 1 S. 14:34; etc.), with ox and donkey (śôr and h^amôr, Ex. 22:4, 8f.; Josh. 6:21; Jgs. 6:4; 1 S. 22:19), or with bull and ram (śôr and 'ayil, Nu. 15:11), Sheep and goats are kept in flocks (śō'n, Gen. 12:16; 30:32), separated from the bovine cattle (bāqār, Nu. 22:40), and driven ahead of the latter. At times śō'n could refer to sheep only (1 S. 25:2) or merely to males among sheep and goats (Gen. 30:40).

希伯来语 śeh 表示小牲畜，指的是绵羊和山羊（创 30:33-34；出 12:5；申 14:4；赛 7:25）。在很多经文中，羊（śeh）与牛（śôr，出 34:19；利 22:23；申 17:1；撒上 14:34）、牛和驴（śôr 和 h^amôr，出 22:4，8-9；书 6:21；士 6:4；撒上 22:19）或与公牛和公绵羊（śôr 和 'ayil，民 15:11）形成了对比，绵羊和山羊被放在一起牧养（śō'n，创 12:16；30:32），它们被赶在牛群的前面，与牛群（bāqār，民 22:40）分开。有时候，śō'n 只能表示羊（撒上 25:2），或仅表示公绵羊和公山羊（创 30:40）。

B. Greek Terms. In the NT the hapax legomenon thrēm̄ma is used in Jn. 4:12 with the meaning “cattle” (RSV, NEB, NASB; NAB “flocks”). In classical and koine Greek this term is used for the domesticated animal, especially the sheep or goat. The term kténos appears with the meaning “cattle” in Rev. 18:13, where it is contrasted with sheep (próbatos). 1 Cor. 15:39 employs the noun kténos with reference to domesticated animals (RSV “beasts”), whereas in Lk. 10:34 and Acts 23:24 it refers to a riding animal. The term boús can mean cattle (Jn. 2:14f.) or ox (Lk. 13:15; 14:5, 19; 1 Cor. 9:9; 1 Tim. 5:18).

B. 希腊语中表示“牲畜”的词。在《新约》中，《约翰福音》4:12 中用罕用语 thrēm̄ma 来表示“牲畜”（《修订标准译本》《新英文译文》和《新美国标准译本》译为“cattle”；《新美国圣经》译为“flocks”）。在古典希腊语和通用希腊

II. Cattle in Biblical Life.-A. Cattle and Economy. The domesticated animals (Heb. b^ehēmā) were of great importance economically for biblical man, who lived under both nomadic and agricultural conditions. Livestock in the form of the flocks (šō'n) of sheep and goats and herds of bovine cattle (bāqār) were raised as a source of milk (Dt. 32:14; Prov. 27:27; Isa. 7:22), butter (Gen. 18:5; Dt. 32:14; Jgs. 5:25; 2 S. 17:29; Job 20:17; cf. G. Dalman, Arbeit und Sitte [1928–1939], V, 194; VI, 307–311), and cheese (Job 10:10; 1 S. 17:18; 2 S. 17:29). According to Gen. 9:3 the meat of animals was allowed to be a staple item in the diet of postdiluvian man, but clear distinctions were made between clean (thus, edible) animals and unclean (thus, inedible) animals (Lev. 11; Dt. 14:3ff.). It appears that meat was eaten only occasionally, except perhaps by the wealthy, who may have had it regularly. Guests were entertained to calf, kid, or lamb (Gen. 18:7; Jgs. 6:19; 2 S. 12:4). The fatted young bull was stall-fed before being slaughtered (Prov. 15:17; 1 K. 4:23; Lk. 15:23, 27, 30). Apparently the Israelites seldom, if ever, castrated their male bovine (Lev. 22:24), and since the English word “ox” or “steer” has more specific reference to a castrated male

语中，这个词还可以表示驯养的牲畜，尤其是绵羊或山羊。《启示录》18:13中 kténos 意为“牛”，在这节经文中，牛与羊 (próbatos) 形成了对比。《哥林多前书》15:39 用名词 kténos 来表示驯养的牲畜（《修订标准译本》译为“beasts” [“兽”]），而《路加福音》10:34 和《使徒行传》23:24 用这个词表示可以骑的牲畜。Boús 既可以指牛羊这两种牲畜（约 2:14-15），也可以指牛这种牲畜（路 13:15; 14:15, 19; 林前 9:9; 提前 5:18）。

II. 圣经生活中的“牲畜”。A. 牲畜与经济。 对于《圣经》中游牧民族和农民来说，驯养家畜具有非常重要的经济价值。人们为了获得奶（申 32:14; 箴 27:27; 赛 7:22）、奶油（创 18:5; 申 32:14; 士 5:25; 撒下 17:29; 伯 20:17; 参：G. Dalman, Arbeit und Sitte [1928–1939], V, 194; VI, 307–311）和奶酪（伯 10:10; 撒上 17:18; 撒下 17:29）而饲养成群（šō'n）绵羊、山羊和牛（bāqār）。根据《创世记》9:3 中的描述，大洪水之后的人可以吃动物的肉，但是洁净的动物（因此可以吃）和不洁净的动物（因此不可以吃）之间有明显的区别（利 11; 申 14:3 起）。只有富有的人经常吃肉，除此之外，其他人似乎只是偶尔才会吃肉。主人拿牛犊肉或羔羊肉来款待客人（创 18:7; 士 6:19; 撒下 12:4）。宰杀牛犊之前，先要将它们关在栏中将它们养肥（箴 15:17; 王上 4:23; 路 15:23, 27, 30）。以色列人显然很少阉割公牛（利 22:24），因为英语单词“ox”或“steer”的更具体的含义是“被阉割的牛”，《利未记》4:10、7:23 和其他类似语境中的“公牛”译为“bull”更好一些。牛可以用作拉车（民 7:3; 撒下 6:6）、耕地（申 22:10; 撒上 11:5; 王上 19:19; 伯 1:14; 摩 6:12; 赛 30:24）和踹谷（申 25:4; 参：林前 9:9）的役畜。它们还可以用作驮畜（代上 12:40）。牛的粪便可以作为煮饭的燃料（结 4:15）。 bovine, “bull” would be a better rendering in Lev. 4:10; 7:23, and similar contexts. Bovine cattle were used draught animals for pulling wagons (Nu. 7:3; 2 S. 6:6), drawing the plow (Dt. 22:10; 1 S. 11:5; 1 K. 19:19; Job 1:14; Am. 6:12; Isa. 30:24), and dragging the threshing sled (Dt. 25:4; cf. 1 Cor. 9:9). They were used as beasts of burden (1 Ch. 12:40). Their dung could be used as fuel for cooking (Ezk. 4:15).

B. Cattle and Legal Practice. The oldest biblical sources emphasize man’s position of rulership over the created creatures (Gen. 1:20–28) and stress at the same time the consciousness of the close relationship of man and animal (cf. Ps. 104:28–30; Eccl. 3:18–21). The corresponding relationship of man and animal is reflected in legal practice. In the covenant community the cattle (b^ehēmā in Ex. 20:10; šôr in Ex. 23:12) are assured the sabbath rest analogous to the slave and alien (Ex. 23:12; Dt. 5:14). The threshing ox is legally assured a part in the harvest (Dt. 25:4). The wild animals may have a part of that which grows of its own accord during the sabbath year (Ex. 23:10f.; Lev. 25:7). If an ox gores a person to death, the death penalty by stoning is executed on the ox (Ex. 21:28). A number of other regulations pertinent to oxen (injuries, theft, illegal grazing, etc.) are found in Ex. 21:29–22:15 (MT 14). Man’s physical cohabitation with an animal is expressly forbidden (Ex. 22:19 [MT 18]; Lev. 18:23; 20:15f.; Dt. 27:18). The interbreeding of different kinds of cattle (b^ehēmā) was legally not permitted (Lev. 19:19). The yoking together of ox and ass for plowing was prohibited (Dt. 22:10).

B.牲畜与律法规定。最古老的《圣经》强调人类对其他所有受造物的统治权（创 1:20-28），同时强调人类和动物的密切关系（参：诗 104:28–30；传 3:18–21）。律法规定体现出人类和动物的对应关系。在与神立约的会众中，牲畜（《出埃及记》20:10；《出埃及记》23:12 中的 šôr）与“奴婢”与“寄居的客旅”一样（出 23:12；申 5:14），可以在安息日歇息。根据律法的规定，在场上踹谷的牛可以吃一些收获之物（申 25:4）。野兽在安息年可以将剩下的土产当作食物（出 23:10-11；利 25:7）。牛若触死了人，要用石头打死那牛（出 21:28）。《出埃及记》21:29–22:15（《马所拉文本》14）中还有很多关于牛的律法规定（牛伤人、牛被偷、非法放牛等）。律法禁止人与兽淫合（出 22:19 [《马所拉文本》18]；利 18:23; 20:15-16; 申 27:18）；禁止牲畜（b^ehēmā）与异类配合（利 19:19）；禁止并用牛、驴耕地（申 22:10）。

C. Cattle and Religion. In cultic law certain types of cattle were considered a valid substitutionary equivalent for a man who had forfeited his life through sin (Gen. 22:13; cf. Ex. 13:13; 34:20). The substitutionary and expiatory use of animals was effective both for the sin offering and the guilt offering. The “young bull” was offered as a sin offering for the unwitting sin of the “anointed priest,” or high priest, whose culpabilities bring guilt upon the whole people (Lev. 4:1–5:13). A male goat could be sacrificed for the sin of a ruler (4:22–26); a female goat for the sin of a common individual (vv. 27–31), a goat or a sheep for a sin offering (4:32–5:6); a ram for a guilt offering (5:14–19). On the great Day of Atonement a bull was sacrificed as an atoning sin offering for the high priest (Lev. 16:6), two male goats as a sin offering for the congregation, and a ram for a burnt offering (v. 5). The bull was sacrificed for an individual under certain special circumstances; e.g., in Jgs. 6:25f. (Gideon), 1 S. 1:24 (Hannah), 1 K. 18:23 (Elijah), Ezr. 8:35 (returning exiles), and in Job 42:8 along with rams (Eliphaz, Bildad, and Zophar).

The bull (šôr) is in the OT a symbol of virility, fecundity, and strength; it is used figuratively of the virile strength of Joseph (Dt. 33:17), the enemies of the psalmist (Ps. 22:12 [MT 13]), the gentile kings (Ps. 68:30 [MT 31]), the arrogance and power of Assyria (Isa. 10:13), the rulers and leaders of Edom (Isa. 34:7) and Babylon (Jer. 50:27). Probably the rams, lambs, goats, and bulls mentioned in Ezk. 39:18 are used figuratively for the mighty.

The bull was a widespread symbol of

C. 牲畜和宗教。在献祭律法中，几种牲畜可以献为燔祭，代替本该因罪丧命的人（创 22:13；参：出 13:13；34:20）。代为献祭和赎罪的动物既可以献为赎罪祭，也可以献为赎愆祭。无意犯罪的“受膏的”祭司或大祭司可以献上“公牛犊”作为赎罪祭，百姓会因为祭司犯罪而陷在罪里（利 4:1-5:13）。官长可以献上公山羊作为赎罪祭（利 4:22-26）；平民可以献上母山羊作为赎罪祭（利 4:27-31），山羊或绵羊都可以献作赎罪祭（利 4:32-5:6）；公羊可以献为赎愆祭（利 5:14-19）。在赎罪日这一天，要献上一头公牛为大祭司赎罪（利 16:6），献上两只公山羊为会众赎罪，还要献上一只公羊作为燔祭（利 16:5）。在特殊情况下，可以献上公牛为某个人赎罪；例如，《士师记》6:25-26 中的基甸、《撒母耳记上》1:24 中的哈拿、《列王纪上》18:23 中的以利亚和《以斯拉记》8:35 中被掳归回的人都献上公牛作为祭物，《约伯记》42:8 中的以利法、比勒达和琐法献上公牛和公羊作为燔祭。

在《旧约》中，公牛 (šôr) 是活力、生育力和力量的象征；经文中将约瑟的威严（申 33:17）、诗篇作者的敌人（诗 22:12[《马所拉文本》13]）、外邦人的国王（诗 68:30[《马所拉文本》31]）、亚述的傲慢和权势（赛 10:13）、以东的统治者和首领（赛 34:7）和巴比伦（耶 50:27）比作公牛。《以西结书》39:18 中的公绵羊、羊羔、公山羊和公牛可能是用来比喻那位有大能的人。

fertility and strength in other ancient Near Eastern countries. In Canaanite religion El, the supreme deity in the Ugaritic pantheon, is often called “the Bull El” (Tor-il), which shows him as a fertility-god. In Ugarit, Baal or Hadad, the god of storm, rain, fertility, and vegetation, is also referred to as a bull (UT 129:17f.). Among the Babylonians, Arameans, and Hittites the bull was the symbol of—or sacred animal of—the god of fertility and of the storm, bringing fructifying rain to earth. In Egypt live bulls under the names of Apis and Mnevis were venerated as gods in Memphis and Heliopolis respectively. Various bull-cults or calf-cults linked with Horus-worship are known from the Nile Delta area (cf. Otto, Beiträge zur Geschichte der Stierkulte in Ägypten [1938], pp. 6–8, 32f.). Thus the Israelites, whose forefathers had “served other gods” (Josh. 24:2), were inclined to follow the pagan practice of worshiping images of young bulls or male calves at Mt. Sinai (‘ēgel, Ex. 32) and at Bethel and Dan in the time of Jeroboam I (1 K. 12:28f.). Such practice was condemned in the Decalogue (Ex. 20:4; cf. Dt. 4:15–19) and by the prophets (Am. 4:4; 5:5f.; Hos. 8:5f.; 13:2).

育力和力量的象征。在迦南宗教中，乌加列万神殿的至高神伊勒常被称为“公牛伊勒”(Tor-il)，这说明他是丰饶之神。在乌加列，巴力或哈达也被称为公牛，他是风暴神、雨神、丰饶之神和农事之神 (UT 129:17-18)。巴比伦人、亚兰人和赫人都认为公牛是一种神圣的动物，或认为它是丰饶之神和雨神的象征，可以为地上带来丰收的雨水。在埃及孟斐斯和黑利奥波勒斯，充满活力的公牛被称为神牛和姆奈维斯，这两地的埃及人奉它为神明。人们所熟知的尼罗河三角洲的各种公牛崇拜或牛犊崇拜与荷鲁斯崇拜有一定的联系(参: Otto, Beiträge zur Geschichte der Stierkulte in Ägypten [1938], 6–8 页, 32-33 页)。因此，西奈山 (‘ēgel, 出 32) 上和耶罗波安仪式时期生活于伯特利和但(王上 12:28-29) 的以色列人祖先倾向于效法牛犊崇拜或公牛犊崇拜的异教风俗，他们“事奉别神”(书 24:2)。摩西十诫中(出 20:4; 参: 申 4:15–19)和先知们(摩 4:4; 5:5-6; 何 8:5-6; 13:2) 都谴责这种风俗。

kô'də [Gk. Kauda, several MSS Klauda] (Acts 27:16); AV CLAUDA. An island 23 mi. (37 km.) W of Cape Matala, S of Crete. The reading “Cauda” is supported by *p*⁷⁴ s^{cor} B etc., and by the modern name Gozzo or Gaudos.

It is a small island, and could never have supported a large population. Its elevation to the rank of bishopric in Byzantine times must have been due to its association with the voyage of Paul. The ship with Paul on board was driven under the lee of Cauda (Acts 27:16); in the calm water S of the island the crew succeeded in hauling in the boat, undergirding the ship, and slackening sail.

CAUL.

The term is found in the AV as a translation of Heb. yōteret, s^egôr, s^ehîsim. In Hos. 13:8, s^egôr refers literally to the inclosure or covering of the heart, or perhaps the chest as surrounding the heart. It is possible, however, that the expression should be taken in the sense of “mailcoat of the heart,” i.e., hardened heart, which is shut to the influence of God’s grace; so Luther and many modern translators and commentators.

CAUDA 高大

音译: kô'də 【希腊语: Kauda, 有些手稿译为 Klauda】(徒 27:16); 《钦定版圣经》译为 CLAUDA (“高大”)。克里特岛以南、马塔拉角以西 23 英里 (37 公里) 处的一座岛屿。*p*⁷⁴ s^{cor} 《梵蒂冈抄本》等和该岛屿的现名 Gozzo 或 Gaudos 都证明它的拼写形式应为 “Cauda”。

高大是一座无法容纳大量人口的小岛。一定是因为保罗曾途径该岛, 所以这座小岛在拜占庭时期被提升为主教辖区。保罗乘着船贴着高大岛的背风岸航奔行 (徒 27:16); 小岛的南岸风平浪静, 船上的人把小船拉了上来, 用绳索捆绑船底, 然后落下了篷。

CAUL. 胸膛、心膜

《钦定版圣经》用这个词翻译希伯来语 yōteret、s^egôr 和 s^ehîsim。《何西阿书》13:8 中 s^egôr 的字面意思是心膜或包裹着心脏的胸膛。不过, 这个词应该理解成 “心脏的甲冑”, 也就是拒绝神的恩典的 “刚硬的心”; 路德和很多现代译者和注释者就把这个词译为 “心脏的甲冑”。

CAULKERS; CAULKING

[Heb. maḥ^azîqê bedeq]; AV CALKERS; Only in Ezk. 27:9, 27 is the hiphil participle of ḥāzaq, “strengthen, repair,” translated “caulkers” because they “repair the seams,” of the ship. Most commentators regard these men more generally as “ship carpenters” whose various responsibilities are represented by “repairing the seams.”

Ezekiel 27, perhaps the best description of Phoenician shipping to survive from ancient times, pictures Tyre as a mighty merchant ship to which various Phoenician cities, regions or trading partners contribute representative goods and skilled services. Thus, one may see Gebal, or Byblos, as the center of wood craftsmanship or carpentry (cf. 1 K. 5:18).

CAUSE.

The AV “cause” for Heb. rîb in Ex. 23:2f., 6, etc., means “legal case” or “lawsuit,” as also dābār in Ex. 18:19, 26; 22:9; Dt. 1:17, etc.; mišpāt in 2 S. 15:4; Job 13:18; 23:4; Lam. 3:59; and dîn in Ps. 9:4; 140:12; Jer. 5:28; 22:16; 30:13. In Prov. 29:7; 31:8 the RSV has “rights” for dîn.

CAULKERS; CAULKING 补缝工; 补缝

【希伯来语: maḥ^azîqê bedeq】:《钦定版圣经》译为 CALKERS (“补缝的”); 只有《以西结书》27:9 和 27 中使用了 ḥāzaq 的使役主动分词, ḥāzaq 的意思是“加固、修补”, 这里译为“补缝工”, 因为他们为船只“修补裂缝”。绝大多数注释者更普遍地认为这些人是“船上的木工”, 他们所肩负的一个职责就是“修补裂缝”。

《以西结书》第 27 章可能很好地描述了腓尼基的航运如何从古代延续了下来, 并将推罗比喻成一个强大的商船, 不同的腓尼基城市、地区或贸易商为这个商船提供货物和技术服务。因此, 人们可以将迦巴勒或比布鲁斯视为木工手艺的中心(参: 王上 5:18)。

CAUSE. 争讼、案件

《钦定版圣经》将《出埃及记》23:2-3, 6 等章节中的希伯来语 rîb 译为“cause”, 意为“案件”或“争讼”, 还将《出埃及记》18:19、18:26、22:9、《申命记》1:17 等章节中的 dābār, 《撒母耳记下》15:4、《约伯记》13:18、23:4 和《耶利米哀歌》中的 mišpāt, 以及《诗篇》9:4、140:12、《耶利米书》5:28、22:16 和 33:13 中的 dîn 译为“cause”。《修订标准译本》将《箴言》29:7 和 31:8 中的 dîn 译为“rights” (“案”)。

In 1 K. 12:15 par. 2 Ch. 10:15 the AV has “the cause [Heb. sibbā] was from the Lord”; the RSV translates “it was a turn of affairs brought about by the Lord.”

CAUSEWAY. 街道

在《钦定版圣经》中, 这个词用来翻译《历代志上》26:16 和 18 中的希伯来语 m^esillā (“已修好的道路”)。见 ROADS (街道)。

CAVALRY 骑兵、马军

【希腊语: hippikón】(马一 15:38; 马三 1:1; 启 9:16); 《钦定版圣经》译为 HORSEMEN (“马军”)。《启示录》9:16 中的 “马军” 更加强调马, 而不是骑手。骑兵是《次经》中动物意象的典型代表, 它们是神的审判工具 (另参: 启 9:17 和 8:7–11)。另见 APOCALYPTIC LITERATURE I.E. (启示文学 I.E.)。

Rocky caves are very common in the sandstone and limestone deposits of Palestine, and in antiquity they claimed many uses, including those of sanctuaries, storage areas, burial places, and dens for animals. In limestone hills, the calcium carbonate of which the rock is mainly composed is dissolved by water trickling through crevices or underground streams. Even on more level terrain pits are formed in a similar manner, and in antiquity these holes were often used for storing such things as grain or straw (cf. Jer. 41:8). The Hebrew term most frequently translated “cave” is m^e’ârâ, rendered in the LXX by spélaion. Other Hebrew words include sukkâ (Ps. 10:9, RSV “covert”; NEB “lair”), hāgû (Cant. 2:14, RSV “clefts”; NEB “holes”; Jer. 49:16, RSV “clefts”; NEB “crannies”).

石洞在巴勒斯坦的砂岩和石灰岩矿床中很常见，这些石洞在古代有很多用途，如作为庇护所、储存区、埋葬地和动物的洞穴。石灰岩的岩石主要是由碳酸钙构成的，这些岩石被石缝中水滴和地下的溪流溶解开，形成了洞穴。甚至连更平坦地形中的坑都是以类似的方式形成的，这些洞在古代通常可以用来储存粮食或稻草等物品 (参：耶 41:8)。最经常译为“洞”的希伯来语是 m^e’ârâ，《七十士译本》中译为 spélaion。其他可以译为“洞”的希伯来语还有 sukkâ (诗 10:9，《修订标准译本》译为“covert”；《新英文译本》译为“lair”，汉译均为“洞”)、hāgû (歌 2:14，《修订标准译本》译为“clefts”；《新英文译本》译为“holes”；耶 49:16，《修订标准译本》译为“clefts”；《新英文译本》译为“crannies”，汉译均为“洞”)。

The idea of a den is conveyed by ma'ôn. The lions' den (gōb) of Dnl. 6 was probably more of a cistern than a rocky cave. The imagery of a lions' den was used to describe Nineveh (Nah. 2:11f.), to depict the grandeur of divine creativity (Job 38:39f.), and to show God's provision for the natural order (Ps. 104:21f.). Mountain caves were sometimes used as lairs by robbers; hence the allusions in Jer. 7:11; Mt. 21:13; Mk. 11:17; Lk. 19:46. For a time the Israelites "made for themselves the dens which are in the mountains, and the caves and the strongholds" as places of refuge from the oppression of the Midianites (Jgs. 6:2). In He. 11:38 and Rev. 6:15 such a structure is regarded as a suitable place of hiding.

ma'ôn 表示兽穴。《但以理书》6章中的“狮子的洞”(gōb)很可能指的是一个水池，而不是石洞。《那鸿书》2:11-12用狮子洞这个意象来描述尼尼微，《约伯记》38:39-40用它来描述神的伟大创造力，《诗篇》104:21-22用它来描述神对自然顺序的规定。山洞有时可以作为贼窝；因此，《耶利米书》7:11、《马太福音》21:13、《马可福音》11:17和《路加福音》19:46中的“贼窝”暗指的是“石洞”。以色列人曾为了躲避米甸人的压制“在山中挖穴、挖洞、建造营寨”（士6:2）。在《希伯来书》11:38和《启示录》6:15中，洞穴还被视为藏身的理想场所。

Caves were also used as tombs (e.g., for the body of Lazarus, Jn. 11:38), and as storage places—perhaps during a time of

CEASE.

Nu. 11:25, AV, reads “they prophesied, and did not cease” (Heb. yāsap, lit. “add”), which the RSV, however, renders “they prophesied. But they did so no more”; and the NEB, “they fell into a prophetic ecstasy, for the first and only time.” Here the AV is simply in error.

According to Acts 12:5, AV, the church prayed for Peter “without ceasing” while he was in prison. But the Gk. ektenōs (D has en ekteneía) may also mean “earnestly” (cf. RSV) or “fervently” (NEB). Nonetheless, both the syntax and the circumstances of the verse indicate that the prayer was continuous.

CEASE. 停止

《钦定版圣经》的《民数记》11:25 中译为“they prophesied, and did not cease”（希伯来语：yāsap，字面意思为“增加”），而《修订标准译本》译为“they prophesied. But they did so no more”，《新英文译本》译为“they fell into a prophetic ecstasy, for the first and only time”，汉译均为“他们就受感说话，以后却没有再说”。《钦定版圣经》完全译错了。

根据《钦定版圣经》的《使徒行传》12:5 中的描述，当彼得囚在监里时，教会为他“切切地”祷告。但希腊语 ektenōs（《伯撒抄本》译为 en ekteneía）也可以表示“迫切地”（参：《修订标准译本》）或“恳切地”（参：《新英文译本》）。然而，语法和本节的语境都表明，教会一直在为彼得祷告。

CEDAR; CEDARWOOD 青翠树、香柏树；香柏木

【希伯来语：'erez；希腊语：kédros；还有希伯来语：'ezrah（诗 37:35），'ōren（赛 44:14）】；《钦定版圣经》译为 BAY TREE（“青翠树”，诗 37:35）和 ASH

37:35); CEDAR WORK [Heb. 'arzâ] (Zeph. 2:14); NEB omits. With few exceptions, OT references are to the stately Cedrus libani Loud., the most massive tree known to the Israelites, and which often attained a height of 120 ft. (36 m.). Once prolific in Palestine (1 K. 6:9f.; 10:27), cedars are now very rare. Apart from their grandeur and vigor (1 K. 4:33; Isa. 35:2; 60:13; Am. 2:9; 2 K. 14:9; Cant. 5:15), the trees were esteemed for their fragrant durable wood (2 S. 5:11; 1 Ch. 22:4), which was more highly prized than the sycamore (1 K. 10:27; Isa. 9:10). The growth of the cedar typified that of the righteous man (Ps. 92:12).

David employed Tyrian workmanship to build a house of cedar (2 S. 5:11), and obtained vast quantities of the wood for the later Solomonic temple (1 Ch. 22:4). One of Solomon's most important buildings was the "house of the forest of Lebanon" (1 K. 7:2; 10:17; 2 Ch. 9:16), named after the source of its materials. Cedar was well adapted for beams (1 K. 6:9; Cant. 1:17), boards (Cant. 8:9), pillars (1 K. 7:2), and ceilings (Jer. 22:14), as well as carved work such as idols (Isa. 44:14f.). When grown in its natural habitat cedarwood is durable, close-grained, and capable of receiving a high polish. Its resinous content (Ps. 92:14) preserves it from rot and worms. Cedar oil was used in antiquity for preserving parchments and clothing.

Cedar is twice mentioned in connection with ritual cleansing. In Lev. 14:4 it, with scarlet and hyssop, was dipped in the blood of a "clean bird," and this blood

(“松树”，赛 44:14)；《新英文译本》还译为“spreading tree”（“青翠树”，诗 37:35)；CEDAR WORK（“香柏木”）【希伯来语：'arzâ】（番 2:14)；《新英文译本》中省略了这个词。除了几个例外情况，这个词在《旧约》中指的是挺拔的黎巴嫩香柏树（拉丁学名：Cedrus libani Loud.），这是以色列人知晓的最高大的树，这种树通常可以长到 120 英尺（36 米）。巴勒斯坦地区过去曾有很多香柏树（王上 6:9-10；10:27），但现已非常稀少。香柏树不仅树干高大粗壮（王上 4:33；赛 35:2；60:13；摩 2:9；王下 14:9；歌 5:15），还可以用作芳香耐用的木材（撒下 5:11；代上 22:4），香柏树的使用价值远超过桑树的使用价值（王上 10:27；赛 9:10）。义人的生长如同香柏树（诗 92:12）。

大卫雇佣推罗的工匠为自己建造香柏木的宫殿（撒下 5:11），他还为所罗门建造圣殿准备了大量的木材（代上 22:4）。所罗门建造的一个最重要的建筑就是“黎巴嫩林宫”（王上 7:2；10:17；代下 9:16），这座宫殿是根据建筑材料的来源来命名的。香柏木可以作梁（王上 6:9；歌 1:17）、木板（歌 8:9）、柱子（王上 7:2）、护墙板（耶 22:14），还可以用来雕刻偶像（赛 44:14-15）。自然生长环境下的香柏木很耐用，文理细密，经得起高度磨光。香柏树的树脂（诗 92:14）可以防止这种树腐烂和长虫子。在古代，香柏油可以用来保存羊皮纸手稿和衣服。

经文中在谈论洁净仪式时曾两次提及香柏木。在《利未记》14:4 中，香柏木、朱红色线和牛膝草一同蘸在“洁净的鸟”的血中，然后将这血洒在长大麻风

was then sprinkled over the healed lepers; while in Nu. 19:6 it was used in the sacrifice of the red heifer. The cedar employed here would not be C. libani, since it did not grow in the wilderness. Probably some species of juniper such as J. lycia L. or J. phoenicia L. was implied. The references in Ezk. 27:5, where a tree was used for a ship's mast, and in Ezk. 31:8, are probably to the Pinus halepensis or Aleppo pine.

The AV translates Heb. ^a*ruzîm* in Ezk. 27:24 as "made of cedar," which the RSV renders "made secure," based on an Arabic cognate, and the NEB "rolled up."

CEILING

[Heb. sippun]; AV CEILING. "Ceiling" occurs only in 1 K. 6:15. It comes from the root sāpan, meaning "(to) cover." It has its common meaning of the upper surface of a room; there is, however, some doubt about the text, and the NEB deletes the phrase "of the ceiling." The term "ciel" or "cieled" is found in the AV in 2 Ch. 3:5 (hāpā); Jer. 22:14 and Hag. 1:4 (sāpan); Ezk. 41:16 (śāhîp). In none of these cases does "ceiled" refer to the upper surface of a room, but to the covering or paneling of the inner walls of a house with cedar or other costly wood,

求洁净的人身上; 在《民数记》19:6中, 用纯红母牛献祭时, 要用到香柏木。这里用到的香柏木不是黎巴嫩香柏(拉丁学名: C. libani), 因为它在野外不能生长。可能指的是一种杜松, 如吕家杜松(拉丁学名: J. lycia L.) 或腓尼基杜松(拉丁学名: J. phoenicia L.)。《以西结书》27:5中用来制造船桅杆的香柏树和《以西结书》31:8中的香柏树可能是地中海白松或阿勒坡松。

《钦定版圣经》将《以西结书》27:24中的希伯来语 ^a*ruzîm* 译为 "made of cedar" ("香柏木的"), 而《修订标准译本》根据一个阿拉伯语同根词将其译为 "made secure" ("绑得结实"), 《新英文译本》译为 "rolled up" ("地毯")。

CELEBRATE; CELEBRATION.

Several terms are translated “celebrate” by the RSV. In Neh. 12:27 the common Hebrew verb ‘āsā (“do,” “make”; AV “keep”) is used in reference to celebrating the dedication of the wall of Jerusalem. In similar contexts, the verbs hāyā (be) and ‘ābad (serve) are used in Ezk. 45:21 and Ezz. 6:16, respectively. In Ps. 45:17 the verb zākar is used in the phrase rendered “cause your name to be celebrated.” The noun “celebration” occurs only in 2 Ch. 23:13 in the phrase mōdī‘im l’hallēl, rendered “leading in the celebration” by the RSV but “such as were taught to sing praise” by the AV. Based on the verbs yāda’ and hālāl, the phrase means literally “giving the signal to praise.” The only NT occurrence of Gk. heortázō (“celebrate the festival”) is in 1 Cor. 5:8.

CELEBRATE; CELEBRATION. 庆祝；瞻礼、典礼

《修订标准译本》将多个词语译为“celebrate”（“庆祝”）。《尼希米记》12:27 用常见的希伯来语动词 ‘āsā（相当于“do”和“make”；《钦定版圣经》译为“keep”[“行”]）用来表示耶路撒冷城墙落成的奉献典礼。在类似的语境中，《以西结书》45:21 和《以斯拉记》6:16 分别使用了动词 hāyā（“守”）和 ‘ābad（“行”）。《诗篇》45:17 用短语“叫你的名被纪念”来翻译动词 zākar。只有在翻译《历代志下》23:13 的短语 mōdī‘im l’hallēl 时，才用到了“celebration”（“典礼”）这个词，《修订标准译本》译为“leading in the celebration”，《钦定版圣经》译为“such as were taught to sing praise”，汉译均为“领人歌唱赞美”。根据动词 yāda’ 和 hālāl 判断，这个短语的字面意思应该是“发出赞美的信号”。在《新约》中，只有在翻译《哥林多前书》5:8 中的希腊语 heortázō（“守这节”）时，才用到了“celebrate”这个词。

CELIBACY.

Instances of a lifelong state of celibacy are rare in Scripture. In OT times marriage was almost universal and celibacy was considered abnormal. For the Israelites as well as other ancient peoples the propagation of the family name was of supreme importance, and thus the desire for sons was the dominant factor in marriage. Moreover, marriage was commanded by God. The eunuch was not admitted into the congregation of Israel (Dt. 23:1), nor was he permitted to serve in the priesthood (Lev. 21:20f.). The institutions of marriage and family were of vital importance in the OT because in this era God used a particular race, the Hebrews, as a vehicle for carrying out His redemptive purpose. For the sake of the Kingdom, therefore, the Israelite was required to marry and have children. The author of Isa. 56, however, prophesies of a time when eunuchs will be permitted to enter the sanctuary and will receive “a monument and a name better than sons and daughters” (vv. 3-5).

In the NT we find a somewhat different attitude toward marriage from the general stance of the OT. Although marriage is still spoken of as a sacred institution—and, in fact, the imagery of bridegroom and bride is used to describe the relationship between Christ and His

CELIBACY. 独身；独身制度

《圣经》中很少提到关于终生独身的例子。旧约时代的人几乎都会结婚，独身是一种不正常的现象。对于以色列人和其他古代的民族来说，传承家族之名是最为重要的事，因此，生子的渴望是结婚的一个重要原因。此外，上帝也命令世人结婚。以色列的会众不接受太监（申 23:1），太监也不能担任祭司的职分（利 21:20-21）。婚姻和家庭在《旧约》中发挥着极为重要的作用，因为，上帝在那个时代利用一个特殊的种族——希伯来人，作为祂实现救赎旨意的一个工具。因此，要想建立王国，以色列人必须结婚生子。然而，《以赛亚书》56章的作者预言道，耶和華将会允许太监进入圣殿，使他们“有纪念、有名号，比有儿女的更美”（赛 56:3-5）。

我们可以在《新约》中看到与《旧约》中普遍的婚姻立场略微不同的婚姻观。虽然婚姻仍然被视为一种神圣的习俗——实际上，《新约》用新郎与新娘的意象来比喻基督与教会的关系，《新约》不像《旧约》那样，将婚姻视为天国到来的决定性因素。我们可以在《新约》

Church—there are indications that the institution of marriage is not as decisive for the coming of the Kingdom as it was in the OT. Here we find notable examples of celibacy: John the Baptist, the apostle Paul, and Jesus Himself. Some dispute the case of Paul, but Paul’s advice to the unmarried that they remain single “as I am” (1 Cor. 7:8) makes this fairly clear, and it is not contradicted by other data.

In 1 Cor. 7 Paul specifically takes up the issue of celibacy. The apostle, as Jesus, speaks of celibacy as a “gift” (Gk. chárisma, v. 7) that some people have and others do not. (Cf. Jesus’ teaching in Mt. 19:12, “there are eunuchs who have made themselves eunuchs for the kingdom of heaven. He who is able to receive this, let him receive it.” The Church has generally understood this passage to refer to those who renounce marriage for the sake of the Kingdom; but cf. also Isa. 56:3–5.) For those who do not have this gift, Paul recommends marriage (1 Cor. 7:9). For those who can bear it, however, he recommends the unmarried state (vv. 1, 7f., 25ff.). Paul gives this advice “because of the present distress” (Gk. diá tēn enestōsan anánkēn, v. 26), and because of the “worldly troubles” (Gk. thlipsis tē sarkí, lit. “tribulation in the flesh,” v. 28) that the married will have to face. This specific counsel is based upon a general principle for conduct during the period between Pentecost and the return of Christ. The time in this period is “shortened” (Gk. synestalménos). As Grosheide says (p. 177), this refers to a permanent quality of time during this period: “it is compressed and that means that it should be lived intensely (cf. Mt. 24:22).... This period demands the end of all things and hastens toward that end....

中看到关于独身的著名例子：施洗约翰、使徒保罗和耶稣本人。有些人认为保罗不是单身，但保罗给独身者的建议中提到“若你们常像我就好”（林前 7:8），这显然说明保罗是单身，而且其他的资料也不与这一说法冲突。

保罗专门在《哥林多前书》7章中谈论了独身问题。这位使徒与耶稣都曾说过独身是神的“恩赐”（希腊语：chárisma，林前 7:7），有些人拥有这种恩赐，有些人没有。（参：耶稣在《马太福音》19:12中的教导，“因为有生来是阉人，也有被人阉的，并有为天国的缘故自阉的。这话谁能领受，就可以领受。”教会普遍认为这段经文提及了那些为天国的缘故而放弃婚姻的人；另参：《以赛亚书》56:3–5。）保罗建议那些未领受这种恩赐的人结婚（林前 7:9）。不过，他也建议那些领受了这种恩赐的人继续保持独身状态（林前 7:1, 7-8, 25 起）。保罗“因现今的艰难”（希腊语：diá tēn enestōsan anánkēn，林前 7:26），也因为已婚之人将面临的“世俗的苦难”（希腊语：thlipsis tē sarkí，字面意思“肉体上的苦难”，林前 7:28）才给出了这个忠告。这个特殊的忠告以五旬节至基督复临时期的基本行为规范为依据。这一时期的日子被“减少了”（希腊语：synestalménos）。正如格罗希德（Grosheide, 177 页）所说，这指的是这一时期的永恒性：“时间被压缩了，这意味着日子减少了（参：太 24:22）……在这一时期，凡有血气的都将走向灭亡，而且将加速走向灭亡……因此，我们的生命必将摆脱现在的时间，获得永恒（来 11:13-15）。”因此，基督徒不应该用现世的社会标准，而应该用永恒天国的标准来规范他们的行为，这是一般原则。“因为这世界的样

For that reason our life should be free from the present time and direct itself toward life eternal (Heb. 11:13–15).” Thus the general principle is that the Christian community should be governed in conduct not by the norms of society in this present age but by the norms of the eternal Kingdom, “for the form of this world is passing away” (vv. 29–31). And Paul clearly understands marriage as belonging to the schéma that is passing away. Jesus Himself stated this clearly in Mt. 22:30 (cf. Mk. 12:25): “in the resurrection they neither marry nor are given in marriage, but are like angels in heaven.” For this reason Paul sees advantages in remaining single. It allows one more detachment from worldly affairs and affords the opportunity for total preoccupation with the things of God (1 Cor. 7:32–35).

Paul also states repeatedly, however, that to marry is no sin (1 Cor. 7:9, 28, 36, 38f.). Despite his adoption of the single state, he asserts his right to marry (9:5). Nowhere in the NT is marriage characterized as sinful. In 1 Tim. 4:1–3 the prohibition of marriage is labeled demonic. Such admonitions indicate that already in NT times certain heretical sects were advocating an unchristian asceticism, which focused particularly on the denigration of married life.

The elevation of celibacy, especially for the clergy, became more pronounced during the 2nd cent., due in part to a reaction against the licentiousness of the Greco-Roman world and in part to the influence of Gnostic dualism. By the 4th cent. some councils of the Western Church (Elvira, ca. 306) were forbidding marriage after ordination, and conjugal

子将要过去了” (林前 7:29-31)。保罗显然认为婚姻属于将要过去世界的事物。耶稣也在《马太福音》22:30 (参：可 12:25) 中明确说道：“当复活的时候，人也不娶，也不嫁，乃像天上的使者一样。”因此，保罗看到了保持独身的优势。它使世人可以更加远离世俗的事务，并使他们可以全身心地服侍主 (林前 7:32-35)。

不过，保罗也一再重申结婚不是犯罪 (林前 7:9, 28, 36, 38-39)。虽然保罗保持独身状态，但他认为世人有结婚的权柄 (林前 9:5)。《新约》的各个章节都未将结婚视为犯罪。《提摩太前书》4:1–3 称禁止结婚的规定为魔鬼的道理。这些告诫表明，某些异端教派在新约时期就提倡非基督教的禁欲主义，这种禁欲主义专门诋毁婚姻生活。

公元 2 世纪期间，独身尤其是神职人员独身更加受到了推崇，这在某种程度上是为了反对希腊和罗马世界的放荡行为，也在某种程度上是因为受到了诺斯替派二元主义的影响。到公元 4 世纪，一些西方教会会议 (埃尔韦拉会议，约公元 306 年) 规定，禁止神职人员结婚，已婚的祭司也不能再有夫妻生活。神职人员保持独身只是这一规定的自然发 intercourse to those who entered the priesthood married. It was only a natural progression to prescribe celibacy for the clergy, and this gradually became the rule in the West; the attention given the subject in the canons of the Church, however, is clearly indicative of much clerical resistance and dissatisfaction. The Eastern Church, on the other hand, has maintained the position that priests and deacons may marry before ordination, though not after; absolute celibacy is required only of the bishops. This tradition goes back to the Council of Nicea (325), which rejected a proposal requiring that the clergy put away their wives.

展，它也逐渐成为西方教会的一个规定；然而，教会正典关注了独身问题，这显然表明神职人员抵制独身制度，并且对这一制度心怀不满。而东方教会坚持认为祭司和执事在授任之前可以结婚，但授任之后的祭司和执事不可以结婚；只有主教必须保持绝对的独身。这一传统可以追溯至尼西亚会议时期（325年），尼西亚会议否决了神职人员必须休掉妻子的建议。

The accounts in Lev. 10 and Nu. 16 may reflect practices that go back to the desert period of Israel's history when portable censers were used. The altar used in the temple of Solomon was the altar of perfumes, which, unlike the main altar, was inside the temple (1 K. 6:20f.; cf. LXX). The maḥtā continued to be used as a portable censer, especially by the high priest, who on the Day of Atonement carried the coals, mixed with incense, from the altar of perfumes into the holy of holies (Lev. 16:12-14). Heb. miqteret, from the verb qātar (to "smoke"), is a term used in the postexilic period for a censer. It may have acquired this name because it carried a particular mixture of incense mentioned in priestly writings, called q'ṭoret.

Gk libanōtós, properly the gum of the frankincense tree, is taken by the translators of Rev. 8:3, 5 to mean the receptacle that carries the frankincense.

At Sinai another census was made by Moses, of all the tribes except the Levites (who were later counted separately; Nu. 3:14ff.), this time only of males twenty and older who were fit for military service (Nu. 1). From each tribe was chosen a “head of the house of his fathers,” i.e., head of a clan group, to assist Moses and Aaron in counting the men. The total number is given as 603,550 (v. 46), which most scholars regard as impossibly high.

After widespread apostasy to Baal of Peor, a plague is inflicted on the people, and another census is taken to determine its effects and also to distribute the land (Nu. 26). The total given here is 601,730.

David’s census, related in 2 S. 24 and 1 Ch. 21, is regarded by the biblical writers as an evil deed, a result of the “anger of Yahweh” (2 S. 24) or “Satan” (1 Ch. 21) inciting David. After the census was completed, David felt guilty and repented, but the Lord sent a terrible plague upon Israel killing seventy thousand men. Why was this census evil? Perhaps the sin was purely arrogance—David conducted the census to feed his pride in the numbers of his people. Or perhaps the census included excessive taxation or forced labor. Clearly it was for David’s glory rather than for the Lord’s, and this no doubt was part of its sinful character. But there may well have been more involved in the incident than is now present in the biblical accounts, or more behind it than 摩西在西奈山再次对利未人（后来单独计算了利未支派的人口数；民 3:14 起）之外的所有支派进行了人口统计，这次他仅仅计算了二十岁和二十岁以上适合服兵役的男子数量（民 1）。每个支派中选出一个“支派的首领”，也就是一个宗族的族长，帮助摩西和亚伦来数点人数。以色列人被数的，共有六十万零三千五百五十名（民 1:46），大部分学者认为当时不太可能有这么多人。

以色列人普遍背叛耶和华，与巴力毗珥连合后，以色列人中爆发了一场瘟疫，为了确定这场瘟疫的影响和分配土地，又进行了一次人口统计（民 26）。以色列的总人口数是六十万零一千七百三十。

《撒母耳记下》24 章和《历代志上》21 章中提到了大卫所进行的人口统计，圣经学者人们认为这次人口统计是一个邪恶的行为，是“耶和华发怒”（撒下 24）或“撒但”（代上 21）激动大卫的结果。大卫完成人口统计之后悔罪并且忏悔，但耶和华向以色列降下了可怕的瘟疫，杀死了七万人。为什么此次人口统计是邪恶的呢？大卫可能完全因为傲慢而犯了罪——大卫统计人口是为了炫耀他的百姓的总数。也许，大卫是为了征收过重的赋税或迫使百姓苦役才开展的此次人口普查。显然，大卫是为了他个人的荣耀而不是耶和华的荣耀统计的人口，这毫无疑问是邪恶的。但以色列实际的人口数很可能比现在《圣经》中记载的人口数多，或者统计的人口数比现代读者显而易见的人口数要多。

In 2 Ch. 2:17f. it is said that “Solomon took a census of all the aliens who were in the land of Israel, after [i.e., like] the census of them which David his father had taken,” and put them to work on the temple. The account of this raising of forced labor in 1 K. 5:13ff. does not mention that these were aliens, but cf. 1 K. 9:20–22. David’s levy referred to here is related in 1 Ch. 22:2, but not in Kings.

Later numberings include that of Ezr. 2 par. Neh. 7 par. 1 Esd. 5, after the first return from exile.

In the NT period, the emperor Augustus decreed a census of his entire empire, which touched upon the lives of Joseph and Mary right at the time she was to give birth to Jesus (Lk. 2). See CHRONOLOGY OF THE NT I.A.2.

CENTURION

[Gk. hekatontárchēs, hekatóntarchos, in Mk. 15 kenturiōn; Lat. centurio]. The commander of a hundred men (a “century”), more or less, in a Roman legion. Matthew and Luke use the Greek word while Mark characteristically prefers the Latin form, since he seems to write primarily for Roman readers.

The number of centurions in a legion was always sixty, but the number in the cohort or speira varied. The ordinary duties of the centurion were to drill his men, to inspect their arms, food, and clothing,

《历代志下》2:17-18 中写道“所罗门仿照他父大卫数点住在以色列地所有寄居的外邦人”，让他们在圣殿中工作。

《列王纪上》5:13 起中关于挑取服苦役的人的描述并没有提到他们是外邦人，参：《列王纪上》9:20–22。《历代志上》22:2 中也提及了大卫征兵，但《列王纪》中没有提及这件事。

后期的人口统计包括《以斯拉记》2 章、平行经文《尼希米记》7 和《以斯得拉一书》5 章中的人口统计，此次人口统计是第一次被掳归回之后开展的。

在新约时期，罗马皇帝亚古士督下令统计整个罗马帝国的人口数，约瑟生活在这一时期，马利亚恰好在此次人口统计时生下了耶稣（路 2）。见 CHRONOLOGY OF THE NT I.A.2.（新约年表 I.A.2.）。

CENTURION 百夫长

【希腊语：hekatontárchēs，hekatóntarchos，《马可福音》15 章中作 kenturiōn；拉丁语：centurio】。罗马军团的一百人或一百人左右军队的军长。马太和路加使用这个希腊词表示百夫长，而马可更喜欢使用这个词的拉丁语形式来表示百夫长，因为马可似乎主要为罗马读者写作。

一个军团中始终有 60 个百夫长，但步兵大队（speira）中百夫长的数量不固定。百夫长的日常职责包括，训练士兵、检阅军队、检验食物和服装、营中指挥和战场指挥。百夫长有时肩负起派遣性 and to command them in the camp and in the field. Centurions were sometimes employed on detached service, the conditions of which in the provinces are somewhat obscure. Men like Cornelius and Julius (Acts 10:1; 27:1) may have been seconded from the legion to which they properly belonged for the discharge of special duties. They and other centurions mentioned in the Gospels and Acts (Mt. 8:5; Mk. 15:39, 44f.; Lk. 23:47) are represented by the sacred writers in a favorable light. See ARMY, ROMAN.

These terms are also used where there is no direct Hebrew or Greek equivalent. Sometimes they express the emphasis intended by the use of a Hebrew infinitive absolute with a finite verb (Lev. 10:18; Nu. 24:11; Josh. 9:24; 1 S. 25:28; 2 S. 5:19; 1 K. 2:37, 42; Jer. 26:15; 36:29; 42:19, 22; AV also “surely,” “indeed,” “doubtless”; NEB omits or paraphrases). “Certainly not” (Gal. 2:17; 3:21; AV “God forbid”; NEB “no, never!”) is from the Gk. mē genoito (may it not be), elsewhere translated “God forbid!” (Lk. 20:16), “Never!” (1 Cor. 6:15), or “By no means!” (Rom. 3:4, 6; 6:2, 15; 7:7, 13; 9:14; 11:1, 11). In Rom. 6:5 “certainly” is an interpretive addition by the translators.

当没有直接的希伯来语或希腊语对应词时, 也会使用这些词语。它们有时使用希伯来语的独立不定词和限定动词来表示强调(利 10:18; 民 24:11; 书 9:24; 撒下 25:28; 撒下 5:19; 王上 2:37, 42; 耶 26:15; 36:29; 42:19, 22; 《钦定版圣经》还译为“surely”[“必定”]、“indeed”[“真是”]和“doubtless”[“必定”])。 “Certainly not” (加 2:17; 3:21; 《钦定版圣经》译为 “God forbid”; 《新英文译本》译为 “no, never!”), 汉译均为“断乎不是”) 源于希腊语 mē genoito (也可能不是源于这个词), 其他经文中将其译为“God forbid!” (“这是万乎不可的”, 路 20:16)、“Never!” (“断乎不可”, 林前 6:15) 或 “By no means!” (“断乎不能”, 罗 3:4, 6; 6:2, 15; 7:7, 13; 9:14; 11:1, 11)。《罗马书》6:5 中的 “certainly” 是译者添加的解释。

《修订标准译本》在其他经文中使用了 “certain” 一词的不确定含义, 意为 “某个”、“某人”、“一个人” 等。

The name is not found in Ezra and Nehemiah. The Chadiasai have been taken for the people of Kadesh and the Ammidioi for the people of Humtah (Josh. 15:54). Possibly their city is identical with Kedesh of Josh. 15:23.

CERTIFICATE OF DIVORCE 休书

【希腊语：apostáision（太 5:31），biblion apostasiou（太 19:7；可 10:4）】；《钦定版圣经》译为 WRITING OF DIVORCEMENT 和 BILL OF DIVORCEMENT（可 10:4）；《新英文译本》译为 NOTE OF DISMISSAL，汉译均为“休书”。见 DIVORCE（休妻）。

CERTIFY 告诉

“certify”是《钦定版圣经》中出现的一个词，这个词不表示“确信”这一明确具体的含义，而表达了“告诉”这个更加宽泛且已过时的含义（参：加 1:11）。

CETAB 基太伯

kē'rē-əs [Gk. Chaireas]; AV CHEREAS. Brother of Timotheus, the Ammonite leader against Judas Maccabeus (1 Macc. 5:6). He held the fortress of Gazara (the “Jazer” of 1 Macc. 5:8) to which Timotheus fled from Judas. The latter pursued him and captured the fortress after a vigorous siege. In the slaughter which followed, the two brothers, Chaereas and Timotheus, were killed (2 Macc. 10:32, 37).

Four OT words are translated “chaff” by the RSV. (1) Heb. mōš is found in Job 21:18; Ps. 1:4; 35:5; Isa. 17:13; 29:5; 41:15; Hos. 13:3; Zeph. 2:2. (2) Heb. h^ašaš in Isa. 33:11 denotes dried grass rather than “chaff.” (3) Heb. qaš (AV “stubble”) in Job 13:25; Ps. 83:13; Jer. 13:24, was actually stubble mixed with clay. (4) Aram. ‘ūr occurs in Dnl. 2:35. In the NT, Gk. áchyron is found in Mt. 3:12 and Lk. 3:17.

In the process of winnowing, as it has been carried on in the East for thousands of years, the grain is tossed into the air so that the wind may cause a separation of chaff and straw. The light husks from the wheat and fine particles of straw are dispersed by the wind in the form of a fine dust; the heavier straw, which has been broken into short pieces by the threshing process, falls near at hand on the edge of the threshing floor, while the grain falls back upon the pile. CHAEREAS 查理

音译: kē'rē-əs【希腊语: Chaireas】;《钦定版圣经》译为 CHEREAS (“查理”)。提摩太的兄弟,与犹大·马加比为敌的亚扪人领袖(马一 5:6)。查理镇守着基色的城堡(《马加比一书》5:8 中的“亚扎”),提摩太从这个城堡逃脱了犹大之手。犹大追赶提摩太,在大举围攻之后,犹大攻占了这座城堡。后来犹大杀死了查理和提摩太两兄弟(马二 10:32, 37)。

CHAFF. 糠秕、碎秸

《修订标准译本》将四个《旧约》中的词语译为“chaff”(“糠秕、碎秸”)。(1)《约伯记》21:18、《诗篇》1:4、35:5、《以赛亚书》17:13、29:5、41:15、《何西阿书》13:3 和《撒迦利亚书》2:2 中的希伯来语 mōš; (2)《以赛亚书》33:11 中的希伯来语 h^ašaš, 这个词指的是干草而不是“糠秕”; (3)《约伯记》13:25、《诗篇》83:13 和《耶利米书》13:24 中的希伯来语 qaš (《钦定版圣经》译为“stubble”[“碎秸”]), 这个词实际上指的是泥土与碎秸的混合物; (4)《但以理书》2:35 中的亚兰语 ‘ūr。《新约》的《马太福音》3:12 和《路加福音》3:17 中使用了希腊语 áchyron。

扬场在东方有几千年的历史,在扬场过程中,谷粒抛向空中,以便风可以将谷壳和稻草分离出来。风就像吹走微尘一样吹去了小麦的轻壳和稻草的细颗粒;打谷时将较重的稻草被压碎,放在打谷场附近,将谷粒收集成堆。在叙利亚和巴勒斯坦,打谷场附近的碎秸被称为 tibn,《马太福音》3:12 和《路加福音》3:17 的阿拉伯语译文中也用到了这个词。人们通常把这种碎秸储存起来,用作喂养动物的粗饲料。如上文所描述的,可以很容易地将这种易燃的碎秸收

This straw is ordinarily saved and fed as roughage to the animals. It can easily be gathered and burned, as indicated in the above-mentioned verse, while the chaff is blown away beyond recovery, providing a strong figure for depicting complete annihilation (Job 21:18; Isa. 29:5; 41:16; Hos. 13:3; Dnl. 2:35). CHAIN

[Heb. šarsērâ, rattûqâ (1 K. 6:21; Isa. 40:19), rābîd (Gen. 41:42; Ezk. 16:11), ziqqîm, ^a*ziqqîm* (Jer. 40:1, 4), n^ehōšet (Lam. 3:7), ma^adannôt (Job 38:31); Aram. hamnîk (Dnl. 5:7, 16, 29); Gk. hálysis, desmós]; AV also BONDS, “sweet influences” (Job 38:31); NEB also CHAINWORK, STUDS, FETTERS, CLUSTER (Job 38:31).

In the OT, Heb. šarsērâ and rattûqâ were wreathen chains usually made of gold, though sometimes of silver (Isa. 40:19), used in the decoration of the Jerusalem temple (1 K. 7:17) and on the vestments of the high priest (Ex. 28:14, 22). Heb. rābîd and Aram. hamnîk refer to necklaces, usually given by a king to bestow honor on a favored person (Gen. 41:42; Dnl. 5:29). Heb. ziqqîm and n^ehōšet were fetters made of wood, bronze (n^ehōšet), or iron (Ps. 149:8). The RSV apparently took ma^adannôt (Job 38:31) to be based on the verb ‘ānad, “bind.” The Pleiades is a constellation

CHAIN 链子、结

【希伯来语：šarsērâ, rattûqâ（王上 6:21；赛 40:19），rābîd（创 41:42；结 16:11），ziqqîm, ^a*ziqqîm*（耶 40:1, 4），n^ehōšet（哀 3:7），ma^adannôt（伯 38:31）；亚兰语：hamnîk（但 5:7, 16, 29）；希腊语：hálysis, desmós】；《钦定版圣经》还译为 BONDS（“捆绑”）、“sweet influences”（“结”，伯 38:31）；《新英文译本》还译为 CHAINWORK（“链子”）、STUDS（“链”）、FETTERS（“捆绑”）和 CLUSTER（“结”，伯 38:31）。

在《旧约》中，šarsērâ 和 rattûqâ 通常用来表示环状的金链，但有时还可以表示银链（赛 40:19），这种链子可以用来装饰耶路撒冷的圣殿（王上 7:17），也可以作为大祭司衣服上的装饰（出 28:14, 22）。希伯来语 rābîd 和亚兰语 hamnîk 表示项链，通常由一个受尊敬的人将项链戴在国王的颈上，以示赐予国王荣耀（创 41:42；但 5:29）。希伯来语 ziqqîm 和 n^ehōšet 表示的是木质的枷锁、铜镣锁（n^ehōšet）或铁镣锁（诗 149:8）。《修订标准译本》显然接受了 ma^adannôt 的含义（伯 38:31），这个词源于动词 ‘ānad（“捆绑”）。昴星是一个星座，星座中的星星就像是被结系在了

In the NT, Gk. desmós is a general term for anything used for tying, confining, or fastening. Hálysis refers to chains used for securing prisoners. The Roman way of securing a prisoner was to attach one end of the chain to the prisoner and the other end to a guard; cf. Acts 12:6.

VI. Chaldeans as Learned Men

I. Geography.-The tribal territory covering the southern marshes and coastal plains of ancient Iraq bordering the Persian Gulf was called by outsiders “Chaldean land” (māt Kaldu) after the name of the tribes inhabiting the area. This Assyrian-Babylonian name was followed by the Greek, while the Hebrew, with the common variant of ś for l, probably follows an old dialect form kašdu. The name has no proven connection with Chesed (Heb. keśed, Gen. 22:22).

The origin of the Chaldeans is uncertain but may well be in the west, or else branches of the family may have moved there (cf. Job 1:17). The general name for the area in the earliest period is unknown, since it was part of Sumer (see SHINAR); so it cannot be argued that the qualification of Abraham’s home city Ur as “of the Chaldeans” (Gen. 11:28, 31; 15:7; as later Neh. 9:7; cf. Acts 7:4) is necessarily a later insertion in the text. Such a description may well have been needed to distinguish the city from other places with a similar name, Ur’. In the 2nd millennium the area was designated “the Sea-Lands” (māt tâmtim) and was described as adjacent to Elam on the east, the “west land” (Amorite or western desert) to the west, and Dilmun, the islands and coastal regions of Bahrain, to the south. First-millennium texts name the tribes of the Kaldu under chiefs: Bīt (“House of”)-Dakkūri, Bīt-Adini, Bīt-Amukkani, with its major city of Sapia; Bīt-Sa’alli, Bīt-Šilani, and Bīt-Yakin, which lay on the Persian Gulf

V. 迦勒底王朝
VI. 博学的迦勒底人

I. 迦勒底的地理环境。迦勒底部族的领土包括南部的沼泽地和临近波斯湾的古伊拉克海岸平原。外地人根据居住在这片土地上的部族的名称将该地命名为“迦勒底人的地”(māt Kaldu)。希腊语沿用了这个亚述语和巴比伦语地名,而希伯来语通常用 ś 代替 l, 将该地名写为 kašdu, 这可能遵循了该地名的古老方言形式。无法证明该地名与基薛(希伯来语: keśed, 创 22:22) 有联系。

无法确定迦勒底人的起源,但他们很可能来自于西方,或者这一部族的分支可能后来迁移到了西方(参:伯 1:17)。尚不知晓最早时期该地的通用名称,后来迦勒底成为苏美尔的一部分(见 SHINAR[示拿]);因此,毫无疑问,亚伯拉罕的家乡“吾珥”(创 11:28, 31; 15:7; 后来的《那鸿书》9:7; 参:徒 7:4)前面的“迦勒底的”肯定是后来添加的内容。这一描述很可能将这个吾珥与其他名为“吾珥”的类似地名区别开来。这一地区在公元前 2000 年被称为“海地”(māt tâmtim),东临以拦,西邻“西部的土地”(亚摩利沙漠或西部沙漠),南临狄勒蒙岛和巴林岛的沿海地区。公元前 1000 年的文献中列出了一些拥有首领的迦勒底部族:比特(“……的家”)达库里(Bīt-Dakkūri)、比特阿迪尼(Bīt-Adini)和比特阿姆卡尼(Bīt-Amukkani),主要城市是萨比亚(Sapia);比特撒利(Bīt-Sa’alli)、比特斯拉尼(Bīt-Šilani)和比特雅金(Bīt-Yakin),这些部族分布于波斯湾。亚述王声称他们至少占领了这些部族的 75 个有围墙的城邑或村庄,以及 420 个小村落。 itself. Assyrian kings claimed the capture of at least seventy-five walled towns or villages and 420 hamlets from these tribes.

II. Early References.-The later rulers of the 1st Dynasty of Babylon (ca. 1740–1590 B.C.) referred to the “Sea-Land” as ruled by independent chiefs, of whom Gulkišar was the most renowned. Another, Ea-gāmil, was the contemporary of Samsu-ditana of Babylon (1625–1595), while the later Babylonian king list A records a second Sea-Land dynasty of three kings who reigned over most of Babylonia for twenty years and three months, ca. 1010–980 B.C. It is likely that these were “Chaldeans,” though not so named in these texts, since Ashurnasirpal II in his annals for the year 860 mentions the Kaldû as strong in this same area.

III. Assyrian Control.-The expansionist aims of the Sargonid Assyrian kings brought them into direct clash with the independent tribes of the south in their need to control the trade routes to Elam and the Gulf. Shalmaneser III in 851 sacked the town of Baqāni, which then belonged to Adini of the Dakkūru tribe. When his capital Enzudi fell Adini paid the Assyrian tribute, as did Mušallim-Marduk of Amukkani and Bīt-Yakin; the latter is called “of the land of the Sea,” thus identifying the earlier description of “Sea-Lands” with the now more frequently used “land of the Chaldeans.” Adadnirari III (805) lists the Amukkani and Bīt-Yakin among his Chaldean vassals.

IV. Merodach-baladan.-In 734 the Amukkani seized Babylon, on the death of Nabû-nāšir. Tiglath-pileser III

II. 关于迦勒底的早期参考。巴比伦第一王朝（约公元前 1740 至 1590 年）的后期统治者提到这片“海地”被独立的首领统治着，其中最著名的首领就是古克萨尔（Gulkišar）。另一位首领埃亚加米勒（Ea-gāmil）是与巴比伦王萨姆苏迪塔纳（公元前 1625 至 1595 年在位）同一时期的人物，后来的巴比伦王列出了第二海地王朝的三位国王，他们在二十年零三个月的时间里统治着巴比伦的大部分地区，他们的统治时间大约为公元前 1010 至 980 年。这三位国王可能是“迦勒底人”，但文献中并未提到他们是迦勒底人，因为亚述纳西尔帕二世在公元前 860 年的年表中提到，迦勒底王国是这一地区的强国。

III. 亚述治下的迦勒底。撒珥根王朝时期亚述王的扩张野心促使亚述与南部的独立部族发生了直接的冲突，亚述王企图控制以拦至波斯湾的商路。撒幔以色列三世在公元前 851 年洗劫了巴拉尼（Baqāni）城，这座城邑当时处于达库鲁（Dakkūru）部族的亚迪尼（Adini）统治之下。亚迪尼的都城安祖迪（Enzudi）陷落，亚迪尼向亚述王进贡，阿姆卡尼（Amukkani）的穆萨里姆玛尔杜克（Mušallim-Marduk）和比特雅金也向亚述进攻；比特雅金被称为“来自于海地的”部族，因此，这说明早期描述中的“海地”与更经常使用的“迦勒底人的地”指的是同一个地方。亚达尼拉利三世（公元前 805 年）在他的迦勒底诸侯名单中提到了阿姆卡尼和比特雅金。

IV. 比罗达巴拉但。公元前 734 年，阿姆卡尼趁那布那西尔（Nabû-nāšir）去世之机攻占了巴比伦。提革拉毗列色三 immediately responded by sending his Assyrian army, who plundered Amukkani, Šilani, and Sa'alli while the Chaldean chief Ukīn-zēr was engaged at Sapia. His rivals Balassu of Dakkūru and Marduk-apla-iddina (the biblical Merodach-baladan) of Bīt-Yakin made a treaty with the Assyrians, and their lands were spared; Merodach-baladan even dominated Babylon itself from 721 to 710 B.C.

Sargon II of Assyria set out to win over the Li'tau and various Aramean groups. He sealed the border with Elam from which the rebels were supplied, eventually regaining control of Babylon. Marduk-apla-iddina II withdrew to Yatburu in Elam; and though the Assyrians captured Dūr-Yakin, his main city, he retained the chieftainship. However, on Sargon's death in 705 Merodach-baladan took the title "king of Babylon" (so 2 K. 20:12) following the disappearance of the little-known Marduk-zākir-šumi II. It is probably at this time, rather than at the earlier rule in Babylon, that Merodach-baladan sent his embassy to Hezekiah of Judah to enlist his support against the expected Assyrian countermeasures (Isa. 39; 2 K. 20:12-19). Thus here too, "Chaldean" is rightly used as synonymous with "Babylonian" (Isa. 13:19; 47:1, 5; 48:14, 20).

For a while another Chaldean, Šūzubu (Mušēzib-Marduk), gained power when Merodach-baladan withdrew on the approach of Sennacherib's army. Sennacherib, who defeated the Chaldean tribesmen at Kish, gave Babylon into the hands of his nominee Bēl-ibni. Resistance continued for a time under a son of Merodach-baladan, who was betrayed by the Elamites. Merodach-baladan himself died in exile before Sennacherib in 695 could mount an amphibious operation to punish the supporting elements living across the gulf. When Ashurbanipal raided the south ca. 652 B.C. he captured Merodach-baladan's grandson Palia. This act forced the Chaldean tribes to side with Šamaš-šum-ukīn of Babylon, and their combined hostility was the prime cause of the sack of that city by the Assyrians in 648. Mannu-kī-Babili of the Dakkūri and Ea-šum-iqīša of the Amukkani were punished for their complicity, and Nabû-bēl-šumāti, another grandson of the renowned chief of the Bīt-Yakin, committed suicide when betrayed by the Elamites to whom he, like his grandfather Merodach-baladan, had fled.

世迅速派出了亚述军队，亚述军掠夺了阿姆卡尼、斯拉尼和撒利，此时迦勒底人的首领乌金宰尔（Ukīn-zēr）控制着萨比亚。提革拉毗列色的对手达库鲁的巴拉苏（Balassu）和比特雅金的玛尔杜克押拿伊典那（《圣经》中的比罗达巴拉但）与亚述人签订了和约，从而使他们的土地幸免于难；比罗达巴拉但从公元前 721 年至公元前 710 年控制着巴比伦。

亚述的撒珥根二世开始赢得利陶（Li'tau）和各个亚兰部族的支持。他确立了与以拦的边境，叛军曾从以拦获取了物资，最终掌控了巴比伦。玛尔杜克押拿伊典那二世撤退至以拦的亚特布鲁（Yatburu）；虽然亚述人抓住了杜尔雅金（Dūr-Yakin）并攻克了他的主要城市，但仍然保留了杜尔雅金的首领身份。不过，公元前 705 年，撒珥根去世时，鲜为人知的玛尔杜克扎克爾蘇米（Marduk-zākir-šumi）二世失踪之后，比罗达巴拉但自封为“巴比伦王”（王下 20:12）。可能是在这个时候，而不是比罗达巴拉但统治巴比伦初期，他派遣使臣面见犹大的希西家，求他抵御将要抵达巴比伦的亚述军（赛 39；王下 20:12-19）。因此，这里的“迦勒底人”也应当视为“巴比伦人”的同义词（赛 13:19；47:1, 5；48:14, 20）。

过了一段时间，当比罗达巴拉但被西拿基立的军队击溃撤离巴比伦时，另一个迦勒底人苏祖布（Šūzubu，即 Mušēzib-Marduk）逐渐崛起。西拿基立在基什打败了迦勒底部族，并任命贝尔伊比尼（Bēl-ibni）为巴比伦的新的统治者。比罗达巴拉但的儿子继续抵抗亚述军队，以拦人后来背叛了他。公元前 695 年西拿基立采用水陆两栖作战来惩罚

V. Chaldean Dynasty.-After Ashurbanipal's death and the increasing weakness of his regime the Chaldeans rose in revolt and recaptured Babylon, putting their leader Nabopolassar on the throne there in 627. He inaugurated a period of remarkable political and economic recovery, allying with the Medes to sack Asshur (614) and Nineveh (612). His son Nebuchadrezzar II (605–562), while crown prince, confronted the Egyptians, defeating them at Carchemish in 605 B.C. before campaigning in Syria and Palestine (2 K. 24:7; Josephus Ant. x.6.86). The Babylonian Chronicle for this reign records his operations resulting in Jehoiakim's submission to the Chaldean king (2 K. 24:1; Jer. 25:1) and his defection three years later when the Chaldeans had been routed by the Egyptians in 601 (Jer. 26:1–11). In revenge the Babylonians captured Jerusalem, March 16, 597 B.C.; and when

V. 迦勒底王朝。亚述巴尼帕死后,亚述政权逐渐衰落,迦勒底人发动叛乱,重新占领了巴比伦,迦勒底的首领尼布普拉撒于公元前627年登上巴比伦的王位。他执政期间,巴比伦的政治和经济取得举世瞩目的成绩,他还同玛代人一起劫掠了亚述城(公元前614年)和尼尼微(公元前612年)。他的儿子尼布甲尼撒二世(公元前605年至公元前562年在位)虽为储君却与埃及人争战,并于公元前605年在迦基米施打败了埃及人,之后他继续向叙利亚和巴勒斯坦进军(王下24:7; Josephus Ant. x.6.86)。根据这一时期巴比伦年代志的记载,尼布甲尼撒二世的这些行动致使约雅敬臣服于迦勒底王(王下24:1; 耶25:1),3年后,公元前601年当迦勒底人被埃及人击败时,约雅敬背叛了迦勒底人(耶26:1–11)。巴比伦人为了报仇,于公元前597年3月16日攻占了耶路撒冷;当巴比伦人任命的诸侯王玛探雅西底家违背誓约时,巴比伦人洗劫了耶路撒冷,并掳走了犹太人(公元前587年)。 their nominee Mattaniah-Zedekiah broke his vassal's oath, they sacked the city and took the Judeans into exile (587).

尼布甲尼撒大力美化了巴比伦城，并加固了巴比伦的防御工事（但 4:30）。他的儿子亚美玛尔杜克（《列王纪下》25:27–30 中的以未米罗达）同情被掳的 showed compassion on the exiled Jews, but under his successors Neriglissar (560–558) and Labāši-Marduk (557), their lot deteriorated with the mounting pressure on Babylon by the powerful Medes. Nabonidus (556–539) set up a provincial administration in the Jewish diaspora area of Teimā in north Arabia, leaving his son and co-regent Bēl-šar-ušur (Belshazzar, “king of the Chaldeans,” Dnl. 5:30) to withstand the final assault of the Persians under Cyrus in October 539. Nabonidus himself died in exile, and with the fall of Babylon the Chaldean Dynasty ended.

VI. Chaldeans as Learned Men.—The Chaldeans maintained the traditional Babylonian schools at Babylon, Borsippa, Sippar, Uruk, and Ur. Here the “learning of the Chaldeans” (Dnl. 1:4; 2:2; 4:7; 5:7, 11) comprised the study of Sumerian, Akkadian, Aramaic (formerly called “Chaldee”), and other languages, as well as the extensive literature written in them. Historiography as well as the sciences of astronomy, mathematics, and medicine formed a large part of the specialist work. Associated religious texts, both omnia and astrology (horoscopes were not introduced until the 4th cent. B.C.) played a large part. (See BABYLON VI–IX.)

In one sense Daniel uses “Chaldean” as a synonym for “Babylonian” as elsewhere is the case in the OT. With the increasing introduction of Aramaic, “Chaldean” became a term for “magicians, enchanters, and soothsayers,” since these aspects of Babylonian religious texts were the longest to survive in the popular imagination (as ca. 450 B.C. Herodotus i.181–83).

犹太人，但在亚美玛尔杜克的继任者涅里格利沙尔（Neriglissar，公元前 560 至 558 年）和拉巴斯玛尔杜克（Labāši-Marduk，公元前 557 年）执政期间，随着强大的玛代人逐渐向巴比伦施加压力，犹太人的命运急转直下。拿波尼度（公元前 556 至 539 年在位）在阿拉伯北部的提玛（Teimā）建立了一个管理离散犹太人的行省，并在公元前 539 年 10 月让他的儿子与伯沙撒（《但以理书》5:30 中的“迦勒底王”）抵御波斯王居鲁士发动的最后进攻。拿波尼度在流亡中死去，随着巴比伦的陷落，迦勒底王朝结束了。

VI. 博学的迦勒底人。迦勒底人保留了位于巴比伦、博尔西帕、西巴尔、乌鲁克和吾珥的传统巴比伦人的学校。“迦勒底人的学问”（但 1:4; 2:2; 4:7; 5:7, 11）包括苏美尔语、阿卡德语、亚兰语（之前被称为“迦勒底语”）和其他语言的研究，以及用这些语言写成的大量文献。历史编纂学、天文学、数学和医学是专业学科的重要组成部分。奥敏那和占星术（占星术直到公元前 4 世纪才出现）是宗教文献的重要组成部分（见 BABYLON VI–IX[巴比伦 VI–IX]）。

从某种意义上说，《但以理书》中的“迦勒底人”是“巴比伦人”的同义词，《旧约》的其他经卷也将这两个词视为同义词。随着亚兰语的逐渐引入，“迦勒底人”这个词用来表示“术士、用法术的和行邪术的”，因为巴比伦宗教文献的 these 方面在公众印象中存留的时间最长（约从公元前 450 年开始，Herodotus i.181–83）。

CHALKSTONE 灰石

【希伯来语: 'abnê-gîr——“灰石”、“石灰”】(赛 27:9); 《新英文译本》译为 CHALK (“灰石”)。'Abnê-gîr 这个词由 'eben 和 gîr 或 gîr 组成, 'eben 意为“石头”, 在许多处经文中都出现过, gîr 或 gîr 意为“石灰”(参: 阿拉伯语: jîr, “石膏”或“生石灰”), 只有《以赛亚书》27:9 和《但以理书》5:5 中用到了 'Abnê-gîr 这个词: “在王宫与灯台相对的粉墙上写字。”

Nearly all the rock of Palestine is limestone. When limestone is burned, it is converted into lime, which is easily broken into pieces, and, if allowed to remain open to the air, becomes slaked by the moisture of the atmosphere and crumbles into dust. The reference is to the destruction of the altar. It may mean that the altar will be burned so that the stones will become lime, or, more probably, that the stones of the altar will be broken as chalkstones (i.e., lumps of quicklime) are broken. There is no doubt that lime was known to the Egyptians, Assyrians, and Hebrews. See LIME.

几乎巴勒斯坦地区的所有石头都是石灰岩。当石灰岩燃烧时, 它就转化成了很容易被打碎的石灰, 如果石灰岩暴露在空气中, 大气中的水蒸气会令石灰熟化并使其碎成粉末。灰石被打碎指的是祭坛被毁。这可能意味着祭坛将会烧毁, 所以灰石将变成石灰, 更可能意味着祭坛的石头将会像灰石(即大块生石灰)一样被打碎。毫无疑问, 埃及人、亚述人和希伯来人都认识石灰。见 LIME (石灰)。

These terms identify the rooms of a building. Heder is the common word for room; liškā and niškā are associated with the temple; 'aliyā is an upper-story room; šēlā' is a side room; huppā is the nuptial chamber.

这些词语都可以表示一个建筑中的房间。Heder 通常用来表示房间; liškā 和 niškā 两个词表示的是圣殿内的房间; 'aliyā 指的是上层的房间; šēlā' 表示旁屋; huppā 表示婚房。

平屋顶是以色列房屋的一大特点。屋顶通常用作客厅或客房,房屋的下层的房

living rooms or guest rooms, while the lower story was used for storage and the housing of livestock. Eglon's summer parlor was probably an enclosed rooftop balcony (Jgs. 3:20–25) with windows on all sides (perhaps even containing a lavatory; cf. Jgs. 3:24). Elijah's room was on the rooftop (1 K. 17:19, 23), indicating that guests evidently had the privilege of the roof chamber (cf. 2 K. 4:10f.). The rooftops were also used for idolatry (2 K. 23:12; cf. Jer. 19:13; 32:29; Zeph 1:5).

Heder b'hāder (1 K. 20:30; 22:25; 2 K. 9:2) was a remote inner or private room, not an “underground cellar” (Josephus Ant. viii.14.4).

The side rooms (šēlā'ōt, from šēlā', which means “rib” or “side”) in Ezekiel's temple (41:5–11) were similar to those of Solomon's temple (1 K. 6:5–10). They were probably storerooms. The priest's chambers (Ezk. 42:1–14) were in the templeyard, not the temple proper (as the side rooms are).

J. P. Brown (VT, 19 [1969], 151–53) suggests that liškā (Gk. léschē, “drinking hall”) may be associated with drinking (cf. Jer. 35:2–5 and 1 S. 9:22, where liškā is a dining hall connected with a “high place”).

在《新约》中，《使徒行传》12:20 中的伯拉斯是希律朝中的内侍臣或皇室的贴身男仆。内侍臣是一个受人尊敬的职位，这个职位上的人与王的关系很密切。

The concept of chance as something entirely fortuitous in human experience was completely foreign to Hebrew thought. Consistently throughout the OT God is revealed as the Creator of the cosmos (cf. Ps. 104:5ff.; Isa. 40:28; Am. 4:13) and the one who sustains its operation by the rule of law (cf. Ps. 104:9, 19). The process by which the world was formulated resulted in the end product being described as “good” (Gen. 1:4, 12, 18, etc.), and the laws by which it has been subsequently governed reflect the essence of the divine personality in terms of power, orderliness, and consistency (cf. Rom. 1:20). Thus the universe did not issue from a chance

CHANCE 偶然、机会、门路

【希伯来语: qārā' (申 22:6; 撒下 1:6; 18:9), miqreh (申 23:10; 撒上 6:9), pega' (传 9:11); 希腊语: synkyria (路 10:31), paratynchánō (徒 17:17), eípōs —— “或者”(徒 27:12), tópos (来 12:17)】;《钦定版圣经》还译为 PLACE (“门路”, 来 12:17) 等;《新英文译本》还译为 HAPPEN (“偶然”, 路 10:31)、WAY OPEN (“门路”, 来 12:17) 等。

希伯来人对人生经历中偶然发生的完全出乎意料事完全没有概念。整部《旧约》始终将上帝描述成宇宙万物的创造者(参: 诗 104:5 起; 赛 40:28; 摩 4:13) 和律法秩序的维护者(参: 诗 104:9, 19)。神按照一定的次序创造了这个世界, 最终祂看着所有的受造物都是“好的”(创 1:4, 12, 18 等), 创世之后出现的律法支配着这个世界, 律法从权柄、有序性和一致性这些方面体现了神性的本质(参: 罗 1:20)。因此, 整个宇宙并不像古希腊幻想家想象的那样是由微小量子的偶然凝结形成的, 而是由独一的造物主创造出来的。旧约作者都强调一元论, 将这个世界的现象和一切人类活动与独一的真神——创造万有的造物主联系在一起(赛

agglomeration of atomic quanta, as some ancient Greek speculators imagined, but instead was ordered by a sole creative mind. The consistently monistic emphasis of the OT writers relates all phenomena in the world and all activity in human experience to the one true God who is Creator and Lord of the cosmos (Isa. 45:5-7), and for whom there can be no fortuitous happenings (cf. Mt. 10:29).

Israelite belief on the matter of chance is summed up in the aphorism: “The lot is cast into the lap, but the decision is wholly from the Lord” (Prov. 16:33). Probably the closest the OT comes to reflecting the concept of chance as something fortuitous is in the remarks of the Philistines (1 S. 6:9) to the effect that if their scheme for ascertaining the cause of their misfortunes turned out in a certain way, they would regard these misfortunes as being caused by “chance.” However, even here the idea seems to be one of “accident” or perhaps “bad luck” rather, than the fortuitous negative disposition of events, i.e., something without rhyme or reason.

The view that life operates rather mechanistically under the control of “time and chance” is expressed in Eccl. 9:11, where pega’ simply means “occurrence,” “happening.” In Dt. 22:6; 2 S. 1:6; 18:9 the verb qārā’ emphasizes the unintentional or accidental nature of the event, as does also the noun miqreh in Dt. 23:10.

In the NT the concept of coincidence is expressed by synkyria in Lk. 10:31, while the rare term paratynchánō (Acts 17:17) means “those who had occasion to be there” (cf. AV “that met with him”).

45:5-7), 在祂看来, 这世上没有意料之外的事 (参: 太 10:29)。

《箴言》中总结以色列人对运气的观点: “签放在怀里。定事由耶和华” (箴 16:33)。非利士人的话或许最能体现《旧约》中的机会观念 (撒上 6:9), 他们所说的话大意是, 如果他们可以按计划查明遭灾的原因, 那么他们就认为这灾祸是他们“偶然”遇见的。然而, 即使这样, 非利士人似乎将这灾祸视为“意外”或“不幸”, 而不是将其视为一种偶然的消极事态, 即莫名其妙之事。

《传道书》9:11 中认为, 生活受到“时机”的左右, 机械化地运行, 这节经文中的 pega’ 仅仅表示“发生”和“偶然发生”。《申命记》22:6 与《撒母耳记下》1:6、18:19 中的动词 qārā’ 和《申命记》23:10 中的名词 miqreh 强调了事件的非故意性或偶然性。

在《新约》中, 《路加福音》10:31 中的希腊语 synkyria 表达了巧合的概念, 罕见词 paratynchánō (徒 17:17) 的意思是“那些偶然出现的人” (参: 《钦定版圣经》“that met with him” [“所遇见的

Possibility rather than chance seems indicated in Acts 27:12, and opportunity in He. 12:17 (cf. AV mg. “way to change his mind”).

In the LXX týchē, “chance,” occurs only twice: (1) in Gen. 30:11, where Jacob’s first wife named one of their children gad (“fortune”; LXX en týchē, “with fortune”), reflecting her heathen upbringing; and (2) in Isa. 65:11, where the MT mēnī is represented by the Gk. týchē. The prophet Isaiah rebuked the rebellious Israelites for worshiping the heathen gods of fortune (gad, a designation which occurs in inscriptions and personal names) and destiny or fate (mēnī), reminding his idolatrous countrymen in subtle wordplay of the fate awaiting those who forsook God.

CHANGE.

In Lev. 27:33, AV “the change thereof” (Heb. ṭmūrā) means “that for which it is exchanged” (RSV). Job 10:17, AV, “changes and war are against me,” is emended in the RSV (“thou dost bring fresh hosts against me”) and NEB (“bringest fresh forces to the attack”), following the LXX, reading w^etah^alip or the like for the MT h^alipōt (but see KoB, p. 302, “hardship after hardship”). AV “change” in Job 14:14 (h^alipā) is interpreted as “release” in the RSV, and as “relief” in the NEB, meaning relief from military duty (figuratively). In Ps. 55:19 the AV has “because they have no changes” (h^alipōt), the RSV “because they keep no law,” the NEB “who have no respect for an oath.” KoB suggests

人”]). 这个希腊词在《使徒行传》27:12 (参:《钦定版圣经》的旁注 “way to change his mind” [“心意回转的门路”]) 中似乎体现出了可能性而不是偶然性, 在《希伯来书》12:7 中的 chance 则表现出时机的概念。

Týchē (“运气”) 只在《七十士译本》中出现过两次: (1) 第一次出现在《创世记》30:11 中, 约伯的第一个妻子给他们一个孩子起名叫 gad (“万幸”, 《七十士译本》译为 en týchē, 意为“幸运”), 这说明她信奉异教; (2) 第二次出现在《以赛亚书》65:11 中, 《马所拉文本》中的 mēnī 被译成了希腊语 týchē. 先知以赛亚谴责背叛神的以色列人, 因为他们崇拜异教的幸运之神 (铭文中提到了 gad 这个词, 人名中也会用到这个词) 和天命 (mēnī), 微妙的双关语 “天命” 让以赛亚的那些盲目崇拜偶像的同乡们意识到那些离弃神的人将面临的命运。

CHANGE. 更换、改变

《钦定版圣经》《利未记》27:33 中的 “the change thereof” (希伯来语: ṭmūrā) 意为 “所更换的” (《修订标准译本》译为 “that for which it is exchanged”)。《修订标准译本》将《钦定版圣经》《约伯记》10:17 中的 “changes and war are against me” 译为 “thou dost bring fresh hosts against me”, 《新英文译本》译为 “bringest fresh forces to the attack”, 汉译均为 “军兵更换着攻击我”, 《钦定版圣经》遵循了《七十士译本》中的译法, 这些英语是对 w^etah^alip 或《马所拉文本》中类似词语 h^alipōt 的翻译 (另见 KoB, 302 页, “hardship after hardship”)。《修订标准译本》将《钦定版圣经》《约伯记》14:14 中的 “change” (“改变”, h^alipā) 译为 “release” (“释放”), 《新英文译本》译为 “relief” (“释放”), 意

“mutual liabilities.” The simplest explanation is that suggested by BDB, p. 323, that the phrase refers to the incessant evil of the psalmist’s enemies.

思是“不再履行军事职责”(比喻用法)。在《诗篇》55:19中,《钦定版圣经》译为“because they have no changes”(חֲלִיפוֹת),《修订标准译本》译为“because they keep no law”,《新英文译本》译为“who have no respect for an oath”,汉译均为“因为他们不肯改变”。有些作品(KoB)将其理解成“相互的责任”。有一部作品(BDB, 323页)给出了最简单的解释,这个短语指的是诗篇作者的敌人连续不断的恶行。

“Changed the ordinance” in Isa. 24:5, AV (hālap), means as in the RSV “violated the statutes” (NEB “disobeyed”).

《钦定版圣经》《以赛亚书》24:5中的“Changed the ordinance”(חָלַף)与《修订标准译本》中的“violated the statutes”(《新英文译本》译为“disobeyed”[“违反”]),汉译均为“废了律例”。

The RSV follows the LXX at Prov. 24:21, which in the AV reads “meddle not with them that we given to change” (šōnim), RSV “do not disobey either of them”; the NEB has “have nothing to do with men of rank.” The LXX (and RSV) is based evidently on a Heb. šēnēhem.

《修订标准译本》遵循《七十士译本》对《箴言》24:21的翻译,《钦定版圣经》译为“meddle not with them that we given to change”(שׂוֹנִימִם),《修订标准译本》译为“do not disobey either of them”,《新英文译本》译为“have nothing to do with men of rank”,汉译均为“不要与反覆无常的人结交”。《七十士译本》(和《修订标准译本》)的翻译显然基于希伯来语 šēnēhem。

In Ezk. 32:16 (RSV “lamentation”) what is described is a funeral song for the land of Egypt. The word l̄nâ is very difficult (for a summary of the problems cf. Perowne, pp. 132f.). As it stands in the MT, l̄nâ appears to be an imperative of nâtan (“put” or “place”). However, Delitzsch suggested that it is an irregular infinitive, and would read, “thou, the setting of whose glory is above the heavens.” Other commentators have suggested several alternative emendations of the MT. Morgenstern proposes tunnâ from similar usage in Jgs. 5:11; 11:40; the sense would then be a memorializing of God in songs of praise. Similarly, Weiser suggests reading tânâ from the parallel Ugaritic word meaning “to be repeated in antiphonal song”; the sense would then be praise of God by celestial beings as in Isa. 6:3.

CHAOS 混沌、荒凉

【希伯来语: lō' s'ēdārîm(伯 10:22), tōhû

24:10; 34:11; 45:18f.]); AV also CONFUSION, VAIN, “without any order”; NEB also EMPTY VOID, “a place of disorder” (mg. Job 10:22). The state of formlessness, of utter disorder and confusion.

The Heb. tōhū is frequently used in the OT to describe the condition of emptiness, unreality, and desolation (BDB, p. 1062), when combined with the word bōhū (void), there is a heightened sense of chaotic, meaningless existence: “without form and void” (Gen. 1:2); “waste and void” (Jer. 4:23). In the creation account, Heb. tohū wābōhū (Gen. 1:2) denotes a void or empty space, suggesting Gk. chāos, the misty darkness before creation.

G. von Rad speaks of chaos as “a reality that once existed in a preprimeval period but also ... a possibility that always exists. Man has always suspected that behind all creation lies the abyss of formlessness; that all creation is always ready to sink into the abyss of the formless; that the chaos, therefore, signifies simply the threat to everything created” (pp. 48f.). Hence, Isaiah’s “city of chaos” (Isa. 24:10) is a town so morally polluted (v. 5) that it has lost its reason to exist; it has become a purposeless mass of confusion and disorder. The judgment Isaiah utters against Edom (34:11) also threatens her with a return to the original state of things before the creative word of God brought order out of disorder (Gen. 1:2). The “line” and “plummet” were ordinarily used to build; here, they are to be used in the reverse procedure, to reduce to

【(赛 24:10; 34:11; 45:18-19)】; 《钦定版圣经》还译为 CONFUSION (“荒凉”)、VAIN (“虚空”) 和 “without any order” (“混沌”); 《新英文译本》还译为 EMPTY VOID (“荒凉”) 和 “a place of disorder” (“混沌之地”) (旁注, 伯 10:22)。一种空虚混沌的状态或完全无序、混乱的状态。

《旧约》经常用希伯来语 tōhū 来表示空虚、不真实和荒凉的状态 (BDB, 1062 页), 当这个词与 bōhū (“空的、无人的”) 连用时, 强调了一种混沌的状态或毫无意义的存在: “空虚混沌” (创 1:2; 耶 4:23)。在创世的描述中, 希伯来语 tohū wābōhū (创 1:2) 表示空虚或真空的地区, 希腊语 chāos 描述了神创世之前的混沌昏暗状态。

拉德 (G. von Rad) 这样描述 “混沌”, “太初时期就处于混沌状态, 而且……世界可能将永远处于混沌状态。人类一直以来都怀疑所有受造物背后隐藏着一个空虚的无底洞; 所有的受造物都将坠入这个无底洞中; 因此, 混沌仅仅代表所有受造物都将面临的威胁” (48-49 页)。因此, 《以赛亚书》24:10 中的 “荒凉的城” 指的是一座道德极度败坏的城市 (赛 24:5), 以至于它都失去了存在的意义; 这城变成了一座无意义的荒凉且无序的城市。以赛亚预言以东将面临审判 (赛 34:11), 以东将回到神创造有序世界之前的原始混沌状态 (创 1:2)。“准绳” 和 “线铈” 通常用来建造房屋; 但在这里它们的用途正好相反, 它们变成了 “空虚的准绳” 和 “混沌的线铈”。以东将 “不能称为一国” (赛 34:12), 也就是说, 它将变成荒凉之地。这完全不是神要创造的地: “祂并非使地荒凉, 是要给人居住” (赛 45:18)。神创造世界是为了使世界变得有序, 使其适宜人

“chaos.” Edom will then be a “No Kingdom There” (Isa. 34:12), i.e., a desert waste. And this is precisely what God did not create the earth to be: “he did not create it a chaos, he formed it to be inhabited!” (Isa. 45:18). The orderliness of the world and its fitness for human habitation are the express product of the Creator’s purpose.

Nor does God communicate with His people in a disorderly fashion: “I did not say to the offspring of Jacob, ‘Seek me in chaos.’ I the Lord speak the truth, I declare what is right” (45:19). This is probably a warning against occult means of divining God’s will (North, p. 159). After all, the occult is no more than conceited unreality (tōhû).

When Job describes the realm of the dead, he declares it “the land of gloom and chaos, where light is as darkness” (Job 10:22). Over against the chaos in the world, there stands the creative and sustaining Word of God that caused the universe to emerge from the preprimeval tōhû (Gen. 1:1ff., NEB), and that Word continues to give order and meaning to all history (cf. Jn. 1:1–5).

约伯在描述阴间时说道，“那地甚是幽暗，是死荫混沌之地，那里的光好像幽暗”（伯 10:22）。神的道打破了这世界的混沌，创造和维系着新的世界，并使这个世界摆脱了太初的混沌状态（《新英文译本》，创 1:1 起），神的道规定了所有历史的秩序，并且赋予历史以意义（参：约 1:1-5）。

stood the test,” “this proof.” The Greek noun dokimé is derived from the adjective dókimos, “approved,” “tried and true,” “genuine,” and thus connotes successful endurance of testing. In Rom. 5:4 dokimé is an intermediate step in a process of development. The renderings “approvedness” (RV) and “proof” (NEB), though basically sound, tend to obscure the flow of thought. Also, the verbal idea (katergázetai, “work out,” “effect,” v. 3) is probably best represented by the Eng. “develops” or “builds,” so either “experience” or “character” seems more appropriate with the idea of the verb. Their use in this context complies with current usage, for persons with character or experience are reliable and trustworthy, having stood the test.

kâr’ax [Gk. Charax]; AV CHARACA. A place mentioned only in 2 Macc. 12:17. Situated E of the Jordan, it belonged to the Auranitis, a district in Syria NE of Gilead, which included Jebel Haurân itself and the strip of territory running W toward Batanea, between the Trachonitis

《新英文译本》译为“proof that we have stood the test” (“已被验证之品格”) 和 “this proof” (“品格”)。希腊语名词 dokimé 源于形容词 dókimos, 意为“被认可的”、“已被验证的”、“真实的”, 因此暗示着经住了长久的考验。《罗马书》5:4 中的 dokimé 指的是发展过程中的中间阶段。《修订译本》译为 “approvedness”, 《新英文译本》译为 “proof”, 汉译均为“品格”, 虽然这两种翻译基本合理, 但这两个词都忽略了思考的过程。另外, “develops” 或 “builds” 可能是“生”这个动词 (katergázetai, 意为“产生”或“使生效”) 的最佳解释, 所以“experience” (“老练”) 或 “character” (“品格”) 似乎更符合这个动词的含义。这两个词在该语境中的用法与它们现在的用法相符, 因为有性格或有经验的人是值得信赖的, 也是经得起考验的。

This district is also called Tob (1 Macc. 5:9, 13; 2 Macc. 12:17), the land to which Jephthah fled (Jgs. 11:3, 5) and from which the Ammonites secured twelve thousand mercenaries to help defend against King David (2 S. 10:6). It has also been conjectured that Charax may be modern el-Kerak in southern Moab.

The Hebrew and Greek words have the following variety of meanings: (1) to command, in a strict or solemn manner (ṣawâ, embrimáomai, epitimáō, diastéllomai); occasionally used of a dying man's last commands (Gen. 49:29; cf. 50:12, 16; Dt. 31:23, 25); (2) to exercise oversight, supervision, or care (forms containing yād and 'al-); (3) to be given a special duty or particular responsibility (mišmeret), such as the charge which the various groups of Levites had for the sanctuary (cf. Nu. 3:25; 4:27; 9:19; 2 Ch. 23:6; Ezk. 40:45f.); (4) to accuse formally of a crime (aitía); (5) to reckon or impute (Philem. 18); (6) to set a price (1 S. 13:21; cf. 1 Cor. 9:18); (7) to rush against or attack (Prov. 28:15; Dnl. 8:4; Nah. 3:3).

这些希伯来语和希腊语有以下几种含义：(1) 严格或郑重的命令 (ṣawâ, embrimáomai, epitimáō, diastéllomai); 有时还可以表示将死之人最后的嘱托 (创 49:29; 参: 创 50:12, 16; 申 31:23, 25); (2) 监督、管理或看顾 (包括 yād 和 *'al-*两种形式); (3) 被赋予特殊任务或特殊职责 (mišmeret), 如许多利未人在圣殿中的职分 (参: 民 3:25; 4:27; 9:19; 代下 23:6; 结 40:45-46); (4) 正式地指控罪行 (aitía); (5) 算账或归罪

The AV uses “chargeable” in several passages (cf. 2 S. 13:25; Neh. 5:15; 2 Cor. 11:9; 1 Thess. 2:9; 2 Thess. 3:8) with the obsolete meaning of being “burdensome.”

CHARGER.

An archaic word in the AV for a flat dish or platter. See PLATE (Nu. 7); PLATTER (Mt. 14:8, 11 par.); BASIN (Ezr. 1:9).

In Nah. 2:3, RSV, “chargers” (i.e., cavalry horses) replaces AV “fir trees,” reading Heb. happārāšîm for habb^eerōšîm (cf. NEB “squadrons of horse”).

CHARGES.

The AV of Acts 21:24, “be at charges with them” (Gk. dapanáō), means, as in the RSV, “pay their expenses,” with reference to the sacrificial expenses of the poorer NAZIRITES.

《钦定版圣经》在多处经文中 (参: 撒下 13:25; 尼 5:15; 林后 11:9; 帖前 2:9; 帖后 3:8) 使用了 “chargeable” 一词, 这些经文使用了该词的过时含义, “繁重的”。

CHARGER. 盘子、骑兵

《钦定版圣经》中用来表示浅盘或大浅盘的过时词语。见 PLATE (盘子, 民 7); PLATTER (盘子, 太 14:8, 14:11 和平行经文); BASIN (盆、盘, 拉 1:9)。

在《那鸿书》2:3 中, 《修订标准译本》用 “chargers” (即 “骑兵”) 来代替《钦定版圣经》中的 “fir trees” (“柏木”), 将希伯来语 happārāšîm 理解为 habb^eerōšîm (参: 《新英文译本》 “squadrons of horse” [“骑兵”])。

CHARGES. 规费

《钦定版圣经》《使徒行传》21:24 中的 “be at charges with them” (希腊语: dapanáō) 与《修订标准译本》中的 “pay their expenses” 含义相同, 汉译均为 “拿出规费”, 规费指的是更为贫穷的拿细耳人 (见 NAZIRITES[拿细耳人]) 献祭的费用。

The earliest wheeled vehicles known were used in Mesopotamia at Kish and Ur prior to 3000 B.C. These were heavy, clumsy carts equipped with four solid wheels, drawn by asses or oxen. The two-wheeled chariot followed a little later and with subsequent modifications became a war machine of great importance in the history of the ancient world.

约在公元前 3000 年以前，美索不达米亚的基什和吾珥就出现了最早的轮式车辆。这种车很笨重，车子有四个实心的轮子，用驴或牛拉着走。之后不久出现了两轮车，人们随后对它进行了改进，从而使其成为古代世界史上的重要战争武器。

I. Chariots of Egypt.-It is to the chariots of ancient Egypt that reference is first made in Scripture. Joseph was honored by being made to ride in the second chariot of Pharaoh (Gen. 41:43). Joseph paid honor to his father on his arrival in Goshen by meeting him in his chariot (46:29). In the state ceremonial with which the remains of Jacob were escorted to Canaan, chariots and horsemen were conspicuous (50:9). In the narrative of the departure of the Israelites from Egypt and of Pharaoh's futile attempts to detain them the chariots and horsemen of Pharaoh figure largely (Ex. 14:17f., 23, 25; 15:4, 19). It was with the Hyksos

I. 埃及的战车。《圣经》中首次提到的战车是古埃及的战车。法老尊敬约瑟，让约瑟坐在他的副车上（创 41:43）。约瑟套车去歌珊迎接他的父亲，以示对父亲的尊敬（创 46:29）。在为雅各举行的国家葬礼上，约瑟显然用马兵和车辆将雅各的尸体护送到了迦南（创 50:9）。在以色列人出埃及和法老企图阻止他们出埃及的描述中，战车和马兵扮演了重要的角色，但法老的企图以失败告终（出 14:17-18, 23, 25; 15:4, 19）。以色列人出埃及数个世纪之前，希克索斯人骑着马，后来又坐着战车侵略了埃及；可能因为这些令埃及人憎恶的牧羊人勇士拥有战车，所以他们才能打败埃及人。 invasion, some centuries before the Exodus, that the horse, and subsequently the chariot, were introduced for purposes of war into Egypt; and it may have been the possession of chariots that enabled those hated shepherd warriors to overpower the native Egyptians.

The Egyptian chariot was distinguished by its lightweight construction. It was so reduced in weight that it was possible for a man to carry his chariot on his shoulders without fatigue. The ordinary chariot was made of wood and leather and had only two occupants, the fighting man and his shield-bearer. The royal chariots were ornamented with gold and silver; and in the battle of Megiddo, Thutmose III is represented as standing in his chariot of electrum like the god of war, brandishing his lance. In the battle the victorious Egyptians captured 2041 horses and 924 chariots from the Syrian allies.

II. Canaanite Chariot.-The Canaanites had long possessed horses and chariots when Joshua hamstringed their horses and burned their chariots with fire at the waters of Merom (Josh. 11:6, 9). The chariots of iron which the Canaanites could maneuver in the plains and valleys proved a formidable obstacle to the complete conquest of the land (Jgs. 1:19). Jabin had 900 chariots of iron, and with them he was able to oppress the Israelites twenty years (Jgs. 4:3). The Philistines of the low country and the maritime plain, of whom we read in Judges and Samuel, were a warlike people, disciplined and well armed; and their possession of chariots gave them a great advantage over the Israelites. In the war of Michmash they put into the field the incredible

埃及战车以轻便著称。这种战车重量非常轻，所以一个士兵可以毫不费力地扛起它。普通的战车是用木头和皮革制成的，只能容纳两个人——战士和为他持盾的侍从。王室的战车上镶着金银；在米吉多战役中，图特摩斯三世手持长矛，像战神一样战在金银战车上。埃及人取得了战争的胜利，他们从叙利亚盟军手中虏获了 2041 匹马和 924 辆战车。

II. 迦南人的战车。约书亚在米伦水边砍断迦南人的马蹄，焚烧了他们的车辆，但在这之前很长时间迦南人就拥有了马和战车（书 11:6, 9）。迦南人在平原和山谷中驾着他们的铁车，这证明铁车是完全征服迦南地的巨大障碍（士 1:19）。耶宾有 900 辆铁车，他能够依靠这些铁车压迫以色列人二十年（士 4:3）。根据《士师记》和《撒母耳记》的描述，低地和沿海平原上的非利士人是好战的民族，他们训练有素、武器精良；他们有战车，与以色列人相比，这是他们的巨大优势。在密抹之战中，非利士人竟然投入战场三万辆战车和六千名马兵，但他们却遭受了惨败（撒 13:5; 14:20）。然而，在基利波之战中，非利士人的战车和马兵击溃了所有的敌军，这是扫罗受伤和扫罗全家灭亡的原因。 number of 30,000 chariots and 6000 horsemen, only in the end to suffer a grievous defeat (1 S. 13:5; 14:20). In the battle of Gilboa, however, the chariots and horsemen of the Philistines bore down all opposition, and proved to be the destruction of Saul and his house.

Of these chariots there have come down to us no detailed description and no representation. But we cannot be far wrong in turning to the chariot of the Hittites as a type of the Canaanite and Philistine chariot. It is not from the monuments of the Hittites themselves, however, but from the Egyptian monuments depicting their conflicts with the Hittites, that we know what their chariots were like. Their chariotry was their chief arm of offense. The Hittites also used chariots for hunting; but a heavier wagon with paneled sides was employed for war. The Egyptian monuments represent three Hittites in each car, a practice which differed from that of Egypt and attracted attention. Of the three, one guided the chariot, another did the fighting with sword and lance, and the third was the shield-bearer.

III. Solomon and Later Kings.-The Israelites, living in a mountainous country, were tardy in adopting the chariot for purposes of war. David hamstrung all the chariot horses of Hadadezer king of Zobah, and “left enough for a hundred chariots” (2 S. 8:4); and Adonijah prepared for himself chariots and horsemen with a view to contesting the throne of his father (1 K. 1:5). But Solomon was the first in Israel to acquire chariots and horses on a national scale, and to build cities for their accommodation (1 K. 9:19). According to

III. 所罗门和后期国王的战车。以色列人生活在山区，所以他们很晚才在战争中使用战车。大卫砍断了琐巴王哈大底谢拉战车的马的蹄筋，“但留下了一百辆车的马”（撒下 8:4）；亚多尼雅为了争夺其父的王位，为自己预备了车辆和马兵（王上 1:5）。但所罗门首先从以色列全国范围内取得了车辆和马匹，并建造了屯车和马兵的城（王上 9:19）。根据《马所拉文本》《列王纪上》10:28-29 中的描述，所罗门让商人从埃及购买了一群一群的马，“从埃及买来的车，每辆价银六百舍客勒，马每匹一百五十舍客勒。赫人诸王进和亚兰诸王所买的车

the MT of 1 K. 10:28f., Solomon had agents who received droves of horses from Egypt, “and a chariot came up and went out of Egypt for 600 shekels of silver, and a horse for 150; and so for all the kings of the Hittites, and for the kings of Syria, did they bring them out by their means.” On the strength of a warrantable emendation of the text it is now proposed to read v. 28: “And Solomon’s import of horses was from Egypt and from Kue; the king’s traders received them from Kue at a price”—Kue being Cilicia. It was from Egypt that the nation was forbidden by the Deuteronomic law to acquire horses (Dt. 17:16); but according to Ezk. 27:14, Israel obtained horses, chargers, and mules from Togarmah—north Syria and Asia Minor. From Solomon’s time onward chariots were in use in both kingdoms.

Zimri, who slew Elah, son of Baasha and king of Israel, was captain of half his chariots (1 K. 16:9). It was when sitting in his chariot in disguise beside the driver that Ahab received his fatal wound at Ramoth-gilead (22:34). The floor of the royal chariot was a pool of blood, and “they washed the chariot by the pool of Samaria” (vv. 35, 38). It was in his war-chariot that his servants carried Josiah dead from the fatal field of Megiddo (2 K. 23:30).

The chief pieces of the Hebrew chariot were (1) the pole to which the two horses were yoked, (2) the axle—resting upon two wheels with six or eight spokes (1 K. 7:33)—into which the pole was fixed, (3) a frame or body open behind, standing upon the axle and fitted by a leather band to the pole. The chariots of iron of which we read (Jgs. 4:3) were of wood strengthened or studded with iron. Like that of the Hittite, the Hebrew chariot probably carried three men, although in the chariot of Ahab (1 K. 22:34) and in that of Jehu (2 K. 9:24f.) we read of only two.

马，也是按这价值经他们手买来的”。根据对这段经文的合理修订，有人建议现在应该这样理解《列王纪上》10:28 “所罗门的马是从埃及带来的，是王的商人一群一群按着定价买来的”，古厄就是基利家。《申命记》中律法禁止以色列人从埃及购买马匹（申 17:16）；但根据《以西结书》27:14 的描述，以色列从陀迦玛——叙利亚北部和小亚细亚获得了马、战马和骡子。以色列和犹太两大王国从所罗门时期开始就使用战车。

杀害了巴沙儿子和以色列王的心利管理着以色列一半的战车（王上 16:9）。亚哈王在基列的拉末受了重伤，他伪装坐在战车中赶车的人旁边（王上 22:34），亚哈的血从伤处流在车中，“有人把他的车，洗在撒马利亚的池旁”（王上 22:35, 38）。约西亚死在米吉多战场后，他的臣仆正是用战车把他的尸首从米吉多运到了耶路撒冷（王下 23:30）。

希伯来人战车的主要部件包括（1）束缚着两匹马的杆子，（2）车轴——安装在带有六根或八根辐条的车轮上（王上 7:33）杆子固定在车轴上，（3）后面敞开的车架，车架由车轴支撑，由一根皮带与杆子连接在一起。《士师记》4:3 中的铁车用木头加固或者车上镶有铁。虽然亚哈的战车（王上 22:34）和耶户的战车（王下 9:24-25）仅可供两人乘坐，

但希伯来人的战车可能与赫人的战车类似，也可容纳三个人。

IV. Assyrians.-In the later days when the Assyrians overran the lands of the West, the Israelites had to face the chariots and the hosts of Sennacherib and of the kings (2 K. 19:23); and they faced them with chariots of their own. An inscription of

IV. 亚述的战车。后来当亚述人征服了西部的土地，以色列人不得不面对西拿基立和诸王的战车和军队（王下 19:23）；以色列人用他们的战车抵挡敌人的战车。根据亚述撒幔以色列二世时期铭文的记载，以色列王亚哈在夸夸战役

Shalmaneser II of Assyria tells how in the Battle of Qarqar (854 B.C.) Ahab of the land of Israel had put into the field 2000 chariots and 10,000 soldiers. But the Assyrian chariotry was too numerous and powerful for Israel. The Assyrian chariot was larger and heavier than the Egyptian or the Hebrew: it had usually three and sometimes four occupants. When we read in Nahum's prophecy of "chariots flashing with steel," "rushing to and fro in the broad ways" (Nah. 2:3f.), it is the Assyrian chariots that we are to imagine being hastily gathered for the defense of Nineveh.

V. Chaldeans, Persians, and Greeks.-In early Babylonian inscriptions of the 3rd millennium before Christ there is evidence of the use of Babylonian war-chariots, and Nebuchadrezzar in his campaigns to the west had chariots as part of his victorious host (Jer. 47:3). It was the Persians who first employed scythed chariots in war; and we find Antiochus Eupator in the Seleucid period equipping a Greek force against Judea which had 300 chariots armed with scythes (2 Macc. 13:2).

VI. In the NT.-In the NT the chariot is seldom mentioned. Besides the chariot in which the Ethiopian eunuch was traveling (Acts 8:28f., 38), there is mention of the din of war-chariots to which the onrush of locusts is compared in apocalyptic vision (Rev. 9:9); and cf. Rev. 18:13.

VII. Figurative Use.-The chariot has a place in the figurative language of Scripture. It is a tribute to the powerful influence of Elijah and Elisha that they are separately called "the chariots of Israel and the horsemen thereof" (2 K.

(公元前 854 年) 中投入了两千辆战车和一万名士兵。但因亚述的战车过多且过于强大，以色列人无法抵挡住它们。亚述的战车比埃及人或希伯来人的战车更大、更重：亚述的战车通常可以容纳三个人，有时可以容纳四个人。我们可以在《那鸿书》中读到这样的预言，“战车上的钢铁闪烁如火”，“车辆在宽阔处奔来奔去”（鸿 2:3-4），防御尼尼微城时迅速集结的战车应该就是我们所说的亚述的战车。

V. 迦勒底人、波斯人和希腊人的战车。公元前 3000 年早期巴比伦铭文证明，巴比伦人在这一时期就使用战车，尼布甲尼撒将战车视为他征服西部的凯旋之师（耶 47:3）。波斯人首先在战争中使用轮上插满利刃的战车；我们发现塞琉古王朝的安提阿哥·优帕特进犯犹太地时，为希腊军队配备了三百辆轮上插满利刃的战车（马二 13:2）。

VI. 《新约》中的战车。《新约》中很少提及战车。除了埃提阿伯太监出行时所坐的车辆（徒 8:28-29, 38），《启示录》9:9 在启示异象中将蝗虫进攻时翅膀的声音比作战车的喧闹声；参：《启示录》18:13。

VII. 战车的比喻用法。《圣经》中的战车还有比喻义。以利亚和以利沙都被称为“以色列的战车马兵”（王下 2:12; 13:14），这是对他们的巨大影响力的颂扬。天国的军队被称为“神的车辇累万盈千”（诗篇 68:17）。但车和马却无

2:12; 13:14). The angelic hosts are declared to be God's chariots, twice ten thousand, thousands upon thousands (Ps. 68:17). But chariots and horses themselves are a poor substitute for the might of God (Ps. 20:7). God Himself is represented as riding upon His chariots of salvation for the defense of His people (Hab. 3:8). In Zechariah, the four chariots with their horses of various colors have an apocalyptic significance (Zec. 6).

CHARIOTS OF THE SUN

[Heb. mark^ebōt haššemeš]. These, together with “horses of the sun,” are mentioned in 2 K. 23:11. They are said to have stood in the temple, a gift of the kings of Judah. Josiah removed the horses from the precincts of the temple and burned the chariots. Among the Greeks, Helios was endowed with horses and chariots; thus the course of the sun as he sped across the skies was understood by the mythological mind of antiquity. The Babylonian god Shamash (=Heb šemeš) likewise had his chariot and horses as well as his charioteer. The cult of the sun and other heavenly bodies, which was particularly in vogue during the latter days of the Judean monarchy (cf. 2 K. 23:5; Ezk. 8:16f.; Dt. 17:3; Jer. 8:2), seems to have constituted an element of the Canaanitish religion (cf. the names of localities like Beth-šemeš

CHARIOTS OF THE SUN 日车

【希伯来语: mark^ebōt haššemeš】。《列王纪下》23:11 中提到了“日车”和“向日头所献的马”。经文中说这些马匹和日车放在圣殿中，是犹大列王献上的礼物。约西亚废去了耶和华殿门旁的马匹，且用火焚烧日车。在希腊的神明中，赫利俄斯生来就乘着马拉的日辇；根据古代的神话传说，他在天空中飞驰的路线就是太阳运行的轨迹。巴比伦的太阳神沙玛什（希伯来语: šemeš）也有战车、马和御夫。特别是在犹大王国后期，太阳崇拜和其他天体崇拜尤为盛行（参：王下 23:5；结 8:16-17；申 17:3；耶 8:2），天体崇拜似乎是迦南地区宗教的一个组成部分（参：地名伯示麦 [Beth-šemeš] 等）。《以诺书》72:5、37、75:4 和《巴录三书》6 章中也提到了日车。

The word “charm” is derived from Lat. Carmen, “a song,” and denotes strictly what is sung; then it comes to mean a magical formula chanted or recited with a view to certain desired results. A charm is to be distinguished from AMULET, which is a material object having a magical potency, though it is frequently an inscribed formula on it that gives this object its power. The word “charm” stands primarily for the incantation, though it is often applied to an inscribed amulet.

CHARM; CHARMER 法术、邪术、符咒; 用迷术的、行法术的

【希伯来语: lāḥaš (诗 58:5; 传 10:11a; 赛 3:3; 耶 8:17), hāḇar ḥeḇer (申 18:11), ba‘al lāšôn (传 10:11b), kešep (尼 3:4)】; 《钦定版圣经》还译为 ENCHANTMENT (“法术”, 传 10:11a)、BABBLER (“行法术的”, 传 10:11b)、ORATOR (“行法术的”, 赛 3:3)、WITCHCRAFT (“巫师”, 鸿 3:4); 《新英文译本》还译为 “one who casts spells” (“用迷术的”, 申 18:11)、ENCHANTER (“行法术的”, 赛 3:3) 和 SORCERY (“巫师”, 鸿 3:4)。“charm” 这个词源于拉丁语 Carmen (“一首歌”), 它的严格含义是 “口中所唱的”; 后来这个词主要用来表示为满足某种意愿而吟唱或背诵的符咒。法术与护身符 (见 AMULET [护身符]) 不同, 护身符是一种带有魔力的实物, 但护身符上通常刻有符咒, 符咒赋予护身符魔力。尽管护身符上刻有符咒, 但 “charm” 这个词的主要含义是符咒。

A charm may be regarded as having a positive or a negative effect. In the first case it is supposed to secure some desired object or result. In the second, it is conceived as having the power of warding off evils, as the evil eye, the inflictions of evil spirits, and the like. In its negative meaning the word “countercharm” is commonly used.

(1) We have examples of written charms in the phylacteries and the m^ezûzâ (see AMULET). In Acts 19:13–20 we read of written charms used by the Ephesians, such as are elsewhere called “Ephesian writings” (ephésia grámmata). Such magical formulas were written generally on leather, though sometimes on papyrus, on lead, and even on gold. Those mentioned in the above passage must have been inscribed on some very valuable material, gold perhaps, or they could not have cost 50,000 pieces of silver. Charms of this kind have been dug up from the ruins of Ephesus.

In modern Egypt drinking-bowls are used, inscribed with passages from the Koran, and it is considered very good to drink from such a “lucky bowl,” as it is called. Parts of the Koran and often complete miniature copies are worn by Egyptians and especially by Egyptian soldiers during war. These are buried with the dead bodies just as the ancient Egyptians interred with their dead certain portions of the Book of the Dead or even the whole book, and as the early Abyssinians buried with dead bodies certain magical texts. Josephus (Ant. viii.2.5) says that Solomon composed incantations by which demons were exorcised and diseases healed.

咒语可能产生积极或消极的结果。从积极方面来看，符咒用来帮人们获得某些想要的东西或达成某种想要的结果。从反面效果来看，人们认为咒语可以驱邪，如恶眼、邪灵的侵害等。通常用“解咒术”来表示它的否定意义。

我们可以在经匣和护身符 (m^ezûzâ, 见 AMULET[护身符]) 中看到写有符咒或法术的书籍。在《使徒行传》19:13–20 中，我们可以看到以弗所人使用的法术书，其他地方称之为“以弗所人的书卷” (ephésia grámmata)。这种符咒通常写在皮革上，但有时也写在莎草纸、铅块，甚至金块上。《使徒行传》中提到的这些法术必定刻在某些贵重的材质上，可能刻在金子上，否则，焚烧的书一定不值五万块钱。目前已经从以弗所的废墟中挖掘出了关于法术的书籍。

现代的埃及人使用刻有《古兰经》经文的水杯，他们认为使用所谓的“幸运之杯”喝水会交好运。埃及人尤其是战争中的埃及士兵将部分《古兰经》经文或者很多时候将完整的微缩版《古兰经》带在身上。这些经文与死尸埋在了一起，正如古埃及人将部分《死亡之书》或完整版的《死亡之书》与死者一起埋葬，早期阿比西尼亚人将某些法术书与死者一起埋葬。约瑟夫斯 (Ant. viii.2.5) 说，所罗门曾写下了驱邪、治愈疾病的咒语。

(2) Spoken charms are at least as widespread as those inscribed. Much importance was attached by the ancients (Egyptians, Babylonians, etc.) to the manner in which the incantations were recited, as well as to the substance of the formulas. If beautifully uttered, and with sufficient frequency, such incantations possessed unlimited power. The stress laid on the mode of reciting magical charms necessitated the existence of a priestly class and did much to increase the power of such a class. The binding force of the uttered word is implied in many parts of the OT (see Josh. 9:20). Though the princes of Israel had promised under false pretenses to make a covenant on behalf of Israel with the Gibeonites, they refused to break their promise because the word had been given. The words of blessing and curse were believed to have in themselves the power of self-realization. Therefore a curse was a means of destruction (see Nu. 22-24, Balaam's curses; Jgs. 5:23; Job 31). In a similar way the word of blessing was believed to ensure its own realization. In Gen. 48:8-22 the greatness of Ephraim and Manasseh is ascribed to the blessing of Jacob upon them (see further Ex 12:32; Jgs. 17:2; 2 S. 21:3). It is no doubt to be understood that the witch of Endor called up Samuel from the dead by the recitation of some magical formula (1 S. 28:7ff.).

The uttering of the tetragrammaton yhwh was at a very early time (at the latest 300 B.C.) believed to be magically potent, and hence its ordinary use was forbidden, so that instead of "Yahweh," the Jews of the time, when the earliest part of the LXX was translated, used for this divine name the appellative "dōnay," "Lord." In a similar way among the Jews of postbiblical and perhaps even of biblical times, the pronouncement of the Aaronic blessing (Nu. 6:24–26) was supposed to possess great efficacy and to be a means of certain good to the person or persons involved. Evil spirits were exorcised by Jews of Paul's day through the use of the name of the Lord Jesus (Acts 19:13).

(2) 口头的咒语至少像书面的咒语一样广为流传。古人（埃及人、巴比伦人等）很注重诵念这些符咒的方式和符咒的内容。如果人们漂亮地说出了这些咒语并且经常诵念这些符咒，那么这些符咒语就会产生无限的力量。古人重视背诵符咒方式，这说明古代肯定存在着祭司阶层，而且他们拥有越来越大的权柄。《旧约》中的一些经文暗示出这些符咒的约束力（见《约书亚记》9:20）。虽然以色列的诸王在被欺骗的情况下代表以色列与基遍人立约，但以色列人拒绝违约，因为他们曾许下了誓言。他们认为祝福和诅咒会自动应验。因此诅咒也是破坏的一种手段（见《民数记》22-24，巴兰的诅咒；《士师记》5:23；《约伯记》31）。同样，祝福的话也会自动应验。在《创世记》48:8-22中，生养众多的以法莲和玛拿西应验了雅各对他们的祝福（更多内容，见出12:32；士17:2；撒下21:3）。毋庸置疑，隐多珥的女巫是通过诵念某些符咒将撒母耳从死人中召上来的（撒上28:7起）。

在很早时期（最迟于公元前300年），人们就认为说出上帝之名——耶和華将产生神奇的力量，因此禁止随便提及上帝之名，所以当时的犹太人在翻译《七十士译本》的最早部分时，他们用"dōnay"（“主”）这个普通名词来代替上帝之名——“耶和華”。同样，圣经后期的犹太人甚至连圣经时期的犹太

CHASTENING; CHASTISEMENT 惩罚、刑罚、责罚；惩罚、责备、管教

【希伯来语：yāsar, mūsār, yākaḥ, tōkehā, tōkaḥat, ‘āwōn（哀 4:6）；希腊语：paideiō, paideia】；《钦定版圣经》还译为 CORRECT（“惩罚”）、PUNISH（“刑罚”）、REBUKE（“责罚”）、INSTRUCTION（“教训”）；《新英文译本》还译为 PUNISH（“刑罚”）、DISCIPLINE（“管教”）、INSTRUCT（“教训”）、CORRECT（“惩罚”）、REBUKE（“责罚”）、TRAIN（“责罚”，耶 31:18）、“take captive”（“惩罚”，何 7:12）、FLOGGING（“责打”，路 23:16, 22）。《旧约》中主要用希伯来语 yāsar 和 mūsār 来表示“教育”（虽然这些词很少被译为这个普遍含义），《新约》中主要用希腊语 paideiō 和 paideia 来表示“教育”，实际上在希腊文化中这两个希腊词语通常表示这一含义。与以色列人的“教育”观念相关的希伯来语有同根词 tōkehā 和 tōkaḥat，译为“责备”或“纠正”，这两个词经常用作 mūsār 的同义词（箴 3:11；5:12；6:23；12:1；15:10）。同样，《新约》中的希腊语 paideia 和 paideiō 常与其他的词语同义。在《以弗所书》6:4 中，作者提到了“教训和警戒”（paideia kai nouthesia）；nouthesia

nouthesia is elsewhere rendered “warning” (1 Cor. 10:11) and “admonishing” (Tit. 3:10), while the cognate verb nouthetéō is variously translated “admonish” (Acts 20:31; 1 Cor. 4:14; Col. 3:16; 1 Thess. 5:12, 14), “warn” (Col. 1:28) and “instruct” (Rom. 15:14). In Rev. 3:19 the related words “reprove and chasten” (elénchō kai paideiō) occur; elsewhere in the NT elénchō is translated “reprove” (Lk. 3:19), “rebuke” (1 Tim. 5:20; 2 Tim. 4:2), and “punish” (He. 12:5). A passage of central importance for the NT idea of discipline states that Scripture is “profitable for teaching (didaskalia), for reproof (elegmós), for correction (epanóρθōsis), and for training (paideía) in righteousness” (2 Tim. 3:16). This cluster of educational term does not consist of words with distinct nuances of meaning; but of synonyms that the author has piled up for rhetorical effect.

As an important constituent of the Israelite notion of education, the Hebrew words have three major connotations: (1) training and instruction (Ps. 6:7; Prov. 31:1; Job 4:3; Isa. 28:26; Hos. 7:15), (2) verbal correction or warning (Ps. 2:10; Prov. 9:7; Isa. 8:11; Jer. 6:8), and (3) corporal chastisement or punishment (Dt. 22:18; 1 K. 12:11, 14; 2 Ch. 10:11, 14; Prov. 22:15; 23:13; Ezk. 5:15). Education and discipline or chastening were inextricably intertwined in ancient Israelite thought, even though one or the other might be emphasized in a particular context. This interrelationship is clearly expressed in the synonymous couplet from Ps. 94:12: “Blessed is the man whom thou dost chasten, O Lord, and whom thou dost teach out of thy law.” The traditional Greek conception of

在其他经文中则译为“warning”（“鉴戒”，林前 10:11）和“admonishing”（“警戒”，多 3:10），然而这个词的同根动词 nouthetéō 却有多种译法，如“admonish”（“儆醒”，徒 20:31；“警戒”，林前 4:14；“劝诫”，西 3:16；“劝诫”，帖前 5:12, 14）、“warn”（“劝诫”，西 1:28）和“instruct”（“劝诫”，罗 15:14）。《启示录》3:19 中用到了相关的词语“reprove and chasten”（“责备管教”，elénchō kai paideiō）；《新约》的其他经文将 elénchō 译为“reprove”（“责备”，路 3:19）、“rebuke”（“责备”，提前 5:20；“警戒”，提后 4:2）和“punish”（“责备”，来 12:5）。《提摩太后书》3:16 是《新约》中描述“惩罚”观念的最为重要的章节，其中写道圣经“于教训 (didaskalia)、督责 (elegmós)、使人归正 (epanóρθōsis)、教导 (paideía) 人学义，都是有益的”。这些关于教训的词语并不存在意义上的显著细微差别；它们是作者考虑到修辞效果而堆砌使用的同义词。

这些希伯来词语是以色列教育观念的重要组成部分，它们主要有三层含义：（1）教导和教训（诗 6:7；箴 31:1；伯 4:3；赛 28:26；何 7:15），（2）口头上的批评或警告（诗 2:10；箴 9:7；赛 8:11；耶 6:8）和（3）身体上的惩罚（申 22:18；王上 12:11, 14；代下 10:11, 14；箴 22:15；23:13；结 5:15）。虽然在某些情况下可强调教育或惩罚中的一个方面，但在古以色列人看来，教育和惩罚是密不可分的。《诗篇》94:12 中的同义对句显然表明了这一点：“耶和華啊，你所管教、用律法所教训的人是有福的。”然而，希腊人传统的教育观念则完全不包括身体上的惩罚。除了《新约》（主要是以色列人的教育观念，而不是希腊人的教育观念），只有一篇希腊文章中的 paideiō 可以恰当地译为“惩罚”（TDNT, V, 600）。公元 2 世纪，伪普鲁塔克在一篇关于教育观念的普通文章（De education, on the other hand, thoroughly ruled out the pedagogical value of corporal chastisement or punishment. Outside the NT (where the conception of education is dominated more by Israelite than by Greek ideals), only one Greek text is known in which paideiō may appropriately be translated “chastisement” (TDNT, V, 600). The Greek perspective on education is clearly expressed in a general essay on education from the 2nd cent. A.D. by Pseudo-Plutarch, De liberis educandis 9f. (12): “Children should be taught by encouragement and reasoning, not by beatings and maltreatment.” In the Israelite view, however, education cannot dispense with corporal punishment (cf. Prov. 29:19; cf. also 13:24; 22:15; 23:12–14; 29:15, 17).

The entire biblical narrative of Israel’s history may accurately be regarded as a description of God’s moral and religious education of Israel. The stipulations of the Sinai covenant may be regarded as the subject matter or curriculum. Departures from the normative behavior demanded by this covenant are met with various forms of remedial discipline and chastisement (cf. Lev. 26:23, 28; Hos. 7:12). Consequently, the OT displays an intimate relation between Torah, or law, and discipline (cf. Dt. 4:36). Discipline is always remedial, whether for the individual or for the nation. (Cf. Dt. 8:5, which also reveals the OT penchant to conceive of the relationship between God and His people as that of a father to his son: just as a father attempts to educate and train his child through discipline and chastisement, so God tries to educate His people Israel in the ways of Torah. Similarly, He will guide the nation’s leaders [2 S. 7:14].) This positive role of discipline is a frequent theme in OT wisdom traditions (cf. Prov. 6:23; 5:23). Discipline is also necessary so that the people of Israel may avoid the fate of national extinction (Jer. 30:11; 46:28), the “death” spoken of in Dt. 8:1–20.

liberis educandis 9-10[12]) 中写道：“应该通过鼓励和讲道理，而不应通过责打和虐待来教导孩子。”然而，以色列人认为教育不能免掉身体上的惩罚（参：箴 29:19；另参：箴 13:24；22:15；23:12–14；29:15, 17）。

《圣经》对以色列历史的完整叙述恰好可以视为神对以色列的道德教育和宗教教诲。西奈山所立之约中的规定可以视为教育的主题或总课程。违背圣约中行为规范的人将面临各种形式的归正性管教和惩罚（参：利 26:23, 28；何 7:12）；因此，《旧约》展现出了律法与管教之间的密切联系（参：申 4:36）。管教无论是对个人还是整个民族总是起到归正的作用。（参：申 8:5，这节经文还表明，《旧约》倾向于将神与祂的子民之间的关系视为父与子的关系：正如一个父亲试着通过管教和惩罚来教育和教导他的孩子，神也藉律法来教导祂的子民。同样，祂将指引以色列民族的领袖[撒下 7:14]。）管教的积极作用是《旧约》中智慧传统中经常出现的主题（参：箴 6:23；5:23）。管教是必要的，因为它可以使以色列民族避免灭亡的命运（耶 30:11；46:28），也就是《申命记》8:1–20 中提到的“灭亡”。

In the NT, the conceptions of education and discipline or chastisement are as closely related as in the OT. The Gk. terms paideiō and paideia have three closely related connotations: (1) education or training (cf. Acts 7:22; 22:3), (2) corrective guidance (cf. 2 Tim. 2:25; Tit. 2:12), and (3) discipline in the sense of corrective punishment in human relationships (Lk. 23:16, 22; cf. He. 12:7, 10) and in relationships between God and man (1 Cor. 11:32; Rev. 3:19). In He. 12:3–11, a focal NT passage on the subject, external persecution is regarded as a guarantee that those to whom this letter was originally addressed were in fact legitimate sons of God (12:6f.). The analogy of a father’s method of training his son is used in conceptualizing God’s program of education for His people, in strong continuity with OT notions. Christians experience chastening or discipline so that they will not have to undergo a final eschatological chastening or judgment (1 Cor. 11:32; cf. 1 Tim. 1:20; 2 Tim. 2:25). As in the OT, divine discipline is always viewed as positive in its intention.

《新约》中的教育和惩罚观念与《旧约》中的教育和惩罚存在着紧密的联系。希腊语 paideiō 和 paideia 有 3 个密切相关的涵义：(1) 教育或训诫（参：徒 7:22；22:3），(2) 归正性引导（参：提后 2:25；多 2:12）和 (3) 人与人关系中纠错性质的惩罚（路 23:16，22；参：来 12:7，10）和神与人关系中的纠错性惩治（林前 11:32；启 3:19）。《希伯来书》12:3–11 是《新约》中关于管教问题的关键性段落，在这段经文中，凡被神鞭打的人都可以视为神真正的儿子（来 12:6-7），《希伯来书》最初就是写给这些人的。这段经文将生身父亲对其儿子的管教与神对祂的子民的管教进行了类比，这种类比是为了让世人明白神对祂子民的管教这一概念，这种管教与《旧约》中的训诫观念一脉相承。基督徒因为受到了责打或管教，所以他们不必再经历末世的惩罚或审判（林前 11:32；参：提前 1:20；提后 2:25）。《旧约》中神的管教总是被视作是具有积极意义的管教。

A king of ancient Elam who led a coalition including Amraphel of Shinar, Tidal king of nations, and Arioch king of Ellasar against the resurgent rulers of Sodom and Gomorrah (Gen. 14:1ff.). The latter had evidently been vassals of Chedorlaomer for some twelve years, but in the thirteenth year they had rebelled. Reprisals from Mesopotamia occurred the following year with the attack of the Elamite coalition, and the resistance offered by Sodom and Gomorrah was crushed. Lot, the nephew of Abram and an inhabitant of Sodom, was captured along with others and a good deal of booty. A raiding party was hurriedly assembled by Abram to rescue Lot, and after pursuing the visitors northward, doubtless along the King's Highway, he defeated Chedorlaomer and drove him N of Damascus.

In harmony with the Masoretic tradition (Gen. 14:5, 9, 17) 1QapGen and the pseudepigraphal Book of Jubilees (13:22) agree in naming Chedorlaomer as the leader of the Mesopotamian coalition that invaded southern Palestine, but neither work throws any light on the identity of this militant Elamite. CHEDORLAOMER 基大老玛

音译: ked-ər-lā-ō'mər, ked-ər-lā'ō-mər 【希伯来语: kedōrlā'ōmer; 希腊语: Chodollogomor (见下文)】; 《新英文译本》译为 KEDORLAOMER (“基大老玛”)。古代以拦的国王，他与示拿王暗拉非、戈印王提达和以拉撒王亚略联合起来攻打背叛他的所多玛和蛾摩拉统治者(创 14:1 起)。所多玛王和蛾摩拉王显然“已经侍奉基大老玛十二年，到十三年就背叛了”。次年，来自美索不达米亚的以拦组织同盟军向所多玛和蛾摩拉兴师问罪，他们粉碎了所多玛王和蛾摩拉王的抵抗。基大老玛的同盟军掳走了亚伯兰的侄子罗得和所多玛的居民以及其他的人，还掳走了大量财物。亚伯兰迅速召集家丁去营救罗得，几乎可以肯定的是他一直沿着王道向北追击掠夺者，最终打败了基大老玛，将其赶到了大马士革的北部。

《创世记藏经》和伪经《禧年书》(13:22) 都将基大老玛视为侵犯巴勒斯坦南部的美索不达米亚同盟军的领袖，这与《马所拉文本》中的描述一致(创 14:5, 9, 17)，但这些文献都不能证明以拦人是好战的民族。尽管学者们已经对这一时期的古近东进行了大量的研究，但以拦王朝大量建立者的名字包括基大老玛，都无法在经外文献中得到证明。

the founders of Elamite dynastic power, including that of Chedorlaomer, are still not attested in extrabiblical sources.

The LXX form of the name is Chodollogomor, which implies a vocalization rather different from that of the MT, indicating the assimilation of r with l and the pronunciation of 'o as go, making Heb. Kodollagomer. Written in cuneiform, the Elamite version would most probably have been a combination of Kutir (or Kudur), meaning “servant,” and the word Lagamar, which appears in several Elamite texts as a divine name. The element Kutir or Kudur was common in Elamite, and occurred regularly in proper names, as in Kutir-Nahhunte. Kutir- (or Kudur-) Lagamar would thus constitute a genuine Elamite construction meaning “servant of (the god) Lagamar,” a title that could quite legitimately be borne by a ruler. A Babylonian deity, Lagamal, which was worshiped at Dilmun, may possibly be the same as the Elamite Lagamar; but this cannot be stated with certainty, even though they are frequently identified. The name of the deity Lagamal, which in any event is Semitic in form, occurred frequently as an element in personal names of the Old Babylonian period during the time of Hammurabi, and among the Amorites of the Mari age the deity Lagamar was venerated as “king of Mari.” It has sometimes been argued from the possible identification of the two names that such a situation pointed to the presence of Elamite officials on the political scene at Mari somewhat prior to the time of Hammurabi. Since, however, this was a period of Amorite ascendancy in any event, it seems difficult to justify the identification on this ground, or on the supposition that the political history of the period included a coalition between Elamites and Akkadians. Again, it must be remembered that the name Lagamar is unquestionably Elamite in character, and should neither be confused with Semitic origins nor given a Semitic etymology.

《七十士译本》将“基大老玛”译为 Chodollogomor, 这个词的发音与《马所拉文本》中“基大老玛”的发音不同, 这说明这个词中的 l 是 r 的同化音, ‘o 的读音与 go 相同, 因此这个词的希伯来语原型是 Kodollagomer。这个用楔形文字书写的埃兰语很可能是由 Kutir(或 Kudur, 意为“仆人”) 和 Lagamar 构成的复合词, 在很多埃兰语文献中这个词是神祇的名字。 Kutir 或 Kudur 在埃兰语中很常见, 这两个词通常出现在专有名词中, 如 Kutir-Nahhunte (“库提尔纳亨提”)。因此, Kutir- (或 Kudur-) -Lagamar 是一个真正的埃兰语词汇, 这个词的意思是“(神祇)劳格玛的仆人”, 所以这个名字很适合作统治者的名字。巴比伦神祇拉加马尔 (Lagamal) 是狄勒蒙敬拜的神, 他可能就是埃兰语中的劳格玛 (Lagamar); 但虽然经常有人认为这两个词是同义词, 但无法确定这一点。不论怎样, 神祇拉加马尔的名字是一个闪族语词汇, 在汉谟拉比统治古巴比伦时期, 这个名字通常是人名的一部分, 马里时代的亚摩利人将劳格玛尊为“马里之王”。人们有时认为这两个名字可能是同义词, 这说明在汉谟拉比之前的某一时期, 有一些以拦人在马里做官。不过, 不论怎样, 这是亚摩利人处于统治地位的时期, 因此很难证明这两个词是同义词, 或推测这一时期的政治历史上出现了以拦人与阿卡德人的联合。此外, 必须记住 Lagamar 是埃兰语, 不要将这个词与源自于闪族语的词语弄混, 也不要认为这个词源于闪族语。

To the present, no individual bearing the specific name Kutir- (or Kudur-) Lagamar has been recognized from extrabiblical records of any kind. Cuneiform texts have yielded the name of an Elamite monarch Kudur- KU.MAL, which is now read as Kutir-Naḥḥunti (the Sumerian Ku-mal being the equivalent of the Babylonian nāhu), and speak of him as the conqueror of Babylon. Presumably, therefore, he is to be equated with Kutir-Naḥḥunte I of Elam, who ruled ca. 1625 B.C. Some scholars identified him with Chedorlaomer of Elam, who was actively campaigning in southern Palestine in the days of Abraham; but this view involves certain philological difficulties, and from a purely historical standpoint requires an extremely late date for Abraham and the patriarchal period. It is possible to argue philologically that the form Naḥḥundi is the equivalent of the West Semitic word La'mr (La'nd), but the latter with its alternative suggests the probability of confusion between the final r and d in the ancient Hebrew script. In the last resort, the absence of proper control data from Elamite cuneiform sources makes such an approach somewhat precarious. Suggestions by earlier Assyriologists to the effect that Chedorlaomer could well be identified with a person named Kudur-laḥ(gu)mal, who was mentioned in several late Babylonian legends, were based in part on the assumption that the Tudḥul(a) named in one of the sources was in fact “Tidal king of nations.” While the name Tid‘al can almost certainly be identified with the Hittite name Tudhalias, it is as impossible to be sure that the “nations” over which Tidal ruled were in fact Hittite or even Luwian peoples as it is to identify Tidal himself with any degree of certainty, or to place him within a particular chronological period.

现在，任何经外的文献都无法证明 Kutir- (或 Kudur-) -Lagamar 这个名字到底指的是谁。楔形文字文献将这个名字视为以拦王库杜尔库马尔 (Kudur-KU.MAL) 的名字，现在这个名字被改为 Kutir-Naḥḥunti (“库提尔纳亨提”，苏美尔语中的 Ku-mal 相当于巴比伦语中的 nāhu)，并将他视为巴比伦的征服者。因此，库杜尔库马尔可能就是以拦王库提尔纳亨提一世，他在约公元前 1625 年统治着以拦。有些学者认为他就是在亚伯拉罕时期积极进攻巴勒斯坦南部的以拦王基大老玛；但这种观点包含了一些语言学难点，而完全从历史学观点看，则需要将亚伯拉罕和族长时期向后推很久。从语言学上讲，Naḥḥundi 可能相当于西闪族语中的 La'mr 或 La'nd，但古希伯来人可能在书写时将最后的 r 和 d 弄混了。最后，因为埃兰语楔形文字中没有合适的控制数据，所以这种说法多少有点站不住脚。早期的亚述学家认为基大老玛很可能就是库杜尔拉马尔 (Kudur-laḥ[gu]mal)，后来的多个巴比伦传说都提到了这个名字，这种说法部分基于这些传说中提到的 Tudḥul(a) 实际上就是“戈印王提达”的假设。虽然 Tid'al (“提达”) 这个名字几乎一定指的是赫人名字 Tudḥalias (“图达利亚”)，但是无法确定提达统治的那些“民族”是赫人还是鲁维人，也无法确定提达的身份或确定他所生活的具体历史年代。

Whoever Chedorlaomer may have been, his interests in the area S of the Dead Sea were most probably related to its agricultural and mineral resources. The terrain was rich in salt, bitumen, potash, and magnesium; in antiquity the region was amply watered by springs and streams from Edomite territory, thus making for unusually good pasturage and the growth of crops such as emmer-wheat and barley.

The “King’s Highway” up which Chedorlaomer most probably withdrew northward was an ancient road linking the Gulf of Aqabah with Damascus. Archeological excavations have shown the presence of numerous Bronze Age fortresses beside the road, the first of which were apparently destroyed by Chedorlaomer and his allies.

The Oriental guards his cheek carefully from touch or defilement; a stroke on the cheek was, and is to this day, regarded as an act of extreme rudeness, a deadly affront. CHELOUS kel'əs [Gk. Chelous] (Jth. 1:9); AV CHELLUS; NEB CHELUS. A place W of the Jordan to which Nebuchadnezzar sent his summons. It was located on one of the roads leading from Jerusalem to Egypt, and on another caravan route between Edom and Gaza. It is possibly to be identified with Alusa (hlwsh), an ancient place in Idumea mentioned in the Targums.

CHELOUS 基洛

音译: kel'əs【希腊语: Chelous】(滴 1:9);《钦定版圣经》译为 CHELLUS;《新英文译本》译为 CHELUS, 汉译均为“基洛”。约旦河以西尼布甲尼撒送去谕旨的一个地方。基洛位于耶路撒冷至埃及的道路上, 也位于以东至迦萨之间的商路上。基洛可能就是《他尔根》中提到的一个位于以土买的古地名亚鲁萨(Alusa, hlwsh)。

CHELUB 基绿

音译: kē'lub【希伯来语: kēlūb】;《新英文译本》译为 KELUB(“基绿”)。

1. The father of Mehir (1 Ch. 4:11). The name is probably a variation of Caleb.

2. The father of Ezri (1 Ch. 27:26), one of the officers of David.

CHELUBAI

kə-lōō'bī [Heb. kēlūbāy] (1 Ch. 2:9); NEB CALEB. The brother of Jerahmeel and descendant of Hezron, elsewhere called CALEB.

CHELUHI

kel'oo-hī [Heb. kēlūhū, K kēlūhī]; AV CHELLUH; NEB KELUHI. A son of Bani, listed among those who married foreign women (Ezr. 10:35).

CHELUS

kel'əs (Jth. 1:9, NEB). See CHELOUS.

kem'ə-rims. This word appears once in the AV, in Zeph. 1:4; however, the Hebrew term kēmārīm (priests) also occurs in 2 K. 23:5 (AV “idolatrous priests”) and Hos. 10:5 (AV “priests”). The RSV consistently translates the term “idolatrous priests,” while the NEB has “heathen priests” or “priestlings.” The word, which is of Aramaic origin, is used in the MT only in an unfavorable sense, its origin and associations naturally suggesting Syriac affinities.

kē'mosh [Heb. kē'môš; Gk. Chamōs]; NEB KEMOSH. The national God of the Moabites. In an old Hebrew song the Moabites are apostrophized as the "people of Chemosh" (Nu. 21:29). Jeremiah in his oracle of doom upon Moab has recourse to this song (Jer. 48:45f.). The impotence of the god to deliver his people is described by the prophet in figures representing him as going into captivity with them, his priests and princes together; and Moab is to be ashamed of him as Israel was of Bethel, which did not avail to save the northern kingdom from the conquering Assyrian power (48:7, 13, etc.).

I. Chemosh in Israel.-For Chemosh "the abomination of Moab," as for Moloch "the abomination of the Ammonites," Solomon, under the influence of his idolatrous wives, built a high place in the mountain before Jerusalem (1 K. 11:7). It was natural that these aliens should still desire to worship the gods of their native land; but although the effect of all this was seen in the moral and spiritual deterioration of Solomon himself, there is no indication that the immoralities and cruelties associated with such worship were then practiced in Jerusalem as they were in the days of Ahaz and Manasseh, and even as early as the days of Abijam of Judah (1 K. 15:12f.).

Josiah found these abominations of alien worship, which had been introduced by Solomon and added to by Ahaz and Manasseh, flourishing when he came to

CHEMOSH 基抹

音译: kē'mosh 【希伯来语: kē'môš; 希腊语: Chamōs】; 《新英文译本》译为 KEMOSH (“基抹”)。摩押人的民族之神。在一首古老的希伯来诗歌中,摩押人被称为“基抹的民”(民 21:29)。耶利米也用这首诗歌说出了关于摩押厄运的预言(耶 48:45-46)。先知耶利米说,基抹无法拯救他的子民,而且他将同他的子民、祭司和诸王一起被掳去;摩押应为崇拜基抹感到羞愧,正如以色列应为崇拜伯特利的神而感到羞愧,伯特利的神无法使北部王国避免被亚述军队征服的命运(耶 48:7, 13 等)。

I. 以色列的基抹。所罗门受他崇拜偶像的妻子的影响,为“摩押可憎的神”基抹和“亚扪人可憎的神”摩洛在耶路撒冷对面的山上建筑了邱坛(王上 11:7)。那些外邦人自然希望崇拜他们本族的神明;虽然从所罗门的道德堕落和属灵堕落中可以看出偶像崇拜的影响,但没有任何迹象表明,耶路撒冷的偶像崇拜像亚哈斯和玛拿西时期甚至像很久之前犹大王亚比央时期的偶像崇拜那样,存在着不道德和残酷的行为(王上 15:12-13)。

所罗门是第一个崇拜外邦可憎之神的人,之后亚哈斯和玛拿西崇拜更多的外邦神明,约西亚发现当他登基时,崇拜外邦可憎之神的现象已经非常盛行。约

the throne. Moved by the prohibitions of the Book of the Law (Dt. 12:29–31; 18:10), Josiah pulled down and defiled the high places and the altars; and in order to make a clean sweep of the idolatrous figures, “he broke in pieces the pillars,” or obelisks, “and cut down the Asherim,” or sacred poles, “and filled their places with the bone of men” (2 K. 23:1–20).

II. Chemosh and the Ammonites.—There is one passage where Chemosh is designated the god of the Ammonites (Jgs. 11:24). Jephthah is disputing the right of the Ammonites to invade territory which belongs to Israel because the Lord has given it to them by conquest; and he asks: “Will you not possess what Chemosh your god gives you to possess? And all that the Lord our God has dispossessed before us, we will possess.” It may be that he is called here the god of the Ammonites by a mere oversight of the historian; or, Moab and Ammon being kindred nations descended from a common ancestor Lot, Chemosh may in a sense belong to both. We notice, however, that Jephthah’s argument in meeting the claim preferred by the king of Ammon passes on to Israel’s relation to the Moabites and mentions only well-known Moabite cities. Chemosh is accordingly named because of his association with Moab, the cities of which are being spoken of, although strictly and literally Moloch should have been named in an appeal addressed as a whole to the Ammonites (vv. 12–28; cf. Moore, ICC, in loc.).

III. Moabite Stone.—The discovery of the Moabite Stone in 1868 at Dibon has thrown light upon Chemosh and the 西亚受到律法书中禁例的感动（申 12:29-31；18:10），拆毁并污秽偶像的邱坛和祭坛，为了废去偶像崇拜，“他打碎柱像，砍下木偶，将人的骨头充满了那地方”（王下 23:1-20）。

II. 基抹和亚扪人。《士师记》11:24 中称基抹是亚扪人的神。耶弗他质疑亚扪人入侵以色列的领地的正义性，因为耶和華曾藉着征服将那地赐给以色列；耶弗他问道：“你的神基抹所赐你的地，你不是得为业吗？耶和華我们的神在我们面前所赶出的人，我们就得祂的地。”可能仅仅由于历史学家的疏忽，所以基抹被称为亚扪人的神；也可能因为摩押和亚扪源于共同的祖先——罗得，所以基抹可能是摩押人和亚扪人的共同崇拜的神。然而，我们注意到，耶弗他在驳斥亚扪王的领地要求时提到了以色列与摩押人的关系和几个著名的摩押城市。因为摩押与基抹的关系，所以提到了基抹和基抹的城市，但是从严格的意义上讲，摩洛才真正应该被称为所有亚扪人的神（士 11:12-28；参：Moore, ICC, 见这一章）。

III. 摩押石碑上的记载。1868 年在底本发现的摩押石碑阐明了基抹的身份，以及摩押与其民族之神的关系。摩押石碑 relations of Moab to its national god. The monument, which is now in the Louvre in Paris, bears an inscription which is among the oldest specimens of Semitic alphabetic writing extant, commemorating the successful effort made ca. 860 or 850 B.C. by Mesha king of Moab to throw off the yoke of Israel. We know from the OT record that Moab had been reduced to subjection by David (2 S. 8:2); that it paid a heavy tribute to Ahab king of Israel (2 K. 3:4); and that, on the death of Ahab, Mesha its king rebelled against Israelite rule (3:5). Not till the reign of Jehoram was any effort made to recover the lost dominion. The king of Israel then allied himself with the kings of Judah and Edom, and marching against Moab by way of the Red Sea, inflicted upon Mesha a defeat so decisive that the wrath of his god Chemosh could be appeased only by the sacrifice of his son (vv. 6ff.).

The historical situation described in the OT narrative is confirmed by Mesha's inscription. There are, however, divergences in detail. In 2 Kings the revolt of Mesha is said to have taken place after the death of Ahab. The inscription implies that it must have taken place by the middle of Ahab's reign. The inscription implies that the subjection of Moab to Israel had not been continuous from the time of David and says that Omri, the father of Ahab, had reasserted the power of Israel and had occupied at least a part of the land.

It is with what the inscription says of Chemosh that we are chiefly concerned. On the monument the name appears twelve times. Mesha is himself the son of Chemosh, and it was for Chemosh that he built the high place upon which the monument was found. He built it, among other reasons, because Chemosh had enabled him to overthrow his enemies. It was because Chemosh was angry with his land that Omri afflicted Moab for so long. Omri had taken possession of the land of Medeba, and Israel dwelt in it during his reign and half his son's reign, but Chemosh restored it in Mesha's time. Mesha took the "Ataroth" which the king of Israel had built for himself, slew all the people of the city, and made them a spectacle to Chemosh and to Moab. Mesha took the altar-hearth of Dodo, and dragged it before Chemosh in Kerioth. By command of Chemosh, Mesha attacked Nebo and fought against Israel; and after a fierce struggle he took the place, slaying the inhabitants en masse, seven thousand men and women and maidservants, devoting the city to Ashtar-Chemosh and dragging the altar vessels of the Lord before Chemosh. Out of Jahaz, too, which the king of Israel had built, Chemosh drove him before Mesha. At the instigation of Chemosh, Mesha fought against Horonaim, and, although the text is defective in the closing paragraph, we may surmise that Chemosh did not fail him but restored it to his dominions. See also MOABITE STONE.

现保存在巴黎的卢浮宫，这座石碑上刻有一篇碑文，这是现存最古老的闪族语拼音文字范本之一，这篇碑文是为了纪念约公元前 860 年或 850 年摩押王米沙成功地摆脱了以色列的束缚。根据《旧约》的记载，我们知道摩押是大卫的附属国（撒下 8:2）；摩押曾向以色列王亚哈献上了大量的贡物（王下 3:4）；亚哈去世时，摩押王米沙背叛了以色列王（王下 3:5）。直到约兰统治时期，以色列才开始着手收回失去的土地。后来以色列王与犹大王和以东王组成了联军，沿着红海向摩押进攻，摩押遭到重创，所以摩押王只能通过献上他的儿子来平息摩押神基抹的忿怒（王下 3:6 起）。

米沙碑文证实了《旧约》中描述的历史状况。然而，两者在细节描述上存在着出入。根据《列王纪下》的记载，米沙背叛以色列发生在亚哈去世之后。但米沙碑文表明，这件事一定发生在亚哈执政中期。碑文还表明在大卫在位时期摩押就不再是以色列的附属国，并称亚哈的父亲暗利重新确立了以色列的势力范围，他至少占领了摩押的一部分土地。

我们首先关注的是摩押碑文中的关于基抹的描述。基抹这个名字在摩押碑文中出现了 12 次。米沙是基抹的儿子，米沙为基抹建筑了邱坛，这份碑文就是在这个邱坛上被发现的。因为基抹使他

IV. Chemosh and Yahweh.-Naturally enough there is considerable obscurity in local and personal allusions. Dodo may have been a local god worshiped by the Israelites E of the Jordan. Ashtar-Chemosh may be a compound divinity of a kind not unknown to Semitic mythology, Ashtar representing possibly the Phoenician Ashtoreth. What is of importance is the recurrence of so many phrases and expressions applied to 打败了敌军，所以他建造了这座纪念碑，除此之外还有其他的原因。因为基抹对摩押地发怒，所以暗利长久以来奴役着摩押。暗利占领了米底巴，在暗利统治以色列时期和他的儿子统治以色列的前半期，以色列人在米底巴定居，但在米沙作摩押王时，基抹使摩押收回了米底巴。米沙占领了以色列王为自己建造的“亚他绿”，并且屠杀了全城的人，以此作为基抹和摩押占领该城的公开展示。米沙拿走了朵多的祭坛灶社，把它带到了身处加略的基抹的面前。米沙遵从基抹的命令进攻了尼波，与以色列争战；经过激烈的争斗，米沙占领了尼波，并屠杀了全城七千名男女和女仆，米沙把这座城市献给了阿赫塔基抹（Ashtar-Chemosh），并把耶和華祭坛的器皿带到了基抹的面前。基抹还将以色列王赶出了他为自己建造的城市雅杂，并把他带到了米沙面前。米沙受基抹的唆使进攻何罗念，虽然碑文末尾段落有缺损，但我们可以推测基抹使米沙成功夺回了何罗念。另见 MOABITE STONE(摩押石碑)。

IV. 基抹和耶和華。当然，我们对于石碑上一些地名和人名的了解还远远不够充分。朵多可能是生活在约旦河以东的以色列人所敬拜的神。阿赫塔基抹可能是闪族神话中两个神的名字。阿赫塔可能代表着腓尼基的神亚斯她录。重要的是，《旧约》使用很多描述基抹的短语和词汇来描述耶和華。石碑上体现出的摩押人的宗教观念与以色列人的宗教观念非常类似，如果用耶和華来代替碑文上的基抹，那么我们可能认为我们

Chemosh which are used of Yahweh in the OT narratives. The religious conceptions of the Moabites reflected in the inscription are so strikingly like those of the Israelites that if only the name of Yahweh were substituted for that of Chemosh we might think we were reading a chapter of the books of Kings. It is not in the inscriptions, however, but in the OT narrative that we find a reference to the demand of Chemosh for human sacrifice. "He took his eldest son," says the Hebrew annalist, "who was to reign in his stead, and offered him for a burnt offering upon the wall. And there became great wrath upon Israel: and they withdrew from him and returned to their own land" (2 K. 3:27). This appears to indicate that the Israelites had to give up their purpose to fasten the yoke of bondage again upon Mesha and that they returned empty-handed to their own land. But this fortunate result for Moab was due to the favor of Chemosh, and in particular to the human sacrifice by which he was propitiated.

If we find in these representations of Chemosh in the OT narrative and in Mesha's inscription a striking similarity to the Hebrew conception of Yahweh, we cannot fail to notice the lack of the higher moral and spiritual elements of the religion of Israel from Moses and Abraham downward, and especially in the prophets. The OT religion condemns human sacrifice from the beginning; and the OT God is a God of forgiveness, longsuffering, desiring obedience and a pure heart more than sacrifice.

T. NICOL

正在读《列王纪》中的章节。不过，我们从旧约的描述中而不是从摩押石碑中看到了基抹要求用人献祭的规定。《列王纪下》的作者说道，“便将那应当接续他作王的长子，在城上献为燔祭。以色列人遭遇耶和華的大怒，于是三王离开摩押王，各回本国去了”（王下 3:27）。这似乎表明以色列不得不放弃奴役米沙的企图，三王空手而归。对于摩押人来说，这个幸运的结果应归功于基抹的恩待，尤其应归功于摩押王将长子献为燔祭的行为。

如果我们发现《旧约》和米沙碑文中对基抹的描述与希伯来人的耶和华观念非常相似，那么我们一定会注意到，摩押宗教缺乏以色列宗教中从摩西和亚伯拉罕时期开始，尤其是在先知时期所体现出的更高的道德和属灵要素。旧约宗教从一开始就谴责用人献祭；《旧约》中的耶和华是一个宽仁、忍耐的神，祂希望世人顺服祂，怀有纯洁之心，多于祂希望世人向祂献上祭物。

Evidently, a Philistine clan whose territory was adjacent to southern Judah. 1 S. 30:14 mentions the Negeb of the Cherethites along with those parts of the south belonging to Judah and Caleb. As in Ezk. 25:16 and Zeph. 2:5 the Cherethites are mentioned in parallelism to the Philistines, we may assume that in 1 S. 30:14 that part of the Negeb is meant which fell under Philistine suzerainty, one of the towns of which was Ziklag. The name is related to the name of Crete, from which island at least part of the Philistines had come, and has nothing to do with the Hebrew verb kāraṭ, though Ezk. 25:16 has a wordplay with this verb.

Mercenaries from the Philistines (cf. 2 S. 15:18–22) formed a bodyguard of David, called the Cherethites and Pelethites (both sing. in Heb, 2 S. 8:18; 15:18; 20:7, 23; 1 K. 1:38, 44; 1 Ch. 18:17); Benaiah was their commander. In later times CARITES formed the bodyguard.

CHERISH.

In the AV, “cherish” translates Heb. sākan in 1 K. 1:2, 4, referring to Abishag’s care of David. The RSV has “be his nurse,” the NEB “take care of.” The only other AV occurrences are for Gk. thálpō in Eph. 5:29 (so RSV) and 1 Thess. 2:7 (RSV “take care of”).

单数形式: hakk^erētī; 希腊语: Cherethi, Chelethi (撒下 8:18), Cholthi (撒上 30:14), Chetti (撒下 15:18), Krētes (结 25:16; 参: 结 30:5; 番 2:5, 参: 番 2:6)]; 《新英文译本》译为 KERETHITES (“基利提人”)。基利提人显然指的是一个非利士宗族, 该宗族的领地毗邻犹大的南部。《撒母耳记上》30:14 中提到了基利提的南方和属犹大的地, 以及迦勒地的南方。因为《以西结书》25:16 和《西番雅书》2:5 中同时提到了基利提人和非利士人, 所以我们可以认为《撒母耳记上》30:14 中的“基利提的南方”应该是归非利士人统治的地方, 其中的一座城邑就是洗革拉。基利提人这个名字与克里特岛有关, 至少部分非利士人来自于克里特岛, 这个名字与希伯来语动词 kāraṭ 无关, 但《以西结书》25:16 将这个希伯来语动词用作双关语。

从非利士人那里征来的雇佣兵 (参: 撒下 15:18–22) 作了大卫的侍卫, 他们被称为基利提人和比利提人 (希伯来语都为单数形式, 撒下 8:18; 15:18; 20:7, 23; 王上 1:38, 44; 代上 18:17); 比拿雅是他们的统帅。后来迦利人 (见 CARITES[迦利人]) 组成了王的侍卫。

CHERISH. 奉养、顾惜、乳养

《钦定版圣经》将《列王纪上》1:2 和 1:4 中的希伯来语 sākan 译为“cherish”, 用这个词来表示亚比煞对大卫的照顾。《修订标准译本》译为 “be his nurse”, 《新英文译本》译为 “take care of”, 汉译均为 “奉养”。除此之外, 《钦定版圣经》还用 cherish 来翻译《以弗所书》5:29 (《修订标准译本》也译为 “cherish”

[“顾惜”]和《帖撒罗尼迦前书》2:7
（《修订标准译本》译为“take care of”
[“乳养”]）的希腊语 thálpō。

Besides Eph. 5:29, RSV usage of “cherish” is limited to the OT, and all in negative contexts, as “cherish anger” (Job 36:13), “enmity” (Ps. 55:3; Ezk. 35:5), “iniquity” (Ps. 66:18), and “harlotry” (Hos. 4:10). In these texts it has the sense “nurture,” “cultivate,” or in the last, “hold dear.”

除了《以弗所书》5:29,《修订标准译本》只在《旧约》中使用了“cherish”一词,且都用在负面语境中,如“cherish anger” (“积蓄怒气”, 伯 36:13)、“enmity” (“怒气、仇恨”, 诗 55:3; 结 35:5)、“iniquity” (“罪孽”, 诗 66:18)和“harlotry” (“行淫”, 何 4:10)。在这些经文中, cherish 都有“养育”和“培养”的意思,最后还有“珍视”的意思。 ke'riṯh, THE BROOK [Heb. naḥal k'riṯ]; NEB RAVINE OF KERITH. A stream or brook E of the Jordan, where Elijah sought refuge during the drought in Israel (1 K. 17:2-7). Traditionally this place is identified with Wādī Qelt, which is above Jericho on the west side of the Jordan; but this location is flatly contradicted by the biblical description in 17:3, “the brook Cherith, that is east of ('al-p^enē) the Jordan.” The identification with Wādī Qelt was made in the Middle Ages.

CHERITH 基立溪

音译: ke'riṯh, THE BROOK (“那溪”)【希伯来语: naḥal k'riṯ】;《新英文译本》译为 RAVINE OF KERITH (“基立溪谷”)。约旦河以东的一条小溪,在以色列经历干旱时以利亚曾藏在这条小溪旁避难(王上 17:2-7)。传统上认为基立溪就是切尔干河(Wādī Qelt),该地位于耶利哥上游地带、约旦河的西岸;但这个位置与《列王纪上》17:3中的描述截然相反,这节经文中提到“约旦河东边('al-p^enē)的基立溪”。中世纪时期,基立溪被认为是切尔干河。

Elijah is described as “the Tishbite, of Tishbe in Gilead” (17:1); hence one of the numerous wadis in Gilead, possibly in the region of the modern village of Lisdip, is indicated. Abel (GP, I, 484f.) suggests that Wādī Yâbis fits the qualifications, but this is hardly more than careful speculation.

以利亚被描述成“基列寄居的提斯比人”(王上 17:1);因此,基立溪指的是基列众多溪流之中的一条小溪,它可能位于现代村庄利斯迪普(Lisdip)境内。艾贝尔(Abel, GP, I, 484-485)认为雅彼斯谷符合经文中对基立溪的描述,但这不过是人们小心的推测而已。 ke'rub [Heb. k'rub; Gk. Charaath]; NEB KERUB; AV and NEB Apoc.

CHERUB 基绿、基录

音译: ke'rub【希伯来语: k'rub; 希腊语: Charaath】;《新英文译本》译为

CHARAATHALAR [Gk. Charaathalan, combining Charaath with following Alan]. A place in Babylonia (Ezr. 2:59; Neh. 7:61). Since none of the places listed in these verses can be identified, it is probable that they were poor settlements rather than established cities. The people of Cherub were among those returning from exile whose genealogies had fallen into confusion.

In 1 Esd. 5:36, RSV, likely through a misunderstanding of the passages cited above, Cherub has become a personal name.

cher'ə-bim, cher'oo-bim [Heb. k'ērûbîm (sing. k'ērûb), perhaps related to Akk. karūbu-‘intercessor’]; AV CHERUBIMS. Winged creatures of a suprahuman variety, occasionally mentioned in the OT. They appear as guardians of the tree of life (Gen. 3:24) and as the vehicle by which God traversed the heavens (2 S. 22:11; Ps. 18:10 [MT 11]). In the latter references, however, the writer parallels the image of “cherub” by that of the “wings of the wind,” perhaps merely a poetic description of swift passage in which the storm-winds have been personified in terms of familiar Mesopotamian and Canaanite iconography.

The ark of the covenant had a gold cherub of beaten work placed at each end in such a manner that their outstretched wings covered the mercy seat (NEB “cover”) as they faced one another (Ex. 25:18–20; 37:6–9). When Moses entered the tent of meeting to commune with

KERUB (“基绿”); 《钦定版圣经》和《新英文译本》的《次经》译为 CHARAATHALAR (“基录”)【希腊语: Charaathalan, 由 Charaath 和 Alan 两部分组成】。巴比伦的一个地名(拉 2:59; 尼 7:61)。因为无法确定这些经文中提到的地名的位置, 所以这些地名可能是贫穷的定居点, 而不是已建成的城市。基绿人 是被掳归回的民族之一, 基绿人的家谱很混乱。

在《修订标准译本》的《以斯得拉一书》5:36 中, 可能由于作者错误地理解了上面引用段落 的含义, 基录变成了人名。

CHERUBIM 基路伯

音译: cher'ə-bim, cher'oo-bim【希伯来语: k'ērûbîm (单数形式: k'ērûb), 可能与阿卡德语 karūbu 有关——“中保”】; 《钦定版圣经》译为 CHERUBIMS (“基路伯”)。《旧约》中偶尔提到的张着翅膀的天使。基路伯是生命树的守护者(创 3:24), 是上帝在诸天飞行的工具(撒下 22:11; 诗 18:10[《马所拉文本》11])。不过, 在后面的经文中, 经文作者将“风的翅膀”的意象与“基路伯”这一意象进行了类比, 根据常见的美索不达米亚和迦南象征手法, 这里可能仅仅是对疾风的诗意描述。

约柜上有两个用金子锤出来的基路伯, 安在施恩座的两头, 两个脸对脸的基路伯高张翅膀, 遮掩施恩座(《新英文译本》译为“cover”[“施恩座”]) (出 25:18–20; 37:6–9)。当摩西进入会幕与神说话的时候, 他听见二基路伯中间有耶和华与他说话的声音(民 7:89)。帐
